Factors In A Complex Business

Dr. Gerald Thomas, dean of the Texas Tech school of agriculture, and John G. McManey, Texas A. & M. extension service economist, review some of the factors in the increasingly complex Agri-Business industry.

Agriculture Stressed As Increasingly Important

Agriculture is more important to the nation's welfare than it has ever been, and it will become increasingly important. Thus Dr. Gerald Thomas, dean of the school of agriculture at Texas Tech, keynoted the annual Agri-Business Day program at Howard County Junior College Tuesday morning.

Carr Will Open Campaign March 8

AUSTIN (AP)—Waggoner Carr will formally open his campaign for attorney general of Texas at a hometown rally and barbecue in Lubbock March 8. He promised an aggressive, hard-hitting campaign. He opened his state headquarters here Monday defending the Legislative Code of Ethics Bill passed while he was House speaker.

Negro Lunch Bar Protest Called A Sign Of Unrest

By RELMAN MORIN CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP)—Three weeks ago, a group of Negro college students entered a variety chain store in Greensboro, N.C., and sat down at the lunch counter. They were not served. There was no disturbance. Four days later, that store and another in a different chain temporarily closed their doors.

After 47 Years On T&P, V. W. Heard Ready To Rest

Jan. 31, V. W. Heard took his hand off a T&P locomotive throttle for the last time. His retirement on Feb. 1 wound up a 47-year career that began shoveling coal and finished behind the controls of No. 2 and No. 7, running from Baird to Big Spring.

Heard plans to relax and take things easy from now on. He may putter around the yard or help his wife in the house, and maybe even take a walk down to the station to see how those younger fellows are running the railroad.

He has earned his rest. Born in Waller County, Oct. 30, 1888, Heard was 24 years old when he joined the Texas and Pacific Railroad. It was Aug. 12, 1913 that his association began.

He got up early that morning in Putnam and went over to Baird at 4 a.m. to apply for the job. At 7 a.m., he was waiting at the round house and was immediately put to work.

"It was good steady work," he recalls, "and I wanted the job."

The job was shoveling coal in the chutes which fed the locomotives. It paid 17 1/2 cents per hour and he worked from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. each day, seven days per week.

Five months later, he married the former Archie Burchett at Putnam. The date was Jan. 20, 1914.

In 1915, he received his first promotion. He was made fireman on the switch engine in the Baird yard. Ten years later, in 1925, he was promoted to road fireman, on

Bus - Truck Crash Hurts 6

BLACKWELL, Okla. (AP)—Six persons were injured, one seriously, when a Continental Trailways bus slammed into a cattle truck in a heavy snow storm about 6 miles north of here today.

State trooper George Moore said the cattle truck apparently skidded half way around blocking U.S. Highway 177. The truck driver escaped injury.

Charles Mayben, 47, of Wichita, Kan., driver of the bus, suffered internal injuries and was in a serious condition.

Five passengers were taken to the hospital suffering from minor injuries. Seven other passengers escaped unhurt.

Visibility in the area was reduced to 30 feet as blizzard conditions moved across Oklahoma and Kansas. The bus was en route to Oklahoma City and Dallas.

Trail Riders On Last Lap

CYPRESS, Tex. (AP)—Salt grass trail riders saddled up today and looked across 20 miles of prairie to their Houston destination, last lap of a 90-mile ride from Breham.

Some 1,700 riders and 90 wagons set out on the annual ride Sunday but cold and wet weather had cut the number of horsemen to about 1,300 Monday night when the group bedded down here.

DEAR ABBY

FACT OR FANTASY?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: In Massachusetts 10 kisses ARE equal to a proposal of marriage. If you think that's funny, did you know that it's against the law to blow your nose in public in Waterville, Maine? Check your facts, LAW STUDENT. DEAR STUDENT: Check yours. Many years ago there was an ordinance in Waterville, Maine, which prohibited blowing one's nose in public. But no more. It has been removed from the books. If there IS a law in Massachusetts stating that 10 kisses are equal to a marriage proposal, it would take a Philadelphia lawyer to make it stick.

DEAR ABBY: Our 17-year-old daughter accepted an engagement ring at Christmas without our consent. She went steady with this boy for two years but we thought it was a puppy love affair.

Now that she has the ring she tells us she is sorry she has accepted it and wants to get it back. Every time she goes out with him she always comes home with the ring. She says when she tries to give it back he cries and sobs his heart out and talks her into keeping it. We don't like to interfere, but we know this child doesn't know her own mind.

Would it be wrong for her father to give the ring to the boy's father? They are nice people and the only thing wrong with the boy is that he's immature. Can you help us? MRS. W.

DEAR MRS. W.: A girl who is old enough to accept an engagement ring is old enough to return it. And the young man had better learn to face up to a few major disappointments in life without sobbing his heart out.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow. Quite attractive and self-supporting. I was introduced to a very fine gentleman who is married to a woman who has been ill for about 10 years. He is very lonely and unhappy. Do you think there is anything wrong with my going out with him? It would make his life so much happier. His wife is in a sanitarium. MAUREEN

DEAR MAUREEN: Sorry, dear, but he is still bound by a sacred promise to cherish his wife in sickness and in health. This is sickness. Don't tempt him.

Wary Cubans Ready To Talk Over Issues

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's government says it is ready to negotiate its differences with the United States but warns against any Washington action harmful to the Cuban economy.

Foreign Minister Raul Roa handed a note to U.S. Charge d'Affaires Daniel Braddock Monday announcing that Cuba would appoint a commission to open talks in Washington at a date convenient to both countries.

The note expressed "confidence this decision will be justly appreciated by the North American government inasmuch as it is directed to the examination of questions that have lately affected traditional relations between Cuba and the United States."

But the note indicated that negotiations would fall through if the U.S. government or Congress took steps Cuba might consider harmful to its economy. This was an obvious warning against any tampering with the sugar quota system under which the United States purchases half of Cuba's sugar crop at premium prices.

Ingrid Bergman's Daughter Elopes With Industry Scion

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Ingrid Bergman's apple-cheeked eldest daughter commuted across San Francisco Bay to her Mills College classes with a new name today — Mrs. Fuller E. Callaway III.

The former Jenny Ann Lindstrom, 21, eloped Sunday with Callaway, scion of a Georgia industrial family. Callaway, 28, is business manager of the Watkins Johnson Electronics Co. in suburban Palo Alto, but lives in San Francisco.

Jenny Ann's faculty and student friends expressed no great surprise when news of the wedding at Elko, Nev., reached them Monday.

"They met here two years ago when Jenny Ann transferred from the University of Colorado," said a Mills spokesman. "She's a good student and a lovely, lovely girl."

The couple said they were going to Squaw Valley to attend the winter Olympics, but just kept going eastward to Elko, which is 500 miles from San Francisco and 200 miles from Salt Lake City where Jenny's father, Dr. Peter Aron Lindstrom, practices neurosurgery.

Now Science Stops Useless* Coughing with a Tiny Tablet and a sip of water!

What is useless coughing? There are two kinds of coughs: 1. Productive—the occasional useful cough that clears the throat and bronchial tubes. DONDRIL does not interfere with the useful cough. 2. Non-Productive—the moping cough that racks the body, wastes energy and serves no purpose. DONDRIL stops useless coughing.

Controls nerves that control coughing due to colds and excessive smoking. Helps break up bronchial congestion—raises phlegm. NEW YORK, N. Y. (Special) A major breakthrough in cough control is now announced with the introduction to the public of a new anti-cough tablet. It's a tiny tablet...to be taken with a sip of water. Working through the bloodstream, this remarkable tablet stops useless coughing up to 6 full hours. Called DONDRIL Anti-Cough Tablets, this entirely new concept in cough control is now available* without prescription. The astonishing relief offered by DONDRIL is made possible by a combination of three great medicines...a unique antitussive, a medically-proven decongestant and an exclusive antihistamine. DONDRIL has twice the effectiveness of codeine, yet is non-narcotic. Get DONDRIL Anti-Cough Tablets. Money back if not satisfied. DONDRIL is a trademark

THIS DAY IN TEXAS

By CURTIS BISHOP

Born on this day in 1864 was J. Frank Norfleet, whose feats as a human bloodhound have no parallel in the annals of detective work.

First a farmer, then a cowboy, Norfleet moved from his native Gonzales County to the Panhandle country in 1889. There he married Eliza Hudgins. They filed for 150 acres of land and in the course of the years Norfleet became prosperous.

In 1919, however, he fell victim to a gang of swindlers and was stripped of $100,000. When the regular law officials seemed to be unable to find any trace of the guilty men, Norfleet took up the chase himself. Working alone and at his own expense, Norfleet tracked down the swindlers. He picked up his own clues. The trail led almost everywhere in the United States but in the end the one-man volunteer posse got every one of his men. Most of them he arrested personally.

The unequalled pursuit lasted for more than two years. Norfleet recovered some of his money. For a time little was known about his single-handed exploit, then interest mounted and finally Norfleet described his experiences in a book entitled "Norfleet", published by the Imperial Press at Sugarland.

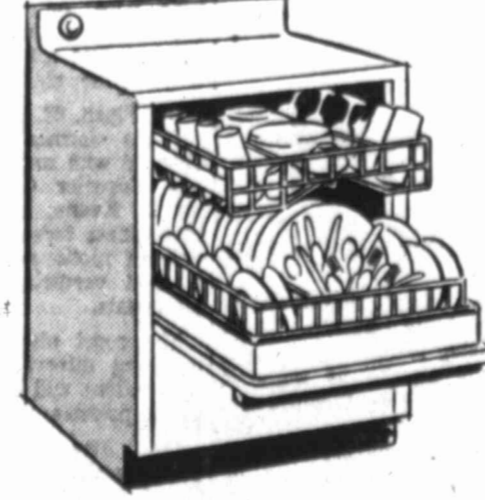

Never before, or afterward, had J. Frank Norfleet engaged in law enforcement work. Many other prominent Texans were defrauded by the ring, which literally made a killing in Texas in 1919.

Navy Trains 4,000 Men For Atom Subs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has about 4,000 men in training to man the nuclear submarines it is building or has ordered.

This is only the beginning of a training program expansion to meet the manpower demands arising out of the rapid upbuilding of the undersea service, including the new Polaris missile fleet, officials said today.

They are unable to predict now how many men and officers for A-powered submarines may be needed in the next half dozen years.

However, top Navy officials currently talk of an eventual fleet of 40 or more Polaris subs. In addition to these Fleet Ballistic Missile (FBM) submarines, the Navy will continue the steady replacement of its conventionally powered, World War II design submarines with nuclear-driven submarines designed for the dual purpose of attack and anti-submarine work.

These combined programs—the FBMs and the attack submarines—apparently could mean that between 15,000 and 20,000 officers and enlisted men might have to be trained for the highly specialized handling of atomic-powered submarines in the next five or six years.

The vastly increased technology demanded for nuclear submarines makes the new training problem correspondingly complex. On the other hand, a substantial portion of those to be trained for A-sub duty will have had conventional submarine experience.

Navy, Nation Take Pause Wednesday To Honor Nimitz

The U. S. Navy pauses Wednesday to honor one of its most distinguished officers, Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz. The date marks the 75th birthday of the Navy's highest ranking officer—and its only living five-star admiral.

Nimitz was born in Fredericksburg in 1885, and left high school in his senior year to enter the Naval Academy. Just 44 years later as a fleet admiral he returned to his old hometown in a buckboard hauled by a team of roan horses, with an escort of hundreds of cowboys. That day he finally received his diploma from Tivy High School—the only man ever to graduate from high school in a fleet admiral's uniform.

The span of those 44 years was packed with more adventure and drama than 10 ordinary men see in their lifetimes. For Nimitz, it meant graduating with distinction from the Naval Academy, rising from a midshipman to fleet admiral, and leading his country's Navy to the most hard-fought and hard-won triumph it had ever known.

The victory was culminated Sept. 2, 1945 when he signed the surrender terms with Japan aboard the battleship U. S. S. Missouri in Tokyo Bay.

From 1945 to 1947 Nimitz held the post of Chief of Naval Operations, the top military position in the Navy. In 1948, he became the special assistant to the secretary of the Navy in the Western Sea Frontier, and in 1949 was appointed by the United Nations secretary general as plebiscite administrator for Kashmir.

In January 1951 he was selected to head the President's proposed Internal Security Commission.

On his birthday, celebrations will be held across the nation, most of them under the sponsorship of local Navy League chapters.

In San Francisco, Nimitz's home area, the date will be celebrated by the Admiral, his friends and a host of international dignitaries at the Palm Court of the Sheraton Palace Hotel.

Among various special observations is one in Hawaii in which 75 trees will be planted along the Honolulu-to-Pearl Harbor Nimitz Highway.

Chemist Says Medics Need More Data On War Gasses

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A top authority on chemical warfare today urged that the nation's doctors be given the facts about some of the newer poison gases which he said were more terrible than nuclear bombs.

There are gases that will kill tens of thousands in a matter of minutes; gases that will make lunatics out of whole metropolitan populations; gases that will paralyze but not kill to liberate cities from military occupation.

This country has a whole array of these gases and the Soviet Union, which apparently had a six-year start on developing things of this kind, presumably has had all these and may have more, the expert said.

He said the Soviet Union has 50,000 tons of tabun, a nerve gas, enough to wipe out the populations of 1,000 cities the size of San Francisco.

The organism that causes Q fever, a disabling but seldom fatal disease, can be made so effective that one-thirtieth of an ounce of it will infect 500,000 people, he added.

This rundown was presented before the California Medical Assn. by Dr. Cecil M. Coggins of the California Disaster Office, Sacramento. Dr. Coggins formerly was associated with the Army Chemical Warfare Service.

The potentialities of chemical and biological warfare remain widely unknown, even among physicians who would be called upon to fight the deadly effects, Dr. Coggins said.

"This dangerous situation in which we are expected to protect the public against weapons which are unknown to us, cannot be allowed to continue," Dr. Coggins said. "We must become informed of the facts."

Dr. Coggins said gases caused 1.3 million casualties in World War I and became so deadly that they frightened Adolf Hitler.

The new hallucination-producing drugs take effect whether swallowed, breathed or injected. They can be prepared in aerosols which will penetrate closed rooms in the same way as fuel gas.

They caused visions, depression, senseless elation or apathy lasting 12 to 24 hours, Dr. Coggins reported. A man breathing this stuff could not fire a gun, fly a plane or perform any useful task acceptably.

Both sides of the Iron Curtain are working on gases of this kind and the Soviet Union has 30 million men trained and equipped for defense against chemical and biological attack, Dr. Coggins said.

Balance Beauty And Economics

Perhaps to the point of boredom, we have stressed—year in and out—the importance of planting at this time of the year to insure results in beautification in the coming summer.

Certainly we don't intend to recant on that point, for it is still a valid bit of advice.

There are one or two other tips that ought to go with it, however.

One is to stick to the proven varieties, whether in trees, shrubs or vines. If you have a little extra money you want to play with, then experimentation is all right. You can, perhaps, save yourself some money by checking with the Experimental Station or with an experienced nurseryman. Everything that looks pretty in a seed catalogue does not necessarily thrive in this climate.

The other point is this: don't let your dreams cloud your economics. Your place will be a lot more attractive with a modest amount of trees, flowers and lawn, which you can afford to keep, than it will be with a much larger spread that you will be forced to abandon at the peak of summer because of cost. Beautifully all that you can afford to water.

We Need Good Engineers

During the observance of National Engineer's Week, it is proper to acknowledge again the nation's increasing dependence upon those with special technical skills.

The course of history is propelling us deeper and deeper into a technical age, and we will be more and more dependent upon trained minds in this field.

Now not everybody should be an engineer. One of the fallacies of our day is that having discovered this pressing need we immediately set out to induce every young man that his destiny lies in the field of engineering.

Nothing could be further off base. Those with aptitudes and abilities in the technical fields should pursue them. They should be given all the quality training that they can absorb. We may be in a desperate race with Russia, but that race will be decided on quality of training and the freedom to think and to explore. Mere numbers will not swing the tide.

Our need in this country will be for more and more disciplined minds, and out of this imperative harvest we must have a proper proportion of engineers. And behind the engineers we must have multiplied thousands of technicians. And in all of these, we must have thinkers—men and women who will not be bound by what the book says but by what the mind can conceive.

President Directs Shafts At Russia

WASHINGTON — A President, it has been written, is many men. President Eisenhower is one of those men and in such generous measure that it seems ungrateful to point out that he neglects or ignores the other roles making up the complex office of chief executive.

Off on another journey of good will, this time to Latin America, he is in his happiest aspect. The value of these journeys, despite the disappointment in the countries not visited, is unquestionably great. In India in December he performed superbly and there is evidence of action to follow through on the glow of friendship generated there.

HE IS THE CEREMONIAL President; the President who symbolizes and who speaks for a generous, idealistic America. With his vast reputation as soldier-hero for peace he is ideally equipped for the role.

But as recent events have begun painfully to show once again he is not the President who takes the hard, tough decisions and thereby sets a clear policy line for all in his Administration to follow. The drift is conspicuous and above all in vital areas of foreign policy. Decision are put off and put off until now with only 11 months to go President Eisenhower's successor is likely to find a truly appalling array of unresolved problems awaiting him.

THE DRIFT IS WELL illustrated by the effort to shape up within the government here a new disarmament position for a March 15 deadline. On that date the representatives of five Western powers sit down across the table from five Soviet bloc powers to start the long, tedious effort to cut back the arms burden with proper inspections and controls.

First the differences within the State Department, the Pentagon and the Atomic Energy Commission on the proper approach had to be worked out. Then the far deeper divergences between these three separate legs of the disarmament stool had to be reconciled. This last is a process that has really not yet been completed, although in the past few days progress has been made.

When the negotiators for the other four Western powers—Canada, Great Britain, France and Italy—came here they were dismayed to find how much was still to be done within the American government. For, of course, until the American position is fixed the last and perhaps most difficult step of all—to bring the five countries together on a common ground—cannot be taken.

There was something almost comic about the behind-the-scenes attempt to find a way to put forward the March 15 deadline without asking the Communist bloc for a postponement. It happens that Geneva will be filled to the rafters on March 15. A conference on the law of the sea with representatives of 83 nations is to be held under United Nations auspices. At the same time the marathon conference on nuclear testing will still be going on.

IN A MESSAGE to the U. N. Secretary at the American negotiator, Frederick Eaton, suggested that the strain on hotel rooms and U. N. interpreters might be too great, so wouldn't it be better to put off the disarmament talks for two or three weeks. Back came the prompt reply that this presented no problem and all would be in readiness for March 15.

In the talks with the Soviet Union and Britain, looking to a ban on nuclear tests, the same indecision growing out of a conflict within the government here has been evident. Currently a hopeful approach to a nearly cheat-proof detection system, in the view of distinguished atomic scientists, is in the addition to the detection network of a series of unmanned seismic stations to pick up small earth shocks.

A push to prove this might get the conference over the last hurdles. But the push is not evident.

THE LATE JOHN FOSTER DULLES had the President's confidence so completely that he could force through decisions over intergovernmental opposition. No one could reasonably have expected his successor, Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, in a short time to achieve the same working relationship.

The fault may lie with the Presidency itself. Perhaps it is unreasonable to expect a President to be many men. But in his seven years in the White House President Eisenhower has shown little awareness of what may be wrong with the office and what could be done about it.

Well, Brother Dick, we didn't personally miss one of the little strains and stresses on little-boy existence ourselves, especially including having to wait for the second and third table when company was present, especially "the preacher." As the son, grandson and great-grandson of a dozen or more "parsonages" myself, we feel free to mention preachers in this connection without insulting anyone. (As a matter of fact we admire gentlemen of the cloth.)

Sure, we slept on pallets and trundle beds, and slouchwise across the foot of the bed with some older person's sharp toenails digging into our face. We wore our older brothers' cut-down clothes. We helped out and got in the Sunday wood on Saturday to avoid violating the Sabbath. We attended brush-armor meetin's and got stepped on while sleeping on the straw with which the arbor was carpeted.

We got grabbed, hugged and kissed (as a child) by motherly old ladies who suddenly got an overload of emotion and started shouting up and down the aisles (ours was a shouting church), but never by a pretty girl, darn it. At about 13 a dear old gentleman of the congregation, at every service made a beeline for where we were standing when the call for repentance and submission came, and "talked to" us about our salvation, his breath reeking of onions and garlic.

But don't mistake us. Those people were the salt of the earth, and the personal concern they felt for their neighbors we could use more of these days. There are not enough of them today, and the world shows it.

Unions Stuck In Their Own Mud

By NORMAN WALKER
 Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor unions are in a slough. By their own appraisal they're stuck in the mud of their own unsolved problems.

The disturbing thing — if there is value in some measure of balance between labor and management in America — is that organized labor's leaders see their influence dwindling and don't quite know what to do about it.

Their membership is slipping.

They still tolerate strength-sapping feuding between unions. They say employers are giving them an awful kicking around. They claim both political parties are so conservatively dominated that organized labor is practically a political orphan.

THAT IS THE AGONIZING analysis of the state of organized labor by union leaders themselves at a recent series of winter meetings. They are working on all the problems, but in a sort of half-hearted way that lacks the old crusading spirit.

Take organizing. When the rival AFL and CIO merged in late 1955 one goal was a giant revival of organizing activity.

Yet after four years of merger the AFL-CIO, with an estimated 13½ million members, reported the other day that union membership hasn't kept up with the growth of the labor force. About six workers out of 10 are still outside the union fold.

What's worse, from the union standpoint, is that the complexion of the work force is rapidly changing. New machinery is reducing the number of production of "blue collar" workers, while the ranks of technical or "white collar" workers are steadily growing.

UNION ORGANIZATION is still geared to the production worker and the craftsman. The unions realize they must use different techniques to attract the "white collar" wage earner. But they haven't yet found a successful formula.

New labor law restrictions, the unions say, have hobbled their traditional organizing methods. They are still running into antagonistic public opinion resulting from the labor racket scandals. And in these times of relative prosperity workers are not too receptive to organizing.

Despite all its troubles, the merged AFL-CIO is sticking together. Many of the rival leaders are still distrustful of each other. But they feel more secure together than divided.

Much of the merged organization's strength and resources are frittered away in internal scuffling. Fuzzy jurisdictional rules dividing the types of work the members of each union are supposed to perform are constantly being crossed with consequent retaliation.

The AFL-CIO has been working on various plans for peaceful settlement of these internal disputes, but none have held.

Employers, perhaps fearful the merged AFL-CIO would become more powerful than it has turned out to be so far, have tended to close ranks and stiffen their resistance to union demands.

Labor leaders point, as examples of this, to the recent lengthy steel and meatpacking industry strikes. Employers in the railroad and airline industries have built up big strike insurance or mutual aid funds.

What About Boylephobia?

NEW YORK (AP) — Have you noticed lately that you bore people?

Do they walk away when you join the convivial group around the office water cooler? Do they yawn at cocktail parties when you try to enter into the conversation? At home, does your own wife switch on the television set rather than have to listen to you?

Maybe it's because life has gone so well with you lately you've become too contented. There is nothing duller than a satisfied man. Perfection of any kind inevitably becomes boring. Take a circle, for example. A circle is a perfect geometrical figure, but what does it add up to? It is a zero.

You don't have to be the human zero in your social circle, however. All you have to do is to pep up your life with new fears. It is your fears that make you interesting to others because fears make you more human.

"But I don't know what to be afraid of," you may say.

Nonsense. Utter nonsense. There are plenty of things to be afraid of if you just put your mind to the problem.

The "Psychiatric Dictionary," published by Oxford University Press, has compiled a handy list of 216 phobias. They range from serophobia, fear of air, to graphophobia, or fear of writing.

Maybe you've had some of these fears all along and never knew it. Well, now is the time to find out. Here are a few samples:

Do you blush at the thought you're so dull and boring? Fine. We're off to a good start. You suffer from erethophobia, the fear of blushing.

fast, and we have low blood sugar.

Why too much insulin? One cause is rare: a tumor in the pancreas, causing production of too much insulin. The other cause is relatively common, and is what we call "functional hypoglycemia." It is found rather frequently.

Sugar is necessary for energy. The brain is entirely dependent on it for nutrition; other areas, in part. The result is that low blood sugar can cause fatigue, weakness, irritability, hunger headaches. Some victims (because of the above symptoms) are called neurotic. Apparently the problems of life, bringing tension, anxiety and deep emotional reactions, are tied in with the situation. A good many people with ulcers are found to have low blood sugar. Sometimes low thyroid activity is involved.

Thus treatment requires more than one thing. Stabilizing the emotions is distinctly important; so is correcting any underlying defect, like a "lazy thyroid," anemia, etc.

Diet is important, too. Very-although not all-important. You might think the answer would be to eat lots of sugar. This is not so. Eating sugar may give a temporary lift, but the excess amount stirs up greater insulin production and soon the trouble is aggravated. Rather, the best diet proves to be one that is low in starches and sugar, and high in protein, which allows sugar to filter into the system more gradually.

The basic things to remember: With suitable types of trouble, it is wise to test the blood sugar level, and it may be the answer to seeming "mysteries." Second, the answer isn't in eating sugar. It lies in a different diet, plus treatment of other related factors.

"Dear Dr. Molner: You wrote about itching feet. I had the same trouble, and a hosiery clerk told me to get nylon hose with mercerized cotton soles. I did and have had real foot comfort. — Mrs. A. P. H."

Perfectly good advice, but it won't work for everybody, because not everyone itches for the same reason. However, it's well worth a try.

Around The Rim Mystery Of The West Texas Mounds

THERE'S NOTHING so frustrating as to encounter some mystery and then, dig as hard as you can, never find the truth about it.

A few years ago, I was in Eldorado. I had heard that a vast area in the vicinity of that little city was dotted with strange mounds obviously erected by a prehistoric people. I had been told these mounds were so numerous that acres would be found on one small hill and that they extended for miles and miles across that part of West Texas.

A young business man in Eldorado had made an extensive study of these mounds. He and his wife had spent countless days roaming over the rough countryside digging into dozens of the mounds. In fact, as is often the case, the young man's interest in the mystery was such that his fellow townsmen, with no real appreciation of the importance of the work, began to ridicule him about "wasting his time." He had become so weary of this alleged humor that he was most reluctant to talk about the mounds. I was told there was a possibility he wouldn't discuss it with me even if I hunted him up.

I PERSUADED HIM that I was sincerely interested and eager to see for myself what he and his wife had found. The mounds were there — are there, actually — by the hundreds. They are of many sizes. Some cover areas of 100 feet or more across. All have been flattened by the passage of time and, if you aren't aware of what you are looking for, you may walk over dozens of them. All have the same general shape. All are built of hundreds of stone fragments — majority of these stones showing clear evidence of having been subjected to fire.

The young enthusiast took me to his home where he showed me the few artifacts and rough tools he had unearthed in his diggings. Two items were of particular interest. They were two small pieces of stone, on each of which was deeply cut a peculiar design. The designs were different yet each had the appearance of having been carved by some one with a fair artistic talent.

HE ALSO SHOWED ME A book he had. It was illustrated with drawings of stones, tools and fragments found in archeological diggings in India and in the far east. And there, identical to the last detail, were two pictures exactly like the two stones he had found in the Schleicher mounds.

He told me that he had tried to find out more about the builders of these mounds but that what information he had gotten was vague. The assumption seems to be that the mounds were cooking places. (Which appears absurd to me in view of their tremendous number). The theory as I understand it is that over the passage of countless years, the limestone rock used to line the cookingpits (which were located in the center of the mounds) crumbled from the heat. When this happened, they were removed and new stones placed in the pit. The fragments of the calcined stone were thrown aside and ultimately picked up until the mounds were formed.

IF THIS THEORY is true, who were the people who built the cooking pits? When did they live in West Texas? What became of them? Why aren't there more stone tools, bones, locations of burial places around the mounds? How does it happen that two stones, marked with identical symbols to stones from the campsites of ancient Asian people found in these American mounds?

No one answers these questions. Occasionally I passed through the same country on other trips. I stared at the weathered clutter of stone to be seen from the road and asked myself where I could find out all of the story.

I still haven't found it. Nor, for that matter, has my enthusiastic young friend in Eldorado. There is an answer and someone surely must know it. But who is that someone? —SAM BLACKBURN

How To Put The Wrong Things On Paper

Madison Avememanship has reached a new peak, in one woman's opinion, with a series of advertisements that boldly recast American mores and manners in the modern mold.

Do you wish to clobber a first husband? Insult an old suitor? Lie to a second-string beau? These daily situations, ignored by the present books on etiquette, are incisively outlined for those who "live modern" in a series of advertisements for Crane's stationery. For the timid or the socially insecure, Crane's is offering an invaluable public service in a field too long ignored.

LET US TAKE, for example, "the problem of properly pulverizing a first husband. The picture accompanying this ad looks out upon the terrace of what can only be an impressive seaside mansion. And the legend reads: "Gloat on Crane's — I'm turning the beach house over to you. Stuart and I will be married at his villa in Capri, Celeste."

Beneath this is a brilliant explanatory sentence: "When it comes to impressing first husbands, a stinging little note on Crane's paper does more for your ego than alimony."

As anyone can see, this little comedy of holy terrors is right out of Noel Coward. And, believe me, Celeste isn't going to have the last word, if I know Noel. I'll guarantee that by return mail Celeste will receive a note, written on even better bond with a higher linen rag content, from that first husband.

IGNORING THE FACT that Celeste's use of "will" rather than "shall" in her message is a revealing Freudian gaff. No, I write:

"Give the beach house back to the Indians or your parents Millicent and I are sailing for the Orient on our honeymoon aboard her yacht. We go via the Mediterranean if the Suez is wide enough to take the Vagrant."

The next ad in this series that struck me with its modern approach is called "Fib on Crane's." The accompanying illustration shows a young artist, suffering etched into his handsome face, striding through a meadow, accompanied only by his easel, canvas and paints.

"KNOWING HOW SENSITIVE you are, Briggs — for such is his name and this is the note that has sent him into the meadow — I simply couldn't put you through the ordeal of my rather plebeian wedding — my conventional relatives, the stuffy country club. Much as I once —"

The situation is further explained as the ad continues: "When it comes to being most diplomatic or hiding your true feelings, a letter on Crane's impressive paper carries off white lies with great finesse."

It is too early to tell Briggs that he is jolly well rid of this witch-in-wedding-rig, for all he can understand now is that she was ashamed of him and didn't want an artist cluttering up her wedding to the son of the town's most prominent banker-industrialist. (And why she should be ashamed of Briggs when he is obviously dressed by Brooks Brothers escapes me.)

IF THE FIRST DRAMA was pure Coward, this second is prime John O'Hara territory. Briggs looks too much of a gentleman to take sheepskin and send a message reading: "And may all your children be Certified Public Accountants."

But it is pretty obvious that Briggs has been asked from a fate worse than Beth. It is only a matter of time until the bride and bridegroom, bored to death, start romping in alien Wamsutta, and the O'Hara fat is in the fir.

It seems to me that this Crane campaign is certain to revive the old adage: "Do right and fear no man; don't write and fear no woman." And it should do more for Western Union than a government subsidy.

The Gallup Poll

Arithmetic Simply Favors Democrats

PRINCETON, N. J. — No matter who heads the GOP ticket next November, he will face the hard political arithmetic of running on the slate of the minority party in U. S. politics.

And, as a special analysis by the Gallup Poll shows, the Republican party is in the minority not only at the national level, but in most major groups in the population.

This analysis, based on personal interviews with 9,415 voters across the country, is provided by the voter's own testimony about his political preferences on this question:

"In politics as of today, do you consider yourself a Republican, Democrat or Independent?"

Some of the highlights of this analysis:

IN ONLY TWO MAJOR groups in the population — professional and business people and college-trained persons — do GOP adherents presently outnumber Democratic party adherents.

The importance of the Independent vote to the Republican cause shows up clearly in this analysis. In a number of the population groups, a heavy Independent vote for the GOP ticket could swing that group into the Republican camp.

In the 1952 election, and again in 1956, the majority support Eisenhower had from the Independents was crucial in his victories. This was the vote by party affiliation in both elections:

Dems.	23	77
Inds.	65	35

The accompanying table gives the breakdown on party affiliation at present among major groups in the population (excluding a small proportion of "Other party" and "Undecided" amounting to about 2 per cent of the total).

The newlyweds will honeymoon at an undisclosed spot. When the Doritys return, they will be at home at 1622 1/2 Johnson; the bride attended Big Spring High School and has been employed by Quigley's Floral Shop. The bridegroom, a graduate of Ellsworth Falls High School, is stationed at Webb Air Force Base.

Miss Covington Bride Of Ronald E. Dority

Double ring vows were exchanged Monday evening by Mary K. Covington and A. Z. C. Ronald E. Dority when she became his bride in the Grace Baptist Church. The Rev. Ronnie Allen, pastor of the church, read the ceremony before baskets of white gladioli which decorated the altar. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Covington, 211 Harding; and Mr. and Mrs. Erland E. Dority of Ellsworth Falls, Maine.

J. W. Turney, soloist, sang, "Because" and "Whither Thou Goest" with Mrs. Doyle Turney, pianist, as his accompanist. Covington gave his daughter in marriage; she was dressed in a gown made by her mother of white brocade taffeta and nylon. The fitted bodice, which joined a street length full skirt, was covered with a nylon jacket with long tapering sleeves.

A half-hat, fashioned of white leaves, held in place a short veil; this was made for the bride by Mrs. Jack Tucker. Wedding flowers were gardenias in a corsage. Bridesmaids and taffeta made in a similar design to that of the bride's dress, were chosen by Mrs. Larry Lohrmann, who was matron of honor; her flowers were gardenias as a corsage, also.

A. Z. C. Jerry Mullins attended as best man; guests were seated by Eddie Covington, brother of the bride, and Dwayne Allen of Coahoma.

An informal reception followed the ceremony when the couple greeted guests, who were registered by Janie Barber. White linen covered the bride's table which held a three tiered cake frosted in white and supporting a small bride and groom. Mrs. Jack Ledingham and Mrs. John Murphy served.

Coming from out of town for the nuptial feast were Mrs. Tom Gregg and Dorothy Nell of Ackerly; Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Covington, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Burton,

George Washington birthday motif, was covered in a red cloth and centered with red and white carnations. Background for the formal arrangement was a large red hatchet with a branch holding clusters of cherries.

Hostess and place of the next regular meeting will be decided at a future date, it was stated.

What we need right now is a good snow, about six inches worth. One that would stay on the ground long enough for the children to get to make a few snowmen, throw snow balls and get winter out of their systems. Then I should like for a regulation spring to come with well seasoned earth and no snap freezes to ruin the fruit crop and flowers. This, I suppose is wishful thinking. Today is supposed to be pretty nippy . . . tomorrow may be warmish which gets the trees to thinking it's spring . . . we've lost more fruit that way.

Mrs. Wheeler BSP Speaker

Mrs. Gordon Wheeler was the speaker for her fellow members of Beta Omicron Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Bill Draper. Mrs. Walter Eubanks was cohostess.

A discussion of hair styles was presented by Mrs. Wheeler, who demonstrated high fashion arrangements as well as the regular everyday hairdos, which she called "bread and butter" types.

The chapter voted to donate a sum of money to the international project, the Cystic Fibrosis Fund.

Mrs. Mitchell Malouf was given the ritual in which she became a member of the sorority, and Mrs. Barbara Hines was introduced as a guest. Seventeen were present.

Members were told of the Founders Day dinner planned for April 28, when all chapters of the sorority will join in the observance. The place is to be announced later.

Mrs. Childress Returned Home

COAHOMA — Mrs. Bill Childress returned to her home here several days ago, following a trip to Austin where she visited the doctor who did surgery on her foot recently. The cast was removed from her foot and she is reported to be doing very well.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Warren of Monahans spent the weekend here with his parents, the George Warrens.

Bob Garrett, who is attending Sul Ross College, was also visiting here over the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Garrett.

Mr. and Mrs. Ned Hale and children of Gonzales, La. left for their home Sunday after spending several days here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Hale.

Mrs. Bennett Hoover, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Apple of Big Spring left Monday for Austin where they will spend the remainder of the week attending a school of the Retail Merchants Credit Associations.

Reunion Planned In Phoenix, Ariz.
COAHOMA — Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Echols and Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Echols accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Harvy Echols of Uvalde left this week for Phoenix, Ariz., where they will visit another brother and his family, the Pete Echols. This will be the first time the Echols brothers have all been together in 11 years.

Mrs. W. O. Batton is convalescing nicely following major surgery in a Big Spring hospital several days ago.

E. W. Davis was admitted to a Big Spring hospital recently after suffering a heart attack. W. M. Spears is also hospitalized and his condition remains unchanged.

Tommy and David White of Midland spent the weekend here visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph White.

Coffee Is A Farewell Courtesy

Mrs. Bob Bonnell, who with her family will be leaving the latter part of the week to make a home in Andrews, was complimented with a farewell coffee this morning.

Hostesses for the informal affair were Mrs. R. E. McKinney and Mrs. Tom South in whose home the party was held.

Eighteen friends called during the morning hours. They were served coffee by Mrs. Riley Foster from a bronze coffee server. The table was covered with brown linen and was centered with a gilded money tree which was presented to Mrs. Bonnell. The tree was held in a bronze bowl surrounded by bright yellow accacia.

Guild Study On Gospel Of Love

In the study of Luke's Portrait of Christ, "The Gospel of Love," was studied by the Wesleyan Methodist Service Guild when it met Monday evening. The Rev. C. W. Parmenter was the study leader as the group met in the home of Mrs. T. A. McGuffey. Mrs. B. M. Estes was cohostess.

Action committee for the study is Mrs. G. Q. Armstrong and Mrs. G. H. Briden.

The 17 presented were told the next district meeting of the Wesleyan Service Guild will be held in Levelland March 12-13.

Four guests were present, Mrs. Cliff Epps, Mrs. A. C. Jensen, the Rev. Parmenter and T. A. McGuffey.

Mrs. D. E. Clemens gave the devotion. The group will meet in her home at 3222 Cornell March 7 for the next meeting. Mrs. Delbert Burchett will be cohostess.

Girl Guides Are Subject Of Talk For GS Troop 39

"Girl Guides" were the topic of Mrs. E. D. Morris when she spoke Monday to members of Girl Scout Troop 39. Mrs. Morris is a native of England, where the Girl Guides are the equivalent of our Girl Scouts.

Thinking Day was discussed under the leadership of Mrs. P. T. Turney.

Nelda Watts, of Guadalajara, Mexico, was a guest at the meeting. Refreshments were served by Carol Ann Morris.

Original Skits Are Set For GS 210

Girl Scouts of Troop 210 presented original skits to make up a Thinking Day program Monday afternoon in the home of their leader, Mrs. Earnest Miller.

Beginning with a flag ceremony, the scouts gave sketches of the world pin and its meaning; the handshake, the salute, the scout promise and its meaning. The program was concluded with the Friendship Circle.

Refreshments were served by Sharon Welch.

Crab Meat Dish

Company first course: heat crab meat in a little cream seasoned with sherry. Serve in scallop shells — real or ceramic. Good with the crisp texture of Melba toast.

Likes To 'Drink' Her Vegetables, Fruits

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD—It was hard to believe that the attractive red-head, playing a scene with Tony Randall on the set of "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," was the same Sherry Jackson who used to be Danny Thomas' TV daughter.

"This is my first grown-up role," Sherry said, "and I am so glad they asked me to become a red-head. It makes me feel more sophisticated."

"Now that you are 18 and look back on being an adolescent, what was your biggest beauty problem?" I asked.

"I had two problems, my skin and my weight," she replied. "I used to be terribly fond of sweets. I was always eating candy, sundaes or milkshakes. Not only did my face break out but I gained extra pounds."

"My mother heard of a treatment for problem skin that changed my life. It was given to a woman who is 78 years old, but who is so young and full of pep it's unbelievable."

"She said her energy and clear skin were result of drinking fresh vegetable and fruit juices. She has a machine which separates the juice from the pulp, sending each out on different sides. I have a blender like hers that I've used a long time."

"Carrot juice, when it's made fresh, is sweet and delicious. My favorite now is fresh carrot and apple juice. When I started drinking this, I lost weight and my craving for chocolate."

"Your skin looks clear now," I commented.

"I don't get any more blemishes now, even when I wear lots of make-up. Of course, I'm very careful to clean my face every night before going to bed. I scrub my face with a mixture of honey and corn meal. It really keeps my pores clear."

"Sometimes I wash my face with epsom salts. I also like to take a bath in epsom salts, as it makes my skin so smooth."

"I've used it for aches," I said. "Try it for a beauty bath," Sherry suggested. "Put about a pound in a tub of warm water and try to stay in about 15 minutes. It's the most!"

Sallie Ann Echols Has Fifth Birthday Party Saturday

COAHOMA — Sallie Ann Echols, was honored Saturday afternoon when a group of children gathered at her home, to celebrate her fifth birthday anniversary. Games were played, and refreshments were served to 14.

Ben Hale of Stanton was admitted to a Big Spring hospital Saturday night when he suddenly became ill. Mr. Hale has been staying in Coahoma with his son, Charter Hale, for the past few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Carol Best and family of Merkel spent Sunday visiting here with Val Best family. Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Glass and Donald of Lubbock were Saturday visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Tindol. They are former residents of Coahoma. Mrs. Frank Loveless and Louis accompanied by Mrs. Leon Moflett of Big Spring, spent several days last week fishing at Buchanan lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Rowan and children and Mrs. Edd Darnell of Midland spent Saturday visiting here with Mrs. Darnell's daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Echols.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cabiness and Jerry of Snyder and Mrs. Cabiness's mother, Mrs. Cland Nance of Nacogdoches, visited relatives here last Sunday.

WMS Reveals Plans For Future Activities

Members of the First Baptist WMS have voted to sponsor the YWA of the church at a house party in Abilene next week, it was announced following the session of the group Monday morning at the church.

The society will also place a copy of Royal Service Magazine in the church library each month to be used as a reference.

Plans were announced for the meeting on Monday, which will be a salad supper to begin at 6:30 p.m. at the church. Women of all churches are invited to attend the gathering which will include a review of the book, "Reaching Rural Churches." Mrs. Clyde Angel will be presented in the review, following a skit by members of the Anne Dwyer Circle.

U.S. Team Is Due To Claim A Gold Medal

SQUAW VALLEY, Calif. (AP)—Barring an amazing upset, the Stars and Stripes of the United States should flutter high on the Olympic pole today for the first time in the eighth winter Olympics.

Already far ahead after completion of the compulsory figures, lovely Carol Heiss of Ozone Park, N.Y., was rated a 1 to 100 shot to realize a 15-year ambition and win the Olympic figure skating gold medal—the only prize that has eluded her so far.

The pert, 20-year-old skating queen stepped on the ice for the free skating finale today with an almost unbeatable lead over her arch-rival, 18-year-old Sjoukje Dijkstra of Holland. Carol, the four-times world champion, had 90 points—a perfect rating from the nine judges—and 837.8 points compared to the European champion's 20 points and 792 points.

Carol was far in front despite some eyebrow lifting scoring on the fifth and final compulsory figure Monday. Five of the nine judges gave Miss Dijkstra more points on this difficult backward bracket change bracket figure than they credited to Carol. One other official had them even. Several members of the U.S. family charged the judges upgraded the Dutch girl.

The Americans—shut out of the first 11 of the 27 championships—had another hope in the women's giant slalom, Penny Pitou, of Gilford, N.H., who was second in the downhill, and Betsy Sinte, of Norwich, Vt., matched their skill and daring against Europe's best in the giant slalom on Papoose Peak.

There was virtually no hope at all for Uncle Sam in the remainder of the program. He didn't have a ghost of a chance in the 3,000-meter women's speed skating, an event right up the Soviet Union's alley, or in the men's 15-kilometer (9.6 miles) cross-country ski race. Sixteen Jernberg, Sweden's "king of the skis" and winner of the 30-kilometer gold medal, aimed to become the first double gold medal winner of the games by taking this race.

The Soviet Union downed scrap-heap Czechoslovakia 5-5, and Canada trounced Germany 12-0 in the other events.

Hawks Seek To Sew Up West Zone Crown

Jay Sherrard Leads Guests

Lubbock Christian College offers a stern challenge to Howard County Junior College in an 8 o'clock basketball game here this evening.

HCJC can clinch championship honors in the West Zone by topping the Pioneers but that may prove to be a large order.

The Hawks beat LCC in Lubbock earlier this month, 87-68, but the Pioneers were playing without their ace, Larry Rogers, who scored 26 points against Amarillo recently.

The sharp-shooting Rogers, along with high-scoring Jay Sherrard, will be in action for the visitors tonight, along with Norman Preston, James Teague and Rusty Childs.

HCJC has yet to suffer a defeat at home this season but will have to play better than they did against South Plains last Saturday night in order to win.

The game is the first of two scheduled this week for the Big Springers. They close out against Odessa JC here on Thursday night, then settle back to await the State Tournament, which starts here next Monday and extends through the following day.

Sherrard has ranked just behind Frank Phillips' Warren Tipton in scoring all season. He brings an average of better than 21 points a game to town.

GEF Assumes Bowling Lead

Government Employees Finance Co. took team honors in both the handicap and scratch divisions after the first weekend of the 9th annual Big Spring Championship Bowling tournament.

Government Employees are the team scratch leaders with 2730 points and their handicap score is 2997.

In the scratch division, Bill Erickson and Bill Littlejohn lead in the doubles event with 1161. Harry Heise is currently the top singles threat with 690 points and Bill Erickson leads in the all-events department with 1715 mark.

In the handicap doubles, Maurice Pelletier and Frank Enricken are ahead with 1255. Don Blewett leads singles entries with 689 and Harvey Hooser is tops in all events with 1937.

Sgt. Vince Best turned in the top scratch game with 253 and E. B. Dozier had the high series with 602.

Stanton Buffs Oppose Plains In Tahoka Gym

STANTON (SC)—Sporting an unmarred slate in district play, and having won 23 of 26 ball games this season, the powerful Stanton Buffaloes invade Tahoka tonight in quest of the bi-district basketball title.

Stanton, coached by Harlin Dauphin, meets the Plains Cowboys, winners of District 5-A. The Cowboys finished competition with a 5-1 mark and the district title was in doubt until the final week of play.

O'Donnell had pressed Plains all the way but a loss to one of the district's weak-sisters dropped the Eagles out of contention.

Buffalo hopes ride on the shoulders of three big seniors, Norman Donelson, Alton Robertson and Don Pollock. Donelson was far and away the loop's top scorer with 174 points. He threw in a total of 500 markers for the season.

Pollock, another top man in Stanton's point production, is also an outstanding playmaker for the Buffs.

Robertson missed the team's final two outings due to an appendectomy but is due to be back in the lineup against Plains tonight. The tall senior has meshed the nets for 305 points this season for an average of 11.8 points per game.

Other members of Coach Dauphin's "regular six" include Ronnie Airhart, Herb Sorley and Buzzy Brewer. Brewer replaced the ailing Robertson in the last two encounters and totaled 37 points for the Buffaloes.

Tonight's bi-district clash will begin at 8 o'clock in the Tahoka gym. The winner will then meet the district 3A-4A winner in the Lubbock coliseum Saturday to determine a representative to the state basketball meet in Austin, the first week in May.

Sands Contingent To Host C. Point

Sands' district grade school basketball play-offs between Union, northern half winner, and Center Point, southern half winner, will begin its three-game series Tuesday, Feb. 23 in the Sands gym.

A girls' game between Gail and Gay Hill will precede the contest. Center Point, coached by J. L. Kilgore, have compiled a season record of 22 wins and only one loss. They have won the Elbow, Greenwood, Gay Hill, and Sands tournaments.

Coach L. L. Laws' Union team has won 29 and lost two. They have won the Union, Flower Grove and Vealmoor tournaments.

CENTER POINT—Frankie Chandler, Glen Holley, Ralph Norris, Roland Wylie, Carroll James, Kenneth Puckett, Orville Jerry, Van Lewis, Johnny Bedell and David Tubbs.

UNION—Larry Griffin, Bobby Cochran, Steve Kravitz, Bill Coart, Sam Allen and Rinal Douglas.

Gra-Y All-Star Cagers

By DON RIDDLE
Four big teams loom as pre-tourney favorites in Big Spring's 15th annual High School Volleyball Tournament, Feb. 25-27.

"Even so," comments Miss Bernice Waggoner, Big Spring's coach

"all the teams entered are strong and all are potential winners."

Andrews, fresh from taking the Denver City tournament, brings one of the few all-senior teams in the state. Coach Jo Ann Knight's talented crew also took second place in the Odessa meet, bowing to Monahans in a tight battle for the crown.

Monahans, in the same bracket with Andrews, also sports a team mainly of seniors. After winning the Odessa tourney, Monahans took 2nd place in the Denver City meet, right behind Andrews. If all goes according to Hoyle, the two will clash in the semi-finals here Saturday morning at ten.

The program is a near-capacity house. "Imperial, the team that beat Big Spring in last year's finals, brings a well-rounded crew into the games this week.

Other potent teams in the bracket with Big Spring and Imperial, are Lamesa, coached by Joyce Pruitt, and Snyder, tutored by Aileen Stovall.

Of the 21 teams entered, Phillips and Pampa are the most distant schools. Big Spring B team is entered in the tournament along with Runnels' 9th graders.

Playinview requested to be entered in the consolation bracket, so their first encounter will be against the loser of the Andrews-San Angelo bout.

The Steerettes first game will be against Colorado City at 11 a.m. Saturday. Five straight victories are necessary for Big Spring to capture the crown. If not defeated, they will probably meet Lamesa or Imperial in the semi-finals.

There will be 12 all-tournament players chosen along with the outstanding spiker, outstanding set and high point server.

The Steerettes hit the road tonight to take on their first conference foe, Abilene.

COAHOMA ATHLETIC BANQUET SLATED TO BEGIN AT 7:00

COAHOMA (SC)—Members of the Coahoma High School football and basketball teams, together with their coaches, will be honored at a banquet starting at 7 o'clock this evening.

The program is a near-capacity house. The meal will be served banquet-style in the high school cafeteria. In the past, the meal has been catered cafeteria-style.

In all, 27 varsity awards will be given away this evening. The public is being invited to attend the party. Plates are $1.25 each and those calling are assured of a good meal. The banquet invariably draws a near-capacity house.

The program will extend from one and a half to two hours. Coach Jimmy Spann said it certainly would not be longer than that.

Many of the athletes present lettered in both football and basketball.

Odessa Appears A Likely Winner Of Team Trophy

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Henry Harris Jr., the bellling brother of world's heavyweight contender Roy Harris, meets ponderous Pete Peterson tonight in the headliner of the Texas Golden Gloves closing program.

Harris, the 200-pound Cut and Shoot scrapper who some think is a better prospect than the veteran Roy because he hits harder, smashed to the finals Monday night with an unpopular decision over Paul Peebles, the 199-pound Texas Christian University football player.

Peterson, 260-pound tanklike man from Sherman, was devastating as he knocked out Joe Soto of San Antonio, 83 pounds lighter, in 1:59 of the first round. Peterson floored Soto three times.

Harris apparently got the decision over Peebles because the latter went too much on the defense and held on too much in the last round.

SEMI-FINALS
Flyweights—Mike Adams Jr., 112, El Paso, vs. Stephen Arneson, 112, Odessa; Humberto Barrera, 112, Brownsville, vs. Steve Freeman, 110, Freerport.

Lightweights—Rigley Davis, 132, Sherman, vs. Charles Caram, 138, Fort Worth; Johnny Lynch, 138, Corpus Christi, vs. Armando Benavides, 138, San Antonio.

Featherweights—Paul Alba, 126, Austin, vs. Paul Seppin, 126, Dallas; Tony Alvarado, 126, Fort Worth, vs. Johnny Tompkins, 125, Odessa.

Lightweights—Rigley Davis, 132, Sherman, vs. Charles Caram, 138, Fort Worth; Johnny Lynch, 138, Corpus Christi, vs. Armando Benavides, 138, San Antonio.

Heavyweights—Pete Peterson, 260, Sherman, vs. Henry Harris Jr., 200, Cut and Shoot.

Head Coach And Wife

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Emmett McKenzie, who is now one of us, realizes the magnitude of the challenge facing him here as head coach and athletic director of Big Spring High School and is anxious to roll up his sleeves and go to work.

Emmett started for Big Spring early the past week but stopped off in Dallas to attend the two-day coaching clinic there. His wife came directly from Nederland, where Emmett was formerly employed as a coach.

McKenzie had a very successful tenure at Nederland and, no doubt, could have remained there but he threw his hat into the ring here because he knew it meant stepping into Class AAAA ball.

Emmett knows, as do you and I, that there are those who say that Big Spring doesn't play AAAA ball. The more hardened critics insist that the Steers are more AA in calibre.

Be that as it may, McKenzie intends to prove them wrong. He sees the advantages of a situation that is supposed to be hopeless and he insists "boys are boys," whether they be in Nederland, Red Patch or Big Spring.

Some members of the anvil chorus who perhaps have not had a chance to take stock of McKenzie or his merits like to focus attention on the claim that teams in the Nederland area don't play the kind of rugged ball that West Texas schools play. That may be true and again it may not.

Those fans who accompanied Big Spring to Port Neches (which is only three miles from Nederland) for the state championship game in 1953 are willing to concede that the Gulf Coast Frenchmen learned the game in a hurry, even if they didn't invent it.

McKenzie and his aides made use of the LSU style of Wing T at Nederland last season but you'll pardon him if he waits a while before he decides on what system of attack he'll employ here. Invariably, that will depend on what type of boys with whom he has to work with here.

Right now, Emmett plans to delay holding spring training as long as possible "so that it won't interfere with other sports." The football workouts will probably take place in May.

The former SMU cager functioned as head basketball coach, as well as football aide, when Bum Phillips was football mentor at Nederland. He quit his basketball duties in January, 1957, after he was offered, and accepted, the head football job.

Incidentally, Bowden Cook, the former head grid coach at Stanton High School, is head cager mentor at Nederland. His team finished second in the perennial Southwest Texas powerhouse, Beaumont French, in conference standings.

McKenzie wanted to spend those two days at the coaching school in Dallas in order to firm up some of his ideas on defense. He was one of about 600 coaches registered there.

McKenzie has designs on meeting with all the boys in school and inviting all who want to play to come out for spring drills.

The new football chieftain played end on his high school football team at Hearne but concentrated on basketball at SMU.

Some observers insist on faulting him for the fact that he was inactive in football in college. That's a rather ridiculous indictment. Paul Brown, for one, never played a down of college ball but he emerged as one of the finest high school, college and pro coaches of our generation. Joe McCarthy never got to swing a bat in big league baseball but who has a better record than he does in big league managerial circles?

The junior high school football program here might undergo radical changes under McKenzie's direction.

Emmett's idea is to appoint a head coach in each of the junior high schools and to have all the coaches and players work together. Youths may not be encouraged to come out until they attain the eighth grade.

Buckeyes Second In AP Cage Poll

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
Cincinnati still leads the college basketball parade with the end in sight but it has a new challenger in Ohio State which has moved into second place in the weekly Associated Press poll of sports writers and sportscasters.

Although Oscar Robertson was held to 14 points Saturday, Cincinnati beat Houston 57-47 to boost its record to 20-1. There is a comfortable 203-point gap between Cincinnati and runner-up Ohio State.

Ohio State's victories over Illinois and Michigan State earned enough support to give the Buckeyes the No. 2 spot in a scramble with Bradley and California.

St. Bonaventure advanced into the top 10 for the first time by knocking off Villanova and Marquette.

The first 10 teams with points on a 10-5 etc. basis (first place votes in parentheses):

- 1. Cincinnati (66)
- 2. Ohio State (49)
- 3. Bradley (23)
- 4. California (19)
- 5. Utah (11)
- 6. Georgia Tech (2)
- 7. West Virginia (3)
- 8. Utah State (2)

Choir To Present Concert At School

The Austin College A Capella Choir will present a concert at the Big Spring Senior High School at 2 p.m. Wednesday. On a tour of West Texas, the choir will arrive here during the morning and will lunch at the high school cafeteria. A special feature of the tour will be the appearance of the Austin College Brass Choir. The choir, under the direction of Daniel Boda, assistant professor of music, was organized in the fall of 1958 and includes three trumpets, three French horns, three trombones, a tuba, and two baritone horns.

Oklahoma Rise Ups Oil Average

TULSA (AP)—An Oklahoma increase figured in a 50,690-barrel daily average boost in domestic oil production to 7,329,260 barrels during the week ended Feb. 20, the Oil and Gas Journal said today. Oklahoma was up 19,650 to 563,150. Louisiana increased 10,225 to 1,996,775 barrels. Arkansas was up 4,450 to 64,475. Colorado was up 500 to 129,300.

Why Am I Always Tired?

By HALVARD T. HANSEN, D.C. You're as peppy as your nerves will permit! If you are slowing up, you'll find that your life energy transmits in on lines are faulty. Instead of investigating, we generally blame constant fatigue on the weather, overwork, too many social and civic obligations, etc. Result—we often put off a physical checkup until we hear of a friend, perhaps in his prime, dropping dead of a heart attack, or some other physical impairment that moves us to "wonder."

7 Die In Fire

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Seven persons died early today in a fire in a downtown rooming house occupied mostly by old-age pensioners.

DRIVE WITH SAFE BRAKES

we'll do all this...

- 1 Pull all 4 wheels and inspect brake linings and drums.
2 Check grease seals and wheel cylinders for leakage.
3 Clean, inspect, repack and adjust front bearings.
4 Add brake fluid if necessary.
5 Adjust brakes on all 4 wheels for "like new" efficiency.
6 Road test brakes to assure proper operation.

Mayan Murals To Be Copied

MEXICO CITY (AP)—An expedition into the Maya jungles of Chiapas is planned soon to copy murals recently discovered by two young Americans.

The paintings, still showing green and red colors despite centuries of exposure to nature, are described by experts as the most important found in Mexico in 15 years. A study of the pigments and application may help modern mural painters.

John Milton, a student of the University of Michigan and Gene Dursin of the University of Oregon, found the paintings.

Both are experienced hands in the woods of Canada and Alaska, but they had never been in a tropical rain forest until they tackled the jungles of Chiapas, Mexico's southernmost state. They were coached by Carmen de Leonard, noted anthropologist, and it paid off.

They found the ancient ruins in January and reported them to the Institute of Prehistoric Monuments, which investigated and confirmed their find. Now an expedition to explore the site further will be led by Dr. Cesar Ramos.

Ben-Hur' Is Favorite Film As Oscar Race Gets Running

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The movies' annual Oscar derby was off and running today with Ben-Hur's charioteers an odds-on favorite to take most awards come April 4—Academy Awards night.

The $5-million-dollar spectacle, MGM's go-for-broke film, got 12 nominations to lead all as the 32nd annual Academy awards nominees were announced Monday night.

"Ben Hur" was nominated for the best picture along with "Anatomy of a Murder," "The Diary of Anne Frank," "The Nun's Story" and the English-made "Room at the Top."

"Ben-Hur" also won nominations for top actor, direction, supporting actor, art direction, costume design, film editing, cinematography, music score, sound, special effects and screen play.

That meant that much of the betting interest in the top awards will center on the women — where "Ben-Hur" did not place.

Elizabeth Taylor, whose potent portrayal of the demented young girl in "Suddenly Last Summer," was a screen masterpiece, is favored to win an Oscar on her third nomination in as many years. Other best actress nominees are Doris Day ("Pillow Talk"); Audrey Hepburn ("The Nun's Story"); Katharine Hepburn ("Suddenly Last Summer"); and French actress Simone Signoret ("Room at the Top").

Charleton Heston, who played the title role in "Ben-Hur," is an early favorite among the top actor nominees. The others are Britisher Laurence Harvey ("Room at the Top"); James Stewart ("Anatomy of a Murder"); Paul Muni ("Last Angry Man"); and Jack Lemmon ("Some Like It Hot").

Nominees for the best performance by a support actress are Hermione Baddeley ("Room at the Top"); Susan Kohner ("Imitation of Life"); Juanita Moore ("Imitation of Life"); Thelma Ritter ("Pillow Talk"); and Shelley Winters ("The Diary of Anne Frank").

Supporting actor nominees were Hugh Griffith ("Ben-Hur"); Arthur O'Connell ("Anatomy of a Murder"); George C. Scott ("Anatomy of a Murder"); Robert Vaughn ("The Young Philadelphians"); and Ed Wynn ("The Diary of Anne Frank").

For the best achievement in directing, the nominees were William Wyler ("Ben-Hur"); George Stevens ("The Diary of Anne Frank"); Fred Zinnemann ("The Nun's Story"); Jack Clayton ("Room at the Top"); and Billy Wilder ("Some Like It Hot").

Wyler has already won the Screen Directors Guild Award for "Ben-Hur" and the picture won the Screen Producers Guild Award.

Pact Praised
MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexico's subsecretary of industry and commerce says the Latin American free trade pact signed last week in Montevideo opens up excellent economic prospects for Mexico and member nations. Placido Garcia Reynoso praised the treaty and explained its terms in a TV talk.

Inspector Dies

ONLY

Only is a strong word, but The Lark has earned it.

ONLY THE LARK, of all compacts, gives you a choice in all models of a 90 hp, six-cylinder engine or a doubly powerful V-8.

ONLY THE LARK, of all 6 passenger compacts, is less than 15 feet in length (it is shorter outside than all other compacts); but inside it combines larger-car head-shoulder-hip-leg room. (It is a true six passengers-in-comfort car.)

ONLY THE LARK, of all compacts, offers all these: automatic transmission, power steering and brakes, Twin Traction differential, 4-barrel carburetor, Hill Holder, air conditioning, reclining seats, padded dash and many other features.

ONLY THE LARK, of all compacts, offers you seven axle ratios. In The Lark alone you can select the best combination of transmission, power and axle ratio to meet your particular needs.

TV Hypnosis Issue Clouded By Lad Who Fell In Trance

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — About a month ago a 14-year-old Evansville, Ind., boy was watching an episode of NBC's "The Man and the Challenge" which concerned efforts to cure by hypnosis a pilot who was afraid of flying.

In one scene a disc was whirled, and—according to the account in the local newspaper — something happened to the boy. He thinks he was hypnotized via the filmed television show. Hospital officials treated him and released him, non-committally.

Apparently, it could have happened. That a susceptible person might react in such a way is something of which television people have long been aware.

"Hypnosis, used for entertainment purposes, could be dangerous," said NBC's Stockton Helfrich, who checks on the acceptability of scripts. "It could be a boomerang. We are exceptionally cautious in this area. We insist, for instance, that in cases where there is an educational demonstration, the eyes of the hypnotist are not looking at the camera."

Ivan Tors, producer of the "Man and the Challenge Story," commented, however, that it seemed unlikely that even a very susceptible person could have been affected by the very brief sequence.

He added, however, that "television itself can have a hypnotic effect."

If one is susceptible to hypnosis, however, one doesn't need TV or any other assistance.
