Top Demos Back-Ike In Summit Fiasco

WASHINGTON (AP)—Four top Democrats backed President Eisenhower's hand at the abortive summit conference with a cablegram asking him to give Nikita Khrushchev their view that the Soviet Premier should reconsider his suggestion for postponement of the conference until after the U.S. elections.

The message, it was disclosed today, was sent to Eisenhower Tuesday with the signatures of: House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas...

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Democratic leader of the Senate...

Adlai E. Stevenson, Democratic presidential nominee in 1952 and 1956...

Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee...

TEXT OF MESSAGE

The message said: "As leaders of the Democratic party of the United States, we earnestly urge you to convey to Premier Khrushchev the views of the opposition party in your country that he reconsider his suggestion for postponement of the summit conference until after the national elections in this country."

"We feel that total failure of the conference and increasing mistrust on both sides will be serious and deeply disturbing to the whole world."

"All of the American people earnestly desire peace, an end to the arms race and ever-better relations between our countries. We ask you as the leader of this nation to see that these views are conveyed to Mr. Khrushchev."

General reaction in Congress to the collapse of the summit meeting was that this country must alert its defense and maintain its strength.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, cautioned that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's "erratic actions might precipitate the horror of a nuclear war."

NEED DESCRIBED

Others, without minimizing the potential seriousness of the situation, spoke out of war but of the need for a calm reappraisal in the light of developments.

"It is not the end of the world," commented Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.). Urging calmness among the peoples on both sides, he said: "there must be a cooling off period" and "a fresh start toward easing of international tensions."

Summit At A Glance

PARIS — Visiting government chiefs planned to leave Thursday. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev booted in the streets. President Eisenhower drew shouts of "bravo" at Notre Dame cathedral. NATO Council will get reported Thursday on summit breakup.

BERLIN — Communists arranged a mass rally to hear Khrushchev at his stopover in East Berlin Thursday. He may call for a German peace conference as a prelude to signing a separate Soviet treaty with East Germany.

WASHINGTON — Need for a calm reappraisal was emphasized in declarations by senators. Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said Khrushchev's "erratic actions might precipitate the horror of a nuclear war."

TOKYO — Via Radio Peiping, Red China called President Eisenhower a warmonger and declared Vice President Richard M. Nixon used "the language of an aggressor" in defending U.S. reconnaissance flights over the Soviet Union.

Concrete medians are going up on 10th St. at the 10th and State streets intersection, Bruce Dunn, director of public works, reported today.

The medians are replacing the sand bags which have been used for that purpose for the past several weeks and will be permanent. Dunn also reported that the concrete sidewalks at the rose garden in the park are about completed and work there should wind up this week.

Broken Tie Rod Blamed In 4-Injury Car Accident

A broken tie rod was blamed for an accident at 3:30 a.m. today which sent four people to the hospital.

Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home sent two ambulances to the scene. Farmer and Chambliss were taken to Webb base hospital. Both suffered cuts and lacerations but are not believed seriously hurt.

Mrs. Smith is reported to have a broken leg and other injuries. She is at the Big Spring Hospital. Miss Hodnett was treated also at this hospital. Both the car and boat trailer were damaged in the mishap.

The car ran out of control, left the road and rolled over. The trailer also was turned upside down.

Jimmy Parks, highway patrol officer, said the mishap occurred 15.4 miles north on SH 350.

Miss Mabel Hodnett was driving a 1958 Edsel owned by T. Sgt. Seldon Farmer, WAFB. The car was pulling a boat on a trailer. Passengers included Mrs. Era Smith, Big Spring, and T. Sgt. Verne Chambliss. They had been at Lake J. B. Thomas.

The car ran out of control, left the road and rolled over. The trailer also was turned upside down.

SPY PLANE INCIDENT

Angry Khrushchev Likens Ike To Thief

PARIS (AP) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev angrily accused President Eisenhower of deceit today and likened him to a thief in aerial spying on the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev made his charges in a news conference at the Palais de Chaillot, the summit press center. Beside him sat Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, Soviet defense minister, who is believed to exercise growing power over his chief.

NOT PERMANENT

Khrushchev called Eisenhower a "fishy friend." When they met at Camp David, Md., last September, Khrushchev said, the President knew of spy flights over the Soviet Union and Khrushchev also knew, he said.

Accusing Eisenhower of deceit, he said the President practiced subterfuge in announcing there would be no more spy flights over the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev said he could not accept this as permanent because Eisenhower had told him the next President would have to make his own decision.

Khrushchev warned that when he signs a separate treaty with East Germany the Western Powers will lose their right to maintain troops in Berlin. He declared the treaty will be signed "when we consider the time ripe."

The summit conference collapsed in its first session Monday and died Tuesday night. It was broken up by Khrushchev's demand that Eisenhower apologize and punish those responsible for the U2 flight.

The Soviet Premier in announcing his intention to sign a peace treaty with East Germany, said he simply planned to do with East Germany what the United States did with Japan.

"We fought in the war against Japan," he said. "The United States signed a treaty with Japan but we didn't."

The Soviet Union had the opportunity to share in the treaty with Japan but turned it down.

He said he still wants West Berlin made a "free city" by agreement with the Western allies but that the problem must be solved.

GREATER URGENCY

The spy flight affair, he went on, convinces the Soviet government that "this problem must be solved and we are approaching the matter with greater resolve and urgency."

He then said the Soviet peace treaty with the East German Communist government would "deprive the Western powers of their occupation rights in West Berlin."

But he added: "When we do that is our affair. When we consider the time to be ripe we will take a fountain pen out of our pockets and sit down and sign drafts already prepared and then announce it to the world."

"The Soviet government regrets that the summit conference could not be held at this moment," Khrushchev said. "But we could not do otherwise. We prepared for the conference well, but certain hotheads in the United States torpedoed it."

He criticized Macmillan and De Gaulle for not persuading Eisenhower to bow to Soviet demands on the U2 incident.

NIKI IS BOOED

Booed in the streets and cheered at the entrance to the Palais de Chaillot, where the news conference was held, Khrushchev drew both applause and boos from the mingling of 1,500 Eastern and Western newsmen.

There was booing when Khrushchev launched into criticism of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

"Violently he shouted that he had been informed," the chancellor sent here his good boys who were at Stalingrad."

"Look to it," he said. "If you (Germans) were not beaten at Stalingrad or in the Ukraine, we will give you such a boo you won't want to come and boo again."

Moscow View

This cartoon, entitled "Dismissed," appeared in Moscow's government newspaper Izvestia along with a story charging American "aggressors" torpedoed the summit talks. A figure portrayed as Secretary of State Christian Herter chisels "Statue of Free Espionage" on the statue's base as Justice, labeled "Unwilling Stranger," is ordered away. Heavily-armed figure also pedestals a smoking torch and crown, a travesty on the Statue of Liberty, and holds tablets of the Biblical Ten Commandment tradition inscribed "Espionage, Diversion, Provocation, etc." Dollar mark on shoe sole tramples volume titled "International Law." Soviet cartoonist V. Fomichev drew the caricature.

White House press secretary James Hagerty said Eisenhower's attitude toward Khrushchev's behavior was one of "complete disgust." Hagerty added, the President's allies—presumably meaning Macmillan and De Gaulle—felt the same way.

But the Western Big Three were careful not to express any such feeling in a pre-midnight joint statement.

U.S. To Continue Exchange Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States intends to press ahead with its people-to-people exchange program with the Soviet Union despite the blow-up of the summit conference.

The State Department will suspend the program, however, if American public opinion becomes hostile to the idea of welcoming Soviet visitors.

Top officials, watching for repercussions to Nikita Khrushchev's anti-American tirade, reported there was no sign yet that visits by Soviet delegations would be resented.

The officials detected no sign at this time that Americans visiting the Soviet Union under the program would meet with a less-than-friendly treatment. A delegation of American railroad experts is due to leave Thursday for a Soviet tour. Visas for the group have not yet arrived but authorities said this need not be a reflection of cold war tensions.

American delegations occasionally have left for Moscow before visits were provided by the Soviet Embassy. In such cases, visas were picked up en route either at the Soviet Embassy in Paris or in Copenhagen or Helsinki.

The only Soviet visitor now in the United States under the exchange program is Nina V. Popova. She is chairman of the President of the Union of Soviet Societies for Friendship and Cultural Relations with Foreign Countries.

The Soviet Embassy is giving a reception in her honor Thursday evening. Numerous State Department officials have been invited.

Permissive Flow Set For Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission retained today the 8-day producing pattern for June, fixing the statewide oil allowable at 2,643,516 barrels a day.

The producing pattern increases the statewide allowable by 47,108 barrels a day because of the calendar day differential in May and June.

Twelve major oil companies submitted nominations to the commission at its monthly prorating hearing. Six asked for nine days and the others were split evenly between seven and eight days.

Independents did not testify but apparently were in favor of a continuation of the 8-day order so as to prevent an excessive amount of oil on the market which might trigger purchaser prorating.

Several representatives of major oil companies said they felt the market demand for Texas crude would be a little higher next month.

Earlier in the year, the chief executives of the oil-buying companies estimated the oil business would increase by about four percent during 1960. Chairman Ernest Thompson of the commission asked J. C. Edwards, representing Texas, if that figure would not be closer to two percent.

Edwards agreed. He said his company had more crude than it desired but he expected "a pretty strong demand in the immediate future."

D. L. Wolfe, representing Indiana Oil Purchasing Co., said his company's stocks were reasonably well in balance and that spot sales prospects "are looking better in June."

Charles Shaver of Houston, representing Humble, the state's largest oil purchaser, nominated for 9 days and said that if an 8-day pattern were set, Humble would buy 50,000 barrels a day of spot purchases. Spot purchases are those which are not connected with a company's regular leases or pipeline commitments.

Austin 2nd add lead oil 440 Atlantic and Sinclair both amended their written nominations at the floor. Atlantic dropped its nomination from 79,000 barrels a day to 73,400 due to a drop in sales. Sinclair, in dropping its nomination from 120,900 to 115,700, reported refinery runs had been cut 15,000 barrels a day in May and that two domestic loadings out of Houston had been cancelled.

Shell announced a 9-day recommendation and reported it would buy spot crude on eight days or reduce inventories.

Nominations by companies: 9 days, Mobil (235,700 barrels), Sun (110,000), Humble (386,125), Texaco (186,000), Shell (115,100), Standard of Texas (40,320), eight days, Atlantic (73,400), Cities Service (82,000), Gulf (212,700), seven days, Sinclair (115,700), Indiana (25,000) and Phillips (116,700).

Crude stocks total 260,500,000 barrels, some 10,300,000 barrels above the desired level. Stocks of products and crude are 49,500,000 barrels in excess at 523 million barrels. Total refinery crude stocks are 96,000 barrels less than a month ago.

An estimate of the Bureau of Mines places the market demand for Texas crude at 2,500,000 barrels, 100,000 barrels above the May forecast. Nominations submitted earlier by companies at 2,532,247 barrels are 74,788 barrels higher than a month ago.

Cosden Reports Stock Dividend

Directors of Cosden Petroleum Corporation, at their regular monthly meeting in Big Spring this morning, declared a regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents per share.

The dividend will be payable on June 30 to shareholders of record on June 10. The outlay is approximately three-quarters of a million dollars on 2,996,000 shares outstanding.

R. L. Tollett, in his report to the directors, told of slightly increased earnings for the fiscal year ended April 30 in comparison with the preceding year.

However, he forecast lower earnings for the first quarter of this year.

"The situation is less favorable than it was a year ago because of continuing excessive processing of crude oil by refineries in the face of high inventories," he said. "Recently, corrective trends are noticeable and since the oil industry is basic in our economy, it is believed that improvement will be shortly forthcoming."

'Open Skies' Policy Could Be Result

WASHINGTON (AP) — What's the difference between a Russian aerial apparatus flying 188 miles in the air and taking pictures across the United States...

so that a surprise attack or an accidental attack can be prevented.

The case was dramatically summed up, prior to the Powers incident, in a report on April 29 by the U. S. House Committee on Appropriations, which said:

"In the final analysis, to effectively deter a would-be aggressor, we should maintain our armed forces in such a way and with such an understanding that, should it ever become obvious that an attack upon us or our Allies is imminent, we can launch an attack before the aggressor has hit either us or our Allies.

THIS IS BUT ANOTHER way of saying that, of course, the United States must operate its observation planes so that if it sees a potential enemy getting ready for a surprise attack, the American counter-attack can be launched before the "first blow" actually strikes us.

"During World War II, high-flying reconnaissance planes, alone and unarmed, suffered fewer combat losses than any other type. And, since then, the techniques available for reducing the probability of detection and interception have been greatly advanced.

"ANY AERIAL reconnaissance that we conduct over the Soviet Union must be extremely difficult or even impossible to detect. I, for one, firmly believe that we can conduct such reconnaissance missions over Soviet territory without their being able to do anything about it—with very rare exceptions.

"Most importantly, knowledge that we can perform aerial inspection regardless of Soviet military opposition will be the most significant factor in bringing the Soviets to eventual acceptance of the President's proposal.

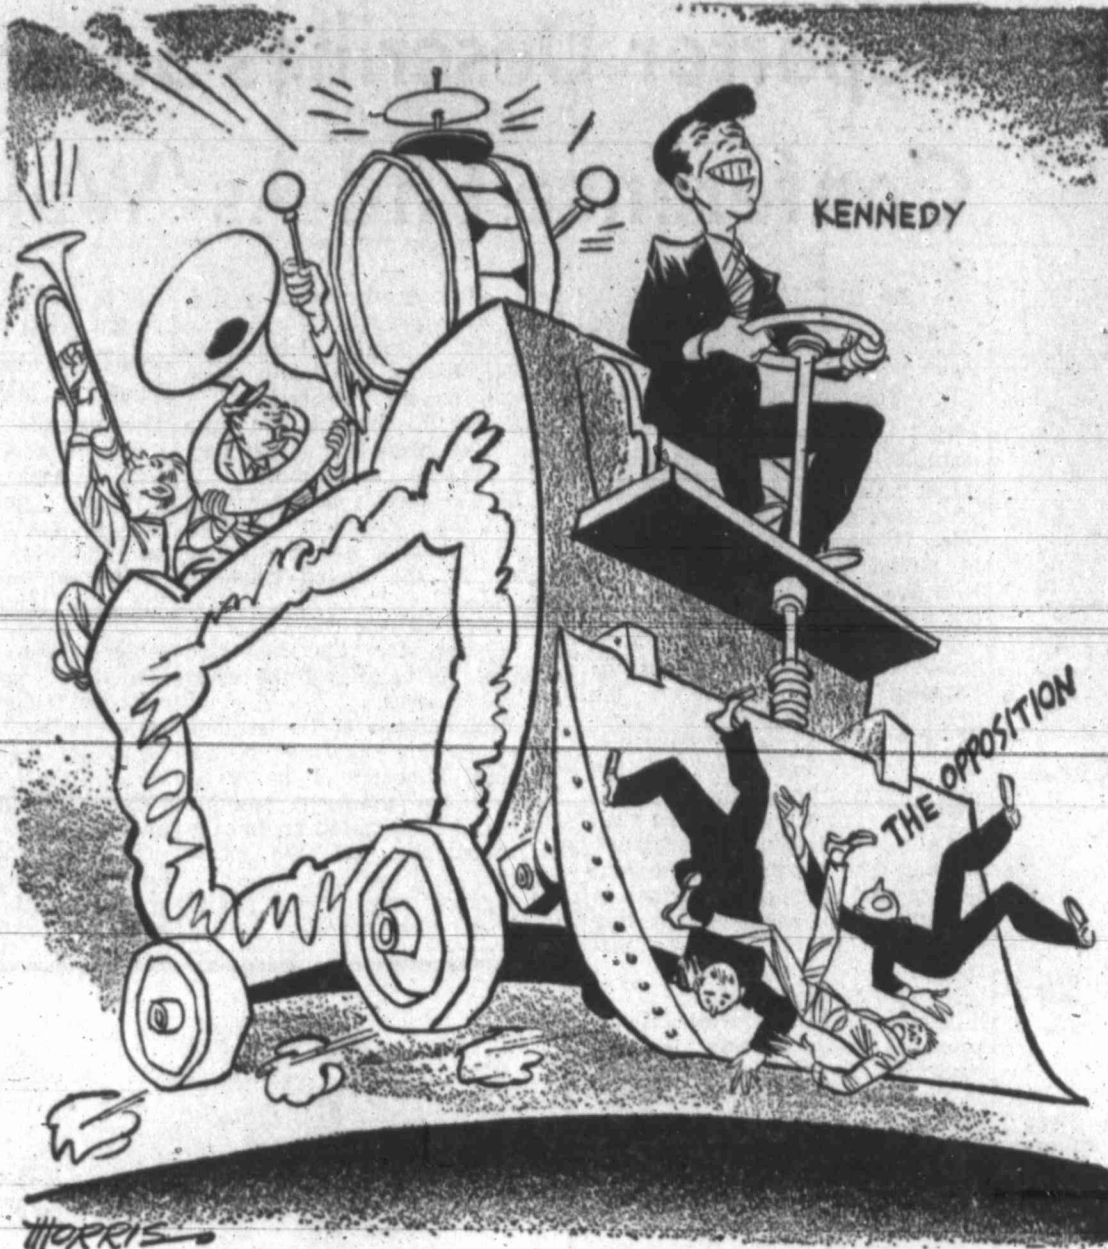

"THE PRESIDENT'S offer of mutual aerial inspection has at last seized for the West the initiative in the 'cold war.' If we press this advantage hard, we can win a major cold-war battle before decisive enough to turn the tide truly toward complete, universal and enforceable disarmament.

"Aerial reconnaissance is particularly needed against the Soviet totalitarian state, because other methods of collecting information and data operate under extreme difficulties."

The West at Paris has reiterated its demand for an "open society" and an agreement on measures to eliminate any chance of an unobserved surprise attack.

The Powers episode may yet prove to be the turning point in a long struggle to get some safeguards against surprise attack.

BAND WAGON WITH ACCESSORIES

James Marlow We Gave Niki His Torpedoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — When the skindivers of history probe around in the wreckage of the 1960 summit conference, they'll find lots of reasons why it blew up and sank, more than are known now.

FIRST, THE department permitted another government agency to say the U2 American spy plane downed over the Soviet Union was on an innocent mission, gathering information on the weather.

Both statements were lies. Khrushchev ranted them down America's throat by producing evidence. Then the department got honest and admitted the spying.

IT SAID THIS government would fall in its responsibility to the whole free world if it did not do what it considered necessary to obtain information—including spying—to "overcome the danger of surprise attack" by the Soviet Union.

This might have gotten by if the department—actually Secretary of State Christian A. Herter himself—had phrased this in the language in such a way that it seemed to apply to the future, too.

So, the reporters did the interpreting—since they took White's answer to mean yes—and said Herter had indicated the spy flights would continue. All this information—State Department statements and American newspaper interpretations—were available to Khrushchev.

Such an interpretation was an insult to Khrushchev and the Soviets. It meant this country intended to ignore Soviet sovereignty over its own air space and send in spy-planes, no matter how the Soviets felt about it.

Two days later this government had still another chance to say this was an erroneous interpretation—and if it though so, this was when Eisenhower held his news conference last Wednesday.

But he talked in future terms, without actually saying planes would be sent in over the U.S.S.R.

A Ghost From The Past

NEW YORK (AP) —My old Army sergeant— For 15 years I yearned and waited for the day when I'd meet him in civilian life.

In my mind's eye, I saw the scene a thousand times. He'd be out of work, homeless, friendless, driven by desperation to look me up and beg for a job.

Of course I wouldn't have any jobs to give, but I'd be magnanimous anyway.

I'd forget about the time he put me on KP for both the Christmas and New Year weekends. I'd overlook all the passes I didn't get, and the rifles that didn't pass inspection, and the beds that weren't made to his satisfaction.

Yes, I'd let bygones be bygones. Gladly, willingly, I'd reach into my wallet and give him my lunch money. All of it. "Here, old buddy," I'd say, "this is for you. Don't mention it."

He'd cry. That great big mass of misanthropy would stand there and cry. The tears would roll down that rough, red face and trickle one by one off that craggy, granite jaw, like rain on Mt. Rushmore.

But then, suddenly, one day last week I did meet him. Not in the office but on a subway platform. And it didn't work out at all the way I had planned.

"Mull!" he roared. His voice was that parade-ground volume-so that passengers on both sides of the platform immediately shared his research into my family tree.

"We had great times, didn't we, Mull?" he reminisced as we headed up the escalator. "Remember the night on bivouac we snuck into town and bought a jug? And the time the guys rigged up a still out behind the battalion C.P.?"

These little ghosts out of the past sent him into convulsions. He was laughing so hard now that tears, great big tears, came to his eyes and rolled down his chin.

Oh well, anyhow, at least I still had my lunch money, and my memories. I'll save them until I run into a certain lieutenant.

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. "Dear Dr. Molner: My son-in-law was operated on for a fistula, and the incision was healed O.K., but where they gave him shots in the hip with a needle, it has festered like boils.

"What I'd like to know is if this is the fault of the hospital, for neglecting to sterilize the needles, or for not using clean water and soap. Our doctor doesn't want to commit himself as this might hurt the hospital—H.S."

Staph (or staphylococcus) infections are likely to be stubborn. There are different varieties of this type of germ, but I do not mean that one type is necessarily worse than another. For one person, one type may be worse; for another person, some other type may do more mischief.

But that's beside the point. You are wondering whether the hospital people were careless and whether your son-in-law is suffering as a result of their carelessness.

First of all, a fistula is inclined to be a rather bad type of problem to handle because it has to heal from the inside, progressing out to the surface. In your son-in-law's case, it healed without trouble. This indicates that it was given careful attention. A hospital that is careful about one thing is usually careful about all things.

Like people, you don't ordinarily find a person who is careful about one thing and sloppy about another.

By nature, staph germs are known to linger on the skin, or on things we touch, they are quite common in the nose, which makes them hard to control.

It doesn't seem reasonable to me that the needle used on your son-in-law was not sterilized. If just MUST have been, in ANY good hospital. But here's what I suspect happened: There were some staph germs on your son-in-law's skin, or on his garments. The shot from the needle was clean enough, but there was this tiny aperture in the skin, and it was a doorway big enough for the staph germs to enter afterward.

You describe the result as "like boils." Boils are a staph infection which gets started from some very tiny, perhaps unnoticed and virtually invisible, scratch or aperture. That's one reason why doctors are forever urging people to use soap and water, or some antiseptic, on minor cuts and scratches. Most of the time no harm results, but sometimes the often-

Around The Rim

Scooped In His Own Paper

The dream of every small newspaperman is to scoop his big city brother. Perhaps it is because the odds are so long against it; perhaps because of an innate desire to demonstrate that the big boys don't have a monopoly on ingenuity of enterprise.

Boyce House, Texas author and humorist, was—and I guess still is—at heart—a small town newspaperman. He moved in to the Ranger area just as the bloom came off the famed boom, and he absorbed tales which, coupled with meticulous research, resulted finally in his famous "Were You In Ranger?" But long before he got around to writing on a book, he labored in the Ranger-Eastland-Cisco vineyard. His story of old Rip, the horned toad exhumed supposedly alive from the Eastland County courthouse cornerstone, became a classic.

HIS MOST EXCITING story however, was the famed Santa Claus bank robbery. For sheer drama and excitement, it is doubtful that it has been surpassed in the annals of Texas crime.

At the height of the Christmas season, bandits garbed as Santa Claus and his helpers struck up the bank at Cisco. They made their get away in a waiting automobile and were eventually picked up after a series of wild chases, etc. Once in custody, the bandits escaped and were recaptured after much shooting while trying to flee aboard a freight train.

An example of the bizarreness of the event was how one correspondent stuck his head into the alley during the robbery and realized what was happening. He ducked around the corner, got a phone and put through a quick "long distance" call to his paper.

"WHEN DID THIS happen?" the editor asked.

"They've just got into the car and are heading east," panted the enterprising reporter.

Naturally, the trial attracted tremendous interest. Big papers sent down the star-stuff, among them Silliman Evans of the Star-Telegram. Silliman, a former Big Spring lad, had made his mark as a top-flight reporter and was destined to go on to become publisher of the Nashville Tennessee.

House was a stringer (a country correspondent) for the Star-Telegram, so he yielded to Silliman and took care of his own paper. Evans was in fine fettle and did a brilliant job with his coverage.

WHEN THE JURY went out Silliman was assured that it would be overnight before they would come back, so he ducked to a nearby town on some quick business. Meanwhile, House looked across the courthouse lawn and noticed several people hurrying to the doors, so he ran over to check up. Sure enough the jury filed back in with a verdict of life for Helms, the principal defendant. House sprinted back to scribble a big black banner and a few lines of type for an extra on his paper.

Then on an impulse, he called the state desk of the Star-Telegram.

"I guess you already have this," he said matter-of-factly, knowing very well they didn't have anything. "But I thought I'd see if you have the Helms verdict." To make a long story short, when Silliman Evans got back to Eastland, he picked up the Star-Telegram and for the first time learned of the verdict. He had been scooped in his own paper! But he was a good sport. Evans made sure House had done it, then went out and bought him a nice present. Nothing more was said of it. —JOE PICKLE

Press Palace Is A Bit Shaky

PARIS — If I may venture a criticism, I'd feel a lot more optimistic about reaching the summit if the base weren't so shaky. I speak of the great rambling, shambly Palais de Chaillot, summit headquarters for the world press gathered here for the meeting of the heads of state.

The floors of the six-story pale cream building tremble beneath the tread of a woman who weighs in at 122. It does nothing to fire with confidence the 3,000 newsmen, photographers, broadcasters, et al, under whose feet it sways the clock around.

OH, IT IS ELEGANT, for once, to work in a Palais, but I long for a firmer foundation. And, presumably, if a cat can look at a queen, a mouse can look at a woman reporter bending to the typewriter. But, if I can have by drudgers, I'd prefer a larger audience.

Again, whoever christened this vast honeycomb a "Palais" was a born romantic. Even the addition of a clutch of potted palms and small myrtle trees, even miles of new burlap on the floor, cannot conceal the fact that the Palais de Chaillot never was such a - much even when it was new in 1948.

AT THAT TIME, this "temporary" structure was built by the French to house a session of the United Nations, before that organization's more solid home was erected on the banks of the East River in New York.

Like all "temporary" structures, the Palais has hung on and on. Until it, too, moved to permanent headquarters, the Palais for several years housed NATO. Now, if it does not crumble on our heads, the Palais is to be torn down as soon as the summit is reached and the press moves on.

The Palais de Chaillot could never be confused with Versailles, or Fontainebleau or even Buckingham Palace. But it does have a treasure that none of these can boast. The Palais sets on the right bank of the Seine, directly across the river from the Eiffel Tower, which lyrically frames in its great arches the Invalides and the green esplanade leading to it.

THE FEW LEATHER chairs in the spacious lounge on the fourth floor, whose windows open on this view, are filled day-and-night with newsmen pleasuring their souls with the view and their aching feet with a rest. For the Palais is a catacomb. It is always three blocks and two flights up from one office to another. And the elevators are temperamental. Even terrifying. One newsman claims he was almost quilled by one at the last international conference.

Obviously, the easiest and safest way to get to the summit is by shank's mare. The four big briefing auditoriums, one each for the U. S., the U.S.S.R., the United Kingdom and France, open off the lounge and shut out the view. Designed to hold about 400 persons each, the U. S. and the U.S.S.R. auditoriums are often packed, sardine-wise, with far more.

AT THE FRONT of each auditorium is a stage, on which the briefing officers perform.

At the back is a second stage, occupied by the monarchs of all their survey, the photographers — still, newsreel and television. If we do not reach the summit soon, some day there will be an ominous rumble and we shall all find ourselves in the basement.

Name any country in the world, and its press is represented at the summit and at the Palais de Chaillot. We form a real international convention. If a language isn't spoken here, then it doesn't exist.

The Gallup Poll

Nixon Leads Adlai In New Trial Run

PRINCETON, N. J. — Vice President Nixon, holds a slight lead over Adlai Stevenson in the latest Gallup Poll sampling.

Nixon runs ahead of the former Illinois governor with the support of 53 per cent of the nation's voters to 47 per cent for Stevenson.

The standings show little change over those reported by the Gallup Poll in early May, when Nixon held a 52 per cent to 48 per cent edge over Stevenson.

HERE IS THE QUESTION put to a carefully-selected cross-section of the nation's voters, and the latest findings: "Suppose the presidential election were being held TODAY. If Adlai Stevenson were the Democratic candidate and Richard Nixon were the Republican candidate, which would you like to see win?"

While regular Gallup Poll reports during the fall and winter months showed Nixon in the lead, the May 1 report indicated a sharp gain for Stevenson since the previous report in March.

Europe, Irked By Summit Failure, Urges Allied Unity

LONDON (AP)—Western Europe, angered and disappointed by the summit conference collapse resounded today with new calls for Allied firmness and unity to face looming cold war dangers.

Not since the Hungarian revolt of 1956 had Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev drawn such bitter criticism. Blame for the breakdown of the Big Four meeting was planted squarely on the Kremlin doorstep.

Resumption of bitter cold war diplomacy was taken almost for granted, but there apparently was little fear at this stage that a shooting war was imminent.

In the Soviet Union, the Communist propaganda machine moved into top gear in support of Khrushchev's tough line with the West. Press and radio poured out thousands of words denouncing President Eisenhower for his refusal to condemn U.S. reconnaissance flights over the U.S.S.R. and to punish those responsible for them.

The Soviet Communist party organ Pravda reported that in Moscow alone 5,640 meetings attended by 1,250,000 people were held in factories, schools and offices to protest America's "aggressive behavior."

Grace Followers Seek Tied Funds

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Trustees of a church founded by Negro preacher Charles M. (Sweet Daddy) Grace are trying to spring loose more than a million dollars the Internal Revenue Service has tied up.

They filed a suit in U. S. District Court Tuesday, claiming that the funds belong to the church and not the late evangelist who died in January. Trustees represent the House of Prayer for All People.

The government filed tax liens against Grace, who had a wide following. At stake is $78,922 which church trustees said it deposited in Baltimore banks and $1,055,271 received from the sale of some New York property.

Huge banner headlines reflected Western Europe's dismay — and also its determination not to yield to Soviet threats.

"Summit full-stop," cried Britain's Daily Express. "Killed, ravaged and torn to pieces by Nikita Khrushchev."

Dutch Foreign Minister Joseph Luns told his Parliament: "I have full confidence that the West will be firm in the face of Khrushchev's new threatening attitude. United, we should have no fear for the future."

There were similar appeals for close Western unity in most of the free capitals.

Many observers were still trying to probe what was behind Khrushchev's uncompromising, almost Stalinist, new policy.

"The most likely explanation is that Khrushchev's power in Russia is waning steadily," suggested the London Daily Express.

Nearly everywhere it was assumed the Soviet leader was under heavy pressure from home.

Eisenhower, after widespread criticism for the handling of the spy plane incident, came out of the Paris debacle with enhanced prestige. Britain's Daily Mirror summed up a sheaf of European tribute thus: "He has behaved with such splendid dignity."

DEAR ABBY

YOU CAN HELP

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband holds a position of trust that he is unworthy of. He has been stealing from the company. I couldn't believe it until I was faced with the proof.

I discussed it with him and he promised to stop. But his promises mean nothing because I have proof that he has been at it again. The more he gets away with, the more he wants.

We have three children. Abby, and if he's caught he will lose his job and he might even be sent to prison. I love him and want to help him, but I can't go on living with a thief and taking a chance on his bringing disgrace to me and the children. If you can't help me, Abby, please tell me who can. I am sick at heart.

MOTHER OF THREE
DEAR MOTHER: If you have never asked a clergyman for help — ask him now. If you don't belong to a church, go to one. I doubt if any clergyman would refuse to help you. Beyond that, your husband might need a doctor. Stick with him and give him the strength, support and incentive to overcome his weakness. It can be done.

DEAR ABBY: My secret ambition has always been to earn a college diploma. I started college once, but stayed only four months because my father took sick and I had to return home to get a job and take care of the family. I am 38, Abby. If I take courses three evenings a week, I figure it will take me eight years to earn the credits required to graduate. I wonder if it's sensible. If I go, in eight years I will be 46.

WANTS A COLLEGE DIPLOMA
DEAR WANTS: And how old will you be in eight years if you DON'T go?

DEAR ABBY: After going steady with Russ for three years, I married him. I was only 18 at the time. We've been married for five miserable years and have two children. I realize now that I was too young to know my own mind when I married. Now I finally met the man I should have married.

His name is Frank and, Abby, we were meant for each other.

He's married, too, and his situation is exactly like mine. He married too young and all he and his wife do is fight. He says he is happy only when he is with me, Frank and I have been seeing each other on-the-sly. Is it wrong to continue these meetings? Nobody knows and nobody is hurt. We are very much in love and suffer terribly when we are apart. Why should we suffer the rest of our lives just because we didn't meet until after we were married?

DYING BY INCHES
DEAR DYING: You married Russ for better or for worse. If you spent as much time and energy trying to make Russ happy as you apparently do making Frank happy, things would be much better at home. Knock off that out-of-bounds monkey business before things get worse. If you think you are "suffering," now—wait until your luck runs out.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MITZIE: Truth serum is not 100 per cent reliable and I doubt if it is available to the public. If I were you, I'd bounce the bum. He's not worth the salt in your tears.

"What's your problem?" Write to Abby in care of The Big Spring Herald. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's pamphlet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send 25 cents and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope in care of The Herald.

Wilson Reveals Fund Twice That Of Carr

AUSTIN (AP)—Atty. Gen. Will Wilson reported Tuesday he spent twice as much as Speaker Waggoner Carr in defending his present job.

In the governor's race, Jack Cox reported he spent almost twice as much as Gov. Price Daniel without success.

Tuesday was the deadline for filing final reports of campaign expenses as required by state election laws. A preliminary report was filed April 29.

Reports from several statewide candidates were still missing when the secretary of state's office closed.

Wilson's report showed expenditures of $219,547.

Carr reported $96,607 in expenditures, $83,636 in gifts, and no debts.

Wilson did not give any total contributions in his final report. Instead he submitted 16 single-space typewritten pages listing contributors, including those who bought tickets to fund raising dinners. No total was given. Wilson reported on April 29 that up to that time he had received $106,934 in contributions.

ADDITIONAL LOAN
R. E. L. Looney, third candidate for attorney general, reported that the only change in his campaign expenses since the April 29 report was an additional loan of $200. His first report showed $310 in gifts, loans of $2,350, expenses of $1,705, and debts of $2,426.

Daniel reported total contributions of $87,899, expenditures of $64,018, and $15,187 in debts.

Cox said his overall contributions totaled $129,757, expenditures of $129,021, and $888.50 in debts.

In the only statewide runoff race for judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals, the incumbent, Judge Lloyd W. Davidson said he spent $22,881, had $15,151 in contributions and $4,000 in loans. The other runoff candidate, Dist. Judge W. T. McDonald, Bryan, said his total expenses were $5,958, contributions of $4,436, and $150 in debts. Jim D. Bowmer, Temple, who lost in the first primary, reported expenses of $14,440, contributions of $6,934, and $1,461 in debts.

Jerry Sadler, Palestine, successful candidate for nomination as state land commissioner, reported total contributions of $625, none more than $20. He said he spent $10,996 with $1,451 in debts.

Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey, who won re-nomination for re-election, reported total gifts of $59,590, $2,500 in loans, expenditures of $52,077, and $19,610 in debts.

Sit-In Appellant Is Found Guilty

MARSHALL (AP)—A Negro student who appealed a $200 fine levied in City Court in a lunch counter sit-in case was found guilty in County Court Tuesday and fined $425.

The defendant was Joel Rucker of Eakerfield, Calif., a student at Wiley College here. His attorney said a motion for a new trial would be filed.

Livestock Count Cards Will Be Sent Thursday

GARDEN CITY — V. M. Gill, postmaster, is to begin distributing June 1 livestock survey cards at the post office Thursday.

These cards will be given to patrons having livestock or poultry, and J. E. Kennedy, carrier, will leave some of the cards with patrons along his route.

This mid-year livestock survey is the first of three which the U. S. Post Office and the U. S. Department of Agriculture make cooperatively each year. The June 1 survey provides basic information to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service in Austin for estimating the 1960 calf crop, what the spring pig crop actually numbered, and a preview of farrowing intentions for the fall season.

Also, poultrymen will receive information on the number of chickens raised during the spring. Those chickens will be the coming fall and winter's laying flock.

Gill urged that all Glasscock County residents fill out the card and return it as promptly as possible in order that the county would be well represented in the survey.

'Y' Directors Accept New Building, Contract Paving

Directors of the YMCA met for the first time in the new Y building Tuesday evening for their regular monthly session. One of the first acts of the board was to formally accept the building from contractor J. D. Jones, subject to some minor items.

Bill Quimby, chairman of the dedication day committee, reported the opening Sunday was an outstanding success with several thousand visiting the plant at 8th and Owens, indicative of the interest was the unsolicited influx of memberships. Within the past three days, said Bobo Hardy, general secretary, 29 adult and 79 youth memberships — a total of 108 — have been issued. A formal vote of thanks was voted to news media and all others having a part in the dedication ceremonies and open house.

Oklahoma May Show A Rise

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Preliminary census figures for Oklahoma indicate the state will show a small gain in population when the final tally is made.

The current trend shows rural counties are losing residents while urban areas are getting more and more people.

The 1950 census showed Oklahoma lost 103,083 residents and two U.S. representatives as a result of a decline to 2,233,351.

It appears the state's largest cities will line up in this order when the final census report is made: Oklahoma City 317,644; Tulsa 255,422; Lawton 60,806; Norman 38,843; Enid 38,090 and Muskogee 37,152.

The 1950 census figures for these cities were: Oklahoma City 243,504; Tulsa 182,740; Lawton 34,757; Norman 27,066; Enid 36,617 and Muskogee 37,289.

Max Genet Jr., director of the State Department of Commerce, took note of the rural and smaller city population losses. He said it was an example of "the immediate need to do something to bolster the economy of these areas."

W. Texas Road Bids Received

AUSTIN (AP) — Bids on road projects were received today by the State Highway Department.

The department Tuesday tabulated $8,000,358 in low bids. The total for the two days is expected to reach about 17 million dollars. Of the 800 miles of work, 569 miles are on farm roads and the rest on U.S. and state highways.

Projects by counties included: Ector: U.S. 80, bridges, east of Odessa. Roy Garrett, Lubbock, $61,478.

Pecos: U.S. 290 and 285, structures and surfacing in Fort Stockton, 1.6 miles, Parker and Parker Inc., Odessa, $129,644.

Springer Presents First Phase Of His Master Plan

Representatives of four Big Spring boards heard the first phase of Marvin Springer's Master Plan Tuesday and appointed a special committee to push for one of his recommendations.

The city planner presented the first phase of his program to members of the city commission, the planning and zoning commission, the master plan steering committee and the zoning board of adjustment.

The program includes planning for population and growth, land use, zoning and thoroughfares.

RAMP DISCUSSED

When discussing thoroughfares, Springer pointed out that an "off ramp" of the new Interstate 20 is being planned at Tulane. He said a group from Big Spring had requested the ramp and that Jake Roberts, state highway engineer, included it in the planning because he thought it is the desire of all Big Springers.

Springer proposed an alternate plan which would give Baylor, a major thoroughfare of the future, a direct connection with 3rd Street.

This plan was approved by the group and a committee of Robert W. Whipkey, Harold Talbot, George Zachariah, Horace Reagan, Champ Rainwater, were named to discuss the matter with the county commissioners court and Roberts.

The group also discussed the proposed street from the top of South Mountain, through the city on Benton to connect with the Snyder highway. Several alternate routes were suggested.

ZONING

Springer skipped over the section on a new zoning ordinance, pointing out that it had been discussed at length at a previous meeting on the proposed ordinance.

Dr. J. E. Hogan, chairman of the steering committee, suggested a series of meetings in June to work out the details of a new zoning ordinance. This plan was approved.

Discussing population and growth, Springer said the city's growth has been steady, not boom type conditions. He called this "healthy." He said 40 per cent of the new population in the last decade has been from new residents moving in, the remainder is accounted for by the excess of births over deaths.

Projecting into the future, he estimated the city will have 30,000 population by 1980, if the present growth rate continues. He pointed out that if Webb AFB is removed from the growth picture, the population by 1980 would be only about 40,000.

GROWTH

Springer suggested the growth will move to the south and north, as he has said on previous occasions. He said Webb AFB on the west, the garbage dump, sewage plant and Cosden on the east form barriers to expansion in those directions.

The city will probably double in size by 1980, Springer predicted. He recommended that this expansion be kept within limits that can be adequately served with utilities at the lowest cost.

Springer's complete Phase I report, in bound form with numerous maps and charts, was handed out to members of the committee. A. K. Steinhilber, city manager, explained that only a 100 copies exist and that a few would be available on loan from the city hall.

Springer's program is to be used as a guide by Big Spring committees in planning for the future of the city.

Missionary Service Today

The Rev. and Mrs. Vernon Hagar will hold a missionary service in the First Assembly of God Church today. The service is to begin at 7:45 p.m. There will be colored slides shown of "New Hope Leprosy Colony" and other features of interest, as well as an inspiring message concerning the lepers of Bible times and in modern times.

The Hagars are to work in New Hope Town, Cape Palmas, Liberia West Africa. The Foreign Missions board is sending them there in September.

Mrs. Hagar is the former Ozel-la Reid. She spent three years in Gold Coast, West Africa, from 1948 through 1951. While there she and her co-worker, Miss Ruby Johnson, established a Mother and Child clinic among the Krokomba tribe, which is one of the most primitive tribes of all Africa. The tribal language has never been written.

Rev. Hagar has been pastor of the First Assembly of God Church at Spur for almost four years, and has resigned in order to make preparations for work in Africa.

The public is invited to attend these services.

Jim Wade, manager of the Elks teen-age team in 1959, says that his boys are without a sponsor this year and asks that any business, industrial, or civic group who might like to sponsor a team give him a call.

Wade says the cost is much less than people realize and time is drawing near for him to order uniforms.

About 110 teen-age boys in the 13-15-year-old bracket registered last week to be assigned to a team. The six-team league will only take care of 90 ball players.

Wade says that, there will be 15 more interested youngsters who won't get to play.

Jerry McKay, Colorado City's passer for the 1960 football season led for first place in the high jump event at Austin last week in the AAA class of the Texas Interscholastic meet.

His best jump this year was 6 feet, 2 1/2 inches. He still has another year of eligibility and looks like a chick to win the title next year.

Loss fishing on Lake J. B. Thomas has been steadily improving in the past few weeks and many blacks as high as eight pounds have been taken from the waters.

Most fishermen who frequent the lake say the best spot for the bass is up on the west end near the Lakeview Grocery. From there on west, up into the Colorado-River channel is considered the lake's hot spot.

Lack of rain lately has caused the river channel to dry up considerably, however, and Homer Smith, Shady Grove operator, says that unless the rains start coming, the bass may move on to safer waters.

Moss Creek opened up again Monday after being re-stocked, and there just might be some good bass fishing there for a few days until the speed-boaters start churning the waters again.

Baylor's 1961 track and field outlook seems extra bright these days since only two members of its 1960 conference-winning team will graduate.

Furillo Angry With Dodger Treatment

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"I'll let my attorney do the talking from here on," said a bitter Carl Furillo, one of the last of the Dodger old guard.

After 14 full seasons, the Dodgers and the veteran outfielder parted company on a sour note Tuesday.

Furillo, claiming he has been betrayed, said he plans an appeal today to Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick.

"I was hurt with the club (running to first May 2 against Cincinnati) and should have been put on the disabled list," said 38-year-old Furillo, sidelined most of this season with a gimpy right leg.

"I tried to get him on the disabled list but the commissioner wouldn't go for it," said Buzzie Bavasi, vice president and general manager of the Los Angeles baseball club. "I had no alternative but to release him."

"I called Carl on the way to San Francisco (last week) and told him I would find him a good job in the organization," Bavasi said. "But that doesn't go any more, after what he's done to this club."

Furillo's attorney, Arnold Cowan, said cutting Furillo was "just an economy move, a method of saving money." Furillo was paid $7,000 on his $30,000-a-year contract.

Furillo, who started in baseball 20 years ago as an $80-a-month outfielder for Pocomoke City in the Eastern Shore League, was bumped off the Dodgers by big Frank Howard, a $108,000 bonus baby from Ohio State.

Patterson Sees Films Of Knockout

By WHITNEY MARTIN NEWTOWN, Conn. (AP)—Floyd Patterson now knows what hit him last June 26.

For the first time, he says, he took a peek Tuesday at movies of the bout in which he lost his heavyweight championship to Ingemar Johansson.

It was strictly a private showing for Floyd, his "technical advisor," Joe Louis, and his trainer, Dan Florio, and after it was over, Patterson kept any thoughts about the film to himself.

Patterson, who will seek to regain his crown when he meets Ingemar at the Polo Grounds June 26, boxed four rounds Tuesday in the ring set-up in the abandoned road house where he lives and trains.

He went two rounds with a burly Cuban heavyweight, Julio Mederos, and then a round and three-quarters with his brother, Ray, 17.

The second round was cut short when Floyd clipped his kinsman with a stout left hook. Ray didn't go down, but he was in a bit of trouble.

Patterson crowded both sparring mates, thus following the advice Louis has given him.

"One thing I'm going to be careful about is not to slip," the amiable Floyd said. "You remember out on the coast when I was training for Roy Harris? Remember that Jose Torres thing. I started to slip, and took a glancing blow. I fell down, and right away they said, 'I was knocked down.'"

Patterson appeared casual and confident, before, during and after the workout. He did not seem to mind the glaring lights focused on the ring by the movie men.

Louis reiterated his opinion that Patterson should crowd Ingemar, and keep the Swede squarely in front of him.

Good Start Gets Lasater 9.3 Century

R. L. Lasater, the Texas 4A sprint king, says his 9.3 clocking in the Junior Olympics at Garland last Saturday could be credited to the excellent start he got.

He had been working ever since just before the state meet in Austin on the proper stance. By using a kick gauge which Elmer Tarbox introduced to him, he was able to determine the stance which would give the maximum spurt of strength out of the blocks.

"The stance I had been using felt comfortable to me but the kick gauge showed that my stance was at least three inches away from the point of maximum power," says Lasater.

Lasater had been consistently clocked in the century this year at a 9.7 figure and Coach Curtis Kelley always insisted that if the boy could get a decent start, he would improve his time considerably.

"This 9.3 time he had in Garland," says Kelley, "ties the world record for the event, but it won't be allowed to stand because the wind was blowing 12 m.p.h. I fell all along with the superlative finish he has, he should be running better than a 9.7."

"We knew from the first that his slow starts were what was keeping him away from his potential, but for about three weeks there, we couldn't even work him in the blocks because of that bad leg he had."

Lasater had been the sixth ranked high school sprinter in the nation since his performances as a Big Spring sophomore in 1959. He had a pulled muscle last spring and still took second in the 100 at the state meet.

As a junior this year, Lasater competed in the 100 yard dash finals 10 times. He won eight of the races and was second twice. He ran the 220 eight times and won all but one race. He finished third in the 220 at the Border Olympics.

In all, Lasater won 21 first place medals, five second place medals and two third place medals this year.

Coach Kelley says that if Lasater stays in shape and continues to improve his start, he will run a consistent 9.4 or 9.5 next year.

"I never saw a kid get such poor starts and still win by eight yards, I'd say he was last in every race he ran this year after the first ten yards."

"If a boy has a good start and a good finish, then there's not much room for improvement. He can improve his speed very little — if any. But when a boy is running with the handicap of a pitiful start, he should be able to improve his time greatly with just a little work. And that's what has happened to R. L."

Lasater had been consistently clocked in the century this year at a 9.7 figure and Coach Curtis Kelley always insisted that if the boy could get a decent start, he would improve his time considerably.

"This 9.3 time he had in Garland," says Kelley, "ties the world record for the event, but it won't be allowed to stand because the wind was blowing 12 m.p.h. I fell all along with the superlative finish he has, he should be running better than a 9.7."

"We knew from the first that his slow starts were what was keeping him away from his potential, but for about three weeks there, we couldn't even work him in the blocks because of that bad leg he had."

Lasater had been the sixth ranked high school sprinter in the nation since his performances as a Big Spring sophomore in 1959. He had a pulled muscle last spring and still took second in the 100 at the state meet.

As a junior this year, Lasater competed in the 100 yard dash finals 10 times. He won eight of the races and was second twice. He ran the 220 eight times and won all but one race. He finished third in the 220 at the Border Olympics.

Los Angeles (AP)—"I'll let my attorney do the talking from here on," said a bitter Carl Furillo, one of the last of the Dodger old guard.

After 14 full seasons, the Dodgers and the veteran outfielder parted company on a sour note Tuesday.

Furillo, claiming he has been betrayed, said he plans an appeal today to Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick.

"I was hurt with the club (running to first May 2 against Cincinnati) and should have been put on the disabled list," said 38-year-old Furillo, sidelined most of this season with a gimpy right leg.

"I tried to get him on the disabled list but the commissioner wouldn't go for it," said Buzzie Bavasi, vice president and general manager of the Los Angeles baseball club.

Furillo's attorney, Arnold Cowan, said cutting Furillo was "just an economy move, a method of saving money."

Furillo, who started in baseball 20 years ago as an $80-a-month outfielder for Pocomoke City in the Eastern Shore League, was bumped off the Dodgers by big Frank Howard, a $108,000 bonus baby from Ohio State.

We Proved It On The Alcan Highway!

Mohawk proudly present

Strato Chief

the ROAD HAZARD Guaranteed

The Alcan Highway, 1,527 miles of the roughest, toughest highway in North America — test track for Mohawk's new Strato Chief tire.

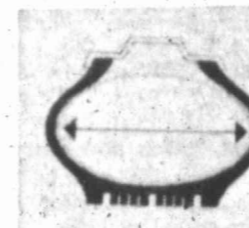

If you are looking for the maximum in tire safety... if you want tire strength that shrugs off road shocks that would smash metal... if you want high speed performance... split second getaways... full control especially in "panic" stops... if you want a cradle-soft ride that literally floats your car over bumps and road imperfections... in short, if you want miles and miles of trouble-free driving... the new Strato Chief is for you. Here is a tire, from drawing board to final production, that has but a single goal... to be the finest, safest, best-all-around performing tire on the American road today. We present it to you with pride!

New In. Design! New In Materials! New In Performance!

NEW LOW-PROFILE DESIGN

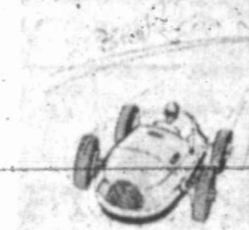

The next logical step in the evolution of low pressure tires. Wider and lower, it literally surrounds each wheel with a "pillow of air." You float over bumps and road imperfections in a ride that is remarkably smooth, softer, more enjoyable than ever before.

NEW DISCOVERIES IN TREAD RUBBER

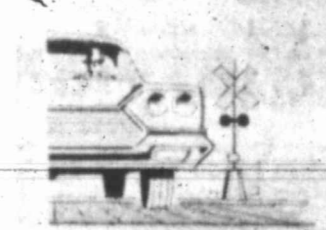

The latest developments in tread rubbers plus new compounds that result in a softer tread that wears longer. To this we have added a thicker tread shoulder that keeps the tread flatter, eliminates the rounding so common with today's tires.

NEW RACING TYPE TIRE CONSTRUCTION

The cords in the tire body are placed at a new lower angle resulting in more stable side wall control. This improves high speed performance by reducing the traction wave. You have that wonderful feeling of complete car control, at all times!

SAFETY—TO PROTECT YOU AND YOUR LOVED ONES

The cord body of the Strato Chief is made from the finest quality, strongest nylon cord obtainable, processed on the industry's newest electronic equipment. This combination of materials, manufacturing methods and tire design gives you unparalleled protection under all driving conditions.

NEW AMAZING TRACTION TO START AND STOP

An entirely new exclusive tread design puts, by actual count, 1924 gripping edges per tire always in contact with the road. Never has a tire had such get-up-and-go, such smooth, instantaneous straight-line stopping ability. No other tire begins to compare!

UNCONDITIONALLY GUARANTEED—TWICE!

The Strato Chief is guaranteed twice for the life of the tire. First, against defects in material and workmanship. Second, against all normal road hazards. There is no limit as to time or mileage. And you get this guarantee in writing.

If you think twice about your car... will settle for nothing but the best in safety and performance... come in and see the Strato Chief today!

Morse Isn't Scared; He Sees Victory In Oregon Primary

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts still talked scared—but ran confidently—in Oregon today after racking up an impressive victory in the Maryland Democratic presidential primary.

The victory impressed just about everybody but the victim, Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon. He kept right on insisting that the winner-loser roles will be reversed when he and Kennedy collide again in the Oregon primary Friday.

Morse could be right. He has proved himself to be a tough man on his home grounds.

Kennedy told a reporter he will be satisfied if he comes out ahead of Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri and Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, who are on the Oregon ballot but not campaigning. He lists them, but not Morse, as serious contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota still is on the ballot, too, but no longer as a contender since the Kennedy bandwagon crushed him in West Virginia.

"It seems unlikely I will beat Morse," Kennedy told a reporter. "That would be a difficult thing to do."

To a question whether the Maryland outcome may trim the Morse margin he predicts in Oregon, Kennedy replied: "Well, that's very possible."

The Massachusetts senator is riding down to the end of the campaign trail in relaxed fashion for the last major primary election of 1960. Even so, he is working harder than Morse—making far more speeches, grabbing far more hands, and drawing bigger and more excited crowds than his rival. Tuesday it was seven speeches for Kennedy, two for Morse. Kennedy, of course, is trying to make himself known in Oregon. The state's senior senator already is well-known.

As Morse puts it: "I'm not a shopping center campaigner or one who walks up and down the street—I happen to think you should discuss the issues. You can't do it as well out on a baby-kissing contest."

Both senators concentrated their operations today on the Portland area, with upwards of a third of the state's population. The prize Friday is the 17 votes Oregon will carry into the Democratic National Convention.

Kennedy Wins A Smashing Victory In Maryland Election

BALTIMORE (AP) — A record-breaking wave of votes in the Maryland primary propelled Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts closer to the Democratic presidential nomination today.

Reeling off his sixth straight primary victory, the Massachusetts senator outdrew the combined opposition almost 3-1.

With Maryland's 24, he now has an unofficial total of 294 votes toward the 761 needed for nomination at the Democratic National Convention.

Recounts from 1,353 of 1,356 polling places showed these totals: Kennedy 200,252; Morse 49,225.

The next biggest batch, 25,071, favored sending Maryland's delegation uncommitted to the July 11 convention.

The rest of the ballots were cast for two perennial also-rans who sometimes campaign in Uncle Sam suits—Lar Daly of Chicago with 7,407, and Andrew J. Easter of Baltimore with 3,853.

Kennedy's vote was about 73 per cent of the total cast, which in turn came to about only 33 per cent of the 866,878 eligible Democrats.

But it exceeded by 66,000 the previous high of 134,000 received in the 1952 Maryland presidential primary by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.). Kefauver ran only against the uncommitted-delegation choice that year, when 745,000 Democrats were registered.

"In six primaries we have broken the Democratic record," said Kennedy by telephone from his Oregon campaign site. He had won previously in New Hampshire, Wisconsin, Indiana, Nebraska and—in the big surprise—over Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) last week—West Virginia.

Publicly ignoring any psychological lift his supporters hope the big vote will give him toward an upset victory in Oregon, Kennedy emphasized another hope: that the Maryland results might further sway big-state delegation leaders who have been leaning his way since the West Virginia triumph.

"This strong endorsement in Maryland will have great significance to the delegates at the Los Angeles convention, especially when considered in connection with the five other primary victories," he said.

Morse said, in a statement issued through his Washington office, he knew he had no chance of winning in Maryland but ran only to promote "the constitutional liberal policies" he embraces. He had said earlier he would back Adlai Stevenson if his own bid for the nomination failed.

The Oregon senator said his campaign helped sow "the seeds of liberalism" in Maryland and these would flourish "as more and more Democrats in Maryland come to recognize that the reactionary policies of the Democratic party organization in Maryland will never be truly representative of the best political interests of the state."

His campaign manager, Herbert L. Fedder, was almost jubilant.

"This was more than I expected," he said. "We spent less than $3,000, had not one political leader with us, and had not one worker in any precinct in the state."

Every major party leader had backed Kennedy even though Gov. J. Millard Tawes' endorsement was limited to the Maryland race.

Maryland law requires the Maryland delegation to stay with Kennedy as long as it believes he has a chance to win the nomination.

There were no entries in the Republican presidential primary, leaving the Democratic race and various congressional contests as the major vote-pullers. The seven incumbents in the House of Representatives, all Democrats, were renominated.

ARE YOU GETTING THE MOST OUT OF YOUR TELEPHONE?

Mrs. Dorothy Barnes, teacher and homemaker, tells how her phones save precious time, brighten each day

Mrs. Barnes leads two busy lives. She combines a teaching career with keeping house for her husband and 8-year-old son, Barry. Yet she manages to find ample time for both career and family with the aid of the telephone.

"We've never been without a phone," she says. "I can't imagine getting along without it, but I never realized just how much time I saved until I kept a record of my telephone calls. For instance, the telephone is a real timesaver at mealtimes; while I'm preparing dinner I can reach Barry anywhere in the neighborhood without leaving my kitchen."

The Barnes family believes in getting the most from the telephone. For example, here are a few typical calls:

"Called the department store to order garden hose."

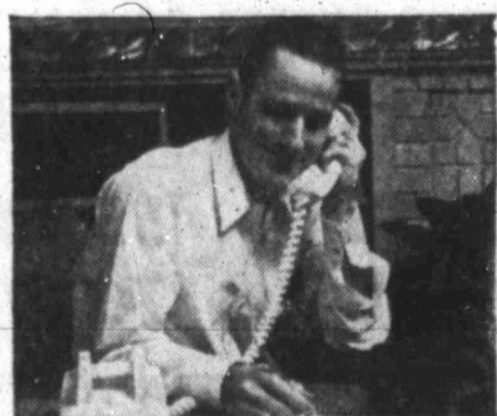

"Talked with a friend. Just a social chitchat about our last sorority meeting."

"Several calls to friends, inviting their children to a birthday party for Barry."

"Barry's grandmother called to wish him a happy birthday."

"My husband called Topeka to make arrangements for a weekend fishing trip with a friend."

"Phoned a friend to ask whether she and her husband would like to go to a concert with us."

Lamesa Council Approves Master Planning Study

LAMESA — City councilmen agreed to make the present library site available for a new building, and approval study of a master plan and zoning after hearing reports from two Chamber of Commerce committees here this week.

The council also discussed capital improvements, approved an additional $5,000 for seal coating of streets and okayed one paving project in their second regular meeting of this month.

Will Morris, chairman of the CC library committee, appeared before the group to ask if the present site of the Dawson County Library would be available if a new one were authorized. He explained that plans for a new building are in progress and the commissioners agreed that no particular use for the site was being planned by the city and indicated it would be available.

C. W. Tarter, another C-C committee head, presented a report on a master plan and zoning program the chamber had extensively studied for some time. The major purpose, he outlined, was to distinguish between residential and industrial areas.

The council will study the plan further and check into the cost of putting it into operation.

The group also authorized an additional $5,000 expenditure making a total of $15,000 for seal coating streets during the current fiscal year.

City Manager Carroll Taylor was authorized to issue warrants totaling $50,000 to purchase a new street sweeper and to pay for the seal coats.

A portion of a street fronting the V. Z. Rogers School was ordered paved. The county will pay for the cost of paving and the city will augment the project by paying for curb and gutter work and for engineering fees.

A board of equalization was appointed but names of the members will not be released until they are formally notified.

Planner Speaks To Special Chamber Meet

"Don't rush into a housing code,"

That was the advice of Marvin Springer, city planner, speaking with two committees of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday. He was in the city to present his plans for the Master Plan to the Master Plan steering committee.

The Industrial Committee and the Housing Committee requested the special meeting and quizzed Springer on their various projects.

To the industrial committee, Springer suggested they consider attracting industries of a service nature. This would include those industries which would serve the increased population of the area.

To the housing committee members, he agreed that some concrete plans are needed to rehabilitate the North Side and he said he was pleased that people are interested. He added that to rush into a new Housing Code could be fatal to the idea of better housing.

A. K. Steinheimer, city manager, told the group that the city is currently working on a building code and he invited them to meet with administration officials in about 90 days to discuss a proposed code.

Church 'Guidance' Right Reaffirmed

VATICAN CITY (AP)—L'Observatore Romano has reaffirmed the Roman Catholic Church's right to give guidance in social and political activities.

The Vatican newspaper's editorial, entitled "Firm Points," was directed primarily at Italian Roman Catholics.

But Vatican sources said the editorial admonitions and directions are valid for Roman Catholics everywhere, including the United States, where Catholic Sen. John F. Kennedy is making a bid for the Democratic party nomination for president.

L'Observatore Romano's editorial was prompted by the urging of leftist Christian Democrats that the almost entirely Catholic party seek support from the fellow-traveling Socialists.

L'Observatore said the world today faces a period of "unknown and grave fears for the future, a preoccupying symptom, and great confusion of ideas."

The paper said this confusion of ideas was "especially true in some nations, even among Catholics, with regard to relations between Catholic doctrine and social and political activity, and between the ecclesiastical hierarchy and the Catholic laymen in the civil field."

The paper asserted that "the political-social problem cannot be separated from religion because it is a highly human problem. As a consequence the church cannot remain aloof especially when politics touch the altar."

L'Observatore said that it was the right of Church authority to instruct regarding political conduct "with those who do not admit religious principles."

"The irreducible antithesis between the Marxist system and Christian Doctrine is self-evident, as is that of materialism and spirituality, atheism and religious faith," said L'Observatore.

Some opponents of Kennedy have contended that if elected president as a Catholic he would be subject to Church influence on his political decisions.

The senator was informed in Portland, Ore., Tuesday night of the Vatican newspaper's editorial. His press secretary, Pierre Salinger, said in a statement that Kennedy had repeatedly stated his support of the article of the U.S. Constitution providing for separation of church and state.

"He has said that this support is not subject to change under any conditions," the statement said.

In a speech which was also conciliatory in tone, he said the liberals who bolted some county conventions last Saturday on the loyalty issue should read their party's platform again.

Its first point, said Daniel, asserted party loyalty on all levels from state through national in a pledge of support of all nominees of the party. This was adopted at the last state convention and it stands, Daniel said.

He was replying to the liberals who held rump sessions at El Paso, Dallas, Austin and Houston and made plans to contest for seats at the June 14 state convention here.

Daniel and national committee member Byron Skelton of Temple joined in saying they hoped and believed the convention could be harmonious. They said they hoped Texas Democrats would unite to show the nation their full support of Sen. Lyndon Johnson for the presidential nomination.

Daniel and other party leaders were also in an optimistic mood about party harmony.

"There were fewer rump conventions and they were the smallest rumps with the least foundation that we have had in the history of conflicts within our party," Daniel quipped, referring to Saturday's county conventions.

"Why shouldn't Texas Democrats work together when we have a candidate who has a good chance to be the Democratic nominee and be elected president?" The liberal faction of the party has been demanding that the present state leadership pledge full allegiance to the national party. They say the Democratic bolts to the GOP in 1952 and 1956 demand it.

The Great Books group will continue its pattern of meeting on the first and third Tuesday evenings of each month during the summer.

Participants reached this decision at their regular meeting Tuesday evening when the regular schedule for the year was concluded. Carl Benson will be discussion leader for the June 7 meeting when the topic will be the American economic system.

Champions Give Up Dancing Career For Good—Maybe?

By BOB THOMAS
AF Movie - TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—When the curtain rose on "Rye Bye Birdie" on Broadway recently, another fell on the dancing career of Marge and Gower Champion.

The rousing, youthful musical is one of the big winners of the New York season. The man who staged the show, including the dances, was Gower Champion. The theater's gain is the loss of those who have enjoyed the winsome, seemingly effortless dances of the Champion team.

"I'm not saying we'll never dance again ever," said Marge. "We need only heed the experience of friends and fellow craftsmen—like Fred Astaire—before saying 'ever'."

"But if it is 99 per cent sure that Gower and I will never dance professionally again."

"This is something we have been planning for a long time. The major hurdle was to get Gower established as a stage director. Now he has that. The fact that he can also choreograph is the extra something."

"You see, we never really wanted to be a dance team. The reasons we did become one were: 1. So we could audition for Broadway shows—we're both had auditions and thought it would be better if we could be seen by producers in the Persian Room instead of a rehearsal hall; and 2. For the money involved."

What is Marge going to do, now that she has kicked off the dancing shoes?

"I have a full-time career—as wife of Gower Champion and mother of Gregg Champion," she said. "I'm pretty good at it, too. When Gower was working on the show in the East, we had no help. So I took care of Gregg and cooked for Gower. We had just a small apartment in New York. I'm thinking of writing a book: 'How to cook gourmet meals with an icebox, two-burner gas-plate stove and blender.'"

Water Follies Of 1960 Opens 6-Day Odessa Run

The Water Follies for 1960 will bring aquatic champions to Odessa when it appears at the Ector County Coliseum, during a 6-day run, May 18-23.

Featured performers include Stanley Mitchell, acrobatic diver; Roger Nadeau, former New England diving champion; Clive Dyson, former Australian diving champion; Emile Hotte, former Canadian diving champion; Charlie Diehl, world's heavyweight diving champion; Eddie Rose, diving comedian, and Mary Dwight, synchronized swimming champion.

In addition to the aquatic portion, stage numbers compose a vital portion of the Follies. Outstanding stars of the stage portion include the Two Domenechs, South American hand-balancing act; Lisa Carroll, singing star of the show, veteran of many light operettas; Ray Edwards, impressionist, called "the man of a hundred voices"; and the stage comedy team of Rose and Edwards.

The two-hour water-stage musical cal revue is produced with the assistance of the world's largest portable pools and stage. The portable equipment is a 3-unit arrangement, a swimming pool 75 feet long and 35 feet wide, with a depth of 5 feet; a portable stage 35 feet x 25 feet with facilities to either increase or decrease the size; and an enormous diving tank with an overall measurement of 50 x 40 feet - 7 feet deep. The two pools hold approximately 50,000 gallons of water. Eight to ten hours is allowed for assembling the equipment.

The show has recently completed a world's tour including a six-month appearance at the World's Fair in Brussels, Belgium. After concluding its present American tour the show will make a circuit of the Far East, with extensive engagements in Japan, Hong Kong, the Philippine Islands, Australia and New Zealand.

Tickets are now on sale at the Odessa Chamber of Commerce, 211 West 3rd, Odessa. Proceeds from the show will further Boys' Club work in Odessa.

TV's Weakness In News Revealed

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AF Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Television, more often than not, finds itself in a bind when important news breaks or when events take unexpected turns.

It isn't TV's fault, but the medium showed itself to be a chained giant of communications as the crisis loomed in Paris this week. It served, in fact, as a mere auxiliary of both newspapers and radio.

TV's problem is that it must use motion pictures. That means it has to be on the spot with a camera when news breaks. Then it has to find a fast means of getting those motion pictures to a point where they can be broadcast.

The Paris crisis found TV covering most of the vital news just as radio did—by voice.

NBC on short notice Monday night threw out an hour-long adventure show and substituted about the floundering summit session. The network really didn't have pictures for a long TV show. Correspondents were forced to rehash and reiterate—events spread all over newspapers, radio—and events already related crisply and adequately on its own regularly scheduled news show.

At the outset, anchorman Frank McGee confessed the problem: "Things that happened cannot be shown on film," he said. "So we have chosen the spoken word."

But the spoken word accompanied by still pictures of the speaker or newsreel type shots of men riding in limousines or shaking hands—is not the ideal stuff of which TV programs are made.

CBS, which took over "The Texan's" time for the same purpose, didn't fare much better, but it only had 30 minutes to fill. Apparently, however, its sales department is more flexible than its news department. It managed to sell the special program within an hour to a sponsor.

It may be a confession of age, but I'm bored with "My Sister Eileen." I read the book, saw the play, the movie, the musical version on stage and TV. Thus my enthusiasm for NBC's "You Should Meet My Sister" Monday night was somewhat restrained. The 30-minute comedy, with Elaine Stritch in Rosalind Russell's old part as Ruth and Anne Helm as Eileen, was an oft-told tale.

It was shot as a pilot film for a TV series now pencilled into the fall schedules. The girls' adventures have been updated to modern times but that's an old model under the new chassis. Elaine Stritch does a sort of exaggerated imitation of Rosalind Russell being breezy and everybody else plays it too broadly. Maybe it's time to retire the idea.

Recommended tonight: Playhouse 90, CBS, 8:30-9:30—"In the Presence of Mine Enemies," a drama about the Warsaw ghetto during the Nazi occupation, with Charles Laughton.

Josephine is awaiting another arrival. The egg is expected to hatch in two days.

ELECTRICITY

The comfortable way to cook ... because it's COOL

Every time you cook during hot weather, you'll appreciate the comfort of cool electric cooking. Electric surface cooking units transfer heat to utensil bottoms by direct metal-to-metal contact, with no intervening air space. They heat the utensils and the food, not the kitchen. The electric oven is insulated on all four sides and top and bottom to keep heat inside where it belongs. Result: your kitchen stays almost as cool as any other room in your home.
