Point It The Other Way!

Billy Charles Green must be upwind from this skunk as she possesses some paralytic powers over the police's proclivities for perfume. Green, with his associate George Peoples, caught this character between a screen and door of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel W. Wilson, 1601 Owens. The Wilsons, attracted by a hanging screen, discovered the intruder, beat a hasty retreat and called the city pound. Green and Peoples caught the skunk just as they have 11 others in the past six weeks. So after all it's old stuff—and probably smells like it, too. (Photo by Keith McMillan—at respectable distance).

DeGaulle Aide Urges Rebels To Stack Arms

Regime Admits Wide Resentment

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle's chief representative in Algeria pleaded with insurgent Frenchmen today to lay down their arms and end a general strike against the policy of self-determination for Algeria.

Delegate General Paul Delouvrier, the civilian administrator in the North African territory deplored the four-day uprising in a broadcast over army-controlled Radio Algiers.

Even as he spoke, the thousands of armed insurgents were strengthening their shoulder-high barricades in the streets of Algiers.

Delouvrier said no one in Algiers wishes secession or a government crisis.

"Certainly I understand the motives of those who, with the courage of despair, have entrenched themselves to bear witness for French Algeria," he said. "I know that these motives are shared by most people here. Metropolitan France must know this."

This was the first official admission that rioting Sunday in Algiers, in which 26 persons died and about 150 were injured, was a reflection of widespread sentiment and not the action of a relatively few French rightists.

As the deadlock went into its fourth day, rumors spread that the President might evoke constitutional provisions that would give him dictatorial powers if he feels France's integrity is menaced.

Reports also persisted that Premier Michel Debre would resign.

There was no sign of a solution to the situation which posed the gravest threat to De Gaulle since the Algerian uprising of May 1958 doomed the Fourth French Republic and vacated him to power.

The barricaded insurgents—fearful that De Gaulle's moderate self-determination policy would lead to eventual independence for Algeria—demand that the largely Moslem land remain French.

Spunky Airman Tries Out Capsule

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—An airman, fighting physical and mental fatigue, sat cramped in a metal pod, bobbing in Lake Erie's icy waters today.

The assignment for Airman I. C. Bruce C. Barwise, 34, of Bovey, Minn., is part of the Air Force's 72-hour endurance test of man and a new ejection capsule designed for supersonic B58 Hustler.

Case Of Underage Girl

In Men's Dorm Comes Up

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—The case of the 14-year-old girl in a Yale University men's dormitory goes to court today.

Nineteen Yale men are scheduled to appear in city court. The girl picked most of their names and faces out of a college yearbook.

By Jan. 15, when city police ordered the case, Yale had accepted resignations from at least 10 students. Those 10 were among the 11 arrested Tuesday.

Shortly after the case hit the headlines, Yale reassigned its campus police chief, John H. Bowers, to other duties. The university's announcement of Bowers' transfer made no mention of the morals case.

the custody of her parents, who live in nearby Hamden.

Police have never said just what happened on the girl's trips to the campus. But Capt. William Holohan of the New Haven detective division said she visited Calhoun College, a dormitory, twice.

ANOTHER FILES

4 Seeking Obie's Legislature Seat

Four candidates are already in the field for the legislative seat left vacant in this district by decision of Obie Bristow not to seek re-election. The number of contenders for this post represents the biggest field of candidates for any of the localized offices.

Fourth candidate to seek the office is David Road. Already filed for the post are A. M. Rippes, Andy Glenn and Frank S. Goodman.

Second in interest, based on the number of filings, is the race for sheriff. Three candidates are officially in the field for the post. They are Miller Harris, incumbent; A. E. Long, M. L. Kirby.

The records of Frank Hardesty county democratic chairman, show only one other county race with more than one candidate. This is the contest for county commissioner, Precinct 3 Hudson Landers, present commissioner, and Joseph T. Hayden have filed as candidates for this office.

In each of the other offices at stake in this year's election, only one candidate has declared himself. It is understood a competitor for the post now held by County Commissioner P. O. Hughes, Precinct No. 1, is to make the race but he has not as yet filed with the county chairman.

Hardesty said that he interprets the law to read that a candidate for any office has through the first Monday in February to formally apply for a place on the ballot. That means, Hardesty says, the candidates can file their applications with him until midnight, Feb. 1.

MOMS MARCH SET THURSDAY

Residents of Big Spring were alerted today to the traditional Mothers' March here Thursday evening.

This is to be the major push of the entire March of Dimes campaign, and every home in Big Spring will be contacted.

P-TA units have volunteered to furnish the 300 canvassers. Among them will be those from Marcy, Park Hill, Cedar Crest, Airport, Lakeview, Kate Morrison, College Heights, Bauer, Boydston, and Washington schools. The march will begin at 6 p.m. and residents are urged to be ready with as generous gifts as possible.

Mom Indicted In Girl's Death

Rosa Bustamante, young Latin-American mother accused in the 1957 death of her 9-month-old daughter, was indicted for murder with malice by the Howard County Grand jury today.

She was the only defendant to be indicted in a murder case. One other murder complaint presented to the grand jury did not lead to an indictment. The defendant in this case was Melvin Price, charged in the gun death on Dec. 13 of Claude Tucker.

There were 33 indictments returned by the grand jury which reported to Judge Ralph Cason at 11:15 a.m. today. The grand jurors had been at work since Monday morning.

It was said that the Bustamante case will be preceded by a hearing to determine the woman's sanity before any effort to try her for murder is attempted. Soon after her infant daughter died, allegedly of a beating, the young mother was committed to the Big Spring State Hospital. She was released from that institution a few weeks ago.

Patty Earlene Bruckner, young wife of a Webb student pilot, who was arrested after a flood of forged checks allegedly written by her had struck town on Jan. 6, 7 and 8 was indicted by the grand jury. She is at liberty on bond.

OFFICERS ON LIST

Indictments returned by the grand jury: Patty Earlene Bruckner, forgery, free on bond.

Tax Office To Be Open

Staff workers for the tax assessor-collector's office will give up their normal day off Saturday in order that the citizens can qualify themselves to vote.

The office usually is closed on Saturday, but Mrs. Viola Robinson, assessor-collector, said that since this was Jan. 30, the next to last day for paying poll taxes or securing exemption certificates, the office staff would be kept on.

Another reason is that the payment of poll taxes is lagging behind even the rate in 1956, the last presidential year. Every opportunity will be given to voters to pay their poll taxes and protect their right to vote, said Mrs. Robinson.

Over-age exemptees who have been outside of the city limits but who recently were brought into the city under annexation proceedings were reminded again that they must obtain their exemption certificates. As long as they resided outside the corporate limits, they did not have to have the certificates—but now they do.

Bennett To Talk At Assault Trial

EL PASO (AP)—Big Bend farmer Moody Bennett was called to testify today in his Federal Court trial here on charges of shooting at two U.S. Border Patrol officers.

The prosecution finished its case Tuesday. Pablo Solis, 51, testified he was picking cotton when the officers arrived. He said Bennett drove up and fired a rifle, killing the horse of one of the officers.

Yes STOP and ask yourself this question? What have I done about protecting my most precious right as a citizen of the United States? Have I secured my poll tax receipt or exemption certificate?

If not, you are in DANGER—yes in danger of being stricken dumb this year on everything including voting on bonds and any other special issues. Or voiceless on school board, city commission, precinct, county, and state officers—and even in choosing the next President of the United States. Whatever you do, don't delay another day.

Advisory Unit For Master Plan To Meet

The first meeting of the 29 member Master Plan Steering Committee will meet at 8 p.m. today in the classroom of the police building.

In Big Spring from Dallas to make a report to this local group, are City Planner Marvin Springer, and three representatives of Forrest and Cotton, planning engineers.

T. C. Forrest, president of Forrest and Cotton, arrived here Tuesday. Carl Shemek, vice president of the firm, and Ross Jacobs, specialist on water and sewer problems, were due to arrive today.

The committee included Clyde McMahon, Floyd Parsons, Hudson Landers, Champ Ratwater, Adolph Swartz, Jimmy Beale, Col. D. W. Eisenhart, Dr. J. E. Hogan, Dr. W. A. Hunt, C. W. Fisher, R. W. Whipkey, Mrs. Bill French, Mrs. Clara Zack, Daryle Hohertz, John Currie, J. R. Hensley, K. D. Hested, Douglas Orme, Bill Quinby, Horace Reagan, Dr. Fabian Gomez, Mrs. Jack Irons, George Elliott, Jack Wallace, Ike Robb, Dr. Preston Harrison, Rev. Sammie Davis, Dr. J. H. Friedlander and G. W. Dabney.

Following the Master Plan meeting, the city commission will continue Tuesday's recessed meeting.

Dr. Friedlander To Leave VA Post

Dr. Jackson H. Friedlander has received an appointment to be manager of the Veterans Administration General Hospital at Phoenix, Ariz., and will be relinquishing a similar post at the VA institution here.

Announcement has come out of Washington of the new assignment. Dr. Friedlander said today he does not yet know the exact date.

He will be taking charge of a VA facility which, while having fewer beds than the hospital here, carries on a much greater outpatient program and has many more employees.

Dr. Friedlander first came to Big Spring in 1952, serving for three years as director of professional services at the hospital. Then he went to Washington for a year to direct the VA's residency training program, returning here in 1956 as manager and director of professional services.

He has played a prominent role in developing the hospital's work. Dr. Friedlander is a native of New York, got his M.D. at New York State University, was intern and resident for six years at Kings County Hospital and Long Island College Hospital. He started practice of internal medicine, but gave this up at the outbreak of World War II to join an organized medical unit for military service. He was attached to the 79th General Hospital, which was in Ireland, England and France, and became chief of the group's cardio-vascular division. He was in the service four years, returned briefly to private practice, then in 1947 joined the Veterans Administration. He was chief of medicine at the giant Northport, L. I., facility before coming to Big Spring.

In Big Spring he has assisted in many public activities, has been a director of the Chamber of Commerce and of the United Fund; a member of the city's master plan committee and a member of the Rotary Club.

Six Tracts Are Placed Under First Reading Of Annexation

Ten annexation ordinances were read during the regular meeting of the Big Spring City Commission Tuesday, two of them for the fourth and final time.

The Wasson Place No. 2 subdivision area, south of the city on Wasson Road, was brought into the city on final reading. The annexation was requested by Lloyd Curley, developer of the area. It includes about 100 acres and will have over 400 lots.

The Robb No. 2 annexation ordinance includes the area north of Big Spring creek, east of U. S. 87, south of Marcy Dr. and west of Goliad street extended. Ike Robb has not asked for final approval of the plat for this area, but it is included on his "master plan" for the entire South Mountain area. The ordinance received final reading and for annexation.

Eight other areas were given first readings for annexation. However, the commission probably will not actually annex until development has started in these areas.

Included in these ordinances is the Jerry Worthy tract, south of the Municipal Golf Course and west of U. S. 87.

A tract north of the auction barns north of the T&P Railroad tracks on the east end of the city; A tract adjoining the east edge of the Robb master plan area at the foot of South Mountain, owned by E. C. Smith and Cecil McDonald;

A small tract between the Wasson Place and Lockhart subdivisions;

A tract on the southwest corner of the U. S. 80 and Marcy Dr. intersection;

A tract south of the Jet Theatre in the Robb area; A half section tract included in the Robb master plan area east of Goliad;

A large tract north of the Settles Heights Addition, extending to the Andrews Highway.

An unusual set of circumstances developed around the annexation ordinance for Jerry Worthy's Crestwood Addition which is south of the golf course and west of U. S. 87.

J. E. Settles, representing the Catholic Church, asked that the church property be included in the annexation proceedings. It abuts on the west side of the original annexation area.

Charlie Staggs, with his attorney R. H. Weaver, asked that his property be left out of this same annexation ordinance. It abuts on the south side of the Worthy tract.

The commission pointed out to both parties that the area was merely being placed under first reading and other readings would not be given the ordinance until the city is prepared to furnish city utilities in the area.

Cab Used In Mass Killing Recovered

NORTH BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP)—A red and black taxicab, used as the getaway car by the slayer of four persons in a doctor's home, was found nearly 25 miles away in Elizabeth early today.

The cab was abandoned a few blocks from the Newark line before 5 a.m. Police had seen nothing in the residential area while on a routine patrol an hour earlier.

Newark and Elizabeth police immediately swarmed about the area looking for a man fitting the description of the slayer. A police alarm had said he was about 35.

His victims were three women and a man, found in the large white mansion of Dr. Francis M. Clarke, a prominent surgeon. All had been shot through the left temple.

The slayer's identity and his motive remained a mystery.

The taxicab was taken to the Elizabeth police garage, where it was dusted for fingerprints.

About an hour after it was found a man fitting the description of the unknown suspect was picked up drunk in Elizabeth.

Police waited to question him further but one detective who spoke to the man said he was a doubtful suspect. The man was not identified.

The trussed-up victims of the multiple shooting included the doctor's invalid wife, two women servants, and a stranger to the home, a Newark cab driver.

The three women were Edith Clarke, in her 60s, wife of Dr. Clarke; a maid, Cora Thaddies, 29; and Dorothy Moore, Mrs. Clarke's elderly housekeeper and companion.

Their bodies were found side by side on a narrow bed in Mrs. Clarke's room. They had been tied hand and foot with belts, ties and strips of cloth.

The cab driver, Morris Michael, 58, of Newark, was in another bedroom on the second floor, his body covered by a sheet.

They were found by Mrs. Clarke's daughter, Cornelia Chapin, 26, who had left the home earlier on a shopping trip with her daughter, Nancy, 3½.

The only clues were the mysterious passenger in the cab and a handful of 32 caliber shells.

MOTIVE UNKNOWN

The motive? "I wish I knew," said Middlesex County Prosecutor Warren T. Wilentz.

Robbery? A few closets had been ransacked but nothing of value was missing.

A sex attack? The women had not been sexually molested and showed no signs of struggle.

Revenge? "I don't think I had any enemies who would go to that extreme," said Dr. Clarke, head surgeon at St. Peter's Hospital, New Brunswick.

Clarke told Wilentz there were some people unfriendly to him but the prosecutor said "there were no exceptional leads."

What, then? Wilentz could only say police would continue their investigation.

Dr. Clarke and Mrs. Chapin and her daughter spent the night in the big house, which hours before had been ringed by cars of police, the press and the curious.

The Clarke home 33 miles southeast of New York City is a large, 2½-story colonial house framed by fir trees, an orchard and a red barn. It is only a few miles from the scene of the Hall-Mills murder, one of the most sensational crimes of the 1920s.

night in the county courthouse at New Brunswick, Wilentz gave this timetable:

About 9 a.m. Mrs. Chapin, daughter-in-law of Seldin Chapin, former U.S. ambassador to the Netherlands, left the home to go shopping.

Gardener, Daniel Ploranski, 65, noticed a cab pull into the dirt driveway that leads from Rt. 27 to the home. Ploranski, pruning trees, said the driver and one passenger were inside.

About the same time some one from inside the home used the phone. Wilentz did not say to whom the phone call was made.

Some 20 minutes after the cab arrived, Ploranski said a lone man walked from the house and drove off in the cab. He said the man appeared about 35 years old, 5 feet 5, and was wearing a gray-brown overcoat, brown felt hat and glasses.

CALLED POLICE

At 1:15 p.m. Mrs. Chapin returned. She found the three women in Mrs. Clarke's bedroom. She ran outside to tell Ploranski. Then she called police on the downstairs phone, the only one of four in the house that hadn't been ripped out.

Clarke was operating at St. Peter's when police tried to reach him. His colleagues tell him finish before telling him "something was wrong at home."

Both he and his daughter were in a state of shock but were not under sedation, Wilentz said. The Clarkes had three other children.

Mrs. Chapin had been here visiting for 10 days. Her husband, Frederick, is second secretary at the U. S. Embassy in Managua, Nicaragua.

Her father-in-law is now deputy commander for foreign affairs of the National War College.

Mrs. Clarke had been invalid since suffering a stroke last July. Michael lived with his wife, Dorothy, and their daughter, Wilma, 22.

2-Word Addition To Poll Tax Law Has Lot Of Folk Confused

AUSTIN (AP) — A two-word addition to the 1960 poll tax form reportedly has voters and officials confused throughout Texas.

The State Democratic Executive Committee and the Attorney General's department report a stream of inquiries about the section listing "party affiliation."

The SDEC has been holding workshops in state senatorial districts to clear up the confusion. The attorney general's office has advised state Comptroller Robert S. Calvert how to clarify the law for local tax assessor-collectors and poll tax salesmen.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Mary K. Wall said most people want to know who should fill in the new blank, and when.

Many officials have been under the impression they should fill in the party affiliation when the poll tax is sold, she said, and some purchasers have indicated they think the individual voter must write the name of his party in the space before he arrives at the primary.

Actually, the SDEC and the attorney general's office agree, just the opposite is true.

The Democratic voter should arrive at the May 7 primary and members of other parties should show up at their precinct conventions with the space blank.

"The assessor-collector is not required or authorized to complete the blank," the attorney general said in a letter to Calvert.

The Legislature, which rewrote the Texas Election Code last year in an avowed attempt to keep Republicans out of Democratic party affairs, said a member of a party which holds a primary must vote in the primary to be eligible to take part in the precinct convention or hold party office.

It also made it illegal for a party member to vote in the primary of one party and take part in the conventions of another.

Sponsors of the bill, led by Rep. Jamie Clements of Crockett, said this will keep a Republican from voting in the Democratic primary in the afternoon and attending the Republican precinct convention at night.

Republicans and other groups which do not hold primaries will have their party affiliations stamped on their poll tax receipts at primary time and this will keep them from voting for candidates of another party in the November general election.

"It applies only to participation in primary elections and precinct conventions," she said. "There is no restraint on the way any person votes in the general election."

A person over 60 years of age who lives in a community under 10,000 is not required to have an exemption certificate. He, and people who swear they are qualified to vote but have left their receipts or certificates at home, will receive certificates from the election judges in the Democratic primary showing they have voted.

Democrats normally are the only party holding primaries under a state law exempting a party from holding primaries if its candidate for governor received less than 200,000 votes in the preceding general election.

Strike Vote Set

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The 14,000 members of the Screen Actors Guild will vote by mail on whether to strike movie producers who refuse extra pay to actors when their films are sold to television.

The films involved are those made after Aug. 1, 1948.

It will take about three weeks to conduct the poll.

Kennedy Looking On Lyndon Increasingly As Big Rival

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) is increasingly centering his thinking on Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) as his chief rival for the Democratic presidential nomination.

He said so publicly last week when he entered the Wisconsin primary against Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.). Humphrey scoffed politely then, saying after all it was he, not Johnson, who is running against Kennedy in Wisconsin.

But Kennedy thinks he can dispose of Humphrey's chances in the Wisconsin battle, and he has told friends he no longer believes Adlai Stevenson is likely to be drafted by the convention if there is a stalemate.

On the other hand, Kennedy is inclined to believe that Johnson, the Senate majority leader, may have more convention votes cor-alled than he himself has at this time. But he thinks his first ballot potential is greater than the Texan's.

Kennedy's chief task is to convert his potential strength into actual convention votes. He has almost all of New England's 103 sewed up and Ohio's 64 are virtually promised to him.

He is going after Maryland's 64, entering that state's May 17 primary, where 31 votes are at stake, and in the May 10 Nebraska balloting which will influence 16 votes.

Kennedy is almost certain to put his name in the May 3 Indiana primary, which will bind 34 votes on the first convention ballot.

By his showing in the primaries Kennedy hopes to crack through the resistance that thus far has given him no real assurance of early ballot support from such big-vote states as California, New York, Michigan, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Illinois.

He doesn't believe Johnson will get many convention votes from these states but the problem is to get them to come his way before any lengthy deadlock develops.

Johnson has maintained the public position that he isn't a candidate for the nomination and isn't campaigning for it, despite his expected designation as Texas' favorite son.

However, other presidential hopefuls report that in their travels they have found intensive efforts are being made in all sections to line up delegates for Johnson.

One Johnson strategist told associates at a recent rally here the Senate leader already has about 500 of the 761 votes needed for the nomination. Others dismiss this as an optimistic count. But Kennedy's associates are inclined to credit the Texan with about 450.

These obviously would include a major share of the 352 votes to be cast by 11 Southern states and a total of 60 more from the border states of Kentucky and Oklahoma. Beyond this Johnson has demonstrated some strength in at least 11 Midwestern and Western states which will cast 150 nominating ballots.

In the estimation of Kennedy's strategists, Johnson has virtually succeeded in cutting off from the South not only Kennedy but Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) as well.

These strategists feel Symington now is not sure of more than Missouri's 39 votes. Symington has said he would like to be president but isn't officially in the running.

The convention problem for Kennedy, then, is to keep Johnson in check while still keeping an eye on Symington as a dark horse who might later inherit Johnson's support.

Tired, Old Miss America Is Neither Tired—Nor Old

By LAMAR FALKNER
NEW YORK (A) — What becomes of a tired, old Miss America after her year is up?

"This tired, old Miss America became Mary Ann Mobley again," said the strikingly pretty brunette with a wry grin. She was hiking energetically through Central Park as she talked, neither tired nor old.

"During 1959, Mary Ann traveled to places even presidential candidates skip. Thousands of flash bulbs gave their lives for her. She pinned blue ribbons on cows, pumpkins, Boy Scouts, babies and pretty girls. She smiled from dawn to dusk or dusk to dawn as need be.

"There wasn't much time to be just Mary Ann," said Mary Ann. "It was a wonderful year, and I loved being in the spotlight. But now I've got to prove I can stay in the spotlight as just me."

Most ex-Miss Americas don't. Staying in the spotlight demands every bit as much energy as Mary Ann's crowded schedule last year required. She studies acting under Lee Strasberg. She has regular singing lessons. She sees as many plays and musicals as she can.

Lately, Mary Ann has added a busy routine of rehearsals for a new hour-long television show that premieres tonight at 7:30 on CBS. It's called "Be Our Guest" and stars comedian George de Witt. Mary Ann has featured billing.

"I sing songs and talk," she said. Under her name on the credits is "Miss America of 1959." She knows that without this, most people would hardly look twice at her own name.

Mary Ann also can dance. In fact, it was primarily her song-and-dance act—not her looks—that won her the Miss America title. But a mysterious lump appeared on her leg several weeks ago. At first, she feared it might be malignant, but it was not. She flew home to Brandon, Miss., and quietly had the growth removed at Baptist Hospital in nearby

Jackson. She is fine now, she says but she doesn't dance any more.

A slender young woman with an impudent pug nose and dark eyes that can sparkle or brood, Mary Ann lives just a block from Central Park and likes to traipse through it when there is time.

All the fees for her appearances last year went into her own purse. It has been estimated that Miss America earns about $50,000 while she wears the crown. Mary Ann is footing all her bills here.

At 23, she is keenly aware of the point in life at which she now stands — an ambitious, intelligent beauty still not entirely sure of her independence.

Under her name on the credits is "Miss America of 1959." She knows that without this, most people would hardly look twice at her own name.

Dyess Among Bases To Get Missile Sites

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—The Air Force reported today selection of four support bases for four additional Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile squadrons.

They are Altus AFB, Okla.; Dyess AFB, Tex.; Walker AFB, N.M.; and Plattsburg AFB, N.Y. The announcement, via 2nd Air Force headquarters, was released at McConnell AFB, Wichita, a unit in the Strategic Air Command. It added:

"Facilities for launching the missiles are to be constructed at 36 sites, 9 in the area of each of the four support bases. Technical construction of each of the four complexes is estimated to cost about 47 million dollars. Work on each complex is estimated to take 24 months.

"When completed, each Atlas squadron will be manned by about 700 military personnel of the Strategic Air Command, who will be stationed at the bases and commuted to the launching sites. Today's announcement brings to 13 the number of Atlas squadrons, and to 11 the number of bases announced for support of the Atlas.

"Three squadrons have been announced for Francis Warren AFB, Wyo. Besides the four bases listed above, other support bases that have single Atlas squadrons are Offutt AFB and Lincoln AFB, Neb.; Forbes and Schilling AFB, Kan.; Vandenberg AFB, Calif.; and Fairchild AFB, Wash."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nine Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile launching bases are to be built near Abilene, Tex. The Air Force announced Tuesday the bases will be built within a 35-mile radius of Dyess Air Force Base, which will serve as a support base for them.

Construction will start as soon as land is acquired. About 24 months will be required to construct the atomic bombproof underground launching sites. They will cost 47 million dollars.

The bases will be manned by 700 men who will be stationed at the Dyess base.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Air Force plans to establish nine Atlas missile launching sites in the Roswell, N.M., area at a cost of about 47 million dollars. It disclosed the plans to Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-N.M.) today.

The nine sites will be in a 35-mile radius of the Roswell Air Force Base and have a total personnel of about 700 men. Exact sites are to be announced later.

The bases, Chavez was told, will be built within 24 months. Aides of Chavez said they could obtain no further details. They said they were told details would be given out later from the Roswell base.

Wide Flu Outbreak Hits Texas Schools

A widespread outbreak of flu has closed some Texas schools and forced a hospital to turn away persons not considered critically ill.

The State Health Department reported that at least 35 Texas counties had more than 50 cases of influenza last week.

Public schools at Temple, in Central Texas, have been closed until Feb. 1 because of an outbreak of flu. The action followed a report from health officers that the sickness is spreading in Temple. However, officials at nearby Waco said there is no flu problem in that city.

The highest number of cases are in El Paso, Austin and Corpus Christi. San Antonio City Health Officer Dr. J. C. Ellington said flu and pneumonia had taken 39 lives this winter compared with 21 a year ago. Fourteen of the deaths this year were caused by flu while only two last year were due to the illness.

Judson Marslers, associate administrator of Spohn Hospital at Corpus Christi, said 12 beds were set up in halls to take care of flu victims and five of the beds are occupied. Two patients were reportedly turned away at one hospital because more serious cases had to be admitted.

A spokesman at Memorial Hospital in Corpus Christi said every room is in use and beds were set up in hallways on all four floors of the hospital. The flu outbreak in Corpus Christi was called an epidemic.

The spokesman said "There were 19 employees out Monday with the flu, which places the hospital in a serious condition when we need all available help to care for the influx of patients."

The total flu cases in Austin rose another 10 per cent last week to a total of 1,973 cases. Pneumonia cases increased with 51 cases reported last week as against 40 the previous week.

The Aldine School District, near Houston, reported 16.9 per cent of its 9,200 students were absent. School absenteeism in Corpus Christi rose to 14 per cent and spokesmen there said 20 per cent absenteeism is considered alarming.

Six schools in Cuero were closed for the week when 17 per cent of the students were absent. Mid-term exams in Bastrop were postponed because of the number of students out with flu.

Health Commissioner J. H. Peavy said reports to the State Health Department show an increase in the number of flu cases for the fourth straight week.

The department said a great majority of the cases are Asian flu. Laboratory checks are continuing to be run on specimens sent in by health officials throughout Texas.

The general clinical impression for an individual case is much the same as two years ago—comparatively mild in nature and with low mortality," Peavy said. "But the total has not reached the proportion it did in the fall and winter of 1957."

The public health director in Nueces County, Dr. W. R. Metzger, said the outbreak has remained at epidemic proportions since about the middle of January and that before the outbreak runs its course it probably will affect every household in the community.

He described the outbreak as the result of a combination of Asian flu of a mild variety and a similar disease attributable to at least two groups of virus which produce flu-like symptoms. He predicted the high incidence will level off next week.

The Health Department said 45 counties have reported outbreaks of influenza. The heaviest hit counties include Bastrop 500 cases, Bee 434, Bell 365, Brazos 270, Calhoun 450, Comal 273, Cook 290, Dawson 90, Dimmitt 124, El Paso 2,200, Fort Bend 135, Frio 210, Galveston 846, Hardin 282, Hidalgo 104, Hockley 500, Jefferson 419, Jones 100, Kimble 100, Lamar 200, Matagorda 409, Maverick 70, Milan 50, Nueces 1,800, Orange 30, Palo Pinto 80, Parker 100, Reeves 1,250, Refugio 178, San Patricio 600, Smith 203, Travis 1,973, Washington 89, Webb 518 and Wood 144.

Heiress' Boyfriend Says Wife Agrees To Divorce

NEW YORK (AP)—Ex-chauffeur Andre Porumbeanu said today his wife has consented to a divorce and there "is no doubt in my mind" that he will marry Gamble Benedict, 19-year-old heiress.

Commenting on the Benedict family's efforts to break up the romance, he said, "I don't think any power can destroy love."

Romanian-born Porumbeanu made the statements at Idlewild Airport shortly after he arrived from Paris at 12:40 a.m.

Porumbeanu said that in Paris he received word "through intermediaries that my wife is willing to give me a divorce."

He said he planned to contact the intermediaries in New York to make arrangements for an early meeting with his wife Helma, 29, whom he has not seen in two years.

Porumbeanu, perspiring and appearing nervous, said he hoped to see Miss Benedict "as soon as possible." He added that he might "take legal means" to visit her if her family refuses to let him see her.

He said he would exert every effort to make peace with the family.

Porumbeanu said Miss Benedict telephoned him the day after she returned to New York from Paris, and he phoned her the following day.

He was asked about a statement by Miss Gamble's brother Douglas, 21, that she is no longer interested in Porumbeanu. He replied that "I am sure her feelings about me are just the same now as when they were in Paris together declaring they would find a way to get married."

Before the news conference, Porumbeanu consulted privately with Philip Handelman, an attorney representing Miss Benedict. Porumbeanu said one reason he had come to New York is that today is his 35th birthday.

He complained that Miss Benedict was "spirited away" from him in Paris, and said he was "very distressed."

New Fight Looms On Carole's Rights

By DIAL TORGERSON
LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Without this testimony, the state's case would collapse like a house of cards."

A judge and a deputy district attorney once agreed to this — referring to Carole Tregoff's testimony at a preliminary hearing and the state's case against her.

A new fight over this testimony is shaping up as the state nears completion of its case against the shapely Miss Tregoff, 23, and her lover, Dr. R. Bernard Finch, 42. They are accused of murder in the July 18 shooting of the doctor's wife, Barbara.

Carole was not arrested until she testified at the doctor's preliminary hearing 11 days after the shooting. The prosecutor said some of her statements conflicted with those she gave authorities earlier.

The prosecution now hopes to enter her testimony into evidence, but her attorneys argue that using her own statements against her would violate her constitutional rights.

Superior Court Judge Walter R. Evans is expected to rule on admissibility of the testimony next week. The trial is in recess until then because of the illness of a witness.

If Carole's testimony is not admitted, will the state's case against her collapse?

No, says Clifford Crail, chief trial deputy for the district attorney's office. He and Deputy Dist. Atty. Fred N. Whiehelo are directing the state's case.

"That statement about the case collapsing was made by Municipal Judge William Martin (at Carole's preliminary hearing) and Mr. Whiehelo agreed to it," said Crail.

"But that was before we developed all the information from Las Vegas. It's quite a different case, now."

After her preliminary hearing, state investigators found a Minneapolis, Minn., convict, Jack Cody, who said Miss Tregoff hired him in Las Vegas, Nev., to kill the doctor's wife.

Cody testified last week that he took cash from Miss Tregoff and Finch to kill Mrs. Finch but never intended to do it.

State's Deficit

AUSTIN (AP)—State Treasurer Jesse James estimated the state's deficit stood at $78,647,301 as of last Friday. James said the deficit in the general revenue fund, which pays for most of the cost of state government, increased almost nine million dollars in the past two weeks.

'Final Curtain'

McCauley Satisfies First Ambition, Aims At Second

The Big Spring Civic Theatre loses a good friend and a hard worker this week when Hugh Butler McCauley is discharged from the U. S. Air Force. McCauley will return to Houston following his discharge to re-enter the banking business. But his plans for the immediate future are even more ambitious. A native of Northern Ireland, he came to the United States in December, 1954, to live with a sister. He entered this country on a permanent visa which, as he explains it, made him eligible for the draft. Rather than be drafted, he enlisted in the Air Force following a one year's tour behind the tiller's cage of a Houston bank. The Air Force moved him into the finance division and he came to Big Spring in time to take part in the 1957 Easter pageant of the BSCT. He had no experience in theatre work, but had an interest in the drama most of his adult life. He was elected secretary of the organization, a position he held until his resignation last week. During his membership here, he played in one play, a one-act, "If Men Played Cards As Women Do." Back in Coleraine, Londonderry, Northern Ireland, McCauley set two goals for himself. He wanted to see the United States and the Holy Land. The first is now checked off and he is setting his sights on the Near East. But first, he plans to become a citizen of the United States. Probably one of the first tasks he will begin, after discharge, is to obtain American citizenship rights. A trip back to Northern Ireland in June, 1961, only a visit, is also part of his plans. And the theatre will probably be part of his life from now on, an interest which he found in Big Spring. He points out incidentally, that Northern Ireland is part of the British Empire, and he is a British subject. Ireland (Erin) is a republic but both countries are located on the same island. Last week, long-time BSCT members Sgt. and Mrs. Dewey Magee Jr. sponsored the final "cast party" for McCauley, with invitations going primarily to theatre members.

Cause Of Actress' Death A Mystery

NEW YORK (AP)—The cause of the death of actress Diana Barrymore remained a mystery today. An autopsy failed to show "any evident cause," and further investigations were ordered. Police planned to question airline pilot John Cook, apparently the last person to see Miss Barrymore alive, when he returns today from a scheduled flight. Miss Barrymore, 38, was found dead in bed at her East Side apartment Monday by her maid. Several empty liquor bottles and sedatives were near the bed. Several friends attended a small party at her apartment Sunday night. They said Cook dropped in, announcing himself as a friend-of-a-friend, and was still there when the others left. Police made it clear they wanted to question Cook merely to clear up all details and not out of any suspicion. Actor Glen Stencel, among those at the party, said Miss Barrymore telephoned him at his apartment about 2:30 a.m. and reprised him for leaving the party early. He said she asked him to come back over to her place, but he declined. Police said there was no evidence of suicide. Miss Barrymore tried five years ago to take her life with an overdose of sleeping pills. Miss Barrymore reportedly had recovered from alcoholism which all but wrecked her theatrical career at one time, but friends said she had been drinking during the Christmas holidays. She recently had completed a successful Chicago engagement starring in "Garden District," written by her close personal friend, Tennessee Williams. At the time of her death, there were possibilities of her appearing in other Williams plays, in Canada and England. At Key West, Fla., Williams commented: "Her heart just gave out. She was a terribly troubled girl who had been ill and was making a valiant battle. She had great talent but no control." Funeral services will be Friday at a Frank E. Campbell funeral home.

Mom, 3 Children Are Gas Victims
KINGSVILLE (AP)—Mrs. Beatrice Davis, 27, and her three small children were found dead of carbon monoxide poisoning in their overheated home Tuesday night. Their bodies were discovered by the husband and father, Arthur Davis, a petty officer at the Naval Auxiliary Air Station here, when he returned home from a 36-hour tour of duty. Justice of Peace R. J. Sims ruled death from carbon monoxide after autopsies were performed on the bodies of Mrs. Davis and a daughter, Peggy Ann, 4. The other victims were Jerry Lee, 2, and Shirley Ann, 2 months old. All doors and windows of the house were closed and a bathroom heater and kitchen stove were burning. There was no odor of gas in the house. Davis, of Kosse, Tex., was placed under sedation.

Jack Paar's Special Show Over, Now Back To Business

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Now Jack Paar has had his special program and can return to his job of keeping people up beyond their normal bedtimes. "The Wonderful World of Jack Paar" was Tuesday night's NBC Startime offering and any resemblance to his entertaining and amusing late evening show was coincidental. The hour show, in color, opened with Jack playing a harp strung with uncooked spaghetti and steadily slowed down thereafter. There was an excerpt from a French TV commercial featuring some dancing cows and a bit from an Italian comedy—both of which were funny when he first showed them. The sketches, even those with Jonathan Winters and Alice Pearce, just didn't come off. DEAR ABBY MEND YOUR WAYS
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl, 15, who everybody says, is a "very nice girl". But, Abby, I'm not as nice as they think I am. I let a guy pick me up in a movie one night. I was with my girl friend and he was with another boy. They had a car and offered us a ride home. We parked and my girl friend and I made out with him and his friend. We aren't "pick ups" and I don't know what made us act like that that night. I've met him several times (on the sneak) since, but he never takes me anywhere except to park. He says he loves me but he won't meet my parents. I think about him night and day. How can I make it a respectable relationship if he refuses to meet my parents? I feel so dirty and sneaky. DEAR NOT SO NICE: Even a nice girl can act on an impulse and behave foolishly ONCE. But you cheapen yourself when you continue to meet him when it's apparent that that's all he wants you for. A boy who refuses to meet a girl's parents is strictly bad news. DO NOT see him again. DEAR ABBY: Ladies no longer dress like Queen Victoria, yet they expect men to dress like Prince Albert. When are men going to demand equal freedom in their attire? The hitching post is long gone, yet men are still required to wear collars that are about as comfortable as a piece of rope around their necks. It shuts off the flow of blood to their heads. No wonder so many men are bald. DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for 22 years. We used to enjoy a cocktail or two together every night before dinner. Pretty soon the "cocktail hour" would start earlier and earlier for her. Many times it was "over" before I got home. She makes no effort to hide the liquor bill, which keeps getting bigger and bigger. Is it possible, Abby, for a woman who has been a "social drinker" to suddenly become an alcoholic at the age of 43? I am worried about her and don't know what to do. DEAR WORRIED HUSBAND: It is possible. Your wife needs to face her problem squarely. I can think of no better (or cheaper) solution than to get her to an "A.A." meeting. Uncontrolled drinking is an illness. It's no disgrace to be ill. Good luck! CONFIDENTIAL TO "SCARED STIFF": The disease you mention CAN be cured, if you have any such suspicions, for goodness sake see a doctor immediately. Have you read Abby's new, best-selling book, "DEAR TEEN-AGER"?

Chessman, Aide Confer

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—Condemned convict-author Caryl Chessman and his attorney, George T. Davis, conferred in San Quentin Prison's death row Tuesday. Davis, discussing strategy aimed at preventing Chessman's execution Feb. 19—11 years after Chessman's first date with the gas chamber, asked him: "What do you think about going through all this again without any stay of execution?" "Why," said Chessman, looking surprised, "I haven't even thought about that." Chessman has avoided seven previous execution dates on his conviction of kidnaping, robbery and perverted sexual assault on two Los Angeles women in January 1948. He is to appear in U.S. District Court Thursday on a motion by Davis for a writ of habeas corpus seeking Chessman's release from state custody.

De Gaulle Has Hot Potato In African Revolt

By ULYS YATES

PARIS (AP)—A handful of desperate men manning barricades in Algiers pose a crucial question for Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Should the harried President order his troops to attack the barricades, he risks sparking a much bigger explosion among Algeria's million European settlers, already engaged over his policy of self-determination.

The government's vastly superior military forces seemingly could crush the insurgents in a couple of hours, but De Gaulle might lose heavily if more blood were spilled. The morale of the army already has been damaged by the conflict which has pitted it against Frenchmen. Sunday's clash between settlers and gendarmes which left 26 dead and about 150 wounded has caused general revulsion and any more killing would do lasting damage to De Gaulle's prestige and influence in the all-important army.

Thus De Gaulle faces the task of getting the insurgents to lay down their arms without giving in to their demands for a French Algeria.

NO ANSWER

The bloody flareup and the diehards' determination to remain behind their barricades until their cause is won, is mainly the result of De Gaulle's failure to give the settlers what they regard as a satisfactory answer.

De Gaulle's proposed solution to end the five-year-old Algerian rebellion would allow Algerians—Moslems and European alike—to choose their own destiny once peace is restored.

Under De Gaulle's plan, the Algerian population could choose one of three alternatives: (1) complete union with France (2) local autonomy or (3) outright independence.

The settlers are convinced that, given a chance, the nine million Moslems would choose independence. Even local autonomy, they fear, would only be a stepping stone to complete freedom.

The settlers believe independence would place them at the mercy of the Moslem rebels they have fought for years.

De Gaulle has called the possibility of independence a catastrophe. Settlers agree, but insist it is a possibility all the same.

SCANNED BULLETINS

In the anxious months that followed De Gaulle's Algerian proposals last Sept. 16, settlers scanned the government bulletins for some guarantee that France still stood behind them.

Premier Michel Debre declared in National Assembly debate that Algeria would remain French. There was vague talk of dividing the territory and preserving under French rule areas—such as large cities—where the European population predominates. But the settler found little comfort at the prospect of living on an European island in a Moslem sea.

The settlers want a clearcut declaration by De Gaulle that Algeria will always remain under French rule.

When Sunday's explosion erupted, the insurgents possibly hoped at first to repeat the coup of May 13, 1958 when the uprising of army and civilians overthrew France's Fourth Republic and helped De Gaulle to power.

So far the army, which insured success of the 1958 uprising, has stayed with the government.

The settlers now probably would settle for a government promise to keep Algeria French.

those of Coahoma, Lamesa, Stanton, Midland, Colorado City and San Angelo, will be represented. Big Spring Lodge No. 1340 was chartered six years ago and has enjoyed success in the period since it came into existence. The celebration planned for Thursday will be in observation of its sixth anniversary.

Bean, widely known for many years in Texas Masonic circles, resides in El Paso County, where he is engaged in ranching and farming, is the son of the late James B. Bean, former Texas Ranger and U. S. Mounted Customs Officer. John Bean entered the Masonic Home and School of Texas in 1920 at the age of 6 on the death of his father. His mother was Isabel McGovern Bean, prominent church and civic worker in Esperanza.

He is a graduate of Texas A&M, holding a masters degree in education from that institution.

He has been a Master Mason since 1935 and has served in all of the offices of the lodge, local and grand, in the years he has been a Mason. He was named Grand Master in 1959.

He is widely active in civic, religious and educational affairs in his section of the state. It is anticipated all lodges in the district will send sizeable delegations to the anniversary celebration here.

Dr. Payne To Address Council Where Was Once Eagle Scout

More than 400 adults are expected at the 37th annual banquet of the Buffalo Trail Council here Thursday.

The area Boy Scout leader meeting will be held at the Howard County Junior College. Dr. R. E. Payne, head of the Atlas Missile Project will be the speaker.

Dr. Payne was the speaker Tuesday evening at the annual meeting of the Midland Chamber of Commerce.

A native of Colorado, Dr. Payne was reared at Midland where he was in the Boy Scout troop led by Wallace Wimberly, still active in the movement at Midland. His mother, Mrs. Earle Payne still resides in Midland.

Other highlights of the program include the installation of officers by R. C. Glew, Dallas deputy regional scout executive; presentations of Silver Beaver Awards, recognition of the 10,000th boy member registered in 1959; and presentation of the President's award to districts which qualified.

The Rev. John C. Black, pastor of the First Christian Church at Big Spring, will give the invocation at 6:30 p.m. R. L. Tollett, president of Cosden Petroleum Corp. and Lone Star District chairman, will give the welcome address, and the response will be given by C. J. Anderson, Pecos. The awards ceremonies will be conducted by W. C. Blankenship, Big Spring. Dr. W. A. Hunt, president of Howard County Junior College will present the award to the 10,000th boy member. The President's award will be made by Lyle Deffenbach of Snyder. Wallace Wimberly, Midland, will introduce Dr. Payne and the benediction will be given by Dr. P. D. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Big Spring.

A Devotional For Today

Remove not the ancient landmark, which thy fathers have set. (Proverbs 22:28.)

PRAYER: Our Father, set before us clearly the landmarks around which we shall build our lives today. We are grateful for the sure foundations of truth, courage, and honesty. Teach us to hallow them with our devotion and faith. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Bite Our Tongue And Bide Our Time

President Eisenhower has made it plain that the United States does not plan reprisals against Cuba for its increasingly unfriendly acts and utterances toward the United States.

Actually, this is merely the reaffirmation of the only policy left open to us at this time. The tenor of the President's statement reflected our dismay and great concern over the unfounded illusions, as the President put it, that the United States is seeking to unsaddle Castro.

At this stage, it is becoming increasingly clear that Castro is talking through his hat and that his blarney is fabricated out of thin, hot air. What he desperately needs to bolster his none-too-secure position is some thread of substance for these claims.

It would be folly for the United States to oblige him with grist for his propaganda mill. We don't have to play football with him, neither do we have to run the risk of advertising to the world that our small neighbors are subject to the same overpowering pressures as Russian satellites are.

The main thing we have to guard against is a coup de etat which would furnish a Red foothold right at our doorstep. Short of that, there are many subtle ways in which we can deal with the problem by biting our tongue and biding our time.

More Than Politics At Stake

This week Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.), a pretty level-headed fellow, took issue with some of his colleagues by saying: "I do not agree that there is this great missile gap."

On another page, to sum up an AP report, Democratic party scientific advisers accused the Eisenhower administration Sunday of risking national prestige and possibly human life in trying to beat the Soviet Union at getting a man into space.

When senators disagree, and rival groups of scientists look at the same subject and come up with diametrically opposite views, it is small wonder the average citizen is confused regarding whether or not we have permitted the Russians to get ahead of us in missilery, as one side avers, or have done nothing of the kind, as the other side asserts with equal vehemence.

It is all very well to say these disputations are just the normal state of affairs in politics. One side avers; the other side denies. One side says yes, another says no.

But it seems to us the height of something or other, probably folly or sheer madness, to dismiss these disagreements as nothing more important than a difference among politicians.

It looks to us as if nobody really knows, scientists or politicians, whether we really are behind or ahead in missiles capable of putting a man into space—or even hitting a target as big as the Kremlin or Washington, D. C.

If the scientists don't know, if the politicians don't know, if the responsible heads of our government don't know, who does?

When do we find out? How do we find out? And what do we do about it if we do find out? Nothing except argue over who's got the right dope and who hasn't?

And does the argument go on all through the 1960 election campaign?

This is no trivial matter. This is our national neck that's at stake.

Mahon Queries Gen. Twining

WASHINGTON — The greatest danger America faces today is from its own politicians. They are trying to win votes while telling the Russians that America is weak in defense. Fears that this might lead the Communist dictatorship to miscalculate and take chances are expressed by the highest military officers of the United States.

To make a political issue of the nation's defenses is risky business. Yet several of the Democrats who are seeking the presidential nomination are regularly knocking their own country's defense position. They are doing so notwithstanding repeated statements from the military chiefs that the United States has an overall striking power superior to that of the Soviets.

PERHAPS THE MOST severe criticism of the tendency to downgrade America's military position for the sake of politics has come from the highest military officer in our government—Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. He isn't, of course, running for any political office. He merely represents the composite judgment of the Army, the Navy and the Air Force. He has just said in testimony before a House defense appropriations subcommittee which was released a few days ago:

"Gen. Twining: Today we hear and read a tremendous volume of material comparing the strength of the United States and the free world with that of the Soviet Union and the Communist bloc. All too often the writers and commentators are inclined to degrade the capabilities of the American people and the peoples of the free world. At the same time, the efforts of the Soviet Union and the Communist bloc are reported in glowing terms.

"THE PLAIN AND unadorned truth of the matter is that the moral, military, physical and economic strengths of our people and our allies have been adequate to resist and deter Communist aggression. I am confident that this will continue to be the case.

"Rep. Mahon of Texas, Democrat (chairman of the subcommittee): Now it is obvious to me that in this presentation (by Secretary Gates and Gen. Twining), you have had in mind some of the critical things which have been said with respect to the capability of the United States and the Department of Defense. You have had in mind, I think, various columns in the press and statements made by various political and nonpolitical figures. I think we are all interested in one thing, and that is facing up to the truth and to the facts of life from the standpoint of national defense.

"GEN. TWINGING: YOU spoke very feelingly about our defense capabilities. While you have not said so, I had the feeling as you spoke—and most of your discussion was off the record—that probably you feared that the United States was being sold short in the eyes of the American people and in the eyes of the world with respect to our military prowess. What is your feeling about that?"

"Gen. Twining: We are in a position now, as you say, when we can annihilate each other. We must not let that ever happen.

"We have great strength, we are a powerful country, and I do not think we should downgrade our capabilities as a nation to the Russians. That is what gives me cause for concern—this downgrading of our capability. It looks like we are going to get licked every day. I am afraid that the public will become frightened some day. It sometimes appears to me that there is an element in the country that thinks, 'gentlemen, we'd rather be red than be dead.' It is a serious thing.

"MY POINT IS, let us not downgrade our capability at a time when we are entering upon negotiations which may lead to peace and disarmament. We want to deal from strength. We have terrific strength in the military and in our country.

"Chairman Mahon: You have confirmed to me your feeling that you are deeply disturbed by the possibility that we might convince the opponents that we don't have the fighting strength which you feel we have.

"Gen. Twining: That is right. If he thinks we are not confident of our national ability he may assume that there is an open gap for him. Similarly, we should not build up in our own people this lack of confidence in our national capability."

The foregoing testimony might be well worth taking to heart by all political candidates and their spokesmen. It seems incredible that politicians should think the voters could be convinced that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has not done his utmost to see that the United States possesses adequate military power to deter an enemy.

Early Shooting A Dangerous Game

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democrats, like a bunch of cowboys in a shooting gallery, are blazing away in three directions at what will probably be their main targets for the whole presidential campaign.

1. President Eisenhower — with the complaint he's been a poor leader.

2. His administration — with the complaint of things left undone.

3. Vice President Richard M. Nixon — with various charges ranging from "quackery" to me-tooism.

TROUBLE IS, THE Democrats can't even guess, this early in the year, which target may pay off with the big cigar — in this case the presidency — and which would blow up in their faces.

Picking on Eisenhower, still enormously popular after seven years in the White House, may be a waste of time if the public continues to hold him in high regard.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) frankly looking for the Democratic presidential nomination, opens the attack on Eisenhower with the statement his administration's performance, or the lack of it, is the real campaign issue.

But last Saturday night, at a big Democratic get-together here, the emphasis shifted to Nixon who was lugged as a "juvenile delinquent" and "slicker" and the "able, agile, Sir Richard the nimble."

EVEN ATTACKING NIXON — and before the year is out the Democrats will probably be a lot rougher on him — could backfire by creating broad public sympathy for him as a martyr.

If Nixon has any ideas of making a free-wheeling campaign of it, he is a bit handicapped. He is almost certain to get the Republican nomination. He'll get Eisenhower's support.

Because of that support and because he has been part and parcel of the whole administration, he'll hardly be in a position to be critical or promise anything very different.

This situation may force him into promoting more of the same. That might be enough to win for him if the voters want more of the same.

It's possible that Democratic attacks on him may so irritate him that he will lose self-control and make mistakes through bad temper, damaging himself more than the Democrats could.

Since he knows all the dangers of this, and is a shrewd politician, he has plenty of time to prepare himself against temper tantrums. He doesn't have to say much until the campaign starts anyway.

Treasure In The Homestead

NEW YORK (AP)—Would you like to search for buried treasure? Well, don't overlook your own attic, basement, or barn loft. There may be a small fortune hidden there in the form of old books bought long ago by your great-grandfather.

The hunting is likely to be particularly good if you are the member of a pack-rat family that sentimentally clings to its possessions for several generations.

"There is a real boom in the rare book market today, particularly in Americana," said Van Alan Bradley, 46, literary editor of the Chicago Daily News.

In a volume of his own titled "Gold In Your Attic," Bradley lists some 2,000 scarce books worth $25 to $25,000.

The $25,000 item is for a paper-bound first edition of Edgar Allan Poe's "The Murders in the Rue Morgue," which sold for only a few cents when it was originally published in 1845.

"The chance of your finding such a book in your attic is extremely remote," Bradley said, "but now and then it does happen."

None of his readers has stumbled upon a $20,000 book, but a number have found books worth $1,000 or more, and many have turned up books worth hundreds of dollars.

Examples of valuable finds by his own readers range from a copy of the first Chicago City Directory of 1844 that brought $250 to a copy of the first edition of "The Emigrants' Guide to Oregon and California," which fetched its discoverer the tidy sum of $3,000.

Bradley estimates there are perhaps 6,000 serious private book collectors in the United States — counting museums, libraries and foundations — plus 100,000 more "who collect in a mild way."

"You can't tell the value of a book by its title," he said, pointing out that a 50-cent 1839 copy of a booklet called "Guide to the New Gold Regions of Western Kansas and Nebraska" and recently sold for $1,800.

Books don't even have to be very old to be valuable. Copies of the first edition of L. Frank Baum's "The Wonderful Wizard of Oz," published in 1900, sell for $175 to $600.

"Would it pay a man now to slow some of today's modern books in the attic for the benefit of his great-grandchildren?"

"Certainly," said Bradley, "if he were wise enough to pick important titles first editions by important authors. Books can be a good long-range investment."

Happy hunting! But if you find an old book you think is rare, don't write me about it. I collect old cigar bands myself.

A Specialist Is A Doctor Of Medicine

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

We won't go into all the details of this letter today, but just pick out an important point or two:

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have been having pains in the back of the neck and sometimes in the shoulders and downward. I had these until I went to South Carolina. During the month I was there I was free of the pains. However, they started again when I returned here. Would you advise me to go to a specialist or a doctor?"

—Mrs. M. G.

Please, dear reader, a SPECIALIST is a DOCTOR! He is not a person who has entered into the study of one specialty to the exclusion of all else.

For something like a half century, we have insisted that anyone bearing the legitimate title of "doctor" have a diploma from a reputable medical school.

That is to say, back-around the turn of the century, we were plagued by "diploma mills" which gave so-called "degrees" to people in return for a fee, but did not require much study.

Some doctors at that point (or afterward) then became "residents" in hospitals and spend a matter of years specializing. They have completed the work which makes them doctors; they then labor at modest salaries as residents for the privilege of learning from their seniors, the intricacies of the eyes, or X-ray, or internal medicine or anesthesia, or gynecology, or surgery, or any of the scores of "specialties."

They don't lose their basic training; they add something on top of it, and thereafter concentrate their efforts on the particular specialty.

Whether specialist or not, no doctor can rest on his laurels or rely just on his graduation. Everybody has to keep studying, as hard as he can, to keep up with what is new.

Gray Zone Between Theory And Practice

Recently the Texas Research League issued a report on its study of the state's program of aid to dependent children.

The fundamental conclusion was that the program constituted the only available source of necessities of life for thousands of Texas families and that it should be continued. In the same breath, the report said that it needed to be overhauled in order to be "fully effective in correcting deep-seated social problems that create cases of family dependency."

Herein lies the difficulty of a number of programs which are designed to meet a certain broad problem but somehow end up perpetuating or even aggravating the program. It underlines that gray zone between theory and practice.

In Texas $21,000,000 is paid out annually to aid to dependent children. Of this amount 80 per cent comes from federal funds.

When the program started in 1942 there were 26,000 children receiving assistance; in 1958 there were 80,000. This is an increase of 200 per cent, and certainly Texas population has not remotely approached such a gain.

Another fact cropped up: ADC workers are seeing more and more second and third generation cases.

The program, it is presumed, was designed to help recipients (or their main stays of support) help themselves, and in the process of preserving desirable family units until they could become self-supporting. It hasn't worked out that way.

The study shows that 54 per cent of all Texas ADC cases occur because of the desertion, divorce, separation or the father's absence due to the illegitimacy of the child.

"Financial assistance starts as an emergency measure to tide the family over a period of crisis," read the report, "but in the bulk of the cases the crisis becomes chronic because money alone will not correct that which actually created the family's dependent condition."

It doesn't get at what the report calls "submarginal" parentage. Such parents have never been able to attain a decent standard of living because of such factors as limited intelligence, mental and emotional problems or limited education with no occupational skills. Moreover, the types of jobs for which they were equipped have become obsolete or less and less in demand. Yet this group is one of the most prolific in our society.

Another cause is moral insensibility. For some the Scriptural admonition to "go and sin no more" has been corrupted to "go and sin some more and file another ADC claim." Perhaps if Texas imposed on both parents of an illegitimate child the duty to support that child this contributing source to the problem will be lessened.

The League proposes that the state enact a uniform law on this point as several.

Perhaps this study will accomplish some good. If it will enable us to keep our eyes on the original purposes of these programs, we will be able to offer substantial help when and where it is needed instead of being burdened with loads that do nothing but grow and grow and grow with funds that cannot forever go on growing, tool

The Egghead Vote - Pro And Con

In New York, the Democrats are clearing it with Mayor Wagner — as through a glass, darkly, in one woman's opinion.

But with whom the Republicans are clearing it on either a local or a national level is something of a mystery.

Only 10 days ago, the Republican party came up with the gratifying announcement that it was out to "woo and capture the egghead vote" in 1960. This was certainly a great day for intellectuals who fell under general interdiction in the McCarthy era when anyone with an I. Q. north of 85 was automatically suspect of vaguely dark deeds against the republic.

THE G.O.P. AMNESTY was offered eggheads (an honorable title in my book) by Dr. Cornelius P. Cotter, associate professor of political science on leave from Stanford University, now an aide to Sen. Thurston B. Morton, Republican national chairman.

"This is a broad party endeavor and will find expression not only in the national committee but in groups in Congress, and on the state and district levels," Dr. Cotter said of the Grand Old Party's be-kind-to-egghead program.

"Our long-term goal is this: America is moving into an age of intellect," Dr. Cotter continued. "It is vitally important to a political party that the American people fully realize that the Republican party is a serious intellectual enterprise and is thinking about the major problems facing our society."

DR. COTTER EVEN WENT so far as to speak well of members of collegiate faculties and to propose the $10,000 such persons as valuable political allies.

However, it was my misfortune, while wrapped in these rosy dreams, to come across a speech by a member of the Cabinet made at almost the same time that Dr. Cotter, in Washington, was clearing it with Mayor Wagner — as through a glass, darkly, in one woman's opinion.

And just as President Eisenhower asked Congress to repeat student loyalty oaths as a prerequisite for college loans.

In Port Lauderdale, Fla., the Secretary of Commerce, Frederick H. Mueller, revealed what he thinks of this nonsense of intellectuals. Pointing to the dreadful state of the nation before the Republicans took over, Mr. Mueller said:

"Sour-bellied left-wingers fomented class struggle. Pink-tinted pundits and eggheads scoffed at the value of private initiative. The profit motive was labeled as degrading. All of this motley crew — as in the case of aristocratic parasites and skid-row bums — held in contempt everyone engaged in trade."

THAT'S TELLING 'EM! Mr. Mueller stands revealed as a man with a splendid talent for invective and innuendo. Why, the late Joseph R. McCarthy never did it better himself. Note the clever linking of eggheads, the nation's intellectuals, with "pink-tinted pundits." Who needs intellectuals, anyway? The colleges ought to be run for football, anyway, as any sound patriot knows.

With Mr. Nixon the party's obvious Presidential candidate, the Republicans can use Mr. Mueller's talents. In the 1952 and '56 campaigns, when President Eisenhower presented to the nation the kindly, father image, Mr. Nixon did the hatchet work. Now, when it is Mr. Nixon's turn at the halo, the hatchet can be handed on to the richly endowed Secretary of Commerce.

As for Dr. Cotter and his grand plan to woo the egghead vote there is scant consolation in the fact that the course of true love seldom runs smoothly in an election year.

The Gallup Poll

Henry Cabot Lodge Finds GOP Favor

PRINCETON, N. J. — With Governor Rockefeller's decision to withdraw from the 1960 Presidential race, Henry Cabot Lodge moves up into the Number Two spot with Republican voters interviewed across the nation.

Mr. Lodge, former Senator from Massachusetts and now head of the U. S. delegation to the U.N. is not an avowed candidate but has been mentioned as a possible vice presidential candidate on the GOP ticket.

Nixon continues to maintain a dominant lead and, in fact, has increased substantially his standing with Republican voters since Rockefeller's withdrawal.

As of today, 84 per cent of rank-and-file GOP voters sampled name Nixon as their favorite for the 1960 Republican nomination.

As they have at periodic intervals over the last two-and-a-half years, Gallup Poll reporters put this question to a cross-section of Republican voters:

"Here is a list of men who have been mentioned as possible presidential candidates for the Republican party in 1960. Which one would you like to see nominated as the Republican candidate for President in 1960?"

The vote today:

CHOICE OF CANDIDATES (Republicans Only)	Per cent
Nixon	84
Lodge	6
Christian Herter	2
James Mitchell	2
Barry Goldwater	1
Charles Halleck	1
None of these, no opinion	4

In a Gallup Poll survey report on December 16, prior to the Governor's announcement of his withdrawal, this same question was put to GOP voters with Rockefeller's name included on the list of possible presidential candidates.

Here are the results from the survey:

CHOICE OF CANDIDATES (Republicans Only)	Per cent
Nixon	66
Rockefeller	19
Lodge	4
Barry Goldwater	2
Christian Herter	2
Others	2
None of these, no opinion	5

THE ROCKEFELLER STORY

At the time of the Congressional elections in 1958, Rockefeller, fresh from his New York gubernatorial victory, was named by 31 per cent of Republicans, while Nixon was the top favorite of 51 per cent.

From that point on, the gap widened between the two men.

Here is the trend of popular GOP support for Nixon and Rockefeller in Gallup Poll tests since November of 1958.

Rockefeller	Nixon (e)	Per cent
November, 1958	51	31
January, 1959	56	27
April	56	23
May	58	17
June	63	20

Philgas Systems Never Fail Regardless Of The Weather

What a fuel system that won't fail when the weather is coldest? Try Philgas, local agent in Big Spring is the McGibbon Oil Company, which recently opened new offices on East Third Street. Employees of the McGibbon concern are prepared to install any size butane plant the customers want and, at the same time, see that it is regularly serviced and its supply of fuel replenished. Philgas is especially popular in rural areas, where it is used to heat incubators for chicks, heat water for use in the home and serve many other purposes. Philgas fulfills a long-felt need for farm families and serves to make rural homes as modern as any city dwelling. Now that butane can become popular, many people are moving from the city to escape the congestion. Philgas is not only safe but offers quite a savings to the user, once the unit is installed. And it proves a faithful, enduring servant, even when weather conditions are at their worst. In the not too distant future, home owners must think about the best methods of greening up their lawns. A favorite way is to make use of the Phillips 66 fertilizer, distributed locally by the McGibbon Oil Company and available at any local Phillips 66 station. The Phillips 66 fertilizer should be applied to lawns and shrubbery at least twice a year, before the warmer weather comes on. It can be spread with applicators which can be borrowed from any Phillips 66 service station.

February's weather in this area is always uncertain. In general the wise resident looks for the worst. And makes preparation accordingly. February is a rough month on housewives. Days when the family wash can be done are often few and far between. Wise housewives do not let the instability of the weather worry them. They just send their laundry to the Ideal or City Laundry. Weather is no issue at these big modern laundries. Rain or shine, they efficiently wash your clothes, finish them exactly as you want them finished and send them back to you ready to wear. The cost is small, the service unbeatable and the quality of the work beyond compare. Don't let windy, cloudy days hamper you in your housework.

Chavez Looks For New Candidate

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-NM) has indicated he will not back Gov. John Burroughs for re-election.

Chavez says New Mexicans with whom he talked generally feel Burroughs can't beat a Republican in November. The senator said he found it hard to determine whom he prefers. Chavez said a majority of those he talked with "felt the candidate should be from eastern New Mexico and surprisingly many indicate that Curry County has a candidate that could not only be nominated but better still be elected." The senator did not identify the individual.

'Equal Time' Not Settled

By JACK ADAMS
WASHINGTON (AP) — This is the election year in which everything was supposed to be crystal clear in relation to equal radio-TV opportunities for the politicians. But it isn't turning out that way. Already the chairman of the Federal Communications Commission and the chief attorney for the National Assn. of Broadcasters have had a head-on collision of ideas about what Congress meant when it threw a handful of new words into the "equal time" section of the Communications Act last summer.

TWO ARGUMENTS
According to FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer those few words — possibly unintentionally — have greatly broadened the area in which demands for equal time might be made.

To this the NAB counsel, Douglas A. Anello, has entered a resounding dissent. Anello contends Congress did nothing more than exempt bona fide newscasts, interviews and documentaries involving candidates from the equal time provisions of the act, and to call for fairness.

The situation is this: No broadcasting station need ever carry any political material. But the law has always said that once a radio or television facility is made available to a qualified candidate, all other qualified candidates for that particular office must, on demand, be provided with matching time, and on the same terms — free or paid for, as the case may be.

TEST CASE
In a test case last year involving the Chicago mayor's race, the FCC ruled that if a candidate figured in coverage by a station of news events, not necessarily involving his candidacy, the equal time provision came into play.

Broadcasters complained this was all wrong, and would seriously hamper news programming. At their request, Congress exempted the newscasts. But Congress went one step further, on its own motion. It added another sentence to the section which said radio and TV stations have an obligation to provide reasonable opportunity "for the discussion of conflicting views on issues of public importance."

The FCC has always said broadcasting stations should maintain balance in the handling of con-

Idea Is Main Requisite To Film Business

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—How to be a movie producer in one easy lesson:

1. Get an idea.
This is the word from Charles Bloch, who was Hollywood manager of a photo syndicate a few months ago. He is still at his old job, but he has also produced a movie for Allied Artists called "The Hypnotic Eye."

According to the reviews, the film is no great contribution to the cinema art, but it falls neatly into that important industry category: the exploitation picture. Like "Hercules," "House on Haunted Hill," "The Tingler," it might make a bundle via heavy selling.

The interesting thing about the film is that it was dreamed up and produced by a complete tyro to the movie business.

"Five or 10 years ago, a newcomer could never have broken into the picture industry," said Bloch, a tall, dark-haired man in his thirties. "To be a producer, you either had to work your way up through the ranks or else be a relative of the studio head. The big studios would have no truck with independent operators."

"But when an industry is in trouble, as movies are today, there is ample opportunity for an outsider to come in with new ideas."

Bloch's idea came right out of left field. A year ago, one of his photographers, Billy Whitfield, gaged that he had a notion for the ultimate in gimmicks: The audience would face a blank screen and be hypnotized into believing that they were witnessing the best movie they'd ever seen. "I just laughed at him at first," said Bloch, "but after a while, I started thinking that there would be a good gimmick there. Why not hypnotize the audience?"

Actual hypnosis seemed too dangerous, but he and Whitfield whipped up a script dealing with hypnotic suggestion. In the film, Jacques Bergerac plays a professional hypnotist who is doing his work on a theater audience. He asks that the house lights be turned on, then they light up the actual movie theater. He then puts the audience through some suggestion tests, including one involving a balloon, which each patron gets at the door.

"We never really knew whether audiences would buy our gimmick," said Bloch. "The results were amazing at the two previews we had. We took infra-red photographs, and five out of every six in the audience appear to be following instructions."

trouersal material, but chairman Doerfer recently asserted: "Now an administrative policy has become a federal law. And a law, as you know, is more inflexible than an administrative policy."

Equal time requirements have heretofore been applied to candidates and candidates alone. However, says Doerfer, "apparently, any responsible person who has opposing views can now get into a political 'hassle' over the air."

He believes the new wording means that anybody, in or out of politics, who disagrees with what has been said on a broadcast about "an issue of public importance" can make a bid for answering time.

OPPORTUNISTS
Also, he anticipates that some political candidates may seize on the amended law to seek air time "for the opposing view" and so put his personality before the voters, even though the controversial issue was raised by someone not even running for office.

His conclusion is that "only a case-by-case approach over a period of time will develop a law which can give the broadcaster any reliable guides."

NAB attorney Anello has said he is "a little disturbed" by Doerfer's interpretation.

Congress "simply wanted to make sure," he said, that in exempting newscasts from equal time such programs were not also being exempted from a standard of fairness.

The broadcast industry has always been under the obligation to afford a reasonable opportunity for the discussion of conflicting views," he said.

NOTHING ADDED
"The Congress, in my opinion, made it crystal clear that they were not in any way affecting existing policy or law."

"I don't think this proviso adds anything to the existing obligation of the licensee in the matter of public affairs."

Since newscasts have been granted exemption, Anello said, "it is incumbent upon all broadcasters to do their utmost in the political campaigns" to apply the revised law fairly.

"Any attempts to be devious can become a cause celebre," he added. "We are in the limelight and we will be watched closely."
