Mahon Lashes Navy Cutback In Atom Subs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy plans to step up the Polaris missile-firing submarine program while cutting back construction of attack submarines brought criticism today from Rep. George H. Mahon (D-Tex.).

Mahon is chairman of the House Appropriations Defense subcommittee, which is considering the defense budget revisions approved Wednesday by President Eisenhower.

"It looks like a compromise package and I personally believe it's a poor package," Mahon commented.

He said he favored expansion of the Polaris submarine program but "I wouldn't give any serious consideration to eliminating the attack submarines, which are major-antishubmarine weapons."

He said he believed most members of the Defense Appropriations subcommittee feel the same way. Senators of both parties generally applauded the missile program changes announced Wednesday. Here's what is involved:

The Defense Department asked Congress for 39 million dollars to start building six more Polaris submarines. This was a policy reversal on the part of the Pentagon. And Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. told Congress the Navy is willing to put off getting funds for two of three planned nuclear attack submarines already included in the new budget.

Earlier in the day, President Eisenhower also gave formal approval to increasing the size of six Atlas intercontinental missile squadrons and improving the ballistic warning system. The Pentagon disclosed the last six of the 13 planned Atlas squadrons each would have a total of 13 missiles—three more than under present plans. Earlier it had been thought that the squadrons which will be in place by the end of next year might have as many as 15 missiles and pads.

Both the attack and the Polaris submarines are nuclear-powered. Mahon voiced preliminary approval of the revised Atlas program.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, expressing pleasure at the Atlas and Polaris speedup decisions, said: "It is unfortunate that we did not throw the works into high gear some time ago."

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) said the revisions indicate "the administration is moving ahead with efficiency in the most important areas of our national defense, as fast as prudence and technology permit."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) commented: "It is good as far as it goes. It still does not bridge the missile gap."

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said: "I'm very glad that the President has finally decided that the Congress was right in its position about increasing our ballistic missile strength."

Sen. Stuart Symington, like Johnson a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said: "I'm glad to see the administration taking this action and would hope it is only the forerunner of additional decisions which would give us more adequate security at minimum cost."

Texas Candidates Push Drive, Talk Taxes, Finance

By IRWIN FRANK
By The Associated Press

Texas heard about taxes and state finances from the major political candidates Wednesday. Gov. Price Daniel, seeking the nomination for governor in the May 7 Democratic Primary, held a press conference in Austin. He told newsmen he firmly believes "that an equitable tax program can be evolved to meet the state's needs for the next 10 years without resorting either to a state income or general sales tax."

Helicopter traveler Jack Cox, seeking the governor's office, said that while Daniel opposes a general sales tax a bill was passed under his administration increasing taxes on such things as cigarettes, cars, radios, cosmetics, boats and hotel rooms. Cox traveled by helicopter to five Central Texas cities.

U. S. Gov. Ben Ramsey also discussed money at a rally in San Antonio. "Equitable taxation first requires savings and economies where possible," he said.

Ramsey said he opposed a state income tax or any further taxes on homes and called for a finish of the fight against loan sharks. Ramsey's opponent, Don Yarbrough of Houston, told Fort Worth residents he welcomed Ramsey as "this newest recruit to the ranks of those of us who have always been opposed to a general sales tax."

Both men pledged their support for improved educational standards and development of water resources.

Waggoner Carr, candidate for attorney general against incumbent Will Wilson, campaigned in El Paso while Wilson spoke in San Antonio and then in Austin. Daniel told reporters that as matters now stand, a tax bill to raise $75 million will be needed to retire the general fund deficit and start the Hale-Aikin public school improvement program. He appointed six members to a 30-member Citizens Advisory Commission. The commission is to bring definite recommendations to a special legislative session next fall.

Daniel said the group will be instructed to come up with a final plan not including a general sales or state income tax.

THE NEGRO IN AMERICA—4 2 World Wars Bring About New Period Of Readjustment

Editor's Note — The accelerating changes following World War I had a profound impact on the Negro's position in America. In his concluding article of a series, historian C. Vann Woodward traces the rise of the urban Negro middle class and its growing demands for social and economic adjustment, leading to victories in the courts.

By C. VANN WOODWARD
Written for The Associated Press

World War I aroused new hopes among Negroes for improving their position and gaining acceptance in America. A third of a million entered military service, and a large part of those saw overseas duty and combat experience. At home hundreds of them left the South to crowd into Northern cities and hold good jobs in war industries. Their restlessness and hopes for betterment were increased by the contrasts they discovered between racial attitudes at home and abroad. Some hoped that the great war to save democracy abroad might increase it at home.

The postwar reaction brought a quick disillusionment of the war-bred hopes. The last six months of 1919 saw 25 race riots touched off in American cities, the worst of them in the North and West. During the year following the war more than 70 Negroes were lynched, several of them veterans in uniform. The new Ku Klux Klan reached the peak of its influence in the next few years. Its effect was to inflame prejudice, encourage violence, and strengthen and extend segregation.

Interest and sympathy were stirred in the white community by the Negro literary and artistic awakening of the 1920s and 1930s, a period sometimes called the "Harlem Renaissance." The writings of Claude McKay, Jean Toomer, Countee Cullen, and Langston Hughes captured wide attention for a time. Some of the outpouring of Negro art and music was good and some bad, but most of it was inspired by a spirit of protest and help to focus national interest on the ancient wrongs, brooding sorrows, and mounting aspirations of the race.

GARVEY'S MOVEMENT

Some of the same feelings found expression on the popular level among the millions of Negroes, mainly unlettered city dwellers recently from the farm, who became followers of Marcus Garvey and supported his visionary movement to return to Africa. From the same elements George Baker, known as "Father Divine," drew his support. The more educated members of the race looked to the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People. Founded in 1909 by white sympathizers, this organization gained increasing influence under the guidance of Dr. W. E. B. DuBois. A comparable organization, founded shortly afterward, was the National Urban League, and in the South the Commission on Interracial Cooperation directed by Dr. Will W. Alexander and other white Southerners sought to quench the fires of racial antagonism.

During the 1930s racial tensions modified somewhat as both races struggled with the problems of the depression. Through the federal agencies of the New Deal a few more opportunities opened to Negroes in housing, health improvement, education, government employment, and cultural life. The most depressed group in the population, Negroes suffered heavily from unemployment and low living standards. On the other hand, interracial violence and particularly lynching declined markedly. Conservative folk were beginning to congratulate themselves as World War II approached on the achievement of a new adjustment of race relations. They were quite unprepared, therefore, when it turned out that they were only on the eve of a new era of readjustment so sweeping that it might be called the Second Reconstruction.

HITLER'S INJUSTICE A FACTOR

The forces behind the new readjustment were numerous. In the first place the nation could not afford to make the demands it did upon the Negro for service and support in the war crisis without making concessions to his demands. Then too the war against Hitler centered attention upon Nazi injustice to a racial minority and made any such injustice in the United States even less defensible than formerly.

A new exodus of Negroes from South to North brought about a significant shift in population. In the single decade of the 1940s the number of Negroes living outside the South increased more than 100 per cent, and by the end of the decade less than two-thirds of them were living in the South compared with almost 90 per cent at the end of the previous century. They moved not only from the South to the North but from the rural to the cities, the industrial cities of both sections. There they could be better organized and more vocal, and they were so placed in the North as to become for the first time strategic national importance in the struggles between the two major political parties. Their wishes were increasingly consulted by both of these organizations.

Sharing some of the new prosperity of the boom period, the urban Negro middle class began to make a strong bid for more respect from the white world. The success they won was inspired in part by the increased purchasing power of the race, in part by new standards in dress, speech, conduct, and consumer habits. Perhaps more important was the admiration won by such artists as Marian Anderson and such men of affairs as Ralph Bunche, as well as the popularity of scores of musicians, actors, entertainers, and athletes who held their own and excelled in competition with all comers.

The Cold War and its propaganda campaigns made Americans more sensitive than they had ever been before to criticism of racial discriminations and injustices in their country. As the international struggle increasingly centered upon rivalry for the friendship of the colored peoples of Asia, Africa, and the Middle East, national interest required ever more attention to color problems at home.

Leadership in molding the Second Reconstruction was taken by the federal courts, especially the United States Supreme Court. In a long series of momentous opinions foreshadowed more than a decade and a half ago, the Supreme Court reduced barriers of discrimination in many areas, including transportation, voting, employment, wages, housing, and education.

The Negro people of the United States may still have far to go, but they have probably come farther and faster in the last two decades than in any comparable period in their history, including the period of the First Reconstruction.

Fallout Danger Is Lower In New Report

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Long hush-hush studies have revealed that all but 10 to 15 per cent of the fallout from nuclear bomb tests of the last 15 years has now fallen to the ground, it was reported today.

Clearly indicating that whatever radioactive hazard may exist from man-made tests already held, the die is now essentially cast, the report was prepared for the 137th national meeting of the American Chemical Society.

The figures, disclosed as developed principally from Department of Defense studies of the stratosphere, are in sharp variance with recent estimates of some scientists.

Later estimates have figured that as much as one-third of all the radioactive debris from bomb tests conducted by the nuclear powers still remains in the stratosphere and that the maximum level on the earth would not be achieved until two to four years from now.

Disclosure of the new figures was made by Dr. J. Laurence Kulp of Columbia University at a news conference.

Kulp told reporters that the new figures result from a Department of Defense study—kept secret for more than two years—which ultimately disclosed evidence that "there appear to be holes in the tropopause" through which radioactive debris can fall more quickly to the earth than previously estimated.

The tropopause is the layer of the atmosphere that lies below the stratosphere.

In another report amplified at the news conference, researcher Ronald G. Menzel of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's research center at Beltsville, Md., said that recent findings show that up to 20 per cent of the soil-absorbed strontium-90 fallout from atomic explosions is "locked within the soil" and is not available to plants which enter into man's food chain.

Previously, he said, it had been believed that inasmuch as most of the strontium fallout is soluble in water, it was all available to plants.

Strontium-90 is considered as potentially the most hazardous of all the radioactive products released in bomb explosions. This is because it could cause bone cancer and possibly leukemia if taken into the human body in sufficient quantities.

Heiress Kicks Over Bars, Weds Chauffeur Boyfriend

HENDERSONVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Heiress Gamble Benedict has married her suave Romanian-born sweetheart after kicking over family and legal obstacles in a two-day game of hide and seek in the Carolinas.

The 19-year-old Gamble and Andre Porumbescu, 35, were wed in a five-minute civil ceremony at a remote mountain lodge near here late Wednesday.

The couple slipped into this summer resort center in the afternoon. They took the required physical examination and blood tests at a local hospital.

At the office of Register of Deeds Marshall Watterson there was some question as to whether a marriage license would be legal in view of Porumbescu's Mexican divorce obtained March 15.

Watterson called in Arthur Redden, an attorney and brother of former Rep. Monroe M. Redden (D-NC). Redden consulted by telephone with the state attorney general. That official okayed issuance of the license.

Redden then offered his mountain lodge, located in a remote area of North Mills River west of here, as a site for the wedding.

Magistrate Fletcher Roberts was called to perform the ceremony. Other civic leaders of the community joined the party, including L. B. Prince, an attorney, and Mack Aiken, chairman of the County Board of Elections. Watterson and Redden also signed the wedding papers as witnesses.

No relative of either the bride or bridegroom was present.

"They seemed to be very much in love," said the 68-year-old Roberts. "Both seemed to be very, very happy and a very fine couple."

The couple had skipped off to Paris last Christmas season and wanted to get married there, but family pressure led French authorities to send the girl back home. She was 18 then. Porumbescu, a former chauffeur, came back to the U.S. later.

Negro Ex-Prof Is Labelled Fronter

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Morning News said today in a copyrighted story that a recently fired Negro college professor at Marshall, Tex., and his wife were active in a Communist-front school in New York.

The fired professor is Dr. Dorey A. Wilkerson, who had been a member of the Communist party for several years until publicly resigning in 1957. His wife is still employed by Bishop College, a Baptist institution.

Senate Approves Key Rights Section

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate refused by a 72-18 vote today to remove the key voting rights section from the civil rights bill. Leaders then set their sights on passage of the measure tonight.

Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas told his colleagues it is clear a majority of the Senate wants to pass a bill "the heart of which will protect every citizen's voting rights."

Efforts are being pushed, Johnson said, to work out an interpretation of the voting rights section that would be agreeable to all concerned.

S. African Police Push Purge In Negro Boycott

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Police and soldiers today launched a massive operation to purge strike-torn Nyanga Negro Township of Negroes and maintain a work boycott against the government's racial policies.

Two big African settlements—Nyanga East and Nyanga West—outside Cape Town were the scenes of bloody clashes earlier this week when soldiers and police made raids with clubs, guns and whips.

Scattered violence continued. Two churches were set afire early today in the Walmer Negro settlement near Port Elizabeth, on the Indian Ocean. Police accused Negro agitators of setting the fires as a form of intimidation to keep alive the race conflict.

At least half of the 10 member governments are known to be considering demanding the expulsion of South Africa unless its rulers ease race restrictions. The British Labor party is leading the criticism of South Africa in Britain.

DEAR ABBY

IGNORE IT

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My teen-age daughter goes steady with a high-school boy with green teeth. I really mean it.

It doesn't seem possible that in this day and age an 18-year-old boy could go around with such neglected teeth. I swear the inside of that boy's mouth hasn't felt a toothbrush in 10 years. And I'm sure he hasn't seen a dentist in at least that long. It isn't a matter of finances either because this boy got a new car from his parents for his 18th birthday.

Everytime he smiles (and he grins constantly) the green mold and cavities appear. What disturbs me is that my daughter is n't bothered about it in the least. When I asked her how she could stand to kiss him, she said, "Oh, muuuhur!" How in the world can you wake up a boy or his family?

DEAR DISGUSTED: Your hints, suggestions or recommendations would be neither appreciated nor welcomed. And stop needling your daughter. She probably thinks he's God's gift to women and she's not looking THAT gift in the mouth.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me, have good manners gone out of style or not? For twenty years I have been sending get-well cards, birthday cards, anniversary cards, baby cards and many other kinds of cards. Last year I sent out 256 cards and only six people said, "I got your card and thank you."

Another thing, I am called on to make cookies for this and cakes for that. They send a child after it and that's all I know. And while I am at it, what about people who are invited to a tea and don't bother to call to say they can't come—they just don't show up? I gave a tea and invited 28 people—only 9 came and I never heard boo from the others.

What's wrong with people today.

Abby? Have they forgotten how to say thank you?

OLD-FASHIONED DEAR OLD-FASHIONED: Every generation produces its share of ill-bred clods who haven't the common courtesy to acknowledge a kindness. History is merely repeating itself.

DEAR ABBY: The people in the apartment next to ours have a 12-year-old daughter. She comes home right after school but she saves up all her piano practicing until 9:30 and 10 o'clock at night. Then she bangs on the piano for an hour straight.

We sometimes like to go to sleep at 9:30 or 10 because my husband isn't too well, but the noise keeps us up.

I have hinted to the mother several times, but she hasn't taken the hint. We're not the kind of folks who fight with our neighbors. Should I talk to the girl herself? Or should I drop the landlord a note?

DISTURBED DEAR DISTURBED: Just come right out and tell the girl's mother what is on your mind. If that doesn't work, ask the landlord to speak to the family. That might strike a responsive chord!

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOVELY HULA HANDS": After giving him back his ring he should accept the fact that the engagement is broken. If he continues to follow you—give him the back of your lovely hand.

Stanton 4-H Girl Wins State HD Scholarship

Glen Ruth Reid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Reid of Stanton in Martin County, has been selected as one of three 4-H Club girls to receive a $500 THDA scholarship, according to an announcement by Floyd Lynch, state 4-H Club leader.

GLEN RUTH REID

Druella King of Hale County and Janice Winslett of Coleman County were the other two winners selected by the judging committee.

Funds for the three $500 scholarships—the Maggie W. Barry, Helen H. Swift and Bonnie Cox—are provided annually by the Texas Home Demonstration Association. Contestants are scored on leadership and personal development as well as on their all-around 4-H demonstration and activities.

Glen Ruth has completed eight years of 4-H Club work and has made an outstanding record in leadership activities and home improvement. She is a member of the Stanton Senior 4-H Club and is a Stanton High School senior.

Activity in 4-H is a family affair with the Reids. Her mother serves as an adult leader for the club. Gary, her 11-year-old brother, benefits most from her food preparation work but is interested in all her projects. Reference is made often in Glen Ruth's record to her dad's ideas in planning, his moral support, and physical help on the big projects such as home improvement. All family members are proud of the new look they have given their home.

Her work in clothing, food preparation and preservation, child care, home improvement and recreation too, has fitted right in with family goals and activities. She loves to plan meals and can take care of any household jobs. Her mother, a registered nurse, is often on duty, which gives Glen Ruth a fine chance to practice.

As a junior leader, she is generous with her skills and time. She has helped with clothing workshops for the 4th and 8th grade girls, passing along ideas on how to choose, make and care for clothing. As a recreation leader, she is called on to train fellow 4-H members and help with special recreation for many community, county and district activities. She served on the state recreation committee for 4-H Roundup in 1957, was a member of the State 4-H Council in 1959, and has served on the county extension program building committee for Martin County.

"I have learned from my failures as well as successes," she writes in her record. "Four-H Club work has helped me to see the importance of planning, working and helping others."

Her 4-H career has been supervised by Mrs. Mildred Eliand, county home demonstration agent, her parents, and her adult leaders, Mrs. J. C. Mott and Mrs. Jim Miller.

Home economics is the major that Glen Ruth has chosen. She plans to enter Texas Technological College in Lubbock this fall.

Mother Convicted In Beating Death

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—A jury Wednesday found a young mother guilty of murder in the death of her 2-year-old daughter, Beatrice, Nov. 21.

Sentenced to five years in prison was Mrs. Emily Marie Shay, 23, who claimed she only spanked the child. Doctors testified the girl had a broken arm and bruises over the body. The child died 12 hours after being taken to a hospital by the parents.

Mrs. Shay's husband, Airman 2C Harold C. Shay, is stationed at Dyess Air Force Base here. The couple is from Alpena, Mich. They have two other children, Rickey, 3, and Deborah, 1.

Sluggish Stork Running Behind Last Year's Pace

Births in Howard County for the first three months of 1960 are 3 per cent less than for the same quarter in 1959.

Nationwide, it is reported that births in January in the United States were almost 6 per cent lower than January last year. Officials in the National Office of Vital Statistics are puzzled over this decrease. It was entirely unexpected as the bureau anticipated an increase in the number of births this January compared with last.

Statistics nationally on February and March births are not available. In Howard County, there have been 266 birth certificates recorded in the office of Pauline Petty, county clerk, through March 31, this year. Last year, the total certificates filed was 281.

Through March, 132 boy babies have been born. There have been 134 girl babies. For the same period in 1959, there were 135 boys and 146 girls born.

Air Conditioner Code Is Altered

Installation charges for air conditioners will be reduced by as much as $25 to $35 today, as a result of a special meeting of the Big Spring City Commission late Wednesday.

Concerned over reports from residents who have been asked to pay electrician's fees ranging from $27.50 to $40, the commission took another look at the city electrical code and ordered it changed. The commission was told that these fees are being charged to hook up an air conditioner, even when the house is new and the necessary wiring already stubbed out on the roof.

UNNECESSARY COST
The electrical code has been getting the blame for this extra charge. Commissioner John Taylor said "There is no sense in residents paying their money unnecessarily." Other commissioners agreed and instructed City Manager A. K. Steinheimer to either amend the ordinance or instruct Homer Ward, electrical inspector, to interpret the ordinance the most economical way.

Roy Rogan, city electrician, was asked his opinion regarding the controversial section of the code. He said he felt the requirements of the National Electrical Code could be met for $1.50 in materials. He added that there were other "bugs" in the ordinance also.

LOOK FOR OTHERS
The commissioners asked him to read through the ordinance and make a report on sections that he thought should be changed. In effect, the commission gave Steinheimer a free hand to solve the problem. Members voted to approve any amendment the city manager thinks necessary to correct the air conditioner situation. Taylor predicted there would be a large number of air conditioners sold and installed during the next few weeks and the matter should get immediate attention.

Council Named At Westbrook

WESTBROOK—Forty-nine votes were cast Tuesday in the Westbrook city election for mayor and two councilmen.

Altis Clemmer, present mayor who was appointed to serve out R. L. Messimer's term, who had resigned, was returned with 25 votes. W. E. Smith Jr. received 22 write-in votes for the post, Willie Bell 1, A. C. Moody 1.

J. D. Iglehart was elected councilman to the post previously held by Oren Moore, who had served for two years before resigning when he moved to Colorado City in February. E. A. Oden was re-elected with 24 votes. Others receiving votes were Hoyt Roberts 9, Charley Parrish 2 and R. L. Messimer 1.

Clemmer, an employe of Standard Oil Company for the past eight years, has been a resident of Westbrook since 1944. Prior to joining Standard, he was a dirt contractor. Smith is an employe of Texas Electric Service and lifetime resident of the Westbrook community. Oden and Iglehart are employes of Cosden.

Careless Check Writers Are Busier Than Usual

Careless check writers continue to plague merchants and officials.

Wayne Burns, county attorney, said Thursday that in March his office had collected 90 bad checks aggregating more than $600. These are checks turned in to the county attorney by merchants. The office sends out warnings to the writers. If they make restitution quickly enough, likely no suit is filed against them. If they neglect to pay off the checks, a complaint is signed and a charge filed against them in County Court.

Burns said the largest check paid off this past month was one for $45. The remainder ranged downward to as little as $1 to $2.

The county attorney said he "had no idea" how many bad checks have been turned in to his office during the month. Every day, he said, merchants bring sheafs of checks rejected by the banks. Many are turned down for insufficient funds. Others are out and worthless checks on which the banks make a notation "unable to locate account."

Burns' office maintains a special bank account into which the paid-off check funds are deposited. Checks are then drawn by the county attorney on this account to reimburse the merchant to whom the check was given.

CTA Envoys To State Meet

Six representatives from the Big Spring Classroom Teachers Association will take part this weekend in the state CTA meeting in Beaumont.

Activities begin with a reception at 8 p.m. Friday in Hotel Beaumont, and the convention proper is to start at 9 a.m. Saturday. The theme is "The Golden '60s—Peace or Peril?"

The CTA is an outgrowth of the older association named The Grade Teacher. It is designed to promote effective teaching through consideration of common problems of special concern to education in Texas. The state unit has over 25,000 members in 180 affiliates. Some 800 delegates are due at the Beaumont meeting.

Planning to attend from here are Mrs. Mary Arnold Hefley, member of the state board, Mrs. Lavelle Hill, Mrs. Paula Creagh, Miss Eulalia Mitchell and Mrs. Rena Yandell.

Learn Art Of Broiling Shrimp To Open New Taste For Family

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Newsfeatures Food Editor

BROILING IS easier than it used to be, that's for sure. Splendid charcoal grills spur on outdoors sportsmen while up-to-date ranges encourage kitchen toilers.

Another big help to indoor chefs are the widely available and inexpensive broiler pans in small and medium sizes that may be substituted, when appropriate, for the large broiling pan that comes with a range.

Aluminum foil's entry on the culinary scene has been still one more boon. Line a broiler pan with the stuff; after broiling, swoop it up and dispose of it so there's no pan to scrub. We're against the hoarding instinct that forces cooks to wash foil when it's encrusted with brown drippings after broiling. If you do this, getting lofty self-satisfaction out of your high-minded thrift, don't use foil in the first place. Use the broiler pan, scrub away at it, and see if we care.

Some cooks cover broiler grids. When this is done, slits should be cut in the foil to correspond to those in the grill so, during

Add Interest With Celery

Ever served creamed celery? Here is a recipe that tells you just how it should be done for utter perfection.

CREAMED CELERY

2 1/2 cups thin celery crescents
1 cup boiling water
1/4 tsp. salt
1 1/2 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 1/2 tbsps. flour
1/4 tsp. white pepper
1/4 cup non-fat dry milk
Cook the celery rapidly in a 1-quart covered saucepan with the boiling water and 1/2 teaspoon of the salt just until tender-crisp—8 to 10 minutes.

Drain; add enough warm water to the celery liquid to make 1 cup. Melt butter in the saucepan over low heat. Add the flour, the remaining 1/4 teaspoon salt and the pepper, stirring until smooth. Remove from heat.

Gradually add the 1 cup celery-water mixture, stirring until smooth. Remove from heat. Sprinkle dry milk over mixture; beat with a whisk or rotary beater until smooth.

Return to low heat; cook and stir constantly until thickened. Add drained celery; reheat. Makes 4 servings.

broiled shrimp are often featured in our country's high priced restaurants. There should be nothing to keep you from preparing this great dish at home—at comparatively small cost.

To do so, shell and devein large shrimp. Insert on small metal skewers; dip in melted butter seasoned with crushed garlic or garlic salt. Place on pan without grid in preheated broiler several inches from high heat. Turn once, basting with butter, mixture, and cook only until shrimp lose their transparent look—5 minutes or so. Place skewers of shrimp, if you like, on strips of crisply broiled bacon.

With a salad, crusty rolls and good butter, this dish should satisfy both strong men and fair women.

Spring Vegetables Now Available In Texas Food Markets

By The Associated Press
If any reminder is needed, Texas food markets bespeak the full arrival of spring. Many of the typically spring vegetables are available in abundance this week, the Agriculture Marketing Service reports.

Asparagus, new onions, green onions, lettuce, cabbage, celery, carrots — all of these, along with year-around green leafy vegetables, rank as in-season buys this week, reports the fruit and vegetable market news branch of the marketing service.

Winesap apples continue abundant as about steady prices. avocados, bananas, grapefruit, oranges and lemons also are in good supply, as are potatoes, sweet potatoes and old-crop onions.

Lower wholesale prices prevail this week on asparagus, eggplant, new-crop onions, peppers and Florida beans. Mexican cantaloupes and tomatoes are higher.

Strawberries soon will take the limelight. Light shipments from California joined berries from Mexico, South Texas and Florida this week. Texas okra also is beginning to appear.

This is "blackberry feast" week in the Southwest. East Texas processors report heavy movement of stocks to grocery stores that are running specials on canned blackberries. Canned freestone peaches also are plentiful and reasonably priced.

Especially good buys continue on typically Lenten foods like eggs, fish, cheese and other dairy products. Pork and chicken continue to rate high as economy meats.

Tasty Dessert

Drain canned pears and serve with hot chocolate sauce and vanilla ice cream for a company-time dessert.

Remember This!

Wondering what to do with that chervil on your spice shelf? Add it to a mayonnaise sauce to be served with shrimp.

Chewy Goodie Is Hit With Kids

This is a sweet and slightly chewy cookie that your kids will really go for:

WHITE AND BROWN KISSES

until very thick. Fold in pecans and cereal.

Drop heaping teaspoonfuls of mixture, a couple of inches apart, onto a lightly buttered cookie sheet.

Bake in very slow (275 degrees) oven 20 minutes or until firm. Remove at once with spatula to wire rack to cool. Makes 30.

Top For Tomatoes

Heat a can of stewed tomatoes and, just before serving, top them with small squares of partly-stale bread that have been thoroughly browned in hot butter or margarine.

Gaily Decorated Cakes Rosene Family Tradition

By SHERI WEBBER

Mother's birthday cakes are a tradition in the Rosene household, and each year Mrs. Roy Rosene has to think of new ideas.

"It's hard to keep out-doing yourself each year," says blue-eyed Sydney. She has to constantly think of something new that can be adapted to her three children.

For Kay Loveand, her oldest daughter who is a freshman at HCJC, Mrs. Rosene created a birthday cake decorated with a New York skyline. Out of styrofoam Sydney cut the skyline, then decorated the buildings with different colors of cake frosting. In front of the skyline was a scene of Central Park with the figure of a tiny boy selling newspapers. This theme was chosen because Kay would someday like to study journalism at Columbia University in New York.

October is the month Dana celebrates her birthday. The 12-year-old seventh grader at Rannels Jr. High has had cakes decorated with everything from ballerinas to one shaped like a jack-o-lantern complete with stem.

Davy Crockett shooting a bear atop a chocolate cake fascinated 8-year-old Kyle on his birthday. This second grader at Washington Place School makes other demands upon his mother—like Valentine boxes.

Out of a salt box, milk carton, and shoe box, Kyle's clever mother made a Valentine locomotive. Sydney Rosene covered this odd collection with shiny aluminum foil and bright red paper.

While Mrs. Rosene's children take up a lot of her time, "I find that as the kids get older and have more activities I must have less," she says; other things hold her interest, too.

She and her husband, Roy, are members of the Big Spring Squares and Howard County Hoe Downers. Square dancing is a hobby they both enjoy.

The housewife is active at the First Methodist Church where she is chairman of the Reba Thomas Circle.

One of their biggest interests is the Civic Theatre, where the Rosenes are active, behind stage. Make-up problems seem to find their way to Sydney to be solved. Rosene Goulash is a specialty that came into being around the family home on Sycamore some time ago. Quick Fudge started out as a coating for graham crackers. One day Sydney decided to experiment, and she came up with a fudge that requires hardly any cooking.

ROSENE GOULASH
1 1/2 lb. lean ground beef
1/2 medium onion, chopped
2 hot pickled peppers, chopped
(Quick substitute is 1/2 can tomato sauce and 1/2 can tomatoes and green chili peppers, both 8-oz. sizes)
1 tsp. chili powder
2 8-oz. cans water (more or less)

LOCOMOTIVE BUILDER
... Mrs. Roy Rosene

1 1/4 tps. salt
2-3 pkg. elbow macaroni
1 can chili beans or red beans
Brown onion and peppers slightly in small amount of fat (or if using the substitute, start by browning meat.)

Remove onion and peppers from skillet, and lightly brown meat. Add onions and peppers, chili powder, salt, and stir well. If using substitutes add them with one can of water.

Simmer 20-30 minutes; add macaroni and cook until tender but firm. Add beans last and serve.
BANANA DREAM CAKE
1 baked 9-inch cake layer
1/2 cup cold milk
1/2 tsp. vanilla
1 envelope dessert topping
2 bananas
1 tsp. lemon juice
Make cake from your favorite recipe or mix; cool.

Combine milk, vanilla, and dessert topping; whip as directed on package; chill. Slice bananas; coat with lemon juice.
Split cake layer to make two thin layers. Spread part of the dessert topping on bottom layer; arrange banana slices.
Keep in refrigerator until ready to serve the cake. Serves 8 or more. This recipe is also effective using strawberries; omit the lemon juice.

QUICK FUDGE
(This recipe can be thinned slightly, nuts omitted, and spread on graham crackers for a dessert children will love.)

3 squares baking chocolate
1-3 cup of cream or milk, scalded
1/2 stick margarine or butter
1 lb. confectioner's powdered sugar

1 1/2 tsp. vanilla
Melt chocolate and butter in double boiler. Add sugar and scalded cream alternately, beating as for regular fudge. Add vanilla and nuts. Pour into greased pan and let set.
QUICK 1000 ISLAND DRESSING
1 cup mayonnaise
1/4 cup chili sauce
1/4 tsp. paprika
1/2 tsp. Worcestershire, if desired
Mix well and add diced hard-cooked egg. (This can be used without the egg.) Serve atop crisp lettuce.

QUICK PEACH COBBLER
1 No. 2 can peaches
1/2 cup sugar
Cinnamon and nutmeg to taste
2 1/4 cups pie crust mix, approximately Using pie crust mix, home-made

Oysters Are Ideal This Month For Goodness

April is known to be one of the best oyster months of the year—the coldness of the waters during the winter seems to give an added zest and taste appeal to this ever pleasing delicacy from the sea. Oysters grow or are cultivated in the waters of nearly every seaboard state. All domestic oysters are harvested from waters approved by officials of the United States Public Health Service or their counterparts in the states.

Oysters have a special appeal to the busy homemaker during this Lenten season as they are easy to prepare — no waste from trimmings, entirely edible, and easy to serve. They can be served raw on the half shell or as a cocktail or cooked in a variety of ways such as stews, chowders, baked, broiled, fried, or in combination dishes.

To retain the delicate, distinctive flavor of oysters, never cook them too long, just enough to heat them through and leave them plump and tender.

And nutritionally speaking, they are tops: An average serving of six oysters will supply more than the daily allowance of iron and copper, about one-half the iodine, and about one-tenth of the needed protein, calcium, magnesium, phosphorus, Vitamin A, thiamine, riboflavin, and niacin.

The home economists of the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, United States Department of the Interior, recommend "Oysters Remick" for a tempting cool weather Lenten dish.

OYSTERS REMICK
36 shell oysters (x)
2 cups mayonnaise
2 tps. lemon juice
1/4 cup chili sauce

or packaged, press 1 or 1 1/4 cups into bottom of glass deep-dish, adding just enough canned peach juice to make it line bottom of pan.

Four No. 2 can of sliced cling peaches on top of this, including juice. Add about 1/4 cup of sugar mixed with cinnamon and nutmeg.
Take remaining pie crust mix and form thin patties with your hands. Drop these on cobbler. Dot with butter and bake in a 375 degree oven about 30 minutes, or until brown.

1 tbsp. prepared mustard
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. paprika
6 drops tabasco
Dash pepper
2 tps. butter or other fat, melted
1/2 cup dry bread crumbs

Scrub shells well; rinse in cold water. Shuck and drain oysters; place on deep half of shell. Place shells in a shallow baking pan. Combine mayonnaise, lemon juice, and seasonings. Spread mixture over oysters. Combine butter and crumbs; sprinkle over top. Broil about 3 inches from source of heat for 5 minutes or until edges begin to curl. Serves 6.

(x) — If shell oysters are not available, 1 1/2 pints select oysters may be used. Drain oysters and arrange on a shallow, well-greased baking dish. Spread with seasonings, and cook as above.

Good Sauce Perks Up Lenten Fish Fillets

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

AP Newsfeatures Food Editor
GIVE FISH FILLETS saucy treatment and lift them out of the humdrum scheme of meals.

One idea we adapted from a famous chicken dish, Country Captain. We cook chopped onion and green pepper in butter or olive oil and add canned tomatoes and salt and pepper; then long slow simmering to bring the combination to sauce consistency. Meanwhile a touch of curry powder, thyme and crushed garlic go in to make intriguing seasoning. Just before the sauce is poured over the hot cooked fillets several tablespoons of currants are added. The last touch is a topping of toasted almonds. To the table Country Fillets go to be served with rice and mango chutney, and quite elegant enough for company.

For a quick family dish heat tomato sauce (ready-prepared or homemade) with a touch of chili powder and pour over cooked fish fillets. Add hot drained whole-kernel corn and you'll have an excellent flavor combination.

No reason why nutritious cream sauce shouldn't be partner to the fillet, but remember both are bland foods so perk up the sauce. If you are fond of capers, and have a bottle of these savory green flower buds on hand, add some to the sauce with a little lemon juice.

Sliced onions and mushrooms, cooked in butter, are another delightful addition to a cream sauce. So are other seafoods — shrimp, lobster and scallops — with a little sherry to make Newburg style.

Golden cheddar cheese enhances a cream sauce; so does grated Parmesan. If you choose the latter, pour the well-seasoned cream sauce over the fish and sprinkle liberally with the cheese and a dusting of paprika. Place under the broiler to encrust with tempting flecks of brown.

How to cook the fish fillets to serve with the sauces? Broil, if you like, placing the pan fairly close to high heat. No need to turn the fish, but brush it with salad oil or spread with soft butter before it goes under the heat.

To steam the fillets an easy way, put them in a large skillet and just cover with seasoned boiling water. Simmer over low heat just until opaque through; lift the fillets out of the water with a couple of slotted pancake turners, draining well before saucing.

Quick Sandwich Is Good Warm Lunch

Here's a quickie of a sandwich that is warm and filling. Makes a good lunch for hungry school children.

SARDINE AND CHEESE GRILL
1 can (3 1/2 oz.) brisling sardines
Mayonnaise-type salad dressing
Lemon Juice
Sliced bread
Cheddar cheese, coarsely grated

Drain sardines; mash with salad dressing and lemon juice to taste.
Toast bread lightly; spread sardine mixture over one side of each slice. Top thickly with grated cheese.

Broil until cheese melts and is lightly browned. Serve at once.
Make sure edges of bread are covered with other ingredients so they won't burn under broiler. If you use thinly-sliced bread for the toast, there will be enough sardine mixture to spread 6 slices.

COMET MUSHROOM RICE

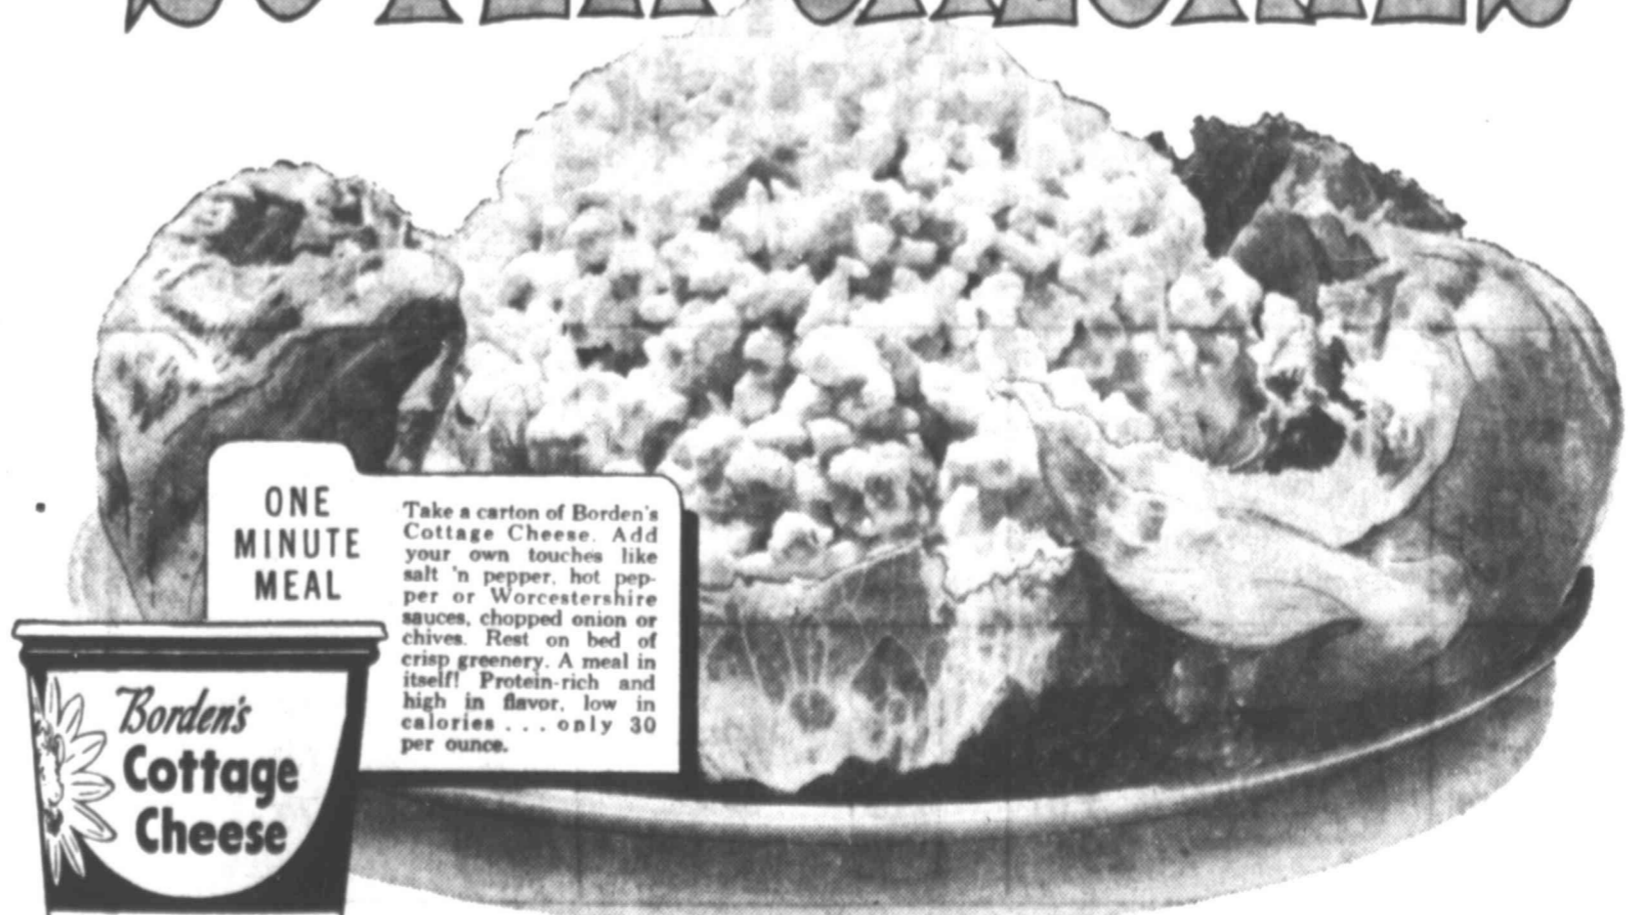

A delicious meal in a dish which serves 4 for only about 50c (the Comet Rice costs only about 1c) and it's ready in 20 minutes. Cook one cup of Comet Rice, or use 3 cups of Comet Rice already cooked.

For sauce, combine in a sauce pan:
1 can Mushroom Soup, undiluted
1-2oz. can evaporated milk or cream
2 tbl. butter or margarine
1 small onion, chopped very fine
If desired, season with any seasoning salt or 1-2 tsp. marjoram
1-2 tsp. basil

For a one meal dish, add mushrooms.
Bring sauce to boiling and stir in Comet Rice. This can be served at once, or can be put in a baking dish in a 375 degree oven until ready to serve. This is also an excellent dressing for baked fowl.

Watches Weight

Nelle Adams feels that it is harder to take weight off after pregnancy than to watch her diet while carrying her baby. In private life Nelle is the wife of Steve McQueen and is a frequent guest on his TV show, "Wanted—Dead or Alive," on CBS.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Controls Weight Through Exercise

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — "Don't indulge yourself during pregnancy," warns Nelle Adams (Mrs. Steve McQueen), "because you'll have to pay for it, and the fun you have eating everything you want is not worth the work you have to do to get your figure back. At least that's the way I feel."

Nelle and I were chatting on the set of her husband's show, "Wanted—Dead or Alive."

"Steve told me I couldn't work for him until I could get back into my old clothes. I had gained 36 pounds, and I had some silly idea that when I had the baby I would lose most of the weight—but I didn't."

I complimented her on the slimmness of her figure and I asked what she had done to lose weight. "I am a ballet dancer, and as soon as I was allowed to exercise, I went to three classes a week, but what I think helped enormously was my reducing machine. I used it for half an hour every night and morning and my waist went down from 29 to 21 inches."

"Physical exercise is a fine conditioner for the whole body, but there is a limit to one's energy so that when you want to work at one spot there is nothing like passive exercise. That's why I like my reducing machine."

"But along with exercise, I had to diet. It wasn't a strenuous diet. I merely cut down on the portions of food I ate."

Nelle was educated in Manila and Hong Kong and admitted that she and Steve were going steady after the third date.

"Steve said it was a case of love at first sight. When I walked into the restaurant, he was eating spaghetti and he dropped it into his lap," Nelle laughed. "I think the way a girl walks has a great deal to do with sex appeal. I don't mean

Japanese Designs Interest Gardeners

Japanese arrangements were discussed and exhibited by Mrs. Glenn Stell and Mrs. Jack P. Goode for members of the Big Spring Garden Club at a meeting Wednesday morning in the home of Mrs. J. E. Brown, 1606 Wood.

Mrs. Stell, who lived in Japan two years and attended a school of arranging, told the club the Japanese use odd numbers of flowers in their work and strive to give the impression of the flowers growing in the container. Wall hangings are used by all families to depict the seasons and they are changed with the seasons. Flowers in season are placed before the hanging each day and this is the focal center of interest of the room. The speaker showed nine floral pieces in which she used tulips, daffodils, flowering peach, euclalyptus, red bud and Dutch iris from local yards.

Mrs. Goode, who is from England, told the women in England the arrangers use fewer blossoms and more line arrangements. The English use more window boxes than many other countries.

During the business session the members were told they would be expected to make oil derricks for table decorations for the state garden club meeting that will be held in Houston May 8-12. The theme is to be Black Gold. A special meeting at Mrs. Gordon Bristow's home will be held for the group to begin working on the miniature derricks.

Announcement was made of the Texas Garden Club convention to

Saves On Dishes

It is perfectly safe to store part of a can of food not used in the original container. Because nowadays the inside of the container is lacquered, even an acid food such as tomatoes will not take on a metallic taste when stored this way for a few days.

Mold-A-Cake

If you have an 8- or 9-inch ring mold, you can bake an upside down cake in it, using half a package of cake mix (enough to fill a regular 8- or 9-inch layer cake pan) for the topping.

Kickoff Breakfast Will Start Sales

LAMESA — An open meeting of all members of the Woman's Study Club will be held at Liddell's Corral Room at 9:30 a.m. Friday, it is announced.

This meeting is a kickoff breakfast for the annual community calendar sales, according to Mrs. Frank Liddell, calendar chairman for the club.

The calendar is the principal fund raising project of the club which began the annual calendar in 1956; proceeds go to help retire the note on the clubhouse in the Park Terrace addition of the city.

No Television For Miss Susan Oliver

HOLLYWOOD — Blonde Susan Oliver is a provocative young actress who is determined to stay in motion pictures and out of television.

She says she turned down the lead in the Claudia television series because of possible danger to her blossoming cinema career.

"I was just afraid of being typed in a character that wouldn't fit many good screen roles."

The 23-year-old lass started acting in stock stage troupes. She then did a few off-Broadway plays before moving into the big time in "Small War on Murray Hill." TV came next.

Aid In Furnishing Home Is 1953 Hyperion Plan

Plans to aid in furnishing the new Crippled Children's Home were made by members of the 1953 Hyperion Club at a meeting in the home of Mrs. C. L. Cook Wednesday with Mrs. Fred Stitzel as hostess.

The women will assist the City Federation of Women's Club in the activity which will put the needed furnishings in the home that will be located just across from the new YMCA building.

Three new members were present for the first time. They are Mrs. James Henderson, Mrs. Ralph W. Caton and Mrs. W. L. Wilson Jr.

Following the business session,

Americans, Stop Copying Europe!

By DOROTHY ROE AP Women's Editor

It's high time American women stopped being intimidated by European fashion moguls and stood on their own beautifully shod two feet.

It's high time to end the longstanding legend that anything is good, just so long as it's imported.

The fact is American designers ended the myth of Paris supremacy, and dared to wear their own laurels with pride.

The fact is American fashions, manners and way of life are setting the pace for the whole world, says Leonard Fischer, a young fashion designer who cut his teeth in New York's Seventh Avenue and now is trying to help the Italian ready-to-wear business get on its feet.

Back for a breather after designing his first line of foreign fashions for a wholesale dress manufacturer in Turin, Italy, Fischer observes: "European girls all want to look like Americans. They want to dress the same way, use the same kind of makeup, have the same carefree poise. They see American tourists all over Europe these days, in always greater numbers, and they're determined to achieve the American look."

"They see our beautifully dressed and groomed American women sightseeing around Italy and France, and they admire everything about them. One of their greatest desires is to have access to the same kind of smart, clothes that Americans take as a matter of course."

Fischer started his new Italian assignment under a large handicap. There is no standard sizing for Italian ready-to-wear, he explains, so his first chore was to try to set up such a standard, using American methods.

Up to now there has been practically no ready-to-wear business in Italy, says Fischer, and the business is relatively new in France. European women are accustomed to buying couture clothes if they can afford it and either making their own or hiring a dressmaker if they can't.

"There's a new generation of career girls in Italy, however," he says. "These are the ones who want the luxury of buying ready-made clothes. And they are the ones who will be our best customers."

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

Glamour in the bathing suit department was at its height Wednesday evening when models showed suits that just go near the water for the Cosden Women. DEANE MANSFIELD wore a pale lavender satin suit encrusted with crystal beads and silver sequins; LINDA MCNEWE'S creation was of pink with a drape of pink nylon that outlined the strapless top and joined at the back. Pink sequins brightened the already pretty suit. ALICE LONG showed the really big eye catcher. It was of gold and trimmed with drapes of pearls. MRS ARCH RATLIFF wore a sequined green suit that was combined with a net jacket in blue that fell from the shoulders in a full ripple to the hip line—Pretty combination with Mrs. Ratliff's red hair. The name of the wearer of a black outfit that glittered with sequins escapes me, but the beauty of the black Chantilly lace jacket lives on. Such sparkle could never be dampened.

When the queen of the New Mexico State University Military Ball was presented recently her escort was CADET COL. CHARLEY JOHNSON of Big Spring. Mrs. Johnson is the former Barbara Shields.

Favorite Has New Touch Now

Variation for an old favorite is found in this recipe for slaw: GRAPE APPLE SLAW
2 1/2 cups fine knife-shredded green cabbage (packed down)
1 cup halved seeded grapes, (packed down)
1 large yellow Delicious apple, (cut in thin fan-shaped pieces)
1/2 cup undiluted evaporated milk
1/4 cup red wine vinegar
1 tsp. instant minced onion
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. white pepper
Toss cabbage, grapes and apple together in a bowl.
With a fork beat together the evaporated milk, vinegar, onion, salt and pepper; mix about two-thirds of this dressing with the salad, add remaining dressing to suit taste.
If salad is served at once all the dressing will probably be needed; if it is chilled before serving, salad ingredients will have a chance to absorb smaller amount. Add salt if necessary. Makes 6 servings.

The models added little showy things like wearing flowers between their toes, a hat that held a cigarette lighter, comb and mirror and other little things a girl needs on the beach.
Incidentally, the guests were all given leis as they entered the ballroom, which added to the festive air.

DR. AND MRS. N. B. FURLONG asked that people in Big Spring be thanked for all the flowers, cards and letters which Mrs. Furlong has received at Room 210 West, M. D. Anderson Hospital in Houston where she is a patient. When the J. C. Pickles were in Houston recently they visited by telephone with both the Furlongs.

The Pickles also got in on the last tour of the Azalea Trail which had to be postponed this year because of the unusually cool weather. However, the weather has now warmed up to make all the flowers in Houston break forth. Mrs. L. A. Pickle, who accompanied the couple to Houston, visited in La Fayette, La., with her granddaughter Mrs. J. C. Holmes, Jr.

Chill Milk First

When you wish to whip evaporated milk, turn it into a refrigerator tray and chill until crystals form around the edge—this usually takes 15 to 20 minutes. Then whip until stiff, add the amount of lemon juice needed, and continue to whip until extremely stiff.

Delegates Tired But Determined To Work

(Editor's Note: Mrs. Will Wilson, wife of the attorney general, was a delegate to the White House Youth Conference. Her particular interest was in the care of the emotionally disturbed child. This article describes her reactions from a Texas's point of view.)

By MRS. WILL WILSON
AUSTIN, — Like the Abilene High School football player who observed "Boy, we sunk'em higher than a kite!", we delegates came home from the White House Youth Conference in Washington worn to a frazzle but more determined than ever to make our communities a better place for our youngsters.

The conference was given a spirit of optimism and hope by the presence of fresh, young intelligent faces of high school and college delegates.

These articulate and clear thinking young people kept us on our toes and our toes on the right path.

The fact-packed sessions brought out that we know a lot about "good kids" and "not so happy kids" but that we need to know and think more about "the why."

What creates a happy mentally-healthy individual?
Why not more plans for research in understanding children?
We spend millions on weapons of destruction. Why not spend even

Fashions From Hawaii Shown Cosden Women

Play clothes for the beach and the backyard were shown for members of the Cosden Women's Club Wednesday evening at the annual dinner and fashion show at the club building.

Theme of the evening was On the Beach which led to the ballroom decoration of Hawaiian atmosphere. Tables were centered with pineapples, lemons and limes based with grass and other greenery. The back wall was draped with a fishing net about which were placed cut-out glittered fish and crabs.

Mrs. Gay Hartwell was the narrator and started her show with the introduction of Candy Hensley and Alice Coker who set the theme by performing a ballet hula dance.

Bathing suits ranged from the briefest two-piece knit to purely show suits of gold lame with strings of pearl decoration. Casual wear included walking shorts topped with loose fitting jackets, slim pants or full skirts. Most of the play clothes featured male-rials with interesting authentic Hawaiian prints.

Lt. Emil Boudo and Lt. Hayes Bryan entertained with songs and instrumental music.
Big event of the evening was drawing for the gift certificate which was for $100 in merchandise.

Keep Keys White

Piano keys should be left uncovered a part of the time. They will yellow without some light. Plastic piano keys should be cleaned by rubbing with a damp cloth. Water yellows ivory keys, so clean them with a clean flannel cloth dampened with wood or denatured alcohol.

Style Show Highlights Lamesa Club

LAMESA — The Lamesa Junior Woman's Study Club held its annual spring fashion show Tuesday night at the Study Club Building with Mrs. Vernon Fleniken serving as narrator.
She described the fashions made by club members for themselves or their children as the models paraded down an aisle outlined by potted plants.
White wrought-iron yard furniture and white trees decorated with angel hair flanked an archway on the stage, and spring flowers were used throughout the clubhouse.
Entertainment was furnished by a junior high school choral group: Laquita Goodson, Linda Norman, Myrna Fuqua, Sandra Jarrett and Donna Johnson.
Hostesses for the evening, Mrs. John Foster and Mrs. C. G. Norris, served open face sandwiches, chips and fruit punch.

Kansas Choir To Present Concert Tonight At HCJC

Some fine choral music is on the agenda for tonight.

The occasion will be the appearance of the Sterling College Choir, of Sterling, Kans., at 8 p.m. in HCJC Auditorium. There is no admission fee, and the concert is open to the public.

The program is co-sponsored by the choir of St. Paul Presbyterian Church, First Methodist Church and Howard County Junior College. Mrs. Amy Percy is director of the St. Paul Choir and Ira Schantz directs the First Methodist and HCJC Choirs. Members of these three choirs will act as hosts and hostesses during the Sterling choir's stay in Big Spring and will keep individual choir members in their homes.

The Sterling College Choir numbers 39 selected members, who come from several states. The current tour of the organization will cover approximately 3,000 miles in four states and will last almost three weeks. Director is Leon Akin, voice and choral instructor at Sterling. He has had special study at the Christiansen Choral School and the Fred Waring Music Workshop and has been at Sterling College since 1940, except for four years in the infantry during the Second World War where he attained rank as a captain. In 1958 he returned to Europe, this time as a singing member of the All-America Chorus. On this tour he was the roommate of Schantz, who was a member of the same chorus.

Last Jan. 15, Schantz, accompanied by HCJC music department chief Jack Hendrix, presented a lengthy vocal concert at Sterling College during their fine arts series.

Tonight's concert will feature a wide variety of music, from the early contrapuntal period of Palestrina to modern folk songs and Negro spirituals.

Schantz Busy With Vocal Engagements

Ira Schantz, head of the vocal department of Howard County Junior College, is currently fulfilling a number of important musical engagements in the West Texas area.

Last Sunday evening, he was one of the tenor soloists in a performance of the Heinrich Schuetz "Seven Last Words of Christ" in Midland with the choir of the Midland First Methodist Church and a small string ensemble from the Midland Symphony. Direction was under George DeHart, minister of music at the Midland church.

This coming Sunday, at 4 p.m. Schantz will direct the combined choirs of the local First Methodist Church, and Howard County Junior College in the first performance of this city of the great choral work, "A German Requiem," by Johannes Brahms. This performance will take place in the sanctuary of the First Methodist Church. Immediately after the performance he will travel to Andrews to be the tenor soloist that evening in a rendition of "The Seven Last Words of Christ" by Dubois which will be given by the choir of the Means Methodist Church, Hubert Carson directing.

Tuesday evening, Schantz will be in Abilene to be the tenor soloist in a performance of the "Symphony No. 9 in D Minor" ("Choral") of Beethoven with the Abilene Symphony and the chorus of Abilene Christian College. This will be his second solo appearance with the Abilene Symphony; last April he sang the leading role of "Faust" in Berlioz's "Damnation of Faust" in a performance that was widely acclaimed. Walter Charles is the director of the Symphony.

Where To Put Dams Is Big Question For Water Experts

By GARTH JONES
AUSTIN (AP)—Texas' water problem is not so much how to build dams and reservoirs as where to put them.

Engineers sometimes say a dam should be built here, while the politicians say there. A lawyer with a wealthy client may have a third idea.

Economics, engineering, politics and laws combine to tangle Texas' water future.

Let's look at some of the engineering sticklers. Texas is suited neither geographically nor climatically to equitable distribution of water. Rainfall ranges from less than 10 inches a year in the arid western portion to more than 55 inches a year along the eastern boundary. Evaporation follows a similar pattern. The dry, hot climate of the Big Bend makes water evaporate as much as 130 times faster than evaporation on the Sabine River. Despite all efforts of nature and man, an average of 42 million acre feet of water flows uncaptured into the Gulf each year.

An acre foot of water equals the amount of land a yoke of oxen can plow in a day (or 43,560 square feet) covered one foot deep in water.

During wet years this runoff has totaled as much as 113 million acre feet or as little as 12%.

Note this: More than half this runoff comes from the eastern fourth of the state.

The situation on underground water is much the same, but there are not many statistics to prove it. Reliable statistics on underground water withdrawal are available for only about one-tenth of the state.

You can't build a dam of any size without the state's permission but you can drill all the water wells you want, any depth you want, and as close together as you want without asking anyone but your pocketbook.

"Proper planning for future needs must be based on accurate information concerning present use as well as on sound forecasts of population and industrial growth," said John Stockton, director of the Business Research Bureau at the University of Texas.

Engineers have less than 50 years of formal runoff records in planning most water projects. Some engineers take the 1950-57 drought as the worst a reservoir can be expected to experience. Others claim there were worse droughts in the past, unrecorded, and there will be longer and dryer spells in the future.

"Studies of water requirements in Texas need to be kept up to date and the projections of requirements should be studied continuously," said Stockton. "This obviously is going to require the expenditure of money but the problem is so important to the development of the resources of the state that the expenditures would be very profitable."

Trigg Twichell of the U.S. Geological Survey, recommends about 160 additional points on Texas rivers to gauge the stream flow. This would make 470 gauging stations.

"If planning engineers don't have the necessary data, they have to make estimates and assumptions about the water yield," Twichell said. "This way they may over design a project and make it cost more money. Or they may underdesign, which is particularly dangerous if it is a flood control project."

Twichell says additional need for gauging stations will be created as the flow of major rivers is increased by the return of waste waters, such as sewage effluent.

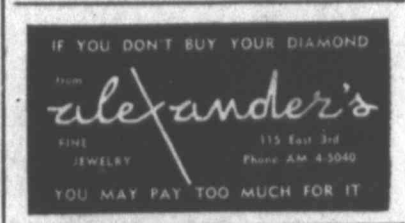

State and federal engineers agree on one angle—there is enough water in Texas for the foreseeable future if it can be distributed equitably.

"The quantity of water which will be required for municipal and industrial purposes by 1960 does

'Aladdin And His Lamp' Puppet Show Scheduled

Sponsored by the Mu Zeta Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, the Suzari Marionettes will appear at the City Auditorium, bringing to the children their latest production, "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp."

"Aladdin" in the Suzari version, is a musical extravaganza crowded with tricks, illusions and stunts that will delight the children. Magicians, vanishing genies, a flying carpet, a new-you-see-it and-now-you-don't castle, and many other unusual effects, follow, one after another, in a lavish combination of over-sized puppets, and real human actors right on the stage with the puppets.

The newest tricks of lighting and sound technique have been employed in an effort to make this Suzari play something that the children will remember for a long time. No details were spared in preparing costumes, or authentic sets, all the way from the jewel-gleaming cave of the magician to the sumptuous castle of the Sultan.

The wooden actors have a truly human appeal, in their lively actions, and in their individual characters. The pompous old Sultan, the pretty Princess, and the conniving and sinister magician, will share the applause given to Aladdin, who earns his success by learning the virtues of modesty and kindness.

Singable tunes and comical situations further liven the action of the play. And the children in the audience, who will have participated in the play itself, will share in the final triumph of Aladdin, when he overcomes the power of the genie, and earns his reward.

Two performances will be given, at 4:00 and 8:00 p.m. Friday. Admission is 50 cents for children, 99 cents for adults.

'Wide World' Producer Has New Job With Army

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—Producing a TV spectacular for the Army is little different from turning out such a project for commercial television, says producer Joe Durand.

Durand, who will be remembered for his 18-month stint as producer of Wide-World for NBC, is chief of the production crew at OGMS-TV. That's the Army Ordnance Guided Missile School station.

The latest Durand special was scheduled today on a closed-circuit from Huntsville to West Point, Ft. Lee, Va., and New York City.

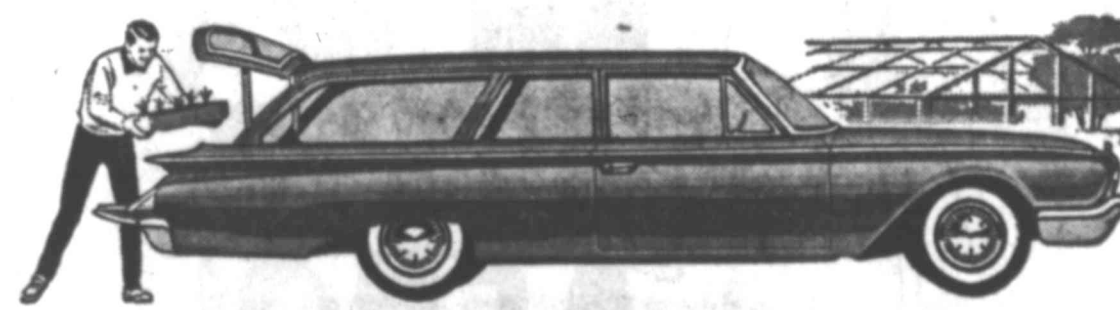

Durand says he hopes his former bosses at NBC get a look at the show, because it was patterned after Wide-World.

—depicting the past, present and future aspects of the Army's missile program—was put together in about 2½ weeks instead of the three months it used to take to make Wide-World.

And while it formerly took about $300,000 to make a Wide-World program, the missile spectacular, if done commercially, would have cost about $100,000. Those are Durand's estimates.

Of some 75 persons it took to make the show, only 30 were TV professionals. The rest were Army personnel—including three generals.

Durand, whose production crew is employed by the TelePrompTer Corp., says the Army is making great strides in its educational television program.
