A reporter asked whether Eisnow flurries in the Texas Pan- senhower feels there is a basic danger of defeatism developing among the American people. He replied there is none in his soul, he would say that. The news conference dealt nese matters: POLITICS — Eisenhower spoke warmly once more of Vice President Richard M. Nixon, but again withheld specific endorsement of Nixon for the Republican presidential nomination. However, the President - added he wanted to make it perfectly clear that he is not dissatisfied with, as he put the individual who looks as though he has the nomination. That was a clear allusion to

Nixon, now regarded as a shoo-in for the GOP standard. A reporter told Eisenhower that s o m e California Republicans

The President also endorsed a bill approved Tuesday by the Senate, calling for three other amendments to the Constitution - (1) Elimination of the poll tax in federal elections, (2) Giving residents of the District of Columbia the right to vote for president and vice president, and (3) permitting state governors to fill vacancies in the House in event of a majority of the members are killed by some disaster.

club, by the use of a birdbath, a large plant or a sundial. Mrs. Hogan, in presenting the importance of harmony in the garden, showed charts of color, noting those which are dominant and those which complement them.

Colors should be blended, she stated; this is as important in a garden decoration as in the decorating of a home, Mrs. Hogan said. She suggested the use of yard furniture and planters as accents.

It was announced that the next meeting will be held on March 1 in the home of Mrs. Ed Swift, 603 Edwards Blvd.

Let's Close Ranks For Success

The Big Spring schools have a new head coach in the person of Emmett McKenzie. Mr. McKenzie is a clean-cut, intelligent, energetic and personable young man, He is approachable and pleasant, but he is hardly a back slapper. He is erudite and frank and apparently knows what he is about. Everyone who has had an opportunity to meet him is impressed.

At Nederland, where he has been for approximately a dozen years, Mr. Mc-Kenzie has risen to the position of head coach in that system. One year he took his team to the state championships. The last season his only loss was in the bidistrict game, and it should be observed that he scheduled AAAA teams (one classification above his own) for all his open dates. So he is not used to playing patsies, a fact that could stand him in good stead. Mr. McKenzie-nor would any one else have been-is not cast in the role of a miracle worker. He comes here with a job to do, and he is well aware of that fact. Football fortunes are at low ebb and his immediate task is to be the architect of better days.

But in the next three years, Mr. Mc-Kenzie will not be on trial any more than our community will be on trial. We have let our community spirit slip, and whether you like it or not, a reasonably successful town team is one of the ingredients for improving this spirit. We have had a bad habit around here of having a surplus of curbstone experts. We devoutly pray for a crop failure in this field for several seasons and suggest respectfully that one of the greatest things we could do to help Mr. McKenzie and ourselves is to have more Indians and fewer chiefs.

Nothing New About A Census

When the first U. S. Census was compiled in 1790, World Book Encyclopedia reminds us, it was a pretty casual sort of thing.

So if you can't find hide nor hair of your own great-greats in that compilation, or any reference to goods, chattels and real estate holdings, you needn't be surprised. Remember our government was not yet dry behind the ears when the 1790 census was taken. It simply sent out a total of 17 marshals and a few hundred assistants to count the population for one main purpose-to provide the basis for taxing the states and to determine the number of representatives they would be entitled to in Congress. Censuses in one form or another date back at least to Roman times, and probably a great deal further back. But in the 1400s and 1500s European cities began to count noses in earnest-

the first nose-counting taking place in Nuremberg, Germany in 1449. Three hundred years later Sweden took the first national census, based on parish records.

William the Conqueror took a great person-and-property census in 1086, mainly to find out who had what in the way of land so he could distribute it among those without. There were to huge volumes in that compilation, called the Domesday Book. Incidentally, that's where most of us of English background acquired our sur-

The first censuses in this country all the way up to 1850 made little demand for personal information.

It's different now. In 1950 they asked about your plumbing. This year many but not all will be asked about washing machines, clothes driers, food freezers and air conditioning, and whether you have one car or two.

party to continue to attack the Republican administration on the subject of defense policies, missiles and outer-space problems while urging that the Republican party be deprived, in effect, of an opportunity to make authoritative replies?

This question is asked because of the lature of certain statements which have all the earmarks of having been prepared by the Democratic publicity experts, though issued in behalf of two Democratic senators. One statement says that the appearance of top Defense Department civilian officials as speakers at a Republican fund-raising dinner was "unethical and beneath the dignity of this administration." Another senator is quoted as accusing the administration of a "callous disregard of even the most elementary proprieties," and his statement adds:

"In view of the 40-odd billions of defense contracts to be let to our big businessmen by the officials of the Department of Defense, it is not surprising that in one evening the Republican party should be able to collect seven million dollars for the next campaign . . . in due course there is . . . many more millions to be expected. This is just the initial down payment to get the ball roll-

THE IMPLICATION IS THAT only defense contractors attended the $100-aplate dinners in 82 cities last week, which, of course, is not true, since a total of more than 100,000 people were there.

For several months now Democratic senators and representatives have been getting headlines by crying out that the United States is weak in defense and that there is a dangerous "gap" between this country's armed forces and the Soviet Union's. This issue now has reached into the political campaign.

So the other night the Republicans decided to make reply. They lined up their top civilian officials from the Defense Department to speak at a coast-to-coast dinner over closed-circuit television. The persons in the audiences were for the most part the influential Republicans who are expected to debate with the opposition at the "grass roots" every issue of the coming campaign. No better opportunity for the Republican administration to tell its story to its own supporters could have been devised. Yet when the Republicans publicly endeavor to give authoritative information direct from the administration officials in the Defense Department, they

IT MAY BE QUESTIONED JUST what is ethical or unethical about dragging the defense problem into politics-And who, after all, started the partisan treatment of the defense problem? It might be also asked if any of the Democrats have received inspiration, financial or otherwise, from those defense contractors who want bigger appropriations or are resentful because some of their contracts have been canceled. One thing is certain -the beneficiaries of defense work are by no means confined to one party.

It would be much better, of course, if the Defense Department were kept out of politics altogether, but such a rule should apply to both parties. It will be recalled that in the presidential campaign of 1948 the late James Forrestal, secretary of defense, was insistent that the Defense Department keep out of the campaign. While President Truman concurred at the time, the resentment produced among Democratic party leaders was such that it contributed to the effectiveness of the cabal that set out after the election to force Mr. Forrestal from his post.

IT WILL BE RECALLED ALSO that, in one of the early campaigns in which the late Franklin D Roosevelt was a candidate for vice president, there was sent out over his signature a circular letter soliciting campaign funds from defense contractors who had benefited by projects in World War I when he was assistant secretary of the Navy. If the campaign records are researched, moreover, it will be found that contributions from individuals working for companies that have defense contracts are not out of proportion to those from individuals employed by companies in other lines of business.

If those groups benefiting from governmental funds or legislation are to be stopped from contributing to presidential campaigns then the Democratic party might be the greater loser. Many millions of dollars are collected by the Democrats from labor-union members and blocs which are putting pressure on government for favorable legislation and appropria-

SOME OF THE MOST outspoken critics of the administration in Congress have received large sums in their election campaigns from such sources, and one has yet to hear any criticism from Republicans declaring it "unethical" or for leading Democrats in Congress to be addressing the conventions and local meetings of these organizations or pressure groups. Nor have former officials of the Defense Department, who held office under the Democratic administration, hesitated to make speeches at fund-raising dinners where presumably there are those present who might benefit financially if a Democratic administration is elected next November Fair play would seem to require that defense contractors not be singled out as any more "unethical" if they attend dinners given by political parties than are other businessmen. To imply that the total sums received from everybody who bought a ticket to a fund-raising dinner given by the Republicans is "an initial down payment" from defense contractors and doesn't mean the same thing when contributed on the Democratic side is a bit of rationalization that doesn't sound like fair play (Copyright, 1960. The Discoverer is on its way as an orbiting missile, and

THE NEXT BIGGEST STEP is in the direction of solid fuel missiles which can be held like a cocked gun for instant firing. This is most important in a day when warning from our most ingenious detection devices is reduced to 15 minutes or less. We won't have time to pump a liquid fuel load into some massive missile such as the Atlas. To retaliate, we will have to do it instantly.

When we master the solid fuel technology, we'll step into that of atomic power-and then we'll be well into limitless probes of outer space, yes, even on our way to Dr. Payne's prediction of a manned station on the moon within 10 to 20 years.

IT SEEMS INCREDIBLE to talk matter-of-factly about man-made satellites orbiting relentlessly 20,000 miles out in space in order to keep a ceaseless surveillance of a given area of the globe. But our very existence may depend upon it, for the discomforting part of all this is not that man is being thrust loose from his terrestrial bounds but that others in the world are shaking those bounds more rapidly than we are. We have to meet their challenge in space as well as in today's world. -JOE PICKLE standing, the Massachusetts senator polls 32 per cent of the vote of the Democratic party's rank - and - file as compared with 24 per cent in December. During this same period, little change has been registered in the vote for Adlai Stevenson. In December, ex-Governor Stevenson has 26 per cent of the Democrats supporting him; today the figure is 28 per cent. Following is the question asked regu-

Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson continues as the third place choice of Democratic voters-a position he has held since May of last year.

The vote for Sen. Estes Kefauver, who has never been far behind Lyndon Johnson in the standings, shows a decline. He is currently in a tie with Sen. Stuart Symington for fourth place. On December 30, Hubert Humphrey, senator from Minnesota, announced that he was a candidate for president. The latest polling evidence indicate that this "official opening" of the Humporey campaign has produced a slight increase in support.

A RECENT GALLUP POLL measurement of the popularity of Republican presidential possibilities finds Vice President Nixon standing virtually alone, having increased his already substantial lead upon Gov. Rockefeller's withdrawal. Nixon has 84 per cent of the GOP vote today. Wnen the "front-runners" of the two major parties are pitted against each other-as done in a recent Gallup Poll "trial heat"-Nixon receives the support of 53 per cent of the nation's voters today, while Kennedy scores 47 per cent.

Which Democrats were the "front-runners" of their parties at this parties at this same time in the election years of 1952? of 1956?

In a check taken eight years ago, at the beginning of 1952, the top choice of Democratic voters was Harry Truman, followed in popularity by Kefauver and Sen. Alben Barkley.

ADLAI STEVENSON DID NOT figure in the public's speculation as a candidate until April of 1952, at which time he got only 2 per cent of the vote of Democrats. However, his support grew rapidly from that point on.

In a January, 1956 check of Democratic candidate popularity, Stevenson ran almost 3-to-1 ahead of his nearest rival, Sen. Estes Kefauver. American Institute of Public Opinion

Zay counted 28 points to run his district aggregate to 176 points, The old record was established by Bill Thompson of last year's Big Spring team, who counted 171 in eight games.

Big Zay has achieved his record in seven games and still has three to play - the league has one more team than it did last

Thompson had shaded a mark held by still another Big Spring player, Jan Loudermilk of the 1957-58 team. Bill averaged 21.4 in his district starts list year. Zay thus far has averaged 25.1 points a start.

The shorter of the LeFevre twins counted only two points in the first quarter against Permian and only six the first half but there was no stopping him following the intermission. In all, he tossed in ten field goals and eight free pitches.

The Steers, meanwhile, were doing a fine job of stopping the two Permian aces, L. H. Williams and Jerry Tyson. Williams scored only six points, Tyson but nine. Rex Appleton contributed another splendid performance for the Big Springers, scoring 19 points and played a stellar all-around game. No one in 2-AAAA has come faster than Rex in recent weeks. Even though the Steers won about as they pleased, the game was nip and tuck for a while. The Panthers crept to within three points of the locals a couple of times in the third period. James Mitchell emerged as Permian's top point-getter with 14 points while Bob Green had 11. Jay LeFevre hit in double figures for the Steers, scoring an even ten.

Homer Mills, one of the 'old reliables' for Big Spring, was running a 103 degree fever and had a sore throat. He was used sparingly.

The Longhorns hit 14 of 35 shots the first half and 15 of 38 the last half. Permian connected on only nine of 34 the first half but got 14 of 38 the final two quarters.

Zay grabbed off the rather amazing total of 28 rebounds, 14 of them on offense. Jay captured 11 rebounds, five of them on defense. The win was Big Spring's fifth Permian is 2-5 within the league and 14-9 overall. Big Spring's B team won a 49-

47 thriller in a double overtime to run its record to eight wins in 14 starts this season. Dick Ebling set the game into overtime when he hit a bucket with only seconds left on the clock. Ronnie Hamby of Big Spring connected with a left handed hook shot and Wright connected with a two-pointer for Odessa to set the contest into the second overtime. George Ryan then ended the game when he connected with a set shot from the side when the game reached the "sudden death"

Coahoma's Girls Win At Silver

COAHOMA (SC) - The Coahoma Junior High School girls won their second basketball tournament in two weeks last Saturday when they emerged as the top sextet in the Silver meet. The Coahomans defeated Sterling City, 43-14; Miles, 41-25; and Loraine, 34-10, in that order to finish in the driver's seat. The previous week, the Coahoma girls had won the Gail tournament.

Kay Porter of Coahoma was named the tournament's most valuable player. Peggy Bennett of the Bullpups was also named to the all-tournament team. The Coahoma boys won consolation laurels in the tournament. They lost to Sterling City in the first round, 38-35, but came back to decision Westbrook, 36-17, and Loraine, 57-21. Ronnie Cunningham of Coahoma also rated a place on the all-tournament team. The Coahoma clubs were taken to the meet by coach Bill Easter-

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Johnny Hickman, one of the candidates for the local high school coaching job who made a very favorable impression on the school board, attributed his success at Levelland to the fact that he had his boys concentrate on winning the district rather than the state cham-

In other words, the state title remains a nebulous something for any team until it gets well into the playoffs, whereas, in Johnny's words, "the district championship is something the boys can feel." "We start talking about it early," said Hickman, "and we don't worry too much about non-conference play. We try to sell the boys on winning the big ones in district."

The strategy must work. Hickman has guided his Levelland team to the district championship the past three seasons. What about Levelland's chances for next season?

"From all indications, the competition is going to be stiffer than has been in a long time. Any one could win," says Hickman.

Hickman will have to make do without ten boys off the 1959 club, including the sensational passer, Doug Cannon. Doug, by the way, will probably go either to Texas Tech or Baylor. His folks are Baptists and he may lean toward the Waco school. Hickman says he and his philosophy were paid one of the nicest compliments by Polk Robison, the popular basketball coach at Texas Tech who said of Hickman's Levelland players: "They are disciplined to the point that they would fit into any athletic program."

No one at Coahoma has conceded the District 6-A basketball chamionship to Stanton, even though the Buffs are still undefeated in Coach Jimmy Spann says his boys are confident they can measure the Bisons, when they clash in Coahorna the night of Feb. 9. Coahoma should have a crackerjack basketball team next season Ellis Smith will be the only loss off the varsity. Billy Ford, a 5-feet-8 cophomore; and freshman Maurice Cutright will be bidding for the job being vacated by Smith. The Feb. 9 game should stack the Coahoma gym, since Coahoma and Stanton are storied rivals.

Prior to last week's basketball game with Big Spring here, Midland scribe Ted Battles rated Midland first, Big Spring ninth and Abilene 11th in state Class AAAA circles. Behind Midland and ahead of Big Spring, Battles listed Dallas Thomas Jefferson, Borger, South Park of Beaumont, Plainview,

Dallas Samuell, Dallas Hillcrest and Houston Bellaire. Battles places Dallas South Oak Cliff immediately behind Big Spring and ahead of Abilene in his listings while El Paso Austin, Amarillo Palo Duro and Fort Worth Poly followed the Eagles. Next to Midland, Beaumont's South Park probably has the tallest team in the state. Two boys in the starting lineup each

Old Pros Do Well With Macabre Plot

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP Television-Radio Writer

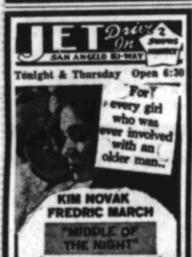

NEW YORK (AP)-A team of two great pros — Ed Wynn and Bert Lahr — succeeded Tuesday has completely regained his night in giving humor and heart strength and his appetite, weighs to what surely was one of the his usual 194 pounds and is still most macabre tales ever present- smoking cigars. ed on television. It was a comedy -that's right, a comedy-about a scheduled for May 6 - the one lonely old man determined to originally planned for showing lonely old man determined to hang himself in a desperate effort to achieve some sort of pub-

The play was NBC's Startime's adaptation of "The Greatest Man Alive," a 1957 play by Tony Webster, now TV's brightest writing star. Wynn played the old man who decides to go out with a blaze of notoriety by hanging himself It is required viewing for many while wearing a derby. Lahr played his obliging pal, who promised to tell the newspapers what a truly great man his friend was. are magnificent. And if the going

His next TV special now

Tonight's NBC adaptation of Shakespeare's "The Tempest" may seem a bit dull, even incomprehensible, to those who can take the Bard or leave him alone. Wynn and Lahr were funny and heart-warming. But the central theme—suicide—had a muting effect on all the few and the feet on all the few and the few a fect on all the fun and the witty

CBS-R a d i o will broadcast "Sorry, Wrong Number" on Feb. 12 for the eighth time on its longtakes off within a few days for a lived Suspense series. The thriller month's visit to India, China and was done first in 1943-an original by Lucille Fletcher.

> Andy Griffith's guest appear ance on the Feb. 15 Danny Thomas show is really a pilot film for a news series being made by Thomas' production company, That gambling ship run by CBS' "Mr. Lucky," will soon be converted to a restaurant-at-sea. It's not the complaints of anti-gam-bling viewers, the management insists, but an effort to broaden the plot of the show.

Recommended tonight: "The Tempest," NBC, 7:30-9 p.m.—an adaptation of Shakespeare's play, with Maurice Evans, Roddy Mc-

Dowell and Tom Poston. All Times Eastern Standard
