Lipsticks May Be Next After Cranberry Battle

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lipsticks may follow cranberries as the subject of the Food and Drug Administration's next battle with industry.

Last month, FDA banned the use in lipsticks of certain coal-tar colors. It said had caused death and illness in test rats. The ban, if uncontested, would have gone into effect Jan. 6, 1960.

But lipstick makers, in vigorous protests just filed with FDA, are contending that most lipsticks on the American market would be affected. The 17 shades of red, yellow and orange the FDA cited are key ingredients and have been used for many years without harm, they say.

In fact, the manufacturers say, the ban could ruin much of the lipstick industry, whose retail sales are estimated at some 80 million dollars annually.

digestive system from lipstick. A spokesman said the lipstick makers are just waiting for the cranberry fust to end before they raise a lipstick furor. It will include demands for a change in the law which now permits use of only those colors which the FDA has certified as harmless for use in foods, drugs and cosmetics. There are 130 approved dyes, but none suitable for lipsticks, the makers contend. The colors aren't right. Demands already have been filed for public hearings, but no date has been set for them. The decision what to do about lipsticks rests with Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming, within whose department FDA operates. FDA started its lipstick color crackdown after 90-day feeding tests showed they can harm laboratory rats. Some animals died. Others showed retarded growth, liver and kidney damage, enlarged spleens, anemia and other ailments. Because cancer was not in-

U.S. Catholics Unveil Shrine In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception was dedicated today as a center of devotion for the 36 million Roman Catholics in the United States.

An ancient and colorful ritual brought into service the nation's largest Catholic church. The shrine is the seventh largest church in the world.

Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York, heading on a long, brilliantly attired procession of the church hierarchy, performed the act of dedication and then celebrated a Pontifical Mass.

Catholics throughout the country joined in the ceremony through special prayers in their home parishes.

With its sheath of pale limestone and its lofty, blue-and-yellow tiled dome, the shrine dominates the northeast section of Washington. It is the capstone of Catholic University, three miles north of the Capitol.

The shrine is a blend of the Byzantine and Romanesque styles. From the ground to the top of its gold-tipped bell tower is 329 feet. The wall behind the altar is 459 feet from the entrance across 50,000 square feet of marble floor. Pews for 3,000 fill more than half the huge interior, the rest being taken up with the sanctuary and altar.

Most of the interior ornamentation is still to be added, but an enormous mosaic showing a seated figure of Christ in brilliant reds and gold is in place behind the altar.

Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter of St. Louis, chairman of the bishops' committee in charge of building the shrine, gave the dedication sermon. He called the ceremony one of the most significant in the history of the Catholic church in the United States.

"This shrine stands as a majestic and compelling witness not only to the physical and material maturity of the church in our land," he said, "but particularly to its spiritual vigor, magnificent unity and dynamic faith."

He said the shrine was an "expression of the Catholic democracy of the United States and of the Catholics' love and devotion of Mary Immaculate."

Other special masses will be offered during the dedication period—tonight by Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston and another Saturday by James Francis Cardinal McIntyre of Los Angeles.

Starting Monday, the shrine will be open to visitors daily. Funds to build the shrine were donated by millions of Catholics. Construction began in 1922 but was halted for more than 20 years during the depression and World War II.

Baby Is Found Dead In Bed

Jess Slaughter, justice of the peace, has ruled that William Earl Glass, 4-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Don V. Glass, 607 Lancaster, came to his death from strangulation. The child was found dead in his bed at 11:30 a.m. Thursday by his mother. Slaughter said that he was told the mother had fed the baby and placed him in his bed not too long before he was found dead.

Graveside rites were conducted at 2 p.m. today at Trinity Memorial Park with S. E. Eldridge, Assembly of God Church, officiating. Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements. Survivors in addition to the parents include two sisters, Brenda Sue and Penny Lou, and one brother, Danny. The maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bolden, Bonifay, Fla.

Drainage Work To Be Started

City crews will begin working on the drainage problem on the west side of Big Spring next week, according to Bruce Dunn, director of public works.

He said that assessments had been obtained from Earle Reed and ditches would be cut from Bell to San Antonio and along possible extension of Alyford, Douglas and Abrams Sts. Dunn said weeds in the area would also be burned off. The complete program serves a twofold purpose, he added. It will provide better drainage and help solve the mosquito problem next spring.

Inquest Possible

WALLACEBURG, Ont. (AP)—An inquest probably will be held in the accidental shooting of retired General Motors vice president Harry W. Anderson, say Canadian authorities. Lambton County officials did not indicate whether Harlow H. Curcive, retired GM president, would be summoned back to Canada if the inquest is held to repeat his account of the fatal hunting accident in the St. Clair River marshes Wednesday.

State Oil Flow Up To 10-Day Pattern

CHARGES ARE FILED

Teacher Charged With Theft Of Class Funds

FLOWER GROVE — A three state search for a Flower Grove high school English teacher, charged with felonious theft of $707 is under way.

He is alleged to have absconded with $660 in cash derived from the school Halloween carnival, $10 in class party funds, $12 from the senior class baking contest fund, and $25 from the senior class talent show receipts.

He is Robert L. Tipton, 42, former attorney and one-time assistant professor of law at the University of Oklahoma. He formerly practiced law in Texarkana, it was said.

Bulk of the money he is alleged to have taken, according to Supt. T. J. O'Connell, was to have provided the senior class with its school annual.

MONEY REPLACED However, O'Connell reported, the missing $707 has been replaced. "The school board met when the loss was discovered," O'Connell said, "and we decided that the money should be replaced in order that the youngsters would not be deprived of their annual. So each of the board members and myself put in an equal amount to make up the amount."

There are seven board members. They are E. V. Hegborn, E. D. Holcomb, Mark Shortes, Robert Dennis, Opal Langston, Lee Hanson and Jack Cave.

O'Connell said that Tipton joined the Flower Grove faculty on August 31. He was named as senior class sponsor and as such was custodian of special moneys collected for class activities. He had the money in his personal possession—probably in cash, it was said.

On Oct. 30, he was granted leave to go to Arkansas for a weekend visit where his wife and two children live. He was around the school on Oct. 31. The Halloween carnival at which the $660 had been raised was just ahead of his departure.

On Oct. 31, a member of the faculty drove Tipton to Lubbock where he was to catch a plane for Taylor, Ark.

The following Monday, O'Connell said, Tipton was not on duty. Calls to Arkansas where relatives lived reported he was enroute to Flower Grove. Since that time, repeated calls have been made. For a time, the "enroute back" report was offered but O'Connell said that relatives now do not know where he is and are as eager as Martin County to locate him.

Charges of felony theft were signed by O'Connell in Stanton on Thursday. Gil Jones, district attorney, in Big Spring, said he had been called about the case and that he had talked with Dan Saunders, Martin County sheriff, about the matter.

The charge was lodged in the Justice of Peace Court of Martin L. Gibson.

O'Connell said there are nine seniors in the 1960 class.

O'Connell said that the attitude of the school board in its prompt decision to insure that the class annual would be published was highly appreciated by himself and the student body.

"It is more blessed to give than to receive." Inside the envelope containing this Bible quotation and a note was a dollar bill.

"I wish it were more," said the author, who had been helped through a delicate heart operation by the local chapter of the American Heart Society.

"I still am improving. . . . May I thank you for all you did and I know God will bless you for this wonderful work."

This gift from a lady who had really nothing to spare warmed the hearts of United Fund workers Friday more than the gradually but steadily climbing dollar total.

Unaudited figures indicated Friday that $88,700 had been raised so far, which was nearing 92 per cent of the $96,800 goal.

Horace Garrett, general chairman, urged workers who are making last minute contacts to complete their assignments promptly. He expressed the hope that the total could be pushed up to at least $90,000 by the end of the week.

This would put the campaign goal within shooting distance when cleanup crews pitch in for some whirlwind work next week. A few of the larger employe groups are still pressing for completion, and campaign directors were hopeful of a substantial boost from that direction.

Treasury Announces New Policy For E Bond Trades

WASHINGTON (AP)—Owners of the popular series E savings bonds will be given a chance to swap them for series H bonds, which pay interest twice a year.

The Treasury announced Thursday that, starting next Jan. 1, anyone who owns E bonds may exchange them at any time for H bonds. The offer also is being made to owners of series F and G savings bonds—types no longer sold.

Officials believe hundreds of thousands of people will make the switch. Altogether, between 35 and 40 million Americans own E bonds.

The swap offer, authorized by Congress last summer, is expected to appeal particularly to retired people who would like to receive regular interest checks to supplement their income.

Both E and H bonds pay 3 1/2 per cent interest if held until their maturity. The H bonds mature in 10 years and are issued in denominations of $50, $100, $500 and $10,000.

Details of the exchange procedure will be announced next month. The Treasury announced also that $1,600,000,000 of series F and G savings bonds which mature next year may be swapped for Treasury notes which mature May 15, 1964.

Plane Forced Down On Road

A repair crew was en route to a point near Red Bluff Lake on the Texas-New Mexico border today to deal with a disabled T-28 trainer plane forced down Thursday afternoon.

The plane, one of a group of 9 such aircraft, en route from Moore AFB at Mission, to Davis-Monthan AFB in Tucson, Ariz., refueled at Webb at 12:45 p.m. Thursday. The planes, according to information here are to be put in mothballs at Davis-Monthan. They are propeller type airplanes—the kind used at Webb before being replaced with the familiar T-33's.

At a point near Red Bluff Lake, the engine on one of the planes threw a piston. The pilot, a civilian identified only as "Montgomery," landed the crippled ship on a paved highway. He made a safe landing and reported his problem to Webb.

A crew dispatched from Webb to locate the plane Thursday and this morning a crew with a crane, truck and other equipment left for the site. It was understood the plane would be loaded on a truck and hauled back to Big Spring.

STERLING CITY — Two Big Spring men today reported to Sheriff Bill Green and began the chore of setting a contempt-of-court penalty behind them.

Texaco Gets Slap For Balk On Data

AUSTIN (AP)—The Railroad Commission increased the December oil allowable by 121,192 barrels a day today fixing the production pattern at 10 days.

The additional producing day, following five straight months on a nine day pattern, resulted in a daily allowable of 2,904,625 barrels.

Most major oil companies testifying at the prorating hearing recommended an increase but a group of Dallas independent producers urged the commission to maintain the nine day pattern because of excessive stocks.

REPORTS SUBMITTED At the request of the commission, spokesmen for the major buying companies submitted reports detailing their companies' inventories on crude and products as compared with the desired level as recommended by top executives in the industry earlier in the year.

Seven of the 10 companies said their crude stocks are now below the desired level.

Texaco said its inventories were confidential and refused to give the commission a barrel breakdown. J. C. Edwards submitted information for Texaco.

Commission Chairman Ernest O. Thompson threatened Texaco with a subpoena for the exact figures if they were not submitted shortly. Edwards said he would go back and discuss the matter with the company's top executives.

Nominations by companies: 11 days Humble; 10 days Atlantic, Magnolia, Sinclair, Sun, Texaco, Standard of Texas and Phillips; 9 days, Indiana, Shell, Gulf and Cities Service.

BELOW LEVEL

These companies reported their crude inventories were below the desired levels: Magnolia, 212,000 barrels; Sinclair 200,000; Humble 500,000; Gulf 900,000; Texaco one day short; Cities Service, about 196,000 barrels; Standard of Texas 232,000; Phillips 158,000.

These companies said their stocks of crude were too high: Atlantic 24,000 barrels; Indiana 875,000; Shell 1,800,000. Sun reported it was at the desired level for crude with 7,483,000 barrel inventory.

Charles Shaver of Houston, spokesman for Humble, said the company would have to buy 76,000 barrels of spot oil during December to meet its demand. Shaver, in pressing his case for 11 days, said some of Humble's customers may have to get their oil from other states unless the lid on Texaco's production was not raised.

Shaver said Humble was now buying 105,000 barrels a day of oil from other leases but was short of the supply needed.

IN A WRECK Later, Jake Hamon, speaking for Dallas independents, said it is "a tragic commentary on the market" when only one company is buying over the nominations. He said if something happened to that company "we'd quickly get in a wreck."

Last week stocks dropped 2,711,000 barrels in the United States, the heaviest weekly drop since last winter. An early cold season which stepped up demands for heating fuels was the cause.

Purchaser nominations in barrels totaled 2,665,351, an increase of 53,973 barrels a day over last month's recommendations.

DEAR ABBY

YOU'LL KNOW

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: A year ago Thanksgiving my boyfriend and I were in a bad auto accident. He was driving and I was beside him. The other boy in the front seat was killed. My boyfriend was hardy scratched.

I was in the hospital five months with a broken back and fractured skull. My face was terribly cut up. Half of it still looks like raw meat. I lost my eye on that side. I can't stand to look at myself in the mirror.

My boyfriend (who is 20) keeps saying he wants to marry me when I am 18. (I am 17 1/2). He works days and goes to school nights to be a mechanic.

Here is my problem: I am afraid the only reason he wants to marry me is because he feels guilty about what happened to me, and he knows nobody else would marry me the way I look. Please help me do the right thing, Abby. I love him so much. But I don't want him to marry me out of pity.

DEAR WANTS LOVE: Depend on your heart to tell you if your boyfriend really loves you. The chances are he does. Plastic surgeons have been known to perform miraculous surgery in cases like yours, so don't despair. But remember, the spiritual beauty of courage, goodness and determination is far more lasting than a pretty face.

DEAR ABBY: I have followed your column every day since it started in our paper and not once have I known you to recommend or approve divorce. Don't you think, Abby, it is far better for a couple to get a divorce and try to find a better mate, than to raise children in an atmosphere of quarreling, hostility and strain? Be fair, Abby. FOR DIVORCE DEAR FOR: Why MUST there be an atmosphere of quarreling, hostility and strain? Too many young people think that marriage is one long honeymoon. When their dreamboat hits rough waters they cry "Shipwreck" and sail home to Mamma. All couples who vow before God to love, honor and obey, have an obligation to fulfill that promise. There are no two people in the world who cannot live together in peace and harmony if they try hard enough.

DEAR ABBY: I really hope you can do something about this because I am a 15-year-old boy who is feeling mighty low. I am sick and tired of calling girls for a date and having them say how much they would love to go and then they turn around and say to their mothers in a low voice, "Say no, I can't go." Then they come back to the phone and apologize all over about how sorry they are. They could at least cover the phone. If I am wrong, please correct me.

DEAR TURNED DOWN: You are not wrong! But don't be content with refusals (sincere or otherwise) as long as YOUR feelings are spared. Buddy up to one of the girls and find out why you are turned down so consistently.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CONNIE: Something fishy appears to be going on, but you'd be wise to keep your fins out of that hatchery.

What's your problem? For a personal reply write to ABBY, Big Spring Herald. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Youth Faces Trial In Teacher Beating

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — A high school boy described by his teachers as "sunny and resentful of authority" faces trial today for beating up his English teacher in a classroom.

James Wilbur Wiseman, 16, a tall 175-pounder who had a height advantage but weighed the same as his victim, is charged in juvenile and domestic relations court with aggravated assault.

Lewis R. Stevens Jr., 41, a teacher at Norview High School, was mauled so severely that 16 stitches were taken on cuts near his eyes and on his chin. Some of his teeth were loosened by the assault. His glasses were smashed.

Stevens, given emergency treatment at a local hospital, later was bed-ridden at his Norfolk home. This account of the incident came from Assistant Principal Andrew T. Leidy, who talked with Stevens.

Stevens noticed at the beginning of an English class that Wiseman had no textbook on his desk. He asked the student where it was. "I don't know. I lost it," replied the lanky Wiseman.

"Well, you'd better have a book by Monday," said Stevens. "What are you doing, threatening me?" Wiseman asked. "No, I'm promising you that if you don't have a book by Monday you won't be in this class."

The teacher told Wiseman he wanted him to go to the assistant principal's office. "When I was a kid I was due home at 9 o'clock," Ehrlich said Thursday. "Officer Clancy would see that I got there, often by planting a shoe in my posterior."

"Slap a kid today and the whole local, state and federal governments descend on you. I'm not advocating brutality. Only a loving kind of kicking."

Lesson Unlearned AKRON, Ohio (AP)—A mother from nearby Barberton wanted to teach her 15 and 16-year-old sons that crime does not pay, so she had them skip school and go to Common Pleas Court here to see the trial of Jim O'Neill, charged as a habitual criminal.

The boys didn't learn their lesson very well, according to Assistant Prosecutor George Pappas. He collared them in connection with the disappearance of a wallet and $7 from the purse of a woman spectator.

T&P Brochure Plugs For Industry In West Texas

"It's yours Partner!" All you have to do is take your pick, says the Texas & Pacific Railway Co. in a new industrial brochure.

The publication, which lists prospective sites on the T&P from Louisiana to El Paso, is being sent to hundreds of industrialists over the nation.

Included in the tabulation are facts about Big Spring and Howard County, both as to population and income.

Along with a score of other loose sheets, an aerial view of the Industrial Foundation site east of Cooden and Cabot Carbon Co. is pictured, with its borders outlined in red. The picture shows its access either to the T&P on one side and Interstate 20 on the other.

Also included on this particular page are salient facts about Big Spring, its raw materials, labor and utility availability, educational and other facilities.

The industrial packet was prepared under the direction of J. A. McCull, director of industrial development for the T&P. Traffic representatives of the T&P in 31 major cities of the United States and all the way from Boston to San Francisco will have supplies of these to distribute to prospec-ive industrialists looking for plant locations. Of all forms of transportation, the T&P reminded, the railroads are the only ones to have departments devoted exclusively to the industrial development of territories they serve.

Edsel Loses Fight For Life

DETROIT (AP)—The Edsel today became the first casualty of the new automotive battle of the compact cars. Ford announced it will abandon the medium-price car immediately.

Introduced only two years ago, the Edsel never captured a market. Slightly more than 100,000 were sold. Less than 100 have been built in the last two weeks as Ford diverted scarce steel to its other lines.

In an official statement, Ford said sales of the 1960 Edsel model, which looks strikingly like the 1959 Pontiac, "have been particularly disappointing" while response to all other company lines has been good.

MEXICO CITY (AP)— Mexico exported fewer tomatoes the first eight months this year than in 1958 but got more money for them, the National Chamber of Commerce reported today.

Salute To Vision And Action

Ahlerne is celebrating its progress in general and its downtown renovation in particular through a program of Achievement Days which got under way Thursday.

The Ahlerne story is unique in that while many cities recognize the plight of their downtown areas and the necessity to preserve its values and position as a community's economic core, not many get past the dream or planning stage.

Ahlerne took the bull by the horns and went to work. Businessmen, realizing that they were the chief beneficiaries, chipped in and contributed huge sums to finance a good share of downtown storm sewers, larger mains and utilities, new pavement and other items designed to make the flow of traffic easier and safer.

Not many cities would have merchants who would put up with having their streets torn up for long periods and have their customers obliged to enter from the alley, but Ahlerne businessmen did and joked while they grumbled. In the end, the improvements were worth all the trouble and expense. The shopping district has been given a new lease on life and many private investors are spending heavily on modernization or new construction.

We salute our neighbors on the vision and forthrightness with which they met and helped resolve a pesky problem. Almost every town or city of any consequence faces a similar situation, and perhaps the Ahlerne example will be inspiring as well as downright helpful.

Blue Northerners And Hog-Killing

We wonder how many little groups or knots of oldtimers sat around a warm stove or fireplace Monday and Tuesday and discussed hog-killing time down on the farm.

A lot of them, we bet; for the blue northerner that descended on Texas Monday forenoon was hog-killing weather if he ever saw it. And hog-killing time down on the farm in the old days was a grand occasion.

Dad would have sharpened his butcher knives, put up a framework on which to hang the hogs by the heels for eviscerating and cooling out purposes; mother would have "bet" up as many washpots full of water as she had washpots; Dad and the boys would have dug a slanting hole in the ground to hold the barrel full of scalding water in which each hog carcass would be scalded to facilitate the scraping off of hair. When the time came, youngsters such as you would stand as close to the scalding vat as they dared, to exercise the privilege of skinning the hair off the poor hog's tail with one daring grab. A little later there would be a mild riot over possession of the bladder, to be inflated and "popped" then or reserved for its noise-making potential until Christmas.

We will skip the killing method, which varied, out of respect to a squeamish generation; suffice it to say that meat produced and processed on the farm was an important and indispensable part of the family's livelihood, much more so than today when the variety and scope and instant availability of foods have become commonplace.

We imagine very few hogs are slaughtered and processed on the farm nowadays, so "hog-killing time" has lost its significance—indeed, its very existence.

But few oldtimers are able to rid themselves of memories—indeed, who would wish to?—and among these memories hog-killing day down on the farm becomes vivid when a blue northerner strikes; for the blue northerner was the hog-killing weather without compare in the old days. We feel sorry for kids raised in these times when everything has been reduced to a mechanical function or can be bought and paid for on the installment plan.

William S. White Hal-Peco Dictator In Danger

WASHINGTON—Fidel Castro of Cuba is playing with dynamite—American Congressional dynamite. Not even the stoic patience of the State Department is likely to save him from being blown right out of office by his own recklessness unless he draws back soon from his shrilly abusive course toward the United States.

This two-bit (one half-peso) dictator is nearing the point of no return. The whole position toward Castro here is now changing. It is increasingly probable that Congress will return in January determined to take counteraction that could easily destroy his revolutionary regime.

True, the State Department will try to discourage this sort of thing. But as it happens the critical power here does not lie with the administration. Nor does it lie with the Congressional Committee on Foreign Policy, which normally will follow any administration lead.

thorities such as Sen. George Smathers of Florida, a long-proved friend of Cuba—let Castro try. For instead of an eager Soviet customer he will discover one of those dull facts of life of the kind hot-eyed revolutionaries so often overlook. This is that the Russians produce all the sugar (beet sugar) they need, and a little more besides.

Nobody here, it should be emphasized, wants to be forced to take economic reprisals as publicly suggested by Sen. Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana. But this, too, should be emphasized: Significant power centers in Congress don't go along with the State Department theory that regardless of provocation we must not take such action lest we injure ourselves with all Latin America.

IF LIES INSTEAD with two fairly hard-boiled groups which are never duly impressed by "State"—and which are fed to the teeth with Fidel Castro. These are the Finance Committee of the United States Senate and the Committee on Agriculture of the House of Representatives.

They have it within their choice to cut off Cuba's rich sugar-exporting quota to the United States. This quota not only guarantees a stable market to the Cubans but also gives them a price pegged above the world price. The sugar quota is at the heart of Cuba's life. Not even the most stirring of "progress" revolutionary leaders" is excessively popular at home once his policies bring joblessness and economic ruin.

Congress alone can decide whether the expiring Sugar Quota Act is to be renewed to Cuba. It can decide, too, on a renewal giving some of our Latin-American friends, notably Mexico, a much larger share of our imports.

THE VIEW OF CONGRESSMEN most concerned with, and most important in, this issue is far different. There comes a time, they say, when it is more harmful to withhold action than to act. For nothing could be so bad as for the United States to confirm the existing notion that no conceivable insult will be effectively resisted here. This kind of posture would lead to the justifiable conclusion all through Pan America that the one sure way to a permanently-guaranteed favorable treatment by the U. S. would be to be always at the very forefront of its abusers and enemies.

This is not dollar diplomacy. Nor is it any jingo attitude. Nobody here argues that we are always right in our difficulties with our Latin-American neighbors. We are, for illustration, far from spotless in regard to Panama. Anti-American feeling there is in part understandable.

But the point simply is that nobody can possibly be the kind of "good neighbor" Castro wants. For he wants to walk all over us, in the happy belief that we are too big to retaliate, while we continue to support his economy—and thus him.

GETS IT IN THE NECK, TOO

James Marlow That Dream Of Long, Long Ago

WASHINGTON (AP)—In that long ago time—the 1952 campaign — President Eisenhower had visions of balanced budgets. And he was always insisting spending be kept down. But budgets got unbalanced and spending went up.

This year, for instance, his budget called for 77 billion dollars, a peacetime record, but spending may hit 79 billion. For the coming year his budget is expected to be around 81 billion, another record.

If this year's budget turns out to be unbalanced—because spending exceeded income—it will make the fifth year in a row that has happened.

Power Of Persuasion

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The "last minute literary spurt" can kill off a man's chances for promotion, officers and others who rate air- men for promotion at Lockbourne Air Force Base here have been warned.

LT. Col. Robert D. Elliott, director of administrative services, referred to these examples from recommendations received in the last promotion cycle:

"... a divided asset to this organization."

"... definitely qualified beyond qualification."

"... the U. S. Air Force will be none the loser for it."

In one man's folder, the colonel added, were five recommendations—signed by different officers but identical, word for word.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—While working on a State Power Authority project in the Devil's Hole area near here, Frank W. Steblein Jr. found a British fathoming dated 1732. Devil's Hole was the scene of an Indian massacre in the 18th Century.

Hal Boyle German Film Exposes War

BERLIN (AP)—A brutal German film about war is drawing sellout audiences in West Berlin and West Germany.

Most critics agree that the picture, which makes war look like insane nonsense, is one of the greatest ever made in Germany. Called "Die Brücke" (The Bridge), it was turned out on a shoestring by Bernard Wicki, a Swiss actor turned director who works mainly in West Germany. The film tells what happened to seven German schoolboys—aged 16—who were drafted into Hitler's army just before the hectic end of World War II.

The film shows how all of them, save one, died in defense of a small South German bridge that was worthless from a tactical viewpoint.

But this isn't what stuns the audience into silence, a silence that lasts till the crowd melts away on the street.

What hits the viewer is the manner in which the child-soldiers and their American attackers, die. They do not die like heroes in a Wild West thriller, who spin around and drop dead without a fuss. Instead, the German kids and the American soldiers die screaming and blubbering, with terrible wounds.

Most West German critics hailed the film as a welcome break with what seems to have become a trend in West Germany. Many recent German films theoretically condemn war, but are actually an excuse to relive the glories of the time when the Germans goose-stepped over all of Europe.

In this film there is no glory and there are no heroes. There are just seven kids. Six of whom were condemned to die by the fanatic determination that drove Hitler until his last days.

"And in this helicopter age what could be more desirable than a flat-top roof?"

Around The Rim Luna's Greatest Beauty Is Near Dawn

Did you notice the moon early Monday morning?

It may be seen thus of an early morn about this time of the month, if the sky is hazy in the east.

At night, a big yellow moon is no more than a light in the sky—something akin to the sun and the stars—and seems to lack solid reality. In the daytime, when it is visible at all, it looks as if someone had stepped in silver paint and had left a heelprint in the sky.

But on mornings such as last Monday, the moon no longer looks flat against the sky, as if it were painted there. It seems to project outwardly from the sky, with three dimensions. It gives the illusion that it is a huge ball hanging from a blue dome.

Monday's moon was a real world to the naked eye.

It hung high over the western horizon, and its color still was yellow in the light of day—two unusual factors that probably help the human psyche to see the satellite as a thing of reality.

Actually, the moon doesn't seem to hang so much as float. Its presence becomes eerily natural, so that one expects it to have a movement of its own, and not be dependent upon a chain hanging it from the sky.

The continents and seas stand out in color, and the moon seems to be closer—and one realizes suddenly that he is standing on one huge globe looking out over nothingness to a sister globe.

Such a sight is even more weirdly real from an airplane, as an early-morning jet pilot could say. One such flier's course momentarily aimed his ship almost directly at Monday's moon, and he felt for a moment as if he were an Astronaut on his way there. The Shining Island of Lavana, as the astronomer Kepler called it, There is something about an early morning, before the world has fully awakened, that makes the unreal seem real, the real to have more reality than it ordinarily has. It removes the mundane.

And speaking of Astronauts—I wonder how many of them caught the same glimpse of Monday morning's moon? And what were they thinking?

Inez Robb Things Are Tough For Nizam

There are days when it seems incredible to me that some persons still turn choleric at the idea of one world. It is uncomfortable so in one woman's opinion, with all of us shook up and suffering from the same malaise.

Now I read that of' debbil inflation and the high cost of living, under which our backs creek, have so affected 600 relatives of the opulent Nizam of Hyderabad that they have formed a union and are asking the Indian Government at New Delhi to force the Nizam to raise their allowances.

Obviously, there is no escalator clause or cost-of-living bonus in their contract with the Nizam. As a result, his kith and kin are finding it ever more difficult to live without working. No wonder they are beefing; millions of Americans can testify that it is almost impossible nowadays to make both ends meet when one has a job and is even doing a little moonlighting on the side.

THE INDIAN GOVERNMENT, despite a couple of petitions from the Nizam's near and dear, is keeping hands off, leaving it up to the Nizam to settle their hash or caviar. The Nizam, 73, enjoys a reputation as a hard man, McGee, in the financial department.

As long as I can remember, he has always been described as both the richest and the stingiest man in the world. But I should think that even the richest man in the world would have to line his pockets with fishhooks if he had 600 ever-lovin' relatives hanging around the palace, waiting to be supported in the style to which they feel this relationship entitles them.

Still, like the Indian Government, I tend to be neutral in this affair. My experience with rich relatives is nil, and my past and present industry may be more a mat-

David Lawrence Leopard's Spots Are Still Red

WASHINGTON—When the Red China regime refuses to permit American newsmen to enter that country, there is a big hullabaloo, but when the communist leader who runs Poland sends an American newsmen home because his dispatches aren't written to suit the government, there's relatively little noise in protest.

One would think that the right to know crusaders in our country would be so incensed they would be organizing demonstrations of disapproval.

What would suppose that this exhibition of what communist tyranny really means would raise doubts as to how there can be peaceful coexistence in an atmosphere of suspicion, and of what benefit cultural exchanges can be when truth is suppressed.

One would suppose, too, that throughout the United States many of the persons who were taken in by the sugar-coated words spoken by Nikita Khrushchev during his visit to America would be taken aback by this evidence of communist doubletalk.

For of what avail is it to argue for closer relations with communist countries when the main vehicle of communication—the press—is sabotaged?

THE SOVIET LEADER BOASTED of the superiority of communism over capitalism. But not a word of hope did he ever give out that the peoples living under the communist system would have a press that could print the truth about public affairs.

The expulsion of A. M. Rosenthal, correspondent for the New York Times in Poland, was brought about by Wladyslaw Gomułka, the Polish communist boss, the foreign office spokesman in Warsaw, acting under Gomułka's instructions, said to Mr. Rosenthal:

"The question of falseness or otherwise does not enter. You have written very deeply and in detail about the internal situation, party matters and leadership matters, and the Polish government cannot tolerate such probing reporting."

And what had Mr. Rosenthal written? Here is an excerpt:

"Always moody and irascible, M. Gomułka is more withdrawn these days and seems hotter-tempered than ever. He is said to have a feeling of having been let down by intellectuals and economists he never had any sympathy for anyway, by workers... by suspicious peasants..."

"M. Gomułka has made it clear that he thinks there has been too much liberalism among the intellectuals, too much interest in Western ways..."

"MORE THAN EVER since 1954 there are barriers between M. Gomułka and some of the men who are important in his party... M. Gomułka runs the Polish communist ship, but it is not a happy one..."

This was a story of friction inside the government. In America and Britain and France and Italy, where there's a free press, differences of opinion can be reported without fear of punishment. But

Unusual Crash

SEASIDE HEIGHTS, N. J. (AP)—A 20th Century plane crashed into a 19th Century ship but the accident went undiscovered for days.

Skin divers came upon the wreckage while searching the ocean floor about five miles off the coast.

Cradled among the corroded wooden timbers of a sunken commercial vessel of the 1890s was the wreckage of a small aircraft of the type used for training at the beginning of World War II.

The plane had apparently crashed some 20 years ago in exactly the same place where the ocean swallowed the old ship in the late 19th century.

Beef, Pork Products Best Market Buys

Beef and pork are being given the big push by supermarkets for pre-holiday eating this week. Prices are attractive. Beef ribs roasts are down as much as 12 cents a pound in the East. Pork chops dropped 4 cents. Lamb continues in good supply with price reductions ranging from 4 to 6 cents a pound. Weekend specials generally revolve around beef roasts, steaks and the various cuts of veal, pork loins and butts, leg of lamb and chops. Chipped beef is featured around the country. There are good buys in bacon, pork sausage and canned hams. Turkeys and the traditional Thanksgiving trimmings started making their appearance with many areas featuring them to attract early buyers. Housewives are finding their best vegetable buys in medium size yellow onions, Long Island potatoes, and such typical holiday fare as sweet potatoes, Brussels sprouts, mushrooms, carrots and spinach. There are bargains, too, in beets, pascal celery, cucumbers, endive, escarole, broccoli and squash of the acorn, butternut and Hubbard varieties. Head lettuce is selling in wide range of quality, condition and price. For more expensive tastes there are good supplies of artichokes, snap beans, egg plant, peas, peppers, tomatoes, green and yellow squash and domestic cabbage. The flow of Florida citrus to market is increasing. Best buys in fruit are grapefruit, oranges, limes, avocados and apples.

Seasonal Theme For Club Dinner

Decorations for the Thanksgiving dinner of the Indoor Sports Club followed the season's theme, with place cards of Pilgrims; turkey cutouts graced the center of the tables.

The class of Mrs. R. T. Newell in the Special Education School prepared the little figures. The invocation was given by the Rev. Al Seddon, pastor of St. Paul Presbyterian Church. Speaker for the evening was Maj. Vincent Brophy.

Announced last night was the Christmas party of the club, which will be given Dec. 17 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Boland, 104 W. Sixth. Members will have a gift exchange. About 27 attended the dinner which was served by members of the Good Sports Club.

Mrs. Mittel Hostess For TEL Class

Mrs. Beatrice Mittel was hostess for the members of the First Baptist TEL class Thursday evening. The class gathered for their annual Thanksgiving dinner.

The invocation was given by the hostess; Mrs. Bernice Slater read a Thanksgiving proclamation which had been written by George Washington in 1789. Plans were made for a Thanksgiving basket to be assembled and presented to a needy family. The Christmas party for the class will be given on Dec. 19 at the church.

Nine members were joined by two guests, Mrs. Theo Andrews and Mrs. Lee Hanson.

Dinner Is Served By Philathea Class In Autumn Setting

A covered dish dinner Thursday evening was a prelude to the business meeting of the Philathea Class of the First Methodist Church.

Colorful autumn leaves spilled out of a cornucopia, forming the centerpiece for the U-shaped table. Sammler cornucopia and simulated turkeys centered the flanking tables.

The invocation was given by Mrs. B. M. Keese. Mrs. Ruby Martin opened the business session with prayer. The devotion was given by Mrs. Jordan Grooms, who told of Martha, the sister of Mary.

Food is to be brought to Sunday School next Sunday for the founding of the Latin American minister, which will be held next Wednesday evening at 7. Food will also be given in a basket for a needy family.

Plans were made for the Christmas dinner to be held Dec. 17. At this time the Latin American minister's wife will be given a stork shower, and a Christmas basket for the needy. Also a gift will be sent to Carrol French, an African missionary.

Mrs. Merle Stewart and her group served dinner to 24 members.

They are president and civic beautification chairman, respectively, of the Big Spring Garden Club. The group has selected as one of their projects the improvement of various civic spots, and the circle is first on the list. Come spring, Dutch iris and King Alfred daffodils will blend in a profusion of blue and yellow. The club assisted with plans for the landscaping of the memorial circle, which is on the east side of the courthouse.

Planning A Move Any Time Soon? You Might Like To Live In Iran

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

"We think it's a shame that American women have been pulled down from a position of superiority to prosaic equality," says suave, handsome Abol Hossain Hamzavi, Iranian delegate to the United Nations. "Women should be cherished, respected and shielded from all the unpleasant things of life—such as voting." The polished diplomat speaks with conviction. He says that in his native land live some of the world's most beautiful, cultured and brilliant women, beloved by their husbands, revered by their sons—products of one of the world's oldest civilizations. He has little admiration for America's bustling career girls and working wives.

"In my country the majority of marriages are arranged by the parents, and they usually work far better than the effervescent and immature marriages of young couples in America," he says. "Divorce is easy. A man has only to say three times, 'I divorce my wife,' and the deed is done. Yet statistics show our divorce rate to be about one-millionth of that of the Western world."

Can an Iranian woman obtain a divorce by the same simple process?

"Well, no," says Hamzavi. "Divorce is a man's responsibility—like other unpleasant things in life. But now, for the first time, an Iranian woman can get a divorce, by proving cause and establishing legal grounds, through the courts. It's harder for her, but possible."

Hamzavi says Americans could learn some valuable lessons from Iranian family life.

"We feel that family education is far more important than anything else," says he. "In an Iranian family the mother is the final and absolute authority. Her word is law. As an ambassador, aged 48, I would not dare to sit in the presence of my mother until she bade me do so."

"We have no juvenile delinquency in my country. We don't even have such a word in the Iranian language. There is no need for it, because juvenile crime is unknown there. We believe in child discipline."

Iran will celebrate in 1960 the 25th anniversary of the lifting of the veil. Although Iranian women still do not vote or hold public office, there are many Iranian girls in colleges both at home and abroad, studying for the professions.

"We always have felt that a man and a woman constitute a whole—and the woman is the heart of the matter," Hamzavi says. "Please don't think I am criticizing all American women—I just feel sorry for them. In their constant striving for equal rights, in their frantic competition in the business world, so few attain happiness."

Horn of PLENTY

This great land of ours has been blessed with the riches of the earth and with the freedoms, the rights, to enjoy them. But does the mere ownership of these goods guarantee our happiness?

All of us have experienced a disappointment at finally possessing some much-desired article. After weeks and sometimes years of looking forward to it, we find that the actual ownership brings little pleasure.

Could the fault lie with the gift itself? No, apparently it is within ourselves. Our own attitudes, our own relationships, our own understanding have certainly much more to do with our final satisfaction.

How then are we to derive the greatest blessings from the goods which have been put at our disposal? The best place to begin is in the Church. Here, in a personal search for God and our own understanding of Him, we may achieve a spiritual harmony, which will bless our lives and those of our fellow men.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Russians More Devoted To Beliefs Than Are Americans

LAMESA — Russians appear to have a greater dedication to their system than Americans have for democratic processes, Dr. Floyd Golden, Portales, N. M., told the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce annual banquet crowd here last night.

Dr. Golden, president of Eastern New Mexico University, was one of 29 American educators who made a tour of Russia last summer to compare the Russian and the American educational system.

He came away, he said, with the feeling that the world is divided sharply into communistic-athletic and democratic-Christian camps.

"The Russians are more dedicated to their way of life than we are to ours," he warned.

Canned Laughter On TV To Vanish

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The roars of canned laughter, artfully tucked around even the feeblest of jokes, will be missing from most CBS programs by Dec. 15. And if they can't erase it, somebody will have to confess it is there.

Between then and now, there will be other changes on the network, all based on an executive memorandum and all stemming from the recent quiz show scandals and constantly widening investigations into other aspects of TV activities.

Games and contests with big money or lavish prizes already have been banned. And when studio contestants are used, methods of selection must be disclosed to the viewers.

In interview shows, too, the audiences henceforth will get all the facts. We'll know whether the interviewees rehearsed or received his questions in advance, whether the scope of the interview has been deliberately limited, if the film or tape has been edited and if the program was pre-recorded far in advance.

And, in addition, we will be told whether a show is live, taped or filmed.

"The test in each case must be whether any substantial number of the viewing audience is likely in the circumstances to be deceived or misled concerning the true nature of the program fare being offered," states the order signed by James T. Aubrey Jr., network executive vice president, and he wants them all in effect 10 days before Christmas. To implement the directive, the network late Thursday announced creation of a Department of Program Practices.

Contrary to other reports, however, no decisions have been made about reshuffling programs, replacing programs and changing the current balance, declared an executive network spokesman. "Exactly what we are going to do is not known just now," said the executive, but he more than hinted that the network might soon find prime evening time during the week for shows in the so-called "cultural area," public affairs programs and special events.

At NBC, an executive reiterated his network's position that it alone is master of its programming. He expressed confidence in the present balance and variety of its shows and added: "There are a number of things under study and we have nothing to say about them now. We'll tell about them when we are ready."

Former Door Opener Now An Opera Star

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The big news in the opera world is a one-time door-opener named Mary Costa.

TV fans will remember Mary as the blonde, beautiful salesgirl who pitched the product for an auto firm on the "Climax" show. She patted more fenders and opened more doors than a used-car salesman in the busy season.

Now the doors are opening for Mary. The reason is her sensational debut with the San Francisco Opera Company. She drew rave reviews up and down the Pacific Coast, especially for her musetta in "La Boheme."

Martin Clark of the Oregon Journal in Portland lauded her "amazingly warm, lyric coloratura with a sweetness and warmth rarely found in this type of voice."

Alfred Frankenstein of the San Francisco Chronicle praised her "pure, brilliant and subtle vocalism."

Albert Goldberg of the Los Angeles Times called her "an enormously gifted young singing actress" and said she ran off with the show.

Back in her Beverly Hills home after the rigors of singing in five operas, Mary is still aglow. And well she should be, because she now has the ace impresario, Sol Hurok, to mastermind her career. Just after the opera season ended, she signed a deal with Hurok that will guarantee her $250,000 over a five-year period.

"One of the biggest kicks in all this," she remarked, "is in seeing the surprise of people who know me in Hollywood. One of the people in the Chrysler Corporation said to me, 'Gee, Mary, why didn't you sing like that on our show?' They wouldn't let me!"

She is glad she turned down a contract offer from the Metropolitan. It would have tied her down to small roles and small money until she "had developed." No doubt about it, Mary is developed now—physically and artistically.

Hurok has big plans for her, including a Jack Benny TV special, concerts and a European tour. And next summer she plans to make a movie abroad with Maurice Chevalier. It will be written, directed and produced by her able husband, Frank Tashlin.

Light On Crime

NEW YORK (AP)—The city will illuminate its playgrounds to help cut juvenile crime, says Mayor Robert F. Wagner. He announced Thursday that bright lights for 20 playgrounds in the worst nighttime trouble spots will be provided at a cost of $80,000. An additional $1,000,000 has been requested in next year's capital budget to light several hundred additional playgrounds.
