13 Keys May Open Airliner Mysteries

By REILMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

This is the case of the 13 Keys. Behind the doors they can unlock may lie the mystery of a lost airplane and the death of 42 persons.

The case begins on or about last Nov. 12. Somewhere in that period, a man checks in at a hotel in Tampa, Fla. He is big-bodied, wears spectacles and has grey hair. His manner is dignified. He speaks softly. The whole picture seems to fit the name he writes in the hotel register, "Dr. Robert Vernon Spears, Dallas, Tex."

For once, he uses his true name. In the past, he has called himself Robert Howard, L. Hunter, Logan Hunter, Robert Lane, Lionel Ryan, John Hills, E. J. Manning, and Robert Buchanan. The aliases are in his criminal record which goes back nearly 30 years.

First key—what brings Spears to Tampa? Is it to buy an airplane ticket for a flight from Miami to Dallas, stopping at Tampa? Or is it to see an old acquaintance?

On the night of Nov. 14, Spears sits in his hotel room, drinking and talking with "Al," whose full name is William Allen Taylor.

CRIMINAL FILES

This is the old acquaintance. "Al" and the "doctor"—the title is probably inaccurate since Spears is a naturopath, not an M.D.—have known each other for some 30 years. Perhaps longer. The files of the police in Miami show that the two men worked a "con" racket in the 1930's. Taylor has a criminal record, too.

His is not as long as Spears'. The "doctor" served time in Missouri for forgery, Ohio for larceny, Canada for vagrancy and false pretenses, Maryland for forgery, and Oklahoma for armed robbery. In Dallas, he paid a fine of $1,000 for performing an abortion. Police caught him in a motel with a young secretary on whom he had performed the operation.

Taylor's record seems to dovetail with Spears' in convictions in Florida, Ohio and Maryland. Since 1940, however, there are no new entries in Taylor's file. He is working in Tampa as a salesman for an auto appliance firm.

The two men sit in the hotel room, drinking and talking.

DISCUSSION

Second key—what were they discussing? Was it a scheme in which Taylor would use Spears' airplane ticket? For what purpose?

Next day, Nov. 15, Taylor telephones his ex-wife, Mrs. Alice Steele Taylor. They have been divorced three years after 18 years of marriage. They have a son, William Allen Jr., 17, in the Marines. Despite the divorce, they are friendly. Taylor communicates regularly with them.

Now he tells Mrs. Taylor he is going to Atlanta for one day on business.

On the night of the flight, however, he tells a woman cashier in a Tampa restaurant he is going to Dallas—not Atlanta.

Dallas is the destination of National Airlines' Flight 967. Mrs. Spears' attorney later will produce a photograph of the manifest for that flight listing Spears as a passenger.

But Mrs. Frances Spears will say in a television interview, "He (her husband) told me Al was on the plane, but he didn't say whether he saw him get on."

Reviewing The Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

People want to know: "Is Art Linkletter as friendly and down-to-earth as he seems on television?" The answer is easy: "More so!" He seems to get a constant recharge in talking to people, delighting them with behind-the-scenes glimpses at the world of entertainment, telling of things in the making. Art came here to address the YMCA banquet, and he had this testimonial for the Y—"It has been a second father to me. When in a town the Y is the first place I look up."

Some states have their registration, but Texas has its poll tax—and whether you like it or regardless of what you call it, you must have a receipt (or exemption certificate) in order to vote. The deadline will fall next Saturday night—and half of you good people have fooled and fiddled around without securing your voice in this year's elections.

The Chamber of Commerce tapped out Cliff Fishbe last week for his biggest job—that of president. That's a man-sized job anytime, but at the critical time of setting the pattern for a decade, it is doubly important. In Fisher the chamber has a capable man with a demonstrated willingness to work.

This is the season of the stock show fever. They are popping out like the measles. Saturday, Coahoma and Stanton each had shows (the former tied in with an Achievement Day), and Monday the long-standing Glascock County club show will be held. Usually a good crowd attends from here.

Forsan and Elbow will vote Feb. 20 on whether to consolidate their districts. There have been rumors of this potential referendum for a couple of months, hence last week's petitions merely confirmed a vote on the question.

Monday morning the YMCA, after a busy time observing Y week and in hearing Art Linkletter launches on a pivotal membership campaign. With its new building expected to come into the picture

Gasoline Spilled On Road

A transport truck, loaded with 6,855 gallons of casinghead gasoline, and a pickup truck collided at the intersection of Birdwell and FM 700 at 9 p. m. last night.

The impact set the gasoline truck afire. The smoldering blaze at the rear of the big transport was put out by the city fire department before it could ignite the volatile fluid in the tank. Nearly all of the city's fire fighting equipment was sent to the scene and were joined a short time later by fire trucks and men from Webb Air Force Base.

City police blocked off the area in all directions and routed traffic away from the scene while the firemen doused the threatening blaze.

Driver of the truck, Ray Samuel Foster, 27, of 509 W. 4th, was enroute to Couden Refinery with the load of gasoline which he had picked up 12 miles from Rankin. He was driving a 1956 Mack tractor. It was owned by Groendyke Co., Dallas.

SLIGHT CUT

The 1958 Chevrolet pickup involved in the crash was driven by Fred Neill Robinson, 14, of 1307 Settles. He had as a passenger Joe Robinson, 17, a relative, from Midland. Joe Robinson suffered a slight cut on the right hand, the only injury resulting from the accident. The pickup was owned by W. H. Robinson, 1307 Settles.

The young driver said he was going east on FM 700 planning to turn north at Birdwell. He said he did not see the big transport behind him. The truck driver told the police he flashed his lights as a signal he intended to pass. The collision followed.

The big transport swerved to the left of the road, rolled forward about 100 feet and came to a stop on its wheels.

The Chevrolet was practically demolished.

Police were continuing their investigation into the crash last night.

STROMAN WON'T SEEK RE-ELECTION

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP)—Rep. W. A. (Bill) Stroman announced Saturday night he will not seek reelection to the post he has held since 1951.

Three candidates have filed for the 52nd District (Tom Green County) office, and a fourth has announced he will be a candidate in the 1960 Democratic primary.

Linkletter Gets Big Ovation At Banquet

An enthusiastic crowd of more than 800 packed the Goliad Junior high school gym Saturday to hear Art Linkletter say a good word for the Big Spring YMCA.

Linkletter varied his talk at the annual banquet between humorous anecdotes and more serious discussion of his early life in YMCA work, and more recently, a trip to the Holy Land. Intermittent laughter punctuated his address and it was followed by a lasting ovation.

R. H. Weaver, retiring president of the association, exceed the banquet and was awarded a plaque in appreciation for his work in the program.

Weaver, in an opening talk, thanked all the persons who had helped stage the program, including the schools, Couden Petroleum Corp., the Hi-Y clubs and the dinner committee.

INTRODUCTIONS MADE

He introduced the members of the board, members of the long-range planning committee, and Dan Krausse, new president of the local YMCA.

Krausse said "the YMCA has deep roots in Big Spring and it is an important part of our community."

James M. Hardy, known to hundreds of Big Spring youngsters only as Bobo, said the Y program has just finished its most successful year. "It is reaching 50 per cent of our young people," he explained, "but we must face the

San Benito Votes Out Segregation

SAN BENITO, Tex. (AP)—Residents of San Benito's school district voted by a wide margin Saturday to abolish segregated classes.

The vote was 316 for integration and 49 against. There were two polling places. The vote at San Benito was 290-47 and at Los Indios 26-2.

The total vote was less than half the number that signed petitions asking for the election. Some 750 persons signed petitions and presented them to the trustees some time ago.

A state law required at least 600 names, or 20 per cent of the eligible voters in the district. The state law was passed by the Texas Legislature in an effort to slow down integration and to circumvent the U.S. Supreme Court ruling. Its constitutionality has yet to be tested in the courts.

The latest school census lists about 5,800 children of school age in the district and the total includes 26 Negroes. The San Benito area presently is sending seven Negro students to high school in Harlingen under a special agreement between the school districts.

Navy Scientists Plunge 7 Miles

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Navy scientists descended in a bathyscap Saturday into the deepest hole in the ocean, more than seven miles down in the chill and dark bottom of the Pacific off the island of Guam.

The Navy said that Jacques Piccard, of the famous Swiss scientific family, and Navy Lt. Don Walsh had given their first report of what it was like to sit for half an hour 37,800 feet down in the Marianas Trench, deeper than any man has gone before.

The Navy relayed to newsmen here the following description, based on an early report from the two men after the bathyscap Trieste had surfaced 210 miles southwest of Guam shortly after noon.

"It was very cold at the bottom. Both were wet when they came out of the Trieste and their teeth were chattering. Navy experts said they did not take this to mean the craft leaked."

LIVING OBJECTS

"They related that they had spent approximately one-half hour on the bottom and could see living and moving objects at 37,800 feet. The bottom was very soft and when they landed they stirred up silt and what they termed 'dust.' The lights were turned on as soon as the bottom was calm but it was a few minutes before they could see anything."

"They started down at 4:22 p.m. on Jan. 23 (East longitude date) and reached bottom at 9:10 p.m. the same date, staying 30 minutes on the bottom and surfacing at 12:30 a.m. on Jan. 24. This means that they took four hours and 45 minutes to descend, stayed on the bottom 30 minutes approximately, and took three hours and 17 minutes to ascend and surface."

"They reported that they lost voice contact (apparently with the surface ship) about halfway down but that it was re-established upon hitting bottom and maintained until about halfway up."

"The only food they ate was chocolate bars, one every hour, to keep up their energy."

"Upon surfacing, Lt. Walsh dropped a plastic container with an American flag on the spot of surfacing."

The Navy located the position as 210 miles southwest of Apra Harbor, Guam.

Navy experts here said the men probably got wet while boarding the bathyscap, or perhaps from condensation within the gondola as it descended into the cold water. In leaving the bathyscap, the men had to climb up through a shaft which was still dripping from the water that had filled it during the dive.

The Navy said one purpose of the series of deep ocean probes is to gather scientific knowledge of the transmission of man-made sounds. While the Navy did not spell it out, this information is important in the operation of sonar devices to detect enemy submarines.

The team broke a record set only a few days ago, when the Trieste went down to 24,000 feet however, have no reason to suspect anything amiss. Todd broadcast no emergency call. Merely by dropping to a lower altitude, the plane could have gone off the radar screen.

LAST CONTACT
This is the last known contact with Flight 967.
Somewhere before 1 a.m., the big transport crashes into the Gulf. The impact is so savage that clothes are ripped from the bodies of the passengers. Ten bodies are found.

None is identified as either Robert V. Spears or William A. Taylor.

Sixth key — was there an explosion in flight?

Experienced pilots fly over the scene. They agree an explosion took place, but disagree as to whether it occurred before or after the transport hit the water.

Lieut. James Sigman of the Coast Guard said the wreckage was spread over a comparatively small area of two or three miles. This leads him to believe the explosion occurred at the instant of impact, or soon after.

But Capt. Raymond Griswold, pilot of an amphibian search and rescue plane says:

"If the plane had been in a large piece or pieces when she hit the water, the wreckage would have been more concentrated. It wouldn't have covered a five-mile area."

INSURANCE PROBLEM

Seventh key — Did Spears plant a bomb or some form of explosive aboard Flight 967 in order to collect insurance on himself? "I do not believe he was capable of putting a bomb on a plane," Mrs. Spears will say, "and he said 'no.'"

Regardless of what he has done or said or what has been said of him, I know he is a very kind person to me and to others. I do not believe he was capable of putting a bomb on a plane."

Soon after the crash, Spears disappears from Dallas.

Eighth key — Why?

He is reported to carry two insurance policies, one for $100,000 and another for $20,000.

"He said he read about the crash of the plane and saw an opportunity to leave me and the babies with some financial security," Mrs. Spears is to say. "I felt he had been a burden and it was a chance to free us of that burden."

Presumably, Spears is driving northwest from Tampa toward Dallas or some other point. He has Taylor's car.

WHY THE LIMIT?

Ninth key — The FBI says Taylor gave Spears "permission" to drive the car as far as Dallas only. But why only Dallas?

Authorities do not answer this question. The FBI says the question "goes to the heart of the evidence."

Meanwhile, "a few days after the crash," Mrs. Taylor lodges Tampa police that her ex-husband is missing.

She has now received the $37,500 insurance policy. It lists Taylor's destination as "Tampa to Dallas and return." But he had told her he was going to Atlanta.

Referring to Spears, she says, "I had a premonition about that man."

Tenth key — What was the basis for this premonition?

The weeks past, Spears is listed among the 36 lost in the plane crash. No word comes from him to his wife.

Early in January, a man told the police in Tampa he was positive he saw Taylor in a Christmas eve crowd in downtown Nashville. The officers do not identify this informant. Later, the informant says he may have been mistaken.

WAS IT TAYLOR?

Eleventh key — Was that man "Al" Taylor? Is it possible that he was not aboard Flight 967? No one has positively placed Taylor on the plane.

Meanwhile, Spears has arrived in Phoenix, Ariz. He drives Taylor's car there. He contacts William Turska, who also is a naturopath and calls himself "doctor."

The date is Nov. 20, four days after the crash.

He abandons Taylor's car, having removed the registration and license plates.

Turska's house is in New River, Ariz., 40 miles north of Phoenix. Spears stays close to the house. He helps Turska build a patio and a bath.

"At night, we talked," Turska says. "You might call it shop talk. We discussed hypnotism and semantics."

He says Spears did not appear to be under any strain. And he says he knew nothing about Spears' possible connection with the crash "until I heard it on television early this week. We don't get newspapers out here. We are away from all things."

MET IN DALLAS

However, Mrs. Spears says she met her husband in Dallas 12 days ago after a note was delivered by Turska.

Turska also says dynamite was discovered in a small building near his. He adds that he understood dynamite fuses were found in Spears' luggage after the FBI arrested him.

The FBI would neither confirm or deny this report.

Twelfth key — If the explosives were found in Spears' belongings, what was their purpose?

On Jan. 8, Mrs. Spears receives a handwritten note from her husband. She says the note told her Spears wanted to see her. In a radio-TV interview, she answers questions:

Q. "What was your reaction when you saw this note? Did you believe it was Bob Spears' handwriting?"

A. "No, I didn't. I felt it was a trick. Even as I left the house, I still felt it was a trick."

Q. "Did he mention 'Al Taylor'?"

A. "He said he (Taylor) was on the plane. He said he was sorry it had to happen to him or anyone else."

NO CONTACT

Mrs. Spears says her husband "wanted a chance to try to stay away." She says she begged him to call an attorney. After he left Dallas, she says, she had no further contact with him.

Last Tuesday, in Arizona, Turska checked Spears into a motel under the name of George Rhodes. There, acting on a tip, the FBI arrested him.

In Los Angeles, Spears is charged with performing abortions. A co-defendant, Dr. Donald Loomis tells authorities Spears told him he (Spears) knew Julian Frank, Frank is the Westport, Conn., attorney who died in the crash of a plane near Bolivia, N. C. Jan. 6, after taking out nearly one million dollars in insurance.

Authorities are investigating the crash to try to determine whether an in-flight explosion caused it.

Thirteenth key — Is there any connection between that tragedy and the end of Flight 967?

THIS DAY IN TEXAS

By CURTIS BISHOP

On this day in 1828 the State of Tamaulipas granted one Rafael Garcia 30,000 acres of land, including the future site of one of South Texas' most important ports.

One part of the grant, the narrow peninsula jutting out into Laguna Madre, was called by the Mexicans "El Fronton de Santa Ysabel." Later, when the Americans came, they translated the name and called the place Port Isabel, a name that has stuck to this day.

The first settlers at Port Isabel came from New Orleans, many of them former sailors who set up businesses. After a hurricane destroyed Clarksville in 1874, many inhabitants of that town moved to Port Isabel.

The growth of nearby Brownsville, however, took part of the older town's population away. Before the Mexican War Port Isabel became a popular summer resort for residents of the surrounding territory.

Gen. Zachary Taylor established a supply base there during the campaign in northern Mexico. A well behind Champion's Store (the three Champion brothers were among the first settlers) was dug by the soldiers.

Today Port Isabel is a resort and fishing town and the home of the Rio Grande Valley Fishing Rodeo, which attracts fishermen from all over the United States.

HCJC Finances In Good Shape

Howard County Junior College finances through the first four months of the fiscal year are in good condition.

As of Dec. 31, 1959 the college had revenues of $290,557, leaving $121,501 to be collected on anticipated sources the balance of the year. Of this $49,902 will be in state subsidies and some $24,500 in taxes.

Another $20,000 is anticipated from tuition.

December expenditures (with the cumulative total in parentheses) were: administrative $4,741 ($16,562); general $3,325 ($15,795); instructional $19,838 ($69,224); library $1,872 ($4,594); athletics $2,194 ($3,843); plant expense $4,511 ($20,658); student activities $1,937 ($2,882); capital outlay $610 ($36,117); fixed charges $676 ($2,277); TOTALS $40,097 ($172,648).

The interest and sinking fund showed receipts of $29,428 in December or a total of $63,329 for the fiscal year. Disbursements for the month amounted to $16,120, of which $13,000 was in retirement of bonds and $3,100 in interest.

The total for the year is $24,611, of which $13,000 is in bonds and $11,573 in interest.

The dormitory account showed current assets of $29,540, including $14,661 in cash. Receipts for December stood at $6,914 for the first four months $32,371.

Butch Saunders
Asks Glasscock
Commissionership

GARDEN CITY—M. E. (Butch) Saunders, widely known Garden City resident of over nine years and resident of the St. Lawrence Community in Glasscock-Reagan counties, has announced his candidacy for the post of county commissioner of Glasscock County, Precinct No. 1.

Saunders, whose previous political experience includes two years as constable of Reagan County, is a farmer and rancher. He is familiar with conditions and problems of Glasscock County.

He and Mrs. Saunders, with their two children, Pat and Bud, have made their home in Garden City since last June.

He asks the support and vote of his fellow citizens in the Democratic Primary of May 7.

LADIES' NIGHT AFFAIR

Big Spring Rotarians will observe a special Ladies Night program Tuesday with a banquet at the Cosden Country Club, beginning at 7:30. Club members will have their wives and others as special guests.

They are to hear an address by a Texas design engineer and industrialist, Robert E. Nesmith, who has a message calling for an end to government competition with private business and for an end to the personal income tax.

Nesmith is a native Texan, has been in business for himself since 1939. He now owns, in Houston, the construction service firms of Robert E. Nesmith, Inc., and Robert E. Nesmith Engineering Co.

Nesmith was in the Naval Air Service from 1929 to 1933, then worked in the oil-fields until establishing his own aircraft firm in 1939. At the beginning of World War II, he joined the Army Air Corps and saw service in the CBI Theatre "flying the hump."

He is widely known as an engineer and aircraft designer. He is identified with several businesses, civic, military and political organizations.

Nesmith is a member of the Constitution Party, and last year was made Harris County Chairman for this group. He is a staunch advocate of a return to constitutional government, free enterprise, repeal of the 16th (personal income tax) Amendment, return of personal freedom to each individual.

The Rotary president, Dr. P. D. O'Brien, will be master of ceremonies for the program.

Nesmith is to be a guest, while in the Big Spring area, of a personal friend, Rich Anderson, on Anderson's Muleshoe Ranch in Borden County.

Influence Of Frontier Days Felt In Our Murder Laws

By SAM BLACKBURN
You can get away with murder in Texas.

The only catch in the deal is that you must be able to show that you killed in self-defense.

That is not too difficult in this state. Texas, due to its robust pioneer history, has many laws and many opinions of its higher courts which trace back to frontier days when a man felt undressed if he walked abroad without a pistol strapped to his waist.

SOME CHANGES
Things have changed some, to be sure. You can't buckle on a six-gun and stalk up and down Fourth Street as in the old days. The day is also gone when the quick-draw man was often times the most admired and feared.

Quick draw artists today are mostly peace officers and their skill is mostly put to use in demonstrating for other officers just how it can be done.

And don't be misled—even the courts and public sentiment sometime seem prone to look with leniency on homicide—packing a deadly weapon without legal excuse is a violation of the law. And killing, it may be added, is never a legal excuse in itself.

If a gunman should arise like a phantom of the past and provoke another into a gun duel—as portrayed dozens of times nightly on television shows—the survivor of that affray would not have been acting within the limits of the state's self-defense laws from a legal point of view. He would be guilty of murder.

SELF PROTECTION
But be assured of this—Texas laws and Texas customs recognize the right of a person to protect himself from serious bodily harm. That right extends to the point where a person so menaced can take the life of the person who threatens him, and he may be held guiltless.

Guilford Jones, district attorney, points out that self-defense is probably the most common homicide defense presented in the courts here and in most towns.

And, the defendant is not required by law to show that his life was actually in danger. All he has to do is to raise reasonable doubt in the mind of the jury. He has to convince the 12 men in the box that at the time he believed his life in mortal danger.

Texas laws, Jones said, are broad in regard to self-defense. They are written and designed to give the individual every possible benefit of protecting himself from unprovoked attack.

Jones agrees that most of the laws and prevailing opinions of Texas trace directly back to the so-called "law of the frontier." In those days, "it was a man's right to draw his pistol and kill another man if he believed the other man planned to do the same to him.

The law is even broader than merely defending one's self from bodily injury. A man is permitted under Texas law to go to the defense of another if the second person faces a possible death or grave bodily injury. Or, more exactly, if it appears that such danger exists.

USE ANY METHOD
A person, Jones observed, is permitted under the law to go to the aid of a friend in danger and to use any action he may deem at the moment necessary to rescue his friend from that danger. This can extend to the point where the life of the attacker can be taken.

For that matter, a Texan need not actually be under instant danger of death or bodily injury to take such action as he may feel necessary to protect himself.

"He does not have to retreat nor does he have to resort to less drastic means where he is threatened with a deadly weapon or with serious bodily injury," Jones explained. "If he faces such a situation and feels that his life is imperiled, he has a right under the law to kill."

"Of course," Jones added, "it will be up to the jury to decide whether the person really acted in self-defense. The jury will be instructed by the judge to look at the situation through the eyes of the defendant and try to determine what he thought and believed at the time of the killing."

"If there is a reasonable doubt in the minds of the jury—if the jurors cannot quite convince themselves the situation was as grave as it appeared to the defendant and yet they cannot completely convince themselves that it did not so appear to him at the time, that doubt must be resolved in his favor and he must be acquitted."

TOUGH TO PROSECUTE
Jones said that a self-defense plea in a murder case poses many hardships for the prosecuting attorney and sometimes makes conviction difficult.

And even if the defendant does not plead self-defense in his trial, if any testimony develops that he may have had such a reason for the killing, the judge is required to instruct the jury on all laws and court decisions regarding self-defense.

A defendant is entitled to affirmative instructions by the judge on every issue raised by the evidence, Jones explained, regardless of whether that evidence was produced by the state or defense, strong or weak, unimpeached or contradicted.

This makes it important, Jones said, that both state and defense have plenty of corroborating witnesses on hand. The state needs its witnesses to prove its charge of murder; the defendant, though he is presumed innocent until proved guilty, must offer a strong case, especially if he wants to persuade the jury he acted in self-defense.

DEFENSE DEFINED
Erisman's Manual of Reversible Errors recites: "The right or self-defense commences when the necessity thereof arises and continues as long as there is real or apparent danger and ceases when such real or apparent danger disappears."

A hypothetical case would illustrate how this works:

A man hears another man has been making threats to shoot him. These men meet on a street. The suspected assailant reaches toward a back pocket. The defendant thinks he has a reasonable belief the other man is reaching for a gun. He draws his own weapon and kills the other man.

He has a case of self-defense even though it can be found later that the man was only reaching for a handkerchief and that he had no gun in his possession.

However, this defendant has to have witnesses who can testify to the threats his victim made toward him; and who will be able to tell the jury they saw the slain man make the gesture with his hand toward his hip pocket. They must also be able to bolster the defendant's contention that he had good reason to believe the victim was trying to draw a gun and shoot.

ALWAYS HELPFUL
Jones also points out that in cases where self-defense is raised by a defendant but the defendant is unable to present sufficiently strong evidence to persuade the jury of his right to kill, juries ordinarily mitigate the penalty they assess.

There is no such thing in Texas as a permit to carry a pistol or any weapon. However, Texans have an inherent right to arm themselves if threats of death or serious injury have been made against them.

In fact, if he wants to do so, a Texan has the right to seek out the one who made the threats—but he must do so solely for purpose of discussing peacefully the reasons for the threat. He must not seek out his enemy to provoke that person into making a threatening move. However, again, if this peaceable discussion should lead to the point where the person makes a threatening gesture and is shot dead, the defendant has the right to plead self-defense.

GOES ALL THE WAY
You can't protect yourself beyond the point of actual self-defense, Jones said.

"If a man finds it necessary to shoot to protect himself, he is justified in continuing to shoot or otherwise act as long as he believes he is still in danger. But as soon as the danger ceases or the assailant flees to safety, the time has come to halt."

Although Texas laws may seem unusually broad in the matter of self-defense, most attorneys regard them as fair in that they insure the defendant his proper right as to the benefit of the doubt.

In general Jones feels that juries are careful in reaching decisions on murder cases where self-defense is the issue. They may instigate a sentence but they don't always acquit.

Butch Saunders Asks Glasscock Commissionership

GARDEN CITY—M. E. (Butch) Saunders, widely known Garden City resident of over nine years and resident of the St. Lawrence Community in Glasscock-Reagan counties, has announced his candidacy for the post of county commissioner of Glasscock County, Precinct No. 1.

Saunders, whose previous political experience includes two years as constable of Reagan County, is a farmer and rancher. He is familiar with conditions and problems of Glasscock County.

He and Mrs. Saunders, with their two children, Pat and Bud, have made their home in Garden City since last June.

He asks the support and vote of his fellow citizens in the Democratic Primary of May 7.

Rotarians To Hear Constitutionalist

Big Spring Rotarians will observe a special Ladies Night program Tuesday with a banquet at the Cosden Country Club, beginning at 7:30. Club members will have their wives and others as special guests.

They are to hear an address by a Texas design engineer and industrialist, Robert E. Nesmith, who has a message calling for an end to government competition with private business and for an end to the personal income tax.

Nesmith is a native Texan, has been in business for himself since 1939. He now owns, in Houston, the construction service firms of Robert E. Nesmith, Inc., and Robert E. Nesmith Engineering Co.

Nesmith was in the Naval Air Service from 1929 to 1933, then worked in the oil-fields until establishing his own aircraft firm in 1939. At the beginning of World War II, he joined the Army Air Corps and saw service in the CBI Theatre "flying the hump."

DEAR ABBY

HE NEEDS HELP

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 14 years and never had any children, although we wanted some.

Two years ago we got word from my husband's sister who lives out of state that they would be glad to send us their 7-year-old boy as he couldn't get along with his sisters and brothers. We thought maybe we could straighten him out so we let him come.

We enrolled him in a parochial school. He sassed the sisters and made trouble on the bus so they asked us to take him out.

Then we tried public school. He got all "F's" but the teacher promoted him anyway to be sure she didn't have him in her room again. They suggested an X-ray for his head. We found nothing. The boy is 9, and refuses to learn or obey. What do we do next?

DEAR ABBY: A child who rebels against authority and refuses to be educated, could be emotionally disturbed. Do the boy a favor and take him to a child psychiatrist.

DEAR ABBY: I wish you'd print this for the millions of people who think all we teen-agers ever do is hang around in gangs and get into trouble.

We are four teen-agers. Two girls, 16, and two boys, 17. Do you know what we did last Saturday night? From 7:30 p.m. until midnight we sat on our living room floor and took turns reading aloud "Sonnets From the Portuguese" by Elizabeth Barrett Browning. The boys brought a quart of ice cream and we supplied the hot fudge and pecans. We all agreed that it was the nicest evening we had ever spent.

DEAR ABBY: I darned near bawled when I read that letter from the person who signed himself "Missed the Boat." He blamed his parents for not giving him a good swift kick in the pants and making him go on with his music. Tell him to move over. I didn't have brains enough to take advantage of the piano lessons my folks tried to force on me either. I finally got them to let me quit. I thought I won. But 25 years later, I realize I lost.

ALSO MISSED THE BOAT DEAR ABBY: Boats leave every day. Anyone who wants to learn to play the piano can learn. Age doesn't mean a thing. A "Ruth S." wrote from Bethesda, Md., that at 82, her father taught himself to play the piano with a self-help book. Bravo!

CONFIDENTIAL TO BESSIE: Don't marry him if you question his ability to make rational decisions. Maybe his children, are trying to line up a babysitter for his second childhood.

Have you read Abby's new, best-selling book, "DEAR TEEN-AGER"?

Snyder Minister Will Speak Here

Officers See Death Motive In $100 Victim Had On Him

Cecil Grady, 29-year-old ex-convict, bludgeoned to death a week ago Friday on a lonely Sterling County road, was probably slain because of $100 he had on his person.

John Wood, Texas Ranger who has been working with Sheriff W. O. (Bill) Green of Sterling County on the case, said Saturday that a charge of murder has been filed in Sterling City against a 34-year-old part-time oil field worker in connection with the case.

The man has not been arrested and his name is being withheld until he is in custody. It was said that his home is Corpus Christi but that he has been in the Odessa area for some time. Not too long ago, Wood said, the man was in the Odessa County jail for another offense.

BIG HUSKY FELLOW

He is described as a big fellow, weighing around 225 pounds and six feet in height, having grey eyes, brown hair with receding hairline. He is believed to be driving a 1950-51 Oldsmobile, license number of which is not known.

Officers said that it has been established that Grady was known to have had approximately $100 on his person on Thursday night.

When the body was searched, the officers found only eleven $1 bills. These were thrust in a pocket of his jacket. Officials theorize that his slayer may have looted his victim of the larger share of cash.

The man being sought fits the general description given officers by a Big Spring oil field worker on Jan. 17 as the person he encountered at the scene of the slaying some four or five hours before the lifeless body of the victim was found in the roadside ditch.

This Big Spring man reported that he came upon a stalled automobile on a narrow oil field road just off the Sterling City-Garden City highway at 8 a.m. on Jan. 16.

The man, whose clothing was stained with blood and who was mopping blood from a wound on his head when the oil field worker arrived, said his car wouldn't start and asked for a push. The oil field worker gave the car, which he thought was a 1955 Oldsmobile, a shove and it started.

Later when the Big Spring man heard of the finding of Grady's body, he contacted Miller Harris, Howard County sheriff. Harris relayed the information to Green. On Saturday, Jan. 17, the Big Spring man took officers to the place where he had seen the car and the blood-stained man. It was disclosed that the spot was less than 50 yards from where the body was found.

TRAILED VICTIM

Wood and Green have been working on the case steadily since that time. They traced Grady to San Angelo and found he had been seen drinking beer there on Thursday night. He was in company with a heavyset man identified as being the one now being sought by officers. They were in several taverns together in San Angelo until at least midnight on Jan. 14.

Wood believes that Grady and his companion were in San Angelo until sometime around 6 a.m. Friday.

Wood said that it had been established that Grady was given a ride from Huntville, where he was released from prison, to Coleman with a deputy sheriff on the day he was released from the state prison. It was also his 29th birthday. There, it was found out, he bought a bus ticket to Midland where he visited relatives. Sometime later he returned to San Angelo.

Recital Set For Today

Thirty-eight young students will be presented in recital today at 2:30 p.m. in the Howard County Junior College auditorium. All will be piano selections except for an ensemble composed of Marilyn Doelp, Susan Zack and Sally Adair; flute; Donna Wiehe, oboe, and Mary Jane Engstrom. They will play three movements from Kassar's "Concerto in C."

Among those on the program are Shelia Yater, Jannabeth Clinkscales, Peggy Riherd, Linda Lu Lyle, Cindy Maneely, Beverly Peters, Jeannie McDonald, Jan Campbell, Alan Doelp, Peter Einstein, Sharon Johnson, Barbara Barnett, Becky Kitching, Jacqueline Cook.

Cindy Gressett, Melody Kelso, Carolyn Hooser, Sherry Stroup, Rachel Phelan, Beverly Hooser, LaNell Meredith, Jan Ellen Cudd, Brenda Lou Hooser, Aveland Greenwood, Gayle Bratcher, Lynn Wood, Suzanne Cook, Jerry Younger, Malinda Crocker, DeLores Howard and Hubert Murphy. Several duets and one quartet are included.

Sixteen teachers make up the forum group.

Executive Unit Named

Cliff Fisher, president of the Chamber of Commerce, has announced the appointment of the executive committee for 1960.

Serving with him will be the other officers, Ike Robb, vice president; Larson Lloyd, treasurer; plus the immediate past president, Clyde McMahon, and Champ Rainwater and Adolph Swartz. Bill Quimby, manager of the Chamber, will serve as an ex officio member of the committee.

This group functions mainly as a planning and screening group, although it functions for the board in certain emergency situations.

Houston Bottle Clubs Outnumber Taverns

By JIM BOWMAN

HOUSTON (AP)—Thirsty citizens can seek out a bottle club here almost as easily as they can find the licensed tavern.

Some clubs are illegal, state officials agree. The hitch comes in proving it in court.

Houston leads the state with an estimated 250 to 300 clubs where a member may order the booze of his choice, says Coke Stevenson Jr., chairman of the Texas Liquor Control Board.

The Houston telephone book lists fewer than 400 taverns licensed for the sale of beer and wine.

Dallas has about 100 unregistered bottle clubs, Galveston 50, Fort Worth up to 25, Corpus Christi less than 20 and Austin about 12, Liquor Control Board agents say.

"None of them are legal," says Woodrow Mints, supervisor of the Houston area. But the courts have not ruled that two basic types of bottle clubs are definitely illegal.

"We arrived at this... by filing cases and getting beat on them," Mints says.

Liquor Control Board summations are that a member may bring his own bottle into a club, and keep it in a locker for his own use without violating the law. He may also pay a charge on set-ups consumed.

Or he may join a club using the "pool" system whereby each member antes up an equal fee for alcoholic beverages periodically—regardless of whether he buys one drink or 100.

"Our thinking—and apparently that of the courts—is that a bartender can't sell a man a drink which the man already owns," Mints says.

LCB agents raided a number of private clubs here shortly before Christmas, claiming they sold liquor to non-members.

Then Atty. Gen. Will Wilson and Stevenson announced a crackdown on illegal bottle clubs. Wilson said he will ask the Legislature for a bill to give officers better legal footing.

The Legislature has neither recognized or outlawed bottle clubs, Stevenson says one rule of thumb is whether the club seeks a profit. If it does, he says, it would appear to be in the bogus bracket.

Clubs operated by professional and fraternal groups—"legal" clubs, or otherwise—customarily are by-passed by LCB investigators who seem to concentrate on the profit seekers.

The "commercial" club can open up in a home somewhere so we really have no exact idea just how many clubs there are," Mints said.

Garden City Show Monday

GARDEN CITY — Indications Saturday were that young Glasscock livestock and poultry experts will profit nicely at the big auction sale which climaxes the 23rd annual Glasscock County Livestock Show Monday afternoon.

The sale is expected to attract a large number of bidders and it is anticipated most of the 100 lambs, 15 fat pigs and 15 capons will be offered for sale.

The show opens on Monday morning with Clemon Montgomery, of Big Spring, Vocational Agriculture Area supervisor, as judge.

The show is to be in the old gym. The building has been remodelled and will be amply heated.

A barbecue dinner will be served at noon. Arrangements have been made with a catering service to handle the meal.

FFA and 4-H Club boys and girls of the county are competing in the show. Glasscock County stock shows have gained considerable renown for the quality of the animals shown and the interest displayed by the residents of the county.

Vernon Farmer Ginner Of Year

DALLAS (AP)—Aubrey Lockett, a Vernon farmer, banker and cotton seed breeder, has been named Texas Cotton Ginner of the Year.

The Texas Cotton Ginners Assn. sponsors the annual selection. Lockett will be honored at the association's annual meeting opening Sunday.

Lockett is chairman of the Waggoner National Bank of Vernon and operates four cotton gins, three near Vernon and one at Ropesville near Lubbock. He also was founder of the Lockett Seed Co.

The association cited Lockett for modern gin operation and for his participation in many programs of the cotton industry and his own community.

Warning! Get That Poll Tax Or Exemption Now!

Only eight more business days remain in which Texans in every county of the state, all 254 of them, may qualify themselves to vote in the primaries this spring and the general election next fall.

That is by paying their poll tax before the end of business Jan. 31. (This falls on Sunday hence, Saturday midnight may be the deadline.)

Only in Texas and four or five other states is a poll tax receipt a prerequisite to voting, though most of the others have certain comparable regulations relating to residence and registration.

The price of a poll tax receipt in Texas is $1.75, of which $1 goes to the common school fund, 25 cents retained by the county and 50 cents by the state.

Those over 60 are exempt from payment of the poll tax, but if they live in a city of more than 10,000 population they must get an exemption certificate (free) from the county tax assessor-collector, and they must get it at that place and nowhere else.

Many elderly voters here are now inside the city limits and are warped to be sure and obtain exemptions.

Probably every literate person in Texas knows this is a top-level election year throughout the nation, and that to qualify he must have a poll tax receipt or exemption certificate if he is over-age or under-age.

As hundreds of thousands of Texans every year disfranchise themselves by failing to qualify, this is only partly due to a disinclination to vote; it is mostly due to negligence, inertia or forgetfulness. So far only about 50 per cent of our people have qualified.

The national election this year will be a three-ring circus, and the precinct, county, district and state contests will be lively as usual.

Voting is a civic duty, as well as a pleasure.

But you have to qualify in order to vote, and if you don't hurry up and qualify between now and the close of business January 31 you won't have anything to say on election day, pro or con.

HCJC Stresses Quality In Program

The Council of State College Presidents this week issued a policy statement in behalf of the 19 senior state-supported colleges saying it would be a "grave mistake" for Texas to attempt to support any more colleges and universities now or in the near future.

This view, the heads of the institutions said, stems less from a desire to protect existing state institutions "than from a realistic assessment about what can reasonably be expected from the general revenue of the state in maintaining and improving the quality of public higher education in Texas."

The statement insists further duplication or multiplication of these state facilities "will serve neither the cause of economy nor of effectiveness." Evidence is in hand that demonstrates "that it is more economical to expand established state institutions than to develop new ones or to take over the support of those having difficulties under other sponsorship."

Of course those having in hand campaigns to designate additional institutions of the kind, or take over or enlarge them, will disagree with these conclusions.

But the educational dollar in Texas as elsewhere, including public school funds, is not inexhaustible, and the more it is spread around the less there is left for those already existing. Nor is the taxpayer's responsibility in the field of higher education without metes and bounds.

The quality of higher education is of paramount importance. We have no ambitions now for Howard Junior College except that it continue to stress quality in its program and to insist on quality performance by its students. There is a great future for our college because it aspires to be the best in its field and recognizes the peculiar contribution that a strong two-year college can make to the increasingly heavier demands on higher education.

By the way, HCJC begins a new semester this week. Why not register for some courses?

Marquis Childs Importance Of Policy Coordination

WASHINGTON — The decisions that men take in their moments of power—or the decisions they have forced upon them by events—live long after they are dead. Nothing could illustrate this more dramatically than the controversy touched off by Sir Anthony Eden's criticism in his memoirs of the late John Foster Dulles' conduct of American foreign policy.

Giving his version of the tragedy of Suez and his justification for Britain's attack on Egypt, Eden goes back to Dulles' abrupt decision in 1956 to deny help to the Nasser government on the vast Aswan dam project. The former British Prime Minister says, in an installment of his story published in McCall's, that Dulles made his announcement without prior consultation with either London or Cairo.

IN EDEN'S VIEW that triggered Nasser's seizure of the Suez Canal. Citing evidence of his own determination to resist this action, he accuses Dulles of first blowing hot and then cold and finally under pressure of election-year politics failing to go along with a plan to put Nasser and the canal out of business. It is the bitter lament of one who saw his career ruined and his country humiliated in a fateful misadventure.

The consequences of that whole misadventure, beginning with the abrupt announcement that there would be no aid from the West for the Aswan dam, are in today's headlines. It has just been confirmed that Soviet Russia will finance not only the first stage but also the second stage of the dam project. Credits of 100 million dollars are going to underwrite the first phase now in progress. This gives Russia a position of great power and influence not only in Egypt but throughout the Middle East.

WHAT EDEN DOES NOT SAY in his memoirs, either because he does not know it or because he feels it is outside his province, is that Dulles was restrained by budget-balancing and economy considerations from taking a bold policy line. He had first agreed to go along with a Canal Users Association at a meeting with Eden in London in the summer of '56. But when on his return to Washington the Treasury discovered this meant outlays of up to a half-billion dollars the plan was vetoed and Dulles had to beat a retreat.

Similarly Dulles' private explanation for the earlier announcement on the Aswan dam was that Congress would never approve an economic aid program containing funds for the Nile River development. Southern senators, he said, would regard that as an encouragement to Egypt to grow more cotton in competition with the South in world markets.

THESE SAME PRESSURES in Congress today threaten to cut back the proposed expenditure for foreign aid (most of it military) of $3,450,000,000 in the new Eisenhower budget. There are no new proposals in the economy budget despite the President's generalized assurances on underdeveloped lands during his visit to India in December.

The tendency here will be to dismiss Eden's criticism as a sour effort to put the blame for the failure of the Suez strike on someone else. But if the present can learn from the past then there is a salutary lesson in the Eden story.

"That lesson is, above all, in the failure to coordinate policy—and in the first instance to formulate a clear and unmistakable policy line—until a crisis occurs and disaster impends. A threat of the same kind of failure is inherent in the way in which today Britain and the United States are beginning to pull apart on disarmament and a nuclear test ban agreement."

THE EXCERPTS FROM the lengthy Eden memoir published thus far in this country do not include his story of the 1954 Indo-China conference in Geneva when again he was at odds with Dulles. That installment, published in the Times of London, charges that the United States proposed an atomic strike from aircraft carriers in Tonkin Bay to take the beleaguered port of Dien-Bien-Phu and thereby turn the tide of the war in favor of the French. According to Eden, the then Prime Minister, Winston Churchill, checked this move.

President Eisenhower has denied that any such plan had been developed to be "put into execution." But those of us covering the Indo-China story were convinced at the time that if Churchill had said yes Admiral Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, would have immediately put through his own plan for intervention. It was another instance in which imminent disaster had taken the Western allies by surprise and they groped on the brink for a way out. Even though he does not confess his own shortcomings, by telling most of these events than we have known thus far, Eden has done the West a service.

Executive Profile

STILLWATER, Okla. — The mark of a successful executive is the ability to bounce back, self confidence, dedication of a missionary and a dash of humor.

This observation was made by Dr. Milton L. Rock, vice president of a Philadelphia management consultant firm, at a meeting of executives here.

The autoclave is pretty much like a pressure cooker only more so. Every gown, mask or other such garment worn in the operating room is "cooked" in the autoclave for an extended time before it is used.

The autoclave, in short, is a steam chamber operated under high pressure, forcing super-heated

COME ZE REVOLUTION—AND GO

J. A. Livingston New Attack On Inflation Brings Stock Decline

The connection between the drop in stock prices since the first of the year and President Eisenhower's Economic Report is not accidental.

The President repeats for the umpteenth time that he's against inflation. He refers to the steel settlement obliquely, and suggests that maybe it would be a good idea if industries reduced prices. Further, he urges union leaders to cooperate with business men toward efficiency—higher productivity.

THESE OBSERVATIONS have the virtue of persistence. Once again, the President tries to organize public resistance against price advances.

"A well-informed and vigilant public opinion is essential... for price stability and vigorous economic growth. Such public opinion can be an effective safeguard against attempts to arbitrarily establish prices or wages at levels that are inconsistent with the general welfare."

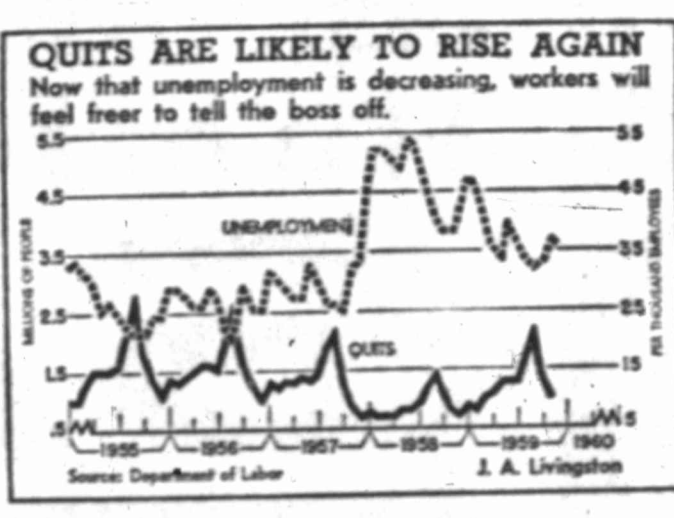

This puts moral pressure on business men as well as the stock market: Business men are free to price their products as they see fit. But the administration won't take kindly to increases. In steel, it is now obvious that the larger companies will try to hold the price line for a while—pending an appraisal of new wage costs.

THIS WILL REPRESS profits. It slows the game of wage-price-profit leapfrog. Is this why steel stocks have sold off since the agreement?

Moreover, the Wall Street Journal reports that increased competition tends to keep prices down. There's plenty of plant capacity and, therefore, competition in consumer products.

This prospect (if it can be called that) de-emphasizes common stocks as an inflation hedge. Throughout the postwar period, investment advisers have touted stocks as a protection against the declining purchasing power of the dollar. Consequently, if the administration succeeds in deflating inflation, it will simultaneously deflate common stocks.

High interest rates are in influence. The renewal of the President's request to Congress to lift the 4% per cent ceiling on government bonds re-publicizes the high interest rates available on federal lenses. When government bonds yield nearly 5 per cent, income-conscious investors may decide to forego the promised profits of common stocks.

THE SLUMP in Wall Street does not invalidate the President's hopeful forecast for 1960. Production will rise during the next few months, if only because of depleted inventories in the metal-processing industries. Employment also will increase, and, as a corollary, unemployment is not likely to rise sharply, as it normally does in January and February, when outdoor work is at its lowest.

Last year, winter unemployment reached 4,700,000, and in the recession year of 1958 the high was 5,200,000. This winter's high may not reach 4,000,000. The December total was 3,600,000.

A labor squeeze may be in the making in the next six months. Quitting rises when unemployment falls (see chart). Workers feel freer to "look around" when jobs are easier to find.

THE PRESIDENT'S Economic Report poses a contradiction. Mr. Eisenhower and his advisers believe in the freedom of the market. They also believe in the restraint of the marketplace. Sellers are free to price their products, but if they price them too high, they'll run into competitive troubles. Consumers will revolt—stop buying.

However, the Employment Act of 1946 requires the government to rush in and save consumers from themselves when they fail to buy the products of industry. Unemployment mustn't rise too much. The fierce recessions of the past, which "corrected" high prices, are impermissible. Thus, market restraint can't "do its stuff."

SO, THE PRESIDENT seeks to strengthen market restraint with moral suasion. He urges consumers to buy carefully "for price and quality," and thus "exert a restraining influence on the cost of living." At the same time, he asks union leaders and business executives to show "statesmanship," not force up wages and prices beyond gains in industrial productivity. Unhappily for him, prices and wages have not responded to the moral suasion of either the Democrats or Republicans.

However, a new choice has been added. High interest rates—nearly 5 per cent on government bonds—may encourage saving. Some people may buy bonds instead of swimming pools or new home furnishings or new cars. They may prefer bonds to stocks.

And that could be what this early-in-the-year selling in the stock market is all about. Ultimately, tight money "gets" Wall Street saved for surprises.

DES MOINES — Do you have your cards to be opened all at once, on Christmas afternoon, maybe?

You might take a lesson from the experience of a Des Moines matron. She did that and found she had missed accepting invitations to three early holiday parties.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Our little boy, now 20 months, was born with club feet. He wore casts for four months and a brace for a little longer than that. He has done well and has learned to cooperate in his exercises.

"We are expecting a second child and are wondering what the chances are that this baby will have club feet.—J.S."

The cause of club foot is not known; there can be a hereditary factor, but there is no way one could predict that it will occur with the second child, or others.

Parents having youngsters with this deformity should take note—and take heart—regarding the good results afforded by proper and early treatment, as in your case.

Around The Rim Now, If You'd Only Quit Smoking

Six months in a given situation is enough to qualify any columnist to be an expert.

So today you are reading after an expert on non-smoking. Well it's nearly time for my six-month birthday away from what has been called the evil weed. Matter of fact, it is, at this writing, five months, 18 days, 12 hours, 48 minutes and 13 seconds. It has to be presumed that I will last out the six months.

One hears so many good things that derive from abandoning smoking that I really had to try it for a long time, to give up the habit. It took an abnormal jolt to bring this about, so what have we got after the big step has been taken?

I had reached the traditional age of manhood before I started on cigarettes. I do not know what motivated (as the advertising people say) me to buy Brand X, but after starting on Brand X—a real he-man's potent tag—I never abandoned it. All this ballyhoo about filters and porous paper and added menthol and mildness and taste and all the rest of it have had absolutely no effect. I stayed with Brand X from start to finish.

Not at what the analysts call an excessive rate, I suppose, but a good average of nine or ten packs a week.

All right, there were all these things to be said against smoking, and my man in his right senses would agree. A loathsome habit, an expensive one; completely foolish and absolutely silly; filthy and malodorous if not downright obnoxious; a detriment to health. So what? I intended to quit, and was going to, some day.

The cancer link shook me some, so to use an old gag—I quit reading about it. The old blood pressure was on the rise, but this might be attributable to many things. Nervousness and tension might be created by smoking, but perversely, smoking seemed to ease these something. People who already had been over the falls of cutting off tobacco intake gave me many a lecture on what could be expected, if I would just take the plunge.

Your food will taste much better, they said. You'll find your throat much clearer, and you'll cough a lot less, they said. You'll be much more peaceful and serene, they said. You'll be in much better health, they said. You'll be much easier to live with, they said.

Dagone, this sounds like a complete personality change. But, after nearly six months, I am now ready to give a first-hand report on what really happens after one gives up tobacco.

(1) The food is the same as it ever was. The Dream Girl always prepared delicious dishes still does, and the local restaurants are at about their same level. A good steak is a good steak.

(2) I go around coughing and harking and clearing my throat as much as I ever did, so there goes THAT idea. (3) There's still an open question as to the state of health, but if I am going to acquire a potentially like most of those who abandoned the weed, some doctor had better take care of me.

(4) More peaceful and serene? One doesn't get that way from pacing the floor and climbing the walls, all the time trying to cast out the appeal of that log pull on a cigarette; and finally

(5) Who in the world could be easier to live with when he talks about quitting smoking all the time? There's no more disgusting practice under the sun, and I now am addicted to it. You have to take your choice. Either you smoke and enjoy yourself, or you quit and grow unattractive and never have a happy day.

Hand me a fag, will you? —BOB WHIPKEY

Norman Vincent Peale Disciplined People Are Strong People

I don't know how many people will be reading this who saw Halley's Comet when it flashed through the skies back in 1910. But those of us who did see that amazing phenomenon will never forget it.

I was a boy then living in Norwood, Ohio, a beautiful city which is part of metropolitan Cincinnati. We lived at 2034 Spencer Avenue in a house that rented for $15 a month. The dollar was really a dollar in those days—and my father, who was a preacher, had very few of those dollars. The time to pay the rent was always a time for family confessions and prayer sessions. But, somehow, God did always provide and my memories of that house are wonderful ones.

HALLEY'S COMET IS ONE of the most vivid of these boyhood recollections. I can see it yet, zooming dramatically across the sky, its long tail blazing behind it. I was 14 then, and when my father told me the comet would be back in another 75 years, I asked, "Dad, do you think I'll be here to see it?"

"Well," he said, "I don't really know. But I don't want you to worry about whether you can hang on long enough to see Halley's Comet again. I want you to be concerned about the kind of man you are going to be in the course of your life however long or short it may be."

Not only our fathers but our teachers as well were interested in the kind of people we youngsters were going to be. Down the street from our house was the old Williams Avenue school. I can still see, in my mind's eye, old Mr. Reeves, the enormous man who taught the fifth grade. (He probably wasn't that old or that huge, but to my boyish mind he was a giant.) And I can still remember the forcible application of his hand to the seat of my trousers. Unlike most modern pedagogues, he practiced the art of spanking—not because he was sadistic but for the good of the student.

There are other things he did, too, which might shock modern educators.

In the midst of a lesson, he would thunder out "Silence!" And, when he said "Silence," there was silence beyond question. Then he would go to the blackboard, pick up a piece of chalk and write in huge letters, "CANT." After this, he would turn around and glare at us.

We knew what to do. With united voice we would chant "Strike the T of the 'Can't.'" Then with powerful stroke he would erase the "T" leaving the word, "CAN."

"LET THAT BE A LESSON to you," he would tell us. "You are children of God living in free America and, with God's help, you can overcome any difficulties." Then he would add a phrase I've never forgotten. "You can when you think you can."

Most of us did overcome many difficulties and I feel very fortunate to have been one of those boys. When I think about my life in Cincinnati, I am impressed by the fact that two things seem to have produced the results which I hope to see in my own children. The first was a school system in which fair but real discipline was not sacrificed to pedagogical experimentation. And, even more important was a home in which there were parents who themselves lived a life of rectitude and honor and who knew how to pass on a sense of self-discipline to their children.

When we fail our children in these two essentials we are depriving them of their basic heritage. Parents have much to do with what a child becomes—and the kind of person he is going to be. Parents can develop a child into a strong person by how well they apply discipline. And a child wants discipline. To deprive him of it is to start him towards becoming the kind of person you don't want him to be. We must ever remember that discipline is a fact of life. Disciplined people are strong people.

New Policy Needed To Deal With Cocky Castro

WASHINGTON—When will all the Latin-American countries wake up to the fact that Fidel Castro is doing more to hurt the business development of the entire hemisphere than anybody else, unless it is the regime in Moscow?

Businessmen today are hesitating whether to invest money in Central and South America. They wonder if the same destructive influences which gave Castro power will arise in other countries besides Cuba. Most significant is a statement just made by William R. Matthews, editor and publisher of the "Arizona Daily Star." He is widely known for his writings and has for years done a great deal of traveling to different parts of the world to report on political and economic conditions. He says:

"As one of the general newspaper and radio reporters who interviewed Castro of Cuba in his home near Havana last Feb. 28 and saw what a rare opportunity he had to bring about the blessings of freedom and democracy to his country, the course of events has compelled me to change my opinion drastically.

"I HAVE SEEN COMMUNIST operations all over the world. Castro, in my opinion, is a prisoner of the Communists. sent hands-off policy continues, we will have to bow to their will and establish a 'people's democracy' or make way for his brother and others to do it.

"Probably in the next year, if our present hands-off policy continues, we will be confronted with a full-fledged Communist nation on our doorstep. When that happens, inaction on our part will have a profound effect elsewhere in the world. Let us not overlook the fact that our misstar Mikoyan spent 10 days in Mexico a few months ago. For what? If we remember that the Castro revolution was hatched in Mexico, the reason for such a visit becomes more apparent."

Mr. Matthews suggests that maybe the time has come to invite the people of Cuba to come into the United States with the same free commonwealth status as Puerto Rico has. Certainly many Cubans would prefer to be under American protection.

BUT THE PEOPLE OF CUBA undoubtedly want to preserve their independence and their sovereignty. The United States can do a great deal to assist Cuba to remain free from the control of any foreign government. The problem, however, is not merely in Cuba but all through Latin America, where the Communist apparatus is at work infiltrating political and economic institutions.

Relations between foreign countries and Cuba are steadily growing worse, rather than better. Confiscation of property is continuing. The American government has been patient, but already measures of reprisal are being proposed.

Thus, Sen. Smathers (D-Fla.), has come forth with the suggestion that the United States withhold from Cuba its subsidy on sugar until Cuba repays Americans for confiscated properties. The subsidy is about $150 million annually, and comes about because the United States pays Cuba a certain amount above the world price for sugar. The idea would be to deposit the differential in a special fund until the Cuban government makes proper compensation for seized properties. If, within a reasonable time, Cuba doesn't compensate those whose investments have been confiscated, then the money would be used to repay Americans for their losses.

In Buenos Aires, the influential newspaper "La Prensa" said flatly a couple days ago that the Castro regime in Cuba is "dictatorship." There have been similar comments from other Latin-American newspapers, but there is as yet no concerted planning among these countries on what to do about the Communist infiltration that has, for instance, made Castro so cocky in Cuba and so indifferent to the pleas of other governments in this hemisphere.

FOR THE PROBLEM IS NOT solely the concern of the United States. It involves a direct threat to all Latin-American countries. The organization of American states is really the forum where the whole situation should be discussed publicly, but, before any action can be taken by it, there will have to be a good deal of informal private consultation between the principal governments. Meanwhile, President Eisenhower has asked a special study group, which includes Secretary of State Herter and Dr. Milton Eisenhower, to come up with some program or plan for dealing with the Cuban situation.

His conversation frequently ran to serious subjects. In his early life, he "took to the road," that is, hobnobbing. "That was my greatest experience," he said, "as it taught me a very important thing. You can make out OK, you just try."

He said he considers Hong Kong as the most interesting place in the world. He listed its nearness to danger as well as its beauty for his interest. He likes his own Southern California, too. He spoke at length on the television industry, prophesying a better season in programming for the coming year. He said the biggest trend will be toward family situation-type comedy programs, similar to the Danny Thomas program. Second on the list will be better adventure-type programs.

YMCA Membership Drive Is Ready

Well over 100 volunteers will take to the field Monday morning with their sights on 750 memberships for the YMCA. Five divisions will be fighting for the right to carry the football, traditional symbol which goes to the leader. One division leader will get the bird—an embattled rooster—for trailing.

Objective of the campaign is $14,000 in memberships, from the general division. The sustaining division, with something like 40 workers, is completing its part of the campaign launched two weeks ago. The major reason for a sharp increase in the membership objective, and in fees, is the YMCA's new plant, Bobo Hardy, general secretary, urged people to go to the building nearing completion on E. 8th and Benton and see for themselves what the potentials are for an expanded program in the new facility. There will be many activities such as swimming, physical programs, etc. which have not

THE WEEK

In a couple of months, the Y is having to make substantial budgetary provision for its operation. Hence, membership fees will be higher, but for the first time the YMCA will have an abundance to really offer adults as well as youths.

Jaycees gave three pats on the head at the annual bosses banquet Tuesday. Doug Whitley, a man dead serious about his calling as a science instructor, got the top teacher award; Jim Wade got the top police award for his energy and courtesy; and Daryle Hohertz the outstanding Jaycee award for his leadership and hard work on several projects.

Frank Hardesty was given an important job last week in being assigned the chairmanship of the Red Cross disaster set-up. We devoutly pray this is something never to be needed, but should a disaster come, a disciplined organization can be a merciful thing.

The Big Spring Country Club elevated J. R. Hensley to its presidency at the annual stockholders meeting. He already had the building chairmanship, so he won't lack for something to do. Incidentally, work has started on the clubhouse and steady progress is being made on the course. When complete, the layout ought to be one of the most attractive in West Texas.

At the stockholders meeting of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, a net gain of more than a million dollars in savings was reported for the past year. It also was revealed that the association would build a new plant this year. In that respect it may beat the First National Bank to the draw in pointing business expansion up. Main First National already has its site on the half block north of First Federal and is planning a building.

The First Baptist Church, in that neighborhood, is launching a stewardship campaign this week with object of visiting every member. Out of this might in time come the foundation for moving that congregation to a site it has acquired south of the VA Hospital.

New street signs are being erected in many parts of the city. Unlike the antiquated signs in some sectors, these bear inscriptions on both sides, making it easy to see where you are going—as well as where you have been.

Joe Flick, whose faithfulness to visit the sick was equalled by few and excelled by none, is discovering just how wonderful it is to have friends who come by to say hello. Since mid-December he has been in the hospital with a fractured hip, but in that time people have been simply marvelous to drop in to say a bedside prayer, to send flowers, etc. And a mist comes to his eyes when he talks about it.

Members of the First Baptist Church, considerably more than 300 strong, will gather at the Junior College SUB at 1 p.m. today for the stewardship loyalty dinner.

This will mark the conclusion of the preparatory stage. Starting Monday, volunteers will begin to make calls in the homes of members of the church to enlist their participation in time, attendance and giving to the church's program.

Out of this special effort, the church hopes to lay the foundation for an ultimate move to a site which has been contracted south of the Veterans Administration Hospital.

Truman left their identities dangling and then went to considerable pains to say that he himself is not yet formally committed to anyone although he does have "certain inclinations to some of the candidates."

Demos Officially Light Fuse For President Race

WASHINGTON (AP)—A phalanx of Democratic presidential possibilities blasted away at the Eisenhower administration, Vice President Richard M. Nixon and the GOP in general Saturday night, officially igniting the 1960 campaign fuse. Harry S. Truman pitched in, too. The former president accused the present administration of "indecision and neglect" of a number of "crucial problems and issues"—space and defense among them.

That was pretty mild for Truman, and for some of the other orators — seven top Democrats who are available in one degree or another for the presidential nomination: Sens. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Stuart Symington of Missouri and Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, plus a trio of governors—Edmund G. Brown of California, G. Mennen Williams of Michigan and Robert B. Meyer of New Jersey.

The occasion was a $100-a-plate dinner which drew some 2,500 of the party faithful from all over the country to kick off the campaign and kick around the Republicans. PRIME TARGET Nixon was a prime target, since he stands out as the man the Democrats almost certainly will be running against in November.

The Democrats accordingly accused him of such things as quackery, stalling, unswerving loyalty to reactionary principles. The party hopefuls were bearing down, too, on the usual theme that the Democrats can and will win in November. But none of them, from what Humphrey called the unashamed to the unannounced candidates, chose to lay down in prepared remarks a personal platform as much as to slug away at the GOP, Nixon and to a lesser extent President Eisenhower personally.

Kennedy said the administration set "a collision course toward war" and has pursued tired policies through "eight years of inaction and reaction." Peace and prosperity actually is a myth, he said, in an administration which has substituted "pageants for policy in world affairs."

"SLICKER!" Humphrey chipped in that "the American people do not like slickness or slickers." Nixon, he said, can't duck responsibility for an erosion of national power and prestige in the last seven years, a slowdown in national growth, stagnation in national morality, and Humphrey and Kennedy were the two out-in-the-open candidates for the Democratic nomination on hand at the dinner. By the spin of a wheel, the Minnesota senator was first speaker.

In a backhanded slap at Eisenhower, Symington told his listeners that for the first time in eight years the Democrats will have a chance to run against an honest-to-goodness Republican.

Fulton, a resident of Howard County since 1928, is a widely known figure in Big Spring. For 10 years he was associated with Cosden as a boiler operator. Later he farmed for several years he has lived here he has become widely acquainted with the residents of the area.

Before he came to Howard County, Patton was a deputy sheriff in Baird County. He has had much experience as a law enforcement officer. He was elected constable at the last general election and has made it his practice to keep himself constantly available to serve the public. He proposes, if re-elected to the office, to do the same in the term ahead. He works in close cooperation with the office of the county sheriff and can always be found at that office, ready to perform any duties of his post.

Born in Callahan County, Patton has spent his life in West Texas. He makes his home at 306 NW 18th. His three children, now grown and married, are graduates of the Big Spring schools.

"I am deeply grateful to the good people of the county who selected me as constable when I ran for office the first time," said Patton. "I want to assure them that if they see fit to return me to the office this election, I will do all in my power to make them a good public servant. I will appreciate the vote and support of all good citizens in the April election."

ABC Members Tour Y Building

Members of the American Business Club were taken on a guided tour of the new YMCA building, following their noon luncheon at the Settles Hotel Friday. Dan Krausse, newly elected president of the Y, told club members Webb AFB buses were waiting outside the Settles to take them to the building site, after he had delivered a short address on the local Y program and asked them to support the upcoming Y membership drive. High school students who have been active in Y youth work served as guides for ABC members at the building site.

He described the YMCA building in Jerusalem as 10 floors tall "with the most beautiful architecture in the world." He described his recent visit to the Holy Land in detail and said he made films which will be used next Christmas on his special holiday television program.

TALK ON CHILDREN

His audience relished his discussion of children, many of which were reminiscences of his various programs. In Linkletter's introduction, Weaver pointed out that the television personality makes only about 15 similar appearances each year and that Big Spring is fortunate to have him here.

At the close of the banquet, more than 800 Big Springers gave him a prolonged burst of applause. Gordon Dickinson, president of the Hi-Y Council, opened the meeting with the invocation and it was closed by Mary Locke Crossland, Chi Rho Tri-Hi-Y. Entertainment was provided by the Lakeview Hi-Y Club.

CAME IN AIRPLANE

Linkletter arrived in Big Spring about midnight Friday in a C-54 Petrolite Corp. airplane from Dallas. His whirlwind of activities began at noon Saturday with a special meeting with local news media.

He autographed his books at the Book Stall and was conducted on a tour of the city, which included a view of the new YMCA building. He visited at the KEDY-TV station and then spent some time with his wife, who accompanied him on the trip, and his daughter and son-in-law, Lt. and Mrs. John Zwyer.

Following the banquet, a reception by directors and staff was held at the Student Union building of Howard County Junior College. He was to leave the city at 1 p.m. today.

"I respectfully announce my candidacy for Sheriff's Office of Howard County. I have had experience in law enforcement for 10 years' standing, not including my military service in World War II. I have made my decision after months of deliberation due to the type and quality of the many citizens who have requested me to announce my bid for this important post.

I choose law enforcement work as a matter of choice and not as just having a job. I am not obligated to any individual or group of individuals in any way and therefore I can serve each and every citizen of Howard County without fear and favor.

I hold this office, and assure you that I will always cooperate with all other law enforcement agencies with whom it will be my duty and privilege to work, thus giving the very best to our community. It is my sincere desire to meet and personally solicit your vote, but should I fall in my rounds of campaigning I would appreciate your considering this as my appeal for your support."

M. L. Kirby Announces For Sheriff

M. L. Kirby announced Saturday as a candidate for the Democratic nomination as sheriff of Howard County.

Kirby, a life-long resident of Big Spring, is a businessman and former police officer. He released this statement to the Herald in making his announcement for office.

"I respectfully announce my candidacy for Sheriff's Office of Howard County. I have had experience in law enforcement for 10 years' standing, not including my military service in World War II. Florida Shivers With All Of Us

Frost or freezing weather prevailed in Florida for the third straight day Saturday, except for the southeastern portion and the Keys, while most of the nation also shivered from the Rockies eastward. Middy readings Saturday dipped below zero in the eastern Dakotas, while the teens or lower were recorded as far south as Missouri and Kansas.

Insurance Board To Tell Changes In Auto Law

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Board of Insurance hopes to be ready by the end of next week to announce what changes — if any — it will make in the controversial new auto insurance program.

Board Chairman Penn Jackson said Saturday the agency "has reached no decision on the matter."

"We hope to have an announcement by the end of the week," he said. Many witnesses in a two-day hearing on the plan Jan. 14 and 15 urged the board to revise the system or junk it altogether.

The program, known as the Texas Safe Driving Insurance Plan, is designed to reward careful, accident-free drivers with lower rates and penalize accident-prone re-driver drivers with higher premiums.

It has been under fire from some members of the Legislature, led by Sen. Grady Hazlewold of Amarillo, since shortly after it was announced Oct. 1. The plan went into effect Jan. 1. It sets up a point system for determining rates. Drivers with no accidents or moving traffic violation convictions during the past three years receive a 20 percent cut. Those with one accident or one violation during the three-year period pay the same rates as last year, and those with two or more accidents or moving violations pay higher rates. The increases range from 20 to 100 percent.

Jesse Kidd Rites Today

COLORADO CITY — Funeral rites will be held at 2 p.m. today for Jesse Thomas Kidd, 87, who operated a furniture store in Colorado City a half century ago. Mr. Kidd died early Saturday morning at the home of a son after a lingering illness.

The funeral services will be in the chapel of Kiker & Son Funeral Home and the Rev. Jim Fields, retired Baptist minister of Stanton, will officiate. Burial will be in the Colorado City cemetery. Mr. Kidd was born July 4, 1872 in Missouri. He had lived in Mitchell County for 60 years and in the early 1900's was owner and operator of a furniture store here. The latter part of his life, before he retired, he spent as a farmer. He was a member of the Fairview Baptist Church.

He was married to Annie May Haggerton on Aug. 9, 1897 and she died in December 1949. Survivors include three sons, A. C. Kidd, Colorado City; Milton F. Kidd, Loveland, N. M.; Bobb Kidd, Monahans, Texas; and Mrs. M. A. Donaboo, Lorraine; Mrs. Jewel Ray, Fort Worth; Mrs. Jewel Baird, Houston; Mrs. Aaron Feaster and Mrs. Archie Feaster, both of Colorado City; two sisters, Mrs. Maggie Crain, and Mrs. Bill Marshall, both of Lamesa; three brothers, J. D. Kidd, Lamesa; Charlie Kidd, Fort Worth and Ike Kidd of Arkansas. There are 11 grandchildren and 6 great-grandchildren.

School Meeting

The Howard County School Administrators and School Board Members Association will meet at 7 p.m. Monday at the Gay Hill School. There is no formal program for the dinner affair, but a discussion of common problems.

Wes Patton Is Candidate

J. W. (Wes) Patton, constable Precinct 1, Place 1, has formally announced his candidacy for reelection to the post he now holds subject to action of the democratic primary of April 5.

Fulton, a resident of Howard County since 1928, is a widely known figure in Big Spring. For 10 years he was associated with Cosden as a boiler operator. Later he farmed for several years he has lived here he has become widely acquainted with the residents of the area.

Before he came to Howard County, Patton was a deputy sheriff in Baird County. He has had much experience as a law enforcement officer. He was elected constable at the last general election and has made it his practice to keep himself constantly available to serve the public. He proposes, if re-elected to the office, to do the same in the term ahead. He works in close cooperation with the office of the county sheriff and can always be found at that office, ready to perform any duties of his post.

Born in Callahan County, Patton has spent his life in West Texas. He makes his home at 306 NW 18th. His three children, now grown and married, are graduates of the Big Spring schools.

"I am deeply grateful to the good people of the county who selected me as constable when I ran for office the first time," said Patton. "I want to assure them that if they see fit to return me to the office this election, I will do all in my power to make them a good public servant. I will appreciate the vote and support of all good citizens in the April election."

ABC Members Tour Y Building

Members of the American Business Club were taken on a guided tour of the new YMCA building, following their noon luncheon at the Settles Hotel Friday.

Dan Krausse, newly elected president of the Y, told club members Webb AFB buses were waiting outside the Settles to take them to the building site, after he had delivered a short address on the local Y program and asked them to support the upcoming Y membership drive.

High school students who have been active in Y youth work served as guides for ABC members at the building site.

WAYNE BURNS

Burns Seeking Re-Election

Wayne Burns has announced his candidacy in the coming Democratic primary for re-election to the post of Howard County attorney.

Burns is a native of the Big Spring area, having been reared northwest of the city. After graduation from high school in 1946, he attended Texas Tech for four years where he received a B.A. degree in government. He next enrolled in the University of Texas School of Law. Upon completion of his studies there in 1952 he was awarded his LL.B. degree and earned his license to practice law.

Shortly thereafter, Burns entered the armed services and spent 13 months in Korea.

Burns is an active member of several Big Spring civic organizations, among which are the Lions Club, Jaycees and YMCA.

In announcing his candidacy for re-election Burns issued the following statement:

"This is an important office that necessitates prompt, efficient and impartial action in the performance of the county attorney's duty to the public, and I would appreciate an opportunity to continue this type of service.

"During the last 14 months in which I have served as county attorney, I have attempted to conduct the office in the manner which mirrors the public's will and warrants the public's confidence, and upon the pledge of a continuation of this policy, I solicit the support of each and every citizen in the May 7 primary."

MEN IN SERVICE

A.S.C. John O. McDaniel, the son of Mrs. N. R. Holcomb of Big Spring, recently arrived at Osan Air Base, Korea. He will be assigned to the 6314th Installations Squadron there.

A native of Big Spring, McDaniel was assigned to Tyndall Air Force Base, Fla., prior to coming here.

The 6314th Installations Squadron, to which McDaniel is assigned is a part of the 314th Air Division. The 314th with its headquarters at Osan Air Base, Freedom's Frontier, is charged with the responsibility of keeping the peace through air defense operations throughout Korea.

The 314th is also helping the Republic of Korean Air Force to develop self-sufficient training programs and to build up an effective air defense force.

McDaniel, who has over two years of military service, and is a firefighter, attended Cosboma High School.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Ripps have received word that their grandson, Jim Tom Ripps, is now in boot training for the Navy at San Diego, Calif. His home is in Kansas City.

Levelland Man Is New Chapter Head

LAMESA — O. R. Watkins of Levelland was elected president of an area chapter of tax assessor-collectors at a dinner meeting here Thursday night in the Lamesa High School Cafeteria.

Some 63 assessor-collectors from 17 surrounding counties attended the organizational meeting which was presided over by Mrs. Frank Dennis, Lamesa School tax official and a state trustee for the Texas Association of Assessing Officers.

Other officers elected were C. L. Williams, Slaton, vice president; Mrs. Dennis, secretary-treasurer; and Trustees Harvey Austin of Lubbock, Dorothy Byrd of Andrews and Ellie Griffin of Snyder.

Trinity Hearing Resumes Monday

AUSTIN — The State Water Board resumes Feb. 4 consideration of plans for dams across the Trinity River near Livingston and Wallisville.

The hearing, which began Nov. 2, has been delayed by illness of board members. Houston and the Trinity River Authority seek permits to build the dams, which are opposed by the San Jacinto River Authority, Livingston landowners and other interests.

Water Flood Plan Ready For Spraberry Trend Area

The first of several long-awaited water flood programs in the huge Spraberry Trend Area oil field in four West Texas counties is expected to start by June 15.

Southland Royalty Co., operator of the initial flood, has signed the required percentage of working interests and royalty interests in the area necessary to put such an operation into motion.

The first step in securing the Railroad Commission of Texas' permission to conduct the flood will be taken by Southland Royalty before the end of January when the company asks for a hearing to consider unitization of the 15,776 acres in the flood area.

The Rail Board requires that 85 per cent of the working interests and 65 per cent of the royalty interests agree to the water flood program. Southland Royalty has signed 91 per cent of the working interests and 65 per cent of the royalty interests.

The unitization hearing is expected to be granted within 30 to 40 days after the request is made.

If a unitization agreement is reached, Southland immediately will ask for a hearing on its request to install and conduct the water flood.

This initial flood will include 110 upper and lower Spraberry sand producers in Northwest Reagan County, with the upper section scheduled to be flooded first. The area involved is about nine miles long, from north to south, and about three miles wide, with the south end three miles northwest of Stiles.

Included in the area are 72 working interests, 14 operators and approximately 350 royalty owners.

The Southland Royalty flood is expected to cost about $2,500,000 primary investment, or slightly less than $25,000 per well. The flood will require the drilling of 400 water wells and two or three infield wells.

The flood program, the first to be attempted in a fractured formation on such a large scale, is expected to increase the final recovery from the 15,776 acres in additional 19,000,000 barrels of oil, provided previous engineering data proves correct.

The additional recovery would give the 110 wells an estimated lifetime aggregate production of 29,000,000 barrels of oil.

Operators believe there are only 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 barrels of oil left in the Southland Royalty flood area which can be recovered by primary methods. The 11 wells to date have produced about 10,000,000 barrels of oil.

Since the opening of the Spraberry Trend Area field in 1950 the production curve has dropped rapidly. For example, the field produced 1,676,715 barrels of oil during January 1956. In August 1959, the field made 887,807 barrels of oil, almost a 50 per cent decrease in production during the last 2 1/2 years.

The entire Spraberry Trend, including Reagan, Glasscock, Midland and Upton counties, has 3,000 producers with 2,000 of them now on artificial lift.

The operators are going ahead with this flood on the basis of the favorable results of a pilot flood conducted by Humble Oil & Refining Co. in Northeast Upton County.

In addition to the Southland Royalty operation, four other floods have been announced, and three more are in the planning stage. Humble will operate two of the announced floods, Sohio Petroleum Co. one and Phillips Petroleum Co. one.

A radioactive tracer survey was conducted to determine the fracture orientation of the Southland Royalty area. The technical part of the survey was made by the U. S. Bureau of Mines.

MARTIN GAINS DEEP EXPLORER

Martin County gained another wildcat location Saturday morning. Champlin Oil and Refining Co. announced No. 1 A. O. Field as a Devonian explorer about five miles southwest of Patricia.

The project is near the Dawson County line and an edge to the Breedlove (Devonian) field. Operator will check the zone at 12,500 feet. Location is 660 from south and east lines of labor 25, league 265, Borden CSL survey. The site is midway between Breedlove and Good Field production, both sections yielding deep pay.

Oil Scouts Group Proves Successful

The Midland Oil Scouts Assn.'s new streamlined method of serving member companies is proving a success, reports representatives of the organization. The new method, designed to save time and man power, has been in operation since November.

The main function of the organization is to assemble and exchange information on West Texas wells, and to catalogue drilling samples from the prospectors.

The new method now used to carry on these functions has cut personnel attendance at the weekly scout check meetings in half. Time consumed in holding these meetings has been reduced by 75 per cent.

The well information is obtained as it was before the new process was installed, however, reporting and discussion of the information at meetings now is limited to wildcat and field wildcat operations.

Field well information is supplied weekly to participants in the association by printed reports and records. These include tabular reports of drilling progress, lists of new operations and completed wells, plus individual well records in several forms.

Gathering and distribution of well formation samples through the facilities of the association continues to be one of the services performed.

Scouting groups in other oil areas are observing the Midland Oil Scouts new system with interest, and it is expected that applications of some or all of the new practices will be adopted by other oil scout associations.

Dresser Declares 40 Cent Dividend

DALLAS—The Board of Directors of Dresser Industries, Inc., equipment manufacturer and technical services supplier to the petroleum, gas, chemical and electronic industries, has declared a quarterly dividend of $0.40 payable on March 15th to shareholders of record as of the close of business March 1, 1960.

Eisenhower Dampens Hope For 1960 Control Relief

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has dampened the hopes of the natural gas producer for 1960 congressional relief from utility-type controls.

The budget message placed before Congress on Monday did not include a recommendation that the natural gas act be clarified. The disappointment among producers was sharp in that the 1959 message had included such a suggestion.

Congressional leaders for nearly two years have said they cannot push the controversial legislation unless the administration presents a strong plea for bipartisan passage.

Texas independent producers had counted on another budget message recommendation but did not abandon hope for 1960 when the hope failed to materialize.

The producers will not be discouraged, said Harry Jones, president of the 6,500-member Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Assn.

Both Jones and Alvin Hope of San Antonio, president of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America, expressed hope a special message to Congress may be forthcoming from the White House.

TIPRO members frankly admit President Eisenhower figures prominently in their strategy for remedial legislation despite his vote of a similar bill in 1956.

At a Houston strategy meeting last week, the independents expressed fear the new president who is to take office next year may be strongly opposed to the gas bill. They suggested such a development, without congressional action this year, could force postponement of relief as long as eight years.

Proposals to relieve independent producers of federal controls have caused periodic Washington controversies ever since the Supreme Court in 1947 held that the Federal Power Commission, has authority to regulate prices at the wellhead. President Truman vetoed a relief bill in 1950.

Another bill reached the White House in February 1956. President Eisenhower exercised his veto power.

"This I regret because I am in accord with its basic objectives," he said in his veto message. He said private persons, in supporting the bill, had sought to further their own interests by highly questionable activities. The veto followed bitter Senate debate that touched off an inquiry into a $2,500 campaign contribution turned down by Sen. Francis Case (R-S.D.).

Less than six months after the 1956 veto, the Republican national convention indicated indirect endorsement of the gas bill. No specific bill was mentioned but the party platform adopted at San Francisco said: "We favor freedom of mineral producers from unnecessary governmental regulations."

In April, 1957, President Eisenhower told a press conference the new Harris-O'Hara Bill before Congress appeared to comply with the criteria he set down in his veto message.

The Harris-O'Hara proposal drew a death sentence in February 1958 when charges were made a $100,000 Republican fund raising dinner in Houston actually was a gas lobby dinner.

The dinner controversy was so sharp no gas bill has made any progress since.

Sierra Plans Post Project

One completion and a new field project were reported in the immediate eight county area Saturday.

The Sierra Corp. Trust Ltd. will dig No. 2-D McCrary-Connell as a Post (Glorieta) pool project in Garza County.

Slated for 3,200 feet, it is 15 miles east of Post on 285 acres. Drill site is 330 from north and 2,349 from east lines of section 96-5-GH&H survey.

The Blue Danube Oil Co. scored the completion at No. 1 Alvin Byrd in the Westbrook (Upper Clear Fork) field of Mitchell County. Operator reports a 24 hour pumping potential of 68.02 barrels of 28 gravity oil with 11 per cent water.

The elevation is 2,157 feet, the total depth is 3,145 feet and the top of the pay zone is 2,556 feet. The 4 1/2 inch casing goes to 2,910 feet and operator fractured with 20,000 gallons of water and 50,000 pounds of sand. Location is 330 from south and east lines of section 20-28-1n, T&P survey.

SECOND BLAST HITS AT DUMAS

DUMAS (AP)—An explosion and fire rocked the Shamrock-McGee gasoline plant 12 miles northeast of here Friday. Flames leaped 150 feet into the air.

The fire was said to have started in the gasoline plant which was destroyed along with the laboratory area of the large plant.

No serious injuries were reported. Firemen expected to have the blaze under control during the morning.

As a safety measure, all residents were evacuated from the plant's housing area. Police blocked roads around the plant to keep spectators from crowding too close.

Twenty-two men died in the plant in 1956 when a gasoline storage tank exploded during a fire.

IN PERMIAN BASIN

Working Rig Total Climbs

The working rotary rig total in the Permian Basin stopped its winter-month slide Friday and recouped some of the losses.

According to the Reed Roller Bit Co. survey, there were 263 rotary operations making hole Friday, compared to 258 the previous week. The climb still leaves the total considerably less than the count on Jan. 1 when 305 rigs were making hole.

The count in the immediate eight county area remained steady for the week with 21 operations reported on each tally. Borden, Howard and Mitchell counties noted gains while Dawson and Sterling lost workers.

Lea County, N. M., heads up the list of Basin counties with 41. Although Andrews and Ector counties have reported significant gains, they are running a poor second and third with 26 and 25 turning rigs respectively.

The county-by-county tally, with previous totals listed in parentheses, includes:

- Andrews 26 (29), Bailey 0 (0), BORDEN 41 (35), Cochran 2 (2), Coke 0 (0), Chaves 3 (3), Crane 8 (5), CROCKETT 2 (3), Crosby 1 (1), DAWSON 2 (4), Dickens 1 (1), Ector 25 (21), Eddy 14 (14), Fisher 3 (3), Gaines 15 (13), GARZA 5 (5), GLASSCOCK 0 (0), Hale 0 (0), Hockley 4 (5);
- HOWARD 4 (3), Irion 2 (1), Kent 1 (1), Lamb 1 (1), Lea 41

- (41), Loving 2 (2), Lubbock 2 (2), Lynn 1 (2), MARTIN 1 (1); MITCHELL 3 (2), Menard 0 (0), Midland 10 (7), Nolan 3 (3), Otero 1 (1), Pecos 9 (11), Reagan 2 (3), Reeves 2 (3), Roosevelt 7 (5);
- RUNNELS 4 (3), Schleicher 2 (3), Scurry 5 (3), STERLING 0 (1), Stonewall 2 (3), Sutton 0 (1), Tom Green 1 (0), Terry 2 (2), Terrell 2 (2), Upton 8 (9);
- Ward 3 (2), Winkler 11 (11), Yoakum 14 (12). Totals 263 (258).

Bureau Considers Texas Important Foundry Area

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas has become one of the nation's most important foundry areas, the Bureau of Business Research said Saturday.

"Growth of the oil industry in Texas and similar industries requiring heavy cast metal equipment has been a primary consideration in the growth of foundries in the state," a special study by the University of Texas agency said.

"Outside the Great Lakes region and California, Texas ranks as one of the nation's most important foundry areas. The Houston metropolitan area, for instance, with some 35 foundries employing more than 2,000, is one of the nation's noted foundry centers."

Of 10,371,000 short tons of gray iron cast in the United States in 1958, Texas foundries accounted for about 311,150 short tons. Of steel castings 21,900 of 1,121,000 short tons were made in Texas. The report shows that Texas has 61 foundries making gray iron castings, 2 foundries making malleable iron products, 20 steel casting foundries, 64 foundries producing aluminum castings, 48 casting brass, bronze, copper and copper alloy products and 20 foundries casting other nonferrous items.

Foundries are concentrated at or near San Antonio, Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston, the report said.

"However, as is true today of many of the industries in Texas, decentralization from larger to smaller communities has been a growing trend in the Texas foundry picture," the report said.

Rig Count Still Falls

The number of working rotary rigs in the United States slipped to 1,617 units during the week, while the Canadian total continued its slow and steady climb.

A week ago, the U. S. total stood at 1,673 and it was 2,117 a month ago. Last year, at this time, the total units in operation was 1,822. Canada had 235 working operations this week, compared with 228 last week and 219 a month ago. Only 203 were reported last year at this time.

Texas, the leader among the states, had 539 rigs turning this week, down from last week's 562 and way off the pace set at 706 last month. Last year, the total was 678.

West Central Texas leads all other areas with 168 but it is only a few more than the 163 counted in the South Texas and Gulf Coastal area. A year ago, West Texas had 265 rigs in the ground and there were 229 working last month.

These figures are provided in the weekly survey by the Hughes Tool Co.

'60 CHEVY! only way you can buy a car for less is to buy a lot less car!

THRIFTIEST 6 IN ANY FULL-SIZE CAR—The Chevy 6 is the '60 version of the engine that got 22.38 miles per gallon in the latest Mobilgas Economy Run—more than any other full-size car.

NEW ECONOMY TURBO-FIRE V8—Here's a V8 with the "git" Chevy's famous for—plus a new economy-contoured camshaft and other refinements that get up to 10% more miles on a gallon of regular.

EASIER-TO-LOAD LUGGAGE COMPARTMENT—The trunk sill is lower and the lid opening is more than a foot and a half wider than Chevy's nearest competitor's. There's over 20% more usable space! *Based on official data reported to the Automobile Manufacturers Association.

MORE ROOM WHERE YOU WANT MORE ROOM—Chevy's trimmed down transmission tunnel (25% smaller) gives you more foot room. You also get more head and hip room than in any other 2- or 4-door sedans in the field.

WIDEST CHOICE OF POWER TEAMS—A choice of 24 engine-transmission teams in all—to satisfy the most finicky driving foot. There are seven engines with output all the way up to 325 h.p. and five silk-smooth transmissions.

NOT CHANGE FOR CHANGE'S SAKE, BUT FOR YOURS—There's only one person we consider when we make a change—and that's you. That's why we don't think you'll find anything more to your liking at anything like the price.

QUICKER STOPPING BRAKES—Long-lived bonded-lining brakes with larger front-wheel cylinders for '60 give you quicker, surer stops with less pedal pressure.

SOFTER, MORE SILENT RIDE—Chevy's the only leading low-priced car that gentles the bumps with coil springs at all four wheels. Noise and vibration are filtered to the vanishing point by new body mounts.

CHEVY SETS THE PACE WITH LOWER PRICES—All Bel Air and Impala V8's are lower priced, as are many popular options. Example: a Bel Air V8 sedan with Turboglide, deluxe heater and push-button radio lists at $65.30 less for '60.

EXTRA CONVENIENCE OF BODY BY FISHER—No other car in Chevy's field gives you crank-operated ventanillas, Safety Glass all around and dozens of other Fisher Body refinements.

The more you look around the more you'll find to convince you that no other low-priced car has so much to show for your money as this new Chevrolet. Here's the kind of styling sophistication and subtle detail that only Fisher Body craftsmanship can create. Here's the kind of Full Coil comfort that neither of the other two leading low-priced cars—and only some of the smoothest riding higher priced ones—build into their suspension systems. Here's more room inside (where you want it) without an inch more outside (where you don't want it). And with all these advances Chevy has still managed to hold the price line! Your dealer will be delighted to fill you in on all the facts.

Divorce Plans Told In Court

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A court of inquiry investigating the death of San Antonio beauty queen Mrs. Nancy Davis was told Friday that Mrs. Davis planned to divorce her husband.

Mrs. Nancy Chicchese, mother of the 30-year-old dead woman, said her daughter told her she planned to leave her husband after the Christmas holidays.

Mrs. Chicchese told a packed justice of the peace court that she advised her daughter to leave Dr. David Davis.

"Before Christmas Nancy told me she didn't know what to do about David. She said the other night he twisted her arms, pulled her hair and put his hands on her throat and said 'I would strangle you but I don't want to go to jail,'" Mrs. Chicchese said.

Mrs. Davis died of a head injury suffered at her home the night of Jan. 3. Attorneys for Davis contend Mrs. Davis either fainted or slipped and fell, receiving fatal injuries.

'Eye' Trouble May Doom Army's Anti-Missile Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Near-sightedness may doom the Army's bold Nike-Zeus program for spotting and killing hostile missiles—if the "eye" trouble proves incurable.

Science apparently has not succeeded in giving Nike-Zeus electronic eyesight good enough to tell a lethal warhead rushing toward the United States from its accompanying "junk."

This impression has been reported by some Congressional sources as top military figures appear before committee after committee in the annual defense briefings. It appears to be a major reason why the Defense Department has reaffirmed its decision to keep the Nike-Zeus program in the research and test stage. The Army, more confident that its brainchild can overcome difficulties, has been pushing for the preliminaries to production.

Nike-Zeus is understood to be a combination of extremely fast radar detection and plotting gear with a missile capable of carrying a nuclear warhead. The system would spot a just-launched enemy missile, track it, fire the counter-weapon and explode the atomic warhead at least close enough to the invader to destroy it while still high above the earth. It would have to do all this in less than half an hour.

One source said there is this frustrating additional problem: An ICBM hurls into long arching trajectories not only its warhead but portions of its propelling and booster stages which scatter and disintegrate. And the radar or similar device that would have to guide the antimissile has not been developed to the point of discriminating.

Moreover, if any missile firing automatically provides a certain amount of radar deception, it would be no trick to provide deliberately more deception of the same kind—"fill the upper air with junk and laugh at radar."

The censored versions of testimony by military chiefs which have been published do not spell out Nike-Zeus' difficulties. But they tend to support the view that the big problems are detection, discrimination and guidance, rather than thrust or even speed.

IN SCORING RACE

Zay LaFevre Is 20 Points Up

Zay LaFevre of Big Spring leads District 2-AAAA in basketball scoring, with a total of 112.

Big Zay tossed in a record 38 points against Abilene in Abilene Friday night to bring his district game average to 28 points. He will easily break Bill Thompson's all-time 2-AAAA record, if he keeps up that pace.

Bulldogs To Open Against Cards

COAHOMA (SC)—Merkel and Wylie will replace Stanton and Roby as District 6-A football foes of the Coahoma Bulldogs next fall.

Stanton is moving up to Class AA while Roby is returning to Class B circles.

The Bulldogs will again open the season against Hermleigh, clashing with the Cardinals in Hermleigh on Jan. 2.

Coahoma will play non-conference games with Ozona, Stanton, Loraine, Big Lake and O'Donnell before launching 6-A play against Roscoe in Coahoma Oct. 14.

Coch James Spann will have to build his team without eight 1959 starters. In all, 25 Bulldogs won letters last fall.

Burton Is Signed By Boston Club

BOSTON (AP)—Ron Burton, Northwestern hall back, today signed a contract with the Boston entry in the American Football League. He was the club's No. 1 draft choice.

Burton, a 185-pound speedster, also was the first draft choice of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

"We think Ron will mean to us what Ted Williams means to the Red Sox," said Billy Sullivan, spokesman for the as yet unnamed group which owns the Boston franchise.

Houston's Baseball Woes Stop Rickey

HOUSTON (AP)—Branch Rickey's efforts to mend fences on the Continental League's Houston baseball problem face rough going.

His personal envoy called it quits Friday, trapped in the cross-fire of a hometown feud.

The participants: The Houston Sports Assn. (HSA) a group headed by one their Craig Cullinan Jr., which holds a Continental franchise; and stockholders of the Houston Buffs, operators of the Class AAA American Assn. club and holders of the Houston baseball territorial rights.

Rickey wants the HSA to buy out the Buffs and their territorial rights to work on get under way on a new stadium for Continental League play, set to start in 1961.

No stadium, no franchise, Rickey indicates. He is Continental League president.

The price for the baseball rights, Owners have sunk $492,500 in the club which set some sort of record in finishing tenth and losing 194 games in American Assn. play last year, Buff President Marty Marion says.

They deserve a return on their investment, adds Marion, a 10 per cent stockholder.

"Utterly ridiculous," replied Cullinan to the money figure.

Marion, he said, has been walking around in a "financial Disneyland" since he and Milton Fischmann of St. Louis purchased the Buffs for $100,000 in November, 1958.

Rickey sent Allen Russell, owner of the Austin club in the Texas League, to Houston as mediator last week. Russell withdrew Friday night.

"The value Marion placed on the Houston franchise is so far removed from reason that I can see no possibility of accomplishment anything," he said. Russell earlier brought together Dallas and Fort Worth in a solid Continental front.

Coahoma Batters Roscoe, 48-40 ROSCOE (SC) — The Coahoma Bulldogs came on strong in the second half to defeat the Roscoe Peewees, 48-40, in a District 6-A basketball game here Friday night.

The win was the second in three conference starts for Jimmy Spann's team. The Bulldogs visit Hermleigh Tuesday and play hosts to Roby on Friday. Overall, the Coahomans are now 14-8.

Dock Reeves led the Bulldogs in scoring with 15 points while Ellis Smith had 12 and Dwayne Richers 10.

Hillman Kirby paced Roscoe with 10 points.

Roscoe won the B game, 46-44, after Coahoma held a 34-23 advantage at half time.

In that one, Harold Abernethy scored 18 points for Coahoma as did Louis Castro for Roscoe.

COAHOMA (SC) — Members of the Coahoma Bulldogs are now 14-8 overall, after a 48-40 victory over the Roscoe Peewees in a District 6-A basketball game here Friday night.

The win was the second in three conference starts for Jimmy Spann's team. The Bulldogs visit Hermleigh Tuesday and play hosts to Roby on Friday. Overall, the Coahomans are now 14-8.

But for consistency and over-all performance the East had one big man, Rookie Wilt The Still Chamberlain who won the most valuable player award by scoring 23 points, getting 25 rebounds, and blocking 4 shots. He played only 30 minutes. . . . Chamberlain got 18½ votes from newsmen covering the game. Run-ning Up Gola, his teammate on the Philadelphia Warriors, got 6½, and Jack Twyman of Cincinnati got 6. He scored 27 points for the West, high for the night.

Bearcats Win Fifth 19-B Tilt, 52-28

GARDEN CITY (SC)—Garden City steam-rollered the Sands Mustangs 52-28, in a District 19-B basketball game here Friday night.

The win left the Cats with a 5-1 won-lost record in conference play. Sands is 3-3. Dennis Cypert, Jimmy Childress and Harold Jones each scored 11 points for Garden City. Sands was led by Jerry Iden, who counted seven. Sands won the girls' game, 65-47, leading at the end of the first quarter, 16-5; at half time, 30-21; and after three periods, 48-29.

The win kept the Sands' record unblemished in conference play. Garden City now has lost five straight district tilts and is 6-10 overall.

Janice Bearden led Sands in scoring with 24 points while Larry Cruise and Harold Henson each had 17.

H-SU made only 13 field goals, compared to 40 for the red-hot Jayhawks.

HCJC built up a 12-2 advantage early in the game but the visitors deadlocked the count at 20-20 with 8:48 to go in the first half. The Buttons never led, however.

With 7:13 to go in the game and reserves manning all positions for the locals, HCJC led by the comfortable margin of 74-51.

The Hawks won't be seen at home again until Feb. 5. They visit Odessa for a West Zone game Tuesday night, invade Berger to meet Frank Phillips Jan. 29 and play Clarendon in Clarendon the following night.

They move over to Leveillard Feb. 2 for a conference game with South Plains JC.

Midland Smashes Odessa, 67-35

ODESSA (SC) — The Midland Bulldogs protected their undefeated basketball record by smothering Odessa High's Bronchos, 67-35, here Friday night.

The win was the fourth in District 2-AAAA play for Bob Todd's team, and the 23rd of the year overall.

Odessa tried to stall the ball and led, 4-1, at one point but couldn't stand the pace.

Mike Marsh led the Bulldogs in scoring with 20 points while no Broncho hit in double figures. James Ingram proved to be Odessa's leader, with eight.

Odessa won the B game, 43-33.

MIDLAND (67)—Marsh 7-4-20; Humphrey 7-4-18; Davis 2-4-10; Williams 1-2-20; Pack 3-1-7; Hummally 2-0-4; Rivers 5-2-2; Totals 25-14-27.

ODESSA (35)—Ingram 4-8-8; Gibson 6-3-3; Harris 6-3-3; Maline 1-4-2; White 1-2-2; Jeter 6-1-1; Totals 11-13-25.

Midland won the B game, 43-33.

COAHOMA (SC)—Bula, a state power in girls' basketball, defeated Coahoma in a practice game here Friday night, 63-40.

Bula led to the end of the first quarter, 16-10; at half time, 34-21; and again at the end of Round Three, 48-30.

John Davis flipped in 25 points for Coahoma. Glenda Haney had seven, Barbara Ritter seven and Claudine Bales one.

Cook led Bula, with 26. Holt had 20, Risinger four, Spence five, Fred four and Bogart two.

The defeat left Coahoma with a 15-5 record.

WINNIPEG (AP)—The Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Western Interprovincial Football Union said today they had signed Curt Metz, star University of Iowa end.

Zay LeFevre Buckets 38 As Steers Shock Flock

ABILENE (SC)—In a battle for second place in District 2-AAAA, the Big Spring Steers shocked the Abilene Eagles, 59-56, here Friday night.

Zay LeFevre, 6-foot-5½ senior, used the cliff-hanger to set a new scoring record in the Abilene gym. The elongated Steer bucketed 38 points, blocked numerous shots from the floor, did a terrific job on the boards and otherwise distinguished himself in the crucial outing.

The victory gave the Longhorns a 3-1 conference record.

Both teams sank 21 field goals, which means the Longhorns won the game at the free throw line. The Longhorns made 17 gratis piches, to only 14 for the home team. Zay himself accounted for 10 of the Annie Oakleys.

David Welch of Abilene missed the second of two free throw attempts with 1:10 left in the game. The Steers led at the time, 57-56.

Abilene had one more chance when Zay was charged with traveling with the ball, with 26 seconds remaining.

Larry McElyea, lost possession of the ball with 14 seconds remaining, however, and Kirby Pugh later fouled Zay. The sensational Steer then put the win out of reach when he made both free shot attempts.

Zay had only two baskets the first quarter but wound up with 14 in all.

No other Longhorn hit in double figures. Zay's twin brother, Zay Jr., was closest to Zay's aggregate with eight points.

McElyea paced Abilene with 24 points while Jim Bray, considered Abilene's biggest threat, was limited to 14.

Two of the Steers three conference wins have come on the road. They play their next three games at home.

Big Spring hit 13 of 31 shots from the field the first half and eight of 20 the final two periods. Abilene hit 11 of 26 the first half and 10 of 29 the final half.

Zay grabbed off 15 rebounds, nine of them on defense. Jay captured 13 rebounds, nine on defense.

McElyea and Pugh each came down with nine rebounds for Abilene. Big Spring wound up with 36, Abilene 31.

Abilene won the B game, 46-36. In that one, the Steers were very much in contention for a half but could score only two points in the third period.

BRIEFS ON LAKE J. B.

Song Of The Hammer Is Heard At Lake Thomas

By GLENN COOTES

The clamor of hammer against nail was more evident around Lake J. B. Thomas this week than the sing of rod and reel.

Year-round residents as well as weekend visitors were seen throughout the lake fringes working on cabins, getting them in shape for the coming spring season.

Camp operators report little fishing and boating activity, but the few fishermen who have braved the bitter cold of the past few weeks carried home a heavy string.

Two cats weighing over 20 pounds were taken on the south shore from a trot line. Crappie were reported along lake-home pails all around the lake.

LAKEVIEW GROCERY — Business has been picking up, according to Mrs. Clyde Montgomery, though the recent cold snap kept many fishermen away.

Jesse Havins and family, Big Spring, took home 135 crappie last week. The fish were taken from the bank and some of them weighed up to a pound.

SPORTSMAN'S PARADISE — Claude Hodnett has had considerable luck with his trot lines during the last few weeks. He has taken three yellow cats weighing 12 and 22 pounds respectively from the line.

He bagged a 23-pound yellow about the first of the month as well as some carp weighing up to about 15 pounds. All the fish are still alive in his tank.

Coy Nalley has been up several times during the last few weeks, taking home a fair string of crappie each time.

Mr. Spears, Lubbock, hooked a good string of crappie last week-end.

SHADY GROVE GROCERY — Jack Anthony, Lamesa, caught his limit of crappie early last week. H. D. Smith, who runs the camp, hooked a two and a 2½ pound crappie this week.

Before the cold break, several fishermen were having the best of luck with catches of cats, bass and crappie coming in almost daily.

JINKINS MORELAND GROCERY — Water skiing has been reported ever since Jan. 1 and most regular customers have kept the floating barge filled, even on the coldest days. The usual catches have been reported, all the way from crappie to an occasional cat.

Summer fishermen will find the boat harbor considerably larger this year than last. The Boys have doubled the size of the harbor and were putting in cement embankments Thursday.

Ottus Boyd said the work should be completed by today. However, further work is to be done in the dock area.

The first step in the work was to block the channel into the lagoon and then pump out the water. It took only about 15 hours to empty the harbor, he said. A dirt mover was put into the harbor and leveled the bottom.

The Boys had men mixing gravel and cement in sacks, which were then set in place. When the water flows back into the area, the concrete will set. A breakwater at the entrance of the lagoon was installed in this manner.

L. P. DENT'S GROCERY — L. P. Dent still has a supply of water dogs on hand, probably one of the few places around the lake they can be bought. "The little rascals seem to live forever," he said.

LAKE THOMAS LODGE — Mother Grimm caught a string of perch, some of them up to a pound, reports V. L. Hogue.

Mr. L. Fikes, east of Lem's, is putting the finishing touches on his lake house. A doker was moving dirt back over the septic tank area Thursday and workmen were putting final touches on a metal roof. Fikes has the pile-driver equipment used in the lake area to bottom anchor posts.

France Lifts Ban Over Nuclear Site

PARIS (AP)—The French government has cancelled a ban on air flights scheduled to have gone into effect Friday over a large section of the Sahara where French atomic blasts are planned. No reason was given. A previous government announcement said there would be several test alerts.

Algiers Mobs Protest Firing Of Gen. Massu

ALGIERS (AP)—Crowds shouting "De Gaulle to the stake" swirled through Algiers Saturday protesting the firing of paratroop Gen. Jacques Massu by President Charles de Gaulle.

Governor Pays Filing Fee

Governor Price Daniel, left, hands his check for $1,250 to J. E. Connally of Abilene, at Austin, thus paying his filing fee for a place on the ballot, Daniel, seeking re-election to a third term as governor, listed his occupation on the application as "governor of Texas, attorney and rancher."

Carole's Words In For Roughing

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The prosecution in the Finch murder trial will try to show next week that Carole Tregoff gave authorities conflicting accounts of what she did the night Barbara Jean Finch was shot to death.

To do this, the state will attempt to get the transcript of Dr. R. Bernard Finch's preliminary hearing admitted in evidence. Carole, the doctor's mistress, was a witness at the hearing.

One of Friday's witnesses, police Capt. William Ryan of West Covina, said he had talked with Miss Tregoff the day after Mrs. Finch was killed.

"I asked her if she had carried anything up the hill (to the Finch home) in the way of a bag or satchel," Ryan said, "and she said 'No.'"

Their trial is in recess for the weekend.

At the doctor's preliminary hearing, Carole testified she had brought up the bag when the doctor asked her to get a flashlight.

The defense is opposing admission of the hearing transcript. It contends Miss Tregoff was not advised of possible self-incrimination before she testified. She was dramatically arrested after she had stepped from the witness stand at the hearing.

Charles Edward Gipson, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gipson, recently moved here from Oregon, is in the Malone and Hogan Hospital with severe burns on the right leg.

Small Boy Suffers Severe Leg Burns

He was burned while playing with other children Friday afternoon. The child's father took him to the Veterans Administration Hospital first but River Funeral Home Ambulance was then called to remove him to Malone and Hogan. His condition was said to be satisfactory Saturday. He was admitted to the hospital at 4 p.m.

Chicago Police Commissioner Quits In Wake Of Big Scandal

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago's biggest police scandal Saturday brought resignation of the police commissioner as Illinois' top Republican and Democratic officials thundered angrily at each other.

Resignation of 58-year-old Timothy J. O'Connor from his $22,500 a year post to return to the captain's rank was announced at a news conference by Democratic Mayor Richard J. Daley.

Odessa Paper Plans Expansion

ODESSA (AP)—The Odessa American has begun an expansion program which will double the space in its publishing plant and add a 128-page press, the largest between Fort Worth and El Paso.

Odessa Paper Plans Expansion

Publisher V. L. DeBolt said the brick and tile addition of 14,400 square feet will be completed in June. The addition will include an enlarged engraving plant and dark room, composing room, editorial offices, the press and newspaper storage space. The older part will be retrofitted.

Class 60-E Will Graduate Thursday

Forty-seven young officers of jet pilot training Class 60-E will pin on silver wings at graduation ceremonies to be held Thursday night, in the Webb AFB chapel.

Speaker for the occasion will be Col. Carl C. Hinkle Jr., deputy chief of personnel services division (director of military personnel), headquarters U. S. Air Force.

The exercises will complete long and rigorous months of mental and physical conditioning for the new pilots.

with R. W. Whipkey, publisher of the Big Spring Daily Herald, as honoree. Whipkey will receive the Air Force Scroll of Appreciation from Hq. USAF, Washington, D. C., in recognition for cooperative work with Webb AFB and the entire USAF. Col. Hinkle will be guest speaker.

At 2 p.m., a wing parade and review will be held on the flight line, where Whipkey, receiving his scroll, will be joined on the reviewing stand by three Air Force honorees.

First Lt. James M. Chestnut, 3560th Pilot Training Squadron, will receive the Air Force Commendation Medal for excellence as an instructor and an outstanding flying safety record during the period Aug. 24, 1957-Oct. 31, 1959. He has completed 2,306 hours of accident-free single-engine jet time, of which more than 1,000 hours were devoted to instructing students.

UNIT AWARD

Capt. George W. Eilers, a SAC exchange officer with the 3560th PT Squadron, will be presented the Air Force Outstanding Unit Award for his work in 1957-'58 (before coming to Webb) with the 9th Bombardment Wing, Medium, when that unit was pioneering and service-testing a new retaliatory strike force alert concept.

Capt. Robert J. Schaeffer, an academic instructor with PT Group, will receive a Silver USAF Excellence - in - Competition badge for outstanding marks in the 1959 AXC individual pistol match.

Music will be provided by the 633rd AF band from Headquarters, Air Training Command. If weather that day proves bad, troops will not pass in review, but the awards ceremony will be held on schedule - in Webb's huge hangar T-78, at the south end of the flight line.

Where Miners Are Trapped

People gather around pithead of the Clydesdale colliery in Coalbrook, South Africa, where some 500 men were trapped by a heavy fall of rock. The trapped men were 600 feet underground.

Senate Summons Top AF Men For Missile Count

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee will summon top Air Force officials this week to give a nose count of long range missiles in the American arsenal — and to estimate how many such rockets the Soviet Union has ready.

The appearance of Air Secretary Dudley C. Sharp; Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, and other officials before the Senate Armed Services Committee will follow last week's testimony by Secretary of Defense Thomas Gates Jr. that the United States was not as bad off as intelligence specialists had figured.

The continued probe into U.S. readiness in missiles and other military fields follows Russia's dramatic demonstration last Wednesday of her missile capability.

The Russians fired a massive rocket about 7,700 miles, into a rectangular area of the Pacific southwest of Hawaii. The cone hit within a mile and a quarter of where it was aimed, Moscow said. Gates agreed in talking with newsmen here that it was a very good shot, but added quickly that U.S. Atlas missiles were very good, too.

Lt. Gen. Bernard Schriever, chief of the Air Force's research and development command, was emphatic in his views about U.S. missile ability. Questioned on television Friday, Schriever asserted "our accuracy is as good or better than theirs."

But what about the 7,700-mile range of the Soviet rocket compared with the 6,300 miles at which the Air Force has been shooting its own Atlas? Did Schriever mean to indicate that the Atlas could go a good way beyond the 6,300-mile range?

"That is true," the general replied.

Heart Attack

W. B. Winslett, operator of a radio and television repair shop, who suffered a severe heart attack last week has been removed to the Veterans Administration Hospital from Malone and Hogan Hospital. Winslett's condition is regarded as serious.

TRADE WINDS

Compact Cars Stir Auto World

Not since Henry Ford came out with the Model A has anything stirred the automobile world so much as the compact cars now being sold by three local dealers. These smaller cars have been accepted eagerly by the public, with the only drawback being that customers can't get delivery soon enough.

"I've got three Larks sold now that I can't make delivery on," said Johnny Stewart, manager of the McDonald Motor Co. "We've sold all we can get and have a waiting list."

Stewart handles the Lark and Rambler, both of which made an appearance quite awhile before the Corvair and Falcon. He says the smaller cars are coming off the assembly lines much faster now than during the steel strike.

Chevrolet's entry into the compact class is doing quite well, says Bob Sims, sales manager at Tidwell's, but he expects sales to double by April.

He says the Corvair is not cutting in much on the sale of Chevrolet's, since the two cars tap a different market. They have, however, reduced the sale of late model used cars.

"A late 1958 or 1959 model car is the same price range of the Corvair, so many of these buyers seem to prefer a new Corvair instead of a used car," Sims explained.

thing higher-priced and costlier to operate."

Dub Caldwell will move to his new place on the Snyder Highway within the next week or two. He has a large 60 by 160-foot concrete and steel building for storage and machinery work, while a smaller building will be used for office work and sales.

Caldwell sold his property north of the Benton Street overpass to Clyde McMahon, and will conduct all his business from the new location.

Skeeter Casselman and Archie Kinard are also doing business northeast of town on the Vealmoor road.

Kinard, who owns the property, handles plumbing while Casselman works with air-conditioning, heating and sheet metal.

Work on a 40-unit motel has been started at the corner of San Antonio and W. 4th, and will be completed sometime next September.

The motel, which will carry the name of Travelodge, will have a heated swimming pool, free television and other up-to-date features.

Members Get 6 Pct. Slice

Directors of the Texas & Pacific Employees Federal Credit Union have declared a 6 per cent dividend for 1959, dividing $37,348.22 among more than 1,100 shareholders.

D. D. Dyer was re-named president of the credit union. Other officers selected were R. C. Williams, vice president; L. M. Tucker, treasurer, and A. J. Conrad, secretary. Bobby Hill was added to the directorate to serve with the officers and with H. D. Stanley and C. W. Dickerson. Credit committee members named were H. L. Shirley, D. C. Sadler, Marvin Wright, G. A. Tate and H. F. Jarrett.

During the past year the credit union made 1,177 loans in the aggregate of $1,097,547.13. At the end of the year there were 688 loans outstanding for $574,928.16. Since its organization, the unit has processed 12,152 loans for an aggregate of $5,997,374.91.

The number of shareholders at the end of 1959 was 1,114 for an equity of $705,766.43. Recently the credit union moved into new and much larger quarters in the T&P freight terminal, expanding its opportunity of service.

Rites Scheduled For Carreno Baby

Alfredo Carreno, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Tomas Carreno of Coahoma, died Saturday morning in a hospital here. The child was born Wednesday.

Graveside services will be conducted at 10 a.m. Monday in the City Cemetery by the Rev. Francis Beasley, St. Thomas Catholic pastor. Arrangements are in charge of River Funeral Home.

Besides the parents other survivors are the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin DeLeon, Hondo, and Mr. and Mrs. Francisco Carreno, Luther.

Phillips Employees Set Safety Record

The 122 employees of Phillips Petroleum Company's Texas Panhandle production district completed on Jan. 8, two million consecutive man-hours of work without a disabling injury. Employees began this record Aug. 23, 1952, and reached their first million man-hours in February, 1956.

This is the first two million man-hour record ever made by any of the production department's 21 districts.

Cold, Moist Air Fills Sky Over Nearly All State

By The Associated Press

Cold, moist air filled the space above nearly all of Texas Saturday. The state was rounding out its coldest week of the winter.

Similar conditions are expected Sunday, forecasters said.

The temperature throughout the day remained below freezing in much of West Texas and the greater part of North Central Texas. The mercury had risen to 19 at Amarillo, cold spot in the state.

Scattered light rains fell, usually along the coast and inland to the Austin and San Antonio areas. The largest amount recorded during the six hours ending at noon was .30 of an inch at Corpus Christi. Traces of moisture were measured in the west at San Angelo, Midland, Amarillo and Lubbock. Sometimes the West Texas drizzle froze as it hit, making travel slippery.

Winds whistled out of the north and east, adding to the cold, moist discomfort. They ranged up to 20 miles per hour along the choppy coast.

Heavy fog and light drizzle spread over the Lower Rio Grande Valley. In the 24 hours ending at dawn Saturday, Brownsville measured .42 inch of rain, San Juan .38, Monte Alto .37, Raymondville .35, Edinburg .30, Los Fresnos .25 and Rio Grande City .14.

Supremacy

Cadillac's styling and engineering supremacy is instantly recognizable. Equally real, and equally rewarding is the car's supremacy in value. No other motor car in the land returns its owner so much pleasure and satisfaction for so modest an investment. Your dealer will be happy to substantiate this with a demonstration drive and a review of the facts at any time. He will also be happy to explain why this is such an advantageous time to make the move. We suggest you pay him a visit.

Versatile Is The Name For Her

IT'S A WELCOME SIGHT to see Daddy step off that plane and make his way to his family standing on the Flight Line. Mrs. Howard Below, Kathleen and Howie wait eagerly to join the captain for the ride home after one of his flights. The wife of a jet pilot fills her days with such tasks and fun as are shown on this page.

FAMILY SHOPPER is one of the many facets of a homemaker's duties, and with Kathleen in school, Howie received full attention during a morning shopping tour which included a visit to the barber shop, to a food store besides a peep at some new spring fashions for the small fry.

NOW LOOK, HONEY—being the family banker has its advantages, and vice versa, because at times, Mrs. Howard Below gets a bit absent-minded and numbers two checks alike. In the picture above, the "assistant banker" attempts to straighten out the tangled finances.

WE THANK THEE—saying grace is a ritual followed by the Below family, above, at each meal, for there is so much to be thankful for — two precious children, health, safe flights and each other, among many other things.

FUN WITH THE GIRLS is an informal game of bridge, while Molly, the French poodle relaxes under the table where she can hear all that is said and be on hand for refreshments. (Good thing Molly has passed the puppy age or Mrs. Donald Theil's slipper would be long gone!) Other players in picture at left are Mrs. Henry Lackey, Mrs. Below and Mrs. John B. Kouns, left to right.

ALONE AT LAST—with about 50 other couples dancing to the music of a popular orchestra at the Officers Club. With Kathleen and Howie supervised by a baby sitter, the Belows, at right, donned their "best bib and tucker" for an evening of dining and dancing with their friends.

Jet Pilot's Wife Has Many Facets To Her Personality

EDITOR'S NOTE—Stories similar to this are being produced all over the United States as an Air Defense Command project for January. This local story helps support the situation which is typical of the Air Force, nationwide.

By CAPT. G. L. GRIFFITH
ADC Project Officer

The job of an Air Force pilot for the Air Defense Command is an important one in protecting this nation against possible hostile air attack, as he helps provide the long range defense for the United States.

To the pilot it's a routine day's work to zoom along at near the speed of sound, eight miles up, ready to fire his air-to-air weapons if an unidentified plane happens to be hostile.

But what about his wife-in-a small house or apartment down on the ground? What thoughts go through her mind as she hears the loud wail of the jet overhead and looks up to see her husband's plane winging across the heavens? Is she tense, worried, apprehensive, or calmly confident of his ability to come through successfully?

Whatever her emotions happen to be, Cathy Below, wife of Capt. Howard D. Below, doesn't show it openly. The Belows are among the many families of fighter interceptors for pilots who wear the Air Force blue at Webb Air Force Base.

Capt. Below is a member of the 31st Fighter Interceptor Squadron. Cathy Below, a pretty brown-eyed with a lively personality, has a positive attitude in her outlook toward the Air Force career of her test-pilot husband. She feels that her job as a housewife and mother is a vital part of the serious business of air defense.

She also feels that as an Air Force wife she has a certain responsibility to take an active interest in the women's activities, both in the squadron and at the base itself. At present, Mrs. Below is serving as publicity chairman of the Officers Wives Club at Webb.

MANY INTERESTS
She likes to sew and uses her skill in making clothing for herself and her children, Kathleen Marie, age 8, and Howard William, age 2. When not busy with her household duties, she dabbles in art and playing the piano, at which she is highly talented.

Cathy Below also showed a great deal of creative ability in designing the furthest hat which took first prize at the Crazy Hat Luncheon recently held by the Officers Wives Club. She and her husband have a common point of interest in listening to their record collection on the stereophonic record player.

How does she feel about uprooting the family when military assignments cause movement about the country or overseas? "I really don't like to move all the time, but I feel that it is my place to be where my husband is needed," Mrs. Below said. "However, moving is particularly painful when we have to pull Kathleen out of school in the middle of a term," she added. She also feels that if parents take these moves in stride, the children will accept the disruptions and will adjust accordingly.

"No matter where we are," she said, "there are many friends we hate to leave. This will be particularly true when we have to leave Big Spring because the townspeople are far more friendly and easier to know than in most places we have been."

WAS 'ARMY BRAT'
Being the daughter of a retired U.S. army master sergeant and graduate of the Potsdam State Teachers College, New York, Cathy saw a lot of the country before she met her captain husband at Stewart AFB, N. Y. Neither of the Belows had lived in West Texas as before but they love it here. Cathy has never lived on the west coast and hopes the next assignment is in that direction. Overseas? "Well," she replied, "Howard has told me so much about his tour in Japan that I would like to live there sometime."

She enjoys the feeling of being on the go, the challenge of meeting new people, seeking a new home and a school for the children, but most important—sharing with her husband the high and low peaks of his job.

She's happy being an Air Force jet wife; the life is intriguing—but she admitted that she is most happy when she knows her husband is back on the ground and that he will be coming home for a good meal and a relaxing evening with the kids and Molly, the dog. This feeling that all is well lasts until the next mission is in stride, the children will accept the disruptions and will adjust accordingly.

Marva Lynn Murphy was the honored guest at a bridal shower Friday evening in the home of Mrs. K. L. Click.

Miss Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Murphy of Andrews, former residents of Big Spring, will become the bride of Preston Daniels, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Daniels of 1301 College, Feb. 12.

The ceremony will be in the home of the bride-elect's grandmother, Mrs. E. G. Britton, 408 Aylford.

Kay McNew registered guests who had been greeted by a hostess, Mrs. C. C. Robey, aunt of the honoree. Others in the receiving line were the bride-elect, her mother and her future mother-in-law.

Another hostess, Mrs. B. W. Gilliland, displayed the gifts. Mrs. Wayne McNew, also a hostess, assisted in serving.

A white lace cloth covered a round table in the Click home. It was centered with a display of a tiny bride and groom marching into a miniature church.

About 50 were included on the guest list.

Airman Is Guest Of Forsan Folks

Showings are scheduled at 1:30 p.m., 4:15 p.m. and 8 p.m. The 52 garments to be shown have been prepared by students of all levels in the Tech department of clothing and textiles. Miss Pond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pond, 1611 Runnels, is a member of a beginning college level clothing and textile class and is majoring in home economics education.

1948 Hyperions Plan Art Display

Members of the 1948 Hyperion Club will stage an art show as part of their guest tea, Feb. 3, it has been announced. Works of some of the local artists will be displayed and a program will include speakers who will discuss phases of art work and painting. The affair is scheduled for 2 p.m. in the home of Mrs. James Duncan, 1106 W. 16th.

Bride-Elect

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Renfro of Lamesa have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, June, to Travis Lillard of Lamesa. Miss Renfro will graduate from Lamesa High School in May; her fiancé, a graduate of the Flower Grove Schools, is employed as an announcer for radio station KPET. The couple plans to be married in June.

Dinner Is For Farewell, Graduation

A combination graduation and farewell dinner honored Kay McGibbon Thursday evening in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Arch Carson. Hostesses were their daughter, Judy, Jane Cowper and Judi Simpson. Fifteen guests found places at tables marked with placecards in a graduation theme. A point of interest was the centerpiece which held miniature mementos of Miss McGibbon's school life. These included a diploma, a mortarboard, megaphone and student council pin. The honored guest left Friday morning to attend the University of Indiana; her brother-in-law, Charles Webb, is a professor in the university. She was accompanied to Dallas by her parents and sister, Mr. and Mrs. K. H. McGibbon and Karen.

NSA To Meet

J. M. Jackson, attorney for Cosden Petroleum Corp., will be the speaker at a meeting of the National Secretaries Association Monday evening at 7:30. His subject will deal with contracts, which will help the group prepare for their CPS examination.

History Of Woman's Suffrage Is Noted

The history of woman's suffrage was one of the topics given by Mrs. D. L. Dannheiser, citizenship chairman, in a program for the City Home Demonstration Club Friday in the home of Mrs. Ervin Daniels; Mrs. E. A. Williams was cohostess. The first woman's suffrage organization in Texas came into being in 1913. In 1918 women were given the right to vote in primaries and nominating conventions without having to pay poll tax. The speaker told the women that one dollar of their poll tax money is used for public schools. General revenue purposes claim 50 cents, and 25 cents goes for county purposes. With a large chart, Mrs. Dannheiser traced a bill through the various channels necessary to make it become a law. The devotion, from 2 Timothy, was brought by Mrs. B. F. Mabe. Mrs. Alton Underwood was winner of the special prize. The Feb. 12 meeting will be held in her home at 601 East 16th. Mrs. H. D. McElrath became a new member of the group, and two visitors were present, Mrs. A. T. Dunn and Mrs. Ida L. Baker of Texline.

Most Important Fella

Seven-week-old Jonathan Finney has entered the Jack Stricklan home as the most important young man in it. He is about to get his parents broken into the job of rearing youngsters they are new at it, you see. No other child has felt capable of undertaking the task so far. He will be a "preacher's kid" who runs around with the deacons' kids, as the saying goes, for Stricklan has become the minister at the East Fourth Baptist Church.

Minister's Family Has 7-Week-Old Baby Boss

If tiny, 10-pound Jonathan Finney Stricklan doesn't grow up to be a preacher, it won't be his parents' fault. When the Rev. and Mrs. Jack L. Stricklan named their blue-eyed admission they chose to name him after two of the world's great preachers in the past, Jonathan Edwards and Charles G. Finney. The 7-week-old boy, who now rules the ministers' "roost" was born in San Angelo where the Stricklans were ministering in the Belmore Baptist Church. Jack Stricklan became the pastor of the church while a senior at Southwestern Baptist Seminary in Fort Worth, and commuted to the distant city all during his last year. He would leave early Tuesday morning then come back Thursday evening after attending all his classes on two days of the week.

The Truth About Hormones To Make Skin Look Young

As I write this article, I can look through the doorway and see a woman of 45 waiting in the outer office. The light is good and I see her clearly. She looks 10 years younger today than she did a month ago. What brought about this amazing change? Estrogenic hormones. Reams have been written about hormones. Will they make women of 75 look 16 again? Absolutely not. Will they make women of 60 feel like they are 20 again? Only in a way I shall explain later.

appear on the label. The recommended daily allotment for the skin is 300 units. The base should be as rich as possible in lanolin and vegetable oils to permit fast penetration and deep absorption and, when "rubbed in" your skin should not feel greasy or sticky. On first application, your skin should feel a radiant glow of revitalized youthfulness and refreshment.

To know the truth about hormones to feed the skin—less and more—HORMONEX is so effective in revitalizing aging skin that over 500 leading department stores and thousands of drug and cosmetic outlets recommend it to their customers. What is guaranteed to bring you joyous, noticeable results in 5 days or your money back. HORMONEX Beauty Serum is really a bargain at $3.50. So, if you want to see if your dreams of a younger-looking skin—without wrinkles, dimples, color and texture improved, can come true, I suggest you get a 100-day supply now. Use HORMONEX Beauty Serum for 5 days—then look for amazing results.

An extra good buy in hormone products today is a preparation called HORMONEX Beauty Serum. It is made by a 33-year-old laboratory that has produced over 50 million packages of pure, fine cosmetics. HORMONEX is so effective in revitalizing aging skin that over 500 leading department stores and thousands of drug and cosmetic outlets recommend it to their customers. What is guaranteed to bring you joyous, noticeable results in 5 days or your money back. HORMONEX Beauty Serum is really a bargain at $3.50. So, if you want to see if your dreams of a younger-looking skin—without wrinkles, dimples, color and texture improved, can come true, I suggest you get a 100-day supply now. Use HORMONEX Beauty Serum for 5 days—then look for amazing results.

A single drop is so potent. A 100-day supply costs only $2.50 plus tax.

Here is a test reported in a scientific journal, one of many that showed similarly sensational results: Twenty-five women applied hormones to one side of the face and neck, and to one hand. On the other side and the other hand, a similar preparation containing no hormones was applied. These are the reports in simple words: Skin lines (or wrinkles) quickly dimmed or disappeared from sight as creases and hollows filled out. Blemishes and "old-age freckles" faded on hands, face and neck. Skin was softer, clearer, seemed to lose its chronic dryness, and take on revived freshness and vitality. All these amazing things happened on the side where the hormones were used. Meanwhile no changes occurred on the other side. The same withered, lifeless complexion. Still another scientist reports in effect, improvement in the skin of women past menopause was striking. These women looked like the spritits. I cannot truthfully say that women of 60 felt like they were 20 again. But I have seen the light come back into their eyes—their chins raised with proud confidence—the zest for living returned—because—I presume—to look younger is to feel younger. Now to select a good estrogenic hormone preparation, here is what you need to know: the strength of the hormone preparations must

How you can concentrate your hormone treatments on spots that need it most because HORMONEX Beauty Serum is so potent. One bottle lasts about 100 days. Just 7 drops daily gives you the maximum amount of female hormones. Contains large percentage of Lanolin and Sesame Oil—sterilized.

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

With the success of this story depending on dogs and the weather, anything might have happened at the birthday party Saturday for Andre.

As the party was planned by Andre's mistress, BO BOWEN, county health nurse, 12 of the dog's dog friends were sent invitations to a come and go affair between 1 and 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon at 207 E. 12th St.

The guest list included boxers, Pekingese, terriers and mixed breeds. Of course they all probably didn't dress for the occasion but Andre was going to. He was to wear a red and white corduroy vest with a double row of buttons on the back. According to his adoring owner, he was to be very beautiful in a miniature French poofly fashion. As always, his white coat was to be clipped and brushed and his nails manicured to perfection.

While the owners of the pets were served by Miss Bowen, the canine guests were treated with doggy delights such as yummies and dog biscuits and the favors were tiny paper hats. If Andre survived the festivities he will be two years old Tuesday.

There was a possibility of 50 callers during the afternoon. There is just my private little hope, and it is that all 12 dogs were not there at the same time.

I have some other French poofle acquaintances in which I am most interested. The first interest is how such a little bit of fluff could command such a price. I found myself quite uncomfortable in her august presence for fear I would touch her on the wrong place and she'd fall apart. This fear was soon dispelled. As she grew older, I came to realize she had the constitution of a cast iron pot and could get in and out of situations with great dexterity.

Her owners keep her lovely silver grey coat well groomed and her nails are also painted. For special occasions she wears a collar studded with rhinestones and a tiny bouquet of blue flowers in her top knot and a bow just above the silver poof a the tip of her tail.

She now is the proud mother of a miniature of herself and has been trained to push her baby in a doll buggy.

Another poofle of the standard type is too big to make one want to cuddle her, but she is so black every place on her body including her eyes appears to have been dipped in tar.

DR. AND MRS. W. A. HUNT and Mrs. T. J. WILLIAMSON and TRENT are in San Marcos where they will attend exercises at South Texas State College this afternoon when FRANK HUNT will receive his M. A. degree with a major in history. Frank is an instructor at San Marcos Baptist Academy and his wife, the former Tommie Williamson, is chemistry and math instructor at San Marcos High. She took her bachelor's degree from the college last August.

MRS. W. D. McDONALD is beginning to feel like seeing a few people again. She underwent major surgery during the past week and didn't have company through Saturday, but thought she might begin seeing a few friends today. She's at Malone-Hogan Hospital.

MR. AND MRS. W. C. WAGY had a fiftieth wedding anniversary Saturday but had to go uncelebrated. They are waiting for their house to come to a permanent setting. With the coming of industry to their block on Eleventh Place, their house has been moved to 14th and Princeton.

MR. AND MRS. A. W. MOODY and Charles Vessel will return today from San Antonio where they spent the weekend with relatives.

Guests of CAPT. AND MRS. JAMES FRY this weekend are his brother and family, MR. AND MRS. DAVID FRY and their children, Diana, Donnie and Julie of Eastland.

Knit Wear High Fashion In Italy

By ALLYN MOSS FLORENCE, Italy (AP)—Knitwear for the coming spring and summer held buyers' attention Monday night as they awaited the resumption of Italian high fashion showings.

The Florentine showing of new collections begin tonight with the Roman house of Capucci and the Milan house of Maruccelli.

Monday night two boutique and sportswear houses showed knitted shirts, skirts, jackets, slacks, capes, dresses, scarves, belts and hats. They were executed in silk, linen, Shantung, lame, cottons, nylons and, of course, wool.

Avagolf of Milan showed pure silk-knit suits in green, deep purple, gold and brick red, and a group of stoned and hooded bulky sweaters in white and blue, worn over long black pants.

Very high-fashion knits were shown by Mirsa of Novara. There were gray suits with black borders, and brown suits with beige borders, worn with matching knit berets. Tunic-length mohair striped coats covered fitted knit dresses and had matching pot hats.

High Hats To Be Spring's High Style

PARIS (AP)—Paris is going high-hat this season. Crowns are built up, pixie-wise, until any girl can look like a skyscraper in the spring hat collections being shown in Paris this week.

The cloche in a dozen versions is the big thing for spring and summer. Slight and shallow for daytime, it may get floppy and Garboish for late afternoon. In either case, it is worn square on the head, showing the hairline at the brow in the former version, and shading the face with mystery right down to the nose in the latter. Silk and straw are tandem favorites.

The other big influence is the ball hat, of middling size, made of tulle clipped and sheared like a hedge. Balmain's hatter, Legroux, has three in different colors. Other milliners show at least one.

Both graduated in 1954, Jack with a B.A. degree with a major field of Bible and minor fields English and psychology. Arminda was an elementary education major with music and social science as minors; she received a B. S. degree.

The Rev. Stricklan decided to enter the ministry while a high school senior. "I felt that it was the Lord's will for me," the young dark-haired minister relates.

Blonde Mrs. Stricklan had felt a call into some phase of active ministry, but wasn't certain as to what field she would enter. Marrying a minister solved the decision problem.

Miss Nall Is Wed To William Hamrick

Linda Lee Nall became the bride of William B. Hamrick in the home of the Rev. Cecil Rhodes, pastor of the Westside Baptist Church, Jan. 15.

Mrs. Hamrick is the daughter of J. B. Nall, 1400 Main, and Mrs. B. C. Krehbiel of Rowell, N. M. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Earlene Gordon, Gastonia, N. C., and Fred Hamrick, Buffalo, S. C. The bride was dressed in a beige suit and used black accessories. She wore a brown orchid.

Margaret Barnfield was maid of honor, and wore a corsage of gold carnations. Clarence Matthews was best man.

There Are Such Things As Good Juveniles, Y'Know

Two million members of teenage fun clubs around the country are proving that the younger generation can be a force for good, when given a chance.

In 325 towns throughout the United States boys and girls who have joined Hi-Fi Clubs, originally organized for recreation, music and dancing, are turning to serious community projects, giving help where it is needed.

In Spartansburg, S. C., members of a teen music club raised funds to aid little Larry Kent, seriously burned in an accident. They gave car-wash parties, held auctions and worked in teams collecting money to pay for the costly operations the small boy needed.

The Hi-Fi Club of Worcester, Mass., gave their Christmas party for the children of St. Anne's Orphanage, distributing gifts and goodies that their own projects had paid for.

The club in Woonsocket, R.I., has voted to adopt a Korean orphan, raising money for his care through a dance.

In Boston the teen club has worked diligently for the "Jimmy Fund," a community project to aid others stricken with the disease that took the life of a small boy, Jimmy.

These are a few examples of work being done by many teen groups all over the country, who are proving that juveniles can be good citizens.

Bill Gray Speaker For Elbow HD Club

Bill Gray, of KBST, was the guest speaker at a meeting of the Elbow Home Demonstration Club Thursday afternoon. His subject was Citizenship.

"Leadership is the most necessary product in the nation," Gray told the 11 women gathered in the home of Mrs. Russell Christensen. He said that education is the backbone of good citizenship.

Mrs. Curtis Sherman was in charge of the recreation period. The devotion was given by Mrs. Christensen, who used a scripture reference in 2 Timothy. Mrs. James Couble will host the Feb. 4 meeting in her home at 2 p.m.

Forsan Study Club Honors Two Members

Two members of the Forsan Study Club were honored Thursday evening by the club at a regular meeting.

Mrs. Bill Conger was named Teacher of the Year and Mrs. Frank Shannon, Clubwoman of the Year. Selection was made on the basis of cooperation and outstanding work in the club and in civic affairs.

Speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. D. R. Dunnam, school nurse, who discussed the nursing profession for the group.

Hostesses for the session were Mrs. Joe T. Holladay and Mrs. Edna McGee.

Mrs. Conger, who is a graduate of Sterling City High School and Sul Ross College, has served for two terms as president of the Howard County Teachers Assn.; two terms as vice president of the Howard County unit of TSTA, and was delegate for District Four, TSTA.

At present, Mrs. Conger is English instructor in the junior high school of Forsan and is coach of girls' athletics. In community work, she has served as president of the P.T.A. and of the Forsan Study Club, which has honored her twice by choosing her as teacher of the year.

Mrs. Conger has sponsored the Forsan 4-H Club work and serves with the Jr. Rodeo Assn. in Howard County. A member of the Presbyterian Church, she takes an active part in Boy and Girl Scout work; her son, William, is 16 and her daughter, Betty, 13. Her husband is an employee of Cosden Petroleum Corp.

Mrs. Shannon, who came to Forsan five years ago from Florida, was chairman of the Art and Flower show sponsored in 1959 by the study club; she is past president and is now vice president of the Forsan Home Demonstration Club. In the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, she is chairman of the American Home Division. Mrs. Shannon was quite active in pharmaceutical organiza-

Stop That Cold Before It Starts

It's not the cold outside that bothers us so much in winter-time — it's the ones inside that cause the trouble.

Medical experts note that each of us is likely to get at least one cold this winter. They point out that preventive medicine is the most effective safeguard against the common cold, or for minimizing its effects once you get one.

For most of us, the best preventive measures consist of staying in the best "shape" possible so that the sniffles won't snuff most of the fun out of winter.

Here are basic recommendations from health authorities that will help you combat colds and other respiratory infections:

—Isolate any member of your family who has a cold or symptoms of flu.

—Guard against chilling.

—Wash your hands before eating.

—Avoid crowds as much as possible.

—Cover your coughs and sneezes with tissues.

—Dispose of used tissues immediately, so you don't re-infect yourself.

—Avoid persons with respiratory infections as much as possible.

—Go to bed when symptoms start; if you develop fever call your doctor.

—Wash all eating and drinking utensils used by those with flu or a cold in clean sudsy water, then rinse with scalding hot water and let drain dry.

—Get plenty of rest, exercise regularly but don't overexert.

—Drink plenty of liquids, especially water and fruit juices.

Nuptials Set

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McGuire of Lamesa have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Delta, to David Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Walker of Lamesa. The couple is to be married at the home of the bride's parents, Feb. 6.

Spaders Give MOD Coffee On Friday

Members of the Spaders Garden Club and their guests gathered Friday morning in the home of Mrs. Earl Burnett for coffee. Proceeds went to the March of Dimes. Alternating with the coffee service were Mrs. Burnett and Mrs. Zack Gray, president of the club. The white linen-covered table was centered with an arrangement of talemans roses.

Singing In Forsan Is Well-Attended

FORSAN — Several churches were represented at the recent singing held at the Church of Christ.

The Walter Gressetts were guests of the Donald Gressetts in Snyder.

In Medical Arts Hospital for the second time this month is Mrs. Floyd Pike, who is ill with the flu.

The Paul Kennedys had their daughter, Shirley, home recently; she is living in Midland.

Mrs. S. C. Cowley has returned from a visit to Pecos.

Mrs. Henry Park has been in San Angelo since Monday with her mother, Mrs. J. J. Watkins, who is ill. The Park family recently returned from Dallas where they were guests of the Johnny Harls.

The John Kubeckas have had a visit in San Angelo and Christoval.

Guests of the Harley Grants in McCarney have been Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Jones.

Mrs. D. W. Day and her infant daughter, Karen Leah, were expected home Friday from Malone-Hogan Hospital.

Buy your steamed pudding (in a can) then make Hard Sauce for it.

MY HARD SAUCE
1/4 lb. butter
2 cups sifted confectioners sugar

1 tsp. vanilla
1 tsp. cognac
1 tsp. vanilla

Allow butter to stand in a large mixing bowl at room temperature so it is just soft enough to work. Using low speed of electric mixer, or wooden spoon, blend butter, sugar, cognac and vanilla until smooth. Refrigerate so sauce will harden. Serve with steamed pudding. Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

Note: Sift confectioners sugar right into measuring cup, then level with spatula.

march for facts and funds for the new March of Dimes.

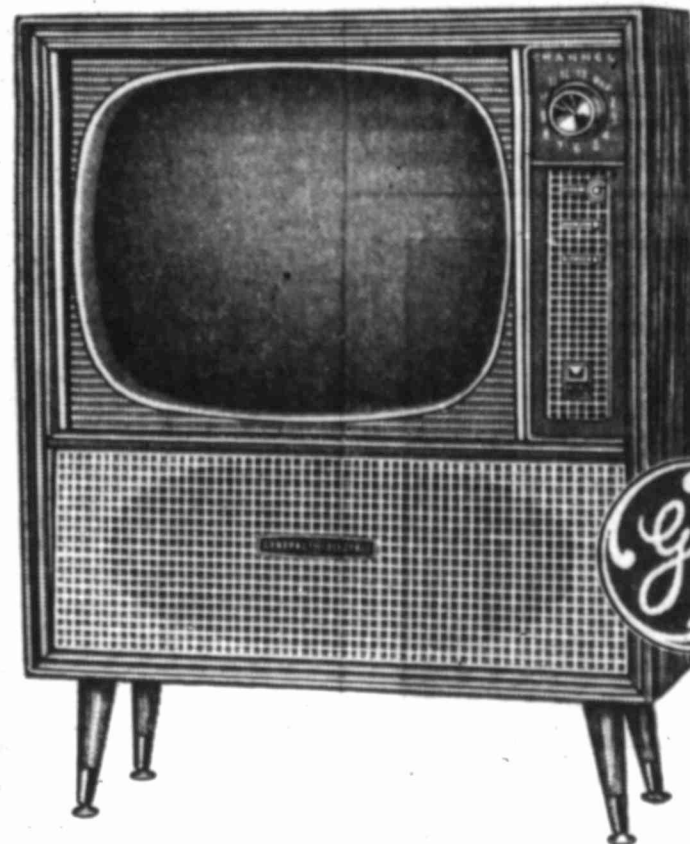

The Mothers' March will take place in Dawson County Friday evening, according to Mrs. Bill Nix, Mothers' March chairman.

In addition to being asked for MOD contributions Mrs. Nix explained, each household will be given a copy of "door count," a concise fact-finding folder in which a family may indicate if any of its members has a birth defect, arthritis or polio — three crippling conditions that affect one of every four American families. The record also seeks to learn how many have had three or more Salk vaccine shots.

Family records will be kept confidential, Mrs. Nix said. The new march is combating birth defects and arthritis with the same effective weapons used to conquer paralytic polio: medical scientific research to find causes, cures and preventives; patient aid for medical care; and training for medical workers needed to treat the sick and disabled.

San Angelo Residents Are Joined In Marriage

Luanne Koberg became the bride of Monte Vincent Nolen Saturday evening in the chapel of the First Methodist Church in San Angelo.

Miss Koberg is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles W. Koberg of San Angelo, and the granddaughter of Mrs. Charles Koberg and niece of Mrs. Camille Patterson of 716 Runnels. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Nolen of San Angelo.

Dr. James B. Leavell, pastor of the First Baptist Church in San Angelo, performed the ceremony. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk organza that featured short shirred sleeves and a sabrina neckline edged with re-embroidered Alencon lace and highlighted with iridescent sequins and pearls. A front panel of applied lace and a back bustle-type bow trimmed the skirt that extended into a chapel train.

A queen's crown of Alencon lace designed with pearls and iridescent sequins held the fingertip veil of bridal illusion.

A cascade of gardenias, white roses and stephanotis mingled with ivy to form the bridal bouquet.

Music was provided on the organ by Mrs. L. E. Erwin.

Lynne Logan was the maid of honor, while bridesmaids were Judy Patterson and Mrs. R. C. Easley.

The bridegroom's brother, John R. Nolen, was best man. David Senter and Bobby Lowry were groomsmen, while ushers were Max Sanders and David Alexander.

A reception was held in the Indian Room of the Cactus Hotel. After a short wedding trip, the new Mr. and Mrs. Nolen will reside on Cavness Avenue in Johnson Village, San Angelo.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of San Angelo Central High School. She is now attending San Angelo Business College and Nolen is a student at San Angelo College.

MRS. MONTE VINCENT NOLEN

Wedding Shower Is Compliment For Bride-Elect

FORSAN — Judy Shoults was complimented with a bridal shower Monday evening in the fellowship hall of the Baptist Church.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Shoults, she is to be married on Jan. 30 to Carlos J. Grigg of Ackery. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Grigg of Ackery.

bert Turner and Mrs. Pat Brunton, were at the bride's book, which had been made by her mother. Serving was done by two more of the hostesses, Mrs. C. L. Draper and Sherrie Fletcher.

Greeting guests and alternating in other courtesies were the hostesses, Mrs. T. R. Camp, Mrs. D. W. Day, Mrs. Luther Garner, Mrs. O. W. Fletcher, Mrs. Floyd Pike, Mrs. E. O. Bassinger, Mrs. Jim Craig, Mrs. Henry Park, Mrs. A. O. Jones and Mrs. J. W. Overton.

The tea table, in lace over blue, held a reflector on which were wedding bells of varying sizes behind a bridal couple and a white Bible.

Leftovers?

Frankfurter rolls leftover. Split and butter them, then toast under the broiler. Good served with a hearty soup for lunch.

Adds Flavor

Using deviled ham for a sandwich filling? Spread the bread with prepared mustard, choosing one of the sweet brown varieties.

Lamesa Pair Weds In Lubbock

LAMESA — The Rev. Allen Adams officiated for a double ring ceremony at 7 p.m. Saturday in the chapel of Lubbock's First Methodist Church for a Lamesa couple, Connie Irene Nix and Ned Culp.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Nix are parents of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Culp are the bridegroom's parents.

For her marriage, the bride selected a sapphire blue suit, with grey and white accessories, and carried white sweetheart roses atop a bride's white Bible.

Betty Pat Nix was her sister's only attendant. She wore a dress of ice blue jersey and carried white roses. Frank Jones Jr. was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Culp will make their home at 5004 Orien St., Fort Worth, following a short wedding trip. The bride attended Texas Tech following her graduation from Lamesa High School.

Culp, a graduate of Lamesa High School and Texas Tech, has recently received his discharge from the U. S. Marine Corps.

Julia Durham Has Won A Place In The All-State Band

LAMESA — Julia Durham, bass clarinetist and majorette in the Lamesa High School Golden Tornado Band, has won a berth on the all-state band, it is announced. She will attend the TMEA convention which is being held in Austin Feb. 4-7, and play in the group of top high school bandmen from over the state.

Initial try-outs were held on Jan. 9 in Odessa, and by placing in the regional band, she qualified for the area try-outs held in Lubbock the following week.

Gary Essary, baritone player, was chosen as an alternate in the regional band.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

SECTION D BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, JANUARY 24, 1960 SECTION D

Mothers Marshaling Forces For Their March

On Thursday evening mothers of Big Spring will embark upon their traditional march for the March of Dimes. This year, as in the past, the Parent-Teacher units have graciously accepted this assignment and have organized teams to blanket every area of town. So Thursday evening just turn on your porch light and one of the ladies will take your offering to help some victim of polio or other crippling

City Commission To Resume Consideration Of Annexation

The Big Spring City Commission will again take up the matter of annexation during the regular meeting set for Tuesday at 5:15 p.m. in city hall.

The commission will consider first readings on almost 2 1/2 square miles of area on the fringes of the city. Final annexation proceedings will probably not be given these areas, however.

Master Planner Marvin Springer recommended that the commission give these areas first readings and then finish annexation action once development begins.

Chamber Banquet About Ready To Hang Up SRO

The Chamber of Commerce banquet, little less than two weeks away, is virtually sold out.

Paul Harvey, famous radio newscaster and lecturer, will be the speaker for the occasion on the evening of Feb. 5 at the Goliad Junior High gymnasium.

Saturday morning only 45 tickets out of a potential of approximately 550 remained.

Decorations are being planned for the occasion, and among them will be a big backdrop furnished by West Texas Advertising Co. Jim Watts of Womack & Snelson is designing the layout to develop the theme of "through the threshold from the Fabulous Fifties to the Sonic Sixties." Musical entertainment for the evening will feature Maj. Vincent Brophy of Webb AFB, baritone soloist.

Bill Quimby, Chamber of Commerce manager, said that a sizeable number of visitors from surrounding cities is expected for the banquet.

Charged In Theft

LONDON (AP) — Austrian actress Johanna Ehrenstrasser, Miss Europe of 1956, was charged in court Friday with stealing a diamond ring worth 1,245 pounds ($3,486).

Included in these first readings will be 100 acres south and west of the Marcy Drive-U.S. 80 intersection. It would complete the College Park Estates area annexation program.

A 600-acre tract west and north of the U.S. 80 in the Settles Heights vicinity will be considered for first reading. Others include a 60-acre tract south of the Lockhart Addition; a 175-acre tract near the auction barns; and 640 acres south of Marcy Drive including the edge of South Mountain.

Final annexation action is expected for the Wasson Place No. 2 and Robb No. 2 subdivisions.

CTC REPORT

A report from the Citizens Traffic Commission by James Eubanks is on the agenda. The council's special committee to study the inter-city loop for law enforcement agencies may make a report.

The subdivision ordinance will again be discussed and the commission will consider bids on a new replacement car in the police department.

A model code will be offered for commission consideration. It is a codified collection of city ordinances and such a plan has been offered to the city for $5,400 plus an annual charge to keep it current.

Cub Leaders At Banquet

LAMESA — Approximately 50 workers in the Cub Scout program from Welch, Denver City and Lamesa attended the Golden Jubilee model blue and gold banquet held Thursday night at the Dawson School Cafeteria in Welch.

J. D. Paige of Welch welcomed the group; Shelby Berry of Brownfield, Boy Scout executive worker, gave the invocation. Speaker for the evening was D. R. Borum of Brownfield, Packs 93 and 93 of Lamesa; were presented honor unit plaques for reaching their membership goal in 1959, and Mrs. J. D. Paige received the plaque for outstanding work on the district banquet.

Charles Webb Takes Place On Indiana U. Music Staff

It may be "Prof." Webb when Charles Webb and Wally Hornbrook come here Friday evening of the Big Spring Concert Series. Charles Webb, member of the piano duo and on whom Big Spring plays mighty strong claim, has been added to the staff of the University of Indiana where he is working toward his doctorate in music.

Last week he was notified of his appointment which will place him in charge of public relations for the school of music and in charge of all the musical attractions of the university. He is left free to tour and to fill concert engagements that he and Hornbrook have booked. And at the same time he can continue with his doctoral studies.

MUSICAL CAPERS
Although Webb and Hornbrook, who is director of music for a new and large Methodist Church in Phoenix, Ariz., are expert musicians and include a wide variety of selections from the classics in their repertoire, they delight in cutting musical capers.

They include several on the so-called program, but in all candor, they seldom go by the program. Like any good musicians, they break into the routine with a saucy novelty or some typically Webb and Hornbrook improvisation.

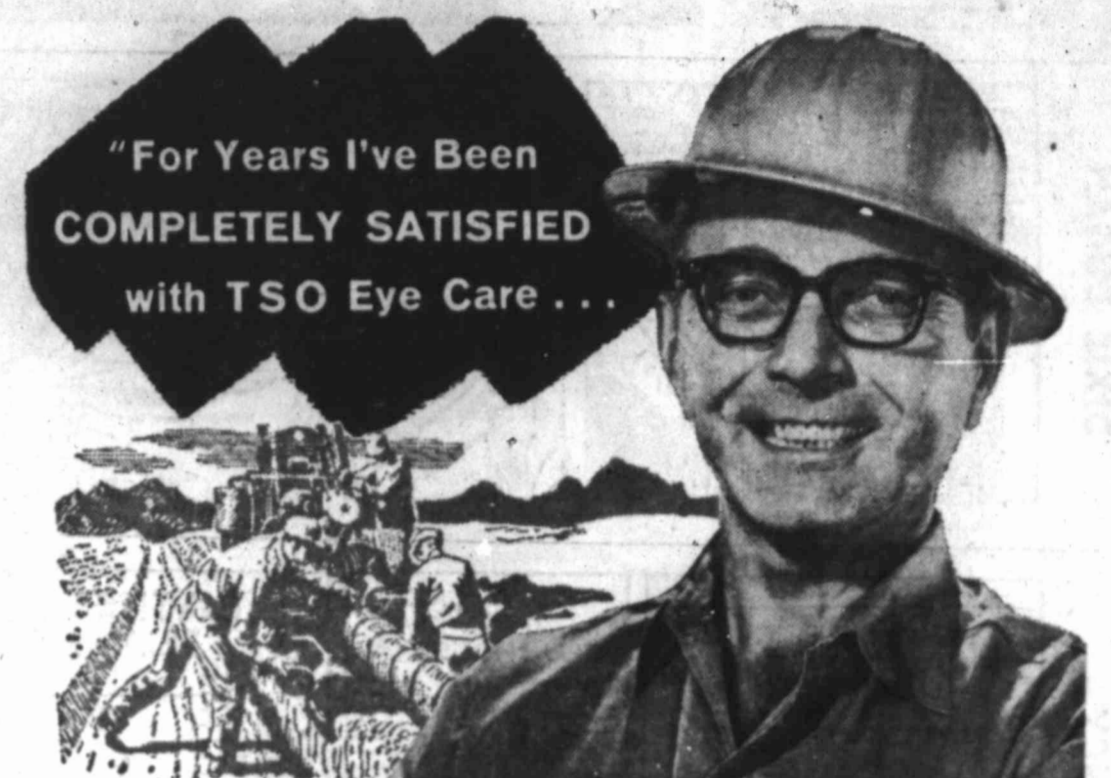

The two talented pianists began playing together for fun when with Fred Waring back in 1932. Thereafter they became a regular feature of the Waring workshops at Shawnee-on-the-Delaware, Pa. They've both been regular members of the workshop staff since that time, and in recent years, they have been hopping across the country to fill engagements.

POPULAR FIGURE

Webb was first known to Big Spring as Lt. Webb when he was stationed at Webb AFB with special services. Before his sign-in ink was dry, he was organizing a chorus of cadets. Soon these expanded and became famed as the Webb Choraleers. The personable and indefatigable officer was right in the middle of community musical affairs, too, and organized and directed two tremendous oratorios with combined choirs. While here he met and fell in love with Kenda McGibbon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. H. McGibbon, and she is now Mrs. Charles Webb.

Senior Trip Plans Made

By ELLABETH STORY
The seniors in Forsan High School are beginning to see the end of their high school days. They met Jan. 19, and decided that Colorado Springs, Colo., would be their destination for their senior trip. It is sponsored by the senior class, but said that we would have to have some more money in order to go in "grand style." So, saying for the senior class, "All donations gladly accepted." Right, seniors.

Report Cards Handed Out Wednesday

By DE MASON
The most dreaded word around Goliad this week was report cards. Yes, Wednesday was the dreaded day when report cards were handed out; and if one remedy-study, there's only one remedy-study!

Bright Students Not Neglecting Science

Superior job many of our schools are doing," he said. "Today more than ever we need to pay attention to well-motivated, bright young men and women and to encourage them to dig in and develop minds. We shall need them in the years ahead." Schuster said.

Each year the organization awards a minimum of 300 scholarships. The plan was established in 1955 with grants of $25 million from the Ford Foundation and $200,000 from the Carnegie Corp. The scholars come from every state and are selected on the basis of merit. There are 3,000 merit scholars enrolled in 239 colleges and universities now.

The report shows that science and engineering head the list of subjects chosen as majors by the students. The report also calls public attention to America's wealth of young talent and to the pioneering and teaching.

Juniors Engaged In Kuder Preference Tests

Mr. Douglas Whitley, high school chemistry and physics teacher, directed the juniors in the Kuder Preference Tests. He has spent the past week with the students to help them understand the tests before they take them. The tests measure interests in 16 different areas—outdoor, mechanical, computational, scientific, persuasive, artistic, literary, musical, social and sports. Also, it shows whether one would like to do work dealing with group activity, stable situations, dealing with ideas, avoiding conflicts, or directing others. The students can take the tests at any time during the school year. From the scores, a student can also predict how successful he would be in similar vocations.

James Stewart Heads 'Famous Fives' Poll

By CHESTER BAHN
NEW YORK — James Stewart in Otto Preminger's fine production of "Anatomy of a Murder" for Columbia Pictures and Audrey Hepburn in Henry Blanke's impressive production of "A Nun's Story" for Warner Bros. contributed the outstanding performances in starring roles in 1959, according to the nation's press-critics and reviewers, and broadcasting's film commentators voting in The Film Daily's annual Filmindom's Famous Fives poll.

The results of the poll were announced by the industry's daily newspaper, and were based upon the ballots cast upon invitation extended by The Film Daily to more than 2,000 who write or speak professionally about motion pictures.

Con Man Charged In Impersonation

FORT WORTH (AP) — Smooth-talking, slick-dressing confidence man Glenn Dale Castle is under a five-count federal indictment. The indictment said Castle impersonated a famed screen writer to fleece Americans in Rome last year.

pictures of the year are represented in the 10 categories submitted to those voting. Twentieth Century-Fox has the largest picture representation — five — while the picture with the largest number of category selections—seven—is "Anatomy of a Murder," only one more however than accrued to 20th-Fox's "The Diary of Anne Frank."

The player to place the largest number of times in the 1960 poll was Susan Kohner, a member of the cast of Universal-International's "Imitation of Life," who was favored in three categories. In one category, "Best Performances by Supporting Players," the critics chose three members of the cast of "Anatomy of a Murder" — Joseph N. Welch, George C. Scott, and Arthur O'Connell, a signal tribute to Producer Preminger's casting skill.

There were 30 contenders in the voting for male star, 22 for female star, 47 for supporting actor, 37 for supporting actress, 21 for juvenile actor, 12 for juvenile actress, 32 for "Find" of 1960, the most frequent choice, 37 for best photographed feature, and 32 for screenplay.

The eligibility period for the poll was the calendar year, and, importantly, all pictures placed in general release during that period were potential entries by the critics and commentators voting.

Those participating voted only for the pictures which they personally reviewed in their professional capacity.

In selecting the top five actors and actresses with star-lustre for 1959, the critics and commentators relied entirely upon well-established Hollywood luminaries; the screen's newcomers in their opinion evidently require more seasoning.

It's the 13th anniversary for Niven and Miss Gaynor, even though Niven has lost a long and valiant battle to keep a one-eyed monster from his living room—his in-laws have given them a TV set as an anniversary present.

It's not long before the inimitable Niven has cocktail in hand, too much in head, foot in mouth, and foot in TV screen.

Seems it's really their 14th anniversary—the extra year was unofficial — and Niven blabs it all before the in-laws while under the influence.

Mitzi's parents, however, have never stopped regarding their precious child as their baby, and this revelation of unlawful hi-jinks, even though it was legalized 13 years ago, is too much for them.

The film is sophisticated, adult and filled with the old human comedy. But it does not tread too far into forbidden territory. It is not a smart-alec story.

The producers, nevertheless, felt the usual censorial hand, and insisted on an extra line be dubbed into the completed version, having Niven say to his wife that pre-marital toolometry is a bad, bad thing.

Niven refused, the line was dubbed in by someone else, and at last report it was still in, but one line shouldn't spoil a whole film.

It is a standing rule in Hollywood that evil must always be punished in an earthy fashion instead of at the judgement, and that sin must always be made, at least in the end, to look like no fun at all.

The producers (and the censors) apparently aren't aware that sin must be fun, or it wouldn't be so attractive.

There's nothing morally harmful in "Happy Anniversary," Niven said, and it's an insult to one's intelligence to toss in a meaningless line.

"The Miracle" offers a contrast of heavy drama to the froth of the Niven film.

Based on an old legend, "The Miracle" was first written as a play by Karl Vollmoeller and adapted to the stage by Max Reinhardt.

The legend is that of a young nun who falls in love with a British officer during the British campaign against Napoleon in Spain. She runs away with him, and a figure of the Madonna leaves its niche in the masonry to take the place of the missing postulant.

But, as per the superstition of the day, everything the girl touches is destroyed, and she finally takes her lesson to heart. She returns to the convent, and the miracle is complete.

The play did not appeal to those who believe morality is a one-way street, nor does the movie. Vollmoeller's original point was to shed light on differences between "faith and the flesh," and both play and movie do a creditable job of explaining the differences.

Aside from the drama, there are colorful scenes of gypsies at the fireside, wild orgies, wilder battles, bullfights, and love scenes. These scenes are spectacular, to say the least.

The only bad point about the movie is Carroll Baker as the nun who was none too chaste. She's wooden, and reminds one of her famous "Baby Doll" role. Other actors are their usual top-notch selves. Walter Slezak, Katina Paxinou, Dennis King, Gustavo Rojo, Vittorio Gassman, Carlos Rivas, and Roger Moore, who has been hailed as the next Errol Flynn.

It's not often this reviewer takes notes on a horror film, but "The Man Who Could Cheat Death" looks like it might be a real chiller, and not just another sad excuse for making money.

I haven't seen the film, but I have read the screenplay, and it looks good from here. The film was produced by the same British company that made "The Curse of Frankenstein" and the later version of "Dracula," if that's any indication.

"The Naked Maja" is really a naked shame. Ostensibly the film version of the life of Goya, the famed Spanish painter, "The Naked Maja" has its history hopelessly confused by the trite formulas of Hollywood-style intrigue.

Goya's noted canvas of a nude Duches of Alba is nowhere apparent in the film, except briefly (so don't think if you want to see it), so the title is doubly misleading.

Advance publicity for the film, including a king-sized picture trolled like an aerial target by plane over New York, set off a chain reaction, but the protests were wasted.

There's nothing bared in the soap-operatic "Naked Maja" but Hollywood's most obvious faults.

The Hollywood pipeline: One Hollywood columnist votes Audie Murphy the actor with the biggest (and most frightful) sense of humor in the Krauts thought he was hilarious, too, no doubt.

Ella Kazan found wonderful cooperation among the people of Benoit, Miss. ("Baby Doll" and "On the Waterfront") and he's finding it again with the residents of Cleveland, Tenn. . . he's using the citizens as crowd actors in his "Wild River," yarn about TVA and people's reactions to it.

Kazan says one's reception depends on how he goes into a location—act decent, and natives do, too.

Charles McCarthy, of the Motion Picture Council, predicts we'll be trading films with residents of Mars, Venus, the moon and Betelgeuse within the next hundred years . . . would that put a stop to the "Crawling Crud from Outer Space" type of film, or just make it worse?

Theodore Bikel, who speaks eight languages fluently, and sings in it, is doing his own dubbing for "Blue Angel" foreign release, in Germany and Israel.

Debbie Reynolds and Elmer Bernstein are new officers in the thespian organization, the Thelians.

Kary Cooper stands to repeat the type of role he made famous in "The Fountainhead" . . . in "The View from the Fortieth Floor" he plays a publisher torn between business and art.

CINEMA COMMENT

By Bob Smith

It's right and proper that they cast Mitzi Gaynor with an old veteran like David Niven. In "Happy Anniversary" she blooms like a late summer rose.

We hope to see more of Mitzi. Taken from the play "Anniversary Waltz" by Joseph Fields and Jerome Chodorov, "Happy Anniversary" as a title applies only to the film's happy ending.

The unhappy in-between is where the fun is.

It's the 13th anniversary for Niven and Miss Gaynor, even though Niven has lost a long and valiant battle to keep a one-eyed monster from his living room—his in-laws have given them a TV set as an anniversary present.

'Happy Anniversary' Takes Sassy Look At Married Life

"Happy Anniversary" starring David Niven and Mitzi Gaynor with the new Broadway stage sensation, 10-year-old Patty Duke, plays Tuesday through Saturday at the Ritz.

A Fields Production, "Happy Anniversary" is Niven's first starring role since he won the Academy Award last year. It is also the most important screen assignment for Patty Duke, who has received tremendous acclaim for her performance as young Helen Keller in the New York stage success, "The Miracle Worker."

'The Miracle' Combines Religion With Spectacle

"Happy Anniversary" was written by Joseph Fields and Jerome Chodorov from their stage hit, "Anniversary Waltz." Ralph Fields produced and David Miller directed.

It co-stars Carl Reiner, Loring

Smith, Phyllis Povah and Monique Van Vooren, with Kevin Coughlin, and Miss Duke as the sprightly children in the story. The musical score was composed and conducted by Robert Allen and Sol Kaplan. The title song, sung by The Four Lads on the Columbia label, has music by Robert Allen and words by Al Stillman.

The anniversary of the title concerns the celebration of the happily married Niven who precipitates a crisis when he lets drop the information that he and his wife, played by Mitzi Gaynor, had enjoyed the benefits of marital bliss a full year before they became officially hitched.

Niven and Miss Gaynor romp brazenly and breezily through the movie "Happy Anniversary." The hilarity hardly lets up for a moment while the stars reduce seducing to a household word.

The stage play ran for two years on Broadway.

The movie title has been changed to "Happy Anniversary" and the wit sharpened. The result is rowdy, rollicking comedy.

The story, as you may recall, has to do with the brandy-tinted confession by Niven to his startled in-laws that the thirteenth wedding anniversary which they are celebrating should properly be reckoned their fourteenth.

The ensuing laughter makes a shambles of some sacred cows such as television, bedroom doors and the progressive education of children. The latter is professionally handled by Miss Duke and Kevin Coughlin.

DIFFRING & ARNOLD MARBLE Looking at elixir of life

Death Cheater Is Film Topic

Film fans who enjoy blood-chilling horror entertainment will have a good opportunity in "The Man Who Could Cheat Death," Thursday through Saturday at the Ritz.

The Hammer production, in Technicolor, stars Anton Diffring, Hazel Court and Christopher Lee.

Miss Court will be remembered as the heroine of an earlier Hammer thriller, "The Curse of Frankenstein."

The story, set in the Paris of the turn of the century, concerns a handsome doctor whose hobby is sculpturing beautiful women, and whose secret is that although he looks 35 he is actually 104 years old. Years before, together with a fellow-scientist, he had stumbled upon the secret of immortality.

By means of periodic operations performed by his friend, he has managed to remain alive and perpetually youthful. But towards the time for his renewal operations it is necessary for him to drink a specially prepared gland- serum which, when cadavers are not available, he resorts to murder to obtain.

Anton Diffring has the title role and Christopher Lee plays another doctor who loves Miss Court and who, to save her life, strikes a macabre bargain with "The Man Who Could Cheat Death."

Double Play

It's Marion Brando day for his fans at the Sahara Sunday. He will be seen in two of his earlier movies. That Napoleonic character up there that looks like Brando is really Brando trying to look like Napoleon, in the screen offering, "Desire," story of the French dictator's love affair with a woman of that name.

Down there is a Vivien Leigh, Brando's co-star in "A Streetcar Named Desire," a particularly unglamorous role for the "Gone With the Wind" star, but which gives her nearly unlimited dramatic opportunities.

Walter Slezak, Katina Paxinou, Dennis King, Gustavo Rojo, Vittorio Gassman, Carlos Rivas, and Roger Moore, who has been hailed as the next Errol Flynn.

It's not often this reviewer takes notes on a horror film, but "The Man Who Could Cheat Death" looks like it might be a real chiller, and not just another sad excuse for making money.

I haven't seen the film, but I have read the screenplay, and it looks good from here. The film was produced by the same British company that made "The Curse of Frankenstein" and the later version of "Dracula," if that's any indication.

"The Naked Maja" is really a naked shame. Ostensibly the film version of the life of Goya, the famed Spanish painter, "The Naked Maja" has its history hopelessly confused by the trite formulas of Hollywood-style intrigue.

Goya's noted canvas of a nude Duches of Alba is nowhere apparent in the film, except briefly (so don't think if you want to see it), so the title is doubly misleading.

Advance publicity for the film, including a king-sized picture trolled like an aerial target by plane over New York, set off a chain reaction, but the protests were wasted.

There's nothing bared in the soap-operatic "Naked Maja" but Hollywood's most obvious faults.

The Hollywood pipeline: One Hollywood columnist votes Audie Murphy the actor with the biggest (and most frightful) sense of humor in the Krauts thought he was hilarious, too, no doubt.

Ella Kazan found wonderful cooperation among the people of Benoit, Miss. ("Baby Doll" and "On the Waterfront") and he's finding it again with the residents of Cleveland, Tenn. . . he's using the citizens as crowd actors in his "Wild River," yarn about TVA and people's reactions to it.

Kazan says one's reception depends on how he goes into a location—act decent, and natives do, too.

Charles McCarthy, of the Motion Picture Council, predicts we'll be trading films with residents of Mars, Venus, the moon and Betelgeuse within the next hundred years . . . would that put a stop to the "Crawling Crud from Outer Space" type of film, or just make it worse?

Theodore Bikel, who speaks eight languages fluently, and sings in it, is doing his own dubbing for "Blue Angel" foreign release, in Germany and Israel.

Debbie Reynolds and Elmer Bernstein are new officers in the thespian organization, the Thelians.

Kary Cooper stands to repeat the type of role he made famous in "The Fountainhead" . . . in "The View from the Fortieth Floor" he plays a publisher torn between business and art.

lead of Captain Stuart, a British grenadier whose attachment for Miss Baker first prompts her to abandon the convent. Walter Slezak, the Viennese actor, plays the peckish guitar-strumming Flaco.

From Rome came Vittorio Gassman, the colorful Italian star who makes his first American appearance in more than three years as Miss Baker's Gypsy lover. Another famous returning international star in "The Miracle" is Katina Paxinou, the fiery Grecian who won an Academy Award for her supporting performance in "For Whom the Bell Tolls." Her present role is the first Hollywood undertaking

Plat Of New Areas

C. A. Ross, project manager for Lloyd F. Curley, holds a plat for the eighth addition to the Monticello Addition. The preliminary plan shows the elevation lines through the area which is immediately south of Alabama and east of Birdwell Lane. The addition will include an extension of 16th Street, through the development and into the East Park Addition, south of Marcy Drive.

Development Of Areas To Southeast Being Mapped

(This is another in a series of stories on Big Spring housing development. Others will follow about new developments and subdivisions.)

The next development planned by Lloyd Curley will be in the southeast section of the city along Marcy Drive at Birdwell Lane.

"Although we have plats for several subdivisions approved or on the drawing boards, our first spring construction will be in the East Park Subdivision," Curley said.

East Park was originally platted as the Marshall Fields subdivision with 32 lots on 8.64 acres. Fields sold the subdivision to Curley for development.

Included with development will be an extension of 16th St. east of Birdwell Lane. It will be the next street south of Alabama and be called the Monticello No. 8 subdivision. There are 41 lots planned on this street which include about 10 acres.

EAST PARK

Marcy Drive separates the two construction areas, as well as a site for a proposed community business district. The business center will be located on the northeast corner of the Marcy Dr.-Birdwell Lane intersection. East Park will be bounded on Marcy Dr. and the back side of the addition will border on Big Spring Creek.

Houses in the subdivision will sell between $11,500 and $13,500. Curley explains that the lots are varied in size, and many of them are triangular-shaped rather than the customary square shaped lot.

Acresage beyond the creek will probably be subdivided also, but at present it is rustic and picturesque.

Houses on all 73 lots will be similar to those constructed on Alabama, but floor plans will be changed.

TYPE OF HOUSES

C. A. Ross, project manager for Curley, explained the houses will be brick veneer, three bedroom and with one or two baths. Built in appliances, either gas or electric, are available and may be included on FHA or GI loans, he said.

All these houses have been approved for GI and FHA loan privileges, Ross said.

Ross, a native of Waco, has worked for Curley since September, 1958. He first came to Big Spring in 1954 as an employee of the Sherwin Williams Paint Co. He is a graduate of a Waco business school and attended college at Texas Tech and Baylor University. He and his wife have one child, Beth Ann, a fourth grader at Washington Place school.

LIKES TO FLY

Ross handles most of the loan applications for Curley building projects. He also works with city officials in designing and planning subdivisions. This involves lot placement, street layout and plans for water and sewer line installation.

In private life, Ross is an avid pilot. He served 10 years in the Air Force and gives private flying lessons in his spare time.

Jack Shaffer is sales manager for Curley and currently works out of the sales office on Baylor, where Curley's last project is being completed. The office will be moved back to the Marcy Drive area when development begins, Curley said.

Thirty-Two Cases On Tap For Grand Jury

Thirty-two cases, including two charges of murder with malice and two of assault with intent to commit murder, are to be presented to the Howard County Grand Jury to be empaneled on Monday.

The complaints name 30 persons, several being jointly charged with the same offense.

Burglary complaints, nine in all, lead the list of matters the grand jurors will be asked to investigate.

The two murder cases involve Melvin Price, charged with the slaying of Claude Tucker, and Rosa Bustamante, accused in the death of her infant daughter.

MURDER CASE

Price allegedly shot and fatally wounded Tucker as climax to a disagreement between the two men on the night of Dec. 13. Tucker later died of his wounds. The slaying occurred in the doorway of the rest room at the Negro American Legion hall.

Mrs. Bustamante is charged with having caused the death of her 9-month-old daughter on June 29, 1957. The child, a twin, died some 12 or 14 hours after being brought to a hospital. Autopsy showed the baby had died of a beating. Mrs. Bustamante was committed to the state hospital as mentally ill soon after the episode but has now been released from the institution.

The assault with intent to murder involves Emzie Woodard, charged with the shooting on Dec. 8, of Cleveland Jackson, and Jose B. Mendez, who is charged both with robbery and with assault with intent to murder.

OFFICER SHOT

The complaint alleges that Mendez was apprehended by policeman Jack Hackney while engaged in robbing a bracero. When the officer sought to break up the robbery attempt, Mendez is accused of shooting Hackney in the knee.

One attempted robbery by assault charge is also to be aired before the grand jury. Charlie Read is the defendant and is accused of being one of a trio who attacked John Nutt, cafe operator, in an abortive attempt to rob him on the night of Oct. 22.

Burglary charges to be heard by the grand jury include:

Lemuel Marion Clark and Ralph Junior Wilson, charged with breaking into the Anderson Music Co. on the night of Oct. 30.

Kenneth Murphy and Bennie Anderson, charged with the Jan. 11 break-in at the Ranchburger Cafe. Marvin C. Jones, accused of breaking in the Bill Tune Car Lot on Nov. 2.

Ruby Balderas, charged with the Jan. 7 burglary of the Harris Cafe.

OTHER CASES

Cornelius Lister, charged with burglary of apartment of Paul Hagen, on Nov. 18.

Leslie Ray DeBoard, accused of the house burglary of the residence of Bob Evans, on Dec. 9.

Garlin Thomas Jr., charged with the burglary on June 29 of a school house and theft of a record player.

Robert Ward, Billy Kirkpatrick and Jeral Graham charged with breaking into Jeannie's Cafe on Dec. 14.

Jackie Snow, accused of the Nov. 17 burglary of the Royal Pig Drive-in.

Forgery matters to be investigated will be led off by the case against Patty Earlene Bruckner, young wife of a Webb Air Force Base student, who cashed a large number of allegedly forged checks here on Jan. 7, 8 and 9. She is accused, in this particular complaint, with having cashed a forged check for $48 at Alice's store on South Gregg.

Other forgery cases involve: George Rojo, forgery by endorsement; Robert Nelson, C. J. Harris, James Nichols and Herbert Lee Nelson, simple forgery; Howard Luther Williams, attempting to cash a forged money order; Mildred Moon and William Moon.

WITNESSES-DEFENDANT

Theft cases name Jack Ricci; Jerry D. Stephens and Mack C. Goodwin and Ester Ramirez. The latter is technically charged with theft over $50 and concerns the theft on Oct. 28 of a diamond ring from the home of Edwin Byrnes. Cleveland Jackson, who will be a complaining witness in the case against Emzie Woodard, will also have to answer a charge against himself of car theft.

William Lee Trussell is accused of passing worthless checks in the amounts of $625 and $1,066.52. The date given is June 5.

Glenn Rankin is accused of giving George Pike a worthless check for $110 last Nov. 28.

Johnnie Price is accused of writing a worthless check for $1,066.78 in payment for a 1956 car on Nov. 24.

D. B. Bardwell must answer to a charge that he rented a car from George Russell on Nov. 28 and did not return it. He is charged with theft by bailment.

Arthur Brooks will be called upon to answer a charge of failing to stop and render aid. The state will contend that Brooks was in a collision on Dec. 16 with a car driven by Lafayette Stilla. In the latter's car was Annie Bell Jones. She was injured in the accident and the defendant, it is alleged, left the scene of the accident.
