GOP Candidate Holds Slim Lead In N. Dakota Election

FARGO, N. D. (AP)—Gov. John E. Davis, Republican, clung to a slim lead over Democratic Rep. Quentin Burdick today in the North Dakota special Senate election. Late returns, trickling in long after the polls closed Tuesday, showed Davis ahead by less than 4,000 votes.

But as the figures from the outlying rural areas came in, Democrats predicted a Burdick victory by as much as 5,000 votes. "We've got it in the bag," said Scott Anderson, Democratic campaign director. "It's only a matter of time."

5 States Slashed By Hard Tornadoes

By The Associated Press — Kahoka, Canton and Lewiston were raked by winds and rain. Considerable damage to trees and interruptions in power service were reported.

Strong winds drove the storm into Kentucky after midnight and delivered a damaging blow at Henderson. Some buildings were unroofed and numerous trees were toppled.

The early morning thunderstorms ranged throughout the middle Mississippi Valley, the lower Great Lakes and the eastern Ohio Valley.

Temperatures were on the muggy side from the central plains into the Southeast. Readings in the 70s and 80s were common. The 50s and 60s were reported along the northern border.

Thunderstorms, striking with hurricane-like ferocity, pounded the Midwest Tuesday night and today and carved a wide path of destruction across parts of five states.

Southeastern Iowa alone counted its damage in millions of dollars. The storms broke out first in Minnesota, ranged into Iowa, Illinois and Missouri and roared over the Ohio River into Kentucky before dawn.

They left one person dead and numerous others nursing injuries. Winds clocked up to 125 miles an hour buffeted Ottumwa, Iowa, and uprooted trees, smashed buildings and caused minor injuries. Hall and heavy rain lashed the city of 35,000—1.32 inches fell in half an hour.

Also hard hit were the southeastern Iowa communities of Okaloosa, Fairfield and Keokuk. The storm picked up trees and heaved them against homes, buildings and cars. Hail up to three inches in diameter pulverized field crops. It shattered skylights, greenhouses and neon signs at Boone, Iowa.

Winds up to 90 miles an hour ripped into Quincy, Ill., on the Mississippi River. Falling trees knocked out power and telephone service and left most of the city of 42,000 without electricity.

Heavy rains flooded streets and slowed cleanup work in the west central Illinois community. The rains produced a landslide on Highway 96 between Nauvoo and Hamilton near the Mississippi.

Edna Gnuse, was killed when a portion of the apartment building where she lived in Quincy was caved in by the winds.

The city of Macomb, also in west central Illinois, was hit by winds in excess of 90 miles an hour. Considerable tree and utility damage was reported.

Short Terms Of Aides Cited

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today was urged to ask future political appointees "to serve so long as the President desires" before it confirms them.

The recommendation came from the Government Operations Committee as a result of a continuing investigation into government policy making by a subgroup headed by Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.).

Jackson's report said his group had heard testimony that many businessmen, industrialists and other appointees to Cabinet and agency posts often quit before they have time to learn their difficult assignments.

He said this had been true during the Republican administration of President Eisenhower as well as that of the two Democratic presidents who preceded him.

Many of these officials held major decision-making posts involving the national security.

"We cannot expect to succeed in the long drawn-out contest with the Sino-Soviet bloc," Jackson told the Senate, unless top level government executives agree to serve in key posts until they are experienced.

Jackson cited a survey of 456 businessmen who served in government between 1940 and 1956. Of the group, 48 per cent, nearly one half, served one year or less and the median length of service was 1 1/4 years.

He said there had been seven different secretaries of defense since the top Pentagon civilian post was created in 1947, an average term of less than two years.

Creeping Capitalism Hits Russia, Creates Paradox

Editor's Note — What happens when a middle class starts throwing its weight around in the classless society that the Soviet Union claims? William L. Ryan deals with this question today in this article, third of a series written following a trip to Moscow.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

In a corner of the enormous, sprawling building of GUM, Moscow's central department store facing Red Square and the gloomy Lenin-Stalin tomb, a sign advertises items that can be bought on installments.

These include photography equipment, motor bikes, electric sewing machines, refrigerators, other high-priced goods.

The ordinary Russian would have to save his money for a long time in order to be able to pay cash. Now all he has to do is to bring a statement signed by his superior, testifying to his employment and income. Deductions will be made automatically from his wages. The stores all are operated by the government.

This is only one of the multiplying manifestations of what may be a burgeoning Soviet problem: What to do about creeping capitalism?

Capitalist methods edge into the Soviet internal trade picture for a variety of reasons.

OUT OF RANGE

Extremely high-priced hard goods normally move slowly, since they are out of range of most Soviet pockets. Everyday items like clothing, shoes and appliances are almost invariably shoddy. The shelves of the stores are becoming clogged.

Store managers begin to complain and even balk about accepting shipments of shabby consumer goods from factories. The prospective buyers are showing sales resistance, and such goods collect dust for months. The consumer often boards his rubles to complete for better—and thus scarcer—items.

To attack merchandising problems in a rigidly controlled Communist economy, authorities resort to capitalist methods: installment selling, credit, more and more advertising, store windows blossoming with special sales announcements and a shoddy list prices, new neon signs flickering over Moscow proclaiming the virtues of a variety of products.

In some consumer categories there is a veritable glut of goods. But factory managers fulfill their quotas by quantity, without giving much of a hoot about quality.

HIGH PRICE

A suit of men's clothing that couldn't fetch $20 in an American bargain basement goes into the Soviet stores priced at the equivalent of $140, or two months pay for the average Soviet worker.

Cotton dresses no American woman would want to wear in public retail at the equivalent of $10 to $20. A shoddy pair of sandals is priced at $28. A crudely fashioned men's shirt costs $11.

Those who have money — and there are many highly paid Soviet people — resist such things. Many wait for shipments from abroad — perhaps from Communist Czechoslovakia, which is years ahead of the U.S.S.R. in quality consumer goods. Muscovites tip one another off when shipments reach the stores, and rubles come out of hiding. Foreign shipments are snapped up quickly, while Russian manufacturers go begging.

In short, many a consumer is sick of shoddy goods. He would rather have quality goods than mere money. On the books, consumer production is there, but it is far from the quality the Soviet citizen is beginning to demand.

RED DOGMA

The attitude apparently has been transmitted to the Kremlin. Seeking remedies, however, is difficult, since the remedies often can be contrary to Communist dogma.

Capitalist-like measures have been an outgrowth of Premier Nikita Khrushchev's policies, and probably are among the many factors that provoke annoyance among hidebound, reactionary Stalinists in high places.

Khrushchev has tried to follow a line of persuasion, rather than coercion, in keeping the Soviet public in line. But persuasion implies incentives and rewards. The consumer industry does not produce quality sufficient for rewards, nor can it without upsetting Soviet dogma.

The Soviet premier soon may be, if he is not now, in an unenviable position so far as his popularity is concerned. The process of social change that has been going on for years in the Soviet Union has been building something similar to a middle class—sober, intelligent and eager to better itself.

Relaxations, veering away from the police state since Stalin died, hastened social change to a point where it seemed to be getting out of hand. Khrushchev, in spite of himself, may be forced to try to halt the process.

The planned Soviet economy bases itself on quantity production. Quality belongs to the apex of the economy, where the talents, riches and energy of the state are poured into massive heavy industry, arms, missiles, Sputniks and other means of enhancing political authority.

For the rest of the economy, there must be a minimum of frills. The consumer cannot be offered too much by way of choice in what he buys, without breaking down some of the rigid barriers imposed by Communist doctrine.

Compromise Bill On Defense Passed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise defense bill of just under 40 billion dollars today offered the Eisenhower administration most of its major military requests, plus some 650 million it opposed.

A Senate-House conference committee, compromising differences between the two bodies, gave the bill its final form late Tuesday. The House will take up the revised measure Friday. Senate action also is required.

House spokesmen agreed to 293 million to build a new attack aircraft carrier for the Navy; 244 million to produce Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles; and 190 million to speed development of the Air Force's B70 jet aircraft weapons system. The House had voted these down.

In exchange Senate negotiators accepted a slash of more than 400 million in military procurement —a reduction the Senate had rejected. The House said this 3 per cent across-the-board cut was needed to improve military contracting and carve out waste.

Clerks worked late computing these reductions in scores of separate items for missiles, aircraft, tanks, ships, submarines and the vast new Pentagon shopping lists. They expected to have details ready for filing in the House sometime today.

President Eisenhower had asked a military outlay of about 39 1/3 billion for the fiscal year that begins July 1. The House kept near this total but cut out more than a billion of Pentagon requests and then added an equal sum for its own ideas.

The Senate restored many of the House cuts and approved its own additions to push the amount 1 1/2 billion above the House.

Struggle To Save Crippled Tanker Over; Ship Sinks

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A struggle to beach the crippled tanker George MacDonald was lost today when the 501-foot vessel plunged stern-first into the Atlantic 50 miles east of Charleston, S.C. Coast Guard search and rescue headquarters at Miami said a cutter on the scene reported the MacDonald was vertical in the water. The ship snapped a towline shortly before 2 a.m. and a few minutes later only 30 feet of her bow was protruding from the sea. None of the Sinclair Oil carrier's crew was aboard when the plunge came. Another tanker, the J.C. Dyer, had been towing the MacDonald toward Charleston in hopes of bringing her within reach of shore pumps and repair crews. Capt. Eldridge Burnthorn of Houston and two crewmen were aboard the MacDonald when it was taken in tow, but were transferred to the towing vessel prior to the line breaking. None of the 43 aboard the stricken ship was injured. Details of the Monday night accident—described as the collapse of a seawater casing in a condenser—were still lacking. The crewmen were instructed by a Sinclair Refining Co. lawyer not to talk to newsmen.

Soviets Plan New Tests For Pacific

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviets plan to lob a new series of powerful multistage test rockets into the central Pacific next month about 1,000 miles southwest of Hawaii. An announcement Tuesday night said the new rocket shoot will be held July 5-31 over a 50,000-square mile target area about 150 miles farther to the southeast than the landing area of the first Soviet Pacific rocket tests last January. In their first test the Soviets said they fired a rocket some 7,000 miles and came within a mile of the target. The United States subsequently fired a super-Atlas rocket 9,900 miles from Cape Canaveral past the southern tip of South Africa. The Soviet Union warned other nations to keep their ships and planes out of the test area, which lies about 200 miles west of American-held Palmyra Island and within 600 miles of Christmas Island, where the British touched off their first hydrogen bomb. Tass news agency, which issued the announcement, said the rocket used in the July tests will not be equipped with the final stage.

This apparently meant they will not carry warheads. The announcement came a few hours after Premier Nikita Khrushchev called on a group of Soviet military school cadets to "master the conditions of a rocket and nuclear war which is what the imperialist aggressors are preparing." Speaking at a Kremlin reception for graduates of army and navy academies, Khrushchev boasted of Soviet rocket might in all spheres from battlefield range to intercontinental missiles. The premier declared the Soviet armed forces should increase their vigilance in case the "imperialists" unleash a new war. Khrushchev told the audience in the white and gold Kremlin hall his hearty welcome to the new blood in the armed forces might seem strange while his government was calling for disarmament. "We do this," he said, "so our glorious armed forces will be a shield for our country and all Socialist countries."

Brownsboro Election Set

By ED OVERHOLSER AUSTIN (AP) — Feuding and fighting Brownsboro today began laying plans to elect a full slate of school trustees in hopes that the special election won't rip open the town and cause blood to flow once more.

Dr. J. W. Edgar, state education commissioner, announced early Tuesday night that the board had agreed to resign en masse along with Homer Bass, ousted by the board as school superintendent.

He said a conference will be called later to agree on procedures and a date for the election. Billy Stokes, who had been vice president of the board, said he did not believe any trustees would run for re-election and that the campaign for seats would not cause more trouble in the strife-torn area about 16 miles from Tyler.

Edgar said he made the resignation suggestion "to promote harmony and in the best interests" of the district. The district already is under fire from the education agency on several shortcomings in its school program which might cost Brownsboro accreditation.

Texas Rangers strolled the streets of this town 10 days ago after a violent school board meeting left one man dead and six injured. The outbreak climaxed a school feud simmering for more than a decade between the pro-Bass forces and the anti-Bass forces. Bass had been superintendent 23 years before the anti-Bass segment of the district took control of the board in April.

Bass along with more than half of the Negro school teachers were fired. This action was cited earlier by Edgar as another reason the school might lose its accreditation which comes up for review next month. Several white teachers resigned in protest.

Bass had brought his appeal to Edgar and in actuality he lost his appeal but brought down the board which had fired him.

Stokes said there were some stipulations agreed upon between Bass and the school board in a closed-door huddle with Edgar which were not included in Edgar's short statement. He would not go into details. "We got the head man we were after," Stokes said.

Stokes was called as a witness Tuesday and Edgar asked him if he knew of any occasion in which Bass refused to carry out an order the board had asked him. The witness replied he hadn't.

At another time late in the two days of testimony, Edgar remarked: "I have never seen anything yet (introduced) where the board instructed Mr. Bass to do something and he didn't." One charge against Bass was in subordination.

Testimony was offered by two witnesses which clashed with earlier statements by Bass. Mrs. Faye Foster, home making teacher, said she once was handed a piece of paper by Bass with the names of the school trustees she and her family were to vote for. She claimed "he said there was no place on the faculty for someone who wouldn't uphold the school."

She did not produce the paper and could not recall the approximate time of the election. Bass had said he had never instructed the teachers how to vote.

The school custodian, Marvin Sessions, said he had suggested to Bass that the boys' restrooms at the high school be replastered and painted.

Mr. Bass told me it wouldn't make any difference or they the state inspection team on accreditation wouldn't pay any attention to it anyway," he said. Bass previously had denied ever discussing the matter with Sessions.

DEAR ABBY

CHILDISH

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a 37-year-old married man who goes out in the garage or down in the basement to sneak a smoke when his parents are visiting? His father disapproves of tobacco and doesn't know that his son has been smoking ever since we were married, 12 years ago. I keep telling my husband I think it's the silliest thing I have ever heard of.

Don't you think if a grown man wants to smoke he should be man enough to smoke in front of his father?

SMOKER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Your husband's behavior is childish. But it's HIS father and HIS decision. A 37-year-old man who has to sneak his smokes has plenty of problems without a wife heckling him. Lay off.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend of whom I think a great deal. But she has a nasty little habit which I'd like to tell her about, but can't. When playing cards, she will lick her fingers before every card she plays, and also before dealing. Consequently, the cards become unpleasant to handle. How can I ask her to discontinue this fault which is unhygienic and disgusting to her fellow players?

REVOLTED

DEAR REVOLTED: Call a spade a spade before she has a chance to get her hands on the deck. Tell her, "The cards are slick, so please don't lick."

DEAR ABBY: Every Sunday,

just as I'm ready to go to church, my neighbor sends her two children over to ride along with me. This neighbor and her husband belong to the same church, but they never go.

I don't mind taking the children, but I feel that by taking them perhaps I am making it too easy for my neighbors to stay away from church. Also, if these children had no other way to get to church, I could feel really good about driving them there.

Please tell me, Abby, should I refuse to take these children, or should I continue to take them, and burn silently? DO GOODER

DEAR DO GOODER: Continue to take the children, but there's no sense in "burning." The kind of parents who would consistently send their children to church with the neighbors are not likely to go to church themselves just to get their children there.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BUZZ: Your friends sound like bilsters. They show up after all the work has been done. There must be others who are worrier of your friendship. Look around.

"What's your problem?" Write to Abby in care of the Big Spring Herald. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Abby's best-selling book, "Dear Teen-ager," is on sale at all bookstores.

A Devotional For Today

Ye are the light of the world. (Matthew 5:14)
PRAYER: Our Father, help us to be lights shining for Thee in this age of darkness and spiritual blindness. May we shine forth, not hiding our candles under a bushel, but seeking to show forth Thy divine love. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

Make Safety Your First Concern

The drums are beating, the trumpets are sounding, and they give forth a familiar note: Be alive on the fifth!
The people who preach the gospel of traffic safety, and those who labor so diligently in its cause, must suffer pangs of anguish at times, to see so little heed paid to their efforts.
Don't we care any more? Are human lives—just because they happen to be in an automobile—held in less value than cattle?
It's difficult to make statistics come alive—unless one of the traffic fatalities units happens to be your son, or your daughter, or your best friend. Yet look: The Texas Department of Public Safety predicts, and with good odds, that no less than 27 traffic deaths will occur in Texas during the coming 3-day holiday weekend. The forecast even says there will be nine deaths Friday, 12 on Saturday, seven on Sunday. This means nothing? There is only one answer to the highway slaughter, and that is for all of us as drivers to be thoroughly concerned all the time, for safety's sake.

There are so many factors that have to be observed for safety. Of course, your car should be in proper running condition. If you go on a trip, allow more time than you need, going and coming, to avoid the temptation of driving too fast. Obey ALL the traffic laws ALL the time. Be sensible, be courteous.
This is not asking too much, for adults, for young people of intelligence enough to have a driving license.
Smart families will plan their Independence Day holiday at home. But if you must go some where, make safety your first concern.

Time To Be Realistic About Castro

A prominent American said in an interview Sunday, in response to a question from U. S. Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.):
"Certainly it's true that the Cuban government in the last year has become increasingly infiltrated by either Communist or close followers of the Communist party line."
He was Undersecretary of State Douglas Dillon, who went on to call Castro's Cuba an "ideological satellite of the Soviet Union." You could hardly put it in plainer words, but Dillon went further, and nailed it down in this additional comment:
"And looking at it from the other side, Mr. Khrushchev has announced the Cuban revolution is the kind of revolution that he likes and the Soviet Union likes and that they want to see it used as a model all over the world."

He could have added that Red China's Mao Tse-tung has been making similar noises no less specific than Khrushchev's.
Obviously, there is a limit in time and circumstance under which the U. S. can no longer tolerate the existence, 90 miles from its shores of a once-friendly neighbor now to all intents and purposes attached to the chariot wheels of Moscow and Peking.
Apparently Washington is waiting for some of the Latin American countries friendly to us to take alarm at the threat to their own continued existence as democratic free countries and make the first serious move to obliterate Castro.
Maybe Dillon's vigorous remarks foreshadow a more realistic attitude toward Castro in the near future.

Marquis Childs Question Marks For Both Parties

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK, Mont.—The nation's governors invariably pick a pleasant spot for their annual political clamor. Last year it was the Rockefeller resort development, Dorado Beach in Puerto Rico, and now they have come to this national preserve with its magnificent mountain scenery.
But while scenery is nice, and especially for the wives and kiddies who come along, there is a more serious purpose and that is politicking. In past presidential years these conclaves have had a lot to do with picking presidential nominees so that the choice at the nominating conventions that follow has been a foregone conclusion. This gives the governors a heady sense of power.

and, even more important, his youthful appearance against the background of the shattering consequences of what happened in Paris in May and in Tokyo just one month later.
The Kennedy campaign, which these professionals admire so extravagantly, was planned in general outline at least four years ago and the details filled in with shrewd efficiency and the liberal use of money. Its culmination in recent weeks—the full sweep of the Kennedy blitz, with one triumph succeeding another—has coincided with events that no one could foresee.

THAT WAS TO HAVE been a part of the show in 1960. But events have moved so fast that this conference is bound to seem anticlimactic. For the feeling is strong that the choice has already been made, not only for the Republicans but for the Democrats as well.
The general impression is that Sen. John F. Kennedy has moved so far and so fast that he will get the nomination on the first ballot at the Democratic convention in Los Angeles. Whatever their politics or their preference the governors who know full well the trials of elective office, have respect bordering on awe for the Kennedy campaign and the techniques of pressure and persuasion that have made the selection of the 43-year-old senator from Massachusetts seem all but inevitable.

THE SHOCK OF THESE events, the U-2 and the Tokyo riots, is only just beginning to be felt. But the nature of the Republican attack on Kennedy is already evident. The effort will be made to dismiss him as a fine young man who may some day be seasoned and mature enough to aspire to the presidency; a fine young man who finds himself where he is because of his father's wealth and ambition. While this may be a wicked piece of Republican propaganda, it nevertheless has many Democrats worried.
Governors who are themselves Catholics, as in the two largest states now under Democratic administration, California and Pennsylvania, have been concerned that the head of the ticket should be of their faith, against which they have had first hand knowledge of prejudice. This applies particularly to Gov. David Lawrence of Pennsylvania, who was convinced that prejudice greatly reduced the majority by which he won office two years ago. Despite great pressure Lawrence has continued to support Adlai Stevenson as first choice.

PERHAPS THE GRAVITY of the times and the ominous perspective ahead help to explain why in both parties the symbol seems to be a question mark. It was Gov. Nelson Rockefeller who suggested that the Republicans in taking Vice President Richard Nixon as their nominee were marching under a banner on which the only thing visible was a question mark. Many loyal Republicans who would not admit publicly to these same doubts are far from happy that it is Nixon and no one but Nixon.

IN THE GREAT game of politics the governors of most of the 50 states are meeting here and there in a series of first hand meetings in the first rank. But most of them suffer from a sense of having been pushed out of the spotlight by the intense concentration on world affairs. Their problems are regional and local, problems of water, transportation, of overcrowding in the cities and slum clearance. The march of events has bypassed these men and privately they know it and will even, in a mood of introspection, admit it.

Since you can't be a statesman unless you get elected, as one governor remarked, many of the Democrats at the conference are doubtful on the score of Kennedy's ability to beat Nixon in November. In the South and in the border states the fear is that his religion, the fact that he is a Catholic, the first Catholic to run for president since Al Smith went down to defeat in 1928, will work against him.

ON ANOTHER SCORE, too, the doubts arise over Kennedy among the men who live at the grass roots. That is his youth and his hobby.
Bennett carves trinkets out of peach pits. He makes rings, crosses, earrings, and Stars of David, which he distributes to hospitals to help cheer up the patients. Bennett ran out of pits last fall and has been searching for supplies ever since. He found some at a factory in Georgia, but they were unsatisfactory for carving because the grain wasn't right. Then he wrote to a canning factory in Sanger, Calif., and received a sample that was just what he wanted. The factory offered to ship him all the pits he wanted at $10 a ton plus freight.
Bennett thinks a supply might be available closer to home, and for less.

Looking For Peach Pits

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP)—With the coming of the peach season, Laurie Bennett figures to be busier than ever with his hobby.

Begins Again

COHOES, N. Y. (AP)—At the age of 65, when many persons are ending their business careers, Charles J. Ellett is embarking on a new one, undaunted by blindness.
Ellett recently passed an examination to become a licensed insurance agent. He studied from Braille textbooks and completed his course at Siena College, Albany, in the upper portion of his class. The one-time telephone company worker became blind in 1955.

BATTERED HANDS ACROSS THE SEA

James Marlow Rockefeller An Untouchable?

WASHINGTON (AP)—New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, once a likely prospect for the Republican presidential nomination, may wind up as his party's political untouchable of 1960.
At a time when Republicans ache for election year unity he has been sticking harpoons in the Eisenhower administration and Vice President Richard M. Nixon.
This has delighted the Democrats and angered the Republicans who denounced him and rallied behind President Eisenhower and Nixon. But a Republican cold-shoulder hasn't chilled him. He is used to it.

ROCKEFELLER KEEPS ON criticizing. Why? A couple of possible reasons come to mind:

1. He is saying what he thinks because he thinks it needs to be said.
2. He is trying to force Nixon and his party to accept some of his ideas or face loss of his support in the upcoming campaign.
Last Dec. 25 Rockefeller dropped out of the race against Nixon for the Republican presidential nomination. His reason: the Republican leaders around the country had cold-shouldered him. Later, he said he would accept a draft. But the more he criticizes his own party's leadership, the further away a draft becomes. Nixon as of now is a cinch for the nomination. Rockefeller says he wouldn't accept the vice presidential spot on the ticket. Yet, if Nixon hopes to win against his Democratic opponent next November, carrying New York seems vital for him.

IF ROCKEFELLER'S ideas are ignored and he sits on his hands during the campaign, it will be grief for Nixon.
Earlier this month Rockefeller needed Nixon with the charge that he wasn't taking a stand on the issues and that it was about time he did.
He got his come-uppance in a hurry for this one. A Republican congressman, Alvin M. Bentley of Michigan, accused Rockefeller of "political trickery."

Tuesday at the governors' conference in Montana Rockefeller tore into the Eisenhower defense program—and not for the first time—with the complaint it has produced a "paradox of peril."
For this he got the worst insult yet from inside his own party. The Republican governor of West Virginia, Cecil H. Underwood, accused Rockefeller of impropriety and political cowardice.
The West Virginian told a news conference that if Rockefeller wanted to act as he did, he should have continued as a presidential candidate and gone before the Republican party and the people with his views.

None of this seems to affect the New Yorker's speech. Since he seems to be one of the least tongue-tied of American politicians, he may go on criticizing his own people up to convention time—and maybe afterwards.
Code For Doctors
CLEVELAND (AP)—A committee under Dr. A. S. Burhan, Cleveland State Hospital research director, is developing a uniform international medical code for predicting and treating illnesses.
The code will be used for storing medical records and case histories in electronic computers at regional branches.
"Here at Cleveland State Hospital, for example," Burhan explains, "we have 44,000 medical records that are of no value... doctors wrote them in their own private codes that are now forgotten."

Hal Boyle Timekilling In The Office

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the greatest problems in the modern business office today is how to kill time successfully.
The average employe, after he learns his job well, probably spends two hours a day working—and six hours pretending he is working. Some observers insist that first figure may be a bit high.
It may seem easy to loaf six hours a day at a desk, but it isn't. The ability to do so is a talent that separates the artist from the amateur.
Here are a few standard types you are almost sure to find in any office:
The bold deceiver—He lays his head down on the desk, covers it with papers and promptly falls asleep. Anyone passing by thinks he is merely looking for something. His biggest danger: He may start snoring.
The ruminator—He goes from desk to desk, pretending to hold conferences, while he whistles the latest gossip: "Did you hear they carried the boss blotto out of the country club again?"
The administrative vacuum—Pressure from below has forced this human zero higher and higher in the organization, as each department finds him incapable of handling any job. Now he's a time study man who wastes his own time trying to find out how everybody else is wasting time.
The homing pigeon—At least 37 times a day he phones his wife to find out what she's going to have for dinner, how the crab grass is doing, and the baby's latest cute remark. If his home phone is busy, he calls a neighbor and asks if she'll run over and be sure his house hasn't caught fire.

The savvy statistician—From outward appearances he is studiously bent over figures in a company ledger. But inside the ledger are three racing forms, and a book on "How to Win at Poker."
The reformer—His own work is in a mess because all day long he scribbles down ideas to drop into the office suggestion box. In five years he makes 812 suggestions on how to increase efficiency—two of which are finally adopted and win him company bonuses totaling $17.50. No one in the office speaks to him.
The true genius—When he becomes bored, he goes into the boss's office with an inconsequential matter and says, "Chief, what's our company policy on this one?" He is the office hero because at the same time he is making the boss feel smart, he is also wasting both his own time and the boss's time.
Naturally the beginner at timekilling in the office can't expect to become a success overnight. If at first you don't succeed, try, try again.

To Your Good Health Conjunctivitis Is Highly Contagious

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
"Dear Dr. Molner: What causes the upper and lower eyelids to be sore and itchy, with pus in the corners—L. R."
"Dear Sir: What is the cause of redness around the tip of the eyelids? Is there a cure?"—Mrs. M.F."
These questions happen to be from Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Tomorrow there may be similar ones from Nebraska and Kansas. The problem isn't geographical, and it is a fairly common one. Soreness (and sometimes pus) in the corner of the eyelid can be due to an acute inflammation of the conjunctiva, or inner lining of the lids. From this we get the name conjunctivitis. A more familiar term, pink eye, is a form of the same thing.
Is there a cure? Generally, we will say yes, but to achieve that cure we must, of course, ask the question: What is the cause? What inflames that lining of the eyelid? One big cause is germs, and they may be of various types—staphylococcus, streptococcus, the diphtheria germ, the tuberculosis organism, and others, although the first two, staph and strep, are the most likely ones.
This is the form of the disease we know as pink eye. It can be highly contagious. You know pink eye sometimes can sweep through a school. That is one reason why a case of pink eye should have prompt attention.

There's another reason for giving conjunctivitis due attention! Cases can be acute, or they can develop into chronic cases, and in that event one wants to guard against the formation of ulcers, scarring of the cornea (the surface layer of the eyeball) or other eye damage. In chronic and stubborn cases, the doctor will consider the possibility of trachoma.
By and large, I believe, you will find these cases to be the result of one or another of the germs, and thus treated by the appropriate antibiotics, depending on the type of germ.
It is well to remember that something else may be inflaming the lid lining, however, either with or without the presence of germs. (A combination of the two is not unlikely.)
In the case of Mrs. M.F., there may be the possibility of allergy to cosmetics, since sometimes one may be sensitive to eyelash preparations, eyelid shading, or even face powder. By the same token, dust or chemical fumes may be an irritant, or in season pollen from plants or weeds, so if the eye trouble comes and goes, a person may be able to track the cause to one of these sensitivities. Once the irritation has started, it is that much easier for germs to find their way in, and continue the inflammation.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can a person have high blood sugar without knowing it—E. W."
Yes, it CAN happen without causing any symptoms. When blood sugar is high enough to cause it to appear in the urine, however, the patient usually begins to notice such symptoms as excessive thirst, frequency of urination, genital irritation.
Why suffer from sinus trouble? Much can be done to help you, and it is explained in my booklet, "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble." To receive your copy, write to me in care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover handling.
Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his columns whenever possible.

Around The Rim Imagination Was Better

Remember radio? The honest-to-goodness radio of a decade and a half ago before television thrust its glowing, omnipotent, glowing eye into millions of homes and before the days of rock 'n' roll and the frantic commercial?
It used to be a lot of fun to listen to the radio—lying around waiting an afternoon and imagining just how the characters looked and how they were doing whatever it was they were doing. Not anymore. No imagination is needed at all, and what's more you have to keep your eyes open. Television has taken all the fun out of it with its make-up men and stage crews projecting ready-made fantasy right into the home—like it or not.
NEEDLESS TO SAY, the characters dreamed up in the fertile brain of our youth make the flimsy heroes and villains that flicker in and out of the tube seem pretty pale imitations of the real thing.
Can you imagine what Hollywood would have done with "The Shadow" for instance? Thank goodness Hollywood couldn't imagine either. No amount of hocus-pocus could ever come close to creating what we pictured when that sinister, chilling laugh oozed into the room on Sunday afternoon scaring the willies out of us. And what kind of phony superperson movie would they have dreamed up for the "Green Hornet" to buzz around in? Nothing, I'll venture that could have measured up what we pictured in our mind's eye.

OF COURSE, WHEN THEY put "The Lone Ranger" on the tube it was just about the last straw. Why he looks just like anybody else—except that he wears a mask. And the great horse Silver can't really run any faster than any other of the hundred horses one sees seven days a week.
On radio it was a different story. The great masked rider of the plains was a giant who was ten times smarter (maybe more), and could shoot faster and straighter than any man who ever lived. And Silver could run faster, jump higher and farther, and was smarter than all the other horses in the world.
There were others too, of course. "Allen's Alley" with Fred Allen making his weekly rounds on Sunday night, cracking his dry wit in banter with the "Alley" folk. Television would have destroyed that grand illusion utterly. Maybe that's why Allen couldn't make the change and stayed with radio.
Being reactionary and glad of it, I wish they all had.

New White Pumps For July Fourth

YOU CAN TAKE the girl out of the country, etc., etc.
Though I have lived more than half my life in New York City, I simply cannot remember or reconcile myself to the fashion fad that by July 1 I shall have ordered all my winter wardrobe for the snows so far, far off, so unthinkable in the heat and humidity of early Summer, that I cannot even imagine them.
Nor can I, huddled in my winter woollies, goad myself to order my spring and summer wardrobe by January 15, a date when it seems highly unlikely that warm weather has ever been or will ever be again.
Right now, right this minute, as I turn the air-conditioner up a notch, is the moment when I am inspired to go out and shop for that extra cotton dress. And right now is the time when the saleslady, irritated by my disregard of the fashion calendar, looks down her nose at me says:
"REALLY MODOM, it is so late in the season I doubt that we have anything left."
My quest, the last few days, has been for a good cotton evening dress, something that would look crisp and fresh under the klieg lights at the Democratic and Republican conventions—and make my conferees believe there's life in the old girl yet.
The buying habits of my childhood and of Caldwell, Idaho, cling to me. I still feel that the time to acquire a pretty summer dress and a pair of white pumps, particularly the pumps, is just before the Fourth of July.
The white pumps of yesteryear always did until the Fourth. But a new pair was mandatory for that Great Day. New white pumps went with the parade, the oratory, the picnic in the park, the potato salad, the deviled eggs, the fried chicken, the chocolate cake and the homemade ice cream.
THEY WENT WITH the municipal fireworks, too. Caldwell is more than twice as large now as it was on the liveliest Fourth in its history, when one of the city councilmen accidentally dropped his lighted cigar in the fireworks, stacked behind the bandstand.

Fireworks went off in every direction. Mama, in her new white pumps, grabbed up a little boy she thought was her only son, Stephen, and set a new track record for the quarter-mile. When she stopped, she discovered she had saved a child she had never seen before. Fortunately, papa saved Stephen. Cathryn and I were old enough to shift for ourselves, new white shoes and all.
I don't say we wouldn't have made better time in the old pumps, but a municipality accustomed to new white shoes for the Fourth still was agile enough to get out of harm's way without a single injury or fatality.
WHEN I WAS a child, the Fourth of July was a marvelous holiday, every bit on a par with Thanksgiving and only slightly less dazzling than Christmas. Christmas was a private holiday. The Fourth was a public one. That was one of the chief differences. And on the Fourth there was always an Orator.
The one I remember best was Herbert Hoover, then Secretary of Commerce. Bless me if I can recall a word he said! But for his appearance, Caldwell imported an electronic marvel, the first public address system I ever heard or saw. I can still see those squawk boxes hanging in the trees.
My, what a long way round to say that I am about to brace myself and start shopping for a pair of new white pumps for the Fourth. I am prepared to have the salesman say, with annoyance, "Modom, this late in the season, there isn't a pair left in your size."
But I can dream.

Holmes Alexander Senators Question National Course

WASHINGTON — Statesmanship in America is often regional, as well as personal. Peculiarism of this sort, although frowned upon by political cartels who would merge everything, is apt to enhance the quality of the statesmanship, rather than otherwise. Lincoln, the prairie lawyer; Calhoun, the Southern planter; La Follette, the agitator of the middle border; were better Americans because of their intense and enlightened indigenousness.
In modern times, the Southern and the Western States have a strong affinity in Americanism. The South keeps a fierce patriotism. The West is still the place where isolationism means nationalism and is in respectable usage. It has seemed to me during the past decade in Washington that the U. S. A. is well served whenever Southern and Western sentiments are spoken in concert.

from the public record that our country is being run on "bureaucratic inertia" rather than executive decisions. Dozens of Departmental wheels are set in motion, and they produce an end product in policies of Defense and Diplomacy without the aid of the human brain.
MANSFIELD'S SOLUTION is brisk and logical. Break up the bureau! Put the human brain back to work! Put a spoke in those whirling wheels of international involvement.
Specifically, he recommends the sacred axe for a whole herd of such bureaucratic cows: the National Security Council staff, the Vice President's extracurricular set-up as a policy mastermind, the independent status of the International Cooperation (foreign aid) Administration and the U. S. Information (propaganda) Services, the international policy-making functions of the Atomic Energy Commission, as well as of the Agriculture, Commerce and Defense Departments and biggest bump of all—reduction to the ranks of the Central Intelligence Agency which has been swelling in size and significance to super-Cabinet status.
IN PLACE OF THESE decapitated bureaucracies, Mansfield wants the responsibility given back where it belongs—to the President and two or three of his Cabinet members.
Senators Long, Russell and Mansfield are not Presidential candidates—but they are discussing matters with the frankness and perspicacity that the candidates ought to be giving us.
(Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

SOMETHING LIKE this happened recently when, on consecutive days in the Senate, a pair of Southerners, Long of Louisiana and Russell of Georgia, withheld their approval of the Japanese treaty and a Westerner, Mansfield of Montana, gave a review-in-depth of American misfortunes through the loss of the U-2 plane over Russia, cancellation of the Summit meeting and withdrawal of Mr. Eisenhower's invitations to visit Russia and Japan.
Senators Long and Russell cast the only two votes against the Japanese treaty, and for almost identical reasons. Long is tired of ratifying the military treaties which bind the U. S. A. to do little except wring their hands. He perceived and remarked, to the dismay of the cartels, that a pacifist, disarmed, mob-bossed Japan would only get in our way in wartime—and that the treaty would permit Japan to do just that.

Better Than Before
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The antique French clock on the mantle at State Assemblyman Frank Luckel's home didn't run. It was just a showpiece.
Then it was stolen and, when police recovered it, it was running. Luckel put it back on the mantle as a real timepiece.
A Real Dead End
ATLANTA (AP)—Water works authorities in suburban DeKalb County did not have to look far to find the cause of a break in a water main.
A county employe had driven a metal bar through the main while trying to replace a fallen "dead end" sign.

Vows Are Exchanged By Miss Cowen, J. Burkett

LAMESA—Doris June Cowen became the bride of Jimmy Dale Burkett in a double ring ceremony read at 8 p.m. Tuesday. The Rev. C. R. Blake, pastor of the Welch Baptist Church, officiated for the rites at the home of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Harve Burkett, near Welch.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Cowen are the bride's parents.

The pair stood before the mantel decorated with baskets of white gladioli flanking a fan-shaped arrangement of the same flowers and tapers in branched candelabra.

Jean Stone presented the program of wedding music.

C. R. Foster, brother-in-law of the bride, gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of Shiffi embroidered silk organza designed with scalloped neckline and brief sleeves complemented by matching mitts.

From the fitted bodice flowed a waltz length skirt highlighted by a scalloped hemline. Soft sprays of orange blossoms held her shoulder length veil of silk illusion, and she carried a white orchid amid pink rosebuds on a white pearl Bible.

Mrs. Burkett's only attendant was Laura Payton. She wore a dress of pink silk organza over taffeta fashioned with bracelet length puff sleeves and self belt with bow in center front; the fully shirred skirt was deeply hemmed. A flat pink organza bow was worn in her hair, and she carried white carnations.

Best man was Robert Scott. After the reception in the Burkett home, the couple left for a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N. M. The bride traveled in a white cotton three-piece suit with black patent accessories. A graduate of Lamesa High School she has been employed by General Telephone Co. for the past two years.

Burkett attended the Dawson Schools at Welch and is engaged in farming in the Welch community where the newlyweds will reside.

MRS. JIMMY DALE BURKETT

Mrs. Dyer Hosts Club

Faculty Ma'ams met in the home of Mrs. Robert Dyer Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Harold Vall presided in the absence of the president.

Tentative plans were made by the 11 present for the fall reception. This annual reception honors faculty members and the administration staff.

Refreshments were served by the hostess. There will be no meeting of the group in July, but in August, Mrs. Bruce Frazier, who lives at the south end of Birdwell Lane, will host the women.

Ruidoso Bound

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Balch, Western Hills Addition, and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. McCanless, 1808 Johnson, will leave Thursday for Ruidoso, N. M., where they will spend the holiday weekend.

Vacation School Date Set By Altar Society

At a meeting of the St. Thomas Altar Society Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. Martin Dehlinger, dates were announced for the vacation school. Classes will be held from July 18-29 at 9 a.m. Registration for the school will be held July 10; fee per child will be one dollar for those four years of age through the eighth grade.

Mrs. L. D. Gilbert, 204 Dixie, will keep a nursery for children of workers, with girls from the CYO to assist. A series of game parties has been planned to begin on July 17 at 8 p.m. at the church. The society will sponsor a series of dinners starting Aug. 23 from 12 noon to 2 p.m. Charge will be $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children. Dinners will be open to the public.

Mrs. J. E. Flynn won the attendance prize. Members were told of the Missions In Japan Are WMS Study

In a Royal Service program given Tuesday evening for the Settle Baptist Church WMS, members heard of missionary work in Japan.

Speakers were Mrs. Jack Locker, who with her husband has been a missionary to Japan, and a native of that island, Hiroko Satori. Both told of the work of the missionaries, and Miss Satori recounted her experiences in accepting Christianity. She has been the means of converting several members of her family, she stated.

During a business meeting, members were told of the change of date for serving refreshments to the patients at the VA hospital. The group will go to the hospital on Saturday instead of the date originally selected.

Mrs. Welby Jackson will teach a mission study on July 12 at 7:30 p.m. at the church, it was announced. Seven were present for the meeting.

Junior Forum Hears Program Plans; To Aid Children's Center

At a called meeting of the Junior Woman's Forum, Tuesday afternoon, members heard an outline of the program for the club year and decided upon a project. The group will give its support to the Society for Crippled Children and Adults, and members will contribute time at the center when it begins operations.

Mrs. Billy Watson was hostess for 16 members. Theme of the yearbooks is to be Big Spring, with the study concentrated on the past, present and future of the city.

The Howard County Junior College choir will present a program for the group on Sept. 27, singing the composition, "From Plains to Planes." The event will mark a guest day tea.

Other meetings will include field trips to points of interest around the town; a session will be held at the library, when a member of the forum will give a review of "Big Spring" by Shine Philips.

Myrtle Eiler of Medical Arts Hospital will direct a workshop on first aid at one of the gatherings, and the members will hear a civil defense speaker.

The opening meeting, slated for Sept. 13, will be a political round table, with representatives from the political parties as speakers.

Hostess for the initial session will be Mrs. E. C. Smith, 1701 Yale.

Mrs. Bill Draper, chairman of the ways and means committee, presented plans for raising funds for the club project. One is a harvest carnival for families of members; the women will sell Christmas cards, and a bridge party is scheduled for mid-winter.

Mrs. Draper, who is also co-chairman of the committee on arrangements for the District 8 convention, gave an outline of plans for the meeting. The convention will be held in Big Spring in the spring of 1961.

Mrs. Rowe Installed As B&PW President

At a dinner Tuesday evening, Mrs. C. L. Rowe was installed as president of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

The group met at the Settles Hotel, where Mrs. Nell Frazier served as installing officer. She used an oak tree as symbolic of the executive committee, revealing each member's duty in relation to the tree.

Mrs. Frazier's daughter, Mrs. David Barlow of New York, sang "Trees" as part of the ceremony. Installed as first vice president was Mrs. Joe Roberts; second vice president is Mrs. Lois O'Barr Smith; recording secretary, Mrs.

Lina Flewellen; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Roy Penney, and treasurer, Mrs. Zula Reeves. A past president's pin will be presented to Mrs. R. L. Newell upon her return from vacation and study, it was announced.

Programs for the 30 attending were decorated with drawings of a tree, and head table held a tree of roses. Smaller arrangements in a similar motif marked the other tables where guests were seated.

Davis-Daniel Vows Have Been Told

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Daniel are at home at 510 N. Main in Midland following their June 19 marriage in Villa Acuna, Mexico.

The new Mrs. Daniel is the former Joan Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Davis of Coahoma. Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Daniel are parents of the bridegroom.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Daniel are graduates of Coahoma High School. He attended Howard County Junior College last year, and she is now attending Commercial Business College in Midland.

Kentucky Visitor In Arrington Home

A guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Arrington, 2000 Eleventh Place is his grandfather, Chester Reilly of Clinton, Ky. The trio will leave Friday for Maxwell, where they will visit Arrington's great aunt, Mrs. Nannie Thompson.

Reilly, a brother of Mrs. Thompson, will see his sister for the first time in about 19 years. Mrs. Edwin Mason of Santa Ana, Calif., who has been visiting the Arringtons, has left for her home. She is a sister of Arrington.

Lodge Officers Conclude Terms; Awards Are Given

At Tuesday night's meetings of the city's Rebekah lodges, officers for this term conducted their last meeting. Certificates of perfection were presented in both lodges, and one lodge conferred the Rebekah degree on three.

JOHN A. KEE LODGE
Highlight of the John A. Kee Rebekah Lodge meeting Tuesday evening was the message brought by Mrs. Letha Massie, who is conducting her term as noble grand. At the request of Mrs. Massie, Mrs. Charlie Boland sang "The Evening Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Morgan Martin. Mrs. Massie presented her officers with gifts.

"Rebekah at the Well" was a painting given to the lodge by Mrs. William H. Rosser, a past noble grand. Mrs. Rosser's mother, Mrs. R. H. Hickman of the Cloverleaf Rebekah Lodge in Houston, presented the painting.

In candlelight rites the Rebekah degree was conferred on Mrs. Robert E. Hobbs, Mrs. Laverne Rogers and Mrs. O. F. Williams.

Under the direction of Mrs. H. F. Jarrett, funeral marshal, the lodge charter was draped for the late Mrs. Bertie W. Davis of San Antonio, past president of the Rebekah Assembly.

Mrs. Irene Dempsey was presented a certificate of perfection in unwritten work by Mrs. A. C. McDonald.

Refreshments were served to 52 members by Mrs. John Cate, Mrs. Vance Miller and Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Martin.

Centering a lace-covered table was a cake frosted in pink and white. "Letha - Ruth" was inscribed on the cake, honoring Mrs. Massie and Mrs. Garland Land, the incoming noble grand.

BIG SPRING LODGE
Certificates of perfection were presented to Mrs. Gordon Gross and Mrs. Neal Marsh at a meeting of the Big Spring Rebekah Lodge Tuesday evening in the 100F Hall.

Installation of new officers was planned for the next meeting of the group, and a report on the gathering in Lamesa was given.

Appointed as a committee for refreshments were Mrs. J. R. Peety, Mrs. Earl Hughes, Mrs. Earl Wilson and Mrs. Beulah Morrison.

A thank you note was read from the home for the Aged at Ennis; this was a response to the quilts recently sent to the home.

Twenty-four attended the meeting.

Lamesa Guest Awaits June 30 Anxiously

By VIVIAN LEE
LAMESA — Mrs. W. H. Crane, born to missionary parents in the Belgian Congo, is visiting in the home of her sister, Mrs. J. V. McKay; she is the situation there is most serious as June 30, Independence day for the colony nears.

With the exception of her college years and the early years of her marriage at the onset of World War II, Mrs. Crane has lived in the Belgian Congo. Her husband, the Rev. William H. Crane, is the son of missionary parents, and the couple has served the Presbyterian Church in the mission fields of the central Belgian Congo since the late 1940s.

The Rev. and Mrs. Crane and their four children have been in the United States the past year while Rev. Crane completed his master of theology degree at the Presbyterian Seminary near Richmond, Va. Had they returned to the Congo as originally scheduled, they would have arrived on June 30 or only a day or two after the colony had won its independence.

However, the governing board of the Presbyterian Church intervened, and Rev. Crane has been sent to France, which has other five members of the family are waiting orders in Lamesa. The family hopes to know by the middle or latter part of July whether their return to Africa will be possible.

WITNESSED UPRISING
Unrest, fear and confusion have intensified in the Belgian Congo continuously since the first riot in January, 1959, and Mrs. Crane, who witnessed the uprising, actually believes it was the launching of the Nationalist faction's drive for freedom. The work of political parties has brought unrest to the vast region since the initial move, she said.

After June 30 the country will no doubt be known as the Congo, Mrs. Crane said. "This is as it should be," she remarked. "There is no 'c' in the alphabet of the Congo. Leopoldville, the city near Lubumbashi where the Cranes have been serving, is to be the capital.

As they face independence, the 13 million Africans fall into three distinct categories, Mrs. Crane points out. There are normally about 100,000 whites in the Belgian Congo.

THREE CLASSES
The first group of natives is the irresponsible, uneducated group, she said. These are the most primitive tribesmen who expect to take over the white man's world and his possessions, completely and literally June 30. It is true, Mrs. Crane feels, that African men have plans to take "title" to real property of the whites and to white women after June 30.

The second classification the missionary points out is the native who has only enough knowledge to be fearful of independence.

The third group is comprised of those Blacks who are facing their problem in a sane way. These are the Africans who realize they have little preparation for self rule. Eighteen months after the work was first mentioned officially by the Belgian government, independence is now over the horizon and in plain view.

The literate, sensible natives are in the minority. Actually there are no native doctors or attorneys in the Congo, and a mere dozen or two have college degrees. The coming months will indeed be a "time of testing for Christian natives," Mrs. Crane states. "It is time to listen to them (the Blacks) as a people."

"After all, that's the way any young country is born and grows in stature."

LEADERS NEEDED
The nation does have capable leaders, she contends. Because a large majority of the natives are uneducated they will follow these leaders like sheep. This makes the importance of the right men taking leadership uppermost during the coming months.

Mrs. Crane feels that the European whites are staging a much larger and frenzied exodus from the Belgian Congo as independence Day looms than are the Americans. Practically all the Americans in the Congo are missionaries, while the European whites have property and business interests there. The animosity which exists is largely against these Belgians, French and Portuguese, who are openly afraid.

The missionaries are not at all afraid, she said. They do not want to leave their posts, and plan to continue their work on as nearly a normal schedule as possible. They are prepared to evacuate, however, if it becomes imperative.

B&O Stockholders In Middle Of Pull

NEW YORK (AP)—Stockholders of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad today found themselves courted by directors of both the New York Central and the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroads.

Both the Central and the C&O directors want the stock owned by the B&O shareholders. The Central directors Tuesday offered 1 1/2 shares of Central stock, plus $9 in cash, for each B&O common share. That was equal to about $43 a share at current market levels. B&O common closed at $36.25 Tuesday on the New York Stock Exchange.

Simple Things Are Topics For Heads Of State

WASHINGTON (AP)—What do heads of state talk about when they meet on ceremonial occasions?

Sometimes it's such simple things as noodles and ice cream, grandchildren and painting. President Eisenhower said Tuesday night in proposing a toast to visiting King Bhumibol of Thailand, Eisenhower and King Bhumibol exchanged toasts during a formal White House dinner honoring him and Queen Sirikit. Speaking whimsically, Eisenhower remarked that he had seen speculation in newspapers as to what heads of state can possibly talk about when they meet.

VET PENSIONS

New Law Has Income Limits

(This is the second of three stories on the new pension plan for veterans, which becomes effective July 1. — Ed.)

There are important changes in income limitations affecting non-service-connected pensions for veterans of World War I, World War II, and the Korean War under the new law which goes into effect July 1.

Under the old law, a veteran without dependents could not draw a pension if his income exceeded $1,400. Under the new law he may receive some pension if his income is as high as $1,800.

Under the old law, a veteran with dependents could not receive a pension if his annual income was more than $2,700. Under the new system his annual income may be as much as $3,000 and he still will be eligible for some pension.

INCOME

Income received by a veteran or by his widow from any source, with a few exceptions, will be considered as income under the new system. In cases where the veteran's spouse has a separate income the new law provides that all such income over $1,200 per year shall be counted as the veteran's income unless it would create a "hardship."

If the evidence shows that the entire income is needed for large and unusual family expenses—such as those incurred by serious illness or unusual expenses incurred for the education of children—counting all but $1,200 of the spouse's income as the income of the veteran might be regarded as a "hardship." Each case of this nature is considered on its own merits.

Eight categories of income are exempt from consideration in calculating the annual income to determine pension eligibility. They are:

THIS DAY IN TEXAS

By CURTIS BISHOP

The wealthy man who died on this day in 1869 provided in his will that his fortune should be devoted to furthering education in 14 southern states, one of them Texas.

He was George Peabody, and he left $2,000,000 in a trust fund to be used over a period of 30 years.

Peabody was a staunch supporter of the Confederacy, and he dedicated his wealth to helping uplift future Southern generations from the shackles of reconstruction.

The Texas Legislature waited some 34 years before formally recognizing the generosity of this Tennessean. On May 1, 1903 the solons voiced official appreciation for the $200,000 allotted to Texas from Peabody's fortune.

The southern states shared the wealth "according to their needs," with the Peabody Educational Fund being administered by Dr. J. L. M. Curry of Nashville, Tennessee.

This was the first sizeable individual grant to Texas education. The Texas system was already formally established, the state's annual revenue being set apart for public education. The first financial boon to the school system came in 1854, when one-fifth of the $10,000,000 received from the U. S. government in a boundary settlement was diverted to a school fund.

The Constitution of 1876 dedicated the remaining public domain to public education.

Negro Questioned In Jewelry Theft

FORT WORTH (AP)—Police Tuesday questioned and then released a 31-year-old Negro convict in connection with the $100,000 jewelry burglary of the Paul Waggoner ranch home near Vernon last Thursday night.

It Seems To Me

By DON RIDDLE

Louis Aparicio, the overnight sensation with the White Sox a year ago, might just be doomed to a substitute's role in this year's all-star games. Many scribes feel like the players in the AL will overlook the Sox speedster in favor of Baltimore's Ron Hansen.

Hansen's blazing bat and powerful arm have been two big factors in keeping the birds monotonously close to the league top-spot. Hansen is currently hitting over the .270 mark and has been driven around 47 runs through Sunday's games.

Paul Richards says that although Aparicio may be the faster of the two, Hansen gets a better jump on the ball, thus giving him more range.

Ira Murchison, who was at one time considered to be one of the world's fastest humans, is back trying for a sprint berth on the 1960 U.S. Olympic team. Murchison won a gold medal in the 1956 games but underwent a colon operation a year ago which almost proved fatal.

He stands 5-4, weighs less than 100 pounds and runs with a plastic tube in his stomach. Not many athletes have smaller builds; not many have bigger hearts. What's the catch? The catch is, he stands a good chance to make it.

LOUIS APARICIO

White Sox manager, Al Lopez, has asked Roy Sievers to come out to the park early and take extra hitting practice. The request came last Friday after the Thursday thrashing the Orioles handed the Sox in 11 innings.

Sievers delivered a home run blow that kept the pace hot in the game but Lopez declared, "He isn't getting enough wood on the bat. He should be hitting with more authority."

Another sad sight for White Sox fans took place when control artist Gerry Staley was called for relief duty. Staley proceeded to hit Clint Courtney to fill the bases and then walked Bob Boyd to force in the winning run.

The Dallas Rangers' general manager, Allen Russell, decided, after seeing the mobs turn out for the closed circuit televising of the recent title bout, it might be profitable to pipe in a major league game as a portion of a doubleheader along with a live minor league game. . . . Dusty Rhodes, the pinch-hitting wonder for the Giants' 1954 world champions, has recently been taxed $12,500 by an Alabama court for back alimony and child support.

Although Mickey Mantle has played one more season and although he is still considered to be the power guy in the majors, Milwaukee's Ed Mathews leads the Oklahoma in total round-trippers. In nine years Mantle has stroked 280 homers but Mathews has collected 299 in his eight seasons.

Ingenious Johansson said that his loss to Patterson has not changed the feelings of Americans toward him. Ingo says he is still addressed by many as "champ" and adds that most people console him with "you'll do better next time" greetings.

Officials of the Colonial Country Club in Fort Worth have agreed to up the purse of the National Invitational golf tournament to $40,000. This is a $10,000 increase over this past year's winnings.

Senate Fails To Pass Bill Holding Continental Hopes

By ED CORRIGAN
NEW YORK (AP) — Has the death knell sounded for the Continental League?
Or is an all-out baseball war in the making?
President Branch Rickey and Bill Shea, founding father of the Continental League, were mapping their plans today in the face of the most discouraging blow to hit the new league yet.

The Senate Tuesday night killed a bill to open major league rosters to an unrestricted draft. This was the key to the success of the Continental League, which had hoped to start operations next year.

"It was a bad blow," admitted Shea. "But we still haven't given up. We've got to consider our plans a little longer before we decide what course to follow."

The bill would have made players owned by the major leagues subject to unrestricted draft once a year, except for 40 on each club's roster. It would apply to players with four years' service in the minors.

Rickey and Shea were confident the bill would be passed. It was debated more than a month and considerable acrimony developed between the Continental bigwigs and major league brass during the long hours of testimony.

Six weeks ago, Shea admitted that the Continental League had only two choices if the bill failed to go through—declare war or quit.

At that time he said: "The bill is the only hope the Continental League has of getting players and going into business. The majors have been fighting us with the strongest weapons they have—delay. Time is the thing that is hitting us in every direction."

Even if the Continental League—which still doesn't have a player under contract—managed to jam the bill through in Washington, another big stumbling block appeared no closer to settlement than when negotiations first started.

That was the issue of indemnity for the cities that were taken over. In the International League, it was to be Buffalo and Toronto. The IL demanded $750,000 each

Butane Boys Clinch League Tie

Trailing 2-0 in the first inning, the Butane Boys came back on extra base blows by Larry Lamb, Danny Parchman, and Steve Russell to take a 4-2 win over the Texans in National Minor League play Tuesday.

Lamb tossed a two-hitter as the winners clinched a tie for the second half championship. They won the first half also.

Braves Go Great Guns With Big Wes Covington

CHICAGO (AP) — There's no denying that Eddie Mathews and Hank Aaron are the big guys in the Milwaukee lineup. June 8, the Braves had a 22-17 record for a percentage of .564. Since Covington came back, Milwaukee has won 15 of 23 games for a .652 clip.

Just how powerful is that Negro giant? Manager Charlie Dressen, a coach with Los Angeles' pennant winning Dodgers last season, puts it this way: "I was glad he wasn't in there last year. But I sure want him in there now. He's one of those guys who gets the big hit when you really need it."

Wes proved that again Tuesday when he doubled home two runs to pull the Braves into a 3-2 tie in the third inning against Chicago, and then homered in the sixth to lead the way to a 5-3 triumph.

Webb Loses In Softball Tournery Opener

MIDLAND (SC)—Webb AFB dropped its opening fray Monday night in the Midland Invitational Softball tournament to A&J Electric, 5-4.

The Big Springers held the Midland crew at bay until the 11th inning when a double and an error gave the winning margin.

Floyd Danport first charged the hit for the Air Force but Webb was jerked in the fifth. Jack Long went the rest of the way for Webb.

A&J Electric had fine twirling from Jack Webb who allowed seven hits and issued only one walk in going the distance for the winners.

A&J dented the plate for two runs in the last of the second and Webb reacted with one in the third and fourth frames to tie the count. The electricians managed two more in the fifth but Webb bounced back with two on triples by Long and Tom Curran and a single by Sergio Gonzales.

Delbert Harper doubled to open the last of the eleventh and then scored the decider as Webb was safe on a fielding error.

Alston Predicts More Youngsters

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Manager Walt Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers looked ahead to the future today and remarked: "I would have an idea that you're going to see young players in our lineup more and more as time goes on."

"We're pretty much in the situation the Phillies were," he added. "We've got to go with the young kids."

The sixth-place Dodgers lost 2-0 to Philadelphia Tuesday night.

Alston rattled off names of some of the brighter prospects in the Dodger's claim.

He mentioned outfielder Willie Davis and shortstop Charlie Smith of Spokane of the Pacific Coast League, among others.

Would this mean the end of the careers of veterans Gil Hodges and Duke Snider, both in a slump this year, with the Dodgers? "That doesn't necessarily mean they're finished," Alston said. "They would make a fine bench. I've never seen a finer spirit than these two have. They're real pros."

Quarter-Finals

By JOHN GALE
WIMBLEDON (AP)—It was almost as if a cry for help had gone up from Wimbledon's ivy-covered center court.

Chubby Darlene Hard had crashed in the singles and U.S. tennis prestige had slumped to an all-time low.

The 25,000-strong crowd left the ground asking where are the great Americans of yesterday? Where indeed?

Well, one was on the sidelines. Husting Miss Hard through a forest of sympathetic well-wishers, Althea Gibson turned aside to drop a hint that Uncle Sam will be back with murder in his heart next year.

"If the Wimbledon championship is thrown open to professionals," said the two-times holder of the women's title, "I shall certainly consider competing myself."

How did the 32-year-old Miss Gibson figure she'd have done this year?

As a good newspaperwoman, Miss Gibson was doubtless reserving her view on the American showing for her London newspaper column.

On this year's form, it seems she would have little trouble in wrestling back her title. The irrepressible Maria Bueno and the unpredictable Christina Truman could be the only conceivable threats.

But there is speculation here that America's anguish on the center of the court will be heard by other ghosts of the past. Both Little M. Connolly and the great Doris Hart have indicated a hankering to come back.

Many consider it will take such a resurrection to put battered

Old Rivals Team For Congo Regime

By ALFRED CHEVAL
BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Two old rivals for political leadership in the Belgian Congo are teaming up in the top jobs when that big African territory gains independence Thursday.

The premiership goes to Patrice Lumumba, 34, and the presidency to Joseph Kasavubu, 42. They are both firm nationalists but dissimilar in physical appearance and outlook.

Lumumba, strewed, fiery chief of the National Congolese Movement, won the premiership. Congo, which was described by an early Belgian explorer as "renowned for their bravery, tall and handsome." He wears glasses with thick lenses.

His European-style wardrobe is reputedly the best among those of African leaders. He favors charcoal gray suits and likes bow ties. He is married and has three children. He lives at an old two-story colonial home of brick and stone in Leopoldville, the capital.

Like many African leaders, Lumumba found jails were way stations on his way to prominence. A $100-a-month clerk for 11 hours at the post office of Stanleyville, on the Congo River just below Stanley Falls, he was sentenced in 1956 to 100 years imprisonment for embezzlement. Emerging, he worked briefly for a brewery, then quit to devote himself fully to politics.

Late last year he was jailed briefly by a Stanleyville court for causing riots, during an NCM congress.

Lumumba is often unpredictable. A few years ago, he appeared with a gang of demonstrators brandishing signs reading: "Down with the minister of colonies, down with the general governor, The Congo of the Bula Matari (the white chief) is dead."

Now he asks Africans to respect white persons and properties and promises friendship to Belgium and the Belgians.

Kasavubu is short, bulky and so quiet he has a reputation as a mystery man.

He is married and has seven children.

Born in 1917 in the lower Congo area of Mayumbe, not far from the Congo River's mouth on the Atlantic, Kasavubu is a descendant of Chinese coolies imported to build the Matadi-Leopoldville Railway in the late 1880s.

He studied for the Roman Catholic priesthood near Luluabourg in Kasai Province but soon decided the white cotton robes of the African clergy were not for him.

He got a job in 1942 as a clerk in the Leopoldville government offices, then created the Abako Cultural Movement of lower Congo Africans which became the first important Congolese political party.

Kasavubu was the first African leader to raise his voice against Belgian rule. He was the first to demand a constitutional assembly to prepare for independence for the Congo, a territory of 904,737 square miles and a population of 13 1/2 million.

Belgian authorities said Kasavubu planned an attempt to oust the Belgian government by force in early 1959, but dynamite he had prepared exploded prematurely.

High Teacher Standards Are Urged At NEA

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The teaching profession must raise its own standards so high that incompetence can never get into a classroom, a prominent educator said today.

Dr. T. M. Stinnett said, "Our goals must be more than just higher salaries and more of this and more of that."

"The profession must do those things which will guarantee that a person who goes into a classroom is a competent teacher, and guarantee that an incompetent person will not be allowed to teach."

Stinnett, executive secretary of the National Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards, was interviewed at the annual convention of the National Education Assn.

"It's our job to weed out the incompetents just as the medical profession polices its own field," he said. "And, just as in medicine, higher standards mean fewer incompetents."

"We don't have now the sanctions we need. Most states require three years of probationary teaching, but after that it is virtually impossible to get rid of the bad teachers."

Stinnett cited what he called tremendous strides the teaching profession has made since World War II.

"In 1946," he said, "one in every six teachers was sub-standard, or lacked a full certificate. Today it's only one in 12, despite the vastly increased teacher shortage."

"In 1946, only 15 states required that an elementary school teacher have a college degree. Today the number is 46."

"We have come a long way since the war years. We estimate that between 1940 and 1946, more than 600,000 persons drifted in and out of teaching. Today, we have a much more stable profession."

Stinnett predicted that within three or four years accredited colleges and universities will be turning out more than 90 per cent of the new teachers. The accredited schools are those recognized by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

Castro Threatens Seizure To Counter Cut In Quotas

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro threatened in a towering rage today to seize American investments in Cuba "penny by penny until nothing is left" if the United States cuts its purchases of Cuban sugar.

Castro made this threat to a cheering, post-midnight rally of the giant Sugar Workers' Federation held in Artemisa, 60 miles southwest of Havana. It was his 10th major speech in 24 days and the bitterest anti-American diatribe he has yet delivered.

Stung by the bill now before the U. S. Congress to authorize the President to cut the U. S. quota of Cuban sugar at will, Castro shouted that for every pound of sugar removed from the quota, his regime would take over an American-owned sugar mill.

U. S. interests own 36 sugar mills in Cuba, but Castro made clear his threats extended to all other American interests in Cuba valued at more than a half billion dollars.

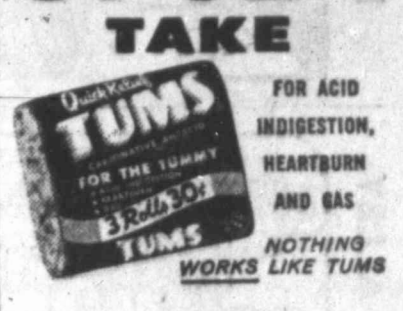

"We'll take and take until not even the nails of their soles are left," he told his cheering audience.

The bearded Prime Minister denounced the new U. S. sugar bill which was unanimously approved by the House Agriculture Committee Monday—as "stupid and criminal" and called the U. S. government decadent. He repeatedly referred to Americans as "gringos."

Castro indicated his government might turn sugar land to other uses if it cannot sell sugar to the United States at the premium price it now gets under the sugar quota act.

"If sugar cane is left over," he said, "we will devote that land to other purposes, to grains, vegetables and other products."

Soviet Automation Baffles The West

By STANLEY JOHNSON
MOSCOW (AP) — Western experts say they are flabbergasted by Soviet achievements in automation.

"They will really get way ahead unless we buckle down to work," said one top British authority attending the first International Congress on Automations.

The British visitors said the Soviets had used a "leap frog technique" — skipping intermediate steps the West had to make—in their development of automatic devices for computation and control systems in industry.

"They sat down to think for five or six years and now the result of this thought is beginning to pay off," said one visitor.

The consensus of Westerners after a tour of the Soviet Institute of Automation and Telemechanics was that it was far ahead of anything in the West, with only the Massachusetts Institute of Technology remotely approaching the standards of the Soviet institute.

"We've been a bit shattered," said one Western delegate. "We never dreamed this level had been reached."

Another told reporters: "If you want a general opinion, just say we are all lost in admiration."

What called forth the panegyrics were self-optimizing systems and pneumatic computing instruments, neither of which, the experts said, had been achieved in the West.

The first of these is basically a self-correcting control system. The Soviets are using it to control temperatures in steel mills and also to keep power in radio transmitters at the most efficient level.

The pneumatic computers have no moving parts and thus are more reliable than the electronic devices used in the West. They also can be safely used in such places as chemical plants where electronic controls would be hazardous.

They are not nearly so fast as electronic devices, but it was pointed out that speed was not always vital. In this connection, the Soviets are also developing highly advanced electronic computers.

Skies Clear Over Texas

By The Associated Press
Skies were clear and bright over most of Texas Wednesday but floodwaters from torrential downpours over the weekend continued to plague South Texas points.

A serious flood threat developed on the San Bernard River south of Houston. The river had reached a stage of 30 feet and in spots was 400 feet wide. A number of camps and homes have been flooded and the small towns of Sweeney and Old Ocean were virtually surrounded by floodwaters.

Cypress Creek which flows into the west fork of the San Jacinto River north of Houston crested Tuesday, flooding a number of small towns' camps and homes. At Lake Houston, one resort alone lost 22 boats, 5 of them houseboats.

Federal Payroll Numbers Listed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional survey showed today 2,393,409 civilian workers on federal payrolls at the end of May.

The report by the Senate-House Committee on Reduction of Non-essential Government Expenditures said the total was 124,806 lower than for April. It marked the first decline in the number on the federal payrolls since the end of January.

45 Miners Killed In Mine Explosion

ABERTILLERY, Wales (AP) — Rescue teams slowly moved to the surface today with the bodies of 45 miners killed in an explosion 1,000 feet below ground in a south Wales coal mine.

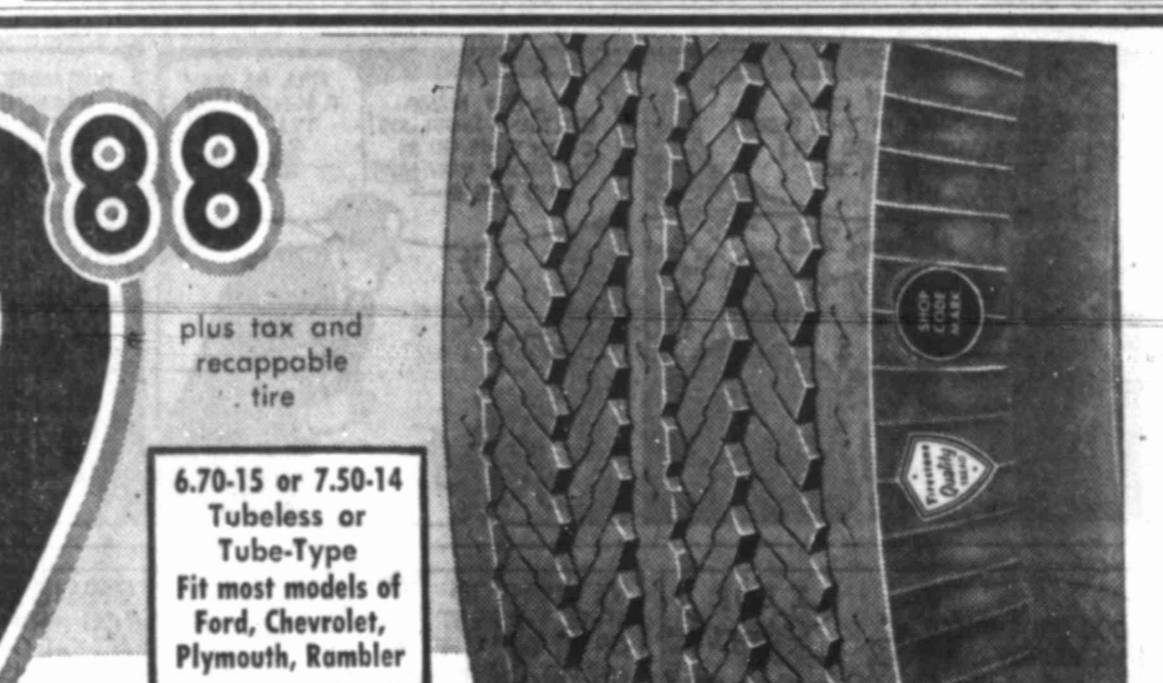

The dead lay in a mile-wide pocket of lethal carbon monoxide gas.

The explosion Tuesday came with a flash and a roar, dumping tons of rock as 700 men worked on the morning shift.

City Dads Create Disaster Committee; Delay Purchases

By JACK RADER
The possibility of buying surplus communications equipment prompted postponement of purchase of police radios and standby generators Tuesday night, although bids were opened on both items.

The city commission, meeting in regular session, passed an ordinance creating a Municipal Defense and Disaster Relief committee under which surplus equipment can be purchased from the Civil Defense organization.

Welcome For King

President Eisenhower gives a welcoming hand to King Bhumibol Adulyadej at Washington National Airport as the American-born chief of Thailand and his queen, left, arrived for a four-day state visit. In the rear are Mrs. Herter and Secretary of State Christian Herter.

Lamesa Considers Increase In Rates To Swing Election

LAMESA — In an effort to obtain enough revenue to swing a bond election for water and sewer improvements, the Lamesa City Council is now considering rate increases on water, sewer and garbage collection.

The proposals were presented at a recent meeting of the group, along with a bonding representative's estimate on the amount of bonds that could be voted. The council has voted to submit the proposals to the people for public reaction.

The council feels that the engineer's recommendations should be followed. The proposed rate increases:

Water, an increase of 20 per cent to bring in $38,000 additional revenue.

Sewer, an increase of $1 per month to net about $36,000.

Garbage collection, an increase of 50 cents per month to bring in about $22,500.

The bonding representative estimates this would add about $96,000 to an available budget of about $44,000 — giving a total of $140,000 available for bonds. The bonds that could be sold would amount to one dollar in revenue bonds and about $450,000 in tax bonds.

According to the city's consulting engineer, the immediate needs

Kelly Valued Character

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The late John B. Kelly, Philadelphia millionaire and father of Princess Grace of Monaco, told his family in his will he would give them character. Instead of money if he had the choice.

"The reason I say that is, with character, you will get worldly goods, because character is loyalty, honesty, ability, sportsmanship, and, I hope, a sense of humor," Kelly said.

The will, written by Kelly himself, leaves most of his estate to his wife, three daughters, and his son.

The estate was estimated at upward of $500,000 for probate purposes. This does not include his ownership of the nation's largest brick contracting firm which bears his name, the Atlantic City Race Track or other corporate holdings.

Kelly, Olympic rowing champion of the 1920s, who died last week of cancer at 70, dictated the will April 14. It was made public Tuesday.

Junior Volunteers Increase To 50

The number of junior volunteers at the VA Hospital continued to grow this week. One junior worker, Dan Comb Jr., was orientated Monday along with a senior volunteer, Mrs. Ann Brooks of Monahan.

Mrs. Ara Cunningham, director of volunteers, reported that a group of DeMolays, consisting of seven or eight, plans to undergo orientation into the program Thursday, bringing the number of junior workers close to 50.

She also reported that three junior volunteers are working in Social Service this summer. They are Mary Locke Crosland, Shirley Terry and Kay Crowover.

Turner Attends Service Course

Gene Turner, operator of the Mobil Service Station at 1211 Eleventh Place, has recently completed special training in the latest methods of service station operation.

For two weeks, specialists at Mobil Oil Company's Sales Department Center discussed with Turner and other dealers ways to offer better service for the American motorist.

Suit Mounts To $30,400

LAMESA — A civil suit against the City of Lamesa has mounted to $30,400 and attorneys for the plaintiff have indicated they may seek an additional 10 per cent penalty when the case reaches the bench of the Supreme Court.

These developments transpired after the Court of Civil Appeals in Eastland last week reformed and affirmed the judgement of a Dawson County jury which awarded damages in the amount of $29,400 to Mrs. Myrtle Hutchinson. The plaintiff was seeking damages for the accidental death of her husband in 1958.

The late H. B. Hutchinson was killed while employed by the city street department and the city had acknowledged contributory negligence, assumed risk and claimed "unavoidable accident" during the trial here on Nov. 19, 1959.

The city appealed the judgment on several counts but the appellate court upheld all of the jury's findings and ruled that the court erred when it failed to allow compensation for conscious pain and suffering and awarded an additional $1,000.

In a regular meeting here recently, the city council authorized the city attorney to proceed with appeal proceedings.

Forrest Bowers, Lubbock attorney, indicated that he probably would seek an additional 10 per cent penalty for his client on the grounds of frivolous appeal when the case reaches the Supreme Court.

Since the date of the original judgment in the local court, the amount has been drawing six per cent interest and will continue to do so until the matter is settled in the courts.

Meeting Set

The executive committee of the Industrial Foundation will meet Thursday at noon to discuss two industrial prospects and the best ways of dealing with them.

Chamber Plans Special Course

A talk by Robert Reilly, district manager of the United States Chamber of Commerce, to local chamber members Tuesday served to set in motion plans for establishing a nine-week course on politics in Big Spring.

Reilly explained that U. S. Chamber-sponsored "Action course in practical politics" program which is now being used in 1,063 communities in fifty states. The course contains information about everyday politics and requires attendance at nine two-hour workshops.

Twenty is usually the maximum number enrolled in a class. The National Chamber makes available all necessary work materials for the course, including a set of eight pamphlets for each participant, case problems describing typical political problems common to every community, assignment guides and a discussion leader's manual.

The local chamber is now formulating plans for such a course to begin immediately in the Big Spring area, but as yet a group leader has not been chosen.

Crashes Involve Two Parked Cars

Two accidents involving parked cars were among five traffic mishaps investigated by police during the past 24 hours.

Vince Jones, 1108 Ruppels, was in collision in the 600 block of 4th with a parked car owned by W. E. Rayburn, Big Spring.

Sue Adams, Sterling City, collided with a parked car at 18th and Gregg. Owner of the parked vehicle is Milton Johnson, 101 N. Cottonwood.

Jim Houston Tike, Coahoma, was in collision with Dave Duncan, Big Spring, at 17th and Scurry.

Nealie Urban Taylor, 400 Donley, and Harley Claude Cannaday, 1210 Ridge Rd., were in collision at Circle Dr. and Stadium.

Varnie Lewis Jones, Knott, collided with Carroll Coates, 1301 Blackmon, in the 300 block of Abrams.

Record Amounts Of Water Used During Heat Wave

Big Spring turned on the faucet to loose record breaking amounts of water during the heat wave June 14-27 when the mercury dropped below 100 degrees on only four days.

During that 14-day period the total water used by the city was 147,073,000 gallons. That was nearly twice what was consumed during the same two weeks in 1959 when the highest temperature was 99. Last year, 83,520,000 gallons were used from June 14 to 27.

The highest rate of consumption came last Wednesday and Thursday when the city started pumping water from Powell Lake and the O'Barry well field. Wednesday when the mercury hit 103, the city took 12,236,000 gallons, and Thursday, with a high of 102, a record 12,311,000 gallons was used.

Marquees Reflect Decline Of Movies

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Feel like going to a movie? —

If you lived in Los Angeles, you would have a choice of seeing such attractions as these at first-run theaters:
"Battle in Outer Space" and "12 to the Moon." "Macumba Love" ("blood - lust of the voodoo queen") and "3 Came to Kill." "The Sign of Zorro" (feature created from a TV series). "I Passed for White" and "The Hypnotic Eye." "Good Girls Beware" and "The Desperate Women" ("hits abortion racket"). "Hannibal" (and his crazed elephant army). Quite a selection. Of course, there are also some quality films showing, often on double features with reissues. But an increasing number of bills are cheap films, mostly foreign made and designed to shock or titillate. Many of them are scarcely above the peep-show level.

An ancient saying in Hollywood runs: There is nothing wrong with the movie business that good pictures can't cure. Hallelujah! The film industry has been assaulted by TV and other demands on the public's leisure time. But that old saying remains true. Hollywood's biggest problem is still from within, not without.

Proof of the potential health of the film business is the fact that hit pictures can make more money than ever before. Fantastic profits can be reaped from films like "The Ten Commandments," "Around the World in 80 Days," "The Shaggy Dog," "Bridges on the River Kwai," "Sayonara" and "Giant."

Obviously Hollywood isn't making enough hits. The big question is why? It is easy—and partly true—to say that these are troubled times that create little greatness in books, plays and all creative fields. Even so, Hollywood is not producing its best effort, considering the talent and money lavished here.

The reason to this observer seems to be anarchy that followed the collapse of the big-studio operation. The rulers of the town are no longer studio bosses interested in making good films but agents, interested in making good deals.

The agents derive power from stars, who can dictate their terms to producers. To get Cary Grant to do "Operation Petticoat," Universal had to give him ownership of the film.

The decline of producer power is shaking the producers' association itself. Under tough Joe Breen, the production code office kept close rein on morality in films and supplied taste that might be lacking in some movie makers. More adult films were badly needed, but in loosening restraints, the code often gives license for tasteless films of sex and sadism.

The big studio is dead, never to return. Some new way must be found to continue its functions if the film industry is to survive.

Next: Walt Disney, George Stevens and Mark Robson discuss Hollywood's past errors and future hopes.

French Girl New TV Star

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Movie Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Annie Farge dropped into town for a few hours between jet planes en route from Paris to Hollywood to become an American TV star. Not many people know the name now but Annie already is reconciled to the fact that when they do, they won't pronounce it right anyway. Her name is pronounced Far-jay because there is an accent mark over the "e."

But as Farge or Far-jay, tiny and pretty Annie is excited about the future. A graduate of Paris' Comedie Francaise, she is completely unknown to American audiences. She has been selected to star in "Angel," a situation comedy scheduled to start on CBS early in October.

Barbecue

Betty Johnson has her barbecue equipment set up on the new mile-long beach in preparation for the July 3rd barbecue and water ski show, that annually brings 10,000 visitors to Rockport on the Texas Tropical Coast.

Liquor Board Receipts Bared

AUSTIN (AP)—The Liquor Control Board took in $2,823,763 last month from liquor license and permit fees, confiscated sales, and liquor taxes.

The board said Tuesday that during May it filed 519 liquor law violation complaints. The 467 liquor law convictions last month netted the state $35,911 in fines and court costs.

Four local option elections during May left two dry areas unchanged, made a third wet, and brought all alcoholic beverages into an area formerly open only to beer.
