These three ex-students obviously are not Aggies. From left, R. E. McKinney (SMU), M. R. Koger (Texas Tech) and R. H. Weaver (Texas) spotted this sign in the First National Bank Monday and gleefully took it into protective custody. Since then, they have contacted members of the A&M Club, charitably pointing out the correct spelling of "scholarship." The Aggies, with faces to match the maroon of Aggie land, plan to have more signs printed, of course, but meanwhile they can expect a lot of ribbing. Weaver pointed out, "We just want to help them with publicity."

Herter Says President Should Visit Japanese

Reports To Senate Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said today President Eisenhower should go ahead with his plans to visit Japan June 19.

Herter told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that despite demonstrations in Japan against the visit "under existing circumstances, the President's plans ought to remain unchanged." Herter expressed this view in response to a question from Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa). The secretary told the senators that he would prefer to make any further comment in a closed session.

Herter was before the committee to urge Senate ratification of the new U.S.-Japanese treaty which he said will strengthen the "fabric of international peace and security." There have been leftist demonstrations in Japan against both Eisenhower's visit and the treaty, scheduled to take effect at the same time the President arrives.

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) said the open hearing on the treaty would be followed by a closed session on questions that were not proper for public discussion.

Herter told the committee at the open hearing that the old security treaty, signed immediately after the state of war with Japan was ended, gave the United States the right to station troops in Japan for maintenance of peace and security in the Far East. But there was no obligation on the United States to assist in Japan's defense, he said.

Under the new treaty the United States is pledged to go to Japan's defense, he said. Under the new treaty the United States is pledged to go to Japan's defense if Japan is attacked.

Not all members of the senate group have joined in Fulbright's doubts as to the wisdom of Eisenhower's visiting Japan at this time.

Sen. George A. Aiken (R-Vt) took a different view. He said, in a separate interview, that only a minor percentage of the Japanese people are opposed to the treaty and a lesser percentage to the President's visit.

"I think the decision probably should be left to the Japanese government," Aiken said. "If the President doesn't go it will provide new propaganda fuel for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev."

Radicals Pose New Threat To Proposed Visit

TOKYO (AP)—Radical students today threatened a sit-down strike on the runways of Tokyo's International Airport June 19 in an effort to block the arrival of President Eisenhower for a four-day state visit.

A spokesman for a pro-Communist faction of the Zengakuren student federation said the runway sit-down might be employed "depending on the circumstances."

Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi discussed the students' threat at a meeting with the national public safety and army directors and the labor minister. A spokesman said "strong action" would be taken if necessary, including barring all traffic from the airport before the President's arrival.

Kishi and Foreign Minister Aichihiro Fujiyama again adamantly rejected demands from the Socialist and Communist parties, the leftist students and leftist labor unions that Eisenhower's visit be cancelled or postponed as an expression of Japanese opposition to the new U.S.-Japan military security treaty.

"I have no intention of changing the schedule of the President's visit," Kishi reportedly told a Cabinet meeting.

Fujiyama told a news conference any Japanese proposal to suspend Eisenhower's trip "would be a stain on our national honor." He said it "would damage Japanese prestige all over the world."

Kishi also ordered the government and police forces to take steps to stop leftist demonstrations before the U.S. Embassy. He appealed to newspaper publishers to support the government in its efforts to insure a friendly welcome for the President.

The students' federation said even if it did not stage the airport sit-down, it would bring out 50,000 members on June 19 to demonstrate at the airport and at the U.S. Embassy against Eisenhower's arrival.

The leftist labor federation Sohyo is planning to turn out more thousands wearing black mourning armbands and carrying black flags.

Minor Errors In Final Canvass

Canvass of election returns on Tuesday morning revealed an error of 10 votes in the tabulation of the close race between Frank Hardy, county Executive Democratic Committee chairman, and...

The ten vote error was in box No. 4. W. T. McDonald, candidate for judge of the Criminal Court of Appeals was credited with 180 votes. Recheck of the polls showed he received 170.

Hardy said no errors were revealed in the close race between Tom Birkhead and Grover Coates for constable in Coahoma township. Birkhead won this race by a margin of five votes.

The committee certified the returns and filed them with the county clerk.

EATON REFUSES DEBATE

Zorin Opens Disarmament Talks Blasting Americans

GENEVA (AP)—Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin opened a new round of East-West disarmament talks today with a blast against "aggressive circles" in the United States. He alleged these Americans sabotaged the Paris summit meeting and sought to prevent peaceful coexistence.

"Aggressive forces continue to conduct their subversive actions against peace and the security of peoples and make even more urgent and imperative the solution of the disarmament problem," Zorin said.

A Western official said Zorin echoed earlier charges by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev without Khrushchev's vehemence. U. S. Ambassador Frederick M. Eaton refused to be drawn into debate on the summit breakdown.

"Our task here is to get on with the discussion of measures for disarmament, and I suggest we do this," he told Zorin.

Despite Zorin's remarks, British Minister of State David Ogilvy-Gore told newsmen the 10-nation conference resumed in a restrained and moderate atmosphere after its six-week recess.

Zorin presented a comment on the revised Soviet disarmament plan, announced by Khrushchev June 3.

Eaton said the U. S. government is subjecting the new Khrushchev plan to a serious and thorough analysis.

Western officials see little hope of agreement if the Soviets insist rigidly on the main provisions of the new plan as they did on Khrushchev's first proposal.

The Soviets emphasized in their new version that they were adopting proposals advanced by other powers—notable France—that a beginning should be made in wiping out the means of delivering nuclear weapons.

U. S. officials expressed encouragement over apparent recognition by the Soviets of the need after disarmament for an international peace force, which the West insists is necessary. The Soviets hedged, however, by providing for control of such a force by the Security Council, where the big power veto operates.

The Western plan, cold-shouldered by the Soviets before the talks adjourned in April, called for carefully controlled disarmament in three gradual stages. A start toward nuclear disarmament would not be made until the second stage, after East-West parity in conventional arms was established and thorough supervision and safeguards against surprise attack were in operation.

But these officials felt realistically that there was little else Poland could do without risking a Soviet crackdown which would wipe out Warsaw's cautious moves toward more independence from Moscow.

Two additional moves are reported in the works as evidence that both sides want to better Polish-American ties.

1. The Warsaw government will announce in a few weeks that it has agreed to set aside 40 million dollars to meet claims of Americans for property seized by the Communist regime after the end of World War II.

2. A "most favored nation" status is to be given Polish exports to the United States.

The State Department is going ahead with negotiations for shipments of more American wheat, cotton, fats and oils with every sign the deal will be successfully concluded in a few weeks.

Polish diplomats confidentially expect about 100 million dollars worth of such surplus commodities to help weather a continuing farm crisis aggravated by a prolonged drought.

To encourage Poland to rely less on Moscow, the United States has provided 26 million dollars worth of food, and economic help to the Warsaw regime over the last four years.

State Department officials declined to estimate how much aid might be involved in the newest agreement. Talks have been going on for five weeks. Barring an unforeseen blowup, these officials said they should wind up successfully.

Polish and American officials both appear determined not to allow Soviet-American tensions, heated up by the spy plane furor, to spoil the steady improvement in political and economic relations between Warsaw and Washington.

Top American officials were not pleased that Poland's delegate on the United Nations Security Council sided with the Soviet Union in seeking to condemn the ill-fated American spy flight as aggression.

The clouds brought gusty wind, some dust and scattered showers, some of which were reported to have provided as much as half an inch of moisture.

Bill McIlvain, on the Wilkerson ranch 10 miles west, said he estimated the shower at .25 inch. Apparently the rain was heavier in the southeast portion of Big Spring than in other parts of town. U. S. Experiment Station, on the north, had only .07; Big Spring Switch plant of the Texas Electric Service Co., had .05; Chalk had .03.

There were other scattered reports of showers ranging from .20 downward.

Coahoma had 15 inch. Snyder reported .30 and Sweetwater .32.

Another Aid Packet Promised To Poland

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is about to hand Poland another big economic aid package even though the Poles backed the Soviet Union in denouncing the U2 spy plane incident.

The State Department is going ahead with negotiations for shipments of more American wheat, cotton, fats and oils with every sign the deal will be successfully concluded in a few weeks.

Eisenhower Ends Three Day West Point Visit

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower returned today from a three-day reunion with his 1915 classmates at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., probably his last visit to the Point as president.

His plane, the Columbine III, touched down after a fast one-hour flight from Stewart Air Force Base, N.Y.

The President spent the major part of his time since Saturday renewing friendships and talking over old times and campaigns.

Eisenhower originally intended to return to Washington Monday night, but put off the trip until today rather than cut short a class reception and dinner.

He has no more trips to West Point scheduled before he retires as president seven months from now. He and the other 102 survivors of the 161 graduates of '15 are planning another reunion in 1965.

This year's farewells were sounded at a get-together in the academy's epic and span Hotel Thayer, high on a bluff overlooking the Hudson River.

Eisenhower joined his classmates and their ladies for a reception on the hotel's garden terrace. Then the group moved into the adjacent grill room for a roast beef dinner.

The President and fellow members of the "class of stars"—so-called because of their number who became star-wearing generals—wore formal white jackets and black trousers.

Eisenhower looked ruddy and fit. A woman who never had seen him in person before exclaimed: "He looks fine—much younger than on the television screen."

There were other scattered reports of showers ranging from .20 downward.

Coahoma had 15 inch. Snyder reported .30 and Sweetwater .32.

Twister Cloud Rumor Checked

Report of a funnel cloud to the southwest of Big Spring at 10 p.m. last night sent highway patrol cars and other official vehicles on what turned out to be a wild goose chase.

The tornado rumor was received around 10:30 p.m. It was ushered in by ominous clouds which had been building up in the western and southwestern skies all evening.

W. D. Berry, civil defense director, said that the report of the potential twister came from Webb Air Force Base. He said he dispatched investigators into the area but no sight of the twister was reported.

The clouds brought gusty wind, some dust and scattered showers, some of which were reported to have provided as much as half an inch of moisture.

Bill McIlvain, on the Wilkerson ranch 10 miles west, said he estimated the shower at .25 inch. Apparently the rain was heavier in the southeast portion of Big Spring than in other parts of town. U. Court Slices Oil Values $750,000

Howard County Commissioners, sitting as a board of equalization, Tuesday morning agreed to an adjustment of $750,000 in oil property valuations in Howard County.

The agreement was on recommendation of Pritchard & Abbott, tax engineering firm employed by the county to determine valuations on oil property for tax purposes.

The adjustment takes into consideration the reduced production brought about by current eight-day prorations; the general decline in production of Howard County oil fields and the decrease in stock on hand.

Earl Bruce, district manager for Pritchard & Abbott, said that the bulk of the decrease is accounted for in the natural decline in oil property. He pointed out that many fields in this county are old and that they are steadily losing in productive value.

Based on 10 days. The adjustment in prorations production, he explained, is figured on 10-day per month production whereas last year the figure was on 12 days. He estimates that the prorated wells will be in production and average of 10 days per month for the year. This adjustment is equivalent to 6 per cent but in dollars amounts to only $150,000. Another $100,000 of the $750,000 comes from decrease in personal property of the oil companies. This leaves the bulk of the tax adjustment credited to what he termed natural decline of the Howard County fields.

Oil property on the tax rolls last year had a value of $35,463,635.

Tax cut. Lee Porter, county auditor, estimated the adjustment will mean a reduction in county income of about $7,500.

Here for the conference on tax valuations were representatives of about 30 oil companies. Pritchard and Abbott are represented by Bruce, Malcolm Jarrell and G. C. Attaway, mineral properties specialists, and Lee York, personal property.

The commissioners court, in its capacity as an equalization board, conferred with these men and then informed the gathering of oil company tax representatives the decision to allow the adjustment of $750,000.

Conferences by the individual oil men with the engineers were under way at noon. Bruce estimates these will continue possibly through tomorrow.

He explained that in each individual case, specific adjustments and changes will have to be made. Oil companies represented at the meeting:

Lone Star Production Co., Frank Wiese; T&P Coal and Oil, Frank Caskey; Texaco Seaboard, Jess Wade; Sunray, Bill Howell; Continental, Jim McAlester; Pan-American, Guy Proctor; R. B. Lynch; Cleve Cullen Co., James Bailey; Hunt Oil Co., Leon Staggs; Pasotex, Jack Fightman;

Champion Cowboy To Enter Rodeo

Jim Shoulders, world champion cowboy who has won more titles than any other rider, will probably be one of the contestants in the annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo. It is slated for Thursday through Saturday of this week.

Shoulders is expected to enter the bareback riding and bull riding events. He has dominated these contests in the past with winnings up to $350,000. No other performer has matched his ability and durability.

All the stock for the rodeo has arrived here, E. P. Driver said this morning. He added the rodeo headquarters have been set up in the Settles Hotel.

Tickets for the annual event are on sale at Coker's Restaurant, the Chamber of Commerce, Creighton Tire Co. and Driver's Insurance Agency. Box seats are on sale at the Chamber offices.

A downtown parade featuring visiting sheriffs' posses and riding clubs, and local floats, will usher in the rodeo Thursday at 4 p.m.

Eight sheriffs' posses and riding clubs from Martin, Terry, Scurry, Ector, Mitchell, Dawson, Tom Green, and Scurry counties will ride in the parade and the Big Spring Mounted Patrol, local riding club, will act as hosts.

Trophies will be awarded the three top winners in the riding division, with judging to be under the rules and regulations of the American Association of Sheriffs' Posses and Riding Clubs.

In addition to the parade, a Rodeo Queen will be selected from a group of visiting candidates from neighboring towns. Colorado City, Sterling City, Sanderson, Snyder, McCatney, Gail, Midland, Odessa, and Stanton will send candidates to compete in this activity.

Elaborate entertainment has been planned for the queen candidates. The hostesses to the group are the girl members of the Big Spring Mounted Patrol.

Cowboys from all over the country will be competing for the $2,400 purse, with entry fees added, in saddle bronc riding, bareback bronc riding, bull riding, bulldogging, and calf roping. Another attraction will be a girls barrel race.

Among special attractions will be Jay Sissler and his Greyhound Dog Act, and the Clark Brothers, clowns.

Rodeo stock is furnished by Eltra and Jiggs Beutler of Elk City, Okla., and Buster Morgan, well known rodeo producer will be in charge of this year's production, with Clem McSpadden at the microphone.

Truman Is Sympathetic; Refused To Use Spy Planes

CHICAGO (AP)—A robust Harry S. Truman, harking back to his seven years in the White House, says he and Secretary of State Dean Acheson turned down a suggestion that the United States send spy planes over Soviet Territory.

"I didn't think it was right," he told newsmen Monday. "Espionage is a dirty business. I didn't want to be a part of it."

He said he and Acheson rejected the State Department idea in 1949 or 1950. Asked whether he made use of espionage information while president, Truman said, "I suppose so. Reports came to my desk about things that were going on."

But he refused to express an opinion on President Eisenhower's role in the U2 spy plane incident, and offered his sympathy to the White House in the face of recent Soviet tirades.

In Washington, Acheson said he had opposed use of spy planes over Soviet Russia and "advised that these flights should not be undertaken."

"I believed such flights would be contrary to the foreign policy of the United States," Acheson said.

Truman—76, ruddy and spry—sobriety condemned the denunciations of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and chided unnamed Americans as he warned a large audience the world is "in serious trouble."

He told a gathering of book-sellers and publishers: "The brutal and boorish tirade by Khrushchev directed at the person of the President of the United States has the sinister purpose of undermining the prestige of the office of the president in the eyes of the world."

He called the Khrushchev blasts "an offense to the white free world."

He added, "My instinctive reaction would incline me to be sympathetic to the occupant of the White House when he is involved in a conflict with a foreign power and under personal attack by that power."

Truman suggested that "certain people would be wise to avoid criticizing our country in a manner and language that would fortify Khrushchev in the belief that there is approval here for his devilish campaign to divide us."

He would not name the "certain people."

He hinted the American people "will pass judgment in due time—about the second Tuesday in November," in an allusion to the U2 incident and the failure of the summit conference.

He warned that "in the field of foreign policy there is no room for irresponsible talk—especially at a time when the nation is being subjected to new provocations and attacks from the Kremlin."

His only comment on Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), whom he has endorsed for the presidential nomination, was that "I'm going to try to get him nominated."

He didn't forget to plug his new book, "Mr. Citizen," in his appearance before 1,500 booksellers and publishers. The book will appear June 10.

Herald Writer Rides New Laramie Trail

By JESS BLAIR
LARAMIE, Wyo. — Once again, as has been the custom the last few summers, I am off on a month's trip. Three of these junkies were recorded in the Herald.

Last summer, however, I figured the readers should be spared another one, so the jaunt down Georgia way was not printed. Now maybe the readers, if I have any, will endure with me as I put down the things seen through a dirty windshield with one eye, while watching for speed cops with the other.

After leaving home I drove to Amarillo, cut across the road to Boys' Ranch and on through Boise City, Okla., then found Lamar, Colo., just at dusk. And there was where my work started.

Purpose of the trip, or so I tell my family, is to visit feedlots, feed mills, poultry farms and similar places, then write up these reports for some trade magazines. It means slow travel through the day, then after 3:00 p.m., I hop into the car and race 150 miles to some town where there is a cheap motel.

LONG ITINERARY
On this trip, if I don't run off a mountain road or get shot by an Indian, I will skirt through southern Wyoming to Salt Lake City, turn north to the Snake River and follow it into Oregon. Then begins a slow trek down through California, because there is where most work lies. I will probably come home on U. S. 80, or may detour by the Grand Canyon.

A visitor doesn't see anything much different in eastern Colorado. It's just as barren and desolate as parts of the Big Bend country in Texas. The big drought was the knock-out blow, and the area never recovered. Little farmers have surrendered to the big ones; towns have lost population, and the whole area is in need of industry.

Up the Arkansas Valley to Pueblo, I turned north and passed through Colorado Springs just as the sun slipped behind the Rockies. Weather was warm down there and the country looked dry. Pike's Peak was wearing a snow cap, and a few other high peaks had snow, but most of it is gone.

RIVERS LOW
Usually the rivers will be rushing bankfull at this time of year, but this time they are low with water. Even the Arkansas looked like a creek at Pueblo.

From Colorado Springs the country became greener and the high peaks northwest of Denver have a lot of snow.

Denver is a mess of cars and people, and gets bigger every time I go through. I don't know what the population is, about 450,000, I think, which is too much. I don't care for big cities, especially when they get between me and where I am going.

But this time it was no problem. They have a freeway now which leads traffic on through without a single red light or stop sign. I averaged 90 miles an hour all the way through town and never stopped until I was 15 miles northwest of the city.

BIG FEED LOT
From Denver on northwest through Longmont, Loveland and

Bond Is $3,000 For Bad Check
Johnny R. Price, 33, San Angelo, charged with writing a felony worthless check, is being held in the Howard County Jail. Bond was set in his case in the amount of $3,000.

Price is alleged to have given a Big Spring automobile dealer a worthless check for the price of a 1957 model car. He was apprehended in San Angelo. The car has been recovered, Miller Harris, sheriff, said.

Welfare Office Lists Expenses
Mary Cantrell, county welfare department officer, reported to the Howard County Commissioners Court Monday that she had spent $1,911.69 in charity activities during May.

She said that $1,047 of the total was for groceries for indigent families, $702 for hospitalization, nursing and rent and $142.69 for drugs. The total is about on a parity with the demands made on the department each month.

Mexican Census
MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico takes its eighth general census Wednesday, and newspapers are predicting the population will be around 34 million. The 1950 total was 25,791,017.

Fort Collins, one sees the most prosperous part of Colorado. This is an area of irrigated farms, green pastures and fat cattle. Visited several feedlots today, and learned that more are being planned.

The Coors Beer Co. is putting in a 20,000-head feedlot east of Longmont. I heard they would feed the cattle some of the company products. I imagine they meant the malt left-overs and not the beer itself.

Leaving Fort Collins, one drives up a narrow river valley, climbs between some widely spaced peaks and ends on a high plateau where Laramie is located.

This is one of the coldest towns in Wyoming. The elevation is about 7,200 feet and they get a frost by the first of September. Last one comes about June first, though a few years ago a snow fell in early July.

Tonight I struck up a talkfest with a rancher who lives 20 miles west of here. He is Elmer Short, who was reared down around Raton. Short has three sections of his own and leases a lot of range on a Taylor Grazing Lease.

RUGGED CATTLE
I asked him about those big Wyoming cattle, and he said he has some wet-cows right now that would weigh 1,400 pounds, which is really a big mama even for a bovine.

Investigators Probe FDA For Wrong-Doing

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special investigating unit will start a probe this week into alleged wrongdoing in the Food and Drug Administration, Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming said today.

He told reporters the starting point will be testimony in the Senate drug hearings alleging that some FDA officials have been too friendly with the drug manufacturers they are supposed to police.

Flemming said a lawyer, a doctor and a trained investigator will head the unit.

His statements followed the windup Monday of Senate Anti-trust and Monopoly subcommittee hearings on the financial affairs of Dr. Henry Welch.

Flemming ousted Welch on May 18 as director of the FDA anti-biotics division. Evidence was produced in the hearings that Welch received $287,142 since 1953 from medical journal publishing ventures which did business with firms policed by Welch's division.

Flemming testified that the investigative unit will look into allegations from "a very responsible source reflecting on the integrity of (FDA) employ actions."

Heiress Wants $1,500 Monthly

NEW YORK (AP) — Gamble Benedict Porumbeau — the 19-year-old typewriter heiress who ran away from home to marry a 35-year-old former chauffeur — wants $1,500 a month of her inheritance.

Gamble inherited $400,000 from her mother, Josephine Benedict Sharpe, but she cannot get the full amount until she is 21. Her petition for $1,500 a month will be argued June 14 in Surrogate's Court, it was learned Monday.

Gamble ran away to Paris with Porumbeau in December but was brought back to this country by a Benedict family lawyer. Courts ordered the pair to stay away from each other, but they fled again in April and were married in Hendersonville, N.C. They have been traveling since then.

Katherine Geddes Benedict, Gamble's millionaire maternal grandmother and guardian, opposed the marriage to the end.

Porumbeau's former wife, Helma Madin Porumbeau, is seeking $250 a week alimony pending a trial of a separation suit. She contends his Mexican divorce last February was invalid.

- Less oil consumption
- Less engine knocking
- Less mis-firing
- More miles per gallon of gasoline
- Cleaner oil filters

DEAR ABBY

CHANGE YOUR MIND

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My parents are starting in on me again this year about going to summer camp. I went last year (I am 12) and I hated it like poison. I didn't have one friend.

Do you think it is fair for parents to FORCE a child to go to summer camp even if she hates it?

They tell me it is very expensive and I should appreciate going, but I think they just want to get rid of me for six weeks. Oh, Abigail, what shall I do?

HATES CAMP

DEAR HATES CAMP: There is no better age than yours — and hardly a better place than camp for young people to learn how to get along with others. The experience of living away from home will encourage maturity and develop independence that will be invaluable in later years. Change your attitude. Honey, and go. You'll discover that you need only to offer your friendship and it will be accepted.

DEAR ABBY: Can a man LOVE his wife and BE IN LOVE with another woman at the same time? Please answer YES or NO.

IRENE

DEAR IRENE: Yes. And if you are interested in the details of this age old problem, read the article, "WHAT IS THIS THING CALLED LOVE", in the June issue of McCall's. I wrote it.

DEAR ABBY: There is nothing anyone (including you, Abby) can do about my problem because it's too late, but I'd like to give a word of warning to the girl who is so much in love with a man that she'd gladly "work her fingers to the bone" for him.

When I was married, I agreed to work for a year — until we got "established." That year has stretched into 13. My husband has come to depend on my income to pay the bills. He works steady, but no one seems to know where his money goes. (Excuse me, he pays the insurance.)

I don't believe in divorce, but I'm ready to walk out because I feel like a workhorse. No children. We can't afford them. (I make $300 a month and he makes $550.) I wish someone had told me years ago that when a man encourages his wife to work when they are first married, chances are he's selfish. She won't respect him very long, either. And when respect is gone—love soon flies out the window. STUCK

DEAR ABBY: We just bought a new home and I told a friend of mine that I was planning on having a house-warming party. She looked horrified and told me that it was not proper for a person to have a house-warming party herself. That was supposed to be done by her friends.

How can my friends possibly have a party in MY home without my help and permission? I didn't want to ask her this question for fear of appearing stupid. That's why I'm asking you.

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: New home-owners are frequently surprised by friends who drop in with refreshments and gifts for the home. This is called a "house-warming" party. If you want to give a party to "initiate" your new home, it is perfectly all right. But don't use the term "house-warming" or they'll think you are playing it cool to get gifts.

"What's your problem?" Write

Largest Balloon Soars Westward

BRUNSWICK, Ga. (AP) — A huge balloon, described as the world's largest, soared slowly westward across the lower United States today in an experiment designed to provide more information about cosmic rays. The 500-foot diameter balloon was moving along in the stratosphere at an altitude of 114,000 feet. It was expected to pick up speed and come down somewhere in Texas Wednesday.

The balloon carried a stack of nuclear emulsion film sheets weighing 900 pounds. Plans called for the $50,000 package of film to be parachuted to earth shortly before the skyscraper balloon completes its flight. The exposed film will be distributed to scientists of 13 nations for analysis over a two-year period. The tremendous balloon was constructed from seven acres of polyethylene film only one thousandth of an inch thick. It contained 10 million cubic feet of gas. The flight began early Sunday at the Glynco Naval Air Station near Brunswick. The launching was termed the most perfect yet achieved by the Office of Naval Research, co-sponsor of "Project Glynco" with the National Science Foundation. The balloon and equipment weighed more than 2 1/2 tons. Scientists said it was the heaviest load ever carried above 100,000 feet by a balloon.

Links Pros Shooting For Berths In Open

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
The big fireworks are at Oklahoma City today when 328 golfers in nine centers shoot for the remaining 31 places in next week's National Open Golf Championship. Thirty-eight players qualified Monday—at Seattle, Denver, Cincinnati and Mamaroneck, N.Y. They joined 21 exempt entrants in the field of 150 who will tee off in the tournament proper at Cherry Hills Country Club in Englewood, Colo., June 16-18. Oklahoma City drew special attention today because it is the week's stopping place for the touring pros. There, 66 men, including some of the game's biggest names, will battle for 34 spots. This list includes former champions Julius Boros and Lloyd Mangrum; the two-time amateur king, Charlie Coe; former Masters champions Jack Burke and Art Wall Jr., and such well-known tourists as Lionel and Jay Hebert; George Bayer, Doug Sanders, Bob Goaly, Paul Harney, Al Besse- link, Mason Rudolph, Bill Collins, Tom Neipporte and Don Fairfield. Two former champions, Gene Sarazen and Tony Manero, missed out Monday at the Winged Foot Golf Club at Mamaroneck. Sarazen withdrew because of an infected ear. Manero shot 79-77-156, eight above the qualifying break. Others falling at Mamaroneck included Skee Riegel, former National amateur champion, 151; William Hyndman III of Philadelphia, U.S. Walker Cup ace, 149; and Robert Jones III, son of the immortal Bobby, 156.

Another who missed was Don Essig III of Indianapolis, 1957 public links champion. He lost out at Cincinnati. Monday's honors were taken by Don Bies, a 22-year-old assistant pro at Seattle whose two rounds of nine-under-par were best of the day. Robert Gardner, a White Plains, N.Y., amateur; Gordon Waldespuhl, a one-eyed teaching pro from Dayton, Ohio; and the veteran Johnny Bulla of Phoenix, Ariz. Bies, Washington State open champion playing on his home course, shot 71-66-137, beating out Canada's Stan Leonard and Ed Oldfield of Astoria, Ore., each of whom had 143s.

THE FRONT ROW

By Bob Smith

The recent graduation ceremonies brought to mind the disassembling experiment known as the community band.

Organized about four years ago, the band was designed to allow adult citizens who had been members of school bands to retrieve their old talents. A place was set aside in the college music building for evening sessions.

The band went along fine at first, although the playing wasn't very good. The adult members were still too rusty, and the youngsters, junior high and early high school bandmen who made up the greater part of the membership, were still in an abysmally untrained state.

PLEASURE
But the idea had nothing to do with making fine music—just the pleasure of playing.

We got a director, finally, who was too much a perfectionist, and friction soon dissolved the organization. Membership had fallen off drastically, and it was deemed better to forget the whole thing.

Perhaps Doug Wiehe, who had just arrived on the scene, could have saved the community band, but he was too busy working with his own groups, who sorely needed help at the time.

But the thing that sticks in my memory was that it was the kids who wanted to continue the band, and who had showed up loyally at almost every meeting. These were the same kids whom Wiehe took under his wing to build into a winning high school band, something he could never have done without loyalty from his students.

And many of these same kids were among those who marched across the stage of City Auditorium in their caps and gowns, but who weren't kids any more.

I don't remember the names of all the youngsters who had played in the community band, but several names were familiar—such as Sally Adair, Shirley Clawson (was that Lynn, the flute player?), Charles Dunagan, Mary Jane Engstrom, Larry Lalson.

PROVED POINT
The community band, itself, was a disaster, but it proved a very important point—that the talent for and interest in music among our young people are there, if only we will help them make something of it.

The Midland Art Association's Air Park Art Center is the site of art instruction classes which began June 1. Live models are featured in many of the classes.

Children's classes also are held. Interested local citizens may obtain details on schedules and tuition from the instructor, W. R. (Bill) Lyne, at MU 4-4845.

The beauty pageant ought to be a year-round affair.

The girls Saturday night gave a good account of themselves, yet they showed a lack of training that could hurt Big Spring's chances in the Miss Texas and Miss America contests. Judges at the higher level are less likely to be lenient toward lapses caused by stage fright, and will be more ruthless in seeking out the greater talent and beauty. This is as it must be.

JUNIOR DIVISION
This is the reason the local Jaycees set up the junior division as an annual part of the Miss Big Spring contest—as a training ground for future contestants, and it's all to the good.

However, if we want somebody to have a Miss America, we must guide them through a constant program. Several of the senior contestants this year, waited until the last minute to work up their talent demonstrations, where a lead of a few months could have done wonders. And a bit of professional guidance in stance, poise, etc., as well as talent, among the juniors, will insure a future Miss Texas candidate as perfect as is humanly possible.

Malinda Crocker goes to the Beaumont competition with a lot on her side, and a good chance to win; yet, were she a veteran of a program specially designed for the winning of a Miss America title, Malinda's chances would be greatly increased.

And while we're on the subject of beauty pageants, let us give credit to Elaine Waterman, a former model who helped Clara Zack instruct the contestants in correct walking and posture.

REPLACE MIKES
And a bit of criticism—won't somebody please replace the microphone in City Auditorium?

Art patrons might like to take a look at an article in this week's Time Magazine.

The story concerns Cowboy Kelly, one of America's few true artists of the "primitive" (untrained) class. Kelly, a roaming Western adventurer who settled down only when he got too old to travel, paints from memory, and there is always a blue sky in the background, and happy people in the foreground. He prefers not to remember the hard times and tragedies our ancestors suffered.

Two illustrations of Kelly's works come with the article, and they are good enough to save for future reference.

12-Year-Old Admits Thefts

A 12-year-old Negro boy, arrested as he came out of the E. T. Tucker service station, 1001 W. 3rd Saturday night, admitted breaking into the station on three other occasions, as well as three other thefts.

The youth admitted the break-ins to Detective Sgt. Jack Jones Monday afternoon. He was turned over to A. E. "Shorty" Long, county juvenile officer.

The break-ins covered a period beginning January 27, when the Lakeview High School, 1101 NW 8th St., was entered and the soft drink machine broken into.

The following night, the youth said he broke into Lakeview elementary school, 1000 NW 4th St., and took a mimeograph duplicating machine. Police recovered the machine about a week later.

On May 19, the youth stole a pair of boots from M. C. Mitchell's second hand store, 1011 W. 3rd St.

The service station was broken into on May 20 and 25, and June 2 prior to the boy's arrest. The youth took candy and small amounts of money from the station on each occasion.

Sport Shirt

LONDON (AP)—Television announcer Alex MacIntosh appeared on the screen in an open-neck shirt Sunday and set a precedent. It was the first time a British Broadcasting Corp. TV announcer was allowed to doff his coat and necktie. The temperature was 83 degrees outside the studio and hotter inside under the lights.

Ambulance Driver Picked Up Daughter

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Ambulance driver Walter Davenport rushed to the scene of a car accident and found one of the victims was his daughter, Elizabeth, 17.

The girl died several hours later in a hospital. Also killed in a two-car accident was the girl's escort, Edward Lee Henry, 20.

TIME TO REFLECT Hughes Left 'Flickers' To Become Missionary

By BOB THOMAS AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Gareth Hughes now has time to reflect on an amazing career that extended from the bright lights of London, Broadway and Hollywood to the bitter cold and searing summers of Nevada.

During his lifetime, Hughes knew two careers. In his youth, he was a superbly handsome actor on the stage and in silent films. In later years, he served under primitive conditions as a lay missionary among the Piute Indians of northern Nevada.

He had to give up his missionary work because of ill health. Now at 66 he's getting the first real rest in his life at the Motion Picture Country Home in Woodland Hills. He has a comfortable room filled with mementoes of his varied life.

There are photos of himself in screen roles such as "Sentimental Tommy"—he was James Barrie's personal choice to play the part.

But mostly there were Indian art objects and church goods that harked back to his 15 years as a missionary.

"Those were the best years of my life," he reflected. "My years as an actor were exciting. But the acting life is one of selfishness. Working with the Indians was a life of self-sacrifice and self-abnegation. It was far more satisfying."

Hughes, born in Llanwrilly,

Wales, came to this country with the Welsh players. The troupe flopped, but he stayed on.

In 1919, Hughes came to Hollywood. For 10 years, he played in such films as "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" and "Forget Me Not." He did only one talkie, then returned to the stage.

"I was never the kind of actor who could smell money," he admitted. "I made some money, but I also spent it."

During the '30s, he worked in the Federal Theater Project. With a last fling as Shylock at the Hollywood Playhouse and the University of Michigan, "I finally hung up my acting robes; I had had enough."

In 1942, he answered the call for a lay missionary and found himself quartered in the remains of an old fort. Temperatures ranged from 20 below in winter to 120 in summer. Hughes covered over 200 miles of desert land between reservations, making the journey by jeep for christenings, burials, etc.

State Judge Challenges Federal Power

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — In a sweeping challenge of federal power, a state court judge has told the Justice Department to keep its hands off all voting records in Alabama.

Circuit Court Judge Walter B. Jones signed an injunction Monday to prevent federal agents from seeing any Alabama registration files in their hunt for evidence of anti-Negro discrimination.

Temporary restraining order, issued at the request of Alabama Atty. Gen. MacDonald Gallion and applying to all 67 counties, set the stage for a court test of the 1960 Civil Rights Act.

Gallion, challenging the constitutionality of the Civil Rights Act, maintained that the Justice Department has tried to invade Alabama's sovereignty.

Under terms of the temporary order, federal authorities can appear before Jones July 7 and argue against a permanent injunction.

There was no immediate comment from the Justice Department.

U.S. Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers has asked for access to voter registration files in Montgomery, Wilcox and Sumter counties.

FBI agents got a brief look at the Sumter records Monday before the statewide decree clamped them shut. Solicitor Thomas H. Boggs said two FBI men left quietly after he informed them of the state action.

The restraining order resembles a decree issued earlier when Rogers asked to see Wilcox County's voting data.

Nicholas S. Hare, an assistant attorney general who filed the suit under Gallion's name, said it was just a coincidence that the order came on the same day Rogers asked to see the Montgomery and Sumter files.

Free Press Day Marked

NEW YORK (AP) — Today is Freedom of the Press Day in the Western Hemisphere.

"It is a day set aside for rejoicing in countries where a free press is enjoyed, and for mourning in countries whose people are kept in darkness," said William H. Cowles, president of the Inter-American Press Assn., sponsor of the day.

Cowles said notable progress in the struggle for freedom of expression in the Western Hemisphere has been made since Freedom of the Press Day first was observed in 1953.

He said freedom of the press has been restored in Argentina, Peru, Venezuela and Colombia since then.

"On the other hand, the free press of the Americas has been bitterly disappointed by events in Cuba," said Cowles, publisher of the Spokane, Wash., Spokesman-Review.

He said Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro "has used the language of democracy but his actions have been those of a totalitarian." Cowles said Cuban newspapers "have been either intimidated into subservience or silence, or seized outright by the government."

"This, then, is a day of mourning for the Cuban press," he declared. "But it is also a day to restate the determination of the free press of the new world to continue the struggle until freedom of the press is restored in Cuba and until all newspapers illegally seized by the government are returned to their rightful owners."

Both Parties Claim Senate Battle Gains

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic and Republican campaigners staked out conflicting but cautious claims today on possible gains in this year's Senate battles.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, head of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, conceded the GOP has no chance of regaining control of the Senate. Democratic senators now outnumber Republicans 65-35.

But Goldwater said he thinks his party can shave that margin by from two or four seats, particularly if it can elect the new president.

Sen. George A. Smathers of Florida, chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, predicted in a separate interview his party will increase its Senate margin by "one or two" seats.

"I don't think we can make any big gains," Smathers said. "But I don't believe we are going to lose any Democratic seats and I think we can pick up one or two."

The committee chairmen agreed generally that the hottest senatorial contests are likely to be those in the Midwest. Several Republican seats and at least one Democratic, that held by Sen. Paul Douglas in Illinois, are involved.

Goldwater said he was optimistic about the prospect that GOP Gov. John E. Davis can defeat Democratic Rep. Quentin N. Burdick in a special North Dakota election June 28. They are seeking the seat vacated by the death of GOP Sen. William Langer.

Goldwater said that for the first time since the campaign began, a party poll last week showed Davis running even with Burdick. The administration's farm program is an issue in the election and Goldwater has said the outcome may forecast the November results in the Midwestern states.

Smathers said he thinks Burdick has "a good chance" of defeating Davis. But he noted that North Dakota is traditionally a Republican state and he forecast a close race.

Smathers named Kansas and South Dakota as states in which he thinks the Democrats are most likely to oust Republican senators.

He said that if Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) is nominated for president, a Massachusetts sweep might sink GOP Sen. Everett Saltontall. Republicans think Kennedy would carry Massachusetts by a half million votes.

Voters Today Pick Bulk Of Big Delegations

By The Associated Press
Voters today pick the bulk of some of the fattest delegations to the Democratic and Republican national conventions.

The nation's two most populous states, New York and California, have primaries.

At stake will be California's 81 votes and most of New York's 114 votes at the Democratic convention, and California's 70 votes and most of New York's 96 votes at the Republican convention.

One of the nation's least populous states, South Dakota also will have a primary vote for convention delegates.

Residents of three other states—Idaho, Mississippi, and Montana—also vote in primaries today. But, like Monday's primary in Iowa, these involve state and congressional nominations.

The extensive voting is not expected to produce any significant change in the presidential nominating picture.

None of the Democratic delegates in California and South Dakota will be pledged officially to any of the party's leading candidates. Vice President Richard M. Nixon will pick up the Republican delegates in both states.

New York's delegations will meet later to decide whom to support. Advance reports are that the Democrats will lean to Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts and the Republicans to governor Nelson A. Rockefeller.

In Iowa Monday, Gov. Herschel Loveless, unopposed, won the Democratic nomination for senator. State Sen. Jack Miller and former State Atty. Gen. Dayton Countyman were running neck and neck for the Republican nomination with four others behind.

Atty. Gen. Norman Erbe was leading in the race for the Republican nomination for governor. Lt. Gov. E. J. McManus was leading for the Democratic nomination.

Small Cities Block Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's plans to hold annexation space for itself by running restraining lines around several East Harris County towns, was destroyed by four City Councils Monday night.

In a series of closed deannexation-annexation meetings the four cities circled a 400 foot strip of Houston land and went to the south and west.

New additions to the cities include Pasadena, 72 square miles; La Porte 20 square miles; Deer Park 7 square miles, and Lomax, 2 square miles.

Any one of the cities could have spoiled the cooperative action.

La Porte was the key to Pasadena's large land grab. Since Houston's strip along Spencer Highway extended to the La Porte city limits that was the only way

Pasadena could get out of Houston's ring.

La Porte deannexed a 100 foot strip across the highway and Pasadena flowed through.

"This will kill Houston where we'd have the greatest industrial growth," said Houston City Councilman Billy Ragan.

Ragan, caught by surprise as were other Houston city officials, said he had no inkling the four cities planned to annex the 101 square miles.

A Devotional For Today

Let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not. (Galatians 6:9.)
PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, even though our strength be small and faith faltering, help us to do our best with what we have and where we are. For Thy sake and in Jesus' blessed name we ask these things.
Amen.

Settles, Not Creates, Problems

The Scripps-Howard newspapers, a nationwide chain, gave impetus to the presidential aspirations of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson by coming out flatly for the Texan last week.
In a key editorial which appeared in the New York World Telegram & Sun, Scripps-Howard put it this way:
"The 19 editors of these politically independent newspapers believe Sen. Johnson is the ablest and strongest Democrat available. He is a man who gets things done. He would rather settle problems than create political issues."
Thus the identity of the most suitable Democratic candidate is settled, as far as Scripps-Howard editors are concerned.
It is worth noting that the main reasons advanced why they regard Sen. Johnson as the ablest and strongest candidate the Democrats can offer are identical with those advanced by others who have come out in support of the Texan.

He gets things done. He wastes no time flailing his arms around and making the welkin ring. As the dominant figure in the Senate the past four years—the peak of his popularity, collapsed at the Summit in Paris caused people to start thinking in grave terms of reality. It is notable that the chief beneficiary of this type of thinking was Senator Johnson.
All this had an effect in every part of the country, regardless of geography or partisanship. It was significant that at the very moment young Sen. Kennedy reached the peak of his popularity, collapsed at the Summit in Paris caused people to start thinking in grave terms of reality. It is notable that the chief beneficiary of this type of thinking was Senator Johnson.

There Is Still A Core Of Honesty

In Chicago a veteran driver for an armored car outfit, the dispatch said got to feeling sorry for himself, or something, and wandered off to a bar clutching a bag holding $30,000 in money.
Well, the driver got to feeling pretty bad about the incident, and so did his employers, we gather. But the company couldn't restore the 57-year-old employe to his old job because no insurance company would bond him.
But they fixed up the embarrassing situation somehow. Officials agreed to drop felony charges of larceny against the employe in favor of a charge of petty larceny, so the man changed his plea from innocent to guilty and took a two-year probation on the latter.
In New York, we read somewhere, an appeals court threw out a charge that a woman change clerk had been guilty of cheating the transit authority out of subway fares. She didn't profit from it; she merely let her friends bypass the ticket window and board the trains for a free ride. A philanthropist, really. Besides, we gather it was public money, and who does public money belong to but the public?
There have been enough incidents of this kind in all parts of the country to make the casual newspaper reader wonder whether a change has come over our traditional American attitude toward evildoers.

Has the fiber of the American people rotted at the core?
Are things really as bad as they seem? Does everybody have his price? Is everybody out for a quick killing, and to perdition with old-fashioned virtue?
We believe the percentage of honest people is still relatively high in this country. We believe there are millions of men and women in this country, in all walks of life, at all economic levels who cannot be tempted to betray a trust or break in and steal.
They have their own codes of ethics and they live by them regardless of what it may be fashionable to imitate at the moment.
In spite of superficial evidence to the contrary, the overwhelming majority of our people are honest and decent-minded—in their own right, without being lectured and adjured to behave themselves.
It is our nation's greatest strength and protector, and as long as we have it there is no reason to worry about its future.

Marquis Childs Republican Party Needs Rockefeller

NEW YORK—What Governor Nelson Rockefeller has in exactly what the Republican party needs to win the Presidency in November. For a variety of reasons he appeals to independents and to nominal Democrats whose votes are essential to the candidate of a minority party.
As of today Rockefeller's chances of getting the nomination are hardly one in a hundred. Yet, as during the past week-end in North Dakota, he is setting out to make a series of speeches in which he will deal more specifically with issues and problems than at any time. With the serious intensity that lies behind his good-natured grin he believes that frank speaking is long overdue.
IN A PRIVATE SESSION with upstate political leaders last week Rockefeller was asked why in his opinion Vice-President Nixon was playing it so cautiously and saying so little about the issues. His reply, which was roughly as follows according to those present, tells a great deal about his own attitude:
"I think it is because he believes he can have it both ways. He thinks you can hold people on both sides of the major issues. I don't think you can."
What touched the Governor's stubborn streak was the evidence, as he saw it, of a plot to make it inevitable that he accept the Vice-Presidential nomination. In this way the plotters hoped to add to the national ticket the qualities Rockefeller has.

nevers nevertheless go on, his resolve is simply to pack his bags and return to his job in Albany.
ALTHOUGH he has had a rough initiation in practical politics, the Governor still finds it frustrating that attention is so hard to focus on issues. In his upstate swing he made an important talk on the imperative need to increase the nation's rate of economic growth at a conference he had called at Cooperstown on automation and its effect on job opportunities. He outlined a five-point plan for increasing the rate of growth to five or six per cent a year without applying government controls.
This was a broad formulation of what Rockefeller believes we must do if we are to live up to our responsibilities for leadership in the world. It differs sharply, without specifically saying so, from the conservative economic view of the Eisenhower Administration. Yet with a kind of humorous bafflement he noted that the New York newspapers the following morning played up the question of whether he would or would not go to the convention and the speech got secondary attention.
IN THE AFTERMATH of the U-2 and the collapse of the summit the situation in both the Republican and the Democratic parties has been altered. New and deep-seated fears have been stirred as to the capacity of the men most conspicuous on the Presidential horizon to guide the nation in seeking peace with security. It is in this situation that the alternative of Rockefeller has emerged once again.
The way in which Nixon on the one hand and Rockefeller on the other reacted to the demand for an investigation of the terrifying sequence of events that began on May 6 illustrates as well as anything their different approach. Nixon said that anyone favoring an investigation must be opposed to America's intelligence activities and, therefore, by implication an appeaser or worse.
ROCKEFELLER issued one of the most carefully thought out and sober statements on the whole question, in which he called on both Republicans and Democrats for responsibility. National unity, he said, "does not mean that a free people should suspend or suppress its own self-examination for fear that the exercise be distorted by our enemies—for this would recklessly surrender to our enemies the power to distort the very processes of free government." He suggested the need for the kind of inquiry that has been conducted by Senator J. William Fulbright with such fairness and restraint.
The pros in the Republican party want Nixon, with whom they have a fine rapport. So do an overwhelming number of the delegates to the G.O.P. convention. But still they know that what Rockefeller has they badly need, which may be one reason they so resent the independent line he is taking.

Nikita Compared With Fishwife

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower is just the latest in a long list of people denounced by Nikita Khrushchev.
The Soviet Premier calls names like a fishwife over a back fence. The older he gets, the fishier he sounds.
Over the past few years the Soviet leader has run up quite a record, particularly against people with whom he had had some friendly personal relations.
In 1954 he visited Britain, dined with the British Laborites, was asked by them to free 200 imprisoned Social Democrats in eastern Europe, and returned home to denounce them as the lackeys of reactionaries.
That same year at a Moscow banquet attended by Gen. Nathan F. Twining, U.S. Air Force chief, Khrushchev reportedly drank heavily, insulted various Western military officials present, and was told by the then premier, Nikolai Bulganin, to shut up.

That was quite a year for Khrushchev. He shocked the world and shook international communism to its roots by denouncing his late boss, Joseph Stalin. He described Stalin as a murderer.
In 1957 he got rid of a whole batch of his old Communist cronies—the Molotov-Malenkov-Kaganovich set—by getting them bounced from the Presidium and into oblivion.
The next year, 1958, he gave his old traveling companion, Premier Bulganin, the ax and took his job.
He visited Marshal Tito, seemed to get along dandy with him, and in the end, excommunicated him as a "renegade."
In between times, he belittled Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and gave Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, Minnesota Democrat, an 8-hour interview in the Kremlin.

Early in 1959 Humphrey, reporting on that visit, said Khrushchev had been critical of Red China, the Soviets' big ally, for its communism system.
As Humphrey said later, this must have touched a sensitive nerve. Khrushchev denounced Humphrey.
The Soviet Premier put on a real show when he visited the United States in 1959, particularly at Los Angeles.
There he complained about the security arrangements which, for his own safety, kept him out of Disneyland; took offense at a movie can-can dance which he said was immoral; and in one grand temper tantrum threatened to go home because Mayor Norris Poulson made a crack about an earlier Khrushchev crack that communism would bury the West.
Then came 1960, the U-2 spy plane flight over the Soviet Union. Khrushchev's wreckage of the summit which he blamed on Eisenhower. He denounced Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.
His worst insults were reserved for Eisenhower and West Germany's Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.
Eisenhower, Khrushchev said, was "weak-kneed," fit only to run a children's home, and "completely lacking in will-power."
As for the German chancellor, Khrushchev called him a nut who ought to be "straitjacketed in a lunatic asylum."

They Just Keep Growing

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:
It is getting harder to look down on American women. In 1900 only 1 in 25 U.S. girls was 5 feet 7. Now nearly one in five reach that height—or higher.
We're growing more males too. The average soldier in the Revolutionary War was only 5 feet 4, compared with 5 feet 8 1/2 for the present day GI. And 20 per cent of our young men now stand 6 feet.
How much do you give your kids to spend? A survey showed that the average allowance for teen-agers is $10.21 a week. And only a third of them earn extra money.
Our quotable notables: "When a stupid man is doing something he is ashamed of," said Bernard Shaw. "He always declares it is his duty."
It's getting so only showoffs carry money. Americans will write approximately 12 billion checks this year, nearly double the number of a decade ago.
Soviet Russia doesn't advertise its flaws but the current work week there is 46 hours—it's 40 in this country. And Russian consumers pay sales taxes ranging from 25 to more than 80 per cent depending on the product.
Housework is supposed to be getting easier and the strains and stresses of the business world more unendurable. So why is it that twice as many women as men suffer high blood pressure?
A new thing: It is reported here that a Swiss manufacturer has thought up a mechanical way to cut down on smoking—if you really want to. It is a gadget that, timed to your watch, will flush a cigarette from a container only on schedule.
Someone has sent a statistic saying the FBI has figured 15 doctors out of 1,000 will be robbed this year. It looks as if some people would rather take a physician's money than his medicine.
At this time of year many people have a spring or summer cold. They observe it is hard to get rid of and science doesn't know why. The temperature of the victims rises above the ordinary human level of 98.6 degrees. Birds have the highest known body temperatures, ordinarily ranging from 104 to 110 degrees.
Highway safety slogan: "Don't learn to drive by accident."

To Your Good Health Those Articles In Throats And Windpipes

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
"Dear Dr. Molner: When a person has a choking spell (having got a crumb of bread or cake in his windpipe) is it proper to hit him between the shoulders? We were brought up to think that was the right thing to do, but I have heard since that it isn't good. Which is right?—E.W.R."
With the example you cite—a crumb of bread or cake—whacking on the back wouldn't be likely to do any harm. The object—the crumb, that is—is soft and readily dissolves or is broken up.
It's a different story if the object is larger and hard, say a nut, bead, bone or some such thing. In that case pounding on the back may cause the victim to gasp and inhale—thus jamming the obstruction deeper into the windpipe. (Above all, never poke a finger into the person's throat; you may push the object down against the larynx and shut off the breath entirely.)
(And picking a child up by the heels, or otherwise turning him upside down, is not without danger. If the object is in the windpipe, it can move against the larynx with the same result—shutting off the breath.)
Most of these choking spells are the result of something deep in the throat, but not in the windpipe. Coughing is the automatic means of clearing the throat. Let the person cough; eventually he will usually expel whatever is there.

However, a slight touch of panic usually prevails. Somebody has to "do something," and there you are. Actually, the less that is done, the better.
If continued coughing and choking give reason to believe that the object, whatever it is, remains stuck in the throat or windpipe, the proper course is to have the victim examined with a bronchoscope—and you'd be amazed at some of the things fished out of people by this means.
The point is, of course, that with a bronchoscope the doctor can see what he is doing. He can avoid the risk of jamming the object against the larynx or otherwise shifting it so the victim can get no air at all.
One of the worst things to inhale remains the ordinary peanut. I have nothing against peanuts, but we'll all be better off if we don't try to eat 'em while running, or talking, or laughing. A peanut is small enough to get down in dangerous territory, big enough to be an awful nuisance, and it won't dissolve or soften. A doctor, over the years, gets pretty used to extracting peanuts from throats and windpipes.

By the way: Be especially careful with small children. My own rule is never to give them peanuts. Most of them are so fond of peanut butter that keeping the whole nuts away from them is no great deprivation.
F.W.E.: "Periculousness" means "performed or effected through the skin." An ointment which is absorbed through the skin is an example.
Troubled with varicose veins? To make sure you are doing all you can to relieve the problem, write to me in care of The Big Spring Herald requesting my booklet, "How to Deal with Varicose Veins," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover the cost of handling.
Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

The same happy situation prevailed last season.

This year as last, the chances that I will not be able to avail myself of the opportunity to see one of the 11 great shows planned this year are very, very remote.

It is more than just a free duet. It reminds me of my friend Bev Kelley.

SOMEDAY, WHEN he finds time, Bev is going to write a book. It will be an autobiography. The story of the amazing and exciting life he has enjoyed. I think he will call it "Everyone Here's Seen Kelley." And the title will fit.

Kelley, now manager of the Municipal Opera of St. Louis, was for many years chief press agent for the Ringling Bros. Barnum and Bailey Circus. In my opinion, it's a toss up whether he or Dexter Fellows, regarded by most experts as the world's greatest press agent, is entitled to the title.

Dex preceded Bev as press man for the Greatest Show on Earth. And I'll grant you, there's never been but one Dex Fellow. I met him when I was a very young man. He was already well along in years but he still had plenty on the ball. I honestly believe that he could have persuaded the Christian Science Monitor to use one of his circus releases.

BEV IS ENTIRELY different from Dexter Fellows. Dex was a colorful, vivid personality. He wore suits which were noticeable if not loud. He breezed into a newspaper office like a pleasant hurricane, flooded the desk with a sea of photos and press releases, carried on an endless conversation about newspapermen over the country and scattered press passes like confetti on all within range of his voice. I'll always remember his umbrella, hanging by its crooked handle on the corner of the desk.

Bev is a much quieter type. He is a good looking devil, soft spoken, always immaculately dressed. He didn't storm in like Dexter but no sooner had he stepped into your office than all work in the shop stopped.

Everybody knew Bev. And if there were any who didn't they wanted to meet him. He has an amazing memory for names, events and places. It may have been two years since the circus played your town, —Bev still remembered the performance —and you.

I REGRETTED to see Bev leave the Big Top but I didn't blame him for quitting. And I have been happy to hear that he has been going great guns in other fields of entertainment.

He is the author of the biography of Emmet Kelly, the famous clown. He wanted to call it "Everybody Here's Seen Kelly" but the publisher didn't agree. So now Bev has the title for his own biography. I hope he writes it soon. It'll be a book well worth reading.

The Gallup Poll

Nixon-Rocky Ticket Edges Adlai-Kennedy

PRINCETON, N. J. — A year ago, one of the favorite 1960 ticket combinations of political writers was a Stevenson-Kennedy slate versus Nixon-Rockefeller.

Since that time, both Sen. John Kennedy and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller have said they were not interested in the second-place spots on their respective parties' tickets.

Senator Kennedy is currently the front-runner among his party's voters for the No. 1 Democratic spot. Governor Rockefeller has said that he would accept a draft but only for the top position on the GOP ticket.

NEVERTHELESS, the combination of Nixon-Rockefeller against Stevenson-Kennedy continues to crop up in political speculation. To see how much the political situation might have changed in the last year—even though the likelihood of these being the rival slates is slim—the Gallup Poll conducted a repeat of a survey made in 1959. Voters were handed a card listing the two tickets and asked this question:
"Now, let's suppose these were the candidates for President and Vice-President. Suppose the presidential election were being held today. If these men were running, which would you vote for—Stevenson and Kennedy, or Nixon and Rockefeller?"

The latest results:
NIXON-ROCKEFELLER
VS.
STEVENSON-KENNEDY

	Per cent
Nixon-Rockefeller	51
Stevenson-Kennedy	49

(About one voter in thirty-three did not express a preference between the two tickets.)

The split in opinion in the latest test closely resembles that recorded in March, 1959, when the ticket question was first asked. At that time, the U.S. electorate was also evenly divided over the merits of what some politicians consider "ideal" tickets. The results:

MARCH, 1959	Per cent
Nixon-Rockefeller	50

Stevenson-Kennedy ..... 50
When the rival tickets were again posed to the voters by the Gallup Poll in July, 1959—just before Vice-President Nixon's politically successful trip to the Soviet Union—these were the results:

JULY, 1959	Per cent
Stevenson-Kennedy	56
Nixon-Rockefeller	44

In July, 1959, a majority of the Independent voters supported the Stevenson-Kennedy ticket. In the latest test the reverse is true.
Accompanying this Independent switch has been a shift toward near unanimity on the part of rank-and-file Republicans and some defection on the part of Democratic voters from their party's suggested ticket. Here is a comparison of the two tests by party affiliation.

PARTY VOTING	Rep. Dem. Ind.	Per cent
July, 1959
Republican ticket	90	9 47
Democratic ticket	10	91 53
Latest Test
Republican ticket	97	16 83
Democratic ticket	3	84 47

On an individual basis, without a proposed running-mate, Vice-President Nixon held an edge over former Governor Stevenson in a Gallup Poll test reported earlier. These were the results:

NIXON vs. STEVENSON	Per cent
Nixon	53
Stevenson	47

Against Democratic front-runner Kennedy, the Vice-President ran the following race in the latest reported test:

NIXON vs. KENNEDY	Per cent
Kennedy	51
Nixon	49

Interviewing in the test reported today does not reflect any post-Summit political reaction among the nation's voters; the survey was completed just prior to the time the short-lived Paris talks got under way.

Inez Robb

It's Called 'Getting Up In The World'

Some persons are born to status, some achieve it, and others have it thrust upon them, willy-nilly, like honorary degrees, honoris causa.

Even since World War II, we at Chez Robb have read with increasing humility and soul-searching of status and its seekers. And the more I read, the more I became convinced that this term, status seekers, was just another fancy-pantsy, Madison Avenue handle for persons who, in my youth, were called social climbers or, if you had high-school French, nouveau riche.

HOWEVER, UNDER analysis, snobbishness became status seeking, and we Robbs had to face up to the fact that we were losing ground by the minute. We began to feel like Wordsworth's Lucy who "dwelt among the untrodden ways beside the springs of Dove—a violet, by a mossy stone half hidden from the eye!"

Indeed, the very fact that I am here quoting Wordsworth, a real cornball, instead of T. S. Eliot, a hep cat in the status circle, only proves how lost I am to shame. ("Where are the eagles and the trumpets?" asks T. S. E. Where, indeed, among the status seekers?)

Anyway, we Robbs were forced to admit that our address is far from fashionable, our acquaintance among headwaiters limited and our expense accounts even more circumscribed. As we shrank within ourselves, we faced life without stereophonic sound, swimming pools, a single Picasso, a leopard coat or even, good grief! a teensie-weensie foreign car.

BUT THINGS are looking up at Chez Robb. Status with a vengeance has been delivered into our hands by that merciful messenger, the mailman. Two invitations have jolted us out of the pit and onto the heights.

The first is an invitation from the Pilgrims of the United States and the English—Speaking Union to dine with His

Royal Highness, The Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, at the Waldorf-Astoria on June 9. (R.S.V.P. White Tie, Decorations.)
Honesty forces me to confess that I think we owe this invitation to mistaken identity, since it was addressed to Mr. and Mrs. J. Addison "Ross."

SO IT IS NOT this invitation that has caused a flurry in our home and has finally made us realize that we not only have status and to spare, but credit, too. The fateful invitation to which I refer is from the Buckingham Livery, the newest venture in the status biz.

Buckingham (and what admirable genius in the choice of name!) is the organization that will provide the ultimate in status for the New York consumer by supplying him with a chauffeur-driven Rolls-Royce limousine at the modest charge of $9 per hour. That is only $1.50 more per trip than the Carey Cadillac service, heretofore the gloria of the status mundi.

THE COST of transportation to the theatre and return would be a measly 30 cents by subway or bus and around $3 by taxi. But the fact that I can even mention the subway or bus proves how unworthy I am of the status to which the Buckingham Livery invite has so unexpectedly exalted me.

"If we hire that Rolls-Royce at $30 per round trip to get to and from the theatre, what do we use for money to get-inside the theatre?" asked my spouse, proving that he, too, is unworthy of this sudden elevation in status.

The answer to that question is not yet clear. But I feel we dare not let the Buckingham Livery down. I begin dimly to foresee months of hamburgers and meat balls ahead. But surely it will be worth it to come and go to the theatre in a Rolls!

Forsanites' Granddaughter Weds In Rite At Pecos Church

Sunday afternoon in the First Baptist Church of Pecos, Donna Hagar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Hagar, and Don Sanders, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Sanders, were united in double ring ceremony by the Rev. Glenn Edwards. They stood before the altar which was decorated with tree candelabras and baskets of white stock and orchid carnations.

MRS. DON SANDERS

Miss Hagar is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Cowley, Forsan.

Beverly Vaughn, organist, accompanied Peggy Ater, soloist, as she sang "Indian Love Call" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown fashioned with a decollete neckline of pearl de'orange lace crusted with seed pearls. Long sleeves tapered to petal points over her hands. The billowing skirt of her dress flowed to a chapel train. The skirt was embellished by narrow panels held by clusters of pearls. The gown was a gift, given to her by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hagar.

A Juliet cap of alenon lace held her fingertip veil of silk illusion. On her arm she carried a sheaf of pink roses and gypsophila attached to a white Bible with white satin ribbon.

Her something borrowed was a pearl necklace of her mother's; she wore a blue garter and carried for something new a white Bible given to her by Jim Prewitt. She held a 150-year-old handkerchief, heirloom of her parental great-grandmother.

Six Miller was maid of honor. Martha Ann Cowley, Abilene, a cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Farrell Eldredge were bridesmaids. They were gowned in identical dresses of orchid organza. The dresses were fashioned with round necklines, long pointed sleeves and bouffant skirts with orchid velvet streamers to hemline. Their head-dresses were flower headpieces holding circular veils.

Susie Hagar, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. Her dress was of same orchid material but fashioned with puff sleeves.

Miss Miller carried a cascade bouquet of orchids and white calladium leaves with streamers of white satin. The bridesmaids' bouquets were of the same flowers and design only the streamers were of orchid satin.

Flower girls were Jimmy Ann Hagar and Brenda Cowley. Their dresses were identical to that of the junior bridesmaid. They carried small white baskets with cascades of pink Elsie roses.

Brother of the groom, Thomas Sanders, served as best man. Groomsman were Johnny Cain of Pecos, Paul Wilbur of Fort Worth and Bobby Cowley of Forsan.

Malcom Chesney, James Worsam, Johnny Cain, of Pecos and Herb Moseley of San Antonio were ushers.

Ringbearer was Pat Chesney. The candles were lighted by the grandfathers of the bride, J. T. Hagar of Pecos and S. C. Cowley of Forsan.

Or another table were silver appointments from which cake and coffee were served.

Serving were Mrs. S. C. Cowley, grandmother of the bride and Mrs. Amy Reid, aunt of bride, Mrs. Rayford Weaver of Pecos and Carlene Russell of Meadow. Other members of the houseparty were Mrs. Bernice Castleberry Mrs. Joe Hagar, Mrs. Earl Hagar, Mrs. Dan Gilbert, Mrs. Don Collins and Linda Winterrowd, Reta Moody and Gail Exum.

At the register were Mrs. Bob Cowley and Mrs. Kenneth Cowley of Forsan.

Don't Let Husband Teach You To Golf!

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

If your husband offers to teach you to play golf, don't take him up on it. He could be your biggest handicap.

His kind offer could break up your happy home or at least put a damper on it. That's the advice of golf pro Ed Furgol, who explains:

"If he does attempt to teach you golf, the lessons could put so much restraint on your game that you will not be a good golfer anyway. Every lesson could end in anger and tears."

Women have known for years that they shouldn't let their husbands teach them to drive cars, Ed points out, but many times they'll let their husbands teach them golf because they feel it is one way to become a part of his golfing adventures.

"When you play golf, you must concentrate. You can't do it with an impatient teacher," he says.

Ed, who was 1964 U. S. Open winner, enjoys teaching women the game. Says he:

"I'd like to see a woman on the executive body of the U. S. Golf Assn. I don't know why they don't plug for it. Their associations around the country should get together for representation. Women are sticklers for rules, once they know a game, and it would be beneficial to have them on a committee."

If you're going out for golf this season, Ed offers these suggestions:

1. Choose a golf professional instead of your husband as a teacher.

2. Dress comfortably so you can make proper use of the club facilities. (Many women get all dressed up like ballet dancers to go to a golf course.)

3. Forget about yourself when you take lessons. If you are self-conscious because someone is watching you, it'll put restrictions on your physical ability. You must walk before you can run. The golf swing is a functional movement, but it often embarrasses women.

4. If your teacher doesn't make the game enjoyable, find a new instructor, one who puts you in the right frame of mind.

5. Ask questions if one occurs to you. No matter how trivial it seems, it may settle a doubt that will let you hit the ball well instead of poorly.

Ed would rather teach women than men. Today's man golfer is a bundle of nerves, he says.

"If a man is unsuccessful in some field of endeavor, he feels he doesn't need you, even though he has sought your help. He can't resist thinking of you as an employee. A woman isn't that way. She likes to think her teacher is superior to her," he explains.

Ed is rougher on men when he is teaching them "because they expect it" but always talks softly to women.

Women hit from the top but otherwise are likely to have a smoother ball than men as a rule, he points out, but just about every woman makes the mistake of turning too much with her hips. There is little danger she'll be a better player than her husband, no matter how proficient she becomes, because most women don't have that kind of power behind the swing, he says. It is better too, that they don't compete in men's tournaments.

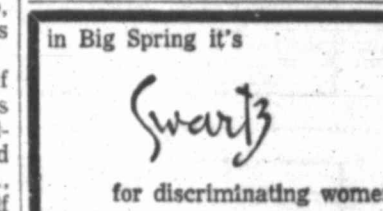

Ed, who has been teaching golf for 15 years, is assisted by his pretty wife, Helen, a former model. Last season they combined their talents at a Montauk, N. Y., golf club where Ed taught golf and Helen ran the shop.

'ROUND TOWN With Lucille Pickle

Back from a family gathering in Burnet are MR. and MRS. DICK HOOPER who visited with members of her family. The meeting was occasioned by the visit of a sister, Mrs. Frank McCord whose home is in Washington, D.C. Mrs. McCord is the wife of Major Frank McCord who has been stationed overseas. The family was entertained by the many colored slides taken by the McCords in Baghdad, the Holy Lands and other places of interest during the two years spent there.

After the family get-together, the Hoopers joined their daughter and her family, MR. and MRS. JAMES DICKENS and their three children, for a trip to Padre Island where they spent ten days.

MRS. BILL EARLEY is in Requa, Calif., to visit her son and his wife, MR. and MRS. BILLY EARLEY. Mrs. Billy Earley was to have received her college degree during the past week.

Mr. and MRS. HACK HUDGINS and their family and MR. and MRS. WALTER EUBANKS and children returned Monday night from a weekend visit with friends in Carlsbad, N.M.

MR. and MRS. GEORGE O'BRIEN left this morning for Albany, N.Y., where they will visit their son and his family, DR. and MRS. JOE O'BRIEN.

Here for the week with his parents are MR. and MRS. A. W. MOODY and their four children from Arroyo, Calif.

With the reruns beginning so early in the season on TV attention is focused more on commercials which should be good for the advertiser. I am inclined to believe the commercial developer defeats himself when he has children pour gooey messages on a table cloth then without even rinsing the goop off, he folds it all together and puts it into a washer and so many cycles later removes it from the machine, not only sparkling clean but without wrinkles. That's hard to sell to a housewife even if the company does have a superior soap.

MRS. J. E. BROWN and son WENDELL, along with MRS. M. N. THORPE attended the Austin graduation of ROGER BROWN, who received his law degree from the University of Texas. Other members of the family who attended were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Brown Jr. of Fort Worth, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Clark of Longview and Mrs. H. M. Battenfield of Littlefield.

CYNTHIA GAY was added to the GUINETTE GIBBS family Monday in Midland Memorial Hospital. The little girl weighed 6 pounds 7 ounces and was 19 1/2 inches long when she arrived at 3:26 a.m.

Mrs. Gibbs is the former Nita Beth Farquhar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Farquhar. Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Gibbs are the proud paternal grandparents.

Miss Collins Is To Marry

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Collins announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Bobbie Catherine, to J. W. Aldridge Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Aldridge Sr. of Lawn.

The couple is planning a home wedding on July 16. Miss Collins is 1959 graduate of Clyde High School and attended Howard County Junior College in Big Spring. Her fiancé was graduated from Lawn High School and McMurry College. He is employed by the Clyde Public School as a coach.

Johnson - Kennedy Ticket Called Difficult To Beat

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) said today a Johnson-Kennedy ticket would be the most difficult for the Republicans to defeat in the presidential election.

Goldwater, who heads the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, said his travels indicate to him that Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas is "coming up fast" for the Democratic nomination.

"A couple of weeks ago I would have said that Adlai E. Stevenson would be the Democratic nominee," Goldwater said in an interview. "But in view of the positions they have taken on the summit conference collapse, I think both he and Kennedy have lost ground."

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) said Sunday he thinks he has gained more ground during the last week than any of the other Democratic aspirants. He told a news conference in Minneapolis he expects "over 600 votes" in the early convention balloting. Nomination requires 761 votes.

Kennedy is regarded by Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the expected GOP presidential nominee, as likely to be his Democratic rival in the general election.

Nixon has said he thinks Kennedy would be the Democratic opponent most difficult to defeat. But Goldwater said he doesn't see it that way.

"Johnson has played it smart by standing behind the President and not trying to blame him for the summit conference failure," Goldwater said. "He has gained stature by his attitude."

"The more Khrushchev pours insults on the President, the more the American voters are going to resent it and to resent those who think that there is any profit in trying to do business with his arrogant dictator."

Goldwater said he thinks Nixon will benefit politically from being singled out by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev as an American official with whom he doesn't want to deal.

By the same token, he said he believes Johnson's position has been strengthened by his speedy declaration blaming Khrushchev—and not Eisenhower—for the scuttling of the Paris meeting.

A somewhat similar view was expressed by Sen. George D. Aiken (R-Vt.).

Questioned during a radio-TV interview—NBC-Meet the Press—Aiken said the actual effect of Khrushchev's comments "will depend on how much Mr. Khrushchev keeps talking and who the Democratic candidate may be."

Aiken said that among the potential Democratic nominees, Johnson is keenly aware of the political danger and is trying hard to offset it. Without elaborating, he said he would expect Republicans to benefit if Khrushchev continues his attacks and the Democrats nominate Stevenson.

He discounted a suggestion that Khrushchev may be deliberately attempting to help Nixon's candidacy.

"I think Mr. Khrushchev is very much in earnest about not wanting Mr. Nixon to become president," Aiken said.

Goldwater expressed the opinion Johnson "could get a lot of votes from Republicans who think he is a conservative. Of course, his voting record is just about as liberal as that of any of the other Democratic candidates, but he is regarded as a conservative."

The Arizona senator said he thinks Kennedy will wind up with the Democratic vice presidential nomination. "This is something that Kennedy has said 'is never going to happen.'"

Goldwater said it is his best judgment now that Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, the GOP national chairman, will wind up as Nixon's vice presidential running mate.

Alaska Leads Census Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—Alaska, the second newest state, is out-running all others so far heard from in the 1960 census in percentage-wise population increase.

West Virginia, of the 20 states for which preliminary figures have been reported, is the only one to lose population.

With the possible exception of Arkansas, Census Bureau experts believe all states still to be reported will have greater populations than in 1950.

Alaska, whose admission to statehood made Texans quit bragging how their state dwarfed all others in size, still has only 223,998 people. But that's a whopping increase of 74 per cent over 10 years ago when Alaska had a population of 128,643.

West Virginia dropped from 2,005,522 to 1,849,142, a decrease of 7.8 per cent.

Next to Alaska, Delaware, of the states so far reporting preliminary figures, had the highest gain—39.3. Colorado, with an increase of 30.9 per cent, came next.

The preliminary figures are subject to revision in case any errors are found.

Following are 1960 population figures available so far, compared with 1950. Percentage changes also are listed—

Artificial Spending Reports By Committees Alleged

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Public Works and Judiciary committees have submitted artificial reports of their 1959 spending of public funds overseas, the Knight newspapers said today.

Reporters Don Oberdorfer and Walter Pincus wrote in a copyright article:

"These reports have sailed through the House committee accounting system into the public domain without a ripple even though the itemizations are obvious concoctions."

The committee expense reports in question cover congressional spending of counterpart funds overseas. These are currencies of foreign governments which the U.S. government owns as a result of aid and sales transactions but holds within the overseas country.

Two other House committees, Agriculture and Education and Labor, did not even itemize counterpart spending by categories, the article said.

"Congressmen can draw these funds freely at just about any United States embassy in the world on the say-so of a congressional committee chairman. The individual congressman is required to report his counterpart spending only to his committee chairman," the article said.

"His report must say what he spent for transportation, lodging, meals and other expenses. The law requires that committee chairmen, at the end of each year, consolidate these individual reports before making them public, so nobody can see what any one congressman spent."

The article said that "in each of the 23 countries from Argentina to Sudan where members of the Judiciary Committee traveled, their report asserts that they spent exactly 30 per cent of their counterpart money for transportation, exactly 30 per cent for lodging, exactly 30 per cent for food, exactly 10 per cent for gratuities and exactly 10 per cent for 'miscellaneous.'"

According to the article, Bess E. Dick, the committee clerk who compiled the report, said she estimated the pattern of spending by simply applying percentages. "You can't do it any other way," she said, adding that members could not keep accurate accounts of their spending.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A proud new papa interrupted formal proceedings in the University of Tennessee's commencement ceremonies.

Holt stopped the procession to explain the swap to the audience of 5,000.
