Key Figures In Musicales Today

Ira Schantz, left, and Mrs. Jimmy Cribbs and Jack Hendrix, accompanists, check the score for Brahms' "Requiem," which will be presented as a Palm Sunday musical offering at 4 p.m. today in the First Methodist Church (see Page 7-A). Mrs. Cribbs will be at the piano and Hendrix at the organ console.

'REQUIEM' TO BE SUNG

Ambitious Easter Musical Program Slated For Today

Sacred music today sounds the note for observance of Holy Week and its joyous climax with Easter. At 4 p.m. in the First Methodist Church, the combined Methodist and Howard County Junior College choirs will present Brahms' revered "Requiem." Ira Schantz, who directs it, terms the offering as perhaps the most ambitious choral undertaking in the city's history.

On Easter morning, in the amphitheatre, the Big Spring Pastors' Association will have its traditional sunrise services. The Rev. V. Ward Jackson, president, will preside. Music will be led by Wayne Nance, the Scriptures read by the Rev. Royce Womack, and prayers led by the Rev. John Black and the Rev. Al Seddon.

Church is planning to observe the ordinance of baptism at its morning worship service. The St. Paul Lutheran, St. Mary's Episcopal, the St. Thomas Catholic and Sacred Heart Catholic Churches all have a series of special Holy Week observances which reach their peak on Good Friday and Easter morning.

Church is planning to observe the ordinance of baptism at its morning worship service. The St. Paul Lutheran, St. Mary's Episcopal, the St. Thomas Catholic and Sacred Heart Catholic Churches all have a series of special Holy Week observances which reach their peak on Good Friday and Easter morning.

One church, the First Christian, will have its Easter cantata at 7:30 p.m. today. During the week there will be noon-day meditations at the First Methodist Church. These will be from 12:30 to 1:35 p.m. and the speakers will be: Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, Monday; Dr. J. O. Jordan Grooms, Tuesday; Dr. P. D. O'Brien, Wednesday; the Rev. S. E. Eldridge, Thursday; the Rev. H. W. Bartlett, Friday.

Garza Precinct Votes In Liquor, Another 'Dry'

POST (SC) — One segment of Garza County went "wet" in a liquor election today, while another remained "dry." Two separate elections were held in county commissioners' precincts 3 and 4, in accordance with new state rulings permitting local option voting in dry counties.

Monday evening services will be held at the First Church of God with the Rev. Alfred Seddon, pastor of St. Paul Presbyterian Church, as guest speaker. Meeting together each evening at 7:30 will be the congregations of the First Church of God, Park Methodist Church, Church of the Nazarene, St. Paul Presbyterian Church, and Wesley Methodist Church.

Civil Rights Measure Nears Journey's End

WASHINGTON (AP)—A friendly reception apparently awaits the civil rights bill when it returns to the House this week after its tempestuous trip through the Senate.

produced a bill which can be supported by honorable men — north, south, east and west. "I believe that most Americans will regard this a step forward." The general feeling around the House Saturday was that final action on the bill will be taken shortly after Congress returns from an Easter vacation.

HIS 'FINEST MOMENT'

Youthful Composer's Work Stirs Tumultuous Applause

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Kenneth Brown, eight years old and not much bigger than a peanut, savored his finest hour Saturday with the poise of an old pro. It came when the Philadelphia Orchestra, under assistant conductor William Smith, played the boy's "Israeli Rhapsody" before a full house in the Academy of Music.

his family, and peppered Smith with questions such as "is it really good?" Smith assured everybody "the boy shows real style, otherwise we would have had nothing to do with his composition." The verdict is not yet in from all the critics, but a gathering backstage praised the boy's effort without dissent.

was now living in his own magic world. As he held tight to the scroll that was his passport to glory, Kenny said, "What's all the fuss about? Why do people think this is unusual? Doesn't everybody like music and try to write it? I've never been to Israel, but I can imagine what it's like. I can imagine lots of things."

Reviewing The Big Spring Week

Our nature spy reports that the mesquites are now putting out foliage. To the old timers, that means that spring definitely is here, for rarely have the older mesquites been caught by a freeze. This is the crucial week, all right, and if we slide past it without a frost, prospects for a fruit crop are excellent.

LATE ERROL FLYNN'S GAL

Teen-age Entertainer Is Deep In New Scandal

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A rejected suitor, sobbing "I love you too much... I can't kill you," shot himself in Beverly Aadland's apartment Saturday, police said, after terrorizing the teen-age entertainer.

Police said they found Stancu lying across a bed, nude except for a pair of bathing trunks slipped over one leg. Beverly was next door, where she had called police. Investigators said doctors found matted blood in her hair.

laint mouth, was taken to Juvenile Hall. She is being held under a law permitting detention of juveniles in cases where there is "lack of supervision." She is scheduled to have a hearing Wednesday to determine if she has adequate supervision. Her lawyer said he will try to get her out on a writ and, if that fails, seek to move up the hearing from Wednesday to Monday.

Census About Third Done

About one out of every three persons in Big Spring and Howard County have been interviewed by the U. S. Census enumerators. In Borden County, where the population is much less, about half of all the residents have been enumerated.

It's Last Day On Census Contest

One hundred dollars cash awaits you if you make the closest estimate of Big Spring's official 1960 census. But you'll have to mail your guess today. The "How Big Is Big Spring?" offer, from The Herald and all local radio stations, ends today. Your entry must be postmarked by midnight, April 10.

French Police Disperse Rioting Farmers. Police use tear gas and clubs to battle farmers in Sens, France, who were staging demonstrations against President De Gaulle's price freeze on their products. A dozen policemen were hurt and about a dozen demonstrators injured. Sens is 60 miles south of Paris. (AP Wirephoto via radio from Paris.)

Estimates are that the census is about one-third of the way along. Of course there is no indication as to how the count is shaping up, so if you will mail that card today, you can still get in a guess for the big census contest. Guesses — and there have been upwards of a thousand — range from 25,000 to 45,000. Somewhere in between you could win yourself $100 if you hit it.

Glen Ruth Reid of Stanton was announced last week as the winner of the Texas Home Demonstration Association $500 scholarship. Only a couple of weeks ago Bobby Kelley also of Stanton, won a scholarship posted by the Texas Ginners Association.

HER STORY Beverly, her face drawn, her hands shaking, told this story: "Billy called me about 4 this morning. He said: 'I've got to see you. It's important. I just shot a guy. I need some money so I can get out of town.'"

MARTIAN SHOT MAY BE SOON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Frank Kowalski (D-Conn.) speculates that April 16 could be the day the Russians launch a rocket toward Mars. His guess was made on a recorded radio interview today with Rep. Joseph E. Karth (D-Minn.) on the general subject of space explorations.

REFUSED PROPOSAL She told newsmen Stancu had asked her to marry him and she refused. "He is a sweet boy, but very impressionable," Beverly added. "He was copying others who weren't too good. That's one reason why I stopped seeing him."

County Judge Ed Carpenter considers cantaloupes and avocados and contemplates the unsuitability of such food items when paid for by the county on welfare department grocery orders. The de-

ON GROCERY LISTS

Cantaloupes-Avocados For County's Hungry?

By SAM BLACKBURN
Hungry families of Howard County Welfare Department and the Commissioners' Court don't cotton to the idea of avocados and cantaloupes.

Mary Cantrell, county welfare officer who deals with indigent citizens in need of aid, caught her breath when she came across these items submitted for payment. This is not a common happening by any stretch of the imagination, but it does point up a problem.

"We are very careful," Miss Cantrell said, "to keep the number of grocery allowances we issue to the lowest possible number. We endeavor to make certain the applicant is indeed in difficulty. When we issue an order, we expect that he will buy staple foods—potatoes, milk, beans and other common items which are both nourishing and at the same time will cope with his needs for a longer interval."

OUT OF CONTROL
"However, there is little we can do once he has the order and heads for the food store. What he buys there, we cannot control. We admonish and warn buyers when they come back for more help (and most of them do) but in a general sense, we have no way to make the person buy any specific item."

In March, Miss Cantrell's office spent $1,247.50 of the county tax money for groceries. This total alarmed Miss Cantrell because it represents a big increase over the average expenditures for food by her office as compared with other months.

"What has happened?" she asks. "Formerly, our heavy food load came in the cold winter months. Here it is spring and the pleas for food are increasing at disturbing pace."

HIGHER BILLS
The grocery bill for the department in March was $223 greater than it was in February and $491 greater than it was in January. In December, the department spent only $605 for groceries.

The total welfare bill the county paid for March was $2,205.40. More than half of this was for food allowances to needy families. The bulk of the balance was for medicine.

The avocado and cantaloupe purchases showed up when the itemized bills from food stores were sent into the office with the grocery orders for payment.

Miss Cantrell pointed out that she has asked all food stores to accompany grocery orders sent in for payment with itemized sales slips showing just what foods were bought with the money. Not all of the food stores do this, she said. One food store manager, reportedly, has told his checkers they do not have to make an itemized report.

ITEMIZE PURCHASES
Howard County Commissioners disagree with this merchant. They disagree so heartily they have instructed Miss Cantrell to see to it that all food stores do include itemized sales slips with their claim for payment. The implication was plain that food stores which do not cooperate could find some of their claims turned down when they are presented for payment.

"We think that it is our responsibility, as commissioners, to know where the money we spend for welfare aid goes," observed Ed Carpenter, county judge. "We would be derelict in our duty if we permitted such matters to go unchecked. We are certainly wholeheartedly in accord with Miss Cantrell in her position that such itemized sales slips must be provided her office by the food stores."

STUDY SYSTEM
Miss Cantrell was also instructed by the commissioners to go to Odessa and make a study of the new system which the Ector County welfare department has put in operation to cope with a similar problem.

"It may finally boil down to Miss Cantrell making out a list of staple items which the applicant says he needs to accompany the grocery order," Carpenter said.

Average order for groceries issued to a family is from $8 to $10.

Welfare poses a growing problem for the county government. State law, as set up by the Constitution, places responsibility for the care of the needy on the back of the county. As a result, other political subdivisions do not share in the cost and it is up to the county to appropriate funds and direct the relief activities.

INEQUITY?
In recent years, as the county's population has increased the welfare costs have climbed steadily.

Judge Carpenter pointed out what appears to be an inequity in the system.

"Ninety-five per cent of all persons who appear before Miss Cantrell asking for aid," he said,

"are residents of the city of Big Spring. Yet the city pays nothing toward the maintenance of the welfare department."

"By the same token, it should be kept in mind that the bulk of the money which goes into the county welfare fund comes from outside the city limits of Big Spring. Oil companies, railroads and other big taxpayers foot the lion's share of the bill."

HEAVIER LOAD
Last year, the county expended $39,372.83 for welfare needs. In 1958, the total expenditure was $37,212.12. In 1957, the welfare department cost the taxpayers $31,862.27.

The growth in demand for groceries is reflected in the expenditures of the department in those three years. In 1957, the grocery bill was $7,154.15. In 1958 it had climbed to $9,923.49. In 1959, the grocery orders added up to $11,294.20.

Hospital and nursing costs, too, increased in each of the three years. In 1957 this item used up $7,033.90 of the funds; a year later it was $8,338.20. Last year it hit $9,571.54.

Charity expenditures in 1959 cost the county $3,290 per month. This represents an average monthly gain of $625 over the expenditures of three years ago.

There is no indication that the demand for aid will in any way diminish in 1960. It is probable, in fact, that this year's expenditures will go even higher than they did in 1959.

Dr. P. W. Malone On State Program

Dr. P. W. Malone will be one of the speakers at the Texas Medical Society which opens its session Saturday in Fort Worth. He is to present a paper at the meeting. The convention ends on Tuesday.

A number of Big Spring physicians and surgeons are planning to attend. Included will be Dr. Malone and Dr. M. A. Porter, from Malone and Hogan Hospital; Dr. R. B. G. Cowper from Cowper Hospital and Dr. Fabian Gomez from the Big Spring Hospital.

Routine Session Shapes For Commission Meeting

A routine business session is expected for the Tuesday meeting of the Big Spring City Commission, however several important issues could come up before the meeting begins at 5:15 p. m.

The advanced agenda includes a canvass of the votes in last Tuesday's election. Mayor Lee O. Rogers, John Taylor and George Zachariah swamped several write-in campaigns to win back their seats for another two years.

The commission will open bids for a truck for the garbage department. The packer body for the truck has been purchased.

Final reading is due on an annexation ordinance, which will bring the Worth Peeler No. 3 and Marshall Fields subdivisions into the city. The subdividers have requested that these additions be annexed so city utilities will be available.

A. D. Harmon has asked the city to transfer the bus bench franchise to David Elrod, City Manager. A. K. Steinheimer said Friday that he has received no further encouragement that the city bus line will be reinstated.

Commissioners will also consider an ordinance hiking the garbage collection rates from $1.25 to $1.50. This move was approved along with the 1960-61 fiscal budget for another two years.

Another ordinance will be considered to change the permit arrangements for recreational activities on Moss Creek Lake. Steinheimer said a new state law makes current charges obsolete. The commissioners may adopt an ordinance similar to that in force on Lake J. B. Thomas, probably not affecting overall rates.

INCOME TAX

Friday Is Last Day For Returns

Friday is the last day. Ben Hawkins with the United States Internal Revenue Service anticipates a flood of belated income tax returns this week and a big wave of these forms to pour in on the final day.

He recommended that all who can do so file as early as possible. He said that the USIRS office will be open from 8:30 a. m. to noon Monday to advise with taxpayers on problems relating to their income tax reports. The office will be open for the same purpose on Friday from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m.

The usual questions, he said, are being asked this year. These inquiries fall into several general categories. A common one he says is asked by parents whose children have some income and where the child wishes to report his own income and receive a refund. The parents are concerned over whether such income has to be included in their report. Hawkins says it does not.

If you have any problem or are puzzled about some phase of the income tax report form, telephone the office or come in person, Hawkins says.

He could not estimate how many Big Spring and Howard County taxpayers are still working on their 1959 reports. The reports for the most part go to the Dallas office and do not pass through his hands.

He knows from past experience, however, there are a great number of taxpayers who always wait until the last week before making their reports.

He had one suggestion: If it so happens that you are caught short on cash and can't find a way to enclose tax payment with your income report, don't let that stop you from sending in the report on time. Even though you may have to pay 6 per cent on the unpaid tax until you square the deal, at least you are safeguarded against the 20 per cent penalty which will apply if you delay sending in the form until after April 15.

The USIRS will work out a way to collect the tax due but above all make certain your report is in the hands of the department by midnight on Friday.

Wife Of Grid Star Is Killed

PORT NECHES, Tex. (AP)—Mrs. James W. Blount, 22, wife of a former Tulane football player, died early today of traffic injuries suffered in a two-car collision at a street intersection.

Blount, 23, a coach here, suffered injuries but was reported in satisfactory condition after surgery at a Port Arthur hospital. He suffered cuts on both legs and his left hip was dislocated.

The accident occurred about 10:30 p. m. Friday night and the victim died at 1:20 a. m.

The driver of the other car, identified by investigators W. O. Baxter and Will Craig as Clifford Richard, 41, of Beaumont, also was injured.

The investigators said they could not determine whether Richard was on the wrong side of the street or was attempting a left turn.

Paving On Seventh Street Progresses
Paving work on the 7th Street extension is progressing on schedule, according to Bruce Dunn, director of public works. Under arrangements with the Big Spring Independent School Board, the city extended the street across the school ground, into an intersection with 8th St.

The city is furnishing labor and the school board is supplying the materials. Dunn said about a third of the curb and gutter has been installed.

Traffic Deaths Show Decline

AUSTIN (AP)—Traffic deaths on Texas highways declined steadily in the first 14 weeks of 1960, Gov. Price Daniel said Saturday.

Daniel said the Department of Public Safety advised him the state's traffic toll through noon Friday was 444 compared to 532 in the comparable period of 1959. The number of fatal crashes dropped from 473 to 364 during the same period.

Why Install a Gas Light?

If you are a home owner who takes justifiable pride in the appearance of his property... if you have a regard for the convenience and safety of folks who come to see you... and if you have a keen sense of economy as well as for things functional... then a Gas Light will be a satisfying addition to your yard.

Neighbors welcome its glareless illumination... insects give its soft, mellow glow a wide berth. And regardless of the architectural style of your home, gas lights provide an indefinable "something" that adds noticeably to the appeal of any residence, at an amazingly small cost of operation.

Why not call Pioneer tomorrow and find out all the details about Gas Lights? Special Budget Prices start at just $49.50, installed.

DEAR ABBY

WELL!

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Last night when I was driving home from a friend's house my car stalled. A fellow stopped and offered to help me. He checked the tires, gas and batteries and then started to work on the motor while I held the flashlight. He obviously knew what he was doing.

I am good looking, have a swell figure and men don't usually run away from me, Abby. In fact I usually have trouble beating them off. Well, this man didn't look at me twice or say two words to me. There was something very appealing about him. His eyes got me. He got my car started and I offered him five dollars. He refused it.

I said, "I could kiss you." And then came the biggest insult of all. He said, "Thank you but I don't kiss strangers." I almost fell through the pavement. I am in my thirties. Am I losing my looks? Either this man is crazy or I am getting old. I know I'll never see him again but this bothers me. Can you set me straight?

DISTURBED
DEAR DISTURBED: Not all men will jump at the chance to kiss a woman just because she is good looking, has a swell figure and is willing. Did it ever occur to you that he might have been married, not interested, or just plain fussy?

DEAR ABBY: Do nice girls call boys on the telephone? I am the mother of two young men who are both in their early twenties. They live at home. These boys are run ragged by girls (and women) calling them at all hours of the night and day. Not only do they get local calls, but they get long-distance calls from everywhere.

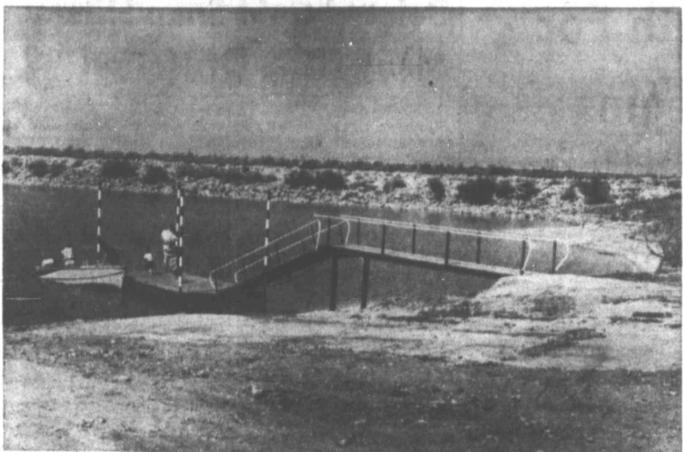

My sons insist that they are all nice girls and they seem to be very much flattered by these calls. I say nice girls do not call young men on the telephone. Am I correct or am I—

"BEHIND THE TIMES"
DEAR BEHIND: You are correct. Don't encourage a bad connection.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 20. Six weeks ago she met a serviceman at a dance. He is 22 and has 16 months to serve yet. Our daughter informed us that they are getting married in four months. She knows nothing about him, his reputation or his family. We feel this is a very serious situation. We don't know how to go about getting information on this boy and his family. Can you help us?

WORRIED PARENTS
DEAR WORRIED: Find out where the boy is presently stationed. Call your local Red Cross headquarters and ask them to put you in touch with his Commanding Officer. Through him you will be able to contact the boy's parents. A girl who would consider marrying in such haste needs help. And a boy who would encourage such a marriage sounds like no prize.

Complex Confusion Unsettles Texas Problems Over Water

By GARTH JONES
AUSTIN (AP) — Texas water laws are both complex and uncertain.

The grammar and spelling of a Spanish grantee a century ago may vitally affect water rights to a plot of profitable Rio Grande Valley land.

On the other hand the few written laws governing underground water in the Panhandle are based on English doctrine.

In between are a number of water statutes, including some written during six-shooter disputes over fenced-in water holes.

All of which adds to the problems of Texas water development. Any action to coordinate and consolidate economic, engineering and political efforts at statewide water development must include a thorough revamping of state water laws.

"I'd estimate about 90 per cent of our water law is based on court decisions and interpretations in cases from another age when there were different problems and different needs," said Durwood Manford, State Board of Water Engineers chairman.

Manford said these court interpretations are gradually being replaced by statutory law.

WATER LAW
Briefly here's the water law in Texas:
The owner of land is the absolute owner of underground water as long as it may tarry under his land. That's old English doctrine. He can drill wells without having to obtain a permit and may pump all the water he can capture so long as he does not do it to harm his neighbor maliciously.

Surface water also is considered the private property of the owner of the land upon which it falls until it reaches a watercourse. Once in a stream bed—and there is argument how wide the stream must be—the water is subject to an entirely different set of rules. Many of these provisions go back to Spanish and Mexican law since the title to more than 280,000 acres of Texas land originated in grants from the crown of Spain or the Republic of Mexico.

At least since 1840 owners of land bordering water courses have had a recognized right (riparian) to make reasonable use of the water. Then in 1889 the Legislature added the system of prior appropriation—the right to use water from a stream although the land does not border the stream.

"First in time, first in right," is the dominant theme of Texas water policy.

RIGHTS ISSUE
The issue of riparian rights vs. appropriative rights is the subject of a court action now pending in the San Antonio Court of Civil Appeals. The action arising from a suit in the Rio Grande Valley, began three years ago. It may be several more years before it is finally decided.

Federal-state arguments over control of water also cause legal entanglements. An official state report recently told a U.S. Senate water study committee "much of this confusion has evolved from the proprietary activities of the federal government in constructing and operating water projects and as these proprietary activities expand to involve control of additional water supplies, it is inevitable that problems will arise that can be handled only in legislation by the Congress to insure the continuing rights of the states to administer the acquisition of water rights and to fully protect rights acquired under the law."

BACK TO STREAMS
Water experts estimate 50 to almost 100 per cent of all water taken from streams and wells in the future will be returned to streams and flow toward the Gulf. In some instances most of the average flow of streams in the lower

U.S. 'Prison' Puts Trust In Inmates

SEAGOVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A prison where the inmates have keys to their cells? And where the fence is to keep people out, not in?

That is the case at the Federal Correctional Institution in this small town near Dallas.

It's easy to escape, but the penalty is something none of the inmates want—they can't come back.

The institution lies on 834 acres of grassland near U.S. Highway 175.

From the road, its cluster of red brick colonial dormitories flanking a campus-type quadrangle give it the look of an upper-crust school.

As Worth Gatewood, staff writer for the Houston Post, put it in a recent story, its only forbidding aspect is its name.

An experiment in penology, Seagoville is the nation's only open or minimum security prison. The 500 men who live here are called inmates, never prisoners.

It's not, as you might think, a prison exclusively for first offenders and short termers, although roughly a third of the inmates are in prison for the first time.

The dossiers of the men run the scale of crime from murder down to income tax evasion and the terms from two years to life.

Each man is carefully screened in a four-week admission and orientation period.

If he appears a potential troublemaker or a poor security risk, he'll go to a walled prison. If he appears trustworthy, Warden Luster Gallaher has a quiet word with him.

"I'm not happy to see you here," the warden will say, "but I didn't send for you. You got yourself in trouble and you're fortunate to be here instead of in reaches will consist of so-called used water, much of it sewage effluent or industrial waste. This brings on more legal questions.

"Future plans should include more efficient use of water," said Trigg Twichell, district engineer of the water resources division, U.S. Geological Survey.

"An operator that pollutes water should be responsible for returning it to a stream in a condition that can be reused downstream. The public and the consumer pays the bill one way or another."

some other institution.

"That fence is to keep the cows out, not you in. If you're not agile enough to jump over it, you can crawl under it. The only thing keeping you here is your trust in yourself. And if you run away, remember, you can't come back."

A tall man with the fatherly attitude of a college dean, Gallaher has devoted 20 of his 30 years to the Federal Prison System. He has been assigned to McNeil's Island, Wash.; Lewisburg, Pa.; Sandstone, Minn.; and Texarkana.

"I like to think of Seagoville as a prison of hope," the warden said, "and not as a place where men are caged until they have served a sentence. Here we try first to rebuild a man's self-respect by treating him like a man, not an animal."

The inmate can read all night if he likes, provided he is in shape to work the next day. He can buy his own radio set from the commissary, and he can decorate his room to his own taste.

It is not a country club life, however.

The day begins at 6:15 a.m., and only from 5 to 9 p.m. may the inmates have the run of the place. In that free period he can go to the 15,000-volume library, putter in the hobby shop or just loaf. At 9 p.m., the outside door of his cottage is locked.

If he has a trade, he probably will work at it. If not, he will repair furniture for other government agencies or make pajamas for Veterans Administration hospitals.

He can earn from $23 to $40 a month in the prison industries, of which 75 per cent goes to dependents, if any. The remainder goes into an account he receives when he leaves the institution, or to pay small bills at the commissary.

CHEVROLET
OVER BACK-COUNTRY ROADS AT 45 WITH A SKY-HIGH LOAD OF TIMBER

Chevy middleweight shows the big rigs how it's done!

That's a 6303 medium-duty Chevrolet powered by a 283-cu.-in. V8. But there's sure nothing medium-duty about the load. Mr. J. E. Blankinship, Arkansas logging contractor, says both of his torsion-spring 6303's "move along at 40 to 50 miles per hour with 55,000 pounds gross weight and maintain a 5-trip-a-day schedule with no trouble at all." Figure the money you save when you've got a medium-duty truck that can cover 30,000 back-country miles a year with a high-tonnage load!

We've never seen anything like the amount of praise truck owners are heaping on Chevy's new torsion spring suspension. Owners like the fact the truck handles a whole lot easier, can move faster off the road without beating the driver to death and shaking loose all the sheet metal. They like the idea of extra thousands of miles before trade-in! . . . Drive a '60 Chevy just once. It's a whole new experience.

Chevy middleweight averages 200 miles of back roads a day dogging timber out of the woods and delivering it to the mill at Crossett, Arkansas.

BACK TO ITS REGULAR RESTING PLACE
President J. T. Suggs presents trophy to Supt. K. D. Hestes

BIG CELEBRATION

T&P Officials Elated At Division Safety Record

Texas & Pacific Railway employees on the Western Division returned the President's Safety Trophy to its familiar resting place Saturday after having earned it for another year.

Through K. D. Hestes, their superintendent, they served notice that they intend to keep it beyond 1960.

After having achieved an unprecedented safety record in winning the trophy for the third consecutive year—the first time any division has done that—it was announced that the division is ahead in safety competition for the first three months of this year.

"I want everybody to know that the employees of this division, and their families, are solely responsible for this trophy," said Hestes in receiving the huge and handsome award from J. T. Suggs, Dallas, T&P president.

Foy Crockett, Sweetwater, mechanical; Tom Halliday, Abilene, roadmaster; A. J. Pierson, Baird; E. C. Campbell, Fort Worth, signal.

John Williams, T&P safety superintendent who was praised warmly by Suggs and Porter for his work, served as toastmaster. Although he introduced well over 100 people and three speakers, he had the giant party over with in one hour and 40 minutes, including the serving.

BIG TURNOUT
Members of the division office staff served with hosts along with a committee from the Big Spring Women's Safety Council. Music was furnished by Mrs. C. H. Rainwater, and Walter Jetton, Fort Worth, catered the function. So big was the turnout that tables and chairs for approximately 100 extras had to be set up.

Representatives were here from El Paso (including the Women's Safety Council of that city), Toyahvale, Monahans, Odessa, Midland, Big Spring, Sweetwater, Abilene, Baird, Ranger, Fort Worth and Dallas. Several public officials and civic leaders from Big Spring were guests.

SAFEST YEAR
Suggs had reminded the big crowd of well over 1,000 people assembled for a gigantic dinner in the T&P freight terminal that the road had experienced its safest year. In 1959 there was not a fatality to employees on the job, nor did anyone of them lose a limb, hand or foot.

Weekend activities added some $210.00 to the coffers of the Howard County Society for Crippled Children and Adults. Total collections on the organization's current campaign to secure the year's operating budget stands at $1,710.00, according to George Zachariah, county chairman.

Howard Voss, Virgil Long, Charles Reidy and M. K. Carson sold miniature plastic Easter lilies throughout the downtown section Saturday. Incomplete returns from this committee showed $60 in the till for the fund. The Moose Lodge traditionally sponsors child welfare and the Big Spring Chapter annually assists in the Howard County Crippled Children's campaign for funds.

GREAT RECORD
In presenting 17 safety "Oscars" to supervisors and placers to terminal representatives, L. C. Porter, vice president-operations, reminded that every injury was a personal one, and that there can be no losers in a safety contest.

Friday night a Legion Auxiliary sponsored benefit dance netting $150.00 and members of the Moose Lodge manned kettles in distributing token Easter lilies Saturday.

The Society annually receives a large part of its budget from mailing the traditional Easter Seals. Some 8,000 envelopes of the seals were mailed this year and additional response from this source is anticipated in meeting the $3,000 budget requirement. Committee workers are urging those who have not sent in a contribution to do so at once. Additional benefit coffees, a bake sale and other activities will conclude the annual campaign this week.

OSCARS
Oscars went to Joe Mollinary, El Paso station; Bob Eiland, El Paso mechanical; J. C. Cutrell, Toyah; T. R. Higginbotham, Monahans; Bob Morrison, Odessa; Jerry DeVore, Midland; C. C. Nichols, Big Spring, roadmaster; Harry Doan, Big Spring, mechanical; Drew Dyer, Big Spring, car; F. W. Burkholder, Big Spring, signal; A. McCasland, Big Spring, freight; Bill Hestes, Sweetwater.

CARD OF THANKS
I wish to thank those who were so generous with money, food, flowers and other courtesies at the loss of my baby.

Final Campaign Month For Texas Candidates Begins

By The Associated Press
Texas office-seekers moved this week into the final month of campaigning prior to the earlier-than-usual May 7 Democratic primary. Saturday's campaigning preceded the usual doses of vitriol from the candidates for attorney general, a plug from a gubernatorial candidate for a general sales tax and a pledge from a candidate for lieutenant governor to support legislation guaranteeing equal rights for women.

Wilson sought reelection, said in a statement issued by his Austin campaign headquarters "our opposition in the attorney general's race is relying solely on criticism as a qualification for public office."

The desperation of our opposition becomes increasingly more evident as this campaign progresses," Wilson's statement said.

"The people of Texas are used to mudslinging candidates and know one when they see him."

Carr said there is what he terms "a strong and growing protest vote this year against the habit in state government of responsible officials spending more time looking out for their own political careers than in looking out for the affairs of the state."

"Texans have no confidence in a man who can put 40 to 50 assistant attorneys general out on the road to campaign but cannot find the time to bring to justice those who defrauded the state and the people in the land scandals of the 1950s," Carr said.

Wilson said he will "continue to campaign on my own platform and my own qualifications. I will not belittle the voters of Texas by seeking election on the merits of my opposition."

Wilson campaigned Saturday in Dallas.

In the governor's race, former Rep. Jack Cox campaigned in the Beaumont area.

Cox told the Texas Classroom Teachers Assn. convention "I believe the people of Texas are willing to spend a few cents each day to assure their children of the best education possible."

The Breckenridge drilling contractor proposes a 2 per cent general sales tax with the proceeds dedicated to education.

"Those of the teaching profession are facing a difficult dilemma," Cox said, "to remain in the profession they have chosen or move to other fields."

Don Yarborough, Houston attorney seeking to unseat Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey of San Augustine, told a meeting of the women's division of the Harris County Democrats he will, if elected, "fight to abolish every vestige of inequality for Texas women."

Yarborough said Texas women "are the equal of Texas men in every way."

"They have stood shoulder to shoulder with men since the birth of Texas," Yarborough said. "It is time the laws of Texas gave recognition to this fact."

DALLAS, April 9 (AP)—Police held without charge Saturday a father who at one time accused his 3-year-old son of shooting the boy's mother to death.

Mrs. Thelma Marcheta Bragg, 22, died in a blast of pistol bullets in the front yard of her home Friday night as she returned from work.

Her brother, Ira Jarrell Richmond, said he ran from the house on hearing the shots. He said he saw James Bradford Bragg, 39-year-old service station worker from whom Mrs. Bragg was divorced about a year ago, with a pistol, and heard him say:

"Good God, Ira J, I've shot her."

Richmond said Bragg handed him a .38 caliber pistol, then knelt and kissed his dying wife, repeating over and over "She's mine and I love her."

Bragg rode with his ex-wife in an ambulance to a hospital where she was pronounced dead.

Police said Bragg accused his own son, Guy Bradford Bragg, of the killing.

Belated Cold Snap Hits Many Parts Of Nation

By The Associated Press
The nation's spring weather fare Saturday included freezing temperatures, snow and floods.

Cold air sweeping southward out of Canada held much of the eastern half of the United States in a chilly grip.

Freezing temperatures and snow flurries were reported from the lower Great Lakes eastward to the Appalachians.

Farther south, readings in the Central Atlantic States ranged into the 50s and 60s. It was a cool 50 in the nation's capitol at the opening of the annual Cherry Blossom Festival. Along the Gulf Coast temperatures ranged between the 50s and 70s.

An overnight accumulation of 8½ inches of snow was reported in the mountain community of Kane, in northwest Pennsylvania. Other areas in the state reported falls of 2 to 5 inches, most of which melted rapidly as temperatures rose.

Binghamton, N. Y., was hit with 8 inches of snow that began falling Friday, and Olean, N. Y., was covered with a inches.

Precipitation generally was light over the country with a few showers and thunderstorms in eastern Texas and Louisiana. Light rain fell over the northern Rockies and Pacific Northwest.

KENNEDY SPEAKS

Change In Social Security Needed

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) Saturday called for modernization of the nation's Social Security program and attacked the Eisenhower administration's reclamation policies.

"Our Social Security program," he said, "must be brought into line with costs and vital needs of the 1960's."

He recommended this four-point program to assure older citizens of decent retirement:

- 1. Increased benefits scaled to keep pace with living costs.
- 2. Sound and effective health insurance program for those over 65.
- 3. Increased lump sum payment by Social Security to surviving spouses.
- 4. Increased amounts which older people may earn and still remain eligible for Social Security.

"The Eisenhower administration," he said, "has left monuments of failure and shame to stand as its reclamation program."

"I am not here to talk about Western needs or problems or tell you how the next president must answer Western demands," he said.

"I have faith in the vision of two great Easterners—Teddy and Franklin D. Roosevelt—to whom the great resources of the West were the key to American greatness and growth."

The nation, said Kennedy, is in the midst of a depression in handling of natural resources.

MURDER TRIAL

Stirs Threat Of Fist Fight

RANKIN, Tex. (AP)—A heated argument and a near fist fight marked closing testimony Saturday in the murder trial of Dr. Clyde Vaught, Presidio osteopath.

He is accused in the fatal shooting of H. E. Dupuy, 78, of El Paso last Oct. 2 at Presidio. Dupuy owned a controversial bridge across the Rio Grande there.

Dist. Judge C. E. Patterson called a weekend recess after testimony was completed late in the day. He will charge the jury and opposing lawyers will offer final arguments Monday.

Ernest Williams of Marfa, a county Democratic chairman, lunged from a chair after questioning by defense lawyer Brian Montague and shouted: "You ought to learn how to examine witnesses!"

As Williams approached Montague with fists doubled, three officers intervened and escorted him from the courtroom. Williams appeared as a rebuttal witness for the state.

Clint Holen, Presidio hotel manager testifying for the defense, said he had warned Vaught after seeing Dupuy with what Holen thought was a gun. Holen is a former Texas Ranger.

Travis Fowler, a gas station manager. He testified to seeing Dupuy get into a car and follow Vaught the day of the slaying.

Mac Garwater, former Presidio County deputy sheriff, was the last witness called by the defense. He said Dupuy had voiced threats against Vaught when Garwater saw Dupuy in El Paso earlier.

Dupuy said then he was going to Presidio to "shut him (Vaught) up for good. Garwater told the jury. Garwater said he then returned to Presidio and warned Vaught.

Dupuy's wife later testified her husband did not have a gun in his belongings when she packed them in El Paso.

Airman's Wife Dies Saturday

Mrs. Ruth Mary Williams, 33, wife of T. Sgt. Herbert R. Williams, 247B Langley Drive, died Saturday afternoon several hours after she had given birth to a son at Webb AFB Hospital.

No Fatalities During March

There were no fatal traffic accidents in Howard County in March and only two persons were injured.

It was a good month for the entire Midland Substation district of the state highway patrol according to Sgt. Billy Smith.

There were no fatalities in the entire district and only eight persons were injured in the 40 accidents which the patrolmen investigated.

Counties in the district are Howard, Borden, Dawson, Glasscock, Martin and Midland.

Officially this marked an increase of two accidents and a decrease of two deaths for the same period period in 1959.

Howard County with 15 accidents during the month held the questionable distinction of leading the district. Thirteen of these accidents resulted in property damage, in two personal injuries resulted.

Property damage from these mishaps involved a loss of $6,840. In the district the property damage created by the mishaps checked was $21,655.

The body is at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home and will be sent to Gloucester, N.J. for burial.

Crippled Children Fund Climbs Slowly Toward Top

Howard Voss, Virgil Long, Charles Reidy and M. K. Carson sold miniature plastic Easter lilies throughout the downtown section Saturday. Incomplete returns from this committee showed $60 in the till for the fund. The Moose Lodge traditionally sponsors child welfare and the Big Spring Chapter annually assists in the Howard County Crippled Children's campaign for funds.

Committee workers are urging those who have not sent in a contribution to do so at once. Additional benefit coffees, a bake sale and other activities will conclude the annual campaign this week.

Survivors in addition to the husband are one son, Glen Ralph Williams, one daughter, Debbie Lynn Williams, her mother, Mrs. Lottie V. O'Donnell, Camden, N.J., two sisters, Mrs. Harry Schilke and Miss Matilda O'Donned along information that companies would seek to cut their tax bill by $7,500 in Howard County on this account.

Another phase of the Master Plan was examined here last week when Planner Marvin Springer made some general suggestions on key street systems and on land use. Based on reaction to his suggestions, he will trot out a revised plan for final consideration within a few weeks.

The City Commission authorized a look at the new election code last week after there were reports that air conditioner installation costs were running high in some instances. Electricians, besieged by calls from customers, defended the code as necessary to meet National Electrical Code and National Fire Protection Association minimum specifications, and declared there was no fat in their charges.

The Texas & Pacific safety party was a huge success Friday. With well over 1,000 attending, this still ranks as the biggest banquet crowd in these parts. More important than this, however, is the fact that the T&P family here has consistently pulled together to achieve an outstanding record.

Death unexpectedly claimed Roosevelt Brown, popular coach of Lakeview High School athletic teams. What he lacked in athletic background he more than made up in zeal. He made a fine contribution to the people in the Lakeview community.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORRY

Huge Enrollment; Tiny Attendance Is Problem

By SHERI WEBBER What is the big problem of your Sunday School?

A survey among churches at the start of National Sunday School Week—which begins today—shows clearly that the biggest problem is big enrollments coupled with small attendance.

In many of the larger churches, average attendance is barely half of the enrollment. In one of the local churches the average attendance for one month wasn't half of the enrollment. With 771 enrolled, the average attendance for the month of March had been only 388.

Smaller churches seem to have more faithful members, or a better percentage of attendance. The Church of the Nazarene, for example, has an enrollment of 180 and an average attendance of 152.

VARYING POLICIES Many times churches enroll an individual after they attend Sunday school three consecutive times...

Some churches make it a matter of policy to drop these names after the individual misses class for three consecutive Sundays, while others drop the name only after extensive visitation.

Still other churches do not drop a name unless the individual dies, or moves out of town or joins another church. These reasons help explain the statistics.

Problems of getting volunteer workers are many in most churches. "People don't want to assume responsibility," says one leader ruefully.

TEACHERS ARE TEACHERS Many of the volunteer workers are public school teachers. During their annual vacations churches have difficulty for the teachers often take extended vacations or attend college summer sessions.

While this is going on, a major camporee, commemorating the 50th anniversary of scouting, will be held here July 23.

At the meeting, District Chairman R. L. Tollett, recognized Jack Alexander, commissioner, as having earned his Scouters key.

AN EVER-PRESENT PROBLEM... bulging enrollment, low attendance

ported the need of more space in order to teach effectively. Some churches solve their problems by dividing classes with curtains or holding two classes in their large auditoriums.

Sunday school is going "modern"—that is trends are catching up with the modern techniques of teaching. New churches are making their educational units as attractive and conducive to learning as possible.

CHANGING TECHNIQUES Teaching techniques are following the most successful trends in boards and bulletin boards are considered a necessary part of the modern Sunday school teachers equipment.

Lie Detector Methods Told To City Club

Various types of lie detector tests have been going on since ancient times. Don Reeves, chief of the criminal investigation department of the Ector County sheriff's office, told members of the American Business Club at their luncheon Friday at the Settles Hotel.

Reeves was here to explain the use of the polygraph machine which he is assigned to operate in Ector County.

Reeves said the Chinese of many centuries ago tried to learn if a person suspected of a crime were lying by use of a test that involved rice.

He explained the procedure by stating that suspected persons were ordered to take a portion of rice, place it in their mouths and then remove it after a specified period. The Chinese believed that those with little or no moisture in their rice were guilty of the accused crime.

Reeves explained that the modern lie detector machine is effective in most instances because it causes a person to react through (1) blood pressure changes, (2) respiratory changes and (3) activity of the sweat glands.

Inconclusive results would be shown, however, when the machine was used on true alcoholics and dope addicts, Reeves stated.

Variations of the machine have been used by American police departments since 1921, according to Reeves. Recently, big business corporations bent on checking and proving the integrity of their employees have made use of the machine, with good results, the peace officer stated.

Reeves was accompanied here by A. M. (Slim) Gabrel, Ector County sheriff.

Jerry Mancil was introduced as a member of the ABC "Big Hat Club." He was awarded a Western-style hat for having enlisted four new members, one above the minimum needed for entry into the exclusive club.

Gene Campbell, Carroll Craig, Maurice Kingsbury, C. L. Rogers and Leo Hull were among guests present.

Reyes, whose home was in Eagle Pass, Tex., just across the Rio Grande, was shot to death Thursday in a Piedras Negras night club when the three officers attempted to question a group of men.

District Leads Council In Scout Camp Reservations

The Lone Star District is leading the Buffalo Trail Council in camp reservations on a troop basis, but more individual boys are being sought.

Carl Campbell, district chairman for camping and activities, told the district meeting Thursday that the district was well out in front on a troop basis, but that several of the troops signing had not signed up near the number of boys that should be going to camp.

Most of the troops are pledged for the Davis Mountain Scout Ranch. Two have signed up for the Camp Murphy aquatic camp at Lake Thomas. Campbell said that later efforts would be made to organize provisional troops so that individual boys from any unit could go to this new camp.

Plans are shaping rapidly for the May 6-7 Scout Circus when several thousand people are expected to witness a display of Scouting skills at the old high school football stadium. Hundreds of Cubs, Scouts and Explorers will be engaged in the project.

Enrollment, which had dropped off, is picking up again and during the last month 70 new boys were added, according to the organization and extension committee report.

The health and safety committee is planning a gun safety school on May 14 at the Western Sportsman's Club. Later a water safety clinic will be held.

Twelve places are still open for the district continuing to go to the National Jamboree at Colorado Springs July 22, 30, it was announced, and any filing soon may tie down a place.

While this is going on, a major camporee, commemorating the 50th anniversary of scouting, will be held here July 23.

At the meeting, District Chairman R. L. Tollett, recognized Jack Alexander, commissioner, as having earned his Scouters key.

Area Oil Activity Gains Lost Ground During March

Borden County continued to lead the immediate eight county area in new potential during March, accounting for almost half of the total produced.

There were 35 wells finished in March for total potential of 6,186.33 barrels of oil per day. Of this, Borden County had 11 of them for potentials of 2,773.66 barrels per day.

For the area, it was almost a 100 per cent increase over February which had only 3,668.15 barrels of new oil per day.

Activity, in general, was on the increase in March as operators staked 40 new sites in established pools and 17 wildcat sites were picked out. Eleven projects were plugged and abandoned.

Field wells accounted for most of the new oil with 32 completions totaling 4,662 barrels of new oil per day on potential tests. Five wildcats were completed as discoveries for total potential of 1,524.33 barrels per day.

There were no discoveries reported in January and February. The county-by-county survey of oil drilling operations look like this:

BORDEN
There were 11 completions for total potential of 2,773.66 barrels of oil. All of the finals were in established oil pools. They include the Arthur, Fluvanna, Good Southeast, Dunigan and Jo Mill.

Three new field sites were spotted, one each in the Romac, Raftler Cross and Vealmoor fields. Two projects were abandoned.

DAWSON
There were two field completions and two discovery completions logged during the month, giving the county total new potential of 1,467.93 barrels of oil per day.

New field pay was logged in the Key (Spraberry) field and the Lamesa West (Mississippi) pool. These two projects accounted for 659.02 barrels of oil per day.

Amerada No. 1 Miles, which was the Lamesa West field completion, also finished as a discovery in the Spraberry. It made 300 barrels per day on potential in the new section.

Husky and Tennessee No. 1-A Dupree was a Fuseselmann discovery for 428 barrels of new oil per day. The suggested field name is Husky (Fuseselmann). Discovery oil totaled 808 barrels per day.

There were no abandonments.

Phillips Offers To Settle Gas Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Phillips Petroleum Co., has offered to settle its 12-year-old natural gas rate case before the Federal Power Commission.

The company said Friday it would settle on the basis of what its contract customers are paying at the time the FPC accepts the proposal — if it does accept it.

The Bartlesville, Okla., company gave no figures with its proposal. But an FPC spokesman said it apparently would mean the firm would settle for 28 million dollars a year instead of the 49 million it originally sought.

LOWER FIGURE
The company had claimed a cost of service of 92 millions a year. The new proposal lowers this to about 71 millions. An FPC trial examiner, however, had recommended allowing only 57 million dollars.

The FPC heard arguments in the case last fall. Its pending decision would set a pattern for rate making in

District Court Civil Docket Set Monday

Judge Ralph W. Caton will open a civil jury docket in 118th District Court on Monday. He has notified attorneys to be in the court at 10 a.m. to determine how many of the matters on the docket will be ready for trial. A jury panel of 60 members has been notified to report to the court at 1 p.m. The court has adopted the plan of opening the docket before noon and not requiring the jurors to report until after the docket has been determined. Judge Caton said that he has been advised that half a dozen of the civil cases he had set down for disposition this week have been settled. Others, he said, possibly will have to be continued. Just how many will remain ready for trial will not be known until the Monday morning conference is completed. Only one more jury week remains on the current term calendar. This, too, will be a civil week. Gil Jones, district attorney, has indicated he would like to insert a criminal jury week but the supply of jurors for this term has been exhausted. The panel this week and the remaining civil docket panel will have used up all veniremen allocated for the current term. The new court term opens on the fourth Monday in May.

Special stamp to go on sale April 18

Importance Of Conserving Water Stressed In Stamp

Water conservation and the importance it plays in national well-being will be memorialized in a new special commemorative U.S. postage stamp. This stamp, first ever to be issued to emphasize this cause, will go on sale in Washington on April 18. Twenty-five thousand copies of this new stamp, printed in three colors, will be placed on sale at the Big Spring post office on April 19 or 20, according to E. C. Boatler, postmaster. The stamp is in 4-cent denomination. Soil and water conservation leaders in Big Spring are impressed by this new recognition of the importance of the work they are doing. They are calling wide attention to the new stamp and urging all persons who are interested in better conservation of water as a national resource to make generous use of it. Ben Day, with the Howard-Martin County Soil Conservation District office, observed: "This beautiful new stamp dramatizes that water today is our most precious and most limiting natural resource. This stamp is being released at the Seventh National Watershed Congress, because of the influence of upstream land treatment and small dams in small watersheds on our water supplies."

Stamps In The News

Stamp collectors all over the world will be anxious to obtain the long-awaited U. S. 50-Star flag stamp scheduled for issuance July 4 at Honolulu, Hawaii.

The new design showing the flag flying in the breeze will be vertical and borderless. The 48-star (1957) and the 49-Star (1959) stamps were horizontal with borders.

Featured in blue and red on white, in the center, is the flag flying toward the right attached to an uncolored staff at the left of the design. The value, 4 cents, in blue appears below the flag.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the stamp may send their addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Honolulu, 13, Hawaii. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers 4-Cent Flag Stamp." Collectors should remember that this is for a vertical stamp and therefore the covers should be addressed low and as far to the left as possible.

Nationalist China has announced the issuance of a set of three new stamps to honor the "Thunder Tiger" flying team of the Chinese Nationalist Air Force. The set will illustrate various formations of the planes.

Although plans to issue a commemorative stamp honoring the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization Conference (May 31-June 3) were announced some months ago, the Post Office Department has just released information on the design of the new adhesive. It will go on sale May 31. The 4-Cent SEATO stamp will feature the emblem of the group and the words "Unity," "Peace" and "Progress." It will be identical in size and format to the NATO commemorative issued last year. The SEATO emblem consists of a white shield bearing a representation of the globe outlined in blue and an olive branch in gold. Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the 4-Cent SEATO stamp may send their addressed envelopes, together with remittances, to the Postmaster, Washington 13, D. C., prior to May 31. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers 4-cent SEATO Stamp."

Will Wilson, the present attorney general, dropped in recently to chat with Cunningham. It was the first time for the two to meet and it kept the judge's record intact of meeting every attorney general since Hogg.

Valley Citizen Reminisces On Campaigns

By B. F. KELLUM
HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP)—When a candidate stops at this Lower Rio Grande Valley city to do a little campaigning it causes one resident to do a little reminiscing. And Judge A. W. Cunningham can remember politics about as far back as any other man in the state. He is 97.

A candidate's arrival in town always sets him to thinking and talking about his favorite subject—former Gov. James Stephen Hogg.

Cunningham, born in Cooke County "right in the middle of the Civil War," has known every attorney general personally that Texas has had since the late, colorful Hogg was the state's chief lawyer.

Cunningham likes to tell about the times in 1890 when he "helped Hogg with his campaign for attorney general."

He especially likes to recall the time he and Hogg were going on a 12-mile trip by buckboard in Cooke County. Hogg was to make a speech.

"Hogg got to telling some of his best stories and the driver quit paying attention to the team and the buckboard ran off a bridge," Cunningham said.

"It dumped Hogg into the biggest, muddiest hole of water you have ever seen," he grinned.

But Hogg just stopped long enough to change suits and still made the speech," Cunningham related.

Cunningham said he had always been interested in attorneys general because "they have just about the most important job in the state."

Abilene Eagles Grab 2-4A Cinder Crown

By DON RIDDLE
MIDLAND — Abilene's high flying Eagles soundly outpointed the favored Midland Bulldogs here Saturday and annexed the District 2-AAAA track and field carnival as they qualified two relay teams and nine individual performers for regional competition.

Midland had been considered the meet favorite but the Eagles' surprising mile relay team and Elwood Leonard's unexpected first in the broad jump caused Abilene's title-winning performance.

J. B. Doyle, the Midland boy who was expected to take both hurdles events for the locals, won the low set but could finish no better than fourth in the 120-yard high.

Doyle had been lauded to be a top contender for state competition in both hurdles events, but when he hit two barriers in a row in the high, he fell from the lead and three boys passed him.

Abilene's talented half-miler, Larry Rhodes, easily took the honors in the 800-yard run, but his surprising performance came as he anchored the winning mile relay squad for the Eagles.

New Division Set By ABC

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — When next spring's American Bowling Congress tournament is held in Detroit, there will be a new "classic" division in which the pin-topping professionals will be grouped.

This was decided by an overwhelmingly favorable voice vote of 600 delegates at the ABC convention Friday.

Establishment of the "classic" division is the most radical change in the 57-year history of the ABC tournament. In addition to separating those who bowl for a hobby from those who bowl for a livelihood, the amendment is designed to attract bigger spectator gates at the ABC championships.

Six games will be involved in the team event, three on successive nights. This will give the big name teams two nights for drawing spectators, compared to the one they have under the system now in effect.

Tournament competition Friday produced no changes in the top ten of the singles, doubles and all-events standings, but in the open team division Crossroads Lanes of Peoria, Ill., rolled into ninth place with a 3,004.

ABILENE (SC) — Abilene's Eagles jumped to an early 9-0 lead over the visiting Big Spring Steers and held off a sixth inning visitor rally to take a district 2-AAAA victory here Saturday, 10-5.

Steer starter, Zay LeFevre, managed to get only one out in the initial stanza before giving way to Jerry Phillips. LeFevre walked three and gave up a single and a double before bowing to Phillips.

Phillips continued the wildness spree as he walked four and gave up three singles and a double before Jerry LeFevre relieved him in the third. The second LeFevre walked four but gave up no safeties the rest of the way.

Outfielder Bob Andrews started the Steer rally in the sixth with a single. James Ferris walked and catcher Jimmy Rogge unloaded another single. Jerry Dunlap followed with another bingle and Donnie Everett drove in two more Big Spring scores with a two-bagger.

With one out, Jimmy Kinman walked and bled in three as Tommy Whatley reached first on a fielder's choice. Jay LeFevre

Arnold Palmer Still Leads In Masters

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Arnold Palmer battled a biting wind and some faltering strokes Saturday to retain a one-stroke lead after three rounds in the 24th Masters Golf Tournament.

The field behind him became so closely bunched that it was anybody's title for the taking in the final 18 holes Sunday.

Palmer, after a sparkling 34 on the front nine, slipped coming back and finished with a 72, even par, for a 54-hole total of 212. That put him just one stroke ahead of Ben Hogan, Bill Casper, Dow Finsterwald, Julius Boros and Ken Venturi. The margin was just the same as it had been at the start of Saturday crowd - stirring third round, but the opposition was much formidable.

Hogan, at 47, is shooting for his third Masters title. He also has won the U.S. Open title four times. And Saturday he contended that the massive 4,800-yard, par 36-36-72 Augusta national course "played easy."

Casper is National Open titleholder; Boris a past winner of the Open, Finsterwald a former PGA champion and Venturi one of the top younger performers on the pro circuit. Only Boros could do any appreciable damage to Augusta national's tough par Saturday, when chilly winds brought rain and discomfort to the players and a huge gallery of about 40,000.

Boros, from Mid Pines, N.C., shot a 70, two under standard figures, and the best round of the day. Casper and Venturi had 75 and Hogan and Finsterwald par 72s for their 213 totals.

Two strokes behind the challenging quintet, at 215, came Gary Player, the young South African, who also had a 72 Saturday.

At 216 were Stan Leonard, the 45-year-old Canadian; former PGA Champion Walter Burkemo, Don January, and Claude Harmon. They're all very much in the running for the showdown. Only a year ago Art Wall was six strokes behind Leonard and Palmer going into the last round of the Masters but he won it with a finishing birdie string that gave him a final 65.

Because of illness and an injury, Wall did not defend this year. Palmer, winner of four tournaments and more than $26,000 on the pro tour this year, has had rounds of 67-73-72, leading all the way. His 34 on the front nine Saturday looked good enough to hold off all opposition. But he bogeyed three holes coming back, made only one birdie and looked worried as he reached the 18th green. But he made his par four and stayed in front.

The huge crowd, largest ever for a Saturday at the Masters, where big galleries are common, seethed with excitement as Hogan and Venturi made strong bids for the lead. Then Boros came on as a new contender and Casper challenged with a 34 on the back line. Spectators were jammed into immovable masses around some greens as the favorites passed. Then they streamed out over the course to follow some of the others. One was heard to say he could see more by staying in his motel and watching television.

Stubborn Hawks Beaten By Celtics, 122-103

By BOB HOOBING
BOSTON (AP)—Embattled Boston released its first break magic in the second period Saturday for a 122-103 victory over stubborn St. Louis and its third National Basketball Assn. Championship in four years.

Heavily burdened with fouls on his big men, the Celtics found the formula in the seventh and final game for a decisive 41-point second quarter. Spectacular reserve Sam Jones tallied 12 points and Frank Ramsey 10 in this span while play maker Bob Cousy got six assists and Bill Russell took command of the back boards.

Russell contributed 22 points and control of the ball while Ramsey's steals, breaks, passes and drives threw the upset-bent Hawks off stride. Ramsey wound up with 24 points.

Nat'l Circuit In Early Start

Big League baseball has added something new for 1960—the split opening day. When the National League opens its regular season Tuesday, the American League will be deep in Florida, playing exhibitions. The American won't play a full schedule until April 19 although Washington will stage its traditional "presidential" preview April 18.

The Giants, opening with appropriate fanfare, plan to pitch Sam Jones (21-15) against the St. Louis Cardinals' Larry Jackson (14-13). The defending World Champions will be opening at home for the first time since they moved west from Brooklyn. Manager Walter Alton has the same front line that beat the Chicago White Sox last October. Don Drysdale (17-13) is expected to be the opening pitcher.

With all the pressure focused on this game which the teams entered deadlocked at three victories apiece, referees Jim Duffy and Mendy Rudolph called the fouls closely on the big men in the jostling for position and possession.

Chuck Likes Cubs Chances In NL Race

By FRANK ECK
AP News Service Sports Editor

Charley Dresen is a baseball manager who revels in expressing his opinion and because he does some writers and columnists call him a pop off.

"They're calling me a 'pop off' again," the new pilot of the Milwaukee Braves was saying one wet morning in Bradenton, Fla. "Why the fellow who wrote that wasn't think in camp."

"I've got to like the Braves over the Dodgers. Right now I believe that, and I thought so last year (even when he coached the Dodgers), and so did a lot of other people. Remember, the Dodgers finished seventh in 1958. They should have finished higher. Everybody said so. I say that and I'm a 'pop off.' I can't see where that makes sense."

"I've got to like the Braves over the Dodgers. They (the champion Los Angeles Dodgers) have no Ed Matthews, no Hank Aaron. They have no Warren Spahn or a Lew Burdette, but possibilities."

"Spahn and Burdette will get a bit more rest so that the younger pitchers like Carl Willey, Bob Buhl, Juan Pizarro and Joey Jay might get more starts."

"I'm not trying to criticize Fred Haney (last year's Brave manager). I just think I'd like to keep a pitching rotation. A couple of rain outs won't make me use Spahn for the sake of using Spahn. By doing that one of the younger fellows would lose his turn, and maybe lose his edge."

Dresen infers that happened last year. While Spahn won 21 games he also lost 15. Burdette had the same record. The two Aces started 75 games between them. Dresen has managed almost 10 years in the majors and can't remember two pitchers working 232 innings (Spahn) and 230 (Burdette).

"Mathews must hit third on my club," Dresen continued. "He had about as much right batting second as I did. We'll be in great shape if Red Schoendienst can come back. He was the best No. 2 hitter in baseball before tuberculosis struck him down."

"I was surprised to see how good Schoendienst looked the first time I saw him this spring. I gotta take a chance on him. He says he can do the job, and you gotta believe him. Why, I saw where they operated and it looks like a scratch. The doctor sure did a good job on him."

"With Mathews hitting third, I'll have Aaron hitting fourth. They are the two best hitters on the club, and two of the best hitters in the National League. Both have speed. They are hard to double up."

Mathews led the league in homers last year with 46, drove in 114 runs and batted .306. Aaron led the league in hitting (.355), hit 39 homers and drove in 123 tallies.

"They executive vice president Birdie Tebbets and General Manager Johnny McAllele hired me to run the club and they're going to let me do it my way."

"I say the best new men I seen this spring are Carl G. Case, who won 15 games at Sacramento; Ron Piche, a relief pitcher from Louisville, and Chuck Cottier, the second baseman whose hitting is bound to improve."

"And don't forget J. W. Porter, a catcher on the Sacramento roster. He was a good catcher in winter ball. I wanted him last year when I was at Oakland. He could catch for a kid. He signed with the St. Louis Browns. He'd had a different career if I had him."

Porter, who has tried third, first and the outfield, has played with Detroit, Cleveland, the Cardinals and Washington, all within the last three years. Thus, here's a chance for a flock of managers to say Chuck Dresen is talking out of turn again.

But that's the way with Dresen, the poor man's Casey Stengel. Chuck gives it to you straight. Sometimes it hurts, but he gives it to you straight, without polishing any angles along the way.

Brave Power

Manager Chuck Dresen of the Milwaukee Braves tells right fielder Hank Aaron he will bat fourth this year. Ed Matthews, center, will hit third. The pair drove in 237 runs last season hitting second and third.

Mays, Jones Are Award Nominees

The San Francisco Giants, heavy favorites to win the National League pennant, also will have the league's most valuable player in Willie Mays and the winningest pitcher in Sam Jones, according to the nation's baseball writers.

In an annual pre-season poll, compiled by The Associated Press today, 169 members of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America also selected Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees as the American League's probable MVP and Bob Shaw of the pennant-favored Chicago White Sox as the winningest pitcher.

The writers, who picked San Francisco, Milwaukee and the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers 1-2-3 in the 1959 NL pennant race, selected Mays over Hank Aaron of the Braves by approximately a 3-2 margin in the MVP balloting. Eddie Banks of the Chicago Cubs, who won an unprecedented second consecutive MVP award in the official NL writers' vote last year, was ranked third in the poll.

Mays led with 60 votes. Aaron collected 42 and Banks 11 as the writers nominated 15 players in The AP poll.

Mantle, already a two-time American League MVP winner, drew 32 votes, compared to 29 by the White Sox' Nellie Fox, last year's official winner. Rocky Colavito of the Cleveland Indians polled 23 votes.

The writers picked Jones as the big winner of the NL season by a decided margin over Don Drysdale of Los Angeles, Warren Spahn of Milwaukee and Sad Sam's teammate, Johnny Antonelli. Jones drew 35 votes, Drysdale 22, Spahn 21 and Antonelli 20.

Among pitchers in the American League, where the writers predicted another Chicago, Cleveland, New York finish, Shaw had a 34-20 vote edge over teammate Eric Wynn.

Sturdivant Ranks As Key Man In Boston Planning

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Tom Sturdivant, the guy nobody wanted today, ranks as the key man on the Boston Red Sox pitching staff.

Sporting a sprained arm, a wringing injury to his right hand and a 3.00 spring earned run average, Sturdivant is a happy man a little over a week from the start of the American League season.

"I've got to feel wanted," said the big right-hander who will be 30 later this month. "I wasn't at New York or Kansas City but I am here. It changes everything—my outlook and my pitching."

"Our pitching is better than it was at the end of last year," said Manager Billy Jurges who is here with the team for a weekend exhibition series with Cleveland.

"Our improvement has to be in this department and Sturdivant is the key man in the figuring. He has looked good all spring."

A sore arm plunged Sturdivant from a 16-game winner for New York in 1956-57 to a 3-6 mark in 1958. The Yanks traded him to Kansas City last year and on Dec. 3 the Red Sox acquired him from the A's for catcher Pete Daley.

Builders Playoff Would Be On Air

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—If there is a tie for the Masters Golf title Sunday, an 18-hole playoff will be staged over the Augusta National course Monday, starting at 2:15 p. m. (EST).

Columbia Broadcasting System announced it would televise the last four holes of any playoff action between 5 and 6 p. m. CBS also will televise Sunday's play between 4 p. m. and 5:30 p. m. There have been three Masters playoffs in the 25 years of the tournament—in 1935, 1942 and 1954.

LIBBOOK (SC) - Texas Tech has extended a 30-day "grace period" to holders of Jones Stadium seat options with final payments due last April 1. Tech officials announced Saturday (April 9).

All holders who have not completed payment by May 1 will either forfeit payments already made or will, at their written request, have had their payment adjusted to purchase fewer or lower-cost options.

The Tech Athletic Council has approved the following adjustment of payments due April 1 on options. An individual may be credited with a paid-up option or options as nearly equivalent as possible to the amount he has paid.

This may be a reduction in the number of seats, a transfer of location to a lower-cost option area, or a combination of those two steps.

If the written request for an adjustment does not reach the Texas Tech Foundation office by May 1, any option not paid in full will be forfeited and the sum previously paid on the account will be considered a contribution to the stadium project.

Jones Stadium currently is being expanded to more than 40,000 seats. The project must be completed by next fall when Tech enters competition for the South-west Conference football championship.

Can't Understand The Fuss

Eight-year-old Kenneth Brown plays the piano in his Philadelphia, Pa., home as his pet dog turns his back on the piano. The boy says he can't understand all the fuss that's being made just because he has been honored by having his "An Israeli Rhapsody" chosen for playing by the Philadelphia Orchestra. The third grader says he has been writing music since he was four.

Traffic Signs Installed At Intersection

Two traffic signs were installed Friday at the Marcy Drive and Wasson Road intersection to assist in moving traffic through the construction area.

Bruce Dunn, director of public works, said two "Do Not Enter" signs were erected and will remain in place until construction work is finished. Permanent signs will be installed later.

Dunn said the city has finished its part of the construction, which was putting in the curbs and gutters. The county is to pave the intersection and the state will widen the street and install a median on Wasson Rd.

In other construction, Dunn said the 10th and State Street intersection was to be paved during the weekend. W. D. Caldwell has been assigned the work of laying down a hot mix paving for the newly arranged intersection.

City crews have stopped temporarily their program of filling cracks and holes in city streets. Dunn said a new mixture would be tried in the next few days to replace the formula used in the past.

The former patching material was unsatisfactory, he explained, and had a tendency to bleed out. He said the new material would be used for a few days as a substitute.

Catholic Critic

NEW YORK (AP)—Writing in "The Lutheran," official weekly of the United Lutheran Church, Associate Editor Dr. Albert P. Stauderman says a Roman Catholic president would be subject to church restrictions. "His attendance at a Protestant service would be cause for confession to his priest and subsequent penance," Dr. Stauderman says. "His church could properly admonish him not to listen to the Protestant side of any moral or theological controversy, because it does not recognize that there is any true religion other than its own."

Easter Pageant Preparations

CROSS PAINTERS Mr. and Mrs. James Tibbs work with a special light-absorbing white paint on one of the large crosses that will be used in the Easter Pageant. A 24-foot scaffold will be required to hold each of the three crosses used high enough above the building to be in view of the audience. The crosses, made of light wood and papier mache, resemble stone carvings. Mrs. Howard A. Brown touches-up a Roman soldier's helmet. (Special Note: The mystery of one of the city's missing garbage cans in the park has been solved. The group has been picking up one can, filling it, and trading it for another).

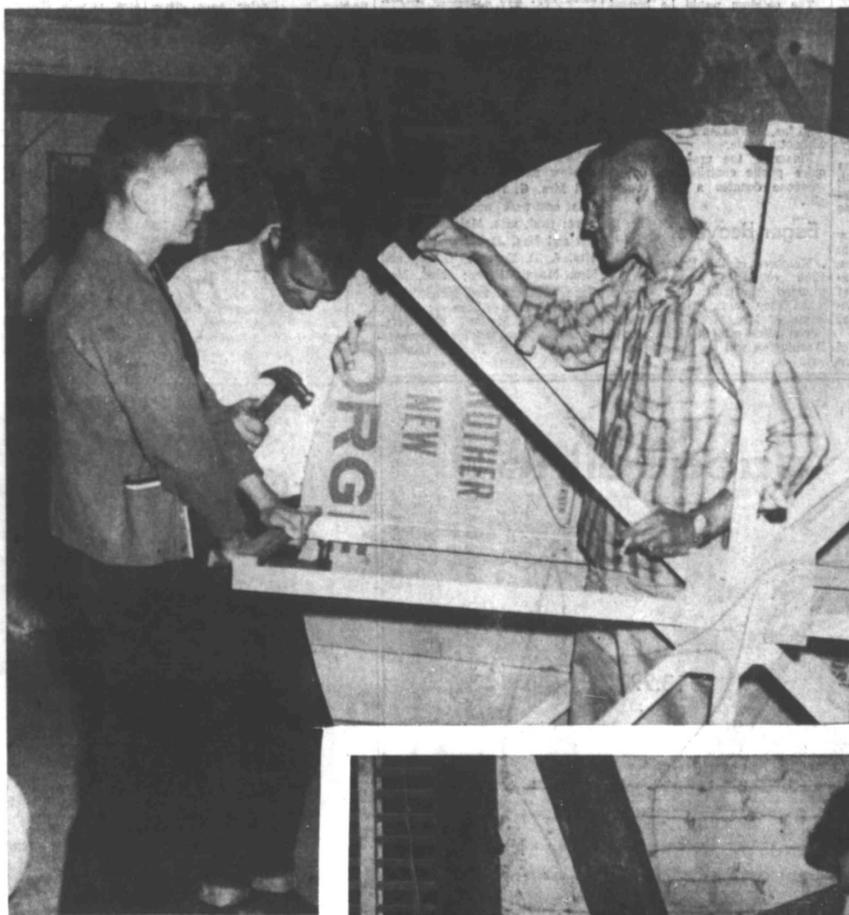

WOMEN'S NEWS

THE

BIG SPRING HERALD

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, APRIL 10, 1960

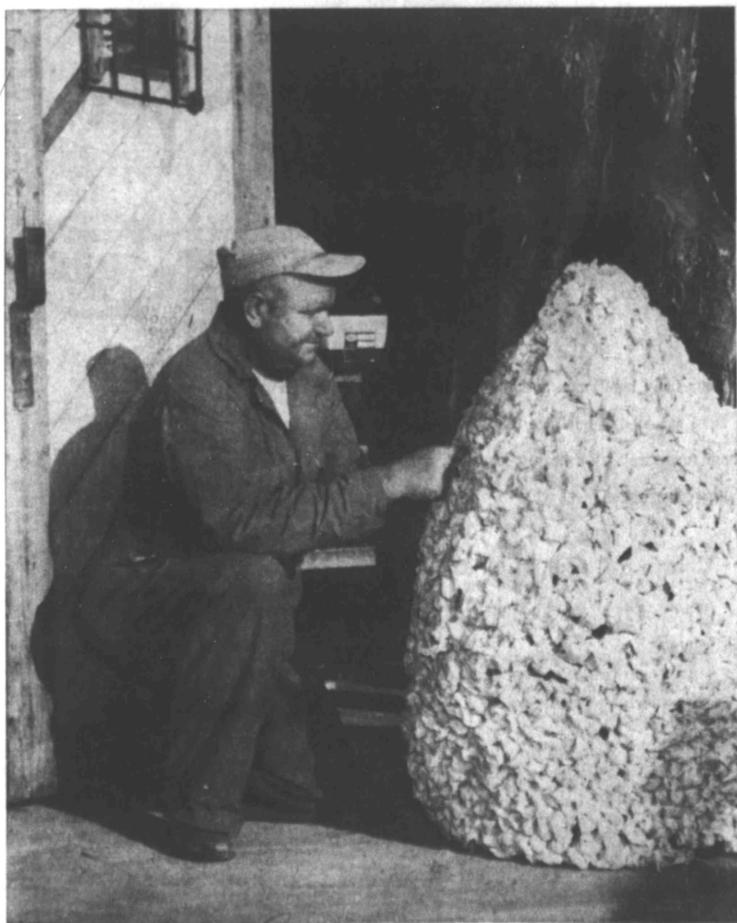

SECTION C

DISCIPLE MEETS CENTURIANS as costumes are being fitted for the Pageant, (in picture above). Dressed in the robes of Peter, the big fisherman, is S.Sgt. Fred Assad. Portraying Roman centurians are 1st Lt. Gerald T. McMillan, program chairman, and Athol Atkins, kneeling. Most of the cast will play two roles Saturday night when the second Easter Pageant is given at 8:30 in the stone outdoor theater at the city park.

AN INSIDE VIEW of the stone that will be rolled before the door of Christ's tomb now looks like this. Civic Theatre members Don Hush, Bill Tubb, and James Tibbs (pictured left) combine a maze of wooden slats and cardboard refrigerator crates to make a heavy-looking "stone" when painted.

COMPLETING A HELMET for one of the Roman soldiers is Mrs. Howard A. Brown, pictured at right, the Pageant's producer. Helmets are made of discarded jet pilot hard hats, sprayed with bronze paint and topped with yarn. In the background is the cross carried by Simon the Cyrenian.

THE FINISHING TOUCH is made by Roy Rosene, (photo at left), stage manager, to a man-made shrub. Though real shrubs will be used in places, the hand-made chickenwire and paper plants play a special part where a real bush would not do. The papier-mache rock wall seen in the background is part of Jesus' tomb.

MRS. DONOVIN SMITH

Dickey Marie Harris Weds Donovan Smith

O'DONNELL — In a candlelight ceremony at 8 p.m. Saturday, Dickey Marie Harris became the bride of James Donovan Smith. The Rev. Bill Burton, pastor of First Baptist Church, officiated for the twin ring rite at the sanctuary altar which was banked with white stock and wedding tapers in branched candelabra.

Parents of the couple, who are students at Texas Tech, are Mr. and Mrs. Dick Harris of Route 1, O'Donnell, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith, 614 Ridgelea Dr., Big Spring.

The bride, who graduated from the O'Donnell schools, is a junior in the School of Home Economics at Tech and is a member of the Baptist Student Union and the Home Economics Club.

Smith graduated from Big Spring High School and attended Howard County Junior College before enrolling at Tech where he is a senior student majoring in electrical engineering. He is a member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the American Institute of Radio Engineers.

Mrs. Carr Spraberry was organist, and Mrs. Joe Shaver, soloist, for the program of wedding music. Mrs. Shaver sang "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a wedding gown which she and her mother designed and made. Of white Chantilly lace over satin, it was styled with molded bodice which dipped to a point in center front and a Sabrina neckline studded with sequins and pearls; long sleeves terminated in petal points over the hands. The billowing skirt of the gown was fashioned with matching panels of scalloped lace and nylon tulle which swept to a ruffled panel in back accented with a satin bow. Lace motifs accented with pearls and iridescent sequins decorated the side of the skirt.

Her illusion veil depended from a tiara of seed pearls and sequins; she carried a white Bible beneath a shower of feathered carnations.

Mrs. Don Dings of Smyer attended the bride as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Kay Cabbiness and Mrs. Jerald Barton and the junior bridesmaid was the bride's cousin, Cynthia Ann Hays of Ballinger. They wore identical dresses of mint green nylon tulle over taffeta designed with molded bodices, low cut necklines and fully shirred skirts. Their bouquets were cascades of pink carnations.

Jenny Orson of Lamesa was flower girl, and the ring bearer was Bradley Vaughn, also of Lamesa.

The best man was Harold Browder of Lubbock. Ushering were the bride's cousins, Ronnie Harris of Hobbs, N.M., and Rudy Smith; they were assisted by Robert Ewing and Howard Sheats of Lubbock who were groomsmen. The junior groomsmen was the bride's cousin, Larry Hays of Ballinger.

The bridegroom's cousins, Buddy Smith of Big Spring and Martha Ann Jones of Pecos were candlelighters.

RECEPTION Fellowship Hall of the church was the setting for the wedding reception. The wedding cake was cut by the bride's great aunt, Mrs. Flora Moody of Kerrville; her aunts, Mrs. Max Harris of Lovington, N. M., Mrs. W. L. Harris of Lubbock, Mrs. W. B. Hays of Ballinger and Mrs. Roy F. Smith assisted at the serving table.

Other members of the houseparty were Mrs. Earl Gillespie, Mrs. Cleo Pearce and Mrs. Henry Smith.

For traveling, the bride selected a two piece pure silk dress of fern mist green with white accessories. Upon their return from a wedding trip to San Antonio and points in South Texas, the couple will reside at 2405 Main, Lubbock.

Wedding guests were present from Phillips, Panhandle, Levelland, Hale Center, Rising Star, Lamesa, Fluvanna, Snyder, Kerrville, Odessa, Dallas, Fort Worth, Midland and Lovington, Elida and Tucumcari, N. M.

Easter Pageant Is Becoming Tradition

Produced for the first time in 1957, the Easter Pageant is gradually becoming a tradition of the Civic Theatre and the city of Big Spring.

This year it will be held Saturday night in the city's amphitheater at the City Park. The event is scheduled to begin at 8:30 p.m.

Each year the set for the pageant must be built so that it can be changed in a matter of seconds in darkness during the play. It must be portable enough to erect a few short hours before the performance. Having no storage space, the Civic Theatre group must rebuild the set each year.

Among active workers in the Easter Pageant each year (with the exception of 1959 when there was no play), are the director, T. Sgt. Dewey Magee Jr.; the Pageant's producer, Mrs. Howard A. Brown; Roy Rosene, stage manager, and 1st Lt. Gerald T. McMillan, program chairman.

Other people have worked on discarding jet pilot's hard hats—converting them into shining bronze Roman soldiers' helmets—converting cardboard crates into thrones, and sewing costumes.

The non-denominational Easter Pageant is free to the public.

Wool Wash

Before washing a woolen garment, lay it on a towel and outline its shape on the towel with pins. Then after the garment is washed lay it flat on the pin marked towel and pat it into shape. Dry it flat away from the sun or radiator heat. After the top surface is dry turn the garment over.

Problems Of Homeless Adolescents Studied

By EDWARD S. KITCH
CHICAGO (AP)—Homeless adolescents are one of society's peculiar problems, and Norman Herstein wants to give them a home.

He has a problem planned that would enable groups of eight teenagers to live in a home under the care and protection of a house-mother.

"We want to get it going by next summer," he says. "Our plan of care for these children would enable them to care for themselves. They are from family court problems in which the parents are unable to care for them after they have broken up marriages."

Herstein, director of the group home program of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society, says adults hesitate to take adolescents into their homes.

"They are at a stage where they are rebelling. So what we want to do is develop other kinds of resources and make use of community facilities. It would be a sort of 'half-way' house—a combination of a resident and treatment center," he says.

Many of them are graduates of children's institutions and have nowhere to go. Other institutions are closed to them.

It would take a special kind of mother to handle them. Some of the kids have trouble adjusting in school and getting along with kids or grownups.

The children would be housed and fed in the home while they attend high school or vocational school. The aim is to help them develop into good neighbors, achieve socially acceptable manners, develop good standards of conduct and become wage earners, citizens and parents.

So far, Herstein's program is without a home.

Financing the project will require public contributions unless someone donates a home as a gift.

Eager Beavers

Members of the Eager Beaver Club voted to postpone their planned trip until after Easter when they met Friday at the home of Mrs. A. E. Reynolds. Seven were present. Mrs. W. O. Washington will be the next hostess.

The membership decided to support the Little League in their fund raising campaign. The Easter Seal drive will be the charity of the month. There were two guests, Mrs. Harold Butler and Mrs. Fredric Ovesholt.

CAPT. AND MRS. L. J. Bellantoni Jr. and their son, Jon, are entertaining Dr. Bellantoni's mother, Mrs. L. J. Bellantoni Sr., of New York City.

What A Job!

Giles and Ria Wideman begin the task of unpacking one of their trunks. Mrs. Wideman, who has an identical twin named Madga, holds a luncheon cloth made by her mother who lives in the French zone of Germany.

Blind Date Leads To Romance For Widemans

A girl and boy had a blind date and—now they are an old married couple of 34 days. The blind date was two years ago when Ria Wideman was visiting her sister in Denver. Mrs. Wideman, a native of Germany, had a blind date with Giles Wideman, a student at the Air Force Academy. After two years of courtship the couple was married in Denver March 15.

Giles Wideman was in the first graduating class at the Air Force Academy. A native of Perryburg, Ohio, he has been in Texas before. Wideman has a tackle on the Falcon team that played in the Cotton Bowl against Texas Christian University on January 1, 1959. "I think one of the reasons we were able to make the Cotton Bowl," says 2nd Lt. Wideman discussing the relatively new team, "was because the same boys had played together constantly for three years. I contribute a lot of the success to Coach Ben Martin." Outdoor sports of all kinds interest Giles, who plays golf, tennis, and is enthusiastic about water skiing. Attractive Ria is interested in cooking and sewing after an active life as an airline stewardess on the Houston-Aberdeen-El Paso run of Continental Airlines. Mrs. Wideman came to the United States on a visitor's visa, but, as Giles says, "somebody knew a senator." Since that time she has been able to secure a permanent visa, and in six months the new Big Spring resident will be eligible for US citizenship. Since coming to America two and a half years ago, the blue-eyed brunette has noticed many differences in Americans and Germans.

From what I viewed in the fashion line during the past week I have decided for comfort's sake we need more and more of the muu muus. At a fashion luncheon Thursday a modified version was modeled and this ensemble was topped with a comfortable knee length coat. MRS. JAMES C. JONES wore the type I would like to be at home in, however. It's full from the shoulders right down to the hemline. Nothing touches the wearer but the shoulder seams.

HELEN HURT left Saturday for New York City where she will study public relation procedures of the Grace Company. She plans to spend a week in New York and then go to Washington, D.C. for several days before returning here.

MRS. OPHELIA SULLIVAN of Waco is the houseguest of Mrs. E. T. O'Daniels. She plans to visit other friends here during her extended stay.

MRS. MABE DELEGATE TO MEET
Mrs. B. F. Mabe was announced as the delegate from the City Home Demonstration Club to the district meeting when the women met Friday at the home of Mrs. L. C. Lawdermilk.

MRS. ALTON UNDERWOOD was in charge of the program on the importance and care of vegetables and new methods of preparing them. She told members how to prepare French fried onions and also pointed out the importance of potatoes in the daily diet. She also gave a recipe for potato Napoli.

MRS. DALTON JOHNSON gave the devotion from Hebrews 13:5-8. Roll call was answered by members telling of their nicest surprises. Special prize was won by Mrs. Louis Helm among the nine members and one guest present.

MRS. JAMES ROBERT MERRICK

Joyce Lankford And James Merrick Wed

A 6 o'clock ceremony Saturday evening in the Ackerly Baptist Church united in marriage Marie-da Joyce Lankford and James Robert Merrick of Ackerly.

The Rev. J. D. Mabry was the officiating minister for the double ring rite which was performed before an arch of candles. Tall baskets holding gladioli were entwined with greenery which continued through the candelabra to form a green and white background.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Lankford of 1402 Stadium and Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Merrick of Ackerly.

Mrs. Tommy Horton, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Bill Hambrick, sang "I Believe and Wherever Thou Goest."

The bride's father escorted her to the altar. Her wedding gown was of imported Chantilly lace over taffeta, fashioned with Sabrina scalloped neckline. The molded bodice tapered to a point in the center front and the long sleeves reached petal points over the hands. The full skirt featured a cascade of tiered ruffles at the center back, and swept to a chapel train. The veil of silk illusion was held by a double tiered crown of pearls.

A Bible, gift of YWA friends marked at Proverbs 3:6, was topped with a white orchid surrounded by white rosebuds. To follow tradition, the bride's dress was new; something old was a sweetheart necklace that belonged to the bride's late mother; a handkerchief was borrowed from Mrs. Lankford; for luck a penny was in her shoe; and a blue garter was given her by Verna Springer of Phoenix, Ariz.

Joyce Ann Merrick of Ackerly, sister of the groom, was the maid of honor and chose a blue dress of silk organza over taffeta. The pleated bodice with v-neck was accented with tiny buttons down the front. The circular skirt was gathered to the waist. She carried a nosegay of white carnations.

Dressed identically to the maid of honor was bridesmaid Sherron Phillips of Lamesa, a cousin of the bride.

Best man was Wayne Bristow; Jerry Merrick was a groomsman; Wayne Lankford of Shallowater, the bride's brother, and Gary Dale Rhea of Ackerly were ushers.

Jo Nell Merrick and Becky Johns, dressed in white dotted swiss with pink cummerbunds, lighted the tapers. Their flowers were wrist corsages.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to Austin the bride wore a pink and gold sash with matching jacket. Her gloves and bag were beige lace and her shoes were a matching color.

The couple will make their home in San Francisco, Calif., until the bridegroom completes his service with the Navy in February of 1961. The new Mrs. Merrick is a graduate of Big Spring High School and completed one year at H.C.J.C. She has been employed as a teletype setter at the Big Spring Herald.

Mr. Merrick is an Ackerly High School graduate and completed two years work at H.C.J.C. Following the wedding the couple, their parents and the attendants received guests at a reception in the church parlor. Mrs. Wayne Lankford of Shallowater registered the guests who were served by Mrs. Loy Phillips, Mrs. Leonard Coleman, Mrs. Bill Hambrick, Jeanette Wyatt and Avelene Greenwood.

The all-white table was laid with linen and the centerpiece was fashioned by the attendants corsages. The wedding cake was three tiered and covered with white confection roses and topped with a miniature bridal couple. Guests came from Tahoka, Abilene, Shallowater, Lamesa, Brownfield, and Liberal, Kans. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Merrick were hosts to thirty members of the wedding party with a buffet breakfast featured by past matrons.

An Easter breakfast highlighted Saturday morning for the Past Matrons of the Coahoma Eastern Star chapter. The early-morning affair was held in the home of Mrs. Fred Adams with Mrs. D. S. Phillips as cohostess.

Mrs. Donald McKinney, present matron, was guest of honor at the breakfast. She was presented with a gift.

Two large tables were centered with gold bowls that held heirloom Easter eggs. Favors were miniature cotton-print Easter bonnets, and gold paper bonnets were the place cards.

The group voted to organize a Past Matrons Club with Mrs. Florence Read of Big Spring as president. There were 19 past matrons present, along with the guest of honor.

MRS. JAMES RAY GRANTHAM

Miss Huestis Becomes Bride

Gloria Gaye Huestis became the bride of James Ray Grantham Friday evening in a ceremony in the home of the Rev. Cecil Rhodes. Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Huestis, Old San Angelo Hwy., are the parents of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Grantham, 1906 Scurry, are the bridegroom's parents.

Miss Huestis wore a dress of aqua brocade taffeta. Her accessories were white.

As something old the bride selected an engagement ring belonging to her mother. Something new was her dress, something borrowed was an evening bag belonging to her cousin, Mrs. C. L. Lumpkins, and she wore a blue garter.

The bridal bouquet was a crescent arrangement of frenched chrysanthemums.

Attending the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Grantham, brother and sister-in-law of the groom. A reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Huestis. The table was laid with a white lace cloth and centered with a three-tiered cake topped by a miniature bride and groom.

Mrs. Grantham selected a gold cotton suit and white accessories for her wedding trip to San Antonio. The couple will make their home at 203 E. 6th after their return.

The new Mrs. Grantham is a graduate of Forsan High School. She attends night classes at Howard County Junior College and is employed by Cosden. Grantham is employed by Howard County Airport.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Take More Time For Growing Up

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — When the New York film critics gave their award to Susan Kohner for her role in "Imitation of Life" and predicted she would be one of Hollywood's big stars, her actress mother and agent father must have felt a sense of accomplishment for they have been carefully guiding their daughter's career.

Susan was a shy teen-ager and had just graduated from a private girls school, when I first met her. Now four years later, I found myself lunching with a fashionable young woman attired in a chic black suit.

"You've done a lot of growing up since I saw you last," I told her.

"My mother is a Latin," Susan explained, "and she was very strict about allowing me to grow up too fast. At times when the other girls were privileged to wear high heels, make-up and to date, I felt restricted, but when I look back I have no regrets."

"My mother told me many times that the most important factor in life was timing. She said, 'You have to be ready to be grown up.' And when she felt I was capable of making my own decisions, she let me."

"You seem like a very happy and well-adjusted person," I commented.

"More so than many of my generation," she agreed. "Most parents today, out of fear of constricting personality, go overboard avoiding discipline. You can't have a room without four walls; the discipline I had gave me a sense of security the way a room of my own does. When parents don't set down rules of conduct, children are forced to make decisions for which they are not ready.

"I think the untidy look—the lack of concern so many young people affect today—is an indication of insecurity. They follow each other like a flock of sheep. I don't like the negative atmosphere in the beatnik coffee houses and I don't go there any more."

"Helen Rose made me the most beautiful clothes," Susan said, changing the subject. "For 'All the Fine Young Cannibals' I had 17 costumes, each lovelier than the other. All through school I had to wear a uniform, and when I was graduated I bought a lot of things that are still just hanging in my closet. But I learned an important lesson, quality is better than quantity."

"I don't look good in anything too demure such as Peter Pan collars or anything too fussy. You can look feminine without wearing frilly clothes," Susan said, pouring an envelope of gelatin into a glass of fruit juice.

"Is that what gives you such gorgeous, long nails?" I asked.

"I have been drinking gelatin for years and my nails are very strong," she admitted. "I have to use clippers to cut them because it takes too long to file them."

Susan has a beautiful clean-cut figure and I asked if she had to count calories.

"If I avoid salt, liquids with meals and stay away from starches I am not hungry. I eat all I want of protein, green salads, vegetables and fruit."

"In 'Cannibals' I was playing opposite Natalie Wood and you know how tiny she is, so I dieted and went down from a size 10 to

Better Sewing

You'll sew better if you adjust the stitch to the fabric. Deep pile and heavy weight fabrics call for about 12 stitches to the inch, medium and light weight fabrics require more, shorter stitches.

an 8. I'm five-four-and-a-half and I weigh 115. My only problem is eating late dinners. That's food I can't burn up but it helps to go dancing afterward, and I love to dance."

"You are the most feminine girl I've met in a long time," I told her. "Your voice is soft and pleasing, and you move your hands gracefully and I noticed how poised you are when you walk across a room."

"My mother always stressed femininity," Susan explained. "But this is something anyone can acquire. You can practice walking and talking correctly until it becomes a habit. Dressing right and being well groomed are within reach of everyone."

BEING FEMINE

Because of the many reader requests on how to be more attractive to the opposite sex, Lydia Lane has prepared the brand new leaflet M-83, "The Art of Being Feminine." Every woman wants to be attractive and the way to do it is to be feminine. And there is more to femininity than just wearing a beautiful dress and accessories; it is knowing how to be graceful, how to improve your voice, how and when to use dramatic make-up and what a feminine point of view is. You'll gain much from keeping this check-list in view when you are in doubt about yourself. For your copy of this sensational leaflet, send only 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, Big Spring Herald.

Sweet And Soft

Ever wonder why sweet muffins are softer than those with less sugar? Sugar interferes with the development of the gluten—which makes for toughness—in the flour.

Plant Temperature

Indoor plants that can endure extreme changes in temperature, wide variation in humidity and drafts make the best idea for selecting plants.

Catalogue Emphasizes Modern Life

One of the barometers of life in these United States is the mail order catalog, which has recorded changing patterns of living every year since 1872.

Montgomery Ward's new summer sale catalog devotes most of its 518 pages to recreation, outdoor living, vacations and leisure time — the new pattern of life for the average American family in the '60s.

"Fun in the sun" is a theme, and among leisure items offered is a "water jet" which is something like a one-man submarine.

There are also "His" and "Hers" matched water skis, not to mention all sorts of diving equipment.

The business of backyard cooking has been extended, and one can even order steaks through the catalog. They come 12 to a package, 12 ounces each.

There's a lot of wearing apparel listed, for summer fun. The catalog people of grandmother's day would never have dreamed of offering to sell pants to women, but in today's book are surf pants, beach pants, ankle-length pants, mid-calf pants, Jamaican shorts, Bermuda shorts, Capri pants, Nassau shorts and short shorts. If that's not enough, consider an offering whereby "pedal pushers" are rolled up to "Bermuda length."

Incidentally, Ward says that prices have been reduced an average of 8.2 per cent on 20,000 merchandise items listed in the catalog.

EDITOR VIEWS NEW SHEET
T-Sgt. Herbert S. McGregor and edition of 'Prairie Pilot'

Webb AFB Newspaper Takes A New Name And Format

A new type of newspaper came off the press this past week, to serve the people at Webb Air Force Base.

It's the "Prairie Pilot", an eight-page tabloid carrying advertising from Big Spring merchants, but with all its news and feature content devoted to Webb and Air Force people and events.

The new "Prairie Pilot" replaces another paper, "The Springboard," which had been published weekly almost since Webb came into being. With its printing bill paid for out of the Base nonappropriated welfare fund. The Springboard carried no advertising, and consisted of only four tabloid pages.

Under a change in policy, the Webb administration has negotiated for the newspaper to be financed and printed through private contractor — the Big Spring Printing Company — and advertising is permitted. The money saved by the Base goes into its other welfare activities.

Since The Prairie Pilot is published by a private firm, it is an unofficial newspaper, and is not an expression of Air Force policy. All news material, however, is handled by the Information Office at Webb, under direction of Capt. Allen R. Robertson, and T-Sgt. Herbert S. McGregor is the editor.

Mrs. Kay Wickard is representing the printing company in advertising contacts.

The Prairie Pilot has absorbed the "Tiger Rag," another publication which had been published monthly by the Officers' Wives' Club.

Name of the new paper was selected via a contest conducted among Webb personnel, and the Prairie Pilot was suggested by M-Sgt. John F. Page of the Wing Inspector's office. Circulation of the paper is limited to Webb personnel.

Two Zoning Requests Are Denied

The Zoning Board of Adjustment denied two and approved another variance from city zoning restrictions during a special meeting Friday at city hall.

Mrs. G. T. Orenbaum, 504 Dallas, was given approval to extend a utility shed within 1 1/2 feet of the side property line. The standard requirement is five feet setback. She gave the board a letter of approval for the construction from the neighbor affected by the variance.

A petition of J. H. Kounts Jr., 1716 Yale, was denied. He asked for a variance to allow building a carport on the side property line.

The Church of Christ, Birdwell and 11th Pl., requested permission to build within 10 1/2 feet of the rear property line. The city ordinance requires 25 feet for a rear yard. Jake Johnson, a neighbor, opposed the variance on the grounds that it would lower his property value. The board denied the request.

Church Groups Approve Merger

Mrs. John Findlater, chairman of the Big Spring Unitarian Fellowship, has announced results of a nation-wide merger meeting between the American Unitarian Association and the Universalist Church of America.

"It is simply a matter of time and red tape," she said, "before the two churches will have merged."

Mrs. Findlater said the results were published after a Boston meeting last week, and showed 91 per cent of Unitarians groups voted for the merger, while 79 per cent of the Universalist groups were listed in favor.

She added, however, that the merger would not affect the Big Spring Unitarian group, since there is no Universalist organization here.

New Fortune

NEW YORK (AP) — Elizabeth Watts, 71-year-old actress now singing in the Broadway musical hit, "Destry Rides Again," once had a fortune of several million dollars. She lost it in the Wall Street collapse of 1929 and returned to the stage. "Yes, money is important," she now says. "But not as important as good friends."

Manager Named For VA Hospital

A new manager has been named for the Veterans Administration Hospital here.

He is Volmer J. Belda, who will be coming to the local post from an assistant managership at the VA Hospital in San Francisco. It was not immediately known when he will assume duties here.

Announcement of Belda's appointment came from Congressman George Mahon's Washington office, and also was received by the hospital here from the VA in Washington.

Belda has been with the VA since he completed World War II service in 1946. He was director of Medical Administration for the VA in Seattle for two years, then served another two years as administrative officer for the VA facility in American Lake, Wash. He has been in his San Francisco post since 1950.

Belda, 47, is a native of Omaha, Nebr., attended schools in that state and received an LL.B. degree from the Omaha University Law School in 1937. He practiced law for a few years in Omaha, then in 1940-41 was medical supply officer with the CCC in Little Rock. He joined the Army in May, 1941, served until February, 1946, being discharged as a lieutenant colonel.

He has had advanced training for hospital administration, and has attended institutes conducted by the American College of Hospital Administrators and the Veterans Administration.

A non-medical manager, Belda is expected to name a medical chief. He is succeeding Dr. Jackson H. Friedlander, who has assumed managership of the VA Hospital in Phoenix.

Lamesa Churches Schedule Activities Of Holy Week

LAMESA — Several Lamesa churches have announced special Holy Week services starting today.

The First Christian Church will hold services each day at 7:30 p.m. during Easter, beginning today and continuing through Good Friday. Guest minister will be the Rev. Claude Wingo, Slaton.

The Rev. Wingo began preaching in Uvalde in 1916 and formerly ministered in Big Spring. He served as an Air Corps chaplain during World War II and has pastored churches in California, New Mexico and Texas.

PRAYER VIGIL

On Wednesday night, members of the First Methodist Church will begin a 24-hour prayer vigil in the church sanctuary. Members are pledging themselves for various hours beginning at 6 p.m., and literature for meditation will be found at the church altar to be read as the hours are spent in thought and prayer.

On Thursday at 7 p.m. the Rev. Cecil Tune will bring a special Easter message and the prayer vigil will close with a communion service.

'SEVEN LAST WORDS'

The Easter cantata, "The Seven Last Words," directed by Richard Crawley, will be presented at the First Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

The cantata is held annually in one of the churches of the city and is presented by a special choir composed of vocalists from many of the church choirs in Lamesa and surrounding area.

Deacons of the First Baptist Church will give direction to a week of special visitation to members of the church during the week, in preparation for the spring revival which begins on Easter Sunday morning.

The pastor, the Rev. Milo B. Arbuckle, and minister of music, Ed Wittner, will conduct the services scheduled each evening during the week at 7:30. Morning services will be held at 7:30 and 10 o'clock Tuesday through Friday.

A Devotional For Today

When they heard that Jesus was coming to Jerusalem, (they) took the branches of the palm trees, and went forth to meet him, and cried out, Hosanna: Blessed is the King of Israel. (John 12:12, 13. RV.)
PRAYER: O Christ our King, reign victoriously in our hearts. Make our joy deeper than the waving of palms. Make it deep enough to endure under the very shadow of the cross. In Thy blessed name we pray, Amen.
 (From The 'Upper Room')

The Spark Of Immortality

"If a man die, shall he live again?"
 Out of the torments of his soul, Job raised the question which distinguishes man from all other of God's creations. In the crucible of sorrow, distress and pain, he found the answer: "I know my Redeemer liveth!"
 Since man became a living soul, he has had within him the innate spark of immortality; he has sensed a destiny to return to that from whence he came.
 In the countless cavalcade of time, each age and each generation has contributed its discovery to the unfolding of the ultimate truth.
 This is a thing of the spirit, and those who dwell in the spirit as well as in the flesh, have since the beginning been strengthened in the hope that their days upon the earth are but a watch in the night and moment of decision as to eternity.

 For those of the Christian faith, this week symbolizes the transformation of hope into assurance.
 No one can understand the miracle of the Resurrection, but those who love the Lord and seek His face accept it joyfully.
 Earthly life and all that is wrapped up in it are transitory. That which we hold in our hands is as nothing, for it is gone. Yet the force and the power which is an immortal soul lives on for those who have kept it strong in the knowledge that someday, somehow it will be inexorably drawn along the path the Master made until at last it is at endless peace with God.

Make This A Must For Today

Several weeks remain before we come to the observance of National Music Week, but for practical purposes we might have observed it here last week and today.
 Two college choirs—the Texas Tech group on Tuesday and the Sterling (Kans.) College singers on Thursday—have brought musical treats rarely experienced here.
 This afternoon at 2 p.m. in the Howard Count Junior College auditorium, the Piano Teachers Forum will have its regular recital, affording our young hopefuls an opportunity to express themselves musically.

Then at 4 o'clock in the First Methodist Church sanctuary, the combined Methodist and H.C.J.C. choirs will present the great Requiem of Brahms. This is a tremendous undertaking, but indications are that the singers will be equal to the challenge. Great solo work as well as rich choral substance and superb accompaniment are in store.
 There could hardly be a better and more soul-satisfying way of entering upon the Holy Week than to take time to hear this interpretation.
 We urge you to attend.

Marquis Childs West Virginia Could Hold The Key

WASHINGTON—In the powerful, skillfully organized campaign Sen. John F. Kennedy is conducting for the presidency the candidate and those around him give off a high degree of confidence. And, above all, this is confidence that Kennedy can defeat Vice President Nixon in November.
 The Kennedy calculation takes into full account the religion issue. In fact, the senator's catholicism is made to appear as an asset, with the intimation that Kennedy and Kennedy alone among the Democratic hopefuls can defeat the Republicans.

What makes West Virginia so important is obvious. If Kennedy can win there by as broad a margin as in Wisconsin he will probably clinch the nomination, since his victory would be exploited as an advertisement of his vote-getting ability in a state state largely Protestant.
BUT HUMPHREY HAS a limited attraction in West Virginia. He is too closely affiliated with civil rights for the Southern counties on the Virginia border and his liberal, pro-labor record has only a narrow appeal elsewhere.

THE HEART OF THE claim is a new combination similar to that put together by President Truman when he won his stunning upset victory by defeating Thomas E. Dewey in 1948. It takes full account of the likely defection of Southern states and perhaps even one or two border states.
 With the Southern plan for "independent electors" Kennedy argues that the Democrats are likely to lose four or five Southern states no matter who is the candidate. Truman in '48 lost the 39 electoral votes of Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, South Carolina and Tennessee, which went for the States' Rights candidate, Sen. Strom Thurmond. Yet, Truman won with a total of 303 to 189.

This is what Byrd is saying within the state—that unless West Virginians wake up to what is happening they will have unwittingly selected the Democratic nominee for President without having been given a chance to pass on all the candidates.
THERE COULD hardly be a better illustration of the fallibility of the present system of random primary contests as a means of picking candidates for the highest office in the land. Kennedy's rejoinder is that there was nothing to prevent Johnson and Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri from entering the West Virginia contest.

Kennedy's case rests on his conviction that he can carry all the states in the North and West with big cities. He would include New York, which Truman lost.

Neither he nor Humphrey can be blamed for the fact that they alone have chosen to go to the voters. The fact remains, however, that the other candidates will not be on the ballot. And it is an ironic commentary that a few hundred thousand voters in a state generally rated backward, and with one of the highest rates of unemployment in the country, may be picking the next President of these United States.
 (Copyright, 1960, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

As with most election statistics, the results in Wisconsin can be used to prove anything about the religious issue. For the most part in Wisconsin it was below the surface, with Protestants showing far less tendency to vote in accord with their religion than Catholics. It is in West Virginia where Kennedy again meets Sen. Hubert Humphrey on May 10 that it could be explosive.
 The Kennedy camp is acutely aware that West Virginia's Sen. Robert C. Byrd was, in his 'twenties, a member of the Ku Klux Klan. They suspect that he will try to raise the religious issue in a state where perhaps not more than 5 per cent of the population is Catholic.

Equally important, applications for FHA loans spurred 11 per cent in the last week in March, after dragging during November, December, January, and February. The recent downturn in money rates encouraged builders. Mortgage money is easier. On top of this, the Federal Housing Administration is studying a plan to reduce down payments on homes costing more than $13,500—in order to spur effective demand.
 The spurt in automobile sales verifies the findings of the University of Michigan's Survey Research Center. Consumers are conservatively confident. Their intentions to buy homes and autos are well above a year ago.
 Business men, too, are conservatively confident. Manufacturers' sales are increasing slowly. New orders are up slightly. Yet, unfilled orders are dropping (see chart). This is in keeping with the new rationale in inventories. No need for large outstanding

BYRD, WHO FAVORS Sen. Lyndon Johnson for the nomination, rejects any suggestion that he would exploit Kennedy's religion. But he points to the returns in a poll he took of 1,200 members of the Democratic executive committee in West Virginia's 55 counties. Many were returned, he says, with written comments to the effect that a Catholic could not be elected President. Johnson led the poll by a slight margin, according to Byrd.

 The prisoners and guards bowed their heads, all except Pat Patterson, 30, and Joseph Grisson, 32, who slipped out of the prison and fled in a truck.

He Chased Stalin
 SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—John Samosky, 76-year-old tailor, claims the distinction of once having chased Joseph Stalin.
 Samosky, who left Russia in 1910, was born in Lithuania in 1884 and was drafted into the Russian army at the age of 21. On the morning of Sept. 5, 1907, as a lieutenant he commanded an infantry company which he says fired on Stalin's gang, being sought for a $150,000 bank wagon holdup. Stalin escaped.

TOUGH TO GET IT OUT OF THERE

J. A. Livingston Spring Is Here—And So Is Better Business

It's here. Musial's cracking the ball at a 300 clip in training. Crocuses are pushing out of the damp earth toward sunlight; daffodils next. Juvenile minds turn from school books. Rivers and streams are running hard, too hard in some places.
 And automobile dealers' showrooms are crowded with honest-to-God, money-spending customers, and builders are getting their paperwork done before putting the bulldozers, steam scoops, carpenters and plumbers to work.
 After a hard, hateful winter (except for skiers), the spring turn has come.

The statistics you'll be reading during the next few weeks won't show this. The newly-tempered Federal Reserve Board index of industrial production may well be down in March to 109, as against 110 in February, and 111, an all-time high, in January. This index has been reweighted and put on a 1957 base. The replaced index, on a 1947-49 base, probably will register 166 or 165 in March, as against 167 in February, and 168 in January.
 A critique of the statistics is more useful than the statistics. At the beginning of the year, business men and economists basked in the glow of their own optimism. The steel strike had ended. A wave of inventory-building was expected.
 But as soon as purchasing agents discovered they could get better to let the steel mills carry the inventory, either in hand, in process, or in promise, than to tie up their own corporate money. Rationalization of inventories is a long-term trend. High-speed computers enable decentralized companies to keep track of stocks efficiently. High money rates have made this a financial necessity.
 The slough-off in inventory demand naturally affected all industrial activity. Steel operations have fallen below 90 per cent of capacity. Hours worked in manufacturing plants in February dropped to 39.9 per week from 40.3 in January, and 40.5 in December. Yet, the fundamentals which generated the flow of optimism at the beginning of the year are still fundamental. The leveling off in industrial activity hasn't been sufficient to cause business men to curtail plans for expansion. Nineteen sixty outlays on plant and equipment could exceed the 1957 peak of $37 billion. Also, government spending, notably state and local, will provide an upturn throughout the year—schools, hospitals, highways, etc.

 More positively, automobile sales shot up in the last ten days of March. Robert J. Egger, director of market research for the Ford Motor Co., figures first-quarter sales at a seasonally-adjusted annual rate of 6,700,000. Prospect: The second best year on record, next to 1955. Inventories, however, are still high.
 Equally important, applications for FHA loans spurred 11 per cent in the last week in March, after dragging during November, December, January, and February. The recent downturn in money rates encouraged builders. Mortgage money is easier. On top of this, the Federal Housing Administration is studying a plan to reduce down payments on homes costing more than $13,500—in order to spur effective demand.
 The spurt in automobile sales verifies the findings of the University of Michigan's Survey Research Center. Consumers are conservatively confident. Their intentions to buy homes and autos are well above a year ago.
 Business men, too, are conservatively confident. Manufacturers' sales are increasing slowly. New orders are up slightly. Yet, unfilled orders are dropping (see chart). This is in keeping with the new rationale in inventories. No need for large outstanding commitments to buy when quick delivery is obtainable.

 The economic setback so far in 1960 has been more psychological than real. Business tapered off after the "impossibly" sharp upswing of November and December. This didn't conform to expectations. Stocks, already high relative to both earnings and bond yields, slumped. This compounded pessimism.
 Spring and plus signs in retail sales will reverse sentiment. The rally in stocks following the auto-sales report is a case in point.
 Thus, the expected has arrived after it had ceased to be expected! Yet the spring outlook doesn't alter the 1960 outlook. It was, and still is, likely to be the best year ever. I still look for a gross national product of $55 to $510 billion by the end of the year, as against $480 billion last year. That's slightly above 5 per cent. Nothing to complain about—though not as fantastically boomy as some first-of-the-year predictions.

To Your Good Health Weak Feet Usually Can Be Corrected

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
 "Dear Dr. Molner. Can pigeon toes be straightened? Could it cause pain or any foot trouble in a child or an adult?"
 When a child first learns to stand up, and then walk, his toes are apt to turn in. He stands with his feet wide apart because it helps him keep his balance. The toeing-in is a part of this. He takes an uncertain step or two, plops down on the area which nature provided for this purpose, gets up and tries again.
 As he masters the art of keeping his balance, and gains confidence, he gradually brings his feet closer together, and they begin to point more straight ahead. Likewise the feet themselves are developing. Pads of fat are redistributed by nature as the muscles and tendons of the feet and legs develop.
 Keep in mind that baby feet are flat at first. This flatness usually disappears as the arch of the foot develops. However, flat-footedness is one of the common problems of growing children.
 When the flat-footedness continues, it is the result of a weak foot. Weak arch. But the condition is not always easy to recognize. Toeing-in is one of the signs of a weak foot, usually seen by the age of from two to four years.
 Other signs which should alert you are noting that the youngster seems "lazy" about being on his feet, may not continue playing along with others his age, may dislike walking any distance.

 When you ask whether pigeon toes can "cause" trouble, you are reversing things. The toeing-in is a result rather than a cause. As to pain, the flat-footed adult is likely to have pain in the feet; in a youngster the strain (and pain) is more likely to be in the calf of the leg rather than the foot, and toward the end of the day rather than earlier.
 And so we get your first question: Can pigeon toes be straightened? Usually yes. But I think you will be more successful if you think in terms of "correcting a weak foot or arch," rather than "straightening the feet," because the weakness is the real problem.
 Prevention is best begun by seeing that a child has a firm shoe when he first starts to stand. Heels also are important, and usually should be used by the second year.
 When a pigeon-toed, flat foot is detected, special adjustments in shoes are necessary to correct the trouble. Sometimes a wedge on the inner side of the heel is used to good effect. Again, a soft arch support may be best. On such things, consult your doctor. He will also keep an eye on the child to make sure that over-correction of the foot does not, for instance, start to throw the legs into faulty position.

Weak feet in most children can be corrected if treated early. Of course, in some instances the defect will be too severe for complete correction, but even then you may succeed in making it a smaller defect than otherwise it would be.
 "Dear Dr. Molner: We are a family of six. Is it possible to curb the appetite with vitamins?—J. B."
 No, vitamins have no more to do with appetite than good tires have anything to do with how the upholstery wears in your car. You need both. One doesn't affect the other.
 MRS. M. C.: I can't possibly guess what the lumps are on your husband's arms. And you wouldn't respect me if I did guess. Tell your husband to be a man, and go to see his doctor.

Around The Rim

What's In A Name, And Whose Is It?

Some fellow, and I forget what his name was, once said something about a rose smelling just as sweet even if it was called something else.
 This is fortunate for people like me who can never get a name straight anyway. Oh, flowers are no problem, because I recognize them all, either as roses or zinnias. The one I love, the other I abhor.
 But people's names are something else again, ashamed as I am to confess to this type of simple-mindedness. This particular type of mental block may be an inherited trait, because my old Daddy used to have the most difficult time in bringing up names. He would say, "You know, old Dingum-Fotchit down in the next block." Turned out old Dingum-Fotchit was maybe a fellow named John Smith whom Papa had known for 40 years. The name just escaped him.
 THEY ESCAPE ME, too. I can meet a guy named Onderdonk, and in 30 minutes will be trying to recall him as Overhoss, which is as close as I ever get. Or, if it happens to be something like Petranovich, I just call him Petey and hope we understand one another.
 There is an airman out at Webb name of Eisenhart whom I have called Eisenhower several times, but I don't see why that should make HIM mad.
 Of course, an individual has a right to be proud of his name, because that's the only thing he has left that's not taxed, and which is not being claimed by somebody else.
 Newspapers certainly understand this, because the unhappiest complainers are those whose names are not spelled correctly in print. It's all right (some times) to call a guy a fool or a knave, but you sure ought to have him correctly identified.

IT SEEMS SOME people just set out to throw you, though. Take the Smiths. One branch of them will come along and spell it Smyth, and then another set will seek even higher status by spelling it Smythe. Some greens put an "ee" on the tail end, some don't. Same with Browns. How can you tell which Phillips is going to decide to leave one of the "l's" right out of the middle? Some Stevenses go for the "v," others go for the "ph." It's important to know the difference.
 I may have written about this before but on some days I check the junk mail that comes in—and where these people get their mailing lists I don't know—just to see how high in stature I stand.
 A CURSORY CHECK reveals that my name is spelled variously as Wipke, Whipple, Whitley, Whitney, Whipple, Whittle, Wipker, Witel, Whiple, Whipsy, Wipney, not to mention such good old standbys as Whisker and Whiskey.
 A few friends insist on giving me special identification as Whipsy; others go so far as to brand me as Whipplestein. In both cases, this is, with a sort of an insult.
 Insult or not, a name ought to be remembered, and regardless of the heritage Papa left me, I am going to try to remember a few of them. This is pretty big-hearted, too, considering what's been done to mine.
 —BOB (Oh, what the heck).

Norman Vincent Peale You Are Better Than You Think

There is more within you than you think there is. The Bible says "the kingdom of God is within you." What does that mean? It simply means that buried deeply in your nature are God's goodness and strength—and the possibility of development.
 Psychologists say the unconscious mind is a great reservoir of latent power. They compare the unconscious mind to the submerged part of an iceberg which, though we cannot see it, is actually eight-ninths of the whole. Thus you do your conscious thinking and decision-making with only about one-ninth of your total mind. But without your being aware of it strong impulses from the other eight-ninths influence how you think and act.

heart, asking God to change him. And his prayer was answered.
 Soon after, he moved to San Antonio and opened a store there. By this time his changed inner condition had enabled him to improve his material circumstances and feel new happiness and new interest in everything he did. He was filled with overwhelming gratitude to God and a strong desire to do something for other people.
IN TIME HE BECAME a lay preacher of the Methodist denomination and got permission to hold services, open to all comers, in a long-unused church in the ancient square of La Villita in that city. And these services attracted goodly numbers. He made necessary repairs in the century-old church and friends donated carillon bells for the steeple.
 I was there on occasion of the dedication of the carillon bells and witnessed a deeply moving scene. My friend said to his congregation, "I want to invite any of you folks who want your lives changed to come up here and kneel at the altar." Quite a few people came forward. He stood by each in turn and offered a prayer in his or her name. And for each person he had a special word of encouragement.

IT IS POSSIBLE to tap the good and creative potentials deep within you, so that they emerge and find expression in everything you do. When that happens, you experience an amazing transformation of your life. This is not just a theoretical idea. I have personally known many men and women whose lives have thus been dramatically changed.
 Some weeks ago in New York City I had the pleasure of seeing again an old friend who is in the women's apparel business in the Southwest.
 He used to be a very discontented, ineffectual individual. He was cynical. He was perennially out of sorts.
WELL, ON ONE SUNDAY morning, moping about the house alone as usual, he turned on the TV. And the first thing this unhappy man heard was an announcer asking in a chipper voice, "Well, friends, what's your trouble?"
 "Ugh!" he said to himself. "What's my trouble! If you only knew!" But he listened to the program. The next Sunday he listened again. He began to ponder. And one fine day he suddenly got down on his knees and prayed with all his eyes, marveling at the transformation when a man discovers within himself the kingdom of God which has been there all along. This surely is life's greatest experience.

 May I suggest a good way to start each day? As you are dressing say to yourself, "The kingdom of God is within me." This will stimulate hidden forces deep within you. The result will be that in time the kingdom "where God presides" will take over and you will find yourself living a strong, happy and dynamic life.

Republicans Have Their Work Cut Out

WASHINGTON—There used to be a saying among Republicans that "as Maine goes, so goes the nation." Now the Democrats have paraphrased it, and some of them are saying: "As Wisconsin goes, so goes the nation."
 But there's a vast difference between what a state's voters do in a primary and what they do in a presidential election. In all, 1,000,000 persons eligible to vote did not vote in the primary in Wisconsin last week.

THE COMING PRESIDENTIAL campaign is going to be fought to some extent on personalities, but basically it will be a battle between those who want to assure a sound economic future for America and those who are indifferent to the risks of unlimited federal spending.
 The religious issue has gotten a good deal of public attention in connection with the Wisconsin primary, but this is a local matter. It may affect those states which have large numbers of citizens who are influenced by the controversy over the alleged impact of a man's religion on his public acts, but by and large the issue is not enough of a factor to cause one side or the other to gain materially by it across the whole country.

FOR ONE THING, voters go to the polls in a primary when there's a contest in their own party, and they stay at home when there is no particular object in voting for someone who is virtually nominated already.
 But the Republicans will have to admit that they got a warning signal in Wisconsin. Unless they bring their supporters to the polls next November—indeed, unless all citizens who profess to be Republicans do vote—then Wisconsin's total of more than 850,000 Democratic votes as compared to the Nixon vote of less than half that number will prove to have been truly significant.
 Only three and a half years ago, in the 1956 election, President Eisenhower got 954,844 votes and the Democrats polled 586,768 votes in Wisconsin. In Tuesday's primary, the Democrats ran up a total of more than 850,000, which is around 265,000 above their 1956 vote for Stevenson.

THE QUESTION IS what will the 600,000 or more persons who in 1956 voted Republican but didn't vote in the Wisconsin primary this week do in November? If they all go to the polls, they can win the state's electoral vote for the Republican nominee.
 So the real question is not whether the Democrats have run up a big vote as primaries go but whether the Republican apathy is based on lack of interest in a one-sided race in their own party or something far more fundamental.

THE TRUTH IS that the Republican party has been torn between two factions—the star-gazing "liberals" who profess the doctrine that money grows on trees and that "welfare" appropriations can be voted in vast sums and nothing serious will happen to the economy, whereas the sound liberals and conservatives believe the federal government must dispense with luxuries whenever there is danger of an unbalanced budget or a system of based on a vote of confidence or lack of confidence in the Eisenhower administration. There are those who urge Mr. Nixon to embrace the so-called "liberal" line. But they ignore the fact that the real reason the Republican vote fell off in 1958 was that many of the conservative Republicans stayed at home. The Republicans have a chance to win the 1960 election by pursuing sound policies instead of will-o'-the-wisp theories. For the country is overwhelmingly conservative today, and the chance of bringing to the Republican nominee the Democrats who want a sound conservatism is far better than of attracting to the Republican standard the so-called "liberals" who are often classed as "independents." An "independent" isn't necessarily of a particular ideology. He merely reserves the right to switch from one party to the other as he judges its performance and its promises.

THE REPUBLICANS don't have to examine the results of the voting in Wisconsin to realize that for the last few years they have been up against an apathetic attitude among their conservative followers, and that they had better try to persuade more Republican and Democratic conservatives to go to the polls. This is wiser strategy than succumbing to the wiles of the so-called "liberals." For, while the latter constantly urge Vice President Nixon to turn to the left, these tactics really mean planting the seeds of further dissension and division inside the Republican party.

Ranch Day Activities Are Postponed Again

By KAY LOVELAND
Ranch Day seems to be jinxed this year. Originally set for March 14, it had to be called off due to the National Basketball Tournament. April 11 was then set for the activity, but once again it will have to be postponed. This time there is to be no contest. The girls are forced to cancel his engagement to play for the Ranch Day Dance tomorrow night. Two Amendments To Constitution Proposed

By ROSALIE DEWANEY
Two more amendments to the CHS constitution were added this week concerning the election of student council officers and membership.

The first amendment proposed by the student body is to elect officers (president, vice president, secretary and parliamentarian) before end of school rather than just the president.

The second amendment is that all student council members who attend state convention each year are automatically members of the council the succeeding year.

During assembly Tuesday, reports from the state convention delegates were made and the amendments were presented, voted on and passed. Nominations are in order for the president, vice-president, secretary and parliamentarian. Officers will be elected by the student body on Tuesday, April 12.

The turnout for the Band Concert Friday night was very encouraging to the band and Mr. Vermer, the director, who have worked hard for the past few months getting ready for this big occasion. Everyone certainly enjoyed the concert, and the many outstanding acts. Wesley Honeycutt played a baritone solo accompanied by Sharon and Tommie Wayland, Marianna Malstrom, Phyllis Anderson and Yvonne Knox, the majorettes for this year. The outstanding songs played were "One Night, One Day" and "March On, Roll Party."

The freshmen roll party Monday night was a great success. About 30 attended. The decorations were very clever and the refreshments consisted of sandwiches, cookies and punch. Games were played and enjoyed. All earned the students in the freshmen class. He wrote it himself.

Carol Gibson and Linda Morrow did a pantomime, and some of the students danced.

The district 6-A Interscholastic League meet were held at the St. Paul's. Those entered from CHS were Paul Camp and Nancy Knox, in number sense; Jeannine Smith and Nancy Hodnett in poetry reading; Phyllis Anderson, Paul Camp and Bobby Wallin in ready-to-read; Marjorie Carver and Nancy Knox in spelling; Margie Dykes and Gloria Thomas in shorthand; Glenda Haney, Lynn Nell Mason and Jerri Nell Thomas in typing. These students should be commended on their fine work and efforts.

Reports are that the junior play is coming along splendidly. "Dames in Distress" is the title of the comedy to be performed on Monday, May 2. So get yours early and support the juniors.

The Women's Society of Christian Service is honoring the senior class with a breakfast Thursday morning in the Fellowship Room. All are invited. The seniors are all looking forward to the sunrise breakfast. The class really appreciates the fine entertainment that the churches in the community have provided for them.

During activity period the sophomore homemaker girls presented a style show of the garments that they have made in

FHA Sponsors Twirp Week

By DE MASON
We've come to the close of another week of school. This, however, has not been an ordinary one around Goliad. There were several special events during the week such as girls carrying books and opening doors for them. The reason, of course, was Twirp Week, which was sponsored by the FHA girls. There were rules as to what the girls must do for the week. The girls were to carry only one set of books at a time. Friday night the Twirp Week Dance was held in the gym. Afterwards many students took in the midnight show.

This wasn't only Twirp Week. It was also FHA Week and the girls were very busy. Their main activity, but they also sponsored a clean hall contest to see which hall was kept the neatest and cleanest, and they served punch and cookies to the 4th grade girls. This is done every year to interest the girls in taking Home Economics next year. The girls have been working on finishing their Junior Degrees these past weeks, and this past week every girl who is a member of the bunch of girls.

The Curran Club started selling candy, and it's worth every bit of the 50 cents that it costs, so dig down in your pockets and buy some. The money goes to pay for the club's picnic and other activities.

It seems that a mistake was made last week. The band went to Big Lake yesterday, April 9, instead of last Saturday. But anyway, for those of you who don't know about it, the band members will be at the Reagan County Band Festival.

The volleyball girls are having their annual banquet at the Sands Restaurant. It will be held Monday.

day night as a sort of finishing touch to the volleyball season. Trophies will be presented to outstanding players.

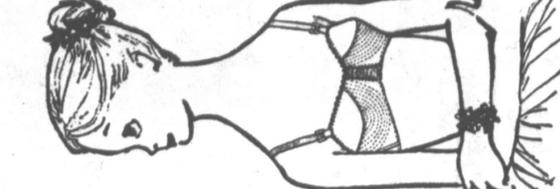

We've reached that time of year again for spring lectures in Dryden. The girls are taking the lecture part of the course now. The driving part starts immediately after school is out for the summer.

The Student Council met this past week. Two of the four students who attended the state meet while the remaining two are near home give their reports in the near future.

The student council also sent a beautiful bouquet of roses to the homemaker classes to use as a centerpiece on the serving table during the girls' entertainments.

Tuesday, the 7th, 8th and 9th grade girls received a treat—a talk on cosmetics and their use by Bonnie Belle Cosmetics Company. Their representative, especially those that help clear up blemishes. The program was enjoyed by all who attended and I'm sure every girl learned something and picked up a few beauty tips as well.

Another week down and only one more to go in this school year. It's both exciting and sad to see the end of the school year. Most of this week has been spent in practice for those who went to the Inter-scholastic League in regional contests and then to the district literary and track and field contests. Most of this week has been spent with some stiff competition.

Teens List Sins Most Tempted To Commit

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
High-school youngsters today think that the sin they're most tempted to commit is swearing. And lying, as they see it, is their second most prevalent pitfall. This was the finding of a comprehensive study of the attitude of 113,000 youth, on nearly every aspect of their lives, conducted by the Lutheran Youth Research of Minneapolis.

It also showed a wide gap in understanding between parents and progeny.

Other conclusions reached were:

1. A majority of the teen-agers put social acceptance and physical well-being ahead of spiritual values.
2. Senior students attach more importance to religion than do juniors and sophomores.
3. Girls are more devout than boys.
4. Three-fourths of the youth believe they are justified before God by trying to "live a good life," rather than by faith, and they are "not certain of God's forgiveness."

Dr. Merton P. Strommen, director of the project, commented, "Most of these youths are living in an awareness of God's law and not his gospel."

As for personal problems, the children's chief concerns are whether they will be able to get along with their parents, and whether they will be able to get along with their friends. Questionable movies, magazines, questionable books and magazines, necking and peeing, malicious gossip, cheating, pressure to go along with the crowd, smoking, reckless driving.

At the bottom of the list of religious sins, the youngsters were ranked sexual relations, drinking liquor, gambling, destruction of property, and stealing.

The survey took two years and cost $25,000.

It was supported by youth leaders in the Lutheran Church, the Evangelical Lutheran and The Augustana Lutheran Churches, and the Lutheran Free Church, and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

The data was gathered through interviews and questionnaires covering 48 separate items and about 5,000 confessions.

A comparison survey of parents showed that they are far off the mark in their concepts of what most concerns their sons and daughters.

For instance, the most worrisome factors of family relations for children is whether they're nice enough to other members. Their thought discipline was the child's main objection. But it hardly bothers them at all.

But according to the survey, they are not bored at home, or obsessed with being popular.

Dr. Conant Cites Reading Weakness

By G. K. HODENFIELD
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — One of the most pressing problems in American education is that too many children just don't know how to read well, a noted educator has charged.

"There are schools in the United States where 40 per cent of the pupils in the ninth grade are reading at the sixth grade level, or below," Dr. James B. Conant, told a national conference. "And if the children can't read properly, how are they to be properly educated?"

Conant, now studying the American junior high school as a follow-up to his best-selling report on the U. S. high school, said there is a great spread in the reading ability of junior high pupils. Some are reading at the college level, and some are reading at the level of children.

The former Harvard president called for a longer school day and stiffer courses than are now found in most grades seven and eight, he said.

CINEMA COMMENT

By Bob Smith

If you're not very quick-witted, you'd best stay away from "Our Man in Havana."

This latest Alec Guinness film is in the tradition of Humphrey Bogart's subtle and sassy "Beat the Devil," which puzzled a lot of moviegoers, but titillated a large number of those on whom subtleties are not lost.

"Our Man in Havana" is based on the novel by Graham Greene, and the film contains all the shafts and barbs that were in the book—which is predictable, seeing that Greene also did the screenplay for director Carol Reed.

Guinness is first seen as a moderately successful vacuum cleaner salesman, stuck with a sales territory in Havana. He also is stuck with a greedy little daughter, aptly played by Jo Morrow. When British spy Noel Coward contacts Guinness and makes him an offer for espionage, the salesman is quick to comply. There's money in it.

Pretty soon other characters pop up—Burl Ives, the mysterious "doctor"; Ernie Kovacs, the ruthless but soft-hearted Cuban secret police chief; Maureen O'Hara, Guinness' secretary and girl Friday who's been sent to "help" him; Ralph Richardson, the boss back home in London.

Guinness, meantime, gets in deeper and deeper. He hires assistants who aren't really assistants, and collects their pay checks to help pay for his expensive daughter, in the meantime sending in false information, and finally ends up in a kill-or-be-killed situation.

It is at this point that Greene's little joke becomes a grim jest. The story not only is a satire on spies and the art of espionage, but also a comment on human nature and the nature of politics.

A point should be made of Oswald Morris' camera work—he and Reed make Havana seem real.

The story allegedly is pre-Castro, although the present state down here isn't much different from Fidel's. The meaning applies equally as well today, and not just in Cuba.

Great news for opera lovers. "Aida" will show here in a few weeks. It is a filmed performance by Rome's opera company, and produced by the great impresario, Sio Hurok. "Aida" has all the glory, noise and glitter that "live" performances have, plus the advantages of the motion picture camera.

And it is the first starring role Sophia Loren ever had.

Convincing

BALTIMORE (AP)—The woman at the art gallery looked long and hard at a semi-abstract painting entitled "The Quarry Snow."

She talked about it at such length that she convinced the man standing next to her it actually was a picture of some boats on a beach.

The man was the artist who painted the picture, Bernard Perlmutter. He painted it without boats in mind, he said, but was so convinced that he changed its name to "Boats in Quarry."

Credit Musical

NEW YORK (AP)—The credit card industry is the subject of a new musical, "Carte Blanche," scheduled for a Broadway opening next fall. The setting for the musical, being written by Albert and Frances Goodrich, is Puerto Rico.

Mary Rodgers, who composed the score for the current hit, "Once Upon a Mattress," and lyricist Marshall Barer are writing the songs for "Carte Blanche."

Drama Revived

NEW YORK (AP)—Opening of the revival of "Machinal," the expressionistic drama by Sophie Treadwell, has now been set for middle April with Dolores Sutton and Vincent Gardemia in the leading roles.

When "Machinal" was first produced on Broadway in 1928 it had Zita Johann and Clark Gable in the leading roles. And it was in this stage play that Gable was first signed for his long, successful career in Hollywood films.

Murderously Funny Story Told In Alec Guinness Movie

A murderously funny story is told in Carol Reed's entertaining CinemaScope production of Graham Greene's "Our Man in Havana" the Columbia Pictures release showing Sunday through Wednesday at the Ritz.

Alec Guinness, Academy Award winner for his performance as the colonel of "The Bridge on the River Kwai," tops the cast of stars which includes Burl Ives, Maureen O'Hara, Ernie Kovacs, Noel Coward, Ralph Richardson and Jo Morrow.

Guinness plays a mild-mannered vacuum cleaner salesman in Havana, who needs some extra money to indulge his pretty daughter Jo Morrow. He finds a part-time job: undercover espionage agent for the British Secret Service. He creates a spy ring, consisting of imaginary agents, for whose recruitment he collects generously, and he even dreams up military installations whose plans look oddly like the innards of a vacuum cleaner. The monetary rewards are satisfying, until he discovers he is being taken seriously by agents of other countries, too.

As the salesman-spy, Guinness has the kind of quasi-comedy role which made him an international star. Equally fine are Burl Ives, as a German doctor who is tragically caught up in Guinness' fancy plotting; Miss Morrow, as the secretary sent by London to help Guinness; Ernie Kovacs, as a Cuban officer who casts covetous eyes in Miss Morrow's direction; Noel Coward and Ralph Richardson, Guinness' vulnerable superiors in British Intelligence, and Miss Morrow, as Guinness' lovely daughter.

Carol Reed produced and directed "Our Man in Havana" with a sharp and sensitive eye for the throbbing atmosphere of that city.

Realism Is Too Realistic For Sea-Going Actors

When director John Farrow sailed the Bonhomme Richard out of the port of Denia, Spain, into the Mediterranean to secure scenes of the famous fighting frigate encountering rough seas, he got more than he bargained for.

These scenes will look highly realistic to audiences when they see Samuel Bronston's Technirama-Technicolor production "John Paul Jones," on the screen of the Jet Wednesday and Thursday. But they were too realistic for comfort, as far as the 130 actors and film technicians aboard the ship were concerned.

Hardly had the cameras been secured when the worst wind and rainstorm of the season struck the converted brigantine. Unable to maneuver the vessel in the 40-mile-an-hour gale, the captain hoisted the distress signal but finally managed to gain shelter behind a rocky island.

Actors and crew struggled through most of the night to get ashore and it was almost daylight before the last filmmaker was landed safely.

Leading the landing operations was Robert Stack, who portrays John Paul Jones, and director John Farrow, who is a retired commander in the Canadian Navy, and Stack, a former lieutenant in the United States Navy, were least affected by the experience.

Sin, Splendor In Italian Film

A spectacle of sin and splendor in history's most wicked era, "The Warrior and the Slave Girl," starring Gianna Maria Canale, Georges Marchal and Ettore Manni in Supercinescope, and Eastman Color, plays at the Jet Sunday through Tuesday. The Columbia release is set in the ancient Roman era.

Miss Canale, the Italian actress who played the Queen of the Amazons in "Hercules," this time is seen as a princess of the ancient Armenians who have been subjugated by Imperial Rome. Marchal, who played a Roman in "Affairs of Messalina," is cast as an Armenian fighter - patriot forced by the Romans to become a gladiator. Manni plays a Roman tribune, sent to crush the Armenian uprising, who is won to sympathy by Marchal and leads his Legions to the aid of the Armenians and their warrior leader.

Highlights of "The Warrior and the Slave Girl" include the climactic battle between the Roman Legion and Scythian mercenaries, the uprising of the Armenian slaves against their Roman masters, the dungeon of a thousand despair, the battle of the gladiator against a ravenous lion, and a poison plot.

"The Warrior and the Slave Girl" was filmed on location in both Italy and Spain. A cast of thousands is seen in support.

Russians Pension Noted Ballerina

MOSCOW (AP)—Galina Ulanova, one of the world's greatest ballerinas, has been awarded a pension of 4,000 rubles a month but she isn't giving up dancing. And she will be paid extra for each performance. Ulanova was 50 Jan. 8. Her next performance is scheduled for April 16.

The ruble for tourists is valued at 10 to one U.S. dollar.

Colorful Woods

NEW YORK (AP)—Famed Broadway theatrical producer Al H. Woods once admonished a misbehaving actor: "I don't care what you are backstage, but you gotta be an angel in public."

Woods, who made a fortune by producing such bedroom farces on stage as "The Girl From Rector's" and "Up in Mable's Room," was personally a very circumspect though colorful character.

Among more serious hits he produced on Broadway were "The Green Hat," "A Farewell to Arms," and "The Trial of Mary Dugan."

PINCH

Is the pinch in your pocketbook getting more painful? Are soaring prices the inevitable cost of national growth? Not at all! This is the good news that comes from 64 representatives of education, business, labor and government who met recently at the American Assembly.

They stated that we can enjoy the greater growth we need without sky-rocketing prices—and at the same time cut unemployment to the minimum. Basic requirements are steadily rising productivity, plus the close and constant cooperation of all Americans, working for common goals.

You can't afford not to be well-informed. Write today for free booklet, "Prices, Growth and You," in American Assembly, Columbia University, New York 27, N. Y.

THE FRONT ROW

By Bob Smith

A painting is not something one can glance at in passing and appreciate. Nor is appreciation possible when one is saturated with dozens of paintings at once.

This has been the main weakness in the advancement of art in Big Spring. About the only time the general population is exposed is during art exhibitions, and even then it is only that portion of the citizenry that has potential interest to begin with.

The simple fact remains that, for art to become generally admired the people must be exposed to art.

HCJC has helped in this respect, by hanging exhibits of both local and outside artists on a permanent, continuing basis. Two of our downtown hotels have hung exhibits but to a lesser degree than the college.

Visitors at regular art shows file through with the crowd too quickly, with too little concentration on any one painting and with too many paintings to look at, so that the effect is little more than a visit to the dime store to many of the artistically uninitiated.

What has been needed is a place, or places, where people can sit down, relax, study a few paintings at a time, and even discuss them with their neighbors.

This has been possible only to a selected few—users of the HCJC library, or lobby sitters in the downtown hotels, for example.

A few days ago, Terry Patterson sat down with a representative of the Gallardo food enterprise that runs the HCJC cafeteria, and worked out a plan for continuous, permanent exhibits at the Sands restaurant. Terry is HCJC art instructor, regional director of the Texas Fine Arts Association, and a painter of some renown. Gallardo, of Dallas, is an art lover and business man.

Terry's paintings will go up first in the cafe, and today she will give technique demonstrations in the lobby. Different local painters will be featured each month, and outside talent may eventually be employed.

The whole idea has commercial overtones that some people may not like; the art exhibits admittedly are a drawing card, and many of the paintings will be for sale.

Yet, it may well be the opening wedge to scattering paintings all over the community, so that the general public may for the first time be thoroughly exposed. Other business establishments may be motivated to hang exhibitions, particularly the cafes, and people with a potential interest in art will have a better chance to become familiar with it.

Those who like their entertainment on ice will be glad to hear the Ice Capades is on its way again. San Angelo Coliseum has the spectacle booked for five nights beginning April 26. Ticket information may be had from Ice Capades, San Angelo Coliseum, P.O. Box 1110, San Angelo.

Las Artistas is getting ready for its annual TFAA regional exhibition. The event will be held April 22-24 in the HCJC gymnasium. Show chairman is Mrs. Frank Shannon of Fortran, aided by Dr. Josh Burnett and Leonard Ware. Entry blanks may be obtained from the TFAA regional chairman, Mrs. Terry Patterson, at 407 Edwards Blvd.

The exhibition is open to all West Texas artists. Citation winners will be sent to Austin's Laguna Gloria for state competition. Locally, ribbons will be awarded to four places in each class.

There is a children's division, also, for those 16 years of age and under.

Los Angeles stage bits: James Collier's new 3-act, "Petersen House," has his heroine saved from a fate worse than death, and the audience loves it. Play is smoothly put together.

"The Second Man," by S. N. Behrman, failed in a revival attempt. Critics blamed the barbarous modern age, in which the period piece had little chance.

Andres Segovia, alone with his guitar onstage, annually captivates full-house audiences. He did so again this year.

Choral and symphonic music, a la Beethoven, is next on the Abilene Symphony agenda.

The program will be at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday in Abilene High School Auditorium. Featured performers are the Abilene Symphony with soloists, the ACC Choir, and the Abilene Symphony Chorus. To be performed is Beethoven's Symphony No. 9, Choral; based on Schiller's "Ode to Joy."

A top attraction of the concert will be our own Ira Schantz, who has appeared with the Abilene orchestra previously.

Hey, Wilbur, we better try to finish this trade soon cause I'm jist about to run outta anything to figure on!

Baptists Hold Rally

Two-hundred members of Baptist Dist. No. 8 had their quarterly rally at their encampment grounds, seven miles north of Stanton.

The group, after the general assembly, split into different committees about 10 a.m. to discuss pertinent district matters. One distinguished visitor to the outing, H. H. McBride, met with the group which discussed the plans for future ministers' retirements.

There was also a meeting of the encampment directors in order to make preparations for the encampments planned for this summer.

Rev. W. A. James, pastor of the Airport Baptist Church, was the principal speaker during the inspirational period.

The group had lunch, finished their business sessions about 4 p.m. This was a general planning meeting and all the various committees finally convened to give reports on their activities.

Dist. No. 8 consists of five associations and includes about 135 churches.

AGGIES PLAN FOR MUSTER

Former students of Texas A. & M. College are planning for their annual muster on April 21.

Ralph Hughes, general chairman, invited those in surrounding communities to join in the affair. He may be contacted at Cosden or reservation may be cleared through John Taylor (Taylor Implement) or Don Newsom (Newsom Food). This will be a dinner affair for Aggies and their wives or dates.

Cotton Farmers Ask More Acres

Two hundred Howard County farmers have filed requests for any surplus cotton acreage which may be available, the Agricultural Stabilization Committee office reported. Deadline for making application was 5 p.m. Friday.

In the meantime, only about 300 acres of additional cotton allotment have been surrendered by other farmers. Thus, if the committee should do so, each applicant would receive only an acre and a half.

This policy will not be followed, it was indicated. The committee will meet on Monday to go over the applications and formulate a plan for the allocation of the surrendered acreage.

Members of the ASC committee are Clay Reed, Coshoma, Tommy Newman, Lomax and J. D. McGregor, Knott.

Drilling Of Irrigation Wells Gains In Dawson

LAMESA (SC)—More irrigation wells are being put down again in Dawson County after a lull in 1959. Several well drillers have been busy since the last part of the winter and say that some drilling will continue till well in the summer. This, however, will depend upon the season. The drier the spring and summer the more wells will be drilled.

"I'd estimate that from 150 to 175 new wells will be drilled this year," said C. W. Lusby, who is part owner of an irrigation company. "Farmers are not drilling so much because of a dropping water table as they are to insure plenty of water in case of a drought."

Lusby says not many new areas are being brought under irrigation. Much of the county is shy of underground water particularly the southern part. Even here, however, there are scattered wells.

Louis Ehrhridge, who farms north of Ackerly in a dry area, has a new irrigation well that is pumping a sizeable stream of water.

No one knows exactly how many wells Dawson County now has, but the number probably exceeds 1,000. Most of them have been drilled the last four or five years. Until then only a few scattering wells were found, and farmers didn't pump them as heavily as they do now.

Practically all irrigation in the county is the sprinkler type. The only exceptions are a few systems in the hardland areas east of Lameas.

Tallahul To Return

NEW YORK (AP)—Tallahul Bankhead returns to Broadway in October in the starring role of "Midgie Purvis," a new play by Mary Coyle Chase who was the author of "Harvey," the comedy which won the Pulitzer Prize several seasons ago.

"Midgie Purvis" is the story of an attractive woman who works out a scheme to avoid the adjustments of middle age.

TRADE WINDS

Several Businesses Plan For Openings

Two new businesses are due to open on South Gregg Street soon. The Texas Discount Furniture and Appliance has rented three of the Mead buildings. Two will be used as show rooms, while a third will be a stock room.

Manager of the firm is Randall Morton, who recently owned the Frontier Fine Furniture located on the same street. Morton plans to open the store within the next 10 days.

The second new business will also be located in one of the Mead buildings. It will be called the J&J Hardware. Owners are Lucian and Mary Jones, who have been operating the J&J Auto Supply which is just a short distance north of the new store.

The owners will continue to operate both stores.

There is also a rumor that a used car lot will be opened soon on the vacant lot just southeast to Tarbox & Gossett. The owner could not be contacted, but several used car dealers say a man from Midland but well known in Big Spring is thinking of opening the place within the next few weeks.

Employment Commission on that date to line up crews of sugar beet workers.

The work will likely start about the first of May, and the sugar beet owners will advance money for transportation to Eastern Colorado.

Work Picture

The rest of the employment picture is clouded. Leon Kinney says his office has a large backlog of job applicants, which will swell tremendously when the kids get out of school. Right now the officials are interviewing terminal high school students for permanent jobs. These are the students who intend to start work in June and not go on to college.

Kinney says there has been quite a change in the job outlook the last few years. At one time unskilled labor, the services and semi-skilled jobs outnumbered all others.

Now, however, machines are throwing these people out of work, and the educated applicants, skilled tradesman and technical workers are in the saddle.

Boys and girls who quit school early have a harder time each year finding good jobs. And the jobs they do get are lower in pay with advancement growing less each year.

Perhaps the most tragic figure is the older man who loses a job and must search for employment in a new field. Records at the TEC show that when an older man changes jobs, he usually takes a drastic cut in pay.

In last week's report on the start of the first 20 of a 50-house development by H. & H. Builders, Johnny Johnson, who will handle the sales, was inadvertently referred to as a realtor. Mr. Johnson points out that he is not a realtor but a representative of the builders.

Planting Begins

Crop planting has already started, with a few brave farmers putting cotton and grain sorghum seed in the cool ground. Walter Nichols of Knott has planted some cotton, while several farmers are planting maize.

Farmers in this area have gone all out for the hybrid grain varieties which outproduce the standard kinds by 20 to 30 per cent. Johnny Blake, who sells a lot of the seed, says that 95 per cent of the maize is of the hybrid kinds.

Blake says there is good moisture in most parts of the county, but farmers really need a general rain.

Building continues slow, particularly business construction. John Smith, office manager for Dub Caldwell, says the firm wouldn't have had much to do the last few weeks if it hadn't been for some work already started at Webb Air Force Base.

"Building is nearly always slow at this time of the year," Smith said. "Income tax payments and other things keep it down. Usually things start picking up in the early part of the summer, however."

New Store

The second 7-Day Super Drive In Grocery is being brought to Big Spring. Owner Cotton Henderson is locating this on one of the West Highway 80 in the building vacated by Hull & Phillips.

Henderson says it will be similar to the one he recently started on Eleventh Place. He is bringing in a man from Midland to help manage it. This makes his fourth grocery store. He has one in Midland and one in Monahans.

If some crew leader wants to take laborers to the sugar beet country, he will have a chance to talk to a man from the Colorado Department of Employment on Wednesday, April 13. E. J. Brahmstadt will be at the local Texas

Zale Jewelry Adds New Stores

The Gerber stores are located in Providence, Olneyville, Woonsocket and West Warwick, R. I.; Fall River and New Bedford, Mass.
