3 Million Texans Qualify As Voters

Texas aimed Saturday night toward a three million vote potential in this year's elections. Tax assessors in all sections interviewed by Associated Press member newspapers...

FALLS ON SUNDAY They will remain open because the law requires sales to end on the last day of January. This day falls on Sunday, this year.

One non-conforming county is Grayson, where the collector, Mrs. Iva Davidson, says she has an opinion from a judge that she still can sell poll taxes Monday. She said she will do so.

The surveys were made in more than a score of counties including many of the ones where half the state's votes are concentrated. Only one county forecast a decline.

If the tax collectors' estimates are borne out, Texas should near the three million vote mark. Potential vote in 1956, the last presidential election year, was 2,446,539.

State Democratic Chairman J. E. Connolly of Abilene Saturday urged that tax offices be kept open at least part of Sunday to accept last-minute payments.

Officials "will be rendering a vital public service," he said. "Thousands who otherwise would not qualify to vote will do so" if offices are in business on the Sabbath, he declared.

Connolly pointed out that precinct conventions—he called them stepping stones to nomination of a president—will be open only to those with poll taxes.

Voters this year will ballot for a president, vice president, a U.S. senator and several representatives, and state and local officers.

One county showing a probable decline in poll tax payments is Webb County in the Texas-Mexican border. In 1956—last presidential election year—the vote potential was 18,181. No one is predicting more than 15,500 this year.

One Webb county observer said the drop possibly was because of charges of poll tax irregularities recently. The decline was in the face of one of the most potentially explosive political campaigns in the county's history.

On the other hand, some voters awoke Saturday to the emptiness in their pocket where a poll tax ought to be.

awoke Saturday to the emptiness in their pocket where a poll tax ought to be.

VARIED REPORTS In Hidalgo County, for instance, Tax Collector Bob Lyon said "They're going wild today." He predicted a total of 40,000 eventually will qualify, compared with 33,000 in 1956. Lyon's office will be among those open Sunday.

At Paris, Collector Delma Bunch estimated 11,300 will qualify in Lamar County to set a record. The 1956 total was 8,498. Denton County expects 15,000 compared with 13,000 four years ago. Population increase rather

Deadline At Hand To Pay Poll Tax

Today is the final opportunity for belated Big Springers to qualify themselves to vote in this year's elections.

Mrs. Viola Robinson, county tax collector, is keeping her office open from noon to midnight today to accommodate last-minute poll tax receipt applicants. When midnight strikes, the books close and the citizen who has not paid his poll tax or is eligible, has not been issued his exemption certificate forfeits his right to ballot in any of the elections on tap in 1960.

OPEN ON SATURDAY The tax collector kept open house all day Saturday. Normally, the tax office, in harmony with other county offices, closes on Saturday. Yesterday, however, Mrs. Robinson's deputies were on hand throughout the regular working hours of the day.

A steady stream of poll tax applicants moved in and out of the office but there was no grand rush such as has marked other years as the period to pay poll taxes reached its climax.

The poll tax receipt total at 5 p.m. was 8,120. Exemption certificates issued totalled 1,670. The combined total is 9,790. This compared with 9,115 on the same date in 1956.

Mrs. Robinson said that the figures released at closing time Saturday did not represent the grand total on hand as of that date. She pointed to the large stack of applications which have been sent in my mail and which are yet to be handled by her office. She said that a considerable number of applications are on hand, collected by civic groups, which also must be worked before the total figure could be reached.

COULD BEAT 1956 If any last minute rush develops today, there is a good chance the grand total will exceed that of 1956, and perhaps, come close to the all-time high scored in 1952.

Official final total for 1956 — another year in which a presidential election was on tap — was 10,430. The all-time record for Howard County poll tax and exemption certificates was in 1952 — 11,315.

FBI SILENT

Mystery Package In Spears' Case

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A new piece has been added to the considerable puzzle surrounding heavily insured ex-convict Robert Vernon Spears.

And the FBI is as close-mouthed about this one as it has been about the entire investigation of the 65-year-old Dallas naturopath, who once was listed as missing in the crash of a commercial airliner.

The latest activity came Friday when FBI agents picked up a mysterious package from Dallas at the Phoenix Airport.

Authoritative sources said the package was personally handed to two agents by the captain of a commercial airliner minutes after the plane landed. But the FBI declined to say whether it was connected with the investigation of Spears and the Nov. 16 crash of an airliner into the Gulf of Mexico. The crash killed 42 persons.

Since Spears' arrest in Phoenix Jan. 20 on a charge of interstate transportation of a stolen car, the FBI has been making an intensive investigation into the possibility he planted a bomb on the airliner. Spears carried $100,000 in travel insurance. His wife has said in Dallas that Spears told her a friend and fellow ex-convict, William Allen Taylor, 60, of Tampa, Fla., took Spears' seat on the plane.

Only 13 bodies were recovered from the wrecked plane, two Navy ships are attempting to locate the wreckage in deep water about 50 miles off the Louisiana coast. The ships were forced to suspend operations overnight by 35 m.p.h. winds.

Two divers working at the 240-foot depth reported they could barely see their hands in front of their faces and had to feel their way along a bottom of gray mud one to two feet deep.

First Lacrosse Missile Fired WASHINGTON (AP)— Army troops for the first time have fired the Lacrosse, a guided missile designed to deliver nuclear or conventional warheads on enemy fortifications or troop concentrations with pinpoint accuracy.

The missile was fired Friday by the 5th Missile Battalion, the first equipped with the weapon, at the desert range at McGregor, N.M., the Army said here today.

The Lacrosse, a needle-shaped 19-foot long missile, has a range of more than 20 miles.

Accused

Earl Hamilton, 43, above, of Memphis, Tenn., is accused of extortion in an attempt to get $1,000 from the family of Dr. George H. Mickey who is charged with murder in the savage beating of Dr. Margaret McMillan. Police said Hamilton told the Mickey family he had a steel rod used to beat Miss McMillan and would sell it to them for $1,000. A policeman, posing as Mickey's 19-year-old son, met and arrested Hamilton in New Orleans, La. Miss McMillan's body was found near Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 19. (AP Wirephoto.)

Hospital attendants today reported his condition as still critical but added he has improved slightly. A bullet was removed from his head above the right temple.

Police said Kennedy fired the stray shot at the train from a field 25 yards west of the railroad tracks.

Officers said the boys stole the rifle Thursday night in nearby Pennsauken, N.J.

Reprive Is Won By Lipsticks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 80-million-dollar-a-year lipstick industry won another reprive Saturday from a government order forbidding the further use of some of its most vital colors.

The order, which the industry has construed as a virtual kiss of death, had been scheduled to go into effect Monday after two postponements.

It was suspended pending the outcome of a public hearing Feb. 17 to determine whether government tests were sufficiently complete to justify the conclusion that the red, orange and yellow coloring materials are unsafe.

At the same time Commissioner George P. Larrick of the Food and Drug Administration, who announced the action, said 3 of the 17 colors in the original order were being restored to the harmless list. They will be subjected to further tests.

This leaves 14 coal tar shadings up for review at the hearing. They are the bulk of a group described before a congressional committee last week as the cosmetics industry's most vital colors. The evaluation was provided by Fuller Holloway, general counsel of the Toilet Goods Assn., which represents such big lipstick makers as Elizabeth Arden and Helena Rubinstein.

Demands for the hearing came from other such widely known brand makers as Revlon, Max Factor, Richard Hudnut and Avon.

The lipstick colors ran afoul of the Food and Drug Law last October when laboratory rats showed liver and kidney damage after being fed some of the coloring substances.

Industry spokesmen protested that the colors had been used in millions of lipsticks for more than 35 years without any evidence of harm to the users.

The three colors restored to the harmless list are designated D and C reds Nos. 11, 12 and 13.

Italian Budget ROME (AP)—Premier Antonio Segni's government Friday night drafted a record budget of $6,252,000,000 for the 1960-61 fiscal year that would leave a deficit of nearly a half-billion dollars.

Patton and Weatherford. Ralph W. Caton, recently appointed district judge, seeking to make his appointment permanent, has no opposition. No one has as yet filed against Wayne Burns, county attorney; Viola Robinson, county tax-assessor-collector; Congressman George Mahon; District Attorney Guilford Jones; Walter Grice, justice of the peace, Precinct 1, Place 1; G. C. Coates, constable, Precinct 1. Also unopposed is Cecil Collings, seeking reelection as justice of the court of appeals.

Hardisty himself has retiled as candidate for county Democratic chairman. Two candidates for precinct chairmen have also filed. They are W. D. Berry, Precinct 16, and Lindsey Marchbanks, Precinct 4.

Hardisty said he would accept applications to that hour.

At the present time, with only one day remaining in which candidates can enter the lists, there are four contested posts to be settled at the polls. Other candidates have failed to draw competitors.

Sheriff Miller Harris faces two opponents in his race for reelection. They are A. E. Long, county juvenile officer, and W. L. Kirby, filling station operator and former policeman.

Four candidates are seeking the seat in the state Legislature left vacant by the decision of veteran legislator Obie Bristow not to seek reelection. The contenders are A. M. Ripps, Andy Glenn, Frank S. Goodman and David Read.

Hudson Landers, seeking reelection as county commissioner, Precinct 3, has one opponent, Joseph Hayden, P. O. Hughes, county commissioner, Precinct 1, will compete for the post against Rufus L. Stallings.

The only other contest which had developed through Saturday was the race for constable involving

Army Thwarted By Howling Mob

Boys Held In Shooting

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Police have arrested two boys in the wounding of a passenger aboard the Pennsylvania Railroad's Congressional Limited.

Officers identified the two as John Roulston, 13, and Martin Kennedy, 14, both of Philadelphia.

Harry Friedlander, 25, of Baltimore, a salesman for A. Jacobs and sons, Inc., was wounded Friday by a bullet which pierced the window of the train as it sped through the Tacony section of Philadelphia.

Hospital attendants today reported his condition as still critical but added he has improved slightly. A bullet was removed from his head above the right temple.

Police said Kennedy fired the stray shot at the train from a field 25 yards west of the railroad tracks.

Officers said the boys stole the rifle Thursday night in nearby Pennsauken, N.J.

Algerian Rebels Reject Ultimatum

By GODFREY ANDERSON ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)— Defiant French insurgents used a cheering mob Saturday night to thwart army efforts to cut off the barricades in the streets of Algiers.

The mob shouted defiance of President Charles de Gaulle.

The women of Algiers were urged by a rebel leader to form a living wall before the barricades to guard their men against attacks by troops.

Insurgent leaders rejected what they said was a surreptitious ultimatum from the army, calling it an insult. The army denied issuing any ultimatum.

TROOPS FALTER Paratroopers ordered to surround and seal off the barricades in the heart of the city, were swept up in the surging, shouting throng. Shoulder-to-shoulder army lines gave way before the crowd, and the big plaza before the barriers soon was black with a mass of humanity.

De Gaulle Is Praised For Crisis Acts

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle of France, a man often berated here, has won the admiration of U. S. officials for his bold, decisive handling of the Algerian crisis.

Top authorities clearly believed the 67-year-old strong man has a good chance of saving France from a disaster that would gravely weaken the whole Atlantic Alliance.

There is evident here a growing confidence that somehow De Gaulle can resolve the situation without a damaging loss of French prestige.

MAY PROVE CASE Some Allied diplomats say De Gaulle had to prove himself and the political system of the French Republic at some time. The Algerian crisis could provide such proof if he can settle it promptly without compromising his policies or the authority of his government.

Many times Washington leaders have found themselves less ardently concerned for De Gaulle's success.

On some occasions they have regarded him as stubborn, uncompromising, mystical in his approach to politics and diplomacy, and almost fanatical in his dedication to his chosen task of restoring France to the role of a first rate power.

President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan have had a number of differences with De Gaulle since he assumed power during another Algerian crisis in mid-1958.

In an effort to reach better understanding, Eisenhower went to Paris last September. He reportedly stressed to De Gaulle U. S. interest in seeing France adopt an Algerian policy this country could support. Eisenhower left Paris in hope this would happen.

Eisenhower failed, however, to make any progress with De Gaulle in ending the weakness De Gaulle created, in Washington's view, in the NATO defense system. He has wanted for France a voice equal to that of Britain and the United States in making global decisions concerned with deployment and possible use of nuclear weapons. Failing to get it, he barred U. S. nuclear weapons from bases in France.

Such De Gaulle actions have drawn heavy criticism here and in other Western capitals. Similarly, De Gaulle irritated Macmillan and Eisenhower late last year by stalling off an East-West summit conference until next May.

Hunter Selects Bad Landing Spot KOBE, Japan (AP)—Farfer Asaba Sugiyama, hunting for a bear, stumbled over a cliff. He landed right on top of a sleeping bear.

It's difficult to tell who was the more surprised. Sugiyama's cries for help brought villagers who killed the animal.

AEC Eager Resume Nuclear Testings

WASHINGTON (AP)— The Atomic Energy Commission hinted today it could start testing new nuclear weapons on short notice if the United States decides to call off its present moratorium on tests.

The AEC, in its annual report to Congress, said its proving ground in the Nevada desert has been kept "in standby readiness" ever since the country decided to suspend testing between Nov. 1, 1958 and at least Dec. 31, 1959.

President Eisenhower said last Dec. 29 the United States considered itself free to resume nuclear testing but would give notice to the world before any resumption.

GOOD BACKLOG The AEC also hinted it has piled up quite a backlog of devices—ready for testing—especially in the field of ever smaller and quicker—on the trigger atomic weapons.

While the AEC gave no indication of their specific nature, presumably the devices include new concepts for use by foot-soldiers, artillery, and missile-firing airplanes and submarines.

The commission reported across-the-board progress during the past year in all phases of the atomic program in which the nation has invested a total of $7,400,000,000 in plants and equipment alone since the middle of World War II.

Concerning the weapons program, the report said: "During 1959 emphasis continued on research and development activities designed to improve and increase the United States' arsenal of nuclear weapons."

It said research and development efforts continue along lines aimed at such things as developing weapons of greatly-reduced radioactive fallout in a variety of sizes for strategic, tactical and defensive use. But it said "special emphasis" is being given to a category mentioned in reports in the last two years—the development of "smaller, immediately-ready and more rugged weapons for use in advanced weapons systems."

The commission also made it clear that it was on the alert to try to detect any unannounced outer space or underground nuclear tests by the Soviets.

H. BOMBS STEPPED UP Further in the weapons category, the AEC indicated it is geared to step up its production of hydrogen bombs. It said a new facility at its Livermore, Calif., installation for H-bomb research was completed during the year.

The AEC's report also contained these remarks: U. S. production of uranium increased 30 per cent in 1959 over 1958, keeping it in first place among free world countries.

Since 1945 the United States, the Soviets and Great Britain have touched off nuclear explosions equal to 173,760,000 tons of TNT.

Chances look better than they did a year ago of speeding the advent of economic electric power from the atom.

Eighteen new civilian power reactors are being developed. This involves total commitments of 717 million dollars by government and private industry.

The Navy now has 37 nuclear submarines and three nuclear surface ships operating, under construction or authorized by Congress.

An AEC contractor will begin building in May a new type military power reactor, that will be "readily transportable by land, sea and air vehicles, and be able to operate under extreme environmental conditions."

The AEC has stepped up steadily during the past two years its research into the nature and hazards of fallout.

The problems of the radioactive wastes of the atomic energy program have "proved completely manageable," the AEC said.

Abilene Girl Found Slain

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)— Miss Constance Ann Golden, 30, a switchboard operator, was found shot to death in her parked car on a highway 10 miles south of here today.

A .38 caliber pistol was found beside the body. She had been shot once in the chest. An inquest verdict was pending.

Serious Illness Fells MacArthur

NEW YORK (AP)—General of the Army Douglas MacArthur was reported in serious condition Saturday suffering from a nonmalignant prostate condition.

A 1st Army spokesman said the 80-year-old hero of two world wars, was not in critical condition. There was no immediate decision on whether surgery would be necessary.

MacArthur, who celebrated his birthday just last Tuesday, entered Manhattan's Lenox Hill Hospital for a urological examination Friday.

Tests have indicated the presence of an obstruction in the urinary tract, which has interfered with the normal urinary function," announced Col. Gordon Barclay, 1st Army spokesman.

"The obstruction is due to a simple enlargement of the prostate gland of a nonmalignant nature. Preliminary treatment has resulted in most of the discomfort which was the reason for consulting a urologist. The general is now resting comfortably and is not in any degree of distress."

Barclay said further treatment and laboratory tests would continue. Another medical bulletin was expected Sunday.

Prior to entering the hospital MacArthur had been examined by Dr. George W. Slaughter of the Lenox Hill staff. Dr. Slaughter advised the hospital tests.

MacArthur's chief aide, Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, retired, spent Friday night at the hospital to be close to his friend and former commander. He said that this was probably the first time MacArthur had ever been a hospital patient.

Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

Well, today's your last chance to qualify yourself as a voter in 1960 elections. If you don't or won't take the trouble to pay your poll tax or get an exemption certificate, then you deserve the worst that can happen to you in government. The tax office is open this afternoon, just to help you.

Before leaving this subject, a final reminder is in order to the over-age exemptees who have been living just outside of Big Spring. Until now they have not had to get exemption certificates every year. But today they are in the city limits, and they MUST obtain exemptions each year.

One of the happiest surprises of the week was the great success of the YMCA drive. With a new building and much larger program to support, the Y had to up its budget by 65 per cent and looked to membership to take up most of this slack. What happened? Why people responded in such an extraordinary way that the money goal was exceeded by 25 per cent and the membership numbers by 11 per cent.

Big Spring soon will lose a good friend in the person of Dr. Jackson Friedlander, superintendent of the Veterans Administration Hospital. He is being transferred to Phoenix, Ariz. after two separate tours of duty here. He's earned a lot of friends and admirers in these parts.

Our 4-H Clubbers acquitted themselves well at Abilene. Rodney Brooks had the reserve champion steer; Lucy Thornton the top medium weight; Gary McNew the champion Southdown lamb; Gary Graham the top lightweight fine wool lamb.

TRADE WINDS

One Store Enlarges, Another Starts On A New Building

Grocery sales are down this month, as they always are in January. People buy so much during the holiday season that a bit of budget trimming is in order for the next few weeks. Usually sales climb back to normal by March, then level off for a spell.

Conard Davis, manager of Furr's, says home baking and cooking is one way, and buying lower-priced foods is another. "When a woman buys something already cooked or baked, she is in reality paying someone else for these services," Davis said. "She can also cut down on extras, or things not ordinarily found in the kitchen."

In other words, plain food is cheaper than fancy food. Most things are cheaper when plentiful, and right now all kinds of green vegetables such as mustard greens and collards are coming in from South Texas.

Pork is another item in good supply, and is probably cheaper than other meats. And broilers have been at rock bottom prices for a long time.

Davis says the income tax once held down purchases at this time of year, but this is no longer true because of regular paycheck deductions.

"Nearly everyone is working for someone else now," he explained. "Regular deductions don't hurt quite so much, even though the total amount is the same."

The R&H Hardware has made its second expansion in less than a year. Owner F. D. Rogers has taken over the adjoining building recently occupied by the Corder Grocery, and has made a large inside opening between the two stores.

The new room will be used to display garden supplies, air-conditioners and television sets. This will give him an additional 1,000 feet of floor space.

Last winter Rogers built a patio type room on a vacant lot south of the store and used it for heavier merchandise.

Wacker's is starting on its second store in Big Spring, which will be located just east of the Piggly Wiggly parking lot on 11th Place.

The new building will have 7,000 feet of floor space, according to L. B. Edwards, vice president in charge of store planning and personnel. He says the new store will feature the Low-Boy Self-Select type displays, which means the merchandise will be placed lower to the floor than in the usual variety store.

Wacker's is a Southwestern company with 61 stores in four states. Three new ones were opened recently, Edwards said.

The company was founded by George Wacker, who had his first store in Ballinger. He is now deceased, but his widow is president of the company.

The new store will be built on land leased from Cecil McDonald.

The Good Housekeeping Shop on Johnson Street is adding a new store, which is located just three doors from the main store. The building with 5,000 square feet of floor space is being built by Biondy Crane on his lot just north of Cunningham & Phillips Drug.

The new store will handle Good Housekeeping's young modern department, according to owner Jack Watkins. It will feature Early American, traditional and other popular types of furniture and allied merchandise.

Incidentally, Watkins has formed a sort of corporation within a corporation for his employees. He sells stock at $10.00 a share to the workers, then invests this money in real estate.

They have already bought a house and a duplex which will be remodeled then sold or rented.

The Pettus Electric Company has moved from its location on the Snyder Highway to 201 Benson Street. Owner Albert Pettus sold part of his business to Ben Caldwell, who will continue to operate from the highway location.

Caldwell bought the electric motor department, and will handle both sales and service. He specializes in oilfield, high-line and motor rewinding services.

Pettus says the sale was made so he could devote more time to his other lines.

A new project by Tarbox-Gossett Motor Company has been started on West U. S. Highway 80. This is a wholesale parts house and service station, and is being built on a 600-foot strip of land which the company owns.

"This is a separate corporation from the main company," said Ralph Gossett, "and will be known as the Cactus Parts Company. Mostly it will serve as a depot for rebuilt motors and used parts. All sales will be conducted at our main offices."

The warehouse and station will be ready for business within the next month or two. One of the managers will be Jo Martinez, a veteran employee of the firm.

Brotherhoods Ask Mediation

CHICAGO (AP) — Mediation efforts apparently have failed to bring a wage agreement between the railroads and the 50,000-member Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Perry Heath, BLE chief negotiator, said Friday his union is asking the National Mediation Board to offer to arbitrate the dispute. The board has been attempting to mediate a settlement.

The board is considering whether to try to make another attempt at mediation, or to proffer its arbitration services in a second step for solution prescribed by the Railway Labor Act. Both sides must agree to arbitration.

The engineers have demanded a 12 per cent pay hike and firemen want a 14 per cent raise. The unions estimate present pay for operating employees averages $2.65 at straight time.

The carriers are also negotiating new contracts with three other operating unions, representing conductors, trainmen and switchmen, and with 16 so-called non-operating unions. In all, more than 800,000 employees are affected.

Re-Elected

Bomarc Again Fails Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The sixth straight failure of a Bomarc-B interceptor missile may solve a years-long controversy between the Air Force and the Army over who has the better anti-aircraft weapon.

A Bomarc-B veered off course shortly after launching here Friday and plunged into the Atlantic Ocean several miles offshore. The Defense Department said failure was caused by malfunction in the flight control system.

This could mean the end of the Bomarc-B program. A congressional committee has been critical of the missile, which has not had a successful flight in eight months.

The Air Force and Army have battled for more than five years on the respective merits of their Bomarc and Nike-Hercules missiles, both of which are designed to seek out and destroy enemy planes. The Nike-Hercules has a shorter range. It is an operational, fully tested weapon.

Idea Rejected

MANILA (AP) — Bandit-ridden Cavite Province decided to post huge "wanted" signs on billboards to help run down its leading badmen. On second thoughts officials decided the blow-up mugs of more than 50 outlaw chieftains loitering at motorists would scare off tourists, and they canceled the project.

Alger Gets GOP Pat On The Back

By TEX EASLEY
AP Special Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas' lone House Republican, Rep. Bruce Alger of Dallas, has been given a verbal pat on the back by Rep. Noah M. Mason (R-Ill.).

Mason, now serving his 24th year in the House, recently placed in the Congressional Record a magazine (Newsweek) article describing how Alger won in a Democratic stronghold.

The reproduction of the article was prefaced by Mason's comment that Alger has distinguished himself by his ability and integrity. He added:

"A few years ago it was my privilege to address a group of outstanding citizens in Dallas and I became well acquainted with the high caliber of Americans who reside in that great area of our nation. My friend and colleague, Bruce Alger, is in my judgment one of the finest of these fine Americans."

AROUND THE CAPITAL

Concerned with possible contamination of the Rio Grande from oil fields in the watershed above McAllen, Hidalgo County Sanitation Director R. N. (Bob) Hancock has been here conferring with Public Health Service officials.

Salty water from some wells, he fears, may eventually find its way to the river and pollute McAllen's water supply.

"We aren't having trouble yet," he told Rep. Joe Kilgore (D-Tex) before going to the Health Service meeting. "And we don't want trouble because if it once comes, we'd have a hard time doing anything about it."

He wants a study made to determine the underground flow of waters from oil fields and thinks it might be done by putting dye into the salt water discharge and checking the course.

Work starts next month on widening and repaving Washington's Texas Ave., a $253,000 job.

The new Congressional Directories for 1960 are out and the longest biographical sketch among Texans is that of Sen. Ralph Yarborough. He uses 33 lines to tell of his life, including the time when he worked his passage to Europe on a freighter years ago. The shortest sketch is that of Rep. Clark Fisher of San Angelo. He uses two lines which gives his home town, the fact he's a Democrat, his election to the 78th and succeeding Congresses, and that he is a member of the Services Committee.

The Directory also shows that 20 of the 34 members of the Texas delegation have a total of 62 children. Champion papa of all is Rep. Bob Casey of Houston with nine — five girls and four boys.

Cattle Drive

BULAWAYO, Southern Rhodesia (AP) — A rail exodus of thousands of head of cattle is planned from drought-stricken southern areas to pastures 700 miles north. Cattle and game have died by thousands in Southern Rhodesia and neighboring Bechuanaland in the worst drought in a decade.

WILDCAT BLOWS OUT

No. 1 Wade, about eight miles southeast of Big Spring

Wildcat Near Moss Creek Lake Acting Bit Contrary

A blow-out at Rankin and Turner's No. 1 Etta Wade had oilmen guessing Saturday. The pressure that blew oil for over 30 minutes Friday night came from outside the casing area inside the hole. It is anybody's guess where the oil came from. Operators are currently testing the well, perforated between 6,202-58 feet. Crews had quit for the night and left when the well inexplicably blew for a little more than a half-hour. An observer Saturday said probably 100 barrels of oil sprayed the area, but it did not catch fire. Workers were burning off the standing oil Saturday, to reduce the fire hazard. Best suspect for the source of the oil is the Clear Fork, a section at about 4,000 feet where operator reported some oil shows going on. Saturday, the crew was cleaning out the hole after re-acidizing. A swabbing unit was at work about 4 p.m. and on the first run of the swab, recovered only acid water. This project is a re-entry hole, originally bottomed at 9,600 feet and abandoned by J. C. Williamson in June, 1959. The current operators went into the hole Dec. 11, 1959, and have been recovering small amounts of oil from the Wolfcamp since that time. Location is eight miles southeast of Big Spring and 600 from north and east lines of section 29-31-15, T&P survey.

Atomic Foundation Posts Scholarships For Texans

Six research fellowships in atomic energy for graduate students in Texas colleges and universities will be awarded this summer. They will be provided by the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation and the General Atomic Division of General Dynamics Corporation, it was announced by J. B. Thomas, president of Texas Electric Service Company. Texas Electric Service Company is one of 11 investor-owned electric utility companies operating in Texas who comprise the membership of the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation. The recipients of the six research fellowships will work under the direction of General Atomic scientists on the controlled nuclear fusion research program being jointly sponsored by General Atomic and the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation at the John Jay Hopkins Laboratory for Pure and Applied Science at San Diego, Calif. The students will assist in theoretical and experimental research in controlled thermonuclear energy as part of the world's first and largest privately-financed program in the use of nuclear fusion for the generation of power and energy. Nuclear fusion is the process responsible for the tremendous power of the hydrogen bomb and the energy in the sun and stars. This research may eventually lead to the harnessing of the might than fervent voter interest is the reason, politicians say. Reporting little significant change from four years ago were Tom Green, Midland, Gregg and Cameron counties. Taylor expected an increase of about 4,000 to 17,000. Nueces 7,000 to 58,000, Jefferson 3,000 to 80,000, and Lubbock 3,000 to 36,000. Many counties will not know their vote potential for a week or more because of slow reporting by poll tax sub-stations. The "Big Four" counties which possess more than 35 per cent of the state's voting strength all showed strong increases. Bexar County expects 160,000 poll taxes and exemptions, easily breaking the 141,712 record of four years ago. Tarrant County collector Reed Stewart forecast a strength of 145,000, compared with 139,747 in 1956. Harris County reported sales running 12 per cent above 1956— and 65 per cent ahead of last year, which was not a political season of significance. Collector Carl Smith forecast a final potential of 370,000, compared with 339,304 in the last presidential election year. Nine hundred special depu-

3,000,000 VOTERS

Clemency Plea Of Chessman Revived

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Calif. (AP)—"I am one piece of paper removed from the gas chamber," Caryl Chessman told a news conference Saturday. He is scheduled for execution Feb. 19 for several crimes including perverted sex acts, rape and kidnaping at Los Angeles. Chessman didn't know it, but about the same time Gov. Edmund G. Brown said he would review his denial of executive clemency for the convict. The man who has spent 11 years on death row told newsmen the "piece of paper" would be an appeal to the U.S. Appellate Court of Friday's denial by U.S. Dist. Judge Louis E. Goodman of his appeal for release from prison. However, the judge suggested the governor might reconsider clemency. "I have a deep respect for Judge Goodman," Brown said in Santa Barbara. "I will certainly try and discuss with Judge Goodman his ideas on the Chessman case. If this constitutes a review, I am making a review to that extent." Brown, who denied Chessman executive clemency last fall, added: "I have already made my decision on Chessman. Unless there is something new, I haven't changed my mind." The governor said of Judge Goodman, who denied Chessman's appeal for release from state custody: "When a judge of his stature publicly states there is a basis for judicial review, I certainly wouldn't cast that opinion aside." When told that Chessman was quoted as saying he would not ask the governor for clemency, Brown said: "Well, that would make my problem easier." Chessman also said, "Almost certainly we will get again to the U.S. Supreme Court." He said no action will be taken on a request for a stay of execution until the appellate court rules. He told newsmen he felt Judge Goodman did not make a decision on the merits of his case. "Let me say for the record," Chessman declared, "that I am not the red light bandit. Ultimately I have no doubt that will be established."

Bad Weather Delays Hunt For Airliner

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Navy divers, harrassed by fog and wind in their search in the Gulf of Mexico for the wreckage of a commercial airliner, will remain on the scene until the weather permits them to resume the diving operations. Based on the weather forecast, the Navy said Saturday the diving will not be resumed until Tuesday.

Two Navy ships, the Vigor and the Penguin, are assigned to the operation of hunting for the National Airlines DC7B that crashed into the Gulf last Nov. 16 and killed 42 persons. Rescue workers found only bits of the wreckage and 13 of the victims. The Vigor, a minesweeper, spotted objects earlier on the Gulf floor with sounding equipment. But so far divers' findings are negative. The FBI and Civil Aeronautics Board want to determine the cause of the crash. The search was spurred by the FBI's recent arrest of Robert V. Spears, a Dallas, Tex., naturopath who was listed as a passenger on the Miami to New Orleans flight.

Spears had taken out $100,000 in travel insurance in September and when arrested in Phoenix, Ariz., FBI agents found explosives in his luggage. Spears' wife said her husband told her that William Allen Taylor of Tampa, Fla., replaced him on the airplane. Taylor had been missing since the crash. The event will be held from Feb. 12-21. The boys are Sammy Chaney, Freddy Chaney, Walter Lowe and Dennis Seidenberger, all of Garden City. The boys will have an opportunity to win prizes of jewelry, ranging from $50 to $15. This stock must be used in a club project. Prizes will be awarded in the call scramble event, designed for boys, 12-18 yrs old. Ten calves are turned loose in the arena with 20 boys and winners will be the ones who can halter the animal, then drag it across the finish line with the aid of a 10-foot rope.

THE WEEK

(Continued from Page 1) of Dimes suddenly shifted to high gear during the past week. The big impetus was given by the Mother's March, handled by P-TA units, which brought in $3,000 plus. The TV penny parade added around $300 and Gay Hill came in with more than $100. FHA and Tri-Hi-Y girls Saturday were busy selling balloons and miniature crutches. The grand jury spent a busy two and a half days with more than 200 cases on tap. When it was all over 33 indictments were returned, and as usual the big end was for checking offenses. Reports indicated that W. R. Grace & Company last week succeeded in obtaining 51 per cent of Codson Petroleum's common stock. Officials here anticipate no operational changes. Cosden, in fact, is embarking on some substantial enlargements. For instance today's Herald carries a story on plans to triple the output of styrene. Cosden also is taking steps to vastly increase its markets in ortho-xylene. Cosden is the world's leading producer of a 99 per cent pure ortho-xylene.

Auto Insurance Rate Plan Changes Facing New Delay

AUSTIN (AP)—The future of Texas' furor-sparking auto insurance rating plan remains in doubt as the system becomes a month old Sunday. Insurance Board Chairman Penn Jackson said the agency will continue indefinitely considering whether to make changes, and if so what kind, in the Texas Safe Driving Insurance Plan. Jackson said illness of two of the three members had slowed progress on the review of the plan. The program, announced Oct. 1 and put into effect Jan. 1, sets up a point system based on the number of accidents and moving traffic violations charged against a driver during the preceding three years. A driver with no accidents or violations receives a cut in premiums, a motorist with one accident or violation pays the same rates as last year and a driver with more than one pays from 20 to 100 per cent, depending on the total number of violations or wrecks. Legislators and some attorneys and lawmen attacked the moving violation and retroactive features of the plan as unfair and inaccurate. Insurance men have been divided in their attitude toward the

Boys Planning For San Antonio Show

Four area boys will be among the 200 Texas FFA and 4-H Club boys participating in the World Championship Rodeo at San Antonio. The event will be held from Feb. 12-21. The boys are Sammy Chaney, Freddy Chaney, Walter Lowe and Dennis Seidenberger, all of Garden City. The boys will have an opportunity to win prizes of jewelry, ranging from $50 to $15. This stock must be used in a club project. Prizes will be awarded in the call scramble event, designed for boys, 12-18 yrs old. Minor Mishaps On City Streets

Two minor mishaps were reported by police officers Saturday. Ruby C. Langley, West Highway 50, and Sue Montgomery Balzar, 1900 S. Monticello, were in collision at 4th and Rannels. Norman Morris Jones, 3707 U.S. 89, and Brenda Lee Gordon, 1509 E. 6th, were involved in a crash at Marcy Dr. and Westover Rd. No injuries or major damage was reported.

Fate Of Mine Victims Soon To Be Learned

COALBROOK, South Africa (AP) — Rescue workers have pierced the hard rock formation that has blocked efforts to reach 435 miners trapped underground since Jan. 21. The fate of the men—429 Africans and six whites—should be known within 30 hours, officials said. A three-inch diamond drill penetrated the hard layer of dolomite Saturday afternoon and continued to a depth of more than 200 feet. It is expected to go through the remaining 300 feet of shale and coal layers at the rate of about 10 feet an hour. Meanwhile, a high-speed tunnel drill is still fighting through the dolomite. A third drill is making fast progress through the rock. After the holes are completed, food, water and medical supplies will be lowered to any survivors. A team of experts is sinking a shaft 12 feet across as an escape route.

Family Burned Out At Stanton

STANTON — Fire Friday afternoon destroyed the personal effects and furnishings of the Barth A. McDonald family. McDonald is a staff sergeant with the 3561st flight line maintenance squadron at Webb AFB in Big Spring. He and Mrs. Hedrick and their five children had been making their home here in the Ralph Hedrick place. Although all occupants escaped, they got out only with a small amount of clothing and limited amount of furniture. At Webb Air Force Aid and the Red Cross were alerted to move in and give assistance to the stricken family. Sgt. McDonald is a native of Riverton, W. Va., and came here in September of 1957. Mrs. McDonald is from Blanchard, Okla.

Police Checking Theft Of Motor

Police checked one theft report as the weekend began. A boat motor was taken from Dewey's Marine Supply. Yeggs cut a fence to gain entry to the yard. Police said the motor belonged to Harvey Hooser, who had left the motor for repairs.

Jack Rabbit Part Of Family

Buster, a pet jack rabbit of the Shep Neal family in Wichita Falls, takes his turn at the family television set. He will watch the tube for hours. Buster has been raised to refute an old claim that jack rabbits cannot live in a home in captivity. He was obtained from a farm last July when he was just a baby. He refused to eat, but Neal thrust an eyedropper filled with food into his mouth, squeezed and then rubbed Buster's throat to force him to swallow.

Pet Jackrabbit Thinks He's Part Of The Family

WICHITA FALLS (AP)—The Shep Neal's jackrabbit thinks he's kin-folk, or at least the family house-dog. Buster is a television fan and will park himself in front of the set or stretch out on the sofa and watch the tube for hours. He has his own sand box in the bathroom, takes an occasional nap on a bed or chair, and in general takes possession of the house as if he were a pampered resident, which in fact he is. Buster has been raised to refute an old claim that jackrabbits cannot live in a home in captivity. He was obtained from a farm last July when he was just a baby. He refused to eat, but Neal thrust an eyedropper filled with food into his mouth, squeezed and then rubbed Buster's throat to force him to swallow. "He is the craziest thing you ever saw," Neal says. "He is affectionate, mischievous and is worse than any cat or dog to devil you." From a sitting position, he will suddenly leap five or six feet straight up into the air as if on springs. When surprised, he will leap and perhaps do a couple of flips before he hits the floor. When Neal is taking a nap,

Lucky Pilot Defeats Death

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—"He was a fantastically lucky man," a physician said of Air Force Capt. Adam E. Tyra who emerged alive from the crash of a supersonic jet. The pilot today is in the Portland Air Force Base Hospital to undergo X-rays and further examination. Surgeon Ronald Rohlfing said Tyra suffered burns on his face and arm, possible internal injuries and possible fractures of the spine and knee. Tyra's F102A Delta Dagger went down Thursday. Tyra was knocked unconscious when the jet crashed on Davis Peak, 42 miles north of Portland. When he came to, he found the wreckage in flames. Tyra beat out the flames then crawled away from the jet. He spent Thursday night in a lean-to fashioned from a parachute. Friday he set out limping to find help. After two miles, he came upon an abandoned cabin. A logger who lives in the area found him there.

He is one of 22 Ford dealership representatives from West Texas who took part in the comprehensive five-day training program conducted by Charles F. Kelly of Ford division's Southwestern regional sales office in Dallas. Purpose of the course was to ground each thoroughly in the principles of fitting the proper truck to every transportation situation. Instruction included study of weight and load distribution problems and uses of trucks in specialized industries.

Gay Hill Adds To March Of Dimes

Gay Hill area residents added $120 to the March of Dimes campaign Friday night. A twin bill basketball game was held in the Gay Hill school, pitting the women against the girls' versus the boy's team. Besides the spirit of fun for the teams and spectators, the March of Dimes collection was made considerably richer.

THIS DAY IN TEXAS

By CURTIS BISHOP

On this day in 1936 J. E. Josey of Houston presented to the state the Huntsville house where Sam Houston had lived briefly and died. The odd-looking house was built by Dr. Rufus W. Bailey, president of Austin College. Dr. Bailey disliked the idea of having a home just like all the others in town and so modeled his after a Mississippi steamboat, with startling success. A two-story ginger-bread gallery surrounded the long, narrow structure, with outside stairways leading from one deck of the gallery to the other. The "saloon deck" upstairs housed the parlor, and the bedrooms resembled state-rooms. When Houston relinquished the governorship, rather than swear allegiance to the Confederacy, he moved back to Huntsville. The Raven had previously sold his Raven Hill plantation and his Huntsville residence and thus had to "house-hunt." Dr. Bailey meanwhile had died and his bizarre home was for rent; the House of Josey was born.

After its presentation to the state, the old house was moved to the campus of the Sam Houston State Teachers College. There it still stands, open to visitors.

Young Airman Is Held For Charge On Robbery Count

A 19-year-old Webb AFB airman was being held in city jail Saturday, pending charges for burglary and armed robbery. Police said a man burglarized the Quick Lunch Cafe, 200 Main, Friday night, taking a .32 caliber pistol. The gun was used in a robbery at the Wyoming Hotel. Officers said the airman took $41 from Mrs. George Kirkpatrick at the hotel about midnight. Patrolman Bob Dugan arrested him in the 1100 block of W. 3rd, a few minutes after the robbery was committed. Police said the man has signed statements concerning the burglary and robbery.

Concert Duo Win Audience With Ability, Coordination

The crowd was good and responsive and the music was highly enjoyable at the homecoming concert.

The occasion was the third in the Concert Association series, featuring the dual pianos of Charles Webb and Wallace Hornbrook. Webb was stationed until recently at Webb AFB, where he served as a lieutenant in special services. Hornbrook, as a long-time friend of Webb's, has visited here many times.

The concert artists gave their audience a short (one hour and a half) but varied program which demonstrated an uncanny ability of mutual coordination on their part.

Their selection, which was chosen on the spur of the moment, and dictated by a sense of audience likes, was taken from a large repertoire listed on the printed program. They leaned toward classical selections but injected some popular numbers, which were better than most so-called dinner music available on records, and rendered some improvisations at the end that would tax the ability of the best.

High points were "Danse Macabre," a St. Saens-Odgen Nash humor piece, and some "telephone" number impromptus as encores.

The phone pieces involved getting numbers called from the audience, whereupon the duo translated the numbers into notes of the scale and improvised piano orchestrations from them.

Even though they seem to think alike in musical terms, the players differ both in appearance and playing stance. Webb is blond, sits ramrod straight over the keyboard like a conductor over his orchestra. Hornbrook, brunet, bends over the keyboard like he means business.

Webb, while stationed here, organized the famed Webb chorals. He took part in civilian musical activities, also, organizing and conducting two massive oratorios with combined choirs. He met and married a local girl, Kendra McGibbon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. H. McGibbon. She had to register for both of them at Indiana U., where he is working on his doctorate in music, and couldn't attend. Webb recently joined the staff of the music department at Indiana. Hornbrook is director of the Crossroads Methodist Church in Phoenix, Ariz. He and Webb started in 1952 as accompanists for Fred Waring and have been a musical team since. They came here from a concert in Dallas and left to fill an engagement in Phoenix Sunday and Chicago on Monday.

Artists Have Troubles, But Also A Rare Skill

It's not often one runs across two pianists who mesh perfectly. Coordination in any field of music can be a trying thing, a fact which gives conductors their employ. But with pianists, considering the relative complexity of the keyboard, it's almost impossible without either a conductor, orchestra, or sheet music to guide the two players.

The acid test comes when there is no conductor, no sheet music, nothing but the two pianists' ability to read each other's minds, as they improvise on some simple theme.

Charles Webb and Wallace Hornbrook demonstrated in their concert here their ability to mesh, and their coordination became most obvious during the "telephone" numbers.

They took phone numbers called off from the audience, applied them to the scale to create a simple tune of five notes, read each others' minds, as it were, and proceeded to improvise the five notes into a fully orchestrated though brief piece of music.

Not even a booger like 4-7774 threw them ("That's a melody?" Charlie wanted to know). They turned those five notes into a sort of illegitimate version of a Strauss waltz.

One of Charlie's old numbers (4-2511), he said, sounded familiar. Webb AFB, where he was stationed for several years, if you didn't know.

Both have tried dual piano work with other partners, and in neither case did they mesh, although the other partners were also accomplished musicians.

With Wally living in Phoenix and Charlie at the University of Indiana, one might be puzzled over how they can manage such exact coordination on those few moments they do get together.

"We learn the music first," Wally explained, "and then we rehearse briefly. But it's like I said, we seem to think alike on music."

Charlie wandered off to greet the guests while Wally stood around and talked of everything from TV to sore fingers with the local music critic.

Yes, sore fingers. Wally has a skin condition which causes the skin on the tip of his right little finger to split, so that he has to tape it tightly to play. The tape slipped a bit during Friday evening's performance, but he played like a true trouper.

And Charlie had a sore toe. He was brushing his teeth Friday evening, just 20 minutes before concert time, when a scorpion curled its tail around his big toe and planted a haymaker.

Schantz Points To Choral Need

Ira Schantz and two members of his vocal ensemble at Howard County Junior College favored members of the American Business Club with several songs at the organization's regular luncheon Friday at the Settles Hotel.

Delores Howard and Bill Hensley each sang two solo numbers before Schantz himself terminated the musical part of the program with the number "All Day On The Prairie." Mrs. Douglass Wiehe accompanied the three at the piano.

Schantz also appealed to the gathering to encourage the formation of a vocal ensemble on the high school level here.

He said he believed that Big Spring High School was the largest school in the United States without such a group. He also stated that his job probably would not exist long unless singers with some kind of training were trained here in high school before they enrolled in the junior college.

"I certainly would not have continued the study of singing in college and would not be a singing instructor now," he commented, "unless there had been a vocal ensemble in training at Lubbock, my home town."

Introduced as new members of the club were Bobby McDonald and Byron Neal.

A total of 47 members attended the Friday luncheon.

Beneficial Blowup

Kathleen Soldan, Future Homemaker of America, bears down with a mighty effort to inflate balloons which other members of the chapter, as well as Tri-Hi-Y workers, sold Saturday. They also sold tinny plastic crutches which are a symbol of the March of Dimes campaign to raise funds to combat crippling diseases.

Members Do Work As Little Theatre Plant Shapes Up

The little theatre building is gradually taking shape. That is, as fast as two men can do the work in their spare time with only a few helpers on weekends.

Dewey Magee and Howard Brown have sparked the project along to the point where considerable help is needed to lighten their load as well as hurry the work along. Both men are spending almost all of their spare time in the building, with the moral support of their wives.

On weekends, a handful of others have shown up on occasion, but the Big Spring Civic Theatre membership has not turned out in force to help with the work.

Magee said the ceiling above the stage area will be raised about two feet. This work has started and it requires the construction of auxiliary beams to give the new ceiling support. New cement is also needed in some sections of the wall, where cracks admit the wind, rain and dust. Painting is being held up until the walls can be sufficiently repaired.

Last weekend, work crews gave up trying to vacuum the attic area and brought in the water hose. Magee said all the spiders and mice have been drowned, and work is easier without the clouds of dust that has been choking workers during the early work.

The BSCT theatre is sure to be a showplace among little theatre folk in West Texas. It matches its terrain, from an architectural viewpoint.

Directors will find the theatre considerably to their liking. It combines all the advantages of the conventional theatre with the dramatic effect of "in the round" productions. It is best described as "intimate" theatre.

This effect will be achieved largely due to the nearness of the audience. Front row seats are only inches from the stage area.

In all amateur theatre work, voice projection is one of the biggest problems. This will not be a problem in the BSCT building. A soft whisper on stage will easily be heard on the back row.

The so-called love scenes can be done as easily as in the films or on television.

Major Companies Face Long Anti-Trust Trial

TULSA (AP)—Twenty-nine major oil companies go to trial in Federal Court Monday on charges they violated anti-trust laws by plotting increases in oil and gasoline prices.

All indications are the non-jury trial will be a long one, perhaps two to six months.

The defendants include some of the nation's most prominent. One—Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey)—is rated the petroleum world's largest. Four of its affiliates also are accused.

So are such other industry titans as Sinclair, Standard Oil (Indiana), Cities Service, Phillips, Shell, Texaco, Socony, Gulf and Tidewater.

With the rest, they were indicted

May 29, 1958 at Alexandria, Va., by a federal grand jury which explored the case at intervals over 15 months.

The indictment charged specifically that sometime in 1956 and continuing through January, 1957, the firms conspired to fix, raise and stabilize prices of crude oil and automotive gasoline in 43 states.

That period covers the Suez Canal crisis, when the flow of most oil shipments from the Middle East's fields was halted.

In January, 1957, Humble Oil of Houston, a Jersey Standard affiliate, initiated a 35-cent-per-barrel raise for crude oil. The increase gradually spread but eventually subsided until 25 cents became the rule. A boost of about one cent a gallon in retail gasoline prices followed.

The government contends this country's oil stocks then were normal, gasoline supplies abundant and the public had no reason to expect a price hike. It claims also concerted action to bring about the increase was planned by some defendants, was invited by public statements and is evidenced by direct discussions between officials of the accused firms.

The defendants have denied any conspiracy. In general, they maintain increases resulted from competitive pressures induced by efforts to comply with a government request that western Europe be supplied with oil while Suez was closed.

Domestic Oil Operations Expected To Be Off Pace

HOUSTON (AP)—Oil and gas drilling operations in the United States in 1960 are expected to fall short of the pace set by the rest of the free world.

Industry surveys indicate this year's domestic operations will be less than two per cent above 1959. This increase in other free world areas is estimated at just under five per cent.

Sharp increases in such areas as Africa, Mexico and Argentina are expected to erase another cut-back in Venezuela operations and a continued decline in the Middle East.

The 1960 drilling program in Venezuela, second leading producing nation in the world, is expected to be over 23 per cent below 1959 and about 53 per cent below 1958. World Oil forecasts only 500 wells will be drilled in Venezuela this year, compared to last year's 700 and some 1,191 in 1958.

Despite lagging in the rate of increase, United States operations will continue to dwarf other areas. World Oil Magazine estimates 49,029 wells will be drilled in the United States this year, compared to last year's 48,328. The forecast for other free world areas is 8,042 wells, compared to 7,670 in 1959.

The modest U.S. gain in drilling is attributed to an anticipated increase of about four per cent in demand.

Unfavorable market conditions are being blamed for another sharp cutback in Venezuelan operations and the continued decline in the Middle East.

The 1960 drilling program in Venezuela, second leading producing nation in the world, is expected to be over 23 per cent below 1959 and about 53 per cent below 1958. World Oil forecasts only 500 wells will be drilled in Venezuela this year, compared to last year's 700 and some 1,191 in 1958.

Boost In Capacity

Cosden Petroleum Corporation's Big Spring polystyrene unit is producing molding compounds for the plastics industry. Tall towers in the background are part of Cosden's famous styrene monomer unit, built by Badger, which is now being tripled in capacity.

Cosden Boosts Position In Petrochemical Market

Cosden Petroleum Corp. will strengthen its position in the fast-growing petrochemical market with the erection of facilities to triple its styrene capacity, Dan M. Krause, senior vice president, has disclosed. Styrene is an important chemical building block for synthetic rubber and plastics.

The multi-million-dollar project, including two major process units, was forecast by President R. L. Tollett in his report of operations for the six months ended Oct. 31, 1959. It will expand Cosden's styrene capacity to 60,000,000 pounds annually when completed late this year.

Contract for the design, engineering and construction of the engineering and construction of the additional facilities for styrene monomer production and this country's first Alkar Unit, has been awarded to Badger Manufacturing Co., Cambridge, Mass.

This brings together again the two-company team that created Cosden's first styrene production unit. This was the famous "Styrene from Gasoline" plant completed in February, 1957. It is recognized today in the process industries as a unique construction.

Cosden is licensing the process throughout the world.

The additional ethylbenzene required for the styrene unit will be furnished by the Alkar Unit. This will utilize Universal Oil Product

Co.'s process for ethylbenzene manufacture through catalytic alkylation of benzene with ethylene. Ethylbenzene is the precursor for styrene. Since all of the ethylbenzene available at Cosden's Big Spring refinery is presently being recovered and converted to styrene, this expansion program required a new source. UOP's Alkar was the answer.

The Alkar process, announced by UOP last May, uses a fixed bed catalyst system that gives complete conversion of low purity ethylene found in the residue gas of a cracking unit. Benzene will be supplied from Cosden's BTX Unit, which was its first petrochemical venture in 1952.

Since June, 1958, when the polystyrene unit went into operation, Cosden has been supplying molding compounds to the plastics industry. A unique distribution system was introduced in which the polystyrene in pellet form is shipped directly to the customer's plant in bulk trailers or rail hopper cars. A pneumatic unloading system quickly discharges the product into the customer's bins where it can be conveyed directly to the molding machines.

Cosden is one of seven domestic producers of styrene monomer and has set a new standard of purity with its product. Krause pointed out that all of Cosden's increased production has been committed in long-term sales contracts, or to its own requirements.

Record Low Reported In Working Rig Count

Working drilling rigs in the Permian Basin dropped to a new low last week, losing the ground gained the previous week.

The count Friday, according to the Reed Roller Bit Co., was 253. This was 10 less than the 263 totaled the week before and five less than the 258 noted Jan. 15.

The survey includes only those rotary operations that are actually making hole on the day of the count.

In the immediate eight county area, a three rig increase was noted for the week. There were 24 rigs in the ground Friday, compared with 21 on the previous count.

Lea County, N.M., still leads the Basin area with 34, just four more than Andrews County.

Counties included in the weekly survey, with previous totals in parentheses, include:

WHEN YOU
THRIFT

Thrift, a welcome traveling companion, steps in when you select the revolutionary Corvair.

The economy begins with the compact Corvair's initial low cost, and every mile you drive is money in the pocket. Your gas dollars will now go farther... because the Corvair delivers miles and miles per gallon. And when you change oil, the refill is only four quarts.

Because of Corvair's low weight (1,335 pounds less than conventional cars) and extra-low price, you'll realize added savings in many states in licensing and insurance costs.

When winter comes, just let it. Corvair's air-cooled six-cylinder engine runs forever on antifreeze you can forget about leaks and worn hoses.

Important as economy is, it tells only part of Corvair's glad story. It is a delight to handle and you couldn't ask for a smoother ride.

The aluminum engine in the rear supplies willing power to the rear wheels, giving superior traction when it's needed most. (Transmission parts and rear axle drive gears are neatly contained in a single compact unit.)

As you glide along, you'll marvel at how easily the Corvair steers (no power assistance needed there) and the sure braking action front and rear. That's the payoff on precise weight distribution.

Corvair makes parking a cinch.

You'll find yourself tucking it into spaces you never looked at twice before. There's room enough inside for six adults and the floor is practically flat for remarkable comfort. A wonderfully handy folding rear seat makes it virtually a station sedan.

There's really nothing quite like the ride you get in the Corvair. Independent suspension at every wheel, Corvair's "spring quartet," wafts you over bumps with featherly ease. Engine noise and heat are largely left behind you. (The engine's in the rear, you know.) For coziness in cold weather Corvair has a fast, efficient aircraft type heater.

And the Corvair is as pleasing to the eye as it is to the pocketbook. Its singular styling is new from the road up. Interiors are sprucely tailored with two-tone upholstery of patterned cloth and vinyl. Exteriors are available in nine solid colors and seven two-tones.

We modestly submit, and are certain you'll agree, the Corvair is the product of inspired precision engineering—the compact car you'll recognize as the one you've been waiting for.

Why don't you have your Chevrolet dealer introduce you to Corvair today? *Optional air seat.

Industry Said Key To Texas Welfare

AUSTIN (AP) — The Bureau of Business Research said Saturday that Texas industrialization must be pushed with all speed or pending oil and farm problems may hold back the state's economic growth.

The report on the business situation in Texas by the University of Texas agency said Texas is bearing the brunt of domestic oil production cutbacks because it is the largest producer.

"It is clear that 1959 was a record year in business activity in the state for many lines," the report said. "It was not a record year for oil producers. Certain chronic problems of the oil industry require solution."

"In view of the problems of the oil and farm sections of the state's economy, it is essential that industrialization be pushed forward with all speed. Otherwise, an unnecessary lag in economic growth will result."

Total business activity in the state showed an average growth of 11 per cent above 1958, setting another record year.

Crude oil production in December was 6 per cent above November but 7 per cent below December of last year. The total year-end crude production figure was 942 million barrels.

"While Texas producers tighten their belts in order to reduce excessive crude inventories, some other states made no comparable contribution to solving the problem of temporary overproduction. What is needed is a program of proration in all states which will spread the burden," the report said. "At present only five producing states have state proration. Texas has been traditionally the state that bore the brunt of cutbacks because it was the largest producer. This cannot continue indefinitely."

The report said Texas oil problems are "an indication of the difficulties involved when a single state tries to serve as a balance wheel to the industry."

The report said crude runs to stills in Texas were up one per cent in December and were two per cent over December, 1958. "Stocks of refined products are still high. Unless runs are kept down, more price weakness will result," the report said.

Old Border Fort Still A Showplace

RIO GRANDE CITY (AP) — Old Ft. Ringgold, where the cavalry moved out to protect the Texas frontier, is more than 110 years old.

Still a show spot, the 343-acre tract on which the buildings stand touches Highway 83 on the eastern edge of this town and is easy to find.

The Fort, established by Capt. J. J. Lamotte October 26, 1848, at Davis Landing, a steamboat stop on the Rio Grande, was named after Maj. David Ringgold, who died of his wounds at the Battle of Palo Alto during the Mexican War.

Establishment of the fort greatly influenced development of Starr County, formed the same year, with Rio Grande City as the county seat.

Three years after it was founded the fort consisted of a few comfortable frame houses half a mile below Rio Grande City, where life could be rugged. Mrs. Egbert Viole, wife of a young cavalry officer stationed there about that time, accompanied him to his post and later said:

"At one period, which I shall never forget, the quartermaster's supplies were reduced to moldy flour and rancid pork. A long drought had lowered the river, so as to render it un navigable, and had parched the country, making it more than usually sterile and unproductive."

"The steamboat with the monthly supplies could not get up the river. Even frioles became scarce, and butter, milk and bread were unknown to us for weeks. At last the news arrived that the Corvette was a few miles down the river, stuck on a sandbar."

Two men rode down and brought some supplies, but shortage of food was not the only thing that bothered her.

"Under most favorable circumstances the food was flavored with red ants. They tasted something like caraway seed, and were not as disagreeable as the novice might suppose. . . . The butter was almost unpalatable from its soft liquid appearance. It came from cows and goats, promiscuously milked in the same pail."

She concluded that the vermin, the famine, the hot winds and dry soil almost made her think that to have remained in New Orleans and kept a thread and needle store would have been more judicious than to accompany her husband to Texas.

The old fort later was landscaped with tree-lined drives and streets; well-kept, massive stucco homes which formerly were officers quarters and now are occupied by Rio Grande City School faculty members and their families; and vast stretches of green lawns.

In the center is the parade ground where Starr County residents customarily terminate political rallies and other parades. On January 23, 1948, the federal government relinquished control of the historic old fort to the Rio Grande City Independent School District, which gave the Federal Works Agency a check for $206,889 for the property.

Patton is a graduate of Big Spring high school and also attended Howard County Junior College. He received his degree in Lubbock at mid-term.

He plans to do graduate work at the University of Washington. He is married and has one young-ster, Kathy, 14 months old.

Ladies Find Jury Duty Novelty Is Wearing Thin

DALLAS (AP) — The ladies apparently have decided that the novelty of jury service has worn thin. C. A. Maxwell, bailiff for the Dallas central jury room, notes that about 60 per cent of the jurors in county and district courts during 1958 were women. Then it dropped to 40 per cent last year. And the decrease in number of female jurors is expected to continue, said Maxwell.

Women began serving on juries in 1955 after an amendment passed by the Legislature in 1954. For the first years after the suffrage act women anxiously responded to jury summonses for the chance to sit in on a trial court.

They waived their exemption, Maxwell said, to exercise the newly-won right. But now many women who have already served once are acting like many men. They're avoiding jury service if they reasonably can. Most women, Maxwell said, are exempted because they have children under the age of 15.

Purple Felled By Texas Tech

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—Texas Tech battled from a 13-point deficit at halftime Saturday night to defeat Texas Christian, 75-66, in an overtime Southwest Conference basketball game.

Del Ray Mounts amassed 26 points and Gene Arrington scored 25 to pace the Raiders in the battle for fifth place in conference standings.

Both teams were below average from the floor. Tech shot 39 per cent to TCU's 38 per cent. TCU held a slight rebound margin, 39-37.

Bucs Hammer Mich. State

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio State, scoring its highest point total ever, buried Michigan State under an avalanche of baskets Saturday en route to a 111-79 Big Ten victory.

The Buckeyes, atop the conference standings with a 5-0 mark, opened up a 57-42 halftime advantage and coasted. It was the worst Big Ten setback ever for Michigan State.

Jerry Lucas, Ohio's sophomore phenom, whipped in 25 points despite a bronchial ailment that kept the 6-foot-8 center out of the contest for more than 10 minutes.

But Michigan State's Horace Walker garnered 27 to lead all scorers. The loss evened the Spartans' Big Ten record at 3-3. The smaller Spartans were no match for the Bucks but kept with in striking distance until about the 15-00 minute mark of the second half.

Ohio State led at that point, 69-59 but out scored the Michigan team 30-10 in the next 10 minutes to make it a rout.

Shreveport Lad Tourney Leader

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Young Johnny Pott shot a 6-under-par 68 to take a one-stroke lead over veteran Mike Souchak Saturday in third round play of the $20,000 San Diego Open Golf Tournament.

The 24-year-old expectant father from Shreveport, La., showed no sign of nervousness as he birdied seven holes for a 32-34-66 over the 6,716-yard Mission Valley Country Club course.

Pott, with a 201 third round total, was one stroke up on Souchak, who shot a 34-33-67.

Pott and Souchak, of Grossinger, N.Y., cashed in on their distance hitting. They two-putted for birds on three of the course's four par-five holes.

Five players were bunched at 205, four strokes back of Pott. They were Billy Casper Jr. of Apple Valley, Calif.; Arnold Palmer, Ligonier, Pa.; Art Wall Jr., Pocomo Manor, Pa.; Bob Goalby, Crystal River, Fla., and Allen

Two More Signed To Dallas Pact

DALLAS (AP)—Mel Branch, a member of the "Chinese Bandits" State football team, and Dick Jamieson, quarterback at Bradley in 1956, were signed Saturday by Dallas of the American Football League.

Branch, 215-pounder, played end on defense and tackle on offense last season. Jamieson, who is attending Southern Methodist University, left Bradley after the 1956 season for professional baseball with Pittsburgh. He was drafted by Philadelphia of the National Football League in 1959 and was on the roster of both the Eagles and the Baltimore Colts last season although he did not play.

The "Chinese Bandits" were the unit that played defense for Louisiana State. They were named by Coach Paul Dietzel from a comic strip.

Favored First Landing Wins $166,490 Event

By BOB MYERS ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Favored First Landing beat back the challenge of Bagdad in the drive to the wire Saturday and survived a claim of foul to capture the $166,490 Santa Anita maturity.

Jockey Eddie Arcaro drove the 4-year-old pride of Kentucky across to win the $80,000 net purse by half a length over Bagdad, with Linnold third.

The official result was delayed several minutes when jockey Don Pierce on Linnold lodged a claim of foul on Arcaro.

It was disallowed. The time was a fast 2:00 3/5 for the mile and one-quarter struggle, unrecalled before 30,087 fans.

Bagdad, owned by Howard Keck and ridden by Willie Shoemaker, was the second betting choice to Christopher T. Cheney's First Landing. He led Linnold, owned by L. I. Nelson, by 2 1/2 lengths.

Pierce claimed Arcaro bore over on him approaching the sixteenth pole. But a glance at the race film indicated it was Shoemaker who did the booting.

Tomy Lee, 1959 Kentucky Derby winner, after building up a healthy lead in the early stages of the race, faded and finished a well-beaten seventh.

The victory was great consolation for First Landing, who ran third to Tomy Lee and Sword Dancer in the Kentucky Derby last spring.

First landing paid $6.80, $3 and $2.60.

Buffaloes Win Over Ari. St.

CANYON, Tex. (AP) — West Texas State defeated Arizona State University, 87-84, Saturday night to remain undefeated in the Border Conference basketball race.

The Buffaloes, now 2-0 in league play, took a commanding lead late in the second half. They were ahead 78-66 with five minutes to play but Arizona cut it to one point in the last 20 seconds.

Two free throws by Gene King with four seconds left clinched the game for West Texas. King was high man with 25 points, Milt Fitts and Jim Curtisinger of the Buffs had 23 and 22 points respectively. Al Nealey led Arizona State with 24 points.

Farlow Low In Seniors

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Charles Farlow of Greensboro, N.C., carded a two-over-par 74 for his third round in the PGA Seniors Golf Tournament Saturday to retain the two stroke lead he held at the halfway point. His three round total is 212.

The runner-up at the three-quarter point in the 72-hole tournament over the 6,609-yard National PGA course, was a different man, Charles Sheppard of Highland Park, Ill. second after the first two rounds, with 140 to Farlow's 138, soared to a 78 Saturday for a 218 total.

Dick Metz of New Orleans jumped into the runnerup spot by carding a 73 to add to his 141 total of the first two rounds for a 214.

Paul Runyan of La Jolla, Calif., in the 146 bracket at the halfway point, carded a snappy 70 to jump into third place at 216, one stroke ahead of defending champion Willie Goggin of Coyote, Calif., and Tony Longo of Clark's Summit, Pa. Longo is low among the 55 and over age group.

Eighteen players go into the final round Sunday with scores of 72 or better.

Board Withholds Final Decision On A Coach

The Big Spring school board interviewed two applicants for the local coaching job in a meeting spaced over four hours Saturday afternoon but delayed a decision on a final choice.

Johnny Hickman, head coach of Levelland, and Bob Bodenhamer, who fills a similar position at Lawton, Okla., were the men interviewed Saturday.

Each underwent extensive questioning and Parsons said each made a favorable impression on the trustees.

Emmett McKenzie, head coach at Nederland High School, was interviewed earlier in the week and it is assumed that he, too, is in the running for the job.

McKenzie's appearance was mentioned several times at Saturday's session, always in a favorable light.

Harold Talbot, a member of the board, expressed the sentiments of the board when he said he believed the trustees couldn't go wrong in picking any one of the three men.

All members of the board were present, although Clyde McMahon had to leave early to attend his son's wedding and Dan Krausse dismissed himself not long after Hickman arrived for the interview because he was leaving town.

Bodenhamer was accompanied here by his wife, Ila. The two stayed overnight at the Sands Motel and were to return to Lawton this morning.

Hickman planned to go back to Levelland Saturday night.

The trustees generally agreed that the salary of the new coach would be in the vicinity of $8,500 to $8,750, that a three-year contract would be offered and the new man, who ever he might be, could bring an assistant coach with him, if he so desired.

Both Nederland and Levelland are Class AAA schools in the Texas Interscholastic League setup. Lawton competes in the top bracket of Oklahoma high schools, Class AA.

McKenzie piloted the Nederland team to the AAA championship his first year at the helm three years ago. Hickman's clubs have won the district title three consecutive seasons. Bodenhamer's Lawton team won eight and lost two last year and finished fourth in the statewide AP poll.

LOOKING 'EM OVER With Tommy Hart

Larry McCulloch, the Odessa JC basketball mentor, must figure he's snake-bit when playing Buddy Travis' teams at home. Travis was coach at Clarendon JC last year and his cracker-jack outfit beat McCulloch's Wranglers in the final two seconds of play, the only time they led during the game. Travis, of course, is now HCJC mentor and his Jayhawks last week beat Odessa by one point with a basket made in the final seven seconds by Jimmy Evans. Jackie Thomas, the local youth who is in a baseball school at Kissimmee, Fla., was treated by Gus Mauch, the trainer for the New York Yankees, when he was stricken with a strep throat recently. Jackie missed three workouts. Whizzer White, the former University of Colorado football great, is now a corporation lawyer in Denver. You'd best think twice if you're planning to go to Rome for the 1960 Olympic Games. The traffic will be impossible, the prices outrageous, housing impossible and the city unlivable. Tax proceeds from soccer helped Rome build part of the arenas for the 1960 Games. Ford Frick, the baseball commissioner, is trying to decide what to do with the case of a name baseball player who was recently picked up in a raid on a bookie joint. A boy the Odessa JC basketball team added at mid-term, Dave Kaminski of Gary, Ind., should give the Wranglers a big boost in the stretch run of the West Zone basketball race. A seven-foot Elgin (Chicago) basketball player named George Clark says he may not even play the sport in college. Tom Gola, once hailed as the greatest college basketball player of all time, has never been named to a pro all-star team. Since Bud Wilkinson became head football coach at Oklahoma, the Sooners have never played to less than 35,000 fans at a home game. Some of the best students at HCJC are basketball players. Tom Garrison, the 6-9 sophomore from Tulla, made three A's on a recent report card. Forest Evashevski, the Iowa football mentor, once appeared before a football rally on his campus and recited this bit of verse: "For when the One Great Scorer comes to write against your name: He marks not that you won or lost, but how you got gyped at Notre Dame."

Carl C. Hinkle Jr., the deputy chief of Personnel Services Division, Headquarters USAF, who stopped in here the past week, intimated he might have tried pro football. He had the offer made by the Philadelphia Eagles been a little more flattering. Hinkle had been named to the All-American team as a center in 1957, while performing for Vanderbilt University. The Eagles weren't paying more than $5,000 for rookie linemen at the time, however, so Hinkle turned to the military for a career and has never had cause to regret it. He's had three coaching tenures, however, one of which served as an assistant to Earl Blaik. College football scouts will tell you that there are fewer top-drawer prospects than usual in West Texas this spring. San Angelo High School will pay its new head track coach, Chuck Smith, $5,600 a year. Oliver Jackson, the ACC mentor, was one of those who gave Smith a strong recommendation. Indications are the District 2-AAAA schools will vote a 7:30 starting hour for the football games next fall. Athletic directors meeting here the past week reacted favorably to the suggestion but took no action on the matter. A Cleveland baseball fan who is suing the Indians for injuries he allegedly received when he slipped on a paper cup at a home game last season accused the team and a vending company for "negligence in failing to provide a safe place to walk, to keep the aisles clean, to warn of debris and TO WIN THE PENNANT." Emmet McKenzie, the Nederland coach who came in here last week to make inquiries about the local job, studied geology in college but liked coaching so much once he got into it he decided to stick with it. He served as an assistant to Bum Phillips, the present coach at Amarillo High School, for six years before he accepted the head job at Nederland. Bob Bodenhamer, another of the candidates for the local post, grew up in Waurika, Oklahoma.

George May scorched for policy. Roy Baird, the local baseball coach, has lined up practice games between his Steers and Lubbock's two high schools, Monterey and Tom S. Lubbock, but the dates haven't been set. If memory serves me correctly, Big Spring High School last beat Odessa High in basketball here Jan. 7, 1951, and then by a score of 50-43. Larry McCulloch was coach at the time and he used only five players in the game. They were Bobby Gross, Bobby Maines, Ross Word, Charley Warren and Bobby Hayworth. That's why the 71-63 win the Steers managed over the Bronchos here last week was so sweet. Plainview replaces Dallas Samuelli on the San Angelo football schedule next season. The Bobcats also have non-conference jousts with Brownwood, Corpus Christi Ray, San Antonio Thomas Jefferson and El Paso Austin. The Russians will send 115 men and women to the Winter Olympics next month and expect to win at least six gold

Ingo Issued Another Cup

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Heavyweight boxing champion Ingemar Johansson had another trophy for shipment home in today after being honored as the 1959 athlete of the year.

The 27-year-old slugger, who stunned the boxing world last June by knocking out Floyd Patterson for the title, was presented the Fraternal Order of Eagles-Frederick C. Miller Trophy Friday night before a crowd of more than 500.

Johansson is only the second fighter to be voted athlete of the year honors since The Associated Press began its annual year-end poll in 1931.

Ingemar said he intends to make his first title defense in June and hopes to line up an opponent soon because he feels he needs four months to prepare for a fight. He listed Patterson as the most logical contender and indicated he would prefer New York again as the site.

Maria Bueno of Brazil, the Wimbledon and U.S. national tennis queen voted 1959 female athlete of the year honors in the AP poll, was competing in Australia and unable to appear to accept her award. She will be presented a trophy later.

Oakland Is Given Franchise In AFL

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Oakland, Calif., was awarded the eighth franchise in the American Football League Saturday.

The California city was picked to fill out the fledgling professional football league by the unanimous vote of the seven founding cities, Commissioner Joe Foss announced.

Oakland was selected after five days of meetings during which Atlanta was the first choice. But the votes swung overnight in favor of Oakland, which plans to use either Candlestick Park or Kezar Stadium in nearby San Francisco.

Placing the last franchise in Oakland means that the American Football League will have competing clubs in four National Football League cities — New York, Los Angeles, Dallas and San Francisco.

Atlanta was leading when the league recessed its meeting Friday so Foss could go to Milwaukee to make a speech.

Byron Hilton, owner of the Los Angeles franchise, returned Friday afternoon and apparently was the reason for the change in the vote that was said to be 5-2 in favor of Atlanta. Hilton has advocated taking in Oakland because he thinks it will furnish a natural rivalry for his Los Angeles club.

Other AFL teams are Houston, Buffalo, Boston and Denver.

Grid Problems To Be Aired

By SKIPPER PATRICK
KANSAS CITY (AP) — Missouri Valley Conference athletic authorities met Sunday in the middle of the basketball season to talk football. The meeting could decide whether football will remain a part of the conference's championship program.

to go through with football championship competition "even if it was to designate one of Wichita's non-conference opponents as a game to be counted in the standings." That was the case in 1957 when North Texas State joined the conference and had not had time to fit its football schedule into the round-robin.

Commissioner Norvall Neve expressed confidence "there will be a Missouri Valley championship in 1960." The meeting, he added, will discuss "a number of things."

Houston's action could affect Valley basketball in which the conference has the nation's No. 1 and 2 teams, Cincinnati and Bradley.

It was provoked a week ago when the University of Houston announced a football schedule for this coming season which does not include the University of Wichita. Both are conference members.

Commitments made by Houston with other conference members regarding the basketball schedule for next season also will be considered by the faculty representatives and athletic directors. Houston, too, is scheduled to be host to the Valley's championship tennis meet in May.

Both are conference members. This leaves both teams one game shy of the four necessary to qualify for the league football title.

One course close to the situation commented that a number of members of the conference are in favor of "calling Houston's hand" whether it plans to remain in the league or get out. And by remaining in, they mean participating on a championship basis in all sports.

Neve said he expects the Valley

Members of the conference—and there have been 21 different ones since 1908—are Cincinnati, Bradley, Tulsa, Wichita, St. Louis, Drake, Houston and North Texas State. Everybody competes for all titles except in football.

St. Louis doesn't have a football team. Drake and Bradley play football but do not compete for the conference title.

Presiding over the meeting here will be Dean Ralph C. Bursiek of Cincinnati, president of the conference. The other faculty members are Dr. Philip Becker Jr., Bradley; Frank Gardner, Drake; Dr. Franklin Stovall, Houston; Dr. A. Witt Blomb, North Texas State; Rev. C. L. Sanderson, St. Louis; Dr. George Small, Tulsa; and Dr. James K. Souts, Wichita.

Odessa won the B game, handily defeating the Bob reserves their first defeat of the season. Final score was 65-57.

CHRANE

L. D. "Blondy" Chrane has the spirit that is typical of the YMCA workers who pushed the membership campaign over its goal last week to the highest point in the history of the organization here.

Chrane rounded up 22 members himself and urged his team to collect a total of 58. He has been a member of the YMCA since it was located on Main St., so long ago only the old-timers can remember it. And each one of those years, he has stepped up to give a hand wherever it was needed.

He has served as a vice-president of the organization and has been captain of the volley-ball team.

Blondy takes time away from his dental laboratory business "to work on everything they ask me to." And everyone in the campaign admits he has a lot of energy to expend for worthwhile activities.

Blondy is also a member of the ABC Club and of the Knights of Pythias lodge. He has lived in Big Spring since 1940.

Base Radio Team Rounds Out Its First Year On Air

"May the skies above your house be as blue as heavenly possible, and as free as the Air Force can keep them."

With this motto, "Sarge 'n Marge" close their popular radio show each week. It has just rounded out a year on the air. T. Sgt. Dewey Magee and Mrs. Marjorie Brown, both of the Webb AFB Information Office, put the show together for a relaxed 30-minute program of music and news about Air Force happenings each week.

The show originated in radio station KBST a year ago when the information office had for a short period an extra man experienced in radio. After his transfer, the show was taken up by Sgt. Magee and Mrs. Brown, who besides being a Civil Service Information Office employee, is also wife of Air Force M. Sgt. Howard A. Brown Jr. The Webb show can be heard at 6-6:30 p.m. on Thursdays on KBST.

The program is aired on Friday morning at 6:30-7 a.m. on station KBYG, to catch Webb people who go to work at that time. Friday afternoon at 4:30 p.m. on station KHEM, the same news items are used but different music chosen. This time is also good for Webb listeners because they are driving home from their week's work.

News items are gathered weekly by the office of information and are usually written in newspaper style when Sarge 'n Marge go on the air. The program is presented by the officers, airmen and employes of Webb and the "Building is art, but not for art's sake." "Job to put it together economically and esthetically." "Design may involve locale as well as materials."

Building Involves Art But For Very Practical Reasons

(This is another in a series of stories about the people who are helping in building in Big Spring.)

By V. GLENN COOTES
"A building should be a work of art, but should not be constructed just for art's sake."

With these words, Daryle Hohertz, discussed architecture as a matter of esthetics.

A house that is built as a part of a project comes from plans designed to suit a large number of people, he explained. Such a house will supply most of the needs of most people.

"These homes will be less expensive, than if the person selects an architect," he said.

WANTS AND NEEDS
Blending wants with needs, as well as with location and materials, casts the architect in a key planning role. Besides conventional materials, there are many new treatments of standard items along with developments in ceramics, plastic, glass, concrete. The architect fits into the development picture by counseling with the owner, by getting materials into a building economically and esthetically. Thus, architectural design is not for an average, but rather for a specific individual or a specific need.

Hohertz estimates that less than 10 per cent of the houses in Big Spring are designed by architects. Much of the remainder is taken from standard plans available at a considerable less cost than the architect's fee. Some folks plan their own houses.

UNIQUE TREATMENT
Like others in his field he has had a hand in numerous construction projects, both commercial and residential. Perhaps an example of how design enters into a specific situation is the Connie Edwards home on Westover Road. Perched on the side of the mountain, the structure was turned to steel and glass emphasis, said Hohertz. The location and design will call for a variety of other interesting and unique materials. A similar inter-play of locale and materials is going into the master plan for the Towncliff shopping center at Marcy Drive and Birdwell Lane.

Hohertz studied architecture almost as an afterthought. He was taking various art courses at North Texas State College with the career objective of commercial art. Included in his studies were some drafting courses and these sparked his interest in buildings.

It was a short step from there into architecture. He received his Bachelor of Architecture degree from the University of Texas.

His community activities, other than his work, include an interest in many local projects. He was a team captain in the successful

YMCA membership drive and one of the captains breaking his quota. He is also a member of the Jaycees and was recently selected for the Master Plan Steering Committee.

Seek Teachers For Overseas

Superintendents of overseas Air Force schools are now campaigning through 35 cities, interviewing teachers for positions in schools operated by the Air Force outside the continental U. S.

Of the many interviewed, the best qualified are selected to fill vacancies in the 85 schools. School officials expect to recruit between 700-800 teachers for the Sept. 1960 school year.

The Air Force hires about 2,000 teachers a year to instruct its more than 50,000 boys and girls attending elementary and secondary grades. And although teachers are hired for a minimum of one year, many stay on for two or more years, taking advantage of the cultural and educational opportunities in foreign countries.

Candidates for these positions must be at least 23 years old and have at least two years' experience. Basic pay starts at $4,350 for the school year, with additional pay for advanced degrees. Interviews in this area are being conducted at Kelly AFB in San Antonio.

Washable Screens Good Room Dividers

Some people use screens or book-cases as room dividers. Others achieve unusual effects with softly draped fabrics.

If you belong to the latter school—or would like to join the class—here's a homemaker tip: Make that fabric divider a washable one!

That way, housecleaning will be a snap instead of an explosion. With soap or detergent suds, you can wash new life back into the decor of your room. Furthermore, if the fabric is a modern synthetic, chances are no ironing will be necessary.

For Soups

You can buy chick peas in cans in many food markets. They're delicious added to vegetable soups made with stock as a base. They won't do much for a creamstyle vegetable soup!

Modern Forum Gives Westside Center Party

About 100 children were entertained at the Westside Recreation Center Friday afternoon, when members of the Modern Woman's Forum were hostesses for a Valentine party.

Games were directed by Mrs. W. E. Frichard, supervisor of the center, and prizes were awarded to winners. Favors for the guests were Valentines.

Tiny Washables

Now your tiny infant can have slipper socks just like his big brothers and sisters. Made of nylon, with knit tops and tricot soles, they are completely washable—even the cute animal applique—and they keep little feet warm and comfortable while baby plays in his crib.

The refreshment table was covered with a colorful cloth decorated with hearts and other symbols of Valentine Day; an arrangement of red and white carnations centered the table.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. T. G. Adams, Mrs. R. L. Warren, Mrs. Felton Smith, Mrs. Hugh Duncan, Mrs. E. R. Wood, Mrs. M. A. Cook, Mrs. W. A. Laswell and Mrs. L. N. Lawson, a guest.

MRS. CLYDE McMAHON JR.

Carol Letcher Becomes Bride Of C. McMahon Jr. Saturday

Before an altar banked with greenery, Carol Letcher became the bride of Clyde McMahon Jr. Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

A wrought iron arch was decked with white pompon mums for the double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. John Black Jr., pastor of the First Christian Church, where the nuptial was read.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Letcher, 1701 Kentucky Way. Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McMahon Sr., 908 Mountain Park, are parents of the bridegroom.

Miss Letcher, escorted down the aisle by her father, wore a long-sleeved white satin gown of semi-formal length. The lace yoke came to points over the shoulders and in front; lace applique circles the full skirt. Miss Letcher wore a shoulder-length veil of illusion.

An orchid, showered with lilies of the valley, was carried atop a white Bible by the new Mrs. McMahon.

Her mother's watch was worn as the bride followed the tradition of something old. Her dress was new; the veil borrowed, and she wore a blue garter, that had been made for her by a close friend, Mrs. R. E. Dupuy of Midland.

ATTENDANTS

Serving as matron of honor was Mrs. Buddy Mayes of El Paso, while Barbara Betty, of Perryton, was maid of honor.

The duet was dressed identically in full-skirted tulle dresses. They wore matching green shallow cloche hats, and carried chollon bouquets of flowers in harmonizing colors.

Clyde McMahon Sr. was his son's best man, while groomsmen was Johnny Moore of Cleburne. Dan Brenner of Dallas and Jim Farmar were ushers. The male attendants are fraternity brothers of the bridegroom.

Music was provided by organist Julie Rainwater and soloist Mrs. Jim Owens of Midland. Mrs. Owens sang The Lord's Prayer and The Wedding Prayer.

Parents, the bride and bridegroom, and attendants greeted guests at the reception held in the parlor of the First Christian Church.

TABLE SETTING

White carnations entwined in a three tiered candelabra centered the white net over satin-covered table. An all-white three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Registering the guests was Linda Kay Bodine of Midland, a cousin of the bride. Mrs. A. T. Broadwell and LaVonne Broadwell of Roswell, N. M., served.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Mitchell of Lubbock; Ann Cunningham and Ann Fields of Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Click of Hereford, and Mrs. Opal Dickson of Lubbock.

New Orleans is the wedding trip destination of the new Mr. and Mrs. McMahon. For the trip the bride wore a navy blue silk sheath, navy blue suede shoes and purse. Her gloves were white and she wore a white satin hat. A white orchid from her bridal bouquet was taken as her corsage.

Mrs. McMahon attended Texas Tech until this January, mid-term. She is a junior elementary education major.

McMahon, a senior at the University of Texas, is majoring in industrial management. He is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity. Both plan to continue their studies at the University of Texas.

Sewing Club Will Host MOD Coffee

At a meeting of the Eager Beaver Sewing Club Friday afternoon, the group planned a coffee to be given for the March of Dimes. Mrs. R. I. Findley was hostess for the club.

Slated for Wednesday morning from 8:30 to 11 p.m., the coffee will be given in the home of Mrs. Findley, 1810 Owens. The public is invited to attend, and the early hour was designated for the benefit for working people who wish to come by the party before going to work.

Nine were present Friday afternoon, with Mrs. R. H. Bunting as a guest.

Mrs. John Freeman, 2110 Johnson, will be hostess for the next regular meeting, Friday at 2 p.m.

Stuffed Eggs

For half a dozen hard-boiled eggs to be stuffed, mash the yolks with a quarter cup of mayonnaise-type salad dressing, half a teaspoon of dry mustard and salt and pepper to taste. The sharp tines of a kitchen fork will "flute" the stuffing after it has been piled back into the egg-white cavities.

MRS. CARLOS GENE GRIGG

Forsan Church Is Scene Of Grigg-Shoultz Rite

FORSAN — Kneeling on a white satin prie dieu, Judith Nadine Shoultz and Carlos Gene Grigg exchanged wedding vows in the Forsan Baptist Church Saturday evening at 6 o'clock.

The Rev. L. L. Garner, pastor of the church, read the double ring ceremony as the bridal party stood before an archway of white, embellished with greenery. Tapers burned in double candelabra on each side of the arch and marked the white aisle cloth over which the bride entered.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Shoultz of Forsan, and Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Grigg of Ackerly.

Jimmy Shoultz, brother of the bride, sang "Whither Thou Goest and With This Ring," accompanied by Mrs. Mac Robinson. In her nuptial selections, Mrs. Alexander included "The Lord's Prayer," which she played as the couple knelt together at the altar.

The father of the bride escorted her to the altar and gave her in marriage. She chose a gown of white bridal satin, Chantilly and tulle. Three flounces of tulle extended the skirt of satin and lace into a short train, while a stand-up collar was a flattering effect on the fitted bodice, which was enhanced in the front with tiny covered buttons.

A veil of illusion floated from a small crown, and the bride carried a white orchid on a white Bible.

TRADITION

In the manner of tradition, there was the veil, which had been worn by the sister of the bride, Mrs. C. L. Gardner of Muleshoe. Something new was the wedding attire: a blue garter was furnished by Mrs. Pat Grigg of Ackerly, the bridegroom's sister-in-law, and the Bible is the property of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Gardner attended her sister as matron of honor. Her cotton satin frock was a medium blue and was fashioned with boat neckline, long pointed sleeves and a full skirt. A cummerbund marked the waistline, and her flowers were yellow pompon mums.

Bridesmaids included Mrs. Pat Grigg, Mrs. Jimmy Shoultz and Joyce Shoultz, sister-in-law and sister of the bride, and Sue Ann Dolan of Big Spring. Their dresses, in pale blue, were identical to that of the matron of honor. Their bouquets were of multicolor pompon mums.

Keith Rudeseal of Ackerly served as best man; groomsmen were brothers of the bridegroom, Bill Grigg of Big Spring; Pete Grigg of Midland; Dub Grigg of Ackerly.

Guests were seated by C. L.

McMahons Give Rehearsal Dinner

An informal rehearsal dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde McMahon Friday evening at 8 for their son, Clyde McMahon Jr., and Carol Letcher, who became his bride Saturday afternoon in a ceremony at the First Christian Church.

Eighteen guests were present for the affair, including the immediate families and the bridal party.

Girdner and Jackie Shoultz, brother-in-law and brother of the bride; Donald Lee Gibson and Bennie Kunkel of Ackerly.

Debbie Grigg of Big Spring, the bridegroom's niece, was flower girl; Dennis Lee Day of Forsan was the ring bearer; taper lighters were Verna Lee Draper of Forsan, a cousin of the bride, and Joyce Franks of Ackerly.

RECEPTION

Fellowship hall of the church was the scene of a reception after the ceremony. Here the parents of the couple and the bride's attendants assisted them in receiving guests.

Musical selections were played by Gaye Huestis, pianist, and guest were registered by Mrs. Pete Grigg. Other members of the house party were Sherrill Fletcher, Delores Parker and Mrs. Dub Grigg.

Lace over blue covered the bride's table, where the flowers of the matron of honor served as a centerpiece. A three-tiered cake held a small wedding pair.

For a trip to Fort Worth, the bride donned a beige suit with low neckline and bracelet length sleeves with wide white cuffs. Her small hat was beige and her accessories white.

A graduate of Forsan High School and Rutherford Business School, Midland, the bride has been employed by Continental Oil Company in Midland.

The bridegroom is an Ackerly High School graduate and is now employed by the local Cameron Lumber Company. The couple will make a home at 909½ Goliad.

A Devotional For Today

I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the house of the Lord. (Psalms 122:1.)
PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for all Thy gifts to us. Especially do we thank Thee for the church of Jesus Christ, and for its varied ministry to us and in all nations. Help us to follow the example of Jesus and to make the house of God a place of prayer where we may find help for all our needs. In the name of our Redeemer. Amen.
(From The 'Upper Room')

Returning A Friendly Spirit

The presentation of the Air Force Scroll at Webb AFB during the past week underlines anew the importance of good relations between a military establishment and the community in which it is located.
One speaker observed that he had noted that where the base-community relations were good, the morale of the base personnel was high.
This may be one of the products of close cooperation between the base and its city. However, this should be incidental, for a feeling of friendly and mutual interest should be the immediate goal in promoting and perpetuating neighborliness between the two.
The key to successful relations is simply to be genuinely interested in people. There should be no dividing line because one man wears a uniform and another a conventional suit. Their only difference is in careers, and it would be a mighty dull community that was made up of people who were all of one career.

It has always been our conviction that those who are assigned to Webb by the Air Force are just as much a part of our community as those who are assigned here by an oil company, the railroad or some other institution. Their record of participation in community affairs proves that they are eager to go the second mile in making their new home the sort of place they would like as though it would be their home from now on. We must be always careful to return this friendly spirit.

Is This The Safest Plan?

There is a difference of opinion on whether it is better, faster and safer for fire trucks to move up Fourth Street against traffic than to veer one block to the south or north when answering calls to west of the City Hall station.
The collision between a truck and a car Thursday evening mercifully inflicted only property damage. Had there been a difference of a few inches, the car might have been crushed rather than spun around and out of the way.
In this instance, a faulty signal light may have contributed to the collision, but the real danger is not so much in cross-traffic as it is in head-on traffic.

Usually all lanes are taken on the one-way flow east on Fourth. Drivers are naturally indecisive between pulling to right or left, and with the closure of two vehicles moving in opposite directions doubling the speed, not much time is given for reaction.
This same doubled speed, would, in event of collision, much more than double the impact.
It may be that the present system is the safest system, but it occurs to us that it should be subject to periodical evaluation.

David Lawrence

Moscow, Cuba And The Monroe Doctrine

WASHINGTON — How can President Eisenhower go to the Soviet Union now in the face of the communist threat in Cuba — at the doorstep of the United States?

The first formal accusation that the Moscow government is responsible for the intrigues that have brought about a crisis between the United States and Cuba is contained in a single sentence in the statement just issued by Mr. Eisenhower, which says:
"I should like only to add that the United States government has confidence in the ability of the Cuban people to recognize and defeat the intrigues of international communism which are aimed at destroying democratic institutions in Cuba and the traditional and mutually beneficial friendship between the Cuban and American peoples."

THE PHRASING IS tactful but nevertheless quite plain. This same kind of interference in the affairs of Latin-American countries was what gave birth to the Monroe Doctrine nearly a century and a half ago. It was enunciated by President Monroe in a message to Congress on Dec. 2, 1823, which reads in part as follows:
"We owe it, therefore, to candor and to the amicable relations existing between the United States and those (European) powers to declare that we should consider any attempt on their part to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety."
"With the existing colonies or dependencies of any European power we have not interfered and shall not interfere. But with the governments who have declared their independence and maintained it, and whose independence we have, on great consideration and on just principles, acknowledged, we could not view any interposition for the purpose of oppressing them; or controlling in any other manner their destiny, by any European power in any other light than as a manifestation of an unfriendly disposition toward the United States."

THE MONROE DOCTRINE has never been withdrawn from American foreign policy.
There can be no doubt that the Soviet Union has interfered with the affairs of the government of Cuba and that communist agents are guilty of provoking friction between this country and the Cuban government.

The Cuban people, of course, are the victims of the plots that have resulted in the confiscation of foreign property in Cuba, the virtual suspension of tourist travel, and the steady deterioration of the Cuban economy.
What makes the situation even more critical is the insulting manner of Fidel Castro, the dictator. He refuses for prolonged periods to see the American ambassador and keeps on making speeches offensive to the United States; while at the same time denying an opportunity to conduct the diplomatic relations between Washington and Havana in the normal way. Mr. Eisenhower in his public statement describes the situation as follows:

"WE HAVE BEEN, for many months, deeply concerned and perplexed at the steady deterioration of those relations (between the governments of the United States and Cuba) reflected especially by recent public statements by Prime Minister Castro of Cuba, as well as by statements in official publicity organs of the Cuban government. These statements contain unwarranted attacks on our government and on our leading officials."
The President refers pointedly also to the stirring up of revolutions in other Latin-American countries, with Cuba as a base of military operations. Mr. Eisenhower says that from Cuba "a number of invasions directed against other countries have departed during the past year, in several cases attended with serious loss of life and property damage in the territory of those other countries."

THE MONROE DOCTRINE has in recent years been embraced in principle by Latin-American countries as a bloc. The organization of American states has the responsibility for exposing infractions of the doctrine, but this does not in any way lessen the duty of the United States to enforce the doctrine as against any European power.
At a time when Nikita Khrushchev is preaching "peaceful co-existence" and a "lessening of tension," the United States finds at its doorstep a communist organization actually using Castro as a tool in plotting against this country and other states in the western hemisphere. Under the circumstances, Mr. Eisenhower can hardly carry out his plan for a visit to Moscow next spring without giving the impression that America is not going to do anything about the violation of the Monroe Doctrine by the Soviet government.

Unconvincing

NEW HAVEN, Conn. — Here's a novel way to win your husband's sympathy: Police said a local woman, with that in mind, tied and gagged herself and lay on the floor of her home.
When discovered, she said a man posing as a roach exterminator tied her up and robbed her.
There was even a lethal-looking white powder on the floor. Police said it was baking powder.

Smart Modern Housewife Must Be Cynic

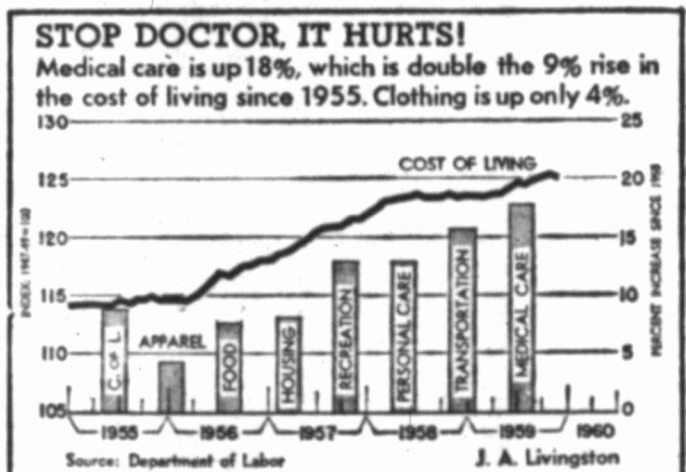

"What is a cynic? A man who knows the price of everything and the value of nothing." Oscar Wilde.
"What is a housewife? A cynic who knows the value of everything and the price of nothing." Author discreet.

The smart modern housewife must be a cynic. She can't afford to judge a product by its price or package. She knows too well — as do the experts in the Bureau of Labor Statistics — that in an era of creeping inflation, price is discomfitted by merchandising gimmicks.
The box is the same size, but it contains fewer crackers; the pill bottle is the same, but it's stuffed with more cotton. The price of beef hasn't changed, but the cut has. The hose looks fine, but what's the denier? The grapefruit in the mesh bag are six in number, but their size has shrunk, even as lunch-room containers and the width of newspapers. The can of talcum looks bigger — and it is, 30 per cent, so the price is doubled.

But my wife reassures me one message stays put. She still gets two gloves to the pair.

OTHER SUBTLE markups occur in the battle between seller and buyer. The department store charges for shopping bags or gift wrapping. You wait longer for extras. The beautician coil waves the hair at a higher price and speeds the customer. The waiter expects his percentage tip to rise — 10 per cent isn't enough, it ought to be 12 1/2 per cent or 15 per cent — even though the cost of the meal and liquor have automatically given him a money raise.
We all take in one another's washing at a higher price — only some of us are more able to take in less washing at more price than others. That's the era we're living in.

SINCE THE END of 1955, (the year of the auto boom), the BLS Index of Consumer Prices has risen 9.4 per cent. That's somewhat more than the 1 1/2 per cent to 4 per cent rate the late Prof. Sumner H. Slichter popularized as an "acceptable price" for high level employment and domestic well-being.

Fortunately, food costs, which account for nearly 30 per cent of the wage earner's budget, went up less than 8 per cent, and apparel, which accounts for nine cents out of each consumer dollar, only 4 per cent. Housing (33 per cent) also was only moderately extortionate.

The big price jump was in services, the cost of which is set mainly by wages and salaries, by what human beings demand for themselves from others. The following table shows (1) how average wage-and-salary families spend their dollars (percentage-wise), and (2) how prices have risen in major categories of expenditures:

Category	Proportion of Total Expenditures	Per Cent Increase
Apparel & Footwear	9.4	4.1
Food	28.7	7.4
Housing	33.0	12.2
Miscellaneous	21.1	9.2
Recreation	5.3	12.7
Personal Care	5.3	12.7
Transportation	11.7	18.4
Medical Care	11.7	18.4
Totals	100.0	9.4

Around The Rim

When The Groundhog Got Plumb Skeered

If you chilren would take off your side arms, sit down and get real quiet, your Uncle Wobbly would tell you a yarn like you never heard before, something you'd like.

"Now, Uncle Wobbly, it's not another one of those stories that mixes us all up on history, is it?"

"O' course not, and how could you say such a thing? This ain't no history lesson, this is an intervinin' study of nature, but if you don't want to hear it—"

"Oh, we do, Uncle Wobbly, it's just that we don't know if you tell us the truth."

"What's truth got to do with Nature? Anyways, you listen for a spell."

You see I am going to tell you about a animal that can do things you wouldn't think about. He can control the weather. Some people think the government controls the weather, and would, if there was any way of making an appropriation for it; but the government don't. All it does is to hire men to tell that tomorrow is going to be mild and partly cloudy when shore enough it turns cold and rains the bottom out.

Anyways, this is what ordinary people would call a groundhog. Some of us who are a bit smarter would say he might be a woodchuck, and if we had read up on him we could even say he is a marmot. Your Uncle Wobbly has gone further, and that could call him a Marmata Monax, without even stuttering. But that's like callin' a cow a b domesticus, and who would know what you are talkin' about?

Most ways, this groundhog is not much good. He eats people's gardens, and is sometimes digging holes and throwing up mounds in the darndest places, messin' up the yard even if he don't cause you to step in a hole and break your leg. What he does best is though he sleep. Some people call it hibernation, but that is another story which you chilren are too young to hear, and we will just say he sleeps all winter. If you dug holes all summer long, you'd be tired and ready to sleep in the winter, too.

Well, come Candlemas Day — and you sure never knew Ole Uncle Wobbly knew anything about Candlemas Day — Ole Mister Groundhog is about to catch up with his sleepin'. He has probably woke stir around, wonderin' what he can find for his breakfast.

He pulls off the covers and starts upstairs, which in this case, you see, will take him outdoors. Well, he's thinkin' about breakfast, and he starts upstairs, yawnin' and scratchin' his tummy, to see if the morning paper has been 'threwed yet.

He pushes out the door, don't see no paper, but all of a sudden, he sees a great big dark figure right there in front of him, lookin' bigger 'n a bear. He throws up his arms in front of his face, and as he does, this awful black figure waves its arms, like it was going to bust Mr. Groundhog right in the face. Ole Groundhog does just what you would do — he turns tail and skedaddles back-down the stairs fast as his little feet will carry him, jumps back in bed, pulls the covers over his head and lies there shiverin' and shakin' — skeeted to death, you see. He has even forgot about breakfast. He lies so still as long that purty soon he falls back asleep, like you do in the morning after yore Mama calls you.

Some people will try to tell you that Ole Groundhog seen his shadow, went back in his hole to stay there for six more weeks of winter.

This is plumb silly. There's ALWAYS six more weeks of winter after Candlemas Day, unless yore in Panama. And that wasn't no shadow. It was too darn big. Why, I get to thinkin' about it, probably it WAS a bear. You kids go see if the front door is locked real good, and then let's get to bed.

No Doubt Nixon's A Shrewd Runner

CHICAGO — If there is any Democrat still harboring the slightest doubt that Richard Nixon will be a formidable opponent in November, he or she should now be completely disabused. The speech he delivered here is the charter of his campaign, and while it may be possible to force him off the high road, the themes he enunciated for Republicans at their $100-a-plate dinner are those he will sound again and again into the ears of the voters.

It is not merely that he embraces President Eisenhower and seeks to share the cloak of his personal popularity. That was all along obviously his principal play.

BUT EVEN AS HE points with pride to the record of the Administration — and there is no pointer with pride who puts more vehemence into his work than the Vice President — he promises more. The pledge to the critics and the doubters is that a new Republican Administration will "build even greater accomplishments in the future."

This is a shrewd appeal. In education, are classrooms inadequate, teachers underpaid and standards flabby? Very well, then we will strive to eliminate these evils.

There is too much chronic unemployment and under "obsolete" farm programs," he promises farmers receive continue to go down while taxes to subsidize them go up. We will give these programs, says Nixon, the highest legislative priority.

This is the line, too, on the current controversy over defense and the "deterrent lag." No aggressor in the world today can knock out the deterrent striking power of the United States and Mr. Khrushchev knows it. That is the ringing Nixon challenge to those who would "sell America short." But in the same breath he asks for constructive criticism and a searching month-to-month re-examination of military capabilities.

IF THIS IS HAVING your cake and eating it, too, then that is precisely what Nixon means to do throughout the campaign. With casual humor, he dismisses the Democratic attacks on him as he speaks to groups in hotel lobbies, at receptions and wherever they are assembled, missing not a single opportunity.

His determination, as of now, is to treat all personal attacks in this fashion. Sooner or later his attackers may sting him and he can come angrily charging out, as he has done in the past. But the present stance of cool superiority as the opposition peppers him with bad names gives him a distinct advantage. A calculating operator, he will not relinquish it lightly.

STOPPING IN NEW YORK on the way out here, he was awarded the Order of St. Sebastian by the Catholic War Veterans. There is in the Nixon now on display at least a touch of St. Sebastian, who welcomed the arrows of his martyrdom with such unshaken confidence.

What makes Richard run may be simply ambition. The ingredients are not evident to the casual observer. With the exception of his wife, he has really no close confidantes.

He is alone, and if it were not for the aura of genial goodwill that he generates in crowds, he would seem lonely. There is every reason to believe that he writes his own speeches, putting them together with his own shrewd sense of where he is going and how. His aides speak with slightly-veiled scorn of the staff of 70 Gov. Nelson Rockefeller still holds in readiness should Nixon fall on his face.

But whatever the sources of his drive, it is formidable. Leaving a golf writers' banquet in New York, where he was the perfect sports fan, a good-natured dub among the experts, his aides told him it was essential to fly at once to Chicago, since weather might close in the airport later and prevent him from keeping the all-important engagement here.

NIXON IMMEDIATELY shifted his plans and, without a murmur, gave up, as it turned out, a night's sleep. In his chartered plane, we put down at Detroit for a fuel stop, groped through heavy overcast and freezing rain over Chicago, made for an alternate landing in Cleveland and finally, turning back to Chicago, found a way down through the weather. The flight took altogether six hours. The next morning, after four hours of sleep, he could joke about his experience with Republicans as bagpipes shrilled in the wind.

The Democrats may be able to unhorse this determined rider. But his armor — peace, the best seven years of your lives — is impressive. And they will have to do more than name-calling if they are to succeed.

Where Honesty And Integrity Begin

We read many stories in our newspapers of late about crookedness, short-changing, and double-dealing. Some people are apparently so discouraged with human nature that they think the morals and ethics of the American people are deteriorating. I do not think so at all. The fact that dishonesty hits the headlines is itself proof that it is unusual. If dishonesty were commonplace, it wouldn't be news.

I was going downtown one day, sitting near the front of the bus, when I saw a man and a young boy, busily hunched over the bus. There was a line of people waiting to board the bus and the driver was kept busy making change. I saw the father put his fare into the box at the entrance. The boy however, was short. The driver didn't see him and he slipped by the fare box with his money still in his hand.

THE FATHER HAD FOUND a seat across from me and the boy joined him. "Dad, he didn't see me," he told his father excitedly. "I just slipped through and I still have my money. I'm getting a free ride."

The father thoughtfully looked down at his son and answered sternly. "That money, son, isn't yours any more. It belongs to the bus company. You bought a ride and they are fulfilling their part of the transaction, but, by not paying for the ride, you're not keeping your part of the deal. No, you don't own that money any more. The bus company does. And keeping it is plain dishonest. And besides, it isn't being a man. So I want you to march right up there and give the driver his money."

The boy looked glum, but he got up, went to the front of the bus and dropped his fare into the box. The driver looked up at him and thanked him. When the boy came back to his seat and sat down, his father tapped him on the knee and said, "Now you're acting like a man, son."

Well, as I watched this little episode with admiration, I thought about the fixed quiz shows, the payoffs, the graft, the little businessmen weighing their thumbs along with the chaps, the crooked politicians and all the other scandals in our headlines these days. I couldn't help feeling a lump rise in my throat.

OF COURSE HE ISN'T the only one of his kind. There are lots like him—the same kind of people who settled our American wilderness and transformed it into the fabulous words printed on the back of every U. S. Dollar bill—"novis ordo seculorum"—a new order of the ages. But, today, all too many people have abandoned another motto which can also be found on the back of every dollar bill, "In God We Trust."

It is these mistaken people who are failing to teach their children the fundamental precepts of honesty and integrity. Nor are they teaching respect for the immortality and singularity of each and every human soul which, of course, is the basis of all religious teaching. We had better be very careful what we do and do not teach our children. More important still, we older people had better watch our actions, for our children tend to become what we are.

It is with the little things, in childhood, that life-long attitudes are formed. Certainly we want our children to be smart and clever, but not at the sacrifice of honor, righteousness and decent manhood. For, if we do not keep these values, we shall lose all else.

Mycin-Type Drugs Control Bacteria Infections

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: If a child of 9 develops an abnormal bowel movement after taking one of the mycin drugs, can this be damaging to the stomach tissues in later years? Is there a medication to relieve the stomach disorder? Are there any foods that should or should not be eaten?—R.C.D."

A good many mothers are going to be interested in your letter. For that matter, this is not a problem just to children.

The trouble bothers some people, with some drugs, at any age. The mycin-type drugs, antibiotics, are powerful. That is why they are so useful in controlling infections from bacteria.

All germs—or bacteria—are not bad. Indeed, the useful ones, and the harmless ones far outnumber the disease-causing germs.

The intestinal tract normally contains a variety of organisms: Bacteria, yeasts, molds, fungi. There is also a curious fact of biology called symbiosis. That means two (or more) different kinds of organisms can live together harmoniously, each keeping the other one neutralized. Together, they are harmless, or may even be useful and necessary. The balance could be between two types of bacteria; or between some form of bacteria and a yeast, for instance.

All this is at the root of the occasional trouble that results from taking one of the antibiotic "wonder drugs." Let's say that we have yeast and bacteria "paired off" in this curious pattern called symbiosis. The bacteria are suppressed by the drug; the yeast isn't affected, and it flourishes without restraint, once it has lost the bacteria which used to keep it in proper balance.

So it happens that certain organisms, becoming too numerous because of this, can irritate the intestine, cause diarrhea and even bleeding. Nor is the intestine the only area that can be irritated.

Some mycins are combined with another drug to keep the "partner" in the symbiosis from getting out of control, and this is helpful. But you can't always do it—and anyway, people, drugs and germs don't always react identically. Hence some people will have a bit of trouble.

As a rule, however, the intestinal or other irritation tends to subside when the antibiotic is stopped, and should cause no damage to tissues in later years.

Sometimes it is advisable to replenish the germ that was killed off in the digestive tract. Such things as acidophilus milk, sour cream or milk, or a tablet called lactinase may be used to restore the missing bacteria and bring conditions back to normal quickly.

As to foods, while the trouble is present, a diet of low residue—foods which are low in coarse fiber—is best. That is, go easy on "roughage" foods including fruits and vegetables which have a lot of fiber. It will ease bowel irritation for the brief time necessary.

And, since you know your child is subject to this trouble, use of the combinations should be very helpful.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am 86 and not well. Can I take two kinds of medicine at the same time, without one counteracting the other?—J.F.B."

In general, yes. If the two medicines are likely to conflict, your doctor would warn you of it.

"Dear Sir: What causes severe cramping of leg and foot muscles, and is there a remedy?—J.S."

Several causes; several remedies. I've summed it up in a leaflet "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains." To receive it, send 5 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to me in care of The Big Spring Herald.

MRS. CELEDONIO SALAZAR

Miss Flores Is Wed To Celedonio Salazar

Mr. and Mrs. Celedonio Salazar will make their home at 109 NE 8th after a wedding trip to El Paso. Mrs. Salazar, the former Cruz Flores, is the granddaughter of Mrs. Eulalia Flores, 602 NW 5th. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Isabel G. Salazar, 506 N. Aylford. Under an evergreen arch decorated with white carnations in Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Fr. Patrick Casey, OMI performed the single ring rite Saturday morning at 8. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Johnnie Flores. She wore a street-length dress of white lace over satin. The long-sleeved bolero top featured a stand-up collar. Her finger tip length veil of illusion was held by a crown of orange blossoms, and the bridal bouquet was of white carnations and orange blossoms. The maid of honor, Rosie Hinojos, wore a white velveteen street-length dress with a bolero of the same material. Bridesmaids were Lupe Flores, Mrs. Salazar's sister; Gloria Sosa; Isabel Molina, and Margie Mendez, a cousin of the bride. Their dresses were identical in style to that of the maid of honor, but they were of aqua velveteen. The attendants carried bouquets of pink carnations. Mike Hernandez served as best man, while ushers were Pedro Porras and Albert Gonzales. In the Sacred Heart Hall, the newly married couple his mother and the bride's grandmother formed a receiving line to greet reception guests. On a refreshment table covered with white lace was a centerpiece of white gladioli and a three-tiered wedding cake. Registering guests was the bridegroom's sister, Inez Salazar. Coming from out of town to attend the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Reyes, uncle and aunt of the bride, from Martinsdale; Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Martinez, Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Rodarte, and Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Marcia, uncles of the bridegroom, all of El Paso. Mrs. Salazar, a 1959 graduate of Big Spring High School, is attending Howard County Junior College. Salazar is employed at the Medical Arts Hospital.

Shower Is Courtesy For Stanton Girl

A personal shower given Saturday afternoon in Stanton, was a compliment for Shirley Gene Nowlin, who is to be married on Feb. 20 to Courtney Clements. Parents of the engaged couple are Mr. and Mrs. Claude Nowlin of Stanton, Mrs. Ola Jagers of Stanton, and the late Mr. H. L. Clements. About 20 friends gathered in the home of Mrs. G. Shain, where gifts were opened and chatting was the afternoon diversion. The gift table was covered with a green cloth and tied with white satin bows to follow the bride-elect's chosen colors. The tea table featured the same shades with white and green in the floral centerpiece and the refreshments. Hostesses who joined Mrs. Shain in the courtesy were Edwina Shain, Sara Mott, Barbara Smith and Mrs. Merle Miller.

Lovelace, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Lovelace and Tommie Sue.

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

Perhaps it's just that I have been out of the kite-flying field for several years and don't know about the new trend of kite flyers, but isn't the latter part of January a bit earlier than usual? It seems to me that when the older boys were interested in the sport, the appearance of the high flyers was as sure a harbinger of spring as the robin. Seems as though everything is stepped up these days.

The past week was a busy one for a great many Big Spring people. We saw and heard some most interesting pictures and addresses and were entertained with splendid piano music.

Thursday was a day that we would rather not call typical but the word can almost always be properly used if there has been planned an out of doors program. Many families were here to attend their sons' graduation at Webb AFB and they come from far and near. The ones who came from afar got a small dose of what we will probably have a great more of as the season wears on. Those who came to see The Publisher honored by the military took the weather in stride, they being West Texans too.

At a reception in the J. R. HENSLEY home following the Webb - Hornbeck program was MRS. ABBE LEDBETTER of Houston with her sister, Mrs. Don Newsom, DOROTHY JEAN KEMPER, niece of MRS. HORACE GARRETT was enjoying seeing all the local people. She is a student at TCU. MRS. JIM ZACK, back from the spring market in Dallas, quelled a rumor that the sack is coming back. On the contrary she says the fashions for women are beautiful and very feminine and that nothing could make the sack take the country again. (Not at my house, anyway.)

Back from Ballinger are MR. AND MRS. H. F. TAYLOR, who accompanied their daughter, Mrs. Billy Dykes, to Eastland to see the Taylor's 13th great-grandchild. He is little FRANKLIN ANDREW DYKES, the first son of Mr. and Mrs. Spike Dykes. Spike is head basketball and track coach and assistant to the football coach in Eastland.

In preparation for a one man show on Feb. 14 in San Angelo, MR. AND MRS. JOHN FINDLATER are taking his pictures (a few at a time) to the Kendal Gallery where the show will be held. They were in San Angelo Saturday with their children, John, Judith and Susan.

After serving four years in service near London, England, LARRY EVANS, has returned to the states and has opened a piano studio in Houston. He was here during December with his wife and sons, Eric and Gregory, to visit his parents, MR. AND MRS. E. C. EVANS.

DANNIE DUNN, senior mechanical major at Tech, will return today after spending the week with his parents, MR. AND MRS. JOE DUNN.

MR. AND MRS. SAM McCOMB are in Denton today with their daughter, Sammie Sue, who is transferring from Tech to North Texas State College.

BILL BRADFORD planned to spend the weekend in Bryson with his parents and in Fort Worth at the Fat Stock show.

Luther HD Club Holds Discussion On Citizenship

An open discussion of citizenship was held by members of the Luther Home Demonstration Club Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Regis Fleckenstein. Roll call was answered by 12 members who told of their personal goals for 1960. A devotion was brought by Mrs. Hap Wilson. The group voted to hold a white elephant drawing at the next meeting, which will be held Feb. 11 in the home of Mrs. W. E. Hanson. This will include parcels brought by members and is planned as part of the recreation.

"Ahhhh, you don't want my picture!" Laddie seems to say as he hides his collie face with a paw. Others of the Stone family who posed with Mrs. Robert Stone, Stone, and 13-year-old Janis.

Marine Major Admits He Goofed, At First

He was going to join the Navy, but he wound up in the Marines. "It was all a mistake!" says Robert Stone of his 21 years in the Marines.

The young man from Wyoming was going to join the Navy to be with a brother. The nearest recruiting center was Denver, Colo., so Bob Stone headed there.

"Somebody didn't explain Denver's situation thoroughly, however, and instead of going to the newly-erected post office which contained the Navy recruiting office, the young man was sent to the old post office that sheltered the Marine recruiting office.

After walking through a maze of hallways, Stone came upon posters of sharply dressed young men in uniforms. Marine uniforms. About that time a burly sergeant came out of an office door, slapped the youngster on the back, and before the afternoon was over had persuaded him to join a "Men's outfit" and not become a "deck ape."

"At that time the Marine quota for Colorado was two men. When I entered the service I felt like a general because I was one of the two taken that month!" Stone recalls.

CAREER BEGINS

The Sino-Japanese War was the first action Stone, who had reached the rank of major at his retirement, saw. This conflict was not entered by the United States, but the Marines engaged in it to protect the international settlement of Shang-Hai.

By the time Major Stone retired he had been through three wars, or conflicts as some were called, 14 battles, and received 14 medals and decided the Marines are the best service branch of all.

Youngster Gets His Cowboy Hat

By SAM BLACKBURN
Hulger Bernith, a 9-year-old Silesian refugee in-law of Otterbunn, a suburb of Munich, Bavaria, is attracting quite a lot of attention these days.

He is probably the only resident of Munich and certainly the only one in Otterbunn who wears a cowboy hat, a belt with pistol cartridges and has a card identifying him as an honorary deputy sheriff of Howard County, Texas.

DEPUTY REPORTS
Sheriff Miller Harris has received a report from his most remote deputy and all is well indeed.

The report is in a letter from Hilda Bernith, mother of young Hulger, and it is a "thank you" note for the hat, the gunbelt and the deputy appointment.

VA Applications Should Be Made Out Legibly

An appeal to veterans and their beneficiaries to properly execute required forms when applying for veterans benefits was issued by Ray Boren, contact representative at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital, today.

Every item on an application blank must be filled in legibly before the claim can be adjudicated, he pointed out. Failure to provide the necessary information holds up the decision on the claim until correspondence elicits a complete answer.

Such correspondence is costly to the applicant and to the government, Boren said. It is further objectionable to all concerned because it delays action on the application.

"You are always welcome to bring your problem to the contact representatives at our office located in the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital," he invited.

Would the sheriff send one to her son?
The sheriff, in collaboration with Sam Mellinger, clothing store operator, shipped off not only a typical cowboy hat, but also a gunbelt and the deputy commission. The package left here three weeks before Christmas but it didn't reach Otterbunn until Jan. 14.

The letter from the mother tells the story best:
"Dear Mr. Harris:
From all of us many thanks for your letter which came before Christmas. I cannot express how we were overjoyed but we kept the letter a secret from Hulger, (the letter came quite a while before the package.)

READ LETTER
"As we sat under the Christmas tree, my husband, my daughter and my son, Hulger, we read the letter.

"From then every day Hulger looked for the postage wagon. Father and son could hardly wait.
"Jan. 14 came the big surprise. Mother and daughter received the package. The first one the hat went on was the daughter. The nice hat box went to her room for her to put her things in.

"Then the hat went to the father (he is an architect). His joy was very great too. He tried it on (the hat) and said it looked very good on him.

"At noon when Hulger came home from school we hid the hat and had him guess what had arrived. He knew right away. With Indian spirit, away he went outside with his hat, his deputy's card and his belt with the cartridges to show his friends.

ROUND THE CLOCK
"The first thing he puts on in the morning and the last thing he takes off at night is the hat. He wears it while he watches television.

"I am glad with your help I can do this. My husband is very happy, too, and to show his appreciation he will send a memento to the 25th of this month. My heartiest thanks for your understanding of the wishes of a little boy full of great dreams. I hope to have a picture of Hulger with his new hat to send also on the 25th.

"We are refugees from Silesia. In the meantime, we are new citizens of Munich. We had to start a new life at middle age. With much hard work and much saving, we have started a new home. We have a small house in the forest and have a garden and two dogs.

"Our daughter is 17 and present a seamstress. Hulger is nine. We are a happy family . . ."

Cleaner School Grounds

Inspecting a new garbage can, specially installed in the Runnels Junior High School area, are, from left, Mrs. John Balch, project chairman, Mrs. L. W. Harris, Mrs. Clyde Angel, president of the Big Spring Garden Club, Bruce Dunn, director of public works, purchased the can after the garden clubs requested something to handle debris in the school area. Youngsters attending school, and bringing their lunch sacks, previously had no place to throw away papers. Dunn said two dozen of these cans have been ordered for locations in the downtown area.

Authorities Name Suspect In Grady Bludgeon Slaying

Ranger John Wood said that the state-wide search for Riley Edward (Jack) Gunn, 33, sometime oil field worker, wanted for the bludgeon murder on Jan. 16 of Cecil Grady, 29, has so far proved futile.

Wood, who has been working in close cooperation with Sheriff W. O. (Bill) Green, Sterling County, said there was no benefit to be derived from keeping identity of the man accused of the slaying secret any longer.

"He has been charged with Grady's death," Wood said. "The complaint has been filed accusing him of murder with malice in Sterling City. We believe we have a good case on him, but so far we have been unable to locate him."

born in Oklahoma but that he had spent much of his life in the Corpus Christi area. He is married and has a family. The Gunns were living in Odessa at the time that Grady was slain. They left Odessa overnight, Wood said.

The man sought worked from time to time as a roughneck. He has been in difficulty with the law on other occasions. He is a big man, physically, and fits very closely the description of a person seen near the scene of the murder early on the morning of Jan. 16 by a Big Spring oil field worker.

The Big Spring man told officers the heavily-built man he saw and talked to on that occasion was wearing bloodstained clothing. A few hours later, the body of Grady, a convict just released on Thursday from the Huntsville penitentiary, was found in a borrow ditch a few yards from the place the blood-stained stranger had been seen.

Wood said that it had been established that Grady had been in company of a man identified as Gunn on Thursday night in San Angelo and that the pair had been in Tom Green County until around 6 a.m. on Friday morning, Jan. 17. The badly battered body of the ex-convict was found at noon that date on a lonely oil field road west of Sterling City.

Officers also discovered in their investigation that Grady had a hundred dollars on his person on Thursday night. When his body was found he had but 11 one dollar bills.

Odessa Rubber Workers Favor Local No. 826

Employees of the General Tire and Rubber Co. at its Odessa synthetic rubber plant have selected local No. 826 of the International Union of Operating Engineers to represent them in matters of collective bargaining.

There were three places on the ballot which workers marked Thursday—one for local No. 826, another for the Oil Chemical and Atomic Workers, and the third for no union.

Of the 184 employees eligible to vote, 99 voted in favor of local No. 826; there were 11 voting for the OCAW; and 71 voted for no union. Three men did not vote.

Officers and members of local No. 826, which headquarters in its own building east of Cosden's refinery, have been in an organizing campaign with the General Tire workers for the past four months. A year ago, employees voted in favor of having no union representation.

The election Thursday was conducted by the National Labor Relations Board.

Band Boosters To Meet Monday

Immediate program plans, several solo exhibitions and an opportunity to meet James Yancey, new Runnels band director, are on the agenda for the Monday meeting of the Big Spring Band Boosters Association. The group will meet in the high school cafeteria at 8 p.m.

In informal reception will be held following the meeting for James Yancey, who began work with youngsters at Runnels Junior High School Jan. 18. The executive committee of the association invites all parents of Runnels bandmen to attend the meeting and meet the new teacher.

The business session of the meeting will concern plans for ticket sales and publicity for the North Texas State College band program scheduled on March 24 in the Municipal Auditorium. The association is sponsoring the event, second in the series that began with the U. S. Air Force band program.

The members will also discuss how best to assist the five students who will attend the All-State band gathering at Austin next week.

The program will include several solo numbers by bandmen planning to enter the district competition in Odessa. They are Wayne Williams, accompanied by Lynn Clawson, Curtis Beard, John Lawson, and Donald Durham.

All members of the boosters association are urged to attend.

Miner To Head Boys' Ranch

Roy Miner has been elected board president of Boys' Ranch of West Texas. He succeeds R. T. (Cotton) Waddell, Odessa, who has served as president of the board for three years.

Miner is presently executive vice president of J. P. (Bum) Gibbins, Inc., of Midland, having been associated with this organization since 1933. He has a long list of civic and community accomplishments. For the past 18 years he has been active in Lion's work, having been president of the Midland Downtown Lions Club, District Governor of 272, has been international counselor and is immediate past president of Texas Lions International Counselors Association.

Joe A. Moss of Big Spring was elected to serve as County Advisory Chairman of Howard.

Farm-Labor Meet

STANTON — The second in a series of farm-labor conferences will be held at the courthouse here Wednesday morning, Jack Hatch, farm labor representative of the Texas Employment Commission, in Big Spring, will be on hand to talk with farmers and ranchers as well as laborers concerning work needs for the year.

CONTINUING BATTLE

Trapper Has Large Catch Of Predatory Animals

The war against predatory animals in Howard County never ends. This last year the catch of coyotes and bobcats was as great as ever, and 1960 starts out as a booming year for the sheep and chicken killers.

Earl Brownrigg, who has been Howard County's official trapper for nearly a score of years, ended the year with 117 coyotes and 65 bobcats to his credit.

So far in 1960 the toll of coyotes has mounted to 26, while 13 bobcats were killed. Usually this is a time for both animals to be on the prowl. Later on before warm weather they settle down to raise the litters of young, and do not wander quite so much.

Brownrigg says he finds the animals in all parts of the county, although the cats are usually confined to the more rocky and brushy areas.

Heston's Hi-Fi Equipment Stolen
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — While actor Charlton Heston was in New York City, someone apparently entered his Coldwater Canyon mansion and stole hi-fi equipment valued at $750.

"Lately a good many coyotes have been coming in from the north and east," Brownrigg said. "Coyotes migrate farther than the cats and may cross several counties in search of food. They haven't killed many livestock lately, but they are always a threat."

One proof that the county trapper is staying busy can be seen on the Old Gail Road north of the Wilson Ranch where some 65 cats and coyotes are hanging on a fence.

On A Train

Sophia Loren is a "kept" woman yearning for something good, and Tab Hunter is a youthful prowler with hidden ideals. In this train scene from "That Kind of Woman," Sunday through Tuesday at the Jet. The combination, it turns out, is overwhelming.

'Gazebo' Is Comedy Murder Mystery

"The Gazebo," film version of the Broadway murder-mystery-comedy, reunites Glenn Ford and Debbie Reynolds, following their previous comedy success, "It Started With a Kiss."

Co-starring in "The Gazebo" is television's Carl Reiner, with leading supporting roles played by John McGiver, Mabel Albertson, Doro Merande, Bert Freed, Martin Landau, Robert Ellenstein, Richard Wessell—and "Herman," a pigeon who is a scene stealer if there ever was one.

An Avon Production for MGM, the comedy was produced by Lawrence Weingarten, who produced "Cat On a Hot Tin Roof," and was directed by George Marshall from the screen play by George Wells.

Ford is seen as Elliott Nash, who has a successful career as one of television's top mystery writers; an adoring actress wife, Nell (Miss Reynolds); a charming home in Connecticut—and a dead man buried under his gazebo!

What more perfect place to bury a body than under Nell's surprise gift for him, a wrought-iron garden house purportedly once used by George IV to dally with his mistresses?

This has Elliott's frantic thought when he invited blackmailer Harry Shelby—who wanted $25,000 for some innocent but incriminating photographs of Elliott and a public stenographer—to his home after Nell had departed for the theatre. He hadn't been able to raise the money by selling the house despite his secret attempts to convince Nell that it was in bad shape by stuffing sponges down drains, joining plumbing pipes that shouldn't be joined and short-circuiting electrical connections. Murder, he had decided, was the only way out.

He fired his gun at the shadowed figure that came toward him at the appointed time of meeting, then proceeded to bury the body on the spot where concrete for the gazebo's foundation was to be poured the following morning. Shortly after, Elliott learns that Harry Shelby has been murdered in a New York hotel room.

It is the returning films that capture the spotlight this week. Heading the list is a double feature starring Bing Crosby in one and William Holden and Grace Kelly in the other.

"The Country Girl" was the first straight dramatic (that is, non-singing) role for Crosby, in which he portrays a pitiful wreck of an alcoholic, married to a country girl who's had enough of being cooped up in a small big-town apartment with a weakling, and wants out. Holden is the "other man" who turns out to be the best friend—either will ever have.

In depicting the re-building of a fallen man's character, "The Country Girl" stands out for the prize-winner it is.

Holden is the star of "The Bridges at Toko-Ri," with Miss Kelly playing a romantic background. Based on the James A. Michener story of war in Korea, it is the scenes of aerial combat more than the romantic angle that makes the picture great.

Short takes on other returns: "That Kind of Woman." Sophia Loren and Tab Hunter in a realistic portrayal of the fact that young love will have its way.

"Middle of the Night." Frederick March in a Paddy Chayevsky story, movingly told and portrayed, of a middle-aged man who falls in love with a younger woman. One is left with the impression that things might have worked out

CINEMA COMMENT

By Bob Smith

Seldom are the re-makes comparable to the original classics. This is true, unfortunately, of "The Blue Angel," even though the twice-told tale is highly dramatic in its present form, and still worth viewing.

The main trouble with the present version is up-to-dateness. It was Marlene Dietrich and Emil Jannings who made the first "Blue Angel" some 30 years ago.

It was the story of a shy school teacher in a small German town who, in his middle age, falls in love with a young and brazen hussy down at the local beer hall. The plot follows through the degradation and downfall of the schoolmaster, and his final destruction.

This was believable of the Germany of the 30s, but not of modern Germany.

You don't find too many shy, middle-aged, male teachers of sterling quality and brimful of innocence these days, nor do you find the kind of female satanic destroyer. La Dietrich so aptly portrayed. Modern female barflies run more to emptiness than anything else.

May Britt and Curt Jurgens, both fine actors, do up the modern version. They did well with what they had, but it would have come out better had the script not been modernized.

A word for Theodore Bikel as the magician and cabaret manager—with his performance, you forget which generation you're supposed to be watching.

"Middle of the Night." Frederick March in a Paddy Chayevsky story, movingly told and portrayed, of a middle-aged man who falls in love with a younger woman. One is left with the impression that things might have worked out fine, if members' of the family had left things alone.

"Too Much, Too Soon." Dorothy Malone in an exacting portrayal of the Diana Barrymore tragedy, made doubly meaningful by the latter's recent death.

"Me and the Colonel." Danny Kaye in his first straight dramatic role, as a wise and mild-mannered Jew fleeing Hitler's wrath, in the company of a Hebrew-hating Polish nobleman, played by Curt Jurgens. A moving story filled with human comedy.

"The Five Pennies." Danny Kaye plays the role of Red Nichols, the jazz trumpeter who retired from public life after her daughter was stricken by polio, later making a comeback. Sound track includes some Nichols classics.

"30-Foot Bride of Candy Rock." The late Lou Costello in his last film, the kind of tall and improbable tale at which he was best.

But there is a sadness to his comedy, noticeable to those who remember when Lou and Bud Abbott were together. Lou was a kind of a lonely figure without his straightman.

The Hollywood pipeline: There are a few yelps to be heard among the loud praises for "On the Beach," a film about nuclear war which has left its first preview audiences limp.

The New York civil defense director says the film is misleading in that it fails to reassure its viewers that defense against fallout is possible. He forgets that not even the scientists are sure there is any defense, aren't sure just how much fallout there would be—and most of all, he forgets that the film is a protest against the very peril he, too, is supposed to help prevent.

The New York Daily News accuses "On the Beach" of falling in line with Communist propaganda designed to outlaw the atom bomb, as though opposing extinction of the human race were nothing short of Kremlin policy.

A senator recently lambasted the movie on the basis of its basic premise being unproved or incorrect—he added, claiming it as a fact, that there would be a considerable number of survivors in a nuclear war, even in the country most heavily attacked.

The senator overlooks the fact that a writer has the privilege of assuming the extreme for purposes of telling his story. In the case of the author of "On the Beach," the late Nevil Shute wanted to show the life is too precious to be gambled on the toss of an H-bomb. He was not concerned with an absolute and documentary forecast on the technical aspects of survival.

Other criticisms come from those who would like to see the last remnants of the human race staging a wild revival in their final moments. Others don't like the film characters' use of a quick, painless and highly lethal poison in preference to the slow, agonizing and utterly horrible radiation death.

But the criticisms are few, indeed, almost drowned in the sober acceptance of most who have seen the film. And most of the criticisms seem to come from those in the fanatic fringe, or close to it.

Scientists, religious leaders, political leaders, and others have had nothing but praise for "On the Beach." It is the kind of film that can show no piles of dead bodies, no vast destruction, yet leave its audience in a sober mood.

No word yet on when "On the Beach" comes to Big Spring, but be prepared when it does. The world can't afford to miss its message, and that includes you.

Albert Dekker plays March's tragic partner who watches the growing affair with delight and envy; Martin Balsam repeats his stage role as March's somewhat downtrodden son-in-law, while Lee Grant plays Kim's cynical girl friend.

Chayevsky's screenplay is based on his play as presented on Broadway by Joshua Logan. A Sudan Production, "Middle of the Night" was produced by George Justin.

Goldie portrays John Barrymore's macabre pet in the film in which the late Errol Flynn plays the part of the late actor and Dorothy Malone is seen as his daughter, Diana Barrymore.

Goldie, the only motion picture-trained eagle ever given screen credit in Hollywood, appears in "Too Much, Too Soon," story of the late Diana Barrymore, Sunday at the Sahara.

Double Feature

William Holden, Grace Kelly and Bing Crosby share honors in two award-winning movies returning Thursday through Saturday at the Ritz. Holden and Miss Kelly star in both "The Bridges at Toko-Ri," story of aerial war over Korea, and "The Country Girl," story of the re-making of an alcoholic, a dramatic role essayed by Crosby.

Prof Led To Destruction By Temptress In 'Angel'

"The Blue Angel," story of a wanton night club entertainer who ruins the life of a repressed professor, starring Curt Jurgens, Europe's most sensational leading man, and Swedish beauty May Britt, shows at the State Sunday through Wednesday.

The Twentieth Century-Fox release also features Theodore Bikel, noted international actor and popular folk singer in a key role.

Miss Britt, who made his American motion picture debut in Twentieth Century-Fox's "The Enemy Below," followed this with a starring role in "The Inn of the Sixth Happiness."

Jurgens is probably one of the most well known international stars in the film industry, having made films all over the world and maintaining residences in Bavaria, Vienna, the French Riviera and now in Los Angeles.

Bikel won an Academy Award nomination for his role in "The Defiant Ones."

Director Edward Dmytryk has come up through the ranks of film editors. Some of the pictures he is known for are "Caine Mutiny," "Soldier of Fortune" and "The Young Lions."

For the location scenes of the "Blue Angel," Cummings and Dmytryk took the cast and crew to the old city of Rothenburg in Bavaria.

Straight Role For Kaye

"Me and the Colonel," comedian Danny Kaye makes a sweeping departure from his familiar character as a screen clown to embrace a role that has a sense of humor and a sense of humanity. The film also stars Curt Jurgens, and French actress Nicole Maurey. It plays at the Sahara Sunday, Francis Rosay, Akim Tamiroff, Martita Hunt and Alexander Scourby are featured.

Kaye plays a Jewish refugee with a tremendous instinct for survival. After escaping the Nazi invasion of Poland, he finds his life once more jeopardized in Paris; as the onrushing Panzer divisions threaten the city. For his new escape, he acquires a Rolls Royce of ancient vintage, and a meager supply of gasoline, ingeniously obtained and stored.

But Kaye cannot drive the car himself so he joins forces with a haughty Polish colonel who can. The reluctant colonel is a character right out of the Middle Ages, a Polish aristocrat who, having fought heroically against the Germans in Poland, has been ordered to join the Polish government-in-exile in England.

As they flee the Germans, the colonel makes a hazardous detour to pick up his beautiful French girl friend.

Kaye plays a Jewish refugee with a tremendous instinct for survival. After escaping the Nazi invasion of Poland, he finds his life once more jeopardized in Paris; as the onrushing Panzer divisions threaten the city. For his new escape, he acquires a Rolls Royce of ancient vintage, and a meager supply of gasoline, ingeniously obtained and stored.

But Kaye cannot drive the car himself so he joins forces with a haughty Polish colonel who can. The reluctant colonel is a character right out of the Middle Ages, a Polish aristocrat who, having fought heroically against the Germans in Poland, has been ordered to join the Polish government-in-exile in England.

As they flee the Germans, the colonel makes a hazardous detour to pick up his beautiful French girl friend.

Planet Cluster Making Display

DEAR BOSS:
In regard to your memo of this date about the proximity of certain planets in the southeastern skies in early a.m.—here's my report:

The reader who reported the matter to you (I do not think you arose early enough to see them personally) is correct. Two of the sun's family have been playing footsie in a dual role as morning stars for the past several weeks. They have recently had some sort of tiff, evidently, as I have noted they are steadily drawing farther apart. When I first saw them (I raced out of my warm living room into the chill early morning to hunt for the paper) they were closer together.

I tried to take a longer look this morning in an effort to identify the pair. It's cold out in a front yard at 6 a.m. Boss. So it is quite within the realm of possibility my identification could be in error. One, I am reasonably certain is Venus; I think the other is Saturn. I am basing this identification on the coloring of the second.

HAPPENS PERIODICALLY
This sort of thing, astronomical, happens periodically. On very rare occasions, you get three or more planets in a cluster, and if this happy situation arises in the early evening, folk sometimes get quite interested. When the same thing develops in the early morning hours, I've noticed there's generally less enthusiasm.

Of course, Boss, you know that the morning "star" or the evening "star" is no star at all. It is a planet. And, furthermore, it isn't the same planet all of the time. The most popular performer (the one most frequently called upon to play the role) is Venus. Most of the folk who get sort of roused up over the sight are inspired by sight of this brilliant sister of the earth.

However, Saturn, Jupiter, Mars and Mercury can be evening and morning stars. Officially, in case you care, the current cast of morning stars recognized by the astronomers is comprised of Venus, Saturn, Mars and Jupiter.

MERCURY, MAYBE
Until last Wednesday, Mercury was also in the morning listing. It is possible, Boss, that your inquirer about the spectacle, who suggested Mercury, was correct. There is a possibility he may have seen Mercury. If so, it was far down on the eastern horizon and he didn't see it very long.

Effective as of this past week, Mercury has shifted over to evening star duties. You might as well not worry about taking a look at it, though. Unless you know just where to look and just when to do your looking, the chances are you won't see it. I have seen Mercury only two times in a great many years of casual stargazing.

RETURN ENGAGEMENT
You can get a real eye-full of celestial beauty by popping out of your warm bed around 6 a.m. and looking toward the southeast. You'll see two of the brightest stars (using the term in its popular sense) shining gaily at a time when the dawn has driven most of the other stars to cover.

And there's one thing for sure—if you miss the current close association of these planets, there'll be another opportunity to see them later. They move in inflexible circles around the sun and ultimately, their own movement and that of our own Earth will bring them once again to exactly the same position they are today. It's a continuous performance.

SAM BLACKBURN

He will report to the Navy Officer's Candidate School, Newport, R. I., in early February to commence his four months of extensive training. Upon completion of the school, he expects to have his commission as ensign in the navy.

Applicants for OCS are thoroughly screened by the Navy Bureau before acceptance. Harris already has one brother in the Navy, Lt. G. H. Wood III, who is stationed in Japan.

Negotiations On Roadway Proceed

Tentative negotiations with property owners on U. S. 87 north of Fairview relative to right-of-way easements are being pursued, according to Ed Carpenter, county judge, but no major effort has been launched as yet to close any deals.

The county is to buy needed right-of-way for the widening and rebuilding of U. S. 87 by the State Highway Department. The commissioners plan to push ahead with the project sometime after February. There is no basic deadline for the closing of the enterprise, Carpenter said, but the commissioners court hopes to have the right-of-way signed by early spring.

The state proposes to rebuild U. S. 87 from the Martin County Line southward to Fairview under a contract to be let perhaps in September of this year.

The road will be widened into a four-lane divided highway. Several curves on the route will be straightened and the routing slightly revised.

The county is required to obtain an additional 100 feet of right-of-way. When completed U. S. 87 will be a four-lane highway from Fairview to Martin County line.

U. S. 87 south of Big Spring to the Glasscock County line is now being widened and rebuilt. However, renovation of U. S. 87 south does not involve translocation of the road into a four-lane highway.

The four-lane project will be extended from Fairview southward to the city of Big Spring later on, the state highway department has promised.
