Western Summit Session

Smiling Departure

French Premier Michel Debre, Presidents Eisenhower and De Gaulle, and the President's interpreter, Col. Vernon Walters, prepare to part company after a luncheon meeting in Paris' Elysee Palace. President Eisenhower urged De Gaulle to make concessions on his opposition to the integration of French fighting forces with other NATO Allies.

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Price said today most governors of the 11 states of the Confederacy will send representatives to the funeral services for Walter Williams, last veteran of the Civil War.

Daniel and South Carolina Gov. E. F. Hollings paid their respects at the mortuary Saturday night several hours after the death of the 117-year-old veteran. Daniel said he notified all governors of the original Confederacy and replies from most of them indicate their state flags are being flown at half-mast and that their representatives will attend the Houston services.

Mom Dies Without Knowing Of Birth

NEW YORK (AP)—Mary Materasso, 27, died Sunday without ever knowing she had given birth to a daughter. The baby died Saturday. Mrs. Materasso had been in a coma at Misericordia Hospital for a week after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage at her Bronx apartment. Thursday doctors delivered a premature baby while the woman remained unconscious in an iron lung.

Endless Line Passes Bier Of Civil War Vet

HOUSTON (AP)—Young and old, Negro and white—they passed in an endless line today to view Walter Williams, the last veteran of the Civil War.

The bronze casket with its tint of gray lay on a marble bier in the rotunda of the Harris County Civil Courts building. Hour after hour they walked slowly past, solemn faced. The old soldier is dressed in the gray, gold-braided, gold-buttoned uniform of an officer of the Confederacy he served nearly 100 years ago.

A United States flag stands at his head and a Texas flag at his feet, and a Confederate flag drapes the casket. The circular rotunda in which he lies is in the center of the courts building, and is about 20 feet across. One side of the circle is draped in purple. The walls are of dark brown parquetry.

A military policeman stands guard at Williams' head and another at his feet. They are impeccably garbed in green Army uniforms—each a man picked for his neatness and his military bearing.

The guards, fatigued after standing at attention, are changed each hour.

The guard unit of 132 men and 5 officers came here from Ft. Hood in Central Texas but are commanded by an officer stationed in Houston, Capt. Adam Borkowski.

The body will remain in the courthouse with a 24-hour guard until Wednesday, when funeral services will be held here and burial will take place in Franklin, where he lived many years.

STOLEN YULE GIFTS FOUND IN TRASH CAN

Mrs. Bertie Griffin, 308 Austin, recovered Christmas presents, Santa's bag and all, this morning at the police station. The presents in a duffel bag were taken from her home sometime during the night. They were found in a trash can near Marvin Wood Pontiac Co. this morning and turned over to police. Apparently, all the presents were intact. Officers puzzled over the reason for the theft.

Gls Heroes In Bus Crash

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Three Texas servicemen—going home for Christmas—were heroes of the crash of a Greyhound bus and cattle truck Sunday that took nine lives.

Highway Patrol Lt. B. D. Velasco praised them for getting the situation under control so quickly and aiding in the rescue of the injured.

Army Pfc. Grady Fowler Jr., 24, of Corpus Christi saw it happen. "I was just sitting there, three rows from the front on the upper deck," he said. "I saw the truck coming. I tried to cry out. No sound came."

"When we hit, I was thrown forward. My head hit the seat. People start screaming. A baby downstairs was crying. People were everywhere, crying, calling for help."

"We got most of them out. We tried to get the baby that was crying. We couldn't. It was in his mother's arms. Both were pinned in the wreckage."

A Joe Garza, 21, of Port Lavaca was asleep when the crash came. "I was thrown in the aisle," he said. "I didn't know what was happening. It was awful."

"There were people over seats in the aisle, under seats. It seemed like everybody was screaming."

"There was a big, grey-haired woman trapped near the front of the upper deck. She just sat there, patiently waiting for us to help. She didn't cry. She didn't say a word. Just sat there, waiting."

Marine Pvt. Robert Dudley, 19, of League City kicked out a window and dropped from the upper deck to the ground.

"The calves from the truck were bawling," he said. "But you could hear the screams of the people above the bawling."

"We stopped the first car that came along. We told him to get help. To have them send all the ambulances they could."

The three Texans returned to the wreckage, working quickly to help as many of the wounded they could.

The three were treated at a hospital, then continued their journeys. They wanted to be home for Christmas.

FIRST TIME IN 10 DAYS

Union, Steel Firms Meet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Union and steel company negotiators met today for the first time in 10 days. As they gathered, the companies were saying new and higher union demands prove the union is responsible for the deadlock.

Union President David J. McDonald retorted it is the companies that are out of step. The United Steelworkers reached new three-year contract agreements with major aluminum companies in Chicago over the weekend, clearing the way for their top officers to resume the steel talks.

Federal mediators had recessed the talks for aluminum industry negotiations. As the aluminum settlement took form, McDonald issued last week a new 10-point steel demand.

In a weekend development, Dr. George W. Taylor, chairman of President Eisenhower's fact-finding board, sent letters to the 93 steel firms involved, asking them to submit their last offers to the union by next Monday.

SECRET BALLOT If no settlement results—and the chances were rated small—the board will submit the last offers to a secret ballot of the workers between Jan. 6 and 21, as provided by the Taft-Hartley Act.

The 500,000 unionists will be free to resume their strike on Jan. 26 if the vote is negative. On that date the 90-day federal injunction will expire.

The eleven big steel replied in a letter to McDonald made public Sunday night.

"The union's prior offers were unacceptable to the companies," the letter said, "because of their inflationary proportions. Yet you now seek to impose even more onerous terms of settlement."

"This, we submit, is the very antithesis of union responsibility. It proves beyond question that it is the union's policies and bargaining practices that have been solely responsible for the continuing deadlock."

The companies also said they had "serious misgivings" about bargaining separately with the union, as McDonald has demanded. But they said they were willing to talk it over at today's mediation session.

NO LETTER McDonald said Sunday night he had not received the companies' letter.

"The steel companies, continuing to practice industrial isolationism, seem totally oblivious of the union's recent settlements in the copper, can and aluminum industries," he commented. "All of these settlements were regarded by the public, the industries and the union to be moderate, fair and reasonable."

"The union's present proposal to the steel companies is based squarely on these recent settlements and that with the Kaiser Steel Co."

The aluminum pact, according to the union's figures, provides a 20-cent increase in wages and fringe benefits over the three-year period. Some of the aluminum companies figured the cost as slightly less.

McDonald said his new steel settlement offer would bring the cost to slightly more than the 20-month, 22 1/2 cent hourly increase negotiated earlier with the Kaiser Steel Co. The other big steel companies rejected the terms of the Kaiser settlement as too costly and inflationary.

COST OF LIVING Most of the added cost of McDonald's latest demand is a full cost of living increase under terms of the old contract. This would give steelworkers 3 to 4 cents more an hour starting in January.

The Kaiser contract called for a 2-cent increase of this type with no further adjustment until July.

McDonald contended the higher cost of living figure was justified on the ground that the companies should make up benefits employees have lost by working under the old contract since the Kaiser settlement.

The 500,000 steelworkers struck for 116 days until they were forced back to work Nov. 7 by a government Taft-Hartley injunction. After the injunction expires Jan. 26, they are free to strike again.

Wages under the old contracts, which are in force during the injunction, averaged $3.11 an hour last June. The average varies slightly from month to month.

No Change In Condition Of Curtis Driver Curtis Driver, injured in a riding mishap a week ago Sunday, remained unconscious at noon Monday at the Big Spring Hospital. Otherwise his general condition appears to be satisfactory.

Driver, a prominent businessman, was hurt when his horse fell on him.

TIME RUNNING OUT FOR GIFTS

Several people paused on the Sabbath Day to recall that it is more blessed to give than to receive; consequently, the CHRISTMAS CHEER FUND had checks in the mail today.

The Fund is still under $1,000, though, and needs at least another $300. There are only three days left for you to aid this worthy holiday charity. If you will help with a gift of any size, won't you send it along now? Mail to The Herald, or hand to any fireman. Make checks to the CHRISTMAS CHEER FUND.

This means good toys for poor youngsters; it means substantial help of food and medicine in emergency cases. It means you can find a real pleasure in helping those who need help. Thanks to these generous folk:

No Gem-Studded Apples, Please

WESTBURY N. Y. (AP)—Teachers here have been warned against students who try to curry favor with "Christmas payola."

Supt. of Schools Cecil I. Rice sent teachers a memorandum indicating they may accept gifts "which represent love and respect." But, he added, "if a gift gives you a $50 gift you're going to think a long time before you flunk that kid."

He left it to the teachers to decide which gifts are sincere and which are "payola."

Evidence Slips

MINEOLA, N. Y. (AP)—When detectives questioned John E. Whitfield about a tavern burglary, he raised his hands to protest his innocence. Down slipped his trousers. Officers found in his pockets $20 in coins weighing down his bellies' trousers. He admitted taking the money from a bar and was held Sunday for grand jury action.

Other Allied Chiefs Send Notes To K

PARIS (AP)—President Eisenhower sent a letter to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev today inviting him to the first of a series of summit meetings. "Consider international questions of mutual concern."

Similar letters are going from the British and French chiefs of government, as a follow-up to their Western summit conference over the weekend.

Eisenhower said this meeting agreed it is desirable that the East-West summit session "convene from time to time in each other's countries to discuss the main problems affecting the attainment of peace and stability in the world."

The first meeting will convene in Paris April 27 if Khrushchev accepts the arrangements.

The Big Four, in their invitations to the Soviet leader, ruled out the participation of divided Germany, Red China and India.

Eisenhower said goodbye to Paris after a brief meeting today with British Minister Harold Macmillan, French President Charles de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. He flew to Madrid.

BRIEF CEREMONIES

The ceremonies of his departure from Paris were unusually brief. Mounting the steps of his orange-nosed jetliner, after the playing of the Star Spangled Banner and the Marseillaise, he turned, and said "goodby."

While House press secretary James C. Hagerty said the "President thinks the accomplishments were fine" at the four-power Western summit. In his private talks with De Gaulle, however, the President apparently failed to win De Gaulle over to the American view that French air forces should be integrated into the NATO command.

The communique from the Big Four reaffirmed the West's determination to yield no basic rights in divided Berlin. It "reaffirmed the principles set forth in a four-power communique of the 14th of December, 1958 and the declaration of the North Atlantic Council of the 16th of December, 1958."

These documents, pledging to defend Berlin against Soviet aggression, represent a return to early Western positions in the Geneva foreign ministers conference this year.

DEADLOCK

That conference ended in deadlock after the West proposed concessions against an interim settlement in Berlin. These concessions now apparently are out. They include: (See IKE, Page 2-A, Col. 7)

Hundreds Of Thousands Cheer Ike As He Arrives In Spain

MADRID (AP)—Hundreds of thousands of cheering Spaniards today gave President Eisenhower the biggest welcome this country has roared out to a foreign visitor in modern times.

Flag-waving crowds lined the streets and hung from trees and jammed balconies as the President rode into Madrid with Francisco Franco at his side. Eisenhower is the first top Western leader to visit the Spanish dictator, who wore his generalissimo's uniform.

Spectators let loose one roar of cheers after another as Eisenhower, standing upright with outstretched arms, rode by in a bubble-top limousine.

Eisenhower, making the next to last stop of his 11-nation tour, flew in at 4:21 p.m.

Franco, who had arrived at the airport 11 minutes before, stood with the President as the national anthems were played. Then he presented his daughter, the Marquesa de Villaverde, with her husband.

Franco considers this presidential visit a tribute to his support of the Western Allies against communism. It is a far cry from the atmosphere of a few years ago, when the United Nations held the Franco regime to be a menace to peace. Today the United States has some of its best forward bombing bases in Spain.

In fact, Eisenhower landed at one of these bases near Madrid, and Franco in his welcome commented on that.

"This base of Torrejon, built with the formidable assistance of the United States, and sheltering both Spanish and American wings in close companionship, is a symbol of our friendship," Franco said.

A JUST ORDER Franco expressed how Eisenhower's "epoch-making tour" would lead to a just and durable international order.

Eisenhower said his visit fulfills the ambition of almost a lifetime. He recalled that Spanish men and women had carried Spanish culture into America. He recalled that he was born in Texas, where Spanish explorers passed centuries ago.

"I have come here with a message from the American nation and people for the people of Spain, a message of wishes for a brilliant future and a cooperative effort for liberty and peace," Eisenhower said.

"I say to Spain and the Spanish people that we are working together for a world free of war and hunger and for peace, liberty and justice."

Then the two moved toward Franco's car for a short tour of the big air base before a brilliant drive through flag-dotted Madrid, 10 miles to the west.

A cold wind of nearly 30 miles an hour had spectators shivering. On reaching the outskirts of the capital and the start of a six-lane highway, the President passed through the brand new Plaza del Presidente Eisenhower, named in honor of his visit. A monument is to be erected there.

Salvation Army Yule Funds Still $500 Short Of Quota

The position of the Salvation Army, struggling to meet the needs of nearly 300 families on Christmas Day, was slightly improved over the weekend.

But only slightly, according to reports from Capt. James Jay. He said that total gifts, both from checks mailed to the Salvation Army and from the downtown kettles, had reached $1,600. However, this was still $500 away from the bare budgeted minimum, and there are only two full days before the baskets must be made up and delivered.

He appealed for gifts, large or small, to help bridge the serious gap.

So far there are some 280 applications for Christmas baskets on file.

Capt. Jay asked that organizations, Sunday School classes, churches, etc. which are delivering Christmas baskets notify the Salvation Army as to the name of the family helped. In this way, duplications can be avoided, and perhaps aid turned to some family which otherwise would be missed or shorted.

Only funds given specifically for Christmas relief will be available for that purpose, it was explained. All other funds of the Salvation Army are being exhausted to meet the day by day appeals for help.

D-Day Nears For Rockefeller When He Must Make Decision

By RELMAN MORIN NEW YORK (AP)—D-Day is approaching for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, his day of decision on whether to challenge Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the Republican presidential nomination in 1960.

Rockefeller is expected to announce his decision soon after the New Year weekend.

If it is "yes," he may at the same time authorize a group of supporters, waiting in New Hampshire, to enter him in the state primary election March 3.

New Hampshire holds the nation's first primary—and it was on this battleground in 1952 where a political unknown, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower first routed the forces of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft.

Now, New Hampshire may bring the first test of strength between Nixon and Rockefeller.

Many observers, eyeing Rockefeller's recent travels and tactics, believe he already has decided to try for the nomination.

He says he hasn't.

JUST IMPRESSIONS "I'm simply registering impressions," he says. "When I have all the possible facts, I will make up my mind. But not before."

What he has decided, he usually adds, is that in no circumstances will he be the GOP candidate for vice president. In a Miami television interview, the governor said that if he decided to seek the presidency he'd be delighted to have Nixon run for vice president again.

Without question, Rockefeller would like to be president. He has definite views on foreign and domestic problems confronting the United States. He would like to be in the White House, not merely for the honor, but to try to translate these ideas into national policy.

The governor has just returned from 5,636 miles of travel through Indiana, Missouri, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Oklahoma, Texas and Florida. A month ago, he went to California, Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

LOTS OF TALK He talked with thousands of people in public receptions and closed conferences—GOP brass, party workers at all levels, and plain voters, including some who said they are Democrats. In major speeches, he outlined his views on labor-management strife, foreign policy, national defense, Latin-American relations, and how to solve the farm problem.

Politically, he found much the same pattern everywhere—a majority of GOP officers openly favorable to Nixon for the nomination.

They received him with varying degrees of friendliness, from coolness to hearty admiration. Many studied him with a calculating eye.

Rockefeller himself estimated "perhaps 70 per cent" of the GOP captains and lieutenants are for Nixon.

However, ending the last tour in Miami, Fla., he said he was "very pleased" with what he encountered on the two trips. Earlier, he said that in virtually every state he visited, he found Republicans who told him they would support him if he goes for the nomination.

PATTERN REPEATS Another pattern repeated itself, in some degree, in each state, too. Rockefeller was merely a name and a photograph in the newspapers to many Republicans when he came into a state. Party workers told reporters, "We know Nixon. He's often been here and we've broken bread with him. We don't know Rockefeller."

Then they saw the governor in action.

One of his greatest assets—although he doesn't like to be reminded of it—is his high-energy personal charm. He seems to have charmed a great many Republicans who, prior to meeting him, felt firmly anchored to Nixon.

A Rockefeller backer in Oklahoma quoted the state chairman there as saying, after meeting the governor, "I'm still for Nixon, but I'd better stop listening to this guy."

Whether Rockefeller actually won any Republicans away from Nixon is almost impossible to know. But obviously he impressed a great many—and set them talking about a Nixon-Rockefeller alignment as the "dream ticket."

Apparently, they do not believe him when he says, firmly, he will not accept second place on the ticket.

But what many people said to Rockefeller, indirectly, something more than curiosity: "I'm all for you." "Hope you run." "You're our next president." "Get on that ticket somehow, governor, and we're sure winners."

So the question arises, "Is Nixon's support within the party as solid as it looks at this early stage?" The question has to be considered in the light of several considerations:

1. Many Republicans undoubtedly favor Nixon now. But they also want to win in 1960. What will they do if, say, Rockefeller should beat the vice president in a primary election or two?

2. As vice president, Nixon conceivably could be in the White House before President Eisenhower's term ends. Both for personal and party reasons, it might be embarrassing, then, for a GOP leader to have come out for Rockefeller as the better candidate.

3. To win the election, the GOP nominee must pull a large chunk of independent votes plus some from the Democrats. Would Rockefeller attract more of these than Nixon? The governor won't discuss the question. "I deplore any tactics based on 'Nixon-can't-win' talk," he says. He says Nixon has done a "superb" job as vice president.

Rockefeller was smiling and he looked contented when he ended his latest exploration trip. But he was inscrutable as ever about his intentions. Does that mean he will challenge Nixon? "Well," said a Republican leader, "after all this traveling and hard work, it will be mighty strange if he doesn't."

highway was a mass of Spanish and American flags. One overpass had two gigantic portraits of Franco and Eisenhower.

Thick crowds lining the highway burst into cheers. This swelled to a roar as the motorcade drove into the city proper.

In Madrid, a city always ready for gaiety, the fiesta began Sunday night. Young people sang and flourished noise-makers. Streets were full despite a cold rain.

For days the President's auto route into Madrid from the U.S. air base at Torrejon has been undergoing lavish decoration with flags, portraits and triumphal arches.

Among the thousands of banners there were two of Spain's red and yellow flags for every Stars and Stripes.

In portraits, honors were about equally divided between Franco and his guest. But the President probably took an edge with a picture four stories high in the Plaza de Espana, one of the city's main squares.

For Franco, the visit is among the climaxes in an eventful career. Once Europe's youngest general, he became a leading political figure at 43 when plane accidents removed his two superiors in the 1936 uprising against the Spanish republic.

To Franco, the uprising and the Civil War that followed have always been a part of a crusade against communism.

Partisans of Franco have taken the Eisenhower visit as an American endorsement of his government and his stand against communism over the past quarter of a century.

The Eisenhower note to Khrushchev made plain the President wants a wide-open summit meeting where discussions can range far.

Here are the salient points from the weekend session:

1. To quiet West German fears the Big Three gave assurance that the Allies are determined to hold on to their war occupation rights in West Berlin.

2. They agreed to press for the opening of disarmament talks by the 10-nation East-West commission before the proposed summit conference in Moscow.

3. De Gaulle accepted an invitation to visit the United States in April only days in advance of the contemplated Paris summit meeting.

4. Eisenhower suggested the possibility of a series of summit talks with the Soviets.

5. Eisenhower failed to persuade De Gaulle to abandon his opposition to giving the NATO military command control of French forces assigned to the defense of Western Europe.

Hagerty told newsmen, "The President feels it would be very difficult to solve all problems at one summit conference."

cluded a trimming of forces and some curbing of propaganda in Berlin, and treating with East Germans as agents of the Soviet Union on the subject of communication lines.

Hagerty said Eisenhower, however, felt there is ample room for discussing any and all problems involving Berlin.

Hagerty also said the idea for the series of summit meetings does not commit the next American president. The April meeting likely would be the only such meeting in 1960, since the U.S. presidential campaign will get under full steam next summer.

The Western view limiting the conference to the Big Four powers was made in instructions which the ambassadors in Moscow make orally to the Soviet Union.

U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson was told to make it clear to the Soviets that any "servers" at the summit are to be played by East and West Germany in the Geneva foreign ministers conference this year - would be "inappropriate."

He finally made his way to a house early Sunday morning and was brought to the Big Spring Hospital by Donald Allred and C. C. Shortes. His injuries are not serious.

Officers said that the man was not clear as to what actually happened to him. He spoke no English and the interpreter engaged to question him could get little information from the victim.

Forgery Charges Filed On Couple

Charges of forgery have been filed against William Stewart Moon and Mildred Moon, Jess Slaughter, justice of peace, set their bonds at $2,500 each.

The two are accused, according to District Attorney, with having attempted to cash a forged check at Newsom's. They supposedly live in Dallas.

Edward T. Fox, accused of DWI; and Billy M. Troublefield, charged with a like offense, were both released on bonds of $500 Monday.

Thieves Active Police Report

Police officers had four minor automobile thefts to investigate this morning as an aftermath of the weekend.

Eddie Owens, 610 Runnels, reported a hub cap missing from his car.

Wilbur Tucker, Big Spring Motel, said four hub caps were taken from his car.

Kenneth Bentley, 1212 Birdwell Lane, told detectives he is missing two hub caps.

Mrs. A. H. Honey, 1009 Scurry, reported some important papers and a rear view mirror taken from her car.

Eat Out At Christmas And Evade Those Kitchen Chores

Holiday-time is a good time to get out of the kitchen and have a family meal with other people doing all the work.

If you have a large family gathering during the holidays, make arrangements to take them to the 66 Cafe, on West Highway 80.

The cafe has a large dining room which can be reserved for any large group. By making your reservations, you can insure that all the family will enjoy being and eating together.

The 66 Cafe offers all the convenience available in a Big Spring Restaurant.

There is ample parking spaces. All of your guests will be able to park their cars near the cafe, instead of walking several blocks.

The cafe is open 24 hours. No matter what time you plan for everyone to eat, the cafe will be open and prepared. Sixty-Six Cafe is open seven days a week, also.

Most important, the 66 Cafe has a complete menu for you to select your holiday feast. Anything your guests may want is available.

Courteous waitresses and speedy service will help to make your holiday meal a complete success. Also important, your meals will be prepared exactly as you wish. The cooks will work to your specifications and the meal is all the better for this care.

Eating out will solve many holiday problems for you.

The ladies in your family will not be pressed to wash dishes, and thus will have more time for "visiting."

All your guests may order what they wish to eat, rather than select from one item usually prepared in the home.

And, each visitor can order his meal prepared a different way without causing undue fuss, as sometimes happens in home meals.

For a happy holiday dinner, take your guests to the 66 Cafe. It's a good way to dodge the problems of meals for visitors.

Gulf Coast Dock Workers Balloting

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Gulf coast dock workers in Texas and Louisiana started casting secret ballots today on shippers' contract proposals with an eye on a key New Orleans offer already condemned by the top longshoremen's leader.

Capt. William Bradley of New York, president of the International Longshoremen's Assn. (ILA), urged New Orleans locals Sunday to reject the latest offer by the New Orleans Steamship Assn.

Paul Hall of New York, president of the Seamen's International Union and head of the Maritime Trade Unions, who also addressed longshoremen here, said his unions were ready for a sympathy strike should dock workers reject the contract.

Bradley said if New Orleans shipping leaders didn't reach "a suitable agreement with the ILA and its local districts and local unions, the ILA will change its position and sign separate agreements with separate shipping companies."

The New Orleans shipping group offered a 22-cent hourly wage increase over a three-year period, bringing longshoremen's base pay to $2.86 hourly. Fringe benefits would remain the same.

ILA members asked a 22-cent hourly wage increase, plus a 19-cent increase in fringe benefits, effective as of last Oct. 1.

Waterfront workers along the Gulf and Atlantic coasts struck more than two months ago, but went back to work under an 80-day Taft-Hartley "cooling off" period. The 80-day period expires Sunday.

Bradley said the contract New Orleans locals are being offered "would take them back 15 years." He said New Orleans shippers "don't want to give the men any increases in pension money that we got in the North Atlantic." He added that waterfront workers along North Atlantic ports got a total of 41 cents an hour increase over a three-year period.

The National Labor Relations Board, which is conducting the two-day balloting, will announce results Wednesday.

Headon Crash Kills 5 People

DEMING, N.M. (AP) — Five persons—including three servicemen on their way home for Christmas—were killed early Sunday in a headon collision near this southwestern New Mexico town.

Two other servicemen were seriously injured in the accident 17 miles west of Deming on U.S. 70.

Killed were Marine Pvt. Darrel Gene Smith, 18, Okmulgee, Okla.; Seaman Don Myrick, 20, Wichita Falls, Tex.; Seaman Roy Westmoreland, 18, Cushing, Tex.; Wayne Elderg Lewis, 28, Long Beach, Calif., and James Alexander Mendelsohn, 26, Berkeley, Calif.

Injured were Seaman John E. Jackson, 18, Belton, Tex., and Marine PFC Thomas Buffington Jr., 18, Bryan, Tex.

State Police said Smith apparently dozed at the wheel and his auto crossed the center stripe on a curve into the path of the oncoming Lewis vehicle.

Stabbing Victim In Good Condition

LAREDO (AP)—Webb County Treasurer Edward R. Leyendecker was reported in good condition today from a stab wound inflicted by a youth he found lurking outside his home.

Police said they had been unable to talk further with Leyendecker about the stabbing Friday night. Doctors had not allowed him to have visitors.

Police rounded up all known hoodlums in the city in their efforts to find the treasurer's assailant.

Big 4 Leaders All See Big Success

By TOM OCHILTREE
PARIS (AP) — The windup of the Western summit conference today finds each of the four nation's leaders happily convinced that he has scored a personal success.

In their frank exchanges of views President Eisenhower, French President Charles de Gaulle, British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer blunted the sharp edges of disagreement within the Western alliance even if they were not able to resolve all their problems. One result achieved without much trouble was the invitation to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to meet with Eisenhower, De Gaulle and Macmillan in Paris in April. If Khrushchev really desires serious negotiations with the West, it would seem he, too, has reason to be pleased by the weekend talks in Paris, which he must have watched with so much interest.

EACH A WINNER
Ideally, diplomatic negotiations conducted among Allies should make each man feel like a winner. In that sense the Western summit talks were a success even if many tough details were passed on to working groups of experts. Eisenhower was described as highly satisfied with the outcome. He succeeded, for example, in convincing De Gaulle that the United States supports the French President's plan for settling the Algerian problem on the basis of self-determination after peace is restored.

Eisenhower and De Gaulle were unable to resolve their differences over integration of the North Aflantic Alliance's defensive system which France opposes. There was hope in the American camp, however, that this matter ultimately can be adjusted, at least to provide for unifying Western Europe's air defenses.

De Gaulle clearly secured greater consideration for various French views among Western leaders. The Western preference for Paris as the site for the East-West summit next spring also could be regarded as a triumph for the proud French leader.

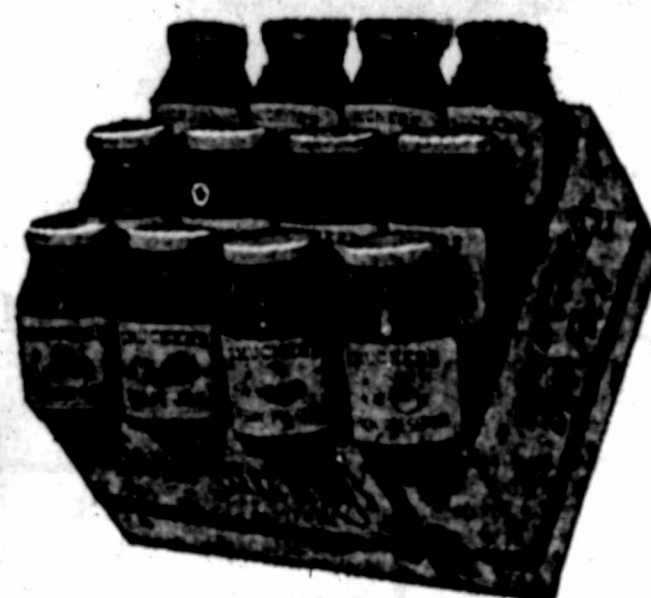

Macmillan secured agreement from his allies for one of his long-range goals—the move toward a series of summit conferences. Only a few months ago Macmillan alone favored this idea of a chain of summit meetings with each one attempting only limited objectives.

ADENAUER HAPPIEST
Adenauer was believed to be the happiest of the four. His allies assured him that they would not begin negotiating with Khrushchev on Berlin at the point where the Geneva foreign ministers' conference left off last summer. Now, Adenauer believes, the Americans, British and French will have more time to pay out slowly when they talk with the Soviets about the German and Berlin problems.

The Western foreign ministers proposed some modifications regarding West Berlin at the Geneva conference. But they are not going to start the East-West summit on that same ground. To do so might give Khrushchev too much of an opportunity to try to pry basic concessions out of the West, concessions dangerous not only to the future of West Berlin but to West Germany as well.

Shah Of Iran Weds In Search Of Heir

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi took a pretty young student as his third wife today in hopes she will bear him a son who can help secure his throne.

Farah Diba, a 21-year-old commoner plucked from relative obscurity as an architecture student in Paris, became the queen of this ancient nation in a simple Moslem ceremony.

The handsome, 40-year-old Shah divorced his first two wives because they failed to bear him an heir to the throne. His first wife, an Egyptian princess, bore him a daughter, Princess Shanzah.

He divorced Queen Soraya 20 months ago after a childless but obviously happy marriage. The red-haired Iranian beauty now lives in Europe.

Denial

Princess Soraya, ex-wife of the Shah of Iran, arrives by car at the Rome residence of Prince Raimondo Orsini for a pre-Christmas party. Earlier she issued a statement denying rumors of their engagement and denying that she was planning to convert to Catholicism.

Speaking to newsmen Sunday, the Shah explained that aside from human reasons, he is marrying Farah for reasons "of a monarchial order." Iran's constitution requires that the successor to the throne be a male, and the Shah has no son.

The throne itself is ancient and rich in history—but the Shah's family is not. His father, Reza Khan, was a rough army officer who seized power in 1921 and had himself crowned Shah-in-Shah (King of Kings) four years later.

A shah without an heir is obviously not as secure as a monarch whose line of succession is clearly fixed. The Shah himself has openly acknowledged the possibility of assassination. The absence of an heir in such a situation would be an invitation to political chaos.

The marriage rites were surrounded by the ornate splendor of ancient Persia.

The scene of the ceremony was the Shah's office, known as the Mosaic Room.

Part of the ceremony included financial conditions—payment the bride may expect if ever divorced, as well as the groom's dowry to the bride.

Both are symbolic. The dowry is an elaborately bound copy of the koran and one gold coin. The separation settlement would be half a million rials. (The rial is worth little more than one American penny.)

The wedding schedule included, after the ceremony, a state banquet for 150 guests and two hours later a wedding ball for some 2,000 in the palace's glittering Hall of Mirrors, where the Shah entertained President Eisenhower last week.

The couple will start their honeymoon in a few days on the Caspian Sea. They plan a trip early next year to Pakistan and later to Europe.

Lady JP Consults Judge On Her Illegal Ceremonies

NORTH WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP)—Elsie Foster takes her marriage problems to a judge today.

Actually, Miss Foster doesn't have personal problems. These belong to some dozen or so couples she's married since July 1. Main thing is that Miss Foster, a justice of the peace for 15 years, just legally qualified right now to perform marriages—and hasn't been since July 1.

She figures she's performed maybe a dozen marriages since her commission expired.

'On The Beach' Not Deep Enough Say Soviet Critics

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet critic said today the new American film "On the Beach" has a stupefying impact, but doesn't go deep enough.

The movie, which depicts the extinction of the human race after a nuclear war, had its premiere in Moscow Thursday night—and in many world capitals.

"This picture by its theme comes out against the possible tragedy of a nuclear war," wrote Sergei Gerasimov in the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia. "However the film makers prominently featured only the tragedy of war without analyzing its causes. The fatal acceptance of the inevitability of the end of mankind is stupefying."

Gerasimov praised the acting of the stars, Ava Gardner and Gregory Peck. Peck was present at the Moscow showing.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, pronounced the movie a great success.

"The film relates a story which never occurred and must never occur," Tass said. "This is a film about the horrors and suffering which an atomic war might bring in its wake."

The crux of the matter: Miss Foster was reappointed a magistrate by the 1959 General Assembly. She had until July 1 to take the oath before her old term ran out. She didn't. But she stayed right on in the marriage business.

Now, legal experts say the couples she's married since July 1 aren't legally married. They may have to get married over again.

"It really is embarrassing," said Miss Foster Sunday. "I thought I had until next April to take the oath. How could I have slipped up on such a thing?"

Miss Foster, pretty and plump.

Christmas Tree Glitters But 2 Kids Won't See It

OSPREY, Fla. (AP)—A Christmas tree glitters today in an isolated home, but two youngsters will never open the four gaily-wrapped packages beneath the boughs.

An unknown assailant murdered Clifford Walker, his wife, and their two small children Saturday at their rural home.

The bodies of the parents and a 3-year-old son lay on the floor not far from the Christmas tree until discovered Sunday.

Officers theorize the killer was a friend of the family who tried unsuccessfully to rape the mother. They believe the murders occurred when the father and children arrived home from a friend's house.

The victims were Clifford and Christine Walker, both 23, their son, Jimmy, and a 2-year-old daughter, Debbie.

The parents and son had been shot in the head. No murder weapon was found, but three .22-caliber cartridges lay near the bodies.

The girl's body was found face down in a half-filled bathtub, and Sheriff Ross Boyer said the killer apparently held the child under the water until she drowned. The girl also had been shot, officials reported.

Although three persons were taken to Sarasota, 10 miles north of Osprey, for questioning, Boyer said he had no real suspects.

A Devotional For Today

"Today you have a saviour born in the town of David, the Lord messiah. And here is a proof for you: you will find a baby wrapped up and lying in a stall for cattle." (Luke 2:11, 12. Moffatt.)

PRAYER: Our Father, we thank Thee for Jesus, that most beautiful Christmas gift the world has ever had. Help us to let His spirit come into our lives. May we ever abide with Him and He with us. In the name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

Reprieve Calls For Alertness

The United States Department of Agriculture has announced that it will make no changes in its program as pertains to planting procedures. This means that the department has backed off from a previously announced rule which would have killed skip row planting, for all practical purposes.

The future that this created was something beyond the expectation of departmental policy-makers, especially since the rule change apparently was the product of clerical edict rather than of sober debate.

Imposition of this rule would have cost West Texas scores of millions of dollars, and it would have contributed nothing to the conservation of our soil resources. Hence it is gratifying to hear that the department is contemplating no changes for this year.

But it is the phrase, "this year" which should stimulate us to alertness against an identical or some similarly ill-advised ruling in some subsequent year. With production exceeding demands, there will be ample temptation to amputate any practice, however essential, which apparently contributes to production.

Had it not been for the alertness of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce in scanning the federal register, we fear that our area would have been caught critically short. Other organizations and individuals rallied nobly and instantly to the fight, but it was the voice on the wall that sounded the alarm, and we should be grateful for it.

Pat On The Head For A Good Job

We are nearing the end of a good Yuletide, and a word of thanks is due to those who have made it a success.

The merchants who so liberally contributed to the Christmas activities fund, doubling the budget so that the streets might be festooned, are due a special word of appreciation. Although we went through some tribulations in getting the overhead decorations in place and then illuminated, it must be admitted that they add much to the gaiety and attractiveness of the business areas.

Then there have been the special activities such as the visit of Santa Claus, coupled with the berceuse task of transporting a few thousand youngsters from their schools to the courthouse lawn where the old Gentleman had a word and gift for these expectant believers.

And then there was the church parade with its congregations each preparing a float that carried out some Scriptural theme. Despite slightly adverse weather, these floats were impressive and re-focused attention on the meaning of Christmas. It's not everywhere that you will find a group of merchants working through their Chamber of Commerce to invest effort and money in organizing and supporting such a Christmas undertaking without all commercialization excluded.

These things, like other worthwhile and successful events, don't just happen. They are the products of vision, generosity and effort, and for these qualities we pay tribute to our merchants.

David Lawrence Freedom Makes For Public Interest

WASHINGTON — Television and the press have been performing an extraordinary service in bringing so quickly to American people the pictures of President Eisenhower's trip abroad. No other generation of Americans has been able to get so promptly a visual presentation of events of such international importance. This is due largely, of course, to invention—the electronic tape that records voices and pictures, the cable lines that now transmit photographs almost instantaneously, and the airplane that brings films back to America in a few hours.

But there is something else involved—the alertness of private enterprise. The competition in the press and among broadcasting companies — television as well as radio-inspired the news managers who did the planning weeks ahead of time.

Yet today there is talk of government control of the mediums of expression. There are champions of government ownership of a radio network and advocates of government dictation on how programs on public affairs, educational subjects and everything else, including the most highly controversial questions, shall be handled by TV and radio.

radio stations. Instead of construing the language of the federal law as meaning control over mechanical conflicts in the air, the executive agencies concerned were told to regulate radio licenses on a broader basis. The clause in the law covering "public interest, convenience and necessity" was interpreted to mean that the federal government has the power to go into program quality, qualifications of owners and sundry other questions that are never raised when government contracts are let in other fields.

The recent agitation over quiz shows and scandals now seems to have opened the way for the government-ownership school to call for the exercise of more federal authority. There are suggestions, for instance, that the government should go into the field of education by setting up broadcasting stations with government money. Some of the pressure groups which have been trying to get more and more federal funds for schools claim to be opposed to federal control of the educational systems of the country but nevertheless are lined up in favor of the extension of federal governmental authority to carry on various educational programs over TV and radio.

THE CONCEPT IS ADVANCED that the government owns the air waves and hence should control what goes out over them. It's the same old argument that, because the government owns the waters and its dams, it must own electric-power plants, or that, because the government can commandeer the natural resources of the nation, it should go into the oil business or the coal business just as the Communist governments do.

But does the government of the United States own all the air, or is this something reserved to the people? Originally, when radio came into being, it was discovered that there would be a collision of broadcasts on the air waves unless the available channels were allotted. The government's role was that of a traffic cop. It set out to regulate the transmission of broadcasts through the issuance of licenses and the allocation of channels. But nobody thought at the time that this covered the prerogatives of ownership. Certainly the traffic departments of the states and cities do not have to own all the autos and trucks whose movements they regulate in order to avoid collisions and other accidents.

UNFORTUNATELY, THE Supreme Court of the United States swallowed the so-called liberal doctrine—which in reality, if followed to its logical conclusion, often becomes totalitarian—and began issuing rulings that indicated wider and wider governmental powers over

THAT SHOULD HELP

J. A. Livingston Ike Has Changed In Latter Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — What's changed President Eisenhower? There's been a big change this past year in the tactics and attitude of this 68-year-old man who has just 13 months left in the presidency.

Some examples: His dealings with Congress; his greater role in foreign affairs; his new attitude toward personal diplomacy.

For most of his White House years he was mild with Congress. This year he used a bullwhip.

As late as last August he took a dim view of personal diplomacy by heads of state at summit meetings. Look what's happened since then.

He's met with Premier Nikita Khrushchev; will meet him at the summit in April; will go to Moscow next summer; has just finished a presummit meeting in Paris; has journeyed to three continents; and now wants more summit meetings.

Why the change? It could be this simple: With his presidency drawing to a close he wants to extend himself to the utmost on both domestic and foreign fronts. His big push at home has been on less spending; abroad, it's peace.

Although the Democrats overwhelmingly control Congress, Eisenhower kept them meek by continually beating them over the head with the big-spending charge. They trotted along, as he directed.

Eisenhower could crown his double service as soldier and President if, before leaving office, he managed to help bring the world into a new era of peace. This effort alone would be a plausible explanation for his activity in 1958.

But perhaps other forces were at work on him—forces which he himself may not have consciously realized—to give him a greater sense of freedom and mission and a greater sense of self-dependency.

Through most of his presidency he relied tremendously on two men—Sherman Adams, chief of his White House staff, and the late secretary of state, John Foster Dulles.

Adams, who quit 13 months ago, was Eisenhower's buffer in dealing with Congress. He was truly an assistant president, without the title. Dulles so completely dominated foreign affairs he overshadowed Eisenhower himself in this field.

Dulles never seemed to feel anything was done right unless he handled it personally. The proof is the record number of his journeys. This left Eisenhower at home, in the "background," while Dulles did most of the work.

With Adams gone, Eisenhower became increasingly aggressive with Congress, although he avoided both belligerency and unpleasant personal dealings.

But the shadow of Dulles, who died in May, still hangs over Eisenhower as late as August when he told friends he did not like the modern development of diplomacy—summit conferences.

He said he considered it a step backward for heads of state to spend their time on work that belongs to specialists, like foreign ministers.

He said he preferred the 19th century way of doing things when foreign ministers made the journeys, held the conferences, and heads of state mostly stayed at home.

But that was before Khrushchev came here. Eisenhower suddenly seemed to realize that he now not only had an opportunity — this as it may seem — to achieve some peace but that he alone could seize it and work on it.

The great evidence of the change in his thinking came Sunday in Paris when his press secretary, James Hagerty, told newsmen the President favors not one but several summit conferences with the Soviet Union.

Hal Boyle Don't Nap At The Wheel

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail: Santa Claus won't fall asleep in his sled on Christmas Eve, and if you're smart you won't nap at the wheel of your car if you have to make a long holiday trip. Drowsing drivers cause 70,000 accidents yearly.

Incidentally, did you know motor vehicles have caused 1,265,000 deaths in this country in this century? That is double the 605,000 killed in all America's wars from the Revolution through the battles in Korea.

If cleanliness is really next to godliness, we're surely getting closer to heaven. A survey showed Americans now take 500 million baths a week.

Do TV fans expect too much? Carol Lawrence, co-star of the Broadway musical, "Saratoga," has this to say: "The American public is so used to talent and with spectacle on television that unless you unscrew your head and throw it at them at the end of your performance they're not happy."

Man bowed to evolution, but the turtle is one animal that pretty much refused to. It hasn't changed greatly in some 200 million years. This sign was observed in a Greenwich Village Beatnik bar: "Reservations taken here for last weekends."

Fewer than five per cent of the people in civilized lands are left-handed. So, where do all the left-handed compliments come from?

Our quotable notables: "There is no dignity so impressive and independence so important as living within your means," said Calvin Coolidge.

Our favorite gag of the week: "Christmas is the time of year when families trim trees and fathers."

Nature study note: "A grown lady codfish produces as many as nine million eggs in a single season."

Greeks in this country are noted as restaurant operators. But did you know that about one half of the world's cargo vessels are controlled by Greek owners?

A hit song today is worth $20,000 up, but the odds against your being able to turn one out are at least 10,000 to 1. Yet Sammy Cahn wrote the lyrics to "Bei Mir Bist Du Schoen," one of the big all-time hit tunes, in exactly 10 minutes.

"In all fairness you must admit we both had the same opportunity when we started working here for my father..."

Around The Rim A Merry Christmas To All!

We're all prone to become too materialistic about the approaching holiday and forget about the real significance of Christmas—the holiest of holidays.

Candles, poinsettia plants and mistletoe are recognized almost everywhere as symbols of Yuletide but how many know why?

The candle was used by Durandus to symbolize Christ's nature, the wax representing His body, the wick His soul, the flame His divine nature.

The prickly points and red berries found on holly reminded early-day Christians of the crown of thorns.

Wreaths were identified as symbols of victory—the fulfillment of the promise of the Redeemer.

POINSETTIA, WHICH were first found growing in Central America, became popular because they reminded Christians of the star of Bethlehem.

In the long ago, pagans made use of mistletoe as a healer. Christians saw in it the symbol of Christ the all-healer.

Christmas itself was derived from the medieval Christmas Masse, the Mass of Christ; the feast commemorating the birth of Jesus.

The Christmas tree, thought by some to have originated in Germany, has been traced back to the Romans, though the people in Great Britain imported the idea from Germany.

In many parts of the world, children hang up their stockings and expect to be rewarded for good behavior over the preceding 12 months. A stocking full of ashes is the reward for bad behavior in some areas.

Santa Claus is best known in this country, Great Britain, Germany and countries where the Protestant faith is strong. In France, the children's etrennes, or gifts, are distributed on New Year's Eve.

THE CUSTOM OF exchanging Christmas cards has only been in existence since 1860. At Christmas time, people are inclined to take comfort in the magnitude of their popularity by counting the number of cards they receive, rather than drinking of the genuine affection which might be printed on the cards themselves.

Still, it must be regarded as a worthwhile custom if only because it is the one time of year when some friends strive to communicate with others.

Happy Noel, all! —TOMMY HART

Mr. Brauner Gets His Answer

Julius F. Brauner, Secretary and General Attorney, Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., New York, N.Y.

Dear Mr. Brauner:

Has everyone at the Columbia Broadcasting System, Inc., gone nuts, or something? I realize that the rigging and payola scandals in broadcasting must afflict the networks with the fandoles, but is that sufficient excuse for running a squirrel cage?

I hate to get my dander up so near the Christmas season. But your letter asking — nay, demanding — that I list any and all payola received by me for any and every appearance on CBS since Nov. 1, 1958, is not calculated to improve my disposition or my blood pressure.

and, a thorough and none-too-patient search of my records reveals that I have appeared twice on CBS during the period in which you are snooping: once on "Person to Person" and once on Sam Levinson's daytime program.

In the case of "Person to Person," the payola consisted of a cup of tea with Edward R. Murrow under whose imposing aegis the show appeared, and a dozen red roses — medium-length stems — on the day of the broadcast, again from Mr. Murrow.

TEN DAYS LATER, AT Christmas-time, I also received from Mr. Murrow a china ash tray with "Person to Person" inscribed across its face. I figure this ash tray, in wholesale lots, probably set Mr. Murrow back as much as 39 cents each. Later, a kinescope of the show was sent me.

So much for the Murrow payola. The roses have long since joined the roses of yesteryear. But I shall be glad to return the ash tray to you, as I do not smoke and the rest of my china is Meissen. And I'd love to get the kinescope out of the attic.

As for the Sam Levinson show, my records prove that I received the munificent sum of $94.00, which means CBS paid me the minimum legal fee, minus the taxes CBS so thoughtfully predigested for me.

In return for this appearance, no one else gave me so much as the time of day. Indeed, the efficiency expert in your domain lost all the cards I was forced to make out before appearing on the show. Ten days later CBS called and asked me to make out a second set before sending me that staggering check.

Dear Mr. Brauner, go climb an antenna and take CBS with you! Sincerely, Inez Robb.

FIRST, DR. FRANK STANTON, prey of CBS, cast aspersions on my integrity by claiming that the program "Person to Person," on which I appeared a year ago, endeavored to create an illusion that it was spontaneous and completely unrehearsed. Goodness knows, if Dr. Stanton had watched the show on which I appeared, he would be the first to admit that it left my amateur standing unimpaired.

And now you send me a missive asking me to list the payola! Your letter is addressed to: "All Persons Who Are Now, or Have Been Since November 1, 1958, Officers or Employees of CBS, Inc.; CBS Radio; CBS Television Stations; CBS Television Network; Housewives' Protective League Program Service, Inc.; CBS Films, Inc."

Well, dear Mr. Brauner, at no time in my life have I ever been an officer or an employee of any of the corporate entities mentioned above.

IN THE FIRST PLACE, this is an assignee questionnaire. Who's going to blow the whistle on himself? And, in the sec-

Marquis Childs Urgent Challenge To Cover Cracks

PARIS—It seems only yesterday that President Eisenhower on a brilliant morning in late summer rode in triumph into Paris with all the panoply of a state visit. At the conclusion of the visit which included a few hours of seclusion with President Charles De Gaulle at the presidential retreat, Rambouillet, near Paris it was announced that the two were in agreement on all the major issues they had discussed.

But today as the North Atlantic Council holds its annual winter meeting all the old differences are sharply accentuated. It is as though the De Gaulle-Eisenhower get-together had never taken place.

DE GAULLE, ACCORDING TO those close to him, is said to feel that the supposed agreement reached last September to set up a system of consultation with France on all important matters affecting the alliance has not been lived up to. This is the so-called "white telephone" understanding under which De Gaulle would be treated as an equal with Great Britain and the United States in all matters involving strategy and the over-all direction of NATO. Through a consultative council in Washington the three powers were to be linked almost as closely as are members of a government who communicate by direct line linked to white telephones on Cabinet desks.

On top of his renewed skepticism and suspicion that France was again being slighted, De Gaulle was informed while on his recent trip to Africa of General Nathan Twining's criticism of French military failures. What particularly affronted the sensitive general who considers himself the incarnation of France was the apparent deliberate "leak" of the Twining critique in a secret session of the NATO Military Council. Americans deny that the report was leaked by American sources or that it was sanctioned by the American delegation.

alliance can yield none of her sovereignty. De Gaulle has forced the removal of American bombers from French soil and has taken the French Mediterranean fleet out from under NATO control.

CHANCELLOR KONRAD Adenauer of Germany, who arrives here on Friday, still is lined up with De Gaulle, despite rumors to the contrary that he would like to side with the Americans. German correspondents here for the NATO meeting are being fed the hardest of hard lines. They are being told by the German delegation that the relatively minor concessions which Secretary of State Christian Herter declared following the Geneva foreign ministers' conference would be made by the West in order to achieve a settlement on Berlin must now be repudiated. To make such concessions—reducing slightly the size of the Allied garrisons in West Berlin and quieting the flow of hostile propaganda in the two Berlins—would lead to further and fatal concessions that would mean the loss of the city to the Communists.

How these profound differences can be reconciled it is now impossible to see. As so often in the past, it would seem that they can at best be smoothed over.

YET, PRESIDENT EISENHOWER, perhaps working in concert with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, must bring at least two things out of the Western heads-of-government session which comes on the weekend. The first—agreement on the date for a summit meeting with Russia—should not be too difficult. Despite De Gaulle's insistence that he must pay a visit to Washington before a summit and the trouble in fixing a date for that occasion, the likelihood is that the summit will come toward the end of April.

But if the summit is to mean anything it must consider primarily an interim settlement for Berlin. Herter has repeated this since arriving here and this was the final outcome of the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks at Camp David.

BUT ADENAUER IS STILL determined, apparently with De Gaulle's support, that if Berlin is to be considered at all it shall be only in the context of German reunification. The Russians would obviously never play the game on such terms. Agreement among the Western Powers on this second essential for a summit in the spring promises to be hard to come by.

This is the tough negotiation which Eisenhower must direct as he returns to Paris. No amount of goodwill, noble intentions and fine sentiments about unity can disguise this necessity. To do less—to cover up the cracks as in the past with a varnish of harmonious words—will be to condemn the alliance to chronic instability and weakness and perhaps in the not-too-distant future to dissolution.

THIS DAY IN TEXAS

By CURTIS BISHOP

The Texas Congress on this day in 1836 took steps to correct a serious omission in an act approved the previous day creating a Post Office Department of the Republic of Texas.

In their bill creating the department the solons had completely neglected to provide funds for its operation. So, to remedy the error, they provided that mail carriers could take their fees in land at 50 cents an acre, in tracts of not less than 320 acres. The law further set a maximum fee of $10 per year per mile for transporting mail on any one route. Although this act eased the financial problems of the post office to some extent, appropriations to supplement postal receipts still had to be made.

To send a letter 20 miles, Texans had to pay six and a quarter cents; 200 miles cost a quarter, with an additional fee for foreign mail. These rates applied to a single sheet, folded over with the address on the front — envelopes did not appear until about 1845.

First Texan postmaster general and organizer of the Texas postal system was John Rice Jones. In spite of his efforts mail service in the Republic was poor; Indians, highwaymen, finances and the poor condition of the few existing roads posed almost insurmountable problems.

Curfew Stands

STERLING, Colo. (AP)—Sterling has a law which can't be enforced—a curfew ordinance.

Back in 1896, it was unlawful here for children under 15 to be seen on the street after 7:30 p.m. from Aug. 1 to May 1. During the summer months, the time was extended until 8:30 p.m.

The law's still on the books, but nobody pays any attention to it.

One councilman sums it up this way: "If the parents don't want to keep their youngsters here at night, the city would be foolish to try it."

"Congress shall make no law . . . abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press," says the first amendment to the Constitution. Today, as in Colonial times, freedom of the press remains inherent to our democratic way of life. It means we, as citizens of these fifty United States, are entitled to objective, informative news about the world we live in. Without information and without communication through our newspapers, our knowledge and our very existence would be threatened. In order to form intelligent opinions, in order to make our democracy work, we must not overlook this fundamental freedom. We must take it upon ourselves as our civic duty to remain well informed about world events, about our government, about public matters. As the world becomes smaller and the times more complex, we must know. And, we can only intelligently inform ourselves, we can only know, when we read our newspapers. So remember, every day during the year, "you hold your most important freedom in your hands when you read your favorite newspaper."

DEAR ABBY
HOW ABOUT HELP?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Do you think a wife should have something to say about what kind of woman her husband spends between 8 and 10 hours a day with? I refer to his bookkeeper, secretary or cashier. I won't identify myself because I am well-known in town. My husband has a habit of getting much too chummy with the women who work for him. After the last mess (and believe me, it WAS a mess!) I made up my mind that I was going to interview all applicants for jobs calling for a woman. The one I hired lasted exactly four days. Now he's looking again. He refuses to let me interview them. I'd like your opinion on this.

ENOUGH SAID
 DEAR ENOUGH: I think you are interviewing the wrong people. It is your HUSBAND who needs to be questioned.

DEAR ABBY: If you answer this by telling me it is none of my business you will probably be right.

A rather poor family who lives on our block has five children of school age. Nobody seems to care if they go to school or not. Almost every day two or three of them are seen walking up and down the street having the best time. The older girls stay out of school a week at a time and I know there is nothing wrong with them.

If you were in my place would you notify the school authorities?

BAFFLED
 DEAR BAFFLED: If you are interested in doing a public service, call on the mother of these children and find out whether she is ill, incompetent or absent from the home. Perhaps this family needs some friendly assistance.

DEAR ABBY: I've been a rural mail carrier for the past eleven years. In that time I've driven approximately 180,000 miles, worn out 9 automobiles and served approximately 1,200,000 boxes.

You were correct. The Federal Postal Regulations manual states that rural mailboxes should be "about 3 1/2 to 4 feet from the ground." Although those specifications were made in the Model-T days, they are still in the manual. The manual also states that "the rural box should be convenient for the carrier to serve without leaving his conveyance." You failed to mention that. If you print this, Abby, I know several thousand rural mail carriers will appreciate it.

P. R. H. (Orwigsburg, Pa.)
 DEAR P. R. H.: One million, two hundred thousand apologies. My local postmaster informed me (right out of his 1959 manual) that rural boxes should be "about 3 1/2 to 4 feet high." Of course everyone on the route should have his box at the most convenient height for his mailman. I wouldn't have intentionally offended the mailmen for anything in the world. They're my best friends.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "IN LOVE AND MILES APART"; "Absence is to love what wind is to a fire; it puts out the little, it kindles the great." (de Bussy-Rabutin.)

What's your problem? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, care of the Herald. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Korean War Bride, Alone And Starving, Finds Friends

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Hope mingled with tears of appreciation today in the eyes of Marie Mackey because a policeman was touched by her plight.

Policeman R. I. Haddix went to the Korean war bride's apartment Sunday after alarmed neighbors reported the incessant crying of children.

"It was terrible," said Haddix. He found the tiny mother cuddling two whimpering little girls, Beverly, 2 1/2, and Judy, 1 1/2. The babies wore only underwear. Marie's husband had been gone four days.

"They hadn't eaten for two days," said Haddix. "She was just resigned to die with her girls."

So Haddix went to a grocer. He had $3.82. The grocer matched it. A customer pitched in. And Haddix left with $10 worth of food.

Police radios buzzed. A captain told his men to give money for his usual present to Marie Mackey and her girls. A cop brought a Christmas tree. Patrolmen took up money in local barrooms. Radio stations took up the cry. And Marie Mackey watched the parade of gifts come into the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Somers who gave her refuge. Then Sunday night carolers from the First Congregational Church sang of Christmas.

Fire Burns Gym At Texas School

GLEN ROSE, Tex. (AP)—Fire early today burned out the gymnasium and an elementary classroom at the school.

Supt. J. M. McCroskey said the class that usually used the room would meet instead at the Glen Rose Church of Christ building, which the school system recently purchased.

There was no estimate of the damage. The origin of the blaze was not known.

Angels' Voices In Gloria Chorus Inspire Men To Sing Of Holy Birth

EDITORS NOTE: The Gloria chorus sung by the angels the first Christmas has inspired men of many nations to herald the birth of Christ in song. Handel was bankrupt and ill when he heard the angelic chorus, and was moved that he wrote his great "Messiah." Charles Wesley, hearing the chorus in a singing church bell, wrote "Hark the Herald Angels Sing." This is the first of three articles on the origins of our Christmas carols.

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

"And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of heavenly hosts, praising God and saying: Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good will to men."

On the plains above Bethlehem the shepherds listened in wonder and delight to the singing of the world's first Christmas carol.

The great Gloria chorus, proclaiming the birth of the Savior, rang out over the frost-jeweled valleys and caught a never ending echo in the ancient Judean hills.

The hills echoed it to the mountains, and the mountains sang it to the stars. Out across the chasm of centuries it carried, a strain of unsurpassed beauty that time could not still. It whispered urgently in the ears of composers. It burst forth from the hearts of poets. Men of all ages and climes heard it in infinite variations.

HANDEL'S 'MESSIAH'

George Frederick Handel, a poor barber's son who wanted all his life to write great music, heard it in the loneliness of his London flat in the year 1741. "I did think I did see all Heaven before me, and the Great God Himself," he described his moment of sublime inspiration. Bankrupt, broken in health and spirit, he locked himself indoors with his dream for 22 days, seldom eating or sleeping, and emerged with his greatest oratorio, "The Messiah," clutched in his paralyzed left hand.

WESLEY'S INSPIRATION

Charles Wesley, the poet laureate of Methodism, heard it on his way to church on Christmas morn-

one Christmas Eve in the Austrian Tyrol while returning from a sick call. He was a newly ordained priest assigned to St. Nicholas Church, Oberndorf, a parish so poor that the church mice could find nothing better to eat than the bellows of the organ. Their choice of fare saddened the young priest, because it meant there would be no Christmas music.

Pausing to rest on his way down a mountain, Father Mohr was struck by the beauty of the snow covered peaks, soft blue in the star light but glowing here and there with the torches carried by his parishioners on the way to Midnight Mass.

"Silent night, holy night
All is dark, save the light..."

The words rushed to his mind. Hurrying to the home of his friend Franz Gruber, the local schoolmaster and church organist, the priest begged a melody to fit his simple words. In less than an hour, Gruber scored the exquisite poem for guitar and two voices.

"We will die, you and I," Gruber told his wife, "but this song will never die." That Christmas morning in 1818, with Father Mohr playing the Italian guitar and singing tenor to Franz Gruber's rich bass, "Silent Night" first burst forth upon the world.

VOICES OF ANGELS

From the dawn of Christianity, men have borrowed tongues of angels to serenade the new born Savior.

Pope Telesphorus in 129 A. D. exhorted his flock to sing together the "Gloria in Excelsis Deo," the Latin translation of the angel song recorded in Luke's Gospel. St. Jerome mentions the use of carols in the Fifth Century.

"Adeste Fidelis," possibly one of the oldest hymns and next to "Silent Night" the most universal, is believed to have been the chant that medieval monks intoned while moving through the darkness of their cloisters to sing the office on Christmas morning. Other authorities, however, attribute it to John Francis Wade, a music copyist who in 1740 lived at Douay, France, with a group of exiled English Catholics.

Still others credit it to St. Bonaventura, an associate of St. Francis of Assisi, the humble friar who introduced the custom of the Christmas crib at Greccio, Italy, in 1223, using live animals for his stable figures. Because the crowds who came to see this striking Nativity scene were asked to join in singing, Francis is often called the father of the modern Christmas carol.

Sailors about the time of Columbus' first voyage to the New World began the morning watch on Christmas Day by singing "I Saw Three Ships Assailing," an unusual carol that pictured Christ and Mary arriving by sea at landlocked Bethlehem.

"Good King Wenceslaus," a carol of Swedish or German origin, chronicles the devout doings of a 10th Century Duke of Bohemia who was known for his generosity on St. Stephen's Day, the day after Christmas.

"God Rest Ye Merry, Gentlemen," traditionally the first carol heard in London on Christmas mornings, is believed to be of Welsh origin. Mozart borrowed the melody for a duet for violin and piano. Charles Dickens' Ebenhave been penned by such diverse authors as Sir Walter Raleigh, Mary Queen of Scots, Francis Scott Key, Johannes Brahms (whose immortal "Lullaby" was written as a Christmas hymn), St. Francis Xavier, Martin Luther, Oliver Wendell Holmes, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Pope Pius IX and Harpo Marx.

The last mentioned, although a comedian by trade, composed the beautiful music for "Guardian Angels," a carol popularized by the late Mario Lanza and now sung in many churches.

TOMORROW: "Joy To The World."

ezzer Scrooge had a different reaction. When the carolers bent down at his keyhole to regale him with this cherished favorite, he grabbed his ruler and drove them off.

Down through the ages men of all walks of life have added their voices to the angel chorus. Carols

It's Been 10 Years Since Chiang Went To Formosa

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — It's been just 10 years—years of peril and progress—since the government of Nationalist China fled from the mainland to Formosa. The red shadow of Communism, constant and menacing, still looms across the 110 miles from the China coast to the island. It hangs even more heavily over the Quemoy and Matsu islands, crouched close to the shore 150 miles apart. At the moment, things are quiet, and have been comparatively so through the year. There is little evidence of reinforcement among the Red forces across the Formosa Strait. For as long as a week at a time, the Communists skip their schedule of shelling the offshore islands on odd-numbered days.

MAO TORPEDO

Communist leader Mao Tze Tung could spark another incident in an attempt to torpedo further peace talks between President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. Whether real trouble comes or not, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and his 11 million people on Formosa are in far better shape to meet it than they were a decade ago.

From a near impotent, near bankrupt state in December, 1949, Nationalist China has developed into a major military power in the Far East with 600,000 under arms. At the same time, it has managed to stage a social and economic spurt.

United States military and economic aid has been a vital factor in the change. For an investment of something like a billion dollars in the economic field and a billion and a half in the military over the past 10 years, America has obtained a greatly strengthened ally alongside the bamboo curtain.

Vice Adm. Frederick N. Kivette, whose U.S. Seventh Fleet keeps watch over this part of the world, sized up the military situation recently for newsmen aboard the carrier Hancock.

NO EXPANSION

During the last year, the admiral said, there has been no significant expansion of Communist military forces opposite Formosa, either on the ground or in the air. Rather, he said, there has been a leveling off in the Red build-up which poured thousands of jet planes and hundreds of thousands of troops into the coastal zone.

But Kivette said the lull may be only temporary. He regards Communist China as a continuous military threat to all of Free Asia. There is no indication the Reds have abandoned their idea of conquering the offshore islands and then Formosa itself, he said.

Quemoy and the Matsus, focal point of crisis in 1958, showed the ability to stand up under Communist threats and massive bombardments. They have been strengthened since.

"I think," Kivette said, "Quemoy would be an awfully tough nut to crack."

Mayor Plays Yule Music On Program

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mayor Norris Poulson played Christmas carols instead of discussing civic problems on his weekly radio program Sunday night.

"During the Christmas season the people won't be too interested in my headaches," he said.

The 15-minute program (over station KFI) was interrupted by only one "commercial"—the mayor's plea for safe driving over the holidays.

ing, 1739. The joyful clanging of the bells seemed to him like silver tongues of angels singing a welcome to the Christ child. His "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," written almost on the spot, remains to this day one of the most popular of all Christmas hymns. BIRTH OF 'SILENT NIGHT'

No White Christmas

By The Associated Press

Light snow sifted down in far West Texas Monday, but long-range weather forecasts indicated no white Christmas for any part of the state.

The light snowflakes fell on El Paso, which at 4 a.m. Monday reported the state's maximum temperature—47 degrees. Dalhart, where skies were clear, had the lowest temperature at the time, 30 degrees.

Threatening clouds lowered over Wink and Marfa and Beaufort, on the Gulf Coast, also reported cloudiness. The rest of the state was clear.

Forecasts called for increasing cloudiness Monday over the state with scattered rain Monday night in the south portion of West Texas and over the region by Tuesday. No important temperature changes were expected.

A long-range, five-day forecast issued by the Weather Bureau Monday morning indicated no snow, but possibly heavy rain, for Christmas. Heavy rain was expected over the state Wednesday and across East Texas as late as Thursday.

Temperatures for the five-day period ending Saturday were expected to be near normal except slightly below normal part of the period in east and central portions of the state. Colder weather was due about Thursday (Christmas Eve) or Friday (Christmas Day). But from the Weather Bureau: not a word about s-n-o-w.

Student Of Yoga

Nancy Valentine, who is a student of yoga, tells how she overcame insomnia with these exercises. She is now appearing with Jack Webb in his new movie, "30" for Warner Bros.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Change Of Hair Hue Alters Personality

By LYDIA LANE
 HOLLYWOOD — The first time I met Nancy Valentine was in Honolulu when she was on her way to visit a Maharajah in India and having difficulty with a suitcase full of peroxide. "I like myself better as a blond," she explained, "and I know I'll have to bleach it myself so I'm going prepared."
 Recently I met Nancy again at a preview of "30" a motion picture she appears in with Jack Webb. Later at a party, when I recalled the peroxide incident Nancy said, "I can't stand always looking the same. I've had my hair many colors since then. The color of my hair makes a big difference in the way I feel."
 I had heard that Nancy was a student of yoga and I asked if this was true.
 "Yes," she replied. "It gave me a new outlook on life. I find it the most helpful way of releasing tensions and inducing relaxation. Most people in this part of the world are so tense they don't know how it feels to be relaxed."
 "Try this," she suggested. "Make your hand into a tight fist and pull it as tense as possible. Then let go. Now analyze the contrast."
 "I have cured my insomnia," Nancy confessed, "with breathing exercises according to yoga. You can induce sleep with inhalations and exhalations, but I feel that you should have instructions on how to do this because there is so much power in breathing that when it's misdirected you can harm yourself."
 "But I have one exercise that helps you to have a flat tummy and to improve elimination. Everyone can do this. You stand straight with your legs apart. Then bend over from the waist and exhale while pulling your stomach muscles as tight as you can. Hold and let go. Then inhale as you come up while pushing the stomach muscles out as far as you can. Do this slowly and inhale deeply in an upright position before you repeat this exercise."
 Nancy confessed she still takes yoga instructions.
 "It has given me an emotional stability, a mental discipline that helps me rise above things that I used to find extremely upsetting. It's amazing to many people," she declared, "the number of mental and physical things yoga helps them overcome."

Thomas'es' Guest

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Thomas went to San Angelo Sunday to get his mother, Mrs. W. J. Thomas. Mrs. Thomas will be visiting her son and his wife in their home at 401 Dallas until after Christmas.

Marines' Wives Learn Judo Art

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (AP)—Who is more deadly than a United States Marine in hand-to-hand combat?

Possibly his wife, if she's a member of the Dependents' Judo and Jujitsu Classes being conducted at this East Coast Marine Corps Recruit Depot.

Every noon hour and Monday and Wednesday evenings and Saturday mornings, the base judo hall echoes with shrill screams and feminine laughter as the wives learn the Oriental art of self-defense.

Clad in judo-gi, the traditional judo uniform, the wives strengthen muscles, slough off excess weight and study techniques which may come in handy in emergencies.

"We started the classes last May in answer to demands from some of the wives whose husbands belong to the Parris Island Judo Club," says S. Sgt. Jim Giles.

The students learn body mechanics to better understand why jujitsu techniques can be so painful. They learn the vulnerable points of the body, and why a blow or kick to one of these points can render an assailant powerless.

Next they learn about arm bars, come-alongs, take-downs and throws. After that they advance to more complex and effective techniques.

"Probably because of their natural grace and sense of rhythm, girls learn judo and jujitsu about six times faster than men," says Sgt. Ernie Cates, all-Marine judo champion and an instructor here.

Giles says that after four months, the girls who have made a serious study of jujitsu usually can protect themselves effectively.

MRS. CARL WAYNE DENNIS

Wagner-Dennis Marry In Home

LAMESA — At 4 p.m. Sunday Linda Marie Wagner became the bride of Carl Wayne Dennis in a ceremony at the bride's home, 1112 N. Ave. 11. The Rev. L. R. Pendley, pastor of Second Baptist Church, officiated for the vows which the couple repeated before a table decorated with a large fan-shaped arrangement of white gladioli.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. V. O. Wagner and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Dennis. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a dress of white wool boucle fashioned on Empire lines with rounded neckline and long sleeves. She carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Attending her cousin as matron of honor was Mrs. Bobby King. She wore a street length dress of red velveteen with matching accessories. Curtis Brooks was best man.

Members of the immediate families of the bride and bridegroom attended the ceremony and the reception. Marilyn Archer presided at the refreshment table.

A 1959 graduate of Lamesa High School, Mrs. Dennis is now attending L.V.N. School here and is employed at Medical Arts Hospital.

Her husband, an associate of Lamesa Machine Shop, is a graduate of Stephen F. Austin High School in Austin.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to New Mexico, the couple will reside at 502 1/2 N. 18th Street.

Tall Talkers Dine At A Noel Buffet

A Christmas buffet was held at the Officers' Club by members of the Tall-Talkers Toastmistress Club Saturday.

Santa Claus was portrayed by Mrs. Harley Snyder. Dressed in the jolly old man's traditional costume, complete with whiskers, Mrs. Snyder went among the guests asking what each wanted for Christmas and their hopes for the New Year.

Best generation literature came into the party when Mrs. Donald Barr read "Twas The Night Before Christmas in beatnik language.

English holly, pine boughs, golden pine cones and red candles decorated the buffet.

Brass appointments carried out the red and gold theme used. Red candles stood in brass candelabras, surrounded by holly that was interspersed with small Christmas figurines to form the centerpiece for the refreshment table.

Refreshments consisted of coffee, dips, fruitcake and candy.

R. Thomas Circle Holds Open House For Fifty Guests

Fifty guests attended the open house held by the Reba Thomas Circle of the First Methodist Church in the home of Mrs. J. B. Knox, 114 Lexington, Saturday between 5 and 7 p.m.

Brass appointments carried out the red and gold theme used. Red candles stood in brass candelabras, surrounded by holly that was interspersed with small Christmas figurines to form the centerpiece for the refreshment table.

Refreshments consisted of coffee, dips, fruitcake and candy.

Nut Graters

Small hand graters, made especially for grating nuts, are available in many stores. Handy to have around holiday time for Christmas cookies!

Potato Accent

Honey and lemon juice, plus grated lemon rind, give good flavor to mashed sweet potatoes.

Dressing Version

You can pep up commercially prepared mayonnaise to be used for coleslaw by adding sugar, vinegar, salt and pepper to it.

Baby Food Use

Use strained or junior baby food prunes in a whip. A container of baby food that is 4 1/2 ounces will yield 1/2 cup, one that is 6 1/2 ounces yields 3/4 cup and one that is 8 ounces yields 1 cup less 2 tablespoons.

FORSAN — Annual Christmas party of the Intermediate Department of the Forsan Baptist Sunday School was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

Centering the table was a Yule log filled with red poinsettias. Students exchanged gifts and played games.

Class Meets For Banquet

WESTBROOK—Members of the First Baptist Ruth Class met Saturday evening at the church for a banquet, with the pastor, the Rev. Gene Henson as master of ceremonies.

W. T. Brooks gave the invocation, and a quartet composed of Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. W. A. Bell, Mrs. Henson and Mrs. H. E. Sullivan, sang Silent Night; they were accompanied by Mrs. C. E. Raune at the piano.

The Christmas Story as told in the book of Luke was read by Rev. Henson, and carols were sung by the group. Tables were festive with sprigs of holly forming center runners with red candles at intervals. Centerpiece was a pot of poinsettias.

Members of the Young Peoples and the Intermediate Classes served.

U.S. Honors Last Civil War Veteran

By JIM BOWMAN
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The last of the faded ranks of the Blue and the Gray, Walter W. Williams, lay in state today in a gray and gold uniform symbolizing his beloved Confederacy he served nearly a century ago.

The nation's flags flew at half-staff by executive order in honor of the Civil War's last survivor, his comrades and the soldiers of the Union.

"With millions of Americans throughout our land, I pause in respectful silence," President Eisenhower said in a statement released by the White House.

Williams won countless battles against serious illness in recent years. He died Saturday of complications that followed his fourth attack of pneumonia since summer.

Relatives placed his age at 117. "The wounds of the deep and bitter dispute which once divided our nation have long since healed, and a united America in a divided world now holds up on a larger canvas the cherished traditions of liberty and justice for all," the President said.

"No longer are they the Blue and the Gray. All rest together as Americans in honored glory. An era has ended."

Tributes also came from many other public officials, along with messages of sympathy from citizens of all walks of life.

Texas Gov. Price Daniel and South Carolina Gov. Fritz Hollings paid their respects personally.

They were here on a weekend visit.

The body lay in a specially designed casket of solid copper tinged with gray. On its velvet inner lining rested five white stars of the honorary rank of general given him by a service organization.

The old soldier will rest in the rotunda of the Harris County Civil Courts building for 48 hours, an honor guard of 4th U.S. Army soldiers at his side.

Federal, state and local governments will pay tribute to him Tuesday night in special services at the Houston Music Hall.

A military procession will escort the body to the South Main Baptist Church for funeral services at 11 a.m. Wednesday. Graveside military rites will be held in the small town of Franklin, Tex., about 125 miles northwest of here.

The procession will include a 25-man fife and drum corps of the Sons of Union Veterans of Mount Vernon, Ohio, birthplace of the composer of the song "Dixie"—one of Williams' life-long favorites.

Williams listed his service connection as a forage master in Company C, Fifth Regiment of Hood's Brigade during the closing months of the Civil War.

Newspaper stories published several months ago questioned whether he actually had served as he claimed. State and federal authorities sided with Williams, who, deaf and blind in his latter years, was unable to reply.

He listed his birthdate as Nov. 14, 1842, in Itawamba County, Miss., and came to Texas after the war. He farmed most of his life before moving here to live with a daughter several years ago.

He had more than 200 surviving descendants, including five sons and five daughters.

Last Civil War Vet Dies

Walter Williams, honored as the last surviving veteran of the Civil War, died at Houston. He gave his age as 117. This picture shows him dressed in Confederate uniform at Bergstrom Air Force Base, Austin, in 1954, when he was honorary commander for a day.

Oil Burner Sets Off Fire In Which 3 Brothers Die

PRINCESS ANNE, Md. (AP)—with burns over 90 per cent of his body.

State Police say an oil burner explosion apparently set off a fire in which three brothers were killed and a fourth was critically burned Sunday.

Police said the four Negro brothers were asleep in an upstairs bedroom when the fire broke out shortly before dawn in their two-story frame house. Their parents and three sisters escaped without injury, but the four boys apparently were trapped inside their room by the flames.

Harry Doane, 14, and his brothers, Herschel, 13, and William, 7, were announced dead of suffocation. A fourth brother, Weldon, 17, was in critical condition

9 Persons Die As Bus Hits Cattle Truck In Wrong Lane

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—A Greyhound bus and a cattle truck traveling on the wrong side of the road collided about eight miles east of here Sunday killing nine persons.

The bus driver and six passengers were killed along with the truck driver and his relief man. Thirty-two others aboard the double-decked bus were injured, five critically.

Also killed were thirty head of cattle, mostly calves. Some other animals were maimed and had to be shot.

Highway Patrolman Jimmy Williams said truck driver James R. Stewart of Del Rio, Tex., apparently missed a "keep right" sign where the road divided for repairs. The truck, he said, was on the wrong side when it struck the Los Angeles-to-New Orleans bus.

The double-decked truck was hauling 67 steers from Jackson, Miss., to Arlington, Ariz.

Killed besides Stewart were: Ronald Philip Spence, Las Vegas, Nev., and Hawthorne, Calif., relief truck driver.

Barney Boyd, 44, El Paso, Tex., driver of the bus.

Florence Minium, 65, Kingsville, Tex.

Johnny Lee Rodden, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rodden, Redondo Beach, Calif.

Benito Casanova, 55, Guantanamo Oriente, Cuba.

Carmen, 53, his wife.

Carol Hall Reed, 38, 304 Chestnut St., Pensacola, Fla.

Pearl Grogan, 64, Los Angeles. "God bless that man who told us to sit still and shut up," said Delois Gaines, 39, a restaurant worker from Los Angeles. "If it weren't for him, we probably would have hurt each other trying to get out."

Osabella (Osbie) Butler, 24, of Moses Lake, Wash., and Richmond, Calif., was taking her 5-year-old daughter Stella to San Antonio.

Just across the aisle Johnny Lee Rodden ran ahead of Stella to the washroom for a drink. The boy was killed.

"All of a sudden I started flying through the air," said Mrs. Butler. "Then about four people fell on me. I looked up. There was a cow's bleeding head looking at me through the window."

"I could hear Stella crying. A woman was screaming. Then a man started pulling people off me."

Stella, pushed under a broken seat, was almost unscathed.

Margaret Rodden, Johnny's mother, said she and her two sons were going to Lubbock, Tex., to be with her mother, Beulah Easter.

"Johnny told me he wanted a drink of water," she sobbed. "He insisted he could get it himself and you know how 7-year-olds are."

"Then the driver slammed on the brakes. The bus swerved. I tried to get out of my seat to go to him, but the next thing I knew I went through a window and was caught by two men outside."

She suffered concussion and the surviving son, Charles, had a head injury.

Near Springfield, Ohio, one person was reported killed and 34 others injured when another Greyhound bus skidded on an icy highway, overturned and rolled into a ditch.

Liberty Bowl Is A Financial Success

By RALPH BERNSTEIN PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The inaugural Liberty Bowl football game here Saturday could be considered a financial if not an artistic success. Unofficial figures indicate that Penn State and Alabama each are getting about $105,000. The promoters of the East's first major bowl game broke even or perhaps turned a small profit. Bud Dudley, who with his partner, George Kerrigan, nursed the Liberty Bowl from a brain storm about three years ago to a live spectacle before 36,211 fans, was enthusiastic about the future of the event. "It was a wonderful start, better than the first effort of such

COLLEGE CAGERS GET NO HOLIDAY RESPITE

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer The nation's cage-conscious colleges will be up to their ears in basketball during the long holiday spell starting Saturday. There will be no fewer than 27 tournaments and they will be played in every section of the country.

Great interest, from the fan's viewpoint, should stem from New York and Los Angeles, which will hold separate eight-team Holiday Festivals featuring some of the top New York's Madison Square Garden boasts unbeaten Cincinnati, regarded as perhaps the outstanding college player today. The Los Angeles Sports Arena will highlight unbeaten West Virginia, winner of the recent Kentucky Invitation, with its All-America Jerry West.

GRID RACES END South In Charge In State Play

By The Associated Press The Texas schoolboy football race is at an end with three undefeated unified champions and the South finally returning to power. Last year, West Texas won all the titles and the South not only failed to scratch but got humiliated in the final games. It was quite different this time. Corpus Christi Ray won the Class AAAA championship and in so doing established itself as the top team of Texas, all classes considered. Katy won the Class A championship to give the South two victories out of four. Stamford won the Class AA title for a West Texas triumph and two West Texas teams—Breckenridge and Cleburne—fought to a 20-20 tie to share the Class AAA crown.

Corpus Christi Ray was magnificent in a 20-6 victory over defending champion Wichita Falls in Class AAAA. Wichita Falls was played to a 14-14 tie by Breckenridge and Stamford beat Cleburne 16-14. All of which pointed up more than ever the fact that Corpus Christi Ray was entirely supreme.

And what about the champions for next year? Only Katy, which staged a mighty upset in beating Sundown 16-6 for the Class A crown, had an optimistic note. Coach Gordon Brown said that while Katy lost nine starters it would be strong again next fall.

Ray loses all 11 defensive starters and 10 offensive regulars. It was a veteran outfit that rolled through 14 games without trouble. Breckenridge will be swept almost bare—just one starter will return. Cleburne loses seven first-team men.

Stamford, which topped Brady 19-14 for the AA crown, will have only three first-string players back and two of them alternated at one position.

Teams finished unbeaten and untied for the year were Ray (14-0), Stamford (15-0) and Katy (15-0). Breckenridge wound up with 11-1-2 and Cleburne 12-1-1. Cleburne has an unusual distinction. Twice in 40 years—and 40 years apart—it got into the finals. Each time it tied for the championship. In 1929—first year of the Texas Interscholastic League—Cleburne tied Houston Heights for the title.

West Virginia, whipped Kentucky 79-70 to capture the Kentucky Invitation Saturday. California won its 20th and 21st straight by beating Colorado, 51-47, on Friday and 79-46 on Saturday.

Utah has three games this week before competing in the Dixie Classic Dec. 28. Others in that tournament include Duke, North Carolina, North Carolina State, Wake Forest, Dayton, Holy Cross and Minnesota.

It's not an easy life and those who succeed in it, no doubt, deserve what they are paid. Take the case of a law-abiding citizen up in Minnesota. Empty beer cans are dumped on his front steps. Shouts and jeers tell him it would be best for him to get out of town.

Anonymous phone calls pepper and threaten him and his loved ones. His children find uncomplimentary remarks about their dad scrawled on blackboards at school. What has this man done to offend society? Nothing, save for the fact that his football teams have failed to win as consistently as some of his school's followers thought they should. He has a long term contract and an element is carrying on a war of attrition, trying to get him out of town.

SYRACUSE COACH FRETS OVER TEXAS OFFENSE

By JIM KOCH HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Although he's riding a national champion, Syracuse football coach Rex Schwartzwalder has his worries about roping the Texas Longhorns. Schwartzwalder, who often looks at the dark side, is concerned about the running pass Texas is sure to use against Syracuse in the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day.

As Syracuse settled down to a two-day drills after a relaxing weekend, the coach took time to discuss the pass so aptly executed by Texas halfbacks Jack Collins and Rene Ramirez.

"Done properly, that running pass is one of the toughest plays to defend against," Schwartzwalder said. "They do it well. We'd better watch out."

The Syracuse players, training at the University of Houston, watched Clemens, who Texas Christian 23-7 in the Bluebonnet Bowl game here Saturday, Texas Christian defeated Texas.

"Maybe it would have been better, from a confidence standpoint, if we stayed away," team captain and halfback Ger Schwedes suggested at dinner last night. Schwartzwalder agreed.

He ordered an assistant to run a film of the Texas-Texas Christian game. "We saw Texas Christian at its worst, we also better see one of the good games," Schwartzwalder declared.

Syracuse players, in obvious good humor despite separation from families at the Christmas season, exude confidence. There is little of the tension here that prevailed at Raleigh, N.C., last December when Syracuse prepared to face Oklahoma in the Orange Bowl.

But Schwartzwalder, an exponent of the hard day's work, is not taking chances. He planned a stiff workout on both offense and defense at the morning session and to touch on punting in the afternoon.

Morning workouts will last about two hours, the late afternoon sessions about an hour. After dinner each evening, the team will have strategy meetings and view films of Texas games.

Schwartzwalder, intent on avoiding injuries, has decided to forego any all-out scrimmages. He has held one on Syracuse's three previous — and unsuccessful — bowl ventures.

Another of those reportedly interested in the local coaching job is Theo Rigby of Alice, a member of District 16-AAAA. Rigby has a solid reputation among Texas coaches.

Ara Parseghian, the Northwestern University mentor, may succeed Bob Woodruff as coach at the University of Florida.

Parseghian could have gone to the Pittsburgh Steelers as head mentor in 1957 but Ara elected to stay at the Evanston school and ride out the storm — and it was really raging at Northwestern three seasons ago.

Lindsey Marchbanks, the local insurance man, has been "offered" some season tickets by the Dallas Texans, one of the teams in the proposed American Football League — at the regular price.

Marchbanks attended school at SMU with Larmar Hunt, owner of the Texans and one of the founders of the AFL. Hunt made the offer.

Marchbanks says it sometimes costs to have friends. The revenue from season ticket sales for HCJC home basketball games this year is going to run more than it did last year.

The ducks were increased in price 50 cents to $2.50. Woden, which the Big Spring Steers met and defeated in first-round consolation play in the Nacogdoches Basketball tournament last weekend, has an enrollment of about 175 and is in District 62-B.

It's coach Maury Burk (who doubles as high school principal), could have put the Eagles in the east bracket of the two-division meet but elected to go against the toughies.

Fred Williams, who plays tackle for the Chicago Bears, says he thinks the New York Giants will beat the Baltimore Colts in that NFL championship game next Sunday because "their defense will put a lot of pressure on Johnny Unitas."

The two teams met earlier this year in an exhibition game at Dallas and Baltimore won, 28-3, thanks to three pass interceptions the Colts turned into touchdowns.

With his $25,000 earnest money check to league headquarters went an application that bore the signature, among others in the combine, of Ernie Nevers of San Francisco, one of football's all-time greats and a member of the old Eskimos.

Haugrud's application, and the apparent encouragement it received from several NFL owners, signaled another collision between forces of the National League and the new American Football League over the Twin Cities territory.

The AFL evidently is set to operate here. H. P. Skoglund, part owner of the Minneapolis-St. Paul AFL team, said "We intend to go right down the line with the American League no matter what happens."

Reports that he and fellow owners might be planning a shift to the NFL themselves have no foundation, he said. Haugrud said he has talked with seven or eight National League owners and was advised to make his application. "I was told the National League definitely will add two teams in 1960," he said.

An estimated million dollars would be needed to get an NFL team going in the Twin Cities, Haugrud said. He claimed to have enough backing from area businessmen to raise the money.

In Philadelphia, acting NFL Commissioner Austin Guesel said the application by Haugrud's group would be considered along with others at the league meeting next month.

Clemson, TCU Booty Will Amount To $80,000 Each

HOUSTON (AP) — The infant Bluebonnet Bowl's first effort is on the books and sponsors hope it's only the first of many. They point to the crowd of 55,000 which jammed all but the corner sections of the 70,000-seat Rice Stadium for the Texas Christian-Clemson clash—two teams which held little immediate appeal to Southeast Texans.

The attendance figure broke the bowl inaugural record of 28,000 set by the Sugar Bowl in 1935—as did the Liberty Bowl's Penn State-Alabama match several hours earlier.

A chilled crowd of 36,211 turned out for that one in Philadelphia. Houston enjoyed perfect football weather with the mercury in the high 50s, clear skies and a light north wind. And Clemson enjoyed taking TCU into camp, 23-7.

Elvin Smith, president of the Greater Houston Bowl Assn., earlier estimated the two schools would get about $80,000 each for the day's work.

Smith spiked reports that the two were given $100,000 guarantees for appearing in the bowl. Schools approached earlier, he said, were given such guarantees but not TCU and Clemson.

Houston newspapers theorized that a Bluebonnet Bowl pitting Texas or Texas A&M against any sort of foe would have sold out Rice Stadium. "TCU isn't a very attractive team for people down here," Smith admitted after the game. "But it turned out to be a real good scrap."

He said an auditing of the game receipts—and each school's share—would not be complete for several days. Will the Bluebonnet be held before the Christmas holidays again next year? There was no definite word.

"The date is fine with us," said Tex Schramf, a sports official for CBS. The network televised the game.

Spanish Dictator Has A Load Of Luck

By LOUIS NEVIN
MADRID (U.P.)—Few have had the good luck of Generalissimo Francisco Franco, President Eisenhower's host today. His good fortune is proverbial in Spain.
Even his choice of an Army career, which took him to the command of rebel forces in the civil war and to his present position as chief of state, chief of government, and head of the only authorized political party, had an element of luck.
As the son and grandson of naval officers, he had every intention of going into the navy. Americans sank the Spanish fleet in 1898 and the Naval Academy closed. He went to the Toledo Military Academy instead.

YOUNGEST GENERAL
Francisco Paulino Hermenegildo Teodoro Franco Bahamonde was a brilliant student on graduation in 1910. Sixteen years later he was appointed brigadier general at 34, the youngest general in Spanish history.

His luck against the Moors in the Rif campaigns of Morocco was legendary. Horses were shot from under him; snipers put holes in his coat or cap. Only once was he wounded.

The Republican government exiled him to the Canary Islands in 1936, putting him in position to fly to Morocco to head the uprising there against the Republic.

Franco was third in line to head the rebel movement, but the two officers above him were killed in plane crashes. He became chief of state Oct. 1, 1936.

With the end of the civil war in 1939 and the start of World War II, Franco found both Allies and Axis bidding for Spanish favor — the Germans to bring Spain into the conflict, the Allies to keep her out. At the end of the war, when Franco's position at home was shakiest, the Western democracies had the United Nations declare his regime a menace to peace. That rallied the Spanish people to support him.

A few years later the conflict between the Communist and democratic countries brought Franco into Western councils. This gave him desperately needed foreign credits and, for all practical purposes, an alliance with the United States.

The visit of President Eisenhower provides him further support. One Spanish news commentator wrote, "No Western chief of state will think of refusing to receive Franco after the Eisenhower visit."

Franco's cold, patient self-control has brought his country the full sweep from Nazi Germany to international pariah to association with the Western Alliance. Franco proudly proclaims that neither he nor his regime has changed. He says it is the West which now accepts "our truths."

COOL CHARACTER
Franco lacks the excitable Latin temperament. He has the traditional character of the son of Galicia, a province of northwestern Spain: "Coolness, reflection, tenacity and intuition." But his understanding of the Spanish people and how to manage them is profound.

Short and stocky, he is at 67 a quiet family man who neither smokes nor drinks. He has a good grasp of English. His sports used to include tennis but are now limited to hunting and fishing. He enjoys watching Spanish and foreign movies in his private cinema at Pardo Palace, 10 miles northwest of Madrid, where he lives.

In 1923 he married Carmen Polo, daughter of a wealthy Asturian businessman. Their daughter married Cristobal Martinez y Bordiu, Marquis de Villaverde, a chest surgeon. Five children are their grandfather's delight.

Traffic Again Leads Death Toll

Christmas Illegal In Pilgrim Times

By TOM HENSHAW
Associated Press Religion Writer
Less than a month ago, while preparations for Thanksgiving were at a height, the air was filled with praises for the spiritual qualities of the Pilgrims, who conceived the holiday.

But now with Christmas, one of the two great holy days of Christendom peeping around the corner of the calendar, the pious Pilgrims disappear so thoroughly they might never have existed.

The reason: The Pilgrims of Plymouth, and their brethren the Puritans of Boston and England, took note of Christmas only long enough to pass laws suppressing it.

The festive Christmas season which could get pretty riotous in England seemed a time of almost pagan revelry to the straight-laced Pilgrims and its religious cities smacked strongly of the Catholicism they abhorred. Besides, they would argue, no one really knew Jesus' birth date, anyway, so the whole celebration was dubious.

Their first Christmas in the new land, Dec. 25, 1620, was just another work day for the Pilgrims. They spent their time building a storehouse. There is no evidence anyone protested.

But Christmas 1621, there were enough newcomers around the colony to protest the austerity. They were recent arrivals aboard the good ship Fortune.
Pilgrim Father William Bradford recalled in his journal: "On the day called Christmas Day, the Governor called them out to work as was usual. But most of this new company excused themselves and said it went against their consciences to work on that day."
"So the Governor told them that if they made it a matter of conscience, he would spare them until they were better informed; so he led away the rest and left them.

"But when they came home at noon from their work, he found them in the street at play, openly; some pitching the bar, and some at stoolball and such like sports.

"So he went to them and took away their implements and told them that it was against this conscience that they should play and others work.

"If they made the keeping of it matter of devotion, let them keep their houses; but there should be no gaming or reveling in the streets."

"Since which time," Bradford added with obvious satisfaction, "nothing has been attempted that way, at least openly."

The Plymouth governor was more lenient with his Christmas heretics than the Puritan government of the nearby Massachusetts Bay Colony.

It passed a law in 1659 which read: "Whosoever shall be found observing any such day as Christmas, or the like, either by forbearing of labor, feasting in any other way, shall be fined five shillings."

The law was on the books for nearly a quarter of a century. The spirit of Christmas crept slowly into the Puritan culture. Resistance crumbled in the face of an influx of immigrants, chiefly the Irish and Germans in whom the Christmas tradition was strong.

Today, one of the most deeply rooted American Christmas traditions is the singing of carols on Beacon Hill in Boston—the very heart of a Puritan land that once banned Christmas.

This homemade gun held by Stanley Aeck was used by three men to hunt food after they were snowbound in Washington State.

Improvised Shotgun Saved Lives Of Snowbound Men

SEATTLE (AP)—A shotgun built of old boards, wire, tin, a rubber band and a chunk of pipe helped three winter-bound men stave off starvation for 14 days recently on Black Rock Lake near the town of Moses Lake, Wash.

Stanley Aeck, who now has the gun, tells this story:

After a cold spell he visited the lake and found the trio, well fed and healthy but preparing to hitchhike back to Seattle.

"They had been hired off Seattle's skid road to catch water dogs at the lake," said Aeck. They received a small amount per dozen from a dealer who sells the salamander-like animals for fish bait.

"They ran out of food just as the cold wave struck and couldn't get out to buy more," Aeck continued. "There were some shells in the shack where they were living and they built the shotgun to fit them.

"I wouldn't believe the thing would fire when they told me the story. So one of the men fired it to show me. Cut his hand a little on a piece of wire when it kicked. They had used it to kill ducks."

The two-foot piece of pipe formed the barrel and was held in the stock by twisted wire. A box made of tin held the shell firmly in the barrel and protected the gunner.

A foot-long piece of stiff wire was the firing pin, pointed at one end and curved at the other to engage a band cut from an old inner tube. The shell was triggered by snapping the rubber band.

"I didn't ask their names and they didn't offer to introduce themselves," Aeck says. "They gave me the gun — they were done with outdoor life."

Fateful 50's Saw Hollywood Plummet

Editor's Note—The ways of life and work and business in Hollywood changed more during the decade just closing than during any similar period in the industry's history. Here, in the first of a series of four articles, Bob Thomas of the Associated Press takes a critical, yet sympathetic, look at Hollywood during its fateful, fiasco-riddled and now sad and dreary decade. The series, beginning this week, will have serious implications for the industry.

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What a decade! Lana Turner watched her daughter slay a ranting boyfriend.

Elizabeth Taylor had four husbands. Bing Crosby lost Dixie to cancer, later married Kathryn Grant. Grace Kelly won an Oscar and a real-life prince. Louis E. Mayer, Cecil B. De Mille, Harry Cohn.

Ingrid Bergman mothered an illegitimate baby but returned to Hollywood's esteem.

Death came fast to Tyrone Power, James Dean, Errol Flynn, Mario Lanza; with cruel slowness to Humphrey Bogart, Susan Ball.

Frank Sinatra battled in and out of a marriage to Ava Gardner and back to the top of the movie heap.

Rita Hayworth tired of Aly Khan, took husbands 4 and 5.

Marilyn Monroe went from a baseball great to an egghead playwright.

A LONG DECADE

It was a decade colored by Kim Novak's lavender, Jayne Mansfield's pink, and Liberace's gold. It was the decade of Elvis Presley, Davy Crockett, Brigitte Bardot, wide screens, 3D and "I Was a Teen-Age Werewolf."

It was also the decade of greatest change since Hollywood rose out of the grapefruit groves. There was even greater change than during transition from silent to talkies in the 20s.

Ten years ago, there were 150 stars making important pictures. Today, only a dozen are considered box office naturals.

ROUSES FALL

Six thousand movie houses out of 18,500 closed their doors in the past 10 years. Few new theaters have been built, although driv-ins have increased from 1,200 to 5,000.

While the population rose from 150 million in 1950 to 175 million in 1959, nearly every other industry expanded. But the film business shrank. The major companies turned out 406 features in 1957 and 320 in 1951. This year the total will be under 200.

There were other factors besides TV that brought about the films' decline. The move to the suburbs helped kill off many downtown theaters. The new leisure changed people's entertainment habits, Americans had time and money to lavish on home projects, motoring, boating, etc. And Hollywood itself failed to come up with attractions to maintain movie going, once a national habit.

There's No Escape From One-Sided TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — After a weekend of off and on television watching, I am suffering from a severe case of snow blindness and an overdose of Santa Claus plots.

Even a little boy on "Wanted—Dead or Alive" asked Santa to give him a gun for Christmas.

Everywhere the dial could turn on the TV set there were twinkling Christmas trees and ground frosted with snow. Between the commercial every-body except Perry Mason was a-blowin' on their chilly hands, a stampin' the cold feet and delivering gift-wrapped bundles.

That's not quite true. CBS' "Conquest" ignored the Yule and devoted a fascinating 30 minutes to the work of a French team of researchers which has literally learned how to talk to locusts. The scientists made recordings of locust songs and learned to reproduce them.

They found they could attract lady locusts almost as efficiently with artificial sound lures as the gentlemen locusts themselves.

Ed Sullivan, devoted his entire show — with the exception of a trained dog act — to the holiday period. He even had Polly Bergen singing "Silent Night" and followed that by a few numbers by a choral group.

G. E. Theater put on a half-hour drama called "Mr. O'Malley," which was concerned with a pink-winged but rather malodorous fairy godfather assigned to a lonely little boy named Barnaby. Barnaby wanted — what else — a dog for Christmas. And Mr. O'Malley promised to conjure one up for him. It all worked out happily, of course.

It had been rumored that if all worked out well with this one Mr. O'Malley program, there might be a series in the offing. Well, in spite of the presence of Bert Lahr as the lovable fairy godfather, it didn't work out very well. Mr. O'Malley was a whimsical comic strip but it lost almost all of its charm in adaptation to another medium.

Don't get me wrong; I think Christmas is a wonderful time of the year. It's just that television, is overdoing it. Moderation is something it just hasn't learned yet.

I finally fled to radio—but there was Der Bingle crooning "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas" on every station. There's no escape except to books.

But it will all end abruptly at midnight Friday—and then we'll get an overdose of "Auld Lang Syne," paper hats and confetti for a week.

FOR CHRISTMAS NEEDY

School Kids Gather Food

The Salvation Army is still having a touch-and-go fight to gather in enough funds to provide Christmas cheer for the needy on its list. But had it not been for the thoughtfulness of school children, the job would have been impossible. The pictures above give some idea of the magnitude of the collection of cans and sacks of food to be given to the poor on Christmas Eve. Sorted out according to type of commodity at the Dora Roberts citadel is something like 3,000 cans raised through the various Big Spring schools. Saturday, a pickup load was added to this, and when Capt. James Jay asked what school it was from, the driver simply replied: "Say it came from Santa Claus." Not included in the total is something over 900 cans of food collected at the senior high school, which was distributed by the students there to families. However, the Student Council did obtain names of the families from the Salvation Army so that the list of applications could be reduced some. Runnels and Goliad junior high schools raised more than 1,000 cans, while the elementary schools had perhaps 50 per cent more. Included in these were the Kate Morrison, Baser, Boydston, Washington Place, College Heights, Park Hill, Cedar Crest, Airport and Marcy schools. If the Salvation Army somehow can raise about $700 more than it has so far received for its Christmas fund, then perhaps a substantial fare can be laid down to 250 families here on Christmas Day. School children should have a good feeling knowing that

Defeat, Not War Made Difference

NEW YORK (AP)—When the nation observes the centennial of the Civil War, there will be no man alive who truly can say, "I was there." Walter Williams, last surviving soldier of the Confederacy, died Saturday in Houston. The last Union veteran, Albert Woolson of Duluth, Minn., died in August 1956; his distinction is commemorated in granite on the battlefield of Gettysburg. They were the last survivors, for their respective armies of four million men who served for Blue or Gray. There were only relative trifles of difference between the men of North and South. Both were Americans, they shared the same national traditions, they fought and bled with equal valor. To say that the Civil War was fought by brothers is not idle whimsy. The great difference was wrought by Apomattox. It is the difference between victory and defeat. The Union soldier went home to the sound of brass bands and the laurels of the victor. He received a cash bonus—the average was $250—when he was mustered out of service. He speedily gained a powerful spokesman in high places—the Grand Army of the Republic—to argue on his behalf for pensions and for jobs. The Confederate went home—if he had a home left—as a straggler, afoot and hungry and tattered. He had no government to which to turn for aid. He had no hope of bonus or pension. He was completely and forlornly on his own. The GAR, founded in the first postwar year, wielded an influence beyond its true power. One of the organization's own historians, Franklin D. Tappan, credited it with "the actual balance of the national political power" for nearly 50 years, even though it never counted more than 32 per cent of the Union veterans in its membership. The symbol of the Confederate Soldier, the United Confederate Veterans, was much slower in coming into being. The homecoming Southerner's first task was to scratch for a living. The trials of Reconstruction gave him other things to think about. A few state societies sprang up in the passing years but no move was made for a united organization until 1889 when it was discussed at a dinner in New Orleans on Stonewall Jackson's birthday. The first reunion was held in 1890. The UCV never had any pretensions of political power. It was dedicated to relief work among needy veterans, gathering and preserving the records of the war, cherishing comradeship. It kept an eye on school textbooks and fathered the movement to call the conflict the War Between the States. Through the years, several proposals for joint meeting fell down because the Southerners wouldn't abide by the restrictions which the GAR sought to impose upon them. As late as 1938, plans for the last North-South reunion at Gettysburg, on the 75th anniversary of the battle were snaggled for a time because a GAR faction refused to let the Southerners unfurl their old flags on the field. All that is history. They fought each other in war and differed with each other in peace, but Billy Yank and Johnny Reb have at last and inevitably become united, in death.
