

Ike Decision May Affect German Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. decision against resuming high altitude plane flights to West Berlin may complicate President Eisenhower's presumptive policy talks here next week with German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

Adenauer is coming to Washington next Tuesday to urge a stiff American stand on Germany and Berlin issues in the summit negotiations with the Soviet Union at Paris next May.

He is known, furthermore, to be suspicious of any Allied action which might be construed as a sign of weakness or lack of resolve. Diplomats say he may take the new U.S. decision as such an action.

In an effort to forestall any misunderstanding by Adenauer of the official U.S. position, Secretary of State Christian A. Herter sent word to Bonn late Tuesday advising that the decision had been made and providing an explanation as to the reason.

SIMILAR NOTICE

Similar advance notice was given to the British and French governments when Ambassador Sir Harold Caccia and Ambassador Herve Alphand were summoned to the State Department Tuesday afternoon.

The decision was announced publicly Wednesday by Herter at his news conference. He said Eisenhower had decided "that there is no operational necessity at the present time" for flying the corridors to Berlin above the 10,000-foot level in defiance of Soviet objections and possibly dangerous counteractions.

This was a complete reversal of the U.S. position on high altitude flights as it had been agreed with Britain and France about two weeks earlier.

The decision at that time was that flights would be resumed shortly and the Soviet Union would be given advance notice. Although that was not announced it became known, and officials said the reason was that jet-powered aircraft operate most efficiently above 10,000 feet.

CLAIM REJECTED

The Western Powers had for years rejected the Soviet's claim of an agreed ceiling. Therefore it was decided that the air space above 10,000 feet should be employed, since jet craft are coming into increasing use and the failure to act might be construed by the Soviets as a tacit acceptance of the ceiling.

The reversal came, officials said, after the Air Force decided that the higher altitude was not necessary for the short flights into West Berlin, about 100 miles inside East Germany. Herter then decided there was no sound reason for making the flights and so recommended to Eisenhower, who made the decision.

These officials, although saying it might be so construed, insisted that the action was neither a conciliatory gesture to the Soviets nor a yielding to British objections.

Filibuster Ammunition

Sugar Law Seen As Chance To Hit Back At Fidel Castro

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Harold D. Cooley (D-NC) said today the administration apparently plans to ask for a new sugar law which he said could be a "weapon of reprisal" against Cuba's Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Administration sources confirmed that some changes which Cooley opposes are included in a bill they intend to submit next week to the House Agriculture Committee, which Cooley heads. But they denied the administration measure is designed as a club against Cuba, which reaps a 150 million dollars yearly bonus under present law. They said their bill is merited for agricultural reasons, and would not hurt Cuba.

Sugar legislation is an especially hot issue this year because of Castro's attacks on the United States and seizure of American-owned property in Cuba. Some congressmen see the sugar bill as a golden chance to hit back at Castro. President Eisenhower has declared against retaliation.

Cooley spoke to a newsman after conferring late Wednesday with Under Secretary of Agriculture True D. Morse and other officials on administration plans.

Earlier, Secretary of State Christian A. Herter told his news conference that the administration had not completed its sugar plan. "As you know," Herter said, "the President has said we are not going to take countermeasures."

Cooley said Eisenhower's recent Latin-American trip apparently has made no change in earlier administration plans to seek a four-year extension of the sugar law, a slight juggling of sugar quotas which Cooley termed unfavorable to Cuba, and executive branch power to cut foreign quotas further.

"That's their proposal," Cooley said. "But I don't think they should even submit the proposal. He added the President said 'he didn't want any reprisals. He shouldn't ask for the weapons of reprisal.'"

Cooley said the mere proposal by the administration of such a plan would set off wide anti-American feeling in Latin America.

"Havana papers already have screaming headlines to the effect that the President is preparing economic aggression against Cuba," he said.

Cooley said he favors a one-year extension of the law as is — without presidential power to avoid committee hearings because the bill "should not be considered under an emotional atmosphere."

The present law expires at the end of this year.

The basic aim of the sugar law, first passed early in the New Deal, is to protect the U.S. sugar industry from violent ups and downs. Quotas prevent an oversupply of sugar in the United States, and prices far above the world market rate are paid for imported sugar to keep it from undercutting domestic growers. Cuba sells about half her annual six million ton production of sugar to the United States.

Texas Had Champs In Filibuster Days

By TEX EASLEY
AP Special Service

WASHINGTON, March 10, (AP) — The Southerners' anti-civil rights filibuster brings to mind when Texas' Tom Connally participated in such talkathons.

Old timers around the Capitol recall that the now retired Texas senator probably reached the zenith of his speaking career in denouncing anti-lynch bills and other such legislation which came up in the 1930's.

None of the present crop of senators, it is generally conceded, are of the old school of rough and tumble, colorful debaters to which Connally belonged.

Probably the nearest — but on the opposite side of the fence on civil rights issues and therefore not aiding the Southern bloc — is Minnesota's Hubert Humphrey, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

When the word spread that Connally was speaking or about to speak in opposition to one of those measures which now bear the general classification of "civil rights" legislation, the Senate chamber would fill quickly.

With a skillful change in pace, Connally at times would address a foe in mellifluous and flattering terms, then in an abrupt switch burst forth with a stinging denunciation of his opponent's views — if not at the foe himself.

Perhaps only one other Texan equalled if not surpassed Connally's reputation as a Congressional speaker — Joseph Weldon Bailey.

Born Oct. 6, 1882 near Crystal Springs, Miss., Bailey moved to Gainesville, Tex., in 1885. He was succeeded in the House by Speaker Sam Rayburn.

Bailey served in the House from 1891 to 1901, then went to the Senate for 10 years. He returned to the House in 1911 and served there until resigning, to be succeeded by Rayburn in 1913. He died in a courtroom in Sherman in 1929 while defending a client.

No one now is left in the House who served with Bailey, but the old timers still recall his oratorical feats.

Rep. W. R. (Bob) Poage of Waco recalls hearing Bailey making a speech in Waco in 1919, during an unsuccessful campaign against Pat Neff for the governorship.

"I was a student at Baylor University at the time," Poage said. "I can hear him now as he spoke in great, rolling tones, in his words he was pleading for the 'great principles which I believe to be fundamental.' And he pronounced it 'fund-ye-mental.'"

In later years two other Texans who served only in the House (Connally, like Bailey, served in both bodies) gained reputations for eloquence far and beyond that of the average. They are Fritz Lanham of Fort Worth and Martin Dies Jr. of Lakin, both now retired.

According to historical accounts, Sam Houston was a man of considerable note when it came to speaking on the Senate floor.

False Ads Bring Fine

AUSTIN (AP)—A $200 fine for two Amarillo men convicted of placing false advertisements in Amarillo papers was upheld by the Court of Criminal Appeals today.

John R. Dowd and Joe Jones, owners of the Dowd-Jones Furniture Store, were convicted in the Potter County Court-at-Law following advertisements which they placed in the Amarillo Daily News and Amarillo Globe Times May 21, 1959.

A jury found that ads listing dryers and air conditioners at prices at cost or below were false. The court dismissed the appeal when the state showed that notice of appeal was not given.

At Age 90, Texan Is Ready To Retire

ALPINE—Capt. C. D. Wood has decided he's about settled down. Which is expected, since he recently marked his 90th birthday.

Actually, he has been a fixture in the Big Bend Country of Texas for a half century. He fought in the Spanish-American War, saw service in the Philippines, met his bride in the Far East, and survived Mexican rebel raids.

He came to Texas to operate a factory to make candleilla wax, a highly prized ingredient for several products. Later he became a judge.

Wood was born Jan. 27, 1870, at Bolivar, Tenn.

In 1898 he was given command as captain of the Tennessee Mountain Infantry to fight in the Spanish-American War.

After the conflict, Capt. Wood was transferred to the Philippines where he served for five years. During this time he "met the girl I married," a school teacher, Julia Bouchette. When his tour of duty was over in the Philippines, he followed Miss Bouchette to the English Crown Colony in Hong Kong, where she was teaching, and they were married in 1904.

Shortly after, the Woods returned to the United States where Wood engaged in the real estate business in Pittsburg, Pa.

In 1911 they decided to go west and landed in the Big Bend country where they established the first candleilla wax factory in the United States at Double Mills, on the Maravillas Creek, in Brewster County. Later he became a judge.

Cavalry stationed there. One civilian, little Tommy, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Compton, clerk of the general store, was killed.

Capt. Wood's eyes lighted up as he recalled this hair-raising experience and described it: "When I heard the heavy gunfire, I grabbed my rifle and hurried over to the home of my neighbor, Oscar de Montel. He got his rifle and we took off in the direction of the shooting and ran directly into the enemy.

"The whole settlement was on fire and a Mexican sentry took a shot at us.

"In our rush to get away from the bullets we ran into a wire fence with such force it knocked the breath out of us. We stayed on the ground until the sentry quit firing.

"We scrambled up and ran to a mesa about 500 yards away and stayed there in hiding until daylight.

"In 1927 Capt. and Mrs. Wood moved to Alpine to make their home. In 1928 he was appointed Judge of Brewster County, later being elected to the office, serving until 1933, at which time he retired.

His wife died about three years ago. He drives his car to town and pays his daily visits to business places to visit with his many friends.

He has one son, Drury Wood, Del Rio; one grandson, Charles D. Wood, Dallas, and two great-grandsons.

In commenting about his 90 years of life he said, "I should be shot—not congratulated."

Paar's Back

Jack Paar, back on his stool which he deserted nearly a month ago over the editing of a joke, strikes a characteristic pose at the taping of the show in New York. Keeping at Paar for his course, Jack started off with: "as I was saying before I was interrupted . . ." and went on from there with the promise of raising more "hell on television than most."

FIGURING YOUR INCOME TAX—4

Do You List All Exemptions For Which You Are Eligible?

EDITOR'S NOTE: Your taxable income is decreased $600 for every dependent you claim. So it will profit you to know just how you can include as a dependent on your tax return. This article, the fourth in the series "Figuring Your Income Tax," explains what persons may be counted as dependents.

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

Who's a dependent? That's the $600 question. For each dependent you can rightfully claim—in filing your 1959 income tax return—you knock $600 off your income before what's left is taxable.

A dependent could be your child, parent, some other relative, or even a friend. The rules are different for different kinds of dependents. Let's get the friends out of the way first. That's the easiest.

You can claim him as a dependent if he lived in your house the full year if no income of his own amounted to $600, and if he got more than half his support from you. A paid servant in your house is not a dependent.

You can't claim as a dependent a stillborn child. But you can claim one who was born or died anytime in 1959, provided you contributed to more than half his support in that part of the year while he was alive.

Your own child, adopted child or stepchild can be claimed as a dependent if he got more than half his support from you in 1959 and even if he had $600 or more income, provided he was under 19, or, if he was 19, he was a full-time student.

If such a child had that much income he'd have to file his own return, claiming his own $600 exemption, but you could still claim him as a dependent, get a $600 exemption for him on your return, and not have to include his income in your return.

If your child, stepchild, or adopted child received a school scholarship, it is not considered income in determining whether you provided more than half his support.

But it's not that simple when you're determining whether you provided more than half the support of a person you want to claim as a dependent. You must also figure the total support he got from other sources.

For example: Suppose your 70-year-old father received $900 in Social Security benefits, put the money in a bank and didn't use it to live on. You could claim him as a dependent if you provided his support. But suppose, instead of banking the money, your father used that $900 to help him live. You couldn't claim him as a dependent unless you spent more than $900 on his support from your own money.

You can claim these relatives as dependents if the other requirements are met:

Your child, grandchild, great-grandchild, and so on; a legally adopted child is considered your child; your stepchild, but not his descendants; your brother or sister, half-brother or half-sister; your parent, grandparent, or other direct ancestor, but not a foster parent; your stepfather or stepmother; your aunt or uncle meaning a brother or sister of your father or mother; your niece or nephew, meaning a son or daughter of your brother or sister; your father-in-law, mother-in-law, son-in-law, daughter-in-law, brother-in-law, or sister-in-law.

None of the relatives mentioned above has to live with you in order to qualify as a dependent.

You cannot claim an exemption for a married child who filed a joint return with his or her spouse, even though you provided more than half that child's support.

Tomorrow: Deductions.

Congressional Office Race Turns Bitter

By The Associated Press
Two candidates for a congressional seat slugged it out at long distance Wednesday night and the odds made the race for the Sixth Congressional District the hottest political fight in Texas.

The contest is between Rep. Olin E. Teague of College Station and State Sen. William T. (Bill) Moore of Bryan for the seat Teague has held since 1947.

It almost guaranteed a standing room only crowd Saturday night for an old-time political rally at Cleburne's National Guard Armory to which both have been invited. Former State Rep. Jack Cox of Breckenridge, running for the Democratic nomination for governor in the May 7 primary against Gov. Price Daniel, also will be there.

Moore, a Texas Senate veteran, opened the fireworks Tuesday night in Corsicana. He told a gathering of supporters that Teague was using tax gathered federal office funds to finance the campaign against Moore.

ON PAYROLL
"He's putting every county official that will take his country's money on the payroll so that they will elect me for him," Moore said. He showed clippings of a news story from Washington in which a Sam Hardy was listed on Teague's office staff at a salary of $31 per month.

Moore said Hardy was assistant superintendent of Robertson School, getting more than $4,000 yearly of the state's school money. He's taking more than $6,300 yearly from Teague's tax-raised office expense account," Moore said.

Teague, reached in Washington for a statement, fired back: "He (Moore) has been in the state legislature about the same length of time I've been in Congress, and I'm running on my record and I'm up here working and representing my district. I hope he'll run on his record—he's still a member of the state Legislature and he's spending 100 per cent of his time campaigning against me for Congress."

"He's a professional and his campaign is being run by questionable labor leaders, and I'm sure there's every charge on earth made before the campaign is over. I am sure that if the people of my district know the truth about his record in Austin and my record in Washington that there's no question about the outcome of the race."

OTHER EVENTS
In other political developments: Dist. Judge W. T. McDonald of Bryan campaigning for election to the Court of Criminal Appeals criticized super-technical legal opinions. He opposes Judge Lloyd W. Davidson, candidate for reelection.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson was in Washington Thursday to give the keynote speech at a conference called by U.S. Atty. Gen. William Rogers to step up co-ordination between the states and the federal government in curbing anti-trust operations.

Wilson's opponent, Speaker Waggoner Carr of Lubbock told the San Antonio Press Club Wednesday that the proposed change to be voted on in the general election would permit the Legislature to pass what Carr called "a good, sound regulatory loan bill."

Wilson Wednesday named Allan Poage, El Paso attorney, his campaign manager for El Paso.

Steer Tracksters Pointing For Track Show At Snyder

By DON RIDDLE
"Lot's of sunshine and sore muscles," says Steer track coach Curtis Kelley. "We got some pretty weather Tuesday and to show you just how long it's been since we had a good workout, the boys got sore muscles Wednesday.
"It's nothing to worry about, though, I think the kids worked it all out in the warm sunshine Wednesday. Besides, we've got two days to taper off before the Canyon Reef Relays over in Snyder Saturday."

Big Spring, fresh from a surprising fifth-place finish in the Border Olympics last week, take that showing in Laredo as encouragement. The Steers were up against such standouts as Midland, Andrews, Corpus Christi Miller, and R. E. Lee of Baytown. "Midland is one of the state's powerhouses," adds Kelley, "and we've got to compete against them in the district. But where they get most of their points, however, is in depth. They may not win many events but they haul in the points with those second, third and fourth place finishers."

"It looks as if our boys just coming up are beginning to take a better interest in our track program, and with such enthusiasm, we may produce some real fine track teams in the future."
"We're lucky to have a few boys this year who can carry the load. Before you can create any spirited interest, you've got to have some winners. No one is interested in an occasional third or second place.
"As you know, we've got one boy (R. L. Lassater) that's going to be right there in the front, no matter who he's running against, and that causes interest."
"But he's not the only one. Freddy Brown is coming along nicely in both the sprints. I've taken him out of the broad jump because I just think he'll do better in the three events he's in if he doesn't have to worry about improving his broad jump."
Lassater and Brown went with Davie Abreo and Gordon Dickinson to form the Steer sprint relay team, and the quartet is expected to shatter the 44.8 record in Snyder.
Kelley says the boys have been hitting under that figure all season, and if they just get some decent handoffs, the locals should post a 43.8 clocking.
"It looks like we may get tough in a couple of other events too," beams Kelley, "before the season is out. Our 800-yard relay is coming along nicely. Once again, the only thing we need is a little work on the baton passing, and we'll be contenders in that event."
"Abreo looks as if he's going to turn out to be a point-getter in the quarter mile too. He ran a 56.6 last week, with relatively no workouts at all. He's a strong kid with the basic tools to make the grade."
Big Spring adds punch to its attack in the weight events, too. "Mac Alexander is improving every day," says weight coach Chop Van Pelt, "and teamed with discus man Gary Walker and Robert Theban, we've got as good a weight team as anybody around."
"The points these boys add in the field events determine where we place in the final standings of each meet. Just some sunshine and the chance at some hard work, is all these kids need to become real contenders, even in statewide competition."
The Steers journey to Snyder Saturday for the Canyon Reef Relays. Only two classes will be represented — AAA and AAAA. Midland and San Angelo will both be entered in the AAAA division and both loom as 1960 threats to the district crown.

Metz LaFollette Speaker At Banquet Here Friday

Metz LaFollette, head basketball coach at West Texas State College in Canyon, comes to Big Spring Friday to break bread with members of the Evening Lions' Club, who are honoring the coach of the local high school and HCJC.

The banquet, which has been scheduled as an annual event, starts at 7:30 p.m. It will be held in the Student Union Building on the HCJC campus.

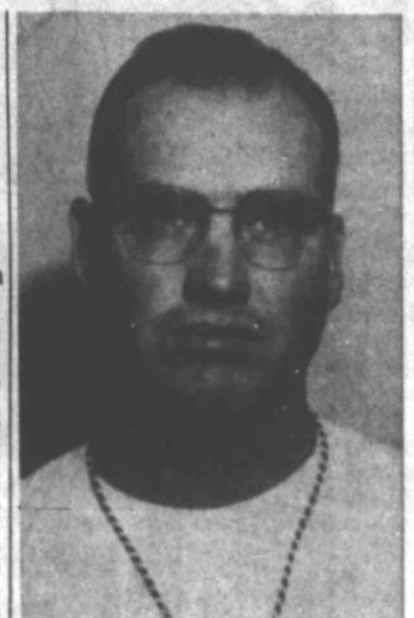

The public can purchase tickets for the program at $2.50 each. Included on the program will be the presentation of the Ted Phillips Sportsmanship awards, one of each going to a member of the high school and juro squads.

LaFollette is well known in this particular area of West Texas, since he formerly coached at Seminole High School.

Metz is a former cage and football standout at West Texas State. The 36-year-old mentor took Seminole to the State Basketball tournament in Class AA four of his last five years there. He developed a state title in 1956 and his Seminole clan was runnerup two years later.

In those five years, LaFollette had a combined coaching record of 130 wins and only 27 defeats and won the district crown all five seasons. His teams won 34 straight games over one stretch.

During his nine years at Seminole, his clubs won 169 games, compared to only 69 defeats.

METZ LaFOLLETTE
LaFollette spent one season at Decatur Baptist College before enrolling at West Texas State in 1942.

His schooling was interrupted by the war. An end in football and a guard in basketball, LaFollette played his last season in 1946-47 and then signed a professional baseball contract.

He performed as a pitcher for Luikin in the Lone Star league and with Amarillo and Lubbock in the old West-Texas-New Mexico circuit before giving it up in 1949.

Metz served as basketball coach at Lockney High School for two years before moving on to Seminole.

After his final season at Seminole, LaFollette was honored by the Texas Coaches Association by being named to direct the North All-Stars in the annual All-Star game at Fort Worth. However, he had to relinquish the post after accepting the job at West Texas.

His teams operate from a double post on offense. He prefers a man-to-man defense.

Players have been invited to bring their dates to the banquet. Coaches and their wives will, of course, also be honored.

Buddy Travis coaches the HCJC team while Vernon Harton is the high school mentor.

Kansas And Oregon Win In NCAA Cage Playoffs

By DON WEISS

Associated Press Sports Writer
Add Kansas and Oregon to the 16-team NCAA regional semifinals, bring in the start of the NIT along with continuing play in the NIAA and NCAA small college competition, and you have that annual alphabetical jumble that spells March Madness in college basketball.
Kansas, beating arch-rival Kansas State in a Big Eight Conference NCAA playoff 84-82 in overtime, and Oregon, a 68-60 winner over New Mexico State in a first round game of the Western Regional, completed the lineup Wednesday night for the Friday-Saturday regional showdowns in the big school NCAA tournament.

Today, the NCAA takes a 24-hour breather while the oldest postseason scuffling, the National Invitation Tournament, gets going for the 23rd time in New York's Madison Square Garden. Eight of the 12-team field can watch from the sidelines while Villanova (19-5) plays Detroit (20-6) and Providence (21-4) faces Memphis State (18-4) tonight in a doubleheader opening the first round.

Bradley, the nation's No. 4 team which holds the season's only victory over top-ranked Cincinnati, heads the four seeded NIT teams followed by Utah State (22-4), St. Louis (19-7) and St. John's (17-7).

Wayne Bonner Resigns Job As Anson Football Coach

ANSON (SC) — Wayne Bonner, one-time assistant football coach at Big Spring High School, resigned his position as head coach at Anson High School Wednesday.

Bonner did not disclose his future plans but indicated he intended to remain in coaching.
Bonner has been head coach at the Class AA school for five years. He was at Big Spring for seven seasons prior to that and was given much credit for helping mould a Steer team that went to the Class AAA finals in 1953.

Big Spring job filled recently by Emmett McKenzie.

WAYNE BONNER
Wayne Bonner resigned his job as head coach at Anson High School Wednesday.

Class AAA started his coaching career at Runge in South Texas in 1947, after graduating from North Texas. He is 37 years of age. The native of Mart also served as head track coach and B team basketball mentor at Anson.
He and his wife, Lucy, have a daughter, Gwynn, age 9.
Anson's three assistant mentors — Roy Langerhans, Tom Burks and Gene Sosabee — all received new contracts.

Plains Produces Near Record Crop

LUBBOCK — Despite delayed plantings and other obstacles, Texas High Plains cotton producers harvested their second biggest cotton crop in history for 1959, according to the latest ginning report figures released by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Census Bureau.

For 1959 the 25 counties on the Texas High Plains harvested and ginned 1,869,353 bales of cotton. This production is second only to the all-time record crop of 1938 when 2,025,433 bales were produced.

Thus 1959 becomes the fifth time in the last 18 years when Texas High Plains cotton production topped the 1½ million-bale mark. Other top years were 1937, with 1,572,380 bales; 1956 with 1,654,904; 1954 with 1,581,148. Also 1949 saw 1,760,940 bales produced on the Plains.

As to top ranking counties in cotton production, Lubbock County in 1959 ranked eighth in the nation with 209,790 bales. Other plains counties included Hale with 180,574, as 10th in the nation; Hockley with 178,398, as 11th in the country; and Lamb, 174,397, as 12th.

Kern County California was No. 1 in the nation with 543,875 bales while Fresno County California was second with 483,873 and Tulare County California was third with 329,264. Maricopa County Arizona was fourth with 254,579. Another California County, Kings, was fifth with 253,842 while Mississippi County in Arkansas was sixth with 242,293. Pinal County Arizona was seventh with 229,646. Hidalgo County in the Rio Grande Valley was ninth with 209,422 bales.

While these ginning figures are not final for 1959, they represent about 99 per cent of the cotton harvested. Final figures will be available at the end of March.

Bracero Hearings

Foster Parents Will Continue Fight To Keep Bright Child

By SAUL PETT
OLD BRIDGE, N.J. (AP)—"Mommy," the child cried suddenly in the middle of the night. "Mommy, are you still there?" Mrs. Richard Combs jumped out of bed and ran into the little girl's room. "Yes, Alice, I'm here," she said. And she patted the child's head and the child went back to sleep.

But Mrs. Combs never got back to sleep. For the rest of the night, she says she lay awake worrying about that sudden flash of terror that shook the sleep of her 4-year-old foster child. How much did the girl now know or begin to suspect?

Had she begun to feel a vague sense of menace in this whole, new, wonderful, exciting confusion of strangers taking her picture and asking her questions and putting her on television?

"I'm still not sure of how much she senses," says Mrs. Combs. Little brown-eyed Alice hasn't been told that the world may be trembling beneath her. That the Combses are not her real parents, that the two younger girls in the house are not her real sisters. That the state child welfare board opposes her adoption by the Combses because, it says, they're not suited for the development of an unusually intelligent child. That three men in a court in Trenton will soon decide whether she remains with the only parents she knows.

"Daddy," asked Alice, "Why are these men taking all these millions and millions of pictures?" "Because you're such a pretty girl."

And that seemed explanation enough, at least in her waking life. Since Sunday night, when the telephone calls started from as far away as California and Canada, Alice has been flying high.

In the excitement, she seldom lights anywhere. She poses for photographers, fitfully answers questions, shows off with wild leaps onto a chair or a bed or into the arms of a reporter. "Alice, what do you want to be when you grow up?" "I want to be a mommy."

"Why?" "No I want to be a cowboy." "What do you like on television?" "Oh, I like 'Captain Jet' and 'Lone Ranger' and 'Sky King' and 'Mighty Mouse' and . . ."

And off she goes, leaping onto another chair. The television set and the small new bookcase loom large in the small parlor of the Combs ranch house.

"The state practically classifies us as TV morons," says Dick Combs, bitterness clouding his youthful red face. "We don't watch it all the time, maybe two hours a night, three or four times a week. So I like 'Paladin' and 'Gunsmoke' and the sports events, am I supposed to be ashamed of that?"

In the opposite corner of the living room stood a small bookcase, only a year old. About a year ago, a social worker complained there were no books in the house, that a child as gifted as Alice needed something more than television.

Today, the bookcase has a strange variety of books—several on child care, a set of an encyclopedia, several children's books, two or three novels and such unexpected nonfiction titles as "How We Drafted Adlai Stevenson"; "International Atomic Policy"; "Brazil—A Study of Inter-American Relations"; "Mind, School and Civilization"; and "Why Stop Smoking?" (neither of the Combses smoke).

After a painful pause, Dick Combs said he had read few of the books. He said they were bought or given to them by friends only for the effect it might have on the social worker. "The books," he said, "were the only front we put on. Otherwise, we've been ourselves. If the state doesn't like the way we live, that's too bad. We'll go on fighting for Alice for the simple reason that we love her and she loves us. Is there a better reason?"

Teacher Fired For Paddlings

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Teacher Bowdan Pashkowsky is under suspension at Langley High School today, accused of paddling 30 male pupils who didn't know the answers.

Principal Harry Book said Wednesday he suspended Pashkowsky, a social science teacher, following a meeting with a delegation of mothers.

Book said Pashkowsky, about 30, became irritated Tuesday when the pupils in the four eighth-grade classes he teaches displayed a profound ignorance of the subject he was teaching them.

Hangs Over Thy Head

It is an empty theatre. A rehearsal is in progress. The director is arguing with the leading man. The leading man is ready to kick the producer. The producer is looking knives at the leading lady—like we said, a rehearsal is in progress. This is the setting for "Hangs Over Thy Head," a one-act play to be staged by Wharton Junior College Friday during the state junior college drama festival being held on the Howard County Junior College campus. A total of six contest presentations by as many colleges will be made.

HCJC Hosts 2-Day Drama Festival

Howard County Junior College plays host today and Friday to the Texas state junior college one-act play contest.

Fred Short, HCJC drama instructor and vice president of the junior college drama association, is in charge of the event.

On schedule today is a reception and dance for all visitors at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Union Building. Entertainment for the reception will be provided by students of Gainesville Junior College drama department with a variety show.

NON-PARTICIPANT

Gainesville, which did not have time to prepare an entry in the contest, will present their variety show as a non-participant member. Stanley B. Woodmansee is director of the Gainesville group, called the Lagniappes.

Each participating school also will present short sketches at the reception.

Another Thursday evening event will be drawing for places on the play schedule. Three plays will be staged after 2 p.m. Friday, three more after 7 p.m.

The 7 p.m. spot has been reserved by HCJC, as host drama departments traditionally do this.

LUNCHEON MEETING Faculty members accompanying students to Big Spring will hold a short business session Friday at noon at the Wagon Wheel Restaurant.

Thursday morning and afternoon were being given over to rehearsals and other last-minute arrangements. The plays will be given through the day Friday, and are open to the public. Admission of 50 cents will entitle stub holders to see all performances.

Doors will be closed, however, while individual plays are onstage. Patrons will be let in or out only when the curtain in HCJC auditorium is closed, to avoid interruptions.

AWARDS DUE

Critic-judge Paul Beardsley, who holds a master's degree in drama from Oklahoma University, will present his critiques and awards Friday night after the final performance.

Beardsley and his wife are active in the acting end of dramatics.

as well as his directing and teaching work. He has had quite a bit of experience in religious pageant work.

The HCJC stage is not equipped with dimmer switches; however rheostats have been tied into the lighting system sufficient for the program.

ACTING IMPORTANT

The contest plays will concentrate on acting, with a bare minimum of props and sets. This is quite normal, Short said, since these plays are for contest purposes and the acting is what makes the play.

Odesa College will present a cutting from "The Rivalry," by Norman Corwin. This play ran successfully on Broadway and on tour, and played here as a part of the last Concert Assn. series.

C. L. Etheridge will direct the play, concerned with the historic Great Debate between Abe Lincoln and Stephen Douglas. Players include Bob James, Sara Van Horn and W. L. Sibley.

CLASSIC FANTASY

Temple Junior College will stage "The Wonder Hat," the Ben Hecht-Thomas Goodman fantasy version starring the classic stage characters of Pierrot, Columbine and Harlequin. Direction is by Mrs. Caroline Summers.

In the cast are Bill Peters, Kahl Dowling and Glenn Davis. Barbara Jones and Joyce Swain are the production crew.

"Whistle, Daughter, Whistle," by Ernest Kinoy, is the one-act play brought by Navarro Junior College. Those in the cast include Roland Dugger, Wanda Barton, Judy Norwood Sandra English, Dickie Lancaster, with Roland Dugger as production crewman.

ANOTHER PLAY

South Plains Junior College of Levelland will present "The Rag Doll," by Eve Bretherton, directed by L. A. Kendrick Jr. In the cast are Judy Cline-Smith, Bob Bowers, Mona Lewis and Kay Morlar, with Beverly Norris and Florence Hancock on the crew.

"Hangs Over Thy Head," by Ruth Angell Punkey, is the selection of Wharton Junior College. Ruth Lemming directs, and the production staff includes Flossy

Brandes, Joe Carl Meyer and William Walter.

The cast includes Le Nora Zackley, Nelson Brown, Rob Wright, Lee Polk, Elaine Wigginton and Steve Jones.

LOCAL PLAY

HCJC's presentation will be a cutting from the three-act play, "The Petrified Forest," by Robert Sherwood.

This play is set in Arizona in the 1930's and concerns a group of citizens and tourists trapped in a roadside inn by a gang of mobsters. The play won the Pulitzer Prize, among other awards, and was made into a successful movie. Short, in selecting scenes for contest staging, has tied the omitted scenes together with narration.

"The Petrified Forest" will be staged in full March 21 and 22. Cast members who will appear in the HCJC cutting are Sherry Coats, Kay Loveland, Mickie Stewart, Tommy Buckner, Harold Henson, Maurice Burnell, Reece Bevers, Charles Morris, Terry Stanley and Toby McClelland.

The crew includes C. L. Graham, Gary Blalock and John Findlater. Short will direct.

Freeze Vanishes

By The Associated Press

Fog and clouds covered most of Texas Thursday morning and temperatures were above freezing throughout the state.

The Panhandle and the area west of the Pecos had nearly clear skies.

Temperatures early Thursday ranged from 36 at Amarillo and Texarkana to 68 at Brownsville.

The forecasts called for showers in East and South-Central portions of the state late Thursday or Friday and temperatures are expected to drop in all areas Friday.

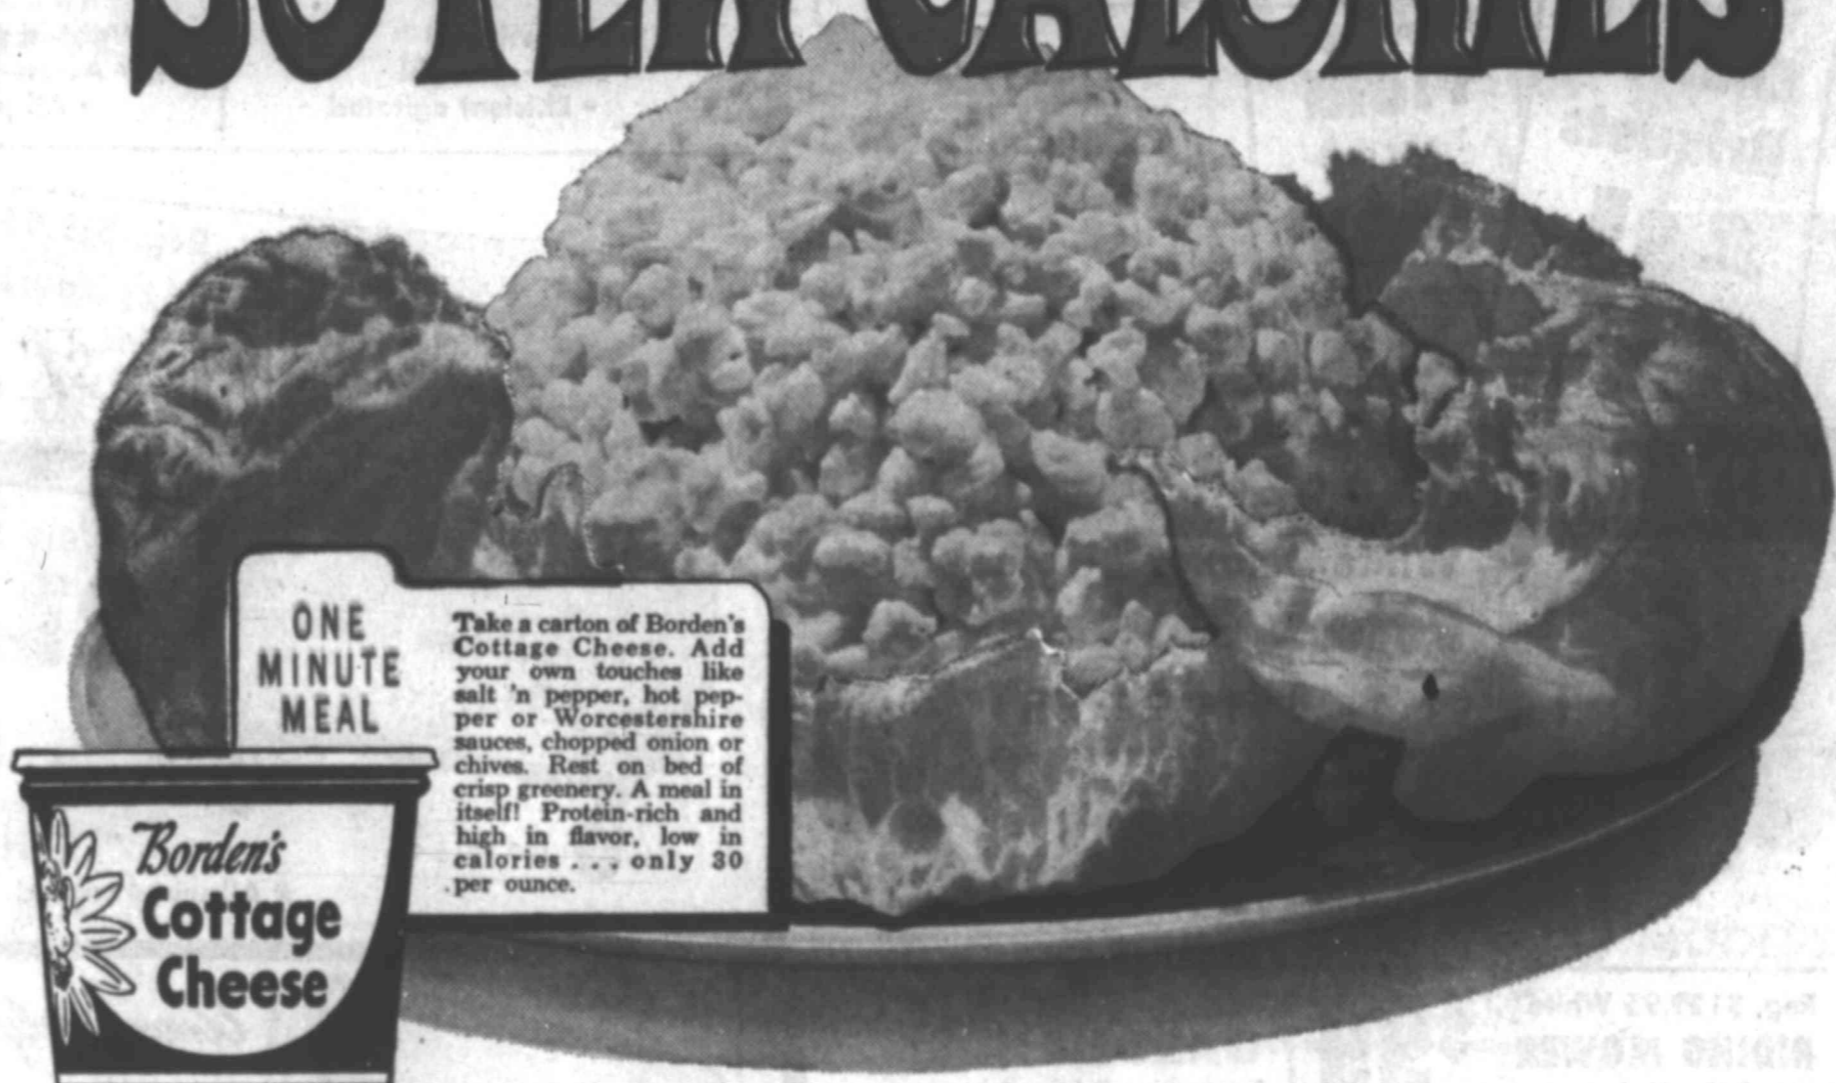

High temperatures Wednesday varied from 93 at Presidio, the warmest spot in the nation, to 53 at Sherman. Most other areas had readings in the 60s or 70s.

Only two points received rain Wednesday — Galveston got .03 inches and Beaumont got .02.

DEAR ABBY

HANG ON

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I can't understand why every man wants me except my own husband.

He never gives me a compliment. He won't say two words to me when we are in a crowd. But he gets mad if another man does. If I smile or talk to other men he says I am making a play for them. He says I am going into my second childhood because I keep myself nice and watch my shape which is pretty nice (I am told) for my age. I am 73 and he is 75 and we have been fighting for 55 years. I have even thought of divorce. I know I could get somebody else. But he couldn't. What should I do?

DEAR STILL: Humor him. Kid him, Flatter him. Baby him. And stick with him. "Better to live with the ill you know than to fly to others you know not of."

DEAR ABBY: I am nine years old and my father is a very nice man but sometimes he talks like he has never been to church. When he hits his finger with a hammer or something like that, he will say a phrase using the Lord's name in vain in it. It goes like "Blankety blank it!" I said it once and my mother had a fit. She said I should say, "Ding bust it!" instead. So while I say "Ding bust it" my father keeps right on saying "Blankety blank it." Is this fair, Abby?

DEAR ROBERT: No, ding bust it! Your father should follow your example.

DEAR ABBY: I am 26. My wife passed away after nine years of a very happy marriage, leaving me with a seven-year-old boy. I have a civil service job and a business on the side which leaves me with very little time to care for my home or boy.

For very practical reasons I need a second wife. I'm lonely and have a lot of love to give. How soon can I start dating again in good taste? When can I marry again without being criticized? This is a small town and people talk. I have no one in mind yet.

POSITIVELY CONFIDENTIAL DEAR POSITIVELY: There is no timetable for true love. It's your happiness and that of your boy that counts. Date her when you see her and marry her if she's the one. And who cares if people talk!

CONFIDENTIAL TO H. L.: You are mistaken. There is something worse than a reformed drunk. One who hasn't reformed yet.

What's your problem? For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of The Big Spring Herald and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Send for Abby's pamphlet, WHAT EVERY TEEN-AGER WANTS TO KNOW, in care of The Big Spring Herald. Enclose a large stamped, self-addressed envelope and 25 cents in coin.

Episcopal Women's List Of Services In Talent Project

By ANNE LEFEVER
Several new services have been added to the talent list which is carried each year by members of St. Mary's Episcopal Guild.

ed services to their original tasks. One of these is Mrs. Shine Phillips, who will make nut bread and has added prune cake. Another is Mrs. Bert Badger, server of Mexican food; she now makes pralines as a delightful dessert for the meal or for any other time.

a needle is Mrs. A. M. Ripps who will make pot holders for you to use or give as presents. "This and That" is listed as the undertaking of Mrs. T. C. Thomas.

Bride-Elect

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Anable of Colorado City are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Linda Nell, to J. B. Davis of Big Spring; he is the son of Mrs. Bruce Davis, 206 Jones, and the late Mr. Davis. A June 2 wedding in the home of the bride's parents is planned.

Heart Fund Assisted By Hyperions

A contribution to the Heart Fund was made by members of the 1965 Hyperion Club when they met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Lloyd Curley; Mrs. Jimmie Morehead was cohostess.

Club Hears Texas Music

Music of Texas composers was presented for The Music Study Club Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J.C. Douglass Jr.

Speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. Richard Patterson, who brought a comparison between painting and music in their creation. She listed four points in which both are alike and discussed each. The two are products, Mrs. Patterson said, of experience, interpretation, assignment or borrowed ideas.

Parliamentary Class

Five members of Boydstun P-TA were present for a lesson in parliamentary practice Wednesday in the home of Mrs. J. H. Homan.

Seamstresses added to the group are Mrs. James Collins, who will whip up a square dress for you, and Mrs. Robert Thomas; prayer veils are her specialty. Mrs. Frank Carter's candied orange and grapefruit peel will add a party air to any gathering; she will also make decorative pillows—usually of lovely soft corduroy.

Busier when the Yule season approaches will be Mrs. E. B. McCormick, who makes decorated Christmas stockings, and Mrs. George Dawson, with her stock of Christmas cards. Another "saleslady" is Mrs. H. M. Compton, who sells stationery as her part of the work.

Cakes of many kinds will be made by Mrs. Tom Helton, and she will also whip up cream puffs so many homemakers fancy but avoid preparing.

DELIGHTFUL FOODS

Heavenly Pie, as made by Mrs. H. L. Weber, really lives up to its name, and the coconut pecan squares, which Mrs. Donald Hungerford will make for you, are worth the calories they add to your diet.

KNITTING

Mrs. F. O. Gebert will relieve you of knitting those "tiny garments," as she makes her needles fly to turn out the diminutive articles. Another person handy with

Many of the products which the women prepare can be frozen easily and will provide you with a comfortable feeling of always being "ready for company."

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

If you are a recipe keeper like I am you have billions that you have always wanted to try out but never have just the right ingredients when the mood hits. All the collection of the years has had probably piled up in a drawer.

Another affair sounds like a pretty one and this is a Pink Tea. It will be given on March 19 at the H.C.J.C. Student Union Bldg.

Spray Them All

Even cedar lined closets and chests should be sprayed with a moth repellent product and sealed.

Luke's Writings Are Study Of Methodists

A new study was begun by members of the First Methodist Wesleyan Service Guild when they met Tuesday evening at the church.

The truths in the Bible and to find a closer relationship to God, translating love into personal life. Preceding the study session, a covered dish supper was served; Mrs. M. R. Turner gave the invocation.

WIC's Hold Luncheon Session

Plans are being made for the area forum of Women in Construction that is to be held in Lubbock Saturday.

The program was presented before a worship center of red velvet centered with a colorful reprint of Christ's journeys and various statuettes, with books relating to the subject. This was arranged by Twila Lomax.

Mrs. Lina Flewellen brought a devotion. Mrs. R. L. Penney discussed the topic "Background of Destiny and Introduction to a Mission." Members were reminded of the conference to be held in Levelland Saturday and Sunday.

A discussion of the Synoptic Gospels was given by Mrs. H. M. Rowe, who told the group that the gospels are personal accounts with each depicting an individual portrait of Christ.

Who's coming to see you this weekend? Are you going to visit someone out of town? What have you heard from the boys and girls who are away at school? Do you have folks who live overseas? What have they been seeing that those of us at home won't have an opportunity to see? Call me at 3-2542 and let us all know about it.

Head table was centered with a picture of a Madonna flanked by candles. Hostesses were Mrs. Ruby Martin, Mrs. Irma Harrison, Mrs. Oma Anderson, Miss Lomax and Mrs. Laura Anderson.

Make an extra special effort to see the High School Follies tonight or Friday. The students have worked up some clever skits and they love to have an audience to show off before.

Use A Lard Can

Nothing provides a better storing place for sweaters during the summer months than a large size tin lard can. Enamel the outside to match the color scheme of room in which it will be placed and paste a miniature sweater on the center of the front, one that has been cut from felt. Be sure that sweaters are absolutely clean and mothproofed; then fold them neatly in the can.

Such a pretty centerpiece for the refreshment table at the Wednesday Night Dance Club when members and guests danced at Cosden, Jay Gynor and his orchestra furnished the music. In a brandy snifter, there were white stock and carnations with shamrocks of green and chenille and bells of Ireland. Lending the real Irish spirit to the arrangement was a genuine clay pipe which came from Nenagh, County Tipperary, Ireland. It belongs to JOHNNY QUIGLEY.

Spring Planting Holds Interest Of Gardeners

Garden Clubs met for study on planting of trees and various types of flowers Wednesday in the homes of members.

band of one of the club's members. The women also signed a card to be sent to Mrs. N. B. Furlong, a member who is now in a Houston hospital.

and perennials at a meeting of the Planters Garden Club Wednesday in the home of Mrs. C. R. McClenny. Annuals, Mrs. Jones told the club, are plants which complete their growing and blossoming cycle the same year that they are planted. They must be renewed each year. Biennials produce only leaves the first year. They are planted, the speaker said, with flowers coming the second year. They sometimes grow and bloom for two to five years.

Mrs. Bruner Elected Head Of Lamesa Club

Garden Club Makes Donation For Roses

A contribution of $25 was given by the Big Spring Garden Club Wednesday morning for the circle of crape myrtle which will encircle the proposed rose garden at City Park. This was the club's observance of Garden Club Week, which is now in progress.

Members of the local club will make decorations for the national convention of garden clubs, slated for Houston on May 8-12; the state convention will be in Dallas on April 19-21. The district conference was announced for Lubbock on March 23-24 and will include a short course.

Child Study Club Hears A. E. Long

Juvenile problems in our city held the interest of Child Study Club members Wednesday afternoon when they heard A. E. Long, juvenile officer, speak.

Long told the group that we are violating God's rules by not taking proper care of our children. Lack of cooperation in the home, the speaker continued, is the biggest problem encountered when helping a problem child.

Add Interest To Your Family's Lenten Meals

It can be easily said that the Lenten period is very demanding of even the most ingenious cook. Favorite recipes for this season are tempting at first but constant repetition over a short period can make even perennial favorites lose their appeal.

Here are some unusual ways to use those trusty Lenten staples, tuna fish and salmon. And the cheese and vegetable dishes are bound to please your family as well. A new product, red-flavored bread crumbs, helps to give each of these dishes a delightfully different taste, or you can flavor bread crumbs with your own spices.

TUNA FISH CELAURO

(Serves 4 to 6)

- 1 tbsp. butter
- 1 tbsp. flour
- 1 c. light cream or top milk
- 1 1/2 oz. can evaporated milk undiluted
- Pinch nutmeg
- 1 7 oz. can chunk style tuna fish
- 3 oz. green noodles
- 1/4 c. commercial sour cream
- 1/4 tsp. coarsely ground black pepper
- 1/2 c. flavored bread crumbs
- 1 tsp. ground lemon peel (or grated lemon rind)
- 1/2 pimento cut in strips

Melt butter over low flame; add flour gradually. Slowly stir in light cream or top milk, evaporated milk and nutmeg. Add tuna fish with all its oil, stirring gently to avoid breaking up chunks of tuna fish too much.

Cook noodles in boiling water for about nine minutes. Drain well. Dress with sour cream and ground pepper and arrange in well buttered casserole. Fill center with creamed tuna fish. Pour flavored bread crumbs over all and sprinkle noodles with grated lemon peel. Garnish tuna with pimento strips. Bake in 375 degrees oven for 15 minutes until top is nicely browned.

SCALLOPED VEGETABLE CASSEROLE

(Serves 4)

- 2 medium-size potatoes
- 2 small (4") zucchini
- 1 medium size (8 oz.) yellow squash
- 1 tbsp. flour
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/4 tsp. freshly ground pepper
- 1 c. milk or chicken broth
- 1/2 c. flavored bread crumbs

In a well buttered casserole or baking dish alternate layers of thinly sliced potatoes, zucchini and yellow squash. Sprinkle top with flour, salt and pepper, and only 1/4 cup of flavored bread crumbs. Pour milk or chicken broth over all and sprinkle top with remaining 1/2 cup of red-flavored bread crumbs. Bake in 400 degree oven for 20 to 30 minutes until potatoes are done.

Suggestion: Use slices of sweet red pepper or pimento as top layer for pretty color accent.

SALMON FRICASSEE

(Serves 6)

- 2 tbsp. butter
- 2 tbsp. flour
- 2 c. liquid (Liquid from cans of salmon plus water)
- 2 7 oz. cans red salmon
- 2 tsp. dry mustard
- Ready-to-bake baking powder biscuits
- 1/2 c. flavored bread crumbs

Over low flame melt butter and add flour gradually, mixing till smooth. Very gradually add liquid (consisting of liquid from salmon and water to equal two cups) to mixture, stirring constantly until very smooth consistency of white sauce is reached (about 8 minutes). Add dry mustard to sauce. Break up salmon in one inch pieces and place in shallow baking dish. Pour sauce over salmon. Brush baking powder biscuits with melted butter and place in ring around baking dish. Sprinkle flavored bread crumbs over all including biscuits. Bake in 400 degrees oven for twelve minutes till biscuits are brown.

SPICY CHEESE TART

(Serves 6)

- 1 1/4 c. flavored bread crumbs
- 4 tbsp. melted butter or margarine

Filling:

- 1 c. cottage cheese
- Juice and grated rind of 1 lemon
- 1 1/2 tsp. finely minced parsley
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 c. milk
- Pinch of rosemary

Mix one cup of the flavored bread crumbs with 3 tbsp. of the melted butter or margarine. (Reserve the remaining crumbs and melted butter for later). Line sides and bottom of 8-inch tart tin (straight edge pan) with crumb and butter mixture and let stand while preparing the filling.

To cottage cheese add juice and grated rind of lemon, parsley, and eggs beaten with milk and rosemary. Spoon carefully into pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes. Mix remaining crumbs with melted butter and sprinkle over baked cheese tart. Turn off heat and let stand in oven about an hour to cool, for easier cutting.

Serving Suggestion: As a luncheon dish it can be served with a crisp salad or with a hot dish such as asparagus Hollandaise or a Spanish omelet. It can also be served as an accompaniment to meat in place of potato.

Ride 'Em Cowboys! Astride the wild-eyed stallion is 3-year-old Gary Bruce and his 2-year-old brother, Chris Randall. Handling the "critter" for the rough-and-tough cowboys is their mother, Mrs. Bruce Dunn. The Dunn brothers "stable" their boss at 1317 Sycamore.

Funny Experience Starts Mrs. Dunn's Cooking Art

By SHERI WEBBER

"I couldn't cook a thing before I was married!" confesses Mrs. Bruce Dunn.

After their honeymoon Jean Dunn started to prepare dinner for her new bridegroom. Time: 5 p.m. — dinner was served at 9 p.m.

"He was patient," laughs Mrs. Dunn when telling of her husband's reaction to his new wife's first dinner. "He sat in the living room reading until 9 p.m. By the time dinner was on the table he was quite willing to eat!"

Mrs. Dunn's problem was cooking one thing at a time then setting it aside, she realizes now. In eight years of marriage the young housewife has had plenty of experience with meal preparation.

Both of the Duns are natives of El Paso. They met while attending MYF at a Methodist Church.

The family has increased to four now. Gary Bruce is an active, quick-witted 3-year-old that his mother calls a "race horse." Jean says Chris Randall, 2, "takes after his father. He has a 'sweet' disposition."

Children have always interested Mrs. Dunn, a graduate of Texas Western College in El Paso. She majored in art and minored in English for her bachelor's degree.

For two years the blue-eyed housewife taught the first and second grades. Her first year of teaching she thoroughly enjoyed, but the second wasn't as pleasant because of the overcrowded class rooms. The school was on a half-day system because of overcrowding, and Mrs. Dunn had to teach 40 children in half a day.

The Duns moved to Big Spring last summer when Bruce became the director of public works. Since that time they have become active in a number of organizations, and Jean is a member of the American Association of University Women, Kiwanis-Queens, Fannie Hodges Circle of the First Methodist Church, and the latest project is square dancing with the Big Spring Squares.

Fish is a favorite with the Duns, and Jean has given recipes that employ sea food. These are ideal for use during this Lenten season.

Perfect Lenten Plate With Creamy Spinach

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

What makes the difference between a vegetable plate your family will look on with indifference and one with which they'll be enchanted? Shape and texture contrast are important. Imagine a vegetable plate with everything on it mashed! Some vegetables should be served whole or halved, some cut evenly in fairly large pieces and some may be finely chopped or mashed.

Color next. At least one green vegetable is the rule. Spinach, snap beans, green lima beans and peas all taste good and look attractive with such yellow vegetables as yams, Hubbard squash and carrots or such pale ones as Irish potatoes and white turnips. A vegetable plate that usually entices includes grilled tomatoes, topped with melting gold cheese, broiled mushrooms, candied sweet potatoes and a loaf made from frozen spinach. The loaf stays a pretty green because the spinach is dehydrated and drained, then added uncooked.

SPINACH LOAF

2 pkgs. (10 ounces each) frozen chopped spinach

- 2 tbsps. butter or margarine
- 2 tbsps. flour
- 1 1/2 tbsps. instant minced onion
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/4 to 1/2 tsp. nutmeg
- Pepper
- 3/4 cup undiluted evaporated milk
- 1/2 cup spinach water
- 4 eggs (slightly beaten)

Defrost spinach and drain, pull apart with fork but do not press down.

Melt butter in a medium-sized saucepan over low heat; stir in flour, onion, salt, nutmeg and a dash of pepper. Add undiluted evaporated milk and water; cook and stir constantly until thickened and bubbly. Turn drained spinach into hot sauce and mix well over low heat. Stirring as you do so, pour some of the spinach mixture over the slightly beaten eggs; return to saucepan and mix well. Turn into a buttered baking dish (10 by 6 by 1 1/2 inches). Bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven 45 minutes or until it looks set and firm on top. Remove from oven and allow to stand 10 minutes. Cut in squares and remove with wide spatula or pancake turner. Serve at once. Makes 8 servings.

Winter Dessert Is Fresh, Fancy

Lift a winter menu out of the doldrums with a summertime dessert.

To do this we combined fresh, canned and frozen fruit and served them with watermelon sherbet. No watermelon at this time of year? Use a package of the new watermelon-flavored gelatin to make the ice. This is a whole-family dessert. Older folks who watch calories will enjoy the fruit; small fry will go for the sherbet.

The fruit combination will benefit if you prepare it attractively. Take fresh pineapple; find that quartering it and then removing the pulp is easier than cutting away the rind and "eyes" from the whole fruit. Bananas look pretty when you run the sharp prunes of a fork down them, after peeling, and then cut them crosswise so the slices have a fluted effect.

WINTER FRUIT MEDLEY

1 large ripe pineapple

- 1 can (1 lb. and 13 oz.) dark sweet cherries, drained
- 2 bananas, orange or lemon juice
- 1 pkg. (16 oz.) frozen melon balls

Twist green leaves from pineapple; cut into quarters lengthwise. Run knife between shell and pulp; remove pulp and dice; add to drained cherries. Slice bananas crosswise and dip in orange juice; add. Have melon balls thawed but still frosty and mix with other fruit. Turn into pretty serving dish. Serve with scoops of Watermelon Sherbet. Makes 8 servings.

WATERMELON SHERBET

1 pkg. (3 oz.) watermelon-flavored gelatin

- 1 1/4 cups milk
- 2 cups half and half cream
- 1/2 cup frozen lemonade concentrate

Add gelatin to boiling water; stir until dissolved. Stir in milk, cream, a dash of salt and lemonade concentrate (as it comes from the can); stir until concentrate dissolves. Turn into an 8 by 8 by 2-inch pan or ice cube tray and freeze at coldest temperature until ice crystals are 1-inch deep around pan edges. Remove from pan to chilled bowl; beat at highest speed of electric mixer until smooth but not melted. Return to pan and freeze until firm. Makes 8 servings.

Sauerkraut Has Touch Of Fancy

Like the German dish of sauerkraut and apples? Then try this similar new twosome.

TRENE'S SAUERKRAUT

- 2 tbsps. butter or margarine
- 2 medium-sized onions (chopped medium-fine)
- 1 pound bulk sauerkraut
- 1 tsp. dark brown sugar
- 2 tbsps. currants (washed in hot water and drained)

Melt butter in 8- or 10-inch skillet; add onion and brown lightly, stirring often. Add sauerkraut, brown sugar and currants; mix well.

Cook gently, stirring several times, for 10 to 20 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Exotic Flavoring Highlights Beans

A Chinese flavoring touch makes green beans delightfully different.

MIMI'S GREEN BEANS

- 1 pound snap beans
- 1 cup boiling water
- 3/4 tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. light brown sugar
- 1 tsp. soy sauce
- 1 tsp. butter
- 1 can (5 ounces) water chestnuts (cut in strips near the side of the beans)

Choose young narrow beans; cut away ends; scrub in cold water. Cut in about 1-inch lengths with slanted ends.

Cook rapidly in medium-sized saucepan with water and salt until barely tender — about 7 minutes; cover but lift cover a few times to help keep beans green. Drain off any liquid by holding cover over pan.

Push beans to side of pan; add sugar, soy sauce and butter; stir mixture over low heat to blend; mix with beans. Add water chestnuts and reheat. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Note: If beans are wide, cut in half lengthwise before slicing into short pieces.

In New Post

A prominent Texas home economist, Mrs. Albertine Berry Castle, has been named director of home economics for the Gladiola-flour people. She will have charge of recipe testing and development, and assist in quality testing and control of product. Mrs. Castle, the former Albertine Berry, was named Texas Home Economist of the Year in 1956. She has held offices in home economics and nutrition associations. A North Texas State College graduate, she has been home economist for major utility companies and has done radio work.

Ventilating Unit

Exhibited at a recent convention of home builders was a central home ventilating unit. It permits central ventilation of kitchens and bathrooms in new or already constructed homes. Based on the idea that today's construction locates bathrooms and kitchens as close together as possible, the new product uses a compact central blower to pull air from as many as three different areas.

If we made Gladiola Flour for Sharpeye, O...

Just Texas and a little bit more—that's Gladiola Land. Here live the best home bakers in America—known far and wide for their biscuits, cakes and pies.

Naturally, when it comes to flour, these ladies are hard to please. We have to make Gladiola Flour their way—or else. It keeps us on our toes, but it's worth it. Every day, every year, Gladiola outsells every other brand.

Folks in Sharpeye, O., have to be satisfied with something less, but you don't. Gladiola quality is your best bargain in flour. Remember—snow-white Gladiola costs, the average family, only about 1/2¢ a day more than the cheapest flour at your store.

'On The Beach' Magnificent Story Of Quiet Courage In Face Of Doom

Is fact beginning to catch up with science fiction?
The earliest works of Jules Verne predicted things which only recently have come to pass, about a hundred years later. More recent works have narrowed the gap between the prediction and the reality, in many cases to only a few years.
Projection of present trends or possibilities into the future is one of science fiction's main methods. It was such a projection that the late Nevil Shute used in his best-seller, "On The Beach," in which he wrote about the end of mankind.

The year of the story was 1964—only four years into the future. The method of annihilation was nuclear fallout—a method of destruction that has been in existence for several years, and which even now could conceivably wipe out all life on this earth.

WORLD BUYS IT
Stanley Kramer, one of the present generation's most articulate film makers, snatched up the rights to "On The Beach" after reading it on galley proofs. With screen writer John Paxton, he filmed Shute's story almost without change, and the result is a film that already has earned many critics' nominations as best picture of the year—certainly the best in its class ever made—and is breaking box office records.

The story of "On The Beach" is that of a handful of people in Melbourne, Australia, awaiting the deadly winds that will carry the clouds of fallout to them. The world has been wiped out by a nuclear war, set off accidentally by the power-mad dictator of a tiny and unimportant nation—a thing that could happen easily enough—and all save the far lands of the Southern Hemisphere have gone under.

TRAPPED PEOPLE
There is the American skipper, played by Gregory Peck, commander of an atomic submarine who stands by as only a dedicated officer can; Fred Astaire, the young scientist whose reaction to doom is to indulge his boyish whim; Ava Gardner, the sinful girl who takes to the bottle as her only escape from a maddening situation; Anthony Perkins and Donna Anderson, a happy young couple who go on as if nothing were to happen.

The spectator sees no war, no fighting, no piles of dead—no ghastly things. But he knows his world is not there, and it gives him an eerie feeling. He identifies easily with the characters on the screen, and begins to feel with them the relentless and inexorable move toward that inevitable doom which does not panic but brings resignation.

CHARACTER DEPTH
What makes the drama real is not only the technical and scientific accomplishment, but the depth of the characters.

What the spectator does see is a lonely, confused bird; a deserted coastal city as seen from a submarine's periscope; the Salvation Army's banner reading, "There is Still Time, Brother," snapping helplessly in the wind. The finale is hushed and awesome, with an air of finality that has left audiences equally hushed, and thoughtful.

The death of the world is a haunting theme, and it will haunt the viewer until the day he dies—of old age, or fallout. Kramer, from a technical viewpoint alone, has filmed a masterpiece. The film exhausts one's emotions as few films do, and devastates the smug intellect.

TOO CLOSE FOR COMFORT
I do not have so little faith in the American people to believe that they cannot take it—that they will childishly insist on not seeing "On The Beach" because it is depressing. Most films are at the first-grade level, but the public is not. The story is deep and meaningful, but it can be and is easily understood. Perhaps in more normal times, people can hide their heads, but the possibilities on which "On The Beach" is based are too close for that.

If anything, the story has an up-lifting quality one does not find in the song-and-dance romantic comedy. Its theme is not the death-wish. This story of the ultimate doom tries to say that man is worth saving, after all; that life is worth living, and let's not toss it away in madness.

TOUCHES OF HUMOR
It's not all depressing, for there are touches of humor. No artificially designed slapstick, but the kind of humor that brings a feeling of kinship to the characters on the screen, along with the chuckle.

Kramer changed only two points in the book, and these were done only because he believed an American audience otherwise wouldn't buy it. There was a religious theme in the book, but it was too subtle for the Americans with a revival-type heritage; and Kramer thought his audiences would never quite believe the submarine skipper's character, in which the sailor accepts the death of the world but cannot accept the deaths of his wife and children back in Connecticut; even though this thesis is in perfect keeping with psychological knowledge.

But these are minor criticisms. "On The Beach" is magnificent, the kind you should see from the first. It would be a pity to miss it. The film shows at the Ritz beginning Saturday.

Some Vital Questions Overlooked By Congressional Video Probers

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A few questions overlooked by the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee and others of a quizzical nature:

Why can't Madison Square Garden find a ring announcer who can pronounce the word "athletic," as in New York Athletic Assn., in less than four syllables? Why don't those pretty TV weather chicks slow down their delivery to hurricane force? The Canadian highs mingling with the Montana lows, always push the pollen count into the Caribbean before they come up for air. Yet, on the other hand, they make an elocutionary death march out of the commercials.

Why doesn't the D.A. on "Perry Mason" wise up and solve those mysteries the way we do? Just count the lines given each actor. The one with the least invariably did it. In recent months this formula failed only twice. Both times the commercial won.

Why doesn't somebody toss a guttural ball on "Jackpot Bowling" and give the rest of us a reason to go on living? What will become of all the rusty razor blades used in that new underwater shaving cream commercial?

If Horton Foote really understood that William Faulkner story he scripted for this week's "Playhouse 90," why didn't he tell somebody? From our side of the screen it appeared to be a documentary on wood: How to cut it, pile it, carry it. Actor Richard Boone spent the first hour totting wood in and out of a cabin, while muttering monosyllabic little nothings to grunting, groaning Kim Stanley.

Why don't Perry Como, Bing Crosby, Pat Boone and Dinah Shore sing the songs the way Richard Rodgers, Irving Berlin, Cole Porter, etc. wrote them? Or else collectively change the name of their shows to "Numb That Tune?"

Won't it be fun when Mary Ann Mobley tells how she managed to leave the "Be Our Guest" show and come back without having gone to Hong Kong?

Why doesn't Robert Kennedy give his brother, Sen. John, the name of his barber?

And while we're on the subject, how come David doesn't give Ricky Nelson the name of his barber?

Recommended Tonight: Ernie Ford Show, NBC 9:30-10 Eastern Standard Time, with Odette, folk singer.

Cynthia Lowry, who regularly writes the TV-Radio column, is ill.
