10-Day Plan Slices Texas Oil Allowable

AUSTIN (AP) —The Railroad Commission set today a statewide oil allowable for March of 2,900,568 barrels daily. This is a slash of 120,488 barrels a day from the February allowable.

The permissible flow is based on a continuation of the 10-day producing pattern.

The order followed a hearing which reflected a split between the major oil-buying companies in their recommendations of nine and 10 days production.

A spokesman for a group of Dallas independents said that because product inventories are excessive, and because of warmer winter months which had reduced demand for heating, the commission should order nine days.

E. L. Wilson of Dallas, representing about 35 producers from all districts in the state, told the regulatory agency at the state-wide production hearing that the general tone of the industry now is pessimistic.

Wilson said that if the commission carried out his group's recommendation of nine days, other states would probably take advantage of this by increasing their own production by one day.

But, Wilson said, the nationwide situation is serious and another month of over-production "would be disastrous."

"I hope the top management of the companies will develop a sense of fair play and enough guts to restrict purchases in some of these other states," Wilson said.

Commission Chairman Ernest Thompson called Eddie Scurlock, of Scurlock Oil Co. of Houston, to the microphone.

Thompson questioned him on his company's purchases in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi.

Scurlock said oil is more freely available in Louisiana and Mississippi than in Texas.

The companies are storing this excess production, Scurlock said. Five major oil-buying companies recommended the 10-day producing pattern.

Six recommended nine days. One asked for eight days.

Thompson told the oil men that inventories of crude and products are 54,600,000 barrels above the desired level.

However, he said, crude stocks are 5,200,000 below the desired level. Gasoline stocks are more than 30 million barrels high and distillates are more than 23 million barrels in excess.

Humble, the state's largest purchaser, switched from a written nomination of 424,360 barrels new passes were issued early this month.

Some members of the mission were in Allied-occupied West Berlin when the new passes were distributed early in February.

These members have remained in West Berlin.

There are about 30 officers and men based at the American, British and French posts in Potsdam, just a few miles outside the Berlin city limits.

The Soviet Union has a similar number of observers in the three former Western zones of occupation in West Germany.

High-level discussions were in progress today. No final decision has been made, but informants said it was most likely a protest would be lodged with Soviet officials by the end of the week.

WASHINGTON (AP) —The United States is firmly opposed to a Soviet effort to force Allied liaison teams to carry special new passes while traveling in East Germany.

The State Department is discussing the issue with Britain and France in a move to forge a united front toward the Soviet demand.

French authorities are reported to back American objections but the attitude of the British is understood to be less firm.

The new passes would give the American-British-French military mission in Berlin authority to travel into "the German Democratic Republic."

Instead of "the Soviet occupied zone of Germany," the previous wording.

The passes also would bear the notation that they have been registered at the Interior Ministry of the puppet East German regime.

The passes are meant for members of the Allied military mission assigned to the Soviet headquarters at Potsdam, 15 miles from West Berlin.

Baptist Editor Urges Release Of Rome Ties

DALLAS (AP)—The editor of a Baptist publication has declared that Protestants should not vote for Roman Catholic presidential candidates unless they renounce their allegiance to the Vatican.

In an editorial in the Baptist Standard, the denomination's official state newspaper, Dr. E. S. James outlined two steps he said Catholic aspirants should take to enlist the support of Protestant voters.

"There must be a renunciation of allegiance to the foreign religion-political state at the Vatican, and there must be a declaration of freedom from the domination of the clergy by American Catholic citizens," he editorialized.

"If that were done we know of no reason why a Roman Catholic should not have the support of voters of all faiths."

Referring specifically to Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass.), James warned that whatever Baptists have to say about his candidacy must be said now.

"If Baptists have reason to oppose the election of any man because of his religious attachments, the time to voice that opposition is before the national meeting of the political party. After he is nominated those who express opposition are looked upon as enemies of the party," he said.

The editor, whose weekly newspaper has a circulation of 357,317, recalled that the candidacy of Al Smith in 1928 caused many Baptist congregations to be "born asunder."

"The Standard regards Mr. Kennedy as a clean young man with intelligence, ability and competence. He has a pretty good political record. . . . If we must have a Catholic for president, perhaps Kennedy would be as good as could be found; but until (these) two things are done this country must never elect to this high office a member of that faith."

Mrs. Peters Is Death Victim

Mrs. Otto Peters Sr., 75, died unexpectedly at her home at 1702 Eleventh Place at 2:30 a. m. today.

She died following a heart attack. She had been ill on Monday but went back Wednesday afternoon for a routine checkup although she was feeling much better.

Services will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday at St. Mary's Episcopal Church with the Rev. Donald Hungerford, rector, officiating. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park under direction of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Mrs. Peters was born Jean Dorward on Jan. 13, 1885, in Delaware, Ohio, and was married there on Jan. 27, 1912, to Otto Peters Sr. They came to Big Spring in 1936 from Breckenridge, and so long as health permitted, Mrs. Peters had been active in the affairs of the St. Mary's Episcopal Church where she was a member.

Surviving her are her husband, who is a janitor for Coeden's retired employees; three sons, Otto Peters Jr., Eugene R. Peters and D. Peters, Tulsa, Okla.

She also leaves one sister, Mrs. A. M. Ballard, Denver, Colo.; one brother, Huff Dorward, Los Angeles, Calif.; six grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Saturday at St. Mary's Episcopal Church with the Rev. R. R. McNew and Tom Helton.

Lamesa Wife Badly Injured

LAMESA — Mrs. Darvin C. Henson, 19, lay in a critical condition in the Medical Arts Hospital this morning after her car smashed into a tree and rebounded into a borrow ditch.

Police said that her husband, D. C. Henson, told them that Mrs. Henson had left their home, following a quarrel shortly before her car left the Stanton highway a mile south.

The southbound car continued 100 yards after leaving the road and veered to the right into a large elm tree. The motor was knocked out of the car at that point, and the car went on another 25 yards and came to a stop broadside in the borrow ditch. Impact of the crash peeled bark from the tree to a height of five feet, officers said.

A specialist from Lubbock had been summoned Thursday morning, but Mrs. Henson's condition was so serious that the full extent of her injuries could not be determined immediately.

Chessman's Life Hangs By A Vote

No Passports At Washington Border Fete

LAREDO (AP)—People crossed the border today without having to show passports as the annual Washington's Birthday Celebration started.

Since 1897, the celebration has become larger and larger until now two cities, Laredo and Nuevo Laredo, join hands in the observance.

Close to $500,000 are spent on the huge show. Eleven thousand yards of material are being used for costumes in one number of a folk dance, 4,000 persons will take part in the annual parade Saturday, and one dress is a dance number has 100,000 sequins, all sewed on by hand.

Costumes in the Colonial Ball, a pageant with an 18th Century air Friday, cost from $200 to $1,000.

The fiesta, which started as an informal celebration, became formally organized in 1928. Today the Washington Birthday Celebration Assn. works under a budget all year round.

Thousands are expected for the weekend in Laredo. Gov. Price Daniel arrives Friday at 2 p. m. Also expected are five governors from Mexico and Mexican Foreign Minister Manuel Tello.

A joint waiver of the usual passport and visa requirements will continue until Sunday.

At the Colonial Ball, a man and woman from Laredo will depict George and Martha Washington, and scores of others will be dressed in 18th Century costumes.

CENTER OF BRIDGE Scheduled for Saturday is the annual ceremony in the center of the international bridge when public officials from the U.S. and Mexico exchange greetings.

The parade, which this year has 22 units, will move through the streets starting at 11 a. m. In the evening there will be band concerts in two plazas and a street dance.

Movie and TV stars from Mexico City will arrive that night to put on the "Noche Mexicana" stage show in a hangar at Laredo Air Force Base, and all the dignitaries and visitors will gather to watch and be introduced.

The fiesta will continue Sunday with the president's luncheon at which time Rep. Joe Kilgore (D-Tex) will be honored as "Mr. South Texas."

In the afternoon, 2,500 school children from Laredo and Nuevo Laredo will gather at Shirley Field for an international folk dance festival.

Hospital Advisory Unit Plans Meet For Next Week

The regular meeting of the Voluntary Advisory Council of the Big Spring State Hospital has been set for 7:30 p. m. on Feb. 25 in the high school cafeteria.

Dr. Beatrice Cobb, member of the department of psychology at Texas Tech, will be the speaker for the occasion. Dr. Preston Harrison, hospital superintendent, said.

Reports on the work of the past year will be presented at the meeting, and plans for the ensuing year will be discussed.

In addition, there will be a recognition ceremony, and a capping service following service hour awards. All members of the council are being urged to have representatives present for this important meeting.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee today ordered a general investigation of manuals issued by the armed services.

The inquiry comes on the heels of withdrawal by the Air Force of a training pamphlet which says Communists have infiltrated the nation's churches. There were bitter protests from churchmen over that publication.

The immediate trigger, however, is another Air Force manual — this one giving tips on just how to mix martinis and how to apply subtle controls to pre-dinner drinking at service parties. There are tips, too, on such things as getting dates for bachelor guests.

Panel Releases Civil Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Rules Committee formally agreed today to House consideration of a civil rights bill next month.

The committee action by a 7-4 vote broke a deadlock that had bottled up the controversial measure since it was approved last August by the House Judiciary Committee.

The rules group provided specifically that an administration-backed proposal for federal court appointment of referees may be considered as an amendment to the House bill.

Voting to permit consideration of the bill were Reps. Ray J. Madden (D-Ind.), James J. Delaney (D-N.Y.), Thomas P. O'Neill (D-Mass.), Leo E. Allen (R-Ill.), Clarence J. Brown (R-Ohio), E. Carroll Reece (R-Tenn.) and Hamern H. Budge (R-Idaho).

Against it were committee chairman, Howard W. Smith (D-Va.), and Reps. William M. Colmer (D-Miss.), James W. Trimble (D-Ark.) and Homer Thornberry (D-Tex.).

The twelfth member of the Rules Committee, Rep. Richard Bolling (D-Mo.), was absent.

The committee recommended that the House debate the bill 15 hours before considering amendments. This could mean weeks of debate.

A civil rights bill approved by the House Judiciary Committee had been pigeonholed in Smith's committee since last August because a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats wouldn't turn it loose. Hearings were started last week, but took a leisurely pace.

The coalition broke apart Wednesday, under apparent political pressure.

The decision of House Rules Committee Republicans to act followed a meeting of the GOP Policy Committee.

While Republican leaders insisted politics was not a major consideration, several factors pointed to politics as having been at least a minor consideration in the decision to act.

The bill to be considered by the House contains no referee provision, but that may be offered as an amendment.

Attendants of Big Spring Hospital reported that Grace had a restless night and that he suffered no broken bones. He has lacerations and bruises about the face but his condition is termed as "not serious."

Grace was taken to the hospital in a Nalley-Pickle ambulance and is still in custody for observation purposes. He is originally from Brownfield but is currently employed by the Capitan Drilling Co. of Odessa.

Single Judge Could End 12 Year's Battle

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Condemned Caryl Chessman's last thread of hope, stretched perilously thin after nearly 12 years of tenacious legal battling, suspends today from an effort to switch one vote.

That is the vote of at least one member of the California Supreme Court majority, Wednesday the court—after a series of rapid-fire developments—decided 4-3 against recommending clemency for the death row convict-author.

Chessman is slated to die in the green-painted gas chamber at San Quentin at 10 a. m. Friday. He was convicted in 1948 of kidnaping with bodily harm, robbery and sexual abuse in Los Angeles.

BROWNED BY LAW California Gov. Edmund G. Brown, at sundown Wednesday, noted he cannot grant clemency unless the Supreme Court recommends. The law puts this restriction on granting mercy to men convicted previously of felony.

Brown said any further action on his part depended on what happened in Chessman's move today for reconsideration of the 4-3 vote.

The convict's attorney, George T. Davis, said his petition for reconsideration would be accompanied by a request for a hearing on a complete brief supporting the action.

Davis said Wednesday night, after the U.S. Supreme Court, the California Supreme Court and the governor acted or commented on the case, that he didn't have a chance to be heard on the 11th hour clemency appeal.

In Sacramento, Governor Brown issued a statement saying he was constitutionally bound to abide by the court's recommendation regarding clemency. As to a reprieve—or postponement—of Friday's execution, Brown said he would not anticipate the court's decision on the motion for reconsideration.

STILL IN DOUBT Thus, 24 hours before the crucial time, Chessman's fate still was in doubt.

At a San Quentin news conference Wednesday the 38-year-old, hawk-faced Chessman expressed belief his 12-year court struggle "is all over."

Governor Brown is an outspoken opponent of capital punishment. But on previous appeals in Chessman's behalf, he noted that the evidence of guilt was "overwhelming" and also that Chessman never had indicated remorse.

Chessman steadfastly has insisted on his innocence, and he did so again. He said that's why he never has asked for clemency, but for a full pardon. He messaged Brown "to do whatever your conscience dictates."

VATICAN CITY (AP)—L'Observatore Romano today pleaded for mercy for Caryl Chessman, who faces death Friday in San Quentin's gas chamber.

The Vatican newspaper said the convict already has suffered for 12 years and declared that it "is no longer a judicial question but only a humane question."

Another mercy plea was made in Rome by the parliamentary group of the Italian Democrat Socialist party. Its leader, Giuseppe Saragat, sent a telegram to U. S. Ambassador James D. Zellerbach to be forwarded to California's Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

The manual bounced into the headlines Wednesday when the National Council of Churches registered a protest with Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. The council is a representative body of 33 Protestant and Orthodox churches in the United States.

The manual is the third Air Force publication to stir up a furor in recent weeks. The others were the "big brother is watching" and "dog-washing" manuals.

Thirteen of the 95 persons who prepared a revised standard version of the Bible under sponsorship of the National Council of Churches "have been affiliated with pro-Communist fronts, projects and publications."

On Vinson's motion the committee broadened the jurisdiction of its subcommittee on manpower use to take in a study of all the manuals.

The manual discussing church infiltration was pulled back a

Allied Soldiers Isolated As Soviets Put Squeeze On Berlin

BONN, Germany (AP)—Several Allied military men were isolated in an iron curtain liaison post today as the Western Allies tried a new move by the Soviet Union to win a measure of recognition for its East German regime.

Informants said the Americans were determined to hold fast against the acceptance of new travel passes authorizing Allied personnel to travel into "the German Democratic Republic"—instead of "the Soviet-occupied zone of Germany," the wording on previous passes.

These sources said the dispute could lead to the closing down of the Allied liaison post in Potsdam, East Germany, and of three Soviet liaison posts in West Germany.

It could not be determined how many men were isolated in the Potsdam posts. But informants said that with one exception the staff of the liaison mission has stayed put in Potsdam since the new passes were issued early this month.

Some members of the mission were in Allied-occupied West Berlin when the new passes were distributed early in February.

These members have remained in West Berlin.

Tornadoes Wreak Havoc Over State

Tornadoes tore apart farm homes, wrecked outbuildings and injured at least six persons Wednesday night as violent weather touched off by a cold front hit South Texas.

Snow fell from the South Plains of West Texas into the Dallas-Fort Worth area but in many places it melted as soon as it touched ground.

Katy, 25 miles west of Houston, and the Groves community in the Port Arthur area, bore the brunt of about 12 tornadoes reported in South and Southeast Texas.

Early Thursday skies over the state were clear, and temperatures ranged from near 20 in the Panhandle to near freezing along a line from Lufkin, to Fort Worth, to Del Rio and to near 40 along the coast.

The lowest reading Thursday morning was 16 at Dalhart and the high was 44 at Brownsville. No rain or snow was reported.

Violent winds lifted the roof of the house of Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Perkins at Katy. Mrs. Perkins, 26; her son, Jerold, 3, and a 7-month-old infant received slight injuries.

Witnesses said the Perkins home was moved about 300 feet.

The house trailer of Mr. and Mrs. George Jenkins at Port Arthur was blown over causing injury to the couple. Lora Savant, 41, received cuts and bruises when wind blew in the plate glass window at a Port Arthur cafe where she worked. All three were hospitalized.

Winds reached a speed of 78 miles an hour in gusts at the Jefferson County Airport near Port Arthur.

Sheriff's deputies at Angleton said a tornado was reported in that area but the only damage noted was two broken store windows and two smashed windshield. Tornadoes were also reported in the area west of Houston at Rosenberg and Columbus.

In southwest Houston four plate glass windows were blown out of a bottling plant and a lumber firm's display of a carport was blown over and demolished.

The Houston area tornadoes hit shortly before the Weather Bureau issued a tornado alert for that area at 3:55 p. m. The twisters in the Port Arthur area came about 5 p. m.

Before mid-evening the weather over the state grew calmer.

Near Katy T. O. Cardiff said he saw a tornado pick up a horse from one field, carry it over a fence, and place it in another field uninjured.

Cardiff and his brothers own one of three homes damaged by winds in the Katy area. Another was owned by the Herman Wrygys family.

Mrs. Wrygys, 55, and her son, Roy, 15, escaped injury when a twister damaged their home and a barn on their farm.

Cardiff was working in a machine shop near the Wrygys home and said he saw the tornado funnel form.

"It made a loud noise and was picking up water as it moved at about 40 miles an hour," he said.

Mrs. Wrygys ran from the house when she heard the noise but Cardiff told her to go back inside and take protection on the floor. She and her son hovered on the living room floor as the twister moved the house and slammed it against a tree.

A funnel was seen near Fulshear, 35 miles west of Houston, during a thunderstorm.

Two barns were destroyed and two power lines blown down near Groves in southeast Jefferson County and a tornado reportedly touched down in three places in that area.

Residents of Clodine, about 35 miles west of Houston, reported seeing funnels but said none touched ground.

Escaped Prisoner Nabbed At Pecos

COLORADO CITY — David Leach, 34, who walked out of a Mitchell County court room and disappeared last Monday while a jury was deliberating a charge of firearm possession against him, has been arrested in Pecos.

According to reports received here Leach was flushed out of a car stopped at a road block east of Pecos Thursday morning. He is said to have calmly informed the officers manning the road block "I'm the man you're looking for."

Police Chief Leon Yeager and Mitchell County Sheriff Dick Gregory are in Odessa. They were notified of the capture of Leach and left immediately for Pecos to take custody of the prisoner.

Leach, an adept at escaping jail, vanished from the Mitchell County district court room shortly after 8 p. m. Monday, about 15 minutes before the jury returned a verdict of guilty and recommended one year in prison. A search was immediately launched. It was not known here whether Yeager and Gregory were in Odessa on a lead in connection with the case.

Royal Birth Draws Near

LONDON (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II called her doctors into prolonged consultation at Buckingham Palace today, but by late afternoon her expected baby had not arrived.

John H. Peel, obstetrician and gynecological surgeon in charge of the birth, led his three medical colleagues into the palace soon after 9 a.m.

Seven hours later Peel still was at the Queen's side.

No announcement had come that the Queen was in labor, and British mothers generally were getting a little anxious.

Peel, however, assured the Queen's husband, Prince Philip, that he could safely leave the palace for a luncheon engagement.

Peel went to the palace with his three medical assistants, physicians Sir John Weir and Lord Evans and an anesthetist, Dr. Vernon Hall.

During the day Evans, Weir and Hall all spent some time away attending to other patients. But at 4:15 p.m. all were back again.

The prince was assured by the Queen's obstetrician, John H. Peel, he could safely leave the palace.

The prince, clearly in high spirits, wisecracked his way through an after-luncheon speech.

"I'm sorry that the Queen cannot be present," he told the lord mayor, "but as you realize she is otherwise engaged."

Dirksen Unhappy With Ike Critics

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) said today Democrats have gone too far with what President Eisenhower called "despicable" criticism of the administration's defense program.

Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, said he thinks the critics Eisenhower denounced without naming them at Wednesday's news conference "have been hearing from the people." He added they are likely to hear more when Eisenhower appears on a national television broadcast Sunday night.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader, said in a separate interview he welcomes what he called Eisenhower's decision to "explain the confused defense picture."

"I hope he will clear up the conflict and confusion within the Defense Department itself, as well as within Congress, over our present defense posture," Mansfield said.

Eisenhower was asked at his news conference whether he thinks the American people in any way or whether any money has been withheld from any needed weapon. He replied:

"If anybody—anybody—believes that I have deliberately misled the American people, I'd like to tell him on his face what I think about him. This is a charge that I think is despicable."

NO CONGRESSMEN

Mansfield said he doesn't think Eisenhower was referring to members of Congress when he made the statement.

In Richmond, Va., Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), one of the most outspoken critics of administration defense policy, said "I don't know anybody who said the President has misled the people."

But he told a news conference he would speak out in the Senate again next week "to give more facts about defense." "I believe the American people should have all the facts that won't help our enemies," he added.

Dirksen said Democrats have to take the responsibility for making statements that "reflect on the state of our defenses."

"I think they have gone too far," he said, "and I think some of them think they have gone too far." He added he senses a lessening of Democratic attacks on the defense field.

Neither he nor Eisenhower named any specific Democrat but Dirksen cited a Feb. 8 Chinese Communist broadcast from Peiping he said quoted several Democratic presidential hopefuls in its contention that the United States was second to the Soviet Union in military power.

CANDIDATES NAMED

Dirksen said the broadcast, monitored in this country, named Symington, Sen. Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, and Sens. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) and Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) among others. All are potential or announced candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Dirksen noted that he had criticized Symington in the Senate Monday for the latter's statement that the administration had been guilty of "juggling the intelligence books to balance the budget books."

In their attacks, Democrats have talked about the "missile gap" and have raised the issue whether this country is doing all it could to keep ahead of the Soviet Union militarily.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash) said Democrats might not agree fully with Eisenhower's statement that "our defense is not only strong, it is awesome, and it is respected elsewhere." But he said they have not contended the President deliberately misled the people.

"But it is a fact that the American people were not informed that the Soviets were going to beat us in the field of intercontinental missiles when his information was available to the administration he said."

2 AF 'Space' Pioneers End Capsule Stay

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Two Air Force space pioneers completed a record length 2-week test of a make-believe spaceship cabin here today.

The 2-hour task of removing Sgts. William Henderson, 30, of Alice, Tex., and Hobart Craft, 36, of Wedowee, Ala., from the 8 by 12 foot simulated spaceship began this morning.

Both men told The Associated Press in an exclusive interview while they were still in the cabin that they were in excellent health and felt fine.

"I would have no qualms about making such another test," said Henderson.

"This was my first experience and about the fifth day things got a little mixed up," said Craft. "The experience is not exactly the same as being in a real spaceship but it's all a little weird."

The airmen were interviewed over a closed television circuit.

Both sported short, scrubby mustaches grown since they entered the cabin. Each chewed a long cigar. They did not light the cigars, they explained, because they feared there would be too much smoke in the close quarters.

Kitten Replaces Girl's Other Pet

This is the story of a little girl, who became ill and had to go to the hospital. It is also the story of her pet cat—which she was very fond of and which she had owned for six years.

The little girl was in the hospital her pet cat was struck by a car. It was not killed—that was established later—but it was injured. The city pound man was called by someone and the cat was disposed of. Meantime, the little girl's parents were frantically hunting for the cat. When they traced it to the pound, they found out what had happened.

When the little girl came home from the hospital she was alarmed that her cat was not around. Her parents could not bear to tell her.

The father, asked why it would not have been possible for the pound to at least establish the owner of the animal and give him a chance to redeem the pet before it was killed. The father came to the Big Spring Daily Herald.

The reporter did not know the answer, and he sympathized alike with the father and with the cat's little owner.

The newspaper reporter did know something else, however.

He knew a coworker in the Herald office who had two Siamese kittens. He felt that the owner of the kittens might be willing to give one of them to the little girl.

And that's the way it all worked out.

The little Siamese, all dolled up with red ribbon around its neck, was duly delivered to the little girl. It was a case of love at first sight. Of course the new cat isn't the girl's old friend who had the bad luck but the new kitten will do a lot to lessen the sense of loss.

The characters in the story: The little girl is Barbara Hutchison, 11, her parents Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Hutchison, 705 E. 14th. The kindly donor of the new kitten is Mrs. Bob Bright, 1708 Yale.

Sgt. Smith Re-Enlists For New AF Term

After completing 22 1/2 years of active military service, M. Sgt. C. B. Smith of the 3560th Field Maintenance Squadron, has re-enlisted for four more years with the U. S. Air Force. He is NCOIC of the squadron's aero repair shop.

Military service for the 43-year-old sergeant began in 1939 when he enlisted in the Army. After three years he transferred to the Army Air Corps at Fort Sill, Okla. Sgt. Smith went back to civilian life until September of 1940, when he signed up for an Air Force career.

The Kansas City, Missouri-born sergeant spent the war years in the Air Training Command, serving mostly B-17 and B-29 bombers at Roslyn, N. M.

Sgt. Smith joined the U. N. Forces in Korea in September of 1950, and saw combat duty with the 67th Tactical Reconnaissance Wing at Taegu and later at Kimpoo. Assigned to the 45th Tac Recon Squadron, Smith was among the technicians who remained at Taegu working on F-51 Mustangs during the temporary withdrawal of U. N. troops to Japan. He returned to the States after 17 months' duty for which he earned three battle stars for his Korean Service ribbon.

Sgt. Smith has been at Webb since September of 1952. His wife is the former Mildred Hunt, Phoenix, Ariz. Their first daughter, Charlene, married S. Sgt. Louis Brown of the 5561st Flight Line Maintenance Squadron at this base three years ago, and is with her husband at Honolulu, Hawaii.

Another daughter, Shirley Gean, was also married at Webb—two years ago. Her husband, A. C. Don Sharon, was then assigned to the 3560th Air Police Squadron. They are now stationed in Germany.

The Smiths live at 1600 Cardinal in Big Spring with their boys, Charles, 17, a student at Howard County Junior College; and LeRoy, 16, who is attending high school in Big Spring. Sgt. Smith is a member of the Moose Club in Big Spring.

GARDEN TALK Several Tree Varieties Adaptable To This Area

Winston Wrinkle suggested a promotion for tree planting the other day, and this is an idea I have heard from several people.

Jim Lewis mentioned it and said the Chamber of Commerce has been behind beautification projects locally for several years. I can remember back to 1932 when the chamber brought in Chinese elm trees and planted them wherever they could. It was during that program that most of the city's shade trees of today were planted.

Either the original trees or their offspring make up a large part of our shade.

Thinking back to the long range success of that effort, I believe it is time we did it again, maybe annually.

People often ask me what trees do best here.

The ash trees—Arizona, green and Modesto ash—all do well. Dr. W. B. Hardy on Runnels street has several mature trees at his home as do several others on that street and some on Johnson Street. We planted several hundred ash trees at Webb village.

Then there are the desert willows which bloom all summer long. They don't have much dense shade, and they grow in crooked lines, considered graceful in the Japanese prints (Puckett & French designed their new home on E. 3rd around one of these trees.) One beautiful desert willow is behind Lucelle's at 10th and Scurry. There are many on the north side of town, at Webb AFB and Webb Village.

Arizona cypress do well where you have space: they are evergreen. Then there are cottonwoods, Chinese elms, American elms, catalpa mimosa, locust, liveoaks, silver-leaf maple, and many others. I do hope that the chamber or some agency can get behind this project though, and I know they can count on all of us.

CENSUS JOBS NOT YET OPEN

The federal census enumerators are not ready to hire enumerators yet.

Matt Harrington and Louis Stallings, who have been named crew leaders for the Howard County head-count starting April 1, said they have received many calls from applicants.

"We are just not yet authorized to engage enumerators," said Harrington. "We request that those interested in this work wait awhile. Due publicity will be given when the time comes to arrange for interviews and tests. It is likely that all applications will be handled through the Texas Employment Commission, and tests will be required. In any event, it's too early. We'll give due notice."

Scientist Protests Food Additive Law's Severity

WASHINGTON (AP)—The use of chemicals as food additives.

Shaw said the Delaney amendment "as now interpreted says a substance that is a carcinogen (cancer-causing agent) in any use, can't be used in any other way, that black and white."

He advocated instead that the decision be left to professional scientific judgment of what is best in each case.

Shaw took selenium as a specific example for illustration.

"There is evidence it can cause cancer," he said, "but it has been proven in the last five years that minute quantities are absolutely essential to the growth of sheep."

"Sheep have to have it, or they develop a muscular disease known as white muscular disease."

Shaw said that "under the Delaney amendment you can't add selenium to the diet of sheep. I don't think we can have a law that says we can't add chemicals essential to growth."

County Seeks Fence Moving On U.S. 87

Want a job moving and rebuilding eight miles of fence?

The Howard County Commissioners Court is seeking a contractor who wants such a job. The commission has contacted one or two men who pursue this sort of work and is seeking to get as many as three bids.

The fence to be moved is along the right-of-way of U. S. 87 north of Farview. It must be moved back 100 feet from its present location in order to make room for the rebuilding of the highway by the Texas Highway Commission. The job is slated to get underway this week. The commissioners are charged with the responsibility of obtaining needed additional right-of-way and with moving fences and other structures which may be in the line of construction to new positions.

Of the eight miles of fence which must be moved and rebuilt, about three miles is barbed wire and the remainder net fencing. The county and state, where right-of-way is obtained, agree to replace any fences on the new line in as good condition or better condition than when the easement was obtained.

The state will ultimately reimburse the county on a 50-50 basis for the cost of right-of-way and any fence or structure moving which may be involved in the project.

Court Upholds Local Ruling

Sheelie Gregory, found guilty of DWI on April 13 by a County Court jury has lost his appeal to the State Court of Criminal Appeals.

The court has ruled that the holding of the Howard County court was proper and that the $100 fine and 10 days jail sentence assessed was valid.

Gregory surrendered to the sheriff's office and has been committed to serve the 10 days term. The fine of $100 is coupled with court costs of $32.50.

The defense had claimed that the state's principal witness, Gregory's companion on an alleged drinking spree which preceded the arrest, was in fact an accomplice. As such his unsubstantiated testimony would not be valid. The high court, however, denied this point and held that the state's witness could not be shown to be an accomplice to the act of driving the motor vehicle.

Teachers Meet

The Howard County Teachers Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. today on the Howard County Junior College campus. George Archer, president, said was one of the most important meetings of the year.

Medaris To Tell Of Bar To Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maj. Gen. John Medaris, former Army missile chief, will tell the House Space Committee in Washington that he was never able to get to President Eisenhower with his story of what he wrote with the missile program, the Dallas News said today.

Medaris, who retired Jan. 31 as head of the Army's missile operation at Huntsville, Ala., told Rep. Olin Teague (D-Tex.) Wednesday that the Defense Department censored statements he intended for the President.

Teague is a member of the House Space Committee.

The J. C. Avary case, from Ward County, took still another turn in 118th District Court, Howard County, Thursday morning.

On Wednesday, a similar motion was incorporated in a motion to remand (return) the indictments from the 118th District Court back to the 143rd District Court.

Now the matter is in the lap of Judge Caton for disposition.

Chile Shows Signs Of Growing Pains

By BEN BASSETT AP Foreign News Analyst

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Here in Santiago, a plane passes overhead broadcasting by loudspeaker: "Senora: Denounce the speculators. Do not pay more than the value of goods. Shop around for bargains."

The broadcaster goes on to give some "official" prices for comparison. This is technically an unofficial message, but President Jorge Alessandri's government is behind it. Alessandri is trying to reduce profiteering and avoid the imposition of price controls in a country where the cost of living rose 33 per cent last year.

This and much more make Chile one of the most interesting stops on President Eisenhower's route in South America this month. He will find this capital city of 1,500,000 lacks Buenos Aires' dash and Sao Paulo's drive. But fact sheets prepared for him will show Chile in the last year has found a new stability. Its money, after a long downward spiral, has steadied on world exchanges. Building construction, long neglected in Santiago, is resuming.

CUT RED TAPE

A good measure of these conditions can be traced to Alessandri's hardheaded attitude. When he took office 15 months ago, he shoved aside a negative policy of restrictions. He saw the solution to Chile's problems in greater production.

Much of that average 33 per cent increase in 1959 living costs was due to an across-the-board wage increase ordered by the government. So far this year, Alessandri has withstood pressure for a new general increase. He fears it would start new spiral of inflation.

Today a dent at least is being made in an old Chilean business philosophy — small volume, big profits. Profit markups of 100 to 200 per cent are not unusual. Some of the most ordinary things cost extraordinary prices in Chile. Take the common drinking glass of a kind that might sell for 15 cents in the United States.

Beatniks Delay Political Rally

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Two Fort Worth beatniks postponed their giant political rally Wednesday because of snow but promised the one next Wednesday will be more weird than ever. The beats are big Mike Callaway of the Kismet Coffee House and Peter (The Hero) Gill of The Cellar, another coffee house. Both are running for Democratic precinct chairmanships in different areas.

Old Roxy Goes Way Of All Gingerbread

NEW YORK (AP) — At the vast entrance sparkles a galaxy of 4,500 lights. Within are sculpture frills across of rich rugs, hangings of stuff called "dream cloth." A ton and a half chandelier shimmers over the huge rotunda. Such is the Roxy Theater, Broadway's fanciest, flashiest showcase from the era of gingerbread movie palaces. A tourist landmark, prototype of the florid gilt and marble cinemas that mushroomed across the country in the gaudy 1920's.

States Here the glass, Chilean made, retails at the equivalent of 50 cents. That represents about an hour's work for many a Chilean white collar worker.

HEAVY TRADE

Basically, Chile has a mining and agricultural economy with little manufacturing. Automobiles and trucks are not made here. Heavy machinery comes from the United States and Germany, dairy separators from Denmark, radios from Japan. To pay for things it needs, Chile exports around 300 million dollars of copper annually. It also sells iron ore and nitrates.

Eisenhower comes to Chile in the dry midsummer season. Some trees are losing leaves where householders neglect to water their lawns daily. Asters and marigolds are blooming. Fruit merchants are selling nectarines and peaches that would earn any California housewife's respect. The climate, in fact, is similar to this is a country with many things with the rest of the world. Indian characteristics are frequently seen, but 9 of 10 Chileans are descendants of Europeans or North Americans. You see a lot of European names in the telephone book.

MANY INFLUENCES

Architecture shows elements of German, French, English and Italian influence. Santiago's tallest building is a 17-story hotel surrounded by a swimming pool. Over-all, the city's architecture lacks brilliance. But the downtown Moma district where government buildings rise—set off now by blooming roses—is impressive to any visitor. Some other parts of the city might give a visitor the idea that growth stopped about 50 years ago.

Chile stretches serpentine down South America's west coast for 2,500 miles. It is hardly 100 miles wide at most points. To the east lie the Andes, snow-capped even in midsummer. This is a land favored by nature, where cattle grow fat and offshore the fish and shrimp are succulent. The visitor cannot help wondering why thousands live in slums.

Chile is a country where the elements of freebooter enterprise have operated from time to time and on the other hand a nation with a social security system that lets a worker retire on full pay after 30 years of labor. Into the social security funds the employer must pay a tax of 40 per cent on a clerk's salary while the clerk himself pays an additional 10 per cent. This means the social security system collects $50 for every $100 in salary.

Communists are few but active, especially in unions. They are making their influence felt but not to the extent of seriously alienating Chilean friendship with the United States. The Chileans will give Eisenhower a hearty welcome.

Segregation Center Faces Tax Indictment

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., frequent storm center in Negro attempts to knock down Southern racial barriers, today is under an Alabama charge of lying about his state income tax returns.

He characterized the Montgomery County perjury indictment as part of a pattern "to misrepresent and seek to frustrate the move of persons working to achieve the ideal of freedom and brotherhood." The Negro minister denied the charge as he posted $2,000 bond Wednesday.

"I have always made the most painstaking effort to give an honest and accurate return of my income," said King, who moved here recently from Montgomery to intensify his passive resistance movement against segregation.

Circuit Solicitor (prosecutor) William Theford said in Montgomery that King was charged with lying about failure to report $31,000 in personal income during 1956 and 1958.

King's salary as pastor of the Dexter Avenue Baptist Church in the Alabama city was $5,000 a year. Theford declined to comment on the grand jury's investigation of the finances of the Montgomery Improvement Assn., the organization King founded and used to combat segregation. The association's mass boycott against Montgomery city buses led to a 1956 Supreme Court order outlawing bus segregation.

Fulton Superior Court Judge Jephtha Tankley set March 18 for an extradition hearing for King. He has 30 days to decide whether to fight extradition.

Claiming it "highly improbable to get a fair hearing in Alabama," King said he is willing to have a group of distinguished citizens "go over all my books and make a report. He said he would ask such persons as former Sen. Herbert Lehman of New York, the deans of the Harvard University law and divinity schools and the presidents of the National Council of Churches of Christ and the Southern Baptist Convention to serve on such a group.

King was arrested at the Ebenezer Baptist Church, where he has been co-pastor with his father since moving back here early this month. He is a native of Atlanta.

The Rev. Uriah Fields, former fellow official with King in the MIA and now head of a rival Negro organization, appeared before the Montgomery County grand jury recently. He has charged that King mishandled contributions to the MIA.

Trujillo Fights Hard To Keep Discontent From Dictatorship

Editor's note: Morris W. Rosenberg of the AP's foreign staff has just visited the Dominican Republic, where Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo is fighting for survival after 30 years of iron-fisted rule.

By MORRIS W. ROSENBERG PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo is trying to stem the rising tide of discontent before it engulfs the Caribbean's oldest dictatorship.

Encircled by foes in Cuba, Venezuela and Puerto Rico, the iron-fisted, 68-year-old dictator of the Dominican Republic is deftly battling internal opposition which flared last month and nearly resulted in disaster.

Trujillo crushed a nationwide plot by a middle-class group of lawyers, doctors and other professionals to assassinate him Jan. 21 at the opening of a cattle show. He retaliated with a wave of arrests.

But his action in jailing 1,500 to 2,000 persons drew fire from the Catholic Church. In a strongly worded pastoral letter, the church protested there was a lack of human rights in the country and deplored the suffering of the families of those jailed.

Many of those jailed were soon released, but 120 so far have been sentenced to 30 years at hard labor, the maximum under the law, and fines totaling more than one million dollars. All admitted participating in the plot.

Other home front troubles beset Trujillo in his 30th year of his dictatorship. Businessmen complain that economic conditions are the worst in years. A drought last year which reduced the sugar and coffee crops was coupled with lower world prices. Government income was thus cut, but at the same time the regime was forced into extra military expenditures by the threat that exiled opponents of Trujillo would invade from Cuba.

This caused a cutback in other government spending, particularly for public works.

An official of the Dominican Central Bank estimated that imports exceeded exports last year by 20 million dollars. The deficit in 1958 was nearly 9 millions.

Abroad, Venezuela is applying pressure against Trujillo's regime in the Organization of American States demanding investigation of an alleged violation of human rights.

Industrial And Municipal Water Needs To Be Aired

ABILENE — Two public hearings on municipal and industrial water requirements for the next 50 years have been scheduled in West Texas by the U. S. Study Commission for Texas.

Arrangements for the hearings were made by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Water Resources Committee, headed by E. V. Spence of Big Spring.

For representatives of the upper Brazos River watershed, a hearing has been scheduled for 2 p.m., Feb. 22, in the Windsor Hotel in Abilene.

Representatives of the upper Colorado River watershed will meet at 2 p.m., March 15, in the auditorium of Howard County Junior College in Big Spring.

Executive Director Charles D. Curran of the U. S. Study Commission will participate in both hearings. Commission member John H. Kuitgen of Waco will preside over the Abilene meeting. Commission vice chairman W. Sim Gideon of Austin will preside at the Big Spring meeting.

Preliminary estimates of municipal and industrial requirements for the years 1975 and 2010 have been obtained by the Study Commission from data prepared by the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas. Purpose of the hearings is to discuss these preliminary data and to receive views and informed estimates of local interests and agencies for evaluation and preparation of later reports.

Officials of the commission point out that "we are not underestimating the importance of agriculture and other water usages, but these will all be handled in due time."

The two hearings are part of a series of similar meetings planned in the commission's study of the Neches, Trinity, Colorado, San Jacinto Brazos, San Antonio, Guadalupe and Nueces River basins of Texas.

City Sets Road Record

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Evanston has completed 781 consecutive days without a traffic death — and thereby set a national record.

The goal was reached at midnight Tuesday on the basis of a scoring system devised by the National Safety Council. It worked this way: Evanston's population, 76,200, multiplied by the number of deathless days, 781, gave it a total of 59,512,200 man days without a fatality.

The record had been held by Detroit, which put together 34 successive death-free days in 1944 to compile a score of 59,500,000. Detroit has a population of nearly two million.

Evanston, a suburb of Chicago, has always ranked high in the traffic safety listings of cities.

2 Boys Jailed

DALLAS (AP) — Two boys, 11 and 12, were arrested Wednesday night in a business firm after they tripped a silent alarm. They were each trying to open cigarette and soft drink machines.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

A man with strong convictions and great moral fibre like K. M. Landis wouldn't stand a chance of organized baseball today. Neither is professional football seeking a man who would insist on running the show.

K. M. LANDIS

He came out for expansion of the NFL but perhaps only because he knew that the majority of the club owners wanted to expand and thereby improve their chances to kill off the opposing circuit, the fledgling American Football League.

This window was guilty of error when it stated that the City of Big Spring has acquired more than one-third the pipe needed to provide the Munny golf course with an adequate irrigation system.

He first went to the Yankees in 1951 and won a permanent job with the New York club in 1952. Since he has been in the big leagues, Mantle has hit 235 home runs. He has appeared in seven World Series.

Layne, one-time University of Texas football great, holds more passing records than any other person in the NFL, with the exception of Sammy Baugh—and Bobby is threatening to eclipse most of Baugh's marks.

Jury Rules Guilt In Plot To Slay Wife, In-Law

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—A jury has convicted John Robert Briggs of trying to murder his wife and mother-in-law by pushing their car over a cliff.

Briggs' wife, Norma, 35, sobbed as the verdict was announced Wednesday. She testified in his defense, saying her foot slipped on the gas pedal while the car was parked at the brink of the cliff in the Santa Monica Mountains. But she had testified at Briggs' preliminary hearing that he had tried to kill her and her mother, Mary D. Nilson, 70.

Mrs. Briggs and her husband were reconciled after his arrest. The couple embraced before he was led away. Superior Court Judge Edward R. Brand set next Tuesday for Briggs' hearing on his plea of insanity.

The principal witness against Briggs, 40, was Mrs. Nilson.

Rancher Charged In Death After Traffic Accident

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A prominent rancher was under murder charges here today after a 41-year-old San Antonio attorney was fatally beaten following a traffic mishap.

James L. Drought, 41, died Wednesday morning of head injuries he suffered in a beating following the minor traffic accident Monday night.

Charges of murder with malice were filed in Justice of the Peace John Ogden's court by the district attorney's office. Named was Frank C. Davis Jr., 51.

Alamo Heights Police Sgt. James McIntosh quoted Davis as saying he was rammed from behind as he stopped for a signal light. McIntosh said Davis claimed the person who struck his car drove away without waiting for the police.

McIntosh said Davis told of chasing the runaway car with another motorist. When the so-called hit-and-run car was caught, Davis told officers, he and the motorist who helped him catch it were attacked by the driver.

Accounting Section Earns Citation From General

For the second time in four months the Wing Accounting Office at Webb received a "pat on the back" from the Air Force Accounting and Finance Center in Denver, Colo.

Last October the Base Finance section was cited for accuracy as a result of a quality analysis conducted by the Denver center.

This time the Webb office was one of 28 principal and agent accounting and finance offices in the Air Training Command that drew blanket praise from Brig. Gen. E. J. Hopkins, commander of the Finance Center at Denver.

At Webb Capt. C. E. Wiswall, accounting and finance officer, gave full recognition to T.Sgt. Theodore C. Bennett and Bonnie Arrick.

It was Sgt. Bennett, the captain said, who shaped and implemented the merged accountability and fund report in accordance with the new directives. Bennett, it was noted, received valuable assistance from Miss Arrick, accounting clerk assigned to MAFR.

"Please pass on my compliments to those who have contributed to this fine record," wrote Col. Donald W. Eisenhart, base commander, in a letter to the wing comptroller, Maj. Robert W. Wilcox, "and my confidence that they will continue their effective performance."

Dates Fixed For 4-H Stock Show

Howard County 4-H boys and girls plan to take part in only one more livestock show this season prior to the annual county show, Jimmy Taylor, county agent, said today.

The county 4-H organization will send 22 lambs to the San Angelo show, which is predominantly devoted to lamb competition. The San Angelo show will be March 9-15.

Meantime, plans are beginning to shape up for the 23rd annual Howard County 4-H and FFA Livestock show. Dates are to be March 15, 16 and 17. The place, as usual, will be at the County Fair Grounds.

Big Spring Junior Chamber of Commerce is again sponsor of the show and has already launched the annual sale of $5 memberships in the Howard County Livestock Association. It is through sale of memberships in this association that funds are raised for the show.

The Jaycees plan to raise at least $700. This is the minimum amount of money on which the show can be presented. The funds are needed for the prizes awarded winners; to pay the judges for their work; and to finance the barbecue which is a feature of the event.

The show this year will have one major difference from shows of the past. There will be no award for grand champion and reserve champion lamb. Instead, the judges will select the champion lamb in the fine wool; champion lamb in the medium wool and a champion crossbred lamb.

This plan, Taylor said, has been adopted at nearly all shows. The reason is that it has become almost inevitable that a Southdown lamb will win the championship and reserve championship of a show in which fine wool, medium wool and crossbred lambs are also competing. The Southdown is primarily a lamb produced for meat; the others are bred for wool production. In order to make the competition fairer, the shows are abandoning the awarding of grand championships in the lamb division.

THIS DAY IN TEXAS

By CURTIS BISHOP

On this day in 1910 some 2,500 Texans watched a barnstorming French aviator, Louis Paulhan, demonstrate the fabulous airplane.

It was probably the first recorded airplane flight in Texas; at least the first open exhibition.

Houstonians paid $1 each to watch the dare-devil leave the ground in his heavier-than-air craft. From all accounts it was not much of a performance. Pilot Paulhan declined to fly over the city of Houston, contending it was too dangerous. He refused an offer to fly to Galveston for an exhibition there because "the distance was too great."

Should there have been an earlier flight in Texas, it was probably by Otto Brodie, who flew a plane over the Dallas Fair Park on March 3, 1910. Brodie's flight was called the first flight as Paulhan's seemed to have been more of an exhibition, with much lecturing and little flying.

K Beams As Indonesia Gives Him Warm Welcome

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—Neutralist Indonesia today gave Nikita Khrushchev the most enthusiastic welcome of his current Asian tour, and he beamed with appreciation.

An estimated 200,000 Indonesians greeted Khrushchev in the airport area and 300,000 more lined the motorcade route into the city as the Soviet Premier began his 12-day visit looking brighter than at any time since he left Moscow.

Khrushchev, who got only lukewarm receptions from the public in New Delhi, Calcutta and Rangoon, was in high spirits.

He looked healthy and rested, in contrast to the tired, subdued appearance he exhibited during most of his stay in India and Burma.

No Comment On W.C.'s

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A tight-lipped Jack Paar refused to discuss his recent difficulties with his boss, the National Broadcasting Company, as he stopped off here Wednesday night on his way to Honolulu and the start of a vacation.

When Paar arrived from Los Angeles, he wouldn't talk at all, but compressed his lips and shook his lowered head from side to side as he paced by newsmen.

Before he boarded the plane, he was asked if he planned to make any more jokes about water closets, the joke he was telling when cut off the air by NBC.

Paar didn't answer, but continued smiling.

Voyage To The Moon

This is a scene from "Voyage to the Moon," Offenbach musical comedy scheduled for 8 p.m. next Thursday in Lubbock Auditorium. Currently on a transcontinental tour, "Voyage to the Moon" is staged by the Boston Opera Co., and is based on a Jules Verne novel which also was made into a motion picture, although the movie version did not make use of Offenbach's material. Information may be obtained from the box office of the Lubbock Auditorium.

Trial Of Ship Radio Man In Seventh Day

BOSTON (AP) — The murder trial of Willem Van Rie, 31, radio operator of a Dutch ship, enters its seventh day today with testimony of two vital witnesses in prospect.

They are Capt. Joseph B. Fallon, head of the Boston police homicide section, and Dr. Michael A. Luongo, the medical examiner who perhaps more than anyone else is responsible for the handsome wireless man's presence in the prisoner's box.

Dr. Luongo declined to go along with Capt. Fallon's original theory Lynn Kaufmann, the diminutive heiress-divorcee, died by accident or suicide in a plunge from the freighter Utrecht as the vessel left Boston on a voyage from the Orient.

Van Rie is accused of beating Lynn and throwing her into the harbor the night of Sept. 18. Her body was found next day on the rocky shore of a Harbor Island at about the hour Utrecht reached New York.

In four days of testimony the prosecution has introduced 28 witnesses. Unless plans are changed, the district attorney's office says its case may be completed by Capt. Fallon, Dr. Luongo, a few New York police—and Gadong, one of Utrecht's oriental crew.

He was placed by a witness outside the door to Lynn's cabin, an orange in his hand, on the fatal evening. The witness, Juanita Spector, testified he told her the fruit was for Miss Kaufmann.

Gadong has been reported en route to Boston, but the district attorney's office says it doesn't know if he will arrive in time for the trial.

Mrs. Spector is the wife of Prof. Stanley Spector of Washington University, St. Louis, who had employed Lynn three years as a research assistant, the last year in the Far East. He flew home, but the others boarded the Utrecht at Singapore, 44 days before she reached Boston.

Utrecht's master, Capt. Albert J. De Bruijn, occupied the witness stand almost all of Wednesday.

He testified Van Rie admitted to him a shipboard romance with Lynn. He said he thought the word "intimacies" was used. He said Van Rie first admitted and then denied he had a fight with the girl, in whose cabin one of his jackets was found.

The day ended with testimony of several Coast Guard wireless men who handled messages from Utrecht as she proceeded down the coast for New York. These related to the fact Lynn was missing and gave times at which Utrecht passed various navigational points.

Strained Relations In Sino-Russ Orbit

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Foreign News Analyst

Behind clouds of words about undying friendship and solidarity, indication can be detected of a spirited debate between the leaders of the Soviet and Chinese Communist parties.

The Kremlin chose no less a personage than Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to sign a long article in Pravda, the Soviet Communist newspaper, presenting Moscow's case. Despite the usual wordage about great friendship, the article at times appeared to have a petulant tone.

One gets the impression the Chinese Communists have been fouling up Nikita Khrushchev's plans for finding a way of living with the Western Democracies while communism waits confidently, though a bit impatiently, for capitalism to collapse under the pressure of Moscow's sustained political and economic offensives.

The Red Chinese are the ones who have kicked the five principles overboard. They invaded territory occupied for years by India and blatantly interfered in the Indonesian government's campaign against Chinese traders in rural areas of the Indonesian island of Java. Both nations are steps on Khrushchev's latest tour, which heightens Soviet unhappiness with their big Asian ally.

Gromyko reminded the Chinese Communists that Moscow is playing the "outstanding" role in elaborating Lenin's policy of peaceful coexistence of states with different systems. He also tartly told the Chinese that Khrushchev's trip to the United States was "a mighty investment in the cause of lessening international tensions and defense of peace in the whole world, and it will show positive, far-reaching influence in the further development of the international situation."

NEW YORK (AP) — The producer of "World Wide 60" and the NBC network itself are walking, eyes wide open, into a controversy Saturday night. The show (9:30-10:30) will play excerpts from a jazz morning service for the Methodist church.

Undoubtedly, some people will be shocked, but the program describes the religious feeling and sorrow which led the composer—a jazz musician now studying for a Ph. D.—to write the liturgy.

Ed Summerlin wrote the music at the suggestion of his pastor following the death of the composer's first child last year from a congenital heart defect.

"Until about 200 years ago, contemporary music was played in churches," says Summerlin. "Since then, the church has been trapped in an outmoded musical tradition. Today's churches have modern architecture. Modern people attend. Modern clergymen may deliver their sermons on hydrogen bombs. Yet the music played remains part of another, past culture."

At the same time, Summerlin says, "there is a real fear by the laity" of doing anything experimental within church traditions.

Whatever the reaction to the music in the program, it goes into the nation's living rooms sponsored by Summerlin's pastor of Denton, Tex., and a professor of Christianity and the Arts from Southern Methodist University, both of whom discuss the musical work.

Portions of the music were played Tuesday morning on Dave Garroway's "Today" show when Summerlin was interviewed. Afterwards, Jack Lescoule commented that he was not impressed particularly by the music. Singer

Florence Henderson expressed distaste for the idea of having a finger-snapping musician providing background music for the Doxology.

But this is the kind of controversy that is good for television to get into—and for viewers to be exposed to.

PICKING UP

Webb Sergeant's Job Allows For No Errors

Business has suddenly picked up for the man with the most unusual, specialized, and delicate job at Webb. He is S. Sgt. George H. Schweickert Jr., the wing's explosive ordnance disposal technician.

Three times in the past few days this skilled expert has been called to surrounding areas for the touchy job of investigating potentially dangerous explosives and making them harmless.

A message Friday afternoon from Sheriff Raymond Weatherly at Crane reported that two boys had found what was believed to be a rocket. Could Webb offer any assistance? Webb could—in the person of Sgt. Schweickert, who arrived at Crane about nightfall.

Surely enough, the object was a rocket—a 2.25-inch "sub-caliber" aircraft missile of a sort used mainly by the Navy. How long it had been lying in the oil field area where it was found could only be estimated. Schweickert figured that the rocket could have been there since World War II days. It was surmised that the object had fallen from a plane in flight.

The rocket had been brought to the courthouse. Schweickert removed it promptly from the building and the town, taking it to the city dump where—in the laconic phrase with which he describes his no-errors-allowed operations—he "rendered it safe."

Although the rocket has a dummy warhead, its motor was live—and contained enough high explosive to have done extensive damage if it had been accidentally detonated.

MORE WORK

Schweickert's night's work was not over. The sheriff described another missile-like object which had been discovered about 10 miles from town, and conducted the sergeant there.

By flashlight, Schweickert determined that the object was a large, aircraft practice bomb of the sort carried by bombardier students on WWII training flights from several West Texas flying fields.

He also discovered something else: Since the sheriff had seen the 100-lb. bomb last, some unknown person had shown a complete lack of commonsense by unscrewing and removing the bomb's explosive spotting charge. This do-it-yourself suicide kit is presumably still in the hands of someone unfamiliar with the handling and disposal of dangerous explosives.

Since the bomb casing which remained contained nothing but sand ballast, the sergeant and sheriff left it where it lay.

Another demanding de-fuzing job had occupied Sgt. Schweickert only the weekend before. Receiving a report that some sort of artillery shell had been found on the back fringe of the Pyote AF Station reservation, the technician went to investigate.

He found a huge 155-mm explosive shell which had been fired but had not detonated. Again, persons unknown had been playing an unwitting game of "Russian roulette" by not only handling the projectile but shooting at it with rifles. Providentially, the three foot shell had not exploded.

Sgt. Schweickert was unable to disarm the projectile completely, because he did not have with him certain specialized tools. So he placed the shell in a remote and inaccessible spot, returning to Pyote and finishing the job two days later.

The shell proved to be an unusual type which has not yet been matched up with any of the sergeant's extensive information files on bombs, rockets, shells and other explosive materiel. The empty shell, cut open by the sergeant and now harmless, is stored in the ammunition area at Webb.

SPECIAL TOOL

Sgt. Schweickert has on hand or on order tools and rare equipment which will enable him to work on most of the world's munitions and ordnance. He urges the public to call Webb in the event unfamiliar objects are discovered which are believed to be lost military explosives.

Pointing out that people had run great and unnecessary risks when tampering with all of these explosives recently discovered, Schweickert discussed two similar incidents which happened before his arrival at Webb some 15 months ago. One case involved discovery of a metal container (lost by a civilian agency) filled with radioactive isotopes on a highway in this area. In both of those incidents citizens ran unnecessary dangers before calling proper authorities.

FORMER FROGMAN

A former Navy frogman on underwater demolition teams, Sgt. Schweickert is "nuclear qualified" to deal with atomic as well as conventional high explosives.

The sergeant was in the Navy from July 1949 until June 1958, at which time he joined the Air Force. A graduate of the Explosive Ordnance School, U. S. Naval Powder Factory, Indian Head, Md., (a school shared by all the services), he performs approximately the same duties now as when he was in the Navy. He has attended regular refresher courses in his exacting trade and hopes to attend another such course this year.

The 27-year-old airman has spent seven of his 10 years overseas. In the Navy, he served on the Carriers USS Midway and USS Bennington, in the Atlantic, Mediterranean, Caribbean, Arctic, Pacific Oceans and in the Far East. He and his wife Anne, and chil-

Scout-Church Program Due

E. C. Hogan Jr., assistant director of Protestant services, Boy Scouts of America, will hold one of two conferences in the Buffalo Trail Council here Tuesday.

He is scheduled to speak at a dinner affair to which ministers in this area are invited at the Dora Roberts Student Union Building at Howard County Junior College at 12 noon.

Hogan will speak Monday at a luncheon affair in Monahans, according to T. W. (Jack) Womack, Odessa, council public relations chairman.

The following day, Hogan comes here to speak on the relationships of the program and the institution—the sponsoring churches. He also will outline the special church award program of Scouting.

Last year similar conferences were held in Odessa and Midland and attendance and results were both gratifying, said Womack.

Ministers are to be the guests of the council and they are asked to notify Joe Pickle, Big Spring, that they will be able to attend.

Soap Box Derby Signup Continues This Weekend

Boys who want to have the fun of trying for grand prizes in the 1960 Soap Box Derby have a new opportunity to register this weekend.

Sponsors hope that the entry list this year will reach a record. As boys register, they will be given a free rule book that gives them all pointers on how to build a racer that complies, and will have plenty of time to get a coaster ready for the race in June.

These boys signed up last week: Michael Spradling, Jessie Gossett, Ronnie Osborn, Dwayne Hanson, David Wilson, Victor Lopez, Peter Einstein, Ronnie Booth, Ward Booth, Glenn Biffar, Dickie

Following In Fannie Farmer's Footsteps

Give credit to Fannie Farmer, that intriguing cooking teacher with red-gold hair and an indomitable will, for bringing level measurements to American recipes. Hats off, too, to Mrs. Wilma Lord Perkins, who for 30 years has been keeping Fannie Farmer's cook book up to date.

Meeting Mrs. Perkins recently, we were struck by her humor, energy and wide interests. She breathed a sigh of relief because "The All New Fannie Farmer Cook Book" had just been published. Following in famous footsteps takes some doing, and Mrs. Perkins doesn't let Aunt Fannie down.

After majoring in history at college, Mrs. Perkins married a history professor—Fannie Farmer's nephew—and inherited the cook book task. Her husband's work has given this editor a chance to travel regularly, here and abroad, and to taste some of the world's best dishes.

"My outstanding ability," Mrs. Perkins said, her eyes sparkling, "is persuading chefs to part with recipes!"

"We're a very 'family' family," she added. "In the summer we all congregate at the house Aunt Fannie built in the little town, near Harvard College. We love to fill the house with guests (the sort that do at least their share) and fill the guests with good food, often cooked outdoors.

"Aunt Fannie was a driver," Mrs. Perkins went on. "I've worked hard on the cook book but I like to relax when I cook or serve."

What does a famous cook book editor serve her family and friends?

"We ask lots of company to come for Coffee Viennais and Florentines," Mrs. Perkins answered. "When I'm doing a party meal by myself, I like to 'integrate' with the group, so I choose dishes that need no last-minute preparation; maybe a very New England supper of Fish Chowder, Pickled Beet Salad, Hot Rolls and Indian Pudding.

"When my husband and I are alone we often have roast lamb, broiled hamburger, broiled or poached fish. When guests come I add fillips. With before-dinner drinks I might serve stuffed mushroom eggs and corn crisps. Instead of plain fruit for dessert, we might have hot fruit compote or English trifle.

"The All New Fannie Farmer Cook Book" (Little, Brown) is outstanding. For the first time recipes are given step by step with ingredients set in bold type; all the fine basic rules are there but now they have interesting variations. Here are Mrs. Perkins' Florentines—delectable cookies made from a recipe hard to come by.

FLORENTINES
Set the oven at 350 degrees. Mix 1/2 cup cream, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 cup almonds or hazelnuts (cut small), 1/4 pound candied orange peel (cut fine), 1/4 cup flour and a few grains salt. Arrange by teaspoons, 2 inches apart on a buttered cookie sheet. Flatten with a knife dipped in cold water. Bake until brown around the edges (about 10 minutes). Cool, flat side up, on a wire cake cooler. Melt over hot water an 8-ounce bar semi-sweet chocolate. Stir until smooth and spread on the cookies on the flat side. Makes 24.

Pancake Tradition Followed By Heinzes

By SHERI WEBBER

It rains pancakes at the Robert Heinze home. Well, not really pancakes. But when it rains one of the family traditions is to eat pancakes.

"Sherré Denise won't let us forget it," laughs Sherré Denise. She admits it is a good thing the family doesn't live in a rain-belt.

Denise is a tiny blonde who looks like a life-size doll. "Her greatest ambition is to go to school," says her mother. Several of the Heinzes friends have children who started the first grade this year, and Sherré Denise feels left out by having to stay at home.

So a "peg-board school" has been built for the 3-year-old. The large board extends almost the length of Denise's room. It is on her eye level, as are pictures and clothes hangers.

Upon this board are large card-board dominoes whose dots are used to teach Denise to count up to 10. Nursery rhymes and circles of colored paper, used to teach the little girl various colors, have also been placed there by Mrs. Heinze.

Teaching comes naturally with Sherré, for she taught the second grade for five years. A graduate of Baylor University, Mrs. Heinze majored in education and religion. Her minor was music, with a concentration in piano.

Today music continues to be one of the blonde housewife's greatest interests. She is a member of the Music Study Club and is church organist at Baptist Temple. With a background of seven years of private piano teaching, she plans to start teaching again.

Miles, a small town near San Angelo, is originally the home of both Mr. and Mrs. Heinze. They met there while in high school. Sherré then left for Baylor, and right before her graduation Robert was called into the Army and shipped overseas. Their marriage was postponed until he returned.

Bob now teaches his wife about having to wait, like Jacob in the Bible story, seven years for his bride.

After their marriage the couple moved to Albuquerque, N. M., where Robert attended the University of New Mexico. There he majored in architectural engineering, and after receiving his degree worked in Dallas for a year before coming to Big Spring 16 months ago.

Heinze has now gone into business for himself, and to help him Sherré, who enjoys sewing, is taking a "time-consuming course in interior decorating."

The recipes that Sherré Heinze has given are favorites of her family. The Seven-Layer Cake is especially unusual. The 24 Hour Salad, a recipe she obtained from her husband's mother, is Robert's favorite.

SEVEN-LAYER CAKE

3/4 cup shortening
3-1/3 cups sifted cake flour
2 1/4 cups sugar
4 1/2 tps. baking powder
1 1/2 tps. salt
1 1/2 cups milk
3 eggs
2 tps. vanilla
Stir shortening just to soften. Sift in dry ingredients; add 1 cup of milk. Mix until all four is dampened, then beat vigorously two minutes. Add remaining milk, eggs and vanilla. Beat vigorously two minutes longer.

Pour about two cups of the batter into a lightly greased and floured 9x1 1/2 inch round pan. Tip pan so batter runs over the bottom. Invert pan over cookie sheet and tap edges on cookie sheet, allowing as much batter to run out of pan as will do so easily. Turn pan right side up, scrape down sides to prevent burning, and even-out batter remaining on bottom.

Repeat for other six layers, baking as many at a time as you have pans and oven space available.

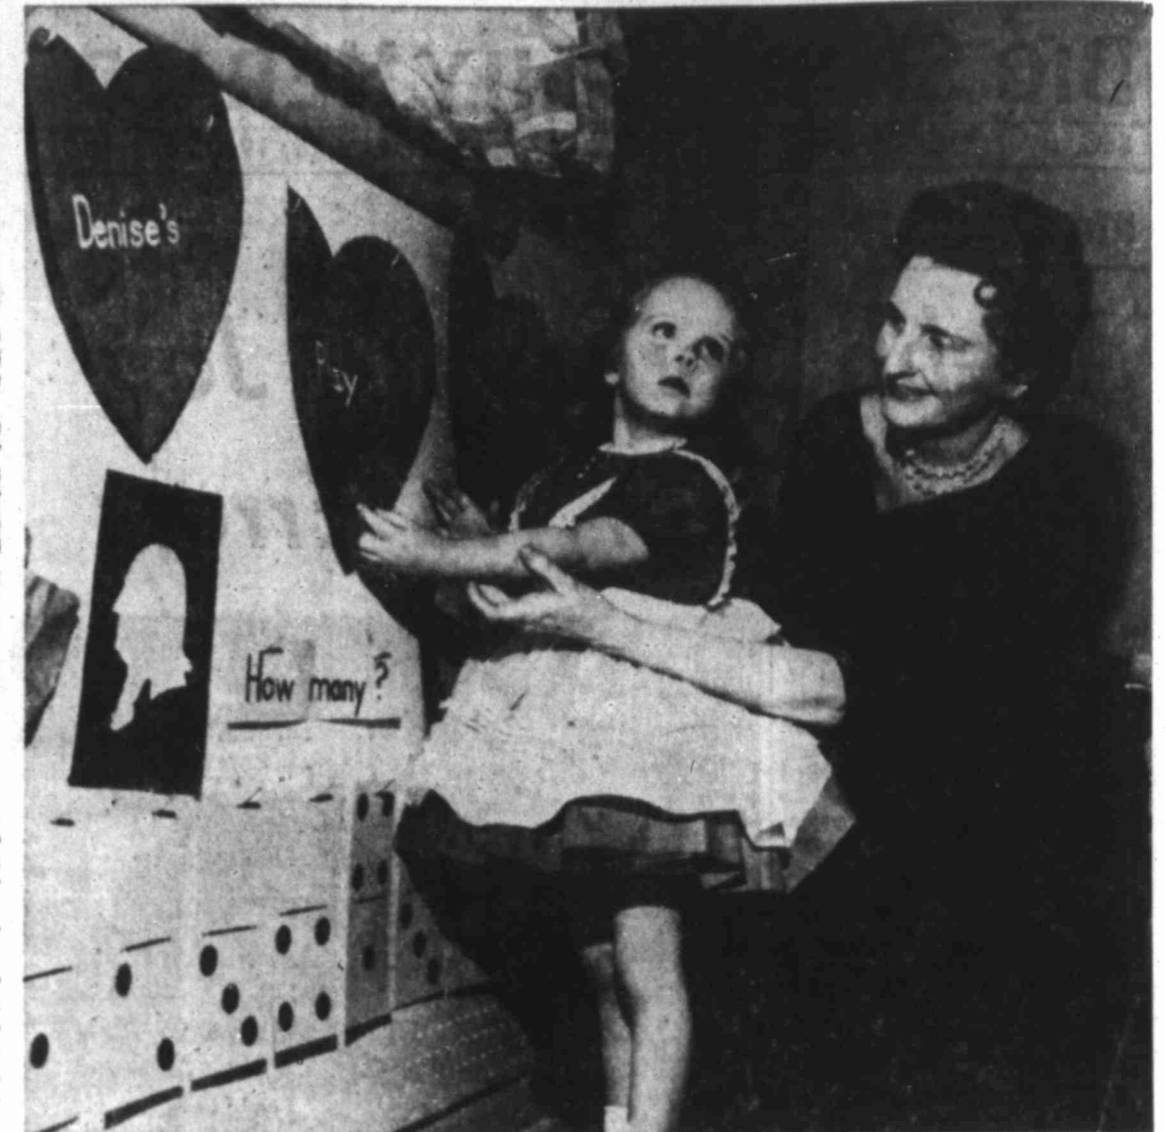

While baking first cakes, keep remaining batter in refrigerator. Bake in hot oven, 400 degrees, about 8 minutes or until done. Cool in pans 3-5 minutes, then invert on rack to cool thoroughly. Put layers together and frost with Chocolate Butter Frosting.

CHOCOLATE BUTTER FROSTING

3 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
1-1/3 cup hot water
4 1-oz. squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1 slightly beaten egg
1 cup soft butter
1 1/2 tsp. vanilla
Blend sugar and hot water into chocolate. With spoon beat half of egg into chocolate mixture; beat in remaining egg. Beat in butter, a tablespoon at a time. Blend in vanilla. Frosting will be thin at this point, so place bowl in pan of ice water and beat until it is of spreading consistency.

ICEBOX ROLLS

2 cakes yeast
1 tsp. sugar
2 tps. warm water
Crumble yeast cakes and cover with sugar and water. Let stand until dissolved.
1 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1 1/2 cup boiling water
Pour boiling water over shortening, sugar and salt then let dissolve. Add:
1 cup cold water to make mixture lukewarm, then add yeast cakes
4 cups flour, stirred into mixture
3 cups more flour
2 eggs, well beaten
Stir together. Mixture will be rather sticky. Cover and place in

Confederates Give Pecan Pie

A high-school girl in Georgia makes "spend money" by baking and selling that deep-South specialty—pecan pie. After trying the recipe she uses, we understand why she has plenty of takers.

Besides the nuts, two main ingredients go into the pie's filling: dark corn syrup and eggs. The dessert's most interesting feature is the way the pecans rise to the surface and form a crusty top layer over a base that's a cross between soft butterscotch and custard.

Pecan pie is American through and through, but it's a comparatively newcomer. Twenty-five or 30 years ago not even our best-known all-round cook books included its recipe.

Some of the earliest rules for the pie use syrup as the only sweetening; others call for a cup of sugar to a cup of corn syrup. Nowadays many cooks find that half a cup of sugar to a cup of syrup makes the dessert plenty sweet. We have found an occasional recipe that specifies brown sugar, but usually white sugar is relied upon along with the dark corn syrup to give the pie its traditional flavor.

We notice considerable variation in the amount of butter put into the filling—from 1 tablespoon to 1/2 cup. And while some rules throw in a little flour, others omit it.

One thing everyone seems to agree upon: pecan pie is a rich-as-Croesus confection. Even so, some cooks like to serve it with whipped cream. If you follow suit, add a little vanilla extract to this topping, but don't sweeten it.

The Georgia youngster who sells the pies is adept at making them in double-quick time. While the corn syrup and sugar for the filling is being brought to a boil, she rolls out her pastry and fits it into the pie plate. Few older cooks could accomplish this, so chefs' toques off to a speedy little girl.

GEORGIA PECAN PIE

1/2 cup sugar
1 cup dark corn syrup
3 tps. butter or margarine
3 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla
1/4 tsp. salt
1 cup pecan halves
1 tsp. flour
1 tsp. sugar
1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell

In a 1-quart saucepan, over moderate heat, bring the 1/2 cup sugar and corn syrup to a boil, stirring occasionally; stir in butter. Meanwhile in a medium-sized mixing bowl, beat eggs just until yolks and whites are combined. Slowly pour hot mixture over beaten eggs, stirring vigorously as you do so. Stir in vanilla, salt and pecans. Mix the flour and 1 tablespoon sugar; sprinkle over bottom of unbaked pastry shell. Pour filling into shell and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees for a glass pie plate and 375 degrees for a metal pie pan) until cake tester inserted halfway between the outside and center of pie comes out clean—about 45 minutes.

Roman Kitchens Have Revolution

By ALLYN MOSS

ROME (AP)—Italy has had a revolution—in the kitchen.

This should come as no surprise to anyone who has ever seen an Italian espresso coffee maker. Sooner or later Italians were bound to become gadget-happy.

Roman housewives have become enthusiasts for American (or American inspired) can-openers, vegetable peelers, slicers and dicers with a passion they formerly reserved for Rossano Brazzi (Italy's Clark Gable).

That's the way it began. It has gone on to include everything else—electric beaters, mixers, washing machines, and even an occasional dishwasher tossed into an occasional palazzo.

The Italians have also put out some rather tricky gadgets of their own: coffee grinders, espresso machines (big and little ones) and garlic crushers, have been joined by a new pasta maker which rolls and cuts pasta into any shape you want—spaghetti, ravioli, fettuccine, and even a flying saucer number.

Because electricity and gas still cost so much to install and use in Italy, few Italian families can afford to fully Americanize their kitchens. But more and more Roman households now have a big shiny refrigerator, an American type stove with glass-windowed oven, a can-stacked pantry closet and at least one gadget filled drawer.

What was it that changed the Roman kitchen more in the last 10 years than in the 20 centuries since Caesar?

Primarily responsible was the rise of a new income group after the war. Although it couldn't afford the huge retinue of domestic help, still common in the homes of Roman aristocracy, it could afford new kitchen equipment. The influx of American movies and magazines which showed off the glamor and efficiency of the American kitchen also played a role.

Relaxed Commuter

Anita Bryant, who commutes between Hollywood and Chicago for the George Gobel show and the Breakfast Club, tells her secrets for keeping relaxed.

HOLLYWOOD—The jet age has made it possible for Anita Bryant to be on two shows 2,000 miles

Impromptu Posters Featured At Royal Service Meeting

Five artists drew impromptu illustrations of Bible verses Tuesday when the Baptist Temple WMS held their Royal Service program.
Mrs. A. R. Posey, Mrs. C. G. Lovell, Mrs. H. M. Jarratt, Mrs. W. L. Sandridge and Mrs. D. D. Johnston created posters illustrating favorite Bible verses.
The Horace Buddin Circle presented the program "In Word, Speech and Deed" assisting with this were Mrs. H. I. Cox, Mrs. Rex Edwards, Mrs. Sam Bennett, and Mrs. Emma Thomas.
Mrs. Richard Grimes, soloist, sang "Take My Life and Let It Be."
The crown and cape were worn by Mrs. A. T. Boren, chairman of the Evan Holmes Circle. This circle served refreshments to 25 people. One new member joined the group, Mrs. Charles B. Moore.

apart on the same day—the Breakfast Club in Chicago and the George Gobel show in Hollywood. This attractive teen-ager, who was one of the finalists last year in the Miss America contest, has been singing since she could talk. She chatted to me about pose.
"I like people. I've never been inhibited but I had a complex about my hands and feet. They were too large when I was in school because they grew faster than the rest of me. Although I didn't show it, inwardly I was self-conscious because all of the kids teased me about it. But I was told that I was chosen Miss Oklahoma because of my poise, and that did a great deal for me. Now I don't feel awkward," Anita confessed.
We were having a cup of tea in the garden at the Beverly Hills Hotel and the air was warm and balmy.
"It was cold when I left Chicago this morning," she said.
"Isn't commuting such a distance hard on your nerves?" I asked.
"I try not to get all keyed-up," Anita declared, "but sometimes when I go to bed, I'm not relaxed enough to go to sleep so I go through a form of self-hypnosis. That always works for me."
"I start at my toes and I say, 'Toe, it's time for you to relax completely.' I wait a second and then I tell this to my ankle, calf, thigh and all up my body. By the time I reach my head I'm usually asleep."
I asked Anita if she had any glamour tricks she would share.
"I have a little problem. I must get up at 5:30 a.m. and often I don't get enough sleep when I'm commuting. So when I awaken and my eyes are red I use some new drops that clear my eyes instantly. When I have to face the TV cameras, I have to look my best," Anita concluded.

Washington Motif Used In Tea For Delphian Club

LAMESA—Mrs. B. B. Baylor was elected president of the Lamesa Delphian Club when the group met Tuesday night at the clubhouse.
The decor of the clubhouse commemorated the birthday of George Washington. An unusual mantel motif was formed of silhouettes of colonial figurines with a large bust silhouette of Washington on the mirror over the fireplace. A topic of conversation was the white flag tree flanked by colonial figurines on the coffee table.

Appointed in crystal, the serving table was covered with white lace. A white cherry tree banked in red carinations was the point of interest; it was flanked by red tapers in white holders.

Other officers named were Mrs. J. D. Hines, first vice president; Mrs. O. H. Nance, second vice president; Irma Sprawls, recording secretary; Mrs. Edwin Olson, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Sam Richardson, treasurer.

Mrs. Olson was leader for the timely program which had as its topic "Aging in the Modern World" Program participants in addition to Mrs. Olson were Mrs. L. C. Pratt, Mrs. Owen A. Winsor and Mrs. M. C. Lindsey.

The quartet discussed the social and economic needs of the senior citizen with emphasis on making them useful citizens past the age of retirement. Some discussion was given on sponsoring a senior citizens center in Lamesa.

Hostesses were Mrs. Ed Hatch, Mrs. Carl Rountree, Mrs. Robert Wade and Mrs. L. M. Pratt. Cookies and hot apple cider were served to the members and their guests for the evening, the members of the '48 Delphian Club.

Bride-Elect Can Make Trousseau Ensemble

Every bride-to-be wants a dreamy negligee and gown, gossamer and romantic. It's a must for the trousseau, but it sometimes comes high.
To achieve glamor within the budget, the bride can make her own peignoir and gown in the most delicate and flattering fabrics available.
Choose sheer black coin-dotted nylon net over pinky beige organza for the robe, pale pink sheer nylon tricot over heavier tricot in a deeper shade for the Empire gown. What bride could ask for a more romantic ensemble?

The heavier tricot of the gown, use a slightly longer stitch — 12 to 14 for inside seams, 15 to 18 for top stitching.
6. Lighten pressure slightly by adjusting screw at top of presser bar.
7. Remember that in sheers your line of stitching will show, so if you have difficulty stitching a straight line, use a seam guide. These are available for automatic slant-needle as well as straight-stitching machines. An edge-stitch-or will help make accurate French seams.

Inexpensive nylon lace edging gives a delicate finish. Use the ruffler attachment to apply.

The bridal set is easy to make at home from a standard pattern. Stitching the net and nylon fabrics on the sewing machine poses no problems if the home seamstress follows these simple rules:
1. Use size 11 needle and nylon thread.
2. Be sure cutting scissors are sharp.
3. For pinning and fitting, use very thin, sharp dressmaker pins to avoid leaving pin-holes in the fabric.
4. Set the machine tension slightly lighter than normal.
5. Set stitch length for the nylon net and sheer fabrics 12 to 15 to the inch for inside seams, 18 to 20 for top stitching. To stitch

Unusual Style Show Given Wednesday

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Youthful models-poised, proud and confident—displayed the latest spring fashions here Wednesday night. Yes, when you consider that most of the models, the orchestra, and a good part of the audience are blind. The event was staged at the Michigan School for the Blind. It was designed as a lesson in good grooming for the students. A special ramp with slightly elevated edges allowed the models to promenade safely down the center aisle of the school hall. Sightless students who were seated in the aisle seats on either side of the ramp could reach out and touch the models. This was vital since for these kids "feeling is believing." The aisle-sitters, in turn, relayed their impressions to their seatmates.

Work Of Mrs. Pennybacker Is Interest Of 1905 Hyperions

Continuing their study of outstanding women of history, members of the 1905 Hyperion Club heard Mrs. J. A. Coffey Wednesday afternoon as she discussed the part of Mrs. Percy Pennybacker in promoting education. As a very young girl, she passed a difficult entrance examination to allow her to enter the first Texas Normal. Mrs. Coffey told her listeners; she made 100 on the paper, which was graded by her future husband. From that time on, their lives were connected in school work—he being superintendent of Bryan schools and she being a teacher in that system. When he went to Tyler as superintendent, she went as principal of the school. They were married in 1884, Mrs. Coffey stated, and in Palestine, Texas. Mrs. Pennybacker gave up her teaching to take care of their family. After her husband's death, Mrs. Pennybacker continued club work and she was elected president of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. She worked for a time in Chautauqua, N. Y., and toured Europe, giving much of her time to projects of the government. Her work continued along educational lines as she was the originator of the idea of building teacherages; Mrs. Pennybacker was the author of a history book which was used, almost continuously, as a textbook in the schools for about 40 years. She was presented an honorary degree by Baylor University, a year before her death in 1928, she continued for the American people to realize that educating the young has to be paid for and that the result will be worth the cost. Nineteen attended the meeting.

Coffee Is Fun For Lions Group

Mrs. John Coffey joined Mrs. J. E. Hogan in hosting a coffee Wednesday for members of the Downtown Lions Auxiliary at the Hogan home. Games and conversation were entertainment for the 13 present. Flowers from the centerpiece were given to Mrs. Joe Pickle who guessed the most advertising slogans. Mrs. Avery Falkner, president, served coffee from the copper server. A yellow linen cloth covered the table which had as its focal point an ornamental black bird cage that held yellow chrysanthemums. Conversational topics were a favorite new book; some outstanding vacation spot; or a good place to eat with atmosphere.

Africa Study Finished By Mary Zinns

Mary Zinn Circle members, of the First Methodist WSCS, concluded their study of Africa at the meeting held Tuesday afternoon. Hostess was Mrs. H. H. Stephens. "Which Way Africa?" was the subject of Mrs. J. C. Bryans. She told the group of the lack of immediate goals found on this continent. Mrs. Laswell read for a devotion 1 Cor. 13, and Mrs. Stephens paraphrased the chapter. The program was concluded with Mrs. Laswell reading the hymn "O, God, Our Help in Ages Past." Susan Stephens helped her mother serve refreshments to 16 members. The group will meet next week at the church for the general meeting of circles. On March 1 Mrs. Felton Smith, 810 Runnels, will be the hostess.

Christian Women Set Date Of Book Review

When circles of the First Christian Church met during the week, tickets were distributed for a book review which will be given on March 3. Mrs. Clyde Angel, popular reviewer, will give the story of Dr. Frank G. Slaughter's latest novel, "Thorn of Arimetha." Tickets for the benefit are priced at 50 cents and may be obtained from members of the Christian Women's Fellowship. Included in the CWF is the Mary Martha Circle, which met Monday morning at the church, with the program given by Mrs. W. B. Martin. Ten members were present and gathered later in the home of Mrs. Brown Rogers for coffee. Also meeting on Monday was the Lydia Circle, for which Mrs. C. M. Adams was hostess. The lesson on the life of Paul was brought by Mrs. Nina Carter for seven members and a guest, Mrs. John Black. Mrs. J. D. Benson presented the study for members for the Esther Circle which met in the home of Mrs. J. E. Hendrick on Monday. World Day of Prayer was announced at the meeting of the Ruth Circle at the session on Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Black. March 4 is the date set for the observance. Twelve were present for the lesson, which was given by Mrs. Martin. Expected to meet this morning was the group of members in the

Elbow 4-H Clubs

There will be a meeting of the Elbow boys and girls in the 4-H Clubs Friday evening at the school, it has been announced. The clubs will gather at 7 p.m. for an election of officers, and all members are urged to attend. Bill Sims of the county agent's staff, will meet with the groups.

Guests Entertained In Homes Of Westbrook

Visitors in Westbrook made the news during the week. From Ackerly, Mrs. Edwin Hall was a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Smith. In the home of the Junior Smiths, their brother, Kenneth Parrish of El Paso, was a guest. He also visited his parents, the Charley Parrishes. The El Paso

Introduction Is Sentence Prayers For Coahoma WSCS

Sentence prayers introduced the chapter of the study "Luke's Portrait of Christ" when the Coahoma Methodist WSCS met Monday. Miss Susie Brown was hostess for the program brought by Mrs. Joe H. Whitley. Individually read scriptures concluded the program. The group will meet with women of the Presbyterian Church today to discuss the World Day of Prayer program that will be given this year.

Adopted Child Can Have Memory Book

A new memory book, the first of its kind, is dedicated to the adopted child. "All About You," by Marion A. MacLeod, has been designed to serve not only as a storehouse of important records for the child, but also to open and lighten the way for adoptive parents to unfold lovingly the adoption story to their child. Pages include "Your personal history," "This is what we did to find you," "This is how we looked when you first saw us" (with spaces for photographs), "This is how you looked when we first saw you," (spaces for photographs). The page announcing the adopted child's arrival shows a cherub with a trumpet, and suggestions for listing family names. Other pages explain why the child's name was selected, the child's looks and appearances when it arrived at its new home, how the child's room looked, early callers that welcomed the child to his new home. The book is published by C. R. Gibson and Co., of Norwalk, Conn.

Pork Products, Turkey Due In Sunday Dinners

Turkey and ham loom as likely candidates for your dinner Sunday, judging by specials at many supermarkets and neighborhood groceries. Higher prices around the end of the year influenced turkey growers to produce more birds this year than they had planned earlier. The Agriculture Department looks for a 6 per cent higher crop overall, with an increase of 12 per cent for heavy breeds but a decrease of 18 per cent in light breeds. Bargains in hams stem from continued heavy marketings of last spring's record pig crop. Sharply higher frozen stocks are expected to lessen the usual seasonal swings in pork prices during the late spring and summer. Pork chops are up sharply over a wide area this week, while farmed increases also are shown for beef rib roast in a smaller area. Butter and eggs are slightly higher in a few, scattered sections. Cabbage, carrots and lettuce are included on this week's list of outstanding buys. Other best buys include Florida celery, mushrooms, small to medium yellow onions, green peas, potatoes, escarole, endive and sweet potatoes. Early western asparagus is quite expensive, while those who like corn, Chinese cabbage, cucumbers, eggplant, green onions and tomatoes will have to pay a bit more than usual. Outstanding bargains among fruits include eastern apples (although many are reaching a ripe condition and you'll have to shop carefully), grapefruit, oranges, pineapples, bananas and honeydew melons from Chile.

A Devotional For Today

I do concentrate on this: I leave the past behind and . . . I go straight for the goal. (Philippians 3:13, 14, Phillips.)
PRAYER: Heavenly Father, help me to do for Thee some service today. Teach me to begin some new work of love in behalf of others and for Thy glory. For the sake of Jesus Christ and in His name. Amen.

Not Just A Lucky Windfall

A body of land eight miles from Texarkana in Bowie County, Texas, has been selected as the site of a $60 million pulp and paper mill by the Anglo Southern Paper Corp., associated with the Anglo Canadian Pulp and Paper Mills, Ltd., of Quebec and Ontario. The location, consisting of several hundred acres of land, was announced by Gov. Price Daniel.
The site will be tied in with the Texas & Pacific Railway by a spur. A huge reservoir will be created on Barkman Creek to supply the water essential to this type of operation. Entering into the corporation's selection of Bowie County as the site were availability of labor, housing and timber.
Also, East Texas has already been pioneered for this type of plant at Lufkin, where a paper mill started small and grew big many years ago.

Once Canada supplied most of the newsprint consumed in the United States, and still does to a great extent. Now Canada is supplying the capital for still further development of this kind in the U. S. It is a pretty good indication of the growing exchange of capital between our country and its friendly neighbor on the north, which both countries seem to find profitable and desirable.
Texarkana landed this enterprise because all the essential elements of successful operation were present. But we imagine it wasn't such a lucky windfall for the state-line city. Such enterprises have to be sought out and gone after, and in this instance Texarkana had the makings and the determination to push ahead.

New Member Of The Atomic Lodge

Once-mighty France, reduced to the status of a poor relation in the Western World by her collapse in World War II, has won another decision in her comeback battle.
She has set off her first atomic bomb in the Sahara Desert, and that feat has automatically made her one of the Big Four in the atomic age, along with the U. S., Britain and the Soviet Union.
Henceforth France will have to be taken into account in all atomic matters, whether the other three like it or not.
France will have her feet under the table at every conference relating to atomic controls, atomic limitations or atomic disarmament.
By the same token, henceforth, France won't be just another small, weak, voiceless nation in the discussion, arrangement and settlement of world affairs.

She is now a member of the lodge, possessed of the password and entitled to sup at the table.
In view of her traditional ties with the U. S. and Britain, the net effect of her achievement should strengthen the West, even though Washington and London may find it tough going at times to handle the difficult General De Gaulle.
De Gaulle is difficult under any circumstances; now he may be harder to get along with than ever.
But a fact is a fact, and the fact is that France can speak in stentorian tones with her friends and allies of long-standing. She can no longer be treated as a poor relation.

David Lawrence The South Could Sweat It Out

WASHINGTON—The big political news of the coming months is 1960 is not the struggle between the various aspirants for the Democratic nomination for the presidency but what the South may be preparing to do at the polls next November.
The South has it in its power to take 125 electoral votes away from the Democratic party and to refrain also from giving them to the Republican nominee. This means that, unless one nominee or the other get 269 of the remaining 469 votes, the House of Representatives would have to select the next President.
What will the South do? A hint has just come from Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee and one of the most outstanding men in Congress. He said something very significant in addressing the Georgia legislature, but somehow it wasn't noted in the press generally. He declared:

"I CONFESS I DO NOT KNOW how much longer the South must serve as the doormat for the ambitious leaders of both national parties.
"Certainly there is no comfort for us in the ranks of the Republican party. The heir apparent to the GOP crown already has taken his stand with the NAACP. He is, in fact, one of their most prominent honorary members.
"Our own party has virtually deserted us. The proud democracy of Jefferson and Jackson has become the captive of a left-wing element that is barely Democratic even in name, but which is trying to recast the party in its image.
"Many of this gang of phony liberals and party-wreckers have publicly advocated driving the South from the house of our fathers.
"The South is entitled to better treatment from the party that it has nurtured, supported and revered for almost as long as it has the Constitution. We are entitled to the measure of respect and influence within the party that our years of loyalty have earned.
"NO SECTION OF THE country can rival the South's long record of Democratic loyalty. But party loyalty is a two-way street. Those who kick the South in the teeth at every opportunity must not expect us to keep turning the other cheek forever.
"The South has no intention of abandoning its loyalty to the Democratic principles that it has ever held. But it owes no loyalty to self-styled Democrats who flout and despise the true Democratic faith.
"The patron saints of the democracy — giants like Jefferson, Madison and Jackson—built the party upon the solid rock of the Constitution.

"That is where the South stands today. Others may seek to subvert that fundamental premise of the Democratic party, but the South will keep the faith.
"WE HAVE TAKEN OUR stand on the Constitution of the United States. And there we propose to remain."
The first test will come in the next two or three weeks. Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, will fall the burden of getting some kind of "civil rights" bill through the Senate. To win support of northern Democrats at the nominating convention, he has to get a bill passed now that will make him appear at least as satisfactory on this issue as Sen. Kennedy or Sen. Symington or Adlai Stevenson. If, on the other hand, the Texas senator steers a compromise bill through that satisfies the South, he will, of course, retain the support of his fellow Southerners but doing this might cost him the support of Northern Democrats.
There has been a tendency in the North to write off the Southern opposition as of no political consequence. The assumption has been that the people of the South will not vote for the Republican nominee and hence will be compelled to vote for the Democrat, no matter who he is. But the experience in 1948, when 300 electoral votes in the South were taken away from President Truman, indicates how the South operates when it wants to bolt the Democratic ticket.
THIS WASN'T QUITE enough to throw the election into the House of Representatives, but it would have taken only 28 more electoral votes from the South to have brought that about. For Mr. Truman got 300 electoral votes, and 266 was necessary for a majority. The agitation on "civil rights" and "states rights" had not been carried on at that time, however, to such an intensive degree as it has been since the 1954 Supreme Court decision on desegregation in the schools.
This year it would not be as difficult as it was in 1948 to mobilize the protest vote in the South. In fact, even if the professional politicians in each Southern state feel they have to stay regular and support the regular set of Democratic-party electors on the ballot, the write-in technique is still available. This was how South Carolina elected Strom Thurmond to the United States Senate in November 1954. The same thing can happen also in other Southern states in November of this year in support of an independent set of electors.

Climatic Atlas

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP)—An Atlas of world climatic conditions existing 150 million years ago is being prepared at the University of California's Scripps Institution of Oceanography.
Robert Bowen, English paleontologist working on the project with support from the Atomic Energy Commission and the National Science Foundation, studies fossils of an extinct sea creature called Belemnoid. They are found on every continent and the chemical components of their shells, which varied with temperatures, gives the climatic clues.

Just To Show Them

DES MOINES (AP)—It's an ill wind . . . Friends and clients told a Des Moines lawyer he should carpet the tiled floor of his office. But he wouldn't budge. A conspiracy developed, and after he was lured from his office, his furniture was removed and the floor covered with wall-to-wall burlap.
"The attorney took up the burlap, toted it home, and plans to use it in collecting leaves he rakes next fall.

BUT HE'S HAD HIGH HOPES BEFORE—

The World Today Will History Repeat Itself?

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP)—If you are convinced that history repeats itself, put a bet down that a Democrat will be the next president of the United States.
The odds favor you, but they could be — and have been — upset.
You don't know, of course, which Democrat you're gambling on.

All you know is that he apparently will emerge from a rough-and-tumble convention scramble for the nomination. And that his presumed opponent, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, won't run into any contest for the Republican nomination. Going on those facts alone, history suggests, the GOP will be thrown out of the White House.

In the 11 elections since 1832 when the out-of-power party had conflict in choosing its nominee, that candidate has won the election eight times. The modern convention system began in 1832.

Hal Boyle The White Collar Zoo

NEW YORK (AP)—Have you ever looked around a business office at quitting time?
The white-collar characters in the office zoo start acting the moment they step into the place in the morning. And they are still acting at the end of the day, after eight long, hard hours of shuffling papers from one pile to another.

Here are a dozen types you probably will find in your own office:
1. The philosopher — At 5:31 (he always gives the company one extra minute of work a day) he rises from his desk and makes the same remark he has made every weekday evening for 34 years: "Well, another day, another dollar."
2. First-out-of-the-door-Freda - This beat-the-clock stenographer starts getting ready to leave at 4:30. She is in the washroom from 5:00 to 5:26. At 5:27 she sprints for the elevator, and anyone standing in her path is in for a broken leg.
3. The nocturnal snapper — He hangs around after all others have left so he can read any mail they leave on their desks. He even checks the wastebaskets if the janitor doesn't beat him to them.
4. The pack rat — His last act of the day is to stuff his pocket with items he figures his kids can use in school—pencils, erasers, library paste, memo pads, carbon paper. If you searched his house, you'd find more office supplies than the firm has in its warehouse.
5. The company humorist — As he steps into the crowded elevator he says loudly: "I suppose you all have been wondering why I called you together for this conference. Everybody laughed when he first made this wisecrack in 1942, and he can't understand why it still isn't funny in 1960.
6. The homing pigeon — Twice before quitting time he phones his wife in the suburbs, and he phones her again in the station just before leaping aboard his train. What does he have to tell her? Nothing, just that he's coming home.

7. The after-hours squatter — He hangs around the office until 8 p. m., just so he won't have to go home and listen to his wife. He'd rather go to a bar, but she doesn't give him enough money for that.
8. The thrifty Beau Brummel — This two-bit Romeo has a heavy date. But before leaving he shaves in the office washroom so he won't have to go home and use his own soap. He sometimes washes his socks there, too, to save laundry bills, and lets them dry in his desk drawer.
9. The happy hypocrites — They pretend they have to stay late to wind up an important job, but as soon as the office empties they get out a deck of cards and play gin rummy at a tenth of a cent a point.
10. The pseudo eager beaver — He strides out juggling a bulging brief case and, if you didn't know it held only wadded newspapers, you'd be sure here was a guy planning to burn the midnight oil while trying to solve company problems.
11. The passionate house keeper — Neatness is his god. His biggest fear in life is he will die with a runny nose and be buried without a handkerchief. He does nothing from 1:30 until 5:30 p. m. but tidy up his desk so that everything will be in order when he comes to work the following morning.
12. The boss — At quitting time he breezes out with more pep and energy than anyone in the place. Only his secretary knows his secret — he just woke up from his afternoon nap.

And where do you fit into this end-of-the-office-day parade? Recognize yourself?

AND THE SEVEN cases in which there was conflict among the "ins," the "outs" have been victorious five times.
This bit of statistical lore can be found deep in the close-packed pages of a new book, "The Politics of National Party Conventions," written for the Brookings Institution by three political scientists — Paul T. David, Ralph M. Goldman and Richard C. Bain.
The authors themselves draw no conclusions about 1960. In fact their book, a gold mine of research on how the nation has found its presidents and its also-rans, supplies ample evidence that not one but many factors determine the outcome of elections.
Just the same, they consider that the pattern cited here has held true so consistently that "it would seem to have some predictive value" when the party system is working normally.
THE RECORD TELLS a totally different story when there is no contest among the "outs." When an out party has picked its candidate harmoniously — as by nominating a titular leader such as a previously defeated candidate, or by letting an inner group choose the nominee — the "outs" have lost, 13 times out of 15.
Which suggests it might be positively unhealthy for the Democrats in November, and a boon for Nixon, if by some miracle the half dozen Democratic factions of today should unite suddenly behind a single aspirant.
This is the more true because the "ins" usually do best when they nominate without conflict — by renominating an incumbent president, or selecting his understudy, or by letting a controlling group in the party designate the nominee.
In such cases the "in party" has won 16 of 23 elections, or 70 per cent of the time.

To Your Good Health Transplantation A Future Medical Possibility

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.
"Dear Dr. Molner: A group of friends were discussing kidney transplanting and how many lives it has saved.
"Has anyone ever worked on transplanting ovaries to help the poor childless women in the world who had the ovaries removed because of illness?—Yonkers."
To me, this is an interesting question—and if you'll pardon my saying so, it also contains the reason why a good many of our best research people are almost half afraid to announce a new and important discovery, if they are privileged to have made one.
If this sounds paradoxical, I'll explain.
In the past, it has been virtually impossible to transplant tissue from one body to another. In human beings, at any rate. Even with grafting of skin (as in the case of people who have been burned) you cannot do it. If the skin is taken from another person and grafted, then in a short few weeks it sloughs off. In order to have the skin remain permanent, it must be taken from some other part of the victim's own body.
However, "borrowing" skin from others for burned victims may be feasible. Even though the skin doesn't last, it serves temporarily.

Anyway, now let's go on to kidneys. Doctors in Boston first achieved this, but by taking a kidney from an identical twin! Since then, the same thing has been done elsewhere, but I don't suppose more than a score of times. The last exact figure I heard was about 14 or 15.
Learning to do it all was a wonderful medical achievement. There are signs now that perhaps the next step will be doing it with fraternal (instead of identical) twins. Someday, I fervently hope, we can learn what we must do to make such transplants possible between relatives, perhaps. And later still, between unrelated people. Or so we hope.
It may some day be possible to transplant ovaries, or other organs. Today it is fruitless to speculate on it. We are only at the beginning of this problem of transplanting.
There could, of course, be some amazing break-through tomorrow, explaining what we must do to prevent one body from refusing to accept organs from another body. It has something to do with the principle that the body's protective devices immediately try to expel anything strange, whether it is a germ, or a splinter, or a food that does not agree with us.

We know a great deal about the body, but mysteries like this show that there is much more that we do NOT yet know.
Anyway, perhaps this explains why some great men are reluctant to announce a discovery. You learn how to transplant a kidney from one twin to another, but people who read of this do not realize how much must be learned before it will ever be possible to transplant other organs. All the same, the kidney transplant is, indeed, one of the great achievements of our day.
"Dear Dr. Molner: Can raw carrots help the eyesight? If taken daily, would they cause the complexion to turn yellow?—H. T."
It depends. If an individual is utterly lacking in Vitamin A, he will suffer "Night blindness," meaning that he doesn't see very well in semi-darkness. Carrots (or other yellow vegetables) are an excellent source of Vitamin A. But all the Vit-A won't help eyesight that is suffering from some other problem. As to turning yellow, it could happen, but I've known people to eat very large amounts of carrots without this result. Anyway, if one did eat enough to cause a change in color, the answer would be to stop eating them.

Around The Rim Great Men Don't Need Propping

Monday is George Washington's birthday. Practically every periodical, to which I subscribe, has announced feature stories and exclusive pictures to mark the event.
And rightly so, I think. Certainly, he left his mark in the world, both as a general and as a statesman. But he also left behind a few legends, most of them dreamed up by enthusiastic followers.
Probably the best known of these is the cherry tree story. Most folks know only that he was president and he "could not tell a lie." It's rather pathetic that we think we must bolster up a great man with a lie.
As most folks know the story of Washington chopping down the cherry tree and then telling the truth to his father, was made from whole cloth. The incident, historians tell us, has no basis in fact.
YET, MOST OF US GO along repeating the story as though it were true, in the belief that it makes Washington a greater man. I doubt this. In most of the history I have read, the fiction writer is rarely more dramatic or heroic than historical fact.
The glory of telling the truth to Pop, is certainly not as great an insight into Washington's character as his farewell address. Particularly when the former is untrue and the latter a truth from his own tongue.

It appears to me that Washington said and did many things, all of them factual, that are more important and make a greater man of him, than most of the blunderbuss created by overly enthusiastic historians. Frankly, I prefer to hear of his trip across the Potomac or his chronicle at Valley Forge or re-read his final address.
FACT IS MORE PLEASANT than fiction, because it is true. And fables, even if well meaning, detract more than they add to a great man's reputation.
If cold weather has kept you out of City Park during the last several months, drive through at your first opportunity and note the changes. The monkey cage, valueless since the death of its inhabitants, is being converted into a set of "playing bars."
I DON'T KNOW WHAT these "bars" are called, but they will look like a maze of iron-work and children usually flock to them for climbing purposes. The sand box is being moved to the same area, away from the wading pool.
Everyone approves improvements, but this particular one has an added feature. The taxpayer is not picking up a huge tab. Cost of the project is relatively minor and existing material is being used.

Is Nothing Safe From Reformers?

Did you know that the bald eagle, the eagle on the national shield, has a criminal record beside which the combined efforts of Al Capone, Caligula and Attila the Hun seem as but the nursery pranks of a mischievous child?
Oh, our national emblem is not only a baldy but a baddie unfit for human association and for our high national purposes. This dire indictment of the American eagle, depicting the bird as an historic bum and a modern menace, is by Dr. Richard B. Morris, chairman of the Department of History of Columbia University.
"Is the Eagle Un-American?" is the title of Dr. Morris's indictment as it appeared in the Feb. 14 issue of the New York Times Magazine. Dr. Morris answers his own query at length by crying, "Yes, yes, a thousand times YES."
DR. MORRIS THROWS the book at the eagle, all right, indicting the bird with every crime and misdemeanor save complicity in the Chicago fire, the kidnapping of little Charlie Ross and the disappearance of Judge Crater. In the fury of his assault upon the eagle, the historian (who deplors the American tendency to screaming eagle oratory), thunders, "Do we want America to be symbolized abroad by an emblem of imperial might, rapacity and brute power?" and then goes on to describe the bald eagle as both "lazy" and "cowardly!"
But if you think that this is cutting the boogym both ways, then you have not yet begun to glimpse the two-timing infamy that Dr. Morris sees in the eagle. Not only is he a symbol of ancient power and repression from the days of Babylon on down, but—oh! shameless fascist!—he is also a wire-tapper.
THE EVIL VERSATILITY of this bird knows no bounds. But let us quote Dr. Morris on the wire-tapping charge: "Moreover for a country where spies and informers are looked upon at best as a necessary evil, where privacy is still honored and wire-tapping illegal, to put on its seal a bird that is a symbol of espionage is in dubious taste. Perched on a rocky crag or in a tall treetop, the eagle places the world under constant surveillance, like some photographic reconnaissance satellite. If we are to contribute our part toward creating a climate of peaceful coexistence, the retention of such a symbol might indicate that we had continuing reservations about the real intentions of other nations."

I HAVE CONTINUING reservations, too; one, about the historian's logic and, two, in his sense of humor. He equates the eagle with everything wicked in the whole, wide world, past and present. By the time he had finished knocking the stuffing out of the eagle with his overwrought prose, this reader felt that someone ought to begin raising a defense fund for this underbird, on the theory that another prosecuting attorney, in his zeal, had painted a nonexistent criminal.
Dr. Morris cries that the eagle must go. But I wouldn't be surprised if a lot of Americans wouldn't want to go with him—the eagle, that is. For almost 178 years he has been an American symbol. I can trace no external or internal injury to his presence on the nation's shield or shameful national deed that can be laid at his feet.
SOME MONTHS AGO, some other reformer wanted, for the improvement of the United States, to banish the figure of Uncle Sam as symbolic of America. He wasn't young, or vigorous, or dignified enough for a few critics. And now the eagle is under attack as the arch criminal of the ages!
How long will it be before the Stars and Stripes are either too old or too bold or too cold for some free-lance critic?
In 1960, the silliness season has started early.

Marquis Childs Sobering Effect Of 'Permissible' List

NEW YORK—One of the world's most distinguished nuclear scientists has evolved a new plan to try to ease the atomic stalemate and prevent mutual annihilation by the Soviet Union and the United States. Dr. Leo Szilard proposes to substitute for the current threat of mutual suicide a "permissible" list of cities in each country which would be destroyed after their populations had been evacuated.
What gives the plan a special urgency is that its author has only a few weeks to live. In Memorial Cancer Hospital here he discussed it with this reporter with the quick-raging intellect that has characterized his remarkable career.
THE IDEA OF A "PERMISSIBLE" list of cities to be mutually destroyed in the event of a war crisis has the breathtaking logic of a great scientific mind. Whether it has any practical significance is another question. But, above all, Szilard hopes that it will waken public opinion to the danger of the current drift, with nuclear suicide a likelihood at the end.

He does not believe that the current talks at Geneva to end nuclear testing with a system of inspection and control can succeed. And he fears that another failure in negotiation will only contribute to the fatalistic acceptance of a stalemate which is perilously unstable.
"On general principles I am rather inclined to agree with those who say that it would be a miracle if man were to survive the advent of the atomic age," Szilard says in his article in the Bulletin of Atomic Scientists. "But a miracle, as defined by Fermi, is an event which has a probability of occurrence of less than 10 per cent. People are inclined to underestimate the probability of improbable events. No matter what the probability of man's survival may appear to be at this point, there is a margin of hope and all we can do at present is to concentrate on this margin, be it large or small."
THE LATE ENRICO FERMI, also one of the pioneer nuclear physicists, was a partner with Szilard in experiments in 1930 indicating the possibility of nuclear chain reaction. They worked together at Stagg Field at the University of Chicago on the first phase of the Manhattan project which led to the atomic bomb. Fermi died of cancer four years ago.
It was Szilard who initiated and drafted the late Albert Einstein's famous letter to President Roosevelt that started large-scale development of the bomb. Having taken his advanced work in physics at the University of Berlin, Szilard knew there were German scientists capable of this same development. In June of 1945 Szilard drafted a petition to President Truman, signed by about 60 Manhattan Project scientists, asking that the bomb not be used against Japanese cities.

It is an extraordinary experience to talk with the man who has had such an intimate part in the greatest discovery in recorded history. Despite the rapid onset of his illness he speaks with the same lightning swiftness, enlivened by flashes of humor. But there can be no mistaking the almost despairing urgency with which he posed the questions that he believes must be answered if mankind is to avert catastrophe.
TO GIVE CONCRETENESS to his proposals he visualizes a new war crisis in the Middle East with the United States joining Turkey and other friendly powers in a threat of nuclear war against Russia. The Soviets respond by naming three American cities from the "permissible" list of 20 which they say they will destroy if the offensive is pushed.
They make this threat knowing full well that if it is carried out the United States will name three comparable Russian cities from a similar "permissible" list and destroy them when they have been evacuated. A four-week period would be granted for evacuation.
The plan is posited on the belief that both sides would use "clean" bombs, exploded above ground zero to avoid wholesale fallout. In other words, both sides would be rational insofar as they observed a given set of rules. With the inevitable nationalistic passions involved in any dispute this is probably the basic weakness of the Szilard plan.
SZILARD HAS ADVANCED his plan in the belief that in the next stage of the stalemate, when both sides have long-range, solid-fuel rockets in place equipped with hydrogen warheads, war in the conventional sense will be impossible because it will mean suicide.
But at the same time a way will have to be found to live with that situation and for this reason he has thrown out his challenging proposal. The words of one who has foreseen so much cannot be easily ignored, and particularly when they are spoken with an awareness of how short his own time on this earth.
