Parsons said he and his wife plan to leave Wednesday and drive to Los Angeles. Parsons is to attend a board meeting Saturday morning.

The convention is designed to congregate the delegates from the 50 states in order to discuss the policies of the NEA and the goals which the association will attempt to achieve. These business meetings will require approximately 50 per cent of the convention time. Parsons indicated that the remaining time would be spent listening to special speakers and including informal discussions in the usual convention manner. Texas delegates at the convention plan to have three special receiver. The first will be at 4 p.m., June 27, The second will be a breakfast on the morning of June 28 and the final one will be held on the afternoon of June 30. The convention was held last year in St. Louis and the 1958 gathering was in Cleveland. Parsons said this will be his sixth consecutive NEA convention and will also mark his third year on the board of directors.

ball season last fall, Dee Keller, is bound for Abilene Christian Col-

Keller's team, San Antonio Edi-

In the third quarter, Gary Black grabbed off a Big Spring fumble in midair and churned 70 yards to Edison's first score. After the visiting Bears had recovered a fumble on the Steer 38, Keller engineered a drive that resulted in Edison's second touchdown. He did the honors himself from the one-yard line, then kicked the extra point that swung the issue Edison's way.

Keller completed one of two passes for 16 yards, ran 11 times for pickups totaling 64 yards (a 5.8 average) and otherwise distinguished himself afield.

The win obviously spurred the Bears to a fine season. They won their district crown and progressed in the playoffs until they ran face to face with Corpus Christi Ray. which proceeded to run them off the field.

Frank Broyles, the brilliant young coach of the University of Arkansas footballers, insists his team is over-rated this fall. He says the "majority of people" who know the situation are picking TCU, Baylor or Texas to win the Southwest Conference championship.

Lance Alworth, who does the 100 in 9.6, "will help our cause some," he concedes.

Sugar Ray Robinson and Paul Pender clinched 57 times in the last 12 minutes of their boring middleweight championship fight the other night.

The pick here is still Floyd Patterson in tonight's heavyweight championship fight with Ingo Johansson. As I see it, Patterson will force

Johansson to quit in the sixth, seventh or eighth round. The Baltimore Colts have a novel way of working on bonus boy

The betting odds are against him. Johansson, a supremely confident champion, has been made the 71/2-5 favorite. The odds may go even higher before they step into the ring at 8:30 p.m., Big Spring time.

Investigations, legal action, and promotional squabbles took the play away from the fighters for most of the time since their first fight last June 26. But in recent weeks the fight has stirred up tremendous, world-wide interest. The new promotional firm of Feature Sports, Inc., anticipates a crowd of 35,000 and gross gate of $800,000 on prices ranging from $5 general admissions to the $100 ringside seats. Estimates of the advance sale range from $550,000

There will be no home television but there will be a coastto-coast radio broadcast - ABC. The fight will be shown on closed circuit television to 230 locations in 160 cities. The New York area will be blacked out. About 700,000 seats, at prices from $3 to $10, one day. It poured the following day but finally let up just before fight time. As a result the scrap drew only 18,215 spectators and grossed $470,712 at Yankee Stadium. With everything counted in, the fighters could share in the neigheach. Each gets 25 per cent of the gate receipts at the ball park. And there's the lucrative return from the closed circuit TV, radio and movies. It probably will take year to figure it all out exactly.

Coming Up Fast

The decade 1950-60 brought a faster rate of growth in the population of the United States than recorded in any decade in our history, for a grand total of 179.5 million, up roughly from the 1950

That is official but not final, as it does not include military personnel serving overseas, people contacted by the census takers while traveling away from home, and a few other categories.

New York holds on to first place with (in round figures) 16.5 million to California's 15.5. Pennsylvania is third with 11.2 million

Texas, Ohio and Illinois are in a neckto-neck finish for what could be fourth place, with only a few hundred thousands separating them. At present Illinois with 9,981,000 stands fourth, Ohio fifth with 9,636,000, pressed closely by Texas with 9,502,000. Percentagewise Texas led them both with 23.2 to Ohio's 21.3 and Illinois' 14.6.

It would be a rash prognosticator who would look 10 years ahead and make a prediction of what any given state's population would be by 1970.

But we are willing to take the plunge. We predict Texas will pass both Ohio and Illinois by 1970 and be batting on even terms with Pennsylvania for third place. California could overhaul New York for the Interstate Oil Compact Commission was told that oil should be kept underground until needed.

The advice was from a man who has Texas Railroad Commission, which controls oil production in Texas. Col. Thompson's paper was read by Earl Foster of Oklahoma City, executive secretary of the compact commission, who added his belief that "There is no question but what great oversupply will glut the market and bring sales resistance because nobody wants to buy unsalable oil. A glutted market creates no new uses for oil. It only results in a necessary cutback in production."

There was a word from C. R. Henderson, chairman of the Utah Oil and Gas Conservation Commission, a state which has drawn some barbed criticism because of its ¿'legedly free and easy ways with the problem of conservation. Henderson said Utah is not permitted legally to regulate oil and gas production. The people of that state, he went on, will not adopt a market demand theory based on claims that "our very small production is driving the great oil producing states into economic disaster, or that we are taking something from them which is historically theirs." That doesn't sound as though the idea of mutual agreements for mutual bene-

At its Detroit meeting the other day fits has caught on in Utah as yet. Texas and other of the older oil-producing states discovered a long time ago that 10-cent oil is the inevitable consequence of unrestricted production, and if Utah hasn't experience of such matters, and is in learned that lesson yet it will in due time Col. Ernest O. Thompson, chairman of the ently available has gone down the 10-cent rat-hole.

Mr. Henderson's remarks indicated a belief that the older compact states having "got theirs" years ago now resent the advent of newcomers who demand their fair share.

He put it in these words, according to an AP dispatch:

"The most notable characteristic of the controversy between man and his relationship to the earth is that those who have plundered the national resources of their own areas and have reserved less of it for posterity to see and use, are the most dogmatic contenders that large areas of other's undeveloped resources be set aside, unused, undeveloped, unoccupied and kept for the esthetic value of the years ago her militarists dragged the nation into war, and they lost an empire. Today the "left wing," inspired by Moscow, has turned Japan toward Communism and a loss of the freedoms that democracy has given the Japanese people since World War II. Japan's tragedy-her probable deterioration now on the economic side as she faces more and more trade barriers in the West-far overshadows the impact of the last few days on American affairs. FOR IT is of relatively little consequence except to antiadministration politicians here, whether America's so-called "prestige" in the Far East is temporarily injured because the Japanese government itself was compelled by the mobs to cancel President Essenower's visit to Japan. After all, America's prestige does not depend on Japanese mobs. There can be no loss of prestige for the United States just because Communism buys a mob. It is far more serious that the friendly relations between the United States and Japan have been damaged by the Japanese themselves. It is no mystery why the Communists have made progress with their infiltration of Japan. They had something to work on-a basic antagonism to the United States growing out of the dropping of two atomic bombs in the last war. This, together with the years of humiliation afterward because of American military occupation, was bound sooner or later to make itself felt in popular opinion.

THE UNITED STATES has never officially regretted its dropping of the atomic bomb, because of the feeling that the surprise attack on Pearl Harbor was a dastardly business. Nevertheless, the building of friendship with Japan by the United States has been one of the challenging problems of the postwar era. In fact, it is more important today than ever before that the West should have strong military allies in the Far East. Moscow on its part already has possession of Red China. which has been of considerable help to the Communist cause in infiltrating

WASHINGTON-Poor Japan! Twenty Korea, harassing the Chinese Nationalists on Formosa and trying to undermine the governments of the Philippines and of other free countries in Southeast Asia.

What shall America do about it? The Communists have moved in not only in the Far East but in Latin America. especially Cuba, next door to the United States. Likewise, the Communists have wrought their mischief in the Middle East and everywhere in Africa, including South Africa, where race rioting has been stimulated after a long period of stability in race relations.

TODAY'S DILEMMA is largely due to the appearement tactics of the "left wing" in the United States as well as in Britain forced President Eisenhower into 'sum- who today remembers any of know a gypsy fortuneteller who They wouldn't be able to e conferences, and that maligned John Foster Dulles, who originally opposed the idea. It was the "left wing" which insisted that Khrushchev's "peaceful co-existence" should be weicomed. It is the "left wing" that is constantly pushing for recognition of Red China, which would be a death blow to American military strength in the Far East. The Democratic speakers are having a field day in speeches about the events abroad. Sniping from the Democrats on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee continues. One would think President Eisenhower had torpedoed his own journey to Japan, that the Communists had nothing to do with it-judging by the criticism about a lack of "planning" by the United States.

ONLY TWO courses of action are available now to either a Republican or a Democratic administration. One is to wield a "big stick" and take a chance on getting into another world war. Neither political party would take such a risk.

The alternative policy is to "fight fire with fire"-that is, to spend more money for bigger and better propaganda, more money on the foreign-aid program to help allied nations to remain stable in their economy, and more money for national defense so as to ward off surprise attack. Then, if the so-called "liberals" will stop pressing for deals with Khrushchev and his kind, stop urging recognition of Red China, and stop feeding propaganda to the Russians about America's alleged weaknesses, there's a chance-not for the Republican or Democragic parties as such, but for the American people-to win the "cold war."

The Price Of Rugged Individualism

The June air from Harvard and Yale right across the country to Stanford University has been filled with commencement addresses urging a moral reassessment of men and nation, repudiation of indifference, rejection of the organization and return to the strong individualism that made this nation great. So what happens today when a youngster of 17, just about to grasp his highschool diploma, stands on his own two feet and exercises the rugged indidualism that youth is being urged to practice? He gets clobbered.

AT EXERCISES IN connection with the graduation of the 1960 class from high school in Westbury, L.I., a week ago, Stephen Bayne, 17, and president of the student organization, refused to accept an unexpected American Legion award for citizenship.

Until he stood up before an audience of 1.000 and refused the Legion award, Stephen was a teen-age hero in Westbury. He could not have been president of the student body if he had not been popular with his classmates. And he would not have won the school awards for excellence in music, science, Spanish, history and English or a full scholarship to Harvard if the faculty had not rated him a brilliant student.

BUT THE MOMENT Stephen refused the American Legion award, John W. Keckham, principal of the high school, hastily polled a few senior members of the faculty. It was decided to take punitive action against the boy by witholding the awards in history and English previously voted him.

Granted that the boy may have been impolitic to refuse the award of such a politically powerful group, nonetheless let it be noted that a 17-year-old still had the intestinal fortitude and individualism to get up and quietly say, "I refuse to accept an award from an organization whose policies I can't respect." JUST WHAT IT IS about Legion policies that Stephen can't respect remains unknown, since the pressures to conform in Westbury are such that Stephen and his parents, who live in a neat, lower-middle-class garden apartment, refuse to talk.

Stephen has been learning a lot about the grown-up world he is entering since that night. He has discovered that four years of excellent behavior and fine grades count for nothing with adults scared to death that a kid can mortally offend the powerful American Legion.

Not only did the faculty apologize to the Legion on the spot but to be on the alkaline side, sent a written apology, too, after of course, the hasty and craven decision to deprive Stephen of the English and history awards.

DONALD M. MAHONEY, president of the school board, backs up the principal and faculty on the grounds that Stephen offended Emily Post and good manners in refusing the award publicly. But he is the first to admit that Stephen had no inkling of the award until it was publicly made.

Then the Legion has not distinguished itself by bullying Stephen's parents with a telegram demanding an explanation of their son's behavior. Nor did the local commander add to Legion stature when he predicted that Stephen had made "a lifetime mistake which will plague him forever." Is that prophecy or threat?

ONLY ONE ADULT in the whole shabby business comes off with credit. He is Dr. Cecil Rice, Superintendent of Westbury schools. "Come hell, high water or the American Legion, I'll defend Stephen to the world," he has declared. "If I had a son I would want him to be just like Stephen." But let youths practicing to be rugged individualists keep a weather eye on Dr. Rice and Stephen. It may be interesting to see how long each or both last in Salaries rose 20 per cent in the seven years from 1948 through 1954. another 20 per cent in the next four years, and 7.6 per cent in the 1958-59 academic year. And in 1959-60 the rise has been 4.8 per cent. STUDENTS ARE ON the wrong side of this sellers' market. Tuition costs rise steadily. The University of Pennsylvania has gone up from $625 to $1,400 in ten years. Columbia has just raised the price to $1,460 from $1,175 a year ago. The University of Michigan will go to $280 for Michigan residents and $750 for out-ofstate residents. In 1957, Michigan fees were $200 and $470 respectively. The rising price of a higher education has not cut down demand. The proportion of youngsters going on to college from high school has been rising at the rate of one percentage point a year. It's now 40 per cent. In another 10 years it may be 50 per cent, Increasing scholarship and loan funds have made it possible for more well-qualified youngsters from low-income families to attend college. Prosperity and in-town institutions have also helped.

BECAUSE OF THIS the cries of anguish last month-when those fateful yes and no letters went out from collegesreached an all-time high. More students were rejected by the college of their first choice than ever before. This is traceable to the bumper crops of babies after World War II. And the pressure will increase, not decrease. College enrollment is estimated to grow as follows:

3,570,000 The problem is as much distribution country.

College professors are on the plus side as supply and demand. It's also psychocollege for son or daughter as a family status symbol, that there are not enough status places to go around-Yale, or Wellesley, or Wesleyan, or Stanford, and GOOD GUIDANCE counseling at pre-to the parents' aspirations or income. Just because a youngster doesn't get into the college of his first choice, it doesn't follow that he (or she) is a misfit or will get a poor education. Richard Hewitt, of the College Admissions Center, of Northbrook, Ill., a clearing house for colleges with vacancies and aspirants without colleges, makes this observation: "Last year we were able to place all of those who were qualified for we hope that this will be true this year,

THE U. S. OFFICE of Education puts it this way: "A sizable number of qualified high school students will not be able this fall to get into the kind of college they want to attend in a location where they want it."

Last year 827,000 high school graduates became freshmen somewhere. This year places will be found for 880,000. This indicates that in this game of Educational Chairs more and more youngsters are finding places before the music stops. Further, the chairs will be better, As higher-grade students find places in lesser-known institutions, the caliber of student receptivity in the institutions improves.
