

Masters' Open New Cafeteria

By KAY LOVELAND
Joe and Mae Masters, owners of the new Masters Cafeteria at 217 Main, feel that there is no substitute for good food. In fact, that's the motto of their new establishment.

"We plan to satisfy our customers in three respects," said Masters, "through eye appeal, taste appeal and price appeal."

The new cafeteria, which has its formal opening Wednesday, is the realization of a dream the Masters have had for several years. It has long been their ambition to provide Big Spring with a fine food establishment, and it was to this end that they began working in 1945 when they took over the Campus Canteen across the street from the old high school, now Runnels Junior High.

The food business really began as a side interest for Masters, who had been employed for twenty-five years by an oil company in Midland. But his interest soon led him to enter it fulltime.

JOE MASTERS

MAE MASTERS

After running the Canteen for two years, the Masters, who have been partners in all their food ventures, bought the State Drug Store next door to the State Theater.

Operating the Canteen had begun the Masters' dealings with teen-agers and this did not stop when they took over the drug store.

"In those days it was the gathering place for all the college students," Mrs. Masters reminisces.

"Much of our business success is due to the teen-agers who have made up a majority of our customers in the last few years," Mrs. Masters says. "Of course, having three daughters, each with her own separate crowd, has been the basic reason for so much teen trade."

The Masters' three daughters are all married now. The oldest, Jan, is Mrs. Bobby Wheeler of Andrews. Judy, Mrs. Al Kloven Jr., lives in Brownwood, and youngest, Cherry, Mrs. Ross Plant, gave the Masters the right to call themselves grandparents with the birth of Jody almost a year ago.

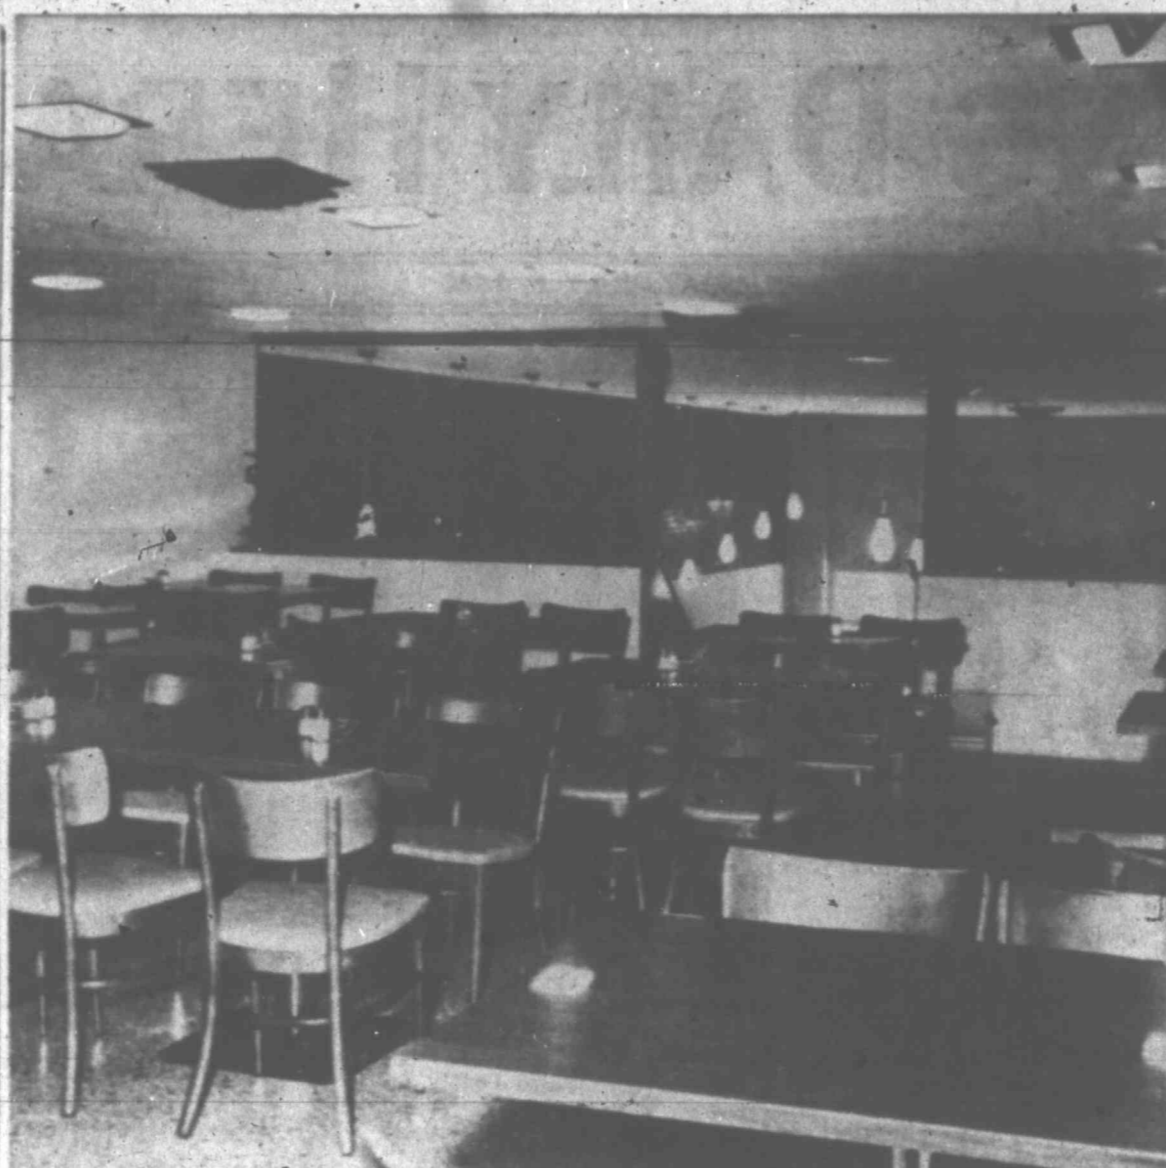

Although the Masters owned the State Drug for about five years, they actively ran it for only a year and then they built the original Masters Drive-In at 2011 Gregg. Two successful years of operation there led to the building of the popular Big M Drive-In about four years ago and operation of that establishment was just turned over to Herbert and Lee Vinson a few months ago. Actual construction of the cafeteria began May 1.

The Texas-she's from Snyder and he's from Comanche. They were married in Lovington, N.M., on December 19, 1952, and they lived in Midland for several years before moving to Big Spring to take their chances in the food business.

"This cafeteria is the result of much hard work over many years. All our smaller endeavors have culminated in the realization of it. For years we have recognized the need for it in Big Spring, and we feel our experience indicates a good knowledge of the food business," states Masters.

"We enjoyed our drive-ins a great deal, but we feel that we will like the cafeteria business even more because it will give us a chance to get to know our customers since we will be working as cashiers most of the time," said Mrs. Masters.

Although the cafeteria is the attainment of one dream, however, it is not the end of their ambitions. "Our real hope is that sometime in the future we will be able to establish a fine, distinctive steak house in Big Spring," Mrs. Masters confesses.

Balcony Of Cafeteria

With a seating capacity of eight-two, the balcony of Masters' Cafeteria is only one level of the three-floor establishment, capable of seating 250. It is decorated in green, pimento and desert sand, with cherry wood furnishings.

Modern Cafeteria Employs 24; Designed For Fast Production

Homemade pastries and five different meat entrees every day are two features of Masters' Cafeteria, which opens formally Wednesday at 217 Main.

The cafeteria also features various types of salads and varied selections of vegetables, breads and drinks. This variety in selection is largely due to the completely equipped kitchen and the large staff.

The kitchen is modern in every respect, with automatic potato peelers, steamers that cook 150 pounds of vegetables in three minutes and up-to-date refrigeration. Ample storage facilities are located below the kitchen, where meat is weighed and butchered. The kitchen appliances are stainless steel.

At the present time, twenty-four people are employed on the cafeteria staff. There are four regular cooks, and five people serve the line. The production manager for the cafeteria is Ralph Bunting, formerly with Colonial Cafeterias and Summer's Restaurants in Fort Worth and San Antonio. George Spence of Midland is the chief baker.

"Our kitchen is designed for fast, but complete, production of food," says Joe Masters, owner. According to Bunting, the kitchen is capable of serving up to 3,000 people daily.

The new cafeteria is made of three levels, with a seating capacity of 250. The balcony will seat about 80. Located in that area are the public lounges.

The main dining area will hold over 70 people, and the serving line is placed at the rear.

Downstairs is the Rock Room, a banquet-room that can be reserved for parties, banquets and private meetings. Seating capacity is between ninety-two and one hundred, and a separate serving line is provided there for special occasions and when there is an overflow crowd.

An intercom system which connects the three levels, is used by Mrs. Masters in her job of overseeing the establishment.

In the front of the building, on the main floor, is the cashier's stand and a small waiting room where candy and cigars are sold. "The cafeteria will be open from 6:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. every day," says Mrs. Masters, "and we are fully equipped to give our customers the best and most efficient service."

Distinctive Design

The distinctive interior decorating in Masters' Cafeteria, 217 Main, was designed and arranged by the owners, Joe and Mae Masters, with the help of Thurman Douglas, general contractor.

Predominating colors in the three-floor establishment are desert sand, green and pimento. The stairway and balustrades leading to the balcony are made entirely of cherry wood, and the stairs are covered with a pimento carpet.

The downstairs banquet room, called the Rock Room, has a "covered" atmosphere with its walls being made entirely of polished rocks. A fireplace is located in one corner of the room, a planter in another, and an extra serving counter occupies the back wall. Colors of the rock wall are heightened by the pimento carpet and the cherry wood supports.

A cool, calm, away-from-it-all atmosphere is enhanced by various types of artificial plants and flowers placed throughout the building. During hot summer days, customers may enjoy refrigerated air and dine to music by Muzak.

Front Doesn't Reveal All

Just as you can't tell a book by its cover, neither can you tell all about Masters' Cafeteria by its front. By looking at this shot of the building, one would think there was only one floor, or two at the most, but it'll fool you! There's actually three floors, all decorated in the most comfortable and modern style. And there's a large staff ready to be of friendly and efficient service to you.

A Devotional For Today

Sir, we would see Jesus (John 12:21).
PRAYER: Heavenly Father, we would have Jesus come to our home today and be our companion in all we do and say. May the power of the Holy Spirit work through us so that they may recognize Thy love at work in us and see Thy glory manifested through us. In Jesus' blessed name. Amen.

What's The Word For Money?

Politicians who planned a few months ago to make "tight money" a leading issue in the 1960 campaign may be doing a lot of homework to try to understand the subject they injected into the headlines.

As a matter of fact, there are indications that the staff of the Federal Reserve Board is somewhat perplexed by the action of the money supply which it endeavors to regulate. This consists of the total of checking account deposits in banks and of currency in circulation.

Last year complaints were made that the money supply should be increased in order adequately to serve business. Since January the reserve system has increased the available reserves of its member banks by approximately half a million dollars. This is supposed to mean that banks will be freer to make loans, most of which will be set up on their books as deposits to the account of their customers.

Yet deposits have not increased. On the contrary they decreased sharply, by about 1 1/2 per cent, in May. One theory is that large corporations are carrying more of their cash in short-term government securities (bills) instead of bank deposits. Another, that depositors drew down their accounts for income tax payments.

Whatever the cause of the decline, it does not seem to have affected business adversely. Interest rates are a little easier and money is reasonably available to business borrowers. Loan commitments by savings and loan associations to home buyers were up substantially in April. And business activity indexes show steadiness if not improvement.

Doubtless there are neat, orderly answers and explanations to be had if one knows where to hunt for them. But crossword puzzles look easier. What's a five-letter word for cash, currency, coinage, wampum, mazzama, and built-in mystery?

Continuing Crisis Of Water Supply

Water supply had to be rationed in well over 1,000 communities in the United States in one year recently, and may have to be rationed again, this summer, according to a new brochure—"Water, a Matter of Survival; and Pollution, a Matter of Health," released by the National Water Institute.

One half of the 125 million people who use public water supplies can't be sure of having water available on a hot summer day to put out a major fire, the institute finds. It further said:

"In 75 of 125 communities water is deficient in supply."

"Two of five are deficient in transmission capacity."

"One of three is deficient in pumping capacity."

"Storage deficiencies range from 25 per cent to 45 per cent respectively."

"Distribution system improvements are required in 57 per cent of the water systems."

The National Water Institute has prepared the material in the interest of public service to alert the nation to the impending crisis in water supply and pollution control.

Population increases and the tremendous demands placed on our water utilities by new farms and labor saving appliances, have caused many water and sewage treatment plants to become overburdened. Increased use of water by industry and suburban home developments have increased the need for new treatment plants.

Only through the cooperation of the citizens of this nation can the trained water and sewage utility managers hope to meet these increased needs. Funds have to be provided through public issues to purchase the much needed equipment.

Kennedy-Johnson Battle To Erupt

By WILLIAM S. WHITE
(Writing for Marquis Childs, who is on vacation)

WASHINGTON — Senator Lyndon B. Johnson is now going all the way for the Democratic Presidential nomination. A struggle of rarely matched political drama with his chief rival, Senator John F. Kennedy, is now beginning to show.

So long as there was some chance of finishing the heavy docket of Congressional business before the important preliminaries of the Democratic National Convention—now almost at hand—Johnson was not willing to throw his campaign into urgent activity. He felt that as the Senate Democratic leader he must put the legislative program first—in his own interest and in the interest of his party generally.

Humphrey, Humphrey until his defeat in the primaries was himself a Presidential aspirant. He has great influence over some 60 convention delegate votes—a bloc which could become very important even though 761 are required to nominate.

For two years the Kennedy-Johnson contest has proceeded in an atmosphere where Kennedy was ceaselessly on the move and Johnson hardly visibly moving at all. It is now to become a hotly spotlighted contest — on both sides — of acute and brilliant professionalism not seen in this generation.

Kennedy's weapons are many; his long head start in the race; his greater acceptability to the liberal forces which will control at least the mechanisms of the convention; his position as the frontrunner.

IN THE MEANTIME, however, it became obvious that Congress could not possibly finish before the convention, which formally opens July 11, without the loss of important bills in the rush. This is why he moved to recess Congress and have it come back after the convention. The curiously mixed resistance to this—some from pro-Kennedy Democrats and some from Republicans—told its own story. Its effect was to seek to the Johnson to his job while Kennedy continued to run away with the pre-convention headlines.

Johnson, however, will in any event no longer be so tied.

Johnson's own guns, however, though fewer in number are hardly less formidable in total firepower. His position in the party structure is far higher. His experience is far greater. And those delegates pledged to him, though fewer than those pledged to Kennedy, are on the whole more unshakably committed.

NOBODY questions that Kennedy is ahead as of now. But even politicians leaning to Kennedy are reserving their freedom of movement. For one thing, any possibility of a serious run for a third contender, Senator Stuart Symington, of Missouri, is now regarded as all but nonexistent. This being so, the presently pro-Symington votes must go somewhere.

THE FIRST Johnson cannonading has come by way of charges—which former President Truman touched off with his Saturday statement—that Kennedy's backers have "rigged" the coming Democratic convention in his favor. This complaint will be directed especially at a Kennedy partisan who controls the convention arrangements, Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler.

A second charge will disclose an effort to set up a Johnson Presidential ticket on which the Vice-Presidential nominee would be a Catholic, Senator Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota. This would be designed to break into the heavy support of Catholic Democratic politicians for Kennedy, who is himself a Catholic.

Where they will go is only one of a dozen great questions now hanging over the scene. One point, however, is altogether certain. Though it may or may not help on election day in November, the Democratic convention show of July will surely blanket that of the Republican convention which nominated Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the presidency.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

New Jersey state civil defense officials were "hopping mad" because they were not notified immediately of the fire recently in a Bormar missile armed with a nuclear warhead.

The fire scattered some radioactive material in the immediate vicinity of the pad and completely ruined the million-dollar missile, but it did not set off the nuclear charge.

Lucky thing, too. Because the normal procedure for notifying the civil defense people is for the Bormar base to notify the state police, who notify the attorney general, who notifies the governor, who notifies the civil defense officials.

And what can they do then? Tell all the people for 50 miles around to seek shelter.

HST Left Questions Unanswered

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was a strange performance. Former President Truman got headlines in a sensational way—by implying next week's Democratic convention is rigged—without there still being any unanswered questions about Truman himself.

He implied—although Truman is a man who always prided himself on his frankness—that the forces behind Sen. John F. Kennedy's presidential ambitions had the convention "fixed."

But he did it only by innuendo. He never said it flatly. He never got specific. He never gave details, and although he said he knew first-hand of some instances he never gave examples.

THIS LACK of example was one of the things Kennedy complained of Monday when, in a nationwide answer on TV, he pledged himself to a non-rigged, open convention.

Truman said he had resigned as a delegate to the convention because he had no desire to be a "party to proceedings" that are taking on the aspects of a pre-arranged affair.

"A convention which is controlled in advance by one group and its candidate leaves the delegates no opportunity for a Democratic choice and reduces the convention to a mockery," Truman went on.

After a few more paragraphs in the prepared statement Truman, without making a direct link between the alleged rigging and the Kennedy forces, said he was disappointed in "the manner in which some of the backers" of Kennedy have acted although he more or less absolved Kennedy himself from taking part in whatever they are supposed to have done.

Winning With Brave Money

NEW YORK (AP)—"You can't win with scared money," said Joseph E. Levine, a short man with wide pockets.

"When you spend it, don't think of it as money. If you do, you're dead."

Levine, a former Boston dress salesman, is currently one of the financial marvels of the ailing movie industry.

By lavish promotional expenditures he has been able to build up a series of relatively obscure low-cost foreign films into a staggering payoff at American box offices.

Example: He bought the Italian-made "Hercules" for $125,000, invested that much again in advertising, new sound effects and fresh titles, then poured $1,150,000 into a whirlwind advertising campaign.

The result: "Maybe it didn't satisfy the critics," said Levine, "but the 30 per cent of the people who go to the movies loved it. It has grossed over 15 million dollars so far—and more than 18 million people have seen it."

In the next 30 days Levine has announced he will spend $1,300,000 promoting his latest venture—"Hercules Unchained." He believes this is the largest amount ever spent to promote a single film in that space of time.

Levine, whose personal hero is P. T. Barnum, operates on the theory that it is better to spend yourself rich than to save yourself into bankruptcy.

"Many good pictures come out of Hollywood and fall because nobody knows about them," he said. "They aren't exploited properly."

"Pictures are a circus business, and you have to use circus techniques. If you don't advertise to day, you don't sell—and I don't care what your product is."

Some cautious movie industry figures believe Levine's big-spending formula will in the end be self-defeating. He is confident it won't.

Joe, one of a family of 13 kids, shined shoes and sold newspapers as a boy. He quit school at 14, once owned a chain of dress shops, has been a regional picture distributor for 25 years.

He is pretty sure he knows people and what they want in entertainment. His program has been so successful over the last five years that many foreign producers now have jacked up the price of their films.

Poor no more, Levine isn't worried by this. He is arranging to cooperate abroad with one of the turgid, colorful spectacle movies he favors.

When aides question his big budgetary splurges, the gregarious little showman dismisses their objections with a genial wave of his stubby paw.

"You can't win with scared money," he says.

Lightning-Rods Disappear

Our forefathers must have had a much greater fear of lightning than we do today. Used to be nearly every house boasted a full set of eye-catching devices called lightning rods.

I passed a house the other afternoon which still had its full quota of lightning rods, complete with the twisted heavy metal cable which leads from the rods to the ground. It revived memories.

"And that was 50 years ago," he would announce.

No one could dispute what he said. However, there was a house right next to his which had been there when his own was built. It had no lightning rods and it, too, had never been a thunderbolt target.

I am told that round the turn of the century the salesman who peddled these gadgets worked a pretty neat racket on some of their customers. They would sell the rods and then glibly inform the purchaser that he must sign a contract. The contract was in very small print and very often the buyer didn't bother to read it. He signed and the salesman went his way. The rods, of course, were paid for in advance. They were duly delivered, too.

REN FRANKLIN invented lightning rods, as I recall. Probably after his experiment with the kite, the key and the thunderstorm. I do not know if Ben manufactured the gadgets and peddled them to his fellow Philadelphians. Probably not. He invented a considerable number of things including a stove but I do not remember ever hearing that he sought to profit on his ideas.

BUT THAT CONTRACT? It turned out to be a note which the sharp salesman peddled to some bank at a discount. The bank, in its turn, called on the customer for payment. He howled and protested sometimes but the salesman was long gone and the note, once he read all its text, was gilt edge. Some of the victims wished that lightning would strike them.

I suppose that the principle back of the lightning rod is perfectly sound. I never saw a house with lightning rods which had been struck by a thunderbolt. However, come to think of it, I have never seen very many houses struck by lightning whether they had rods or not.

The lightning rod is vanishing from the American scene like the buffalo. They're almost museum pieces already. But when they were in their heyday, it must be admitted that the spiked metal spears atop residential roofs was a sort of accepted trademark that the house's owner was a cut above the millrun citizens of a town.

I REMEMBER AN oldtimer whose roof literally bristled with lightning rods. He had 'em on every gable, across the rim of his roof. They were those ornate kind with a weather vane atop the center rod.

He proudly boasted that his house had not been struck with lightning since he had placed the rods on the roof.

Rockefeller Sounds The Fire Alarm

Who can blame the Republican party for sobbing its heart out in righteous anger over the awful assasiny of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller? Who can blame the father image for weeping when the prodigal son romps off the reservation?

Has a political party ever before been so bitterly disappointed, so basely deceived? The Governor is the very image of the GOP dreamboat: a tall, dark, handsome man with money. He is big business with capital Bs. He is rich as chocolate pot de creme. And he is terribly successful where it counts the most—in commerce.

MR. ROCKEFELLER believes that his party and all Americans in this election year should debate the great issues, and he is doing so in a series of speeches.

The very Republicans who danced in the streets and cried "Good Oldy Rocky" when the New Yorker defied Democratic Averell Harriman for the governorship in November, 1958, are now gathering the faggots for a sure auto-defeat. They are outraged that he dares to say the U. S. defense posture is vulnerable.

AND YET THIS dreamboat has had the effrontery, in an election year with everything sewed up and in the bag, to challenge his party to a great debate on issues vital to the very survival of the nation and the free world wherever it still exists today.

BUT EVEN his detractors in the GOP must be a trifle embarrassed at the announcement that before his address last week at the Governors' conference on the American defense lag, he was privately briefed for three and one-half hours by Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. and other Pentagon aides—and briefed at the Secretary's suggestion.

Mr. Rockefeller has had the bad taste to suggest that all is not for the best in this best of Republican worlds. He has outraged the conservatives of the GOP, who have a tight hold on the party machinery, by suggesting public discussion of national and international events when all the Republicans want is a soothing interior monologue, based on Engle Coue, consisting of "Every day, in every way, we are getting better and better."

The Governor will be lucky to be read out of the party and not ridden out on a rail because of his conviction that in a mortally dangerous world situation, with world-communism on the march and the offensive, this nation cannot continue on a business-as-usual basis.

FOR SOME REASON that apparently is difficult for his party to fathom, Mr. Rockefeller is not convinced, despite his pre-eminence in big business, that "The business of America is business." Apparently Mr. Rockefeller feels that times have changed since Calvin Coolidge, or he may be such a dangerous radical that he has never agreed with that Coolidge ukase.

MR. ROCKEFELLER is running scared, not of the GOP, but of the rapidly changing world situation, of a belligerent China that may have an atom bomb of its own within the next year, of possible Russian bases in Cuba, of the dangerous situation in Japan, of the free world's loss of courage in its, of the revolutionary surge in Africa, and of the administration's eternal Milroyes to the effect that every catastrophic diplomatic defeat is, somehow, a great moral victory.

The New York Governor has proved himself equally dangerous in challenging another sacred GOP tenet, the cult of personality. Not only does he believe that certain Republican policies are not above question, but he—O, treason, this!—has the rest of us should be grateful that the Governor has had the courage to turn in a fire alarm.

Turning Big Wars Into Little Wars

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Alfred Nobel, dynamite-inventor, and Andrew Carnegie, steelmonger; both had attacks of conscience and founded woolly-minded institutions for world peace. Now comes another weapons-maker, the Convair Division of General Dynamics Corp., manufacturer of Atlas, our only operational intercontinental missile, with a much more cogent scheme. The objective is not exclusive and illusory peace, but a limitation of war.

I am in possession of a galley proof study entitled, "A Doctrine for Limited War," which I have permission to discuss although it is still technically under "security review" at the Pentagon. The work is the product of a two-year, Convair-sponsored project by a blue-ribbon panel of scholar-scientists.

It exists in three general phases:

1. Why resign as a delegate? Having alerted the convention with his Saturday statement, why didn't he, if he felt so strongly about it, then go to the convention as a delegate and fight what he didn't like?

2. Wasn't this the same as telling the other delegates to make a fight which he wasn't willing to go to Los Angeles to make himself?

3. WHAT WAS resigning as a delegate going to accomplish except to deprive the convention of Truman?

4. Why, if he felt so strongly about it, didn't he go all the way in alerting the delegates by telling them specifically about the instances of rigging he said he himself knew?

5. Why did he even hold a news conference after making his TV statement if he didn't want to answer reporters' questions?

Only one thing came through clearly: Truman wanted to stop Kennedy in the most sensational way he could think of—a nationwide broadcast on TV.

NUCLEAR: If we could recover the optimum position of American supremacy in world-shattering weapons, we would have the Big Stick. We could threaten a "preemptive" strike at an enemy who was cocking his fist at one of our allies. Of course, we would have to be convincing about these threats. We might have to be (or seem to be) as ruthless and depraved as the Reds have pictured us. Well, why not? We didn't drop any germs on North Korea, but the Communists said we did and millions of people have evidently believed it. So, if we ever again reach the fortunate position of nuclear supremacy, where we could conceivably bomb and not be bombed back, let's not give away the advantage by acting so holy.

THE WORK could be called (probably not by the authors) an informed proposal to return to the good old days before American statesmen thought it intelligent and "internationalist" to turn small wars into big ones, and local frays into universal conflagrations.

While warfare can't be abolished (men and nations being what they are), it can be intelligently restricted within the self-interest of the opponents. A war remains limited, the authors say, "as long as neither major participant feels that its survival is threatened." Keenly-selected examples from history are given, the most recent being the 1958 "flap" when the Red Chinese tried to take Quemoy-Matser by bombardment, and the Nationalist Chinese (without help) prevented it. Limitation of war refers only to its goals, not to its savagery or intensity.

CONVENTIONAL: While World War III need not be fought with all-out weapons, it certainly cannot be successfully fought with those weapons of World War II and of the Korean conflict. Weapons have become more accurate and deadly, reconnaissance has become ultrasonic and many tactical weapons have become atomic. Armed with the best of modern conventional weapons, we can win any limited war, anywhere. Without the best, we can be beaten.

WE CANNOT ALWAYS force an enemy to limit his objectives, but we can make it advantageous for him to do so. Neither an aggressor nor a defender would go to strategic, megaton nuclear bombs if the move would cost him the purpose of his fight. By building up a nuclear arsenal and the vehicles to deliver the punch, we are issuing the would-be aggressor what amounts to a command invitation to come on and fight, since fight he must for the goal he seeks, but for nothing beyond that goal.

It is very likely, by the nature of the Communist revolution and the Western alliances, that limited wars will be fought in the 1960's. In order to keep them limited, and to win them with allied troops of our own, we must have what the authors of this work aptly call a "spectrum of ca-

BIO-CHEMICAL: The authors hold that lethal germs and gases have no advantage over nuclear explosives—but future warfare with non-lethal weapons holds large, unexplored possibilities.

Although rarely presented as a fact of future war, the humble Home Guard may become one of the most effective forces. We may have to deal with civil disturbances, with fitful columns and with massive disasters.

Anybody, or any group like these thinkers in the Convair project, who can turn big wars back into little wars will deserve the gratitude of mankind.

Kennedy Not Stepping Aside For 'Anyone'

By The Associated Press
Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) says he won't step aside at anyone's request, including that of former President Harry S. Truman.

That was Kennedy's reply Monday to Truman's suggestion that maybe Kennedy isn't old enough or experienced enough to be the Democratic nominee for president.

"I have encountered and survived every kind of hazard and opposition," Kennedy told a New York news conference, "and I do not intend to withdraw my name now, on the eve of the convention."

Kennedy gave this point by point rebuttal to the charges Truman aired Saturday in a similar televised news conference:

"Prearranged" convention—Kennedy said "to the extent that I have anything to do with it, it will be an open convention. To me, an open convention means one reflecting the free will of delegates freely elected in contested primaries and state conventions. I was the only candidate to risk my chances in all the primaries—the only one to visit every state."

YEARS IN CONGRESS
"Maturity"—Kennedy noted he has served in Congress for 14 years, and was a World War II naval officer for four years before that. If that's not enough experience, he added, all but three of the 10 possible candidates mentioned by Truman were ruled out, and all but a handful of past presidents.

James M. Burns says Kennedy contracted malaria during World War II and suffered from exposure when his PT boat was sunk the ailment he later suffered might be diagnosed as a mild case of Addison's disease.

Kennedy's response to Truman's charges won praise from several top Democrats, including Adlai E. Stevenson, a possible rival for the nomination.

Stevenson said "I believe, that Sen. Kennedy made a very good defense of his position, of his youth and of his pre-convention campaign."

Former New York Gov. Averell Harriman, who was Truman's choice at the 1956 convention, commented that Kennedy's reply was made "squarely and forthrightly, without rancor and with respect due our former president. He rightly pointed out that he took the open road to the convention and that his support has been gained that way. I am sure most Americans will be impressed by his statement today."

Adjournment Leaves Capital Almost Barren

WASHINGTON (AP)—A month-long adjournment of Congress until after the presidential nominating conventions left Capitol Hill virtually deserted today.

Congress worked nearly nine hours into Sunday morning before passing a sugar bill and quitting until next month. The Senate will return Aug. 8. The House will come back a week later, on Aug. 15, on the theory it is farther along with its work and can move faster than the Senate.

Even as Kennedy replied to Truman's onslaught, an attack came from another quarter.

Two supporters of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) said Kennedy is suffering from Addison's disease, which is defined as a chronic ailment usually stemming from tuberculosis, involving insufficient production of adrenalin.

A Kennedy aide called this "despicable tactics."

The charge was made at a Los Angeles news conference by John Connally, executive director of Johnson's campaign, and India Edwards, co-chairman of the Citizens-for-Johnson National Committee.

MUSCLE FLEXING
Said Mrs. Edwards, "If it weren't for cortisone, Sen. Kennedy wouldn't be alive. Many doctors have told me about it. It's no disgrace to have it. He has it now. I object to this muscle flexing about his youth as if he were in better health than anybody else."

When newsmen pressed her how she knew of this, she said she learned about it from unnamed doctors. Then Connally broke in and said "let's not belabor the question."

Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press aide, said angrily "it is a sure sign of the desperation of the opposition that they should resort to such despicable tactics just before the convention."

Kennedy's brother Robert told newsmen the senator is "in excellent health with a normal life expectancy. Evidently there are those within the Democratic party who would prefer that if they can not win the nomination themselves they want the Democrat who does win to lose in November."

Robert Kennedy added, "I am confident that Sen. Johnson will repudiate the irresponsible statements of his two supporters."

He said his brother never had Addison's disease, but said it was true he once had an adrenal deficiency.

Leaders of both houses gave up last week the idea that the session could be completed before the Democratic National Convention opens next Monday in Los Angeles. Republicans meet in Chicago July 25.

Several items of major legislation were left for the August session. The Senate has yet to act on bills to provide medical care for the aged and to increase the minimum wage. Both are politically potent in a campaign year, and many Democratic senators want to go beyond provisions already passed by the House.

The Senate also faces a decision on the size of the foreign aid program for next year. President Eisenhower is asking more than the $3,584,500,000 appropriated by the House for the year that started July 1.

The House also has two matters of political import, both tied up in its Rules Committee. One is federal aid to schools, on which the committee thus far has blocked a Senate-House conference to compromise differences between Senate and House-passed bills. The other is an omnibus housing bill which has not been cleared for House action.

Congress wrangled all through Saturday night over the sugar bill, a principal aim of which is to give Eisenhower immediate authority to cut imports from Cuba.

In the end, Congress granted that authority until next April 1, to which date it extended a sugar quota now which would have expired Dec. 31. Differences over what producers should be permitted to make up any deficit in the Cuban quota provided one reason for delay. The Senate sought to delay that decision until August and first passed a simple resolution permitting Cuban quota cuts.

But the House stood firm on its contention that the sugar bill involves tariffs and that under the Constitution only the House can originate tax legislation.

The Senate finally gave in, amended the House bill, and sent it to a conference committee which worked out the measure's final form.

Ulysses S. Grant Welcome In Dixie

By MARTHA COLE
WASHINGTON (AP)—Major Gen. Ulysses S. Grant III, 79 today, has found the latching out among the Southerners.

"They're very hospitable and very cordial," said Grant, who has been going South as chairman of the Civil War Centennial Commission.

Grant, the grandson, gets invitations to go there.

Karl S. Betts, executive director of the commission, reported that a group of Civil War fans in Columbia, S.C., asking for Grant as a guest speaker, said the South Carolinians tried to keep his grandfather out, but "we'll send his grandson back as C. S. Grant."

His grandfather of the same name probably found no welcome mats when he went South almost 100 years ago as general in chief of the Union army.

(CSA was the Confederate States of America).

Grant, a tall, erect, white-haired man, disclosed in an interview that he learned the words to "Dixie," the song of the South, many years ago.

In piebe camp at West Point, he said, a cadet from Mississippi had the tent behind him. "And he required me to sing 'Dixie' every time the band played, no matter what the band was playing," Grant said.

Grant heads a 25-member commission created by Congress to plan and coordinate the 100th anniversary of the great events of the Civil War.

"This is not a celebration, but a commemoration of a terrific struggle which went on in our country, out of which the united country was produced," Grant told Congress in his report this year.

The five-year commemoration will begin Jan. 8, 1961, when the President will deliver a message inviting Americans to participate in remembrance of that part of their history.

On the same day, the academies of the Air Force, the Navy, the Coast Guard and the military at West Point will stage special ceremonies at which the President's message will be read.

In the five-year period, state and local groups, with the help of the National Park Service and the Centennial Commission, will stage re-enactments of battles and other Civil War events and hold commemorative ceremonies. The re-enactments scheduled for the battle of the first Manassas in Virginia; Antietam, Md., and Fort Sumter, S.C., have been drafted on a full-scale authentic portrayal basis.

Congress plans to meet in joint session sometime in October 1962, to mark the 100th anniversary of the Emancipation Proclamation by which Abraham Lincoln declared the slaves free forever.

Kennedy's Wife Expecting Baby

HYANNIS, Mass. (AP)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy, whose husband seeks the Democratic presidential nomination, is expecting.

A spokesman for the family of the Massachusetts senator said Monday night the Kennedys expect the birth of their second child in late November or early December. They have a daughter, Caroline, 2.

The spokesman said Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy will not attend early sessions of the Democratic national convention opening in Los Angeles July 11 but hopes to get to some late sessions.

The family made its announcement after Newsweek magazine reported Mrs. Kennedy was preparing for an addition to the family.

'ROUND TOWN

With LUCILLE PICKLE

If there is any better way to end a vacation than to have a nice rain to fall, I've been scooped. We could do without the sound effects and the fireworks, but it certainly was a pleasure to wake up to a wet morning.

In Dallas for the week is MRS. J. C. IRWIN who is visiting her son and his wife, MR. AND MRS. W. T. IRWIN. W. T. received a degree in industrial engineering from Tech on May 30 and is now assistant to the building engineer at Texas Instruments in Dallas. Mrs. Irwin plans to return here Thursday.

Also in Dallas for the holiday weekend was MRS. C. R. MURDOCK SR. who visited MR. AND MRS. C. A. MURDOCK JR. and their sons, Michael and Derek. She returned here this morning.

MR. AND MRS. RAY DABNEY, MRS. HERK AGEE, and GENNA BETH CLINKSCALES were to return today from Amarillo where they were guests of Mrs. Agee's niece, Mrs. Tynny Fennell, and her family, Tandy Lee Fennell has been here with the Agées for the past five weeks and returned to Amarillo with the local party. During the weekend the group took a ski trip in New Mexico.

After a month in California the C. R. RHOADS family returned here Friday. The three leased a house on Malibu Beach and found they had some well-known neighbors. Among them were Lloyd Bridges, Jane Russell, Jon Hall and Doris Day. Daughter Regina got a few pointers on skin diving and other phases of underwater swimming from the four children of frogman Lloyd Bridges, all of whom are very adept at water sports.

The Rhoadses were joined for a week by a nephew, CHARLES BRATTON, who had just graduated from Sacramento Junior College and was en route to his home in Abilene. The four had a good time on their first grumion "hunt" and managed to scoop in 36 although they were not prepared for the big wave that brought the little fish in.

The visit to the coast city was a reunion of sorts. The local couple, reared in Abilene, were visited by other former Abilenians, the ART GREENS, the JERRY SMITHS, and OLLIE LEE SIZEMORE, all of whom now reside in Los Angeles. From Riverside came former Big Spring residents, MR. AND MRS. AL CIPRIANI.

The Big Spring couple was invited to join a party that was flown to California City, a master plan future city in the Mojave desert, which, according to Mrs. Rhoads, was a most thrilling and educational trip. Incidentally, it was Mrs. Rhoads' first plane ride. Like all good Texans the family was glad to get back home and just talk about California.

MR. AND MRS. BERNARD HOLDER, Caroline and Linda, are visiting relatives in Crystal City and plan to return at the end of the week.

Friends here enjoyed a short visit by DR. AND MRS. LOUIS POPE and their children Janet and Steve, who spent two days last week as the guests of the BLEDSOE O'BRIENS. The Papes make their home in Fairborn, Ohio, a suburb of Dayton where Dr. Pope is in the research division of Wright-Patterson AFB. He is a doctor of psychology.

Mrs. POPE is employed at Wright-Patterson as a secretary. The family made their home here several years prior to 1950 when he was recalled to service. They were to visit friends in Kermitt before returning to Ohio.

MRS. JONATHAN LANCASTER of Kermitt is to return to her home Wednesday after spending several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Pickle.

Now the vacation is over. Don't forget to call about your guests' vacation or anything that is interesting to you. We're always interested. Call me at 2-2542 just any ole time.

MRS. KATHLEEN WILLIAMS of Wichita, Kan., is here for a two-week visit with her mother, MRS. J. M. MORGAN, Secaucus, and other relatives. She will go from here to Junction as a guest of her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Atchison.

Rita Smith Is Bride Of Donald Stringer

LAMESA—Rita Kay Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Smith, and Donald Gene Stringer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stringer were married in a double ring ceremony at 5 p.m. Monday in the Lamesa Church of the Nazarene.

The Rev. Jack Stringer of Seagraves officiated for the vows before a traditional white archway flanked by baskets of white gladioli and white tapers in pedestal candelabra. Judy Hancock was organist, and Janette Shaffer vocalist for the program of wedding music.

Smith escorted his daughter and gave her in marriage. She wore a white satin dress which featured sequin-studded tulle overskirt. Her gloves were white satin and she wore a shoulder length veil of illusion. She carried white carnations atop a white Bible showered with blue streamers.

Sharon Smith was her sister's maid of honor; bridesmaids were Linda Wilson, Linda Nelson and Vonell Maule. The four wore identical blue cotton satin dresses with matching hats and carried single long stemmed blue carnations.

The bride's cousins, Linda and LaJune Smith of Pecos, were flower girls; her cousin, Darrel Powell, was ring bearer, and the candlelighters were her cousin, Doyle Powell, and her brother, Ronnie Smith.

The bridegroom's brother, Billy Stringer of Conroe, was best man. Groomsman were Wayne Hill, Billy Hungerford and W. Lee Harris. Serving as ushers were Darwin Smith, brother of the bride; Richard Nelson and Douglas Spurlock.

Guests attended a wedding reception at the Woman's Study Club in Park Terrace where they were greeted by the newlyweds, their parents, and the bride-

Dumbcane Is Easily Grown

Dieffenbachia Rudolph Roehrs is a handsome member of the dumbcane family. You'll find it offered locally by florists, garden centers, and supermarkets.

The dumbcane isn't at all fussy—it thrives in either cool or warm rooms and tolerates dry or humid air, poor or good light.

If you want to grow it to perfection, give it a sunny window and shade it from the direct rays with a filmy net curtain; water it regularly, and grow it in a temperature of 65 to 70 degrees. To keep the plant growing straight, turn the pot a quarter way round each day.

When the plant grows too big for its pot, transplant it to a larger clay pot, using a soil mixture of equal parts potting soil, peatmoss, sand, and vermiculite. Add two tablespoons of dehydrated cow manure to every 8-inch pot. Thereafter, feed monthly with a soluble plant food mixed with water according to manufacturer's directions.

Anniversary Is Observed Sunday

When Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Warren, 409 W. 8th, observed their 50th anniversary Sunday, about 41 relatives and friends called by the home to express their felicitations.

Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Milliron and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Warren, all of Clyde; Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Warren, Mr. and Mrs. John Sublett, Mrs. Lee Peavy and Ernest Gwin, all of Abilene.

Pets Make Good Aids For Irrigating Trees, Shrubs

Normal sprinkling such as many people use to water their lawns, is of little value for supplying the proper water supply for evergreens, trees, and other deep-rooted plantings. These need ample water at the root level, especially in the hot, dry mid-summer months and just before frost in the fall.

WATER NEEDED Depending on the soil structure, up to several hours of watering may be necessary before the water soaks through the soil to the level of the roots.

In areas where water is expensive or scarce, deep watering thus can be a serious problem. And even where water is no problem, sufficient watering during the hot months may cause a time problem.

The deep-watering reservoir is made simply by planting a porous clay pot in the evergreen bed, so that the bottom of the pot is at the surface level. The pot should be placed as close to the evergreen as possible without disturbing the roots.

In digging the holes for the pot, it is best to use a hand trowel instead of a shovel so that you can observe the roots and avoid damaging them.

RING TREE A five or six-inch clay pot will provide a reservoir large enough to be effective, and one should be put down every two or three feet if possible.

Ideally, the evergreen or tree should be ringed with five or six pots. In a row planting, a good-sized pot should be planted between each pair of bushes.

With the pots in place in the ground, deep watering is simply a matter of filling the reservoirs with water. This will seep through the sidewalls and bottom to provide moisture as far down as a foot from the surface in a very few minutes.

POT IS COVERED The pots can be filled easily by hose, or a sprinkling can with the sprinkler head removed can be used to carry water to them. Because the pot is entirely covered except for the bottom surface, its presence in the evergreen bed does not destroy the beauty of the plantings. Root feeding of plants is easy when the reservoirs are in place, since a liquid fertilizer can be mixed into the water. Be careful not to exceed amounts shown in directions when mixing liquid fertilizers for use in the reservoirs.

Crisp Curtains

If your curtains look limp on hot, humid days a little starch will make them look crisp. Keep the starch fairly thin, and place several bath towels in the clothes dryer drum with the curtains. The towels will absorb the excess starch. Remove the curtains when damp-dry and place in a plastic bag until ironing time.

Could This Be Why You Didn't See Him Again?

Why doesn't he call again? That's the question likely to be uppermost in the mind of a teenager who has had a few dates with a boy she likes and in vain awaits another date.

He doesn't call again for reasons a girl might not suspect, says one mother of four dating boys. She has learned this from years of asking her sons, "What ever happened to so-and-so? Why don't you ever see her anymore?"

Drinking out of a soda bottle, for instance, is taboo in the eyes of one son, she says. "Girls should drink out of glasses," he said when asked why he dropped Ann from his date book.

The same young man doesn't like girls who eat a lot when on a date. "He cannot bear a girl who is a constant nibbler. He doesn't like girls who munch, and chewing gum is subject to special scorn," says the mother.

One young man can't bear girls who wear tight slacks. Another young man abhors girls who carry dress too far, such as "dressing up like a racing car driver because you've invited her for a ride in your sports car."

Dribbling pizza pie when eating it, so that the lipstick runs, can annoy a boy who isn't a gem of neatness himself. But the same boy could be annoyed if a girl is constantly fussing with her lipstick. A new complaint concerns girls changing bathing suits on the beach. Now that we have quick-dry suits, many girls wear their suits to the beach under culottes or skirt and sweater or what have you.

The boys do not like the idea. "I don't mind if a girl dries her suit thoroughly before she gets back in my car," says one fastidious jalopy owner, but she usually wears a cover-all she doesn't care about, insists on having a final swim before we leave the beach, and then gets my car upholstery soaking wet." Girls are messy when it comes to bringing sand into the car, and one boy criticized a recent date because she wasn't more considerate of his car. He has a point. "We left the beach. My girl's legs and feet were loaded with sand. When we got to my car, she opened the door, climbed in, and proceeded to beat the sand off with a towel. When she had sand everywhere, she asked for a whisk broom so she could brush out the car, but I didn't have one. Why didn't she think of that before or take the sand off outside the car door? I just can't figure girls."

The girls feel the same way. The same fellow who'll figure up in a dusty car to pick a girl up will object if she drops a hairpin on the seat of his car or if she moves the mirror so that she can make up.

Relaxation Pays Off In Beauty Dividends

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Relax and look prettier. You may look years younger when you learn to take it easy. Tensions mount each day if we don't call a halt somewhere along the line.

The children seem to annoy you from time to time? Are they getting on your nerves? Are you in a nervous state so that anything will upset you? If so get away from the children—for their sake, if not your own. Hire a sitter that day if you can afford it.

Perhaps your mother will help. Maybe your neighbor would like to have Suzie and Johnny play in her backyard. You can pay her back in hours of baby sitting when she's in the same sort of mood.

If you find that you are touchier than usual and your husband is driving you to distraction, ask yourself if it is your fault. Bite your tongue if necessary to keep from saying that unpleasant, uncalled-for thing that could set off a holocaust.

Save yourself time and effort in little ways, and you'll be a better companion to your family. The ordinary chore like table setting can be simplified with a small tea cart or other cart that can be wheeled into the dining room. Put dishes, glasses, flatware and napkins on a tea cart and wheel them to the table. The cart can speed clearing up, also.

Mother's blood pressure also can rise when the children will not let her concentrate on reading a book, writing letters, sewing or what have you.

Bad Word Stage Only Temporary

By DOROTHY V. WHIPPLE, M.D. One day your little angel may unexpectedly come out with: "Darn that stinky spinach, I won't eat it," or some other equally inelegant expression of disapproval. Where did he learn it? Why does he delight so in using it? How can we dissuade him?

If you turn a careful ear to family talk, you may be surprised to discover that some of his bold talk comes from the adults around him. Did Dad use a few curs words when he hit his finger with the hammer? Maybe mother said something she shouldn't have when she spilled the gravy. Some objectionable words may have been learned from the boy down the street.

How you respond to your child's first experiments in bad language will determine how much of it he uses. If you act shocked, and respond verbally or with a slap, the new words acquire power. It is a means of getting attention.

Try to treat this new experiment casually. Sometimes you joke about it—rhyme the word into nonsense syllables—Dam, wham, fam. Then it's apt to become accepted silly talk and the sting is gone. Sometimes using the word back at him takes away some of its kick—"Good old stinky spinach for supper tonight."

Bad language may also be used by a youngster to tell you he is growing big and tough. Instead of condemning his language, say something like:

"My, you are a big fellow now, so big you even want to talk tough."

This is not guaranteed to stop the tough talk but it takes away some of the need to impress you with his toughness.

Anger and resentment against the necessary restraints of living sometimes is expressed in language we don't like. This talk is a stage all children go through.

Spankings, washing-mouths-out-with-soap or scoldings seldom help and may even prolong the stage.

The more you hold your paience, the more you can joke about it and remove some of the special value these words have, the quicker your child will pass through the stage.

Oxygen Atom Seen In Aging Process

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—If your husband doesn't eye you as ardently as he once did, lady, he may have too much oxygen in his system.

Shutting the windows or turning off the air conditioner won't help, however—a single atom of the life-giving gas makes the difference, a scientist reports.

The theory that a lone oxygen atom may control man's sex urge was reported Monday by Dr. Hernan Acevedo of Chile, a member of the staff of the Southwest Foundation for Research and Education here.

The findings are in a report prepared for the first International Congress of Endocrinology in Copenhagen, Denmark, July 20.

Endocrinology is the study of the glands which produce hormones and chemical substances.

Dr. Acevedo reached his conclusions after studying the nine steps—each involving a chemical change sparked by enzymes—which the body uses to produce testosterone, a secretion responsible for much of the reproductive urge in the male.

The first seven steps and the ninth step, Acevedo reports, are identical in men of all ages.

The eighth step, however, takes place more slowly in older men as the body begins adding an extra atom of oxygen to each molecule of testosterone.

The slower the body produces testosterone, the less sex urge a man has, the doctor says.

Dr. J. W. Goldzieher, chairman of the endocrinology department at the foundation, said the discovery "means that aging can be reduced to organic chemistry."

"We can study the problem in test tubes," Dr. Goldzieher said.

Dr. Goldzieher said the foundation is having less success with similar studies of women. "Hormone synthesis in woman is somewhat more complicated," he said.

Wichita Falls People Killed In Plane Crash

SHATTUCK, Okla. (AP)—A single-engine plane crashed and burned, apparently while trying to land, killing all four occupants Monday.

They were identified as Paul A. (Pete) Lightner, 68, veteran sports editor of the Wichita Eagle, Gary A. Humphries, 26, a photographer on the paper; Henry H. Jacobs, 22, a sports writer for the Eagle; and Jacobs' wife, Elestra, 26.

Carl Mason, co-owner of a funeral home, said all were so badly mangled and burned that positive identification would have to be made from dental plates. Billings belonging to Jacobs and Lightner were found in the wreckage.

Officials at the Amarillo, Tex., airport said the plane left there for Wichita at 1:26 p.m., with Jacobs the pilot. They were returning from coverage of the Olympic trials in California, officials of the Wichita newspaper said.

Witnesses said the plane circled this small northwest Oklahoma farm town twice then appeared to be heading for the grass landing strip. Suddenly the plane plunged into the ground 200 yards short of the landing strip.

Jacobs joined the Eagle sports department in 1948. Mrs. Jacobs had worked in the classified advertising department until a few months ago.

Lightner, with the Eagle since 1919, was widely known for his column "The Morning After." His wife, Leona, is a member of the Eagle society staff.

Humphries' wife, Kathleen, also works for the Eagle as food editor.

"I'M ALLERGIC"

By HALVARD T. HANSEN, D.C.

You can't eat eggs, chocolate, wheat, oats, tomatoes or a long list of other things because, if you do, you'll break out in a rash or hives or stop up and cry with hayfever or choke with asthma. You're allergic!

SO — You're allergic. Now that you've admitted this quite obvious fact, what are you going to do about it? You can check it with drugs—an endless task—or try to find out what causes it and remove the cause to end the whole thing.

An allergy is an abnormal condition of your body. Normal people with normal bodies can eat these things with no ill effects. Our allergic body reacts in an abnormal or pathologic manner. Stimulated nerve endings in your nose, or lungs or skin become red, hot and tender, causing muscles to tighten and blood vessels to enlarge and fill with blood, all of which produces a hot, tender swelling which, in your nose, is called hayfever, on your skin is hives and in your lungs is called asthma.

Allergies must have a cause just like everything else. Our specialty is to find and remove the cause. Take this case from our clinic files as a good example of how it's done.

This 27-year-old worker complained of a nervous allergy. The face, neck and back were covered with boils, skin eruptions and old scarred poxs from previous allergic attacks. He was extremely nervous, biting his nails as he related his past history. He suffered most of the year with hayfever, asthma or head colds that kept his nose constantly inflamed and stopped up. This together with throbbing headaches and indigestion caused him to awaken tired and exhausted from lack of sleep. He had been to several specialists and had treatment, all of which failed.

Discouraged, he came to the Hansen Chiropractic Clinic upon the recommendation of a former patient and neighbor. He was examined and X-rays disclosed a spinal injury sustained during his teens, causing several nerve interferences with his central nervous system. Under corrective spinal adjustments, realignment was made and the nerve disturbance removed. His skin cleared up and his other complaints disappeared as normal function was permitted to return.

He found normal health had been here waiting for him all the time he was in misery. No. 1650.

Amazing to you, amazing to our critics, routine to us. Results and satisfied, amazed but happy patients speak for themselves.

You can read these case history references many times without benefit unless you investigate—do it today—you have nothing to lose except your bad health.

DEAR ABBY LYING IS CURABLE

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What is wrong with a person who would rather lie than tell the truth? I thought Elsie was the most wonderful girl in the world. Then I started to catch her in all sorts of lies. I found out she was a housemaid instead of a stenographer like she said. She told me her parents were dead—I found out they were alive. She said she was born in one place—I learned she was born some place else.

When I catch her in a lie, she readily confesses and feels ashamed. I love this girl, Abby, and was considering marriage. But how can I marry her when I can't believe anything she says? Is lying a disease? Is it curable?

UNDECIDED
DEAR UNDECIDED: Lying is not a "disease"—it is a symptom. People lie because they feel inferior, inadequate and insecure. If you love Elsie, try to help her. Lying is curable—only if the liar will make a sincere effort to help herself.

DEAR ABBY: I was married three weeks ago by our minister in his small chapel. I knew at the time that I was at least two months pregnant, but I didn't advertise the fact. I am telling everybody that we were married three months ago by a Justice of the Peace in a small town near here. (I made it up because of the baby coming.) I want to know if anyone wanted to call up the Justice of the Peace in that small town and ask him if he really married us, would they be able to find out he didn't?

WORRIED BRIDE
DEAR WORRIED: Possibly. There is nothing confidential about public records. It would be up to the Justice of the Peace to

I have a few questions that perhaps you or one of my fellow subscribers can answer for me.

The first question being, why does the city of Big Spring have to go half way across the state to find men to run our fair city, then, if they do, why is it always a man with a questionable background?

Regardless of whether it's dog catcher, city manager or chief of police or whatever, if one city questions their administration it had to be founded on some good reason.

The Chamber of Commerce issues pleas with the local people to spend their earnings where they make them, here in Big Spring with local people. Well, doesn't this apply to the spending of taxpayers' money to "import" there are men in Big Spring with some of the necessary qualifications for holding public office?

Algerian Rebels Tell Peace Price

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP)—Algerian rebels are demanding concessions from the French government as the price for peace talks to end the war which has taken more than 150,000 lives in the last 5 1/2 years.

The nationalists said Monday that only if France revised its stand would they be willing to send another delegation to arrange for rebel Premier Ferhat Abbas to go to Paris for cease-fire negotiations.

A rebel communique said the French government had laid down conditions for the peace talks which would deprive the rebel peace mission of "all liberties compatible with the dignity and equality of negotiators."

The rebels claim the conditions made by Paris would forbid their negotiators contacting anyone in France or elsewhere except for communications with the rebel provisional government in Tunis.

The nationalists also interpreted the conditions as forbidding their delegates to consult colleagues jailed in Paris.

The Algerians also reportedly would be denied access to newsmen.

There was no immediate reaction from Paris to the rebel announcement. But it was good news for the French settlers in Algeria, who oppose peace talks with the Moslem nationalists because they fear such talks would be a preliminary to the ending of French rule in Algeria.

The rebel delegation, headed by Ahmed Boumendjel, spent three days at Meham, outside Paris, last week in talks with French representatives. They returned to Tunis Friday with a gloomy picture of the cease-fire talks.

Some rebel leaders are calling for abandonment of peace talks and an all-out swing toward alliance with Communist China.

Red Chinese influence in the nationalist rebellion has been worrying Western diplomats in North Africa for some time. Rebel missions have traveled to Red China in the past two years and a good part of the rebellion's budget is said to be coming from Peiping.

Considering a Lawn Sprinkler System? HERE ARE THE FACTS

PUBLISHED IN THE PUBLIC INTEREST BY GREENLAWN SPRINKLER CORP.

It's true—an automatic underground lawn sprinkler system actually gives you more free time than any other appliance you can buy for your home.

A well-engineered sprinkler system helps you to have the best looking lawn in the block... improves the appearance and value of your home.

However, before you invest in a sprinkler system, we urge you to ask yourself these questions about the system itself and, perhaps even more important, the company which sells it:

1. Is it an established, reputable company?
  2. Does it guarantee its product—and back up those guarantees?
  3. Is the system specifically planned and designed for your yard?
  4. Is the system carefully installed without marring your lawn?
  5. Is the piping absolutely impervious to rust, corrosion and freezing?
  6. Can the sprinkler heads be raised or lowered to compensate for soil level changes without digging to dug up?
  7. Are the sprinkler heads and nozzles made of the finest materials?
  8. Do the nozzles pop up for unobstructed spray coverage?
  9. Is the system engineered and installed to last a lifetime?
  10. Is the system approved for both FHA Title 1 and Title 2 financing?
- If the answer to all of these questions is an unqualified "YES"—then you can buy your sprinkler system with absolute confidence.
- We are proud that our organization and its product, Greenlawn Sprinkler Systems, measure up to all the above specifications. Greenlawn Sprinkler Systems are engineered and installed for a lifetime—yet cost less than ordinary underground sprinkler systems. All Greenlawn parts—and the installation itself—are fully guaranteed!

Banners Have Role In Isle Celebration

HONOLULU (AP)—The 50-star flag that greeted the first rays of the July 4 sun at Poland Springs, Maine—easternmost point of the United States—arrived in plenty of time to see the sun go down in the union's newest and westernmost state—Hawaii.

The jet-age feat was accomplished without a hitch after WAF Sgt. Cynthia J. Strohbecker of New Gloucester raised the 50-star banner in Maine Monday. It was rushed to Boston, then by American Airlines jet to San Francisco, then by Pan American jet to Honolulu, arriving at 3:50 p.m., Hawaiian time.

Hawaiians celebrated their first year of statehood Monday morning with a colorful ceremony at Iolani Palace—former residence of Hawaiian royalty. Flags from all over the nation were flown there by jet.

Gov. William F. Quinn said Hawaii can "show the rest of the world that any community, any country can prosper regardless of the racial ancestry of the people who comprise it."

A flag from Fort McHenry, Md.—where Francis Scott Key composed the national anthem—also went by jet to the 50th state.

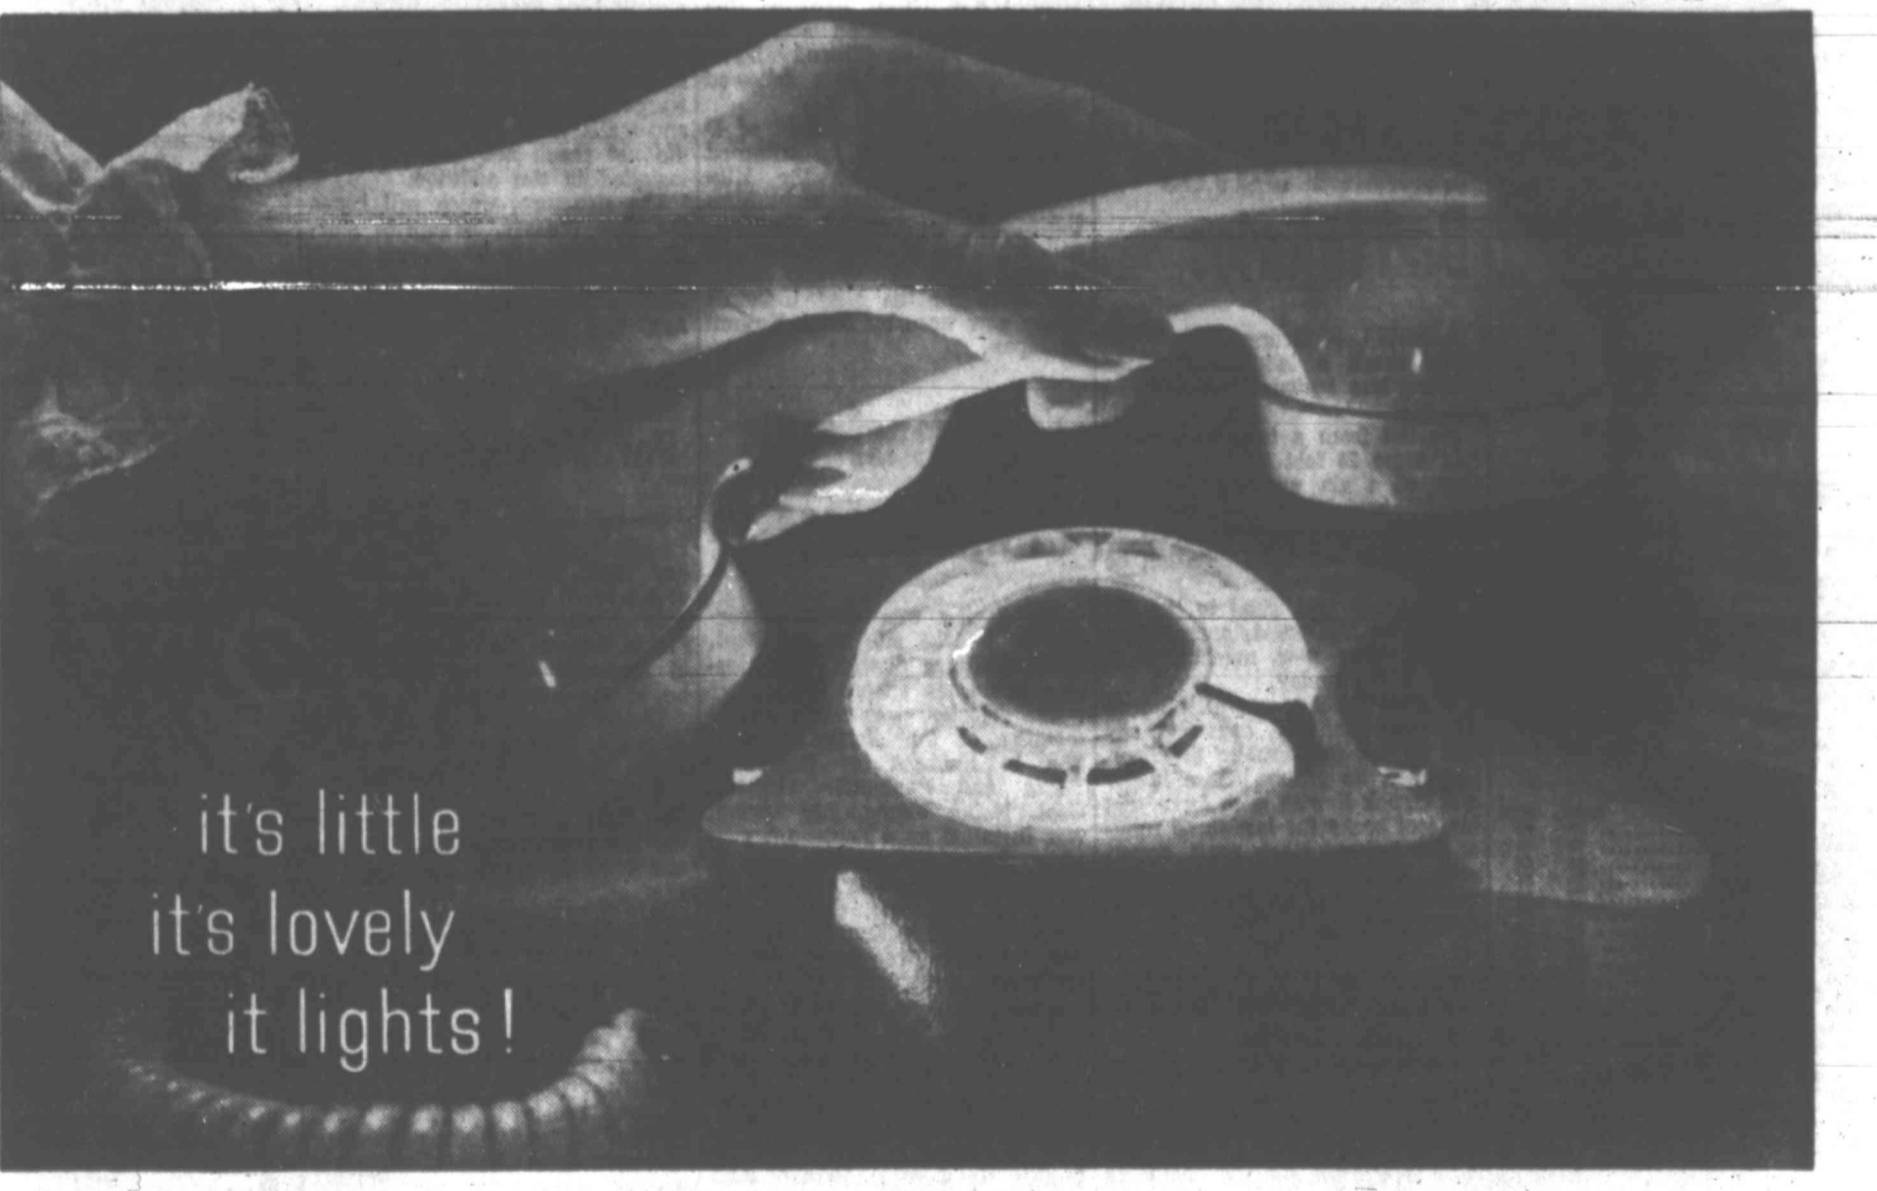

Guam, because of its geographical location, celebrated its Fourth of July while it was still Sunday east of the International Date-line. Its flag also was flown to Honolulu Monday. So was one from Wake Island.

In Philadelphia, the first official 50-star flag—handmade by Army quartermasters—was raised Monday in the mall behind Independence Hall, where the nation was conceived and born.

Senator Hiram Fong (R-Hawaii) received the banner in a container made of the wood of an elm tree which stood in Independence Square on July 4, 1776. He planned to raise this flag in Honolulu today.

traveling president—he is going to be a working president." Johnson delivered his announcement in tones of deep solemnity, calling for an "open" convention. The presidential nomination, he said, "is not owed to anyone" and then announced what practically everybody already knew: "My name will be placed in nomination."

Johnson said that if he does not win the nomination he is prepared to support the party's choice "with all the vigor at my command."

In his formal statement, Johnson didn't once mention Kennedy by name.

Nor did he mention charges by Truman that the convention is being rigged in Kennedy's behalf. Last weekend he lined up with Truman on this.

Monday, Kennedy denied any effort to rig the convention and said he would do all he could to keep it open.

500 VOTES
In a question-and-answer session after the reading of his formal statement, Johnson said friends tell him he can expect "in excess of 500" delegate votes on the first ballot at the Los Angeles convention. Nomination requires 701 votes.

Asked to comment on charges by Americans for Democratic Action that he is a conservative who cannot win, Johnson said he would expect ADA to be against him "and as a matter of fact I would not be very comfortable with their support."

How does he describe himself? "I've been called almost everything."

"I've been progressive and liberal without being radical; conservative without being reactionary."

Johnson said he believes very strongly in the protection of every person's constitutional rights. He was replying to a question on his civil rights views.

CHURCH ISSUE
Further along in the question session, Johnson said he does not want in this country "any Catholic Americans or Baptist Americans or other Americans with qualifications. The question bore on the Roman Catholic religion of Kennedy which has been made a campaign issue."

Johnson is a member of the Christian Church.

On the farm program, "we need some way to bring farm income up, new incentives to preserve family size farms" and to dispose of surpluses and assuage hunger elsewhere in the world, Johnson said.

"I don't believe in sectionalism," he said in expressing hope he could run well in the entire nation.

He said his supporters expect he will get backing from more than 25 states.

Johnson said House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas will place his name in nomination at Los Angeles.

He fell from a temporary scaffold some 100 feet to the concrete floor of a gin and escaped with painful bruises. At Medical Arts Hospital, he was said to be in satisfactory condition although he was extremely sore.

Sturdivant had gone to the gin with Ross McDonald, operator, to install some new machinery at 10:30 a.m. Sunday.

The scaffolding, on which Sturdivant was standing, began to slip and he fell first to the floor. However, he grabbed at a ladder and struck it with such force that his feet broke the last three rungs of the ladder. Each rung, apparently slowed his movement just enough to ease his final stop and avoid breaking any bones.

Day Of 'Rest' For Beauties In World Pageant

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—This is a day of comparative rest for the 86 beauties in the Miss Universe pageant.

All they have to do is rehearse about six hours for the beginning of the eliminations Wednesday night and attend special luncheons and parties for the benefit of contest sponsors and contributors.

It will be a welcome respite for most of the girls to be in the air-conditioned Miami Beach Convention Hall for rehearsals instead of in the hot sun hours on end posing for pictures and riding on a parade of boats along the intracoastal waterway.

That's what they did Monday, and the muggy, 90-degree heat took its toll.

Surprisingly, a girl from a North African country, Tunisia, was the first to show the effects of the heat. Louise Marie Garrigues of Tunis keeled over in the lobby of the exhibition hall after the 43 American and 43 foreign beauties had been out in the sun posing for official pageant photographers.

Later when the girls went to a hotel garden to pose for news photographers Judy Rebecca Fletcher of Alexandria, La., almost passed out and was taken to a rest room.

Teri Janssen of Los Angeles, Calif.—one of the favorites for the Miss U.S.A. title, deserted the outdoor photo session and went into the air-conditioned hotel.

Other contestants soon followed suit.

Wednesday night the field of 43 American girls will be trimmed to 15 candidates for the Miss U.S.A. title. Thursday night Miss U.S.A. will be crowned. She then will join the 43 foreign entrants in competition Friday and Saturday night for the Miss Universe crown now worn by Akiko Kojima of Japan.

Ladder Saves Bad Injuries

LAMESA — George Sturdivant could thank a ladder today for sparing him serious injury, if not his life.

He fell from a temporary scaffold some 100 feet to the concrete floor of a gin and escaped with painful bruises. At Medical Arts Hospital, he was said to be in satisfactory condition although he was extremely sore.

The Military Affairs subcommittee of the Chamber of Commerce was to meet at 3 p.m. today in the chamber's offices to take plans for the AFROTC barbecue scheduled for Monday. The barbecue is to be held at the Cosden Country Club.

Business and professional men of Big Spring sponsor the barbecue by buying $5 tickets which pay for three guests as well as for themselves.

Rains Help Lakes

Prospects of relief for the area's beleaguered lakes were excellent at noon Tuesday.

Lake J. B. Thomas, the major reservoir for the Colorado River Municipal Water District, reported an increase of .66 of a foot by noon Tuesday. This represented a gain of 4,400 acre feet of water.

Both the Colorado River and Bull Creek, which feed into the big lake, were on the increase.

Tuesday morning, Lake Colorado City, the Texas Electric Service Company reservoir southwest of Colorado City, was rising also. Heavy rains on its watershed indicated substantial increase. In the upper tributaries of Wildhorse Creek, in northeastern Howard County, 3.61 inches were measured. A few miles to the northeast, the CRMWD gauged 3.71 inches at its Morgan Creek pump station.

Lake Colorado City had just begun to come up at mid-morning and had gained a tenth of an inch to hit 2259.70.

The Lake Thomas elevation at noon was 2248.39. Over that of Borden County, which drains largely into Lake Thomas, three to three and a half inches were reported. In northeast Borden County 3.8 inches were reported and there were unconfirmed reports of 5 inches in that vicinity.

SOAKED
Big Spring itself got 2.71 inches and the north half of Howard County generally was soaked by 3 1/2 inch downpours. The rain tapered off in the south end of the county to about 2 of an inch. It was the first rain of consequence in three months and County Agent Jimmy Taylor called it a "life saver."

Gail in Borden County north of Big Spring got 3.8 inches. All of Borden County generally reported rains of 3 1/2 inches.

Lamesa measured 3.2 inches. Lake J. B. Thomas, which supplies Big Spring, Snyder and Odessa, caught 3,000 acre feet of water to Tuesday morning. The Colorado River and Bull Creek which pour into the lake were rising.

Rain also fell at Quanah, 1.42 inches, Paducah 1.30, Wink 73 and Seymour 71.

Welcome rains fell on dry country around Alpine in far West Texas. The Tierce Altuda Ranch 15 miles southeast of Alpine reported 3.5 inches since 3 p.m. Monday.

Martin Receives Beneficial Rains

STANTON—Most of Martin County received beneficial rains today, greatly improving crop prospects.

Stanton reported 1.5 inches and there was a steady drizzle going on at mid-morning.

Lenorah, 12 miles north of Stanton, had 1.5 inches and there was also a drizzle under way. The Varsity View community, 14 miles northwest, had 1.5 inches as did the Tarzan Community, in central Martin.

PM 176 was temporarily closed due to high water.

In southeast Martin, however, rains were light. At the Gordon Stone ranch southwest of Lomax, only .25 was reported. The outlook for more, however, was favorable.

Odessa Newspaper Damaged By Fire

ODESSA (AP)—Fire of undetermined cause late Monday extensively damaged an addition being built to the Odessa American newspaper plant.

The fire broke out in a room where rolls of newsprint were stored. A spokesman for the newspaper said the paper supply was destroyed but that the newspaper will publish today.

The amount of damage had not been determined but the spokesman said that steel girders were warped, the roof damaged and walls were cracked. The fire did not reach new presses being installed in the addition.

The structure, which will house the new presses, newsprint storage facilities, the composing room and news departments, was scheduled to have been completed by Aug. 1.

Rites Slated For Youngster

Funeral services for Beatrice Padilla, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eral Padilla, will be at 9 a.m. Wednesday in the North Star Methodist Church. Nalley Pickle Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements and burial will be in the city cemetery.

The child, one month and three days old, died in a local hospital early Tuesday morning.

Survivors include the parents, four sisters, Earline, Mary Helen, Suzanna and Christina and one brother, Eral Jr.

Player Injured At First Base

Jay Creighton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Creighton, Box 616, Forsan, received a mild brain concussion Monday afternoon when sliding into first base at a Forsan baseball field.

He was taken to Cowper Clinic in a River ambulance Monday evening, and hospital officials reported him in good condition Tuesday morning.

Games Cancelled

Rain has caused a general cancellation of all scheduled games in the Little League. It was announced at noon. All games are set back one day on the regular schedule as result of the postponement.

Water Line Breaks, Repaired Monday

Northside residents, served by a 12-inch water line, were without water for about three hours Monday when the pipe burst between the T&P tracks and N. 1st on Scurry.

City Manager A. K. Steinheimer said that the break was isolated and repaired by about 6:30 p.m. The break was reported about 3:30 p.m.

West Texas Soaks Up Saving Moisture

By The Associated Press

Thunderstorms erupted over portions of Texas Monday night and early Tuesday, and lightning tentatively received the blame for two deaths at El Paso.

Six inches of rain fell in one area near Lubbock. Thunderstorms continued during the day at many points.

Other rainfall totals included Colorado City 1.10 inch, Farmers Branch, on Dallas' outskirts, 1.27; and Farmersville north of Dallas 2.57.

The El Paso deaths came when an El Paso gas and chemical supply building exploded, demolishing the building.

Two Border Patrolmen said they saw lightning strike a gasoline storage tank alongside the building.

Killed were Manuel Chavez, 25, and Raymond Gomez, 24, both of El Paso. They were working in the building.

Fine rains fell on the parched West Texas area around Big Spring.

SOAKED
Big Spring itself got 2.71 inches and the north half of Howard County generally was soaked by 3 1/2 inch downpours. The rain tapered off in the south end of the county to about 2 of an inch. It was the first rain of consequence in three months and County Agent Jimmy Taylor called it a "life saver."

Guilty Plea Ends 1st Case

Howard County Court's initial criminal case, which opened a week of jury trials Tuesday, terminated quickly Tuesday morning.

Woodrow W. Nichols, accused of DWI, waited until the jury had been qualified and then, through his attorney, announced that he wished to withdraw his plea of guilty. The motion was accepted and the jury excused until Wednesday morning by County Judge Ed Carpenter.

Wayne Burns, county attorney, recommended that Nichols be fined $75 and sentenced to three days in jail. The court accepted the recommendation.

Burns said that Thomas W. Savell, charged with DWI, would be called for trial Wednesday morning.

Water Usage Dips But Is Still High

Water consumption dipped considerably over the July 4th week-end with the residents leaving the city for the holidays. Water records showed that the O'Barr well field, pumped regularly for the past two weeks, was not put into service during the three day period.

Saturday, the Colorado River Municipal Water District reservoir was tapped for 3,700,000 gallons and Powell Lake for 1,463,000 gallons. Sunday, the reservoir contributed 7,444,000 gallons and 1,492,000 gallons were pumped from the lake. Monday, 8,665,000 gallons were taken from the lake. Monday, 8,665,000 gallons were taken from the CRMWD reservoir and only 803,000 gallons from Powell Lake.

The total amount of water used during the three days was 28,310,000 gallons. During the same three days last year, 11,292,000 gallons were used.

C. O. Nalley's Brother Dies

Major Garrett A. Nalley, brother of C. O. Nalley, Big Spring, died of a heart attack at 2:30 p.m. (French time) Sunday in Orleans, France. The body is to be returned to the United States and funeral services will be held in Coleman. He was a chaplain stationed at Orleans with the U.S. Army and he has visited frequently here.

Same Name, But Somebody Else

Floyd Moore, former Howard County deputy sheriff and now operator of a cafe in Big Spring, said that he is definitely not the Floyd A. Moore, slated to face DWI charges in Howard County Court this week.

The former deputy said that he does not know his namesake and that the similarity of names has caused him embarrassment and he wants it understood that he is a different person.

The Southern Pacific Railroad dispatcher at Alpine reported trains halted by high water in the Sierra Blanca area between El Paso and Alpine, and water over tracks at Marathon, east of Alpine.

The Alpine Santa Fe dispatcher reported an inch of rain in Fort Stockton and a half inch in Marfa and the rains continued in late morning.

WATER ON ROAD
Norman Millcr, state highway district maintenance engineer, reported water over U.S. 90 east of Alpine and said water covered the highway between Marfa and Presidio Monday afternoon.

Strong winds picked up a fire-works stand on the edge of Abertathy, about 18 miles north of Lubbock. Monday night hurling it and its lone occupant about 25 yards. Billy Galloway, 20, of Abertathy was taken to a hospital with severe cuts and bruises.

The Weather Bureau said scattered thundershowers continued to dot the state from Texarkana westward to the South Plains during the morning, while scattered and more numerous thundershowers covered the region from the Pecos valley northward to the Panhandle.

The agency said the cool front was stationary along a line from Texarkana to Fort Worth to Midland and was expected to remain in that position throughout the day.

RAIN TOTALS
Official rainfall totals for the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. Tuesday included Dalhart .63 inch, Amarillo .96, Lubbock 1.70, Midland .02, Alpine .28, Presidio .36, El Paso .66, Wichita Falls .38, and Texarkana .74.

Dallas' official total was .08 inch, but some portions of the city reported up to 1.70 inches.

Heavy hail, rain and damaging winds hit several points over the South Plains Monday night. A school addition under construction at Abertathy was damaged by violent winds. Steel beams were blown over on the parked cars of school board members who were attending a meeting in the older portion of the school. There were no injuries but hundreds of dollars' damage was done to the cars. No estimate was made on the damage to the school structure under construction.

W. P. Slaton, a farmer 10 miles north of Lubbock, told the Lubbock Weather Bureau early Tuesday that he measured more than six inches of rain on his farm.

More than three inches of rain fell in less than an hour Monday night in eastern Lynn County, about 30 miles south-west of Lubbock.

ROADS WASHED
Heavy rain also sent water over roads near the Higginbotham community in northwest Gaines County near the New Mexico line. The water reached headlights of cars.

Hail the size of eggs and heavy rain severely damaged cotton crops in the Wilson community about 14 miles south of Lubbock. And rains of from .25 inch to more than an inch were common over much of the South Plains Monday night.

Big Spring had at least 1.25 inches of rain Monday night and early Tuesday. Heavy thundershowers spotted the area.

A weak cold front which moved southward into North Texas Monday was along a line from Texarkana to south of Abilene early Tuesday.

Scattered showers continued to fall in the Panhandle and West Texas Tuesday. Early morning temperatures varied from 62 at Dalhart to 81 at Pecos and Galveston.

GARLAND HIT
A violent thunderstorm with drenching rains hit Garland northeast of Dallas late Monday night. Garland got 1.70 inches of rain and similar amounts fell in other areas near Dallas.

The Dallas area rains were accompanied by winds clocked up to 39 miles an hour. Some electric wires were knocked down.

One Dallas home owner said water ran 15 inches deep in his home. Lightning struck a chimney in another home. It fell through the roof leaving a large hole. There were no injuries.

The cool front lowered temperatures in many sections of the state. The temperature did not get above 80 degrees at Dalhart and Amarillo Monday and Childress and Wichita Falls had maximum readings of 87.

The hottest place in Texas Monday was Presidio where the mercury climbed to 110 degrees. San Angelo had 103, Laredo 101 and El Paso 100.

City Chalks Up Safe Holiday Weekend

A reasonably quiet Fourth of July reignied in Big Spring this year with the only hospital case being a sanitation department worker whose foot was crushed under a garbage truck wheel.

Pablo Martinez was reported in good condition Tuesday following surgery at Malone and Hogan Hospital. The accident occurred Monday morning.

Firecrackers caused six grass fires, four of them on scenic Mountain in the State Park. While several trucks were needed to extinguish the blazes, none of the fires caused much damage, according to Fire Marshal A. D. Meador.

In all, there were 11 calls made by the fire department during the holiday period. One was a false alarm.

Burglars found a lot to do over the weekend, with a total of six cases of breaking and entering reported. Five occurred over the weekend and one attempted burglary was made Monday.

Ramon Benavides, 309 N. Scurry, reported an attempt was made to enter his house Monday night.

Four traffic mishaps occurred Monday to make a total of seven accidents in Big Spring during the three day holiday period.

L. Stanley Bogard, police traffic division, said that traffic was heavy but collisions were not serious and involved property damage only. "Fortunately no one was injured," he said.

In one of the mishaps, Adleno Garza, Fairview, collided with L. T. Derrington, Odessa, at 2nd and Lancaster.

Ruby Stewart, Snow, Coleman Courts, and Arlow Hovey Sutton, Grand Saline, were in collision on West U.S. 80 near the Sands Motel.

A truck driven by Nelson Clyde Hallford, Cottonwood Courts, which was parked in the 2900 block of West U.S. 80, broke loose and rolled into a highway sign.

Fernando G. Morales, 611 N. Douglas, Alfonso L. Rodriguez, 601 N. Douglas, and John Edward Messer, 113 Mobile, were in collision at the Y on West U.S. 80.

Palmer's Pop To See Open

By JOHN FARROW ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — Arnold Palmer, United States Open and Masters golf champion, has brought the rest of his gang into the fight for the British championship — his Pappy.

Jack proved he was a champion because he wouldn't alibi and the country just seemed to take him to its heart. There's still good reason to believe that Dempsey was slipped a powerful purgative before the first Gene Tunney fight.

GEORGE WRIGHT, sports publicity director at Baylor University discussing Baylor's 1960 team: "Prospects look definitely brighter for Baylor's still-underdog Bears than they did at this stage a year ago, although perhaps not yet as bright as many of their title hungry supporters would like to expect."

CHICAGO DAILY NEWS: "Is there a Jack Nicklaus in the ranks of the women golfers—an amateur good enough to threaten the pros in an open tournament? Many of the gal pros talk long-hitting Jo Anne Gunderson of Seattle 'as a threat to almost any pro and certainly a fine pro prospect.' Nicklaus, incidentally, is tagged 'the best amateur since Bobby Jones'... and, like Jones, Jack seems certain to remain in the amateur ranks."

MICKEY MANTLE, New York Yankee slugger, when questioned about his like or dislike for young people after being swarmed at Yankee Stadium: "Me, hate kids? I should say not. I love kids. I've got four or five myself."

Tigers Win 17th Straight Contest

The Big Spring Tigers ran their winning streak to 17 straight by turning back Ojinaga, Mexico, in both ends of a double header here Monday afternoon.

The American champion celebrated the arrival of the man he calls "Pappy" by shooting a 67 over the New Course and made certain of qualifying when the field is cut to a maximum of 100 low scorers after today's round.

Palmer senior started out in the golf world by helping to roof the clubhouse at Latrobe, Pa. Then he qualified as a greenskeeper and professional pro, working in steel mills in the winter to help keep his family.

Three old Scottish pros taught Palmer senior the way to play the game the Scots invented. And ever since he wanted to take a trip to the home of golf.

Oklahoma Picks Candidates Today

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Oklahoma Democrats and Republicans pick their nominees for Congress, a few state jobs and all county offices in primary elections today. The weather was like the campaign, mild.

Voting in Cherokee, Adair and Sequoyah counties was overseen by Crime Bureau agents. They were ordered into the east Oklahoma area by Gov. Howard Edmondson after absentee ballot irregularities were alleged.

No more than 60,000 Republicans and 350,000 Democrats were expected to vote.

The main Republican contest matched two former U. S. district attorneys—Hayden Crawford of Tulsa and Herbert Hyde of Oklahoma City—for the U. S. Senate nomination. The winner will oppose Sen. Robert Kerr this fall. Kerr has only taken Democratic opposition in his bid for a third term.

Two Democratic congressmen had tough fights. Rep. Ed Edmondson, the governor's older brother, was challenged by State Rep. Shockey Shoemaker and Bill Doenges, one time Democratic national committee member and candidate for governor.

Rep. Toby Morris of Lawton faced former Rep. Victor Williams of Mangum in the 6th District primary. It's been quieter than their last three races, of which Morris won the last two.

Reps. Tom Steed and John Jarman, both Democrats, were expected to nail down their nominations with little trouble. Rep. Carl Albert of the House whip, had no opposition for Democratic nomination in the 3rd District.

The only Republican congressman from Oklahoma, Page Belcher of Enid, also was unopposed but three Democrats are seeking the right to oppose him in November. They are state Sen. Yates Land and Wesley Disney Jr., both of Tulsa, and Lige Stewart of Alva.

Four constitutional questions were voted upon. One would authorize the legislature to float 35 million dollars worth of bonds for college buildings and a hospital for mentally retarded children.

School Board Seeks Ruling On Race Vote

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Board of Education will ask Atty. Gen. Will Wilson for a ruling on the constitutionality of a law requiring an election before a school district integrates.

There was no opposition by board members Monday to a plan to seek Wilson's interpretation of the 1957 law. But because of a pending election in Dallas on integration Aug. 6, action was deferred.

Former state Sen. W. C. Graves of Dallas brought the matter up because a federal judge has ordered Dallas schools to integrate in September.

Dr. J. W. Edgar, education commissioner, told the board he had written both Dallas and Houston officials that state aid will be cut off if they integrate without an election.

"Houston and Dallas could be faced with financial crisis," said Jack Binion of Houston.

Binion contended that, the board was the proper agency to make the request since Dallas had not yet held the election and Houston had not yet been ordered to integrate.

"We don't want to lose state money," said Graves, who estimated state aid would total six or seven million dollars. He said he believed the vote would be against integration but that the district would lose the money if it bows to the order of the federal judge.

The board passed a per capita apportionment of $73 which compares with $76 this year and $79 the year before. The $73 figure results from distribution of $165,744,352 from the available school fund. The permanent school fund, which cannot be spent, now totals $418,165,707.

The permanent fund is composed of mineral lease bonuses, rentals and awards and oil and gas royalties on public lands. Receipts are invested and the interest goes into the available fund.

The reduction in the apportionment per scholar will increase the demands on the minimum fund, the other half of state aid to education based on average daily attendance to determine how many teachers a school is entitled to, its maintenance and transportation money.

The director of the Governor's Safety Commission, Brad Smith, sought board backing to a proposed program of driver education financed by the state. The board overwhelmingly refused to approve the request.

Children Trek To Midland For Treatment

A program of treatment for the crippled children of Howard County is awaiting completion of the new Crippled Children's Building at 8th and Owens.

Until the Crippled Children's Association can move into its new headquarters, weekly trips are being made to Midland by a small group of cerebral palsy patients. Each Monday, five to ten patients are taken to the Cerebral Palsy Center in Midland, where they undergo treatment.

The Association hopes to be in the new building, providing local treatment, within the next few weeks.

Murder Charged

LAMESA — Charges of murder were filed today against Juan Sustaita, 22, in connection with the fatal shooting of Guadalupe Caudillo, 22, at a Latin American Drive-In Theater Sunday night.

Bond has been set at $10,000 by Justice of the Peace Arthur Standefer.

Caudillo's brother, Meregildo, 20, was released from a local hospital today after treatment for multiple knife lacerations sustained over his body.

THIS DAY IN TEXAS

The most famous Indian trial in American frontier history began on this day in 1871 in the Texas town of Weatherford.

Two Kiowa chiefs, Santana and Big Tree, faced a Texas court on charges of murder. It was the first instance in which an Indian massacre was held as murder and punishable in a court-room.

Santana and Big Tree were accused of leading an attack on a wagon train in May and being responsible of massacre of seven teamsters. The red men fled back to their Fort Sill reservation but General William Tecumseh Sherman would not let the killers claim government immunity. He ordered them arrested and turned over to the State of Texas for trial.

The arrested chiefs also included Santank, but he committed suicide before facing a white jury. Both Santana and Big Tree were sentenced to be hanged but their punishment was commuted to life imprisonment by Governor E. J. Davis. Santana shortly gained his release, but was arrested again as a law violator. This time he leaped from his cell to his death.

The attorney general prosecuting the redmen was a young lawyer named Sam Lanham. The trial spurred on his political career, and he became both a governor and a congressman.

Demo Platform Writers Take Up Controversial Farm Issue

By OVID A. MARTIN
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Democratic National Convention platform drafters jumped into the task of writing a party campaign document today by taking up first a controversial farm-aid issue.

Meeting nearly a week in advance of the big presidential nominating conclave, the resolutions committee arranged to hear a plea that the party abandon its long-time backing for federal crop controls and high farm price supports.

This plea was made by President Charles B. Shuman of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

It was on this issue that the Democratic-controlled Congress split apart.

Rejected legislation by farm-belt Democrats proposing that Congress boost government price guarantees for wheat above levels provided by the Republican Eisenhower administration. Many city Democrats voted no.

The 104-member committee arranged to hear later in the week public recommendations for planks on other campaign issues, including the ticklish civil rights question that has plagued previous Democratic conventions.

Members promised strong planks on foreign policy, medical care for the aged, federal aid to education, a boost in the federal minimum wage level, an accelerated rate of economic growth, more federal assistance for housing and help to depressed industrial areas.

Some party leaders counted heavily on a farm plank designed to capitalize in November on reports of a Midwest farm revolt against policies of the Eisenhower administration designed to take government out of agriculture.

But the platform committee faced the possibility of an internal struggle similar to that staged by Congress, with considerable embarrassment to the Democrats. On the committee are a number of congressmen with conflicting positions on high price supports.

Standing by was a Democratic farm advisory committee which has gone on record in favor of re-establishing wartime price supports and crop controls. Gov. Herschel Loveless of Iowa, a vice-presidential possibility, heads this group. Other members include two former secretaries of agriculture, Claude R. Wickard and Charles F. Brannan.

But among the platform writers are Sen. Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico, a former Secretary of Agriculture, and Sen. Spessard L. Holland of Florida, both arch foes of high supports.

Such Democratic presidential hopefuls as Sens. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Stuart Symington of Missouri have come out for high price supports.

In a statement prepared for the committee, Shuman, a registered Democrat, said farm income would be better when farmers are encouraged to produce for consumer markets rather than for "wasteful storage" in overfilled government warehouses under invitation of high government supports.

Air Service Brief Ready For Hearing, Comparisons

Preparation of a brief on air service in Big Spring, for a hearing to be held in late summer has been one of the major projects of the Chamber of Commerce for the past several months.

John Burgess, city attorney, and individual members of the Aviation Committee of the chamber, have been gathering information on the problem.

The chamber staff is now in the process of printing the material and putting it together. The deadline for exchange of briefs, with other cities involved in the hearing, is July 15.

Big Spring is only one of many Southwestern cities which will present a brief of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The purpose of the brief, however, is not to choose between the two airlines, but rather to present a solid case for continued air service in the Big Spring area.

"In our brief, we have given our reasons for the need of air service in Big Spring. It will be up to the board to decide which of the two airlines would serve us best," said Bill Quimby, manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

No Polio Reported

The record for polio cases in Howard County so far this year is clean.

To date, the Health Unit has received no reports of polio within the county itself, and only one out-of-county case has been recorded.

Bo Bowen, county health nurse, reports that the Health Unit is giving 80 to 100 people Salk vaccine shots during clinic hours from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. each Tuesday. The shots are given only to those people who cannot afford to pay a physician.

In addition to Salk vaccine, the Health Unit also gives diphtheria, whooping cough and small pox vaccinations at the weekly clinic.

Supplies of Salk vaccine are sufficient for the county, and the number of people receiving shots this year is running about parallel to the number last year.

"More adults may be receiving polio shots this year," said Miss Bowen.

Interior Trim

Interior trim was being installed by carpenters Fields, Nolan West, Juan Santiago and J. M. Johnson. Roy Watkins, coordinator for the labor forces, said the building is almost complete.

Some Like It Cool

Here is a scene at Newport, R.I., Second Beach showing how some of the Newport Jazz Festival fans spent the night. Close to 200 youths were taken into custody during a riot that broke out when 12,000 fans could not gain admittance to the show. State and local police, National Guard, Navy and Marine units called in to quell the demonstrations were pelted with cans and bottles. Beaches were later cleared and closed to the public.

New Quiz Gimmick Strictly Low-Brow

By BERNARD GAVZER

NEW YORK (AP) — There are hundreds of different kids games played on marked boards in which the players move toward the goal by flicking a spinner or tossing dice or picking cards. Well, CBS has turned this into a grotesque giveaway game in which the contestants themselves move from spot to spot depending on the turn of the die.

It is called "Video Village." It is a place no sane human would risk visiting, let alone inhabiting. The mayor is Jack Narz and he is assisted by Joanne Copeland. With the opening show last Friday, CBS re-entered the giveaway business it quit when the huge bubble of giveaways burst in scandal. "Video Village" is allegedly tamper-proof. Besides, the prizes are so trivial—$10 here, $25 there—CBS is certain no one would attempt cheating.

The well-rehearsed guests exchange sappy banter with Narz. The gags might put a 4-year-old into paroxysms of laughter, but most 4-year-olds we know are in bed at the time.

The allure of the bizarre and the mysterious tends to make us pay close attention. Who is able to ignore the promise of a man flying or turn a deaf ear to the story of a ghost ship sailing the seas endlessly? Witchcraft holds this same fascination. At least, NBC hopes it does, for its second show of "Memento of Fear" deals with the subject in a story cunningly titled, "Conjure Wife."

Whether that moment of fear will come alive is conjecture. For a mystery to have impact, the fear has to transmit itself from the fictional character on the screen to the human being in the living room. In the first show in the new series, "The Golden Deed," starring Macdonald Carey, this failed to happen.

The sense of danger never communicated itself; the moment never really materialized.

Actresses Tell Why GIs Love Jap Women

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Why do American men find Japanese women so appealing?

The question has been asked in recent times because of the number of G.I.'s who return to duty in Japan with high praise for their treatment by the native women. A sizable number brought back brides.

The place to find an answer appeared to be the set of "Cry for Happiness," a new comedy about Navy men who take over a geisha house. Here were four attractive and talented Japanese girls playing the roles of geishas. Though only one was born in Japan, all professed to be reared in the old tradition.

Mama-san of the geishas was Miiko Taka, Seattle-born Nisei who has been to Japan four times, including once to play opposite Marion Brando in "Sayonara."

"Why do American men like Japanese girls?" she said. "Because everyone likes attention, and the Japanese girl is trained to give the man attention. The man is the ruler of the family over there, and that is as it should be."

But sometimes that can be overdone. I think it is degrading for a woman to be a servant to her husband. There is a difference between helping and serving. Miyoshi Umeki is a native Japanese, winner of an Oscar for "Sayonara" and plaudits for "Flower Drum Song" on Broadway. Said she:

"Yes, a Japanese woman is always subservient to the man until she gets him. To all outward appearances, the husband seems to be the ruler. But the wife has ways to make her influence felt, just as in any country."

Tsuruko Koyayashi is also known as Mrs. Marvin Fineberg. She was born in Hawaii, came to Hollywood from "Majority of One" on the New York stage, has never seen Japan, and remarked of "I'm lucky," she remarked of

LOOKS AT BOOKS

A FINE AND PRIVATE PLACE. By Peter S. Beagle. Viking, $3.95.

Andrew Marvell called the grave "a fine and private place," and added that "none, I think, do there embrace."

Beagle, not a man to take anything at all on trust, writes this novel about the possibility that more goes on behind grim cemetery walls than Marvell ever suspected, or Mr. Rebeck, has taken refuge there for so many years he doesn't know New York trolleys are replaced by buses, and has hardly heard of sulfa drugs. After the Biblical custom, he is fed by a raven. This talkative bird, as the story opens, warns him of an approaching funeral procession, and he flees to his usual hiding place. But if caretakers can't find him out, ghosts can, in particular Michael, newly dead, who thinks he remembers his wife poisoning him, and Laura, who has the notion a truck killed her. Campos the driver; Mrs. Klapper, the Bronx widow with her Morris in a huge mausoleum; the fleshiest lovers and the fleshly ones all come to life, or convincingly play dead, in this entertaining fantasy.

Asked by Rebeck what it's like to be dead, Morris answers: "Like nothing at all. It is like nothing at all." It is the dead who teach Rebeck about living. Pittsburgh should take a bow; this is the second novel from that city in two weeks. It couldn't be more different from Robert Musser Brown's "Brother, Which Drummer?" "It would have had to be a very fine one to be any better. But it is in its way as good. This is a fresh, original conceit. You set out securely on good old terra firma, but hold tight! In half a page you soar off into the bright blue yonder and stay there delightedly for all the rest of the story.

THE LIFE OF MICHELANGELO. By Charles H. Morgan. Reynal, $6.

The Sistine Chapel ceiling and the Last Judgment at the Vatican, the David in Florence, the Bruges Madonna and other Madonnas sculpted and painted, the Boboli slaves, the Campidoglio in Rome, St. Peter's and the Dome, the tomb of Julius II—is there no end to the immortal monuments in stone and on canvas left by Michelangelo?

To be sure, he lived a life long enough to accomplish a great deal of work. Born near Florence in 1475, he died in Rome in 1564 and he never wasted a minute of all his years. If he wasn't painting, or constructing fortifications, or putting up churches to crown with domes, or writing poetry, he was sculpturing, his favorite among all his talents. Morgan allows him a friendship with Tommaso Cavalieri, a handsome youth but a purely platonic relationship. Morgan is sure, and he also notes his devotion to Victoria Colonna—to whom he wrote sonnets. He lived under a lot of popes, and worked for many of them—Julius II, Leo X, Clement VII, Paul III—and stood up to them dauntlessly, though as this author justly observes, he could turn tail and run as he did from physical danger in Florence and again in Rome.

A subject so richly documented as Michelangelo must surely be harder to write about than one relatively unknown. In the first place, what is left to say that's new? Secondly, a life covering almost a century in the incredibly jumbled setting of the Renaissance requires so much research that most biographers might never get around to the writing. But Morgan studied, and wrote, and though he is a college professor at Amherst, he leaves no telltale pedagogical stuffiness in his pages. This is not a new interpretation, but there are lively prose pictures of the pictures in oil, and some scenes of local life and character come through vividly.
