They Intended To Wreck The Building

All these two 8-year-olds had to say when police arrived at the Lohrop School annex in Omaha, Neb., and put a stop to a rampage that wrecked several rooms, was "we intended to wreck the whole building." Here they walk out of one of the rooms as a policeman watches. Schoolmen would only say that the damage was "way over $1,000."

The basement was nearly flooded from faucets turned wide open on the first floor and paint and foodstuffs were thrown against walls. (AP Wirephoto.)

PLACE CLOSURES DOWN

Negro Sitdowners Hit Marshall Store

MARSHALL (AP)—Nine Negro college students and a professor in a Negro college sought service Saturday at a Woolworth lunch counter. The manager first closed the counter and then the store. Officers swarmed to the variety store when the sitdown began at 10 a.m. The store was closed at 10:30 a.m. but reopened later. Deputy Sheriff M. R. Rippey took the names of four of the demonstrators and identified them all as from Bishop or Wiley Colleges, both located in this far East Texas city. Their home towns all were listed as outside Texas.

There was no violence. The Negroes left quietly when the store closed. The men came into the store through two entrances and sat on lunch counter stools. Negroes in mid-afternoon sought to be served at the union bus terminal and a second time at the Woolworth store.

At each place they were told the lunch counters were closed, and the Negroes left quietly. Eight or nine appeared at each place but officers could not determine whether there were two groups or one group going to two places.

Officers prowled throughout the town, prepared to deal with any violence before it could get well under way. All sheriff's, police and state highway patrolmen available were on duty.

In the morning demonstration at Woolworth's, the men came into the store through two entrances and sat on lunch counter stools. Store Manager W. W. Hall said 20 minutes later that "I think every peace officer in the county is here." He said the demonstration was "passive."

Other protests of segregated eating facilities have occurred at Houston, Waco and Galveston but the lunch counters were not integrated. About 30 San Antonio stores voluntarily integrated about 10 days ago.

Deputy Rippey identified the professor as D. A. Wilkerson, a teacher at Bishop College, who gave his home town as Kansas City.

The deputy listed others as R. J. Peabody, Wiley College, from East St. Louis, Ill.; Donald Jerome Gulguyard, Bishop College, from Orlando, Fla.; and Mark B. Hammon Jr., Bishop College, from Wichita, Kan.

Students have been carrying on quiet demonstrations at the two colleges most of the week, displaying anti-discrimination signs. While the variety store protest sitdown was under way, about 100 Negro students gathered at Wiley

College and sang religious and patriotic songs. Marshall's population is about 50,000. Figures in 1950 showed that 51.7 per cent of the population of Marshall and the surrounding county was Negro.

Africans Win Point; Passes Are Withdrawn

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—South Africa backed down Saturday on its requirement that Negroes must carry passbooks and show them whenever police demand.

National police headquarters in Pretoria announced police had been instructed not to ask black Africans to produce their reference books or arrest them for nonpossession of these documents.

The statement explained the Negroes were afraid to carry such books "as a result of intimidation" and so "it has been decided to ease the tension." It said that as far as possible, police would make use of warnings before hailing anybody to court.

The militant Pan Africanist Congress has been campaigning since Monday against the white-imposed system requiring nonwhites day and night to carry pass reference books—somehow like passports for internal use — and present them on demand.

The campaign started with crowds of Negroes marching to police stations without passbooks in the hope of getting arrested and clogging the wheels of justice. Police fired into crowds at some points, and scores were killed and more than 200 wounded.

The police announcement came as spreading strikes crippled sections of South Africa's cape peninsula. Sullen, passive resistance continued in the Vereeniging industrial area, where the most serious shooting occurred.

Anti-Nationalist newspapers have been demanding that Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's government make some friendly gesture toward Africans. A Johannesburg Nationalist newspaper said this week the government had been studying some substitute for the pass system.

Mangaliso Sobukwe, 35, president of the Pan Africanist Congress, charged in Johannesburg Magistrates' Court Saturday that some of the men arrested with him had been assaulted by white police "both within and outside Johannesburg jail."

Sobukwe, who launched the anti-pass campaign, was arraigned with 23 others in his movement on charges of incitement and contravening a section of the pass laws. They were held to appear in Johannesburg Regional Court April 4.

Passes first were instituted by English governors to control idle, marauding Africans. The system now in force began in 1934 with a requirement that Negroes carry wherever they left their reserves to travel in rural regions.

By 1952 each male African had to carry 30 documents, but the Nationalist government then substituted a single reference book, including an identity card, a tax receipt, and a work record.

AIR FORCE CHANGE

SAGE Center Here Appears Doomed

A drastic change in Air Force planning has very likely eliminated the once-proposed SAGE center at Big Spring.

This was a consensus gathered unofficially Saturday, although no authority could be reached for a definite statement. The Air Force Friday announced it is cancelling plans to build certain combat centers in the SAGE system, which was designed as a warning system in defense of manned aircraft. Tied into the SAGE system was the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile, which has been a poor performer, and which the Air Force is virtually writing off.

It is taking money originally earmarked for the Bomarc and for SAGE, and putting this into other phases of the missile program. Some two years ago, the Air Force indicated that one of the SAGE (the letters are for Semi-Automatic Ground Environment) centers would be constructed at Webb Air Force Base, as a sort of related mission with the Continental Defense Command's fighter-interceptor squadron here. However, money was never forthcoming for the installation, and regular inquiries to military authorities brought increasingly indefinite answers. Apparently the SAGE-Bomarc system has either been unsatisfactory, or else rapid advances in technology have made this system obsolete even before units could be built.

The Air Force announcement said that about a half billion dollars, transferred from the Bomarc and SAGE systems, will be used this year and next, chiefly to:

- 1. Speed up work on the Midas reconnaissance satellite system for swift interception of enemy ICBMs.
2. Accelerate the land-based ballistic missile early warning system.
3. Boost the number of Atlas ICBMs and launching pads, possibly expanding some squadrons from 10 to 15 rockets.
Not including the Bomarc missile cutback announced Friday, the Defense Department has canceled about $3,165,000,000 in procurement contracts since July 1, 1957.
The Air Force, which has done the biggest amount of buying, has had the largest total in cancellations, approximately $2,580,000,000.

SWASTIKA BLAMED

U.S. Army Train Delayed By Reds

BERLIN (AP)—Soviet guards stopped a U. S. Army train at the East German border Saturday because they said they saw a swastika scrawled in the dust on one of the cars. They finally let it go on to Berlin after more than 15 hours of argument.

A U. S. officer said the train finally had cleared through the Marienborn check point at 5:45 p. m. for the four-hour run across 110 miles of Communist territory to isolated West Berlin.

The train, which runs daily from Bremerhaven on the North Sea, was halted at 2:40 a. m. to the Americans at the time, the swastika the Soviet officials said they had seen looked more like a child's drawing of a face, but the Russians insisted on holding the train until a Red army colonel appeared, three hours later.

He and the American train commander went over the train together and this time, both saw a swastika. The American suggested removing it and letting the Russian go on. Nyet, said the Russian. It had to go back to West Germany.

The American refused and set the emergency brake. East German locomotives were hitched on to drag it to the West. Then, according to the American version of the story, the train commander released the emergency brake to prevent damage.

At Helmstedt, the West German border point, German railwaymen said they had found several small swastikas scratched into the paint of a refrigerator car, apparently some time ago. So workmen today covered them with white paint.

The train finally left Helmstedt for Marienborn. There, it took about an hour to get the routine clearance from Soviet officials.

Heavy Rain Hits State

By The Associated Press Heavy thundershowers splashed scattered parts of South Texas Saturday, causing minor flash flooding at times.

A thunderstorm with hail and vivid lightning spilled half an inch of rain in seven minutes on some parts of San Antonio just before noon, trapping several motorists at flooded intersections. Police barricaded 30 intersections for a while. Hail as large as marbles fell, but no damage was reported.

A city bus stranded at an underpass and it took a while to free it. A woman, caught in swirling waters at an intersection, was rescued by persons using a garden hose as a life line. In the same area, two men climbed atop their cars until the water subsided.

A heavy thunderstorm drenched Corpus Christi after noon after rains in the six hours to midday measured .95 of an inch. Victoria had a heavy rain in a thunderstorm in the afternoon.

Early in the morning, rain measuring up to 2.85 inches flooded the area 10 miles west of Karnes City, 55 miles southeast of San Antonio. The water overflowed roads.

Heavy showers also fell at dawn at Palacios and Brownsville. Light rain or drizzle extended over wide areas of Central and East Texas. Skies were clear or clearing over most of West Texas but overcast in the rest of the state.

Synagogue Is Bombed; Youth Admits Crime

GADSDEN, Ala. (AP)—Remorseless and almost boastful, Jerry Earl Hunt, 16, told police Saturday a grudge against "Jewish swine" led him to stage a fire-bomb and rifle attack on a synagogue Friday night.

Two men were wounded, one seriously, by the rifle fire. Hunt described himself as a student of Nazism.

Adults who knew him described him as an above-average student, an active church member, a member of the school band, a boy with no record of trouble-making.

"We all knew he had a Nazi armband and read books about Hitler," said Vincent Bria, director of the Etowah County High School band, "but we thought it was just a phase that would pass."

Police picked up a red armband with a swastika on it when they arrested him in a hotel room in the pre-dawn hours. Circuit solicitor Charles Wright said the slim, crew-cut blond boy, held on two counts of assault with intent to murder, had admitted the assault on the synagogue.

"He shows no remorse," said Wright. "In fact, he seems fairly proud of the act."

The boy told police he had begun planning the attack several weeks ago when he and two Jewish boys exchanged sharp words over his possession of the swastika armband at a school chess tournament.

Earlier last week he told friends of his plot, but nobody took him seriously. The fire bomb, a soft-drink bottle filled with gasoline, went awry. It struck a stained glass window of the Beth Israel Reform Congregation synagogue and burst into flames, but it failed to break through the wire mesh in the glass and fell to the ground.

When two members of the congregation ran out to investigate, they met a spray of rifle bullets. Alan Cohn, 35, was wounded in the chest and back. His condition was listed as critical. Alvin Low, 64, suffered a hand wound.

Police found seven spent shells outside the synagogue. About 180 persons were in the synagogue on the outskirts of Gadsden's business district, attending dedication ceremonies for a new wing.

Police focused their search on Hunt after they had found a car belonging to his stepfather abandoned about 10 blocks from the synagogue. The car contained a .22-caliber rifle.

"Hunt's stepfather helped us all he could all the way," said Police Commissioner M. T. Mashburn. "He led us to places where we might find the boy."

Stevens Persists He Is Not Guilty

By FINIS MOTHERHEAD AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—Embattled Randall County Judge Roy Joe Stevens, smothered in charges of corruption and mis-conduct in office, resigned Saturday.

Stevens, 37, handles his resignation to a Randall County Commissioner, J. Y. Johnson, and asked that Johnson distribute it to the press. He said he was quitting because he feared his "effectiveness as your county judge" had been destroyed. Stevens was the principal target of a three-day crime and vice investigation by the Texas House General Investigating Committee.

Besides Stevens, four sheriff's officers and a district attorney faced the problem of clearing themselves, if they can, of charges they violated their fellow citizens' trust.

It was the collective headache left by the investigation which revealed what was termed sensational and shameful conditions by the committee members. The lawmakers, baring only part of the things turned up in two years of mostly secret digging, in effect declared:

"Here's a sordid mess. What are you going to do about it?" Stevens did something first. His resignation is effective April 1 and will be formally presented to the Randall County Commissioners Court Monday at 10 a.m.

"This resignation," he said, "is not to be construed as an admission of guilt of any of the charges, allegations, and insinuations that have been made against me. I feel however that it is for the best interest of the citizens of the county, under present conditions, I withdraw from office."

Stevens said Saturday he was not through that he would do something about the charges leveled against him. "They've accused me of everything in the Texas Penal Code," he remarked.

Even more searching investigations by county grand juries may be in the future. Some community leaders talked of hiring a special prosecutor to help gather and present evidence.

TWO COUNTIES While Amarillo is the Potter County seat, much of the city stretching across a 24 mile County line, and the inquiry affected residents of both counties. More than 150,000 people live in this bustling center of the Texas Panhandle.

Headed by Rep. H. J. Blanchard of Lubbock, the committee closed a sensation-packed hearing Friday with sharp censure for Randall County Judge Roy Joe Stevens.

After hearing Stevens explode that testimony against him was "nothing but a character assassination," the lawmakers methodically recorded a mountain of evidence.

They heard witnesses accuse the gaunt county judge, 37, and father of 5, of intimacies and drinking parties with under-age girls in his private law office here; murder threats against an associate crossing him; links with gamblers, prostitutes and pornographic picture taking; and plots—never carried out, according to the evidence—for bombing and blackmail.

At the winding of the committee suggested that Stevens, since he also is juvenile judge, was open to (1) charges of official misconduct, (2) unethical practices as a lawyer because witnesses said he spent 90 per cent of his time in private legal work while neglecting public duties, and (3) questionable relations with known criminals.

There likewise is clear evidence, committee members asserted, of organized gambling and protection payoffs in Amarillo for at least a decade. They pointed to Lester Davis, a gambler with a long police record, as the central figure. At last report, Davis was in Oklahoma City.

Davis' wife Golda—who said she defied his threat to "blow me in two with a shotgun" after a cruel beating—proved a bombshell witness. A trim ex-prostitute in her mid-40s, she told of seeing four Potter County sheriff's deputies collect money every week for keeping her husband's big-stake dice, poker and blackjack games undisturbed.

$500 PER WEEK Mrs. Davis testified a share in the payoffs, totaling $500 a week for four to five years, likewise went to Amarillo Dist. Atty. Wayne Bagley through B. F. Arch Archer Jr., an Amarillo lawyer. She said, however, that she never saw Bagley receive any money.

Like Stevens, all the other public officials and Archer denied any guilt. Present or former sheriff's deputies named by Mrs. Davis are Curtis Travis, G. E. Bufkin, T. H. Nall and W. W. Riner.

House probers said most of their witnesses, except those entering denials, took lie detector tests prior to the hearing or agreed to undergo tests. Summing up findings, the committee noted that its assigned task is to seek out and recommend cures for weak spots in the Texas statutes. It declared in a statement of its arrival, up in advance of his arrest, up

$100 Waits For Best Guess On City's Census

The federal head-count will be starting in another few days. And what will be the official 1960 population of Big Spring?

You can take a guess—and if you hit closest to the official federal report, you'll be $100 richer.

It's all because of a simple contest, sponsored by The Herald and Big Spring's three radio stations, just to see "How big is Big Spring?"

Make your own estimate as to number of persons living in the corporate limits, put this figure, with your name and address, on a government postcard, and mail it to "How Big is Big Spring," Contest, Box 1391.

Only one entry per person will be accepted. Your entry has to be put on a post card. In case of ties, the first postmark wins, so it will be well to submit your census guess right away. Entries must be postmarked not later than Sunday, April 10.

The contest is open to anybody, except official census workers, and staff members of the sponsoring organizations and their families.

Nothing to it! Just turn in your idea of how Big Spring officially is. And be sure you're counted in the forthcoming census!

Right Kids; Wrong Name

FORT WORTH (AP)—An Arlington mother found out Saturday she had been calling her pretty twin daughters, Joyce and Janis, by the wrong names for 11 years.

Mrs. James Metcalf discovered that Joyce is Janis and Janis is Joyce.

The identification was made by comparison of footprint records, which were examined by Jack Green of the Arlington police. "There's no doubt about it. They're mixed up," Green said after taking footprint tests of the smiling girls.

When Mrs. Metcalf learned of the mistake, she said: "I feel sick. We will tell them later, but we want to do it gently."

Good Grief!

I just don't think I can stand to wait for that wonderful Open House on April 3.

Reviewing The Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle It's wrong to look a gift horse in the mouth, but at this time of the year perfect spring weather almost makes us uneasy; we always wonder what may follow it. But we could hardly ask for better than we have had for the past week, including a refreshing shower. Spring is budding rapidly—the rebuds are breaking out and forsythia is in full bloom along with most fruit trees.

This will be remembered as the week of long lines. Based on last year's totals, Mrs. Viola Robinson, tax assessor-collector, figures some 8,000 automobiles are to be registered between now and Thursday evening. There's just no way around it.

TRADE WINDS

Implement, Building Activities Are Slow

The farm implement business has been in the doldrums since about the first of February. Local dealers said business was good during the first part of the winter, but when the icy weather hit in February, sales dropped off.

"We're hoping it will pick up after a few warm days," one dealer said. "Nearly all farmers have their land put up and are just marking time. When the weeds start and knifing gets under way, we may get a temporary rush."

Dealers say that the area implement salesmen are finding business dull all over West Texas. Few new tractors are being sold. Everyone is hoping the weather check will, but no one is sure of the exact course.

Fred Kasch said, "and is well suited to such things as warehouses and similar types of large buildings."

Kasch says the construction business seems slow in Big Spring, but is holding up in other towns. The cities where building is booming are Lubbock, Odessa, Midland and Andrews.

In fact, he recently made a bid on a new three million dollar high school in Andrews, which is to be completed by September 1961. He said it was his understanding that the present high school building would be used for a junior high.

Gardeners Busy

The garden center owners greeted warm weather with great enthusiasm. Business had come to a standstill for awhile, and though much of it was merely postponed, some sales were lost for the year.

"We lost a lot of tree sales," said Jimmy Eason. "People put it off until almost too late. For shrubs and other plants, we can still make up for those cold weeks."

At the Springhill Nursery sales on trees were also slow. Mrs. P. D. Ware says this is getting late for the bare-rooted trees, but anything in cans or burlap can still be planted with safety. She says business has picked up considerably within the last week or two.

Stamps To Stay

The trading stamp craze is no longer a passing fad, but seems firmly entrenched in American business. A check at two local redemption centers revealed that more and more merchants are using stamps to lure new customers and keep the old ones.

A few merchants have stopped using stamps, but it is usually only temporary. Mrs. Joyce Smith, local Green Stamp manager, said that last year several service station operators stopped using stamps, but all except one have resumed the practice.

"Stamps are a lot of trouble," said the manager of a large grocery store, "but I couldn't afford to stop them. I'd lose a fourth of my customers the first week."

At least five major trading stamps are being used in Big Spring, in addition to a few minor ones. One of the newest ones is Frontier Stamps, which was started here when Furr's opened. Frontier now covers many parts of Texas, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona, according to local manager Mrs. Evelyn Kendrick, and the firm is getting into California.

One trend among customers is that women are now saving their stamps for costlier items. At one time they turned in a book or two at a time, but now a total of 10 to 20 books presented by one customer is not uncommon. Mrs. Kendrick said that not long ago a woman brought in 40 books at one time.

To cope with this trend, the green stamp group recently brought out a connoisseur's catalogue which features such items as a diamond-studded watch, imported furniture and other articles that retail for a high price.

"Women were once our main customers," said Mrs. Smith, "but a lot of men are saving stamps too. This has caused us to stock such things as outboard motors, golf clubs and fishing equipment."

Most stamp companies think trading stamps are here to stay. In fact, the Green Stamp publishing center in Oklahoma has printed enough to last several years in advance. This was done just in case a crippling strike is called.

The stamps cost the merchant about $15 for a pad of 5,000, though larger buyers get a slight reduction. Since the merchants give one stamp for each 10-cent purchase, this means they are paying about 3 per cent of gross receipts for the stamps. That also explains why they don't throw in a few extras to special customers.

Other speakers at the inauguration and a luncheon which followed were John Page, college dean; James Matthews, president of North Texas State College; Gov. Price Daniel, A. E. Cudlipp of the board of directors; Tyrus Timm, representing the faculty; Joseph Sekerka, representing students; former Gov. Allan Shivers; and Hugh Milton II, undersecretary of the Army.

Rudder, in his inauguration speech, said, "We are confident that our college will continue to make important contributions to the development of our state and nation."

He added that "Higher education is a joint responsibility of the public and of the educational institutions. To meet this dual responsibility, I do not feel that we need to resort to severe restrictive measures to limit enrollment. Indeed, our collective interest would best be served if even larger numbers of young people with ability finished our high schools, qualified and motivated by a strong desire to continue their education."

Rudder was officially inaugurated by Dr. M. T. Harrington, chancellor of the A&M College system. Rudder is the second A&M graduate to become president, Harrington was the first.

Weeks Gaining In All-Around Cowboy Chase

DENVER —The largest entry list in the history of rodeo built a $41,665 prize money pot for the four-day Phoenix, Ariz. rodeo, over last weekend. With 423 contestants, the rich payoffs juggled national standings for the 1960 season.

Another major rodeo in the last fortnight, Baton Rouge, La., through March 14, split $19,155 among winners and swelled to $512,231, prize money pocketed by pro cowboys, at 28 rodeos, so far this year.

Biggest winner at the two rodeos was Guy Weeks, Abilene (Texas). The only top contender to enter both riding and roping events, the 27-year-old ex-jockey, won the bareback bronc riding, third on saddle broncs, and placed in a calf roping day money at Baton Rouge to garner $1,159. The Arizona rodeo saw him rack up another $2,106 by placing second in both saddle bronc riding and calf roping, with a sixth place in bareback riding.

RIG WEEK
The $3,265 two-week bonanza put Weeks into third place in the race for world champion all-around cowboy, rodeo's most coveted yearly award. His wins in the saddle bronc riding at the two contests, $1,349, also re-seated him in the lead for that event.

First in calf roping at Phoenix went to Glen Franklin, House, N. M., who beat the field by almost three seconds, tying his two calves in 33.3 to earn $1,295, and taking over third for the year. Franklin is fighting back from a shattered wrist that knocked him out of competition from mid-summer until the National Finals in December last season.

LEADERS
Leaders in the various events, with their earnings thus far, include:

All-around—Harry Tompkins, Dublin, $9,937; Bob A. Robinson, Rockland, Ida., $8,638; Guy Weeks, Abilene, $6,390.

Dr. Troy Middleton, president of Louisiana State University, declared in the main speech:

"If we are to keep pace with the future, we must educate more people and educate them better than we ever have before."

"That we must make provision to train more people for the scientific fields is not to be questioned. However, we must not lose sight of the fact that to have the kind of society that will meet the test of time we must train people in all areas."

Other speakers at the inauguration and a luncheon which followed were John Page, college dean; James Matthews, president of North Texas State College; Gov. Price Daniel, A. E. Ex-Slave, 109, Has Some Old Memories

CLEBURNE (AP)—Jake King claims to be one of the best yard men in Cleburne. He will be 109 years old June 19.

He has worked all his life, ever since he was born a slave on a plantation near Jackson, Miss., in 1851.

The Negro's master and mistress were a Gen. King and his wife, Amanda. King says they were wonderful people, but the overseer was cruel.

As a child, King was assigned to the general's lady. He drew her bath, helped her dress and combed her hair each morning. King used a comb carved with a pocket-knife from a thin flat piece of wood. He also kept her pipe clean and shining and the tobacco shredded and ready for use.

When King was 10, the Civil War began.

During the war, a group of Confederate soldiers from Texas camped at Jackson. The soldiers told glowing accounts of their home state. They talked about the rich, cheap land in the forests where wild fruit. Hogs ran wild in the forests.

After the war, King, along with 75 Negro families, started for this land of milk and honey. The children walked all the way from Mississippi to Texas. The families settled near Clarksville in Red River Country.

Having lived more than a century is just a step to King. He says he will live to be 125.

King will challenge anybody to a wood cutting contest now. He is one of the best yard men in Johnson County. He sometimes shoulders his rifle and ventures into the woods for a mess of squirrel. He does not wear glasses and has his natural teeth.

King is deeply religious. He believes religious training is a substitute for superstition and fear.

When asked how he managed to live so long, he said, smiling: "I just kept praying as if everything depended on God and I kept working as if everything depended on me. You can't make a mistake if you do that."

Two Burglary Cases Checked

A city school and an implement store were burglarized sometime Friday night.

Kate Morrison school reported that prowlers had broken into a milk vending machine and had taken an undetermined amount of money.

Walker Implement Co., 1006 Lamesa, lost $27 in cash and a $25 check to thieves who forced open a south door sometime during the night. The money, $15 in change and two $1 bills, with the check, was in a wooden cash till.

City police investigated the two breakins.

TURGUTLU, Turkey (AP)—Veterinary surgeons in this west Turkey village recently amputated the leg of a camel because the animal was suffering from man bite. A trader brought the camel in for examination and admitted he had bitten its leg in a fit of rage. The surgeons said the leg was infected and had to be taken off.

Physicians know how quickly a minor ailment can develop into a serious problem. They fear the consequences of neglect.

People with lesser knowledge often wait until they are real sick before consulting a physician. They attempt to treat themselves. This is most unwise and can lead to much future bad health. Be safe. See your physician quickly when sick.

A Pat on the Back

For CHARLES DUNAGAN

Meet a busy young citizen!
He is Charles Dunagan, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Dunagan, 1110 Nolan, a senior at Big Spring High School.

Officially he is president of the Big Spring High School Student Council. Unofficially, he manipulates and mainsprings a lion's share of the major enterprises in which boys and girls of the school take part.

It was Dunagan, for example, who tied all the loose ends together and arranged with the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce for the Student Government Day observed Saturday. The council adopted the plan; Dunagan as president saw that it worked. The success of the enterprise speaks for the effort he put into it.

It was Dunagan, too, who arranged with the Chamber of Commerce to have Paul Harvey, celebrated news commentator, make a special appearance before the student body when that distinguished radio personality was here for the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet.

Dunagan was born in Big Spring and has attended all of his school years locally. He is now majoring in science and plans, when he completes high school, to be a pharmacist. He is an only child and his father is an electrician for the Texas & Pacific Railroad.

He was elected to the Honor Society as a junior and re-elected this year. That means he maintains an average of 90 or better in all of his school work. He is treasurer of the high school Honor Society. He is a cornetist in the high school band, president of the band this year. He was vice president last year. He is active in H-Y work at the school.

He is a member of the First Presbyterian Church and a former Boy Scout. He works each summer, saving money for his college career. He plans to attend Howard County Junior College a year and then go on to Texas University. He likes to water ski and to play baseball — "when I can find time."

He was never a member of the Student Council until this year. And he was elected president by his fellows — a choice which is proving to have been an excellent one indeed.

Truman Says He Meant All That He Said

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman says he meant every word of his recent statement about Negro sit-downs in Southern lunch counters.

At Louisville, Ky., last week Truman said, "If anyone came into my store and tried to stop business, I'd throw him out. The Negro should behave himself and show he's a good citizen. Common sense and good will can solve this thing."

Two Detroit officials of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People sent Truman a telegram saying the statements "if accurately reported are shocking and deeply disappointing."

Truman said Thursday he sent a reply to Detroit:

"Your telegram regarding the statement which I made about sit-downs in the restaurant is correct. I would do just what I said I would. NAACP is an organization which has been working for good will and common sense in this situation with which we are faced. When they do things that cause people who have been friendly to them, as I have been, to feel that they are doing the wrong thing, they are losing friends instead of making them," his reply said.

"If I were in Detroit I would say the same thing to you personally."

The telegram went to Edward M. Turner, president of the Detroit NAACP branch, and Arthur L. Johnson, its executive secretary.

The NAACP issued a statement at Detroit in comment on Truman's reply.

"We recognize the fact that even our friends at times may not agree with our methods and may not fully appreciate our anxieties in this struggle for freedom," the statement said.

"If we are to continue to make progress this is the price we have to pay. The occasional differences of opinion should not divert either ourselves or our friends from the common goal."

Dates Fixed For Witness Meeting

Big Spring Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses are making preliminary plans to attend a three-day assembly in Monahan on April 29, 30, May 1, it has been announced.

Jack W. O'Shields, presiding minister of the group, in discussing this announcement to the congregation pointed out that assembly is not a revival but for Christian Bible education.

The three-day groups of ministers will discuss ministerial problems and demonstrate how to conduct Bible studies. Sessions will be conducted mornings, afternoons, and evenings, with a baptism of new ministers on Saturday afternoon.

The announcement came as a climax to the weekly ministry development program held at the local Kingdom Hall, 500 Donley St.

O'Shields said that Jehovah's Witnesses are enrolled in ministerial training of five classes weekly.

Film Strike May Be Ended Shortly

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Hopes for settlement of the 20-day-old actors' strike against major film studios were better today.

COUNTY 'GUINEA PIG'

Data On Divorce Is Sought In U.S. Census

Uncle Sam wants more facts about divorces in this country and has picked the 60th Decennial Census as the time to find out what he wants to know.

And Howard County has been selected as one of the "sample" counties in the nation in which needed statistics will be gathered.

Wade Choate, district court clerk, has received a letter from W. D. Carroll, state registrar, Texas Department of Public Health. In this letter Carroll advises that Howard County is one of the Texas counties chosen for the check. Carroll does not say how many counties in the state were designated. The same system is being followed in all states in the union, he explained.

Choate and District Judge Ralph W. Caton are to cooperate in obtaining the information which the census asks.

Caton said that, in his opinion, the information such a survey would afford could be of great importance in the valuation of the large number of divorce actions which are filed in every county.

UNUSUAL PLAN

The system to be followed is unusual. Choate was instructed to check out a total of 10 cases during the year. The suits to be used begin with the 11th filed in 1960. Thereafter, each 15th case filed will be listed. Thus, Choate said, the 11th, 27th, 43rd, 59th, 75th, 91st, 107th, 123rd, 139th and 155th divorce suits will be "guinea pig" cases for the survey.

be approximately 160 divorce suits filed in Howard County in 1960.

Choate said that the 11th, the 27th and 43rd cases have already been filed. A time lapse of 60 days from filing before the case is heard by the court is required by law. Hence, the 11th divorce action filed this year will be ready for hearing within a short time.

When it comes before Judge Caton, there will be a notation informing the court this is one of the test cases.

ANSWER QUESTIONS

A form prepared by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare will be followed by the court. He will obtain answers from the principals in the litigation and the filled-out form will be sent directly to Washington.

The questions to be answered include the state and county in which the decree was issued. It will list the docket number. The date of the decree and the date of the marriage of the litigating couple will be noted. The number of children involved and the place where the couple married will be recorded.

For both the husband and the wife, age, color, number of times married, and the date of their separation will be listed.

The statistical information thus gathered will be confidential. No information specifically identifying the persons in the report can be released by the national office of Vital Statistics or by any of its agents.

Judge Caton said that there is a grave need for more background information on the causes of divorce, the age groups in which divorces occur, the number of children which are involved. He said he had observed, both as an attorney, and the time he has served as a judge, the steadily increasing number of marriage failures. He said he was pleased to assist in compilation of such data in the census.

It was pointed out that although Choate, as district clerk, will keep the court informed on the specified cases which are to be checked and will dispatch the findings to the national agency, he is in no position to make the inquiries which are necessary to complete the forms.

These will be handled by Judge Caton on the bench. In cases where no contest is offered, the court will endeavor to collect the essential information from the one principal who is certain to be in court.

Ft. Worth Plans For Water Supply

FORT WORTH (AP)—Engineers and land buyers are at work on Fort Worth's next step toward a reserve water supply for its growing industries and population.

The project is the Cedar Creek dam and reservoir southeast of Fort Worth. But a situation has arisen whereby the water created by a dam on Cedar Creek may not be used for many years.

Some Fort Worth leaders say watersheds above Fort Worth can supply water for years to come if they are properly developed. Thus, they say, the city could get water then by expensive uphill pumping through expensive pipelines from southern lakes such as that at Cedar Creek.

The dispute may be clarified in a month or two when engineers provide a report on a possible dam site near Boyd north of Fort Worth.

But Fort Worth could not delay action on the Cedar Creek project. The State Board of Water Engineers told the city to start work at Cedar Creek by April 1 or lose its rights to the water that could be impounded there.

Citizens then overwhelmingly approved a $5 million bond issue to build the dam and provide a pipeline about 90 miles long to deliver the water.

The city recently sold six million dollars worth of the 55 million issue to get work under way.

Completion is scheduled for some time in 1962.

Cedar Creek is part of an ambitious water plan that once was estimated to cost 128 million dollars.

It is expected to fill the city's water needs for the next half century.

Present plans are to keep the Cedar Creek reservoir in reserve and not build the pipeline until present water sources are down to a two-year supply—a situation that can develop swiftly in some of Texas' droughts.

Cedar Creek is a tributary of the Trinity River. The damsite will be just north of the highway connecting Athens and Trinidad.

The reservoir has a planned capacity of 480,000 acre feet (about 160 billion gallons) of water.

The city could expect to obtain 131 million gallons a day from this source.

The Cedar Creek project would triple Fort Worth's water supply.

The master plan, subject to considerable modification, was worked out in 1956.

It calls for about 128 million dollars in works, spread over many years. Already it is being changed.

One major project in this plan is building another dam on Richland Creek, another tributary of the Trinity River to the west of Cedar Creek.

This site is not being pushed at all at the moment because of special problems.

The area which would become the lake bed is dotted with oil wells, many of them capped and abandoned. These wells could cause considerable pollution unless special measures are taken to deal with them.

Of more immediate interest than Richland Creek is the possibility of building a dam on the Trinity just north of Boyd for a gravity-flow source.

It is on the worthiness of this Boyd site that engineers are expected to present a report in a month or two. The possibility remains great that Fort Worth may obtain water from the Boyd location before completing a pipeline to Cedar Creek.

The Boyd dam was a part of the original long-range plan. Also included was a plan to raise the level of Eagle Mountain Lake, a current water source, but this has been postponed indefinitely.

Still another source so far in the future that little has been done about it is water from a proposed Boswell Reservoir on the Boggy River in Oklahoma. Fort Worth might obtain some water rights in that reservoir when it is constructed.

JULE THOMAS

Jule Thomas, training specialist and staff member of the University of Texas, is to conduct the week-long course for Big Spring managers, owners, and employees of retail, wholesale, or service organizations.

Topics to be covered in the sessions include: What is public relations; you and public relations; seeing yourself as others see you; good speech, getting along with people; why people behave as they do. Discussions of various public relations problems will also be held.

The Chamber of Commerce and Howard County Junior College are sponsoring the course in cooperation with Big Spring Distributive Education and the Texas Education Agency. All meetings will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting the Chamber of Commerce, AM 4-4641, or Frank Dunlap, AM 4-4314.

Navy Halts Plane Search

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The Navy has given up its search for the wreckage of a National Air Lines plane that crashed in the Gulf of Mexico off the Louisiana coast Nov. 16.

Officials had hoped to find enough of the C7B to learn whether a bomb blew it up.

The plane was flying from Tampa, Fla. to New Orleans when it crashed. Rescue teams that went to the scene immediately found bits of the wreckage and the bodies of nine of the 42 persons killed. No one survived the crash.

Ships from the Atlantic Fleet mine force went to the scene Nov. 20. They used divers, underwater sounding devices, and underwater television cameras in the hunt for more of the plane and other bodies. They covered more than 150 square miles of the Gulf bottom. But no further sign of the wreckage was found.

Robert Vernon Spears of Dallas was listed as a passenger on the plane but was arrested in Phoenix last January. It was revealed his place on the ill-fated craft had been taken by a friend, William Allen Taylor, Tampa, Fla.

Explosives were found in Spears' luggage when arrested and he was questioned for days by the FBI concerning the crash of the airliner. The FBI refused to disclose what, if any information was obtained during the interrogation.

Flooded Florida City

The Hillsborough River took a swing up the main street of Tampa's Sulphur Springs section and put several merchants temporarily out of business. Scenes like this one were repeated in many areas as the river moved toward a crest of three feet above floodstage.

Argentine Specialist Notes Similarities With States

By DON RIDDLE

Soil conditions and structures in the United States are more like those of Argentina than is any other country in the world.

For this reason, said Dr. Natalio Mikenberg, Argentina soil specialist, "I chose the United States for my study of soil conditions in connection with the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations."

Dr. Mikenberg came to this country last August and plans to study soils, densities, crop production, etc., of all the major areas in this country.

Howard County, like in most of the areas of Texas, has soil similar to that of Argentina," related Dr. Mikenberg. "Yes, we even have the caliche structure there, but it goes by the name of Tosca."

The blackland soils of Central Texas are very common to those in Uruguay. Howard County's conditions are extremely similar, according to Mikenberg, to the dry pampas of Central Argentina.

"Our weather ranges from the humid, sultry areas to the dry regions in the central portion of the country. And just like here, we have a very wide range of soil conditions," said the Argentinian.

"When I leave Howard County on May 7, I go to Georgia. The yellow soils of that area correspond to the yellow soils in South America which are located mainly in Paraguay."

Mikenberg said that Argentina produces vast amounts of wheat, corn, barley, rye, cotton, tobacco, rice, sugar cane and citrus fruits. He also noted that the two countries produce and import most of the same products.

According to Mikenberg, the big difference in the soils of the countries is that Argentina rarely uses any fertilizer at all. The soils there seem to be self-fertilizing and farmers rarely worry about crop rotation.

Although Argentina has fewer Herefords than the United States, they have many more Angus and Shorthorn cattle.

"Most of the farmers of Argentina produce on a much smaller scale. Only the big, commercial farmers have the modern tools and most domestic farmers still use the horse-drawn plow," he said. Dr. Mikenberg's permanent employment is with the Argentine Department of Agriculture. He came to Big Spring on March 7 for a two-month study of this area. Before he leaves the country in August he plans to study the soils of Central and East Texas as well as Georgia and other Southern and Eastern states.

Cuba Presses U.S. For Base Showdown

HAVANA (AP)—Cuba moved today toward a showdown with the United States over the U. S. Guantanamo Naval Base.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government asked the United States to rehire a Cuban labor leader fired from his job in the strategic American defense installation in eastern Cuba. It also complained that anti-Castro workers are being hired at the base.

This and two other complaints about Washington's policies toward Cuba appeared to have thrown up a roadblock in the path of U. S. Ambassador Philip W. Bonsal's latest efforts to mend crumbling Cuban-American relations.

The United States was expected to reject the Guantanamo rehiring request made Friday night in a formal note couched in relatively friendly tones.

The note asked "earnestly" for reinstatement of Federico Figueras Larrazabal, a machinist who heads the workers' union at the base. He was fired for making offensive remarks about the U. S. government and for a poor work record.

There was no official reaction to the Cuban notes from the U. S. Embassy, although members of Bonsal's staff expressed surprise that any diplomatic exchange had taken place during the day.

Warm Weather Steps Up Street Maintenance Work

Big Spring streets were warmed enough to begin "bleeding" last week and street crews were getting set to begin maintenance work in earnest.

One of the major problems of the department is filling cracks and chug holes. Very little can be done to dirt streets, other than grade them after every rain. But paved streets present another problem.

Other 200 blocks of paved streets will receive maintenance attention during the summer, Bruce Dunn, director of public works, said Friday.

The first step of the maintenance program is a clean out the cracks and chug holes. Then, an asphalt emulsion mix is used to fill the opening. Next sand is poured over the top to keep automobile tires from rooting out the filler before it settles and packs. The filler is given time to cure, then the entire street is given a "one-shot" coat of asphalt as a cap over the old paving and new filler. Small gravel is then scattered over the paving surface. This program is a continuous program of the department, Dunn explained.

Scientist Thinks Smoking May Free Perk-Up Element

By JOHN BARBOUR Associated Press Science Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Smoking may give you a lift by triggering release of a perk-up chemical deep in the brain, a British scientist suggested today.

This chemical may, in part, be responsible for the "pleasure of smoking," said Dr. J. H. Burn of Oxford University.

Nicotine from tobacco smoke enters the blood stream and it could unlock stores of the chemical, called norepinephrine, Burn said in a talk prepared for a symposium partly sponsored by the Tobacco Industry Research Committee.

Norepinephrine is a chemical cousin to the hormone adrenalin which makes your heart race when you're in danger.

Burn explained: "It seems to me extremely likely that the pleasure of smoking is in part derived from the release of norepinephrine from its store in the brain by nicotine, the release giving an increased feeling of cheerfulness and a sense of relief from fatigue."

Nicotine from smoking speeds up the heart, he said, probably by releasing this same chemical from special storage units in the heart.

This same chemical, liberated by nicotine, may be responsible for the sharp fall in skin temperatures caused by smoking cigarettes, he said.

Quint Becomes Bride At 16

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — One of the famed Argentine quintuplets, Maria Esther Diliigeni, became a bride Friday night at the age of 16.

The pretty blonde's marriage to a 19-year-old Argentine student, Carlos Maria Vivares, climaxed a courtship of two months.

The quint, three girls and two boys, were born July 15, 1943.

High Interest Rates On Homes Will Stick

AUSTIN (AP)—The Bureau of Business Research advised prospective home buyers Saturday that high interest rates are here to stay and it is probably unrealistic to delay buying a home until money rates drop.

The bureau said that despite this general feeling in the industry there is still much reluctance to accept mortgage rates above the 5 1/2 per cent rate permitted on FHA-insured loans.

The bureau said homes in the $10,000 to 12,000 range are difficult to build now at a profit and homes in the higher price ranges are more appealing to families who probably have a large equity in an older, smaller home which can be used as a considerable down payment.

Total urban building construction authorized last month was valued at $87,039,000, or 1 per cent below January and 11 per cent below February a year ago.

Permits for residences totaled $48,279,000, or 3 per cent below January and 21 per cent below February, 1959.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Proposed Water Rates, Opinion Poll Are Topics

To The Editor: Reference is herein made to the proposed water hike in this city. I, too, like Mr. Freeman, have just been taken into the city limits. I was promised that the reduction in my water rates would offset some of the city taxes that I would be required to pay.

My water rate has been less in the last two months, but now they are going to raise it again. I suppose I should feel lucky that the city commission's promise lasted two months. Of course, I now have added police and fire protection, but no fire plugs or sewerage. Of course, also, it gives me a feeling of great security to see the police in this neighborhood daily; however, I have never lost a single item to thieves until after the police had taken on the job of protecting my property.

Now I understand that they are going to hold a public hearing next Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. for the citizens of this city to voice their opinions on the water rate hike. I shall be in attendance along with many others who object, but I feel sure that nothing will be changed. This city has held many public hearings in the past and nothing has ever come of them. It is hypocritical to hold a hearing and invite the public opinion and then not even give them consideration.

If this city needs new revenue, why don't they devise some way to place the burden on those able to pay? I see where some of your officials will get a 25 dollar raise. My suggestion is that they take a five-ton jack to raise these people, and then give the $25.00 to some of the city workers to get $5.00 a week.

Respectfully yours, W. E. PARKER 1202 Mesquite St.

To The Editor:

In a recent survey 97 per cent of the parents who have children attending Runnels Junior High School believe that Mr. Thomas Ernest has done a good job as principal of Runnels, and they would like to see him continue in this position. This information, confidential, also revealed that of the remaining 3 per cent, many were undecided because they had been in the community only a short while.

The executive committee of the Student Council of Runnels Junior High School would like to see this information printed so that the public will know of the high regard the student body and the parents in the Runnels community feel for Mr. Ernest.

Cubs Hold State Program And Stage Pinewood Derby

One badge for advancement in rank and several for services and other categories marked the monthly meeting for Cub Pack No. 138 Thursday. Meeting for the pack sponsored by College Heights P-TA was held in the Gollad Cafeteria.

Gary Henson received his Lion badge. One-year service pins went to Kent Vickery and Cliff Cook; a silver arrow point to Bobby Hale; a denner's badge to Barry Knocke; an assistant denner's badge to Cliff Cook.

A highlight of the meeting was the Pinewood Derby with Cliff Cook, Den No. 3, the winner. He edged Mike Davis, the Den No. 1 champ, and Tommy Ganner, winner from den No. 5.

Earlier the group of 20 Cubs and 30 parents tried to find a name for a 51st state, but H. Boyce Hale, Cubmaster, ruled that it should be called "State of Confusion."

A meeting in College Heights School for recruiting additional Cubs for the pack was set for 7:30 p.m. April 4; the regular pack committee meeting was set for 7:30 p.m. on April 7 at College Heights school.

Four new members received their Bobcat awards at the meeting of Cub Pack No. 48 on Friday evening at the First Presbyterian Church.

In addition, Ronnie Gross and Michael Spradling received their Lion rank advancement. A denner's badge went to Ronnie Gross and an assistant denner's badge to Blake Tollett. Mike McSwain got his Wolf badge.

Inducted into the pack were Ricky Stark, Bruce Hutto, Johnny Rutherford and Paul Parsons. Mrs. Johnny Johansen's den No. 1 presented a skit on super-surgical operation. For the state observation during March, the pack sang Texas songs.

Jack Guiley, Cubmaster, announced the pack planning meeting for April 15 at 7:30 p.m. in the church and the next pack meeting for the same time and place on April 29.

Cub Pack 1, of Airport school held its monthly meeting in the school auditorium Friday night and each den gave a skit in connection with the overall theme, "Our home state."

A history of Texas was the theme of one skit. Texas Rodeos was the subject another skit and still another concerned historical Texas characters.

The program was climaxed with the presentation of awards. Bill Harrison received the Bobcat badge and the Denner's badge. Marshall Miller received the Denner's badge and the Silver Arrow badge. Randy Hoover was awarded the Assistant Denner's badge and the Wolfe badge. George Davis and Joe Davis were also awarded the Wolfe badge.

Gold Arrows went to Robert Crenshaw and Steve Blanchard. And Danny Hooten received the Bear Badge.

Mrs. L. D. Davis was awarded the Den Mother's badge.

Civil Rights Row May Be Near End

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) is quite hopeful the Senate can finish by the end of next week the civil rights wrangle that has tied it up since Feb. 15.

The Senate Republican leader said Friday he hopes action can be completed by next Saturday on the rights bill passed by the House and that this can be done without resorting to cloture, the limiting of debate by a two-thirds majority.

But Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-NC), one of the 18 Southerners who have fought civil rights legislation at every turn, said he sees no chance of such speedy action.

Space Flier Is Happy With Ship

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Space agency test pilot Joe Walker grinned broadly after flying the X15 rocket ship for the first time. Walker overshot the landing point on a dry lake by five miles because of a strong tailwind, but landed safely.

He took the sleek ship up to 50,000 feet Friday, reaching a speed of about 1,300 m.p.h. A B52 mother ship carried the X15 aloft, then released it.

DEAR ABBY

MINISTERS EAT TOO

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We are not overly religious people, but we do like to go to church once in a while. It seems to me that every time we turn around in church we are getting hit for money. I thought religion was free. I realize that churches have to have some money, but I think it is getting to be a racket. Just what do churches do with all their money? CURIOS

DEAR CURIOS: Even priests, ministers and rabbis must eat. And since they work fulltime at their tasks, the churches must support them. Staff, professional choir members and musicians must also be paid. Buildings must be maintained, heated, lighted and beautified. (And, of course, first they must be built!) Custodial staff must eat and feed their families. Most churches engage in philanthropic work (aid to needy, missions and education); hence, they have their financial obligations. Even archbishops, contrary to folklore, do not live on air. Churches can't live on air either. Religion, like water, may be free, but when they pipe it to you, you've got to help pay for the piping. And the piper!

DEAR ABBY: I have been sitting at a certain stool at the same bar for over 20 years. Everybody in town knows that when I come in, the end stool is mine. There is a certain character who knows that the end stool is mine, but lately he has been sitting there when I come in.

How can I get the idea over to him that that stool belongs to me without causing a scene?

END STOOL

DEAR END: In a bar, it's first come—first served. Sit on another stool and quit sucking your thumb.

DEAR ABBY: Please print this for the woman whose husband refused to take their son to a psychiatrist because he was "afraid it would show up on his record."

I had the same experience with my daughter. I'd give anything on earth if I had gone ahead and taken professional help. I sneaked my daughter to a psychiatrist and he told me he thought she could be helped, but the treatment had to be started immediately. I was afraid to defy my husband, so I let it go. Abby, she didn't finish high school. She got pregnant, ran away from home and had her baby in a "home" and adopted it out. Then she became a call girl and later broke up a home where there were four children. I don't know where she is as she never contacts me any more. My heart is broken. Ask this mother to weigh this against the fears of taking a child to a psychiatrist because it might "show on his record."

TOO LATE NOW

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TOO YOUNG TO MARRY": Tell your parents at once. They will help you work out the best solution.

"What's your problem?" Write to Abby in care of The Big Spring Herald. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's pamphlet, "What Every Teen-ager Wants to Know," send 25 cents and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope in care of The Big Spring Herald.

Boys Ranch Looking Up

SAN ANGELO (AP) — Boys Ranch of West Texas, "home" for 52 homeless boys, will be a better looking place after April 2.

On that day about 20 implement dealers from many parts of West Texas will set a million dollars worth of equipment working to see just how much planting, cultivating, brush plowing, land leveling and road building they can do from daylight to dark.

The field day will be open house for visitors. Barbecue is planned for 2,500.

John White, Texas agriculture commissioner, will speak.

This will be the third time implement dealers have sponsored such a field day at the 13-year-old ranch near Tankersly, 17 miles west of San Angelo. The first time they drew 300 spectators. A year ago they did more work and drew 1,700.

This year an even bigger work goal has been set to turn this 960-acre contribution-supported ranch for boys into a model livestock and crop production.

Some of the jobs slated:

- Building of a new irrigation system.
- Planting 101 acres.
- Replowing 30 to 50 acres.
- Leveling a new building area.
- Clearing a playground area.
- Enlarging a livestock pond.
- Building an emergency airstrip.

Local Teachers Judge Contests

Jack Hendrix, head of the Howard County Junior College music department, and Mrs. Anne Houser, local piano instructor, were judges Saturday for the annual music festival sponsored by the Federated Music Clubs of the Midland area.

In the Midland contests were some 125 pupils of piano teachers from Midland to Andrews and Monahans. They competed against a standard and not against each other.

On Friday and Saturday of this week, Hendrix will be in Lubbock along with Pauline Brigham of West Texas State College to judge the annual concerto festival sponsored by the South Plains Music Teachers Association. This marks the fifth consecutive year that Hendrix has been invited to serve as a judge in this festival.

Required repertoire in Lubbock includes movements from concertos by Williams, Hayden, Mendelssohn. The winners from the 101 entries will play with the Lubbock Symphony orchestra at 4 p.m. on May 1 in the Monterey High School Auditorium.

Reliability

Two very practical advantages of 1960 Cadillac ownership are minimal maintenance costs and exceptional resale worth. Both have been continuous Cadillac virtues for fifty-eight years, as revealed by the fact that almost half of all the cars ever built by Cadillac are operating today—and thirty thousand of these have been on the road for twenty years or more. This notable record of reliability added to the remarkable operating economy makes the Cadillac for 1960 the wisest of motoring investments.

Breathing down his neck were Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla., who matched Barber's 69 Saturday for a 208 total, and the always dangerous Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., who leaped into a tie with Sanders for the runner-up spot with a sparkling 67, the best round of the day.

Dallas Long Breaks World Record In The Shot Put

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sophomore Dallas Long of Southern California surpassed a world record of 64 feet 6½ inches.

The recognized world record is 63-2, set by Percy O'Brien on Nov. 1, 1956. Long's throw climaxed a duel between Long and Dave Davis of the Southern California Striders in a dual meet between the Trojans and the local track club.

The 260-pound Long got the throw off on his third try. Ten minutes earlier, Davis, 22, who formerly attended Southern Cal, put the shot 63 feet 10½ inches.

Coach Jess Mortensen of Southern Cal said he was confident Long's throw will be recognized. The area has been re-surveyed to meet all specifications and the ball itself was the same one Long used when he threw the 16-pound shot 63-7 earlier this spring. It was found then to be an ounce overweight. There was some doubt about the ball Davis used. He indicated that he felt it was a few ounces underweight.

Last week ex-Kansas Bill Nieder cut loose with a put of 63-10 and a record was in the making for him. O'Brien has another mark pending of 63-4 set last year.

There were some doubt about the ball Davis used. He indicated that he felt it was a few ounces underweight.

Twelve players were even par or better for the three rounds, and 61 made the cut for the final 18 holes Sunday. A score of 223 made the grade.

Just one stroke behind them were National Open Champion Billy Casper of Apple Valley, Calif., and Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., who carded 68 and 69, respectively for their third round.

Twelve players were even par or better for the three rounds, and 61 made the cut for the final 18 holes Sunday. A score of 223 made the grade.

It was the Chicagoans' first shut-out victory of the spring, and their sixth success in the past seven games for a 6-7 Cactus League record.

Schroll, working the first four innings before retiring with a muscle pain in his neck, yielded three hits.

Drott, working a full five-inning stint for the second time this spring, surrendered the other two. The Cubs have now beaten the Giants twice in four games thus far.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

The HCJC basketball team, according to coach Buddy Travis, spent about $1,000 on its trip to the National Juco Tournament at Hutchinson, Kan. . . . Of that amount, $660 was supplied by the Regional tournament committee, another $300 as travel expenses allowed by the National tournament committee (25 cents a mile to and from Big Spring) . . . The remainder was supplied by HCJC itself . . . Hutchinson Junior College, which hosted the National tournament, played to an overall attendance of 68,000 the past season, which means the school averaged more than 4,000 a game . . . Hutchinson has a season ticket deal much like that promoted by HCJC, only the arrangement is good for all games in the Hutchinson gym, including those for the high school and junior high games . . . When Doug Pendygraft, the Lindsey-Wilson (Ky.) College great, hit that record-breaking 63 points against Grand View of Iowa in the National Juco meet, Marv Torrence of the opposition scored 49 . . . Pendygraft rushed to his amazing aggregate because his teammates, sensing history was about to be made, started feeding him the ball in the final half rather than drive in themselves . . . Pendygraft, who signed a letter-of-intent with the University of Kentucky as early as last December, counted a total of 154 points during the tournament, nine below the record . . . Coach Buddy Travis of HCJC fingers Amarillo College as the team to beat in the West Zone cage race next season . . . Jim Owens, the former Texas A&M coaching aide who recently received a salary boost to $16,000 at the University of Washington, says, "I was a Bud Wilkinson player, but I am a Bear Bryant coach" . . . The pretty face decorating the cover of Coach and Athlete Magazine belongs to Kay Coleman, daughter of Georgia Tech aide Tonto Coleman and the niece of Carl Coleman of Big Spring . . . Ed Robertson, the former Coahoma coach, recently was named to the varsity coaching staff at Kermit High School . . . He's been coaching junior high athletics there.

Rains Says Steers Need A Leader

Bernard Rains, incoming golf coach at the local high school, says the thing that impressed him most about the arrangement was the job done by the departing mentor, Mitchell Malouf, who had perhaps a meagre background in the sport but who prescribed a busy program for his young athletes to condition them for district competition . . . Rains also states that if the Steers are to contend for the 2-AAAA title by next year they must develop a leader . . . "take charge" individual who can spur the rest of his teammates to greater heights . . . Donnie Everett, Big Spring High School's slugging first baseman, could become the most feared hitter in 2-AAAA by learning to hit the ball where it is pitched . . . Right now, he's trying to pull everything to right field . . . Donnie has enough potential to gain the attention of the pro scouts . . . Gabby Hayes, who gained a measure of fame in the cinema world as Hopalong Cassidy's Western sidekick, played semi-pro baseball in New York and Ohio at the turn of the century . . . Mrs. Mickey Mantle, wife of the New York Yankee outfielder who visited here last month, recently gave birth to her fourth son . . . The newcomer has been named Danny Merle . . . TV comic Bob Hope is back of the plan to televise a series of matches featuring women golf professionals . . . Whitney Reynolds, Charles (Lefty) Morris, Bob McAdams and Adrian deGraffenreid comprise HCJC's golf team, which lost two matches to Odessa College's crackerjack outfit recently . . . A proposed basketball rule that could be incorporated into the regulations shortly involves offensive fouling . . . Some of the leading coaches, among them the University of Kentucky's Adolph Rupp, are against the offensive team getting a chance at possibly two points because of an infraction called against the attacking club . . . Under the prescribed plan, the foul would stand up but no free throws would be awarded . . . Instead, the defensive team would get possession of the ball, then have to work for its score.

Arkansas Tough After Intermission

Several area football players flew to Houston Friday with Al Milch, the University of Houston recruiter, to visit the campus there . . . Two of them, Albany's Tommy Stapp and Rankin's Jimmy Harris, have already signed Cougar letters of intent, according to Milch . . . Others who made the flight included Dick Hayes of Snyder and Harold Duncan of Andrews . . . Incidentally, Ray Weaver, the big Colorado City tackle who had to quit school last year after his father died, will probably return to Houston next September . . . Only two of Arkansas's 11 football opponents the past season scored against the Porkers in the final period of play . . . The Hogs yielded only four touchdowns all season in the final two quarters of their games . . . The ex-Big Springer, Camille Pascual, fanned more batters (185) for Washington last season than any Senator since 1917, when Walter Johnson was blowing his fast ball past the American League batters . . . Jack Riley, coach of the U. S. ice hockey team that won the 1960 Olympic Game crown, says Pete Dawkins, the former West Point football great, might have been the team's goalie had he been available . . . As it was, Jack McCartan performed well enough as the Yanks' goal tender to get a trial with the pros . . . Hogan (Kid) Bassey, the one-time Featherweight boxing champion, is still trying to decide whether to continue his boxing career . . . Alvin Coburn, the former HCJC cager, was one of 10 basketball players recently awarded a varsity letter at Hardin-Simmons University . . . The professional football Cardinals, recently moved from Chicago to St. Louis, may pay in the neighborhood of 30 per cent of their total take in taxes and rent alone . . . Benny Rutherford, the former HCJC cage mentor who has been out of coaching the past two years, is interested in the BSHE basketball job vacated recently by Vernon Harton . . . Benny currently is high school principal at Everman, near Fort Worth . . . Rutherford filled in at HCJC one season when Harold Davis did a stint with the U. S. Marines.

Bengals Launch Daily Workouts

The Big Spring Tigers, West Texas' oldest sandlot baseball team, have started daily workouts on their northside diamond, beginning at 6 p.m. daily . . . The drills are open to anyone who thinks he can make the ball club. Sonny Dutcher is manager of the team, which will probably play its first game in April . . . Merchants have anted up about $350 for the purchase of new uniforms for the club, which put the Tigers well along toward a $400 objective. The uniform runs slightly over $25 each . . . Several former high school players are seeking positions on the team, among them Chubby Moser, Wayne Fields and Jackie Thomas. Others out include Billy Paul Cockrell, Bobby Beall, Don Riddie, Jesse Jaime, Guy Lara, Andy Gamboa, Pat Martinez, Danny Valdez and Tito Arenzibia.

Hawks Qualify To Oppose Celtics In Cage Finals

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Hawks fought off a third-period rally by the game Minneapolis Lakers today and wrapped up the Western playoff championship of the National Basketball Assn. 97-86. Bob Pettit led the winners with 28 points.

It was the seventh game of the series and the Hawks left no doubt of their superiority as they gained revenge for the Lakers' playoff upset a year ago.

The victory put the Hawks into the NBA championship playoffs with the Eastern Division winners, the Boston Celtics. The opening game will be Sunday afternoon in the Boston Garden.

A standing room crowd of 6,195 in the Washington University Field House and a national television audience watched the Lakers' amazing iron man, Elgin Baylor, pump in 33 points in a losing cause.

The Lakers, who knocked off the Hawks in the fifth game to take a 3-2 lead, battled back to give the Hawks a scare.

With the Hawks leading 65-45 midway in the third quarter, the Lakers scrambled back to close the gap to 9 points. Rookie Rudy Laruso led the charge.

The Hawks were aggressive all the way, stealing the ball and beating the Lakers under the boards. They moved ahead for the keeps with the game 3 minutes old and led 26-19 at the end of the first quarter and 51-38 at the half.

Two Die In Endurance Race; Favored Car Breaks Down

By BEN FUNK SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — The crack Belgian-German team of Oliver Gendebien and Hans Hermann drove a little silver-gray Porsche to a surprise victory Saturday night in Sebring's 12-hour sports car endurance race. The event was marred by two deaths. Gendebien was at the wheel when the German-made car snarled in under the checkered victory flag at 10 p.m. (EST). It was the second straight Sebring triumph for the Belgian ace. He won last year with Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., in a Ferrari . . . Tragedy struck in this 10th running of the exciting race just 23 minutes after the start when a green Lotus racer plunged off a hairpin turn, killing its driver and a newspaper photographer . . . Jimmy Huges of Napa, Calif., apparently suffered brake failure as he rocketed toward the turn. He veered into the escape route and crashed into George Thompson, Tampa Tribune photographer, who was shooting picture of the hurtling car. The racer flipped end over end, throwing Huges to his death . . . Two other drivers, Fred Spross of Poughkeepsie, N.Y., and John Fitch of Lime Rock, Conn., escaped unhurt after spectacular flips. Spross' car rolled three times and stopped upside down with its driver in the cockpit . . . Gendebien and Hermann hung grimly around 5th place for six hours while bigger cars broke down in front of them. Then, at 6 p.m., their tough little machine moved in front of the pack to stay . . . Stirling Moss of England Dan Gurney of Riverside, Calif., took the lead in a Maserati on the third lap and hurtled at record-breaking speed to a margin of more than 30 miles, only to be sidelined by a rear-end breakdown (four hours from the end). It was then the winning Porsche whipped the front . . . Ironically, the Porsche, independently owned by Joakim Bonnier of Sweden, earned eight points for the Porsche factory toward the world manufacturing championship after the factory team had boycotted the Sebring race because of a rhubarb over gasoline brands . . . The Italian Ferrari factory team with its world famous drivers also stayed away from the race. Ferrari and Porsche have contracted to use one brand of gas and Sebring requires the drivers to use another brand . . . It was a 1-2 victory for the rugged Porsche. Bob Holbert of Warrington, Pa., and Roy Schechter of Miami, Fla., came in for second place about 20 miles behind the winning car . . . Chuck Daigh of Long Beach, Calif., and Ritchie Ginther of Santa Monica, Calif., drove a Ferrari in second place for seven hours, then dropped out with mechanical troubles . . . John Nethercutt and Pete Lovely of Los Angeles, Calif., took third place in a Ferrari.

Chicago Wins Tenth Game

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — The Chicago White Sox ran their exhibition record to 10-4 Saturday, whipping the Los Angeles Dodgers 12-5 in the first meeting of the two clubs since the World Series . . . The Sox had 16 hits, including three apiece by Nellie Fox, Chico Carrasquel and Al Smith, in squaring their record against National League teams to 4-4. They are unbeaten in six games with American League teams . . . Right-handers Dick Donovan and Bob Shaw pitched for the Sox, with Shaw going the first five and allowing two runs. Donovan was tagged for a two-run homer by Dodger rookie Tommy Davis in the sixth . . . Ted Kluszewski chipped in with two singles, boosting his spring average to .500, as the Sox cuffed Danny McDevitt, Chuck Churn, and rookies Scott Breeden and Ford Young . . . Los Angeles 000 112 001—5 11 2 Chicago (A) 103 301 31x—12 16 2 McDevitt, Churn (3), Scott (5), F. Young (7) and Roseboro, N. Sherry (5); Shaw, Donovan (6) and Battey, W-Shaw, L-McDevitt.

Members of the all-tournament team are Peggy Francis, ACC; Joan Howard, HCJC; Loma Greer, Hardin-Simmons; Barbara Tyler, TCU; Kay Bragg, Howard Payne; Joan Woodbury, HCJC; Joyce Pritchard, Cisco; Lena Zeller, HCJC; Wanda Armstrong, HCJC; Connie Crews, Howard Payne; T. Jackson Goes 9 For Cards

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — St. Louis righthander Larry Jackson today became the first major league pitcher to go nine innings this spring as the Cardinals defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 3-2 for their seventh victory in the last eight games.

Jackson scattered nine hits, walked three and fanned five. Al Dark had three singles and Clayton Dalrymple two for the Phils.

For the Cardinals, catcher Chris Cannizzaro hit two singles in three tries, giving him 11 hits in his last 18 trips.

A walk, stolen base and Dalrymple's first hit put Philadelphia ahead in the fourth. But the Cards went ahead against Jim Owens in their half on a pass, Bill White's first hit, an infield out and Stan Musial's single.

After the Redbirds loaded the bases in the fifth Daryl Spencer singled home the deciding run. Philadelphia 000 101 000—2 9 0 St. Louis 000 210 00x—3 8 2 Owens, Mason (6) and Dalrymple; Jackson and Cannizzaro, W—Jackson, L—Owens.

Pittsburgh Grabs Off Tenth Win

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates won their 10th straight exhibition baseball game today, beating the Milwaukee Braves 1-0 on Dick Schofield's two-out single in the ninth.

Milwaukee hurlers Warren Spahn and Carlton Willey held the Pirates in check for eight innings, but Bob Giggie ran into trouble in the ninth.

Bill Mazeroski walked, Dick Barone was passed and Bob Oldis reached first on an error.

With the bases loaded, Francis hit to third baseman Ed Mathews who tagged Mazeroski and stepped on the sack to double Barone.

Milwaukee 000 000 000—0 5 2 Pittsburgh 000 001 001—1 9 0 Spahn, Willey (8), Giggie (9) and Lopata; Law, Francis (8) and Oldis, W—Francis, L—Willey.

Two Flowing Wells Added In Mitchell

Two flowing producers in the Albaugh (Yates) field of the eastern end of the Howard-Glasscock area were announced Saturday.

MEMBER OF MONTH

Mrs. Black Rounds Out Decade In Oil Business

Mrs. Ed (Virginia) Black is the March "member of the month" of the Big Spring Desk and Derrick Club.

Secretary and office manager for G. H. Hayward and Fred Hyer, independent oil operators, Mrs. Black has been a member of the organization since May 29, 1956. She has been active in club activities and is the immediate past president of the organization.

She has represented the Big Spring chapter at various meetings throughout the state and nation. Mrs. Black is presently serving on the board of directors and is board contact with the program committee.

She is a native of Kaufman where she attended elementary school. She attended high school at Palestine and majored in business at Howard Payne College in Brownwood.

Her first job was secretary for an attorney at Quanah and later worked for West Texas Utilities at San Angelo. She met and married Ed Black in San Angelo and left her job as the utility company does not employ married women. The Blacks live at 1307 Wood.

Both were by Olean Oil and Gas Company on a farmout from Ray Albaugh of Big Spring. Olean No. 1 C. B. Rackley flowed 53.4 barrels of 32 gravity oil through 10-64 choke in 24 hours through perforations from 1,278 to 1,325 feet. The hole was bottomed at 1,320 feet and plugged back to 1,278 where 5 1/2-in. oil string was set. Top of pay was pegged at 1,235 feet. The venture had flowing casing pressure of 190 pounds, tubing pressure of 50, and a gas-oil ratio of 763-1. The perforations were treated with 5,000 gallons of frac. Location is 330 from the north and west lines of the southwest quarter of section 27-17, SPRR, Mitchell County.

Olean No. 1 Ada Burks flowed 56.7 barrels of 32 gravity oil in 24 hours through a 24-64 choke. Tube pressure 150, and the gas-oil ratio was 846-1. The 5 1/2-in. string was set at 1,235 feet and production was from open hole from that point to bottom at 1,259. The hole was treated with 10,000 gallons of frac. Location is 330 from north and 1,657-1 from the west lines of section 27-17, SPRR, Mitchell County.

Saturday Ray Albaugh No. 1 Mrs. C. A. Burton, one mile southwest of the discoverer of the Albaugh (Fusselman) pool, had drilled to 1,300 in anhydrite. This 8,500-foot prospector is located 660 from the north and west lines of the northeast quarter of section 26-17, SPRR.

Operator was waiting on orders at total depth of 12,117 feet. The venture is located 660 from the south and east lines of labor 25, league 26S, Borden CSL, 2 1/2 miles southeast of the Breedlove pool and about five miles southwest of Patricia.

On a drillstem test Saturday from 12,066-117, the tool was open one hour and 20 minutes. Operator reversed out 530 feet of mud, 5,740 feet of mud cut with oil, gas and sulphur water, 28 feet of free oil, then 180 feet of mud cut with oil, gas and sulphur water, and finally with 2,970 feet of sulphur water. The flowing pressure was from 3,270-4,220 and the 30-minute shut-in pressure was 4,700.

Hammond and Pan-American No. 1 J. S. Scott, another Northern Martin venture six miles southwest of Patricia, drilled Saturday to 3,381 in lime and shale. This is located 660 from the south and west lines of labor 5-26 Borden CSL.

MOCKING BIRD, MONKEY AND HOOT OWL ALL OIL LINGO

NEW YORK — Originality of speech is a distinctive characteristic of the men who labor in the nation's oil fields. They frequently have their own terms for everyday objects.

"Petroleum Today," published by the American Petroleum Institute, says names of animals, birds and insects crop up repeatedly in oil field lingo.

A mockingbird, for example, is a squeak in an engine. An alligator is a wrench with long jaws. A pig is a "scraper" that squeals as it is pushed through pipelines to clean them and a snake is a device for threading and pulling a cable through small openings. Also, there are monkeys, rock hounds, and boll weevils. Translated, a monkey is a man who works high in the oil well derrick, a rock hound is a geologist and a boll weevil is a greenhorn on a drilling crew.

Hoot owl is the term for the work shift from midnight to 8 a.m. An elephant is a powerful pumping unit.

A bear cat is a well that produces great quantities of oil, while the widely-known term, wildcat, refers to a well drilled in a region where no oil has ever been found.

4 BILLION BARRELS Sahara Oil Pool Is Big Reserve

DALLAS — One of the biggest oil fields in the world has been found in the French Sahara. At Hassi Messaoud (translation, "Blessed Well") field, discovered in 1956, estimated oil reserves have reached four billion barrels in only three years, writes Dr. Alain Perdon of the Bureau de Recherches de Petrole, in a current article in The Petroleum Engineer, international oil and gas magazine.

More than $100 million will be spent on exploration in the Sahara in 1960. The first exploratory permits for the desert area were awarded by the French government in 1952. In 1953 exploration activities required 2,077 men and cost $6 million. In 1959, 7,500 men were employed and $87 million was spent searching for oil and gas, relates the author in the first comprehensive and detailed article on Sahara operations to be published in this country.

One of a series called "Global Notebook" on world petroleum operations, the current article states France has stood by the 50-50 division of profits and that, together with some promising geology and oil and gas discoveries, has kept outside capital and technology sweeping into the vast desert. The Algeria-Sahara is almost four times as big as Texas.

EL PASO (AP) — The El Paso Electric Co.'s directors proposed Friday a stock dividend of one share for each 15 held.

"And now for the footnote..."

Dodgers Will Get Better

By JACK HAND
VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Walter Alston expects his Los Angeles Dodgers, hardened in the fire of a tough pennant race, to be even better than last year's world champions.

"Kids like Don Demeter, Johnny Roseboro, Maury Wills, Larry Sherry and even an older fellow like Charlie Neal have been helped by the pressure of a series. This time we will have men like Sherry, Wills and Roger Craig from the start, plus another year of experience for Demeter and Roseboro."

"I don't know if we can win. We had a lot of things going for us last year. We were able to maneuver to keep the hot bat in the lineup."

Alston squeezed the maximum out of his entire 25-man club. He had men like Gil Hodges, Norm Larker, Junior Gilliam, and Neal who would play two or three different positions. When a player didn't hit a certain pitcher, he was able to replace him.

Sherry, of course, was the big man for the Dodgers in the playoff and again in the World Series, coming from the bull pen to appear in four games. Because Sherry wants to be a starter, Alston is giving him his chance.

A fine spring comeback by Ed Roebuck who had an 11-0 record in winter ball in the Dominican Republic, might permit Sherry to toy with starting for a time. Eventually, he probably will be needed back in the bull pen.

Alston has Don Drysdale (17-13), Johnny Podres (14-9), Sandy Koufax (9-6), Craig (11-5), Danny McDevitt (10-8) and Stan Williams (5-5) for starting before Sherry (7-2). If Roebuck (13-10 at St. Paul), Johnny Klippstein (4-0) and Clem Labine (5-10) can handle the relief, Sherry might remain on the starting line.

Frank Howard, the big first basemen-outfielder, probably will go back to the minors for more seasoning. Hodges (.276) is in charge at first with Neal (.287) at second and Gilliam .282 at third. Wills (.260) is the shortstop but he is getting tough competition from Bobby Lillies (.286 at Spokane) and Don Zimmer (.165) at catcher.

The Dodgers handled Milwaukee and San Francisco without too much trouble last year. Does Alston expect to have any new problems with Milwaukee, now that Chuck Dressen, his former coach, is managing the Braves?

"I worry more about Hank Aaron and Eddie Mathews than a guy sitting on the bench," said Alston.

Giel Is Certain He Can Make It

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Paul Giel, the former all-America football player at Minnesota who chose to play professional baseball instead, thinks this could be the year he proves he made the right decision.

"I'm confident I can pitch," Giel said Friday. "It's just a case now of proving it to other people. You know, prove it to those people who can keep me in the big leagues or leave me at Salt Lake City." Giel signed as a bonus baby with the old New York Giants in 1954. He was pretty much of a flop with the Giants and was sold to Pittsburgh last summer. In eight innings for the Pirates, Giel posted a 13.5 earned run average. Now he's on the roster of the Buc minor league affiliate at Salt Lake. But he's determined to make the grade. "I worked hard during the winter developing a slider and a change-up," he said, adding:

"I figured it was up to myself to prove things. I had to get back in the big leagues." Paul has appeared in seven innings for the Pirates so far this spring, and has looked good.

Sweetwater Meet Is Set Apr. 29

SWEETWATER (SC) — The annual Sweetwater Invitational Golf tournament will be held April 29-30 and May 1, it has been announced.

Qualifying for the championship flight is down for April 29. Jack Williams of Plainview is the defending titlist. He is expected to enter again this year. The annual pro-am golf tournament is slated June 2 here.

Gottlieb To Meet With Chamberlain

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Eddie Gottlieb, owner of the Philadelphia Warriors, says he'll meet with his star rookie Wilt Chamberlain, next week and try to change his mind about quitting the National Basketball Assn.

Gottlieb would neither confirm nor deny reports he had offered Chamberlain a three-year contract for approximately $100,000 a season. He reportedly received $30,000 this year, making him the highest paid player in the NBA.

The Warriors' owner said he was startled by Chamberlain's announcement. Coach Neil Johnston and Wilt's teammates also were taken by surprise. All said he had not mentioned quitting to them.

"I talked with him last week," Gottlieb said. "I made him an offer. There was nothing definite. I understood we would discuss it further. That $100,000 figure must have been gotten from him. You know I never disclose figures. As far as I'm concerned if he wants to play it's up to him."

"I expect to talk to Wilt again after Monday."

Chamberlain could not be reached at home Friday night for comment. A married sister, Yvonne Taylor, said he was out of town. Mrs. Taylor referred to a statement Chamberlain made to the New York Post.

"If I continue I feel it might be bad for me and my race. If I come back and score less than I did last year, I may lose my poise and I don't want that. I want to keep my equilibrium. I have achieved everything a man can achieve in pro basketball."

Chamberlain told newsmen that racial problems had "some connection with my decision but that wasn't the entire reason." He did not elaborate, other than to say he was not referring to his teammates.

"I don't think he realized the physical punishment he would have to take," said Johnston.

"He took more than his share." Chamberlain previously had complained of rough treatment and double and triple teaming by opposing teams to keep his scoring and rebounding down.

BIG SPRING, TEXAS

THIS STACK OF MONEY IS COUNTED, says Mrs. Odell Womack, left in picture at right, as she and Mrs. J. W. Furqueron check up on the tickets sold and the funds on hand for the Tasting Tea scheduled for Saturday from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m. The benefit tea will be given by the Council of Big Spring Garden Clubs in the Student Union Building at Howard County Junior College. Tickets are priced at 50 cents, with proceeds going into the fund for the formal rose garden which the group has recently planted at City Park.

UM-MM-MM, SOUNDS GOOD, say Mrs. J. W. Dickens, at typewriter, and Mrs. Travis Carlton, as they prepare copies of recipes for the Tasting Tea to be given Saturday afternoon. Admission to the tea will be 50 cents, and guests may buy recipes for dishes they like for 10 cents apiece. A change in arrangements over last year's tea will avoid the failure of recipe delivery, it has been announced. Each member will make 50 copies of the recipe for the dish she prepares, and no orders will be taken for filling at a later date.

LOW CALORIE? — Well, not very low—but worth the additional food value, because these chocolate mint sticks are so-oo-o good! They are to be one of the entries for the Tasting Tea, slated for Saturday at Howard County Junior College; they are made by Mrs. Joe Horton, right in picture at left, who offers a sample to Mrs. Bill Tubb, president of the Council of Big Spring Garden Clubs, sponsoring body for the tea. The mint sticks are a brownie type of confection, with the added interest of mint frosting and almonds instead of pecans.

Photos by Keith McMillin

TAKING IT EASY NOW are these members of the clean-up squad for the Tasting Tea, but their time will come after the closing hour of 6:30 p.m. Saturday. Representing the After Five Garden Club are Mrs. Luther McDaniel, at left, and Mrs. Adrian Randle. Mrs. Dale Smith and Mrs. Dave Dorchester are members of the Spaders Garden Club. All units of the Council of Big Spring Garden Clubs are represented on committees for the affair, proceeds from which will help pay for the formal rose garden recently planted in City Park.

ANTIQUe RECIPES, according to Mrs. D. S. Riley, right in picture at right, are some she found in the small cabinet when she began readying it to hold recipes at the Tasting Tea on Saturday. Mrs. Riley and Mrs. Clyde Angel chuckle over a recipe given the former at one of her bridal showers preceding her marriage in March, 1927. The two, along with Mrs. John Balch, who was unavailable for the picture, will be in charge of the sale of recipes, priced at 10 cents apiece.

GARDEN COUNCIL

Second Tasting Tea Planned For Saturday

Another round of fun and feasting is in store for Big Springers on Saturday when the Council of Big Spring Garden Clubs stages its second tasting tea.

Proceeds from the tea, scheduled from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m. Saturday in the Howard County Junior College Student Union Building, will go into the fund for the rose garden which the council has recently planted in City Park.

Idea of the tea is that each member of the various units of the council prepares a dish to be on display at the tea. It may be an exotic concoction, a family favorite, a casserole, a dish which is especially easy to prepare, is very economical or one that will fit into any other category.

As guests arrive at the tea they will be given paper plates in which to put a sample of each of the dishes which appeal to them. Recipes for the foods will be available for 10 cents apiece; admission to the tea is set at 50 cents.

Mrs. Travis Carlton is general chairman of the tea, while Mrs. Odell Womack is in charge of publicity. Tickets are the responsibility of Mrs. J. W. Furquerson; Mrs.

Zack Gray will arrange for hostesses for the afternoon.

Making arrangements for the tea table and the refreshments is a committee headed by Mrs. Dale Smith, who along with Mrs. Dave Dorchester, Mrs. Adrian Randle and Mrs. Luther McDaniel, will form the clean-up group.

Tables for the display of food are to be arranged by Mrs. Joe Horton and her committee; Mrs. Clyde Angel and Mrs. John Balch are co-chairmen of the recipe sales committee, and Mrs. J. W. Dickens has the task of checking the food and recipes.

Included in the receiving line will be presidents of the garden clubs in the council. They are Mrs. Gray, Mrs. Lee Shattel, Mrs. Randle, Mrs. J. W. Trantham, Mrs. Angel, Mrs. W. F. Taylor, Mrs. Carlton and Mrs. Bill Tubb, council president.

Announcement has been made of a change in the sale of recipes over the plan used at the tea last year. Each member will make 50 copies of the recipe for her dish, and when they are gone—that's it—no orders will be taken for delivery at a later date.

Roses Need Food For Growth And Abundant Blooms

When the last danger of freezing is over and new spring growth has begun, roses need generous feedings of prescribed plant food to make them burst with new vigor and abundant flowers. The larger the rosebush, the more flowers it can produce with proper nourishment.

Agronomists say that roses grow best in a slightly acid soil — one that is well-fertilized with nitrogen, phosphorus and potash and enough calcium and iron to retain a pH level of about 6.5. This soil balance is easily obtained through rose food, applied several times during the plants' growing season.

As soon as buds begin to grow, the agronomists say, established roses can be fed by spreading rose food around each plant in a broad band at the rate of one-half cup per plant. Scratch the fertilizer into the soil, then water well to carry the nutrients down to the plant's root area. Continue to feed each plant in this same manner every month.

MR. AND MRS. GRADY SCOTT

Easter Wedding Leads To 50th Anniversary

LAMESA—On an Easter Sunday 50 years ago a young couple drove up in front of the Methodist parsonage in a horse-drawn buggy and sat there while the pastor, the Rev. B. R. Young, performed the ceremony which made them man and wife.

Today, that couple, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Scott, will be honored by their children with an open house to mark their golden wedding anniversary. The ceremony will be held at the Scott home, 807 N. 18th St., from 2:30 to 5:30 p.m.

During the past 50 years, the Scotts' anniversary, March 27, has fallen on Easter Sunday only one time.

Mrs. Scott was Annie Pruitt, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Pruitt, and her husband is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Scott. Both came to Dawson County with their families in 1907; she from Corsicana, and he, from Abilene.

The Scotts settled on what is now the Bearden place three miles south of Lamesa on the Stanton Road; the Pruitts lived just two miles south of them.

There wasn't any honeymoon for the newlyweds of five decades past. They waited until their oldest son, Leonard, was eight months old before they took a trip. Mrs. Scott recalled that it was during the drought of 1912 that they, along with five other families made a junket east to Corsicana. The trip, made in six covered wagons, took 18 days one way, a distance of some 350 miles.

Watching popular Western television shows these days brings back memories to the Scotts, who like to recall the pleasures of their 1912 trip and the good times the families had camping on the trail. The group included the late Dub Boldin and Mrs. Boldin, Mrs. Scott's parents, and three of her sisters, their husbands and children.

As newlyweds the Scotts didn't live in a sod house; they were fortunate to have a good frame house on the farm.

"We mostly lived off the farm," Mrs. Scott said. They raised chickens, had their own dairy products and meats, and raised vegetables in the garden. Once a month Scott freighted in a load of groceries for J. R. Flaniken from Big Spring, and about once a week they went to Lamesa in a buggy.

"You couldn't leave any staple groceries of any kind in the buggy in town," Mrs. Scott said. "Some cow was sure to walk by and eat them."

The Scotts moved into Lamesa in 1920 and lived in town until 1946, when they moved two miles west of town on Seminole Road. It was only the first of this month that the Scotts moved into the brick veneer home they purchased at 307 N. 18th St.

They have four children: Leonard, Lamesa; Mrs. Calloway Huffaker, Tahoka; Dorman Scott, Plains; and Eldred Scott, Carlsbad, N. M. There are nine grandchildren, who will also assist with the reception today, and three great-grandchildren.

Choose By Type

When selecting a sherry, you choose it by type rather than by vintage. There is no such thing as "vintage sherry." In Spain, where all true sheries are produced, a solera or cask system of aging and blending sheries is used; each sherry is a blend containing a little of a "mother wine" which have been started 80 to 100 years ago.

Local OES Members Attend Lamesa Fete For Grand Officers

LAMESA — The worthy grand patron of Texas, Order of the East-er Star, was honored with a special program by Lamesa chapter 363 Thursday night. He is Dr. R. O. Fuqua, who with 10 other grand chapter officers visited the lodge.

The hall was decorated in Easter motif with rabbits and colorful eggs at vantage points, and a mailbox in the East was marked with Dr. Fuqua's name.

Introducing the program, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Douglas of Big Spring sang two numbers accompanied by Leonard Ellington of Seagraves, grand organist. Dr. Fuqua was conducted on an Easter egg hunt along the Bunny Trail by Herman Bartlett, worthy patron of the Lamesa chapter; the trail ended at the mail box, which held a bunny eating carrots with money leaves.

Mrs. Bob Lindsey Jr. was chairman for the program, Pathway of Service; others participating in addition to Bartlett were Mrs. Nancy Johnson, conductress, Mrs. Forrest Faulkenberry, associate worthy matron; Mrs. Jeff Shipp, associate conductress and Mrs. Al Griffin, worthy matron.

Guests were registered by Mrs. Ross Boardman and Mrs. Cole Shafer. The 107 attending were from Plains, Hobbs, N.M., Midland, Andrews, Sweetwater, Seagraves, Big Spring, Goldsmith, Brownfield, Ruidoso, N. M., Crane, Dunn, Odessa and Lamesa.

It's an active household at 614 Tulane—that's where the A. H. Teddlie family lives. With two youngsters, David and Diana, ages 5 and 1½ respectively, Nita and Bert Teddlie often have to pant keeping up.

Take the time David, a little younger than he is now, dumped an entire set of Mickey Mouse water colors into his doctor father's aquarium of tropical fish.

"It rather dampened my fish-raising enthusiasm," relates Dr. Teddlie. Since Diana has reached the toddler stage, in defense of his helpless fish Bert has moved the aquarium to his office.

The general practitioner has discovered that his 10-gallon aquarium entertains not only children who are patients, but adults as well. "We are expecting a new family of puppies any day now, and the nurses have to come in every morning to see if they have arrived," says Dr. Teddlie.

The Teddlies moved here from Mexia, where Bert was connected with the Christoffer-Edgar Clinic, to join the staff at the Big Spring Clinic. The couple feels that West Texas is growing and that there is good opportunity here.

Dr. Teddlie, the son of a Church of Christ minister, set a precedent for his younger brother, and soon the two Teddlie boys will be two Dr. Teddlies. Bonar Teddlie is now a senior at Southwestern Medical School in Dallas.

Bert, after attending East Texas State College, graduated from the University of Texas Medical School branch in Galveston in 1957. His internship was in Scott and White Hospital in Temple.

While Bert was in medical school, Mrs. Teddlie taught Nita, a graduate of Baylor University, had majored in elementary education and art. For one year she taught the fifth grade, and the next she instructed art in a junior high school.

Art still holds Nita's interest, and the brunette enjoys water colors and working with clay.

"We like good music," remarks Mrs. Teddlie, and the family is well equipped for it. In their living room are two large cabinets of beautiful wood that house a hi fi unit and speaker. Dr. Teddlie's brother built them.

The newest of sports for this family is archery. Bert and Nita decided that it was a sport the whole family could enjoy so they all now own bows. Dr. Teddlie is hoping to get good enough by hunting season to get a deer.

David is already following his father's footsteps in his love of outdoor life, fishing and hunting. In the backyard he has set up a tent and is now waiting for warm nights when he can really "camp out."

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

When fashion editors from coast to coast were feted at a Western style barbecue, Fashion Editor Dorothy Roe of Associated Press tells of the menu served at the big affair at Byer-Rolnick ranch near Dallas. Among things western were barbecued cow, says Miss Roe, which shows right off how much she found out about what was roasted. Also she was delighted with a generous portion of Pecan son-of-a-gun, ingredients of which she innocently believes were tender chunks of Texas beef, and tiny fresh onions, new potatoes and young carrots. Of course, if this stew was made by an east Texas recipe that might be tender chunks of beef, but if it's real Pecan son-of-a-gun 'that ain't the ~~cat~~ heard it'.

Your Handwriting Will Tell Secrets Of Your Personality

By ANNE LEFEVER
Want to know more about your boy friend's personality when he's off-guard? Maybe you wonder what makes the one and only girl behave as she does. Just get your hands on an example of the handwriting of the object of your affections and have it analyzed.

Mrs. Bedford Forrest, 1408 Wood, who has made quite a study of graphology, will assure you that handwriting very accurately discloses traits of character.

"The study of graphology is a science and not just fortune telling as so many think," Mrs. Forrest remarked. "It is based on a combination of psychology and psychiatry."

The vivacious young Mrs. Forrest, wife of the drama and speech teacher at Big Spring High School, became interested in the study of handwriting about 10 years ago, when she was a librarian at Hereford.

Only about 300 books are in existence at the present time which deal with graphology, she stated, and they are in a New York library. She has made a thorough study of about six or eight, she believes.

Far from being just a source of entertainment, the graphologist said, the science is assisting now in the detection of certain diseases or tendencies to illness, mental trouble or character faults. Corporations use it often, she stated, in employee placement.

The dotting of an i can give a lead to your personality in the position of kind of dot. A person who uses a circle over an i is usually self-conscious and egotistical, Mrs. Forrest said, mentioning the fact that young girls often affect this type of dot.

A person who has powers of concentration will dot his i's low and directly over the letter; a dot to the left shows a cautious personality, while if it is to the right, the writer is an impulsive type.

Does the cross on your t's slant up? Then you have a strong desire for self-improvement, according to Mrs. Forrest, who added that an obstinate person will cross a t with a downward slant. The sensitive soul, who brooks no criticism, crosses the t without lifting his pen from the paper, thereby making a star effect.

Long downward loops on letters show a love of sports, while a humble person makes upper loops very low on such letters as k, h, and l. If the top loops are extra large, he is likely to be vain and imaginative, Mrs. Forrest remarked.

The slant of your lines in writing gives an insight into your personality, too. The straightforward, honest person will write on the same level as he fills a page, while the careless person will hold to no certain line, but will bobble along writing in uneven heights.

When lines of writing slant slightly up, the writer is recognized as ambitious; too much slant upward is the mark of a most optimistic person—one who borders on being a dreamer. A downward slant portrays the pessimistic trait of a gloomy, moody personality.

Again, Mrs. Forrest said, the slant of each letter is an indication of character. Slanted to the right, letters denote emotional qualities; if the slant is to the left, the writer is inclined to be an introvert and may be a bit conceited.

A stinging writer will begin his sentences close to the margin of his paper, the graphologist noted.

Large writing designates a generous and artistic nature, while small letters show the person to have a high degree of intelligence.

Open o's and a's show the writer is gossipy, but your secrets will be safe with that one who closes such letters.

Signatures which end with a large, flamboyant flourish are the work of a selfish, unsympathetic nature, Mrs. Forrest disclosed; if the flourish is above the name—and this is rare—it shows a desire to protect others. A signature which dwindles off into nothingness denotes a person who is curious and suspicious.

Mr. and Mrs. Forrest enjoy entertaining informally in their home, and quite often the hostess is beset for "readings" by her guests.

So popular has it become that she is thinking of turning it into a commercial project.

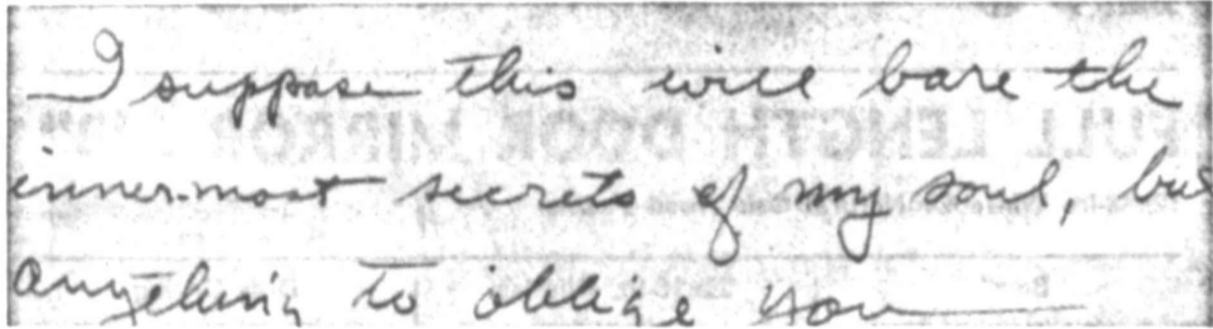

The couple, married about five and a half years ago in Hereford, where they grew up together, have three adorable daughters. Pam, 3½, is a perfect blonde, while Cherry, 1½, is an exact opposite with large brown eyes and dark hair. Six-month-old Cathy looks as if she may combine brown hair with lovely blue eyes.

Not too much time is left from the care of three such lively youngsters, but Mrs. Forrest manages to indulge her hobby of reading and also work out analysis of writing for club appearances.

Graphologist

Mrs. Bedford Forrest shows a chart which she uses in analyzing handwriting. Many phases of personality are apparent in the way a writer slants his letters, in the slope of lines and in the formation of letters, according to Mrs. Forrest, who entertains friends with her readings. She has been a speaker at several clubs recently.

From The Herald Staff

This is an example of the handwriting of a member of the Herald's editorial staff. Analyzed by Mrs. Bedford Forrest, it shows the writer to be determined and rather obstinate. This is shown by the long ending on the final word; such an ending is characteristic of the signature, also.

Slope of the lines and the slant of the letters denote strong self-control. Spaces between the lines designate a good organizer and an excellent judge of character. Formation of the m and n means the writer is mentally and physically alert with an abundance of energy.

New Invention Keeps Powder Puffs Clean

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor
Ruth Mischel Susselman decided to make a powder puff just as you would a cake—in layers. Her 12-layer puff is a dream come true, which took her more than three years to develop. Says she:

"It wasn't easy, but once I got the idea, I stuck with it. I worked with chemists, and we had to develop machinery to do a large enough production to make such a small item pay off. But we did it. Now the puff is on its way to Sweden, Hawaii, Canada, Cuba, South Africa, and on cosmetics counters all over America."

The puff is about one-quarter of an inch thick, and when you use it for a day or two, you just peel off a layer and throw it away. "Some girls use it three days, some two days. It depends on your own fastidiousness," Mrs. Susselman points out. "But it is a development that has pleased dermatologists. They are always touting the clean puff for clean skin theory, so we don't have to sell them on the idea."

This sanitary new powder puff is for use in compacts. Each soft layer of cotton adheres to another layer. It is gently pulled away.

"Some of the problems to be solved included getting a thin enough layer of cotton so that the powder wouldn't seep through the cotton. Another was getting a heavy enough layer of cotton so that the powder would adhere to the cotton. These were delicate points to be worked out before we could proceed," she explains. The puff is designed to last one month, if one layer is used every three days.

"I was always unhappy when going out to dinner in the evening to discover a dirty puff in my purse, and to worry about this inconvenience bothered me," says Mrs. Susselman. "I decided one day to do something about it, and that's how the idea was born." Her teen-age children are very understanding and considerate, and her husband is a lawyer, who takes care of patent problems, account books and other legal advice.

"Now that I've had the thrill of creating something that has

Western Garb Adopted By Fashion Editors

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Women's Editor

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Did you ever see 40 fashion editors, accustomed to working clothes of the indispensable little black dress and pearls, go Western?

This is a sight not soon forgotten, easily the high spot of this week's extra-curricular activities staged by the Dallas fashion manufacturers. The locals the Byer-Rolnick Ranch, a hoot and a holler out of Dallas. The characters visiting fashion editors from newspapers coast-to-coast and ranging members of the manufacturers' group. The costumes: tennison hats, bandannas, square dresses and frontier pants.

Editors who forgot to bring along their cowboy costumes were supplied at the door of the ranch house with sombreros and bandannas. These included such fashionable figures as: Fay Hammond, of the Los Angeles Times; Gay Pauley, women's editor of UPI; Susan Barden, of King Features; Alice Hughes, New York columnist; Helen Stote, of the Colorado Springs Free Press and others of like caliber.

The hosts arrived in proper Western outfits such as red-satin cowboy shirts, custom-tailored blue jeans and hundred-dollar tennison hats. Square-dance music by a three-piece cowboy band, a mesquite fire in the great fireplace and tantalizing odors from the chuck wagon outside provided the correct atmosphere.

The menu: barbecued pig, cow and chicken, chili beans, country salad and fried pies. Calorie counters forgot their diets, the cowboy music stepped up its tempo and the general scene resembled a hoe-down of frontier days. Aside from barbecue specials, some of the favorite dishes of Dallas, served up in the city's newest luxury hotel, include Pecos son-of-a-gun stew, consisting of a "pot-pourri" of the best of East Texas, such as tender chunks of Texas beef, young carrots, tiny onions, little new potatoes, all simmered lovingly and served up steaming in a rich gravy. Another specialty is the Judge Roy Bean chopped sirloin steak. If none of those delicacies intrigue you, you may settle for "scrapping valley pork chops," a "trail driver steak" or a Big Foot Wallace cut of roast beef. The latter is a portion "appropriate for the appetite of Texas' own Paul Bunyan, Big Foot Wallace, fearless Ranger, Indian fighter and a founding father of Texas."

Demonstrations Fills Time Of Knott Club At Tuesday Meeting

An embroidery demonstration was given Tuesday when members of the Knott Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. W. A. Burchell.

The hostess brought the devotion, while Mrs. Louie Mathes led in prayer.

The resignation of Mrs. P. P. Coker as council delegate and recreation leader was accepted. Mrs. Coker is moving to Anson.

Elected to fill the vacancy as council delegate was Mrs. Billy Gaskins. Mrs. Mathis was appointed as recreation leader.

Birthday celebrations during the month of March include Mrs. Morris Cockrell, Mrs. Coker, and Mrs. Joe Mac Gaskins. These women were presented with gifts by the club. Three new members joined the 10 present. They were Mrs. N. A. Jones, Mrs. B. J. Williams, and Mrs. J. L. Metcalf. The next meeting of the group will be in the home of Mrs. Morris Cockrell on April 12. This will be an all-day meeting and members are to bring a covered dish for the luncheon. Mrs. Jimmie Dee Jones will present a demonstration on how to cover shoes with material.

Party Pants Rate High

There's nothing that will pep up a girl's morale like a glamorous outfit for at-home entertaining.

Right now an ideal project for home sewing is an Oriental blouse with tapered pants.

When you make your own, you're sure of perfect fit — a difficult thing to achieve in ready-made slacks or party pants. Use a standard printed pattern as your guide and make pattern adjustments before cutting your fabric.

The secret of the fit of the popular skinny pants is a properly selected and applied zipper, which can be almost invisible and permits a smooth, body-moulding fit. Only a zippered pants leg can truly be made skin tight.

Since many women look on zipper application as a chore, a new zipper with a bead-like woven sewing guide line placed at just the right distance from the chain makes the job almost fool-proof.

For your at-home glamour outfit, you will need four zippers: a neckline zipper for the blouse packet, a skirt zipper for the trouser hip, a pair of neckline zippers for the pants legs. All zippers are available in a variety of lengths, so check your pattern envelope to determine the lengths and styles you will need. And take along a swatch of your fabric to insure an exact color match.

Energetic

Hildegard believes that people are pill-happy today with drugs for sleep, to calm nerves and curb appetites. Her energy comes from eating plenty of vegetables and exercising every day.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Peppy Singer Has Magic Menu Diet

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — "The incomparable Hildegard" is the name of an album in which this talented performer sings to her piano accompaniment. Because she had her first great success in Paris, many are surprised to learn she was born in Wisconsin.

When Hildegard was playing in Hollywood's Coconut Grove, a producer in our party said he had known her for more than 20 years and that she had not lost any of her exuberance or vitality.

Later when we met for a chat, I repeated this compliment and asked where she hid her fountain of youth.

"It lies somewhat in a background of health; my ancestors were sturdy people, but also I have an appreciation of my body. I do not understand people who fail to take care of the gift of health," she replied.

"There are so many destructive forces today that pollute the air we breathe and the food we eat. And there are so many pills on the market—some to induce sleep, some to make you peppy, some to kill your appetite—these all undermine health."

In the corner of her suite was a big wicker basket which she explained was her portable kitchen. She uncovered a juicer and said:

"My energy comes from nutritional eating. I make a health cup of carrots, parsley and dandelion greens or spinach and it's delicious. Their therapeutic value is remarkable and I'm never ill."

"I like a healthful breakfast, and I make my own tea from a mixture of herbs. I have whole-grain bread with soy butter, honey, two boiled eggs and fruit in season."

"For lunch I have my vegetable juices and skim milk. At night I have a good dinner with meat, steamed vegetables and a salad."

"I count calories. It isn't easy for me to stay away from hash-brown potatoes, buttered rolls, pies and all those pastry goodies. Six days a week I discipline myself, but Sunday is my day of indulging."

Hildegard weighs herself every morning because she knows how hard it is to take off a lot of weight.

"If I feel the need of it," she explained, "I go on my diet which I call 'magic menus' because if I stay with them, the pounds drop off like magic."

"And I believe in exercise, too," Hildegard continued. "I have to use my body or it becomes flabby. It is amazing how little you have to exercise, provided you do it every day. The importance of this habit cannot be exaggerated. I saw Irene Castle the other day; she is in wonderful condition and she told me her secret was daily gymnastics."

"I have a few favorites I do every morning," she went on. "I keep my knees straight and bend over touching the floor in front of me. Then I bend to each side, 12 times in each direction—first left, then right. Each time I come up I inhale and stretch my arms above my head as far as I can. This makes me feel wonderful."

"The parts of our body we do not use are the first to get flabby and the two spots most neglected are under the chin and the upper arms."

She showed me a gadget that she uses for stretching. The resistance gives her arms a good workout where she needs it most.

"Here is my pecking exercise to keep away a double chin," she said, keeping her shoulders still and jutting out her chin as far as she could and bringing it back quickly.

Hildegard's name has appeared innumerable times on best-dressed women lists.

"I love clothes and I get fashion ideas wherever I travel," she warned against being impressed with an article just because it has a famous name or a fabulous price.

"You will find the elements of chic are always the same—a combination of taste, simplicity and an individual elegance," she concluded.

HILDEGARDE'S EAT AND REDUCE 'MAGIC' DIET
Would you like to eat three full meals a day and watch the pounds melt away? Leaflet M-18, "Hildegard's Eat-and-Reduce 'Magic Diet,'" will show you how. In eight days, you should be eight pounds lighter. By following the planned menus on this leaflet, you will satisfy your hunger at each meal and still lose weight. For your copy of this vital leaflet, send only 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, Big Spring Herald.

Marcy School P-TA Hears Safety Talks

Three civilian safety experts from the Webb-Big Spring community were guests speakers at a recent meeting of the Marcy School P-TA.

Lester Wilbank, fire prevention inspector at Webb, gave a talk and demonstration on fire safety in the home and school. Mr. Wilbank in his presentation touched on the chemistry of fire, static electricity as a fire potential, overloading of electrical units, and the various around-the-house agents capable of inducing spontaneous combustion. He also warned against the things that could asphyxiate the occupants of a house.

Lloyd D. Harp of the Wing Ground Safety Office, showed a first aid film, featuring the mouth-to-mouth technique in artificial respiration.

Traffic safety as pertaining to the child, was dealt with by James Eubanks, secretary of the Citizens Traffic Commission.

Super-Structure For New Sanctuary

Perched high on scaffolding, J. W. Little contractor, checks alignment of the 35-ft. laminated wooden beams which will support the 3-in. roof decking for the new Wesley Methodist Sanctuary at 12th and Owens. The beams rest directly on concrete piers which extend slightly above the ground. Thus the sanctuary roof will give the appearance of rising directly from the ground level to house the 93x50-ft. sanctuary. The decking will be covered with a heavy hand-roved type of shingle.

Juvenile Board May Be Set Up

Representatives of three governmental agencies will meet Monday to take another step toward organizing a juvenile board here.

The city, county and school system will ultimately name two members each to serve on the six-member board. The Monday meeting is to discuss possible candidates. Each agency is to suggest five names and six of the 15 will probably be named at the later meeting.

Tuesday, the school board decided on its five suggestions. They are Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper, Clyde McMahon, Mrs. Anne Houser, Dr. Marvin Baker, and Obie Bristow.

The city commission discussed the possibility of naming several persons during its Tuesday meeting, but no definite suggestions were decided upon.

Newsmen On Growth Panel

AUSTIN — Three leading Texas newspapermen will be discussion moderators and two will deliver key addresses at a March 28-29 public affairs reporting conference on Texas cities and the population explosion, sponsored by the University of Texas School of Journalism.

Moderators will be Robert W. Akers, Beaumont Enterprise-Journal editor in chief; Robert M. Jackson, Corpus Christi Call-Times editor, and Bill Redell, editorial page editor of the San Antonio Express and News.

Ed N. Wischamper, Abilene Reporter-News managing editor, will speak on "The Newspaper's Role in Rebuilding the Established City." Thomas Thompson, Amarillo Globe-Times editor, will discuss "The Newspaper's Role in Leadership for Meeting the Problems."

One of the conference highlights will be a dinner address by Charles Luckman, who planned the redevelopment of the Bunker Hill area in Los Angeles. Luckman, who has won many honors for his work in architectural design, will tell how larger cities are trying to solve growth and expansion problems.

Douglas Haske'll of New York City, Architectural Forum editor, will deliver the opening address of the conference and present the concluding summary. Joseph Timan of Tucson, Ariz., Horizon Land Corporation president, will speak on "The Newspaper's Role in Helping to Develop the Completely New City."

Graduates Are Seeking Big Volume Of Summer Positions

BY SAM BLACKBURN
Forty-four seniors in this year's graduating class of Big Spring High School have no plans to go to college — 35 of the 44 want jobs.

But that does not set them apart from those who do plan to continue their education, for 124 of those aiming at college want employment.

These were some of the results from the poll of 179 seniors by the BHS counselors in cooperation with the Texas Employment Commission.

Eighty-nine boys and girls planning on college want jobs for this summer, and another 35 of them already have jobs lined up.

Nine of those who were listed as terminal cases (terminating their formal education) also had found employment.

FEW DON'T WANT

Only 11 of the students who plan to enroll in colleges and universities next fall informed the TEC they do not want jobs.

Of the 35 seniors who have no jobs and who want permanent employment, only 11 are boys.

The TEC, according to Leon Kinney, office manager, is working wholeheartedly with the school and with other agencies in trying to line up employment for the youngsters who will need jobs this summer or who need full time work.

Kinney sounded an appeal to all employers who can use a young man or young woman on their staff to contact the TEC and list the work available.

THERE ARE OTHERS

The survey made of the 179 seniors — this is not all of the class, it was explained — brought out the kinds of work the applicants would like to get. Some want to be salesmen and saleswomen. Others want jobs as mechanics, typists, hospital aides, and in many other fields. Any special talents or training the student had are listed on the report forms filled in by the counselors and by the students.

Kinney called attention to the importance to the community of keeping boys and girls of the town living here. Jobs must be found or the youth will move elsewhere to find work.

He said the records of his office reveal a number of young people who have been given jobs under conditions similar to those confronting the boys and girls interviewed in the senior class this year. Some of the youthful workers have made enviable records and have been of great value to their employers, he said.

YES PROJECT

Kinney is hopeful that some enterprise, perhaps like the YES project sponsored in Sarasota, Fla., by the Kiwanis Club, can be initiated here. In Sarasota, the YES (Youth Employment Service) lines up after-school hours and summer jobs for the youth of the community. In 14 months, the service provided jobs for 140 boys and 35 girls.

He believes that a kindred movement here, supported by some civic club, working in harmony with the TEC could duplicate or perhaps excel the record made by Sarasota.

Meanwhile, he points out, it is imperative that work of finding jobs for the boys and girls of the town must be started immediately. School ends before June and, it will be important to the youngsters that they can go immediately to work.

He urged all employers to give the matter serious thought and if a boy or girl can be given a job to contact him at the TEC.

We believe that through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ we shall be saved. (Acts 15:11.)

The Value Is In Its Completeness

Starting Friday, the nation will begin its crucially important head count.

Completeness of the decennial census is important to the nation and to any of its component parts, but it is especially important to areas which are showing substantial growth.

We fit into that category, and a lot more than provincial pride is wrapped up in the need for the most complete census count as is possible.

Many things hinge upon census totals, and economic placements are frequently determined or strongly influenced by census brackets. This applies much more to private business than to government, hence the allocation and placement of distribution facilities may be affected by population levels.

Aside from the head count, there is a wealth of other information to be gained from the federal census. All other data collected during the decade will be estimates, which may or may not be accurate. Only the federal census can reveal the unquestioned information. Businessmen, institutional heads and others thus rely heavily on the census as the base of sound planning.

The value of the census is in its completeness. We hope that when next Friday rolls around that everyone who has received a pre-census blank will have the information filled in and ready.

Vital Element In Master Plan

On Wednesday the master plan committee will convene to continue its advisory work. This time a report from the planning engineers, Forrest & Cotton, concerning projections for water and sewer extensions is due for study.

Of all the elements involved in any master plan, nothing will be quite so expensive as the unfolding of over-all water and sewer development. And conversely, nothing, if wisely and accurately forecast, will offer such an opportunity for real economy to the city if well conceived.

Water or sewer service is not, as too many people suppose, the mere tapping of a line and tying on. Every customer either creates a potential demand or creates a certain load, hence the size of the lateral supply and collecting lines must be well engineered to accommodate the demands. In turn, due allowance must be made for the proper capacity of the main supply lines and outfall lines connecting with the laterals. And back of this, there must be adequate provision for the treating and supply of water up to maximum demands and for the handling and complete treatment of sewage.

Thus, this phase of master planning not only involves costly extensions but it also involves heavy investments in plant. Whatever else a city has, it must start with these two basic services. Few phases of the master plan will carry such a proportion of weight as the report to be received this week.

Marquis Childs Wisconsin Overwhelmed By Kennedys

MILWAUKEE — With the battle lines now clearly drawn, nothing that happens from here on out is likely to alter the nature of the contest in the Democratic primary. It is a contest that may well determine the party's choice for the Presidency.

Almost anyone, whether Republican or Democrat, will tell you that Senator John F. Kennedy is sure to win over Senator Hubert H. Humphrey. But, beneath the calm and even indifferent surface, forces are at work that could alter the result. And moreover, prophecy has always been risky in this politically volatile state.

HUMPHREY IS TRYING hard to get the wayward voter to concentrate on issues and on his record in behalf of farm and labor in contrast to Kennedy's more conservative record. More or less openly he is saying that only a Democrat who comes down strong on the issues in the tradition of Roosevelt and Truman can win in November.

By implying that Kennedy is modeled after Vice President Nixon, a somewhat synthetic candidate with "an overdose of public relations," he is raking a division in the party that alarms some Democratic leaders.

It is something like a plot that Humphrey sees in the buildup the press has given his rival. He is his favorite now and the press lords have contributed mightily to his pre-eminence, in the Humphrey view, but after the nominating conventions they will go all out for Nixon and tear Kennedy to pieces if he is the Democratic nominee.

AS FOR KENNEDY, he is using the technique he employed so successfully in Massachusetts when he ran for the Senate for the first time in 1952. Poor Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., whom he defeated, complained bitterly that he had been the victim of a second Boston Tea Party. The teas that the Kennedy family held in every nook and cranny of Massachusetts had cost in catering bills alone at least $100,000. The unhappy Lodge complained.

The technique relies heavily on personal appeal and organization. Members of the Kennedy family have been deployed through every city and town to exert the family charm for lack. Curiosity alone would turn out numbers of people to see a clan so widely advertised for its success in every department of life. But formal invitations sent well in advance give the occasion a special touch.

"The pleasure of your company is requested on such and such a day at such and such an hour to meet Mrs. Peter Lawford..." This has the glamor of Hollywood and the high-style fashion magazine. Its appeal in Midwestern small towns can well be imagined. Besides the three sisters with their charming tousled hairdos, the candidate's mother, Mrs. Rose Kennedy, was just coming into the state. Inflation On Wane Throughout The World

This is a pleasant hypothesis—pleasant to housewives, workers, business men and investors: Wall Street is in the grip of international forces. Stocks have slipped from their early January perch because inflation is in subsidence the world over. In time, the dollar, franc, and pound will buy more.

Yet deflation has not set in. German production booms and the central bank curbs price advances. France is having extraordinary prosperity and, for a change—an almost historic change—without violent inflation.

THE UNITED STATES also has checked the steady rise in prices. The cost of services inches up, but food prices have been falling. So consumer outlays for food, clothing and shelter have held on a plateau.

This, then, is the hypothesis: The 12 per cent drop in prices in Wall Street reflects the steadiness in wholesale prices in major countries throughout the world in recent years (1953-100):

Country	1953	100
Australia	107	108
Canada	106	104
France	104	101
Germany	106	105
Italy	103	101
Japan	105	98
Holland	107	105
Sweden	110	107
Switzerland	105	102
U. K.	108	111
U. S.	107	108

Wholesale prices do not immediately measure living costs. They don't capture the impact of rising labor costs which go into services. At the moment, they reflect price drops in coffee, sugar, wool, crude oil and other raw materials.

NONE THE LESS, if inflation were ascendant, wholesale price indexes would slope upward instead of flattening out.

This welcome stability in prices is not due to a worldwide slowdown in business. Far from it, industrial activity thrives:

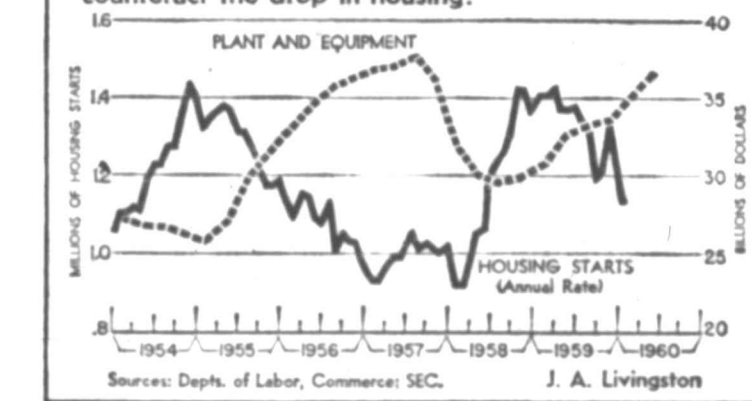

Country	1958	100
Australia	118	128
Canada	120	118
France	115	118
Germany	146	111
Italy	128	117
Japan	179	121
Holland	128	126
Sweden	148	127
Switzerland	115	114
U. K.	142	120
U. S.	102	110

The disinflation hypothesis takes the terror out of the stockmarket decline. Wall Street isn't forecast-

BUSINESS SPENDING TO THE RESCUE?

Will rising expenditures for new plant and equipment counteract the drop in housing?

ing a business calamity in the United States. This is an internal market adjustment. Investors and speculators have "exited out" some of the inflation previously marked into the price tags of U.S. Steel, American Can, General Motors, Standard Oil (N. J.) and other stocks.

SO LONG AS investors felt that living costs would rise, they sought out common stocks as an inflation hedge.

But once the evidence became worldwide that prices were stabilizing in industrial countries, inflation hedges went out of season.

As stocks fell in price, bonds rose. Naturally, if people were less fearful of inflation, then they would be less worried about the purchasing power of the dollar and, therefore, more willing to hold bonds—

"dollar securities." They ceased to demand high interest rates to compensate for the expected loss in the purchasing power of money.

THE DISINFLATION in stocks—from the 1950-60 highs to the lows has varied—13 per cent in the industrials; 22 per cent in the rails; 8 per cent in the utilities; and 12 per cent for the 500 stocks in the Standard & Poor's average.

Stock prices may undergo a further readjustment. Yields on industrial stocks still haven't caught up to bond yields. They have risen from 2.9 per cent to 3.3 per cent. Government yields touched 5 per cent, are now about 4 per cent. However, the two yields can come closer together without another spell in stocks. Here's how:

1. Corporate earnings can rise, thus inducing higher dividends (while stock prices don't go up as much percentage-wise).

2. Bond yields drop further.

3. Any combination of those variables.

AS I SEE IT, no major decline in stocks is probable unless business, itself, takes a header—unless we have a recession. That doesn't seem likely.

To be sure, production dropped a bit last month and housing starts are down. But business men are still optimistic. Plans for spending money on plant and equipment are rising (see chart). Seldom does a recession get under way when capital outlays are expanding.

Besides, the drop in bond yields will encourage states, cities, and other local government units to spend. They can borrow money at attractively low rates.

Around The Rim

Don't Throw 'Em In The Brig Unless—

The newspapers have told about some Dallas cops getting into trouble lately with the wrong kind of arrests. Picked up one kid who turned out to be a mental incompetent; hustled off to the pokie a man who had suffered a diabetic blackout. Goes to show you that law enforcement has its troubles, too. Which is going to take us right into my nights as O.D. in the Navy.

THE U. S. NAVY is a haughty organization that does not know to this day that it had me in its bosom for some months during the unpleasantness of the '40s. If it had known I was really trying, surely it would have treated me better. As it was, I was ripe for the plucking as Junior O.D.

This title, as you know, is for Officer of the Day or Deck. He's the guy who's supposed to be the last authority on the security of the station during his hours of duty. Actually, O.D. is a trap which ensnares junior officers on the nights of gala functions at the officers' club, when all the higher brass are there observing protocol, or something.

SEEMS THAT my O.D. assignments always came on Saturday nights, when there were other things I preferred to do, and when a great many sailors had liberty and always ended up in the wrong places.

The O.D. had serious responsibilities, at the Naval Air Station where I served the most time, and these included keeping a close watch on the parked aircraft to see that no Japs sneaked in and flew 'em off the ramp. There were sentries out around the planes for the same purpose, but they had a habit of wanting to doze after midnight, and it always seemed to me that the O.D. had more trouble with his men on watch than he did with the Japs.

But other than this grave assignment, the O.D. also was confronted with the problem of handling tipsy sailors. There always seemed to be so many of them.

WELL, THE NAVY was careful about one thing: That was to avoid mistakes like those made in Dallas. In other words, do not throw the matey in the brig unless you were just danged sure he was beyond all other help. So, disposing of a drunk in the Navy would become an all night job.

The busy Shore Patrol would haul a youngster in before the O.D.'s desk. Any routine had to be followed. The sailor was dispatched to the hospital, just to be sure it wasn't a seizure, or pills, or anything besides alcohol, that had him in that condition. In an hour or so he would be escorted back in, with a report from the medics that he was in fine shape except for a little over-indulgence.

THEN THE GAME was to be sure the kid belonged to the same outfit. Perhaps he was from a ship in the harbor? Perhaps he was here on TDY? You sure you are attached to this unit?

This took a bit of doing, to match the matey's ID card against the records, and to discover, eventually, that by golly, he was in this outfit, and something had to be done about him.

By this time the boy would have about sobered up under his own power, and it looked like he could be ordered to his own bunk without the welfare of the nation being endangered.

The O.D.'s I knew of sent a lot of kids to bed instead of to the brig. They just wanted to be sure that a diabetic wasn't put behind bars. That would have brought down the wrath of Congress, not to mention the Admiral's. I never met a single guy in the Navy who wanted to brave the Admiral's wrath.

Clear Conscience For Self-Confidence

One winter evening I arrived home around 11:30. My daughter greeted me with the information, "Mr. Thomas Brown phoned. He wants you to call him back. He says he has to see you tonight."

"It's late," I objected.

"I know," she admitted. "I told him that. But he still wants to see you."

Mr. Brown and I had been personally acquainted for quite some time. He is number two man in the management of a very large business. I called him back and asked what the trouble was.

"I don't want to bother you, but I'd like to see you," he said. His voice was jittery.

"Get a cab, and come up here right away."

Fifteen minutes later he walked in. Dropping into a chair he sat for a long moment in silence with his head in his hands. Then he told me what his trouble was. His most valuable assistant had submitted an expense account showing nearly a hundred dollars spent in taxi fares on a business trip in another city. Coincidentally, Mr. Brown had previously received a letter from a friend in that city, saying he had counted it a pleasure to drive Brown's assistant everywhere he wanted to go. Brown called his man in and asked how come.

The man admitted he had "knocked down," as the expression goes, on the taxi fares. And he didn't seem in the least ashamed of it. "Sure, I got paid a good salary," he said. "But I can use a little extra extra now and then. All the boys do it. Tom, I'm surprised you make such a fuss about it. You better take a good look around."

So Brown did take a good look around. And he found these practices rife in the organization. But that wasn't the worst of it.

"The worst is," Brown told me, "I am much inclined to let the whole thing ride. What can I do? Our president is a nervous man. Would he back me up if I made an issue of this? I don't know. I might antagonize half our personnel, maybe even lose us some good men. Besides, many of these fellows are my friends. If I try to crack down, I just don't know where I'll be."

He spent the next hour elaborating on the situation, from this angle and from that, only to come back again to the same point of tortured indecision. Finally I said to him, "Listen, a man of principle has to be tougher-skinned. You not only have an obligation to the company, but also to those men who report to you. You must be firm, for their good. So, set a good example. If you don't you are actually dishonest yourself."

At my suggestion we prayed together about the problem. We prayed for God's guidance. And for the advancement of His kingdom. At length Mr. Brown stood up, relaxed and calm now, saying, "I am going to stand on the side of honesty, no matter what."

And when he left he was, I felt, a very much healthier, happier man than when he had arrived. If I needed further proof of this, I got it when he phoned the next morning and said, "After I left your place, I went and had three hamburgers and two cups of coffee and then slept like a baby until eight o'clock."

He was right with himself again. A clear conscience is the root of self-confidence. Any tampering with it saps your courage. But when you really face an issue and decide for the good, you get an influx of new strength. The greatest strength in the world is that of decency and righteousness.

Meddling In The Other Fellow's Business

WASHINGTON — Sometimes tradition goes by the boards and, as the saying goes, "fools rush in where angels fear to tread." Maybe this time the saying will be reversed and the tacticians of diplomatic policy will be proved not "fools" but "angels."

For the Department of State, in expressing shock and dismay at the way the police fired on a mob in South Africa, certainly reversed tradition. It remains to be seen whether this unprecedented step — making an official comment on the action of another government in a strictly internal police problem — will add up to more advantages than disadvantages.

IT MUST BE NOTED at the outset, however, that the State Department has lately expressed itself on another issue that has always been looked upon as internal, but this didn't attract much attention. Thus Secretary of State Herter sent word to the Korean government the other day that the department here was sorry to read about the disorders attending the election in Korea. The unfortunate implication was that the government in Seoul was somehow responsible for these, when the truth is that the few cases of disorder were the natural outgrowth of deep-seated emotions about the election here and there among the populace. It is doubtful whether many republics have always been free from such disorders in the past.

As for the public comment by the State Department on the South African episode, this may appear to be injudicious in the sense that an internal matter under inquiry by a friendly government is discussed. Incidentally, it puts on the spot the British government, which has remained silent officially. Newspapers in England are taunting the government there by citing the American government's example of outspoken condemnation of the handling of the riots in South Africa.

THERE WAS A TIME WHEN it would have been considered the height of diplomatic impropriety for the American government, or any other, to issue comments on internal happenings in a country with which it was maintaining friendly relations. But the question now has arisen as to whether this type of aloofness has outlived its usefulness.

Art Casting Revolution

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—A process that may revolutionize the casting of metal for art has been developed by Alfred Duca, a professional artist and research associate in the Department of Metallurgy at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

According to the MIT Observer it is the "first real innovation in the ancient art in 5,000 years."

To demonstrate the process, Duca carved foamed polystyrene, a light weight plastic that looks like snow, into the form of a winged Pegasus. This he buried in a sand mould. Then molten bronze was poured into the mould. There was an eruption of smoke and blinding light as the metal vaporized the plastic and replaced it.

Not only is this method far easier and cheaper than conventional ones, Duca says, but it preserves the "organic vitality" of the work of art, because the original carving actually turns into metal.

Frosty Underfoot

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio (AP)—A high school sophomore George VanVoorhis ran the eight miles from West Liberty to here to win a $6 purse put up by other students. His time was slightly less than an hour.

A sheriff's deputy who stopped the youth to advise him to run on the left side of the highway facing oncoming traffic had one explanation for VanVoorhis' haste. The temperature was in the 30s, the highway was chilly underfoot—and the young runner was barefoot.

To Your Good Health

'Trench Mouth' Inflammation Of Gums

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I shall appreciate any information as to how to prevent or improve the bad breath attributed to trench mouth. — H. R."

And, sir, I genuinely appreciate the way you offer your question — asking about bad breath from a particular cause, rather than asking about bad breath in general.

So-called "trench mouth," or Vincent's Disease, or whatever you may choose to call it, is one common cause of foul breath.

There are other causes: Diseased tonsils, sometimes diseases affecting the nose, certainly conditions of the throat or bronchial passages, such as bronchitis, pockets of foul-smelling material.

So a general treatment for "bad breath" does not exist; there are, however, treatments for individual types, depending on the cause of each.

"Trench mouth" (or any of several other names sometimes applied to it) is an inflammation of the gums. It can start without warning and create a characteristic and unpleasant odor.

At least four types of bacteria are known to be associated with this condition. So, you see, it is a disease involving germs. Exactly how and why the germs suddenly decide to start this evil activity — who knows? Who knows exactly why any disease acts as it does?

But torn or irritated gums seem to invite the disease, and a denture which does not fit properly or perhaps a filling with a sharp or rough edge, or a broken tooth is the sort of thing one is apt to find when this disease starts. It is believed, and seems entirely reasonable, that anything which lowers a person's resistance must also be a contributing cause.

What to do to relieve the odor? Get rid of the infection. Great care should be taken in regular mouth and tooth hygiene: Gentle dental floss. I say "gentle" because the gums may bleed very easily and are tender. Anyway, all debris should be removed regularly, and sometimes a hydrogen peroxide rinse (1½ per cent solution) is advised.

That's the patient's part of the job. Your dentist, on the other hand, must start you off by filling cavities, getting rid of "pockets" in the gums, removing calculus or other hard deposits which irritate the gum tissues.

Since the disease has a strong tendency to spread to other parts of the mouth lips, inside of the cheeks, tongue, etc.) it should be treated at once.

Treated quickly, it usually yields quickly, sometimes as fast as a couple of weeks. Allowed to spread to other parts of the mouth, it becomes more stubborn.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there such a thing as an 'inoperable hemorrhoid' caused by repeated childbirth? Please send me your booklet on "The Real Cure for Hemorrhoids." I enclose 20 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope — Mrs. H.D."

The pressures of pregnancy sometimes cause hemorrhoids (discussed in the booklet). For your question: No, there is no such thing as a hemorrhoid which is not amenable to surgery — no such thing as an "inoperable hemorrhoid." If surgery is necessary, my guess is that perhaps you were told that in your case the hemorrhoid was not serious enough to warrant surgery, the idea being that, with the pregnancy over, the problem might be cured naturally, with the pressures relieved.

NOTE TO R.T.E.: Mumps is known to be one of the causes of "one-sided" deafness. This, I think, may very well be the answer to your inquiry.

Are you a victim of "vitamin starvation"? To make sure that your diet always contains proper food, write to me in care of the Big Spring Herald for my pamphlet, "Alphabet of Health," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

CINEMA COMMENT

Take a professor getting kissed by an attractive coed. Introduce one eyes-drooping wife. Complicate with an imaginative family friend who dishes up an alibi about the coed being a Communist agent and the professor working for the FBI. Introduced the aroused suspicions of the real FBI, and add a sudden dash of real Communists.

And there you have the fantastic ingredients of "Who Was That Lady?" The plot's kind of shrewd, but the actors breeze through with such gaiety that no one minds.

Tony Curtis is the prof, Janet Leigh is his jealous wife, and Dean Martin is the friend who gets everyone into trouble. "Who Was That Lady?" is a barrel of monkey business, and this reviewer guarantees you'll at least chuckle.

"A Dog of Flanders" looks interesting, although I haven't seen it.

I recall having read the book when I was a juvenile, and it was enjoyable. Don't know whether an adult could get much from it, but the usual Hollywood tearjerker is good enough for those who like that sort of thing.

There's one reason, however, that I intend to see "A Dog of Flanders." It co-stars Theodore Bikel as a famed Dutch artist, and for my money Bikel is one of the best actors Hollywood has yet come across.

Each year, the nation's motion picture critics vote for the ten best films of the previous year, under the aegis of The Film Daily. There is some overlapping in

Kelly Joins Pard In Studio Walkout

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jack Kelly is joining his "Maverick" co-star, James Garner, in straying off the Warner Brothers range.

He has informed his studio that he's looking for other work. Garner recently asked continuation of his "Maverick" salary which had been cut off on the grounds that the actors' strike shut down production of the TV series.

Kelly told Warners that he now considers himself a free agent and will seek other jobs in movies and TV.

Garner also has said he will seek acting work elsewhere.

The star, wife of actor Alfred Ryder, is recuperating at her home here. Her role in "Two for the Seesaw," opening this week at Palm Beach, Fla., has been assumed by Mary Tahnin.

'Dog Of Flanders' Is A Classic Story

Twentieth Century-Fox brings Ouida's classic juvenile novel, "A Dog Of Flanders," to the cinema-scope and color screen at the Ritz Thursday through Saturday, starring Alan Ladd's son, David, as Nello Daas. The simple yet poignant story of a boy, his aging grandfather and a dog they find pennied by the famed Dutch novelist in 1890 and, subsequently, has been reprinted in every language, including over 80 printings in the United States.

More specifically, "A Dog of Flanders" tells the story of a poor little Dutch boy and his dream of one day painting like the masters. Wandering all alone in what he feels is a completely hostile world after his last relative — his impoverished, lame grandfather — dies, the lost lad manages to find love and consolation from two fine friends. One of these friends is a hot-tempered painter from near-by Antwerp who sees talent in the plucky boy. The other is his faithful dog.

Her?

Is this the lady I saw you out with last night? Probably not, because this is Janet Leigh, and the last we had heard she was in Hollywood, where she has just finished making the film version of the hilarious Broadway play, "Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?," playing through Wednesday at the Ritz. And she's probably never heard of Big Spring, anyway.

Co-starring with David Ladd in the warm Dutch story are Donald Crisp and Theodore Bikel. Spike, of "Old Yeller" fame, plays the title role.

The film was directed by James B. Clark from a screenplay by Ted Sheridan.

The film also is a color travelogue of the picturesque Dutch and Belgian countryside, featuring the colorful farmhouses, windmills and canals of the rural areas of Hollywood and Belgium.

Father, Son Make History

Brian Keith, who co-stars with Paul Newman and Barbara Rush in Warner Bros. "The Young Philadelphians," participated, with his father, in one of the most unusual episodes in the history of the American theatre.

After being discharged from the Army following World War II, the younger Keith landed the role of the doctor in the Chicago company of "Mr. Roberts." At the same time, his father, famed stage actor Robert Keith, was playing the same part in the Broadway production of the play.

This is probably the only time in history that father and son have enacted the same role in the same play at the same time.

"The Young Philadelphians," returning to the Jet Sunday through Tuesday, co-stars Paul Newman, Barbara Rush, Alexis Smith, Diane Brewster, Billie Burke and John Williams and was directed by Vincent Sherman.

Actor Helps Wife Obtain Divorce

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Robert Storr helped his wife obtain a divorce on grounds of cruelty Wednesday.

Mrs. Storr, an actress known as Sandra Lane, was short on corroborating witnesses, so her husband took the stand to back up her testimony that he sometimes walked out on her at parties.

Mrs. Storr's lawyer then took the stand to corroborate the corroborating testimony, saying that he saw Storr walk out on her once, leaving her crying. He was sworn in as a witness to show there was no collusion between the couple in the divorce.

Storr is 23, his wife 20. She did not ask for alimony.

Palance Takes Role Of Man With Hard Job

The men who perform the world's most dangerous occupation, against the starkly dramatic background of the ruins of West Berlin, are the central characters in the new suspense film, "Ten Seconds to Hell," at the State Wednesday through Saturday.

These men constitute Berlin's bomb squads, whose fantastically hazardous job it is to defuse the countless unexploded bombs, buried deep in the rubble of the city, which were dropped by the British and U. S. Air Forces during World War II.

Filed on actual location in Berlin, "Ten Seconds to Hell" stars Jack Palance, Jeff Chandler and Martine Carol. The supporting cast is headed by Virginia Baker, Wesley Addy and Robert Cornthwaite.

A Hammer Films-Seven Arts International presentation, "Ten Seconds to Hell" was produced by Michael Carreras and directed by Robert Aldrich from a screenplay based on Lawrence Bachmann's novel, "The Phoenix." Ernest Laszlo was director of photography, and the musical score by Richard Farrell was conducted by Muir Mathieson.

Palance and Chandler are seen in "Ten Seconds to Hell" as released prisoners of war who, returning after the surrender of Germany, form part of the original bomb disposal squad of Berlin. Miss Carol plays an attractive war widow desired by both men.

James Mason Admires Verne

James Mason, who stars with Pat Boone, Ariane Dahl and Diane Baker in the Twentieth Century-Fox production of the Jules Verne classic, "Journey to the Center of the Earth" in Cinema-Scope and color by De Luxe which returns to the Jet Wednesday through Saturday, is fast becoming one of the screen's foremost exponents on Jules Verne.

The talented actor, who appears in the picture as the leader of the expedition to explore the core of the earth, is following the lead he set for himself when he was cast as "Captain Nemo" in the production of another Verne novel translated to the screen, "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea."

Now, as professor Sir Oliver Lindenbrook, Scottish scientist and educator, he attempts to discover the secrets held in the bowels of the earth. "Playing the screen versions of Verne novels is an interesting and stimulating experience," said Mason, "it's unbelievable how far-sighted the man was. Take "20,000 Leagues" — in that novel Verne predicted atom powered submarines. Today we have a fleet of them, the first one actually called the Nautilus.

"In "Journey" he has his principals on an expedition, that the next year might actually see accomplished. Plans are under way now to look into the recesses of the earth that Verne wrote about over 130 years ago.

Asked if he minded being cast in works of early science fiction like "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea" and "Journey to the Center of the Earth," the actor replied,

VAN JOHNSON Search for a killer

'Evidence' Is Based On A. J. Cronin Novel

Based on one of A. J. Cronin's best-seller novels, Allied Artists' "Web of Evidence" screens at the State Sunday through Tuesday. The picture stars Van Johnson, Vera Miles and Emyln Williams.

The screenplay tells of a young man (Johnson) who travels over 3,000 miles to find his father whom he has never seen only to learn his parent is a convicted murderer already imprisoned for 20 years for the crime. Refusing to believe it, he launches a crusade to clear his father of the charge, accepting the aid of a pretty young librarian (Vera Miles) whom he met while checking the newspaper files of the case.

His task is not easy. In 20 years, witnesses have moved, disappeared or died, and most of those who could be found were reluctant to have the case re-opened. Frustration and disappointment continue to harass him in his investigation, but by sheer doggedness he solves the puzzle.

"Web of Evidence" brings Johnson and Miss Miles together for the second time. The first joint appearance was in "23 Paces to Baker Street." Their current screenplay by Kenneth Taylor is from "Beyond This Place," and was produced by Maxwell Setton and John R. Sloan. It was directed by Jack Cardiff.

Audie Murphy, Wife Separating

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor Audie Murphy and his wife Pamela are separating.

Neither is planning a divorce immediately. They blame the rift on incompatibility of personalities and the pressures of Murphy's movie work. They have been married nine years and have two children, aged 8 and 6.

Murphy, a World War II Medal of Honor winner, was married once before, to actress Wanda Hendrix.

City Wells Are Readied To Serve Peak Demands

Big Spring will fall back on its well reserves for extra water during the summer if consumption warrants. A. K. Steinheimer, city manager, said officials of the Colorado River Municipal Water District had informed him to be prepared to use well water on peak days.

The city filter plant can handle no more than about 10 million gallons per day, which is approximately the same amount Big Spring is allotted from Lake J. B. Thomas. Even if more water is available from the lake, the city's plant is not adequate to handle it.

Well water does not pass through the filter plant.

Steinheimer said water would probably be pumped first from the O'Barr field in Glasscock County, if it becomes necessary. The city also has wells available for pumping in Section 33, south of South Mountain. Other wells are in the City Park.

Roy Hester, superintendent of the filter plant and caretaker of the wells, said the water level is up in both of the city's fields. He added that he has already begun work in readying the pumps for work, in case they are needed.

Announced candidates at Grady School include E. R. Perry, Marvin Standefer, Buster Haggard, Homer Howard Jr., and A. H. Tate.

No Wonder

OKLAHOMA CITY — Henry Harris, 65, said his car's motor seemed to be running too hot. He stopped and looked under the hood. Someone had stolen his radiator.

Planning Panel Slated To Meet On Wednesday

The Master Plan Steering Committee is one of the three important meetings scheduled this week in city hall.

This 25-member committee will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the police department classroom. Dr. J. E. Hogan is chairman.

Members of Forrest and Cotton, master planners, will be in the city to present the preliminary plans for water and sewer expansion. They may also suggest increases in water and sewer rates.

The first meeting of the week will be at 7 p.m. Monday, when the Big Spring City Commission will interview fiscal agents for the proposed water and sewer extension program.

Tuesday, the commission meets again at 5:15 p.m. to hold a public hearing on the 1960-61 fiscal budget. Following this meeting, at 8 p.m., the commission will interview two more representatives of firms as possible candidates for fiscal agents.

Grand Jury Due For 2nd Session

The Howard County grand jury will be called back in special session on April 4, according to Guilford Jones, district attorney.

Jones explained this is the "long" term of court and that it is a customary practice to require two sessions of the grand jury.

He said that the extra session is required to dispose of accumulated felony matters which pile up in the interval between the initial session of the body and the end of the term in June.

Only 11 of the grand jury will report. Boone Cramer, Coahoma, a member of the body, died recently of a heart attack. However, since nine members of a grand jury can act officially, no appointment will be made to the list.

The members of the grand jury are: Robert J. Cook, foreman; Rufus N. Davidson, Floyd McIntyre, A. C. McClendon, R. W. Riker, H. C. Tidwell, W. J. Barnes, Clifton N. Bellamy, Domingo Abreo, W. E. Buckner and Mrs. Roy Rogan.

Around 30 felony cases have been filed since the last grand jury. These, for the most part, Jones said, are "mill run" cases—forgery, theft, burglary, DWI 2nd and similar complaints.

Judge Ralph W. Caton signed the order Friday instructing Wade Choate, district court clerk, to notify the grand jurors who served in January to return to court on April 4.

There are four court terms yearly. The January long term runs from January through May. The other terms are June, August and October.

CORRECTION

It was incorrectly reported on Friday's issue of the Daily Herald that George Borden Anglin had been released on $1,000 bond on a charge of forgery. He was not charged with forgery but with DWI second offense. The case was filed in Walter Grice justice court. The Herald regrets it erroneously listed Mr. Anglin as being charged with forgery and extends its apologies.
