Human Rights Hearing

Venezuelan Ambassador Marcos Falcon Briceño, left, makes a statement at an extraordinary meeting of the council of the Organization of American States. ### Hemisphere Powers May Probe Trujillo

WASHINGTON (AP) — An historic inquiry by the Inter-American Peace Committee into alleged flagrant violations of human rights in the Dominican Republic appeared possible today. The investigation was asked of the Organization of American States Monday by Venezuela in the wake of reports of mass arrests in the Dominican Republic. If it does result, the inquiry has first to pass hurdles within the OAS and within the Peace Committee itself.

From Venezuela, meantime, came reports that a revolt aimed at toppling the regime of Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo may come at any time. Trujillo denies his dictatorship is in trouble. The OAS Council referred the Venezuelan request to its General Committee which was to determine how the council should proceed. In a closed meeting Tuesday, the committee reportedly concluded the matter could best be handled by the five-nation Peace Committee.

A working group of five nations resumes late today its work of preparing a draft resolution for the General Committee and the OAS Council. The resolution, diplomatic sources said, probably will express the concern of the council at violations of human rights, but note that the Peace Committee has special authority to act in this instance.

Venezuela then could take its request to the Peace Committee. The committee itself could undertake the investigation on its own under authority given by a 1959 meeting of Western Hemisphere foreign ministers. Mrs. J. O. ## State Suing Truck Company

The State of Texas, represented by John C. Phillips assistant attorney general, and Wayne Burns, Howard County attorney, will go into court Thursday against the T&T Supply Co. and Doyle Thomas, charging the defendant firm with operating a motor carrier for hire without proper permit. Hartman Hooser will be the defense counsel. The state alleges that the defendant firm, of which it says Thomas is president, had a list of paints, paint ingredients allied materials and steel drums over state highways and roads on 25 separate occasions without having a permit to follow such practices. The state law makes each such offense punishable by a fine of $100 if the defendant is found guilty. Burns said that if the state is able to prove its case, T&T Supply Co. might have to pay as much as $2,500. The case will be tried before Judge Ralph Caton in 118th District Court. The alleged offenses began on July 9, 1958 and continued on 25 occasions, through April 9, 1959, the state's petition alleges.

Another safe crossing

When a telephone man drives, safety comes first

Two little girls dart into the street, unaware of an approaching telephone truck. The driver, on his way to install a phone for a new family in the neighborhood, slows to a stop as they cross. Not until the youngsters are safely on the other side does he drive on. This quiet drama of safe driving doesn't make front-page headlines the way a major accident does. Yet it is the biggest story of all—the kids who aren't hurt crossing the street, the accidents that don't happen... because good safety habits prevent them from happening. Driving safely is everyone's duty. But for telephone men it is more than that. It is a way of life. It is part of that special sense of responsibility that goes with telephone work: what we call the Spirit of Service. A newspaper editor recently paid tribute to telephone drivers when he wrote: "We salute the drivers of telephone company trucks. They never drive fast or recklessly; time and again we've seen them yield the right-of-way. They seem to apply the rule that the other driver is always right. "It is nothing short of inspiring to see an entire corps of drivers display the courtesy and friendliness that are habitual with telephone company drivers."

Bomb Shakes
Negro Girl
Student's Home

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A home-made bomb shook the home of a Negro student Tuesday night in a new outbreak of violence over integration of Little Rock's high schools.

Carlotta Walls, 17, and three other members of her family were asleep in the house but escaped injury.

She is one of five Negroes attending Central High School where integration of nine Negroes was enforced by federal troops in 1957 after mob violence broke out.

The blast was the first violence at the home of one of the Negro students and the first over integration since Labor Day bombings.

Police began a search for two cars reported cruising in the area shortly before the explosion near the front steps of Carlotta Walls' home in a predominantly Negro neighborhood.

The explosion followed a severe thunderstorm. Some residents thought it was another clap of thunder.

Only a few white families live in the area, about three miles southwest of the heart of Little Rock's downtown area.

Police said the explosive appeared to be two sticks of dynamite. Dynamite also was used in the Labor Day bombings which damaged school board offices, the office of Mayor Werner Knopp and Fire Chief Gann Nalley's station wagon.

Five men were arrested in those bombings. Three were convicted and given three-year prison sentences. A fourth, who pleaded guilty, was given a five-year term. The fifth still is to be tried.

Police moved in quickly Tuesday night. Police Chief Gene Smith, ailing with influenza, took personal charge of the investigation.

Police sealed off the area around the Walls home. Two detectives and two uniformed patrolmen kept an all-night watch.

"We've got several leads and we're checking them out," said Asst. Chief R. E. Glasscock.

J. J. Casper, special FBI agent, joined Smith at the scene.

Smith called out all available policemen. An officer with a riot gun was posted at each of the two integrated high schools and at the homes of seven other Negroes attending them.

Police said the bomb probably was thrown from an automobile speeding down the dimly lighted and unpaved street about 11:10 p.m.

A foot-square hole was torn in the exterior of a brick wall. All the windows on that side of the one story home were shattered.

Bricks were blown 100 feet and a few windows in neighboring homes were broken.

Police Lt. Carl Jackson said Mrs. Walls, Carlotta, and two younger daughters, Loujama, 11, and Tina, 5, were jolted awake by the explosion. Walls himself was visiting his father several blocks away.

Life Is Rarely Dull For Men
Who Run Texas' Turnpike

ARLINGTON (AP) — Life is rarely dull on the big Fort Worth-Dallas turnpike—the only one in Texas.

Like the incident of the well dressed man who parked his car expertly in the turnpike parking lot, walked hurriedly into the brick office used by the Turnpike Authority, and asked a clerk for a round-trip bus ticket to Fort Worth.

Bernie L. Thomas, who has worked at the toll gates since the turnpike opened about three years ago, says "Ninety-nine per cent of the drivers who take the toll road have everything they need, know just what they want and know where they're going."

"But we've got our one per cent, too—the folks who require just a little bit of attention."

Near the top in that category, Thomas said in an interview, are those who come onto the toll road without enough money.

"They dig and dig," find out they're short and want to pay tomorrow. We can't do that, because our business has to be concluded at the end of every shift.

"So the toll takers usually dig into their own pockets for a few cents to make up the difference."

The driver can't be turned back. They do not pay until they have completed their trip.

Many drivers get on the toll road by accident, but it costs them just the same.

"It's hard to understand how they get on by accident, since we've got those very big signs everywhere," Thomas said. "But they do it a lot, particularly folks who live in Oak Cliff (the western part of Dallas)."

Women in particular ignore backed-up traffic while looking for change.

"We've had some ladies stop their car, roll down the window, hunt for their money for several minutes, find a billfold, look in there some more, fumble around with pennies and finally come up with a $10 bill," he said.

"And then when the money transaction is all over, they have to put the change back in their billfold, put the billfold back in the purse, roll up the window and maybe even shift gears before they take off."

Not Much Letup In Wintry
Weather Seen For Nation

By The Associated Press

Violent weather, wintry and unseasonal, hammered wide sections of the nation today.

Not much letup appeared immediately from the snowy, rainy, windy and cold weather.

A rash of storms erupted Tuesday in parts of the Southwest, West, South and Midwest. They headed into the Northeast, along the Atlantic seaboard and into the southern Gulf region.

At least 11 deaths were attributed to the stormy weather.

The weather, varied for the winter season but generally quite miserable, was in the form of rain, sleet, hail, snow, thunder, storms, tornadoes, dust storms, lightning and cold and hot.

About the only areas with clear skies were in Florida and in parts of the Southwest.

Tornado winds lashed areas in Texas and Oklahoma, stirring up dust storms. Violent winds pounded sections of Arkansas, Missouri and Illinois, hit by thunderstorms. They were strong in Midwest areas which were pelted by snow, sleet and rain.

Property damage in the storm-battered areas mounted into the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The 11 deaths attributed to the stormy elements included 4 in California, 3 in Texas and 2 each in Arkansas and Iowa.

Wind-swept 40-foot waves in the Pacific pounded coastal areas of northern California and Oregon, forcing more families from their homes. The world's largest wine tanker, the seven-million-dollar Angelo Petri, was adrift off San Francisco's Golden Gate.

Snow blanketed the Midwest. Gusty winds piled up huge drifts across the prairie lands and in the towns and cities from the Dakotas into southern Lower Michigan. Many secondary roads were closed. So were some main highways. Scores of motorists were stranded.

Four to six inches of fresh snow fell from central South Dakota across most of eastern Nebraska and southern Iowa. Heavy snow warnings were posted from eastern Iowa across northwest and extreme northern Illinois, east-northeast into southern Lower Michigan.

Texas, in addition to dust storms, had record heat Tuesday. Winds of 80 m.p.h. swept across areas from El Paso to Dallas. In higher elevations of the Guadalupe Mountains of West Texas, the mercury climbed to 96 degrees at McAllen, deep in the lower Rio Grande Valley. Dallas sweltered in a record mark of 87 for Feb. 9. The 88 at Fort Worth also was a new high for Feb. 9.

Ike To Tour Missile Area At Canaveral

WASHINGTON (AP)—With the defense controversy still swirling, President Eisenhower flies to Florida today to inspect the awesome missile testing center at Cape Canaveral.

Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr., Deputy Secretary James Douglas and nearly a score of White House aides are scheduled to travel with Eisenhower aboard his jet airliner for the visit, expected to last three to five hours.

The President spent Monday night at his Gettysburg, Pa. farm. He arranged to fly by helicopter this morning to Andrews Air Force Base near Washington and board his plane for the two-hour flight to Cape Canaveral.

Barring a last minute change of plans, Eisenhower will see no actual launching of missiles. But he is expected to get a look at a variety of them — including the mighty intercontinental types, Atlas and Titan.

The President is making the visit at the height of the controversy over the relative military strength of the United States and the Soviet Union.

A Soviet Union lead in missile development is acknowledged by Eisenhower. But he, Gates and some other Defense Department top officials contend the United States has sufficient deterrent power to discourage a Soviet attack.

This is disputed by some Democrats in Congress, who say this country will be particularly vulnerable in the years immediately ahead.

DEAR ABBY

ONE EVERY MINUTE...

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I met a girl who led me to believe that she would be all mine if I bought her what she wanted.

She made out a list of the things she wanted and I bought them for her. It set me back over $400. All this time she wouldn't even let me hold her hand.

Now she tells me that she is a nice girl and I should get lost because I am too fast for her. She's already worn the clothes I bought for her. What do I do now? Four hundred bucks is not hay.

-DELL

DEAR DELL: Tough luck. If the four hundred bucks WERE hay you'd have had enough to eat all winter.

DEAR ABBY: We have an old maid sister who lives alone. She has so many cats and kittens we have never been able to count them. (None of them are housebroken.)

My sister says it's her home and her business. The problem is she used to give piano lessons but all her pupils have left her. Then she started going to their homes, but her clothes smelled so bad, they all quit her. Now she has no income. I begged her to give away her cats and come to live with me, but she accuses me of wanting a free baby-sitter. (My children are all grown.) When I bring her food she gives it to the cats. I'm afraid she'll starve herself. What can I do?

CONCERNED SISTER

DEAR SISTER: Your sister may indeed need a mental examination. When a person is incompetent to make decisions, he is told what to do — not asked. I urge you to get your sister to a doctor.

DEAR ABBY: I have something to say to that lady who signed herself FROM TEXAS. She said her husband leaves pennies on the hotel dresser instead of throwing them in the waste-paper basket. As she put it, "They weight down his pockets and tear the linings."

If this man will just look in the hotel lobby, he will find a little container with a slot where pennies can be dropped. He can help fight polio, cancer, heart disease, muscular dystrophy and one of dozens of other ailments. I'm sure his pennies would do more good there than in the waste-paper basket or on a hotel dresser.

FROM FLORIDA

DEAR ABBY: I am 14 and do quite a lot of babysitting. A certain couple I sit for go out and tell me they will call me from where they are to see how things are. They never call me. They never leave any number where I can call them in case of an emergency, either.

Shouldn't I have a number before they leave? If they don't, am I within my rights to refuse to sit for them?

CONCERNED SITTER

DEAR SITTER: DO NOT sit for people who cannot be reached in case of an emergency.

"What's your problem?" For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of the Big Spring Herald and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Largest Wine Ship Aground During Storm

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sailors fought the sea today for the seven-million-dollar Angelo Petri, the world's largest wine tanker.

A powerful storm that raged in from the Pacific Tuesday left the 520-foot 21,800-ton tanker powerless and rudderless—adrift off the Golden Gate.

Her anchors finally caught bottom 3.7 miles from the San Francisco coast, directly west of the city's Fleishacker Zoo.

The Coast Guard responded to the Petri's distress calls and began evacuating crewmen by helicopter. Fourteen of the 40-man crew had been lifted from the heavily rolling vessel when Capt. Edward A. Lehn Jr., of San Mateo, Calif., decided he might be able to save his ship and cargo — 2½ million gallons of bulk wine.

Two Coast Guard cutters and two sea-going tugs steamed to the Petri's aid.

The storm was still raging. Waves 30 to 40 feet high were crashing over the rolling decks. The Petri, with a 30-foot draft, was in less than 40 feet of water.

Two sand bars were nearby. "Even under ideal conditions, it would take sharp navigation to get her through that without trouble," a Coast Guard man said. "As it is, it's real work just keeping her from getting slammed on to a sand bar."

One of the tugs, the Sea Cloud, fired a tow line to the tanker. While the second tug, the Sea Wolf, was preparing to fire a second tow line, the first line parted.

The Sea Wolf got its tow line to the Petri and it held. But Sea Cloud was unable to send another line over and the Sea Wolf was unable to haul the tanker through the gale alone.

Capt. V. F. Hellmer, commander of the cutter Taney, then decided to shoot a line from his 227-foot vessel and attempt to haul the Petri back into San Francisco Bay. Approaches were difficult and the Petri was having trouble raising its anchors.

Hundreds of spectators lined the beach in a pouring rain to watch the Petri's ordeal. The accident occurred so close to port that the bar pilot, W. J. Fowler of Tiburon, Calif., was still aboard.

The wave that put the Petri out of commission was about 40 feet high, seamen said, and poured through the air intake chutes.

"We were hit so hard," ordinary seaman John Jablin said, "every one thought we had been run into by another ship." The vessel was propelled by turbo-electric machinery, and when the sea poured in it short-circuited the ship's control board, killing the power.

The Petri, bound for Houston with a 40-man crew, carried one passenger. Floyd L. Webb, a commercial artist from Alameda, Calif., was traveling as a guest of the Petri Wine Co. The ship is owned by United Vintners, Inc., controlled by the Petri family.

Indians Protest Stick Game Ban

FORT HALL, Idaho (AP)—Banning the old Indian "stick" game is like banning bingo, or bridge, say the Indians, and the Tribal Council adopted a resolution appealing to the "sense of justice and honesty of the American people."

Last month the government said no more gambling on the Shoshone-Bannock Indian Reservation here. It had been allowed since 1938, at least over the weekends for small amounts of money.

Most stuck with the ancient Indian guessing contest called the stick game, but some enjoyed card games instead.

Tuesday the Tribal Council said the order by the Interior Department was aimed at the "subjection of Indian tribes, to create turmoil and confusion." The Indians said the stick game is only recreational and that they will "resist all prosecution and persecution."

Another Ex-DJ Called In Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — House payola probes called a second former disc jockey today after hearing a colleague tell of receiving $15,500 in side payments over a two-year period.

Joseph Finan, who said he received the money as a consultant, and Wesley Hopkins, today's new witness, both spun records for Cleveland's radio-TV station KYW until they were fired last Dec. 3. Hopkins has denied that he took payola—under-the-table payments or gifts for promoting records or products. He was called before the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee, which is looking into payola on the ground such payments fool the public as to a record's worth or popularity.

Finan, 32, said he had received $15,500 from 15 record firms in 1958-59 for his opinions on which records would be hits and which would flop.

In addition to that money, he said, there was his annual salary from KYW of up to $40,000 and almost $2,000 a year additional for presiding at record hops for teenagers in small towns around Cleveland.

According to a sworn statement read at the hearing, both Hopkins and Finan once agreed to push selected new RCA Victor records on the air for fees.

The fees—according to the statement by Byron Burneson, an independent Cleveland RCA Victor distributor—were to have been $50 weekly from his firm for every record that was plugged.

Finan said that just wasn't right. If it were, he said, he would have made up to $600 a week on that account alone.

Finan testified that Big Top Records gave him $450 for promoting three records and said that one Madison record he played for $150 went on to become a hit. Finan said he also gave special attention to Hugo and Luigi records in making up his show. He acknowledged getting $1,400 in seven $200 monthly payments from this firm.

Subcommittee counsel Robert W. Lishman listed these other firms from which Finan also acknowledged receiving payments: Jay Cee Records and Cosnat Distributing Co., Mercury Records, United Artists and Shad Records. Finan listed the others as Decca, Cameo, Carlton, Epic, Coed, Meridian and London.

Commenting on his agreement to "keep a special watch" for the labels of the firms paying him, Finan said: "I felt I was rendering a service."

To a question by Rep. John Moss (D-Calif.), Finan said that all of the record firms dropped his service when he was fired.

Which Is The Best

Street crews were putting down test stripes of paint earlier in the week as a test for future city purchases. Bruce Dunn, director of public works, said previous street paints have not been satisfactory. The current program is a test of seven manufacturers' products. These test patterns have been put down on Canyon Dr., 11th and State, 10th and Gollad, 11th between State and Rosemont, and two locations on 2nd near the city warehouse. Dunn said the stripes would be checked weekly and a decision on the best choice would be made in 30 days. Left to right: Tommy Arista, Raymond Mendoza and J. F. Galan.

Sailor Goes On Trial For Ship Slaying

BOSTON (AP) — A handsome Dutch radio operator goes on trial for his life today charged with killing an alleged shipboard paramour.

Willem Van Rie, 31, of Utrecht, the Netherlands, has been in jail since last September in the death of Lynn Kauffman, 23, a pretty divorcee from Chicago.

Conviction could mean death in the electric chair, but Van Rie insists a jury will free him. His wife, Nella, 31, agrees. "We will be home by tulip time," she vows. Miss Kauffman's nearly nude, battered body was found on the shore of a Boston harbor island last September, the day after Van Rie's ship, the Dutch freighter Utrecht, left Boston for New York.

The state charges that she and Van Rie engaged in a 44-day shipboard romance that began in Singapore and ended with her death. Van Rie says there was no affair, no murder.

The first order of business in the trial is to pick a jury of 14. Two of the jurors will be alternates. Originally, police listed Miss Kauffman's death as due to accident or suicide. But Medical Examiner Michael A. Luongo overruled police, saying her death was not due to drowning, but due to violence. A grand jury agreed with Dr. Luongo.

A hundred men and women have been summoned as prospective jurors. Only 50 seats have been provided for spectators in the seventh-floor court room in a tall building on Pemberton Square.

One space is reserved, however, for Nella Van Rie, loyal wife of the defendant. They were married 22 months ago in Utrecht, where both grew up. Mrs. Van Rie came here in October to wait for her husband's trial.

Miss Kauffman, daughter of a Chicago industrialist, was an extremely pretty and talented girl. Since her divorce three years ago from a St. Louis attorney she was employed as a research assistant to Dr. Stanley Spector, 35, professor of Far Eastern studies at Washington University, St. Louis. She lived with the Sectors.

She was returning home aboard the Utrecht after spending a year in Singapore with Spector, his wife Juanita, 39, and the three Spector children.

Ex-Con Caught After 27 Years

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—"I guess I always knew this day was coming, but I prayed every night that it wouldn't."

Harry Eugene Evans, 50, wanted by authorities for 27 years for failing to return to prison from a 10-day parole, sat in jail in Birmingham.

Police picked him up Tuesday at his house—where his wife and three children, his friends, and his employer knew him as Harry Eugene Hill, a respected, well-liked trucking company stock foreman.

The warrant revealed his secret and identified him as Evans, a convicted bank robber.

"I've had a funny feeling ever since December," he said. On Dec. 19 Evans was arrested in a minor traffic accident at Philadelphia and fingerprinted. He was on his way out of town after watching Alabama and Penn State play in the Liberty Bowl football game.

"It wasn't a serious accident, but a patrol car pulled me over, and they took me in and fingerprinted me. I started worrying then."

His wife of 19 years, who said she knew nothing of her husband's prison record, promised to stand by him.

The Hills have a daughter and two sons. His employer of the last 10 years also stood behind him.

Wealthy Brewer Vanishes, May Be Kidnap Victim

GOLDEN, Colo. (AP) — Adolph Coors III, wealthy brewer and industrialist, vanished from his blood-flecked car on a rural road Tuesday, touching off a vast manhunt in the Rocky Mountain foothills west of Denver.

Sheriff Art Wermuth said Coors may be a kidnap victim. FBI agents, lacking immediate jurisdiction, were poised to enter the case. Sheriff's deputies afoot, in jeeps and on horses were joined today by low-flying aircraft in the search.

Coors' carry-all wagon, its motor still running, was found on a small wooden bridge which spans a shallow creek. Blood was found on the bridge railing and on the seat of the vehicle.

The missing man's glasses and baseball-type cap were found on the creek bank below the bridge. Coors, 44, left his foothills home at 8 a.m. for the 12-mile drive to the Adolph Coors Co. here, where he is board chairman. His auto was found nearly three hours later by the driver of a milk truck.

Undersheriff Lew Hawley said there were tire and footprints in the area around Coors' turquoise-and-white carry-all. "But frankly, the ground there is so rough it would be almost impossible to tell if there had been any struggle," he added.

Coors is the eldest of three brothers who operate the Coors brewery and the Coors Porcelain Co., whose products include missile nose cones. The brothers are grandsons of a German immigrant who founded the firm in 1874. It now ranks 14th nationally among brewery firms, on the basis of production. Coors is married and the father of four children—Mary Brooke, 18; Cecily Grant, 16; Adolph IV, 14, and James Grant, 10.

His wife, Mary Grant Coors, was told of the finding of Coors' cap and glasses and the bloodstains. "She took it very well," said Hawley. The undersheriff said Coors has no known enemies, and when he left his home.

Coors, a native of Golden, is a graduate of Cornell University, where he majored in chemical engineering.

Ft. Worth Mother Is Beaten, Raped

FORT WORTH (AP) — A 33-year-old mother of four told police today she was beaten and raped by a man as three of her children slept in a nearby bedroom.

She said she was awakened shortly after 1 a.m. by a man who told her to keep still and not to scream. She described the intruder as about 19 or 20.

She said she saw a light in the living room and screamed. She said she thought it was her teenage daughter who had been out on a date. She said that when she screamed the man beat her and later raped her.

Her husband was out of town.

Machine That Can Do Nearly Everything

They haven't got around to figuring how this machine can make loans, but it can do nearly everything else around a bank. Mrs. Joyce Nichols is operating the State National Bank's postronic machine which is operated electronically. When numbers from a check are put into the machine, it will not operate unless it checks with the record sheet which also is inserted as part of the operation. If the check and account number match, the machine instantly picks up the previous balance, subtracts the check or checks, adds in any deposits, and posts a new balance . . . all in the twink of an eye. This is but one example of the up-to-the-minute services of State National Bank.

March 1 is the deadline for boat owners with 10 h.p. or larger motors to register, and Sportsman Toyland at 1608 Gregg has the forms necessary for making application.

Sportsman Toyland also has a complete line of accessories, for the maritime enthusiast.

Too, Sportsman Toyland has everything to outfit the fisherman; whether he be of the "pole 'n line" variety, the trolliner or the artificial lurler. They also have a complete line of parts for all the Coleman products.

"Until recently," says Joe Bunch, co-owner of the Toyland, "anyone with a Coleman product really had a problem getting parts. But now we offer a complete stock for anything made by Coleman."

And for the Little Leaguer, Toyland advises an early start for buying baseball equipment for the upcoming season. The Toyland has now been examined and approved as a certified dealer in Hawings products here in Big Spring.

So, to the sportsman, whatever the occasion, Sportsman Toyland can fill the bill. And, of course, along with their sports department, they maintain a complete line of toys and games for young and old alike.

Electrical Outlets Needed In Yards

Time was that a spring gardener only needed a strong back and a stout handle in a hoe. But today's gardener is more in need of an electrical outlet in the yard than a hoe.

Modern electrical appliances for lawn care and garden work are becoming the rule rather than an exception. And if you have purchased a few of these handy implements, the next thing on your list is the need for electrical outlets in the yard and along the sides of the house.

Your lawn and garden equipment is only as handy as the proximity of electricity. And Albert Pettus is the man to install the necessary electrical appliances for you.

Located at 201 Benton, just across from John Davis Feed Store, Pettus combines years of experience with the proper equipment and supplies to handle any electrical problem for you.

Pettus recently sold a portion of his business to Ben Caldwell who is handling the electric motor and oil field end of the business.

But Pettus is still available to work on generators, starters and magnetos in conjunction with commercial, industrial and residential wiring.

The telephone number is AM 4-4189, and Pettus stands ready at all times to answer your emergency calls. He is equipped to completely re-wire your home for a greater electrical load, or add a series of outlets throughout the house, or add outdoor outlets for your gardening equipment.

Whatever problem you have electrically, give Pettus and his trained men a chance to install quality work for you at an economical price.

Permits Taken Out For Three Houses

Three new houses, with a combined value of $19,000 were planned during the first week of February.

Tom Newton, building inspector, said 14 building permits were issued during the week, for a total of $26,800. More than half of the total construction is for new residences, the remainder going to remodeling and moving projects.

Khrushchev Leaves For Tour Of Asia

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev took off today for visits to India and three other Asian countries, trying to build up Soviet prestige and to match the impression President Eisenhower made in the area.

Khrushchev, members of his family and a group of top Soviet officials boarded the big turboprop Ilyushin airliner after greeting diplomats and some 300 Muscovites who braved bitter cold weather to see them off.

Khrushchev's plane was to refuel in Tashkent, then fly over the Hindu Kush and Himalayan Mountains to land in bally New Delhi Thursday morning.

Khrushchev made no departure speech. Muffled in a heavy black coat, astrakhan collar and fur hat, he turned and waved before entering the cabin of the plane, the last to board.

Mrs. Khrushchev, who is not going on this trip, was not seen among the well-wishers at the flag-decked airport.

With Khrushchev were his two daughters, Julia and Irada, and the latter's husband, Alexei Adzhubei, editor of the government newspaper Izvestia. He was also accompanied by a granddaughter, Julia, whose father was killed in World War II.

Also in the party were Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, Culture Minister Nikolai Mikhailov; Georgi Zhukov, chairman of the Committee for Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries; Semyon A. Skachkov, chairman of a similar committee dealing with economic relations and foreign aid, and Pavel Satukov, editor of the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda.

Khrushchev will remain in India until next Tuesday, then push on to Burma for a brief stop. On Feb. 18 he goes to Indonesia, where he is expected to spend a week before returning home with a stopover in Afghanistan.

The Soviet press has been full of articles for the past two months telling how much aid the Soviet Union has given to India.

Without comparing Soviet aid with the more extensive help given by the United States, the Soviet government has made a great show of steel mills, chemical plants and oil refineries built or planned for India with Soviet help.

But the visit to India will pose problems for Khrushchev. Indian officials feel he is the only one who could induce China to give ground in the bitter dispute over the frontier between India and Tibet.

PLUGGING HOLE IN THE RADAR GAP Unit on Scenic Mountain relays data to "Fat Chance"

New Unit Will Fill Blank In Area Radar Scanning

It's an air defense radar unit and it's designed to signal "Fat Chance" at Sweetwater should any unidentified aircraft approach the area.

These are answers to some of the questions concerning "that big gadget" which is now being installed on Scenic Mountain.

"Actually it's what we call a 'gap-filler,' explained Capt. Allen Robertson, public information officer at Webb Air Force Base. "Big Spring is situated in an area which heretofore had been unprotected by the radar set-up," he added.

The Philco Corp. has contracted to do the actual installation work of the unit. Donald Mansfield, Philco representative, commented: "None of the radar units in surrounding cities can quite reach the Big Spring area; at least not except at very high altitudes. So there is a section in the pocket there that is unprotected."

"The unit which we are installing will fill up the gap and send a signal to Sweetwater. It is unmanned and will send the signal automatically," Mansfield continued.

Work on the unit was begun approximately Jan. 20, and plans are that it will be finished within the next 30 days. At that time the unit will be turned over to the Air Defense Command for maintenance and use.

Health Dept. Believes Flu Is Lessening

AUSTIN (AP) — The State Health Department believes the influenza epidemic is declining but a high number of cases will continue to be reported for several weeks.

The department said Tuesday 63 counties reported more than 50 cases of influenza last week compared to 49 counties the previous week.

Dr. J. E. Peavy, health commissioner, said that while more counties have reported an increase in cases the trend is on the down grade, particularly in the more populous areas.

Nueces (Corpus Christi) County reported 1,992 cases last week compared to 3,727 cases a week earlier. In Travis (Austin) County, the total declined from 2,225 to 1,691 and in El Paso the tabulation dropped from 2,605 to 2,088 in the two-week period.

In Dallas, seven flu-pneumonia deaths were reported since last Friday compared to 19 the previous week. The latest deaths brought Dallas' total to 50.

The 18 Houston area schools which had to close last week were open this week.

The department report by counties: Bastrop 450, Bell 523, Brazoria 158, Brazos 651, Calhoun 219, Camp 110, Clay 103, Comal 191, Comanche 75, Cook 665, Crain 890, Crockett 175, Denton 400, Dimmit 74, Edwards 75, El Paso 2,088, Erath 330, Fisher 465, Fort Bend 372, Galveston 635, Hardin 365, Hidalgo 87, Hill 800, Hockley 450, Howard 260, Jefferson 2,044, Jim Wells 500.

Tuition Blamed

HOUSTON (AP) — University of Houston officials blamed a 30 per cent tuition increase for much of the decrease in spring semester enrollment to 10,700. Enrollment during the fall semester was 11,600, compared to a record 13,100 in 1957.

Discover Rambler's all-around economy yourself. See your Rambler dealer today.

HERE ARE THE OFFICIAL PURE OIL ECONOMY TRIAL RESULTS

RAMBLER AMERICAN	51.281 Miles Per Gallon

City To Pick Up Parking Lot Tab, Hoping For Repayment

The Big Spring taxpayer will pick up the tab for the delinquent payments on the municipal parking lot.

Although the city commission was promised the parking lot would be supported by subscribing merchants, Tuesday the city commissioners agreed to pay $800 in delinquent lease payments, hoping merchants will come to the rescue.

The city was originally asked to install parking meters on the lot and downtown merchants agreed to pay the cost of leasing the land. The rental is $1,920 annually, or $160 per month.

METERS ON LOTS

There are 52 parking meters installed on the lot, at a cost to the taxpayer of $4,804.52. Since installation Aug. 21, 1958, maintenance due to vandalism has been about $80.

On the revenue end, the city has received $2,613.80 from these meters. This leaves $2,270.72 of taxpayer's money still invested in the parking lot.

Rental on the lot is in arrears from Sept. 1959 through January, 1960, a total of $800. It has been the practice of the merchants to pay their shares to the city, which in turn, pays the land owners. On Tuesday, the city had $110 on hand from these merchants to pay the $800 deficit.

The city commissioners agreed to pay the deficit in the hope that merchants would pay their subscribed share.

ELECTION CALLED

In other business, the commission approved an ordinance calling for an election April 5, 1960 to elect three city commissioners. Terms of Mayor Lee Rogers, John Taylor, and George Zachariah expire.

George Melear and Mrs. Roy Bruce will be election judges for the contest.

Three zoning ordinances, changing three tracts in the east end of the city from Zone A, to Zones B, F, and G, were given second readings.

The controversial subdivision or-inance was discussed at length by the commissioners, most of the time spent on the water line extension provisions.

TOUCHY PART

The subdivision committee recommended the city pay half of such extensions, on a refunding basis. At present the city is paying all of the extension, on a refunding basis.

The commissioners have stated they cannot continue to pay for extensions, without risking bankruptcy. T. C. Forrest, of the master plan firm, warned the commission against adopting a refunding plan. He called it "too risky."

No formal action was taken on the proposal.

OOPS! WRONG FIGURE

Committee Corrects Pair Of Heavier Assessments

It turns out that the district judge and the district attorney, originally stated to pay the highest primary election assessments for the forthcoming primaries will actually pay the least.

Frank Hardesty, county executive committee chairman, said today that due to an oversight the assessments against Ralph Caton, district judge, and Gil Jones, district attorney, were incorrectly figured.

A special provision of the statute deals with district officers which requires that the primary fee be divided by the number of counties in the district. The 11th District comprises three counties.

Nor is that all. Judge Caton, it happens, is actually running for a two year term instead of a full four year term. Therefore, his fee has to be reduced accordingly.

In the original calculations, Caton was set down to pay $400. Jones was assessed $300. Now it works out that Caton's share of the costs will be $80; Jones will be $100.

Caton and Jones called Hardesty's attention to the special provision of the law when the assessments were announced.

"We'll not change any of the other assessments," said Hardesty. "We'll just tighten our belts and get by on the amount of money we have. It may be that we can cut the precinct crews to the minimum for the runoff primary. We'll have to have full crews for the first primary but the runoff can be handled with skeletonized crew."

Hardesty and the executive committee had estimated the primaries would cost about $3,000. The original assessments would have provided $3,160.

With the change in assessments granted Caton and Jones, the total revenue the committee will receive from the other 17 candidates will be only $2,560.

Candidates have until Saturday to pay their assessments. Failure to do so will mean their names will be left off the ballots.

City May Share With Fiddler

The saying that "he who dances must pay the fiddler" may be broadened to embrace the city.

A sample "dance hall" ordinance on Odessa books was discussed by the commission Tuesday, and City Attorney John Burgess was instructed to use it as a model for drawing up a Big Spring ordinance. The ordinance calls for an annual license for dance hall proprietors and a fee for organizations holding occasional dances.

The ordinance calls for sanitary conditions and fire precautions. All such establishments would be subject to periodic inspections by the police department and may be closed for violations of the ordinance.

The commission authorized Mayor Lee O. Rogers to sign a termination agreement with the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company for the inter-city loop communications system. It requires that the city pay $185, or a proportionate amount thereof, if the system is terminated before the end of the first year.

The commission approved giving a tract of land across the street from the new YMCA building to the local crippled children's organization. This will provide access for the youngsters to the new heated swimming pool in the YMCA as well as a permanent facility for the organization.

Plan Activities

Members of the Y Indian Guide Longhouse heard organizational reports Tuesday evening and laid plans for a field trip and spring pow-wow.

Bill Draper said that meetings had been set at Lakeview school to set up new tribes. Ralph McLaughlin is chairman of a committee which will plan a trip, either by train to Monahan State Park, or by car to Paint Rock or Carlsbad Caverns.

Al Milch was named chairman of the spring pow-wow, an intertribal rally early in April.

Named To Office

WACO—Wesley Grigsby, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Grigsby of Big Spring, has been elected corresponding secretary of Alpha Kappa Psi, business fraternity at Baylor University. A sophomore business accounting major at Baylor, Grigsby is a 1958 graduate of Big Spring High School.

Idea Steer Wins Reserve Honors

Jerry Iden's 1,100 pound Hereford steer was adjudged first in heavyweight steers, reserve champion of its breed and reserve champion of the entire show at El Paso on Tuesday. The steer was bred by his father, Ellis Iden.

It was the first time Howard County had won a championship ribbon in five years at the El Paso Show, according to Bill Sims, assistant county agent, who returned from the show today.

Sims said that the competition at the El Paso show was keen and that it was one of the most successful events in many years. Twenty boys and girls from the Howard County 4-H organization are at El Paso.

Iden's entry will be sold at the big auction which will bring the El Paso show to a close.

Howard County 4-H clubs also won first place in the show competition for the best group of five steers.

In the lamb division, Gary Graham won a third place in fine wool heavyweight division; Danny Wash, fifth place in the lightweight fine wool and Jim Engle, sixth place in the lightweight crossbred. Kay Thornton took ninth in the middleweight Southdown.

Other county entries in the steer division which won placings included:

Bob Adkins, eighth; Mary Thornton, ninth and Freddie White 13th in the lightweight division; Jerry Iden, fifth, Lucy Thornton, ninth and Sharon Harrison, 13th in the middleweight group.

After Bad Night, Mary O'Brien Is Making Recovery

After a bad night on Monday, which required that she be placed back in an oxygen tent, little Mary O'Brien, 3½ year-old daughter of M. Sgt. and Mrs. V. A. O'Brien, Webb Air Force Base, has made excellent progress. Friends here were advised today.

Mary is in Lackland AFB Hospital at San Antonio. She was removed to that hospital after having been run over by an automobile and gravely injured on Feb. 1.

Friends here said that her condition has so improved that her father is to return to his duties at Webb today.

First Aid Class Now Under Way

A total of eight dependents and seven Air Force personnel are enrolled in a Standard First Aid class that began at the Service Club on the base Monday.

It is being taught by Clarence Hunnicutt, the Red Cross field director and a certified Red Cross first aid instructor.

Hunnicutt, who taught standard first aid classes to Civilian Conservation Corps enrollees for two years prior to World War II, received his present certification by attending the National Red Cross Aquatic and Small Craft Safety School in June, 1959.

He also took a 15-hour instructor's course in First Aid Review at Big Spring in November last year.

"The objectives of First Aid Education," said Hunnicutt, "is that the student will gain new and useful information that he can apply to daily living for himself, his family, and his neighbors. He will increase his vocabulary and improve his knowledge of health matters and safe practices. In short, then, such training could, in an emergency, possibly save one's own life and even members of his own family."

Pony Express

HOUSTON (AP)—Ralph McKnight of Houston will again be the official pony express mail carrier for the 70-mile ride along the Salt Grass Trail beginning Feb. 21 at Brenham and ending here Feb. 23 on the eve of the opening of the 28th annual Houston Fat Stock Show.

A Devotional For Today

Give, and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down, and shaken together, and running over, shall men give into your bosom. For with the same measure that ye mete withal it shall be measured to you again. (Luke 6:38.)

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, help us to realize that we can arouse the goodness and generosity in others by endeavoring to do as Jesus would have us to do. We pray in the name of our Saviour, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen. (From The 'Upper Room')

Healthier To Be Quiet This Year

It is customary for a major political party to draw up a plan of campaign in presidential election years that is calculated to win popular approval. The bare bones of such a plan can be called strategy, or over-all theme. This long-range, comprehensive program is divided into the broad and policy tactics of vote-getting. Tactics may change at any moment to suit any situation that may develop, but the strategic concept of the campaign is inviolate.

This year the Republican party masterminds have already agreed on two major features of the campaign. First, the theme is "Peace and Prosperity," always crowd-pleasing and extremely difficult for the opposition to combat. Who wants to shoot Santa Claus? Who wants another war?

Second, the GOP has already settled the identity of its standard-bearer, Richard Nixon, while the Democrats will go down to the convention wire with at least half a dozen contenders clawing and scratching.

Having settled on peace and prosperity as the theme, the administration now has the job of convincing the people that both can be achieved without the one affecting the other. Can we really have peace without keeping our defenses strong and dynamic and alert? Can we keep them strong by cutting back on appropriations and manpower and capability? And if we cut to the bone on military preparedness, can we avoid severe deleterious effects on our over-all prosperity, which rests mainly on full employment, full time?

Mr. Eisenhower has been showing an increasing sensitivity to any questioning of the adequacy of our defense vis-a-vis the Soviet Union. Having said some six weeks ago that he knows more about the subject than anybody else he is annoyed when any of his subordinate generals make so bold as to question his judgment. After all, he is the commander-in-chief. In a political year a general is supposed to be seen and not heard.

So, the administration having laid down the proposition that all is well on the defense front in spite of what you hear from various sources, generals who make suggestions and find fault and question decisions would do well to take the veil of silence. It ain't healthy to speak out,

THE 1960 DOCTOR I.Q.

Kennedy Beginning To Run Scared

Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass) has said more than once that his principal opponent for the Democratic presidential nomination was Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson. The latter has steadfastly refused to say pointblank that he is a candidate, though plenty of his friends and colleagues have said it for him, and there seems to be no reasonable doubt that he is or will be a candidate by convention time.

There is no doubt at this time, and has not been for many weeks, that Sen. Johnson has more conviction over already pledged to him than any other aspirant, including Sen. Kennedy. Most but not all of these are in the Southern bloc of states, but some are in the border states and some in the West. It has been estimated that the Johnson bloc now numbers not fewer than 350 convention votes, almost half enough to nominate.

In an address at Albuquerque, N. M.,

Sunday Sen. Kennedy went a step further to recognize Sen. Johnson as his principal challenger. Before 4,000 enthusiastic New Mexicans, he took a swipe at the Texan—the first time he has struck at him openly. He chided Johnson for not entering any primary.

There is a divided opinion about the importance or even the excuse for a presidential primary, some holding they are meaningless and confusing, designed principally to make an aspirant look good, since normally he enters only those primaries where he has strong reason to believe he will either win or make a strong showing.

So far, Sen. Johnson, being far out front, can see nothing much, if anything, to gain by indulging in this kind of popularity contest, and the fact that he hasn't fallen for it seems to irk Mr. Kennedy. Is Mr. K. beginning to run scared?

David Lawrence Federal Aid Always Grows And Goes On

WASHINGTON — The Democrats in the Senate are unwittingly doing a great deal to scare American business. They have set the stage for a spending orgy by government which can gradually cut down the purchasing power of the dollar.

The vote in the Senate last week to provide nearly $2 billion in the next two years for "school aid" could start the federal government on an unprecedented course of subsidizing teachers' salaries. What has hitherto been a local obligation now could become a federal liability every year. It starts with a few hundred millions for teachers' salaries but, once a formula of this kind is imbedded in federal budgets, it means increasing sums every year thereafter.

Certainly school teachers should be better paid, and, if the states don't recognize this, they will lose teachers and fail to gain new ones. But once the federal government starts an aid program, the states will gradually transfer to it the major responsibility. This could even lead to federal control of the curriculum and teaching methods—as is the case in many a totalitarian government.

THE STATES ARE not bankrupt. If they fail to appropriate enough, it is the local citizenry who should be making a fight for better schooling. The moment the federal government steps into anything, it becomes a custom that is never repealed.

What can all this mean to business? If dollars are to be cut down in value, unions will insist upon higher wages. Then prices start going up faster and faster. Also, interest rates have to be boosted to attract investors. It means a dislocation of the American economy.

Now, many of the 42 Democrats and 9 Republicans who voted for the $1.8-billion measure to aid the schools realize that this bill will be pared down, if not rejected altogether. Then there is a probability of a presidential veto if the bill should get through the two houses. It is, however, the possibility that this kind of spending will be approved by the White House if a Democratic administration takes power a year hence which is causing apprehension in business circles.

IT IS SIGNIFICANT that 10 Democratic senators from the South and Senator Lausche (D-Ohio), voted against the school bill along with 23 Republicans, but the coalition wasn't big enough to stop the measure.

Naturally, all the would-be presidential candidates on the Democratic side announced themselves as in favor of this inflationary bill. Vice President Nixon had a chance earlier to break a tie on a somewhat similar bill, and he cast his vote against it. He had been warned that this might hurt him politically, but he wisely disregarded such advice.

Skyrocketing expenditures of the federal government are a matter of growing concern. Just a few days ago, Maurice H. Stans, director of the federal budget, gave some unpleasant facts to the public in a speech he made in Chicago. He pointed out that the U. S. Treasury is faced with a large amount of "future obligations" growing out of the tendency to start a system of continuous spending for projects—many of them taken over from the states. He said:

"OUR PRESENT NATIONAL debt of $290 billion is far from all we owe for the past. Here are some items it doesn't include: Our already accrued liability for military retirement is about $30 billion. Our unfunded present accrual for retirement benefits for civilian government employees is almost $28 billion. On top of that, future pensions, compensation and other benefits voted to veterans will cost about $300 billion."

"Now, the $290 billion of current public debt, plus over $250 billion of future obligations for past services, plus $98 billion of C.O.D.s adds to the almost incredible total of nearly $750 billion. That is the federal government's mortgage on America's future—on ourselves and our children—beyond the regular annual cost of defense, welfare and commerce. Is it any wonder that your President pleads for a sense of proportion, for a limit on compulsive spending, for a passion for responsibility?"

What Mr. Stans means by his reference to commitments for the future is illustrated by the new school-aid bill. Once it starts, an annual obligation of the federal government is incurred. These are what is known as "built-in" expenditures, and Mr. Stans says:

"I SEE ALREADY built-in increases pushing expenditures up and up year after year. I see pressures continuing to mount for the federal government to spend more and more, to take over local government's problems, and to meet demands from pressure groups for more handouts on many fronts. If we yield to these temptations, we can soon have $90 or $100 billion budgets, higher taxes or more deficits, debasement of our money and weakening of our economy."

How many members of Congress heed that warning? The Democratic majority in the Senate evidently didn't, and neither did the few Republicans who apparently were intimidated by political threats at the polls coming from pressure groups. Maybe some day an informed electorate will constitute itself as the biggest pressure group of all and vote for representatives who favor a sound economy.

James Marlow Confusion Over The Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you think the Washington confusion over defense is exaggerated, read this.

Last week Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, said "I support the President's budget" which asked Congress for less money than the Navy thought was needed for Polaris missile-firing submarines.

But this week Burke said he would ask for a billion-dollar boost in the budget to provide more of the submarines faster. But then he crossed thinking with Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

BURKE IS A MEMBER of the joint chiefs but Twining opposed the admiral's idea of wanting more money for the Polaris sub.

On Monday Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, Army chief of staff and a member of the joint chiefs with Burke, said this country's ability to airlift troops and equipment to deal with any emergency is woefully inadequate.

But Twining brushed aside Lemnitzer's concern for the airlift. Last week Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, who retired as Army chief of staff last summer, questioned this country's ability to fight a limited war. But his successor, Lemnitzer, said "There is no doubt we could do a very good job."

While President Eisenhower's budget for military spending came to $41 billion dollars—with $9,800,000,000 set aside for the Army—Secretary of the Army Wilber M. Brucker told Congress this week the Army should have $10,320,000,000.

GEN. DAVID M. SHOUP, Marine Corps commander, said he didn't believe the 170,000-man Marine force provided for in Eisenhower's budget is enough.

Eisenhower says he probably knows more about defense needs than anyone.

Last week Gen. Thomas S. Power, boss of this country's long-range bombers, asked for money to keep his planes aloft 24 hours a day, to avoid having them smashed on the ground if the Soviets attack.

But Twining said the important thing is to be able to start such an alert if and when needed. Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr., said the same thing.

Twining disagreed also with Taylor who said this country relies too much on weapons of massive retaliation and not enough on weapons to fight brush-fire wars.

Eisenhower stressed how much he relies on the advice of his top military advisers—the top ones are on the Joint Chiefs of Staff. His budget called for drastically cutting back production of the 2,000-mile-an-hour long-range bomber, B70.

But Twining disagreed on this. He told Congress he didn't favor the drastic cutback.

Power told Congress he figured with 300 missiles the Soviet Union could knock us flat. Eisenhower scoffed at this idea and Gates said Power was "unrealistic."

And, odddest of all, since Power was jumped on so fast by his superiors, Twining said Power's speech had been cleared by his Pentagon superiors before he made it.

Double Trouble
AUSTIN, Minn. — Michael Frohrieh, 80, of Waltham, Minn., figured a fine of $25 on each of two traffic violations was cheap.

He pleaded guilty in municipal court to driving over the center line and unlicensed operation of a motor vehicle, then testified he had been driving without a license since 1915.

No Defense
VINELAND, N. J. — A disorderly conduct charge lodged against Jose Antonio Montes, 26, was dismissed after his wife told the judge she wished to drop it.

"I love him," said the woman in asking the judge to dismiss her complaint that Montes had hit her over the head with a bottle of detergent.

Around The Rim When It Blows Hard, Something Moves

I noticed in the daily weather report that the thermometer had dipped to a minus 7 on Feb. 8 in 1933, and I was all set to recall that seven below may not be cold in some places, but that it was plenty bad around here. In fact, it was about the bitterest cold spell we ever had, for when the wind blows at that reading, you feel it.

But then the not-so-gentle zephyr of Tuesday came along and I figured that perhaps what happens now is a lot more interesting to folks, especially those who have never seen a real sandstorm.

There is a disposition among the natives to tell all our new friends and visitors: "Oh, this isn't so bad. Just wait until we have a real blow."

DON'T LOSE HEART. You won't see many as bad as Tuesday's gritty effort, and very few worse. Anytime the wind gets up to a mile-a-minute as it did Tuesday it is going to move something, and in these wide open spaces the handiest thing is dust and sand. We've had an abundance of moisture this year, but if there is the smallest dry film on top of the ground, it will blow. And each tiny particle that is knocked loose in turn knocks others loose so that it's like the chain reaction of an atomic or hydrogen bomb.

Conservationists tell us that if the land was all covered with vegetation, or if it had been left in grass that this wouldn't happen. They have a point, but they stretch it a mile, for back in the 1890's before the open range was scarred by the plow, we had some blinding sandstorms. I have seen pictures by early day photographers to prove it, and these simply prove my point that when the wind blows hard enough, something is going to give.

IN THE SPRING OF 1951 WE had one of the worst storms on record. That was the beginning of the recent drought, and one March afternoon a relatively peaceful spring day was wiped out as though a giant hand had drawn a curtain of dense, red sand. Everywhere house and office lights were turned off. Car headlights could not be seen across the street. Later in that same year a storm blew in one Saturday night, and housewives almost had to shovel out the dirt next morning.

This cycle continued until it perhaps reached its zenith in the April 30, 1953 blow that set in with such fury that it lasted for 72 hours. At the height of that storm, an airplane seeking the haven at Webb AFB crash landed just off the runways of the base and it was not until the next day that the wreckage and bodies of the occupants were discovered.

ON APRIL 3, 1956 A "BLACK duster," a term used to differentiate Texas Panhandle, Colorado and Kansas dust from the red sandstorm, struck suddenly almost at maximum strength. Travellers on the highway told how instantly they could not see beyond the hood of their cars. Fearfully they eased to a stop in the borrow ditch. One man let a passenger out of his car to go to a road machine 10 feet away, and all of a sudden he could see neither man nor machine. All over town television antennae snapped, and some fell into power lines.

MANY WILL NOT SOON FORGET the April, 1958 breeze that struck the day that the ABC's really had billed Dave Sims and Bobby Morrow, the nation's two fastest men in "the race of the century," a play on words since they were entered in the 100-yard dash. It turned out that the wind blew harder or faster that day, than either man could run. Morrow, a triple Olympic winner, ran third that day, and he never forgot it. But it was the sand and not the race that created it in his brain.

J. A. Livingston Lack Of Reality In Money Market

Financial vice presidents and treasurers of such stalwart American enterprises as Kansas City Power & Light Co., Gulf States Utilities Co., American Telephone & Telegraph Co., Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., CIT Financial Corp., Commercial Credit Co., and Southern California Edison Co. can be grateful that they don't have to have their policies approved by a Senate Committee. Boy, would they be razed!

Imagine their . . . Well, the word isn't easy to choose. "Negligence" isn't right. Nor "stupidity." Nor "indifference." But what ever it is, many congressmen would insist the executives committed boobies in managing their companies' debts.

THE OFFICERS OF THESE companies—yes, and of Jessop Steel, Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania, and Connecticut Power & Light—recently sold long-term bonds and paid no attention to the 4% per cent ceiling which Congress imposes on Secretary of the Treasury Anderson when he wants to sell long-term bonds. The corporate executives were glad to get money at 5 per cent and up.

AMAT put on a 5% per cent coupon on $250,000,000 of bonds due in 1966. CIT Financial a 5% per cent coupon on bonds due in 1960. Jessop Steel's bonds of 1975 bore a 5 per cent interest rate. Southern Bell Telephone Co. bonds of 1964 bore a 5% per cent rate. And so on and on. If the officers of these companies had to sell bonds under the same stricture as Anderson, they just couldn't, that's all.

And if the officers of these companies appeared before a Senate Committee, Clark of Pennsylvania, Proxmire of Wisconsin, or Gore of Tennessee would be sure to ask them why they had saddled consumers and stockholders with high interest rates decades into the future.

THE OFFICERS WOULD respond that they need the money now and that they can't figure out what money will cost one, two, five, or fifteen years hence. Democratic senators and representatives argue that interest rates are historically high today. They accuse the Federal Reserve Board of artificially forcing up interest rates. If the Federal Reserve would make credit plentiful and cheap, the government would not have to pay so much for its money.

They fear that if the ceiling were lifted, the Treasury would saddle taxpayers with 30- and 40-year high-interest-rate bonds. Therefore, at the last session of Congress, they rejected Eisenhower's appeal to lift the 4% per cent ceiling. The President has made this request a first order of business this year.

THIS LEGISLATIVE STAND-off forces the Treasury to sell short-term securities only. Result: Only 21 per cent of the government's marketable debt matures beyond five years. This compares with 26 per cent at the time the President first asked Congress for authority to put out bonds with interest rates above 4 1/4 per cent and with 28 per cent a year ago.

Congressmen, it seems to me, grossly misunderstand the problem. The Treasury couldn't sell huge amounts of 30- and 40-year bonds. The postwar record proves that. The Treasury couldn't afford to over-try the market. At the present time, the thought is to sell eight to 10 year bonds. But if longer-term bonds could be sold, so much the better.

It isn't poor judgment to sell long-term bonds when interest rates are high. That's the only time long-term Treasuries can be sold.

When interest rates are low, because business is slack, the sale of long-term Treasury bonds would siphon off money from business firms, seekers of mortgages, cities, states, and municipalities, and so on. The Treasury would be criticized for making money scarce during a recession.

HERE'S A COMPROMISE for Democratic congressmen who have fought the President's request. In recent years, the Treasury has sold noncallable bonds. Investors could count on receiving a predetermined rate of interest until maturity.

In contrast, corporate bonds have a "call feature." The "call" permits companies to redeem their bonds after five or ten years by paying 75 per cent to 10 per cent premium—$1,050 to $1,100 for $1,000 bonds. This is insurance against a change in money rates. If interest rates fall, the companies can redeem high-interest bonds in order to sell bonds with a lower coupon.

A call feature in long-term Treasury bonds would guard against 30-year fears and give congressmen a way out from under the 4% per cent ceiling. This provision would mean higher coupon rates. Insurance companies and pension funds will accept a lower coupon on non-callable bonds than on callables. But it's a small price to pay for mobility in the money market.

To Your Good Health 'Walking Pneumonia' Is A Mild Case

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.
"Dear Dr. Molner: What about 'walking pneumonia'? Our doctor says we have it. Nothing seems to help—Mr. & Mrs. F. H."

I dare say he advised you to go to bed and stay there, but you said no, you "felt good enough."

Pneumonia is inflammation of the lungs, and there are several varieties of it. Sometimes bacteria cause it, sometimes a virus. And not always the same variety of either.

Just as with a cold, you may have a light case or a hard one. "Walking pneumonia" is a case so mild that the patient isn't knocked off his feet. Pneumonitis and acute bronchitis are other possibilities.

As with a cold, you can insist on "staying on your feet" and being sick longer, or going to bed and giving Nature a chance to clear up the inflammation. But pneumonia is more serious. Don't fool around. Get well.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is taking tranquilizers in connection with alcohol harmful?—C. J."

Yes. Both of them dull one's reactions in sufficient doses. Together the effect is compounded. They do not mix.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Does a person's blood type change? Several years ago my blood was typed after donating blood and I'm sure I was Type O. Recently I donated again and now I am Type A."

"Another thing. It seems that I feel better—have more energy and am not as tired, after I have given a pint of blood. (Maybe this could be a plug for the blood bank!—M. R.M.)"

No, your blood type does not change, and I think if you checked back on the records, you'd find your memory is playing tricks on you. It happens to all of us.

As to feeling better after donating blood, I think you'll have to put that down to the emotional lift of having done a good deed. Donating blood at suitable intervals certainly doesn't hurt one. Some people have given over 100 pints! And every drop that is given is needed.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I drink a large quantity of soft drinks, especially in hot weather. A druggist told me this not good for the bladder. I would like your opinion—S. P."

He is mistaken, because they are not harmful to the bladder. There are, however, other things to keep in mind. These soft drinks are sweet, and if you are on the heavy side, the calories add weight. (About 80 calories to a six-ounce glass of the average soft drink or "pop.") Many dentists oppose soft drinks for children on grounds that most of them are quite acid, which could contribute to tarting cavities—the sugar likewise is criticized for the same reason.

Finally, some of the cola drinks are relatively high in caffeine, and should be regarded in the same category as coffee. If you are supposed to leave coffee alone, the cola drinks are no substitute.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can a pair of points (shoes with sharply pointed toes) cause any harm to a boy's feet? My 13-year-old son wants to get a pair. My husband says he had a pair that hurt his feet, and they would be harmful to our son—L. C."

I agree with your husband. A round or square toe is more sensible. I've seen feet troubled with corns, calluses and arch trouble from wearing shoes that were too narrow.

MRS. J. C.: There is a moderately greater danger of abnormalities in children born to mothers in their 40's. This doesn't mean that younger mothers never have abnormal children, nor does it mean that older mothers necessarily will have. It's a matter of percentage points.

Forum Slates Spring Affair

Plans for the spring luncheon of the Forum units were announced at a meeting of the Spoudazio For Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. James C. Jones. Co-hostess was Mrs. Oliver Cofer.

Date for the affair was set for April 5 at the Desert Sands Restaurant. In charge of decorations will be members of the Spoudazio For and the Junior Woman's Forum.

The program, which is to be a fashion show, is under the supervision of the Modern Woman's Forum.

Mrs. Don Farley, Mrs. Bill Lansing and Mrs. John King compose a nominating committee.

A program was presented for the group by Mrs. King who read a paper prepared by Mrs. Lansing. The topic was Traffic and Driver Education; it dealt with traffic laws in Connecticut.

The speaker gave five keys to better driving, including such points as: get the big picture; aim high in steering; keep your eyes moving.

Also, leave yourself an out, and make sure you are seen.

The next meeting is set for Feb. 23 in the home of Mrs. John Hill, 1808 Donley, with Mrs. Bob Bright as cohostess.

JUNIOR FORUM

Members of the Junior Woman's Forum visited one of their projects, a high school Bible Class, Tuesday when they met.

Mrs. Johnny Johansen, teacher of the class, conducted the lesson on the Sermon on the Mount.

The Forum held a business meeting in the home of Mrs. Melvin Witter, where Mrs. Jackie Touchstone was cohostess.

A nominating committee was appointed. It includes Mrs. Robert McDonald, Mrs. B. R. Newton, and Mrs. Cliff Balzer.

Mrs. Ernest Welch will be hostess to the group in her home at 605 Bucknell for the next meeting.

Mrs. Horace Rankin will be cohostess.

Business Sessions Held By First Baptist Circles

A devotion based on the life of Grandma Moses was brought to members of the Anne Dyer Circle of the First Baptist Church Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. Zack Gray.

Mrs. Marvin Baker was the speaker who told of the story of the elderly artist for the nine circle members and their guests.

Mrs. Donna Capps and Mrs. Graham, mother of the hostess.

During the business session, the group elected Mrs. Ted Snider as publications chairman and made plans to furnish refreshments to the state hospital laundry workers on Feb. 19. This is a community missions project and will be continued throughout the year.

Playhouse 90 Embarks On Nomadic Life

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Playhouse 90 embarked Tuesday night on its new phase as a nomadic special in the CBS channels. We'll miss it in its own regular niche, for the 90-minute show remains one of television's enduring delights.

"To the Sound of Trumpets" Tuesday night's play and while it probably won't win any awards, it provided an entertaining three acts. Stephen Boyd and Dolores Hart played a pair of star-crossed lovers who, after meeting somewhere between the front lines and Paris during World War I, struggled with their respective consciences.

He is a British captain, so sickened by slaughter that he is deserting. She is an American volunteer nurse's aide, fleeing her hospital to spend a leave with her husband. Conscience, of course, wins in the end. But the moral was incidental to the love story.

NBC's Startime consisted of a lot of hands playing the songs they made popular during the late 1950s. It was just fine for those who like to watch musicians play.

There were such old favorites on view as Bob Crosby, Count Basie, Guy Lombardo and Gene Krupa. There were also a lot of gray or bald heads and frankly middle-aged gentlemen in the bandstands, a sharp reminder that we are not as young—or slim—as we once were.

This isn't the type of show that startime does best.

Everyone seems to complain about the constant commercials on the Jack Paar show, and finally somebody has done something about them. A trade magazine assigned a monitoring service to report on the commercials one night—Jan. 14—on four of Paar's 146-station lineup.

House Panel Hears Agencies In Hearings On Border Dam

WASHINGTON (AP)—In an effort to reconcile differing views on the proposed Amistad Dam between Texas and Mexico, a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee heard testimony today from federal agencies.

The dam would be built on the Rio Grande near Del Rio, Tex., with the U. S. paying 56 million dollars of the estimated 80-million-dollar cost and sharing proportionately greater benefits. Mexico would pay the rest.

"Some of the testimony of witnesses we've heard seems to conflict," subcommittee Chairman Armistead Selden (D-Ala.) said. "We'd like to find out how different people can take the same set of figures and arrive at such different conclusions."

Officials of the State Department, Reclamation Bureau and Federal Power Commission were called.

The current phase of the subcommittee hearing on a bill that would authorize the dam is expected to end today, Selden said. The group then will consider visiting the Texas-Mexican border to get a first hand view of the project area.

Later, he said, hearings will be resumed to give water users in the Lower Rio Grande Valley an opportunity to express their views. Texans from the Del Rio and Eagle Pass and Laredo areas, upstream from the fertile and irrigated Lower Valley, emphasized the proposed dam is primarily for flood control and that no new lands would be put under irrigation.

Jack Drake of Weslaco, representing the Lower Valley Chamber of Commerce, asked the subcommittee to hold the later hearing so water users in his area could prepare their case. He said they don't object to Amistad as a flood control measure, but feared it may deprive them of water to which they are entitled.

The other controversial feature of the project which the subcommittee seeks to discuss further with federal officials is the proposed dam's hydroelectric potential.

The subcommittee has been told by several witnesses that a Federal Power Commission report holds that the power to be generated at Amistad could not be depended on at all times. For this reason, they said, the government should not finance installation of generating equipment.

On the other hand, spokesmen for REA cooperatives in Texas have testified that the Central Power & Light Co. of Corpus Christi considered the power potential of such value that the company had offered to install generating equipment at its own expense and pay $37,000 a year for the falling water rights.

Estimates of the cost of the generating equipment—not included in the 80-million-dollar estimate for the dam, varied from 10 to 20 million dollars for facilities ranging from 70,000 kilowatts capacity to 100,000 kilowatts.
