

DEAR ABBY

TELL THE TRUTH

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: As I sit here in the County jail waiting to be transferred to the State Prison for a narcotics charge, I am terribly troubled.

You see, Miss Abby, I must leave my 17-year-old sister behind and she will be all alone because we have no parents or living relatives. My young sister is also addicted to the drug and I know that when I go to prison she will have to get money for the habit and when you need money for the habit you will do anything to get it. Please advise me what to do. Thanks you.

Sincerely yours, W. F. DEAR W. F.: Tell the sheriff that you must talk to a clergyman. Then tell the clergyman your story. He will arrange for treatments to cure your sister of the drug habit. He will also offer her spiritual guidance to help her to a better way of life. Bless you, and your sister. And good luck!

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and my boyfriend is 19. He is as sweet and thoughtful as a boy can be. He is the greatest as far as personality goes. The only thing wrong with him is that he leaves me home every Saturday night. I guess it may sound strange to you, but he dates me every Friday night and Sunday night but Saturday night is his night with the guys. No girls, but that doesn't help me.

How can I make him see that I want to go out on Saturday night without sounding like an ungrateful girl?

DEAR BEV: If you don't want to sound like an ungrateful girl — stop acting like one. Keep your lip zipped or you'll be staying home every Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday Saturday AND Sunday.

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago my boss' wife (I am his new secretary) sent me one of her potted plants. My boss is very proud of his wife's "green thumb." I am not very handy with plants, and to be perfectly honest I didn't pay much attention to it, so it died. Well, what does anybody do with a dead plant? I threw it out.

His wife came to the office yesterday and said she wanted to see how the plant was doing. (Personally, I think she came to look me over.) Instead of telling her the plant died, I lied to her and told her I had taken it home.

However, most everyone agrees that an over-all statewide water planning program will settle most arguments.

DEAR TRAPPED: Fess up and tell your boss the plant died.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TOO SCARED TO TELL": Please tell your mother or father at once! They are your best friends (no matter what you think!) and they will help you.

"What's your problem?" For a personal reply, write to Abby in care of the Big Spring Herald and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's pamphlet, "What Every Teen-ager Wants to Know," send 25 cents and a large self-addressed, stamped envelope in care of the Big Spring Herald.

Old Water Hole Battles Now Are Mostly Over Water Rights

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN (AP)—Some of the bitterest frontier feuds came when water holes were fenced.

Right now, some of Texas' hottest arguments are over efforts to tie down water resources needed for future growth and development.

West Texas doesn't look at water problems with the same viewpoint as East Texas. North Texas sees things differently from South Texas. The Rio Grande Valley and the Panhandle differ on water needs.

However, most everyone agrees that an over-all statewide water planning program will settle most arguments.

And the argument over a statewide plan is the biggest of all.

Some think the federal government is tampering with states' rights when it takes the lead in development of Texas water projects, using flood control or navigation as the motive.

Others predict the widely diversified interests in Texas never will agree on an over-all program and are in favor of the federal government stepping in.

Members of the State Board of Water Engineers think they will have some form of statewide planning to offer the next Legislature.

In July 1961, the 16-man U. S. Study Commission-Texas plans a report on development of land and water resource of eight river basins—Neches, Trinity, Colorado, San Jacinto, Brazos, San Antonio, Guadalupe and Nueces.

If federal and state interests finally see eye to eye on state planning it may mean the long-awaited break. A political decision, or at least an armistice, ending the federal-state feud will ease economic, engineering and legal problems.

R. M. Dixon, State Board of Water Engineers member, said the state is "outmanned and out-gunned" in any competition with the federal government for trained engineers essential to the statewide planning program.

The U. S. Study Commission offers engineers $11,300 to $17,500 a year while the state's salaries for the same work is $6,000 to $12,400.

However, State Water Board Chairman Durwood Manford said there will be no sitdown on the state's part because seven state engineers already on the payroll are working with the federal commission.

Gov. Price Daniel recently called water development the state's No. 1 problem. "The next immediate step is to carry through and expand the water planning program with more adequate financing of the State Board of Water Engineers and improvements in its organization," he said. "We must have adequate salaries to attract enough capable engineers for completion of the statewide water planning program."

"It is time for maturity and cooperative effort," George Brown, chairman of the Federal Study Commission, told The Associated Press. "We cannot afford an exclusively parochial approach or attempts to hoard water resources for the speculative benefit of any one area."

"Disharmony, conflict and lack of cooperation would retard industrial expansion in Texas and make investors reluctant to seek any of the other advantages of this area," Brown said.

Expert Urges Chemical War Research Push

By FRANK CAREY

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—An Army chemical warfare expert said today the United States should push to develop chemical weapons even more potent than kill-in-a-minute "nerve gases" already possessed by America and the Soviet Union.

Hinting that some such effort may already be under way, but that an adequate program would require vigorous public support, Dr. William H. Summerson, a deputy commander of the Chemical Corps' research and development command, asserted:

"It is to our national interest to uncover as yet unrevealed toxicological secrets at least as rapidly as a potential enemy nation can do so, and preferably before he does."

Summerson made the statements at a symposium wherein he and other government scientists painted a grim picture of the "threat" to the United States and its allies arising from possible chemical and germ warfare—and the need for assuring strong defenses and countermeasures.

And their remarks were underscored by the statement of Maj. Gen. Marshall Stubbs, the Army's chief chemical officer, that "there is some evidence that the Communist bloc may surpass us in this field."

ACADEMIC DEFENSE

If the Communists succeed in attaining a superiority in new chemical and biological weapons, "which we cannot match or which we cannot defend against," said Stubbs, "our nuclear strength could be of academic value."

He said progress is being made in developing protective masks and clothing for civilians but "more thought must be given to making fallout shelters impervious to chemical and biological agents."

It was brought out at the conference—staged at the American Chemical Society's 137th national meeting—that the United States already has germ weapons which could:

Sicken up to 75 per cent of the population in a 34,000 square mile area with only 450 pounds of virus or bacterial material dropped from a B52 bomber, provided there was no medical defense.

In this connection, Dr. Summerson told reporters with sufficient planes and proper meteorological conditions it would be possible to "blanket" the entire Soviet Union.

But he and the others indicated that the same could be true in a Soviet attack on this country.

Rocky's Door Not Yet Closed

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller indicates that he has not closed the door on a possible Republican presidential draft. But he said he doubts it will come.

Rockefeller, asked at a news conference Thursday if he would reconsider heading the GOP ticket in November, said:

"We will cross that bridge if it comes. I do not think the opportunity is apt to come."

Rockefeller was more definite about a GOP vice presidential nomination. He said he would not fill the second spot on the ticket "under any circumstances."

The youthful governor, whose withdrawal from the Republican presidential contest last December left the field open for Vice President Richard M. Nixon, later asked Republicans across the state for solid support of the GOP ticket in November.

Rockefeller called for a Republican "statewide crusade" in an address before a Chautauqua County Republican dinner.

He said New York "must be in the Republican column if the Republican party is to retain national leadership next November—a leadership which under President Eisenhower has blessed the nation, with eight years of prosperity."

The governor, who has consistently avoided endorsing Nixon as a presidential candidate, did not mention the vice president in the speech.

Nixon was mentioned briefly in the news conference, however. Rockefeller, asked if he received any overtures from the Nixon camp to run for vice president, told reporters:

"None that I would identify as coming from Nixon."

Texans Push Water Projects

WASHINGTON (AP)—House and Senate Appropriations Committees seeking recommendations for federal funds heard scores of Texans back waterway projects Thursday.

One 44-member delegation asked that a Budget Bureau request of $250,000 for Trinity River basin planning be raised to $350,000 and that $3,100,000 recommended for the Navarro Mills Reservoir be increased by $1,225,000.

Communities along the Brazos River were represented by another group of 22. They gave the House subcommittee an over-all picture of developments accomplished, under way and proposed along the 1,200 miles of the river.

The planning time required for water development of consequence is never less than five years and seldom less than 10 years," Spence said. "Hence, what we do in this decade will shape the future of West Texas for decades to come."

O. F. Dent, a member of the State Board of Water Engineers, thinks dissension among Texas water interests is lessening.

"I think the people of Texas the next few years will have a plan for development and distribution of its water from concentrated areas of supply to concentrated areas of demand," Dent said. "I hope to see it presented to the next Legislature."

Man Balks At Answering Questions By Census Taker

DETROIT (AP)—"The government has never done anything for me. Why should I do anything for the government?" says George Kido. And that includes answering a census taker's questions. Kido, who lives in suburban Sterling, his wife and Janet Vukovich got into a fuss this week when Mrs. Vukovich called at the Kido home to pick up a census form. Mrs. Kido answered the door. "I asked her (Mrs. Vukovich) to sit in the kitchen but she plunked herself down in the living room," said Mrs. Kido. "I answered some of her questions, but her attitude provoked me. Kido became angry when Mrs. Vukovich asked him about bathroom facilities in his home, then handed him an additional census form to fill out. He escorted Mrs. Vukovich to the door and tossed the form out after her. Mrs. Vukovich, her supervisor, Helene Zimmerman, and a state policeman went to the Kido home the following day and were ordered out. Mrs. Zimmerman said that when she told Kido he was liable to a $100 fine and 60 days in jail for not answering he told her: "Go ahead and prosecute." "I'm not living in Russia," he said. "I don't have to answer those questions." The matter has been turned over to the regional census director, John Tharaldson, who says records show that in 170 years the Census Bureau hasn't had to prosecute anyone for refusing to answer questions. Tharaldson said he planned to let the matter rest for a couple of days because "too many other things are more important right now."

College Ousts Prof For Sex Views; He Says He'll Fight

URBANA, Ill. (AP)—A biology professor, fired from his University of Illinois post because he advocated pre-marital sexual relations, say he will fight for reinstatement.

Asst. Prof. Leo F. Koch, 44, was relieved of all duties Thursday by the university which called his published views "a grave breach of academic responsibility."

The controversy grew out of Koch's letter published March 18 by the Daily Illini, the student newspaper. The letter concluded: "A mutually satisfactory sexual experience would eliminate the need for many hours of frustrating petting and lead to a much happier and longer-lasting marriage among our younger men and women."

Koch, married and the father of a teen-age daughter and two young sons, declared:

"I believe I have been discharged on grounds that violate the traditional academic freedom of universities in this country." Koch termed his dismissal unfair and said he will fight to regain his job by appealing through university channels to the American Assn. of University Professors and the Faculty Committee on Academic Freedom.

Koch's letter also said that students who limit themselves to petting may indicate "an extreme degree of brainwashing by our religious and civil authorities in the name of virtue and purity." Dr. David D. Henry, president of the university, in a letter to Lyle H. Lanier, dean of the division of general studies, said:

"With you, I consider Prof. Koch's letter a grave breach of academic responsibility. The views expressed are offensive and repugnant, contrary to commonly accepted standards of morality, and their public espousal may be interpreted as encouragement of immoral behavior."

However, Koch, a 1941 graduate of the University of California, stated:

"If the citizens of this country do not have the intellectual vitality to come to their own conclusion after weighing the evidence pro and con without persecuting those who believe differently than they do, then this country is no longer a democracy."

Koch, a native of Dickinson, N.D., holds master's and doctor's degrees from the University of Michigan. He taught at Fresno State and Bakersfield colleges in California before taking the Illinois post in 1955.

Boy Composer Just Sits Down And Starts Thinking

By GEORGE ESPER

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Eight-year-old Kenneth Brown, whose "An Israeli Rhapsody" will be played for the first time Saturday by the Philadelphia Orchestra, can't understand why all the fuss over such a young composer's success.

Heck, he's been writing music since he was four years old. It's a simple thing to him and he can't understand why everybody can't be a composer.

"It comes easy to him," his mother, Vera Brown, explained today. "He can't understand himself that it's a gift."

How does Kenneth go about composing a song?

"He doesn't use a piano," said Mrs. Brown. "He just sits down and starts writing out notes. He says he pictures these things in his head. I asked him about 'An Israeli Rhapsody' and he said he had just pictured the country in his mind. I said but how can you when you've never been there and he insisted he could. Really, there is no explanation except he's gifted."

Ken, a third grader, wrote "An Israeli Rhapsody" last January. It impressed his parents, piano teacher and William Smith, assistant conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra. Smith selected it as the best composition submitted in a competition open to boys and girls in the Philadelphia area. It will be played Saturday at the annual children's concert in the Academy of Music.

Ken started writing music four years ago. One day he found his older brother's accordion lying on its side with sheet music nearby.

"How do you know what notes to play?" he asked his older brother, Stephen. Stephen explained. Ken immediately grasped the basic fundamentals and that started him off.

Ken, too, is a throwback to the old school of composers who wake up in the middle of the night or anytime an idea inspires them.

One night recently his mother found him up extremely late and told him he'd better get back to bed.

"Don't talk to me now," he answered. "I've got this melody in my head. Just give me a minute to get it down while I've got it fresh in my mind."

But Ken Brown is accustomed to being an exceptional child. His mother said he played cards and did arithmetic problems when he was a year and a half old, taught himself to read when he was three and read the encyclopedia when he was four.

How do Mr. and Mrs. Brown feel about the latest success? "We're on cloud nine," they agreed.

Sunny Weather Exits For Rain

By The Associated Press

Days of dry, sunny weather were due to come to an end in Texas as the Weather Bureau forecast thundershowers for most of the state Friday night.

Early Friday skies were cloudy and temperatures were in the 50s and 60s.

The forecast called for scattered thundershowers Friday night in East, South Central and North Central Texas. Northwest Texas was to get a few showers Friday or Friday night.

The five-day forecast issued Friday called for temperatures near normal in all sections of Texas with some rain mainly in the weekend.

The mercury climbed to 97 at Cotulla Thursday, 96 at Del Rio and Junction, 93 at Wink, 92 at Alice and San Angelo and 90 at Waco. No rain fell Thursday.

Tough Man Leaves Hospital

MOUNT PLEASANT, Mich. (AP)—A man who had 138 feet of rusty bridge railing pass through his body—and lived—has been released from the hospital.

Wixon was hurt March 27 when his car skidded on a bridge near his home and struck the guard rail. The rusty 1 1/2 inch rail smashed through the front of the car, went through the right side of Wixon's body and continued on through the auto.

Slow Down!

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP)—Turtle racing here has been stopped in its tracks.

Bergen County Prosecutor Guy W. Calissi Jr. ruled Thursday that the races would be gambling because there was an element of chance and prize.

A Masonic group had wanted to sponsor the turtle races to raise funds for charity. Local merchants would pay $10 to have their names painted on the turtle's shell. The lodge said the only prize would be publicity for the merchants but Calissi scratched the whole business.

CHEVY! YOU CAN'T BUY ANY CAR FOR LESS ...UNLESS IT'S A LOT LESS CAR!

Anyone who's looked around knows the majority of Chevrolet models—6's and V8's together—list for less than comparable models of other low-priced cars. But the price tag alone is only one of a whole raft of reasons a Chevy does better by your dollars. For in no other low-priced car will you find such price-less advantages as Fisher Body craftsmanship, an X-built Safety-Girder frame, Safety Plate Glass in every window and countless "extras" that don't cost you a penny more!

The price tags on a '60 Chevrolet and the other cars in its class may look somewhat alike. But there—very abruptly—the resemblance ends.

Nothing near Chevy's size and price can match the Full Coil cushioning of its ride, or the fine, finished workmanship of its Body by Fisher. That even applies to some cars that cost a lot more. You're up in the higher price brackets before you find a car that moves as quietly as a Chevrolet or offers the inner space that Chevrolet does.

Or look at the extras Chevy gives you—at no extra cost—that others in its class can't offer at any price. Shock-cushioned steering. Safety Plate Glass in every window. Keyless locking of all doors. A full wraparound windshield. Vent windows that crank open and closed. Chevrolet offers the widest choice of power teams, too—seven engines and five transmissions—including shift-free Turboglide, an extra-cost option.

Drop by your dealer's and drive a Chevy—just once. You'll have a tough time settling for anything less.

De Gaulle Addresses Parliament

French President Charles De Gaulle tells a joint session of the British Parliament in London that France will quit testing nuclear weapons if the other nations of the world will agree on nuclear disarmament. Seated beside De Gaulle is his personal aide, Geoffrey De Courcel. In attendance in background are gentlemen-at-arms, top, and yeoman of the guard, at left on stairs.

De Gaulle Returns Home On Note Of Accord With British

LONDON (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle flew home today on the 56th anniversary of France's alliance with Britain after a state visit that for the moment obscured differences between the two neighbors in a rosy glow of mutual admiration and nostalgia. France, De Gaulle declared in a rousing speech in London's ancient Westminster Hall Thursday, stands "shoulder to shoulder" with Britain. And Britain, in the words of Queen Elizabeth II, welcomed De Gaulle in a double capacity—as head of the French state and "because you are Gen. De Gaulle, our friend."

The public reception for De Gaulle was exceeded only by that given President Eisenhower on his visit last year. But Eisenhower came only as an "official visitor," the Queen being in retirement for her last pregnancy, while De Gaulle's "state visit" brought forth a display of pomp and ceremony unprecedented in modern times. The French President addressed a joint session of Parliament's two houses, something no foreign chief of state has done since the war. He reviewed the Queen's household troops on parade, something no foreign chief of state has done in recorded history. Fireworks blazoned the Cross of Lorraine over London. There were the usual banquets, drives through the streets, a gala ballet Thursday night at the Royal Opera House and other ceremonies. But surrounding the entire visit was a remembrance of the dark days of 1940, when De Gaulle symbolized all that remained of Free France, standing alone with Britain against the threat of Hitler across the Channel. "It was one of those state visits to end all state visits," said a Foreign Office spokesman. De Gaulle, said the Daily Express, "takes with him the good wishes of 50 million people." The visit was not all ceremony and sentiment, however. De Gaulle and Prime Minister Harold Macmillan had two long talks. They discussed separate economic groups in Europe to which their governments are allied and the possibility of a serious clash between them. Macmillan told the French President of his talks with President Eisenhower 10 days ago, and De Gaulle in turn briefed the Prime Minister on his recent talks with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. The two government heads went over the issues that will confront the Western allies at the East-West summit meeting in Paris next month. Berlin, German reunification, disarmament, nuclear weapon tests and the proper approach to the Soviet Union undoubtedly were the major topics of conversation. There was no indication that the talks reconciled the known differences between Macmillan and De Gaulle. But the differences were generally forgotten for the moment in the excitement and warmth generated by the outward aspects of the visit.

Negro Educator Deplores 'Character Assassination'

DALLAS (AP)—A Negro educator declared bitterly Thursday night that "a prejudiced press" was responsible for the firing of a professor at all-Negro Bishop College in Marshall, Tex.

Dr. M. K. Curry Jr., president of the East Texas Baptist school, asserted the professor—Dr. Doxey A. Wilkerson, who said he quit the Communist party in 1957—was a victim of "character assassination by association."

"I was certain the revelation of his past would be construed by the unthinking that the college favored communism," Curry added in his statement. Curry was particularly critical of a copyrighted story in Thursday's editions of The Dallas News which stated Wilkerson and his wife Yolanda were linked with the Jefferson School of Social Science in New York in 1955, when the New York Legislature branded it a Communist front. Mention of Mrs. Wilkerson in this connection was also "character assassination by association," Curry said.

The Bishop president asked Wilkerson to resign and, when Wilkerson refused, fired him during the student demonstrations last week. Wilkerson denied any responsibility for the demonstrations. Curry said he told Wilkerson "it would be best for him to resign not because the college had done wrong by hiring him last year, but because the climate was such that I did not believe he could do his best work under the harassment which was sure to continue."

Poison Gas From World War I A Big Gun In Cancer Fight

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN
Associated Press Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—A poison gas from World War I is becoming a big gun in the modern war against cancer.

It has helped patients suffering from cancers of the lung, breast and colon.

The gas is nitrogen mustard, an agent that attacks and destroys white cells in the blood. It has shown promising results in temporarily prolonging the lives of some sufferers from leukemia, a cancer-like disease of the blood marked by an overproduction of white cells.

Researchers have sought to extend use of the substance to prolong life and ease pain in patients with solid tumors, cancers that attack the various internal organs of the body. Nitrogen mustard acts against solid tumors by combining or cross-linking with components of their cells. This interferes with their normal function and prevents them from dividing. Cancer cells are affected more than normal cells because they are more sensitive to substances that stop growth. The principal drawback has been unpleasant side reactions—nausea and other symptoms that have forced a halt in such treatment after a few days or weeks. In an effort to overcome this obstacle and find more potent cancer-repressant agents, researchers have tried more than a score of derivatives of mustard gas. One of these showing promise is cytoxin.

Four researchers from the Duke University Medical Center at Durham, N.C., described today the results of cytoxin treatment on 120 patients suffering from a wide variety of cancers. They are Dr. R. W. Rundles, Dr. T. E. Fulmer, Dr. T. W. Gore and Dr. A. Opalinski. In a report to the American Assn. for Cancer Research, they said the tumor-depressing effects of cytoxin appeared comparable to other mustard compounds in treatment of chronic leukemias and other forms of cancer, including ovarian carcinoma. The researchers said, however, that the problem of unpleasant reactions still remains, and that some patients could tolerate treatment only a week or two. Another researcher, Dr. Donald Pinkel of Roswell Park Memorial Institute, Buffalo, N.Y., said the mustard derivative brought a temporary shrinkage in the tumors of one-third of a group of 15 children suffering from advanced inoperable cancer.

The Bishop president asked Wilkerson to resign and, when Wilkerson refused, fired him during the student demonstrations last week. Wilkerson denied any responsibility for the demonstrations. Curry said he told Wilkerson "it would be best for him to resign not because the college had done wrong by hiring him last year, but because the climate was such that I did not believe he could do his best work under the harassment which was sure to continue."

Texas Candidates Cover Many Issues

By IRWIN FRANK
Associated Press Staff Writer

Candidates for re-election talked of atomic wastes and public beaches Thursday while their opponents used such words as "land frauds," "rigged quiz show" and "nakedly raw."

The candidates for nomination in the Democratic Primary May 7 moved from city to city and issue to issue as they sought votes.

Rep. Jerry Sadler campaigned in Fort Worth against incumbent Bill Allison who will attend the East Texas Chamber of Commerce Convention in Marshall Friday.

Sadler, of Palestine, told a Fort Worth audience that nobody in authority can tell the value of state-owned land.

"The grounds of our state Capitol in Austin are being carried on the books at a value of $131.50. This is not ridiculous, it is downright silly. The actual value of these grounds is estimated at $11 million," Sadler said.

Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey's opponent, Don Yarborough, protested what he termed "nakedly raw" attempts of a Chicago insurance company to get Ramsey re-elected.

He said Ramsey is being pushed for a sixth term by one of Texas' leading general sales taxers, Preston Weathered. Yarborough identified Weathered as a Dallas attorney and a registered lobbyist for the Chicago insurance firm (Old Republic Life Insurance Co.).

Ramsey campaigns Friday in the Sabine-Neches district. Waggoner Carr called an early-morning press conference Friday "to tell the people of Texas what is behind the dismissal of indictments involving veterans' land frauds."

His opponent, Atty. Gen. Will Wilson, told a news conference in Corpus Christi he would wage a continuous fight against dumping of atomic wastes in the Gulf of Mexico. He said "We are not completely convinced that they are safe in the first place and it is a bad psychological thing to dump atomic wastes in the Gulf because it would adversely affect the marketability of Texas fish and shrimp." He campaigned in Corpus Christi, Robstown and Bishop Friday.

Jack Cox, working to win Gov. Price Daniel's office, landed his helicopter in Gatesville to call Daniel's newly-appointed tax study committee a "rigged quiz show."

Daniel told an Atlanta group that "additional teachers salary increases and other improvements in our public schools must be enacted at the earliest possible time." He also spoke at Mount Pleasant to 55 leaders from 10 Northeast counties. Daniel will speak at the East Texas Chamber of Commerce meeting in Marshall Friday.

Give God A Chance—God Will Open Doors For You!

Now upon the first day of the week, very early in the morning, they came unto the sepulchre, bringing the spices which they had prepared, and certain others with them. 2 And they found the stone rolled away from the sepulchre. 3 And they entered in, and found not the body of the Lord Jesus. 4 And it came to pass, as they were much perplexed thereabout, behold, two men stood by them in shining garments:

5 And as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them, Why seek ye the living among the dead? 6 He is not here, but is risen: remember how he spake unto you when he was yet in Galilee, 7 Saying, The Son of man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again.

THE WORDS OF ETERNAL LIFE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	John	6	66-71
Monday	Matthew	19	16-22
Tuesday	John	3	14-21
Wednesday	John	12	12-33
Thursday	Matthew	26	26-75
Friday	Luke	23	1-49
Saturday	Titus	2	11-15

There was a day when some of the disciples of Jesus became discouraged and walked no more with Him.

But when the Master asked the twelve, "Will ye also go away?" Simon Peter answered, "Lord, to whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal life."

Never underestimate spiritual intuition! Peter sensed long before the first Easter that Christ's mission was to lead men to eternal life!

As Easter approaches, millions of men and women realize a spiritual intuition. It calls them to their churches to worship the Risen Christ. It prompts them to embrace with new fervor convictions that sometimes have become casual.

Cherish that hunger for spiritual renewal. Fortify it as Peter did with an honest evaluation of man's helplessness apart from God. To Whom shall we go? Only Christ offers the Truth and Life which are eternal.

Turtles Offer Allergy Aid

INDIAN WELLS, Calif. (AP)—Two boys, one in Connecticut and the other in Los Angeles, have a turtle each, one of the few pets they are permitted to own.

It began when the Connecticut boy read a newspaper story about the Desert Empire Turtle races held annually in California's Mojave Desert.

The boy, suffering from an allergy which prevented his having a pet with fur or feathers, wrote to Dr. James W. Henry of the Indian Wells Lion Club asking him for a turtle as a pet.

The letter gave Henry an idea. He suggested that the club make a project of sending turtles to children.

So into the sand and cactus tramped the Indian Wells Lions Club in search of a desert turtle. One was found and shipped by air to Connecticut.

A few months later a Los Angeles physician heard about the project and asked for a turtle for his grandson, also afflicted with a fur and feather allergy. Another home was found for a turtle.

Now Henry and the Indian Wells Lions Club are waiting other requests. When they come, out into the desert they'll go again.

Dogaholic

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—An aircraft company executive told his wife to give their sick dog a jigger of whisky when she couldn't reach the veterinarian. The vet called her later, and she told him the dog was better and she didn't need him.

"What kind of whisky did you use?" the vet asked. "Oh, we drink scotch," the wife said. "But we keep a bottle of bourbon for the dog."

Business Trouble

TUCSON, Ariz. — Getting a shoeshine turned into a big problem for a Tucson businessman.

A 13-year-old shoeshine boy kept missing the man's shoe and applying polish to a sock.

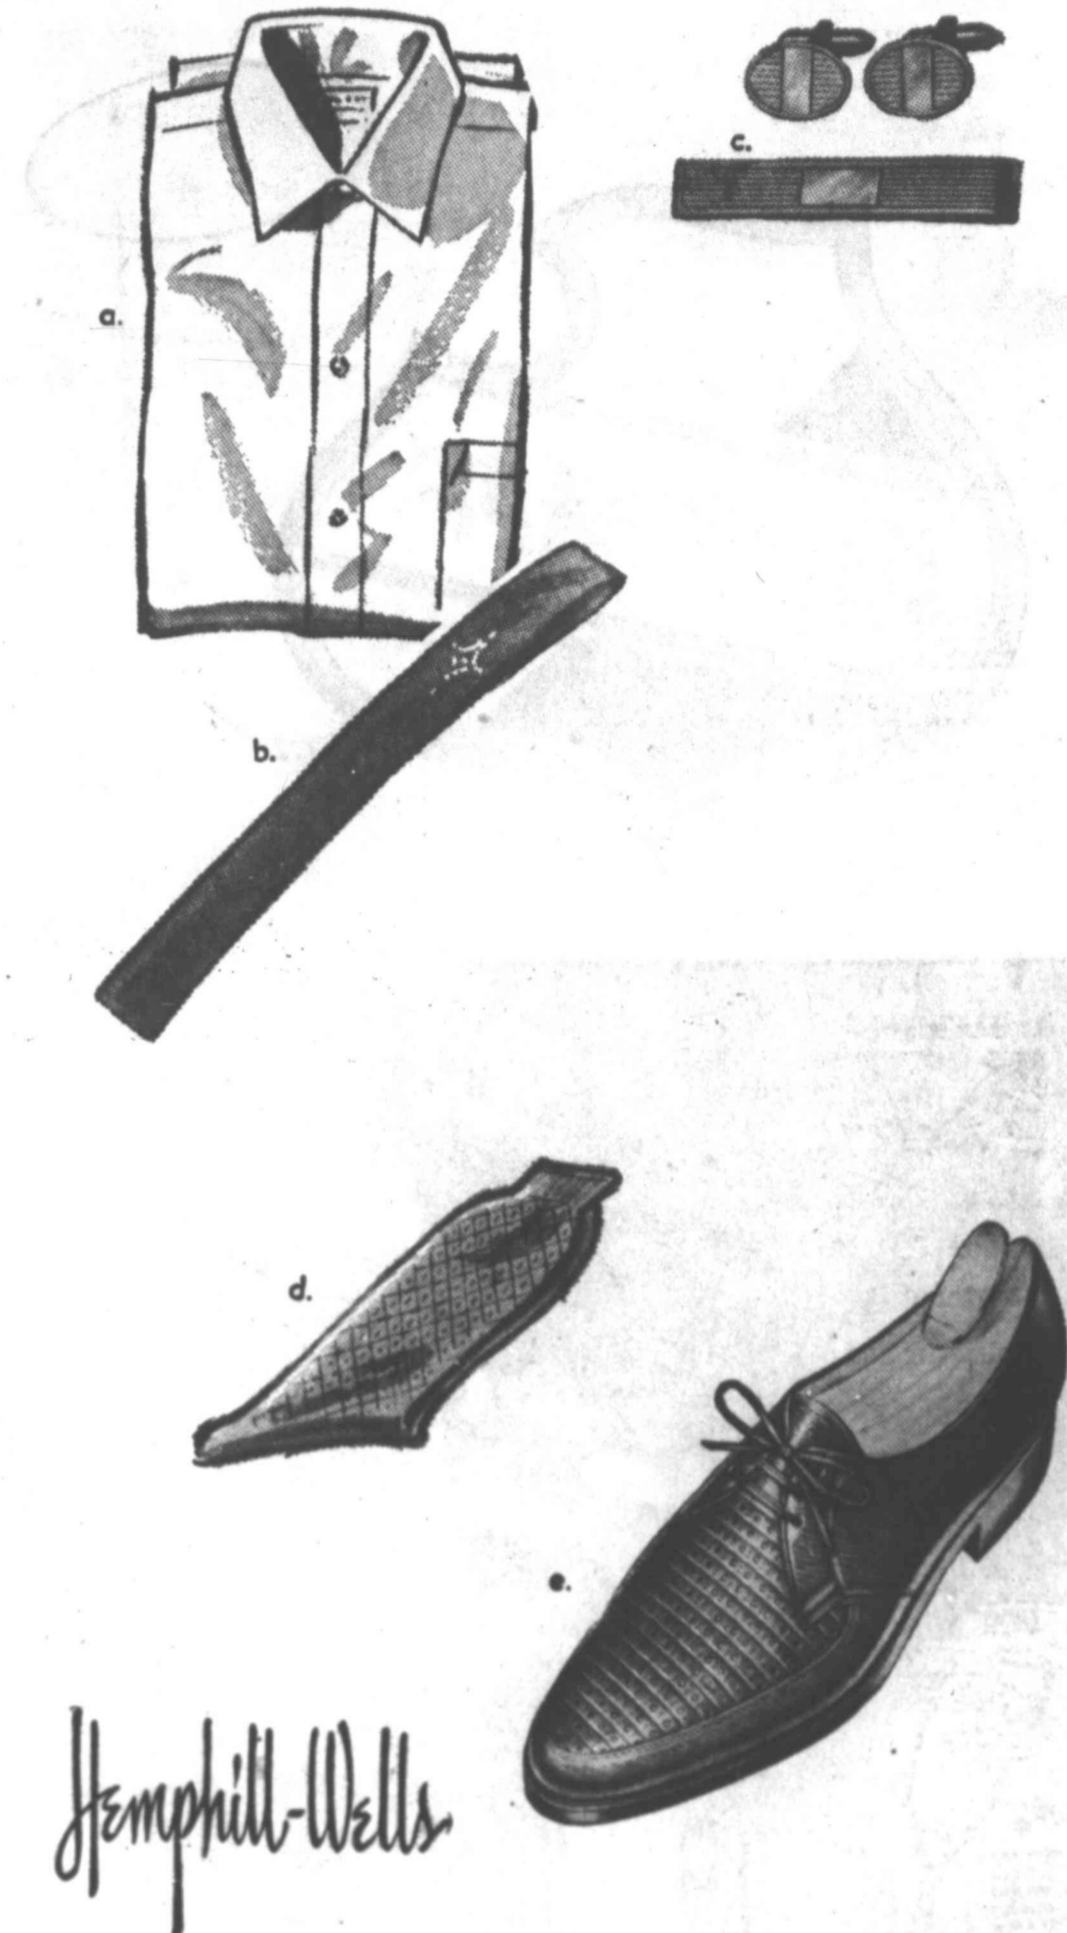

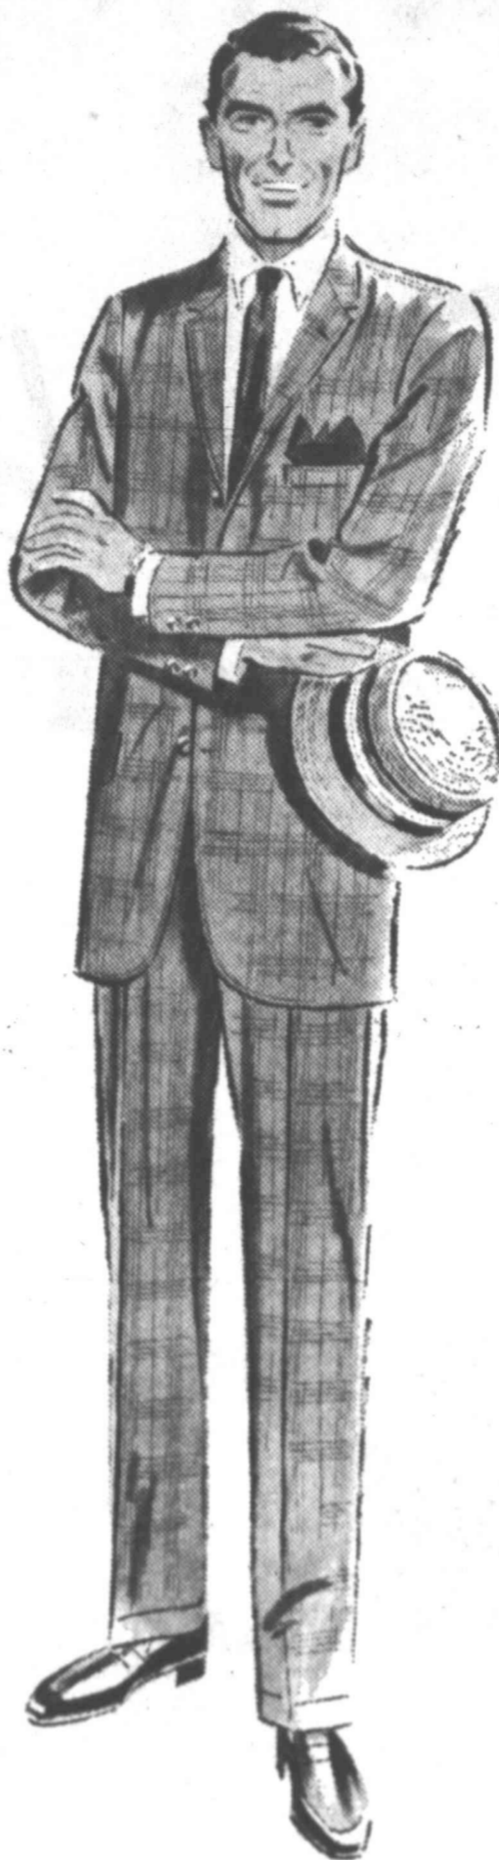

Finally the customer offered the boy 10 cents to stop.

The boy became belligerent, tore a sliding screen door from its hinges and threatened to throw rocks through the customer's window.

Darwin's Letters Reveal His Sympathy For Editors

By EDWARD KITCH
CHICAGO (AP) — Most writers complain about editors, but Charles Darwin, whose "Origin of Species" was published 100 years ago, had great sympathy for them.

Darwin's opinions are contained in one of 18 letters now exhibited at the Chicago Natural History Museum. The letters are from the estate of B. D. Walsh, an entomologist of Rock Island, Ill., who corresponded with Darwin during and after the Civil War.

Darwin's book, printed Nov. 24, 1859, shook the thinking world of the day with his theory of evolution.

Walsh, an expert on insects, requested Darwin send him a copy. In a letter dated Dec. 24, 1866, and postmarked London, Darwin wrote:

"A copy of the 'Origin' was sent you Aug. 6 through Sampson Low to Scribner and Co., New York, but as this copy is lost I've ordered a new one sent to Messrs Bailliere, New York, for you."

"I'm sorry the first copy failed. I have received two numbers of the 'Practical Entomologist.' The first about naturalized insects interested me greatly and seemed very well done."

"I'm rather sorry that you are an editor as I've always heard that an editor's life is one of ceaseless trouble and anxiety."
