Al Milch Files For Legislature

Al Milch, retiring football coach of the Big Spring high school, filed as candidate for the state legislature from the 101st Legislative District in the fading minutes of the filing period on Monday night.

Frank Hardesty, county executive committee chairman, held the lists open until midnight. He said that last candidate to enter the competition was Milch and a considerable amount of hustle/bustle had to be carried out to get the ex-coach's name duly entered on the candidate lists of the six counties comprising the 101st district.

Midnight on Monday. By the time the candidate had completed this routine, the post office was closed down. Milch had to get Elmer Boatler, postmaster, to come to the office and proper cancel the letters with the pre-midnight stamp to qualify the filing. He made it just ahead of the clock.

Hardesty said that he and members of the county executive committee will meet on Monday of next week to determine the per capita primary assessment. Candidates will be immediately notified and must have their checks in Hardesty's hands by Feb. 9.

Hardesty released the final official list of filings: Sheriff-Miller Harris (incumbent) M. L. Kirby, A. E. (Shorty) Long.

Mrs. Rockefeller Expecting Baby

NEW YORK (AP) — It's official — Mrs. Steven Rockefeller is expecting a baby.

The word came Monday night from Steven, son of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, as he waited at Idlewild Airport for his wife, Anne-Marie, to arrive from a visit to her parents' home in Norway.

Asked about the reports that Anne-Marie was expecting, he replied: "Yes, I can confirm it." He declined to say when the child is expected.

Anne-Marie, arriving economy class from London, smiled and said "Thank you" when a reporter told her "best wishes on your baby." She had nothing more to say on the subject.

Mrs. Rockefeller, the former Miss Rasmussen, was married to young Rockefeller last August in her hometown of Sogne, Norway.

49 Counties Have More Than 50 Influenza Cases

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Health Department said today that at least 49 counties have more than 50 cases of influenza. A number are of the Asian type.

The weekly report does not include the state's two most populous counties—Harris and Dallas. In Dallas today the City Health Department reported 5 more deaths from upper respiratory ailments, raising the year's total to 35.

The Houston Post quoted a local epidemiologist as estimating some 100,000 Houstonians have been stricken with flu and other related disorders since Jan. 1. Last week more than 10 per cent of the students in the Houston independent school district were absent, the highest rate of the season.

The Health Department said its weekly report may not show the correct status in many counties because some county officials report most cases while others report only a small percentage.

The 49 counties reporting more than 50 cases of flu to the State Health Department include: Bastrop 400, Bee 413, Bell 720, Brazoria 90, Brazos 452, Bryan 1,515, Calhoun 207, Camp 131, Comal 231, Crockett 200, Culbertson 50, Dawson 60, Dimmitt 134, Edwards 100, Ellis 100, El Paso 2,605, Erath 430, Fort Bend 64, Galveston 1,695, Hardin 456, Haskell 100, Hidalgo 152, Hockley 547, Jefferson 1,338, Jim Wells 100, Johnson 100, Karnes more than 130, Kimball more than 200, La m a r 1,000, Lubbock 99, Matagorda 1,032, Milam 79, Nueces 3,727, Palo Pinto 64, Parker 253, Potter 666, Refugio 176, San Patricio 578, Scurry 50, Smith 414, Swisher 100, Tarrant 287, Travis 2,225, Upshur 65, Upton 150, Webb 422, Willacy 100, Williamson 200 and Washington 67.

De Gaulle Seeking Power By Decree

Teachers Slain As Horrified Pupils Look On

HARTFORD CITY, Ind. (AP)—Two grade school teachers were shot to death in front of their horrified pupils today, and a search was started immediately for their fleeing principal.

The stunned pupils said Principal Leonard Redden had walked into Miss Harriet Robson's fifth-grade classroom and killed her with a shotgun blast in the right chest.

Then he walked up a ramp to the sixth-grade classroom and killed Mrs. Minnie McFerrer with a shot in the face.

Redden, who had apparently been in good health, fled the school. State police set up roadblocks in the area.

There had been no indications of any trouble between the principal and the teachers, all members of the staff for some years. Hartford City is about 80 miles northeast of Indianapolis.

State police sent one of their planes from Fort Wayne, 50 miles to the north, to try to spot the 40-year-old principal. He was believed to be driving a gray-green 1952 Ford somewhere in the Hartford City area.

Police first thought Redden might have headed toward the Missisnewa School at Gas City, 16 miles west, where his wife teaches. However, state police located Mrs. Redden in a Hartford City doctor's office, after she had reported herself ill today.

Both Miss Robson, 52, and Mrs. McFerrer, 57, had taught in the William Reed School in Hartford City several years.

Paving Program Moving Rapidly

Progress on the assessment paving program is being made at a rapid clip. A. K. Steinhilber, city manager, said this morning.

He suggested that city commission may approve ordinances to kick-off the program at the regular meeting Feb. 9. Bids for the program will probably be opened at the first meeting in March, if not sooner.

Steinhilber returned from a conference in San Antonio late Tuesday. "It was a very successful meeting," he explained. He discussed the proposed program with the First of Texas firm, who will offer a bid to handle the financial end of the program.

The company may become the fiscal agents of the city. Louis Jean Thompson, who prepared the preliminary plans for the project, delivered copies of the final plans to city hall this morning. The complete program will include about 100 blocks and cost approximately $500,000.

Turnabout

NEW YORK (AP)—A runaway milk truck smashed into a Queens house early today and caused considerable wreckage. It was the home of Michael Kowalewski, a professional house wrecker.

WAS GROUND HOG OUT, OR NOT? IT ALL DEPENDS WHEN

If there are any West Texas ground hogs and if they were out on Tuesday morning, it is a moot question whether they saw their shadows or not. It depends on where they were at that moment.

A damp fog bank hovered over the town at dawn and the low hanging clouds clung stubbornly until sunrise.

In accordance with tradition, if the ground hog saw his shadow (which was possible at certain places in the town) we're in for six more weeks of bad weather. If he was in other parts of the town, he did not see his shadow.

It might be assumed if this old wives' tale is true, spring will come to portions of Big Spring effective instant; other parts will be delayed until the middle of March.

Temperature Tuesday morning at 8 a.m. was 47 degrees—considerably milder than has been the normal early day reading.

Tot Falls Under Car, Badly Hurt

A trip to the dentist's office resulted in a near tragedy for the family of M-Sgt. V. A. O'Brien Monday afternoon, the second in a year.

His 3½-year-old daughter, Mary Cecilia, darted into the side of a passing car, then fell under a rear wheel that passed over her head.

Police officers said the accident occurred in the 300 block of East 5th. Dorothy F. Smith, 1902 N. Monticello, was driver of the car.

A Nalley Pickle ambulance carried the youngster to the base hospital and she was transferred to Lackland AFB at San Antonio. Sgt. O'Brien was granted emergency leave to accompany his daughter.

Mrs. O'Brien said this morning that an operation was performed and that the little girl is "holding her own." T-Sgt. C. F. Bell, a close friend of the family, was to drive Mrs. O'Brien to Lackland this morning.

Mrs. O'Brien and one of the six children were in the dentist's office when the accident occurred. The rest of the children were in the car. The family had lived in this neighborhood before moving to Webb Village.

The O'Briens lost a daughter, Teresa, 1½ years old, last January, 1959, when she strangled on an aspirin.

Other children include Patricia Ann, 12, Susan Mary, 10, Marilyn Kay, 8, Valentine Arthur Jr., 6, and John Joseph, 2½ months. The O'Briens are natives of Anaheim, Calif.

Senate Starts Voting On Poll Tax Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a week of debate, the Senate started voting today on measures aimed at eliminating the poll tax as a voting requirement.

Although many Southerners oppose such a move in any form, the principal argument is over whether it should be done by a constitutional amendment or by a simple act of Congress.

The first test was expected on a proposal of Sen. Spessard L. Holland (D-Fla.) to submit to the states a constitutional amendment banning the poll tax in federal elections.

Holland wants this added as another section to a different constitutional amendment proposal of Sen. Estes Edford (D-Tenn.) known as the "D-Tenn." proposal.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) who opposes the Holland proposal, conceded Monday that it was sure of adoption.

It will take only a majority vote to tie the anti-poll tax amendment into Kefauver's measure. However on final Senate passage, a constitutional amendment has to muster a two-thirds vote.

If the Holland proposal is carried as expected, Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-NY) plans to offer as a substitute for the entire legislative package a bill to ban the poll tax by simple statute.

Javits' measure has drawn far greater Southern ire than Holland's plan. The New Yorker appears to lack enough votes to put it over.

Southerners opposing any federal move against the poll tax continued to argue that regulation of election procedures should be left entirely up to the states.

Russell said that Georgia had abolished the poll tax and that he supported this action. But he insisted that Congress should not meddle in this field.

Five states still require voters to pay such a levy — Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia.

Algiers Revolt Sparks Plea To Parliament

PARIS (AP) — Premier Michel Debre today asked the National Assembly for decree powers to insure that President Charles de Gaulle's policies are followed in France and Algeria.

He told an emergency assembly session "there was reason to fear civil war" in Algeria last week in the French settlers' uprising and that special powers are necessary to avoid the same thing happening again.

The Cabinet wants the right to rule by decree for 14 months.

He said that "justice will take over the cases of those who were at the origin of the actions" in Algeria.

Shortly before Debre spoke two more assembly deputies were arrested on warrants charging attacks on the security of the state, the charge on which Deputy Pierre Lagallarde is held as the military chief of the uprising.

Jean-Baptiste Biaggi, 41, a right-wing Parisian deputy; and Mourad Kouba, 40, a Moslem deputy from Algiers, were locked up along with Lagallarde.

SUSPECTS QUIZZED A French examining magistrate, a sort of one-man grand jury, questioned a long list of persons suspected of shipping arms to the French insurgents.

The bill asks for special powers to govern by decree until April 1, 1961. Parliament would be in recess until that date, when it would meet to ratify or disapprove the Cabinet decrees issued in the interim.

Both houses were expected to grant the Cabinet's request, but strong criticism was expected first from right-wing extremists.

The call for special powers came in the wake of the collapse Monday of the right-wing colonialists' revolt against De Gaulle's promise of self-determination for the North African territory still in the throes of a year-old revolt by Moslem nationalists.

The National Assembly was not expected to vote on the government's request until after midnight (6 p. m. EST), and Senate action may not come until late Wednesday.

TO PRISON Lagallarde was flown to Paris Monday night and clapped into Sante Prison less than 12 hours after he had marched the remnants of his forces out from behind the barricades in Algiers and surrendered.

Lagallarde, a deputy in the National Assembly, was told he was being charged with an attack on the security of the state. Deputies are immune from arrest unless caught committing a crime, and Lagallarde apparently made no effort to plead immunity.

Another insurgent leader, Algiers cafe proprietor Joseph Ortiz, was a fugitive. A warrant was out for his arrest.

In advance of the legislative session the government gave no indication of what use it would make of the special powers. But the President was expected to take swift action against civil and military leaders in Algeria who let the settlers' revolt get out of hand, and possibly to crack down on right-wing extremists who are the chief opponents of his Algerian policy.

The army started lifting its cordon around the center of Algiers, and civilians were allowed to penetrate the insurgents' former stronghold, the area around the university and the post office.

Stores, restaurants and bars were open everywhere except in the newly reorganized central section. Ortiz' bar was still closed, however.

CITY IS CALM The city was outwardly calm. Schools were crowded. Local papers headlined tributes to insurgents as "patriots" but noted that French unity had been saved. Lagallarde's arrival at a Paris jail was covered in a single paragraph. There were still large blanks where the censors had been at work.

Work gangs were tearing down the rebels' barricades and repaving the streets from which the insurgents ripped paving stones for their barricades.

Rockwall Native Slain In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP)—The stripped and battered body of Miss Maggie L. Hays, 48, a former Dallas resident, was found Monday outside her apartment hotel. Police said she had been raped.

Miss Hays, a night hotel auditor, apparently was on her way to work when she was killed. She was a native of Rockwall, Tex.

SAC Head Sees Need For Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Thomas S. Power contended today that this country needs broader plans and more money for defense because nobody knows when Soviet leaders might launch a surprise missile attack.

At the same time he renewed, in testimony at a Senate hearing, an estimate of Soviet missile capabilities which has put him in disagreement with the Pentagon's top men.

The four-star general, chief of the Strategic Air Command, said in a New York speech Jan. 19 that a surprise attack by 300 Soviet ballistic missiles could within 30 minutes wipe out most of the bomber and missile striking forces of this country unless missile warning systems are ready. Those forces are Power's command.

Since then Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. has told Congress that he and the Joint Chiefs of Staff consider Power's estimate unrealistic.

As a witness today at a joint hearing of the Senate Space Committee and the Watchdog Preparedness subcommittee on conflicting proposals for defense, Power told the senators: "I still stand by my statements in that speech."

Power said the proper margin of safety requires that a large part of SAC's big jet bombers be on a continuous airborne alert, so the bombers would not be caught on the ground and destroyed by surprise.

Asked if the present budget provides a start to such an alert, chiefly spare parts and crews, Power replied with a blunt "no."

Now For A Cool Platform

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Two bearded beatniks left their coffee houses Monday night long enough to file for political office.

Each filed for the post of Democratic precinct chairman—the only office that requires no filing fee. "Big Mike" filed in Precinct 95, an exclusive residential district near Texas Christian University.

"The Hero" filed in a downtown district, Precinct 4. Wrapped in an outfit made of two Army blankets tied around the waist with some old cord, and wearing leather thong sandals, "Big Mike" said he plans to start a door-to-door campaign today.

His real name is Mike Callaway, 23, recently discharged from the Air Force.

His pad is in the rear of a coffee house called "The Kismet" where Mike reads poetry.

"The Hero" is Peter Gill, a tall, bearded Fort Worth resident who pads down above "The Cellar," a downtown coffee house where he reads poetry, bounces uncooperative guests and greets the interested non-beat. A former auto mechanic, Gill refuses to give his age but looks to be about 25.

Gill proclaimed himself a foe of the poll tax. Asked if he was a conservative or liberal he replied: "Mother, I'm whichever is most politically wise."

Callaway says his platform is "honesty and integrity."

Dallas Man Has 8 Girls

DALLAS (AP)—Virgil J. Zipper brought his wife and eighth daughter home from the hospital Monday.

There were no boys at home to greet the new arrival.

"I don't want another man around the house," Zipper said. "This way I'm boss."

There are a few problems in having an all feminine family. Mrs. Zipper, 35, said. Take the matter of names—each girl has two, making 16 names in all.

"I did have a little trouble at the end of the list," she admitted. Mrs. Zipper doesn't sew and she thinks providing the girls with fetching frocks as they grow older may be a problem.

Mrs. Zipper has been married 16 years. He is a contractor.

The all-girl roster includes Dorothy Ann, 15; Sandra Lee, 13; Patricia Carol, 10; Judy Elaine, 7; Connie Darlene, 3; Cindy Marie, 2; Shirley Lynn, 1; and 3-day-old Peggy Jean.

Voting Strength Continues Gain

Deputies in the office of Mrs. Viola Robinson, tax collector, were still busy Tuesday processing mail applications for poll taxes, and the final number of qualified voters in the county was still undetermined.

Mrs. Robinson said that so far, 9,320 poll tax receipts and 1,770 exemption certificates have been issued. This brings the incomplete total to 11,090.

A large number of letters remain to be opened and processed and Mrs. Robinson said that it was doubtful if the final figure will be known for several days.

When all applications have been handled, the lists will have to be rechecked to strike out those which are void.

There is a very good chance, Mrs. Robinson said, the final figure may be equal to, or a little larger, than 1952's all time record of 11,315.

Polar Explorer's Hut Is Uncovered

MÉDFORD, Mass. (AP) — A rude hut which sheltered Robert F. Scott, English explorer, on his second, fatal antarctic expedition has been found by a Tufts College geology group.

Scott perished in 1912 while studying the frozen hinterland.

Discovery of the hut was announced Monday by Prof. Robert L. Nichols, noted geologist, who said it is located at Granite Harbor.

Possibly a clue to explorers' literary preference, two volumes were found in the hut, one of Poe and the other Jules Verne. With them were shoes, spice boxes and a tobacco tin.

Dr. Nichols returned Thursday with the Tufts College National Science Foundation Antarctic Expedition after three months study.

rich in invention, fantasy and friskiness. At Quarryville, in Lancaster County, heart of the Pennsylvania Dutch country, the Slumbering Ground Hog Lodge claims to be the most rugged, zealous and picturesque in the land.

Under the leadership of its hibernating governor, Robert Herr, a pump maker normally, the lodge brothers turn out at dawn in tall silk hats and long white nightrobes, some on foot, some on horseback, many aboard a train on a four-mile long abandoned railroad taken over for this purpose. They carry shepherds' crooks and wear heavy chains and huge golden keys around their necks on their chests.

Behind that facade it is hard to recognize doctors, lawyers, industrialists, bankers, the sober-sides of a workaday world. In Western Pennsylvania, the devotees of Punxsutawney Pete, who for years has forecast weather from fanned Gobbler's Knob, deride the Quarryville boys as copy cats. Quarryville retorts that whatever age difference there may be is slight, and what's more, its members seek out the groundhog properly whereas the Punxsutawney club just pretends to do so.

Perhaps Punxsutawney can be said to have jolted the others a bit this year, what with the promised appearance of Pete on a national TV show.

Elsewhere in Pennsylvania, other doings of a rare order are the forays of "Grundow Number Ains on da Lecha," which means "Ground Hog No. 1 on the Lehigh," and the sometimes solemn, sometimes facetious sizing up of ground hog reactions at the Philadelphia Zoo.

DEAR ABBY

OH, BROTHER!

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 46-year-old bachelor who is in love with a 27-year-old woman with two children. Her divorce (for which I am paying) is pending. I bought her a new car and spend over $1,000 for clothes for her and her children. She says she'll marry me when she's free, but in the meantime I don't see much of her. She saves every Saturday night for me, but every Tuesday she dates her old boyfriend (she says she's trying to let him down easy). On Wednesdays she goes out with her boss. (She says her boss depends on this). Thursday nights she "freelance" with the girls. Sundays she reserves for her husband because he likes to see the kids, but he stays all night against her lawyer's orders. My friends say I am being taken for a ride. Am I?

DEAR ABBY: I am a sophomore girl. I'm not especially beautiful, but I'm not exactly ugly either. Let's say I am about average. Abby, if I had my wish, I would wish that I could turn into a boy every time there was a school dance. I would go around and ask all the broken-hearted girls sitting on the sidelines to dance. "ON THE SIDELINES"

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who refuses to leave her house because she is afraid her 18-year-old daughter might eat something. This daughter looked like a baby elephant a year ago. Her mother took her to a doctor who put her on a strict diet. The girl lost about sixty pounds, but she still isn't skinny. My friend says every time she leaves her daughter alone she finds empty cans of spaghetti and pork and beans, and she can't trust her. We have had many arguments over this because I say the mother

Formby Out As Candidate

AUSTIN (AP)—The last of two strong threats to Gov. Price Daniel's bid for a third term disappeared Monday when Marshall Formby decided not to run for governor. Earlier Atty. Gen. Will Wilson switched his apparent 1960 political aims from the governor's chair to re-election. Still in the race for Democratic nomination to be governor is Jack Fox of Breckenridge, former executive secretary of Freedom in Action. The filing deadline for the May 7 Democratic primaries ended at midnight with Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson heading a small group of uncommitted incumbents. Bob Looney, a young Austin attorney, filed less than three hours before midnight as a candidate for attorney general. He will oppose Wilson and House Speaker Waggoner Carr. The 35-year-old Looney is the son of a well known Austin attorney, Everett Looney. Texas Republicans will nominate their statewide candidates at a May 30 convention. Democratic nomination in Texas usually means election. However, GOP leaders promise a slate of statewide candidates, including opponents for Daniel and Johnson. "I certainly am not closing the door on anything in the future," Formby told reporters here Monday. "I just don't think it's worth it. I think a race would be a bitter son of a gun. I like a hard race, but not a bitter one."

Formby calls Plainview his home. La. Gov. Ben Ramsey, running for his sixth term, officially got an opponent when Don Yarborough, Houston attorney, paid his $600 filing fee. Candidates without opponents include Agriculture Commissioner John White, State Treasurer Jesse James, Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson, Supreme Court Justice Clyde E. Smith and Supreme Court Justice Joe Greenhill. Contested races include: governor, Daniel and Cox; lieutenant governor, Ramsey and Yarborough; attorney general, Looney, Carr and Wilson; land commissioner, Bill Alcorn and Jerry Sadler; state controller, Robert S. Calvert and V. L. Ramsey; Court of Criminal Appeals Judge, Jim Bowmer, Lloyd W. Davidson and W. T. McDonald; and chief justice, Supreme Court, Robert W. Calvert and Robert G. Hughes. In 12 races for positions on the courts of civil appeals, there is one contest. That was in the Seventh Supreme Judicial District at Amarillo with James G. Denton opposing Jesse Owens.

Had Friend Who Had No Bank Checking Account Fern Cox, deputy sheriff, figures it takes all kinds. Monday afternoon there was a report to the sheriff's office of a suspicious character with a check for $150 which he was attempting to cash. The character had taken the check to a store and it had been suggested that he take it to the bank. He seemed pleased at the suggestion and did just that. Cox caught up with him at the bank where he was being detained since the check was on a non-existent account. He had gotten it from a friend, who had asked that he cash it. How long had he known this friend? Well, he met him on Sunday night. Where was the friend? Why he was in a room at a hotel waiting for the messenger to bring him the cash. "Let's go see your friend," said Cox. And they did. Sure enough there was the friend. Yes, he told Cox he had written the check and asked the other man to cash it. No, he didn't have any bank account. Yes, he had signed his own name. He needed some money, he explained, to get his car repaired. So Cox took both men into custody and is conferring with prosecuting attorneys as to the nature of a possible charge.

Assault Charges Result In Term Jack Langham, with two charges of aggravated assault against his wife, Maida, pleaded guilty in Howard County Court on Monday afternoon. Judge Ed Carpenter applied a 30 days in jail sentence on the first complaint. He fined Langham $100 and costs on the second. Piquinto Guatero Diaz, charged with DWI, drew a fine of $75 and three days in jail on pleading guilty to the charge.

Child Is Born, Parents Surprised LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Richard Lewises' fourth child was a complete surprise—even to Mrs. Lewis. Her husband, Capt. Richard Lewis of the Los Angeles fire department, said Monday: "We were just sitting around the house Sunday when Ellen said, 'I feel like I'm going to have a baby.' I thought she was kidding so I just grinned and said, 'That's fine—go ahead.' " "I'm not fooling," she told me. And by golly, she wasn't! Lewis teaches birth procedures to fire department emergency crews, but "Things got kind of fuzzy at one point and I couldn't remember all the details. But finally the baby was born—7 pounds, 6 1/2 ounces." Mrs. Lewis said she thought nothing of her only indication of pregnancy—the need to change from a size 14 dress to a 15.

Carole's Aide Lashes State For Trickery LOS ANGELES (AP)—Carole Tregoff's attorney says she was "tricked by the prosecution into saying something it wanted her to say—so she could be arrested." He contends a judge was a party to this purported injustice. Robert A. Neeb Jr., counsel for the 23-year-old former model on trial with her doctor lover for the murder of his wife, told the court Monday: "I never knew a case in 25 years which has the aura of this one. This issue is larger than this court."

Carole's Aide Lashes State For Trickery

Neeb was battling admission to evidence of the transcript of Dr. R. Bernard Finch's preliminary hearing. In it Miss Tregoff tells of her love for him and admits intimacies with the handsome, 42-year-old surgeon. After testifying at the preliminary hearing she was arrested. Neeb charged that at the hearing Dep. Dist. Atty. Fred N. Whichello aided by Municipal Judge Albert H. Miller, got Carole to make statements which might incriminate her. "In my opinion," said Neeb, "there was a concert of action between the district attorney and the judge—and the victim was on the witness stand." Neeb told Superior Court Judge Walter R. Evans: "What I argue may not be important nor long remembered. But what you do here may be long remembered in the annals of justice."

THIS DAY IN TEXAS By CURTIS BISHOP The Texas story of a fabulous family had its beginning on this day in 1828 when Francis Stillman and his son arrived at Brazos Santiago. The occasion was important to the Texas story for another reason. The ship "Albion" was the first American steamship to chug up the waters of the Rio Grande. Francis Stillman died in 1838 but his son, Charles, displayed the same business genius. He operated a steamship line, was primarily responsible for the organization of Brownsville and became one of the first Texas millionaires. Trading in Baghdad during the Civil War and just afterward supplemented his wealth. Two of his early associates in the steamship business also earned wealth—Capt. Richard King and Milton Kennedy. Stillman moved to New York after the Civil War and died there in December, 1875. He was near 90-years-old. He was born in Connecticut in April, 1785. A third generation of Stillmans prospered in proportion. James Stillman was president of the National City Bank of New York and when he died in 1917 he left a fortune of some 200 million. The Stillman family continued to own property in Brownsville until 1922.

Guard Sponsors Essay Contest An essay contest for high school seniors, sponsored by the National Guard Assn., will be launched in Big Spring next month. Capt. E. D. Wallace, unit commander of the local organization, said the essay contest will be sponsored nationally to get high school seniors interested in American history. All senior boys will be urged to participate in the contest which will include cash scholarship awards to winners. Tentative date for the contest is March 1-13, Wallace explained. First prize will be $1,000, deposited in the college of the winner's choice to be used for tuition or board. Second and third place winners will receive $500 and the fourth place winner will receive $250. Topic for the essays this year will be "George Washington, Colonel of Militia." The topic will be changed in successive years.

Tired Feeling Causes Business Failure By HALVARD T. HANSEN, D.C. Every day many men fail to make a good living because they are not well. Salesmen especially reap a jumbo-sized penalty when that "tired feeling" robs them of the vim, vitality and enthusiasm that is so very necessary to successful selling. A tired, "I don't care" attitude kills any hope of success and often drives an otherwise ambitious man to drink instead of searching for the cause of his trouble. Men are too proud to admit illness. They stand with clenched teeth and brush off the suggestion of illness because they mistakenly associate illness with weakness. That's why apparently strong men collapse and die in their prime, that might otherwise have lived to enjoy the fruits of their labors. Hope Given Up For African Miners COALBROOK, South Africa (AP)—The South African Broadcasting Corp. said today all 438 miners trapped for 11 days in the Clydesdale colliery have been given up for dead. The broadcast observed one minute's silence after the announcement. The disaster, worst in South African mining history, occurred Jan. 21, when 429 Africans and 6 whites were trapped more than 500 feet below ground by a massive rock fall.

Israeli-Arab Tension Grows Israel and the Syrian province of the U.A.R. The announcement of the impending U.A.R. troop move charged that Israel "has not lost its appetite for usurping Arab lands." Israel charged most firing Monday night from the Syrian side of the frontier. An Israeli spokesman said Syrian mortars and machine-guns opened fire just before midnight in the demilitarized Jordan River sector near the Sea of Galilee. Monday's violence included an air battle over the border area and an artillery and tank battle before dawn on the southeast shore of the Sea of Galilee. The Syrians said their MIG jets shot down one of four Israeli Super-Mystere jet fighters and damaged another over Syrian territory. An Israeli spokesman said two Israeli fighters took on four Syrian jets over Israeli territory and repulsed the Arab planes without casualties to either side. Israel reported three Israeli and two Syrian soldiers killed in the ground clash. The current tension centers on Tawala, an Arab village in the zone demilitarized by the 1949 Syrian-Israeli armistice. Israel maintains the Syrians are using the village as a military outpost and are sending in soldiers disguised as farmers. Israeli units blew up most of the houses in the village Sunday night after it was abandoned by the Syrians. The Syrians countercharged that Israel is trying to drive Arab farmers from lands in the area that are rightfully Arab. They said the village was used only by Arab farmers who "casually drop in there when they work on their land."

Hoffa Spends Sundays In Kennedy Opposition

WASHINGTON (AP)—President James R. Hoffa of the Teamsters Union is spending his Sundays stirring up opposition in Wisconsin and other states to the presidential aspirations of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.). Hoffa is opposed to every member of Congress who voted last year for the new labor control law — he calls it the Kennedy-Landrum-Griffin Act. But Kennedy, a leading candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, is Hoffa's prime target. Some other labor leader share Hoffa's dislike for Kennedy's

Judge Sets Ruling In Oil Conspiracy

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—U.S. Judge Royce H. Savage decides today on a key motion for acquittal of one of 29 oil companies being tried on price fixing conspiracy charges. The motion involves Cities Service Co. whose attorney, former U.S. Judge Simon H. Rifkind of New York, based the move on the government's only summary of the antitrust case. Rifkind told Savage in the opening session of the non-jury criminal trial Monday that he filed the motion for acquittal "with timidity" since the government has taken such extensive preparations for the trial.

No Freeze For Texas

By The Associated Press
Light rain fell on Central Texas early Tuesday as above freezing temperatures were reported throughout the state. Morning temperatures varied from 34 degrees at Dalhart to 59 at Brownsville. Temperatures ranged from the mid 30s to the upper 50s. Skies were clear over West Texas and mostly cloudy elsewhere. Maximum temperatures Monday ranged from 51 at Amarillo to 76 at Presidio. The lowest reading of the day was 22 at Dalhart at dawn.

One County In District Raises U. S. Bond Quota

United States savings bond sales for Howard County fell short of the 1959 goal by nearly $178,000. The county goal for the year was set at $852,000, of which $673,677 or 79 per cent was attained, according to Larson Lloyd, district chairman. Dist. No. 5 containing Howard and seven other counties, reached only 77.1 per cent of its combined goal. Lloyd reported. Dawson was the only county in this district to reach its goal. Lloyd added. Its goal was $114,000 and sales in that county amounted to $148,000 during 1959 or 130.3 per cent of the mark. Michell County sold $152,790 or 87.2 per cent of its $290,000 goal, according to J. C. Pritchett, county chairman. James Jones, Chairman of Martin County, announced attainment of 80.4 per cent of that county's $51,000 goal. Gaines County reached 72.6 per cent of its goal of $140,000. Andrews County sold 68 per cent of its $66,000 goal, and Scurry County attained 58.5 per cent of its goal of $429,000, Lloyd reported. In Dist. No. 3, six of the 12 counties reached their set marks. Garza County sold 125.2 per cent of a goal of $127,000 and Lynn County reached 123.4 per cent of a $259,000 mark, according to J. E. Waller, district chairman. Other counties in the area include: Lubbock County with 62 per cent of a $2,187,000 goal and Terry stand on the labor bill. Still others, among them AFL-CIO President George Meany, credit Kennedy with eliminating some of the provisions most opposed by organized labor. Hoffa said in an interview it is too early to say who the Teamsters Union might favor for president in either party, although he's busy picking and choosing among congressional candidates. He indicated his special opposition to Kennedy is two-fold. First, he blames Kennedy for the new labor law. Second, the senator's brother, Robert Kennedy, as counsel for the Senate Labor-Management Committee, kept Hoffa uncomfortably busy the equivalent of two months as a witness. "I just go out and tell the boys (Teamsters members) the truth, that's all — like the problems facing labor that Kennedy must accept responsibility for," Hoffa said. Two weeks ago Hoffa chartered a plane and flew to Mauston, Wis., an important trucking stop. In a lengthy speech to more than 300 truckers, he blasted Kennedy "as a millionaire playboy brought up by nursemaids." Another Sunday Hoffa took a special plane to Buffalo, N.Y., for largely the same purpose. He said he plans more such meetings in Wisconsin and elsewhere. "We're going to have about four more meetings, I'd say to discuss our union business in Wisconsin," he said, indicating these would be held before the April 5 Wisconsin presidential primary. Hoffa said the Teamsters Union is geared to do its most active political job in 1960. A plan to solicit voluntary contributions from all Teamsters on a nationwide basis has been junked. Instead, local Teamsters councils are doing the fund raising. "Each council handles it in a different way," Hoffa said vaguely. "But practically all of them are set up." For the first time the Teamsters also have set up a political department in Washington. Hoffa said its function will be confined to mailing out literature, voting records and extending general assistance.

in this courtroom, I realized the governments want it to go on," he said. "But on the basis of the government's brief and the appendix on both the theory and support of the case, I feel a judgment of acquittal is in order. The government has established no prima facie case." Savage rejected two other motions. One sought dismissal of charges against three firms. The other motion asked dismissal of all defendants. All are charged with conspiring in 1956 and through January 1957, to "raise, fix and stabilize" the price they paid for crude oil and got for gasoline in a 43-state marketing area. The opening session dealt largely with admitting into court records the numerous defense-owned documents by which the government hopes to prove its case. There were 154 such documents and an additional 137 stipulations between the government and defense. The stipulations largely involved corporate identities, positions of the defendants in interstate commerce, their share of the gasoline market and posted prices and purchase of crude oil. Savage on a point involving government exhibits, ruled the defense could enter into the record an entire list of price bulletins covering a greater period than the ones the government submitted as evidence. On this point the government was accused by one defense lawyer of "trying to pick and choose" from available records.

Proxmire Sees 10-Year Fight Against Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) said today it may take 10 years to win his fight against what he calls one-man rule of the Senate by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson (Tex.). Proxmire said in a newsletter. Johnson on Jan. 12 turned back a revolt against his powers. A closed conference that day of Democratic senators voted down, 51-12, a proposal to strip Johnson of control of the party policy committee, expand the committee's size and direct it to develop an over-all policy. Sen. Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex.) was one of the 12 voting against Johnson. Proxmire did not say how he planned to gain additional support for curbing Johnson's powers. "This will be a very long struggle before we win, and by long I mean several years—perhaps 10

A Devotional For Today

Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness? (II Corinthians 6:14.)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, increase our love for our brothers in Christ. Help us all to grow in grace. Use us to reach others for Christ, that they may dwell in the light found in Him. In His name we pray. Amen. (From The 'Upper Room')

Content Proper Subject For Cleanup

Parents who worry about the type of TV and movies their children are subjected to would be interested in an article current in the Ladies Home Journal by Dr. Fredric Wertham, the noted psychiatrist-neurologist.

He says in effect, that people who correlate the effect of violence on the screen with that which children are familiar with in comics and fairy tales, as apologists for the on-screen violence are prone to do, overlook one vital difference: to a child what he sees on the screen, performed by live persons, is very real, while what he reads in a book or is told in stories is mere make-believe. This is particularly true of children under ten. The average child of that age nowadays will see more violence on the screen in thirty minutes than the average adult experiences in a lifetime.

Nine times in 10 there is no artistic justification for the brutality, he says. He cites the report of a Los Angeles group which listed the TV fare in Los Angeles for a single week, before nine o'clock in the evening. It included 161 murders, 60 "justifiable" killings, 2 suicides, 182 attempted murders, 83 robberies, 15 kidnappings, 24 murder conspiracies, 21 jailbreaks, 7 attempted lynchings, 6 dynamiteings, 11 extortions, 2 cases of arson and two of torture.

"The industry" is making a great deal to do over cleaning up such things as payola, fixed quiz shows and exaggerated and repulsive advertising while the violence goes on all but unremarked.

Dr. Wertham closes by quoting a judge who asserts the need of protection of young minds from perversion by "the mass medium of movies and television."

Compared to that need, the hullabaloo over quiz shows and payola seems like a flash in the pan.

Back Of It Is A Good Record

A number of factors figured in the phenomenal success of the YMCA membership effort last week. At a time when it had been necessary to raise the budget by 65 per cent, there naturally was a need to readjust membership fees.

Practically all of the budget increase had to come out of memberships because the United Fund could not bear (nor could it be expected to bear) a major amount of the greater financial support. Hence, it boiled down to doubling the amount of membership fees.

Naturally, there was some misgivings even among the most faithful and most optimistic.

But the YMCA, with its new plant, will have a lot more to offer. Memberships now carry the potential of actual participation on many fronts rather than a gesture of support of a worthy movement. Then the happy circumstance of securing Art Linkletter as a speaker (it's not generally known that Mr. Linkletter came only for his transportation expense and did not charge one thin dime for his services) provided a forum before 800 people and capitalized on the enthusiasm of all that number. Moreover, this was of such importance news wise that the media gave it major play, and here a promotional bonanza resulted.

But back of all this, the campaign could not have succeeded—let alone gone so far beyond expectations—had not the YMCA earned a record that merited confidence and support. And that surely must have been the basis on the providential shaping of events with such happy results.

Logic Versus Cries Of Rage And Pain

WASHINGTON — If they were not so grim about it there would be something almost comic in the attitude of most Democrats toward Richard Nixon. It is with a kind of awe, as though he were the Loch Ness monster equipped with an electronic brain and guidance system of incalculable superiority, that they speak of the man they will confront in the campaign this fall.

As they demonstrated at their recent big $100-a-plate get-together, they have a compelling reason to be so. Part of this is understandable. It goes back to the campaigns of innuendo Nixon conducted at the start of his political career, impugning the loyalty and patriotism first of Jerry Voorhis, against whom he ran for Congress, and then of Helen Gahagan Douglas in the Senate race.

More difficult to understand is the implied conviction that Nixon, by his dazzling techniques, will put himself over on the public. And this, in the Democratic view, would be contrary to law, order, morality and nature itself.

WITHOUT A CANDIDATE in sight on whom they can unite, the Democrats are obviously not prepared at this stage to formulate a strategy for Nixon's defeat. But they talk about it a great deal, with much of the talk based on the assumption that the American people can never accept such a political slicker.

That is the identity they stress—the smart political operator whose opportunism shows through his guile. That opportunism is reflected, or so the uneasy Democrats believe, in his face. To sustain the point, Adlai Stevenson recently told a story about Lincoln when the first Republican President was under great pressure to name a certain man to an important postmastership.

Lincoln repeatedly refused, although he was importuned by some of his important political backers. Pressed for a reason, he finally said he just didn't like the man's face.

"THERE, YOU SEE," the answer came back from the chief promoter, "this proves that you don't really have a reason to turn our candidate down."

"Oh, yes, I do," said Lincoln in the Stevenson story. "Every man after 40 is responsible for his face."

Whether there is an instinctive reaction against Nixon and whether it will weigh with the voters at the polls is an open question. This may be merely the wishful thinking of Democrats who refuse to forget the past. Certainly, they cannot forgive Nixon for being the hatchet man in successive national campaigns when President Eisenhower was taking the high road above the political battle.

But to count on the instinctive reaction would seem, particularly in view of Nixon's considerable talents, to be most unwise. Nor is name-calling likely to prove effective. For the kind of name-calling that went on at the Democratic dinner suggests an uncomfortable political parallel.

DURING THE TWO DECADES beginning in 1932, when they wandered in the political desert, the Republicans never met together in small groups or big conventions without denouncing Franklin Roosevelt. They called him every name under the sun, printable names in public and unprintable names in private. No crime was too low to impute to him.

This is not to suggest the slightest resemblance between Nixon and FDR, a suggestion which the Vice President's admirers and detractors alike would instantly reject. But it is to say that the negativism of this incessant name-calling was one of the more depressing aspects of Republicanism in the years in the desert. The very act of jumping up and down in indignation gives the object of the indignation an importance he might not otherwise have.

SENATOR PAUL DOUGLAS of Illinois, in the economic report recently brought out under his direction, indicates the kind of vulnerability on which the Nixon attack can be centered. It underlines, as does an article in the current Harper's by J. Kenneth Galbraith, the Nixon claim to be the bold fighter against inflation. That kind of documented challenge will weigh more with the voters than cries of rage and pain.

It is possible that the passion of the Nixon denunciation reflects the defeatists view that the Republican candidate with all his guileful technique is unbeatable. This is the kind of danger, one a danger, an assumption for all concerned. In 1948 most of the politicians and all the poll takers and commentators thought the Republicans had in Thomas E. Dewey an invincible candidate. The voters proved them wrong.

Shade Assured

ST. LOUIS — Perhaps, as Joyce Kilmer said, only God can make a tree but the city of St. Louis can, and does, give them away.

The city's residential sections have long been known for their shady tree-lined streets. But the trees, many of them planted more than 100 years ago, are beginning to die off.

So the city department of parks, recreation and forestry raised some shade trees, and they're free to any St. Louis home owner or renter. Each tree is from eight to 10 feet tall.

James Marlow De Gaulle, Ike Show Great Restraint

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Charles de Gaulle and resident Eisenhower have in common a remarkable quality which has served them well in critical moments. It is restraint.

With great calmness and self-confidence, De Gaulle has just smashed the greatest threat to his presidency and the continued existence of the French Republic: the revolt in Algiers.

Eisenhower, without fireworks and practically without raising his voice, has handled one crisis and peril after another during his seven years in the White House.

WHERE DO THEY GET this quality of restraint? There are several factors, of course. For instance their individual characters and philosophies; the fact that both grew up in a Democratic tradition. But there seem to be others.

Perhaps, because both had gained so much self-assurance as military leaders, neither felt it necessary to prove his strength or toughness by belligerence when faced with crises in their political careers. They had become used to crises.

Unlike politicians whose prestige was derived from their office, Eisenhower and De Gaulle had built up a huge backlog of public confidence in themselves as military men.

Both therefore were in a position to rely on their prestige, outweighing and finally ending in their favor the problem that they faced them.

WITHOUT SUCH PRE-political prestige, and the self-assurance acquired long before, they might have felt it necessary to assert their power by force when confronted with a challenge to their political authority.

This may explain in part why two such political monsters as Hitler and Mussolini depended upon force (or their solutions and made a religion of military action.

Neither of them came to power through previous military prestige but, in fact, had only humble and insignificant military careers.

Unless there is another war, future De Gaulles and Eisenhowers are apt to be few and far between if only because the kind of prestige they got can come to military men only in war.

It is easy to recall some of Eisenhower's demonstrations of restraint.

The first was soon after he took office in 1953 and Sen. Joseph McCarthy attacked him. Eisenhower, in putting himself against Eisenhower, was relying on what he thought was the prestige he had won as a Communist-hunter.

Eisenhower could have fought back. Instead, he depended on public confidence in him and let his aides challenge McCarthy in a public showdown which steadily and surely eroded McCarthy.

Again Eisenhower, despite the provocations of Egyptian President Nasser, avoided the possibility of world war by stopping in a hurry the British-French invasion of Egypt.

The Red Chinese became a steady irritant with their attacks on the outposts of Formosa. Eisenhower stood firm, without belligerence, and the Chinese quieted down.

To Your Good Health The Rise And Fall Of Heart Voltage

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D. If a patient's heart stopped, and you happened to have a cardiographic test in progress, the line on the chart would be a straight one.

This, by the way, has happened, and sometimes the patient's heart has been started again, and, alas, sometimes not.

The point is that electrical impulses tell the heart when to beat. If they are not present, the heart does not beat. (Please look up yesterday's paper for the underlying facts in this.)

In the normal state, there is, for an appreciable length of time, no electrical impulse, no voltage. Then the impulse comes along, measured in a very small fraction of a volt, and the heart "beats." The impulse goes first to the upper portion of the heart, and then, very swiftly, it is transmitted to the lower section of the heart. Remember that the heart has four chambers, two upper ones, or "auricles," and two lower ones, or "ventricles."

So, if you look at a cardiogram, you see a straight line (meaning no voltage) and then see a sudden meaning that an electrical impulse has occurred. This makes the upper chambers of the heart react, or "pump."

Then the electrical impulse, in a split second, carries on downward and makes the lower chambers react.

The gap between the first and second pulse of voltage is important. So, too, of course, is the regularity with which the sequence occurs. If a patient has had a heart attack, very often there will be some delay between the two impulses.

The shape of the curve (and the shape simply records the rise and fall of voltage) is also important. For one instance, an attack of rheumatic fever will cause a prolonged time (relatively prolonged, although only a small part of a second) between when the impulse reaches the upper, and then the lower, chambers of the heart.

A lack of potassium in the system, to give you another instance, results in a recognizable change in the shape of the second part of the "bump" in the electrocardiogram.

It is entirely possible for the voltage, and the rhythm of impulses, to become highly deranged, and yet improve again to a remarkable degree. That is why, at times, a whole series of cardiograms may be needed, showing whether the heart is gaining or losing.

A condition known as "heart block" in which, for one reason or another, the timing between the upper and lower chambers will vary, is another condition which the cardiogram shows.

All of which gives us, I should

No Mail Ever Came For Tom Price

IF YOU DIG INTO the old postal records long enough you'll come up with a petition dating back a good many years before the turn of the century asking that a post office be established in Lone Grove, I. T. (Indian Territory).

Lone Grove today is a small village, perhaps the size of Coahoma. It was not that big in the '80's. However, distances meant a lot more then than today and the folk who lived in the little town and its vicinity wanted to have their own post office and avoid long trips to the nearest place where such service was then available.

There was a general store in the town and this, everyone agreed, was the logical location for a post office. The proprietor, a colorful frontier character named Price, agreed to investigate the matter. He found out that it was necessary a petition be filed bearing a specified number of names asking the establishment of the post office.

THE ACTUAL NUMBER of signatures escapes me but it was small. Let's say, for illustration, the post office department required that there be at least 30 residents who would sign a petition they wanted their mail handled at a post office in Lone Grove.

They circulated the petition vigorously. At the end of the allotted time, it was found that it had but 29 names.

A recheck of the community disclosed there were no families which had been overlooked and that every qualified resident had signed.

Storekeeper Price was not to be undone by such a situation.

He sat with the petition spread before him on the store counter. He counted the names over and over and they came out one short every time.

His attention was attracted to a movement back of the stove in the little store. The store cat, a big brindled feline was padding quietly past the stove on his way outside.

The storekeeper pondered.

"BY GOSH," he said to himself, "there's that extra resident. Ole Tom's a resident of Lone Grove, Ain't nobody in the community but what knows him. He's entitled to get his mail here just like any other resident."

So he picked up his pencil and added one name to the list: "Tom Price."

The petition was shipped off to Washington. After the usual delay encountered in such governmental operations, the post office charter arrived. The postal department accepted the petition and agreed that Lone Grove should have its own post office.

Everyone of the petition's signers, I assume, received more or less mail at the post office—with one exception. No letters ever came for Tom Price.

If you want to dig deep enough into the old records, you'd probably find that petition. And there at the bottom you'll find the name of "Tom Price."

The post office never bothered to investigate who Tom Price was and it didn't bother Tom that he got no mail. Nor, for that matter, did it ever bother Storekeeper Price.

Les Girls And Their Gracious Living Poll

In this best-of-all possible worlds, two recent news items have gladdened my trembling heart.

First off, out in Bangkok, where he passed on a world tour, W. Somerset Maugham on the eve of his 86th birthday anniversary flatly predicted that within 200 to 300 years "English will be the universal language spoken all over the world."

Well, hurrah for our side! Willie Maugham has given me the best rebuttal yet to those people who keep rushing up and insisting on repeating to me the 1960 definition of an optimist and a pessimist — the optimist is studying Russian; the pessimist, Chinese.

I don't know on what Mr. Maugham bases his prediction. But he is such a wise old operator that I have just burned my Russian grammar.

AND THE SECOND ITEM that has reassured me that everything is for the best in this best of preconceived, prepackaged and predigested worlds is the announcement that "certified good taste" now comes prepackaged and predigested — a sensational development that means that all of us, even Gravel Gertie, can now enjoy gracious living.

Oh, I tell you it is simply thrilling that 75 women, all certified members of certified New York society, have banded together at goodness knows what sacrifice to their certified life and times to see that Americans enjoy certified good taste.

THESE CERTIFIED LADIES for a certified nominal fee are now available to advise the manufacturers of consumer goods, from automobiles to zipped play-suits, as to whether their products meet the rarefied requirements of certified good taste, or merely stink.

Les girls, behind a banner reading "Excelsior," have organized themselves into the American Institute of Approval, Inc., a lodge name succinct with modesty and authority. A manufacturer, for example, who doesn't know whether to put more chrome on tail fins, brings his problems to these modern vestal virgins. And, for a certified fee, they tell him how much chrome on tail fins constitutes gracious living. And that's that.

This enlightened plan to give Americans prepackaged, certified good taste is the brainchild of Lady Douglas-Hamilton, an American woman who, when she went abroad to live, was shocked beyond everything but words by the criticism of American manufactured products as — well, as not in certified good taste.

SHE FELT KEENLY THAT something should be done about the whole sad-ungracious matter. Her solution is the institute. And how were the vestal virgins of industry chosen? Well, on Lady Douglas-Hamilton's original theory that "if you choose people who have led cultivated and gracious lives, their opinions are about the best you can find."

Not opinions on HOW things should be manufactured, of course, but HOW they should look for gracious living. The girls are geared, for instance, to help a fellow in sauce pans, say, who's rackin' his brains wit' a problem that's too big for him, like is copper-bottom pans more gracious than stainless steel? These certified ladies can settle his uncertified hash in a wink for a certified fee.

Or take a guy in rugs who can't figure whether fake Aubussons or fake Persians are more gracious this season. So he takes his problem to the vestals. And he gets the right answer before he can say "fake Navajo." Saves him a fortune, makes one for les girls, and spreads certified culture and good taste across the country like cholera.

The Gallup Poll

GOP Weaker In Basic Voting Strength

PRINCETON, N. J. — One thing that probably won't get mentioned at GOP fund-raising dinners this year is the fact that the Republican party today is weaker in basic voting strength than at almost any point in this century.

Despite the personal popularity of Eisenhower and Nixon, the GOP's present share of the Congressional vote is below that which it polled in the 1958 elections — its worst defeat in more than 20 years. To win the White House, in short, Gallup Poll findings indicate that Vice President Nixon would have to run ahead of his party by an even greater margin than President Eisenhower did in 1956.

In measuring basic party strength, Gallup Poll reporters asked this question of voters across the country:

"If the elections for Congress were being held today, which party would you like to see win in this state — the Republican party or the Democratic party?"

VOTE FOR CONGRESS
January, 1960

NIXON VS. KENNEDY

Candidate	Per Cent
Nixon	53
Kennedy	47

NIXON VS. STEVENSON

Candidate	Per Cent
Nixon	55
Stevenson	45

This would indicate, therefore, that Mr. Nixon is presently running about 11 to 13 points stronger than his party in the national voting.

One of the reasons why the Republican party's strength is at such a low ebb at present is offered by the results of a survey question about the amount of party activity in communities across the country — that is, which of the two parties seems to voters to be doing the better job in door-to-door calls, distributing party literature and other aspects of political party campaigning in their neighborhood.

The results show that even outside the South, where the Republicans must work hard to offset the Democrats' Southern advantage, the GOP is rated as less active than the Democrats.

Here is the question and the results: "Which party — the Republican or the Democratic — is the most active in your neighborhood at the present time?"

With Lucille Pickle

The pretty forsythia shrub is making many spots in Big Spring bright with its yellow bell-shaped blossoms. This is such a gay color in the otherwise dull time of year when nothing else is green or any other color for that matter. I am always amazed when our little plants start putting on their flowers which come before their leaves. Blooming as they do, it appears the plant has got its seasons fouled up.

MICHAEL JARRATT, son of MR. AND MRS. F. L. JARRATT, has returned to SMU after spending the week here. A freshman pre-med student, Michael had a four-point average at the end of the first semester.

Installing officer was Mrs. Choc Smith. Mrs. Herbert Johnson Sr. was grand senior, and Mrs. Herbert Johnson Jr. was grand manager.

Plans were made for a banquet to be held Feb. 18 at 6 p.m. in Castle Hall. The affair is to honor Mrs. Thelma Oliver of Tahoka, grand chief of Texas, when she makes her visit here.

It was reported that $30.35 had been earned for the March of Dimes by the MOD coffee given by the group.

The capsule prize was won by Mrs. Jack Wilson, while Mrs. Johnson Sr. was awarded the silver drill prize.

Following the sneeting a pink and blue shower was given for Mrs. E. L. Rodgers. Hostesses were Mrs. Doyle Vaughn and Mrs. Campbell.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

No Royal Road To Dieting Says Judy

By LYDIA LANE HOLLYWOOD — Judy Holliday spends so little time in Hollywood that I was pleased she found time to spend a portion of it with me. I visited her on the set the other day where she was rehearsing "Just in Time" with Dean Martin who co-stars with her in "Bells Are Ringing."

"You are a big star and an Academy Award winner. What has helped you get to the top?" I asked.

"I'm lucky," Judy said modestly. "I was the unknown who was given the starring role written for Jean Arthur."

"I'm an old friend of Judy's," the choreographer walking behind us said, "and it isn't just luck that brought her success. It is her honesty and warmth along with talent. Judy couldn't think or do a phony thing."

"I dislike phonies," Judy said, "and I don't think they are ever happy."

In the dining room Judy ordered a green salad and a cup of black coffee.

"The only time I don't have to watch my weight," Judy explained, "is when I'm doing a musical on the stage. At the end of 'Bells Are Ringing' I weighed four pounds lighter than at the beginning."

"Some people have the kind of metabolism that allows them to eat almost anything they want without gaining. My weight has been a problem with me ever since I can remember," Judy confessed. "And I'm lucky I didn't ruin my health with dieting. I made plenty of mistakes! I can tell you that there are no short cuts to dieting."

"Some of the crash diets are not harmful if you don't stay on them too long. But sometimes a person goes to the opposite extreme and that is when she'll ruin her health."

"When I was in high school I tried to get thin by eating only ice cream three times a day. I lost weight but my face broke out in pimples and my bad skin made me feel worse than my extra pounds."

"Then I went on a hard-boiled eggs and black coffee diet. This was supposed to be for only three days but I stayed on it for 10 and I felt terrible. It is a wonder I didn't ruin my health."

"Another time I tried a fat-free diet and my skin got so dried out that I looked terrible. The only sensible thing to do is get professional advice, if you want to lose weight fast," Judy declared.

"Your hair doesn't look like it's bleached," I remarked.

"Bleaching is another thing I think should be left to professionals," she exclaimed. "When I was on the road I tried doing it myself but I overlapped and it soon began to break. Once I used the wrong toner and my hair came out green. Judy laughed at the thought of it. "I'm not kidding. I tried everything I could find to get it blonde again and by the time I was finished my hair was a wreck."

"I now use a wonderful conditioner that really rebuilds the hair shafts. Once your hair has been abused as much as mine was you have to be careful," she added.

I asked Judy if there was ever a beauty problem that she had to overcome.

"The feeling that I wasn't pretty," she confided. "But George Cukor, the director, helped me enormously. He said, 'If you think beautiful, your thoughts will be expressed in your face. The features will be the same but you will look different.'"

"It was extraordinary how this worked in 'Born Yesterday.' In the beginning the girl is stupid and self-indulgent. Then she wants to improve herself and becomes less self-centered. Mr. Cukor ran the film for me and pointed out how pretty I had become at the end of the picture. I could see the change, too. It was amazing. So I tried doing the same thing with my life and the way I thought, and now I no longer think about how I look. Forgetting myself has given me a new confidence," she concluded.

DIET SLOWLY When you are considerably overweight, you may have accumulated many years of long-standing bad eating habits. In planning to reduce, it is more than a question of taking off the excess—it is the question of keeping it off. That is equally important. In Leaflet M-73, "Long Pull Diet," are planned meals to make you lose weight effectively. But the unusualness of this diet is that you have one free night from dieting when you can eat anything—and as much as you like. # Emmett McKenzie Is Hired As New Coach Of Steers

SMU Ex Will Assume Post On Feb. 17

By TOMMY HART
Big Spring High School orally hired itself a new head football coach and athletic director Monday night.

In a telephone conversation with Supt. of Schools Floyd R. Parsons, Emmett H. McKenzie, 32, of Nederland agreed to accept the position.

McKenzie, a graduate of Southern Methodist University and the Nederland head coach for three seasons, said he would formally resign that job in a meeting with his trustees tonight.

He added he was very pleased to receive the offer and accepted the post without reservation. He is expected to formally assume his duties here Feb. 17.

McKenzie's contract will extend for three years starting with his date of arrival. He will receive $2,500 per annum salary offer was agreeable to him. In addition, he will receive $240 yearly for travel expenses and the school district will pay his expenses in moving his household goods here.

Bob Bodenhamer of Lawton, Okla., who had been favored to get the position, suddenly withdrew from the picture Monday afternoon and announced he was remaining in Lawton. He did not give his reasons beyond saying that his family favored remaining in the Oklahoma city.

McKenzie met with the board for nearly three hours last Tuesday. He holds a master of arts degree from the University of Texas and his BS degree in geology from SMU.

He has been in the Nederland system for 11 years, having started coaching in junior high. He served as an assistant to the then Nederland coach, Bum Phillips, before taking over as head coach.

Phillips, now the head coach at Amarillo High School, gave him an unqualified endorsement and said he was bound to succeed as a coach.

McKenzie will be authorized to bring an assistant coach with him, if he so desires. His two top assistants now are Elwood Kettler and Joe Sibey but one of those could be hired as his replacement at Nederland.

Nederland is a member of District 11-AAA and is located in Jefferson County.

The Bulldogs won the state championship the year McKenzie took over as head coach, beating Sweetwater in the finals, 20-7.

In 1958, the Nederland team won only five games while losing six but bounced back with a 10-1 record in 1959.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

Sports dialogue:
JUDD RAMSEY, football coach of the Buffalo Bills, firing a blast at the Big Ten, which cancels a player's athletic scholarship if he signs a professional contract, even if he has finished his eligibility:
"They get four years of football out of a player and then cut him off if he agrees to play pro ball. That can't be very fair."

CHARLEY FLOWERS, O 10 Miss' All-America back:
"Eighty per cent of the players I talked to at the All-Star games want to go to the new (AF) league and the 20 per cent who signed are sick about it."

DEKE BRACKETT, long-time assistant football coach at UCLA:
"Perfect records, such as Syracuse enjoyed in 1959, are about a thing of the past. The greatest development in college football is the great upsurge in recent years of the bottom 15 or 20 schools among the 50 so-called majors. On a given day, any one of the 50 can beat any other. What's more, schedules have been toughened. The old-time standouts generally played three tough games, with the rest breadcrumbs. You can't call 'em upsets any more. They're all toss-ups."

BOBBY LAYNE, local bowling impresario and star quarterback in the National Football League, when asked how long he intended to remain in football:
"I just play from year to year. I have no idea of quitting. One thing I do know, though, is that Pittsburgh is my last stop. I couldn't readjust to any other coach after playing for Buddy Parker."

OZZIE ORSBORN, basketball coach at Bradley University:
"In our recruiting, we still look for the things coaches looked for 25 years ago. A boy should possess at least two of the following three prerequisites: He should be tall... or quick on his feet... or have exceptionally fast hands."

ARNOLD PALMER, well known pro golfer:
"After I won the National Amateur in 1954, I joined the pro circuit. I thought I could beat anyone, any time. I've found out since that there are players on this tour who can beat me any time. I used to let bad shots get to me. I picked up, I never do that now. Once I thought I could find a putter that could sink them all. I've changed putters two or three times in a tournament. I don't do that any more. You find it's not the putter's fault they don't drop. I'm referred to as a bold golfer, and I guess it's accurate. But I'm bolder back in 1953. I play safe more often now. I have a better idea when to be bold and when not to. I still think I can birdie any hole but I don't gamble so much. As for my game itself, I have moved the ball slightly forward and hit it more on the upswing. That makes it easier for me to control the ball and it sits down faster. No rolling into trouble. This has helped my driving particularly. When I'm on my game, I'll hit long irons as well as anyone but chipping is the weakest part of my game. Only constant practice has helped it."

LOUIS FEUSTEL, former trainer of the great horse, Man o' War:
"He was the greatest. He always did more than you asked him to. He was a fractious cuss, on the bit all the time. The first time I put a saddle on Big Red he bucked and sn-danced like a bronco. He tossed his rider and ran around the paddock like a wild horse. Then he calmed down. But you had to watch your step, because he'd bite or kick you, given the chance."

DAVE CAMPBELL, Waco writer:
"A good All-Southwest conference basketball team could be chosen this year just from the junior college transfers. Prominent candidates would include Rice's David Craig, A&M's Pat and Don Stanley, Baylor's Carroll Dawson and Jerry Walsh, and Texas' Donny Lassiter."

Jones And Bryant Triumph Sunday

Betty Jones and Weldon Bryant finished with the low gross score in the scotch foursome held at the Big Spring County Club Sunday. In all, 18 people competed in the afternoon of fun.

Edith Ramsey and Emmett Kent Morgan teamed up to win low net laurels.

The twosome of Medeline Atkins and Zellie Boykin had second low gross while Dick Johnson paired with Mickey Marcum for second low net.

The perseverance prize was awarded to Pat Patterson and Mary McConkey.

Another scotch foursome is scheduled at the club the latter part of this month.

Henderson Takes Post At Odessa

ODESSA (SC) -Gene Henderson has resigned his job as head football coach at Lake View High School in San Angelo to accept a position as first varsity assistant at Odessa High School, it has been announced.

Henderson will be paid $6,300 at Odessa. His salary at Lake View was $6,000.

MILWAUKEE (AP) - John McHale, general manager of the Milwaukee Braves, was back in town for money talks with the players today. He says they don't have much to complain about.

Longhorns Seek Fifth 2-4A Win Here At 8

The Big Spring Steers host Odessa Permian at 8 o'clock this evening and need to win to keep their title chances alive in the District 3-AAA basketball race.

Midland has all but been conceded first place in the sprint for the title but the Steers could insure themselves of a 500 season in 2-AAAA place and go a long way toward nailing down the rugper spot by turning back Permian.

No doubt but that Permian will pose quite a problem for the locals.

The two teams clashed a couple of weeks ago in Odessa and the Big Springers had to go all out to win a 72-67 decision. The game was played in the Odessa High game for the Permian team. Jack Crawley is coach of the invading troops.

Going with Zay LeFevre will be his twin brother, Jay, Homer Mills, Rex Appleton and Bobby Evans.

In their last start, Big Spring lost to Midland, 66-47, while Permian was being measured by Abilene, 70-60.

Big Spring has won four of six conference starts and is 18-7 for the season. Permian is 2-4 in conference play and is 14-8 for the year.

There'll be a B game, starting at 6:15 p.m. Big Spring will be trying to improve upon a 7-6 record in that one.

Basilio Managers Barred For Life By Association

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) -The troubles of Johnny DeJohn and Joe Netro, comanagers of Carmen Basilio, multiplied today when they were barred by the National Boxing Assn.

DeJohn and Netro, who piloted Basilio to the world welterweight and middleweight championships in the eight years they handled him, were ejected from New York rings for life by the State Athletic Commission Monday for making payments to an undercover manager.

From his Providence, R.I., headquarters, NBA President Anthony Maceroni said his organization will recognize the New York ban.

"But," he said, "they have the right to present their cases before the NBA's grievance committee. The committee will decide whether to continue to uphold the New York action."

In other developments:
1. Norm Rothschild, Syracuse, N.Y., matchmaker-promoter, who was fined $2,000, also for making payments to an undercover manager, denied that he had done anything wrong.

"I've always felt that way," he added.
2. Basilio refused to turn on his managers, but conceded that he would handle his own affairs henceforth.

"We were together eight years and I can only say I wouldn't want anyone else to handle my affairs," he said.
"Let me add that Joe and Johnny never did a thing to hurt me. They were honest and above board in all their dealings and I have only the highest praise for their abilities."

DeJohn, Netro and Rothschild all admitted they had made payments to Gabe Genovese, who was convicted last June of being the undercover manager of Ludwig Lightburn, British Honduras lightweight. Genovese was sentenced to two years in prison.

Under New York law, it is il-

Thousands See Unusual Sight

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Thousands turned out this week to witness an unusual sight in Chapultepec Park—trees and plants covered by ice formed in subfreezing weather.

Frost covered the lawns of the huge park in the center of the capital, and newspapers in page one stories hailed the sight as a "marvel of nature."

The ice and frost disappeared quickly as the sun rose and temperatures mounted.

Stack the dishes?

Sure! In your ELECTRIC DISHWASHER

It's the modern way to a tidy kitchen

You can stack your dishes and still have an uncluttered drainboard when you use an Electric Dishwasher. It's good housekeeping, too! After each meal, you simply scrape the dishes and stack them in your dishwasher, out of sight. Then, when you have a full load in your dishwasher, you do them all at one time... at the flick of a switch.

Your sink and drainboard stay clean all day... your dishes are washed and ready for use when you need them... and you're spared the tiresome routine of hand washing and drying. No wonder so many women are singing the praises of electric dishwashers. Buy one... you will, too!

Fritz Kreisler Is 85, Due Honors

NEW YORK (AP)— He could make a violin sing, or cry, or laugh. He gave the instrument a voice that touched the hearts of millions.

Fritz Kreisler is 85 today, and he has laid aside his violin. But his performances remain a priceless treasure of America's musical heritage.

"Ah, my dear friend, what a joy it was," he says, reminiscing about when the strings responded to his nimble touch.

To show its gratitude, New York City today honors him at a City Hall ceremony, where he receives a medal and a scroll summarizing his career.

It is a career that for a half century made his name and genius almost synonymous with the violin.

"But there is no sense, my dear (a common phrase with him) in my picking up the violin anymore," he said in an interview.

Age has weakened his hearing and vision, but he still is alert, and his stalwart frame, massive head and shock of white hair give him a dauntless look.

He says his durability is "a present from God."

"I can walk miles if necessary, only they won't let me," he said. "Mostly I listen to the radio and read whatever I can."

Things have changed greatly since he first performed in America in 1888. Then, he says, the big question among musical agencies was, "who plays the best Brahms? The best Beethoven?"

"Now," he said, "they ask, 'Who draws the most?' Times have changed, my dear friend."

Kreisler's long, slender hands, the fingers that once drew racing magic from the strings and bow are unweaved and unwrinkled.

But he does not attempt to play. He has sold most of his instruments, including his Guarnerius and Stradivarius. He has retained only his favorite Vuillaume, made in 1860.

"I have had many beautiful moments in music," he says.

His first audience was as a boy of 10 in the Vienna Conservatory. His last was in 1950 when at 75 he appeared on a Telephone Hour broadcast.

Kreisler rarely appears in public, never goes out in the evening. But each weekday noon, his music publisher and longtime friend and manager, Charles Foley, 73, sends a car for him, and the two lunch together at Foley's office, talking over old times.

Of today's violinists, he admires Francescatti, Heifetz, Milstein, Stern and has a special regard for Oistrakh. He said Oistrakh "has one quality very few have, my dear friend. He does not play too fast."

"This is very unusual today. We are living in the time of money and power and violence, and above all, speed," he said.

In The Sun

The recent warm weather in the Rio Grande Valley brought out the sun worshipers in full force. Among them is Miss Susie Snell of Harlingen, who is getting a head start on a summer tan.

Adler, Noted Clown, Dies

NEW YORK (AP)—Felix Adler, 62, who tickled five decades of circus audiences by waddling around the rings in a droopy clown's suit followed by oinking piglets, died Monday.

Adler, who left the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus last May after 50 years under the big top, died during an operation at St. Clare's Hospital. It was his second operation since Jan. 15 when he entered the hospital suffering from an ulcer. Liver complications developed.

Adler knew the same gimmicks got laughs year after year, and his life was dedicated to laughter. Children and grownups alike roared when he topped his grotesquely misshapen costume with a tiny umbrella or when the red light glowed in the tip of his make-believe nose.

But his piglets, always the tiniest creatures he could find, provoked the biggest laughs. He trained them to stand on their hind legs and to prance along with him around the rings. When the pigs outgrew the act, he often gave them away. He loved to hear from people who had adopted his pigs.

Born in Clinton, Iowa, he was only 9 when a circus came to town. He fell asleep in the circus train and awoke in Davenport, Iowa, the show's next stop. His family retrieved him, but later he ran away with a troupe of acrobats.

His clumsy attempts at acrobatics brought laughs from the audience, and this is how his clowning started.

Adler is survived by his wife, Amelia, also a circus performer.

Letter Arrives

BRIDGEWATER, N. S. (AP)— A letter to Santa Claus reached its destination—almost. Sent from Hong Kong and signed "Margaret," it was addressed to "Hon. Santa Claus, Lapland." Some diligent postal employee added "Nova Scotia, Canada." Lapland is a small farming community near here, but the letter wound up at radio station CKBW here last week.

CINEMA COMMENT

By Bob Smith

If pure lunacy is the basis of your kind of comedy, "The Gazebo," now screening at the Ritz, is your kind of movie.

Not only is the screen version of Alec Coppel's play well written, the acting is polished, too. Debbie Reynolds and Glenn Ford, in the leads, know how to balance subtle wit with slapstick.

Director George Marshall keeps the comedy fast-paced and smooth.

It is a Hitchcock-type yarn, based on an unlikely premise, and has certain elements in common with "The Trouble With Harry." That premise is that a perfectly normal man, a television producer, would resort to murder to keep a blackmailer from publicizing some ancient photos of his (the TV producer's) wife, taken back in her nude model days.

The plot opens with Ford being beset by the blackmailer, trying to sell even his house to meet the exorbitant demands. To convince Debbie the house isn't worth keeping, he "fixes" such things as the plumbing with the expected results.

Meantime, Debbie buys her husband a gazebo—a bandstand sort of garden shelter—at a bargain sale, and Glenn immediately sees the gazebo as an excellent object to bury a body under.

So, he shoots someone he thinks is the blackmailer and plants him under the gazebo, only to have the blackmailer's dead body turn up elsewhere in the city.

So, who's under the gazebo? And what happens when the cops get suspicious, and the contractor starts digging up the gazebo?

The answers make up one of the daffiest comedies of the past year.

TV Film Makers Grind Out A Passle Of Pilots

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—While viewers are getting accustomed to the slightly revised program lineups following a few mid-season shifts and cancellations, the people who provide television's enormous entertainment output are actively preparing for next September's schedules.

In Hollywood, capital of the filmed shows, producers are pouring talent and millions of dollars into some 200 "pilots" — one or two shows designed to indicate what a series would look like. It's a gamble because one pilot is estimated to cost at least $50,000. The way things work out, only about one out of every 10 made makes the home screens.

One of the trade magazines, Television Digest, checked around the TV film studios and came up with a list of work in progress.

From a listing of pilot films, it is obvious that the series-makers believe there will be continued demand for Westerns and more Westerns, plenty of crime-adventure shows — and more situation comedy.

Among some familiar faces which may turn up in new shows are Gisele MacKenzie in a musical comedy series; Gertrude Berg in a situation comedy — as yet untitled; Lon Chaney Jr. in a series about the supernatural; Lew Ayres in a TV "Dr. Kildare" series; Frank Lovejoy and Barry Sullivan in Westerns; Joan Crawford and Joan Fontaine in their own anthologies; Walter Selzak, William Frawley and Pat Buttram (Roy Rogers' "comical sidekick") in their own comedy series.

Some of these, of course, we'll never see. Some will be sold to a network, others will go into syndication. Still other pilots will be quietly slipped into somebody else's anthology series and then silently fade away.
