A Devotional For Today

Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and unto God the things that are God's. (Matthew 22:21.)

PRAYER: Dear God, pardon us for evading our obligations to Thee. Instil in us a desire to do our duty. Teach us to be willing to carry our share of the load, regardless of what it is. In Jesus' name. Amen. (From The 'Upper Room')

Abolishing An Archaic Device

While in this day of inflated money it is doubtful that the price of a poll tax rarely really keeps anyone from voting, it is open to question because it is outmoded. It has become something of a political football and an invitation to federal intervention in an area where the state should perform its obligations.

In Texas in 1902 it became a political weapon, by being required as a prerequisite to voting. Some of its instigators wanted to keep Negroes away from the polls, some wanted to keep Mexicans away, and some wanted to strip the white poor from exercising the right of suffrage. In practice down through the decades it has disfranchised relatively as many whites as Negroes and Mexicans who were unable to pay the $1.75 fee attached.

In 1949 abolition of the poll tax was submitted to the people of Texas but it lost by a narrow margin, for it was an off-year politically and hundreds of thousands of Texans of all races failed to pay the poll tax and were thus disfranchised.

In a democracy, the right of suffrage should be made as easy to exercise as possible-if the people are to rule.

Now a movement is afoot to try again to make voting free in Texas. On petition of 10 per cent of the voters in the last preceding primary, any specific issue must be placed on the primary ballot in the next election. Such petitions are now being circulated, and the five top Democratic party leaders in Texas, badly split as they are on many issues, have given their endorsement to this movement. They are Sens. Johnson and Yarborough, Speaker Sam Rayburn, and national committee members Mrs. R. D. Randolph and Byron Skelton, all serving as co-sponsors

Texas is one of half a dozen or so states which retain this archaic form of political rigging.

Because most of the poll tax money goes into the common school fund many people think it should be retained for that reason only, regardless of the consequences to hundreds of thousands of voters. That attitude is a denial of our public free school philosophy. This rich state is not so hard up it must depend on unfair political practices to maintain our free schools.

Boost For Beautification

A few days ago the Herald carried an item which indicated that the city has plans to set up a small nursery near its disposal plant.

This easily could become the source of nursery stock not only for the city's own needs, but possibly for other public agencies and, through proper channels, private homesteads.

Now the city has no thought of going into the nursery business commercially. and if it did have surplus stocks of trees, shrubs and flowering plants, these might be marketed through local private wholesale and retail sources.

With a source of water and plenty of land available there is no good reason why the city can't propagate a vast amount of material which would be useful in landscaping. This could be done at extremely small expense and thus at a saving to the city government.

An abundance of materials would be conducive to stepped up activity in beautification of public properties.

We hope that this enterprise will realize its full potentials.

Tickets Of The Old Pros

ideal ticket for each of the two major parties in the 1960 campaign as it would be set up if the practical politicians really had their say? Here it is:

1. Richard M. Nixon for president and Nelson A. Rockefeller for vice president on the Republican ticket.

2. Adlai Stevenson for president and John F. Kennedy for vice president on the Democratic ticket.

The phrase practical politicians means the men and women of experience in the two major parties who pick most of the delegates to a convention and want to see on the ticket a combination of popular personalities with a strong following in various parts of the country. They look also for potential vote-getting power on particular issues of national and international importance likely to be debated in the campaign.

Certain queries naturally arise when the names are grouped as above on the two

First, there is to be expected at once the comments, "Of course, Rockefeller wouldn't take second place," or "Kennedy doesn't want the vice presidency. NOT A BAD SPOT

Obviously, while there is still a chance to be in the first spot, no prospective candidate for the presidency is willing to say now publicly that he would take second place. So this kind of question at present is academic. It becomes real only when each party has actually made its first choice, and any chance of winning the presidential nomination for somebody else is gone. At that moment the question becomes concrete. It might be put to a wavering personality in this form: "would you turn down the vice presidency when you are only a heartbeat away from the presidency if your own presidential candidate should win the election?"

Sen. Kennedy was willing to take second place on the Democratic ticket in 1956 and came within a few votes of winning the vice-presidential nomination.

Gov. Rockefeller is a young man who is relatively new in politics. By becoming the vice presidential candidate, he would get a chance to campaign the country and win friends for a 1964 presidential nomination if the Republicans lose in 1960. Likewise, if the Republicans win in 1960, he would be catapulted into the vice presidency of the United States—a position of major influence not only in domestic but in foreign policy. Only a little more than a year ago, he was not a politi-cal figure at all and was given only an

ADVANTAGES

The advantages to each part in the combination suggested above are numerous. Take the Republicans first: The Nixon experience in previous campaigns and his prestige in his present office have given him publicity that no other candidate has achieved. Besides, Nixon is certain to attract the conservatives, while Rockefeller is certain to attract the socalled modern Republicans, liberals and independents who are more like the Democrats of recent years than Republicans. Harmony is one of the necessary objectives of the Republican party in the 1960 campaign.

On the Democratic side, the religious issue which has been construed as a handicap by some observers can be turned into an advantage. For the objectors would be few toward a vice-presidential candidate of any religion, whereas some of those who vote for a man because of his religion would be attracted to the ticket when someone of their own religious persuasion is named on it.

There's the comment obe heard that "Stevenson can't win-he has been beaten twice," and that "Nixon can't win." Practical politicians are not influenced too much by these objections. They rationalize the race next year as something different. After all, Stevenson was running against Ike in both his tries, and last time got the biggest Democratic vote in history. As for Nixon, he has been twice elected vice president, and the polls today show him out in front of any Democrat. HOLES IN SHOE

Certainly if the combination suggested is named by each party, there will be no issue of rich man versus poor man. For each of the two suggested vice-presidential nominees-Rockefeller and Kennedy-are inheritors of wealth. As for Stevenson and Nixon, they can each still display-for the cameras-shoes with holes

Already one can hear the orators at the conventions pridefully saying of the four men, respectively, that they come from "the great state of California" and "the great state of New York" and from "the great state of Illinois" and "the great state of Massachusetts."

But, strangely enough, not one of the four is as yet an avowed candidate for anything—except maybe the headlines.

Could Have Been A British Billy Rose

The Duke of Norfolk is moving is lares and penates out of Arundel Castle, one of England's most historic and stately homes. Its upkeep is more than the ducal purse can stand.

Ordinarily, such a real estate note from the Almanach de Gotha would scarcely touch me. But I feel that I know Norfolk fairly well, although he wouldn't recognize me from a hole in the wall. But there must be a handful of newsmen scattered all over the world who will always feel that the Duke is a nonpareil who, but by the accident of birth, could have been a British Billy Rose.

By virtue of the fact that he was born the sixteenth Duke of Norfolk, he was also born England's premier duke and his country's hereditary earl marshal. As earl marshal, each of the dukes of Norfolk are stuck with the job of arranging the complicated public ceremonials connected with the marriage, coronation and death of a British sovereign YOU GOT HEADACHES?

It is the duke's responsibility to see that such ceremonies are performed not only with deference to tradition but also to accommodate such quirks of temperament as are permissible, on state occa-sions, in the royal family. You think you got headaches? The earl marshal must combine the talents of an antiquarian, diplomat psychologist, efficiency expert, Broadway producer and straw boss.

On three occasions as a reporter I have had cause to rejoice that the present duke, an austere, aloof-yes, haughtyman does combine these talents.

His first big job as earl marshal was the coronation of the late King George VI. Despite the fact that the lead character had been changed in midstream, so to speak, he got the show on the road with cool efficiency and hot pageantry.

In 1947, he "ran" the marriage of the present sovereign, Queen Elizabeth II, to Prince Philip, with dispatch and aplomb. Even the then Princess Elizabeth was impressed. As she left Westminster Abbey with her bridegroom, she paused on the threshold to thank Norfolk for his la-

Again, in 1953, Norfolk was responsible for the grace and perfection of Elizabeth's coronation. It is doubtful if there is a ceremonial in the world as long and as complicated by tradition and ritual as the coronation of a British sovereign. Norfolk, a martinet, ran it with an iron

It is not just a case of transforming the Abbey into a theatre for the event, or getting the crown jewels polished, or of alerting the Archbishop of Canterbury. The earl marshal must also arrange for adequate sanitary facilities in the Abbey, for first-aid attendants, and even, in 1953, for a draft of brewery horses to pull many of the great state carriages.

In 1953, newsmen were greatly indebted to Norfolk for a dress rehearsal of the coronation, four days before the real thing, that he threw open to the press for the first time in history.

FRIEND OF THE PRESS

The present duke may never be as famous as the first, immortalized in the first act of Shakespeare's "Richard II." Or as the third duke, two of whose un-fortunate nieces, Anne Boleyn and Cath-erine Howard, married Henry VIII and lost their respective heads.

But if worse comes to worst in ducal finances, the present incumbent is the only Norfolk I would back to beat Barnum and Broadway.

New Deadly Game Of Back Patting WASHINGTON - The Nixon-Rockefeller set up in New York a Nixon lodgment that contest for the 1960 Republican presidential nomination is becoming one of the most polite death grapples in the history of American politics. These calm and able young men are is meant to suggest that the nominating game is over already. ("New Yorkers for Nixon," by the way, also has a strong Wall Street flavor. This is to remind various people that not all of Wall Street is necessarily pro-Rockefeller.)

"New Yorkers for Nixon" stoutly deny any plot whatever to "corral delegates"that is, to wrest nominating votes at next year's GOP convention away from Rockefeller in Rockefellerland. They are, they say, "simply providing a platform from which New Yorkers can express and mobilize their support of Dick Nixon. POLITICAL BAD MANNERS This is only another way of implying

It is also another way of making it difficult for Rockefeller openly to contest with Nixon for convention delegates in California. When the front-runner grandly dis-dains any designs on Rockefeller's home state, why should not Rockefeller show equal magnanimity? Moreover, old political custom makes it bad manners for one presidential aspirant to go into another's home state in naked rivalry. Rockefeller has come very close to just that by his California sortie. Organization Republicans (who also are mostly pro-Nixon Republicans) will increasingly deplore this sort of thing. NEUTRAL IN FAVOR OF The "neutral" GOP National Chairman, Senator Thruston Morton, has already expressed pious hope that Rockefeller won't push the thing to a "disruptive" head-on contest with Nixon in California, Morton is "neutral"-in favor of Nixon. He adds sagely that while, of course, he has no partiality, "Vice President Nixon is substantially ahead of Rockefeller." A skeptical onlooker might even say that this Nixon-Rockefeller minuet is not so genial on the inside as on the outside. All the same, the minuet's decorous form is steadfastly maintained.

The Republicans make many mistakes. But one mistake they leave solely to the Democrats: They don't allow fighting among themselves to get so out of hand as to make the opposition party the only possible gainer. (Copyright 1989, United Festures Syndicate las.)

USKIES CAN CLINCH BERTH IN ROSE BOWL

LAST WEEK'S RESULTS Colorado City at Sweet Snyder at Lake View, Lamesa (finished season

With Tommy Hart

Salty Jones, the Roscoe football coach, held out to the very last to establish Big Spring as a site for the Plowboys' bi-district game this weekend with Sundown.

Had Plains won the 5-A crown, it is believed Big Spring would have been chosen as a neutral location for the contest. It was also believed before the Plains-Sundown game last weekend that Sundown would be agreeable to Big Spring, too.

The Chamber of Commerce here had been assured that the playoff game would take place in Big Spring and was making arrangements for the teams. A trophy had even been placed on order for the Then came Sundown's sitdown strike. Officials refused at first to consider a neutral site, expressing a preference instead to flip a coin for the game. They said they would venture as far away from home as Lamesa but would go no farther. The decision to play there was made at 11:30 p.m. Friday, As far as is known, Lamesa made no bid for the game.

The winner of the game will play the survivor in the Menard-Fabens engagement. If Menard and Sundown win this week, Big Spring would be an ideal site for the second round game, although Sundown might still prefer to gamble on a 'home-and-home' flip. If Roscoe and Fabens should win, the two schools probably would prefer meeting on a neutral field and Big Spring would be offered as a site for that game, although some place like Odessa would be more centrally located.

> Two Florida colleges, and possibly three—the University of Florida, Florida State and the University of Miami—may get new football coaches in 1960. At least three of the District 2-AAAA schools, too, could easily line up with new mentors. That would be Big Spring, San Angelo and Odessa High.

> The school board's decision on Al Milch's status here could come as early as next week. Al hasn't been given any assurance his contract will be extended, although Supt. Floyd Parsons gave him a solid vote of confidence some time ago.

Lacy Turner has done a creditable job as the Odessa mentor but might prefer to check the duties to a younger man and concentrate

Emmett Broderson, the one-time Big Spring coaching aide, has won himself another district football title at Whiteface. It appeared that Whitharrel would tie Whiteface for the District 3-B championship and would get the nod to appear in bidistrict play because it had beaten Whiteface. However, Whitharrel was upset by Ropesville, 30-8, last weekend while Whiteface was measuring Amherst, 20-14. The manager of the English lightweight boxer, Dave Charnley, who fights Joe Brown in Houston Dec. 2 for the world title, insists that Dave eats raw meat regularly.

"That roit, raw meat," Arthur Boggis, Charnley's pilot confirmed the report upon his arrival in Houston last week. "Oi taik a filet, chop a few onions into it, fix 'im a spot of tea, a green salad, some fresh fruit. That's wot puts the zip in 'is left.'

The bout will be nationally televised, by the way.

He's only third among leading passers, league statistics released today show, but he's thrown 22 for touchdowns, the last three in the Colts' 28-24 victory over Green Bay Sunday.

That's only six short of the record set by Chicago's Sid Luckman in 1943. Unitas has four games to go. Unitas also leads the league in total yards gained passing. He has
