Jack's Aides See No First Ballot Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Realistic supporters conceded today they can't put Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts over on the first ballot for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Instead, these strategists concentrated on a second round balloting they believe will deliver the prize in the party convention opening Monday.

And if they can't snag the gold ring on the second go-around, they were saying they can outlast any of the other contenders even if a half dozen count-downs are needed.

This possibly significant change in tactics indicated that Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri and those attempting to draft Adlai E. Stevenson may have won the first skirmish in what is developing into a fratricidal contest of major proportions.

Kennedy's out-riders appeared to have developed a majority of the powerful 81-vote delegation from California. There were disputed reports that Gov. Edmund G. Brown will lower his favorite son flag in favor of Kennedy's candidacy.

Kennedy's lieutenants were said to have penetrated the Pennsylvania delegation with the result that he might get a sizable share of that state's 61 votes on the first ballot.

Competent observers said Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago would be ready to deliver all but about 14 of Illinois' 69 votes to Kennedy.

Past Loyalty Of LBJ Men Due Quizzing

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The past party loyalty of some of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson's Texas backers may be questioned today at the first session of the Democratic National Convention's credentials committee.

Mrs. R. D. (Frankie) Randolph, Houston, Texas' national committeewoman and Johnson's only avowed back-home delegation foe, is on the scene but not saying what she may do.

"Right now, I don't have any plans," she said. It was known, however, that she brought with her the voting records of more than a dozen Texas delegates whose loyalty is questioned by the Texas liberal Democratic faction.

Mrs. Randolph's ouster as national committeewoman was recommended by the Texas state convention that was overwhelmingly controlled by Johnson and the vice chairman of the Texas delegation, Gov. Price Daniel. Daniel arrives at 5 p.m. today.

The Texas governor, then a U.S. senator, supported Eisenhower in 1952. He backed the Democratic ticket as governor in 1956. He recently quoted Butler as having said he was "pleased" over loyalty declarations by the Texas convention which elected the national session's delegation.

The convention also voted to cast its 61 votes as a unit for Johnson until it is released. Included would be Mrs. Randolph's half vote, by a specific resolution. But Mrs. Randolph, who is not an elected delegate, contends her vote as national committeewoman is not bound up with the unit.

The convention itself may have to decide that question, which involves the technical solidarity of the Texas delegation behind Johnson.

Asked if he thought Kennedy could carry Texas and the South if nominated, Rayburn first replied he would never say a man who might be nominated could not be elected. Later he replied to another question that he would not say—publicly—that Kennedy could not carry Texas and the South.

Castro Gains Support Of Mexican Politicians

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A congressional spokesman for Mexico's ruling political party says the nation is solidly backing the Cuban people against the United States. Senators and deputies gave him rousing cheers.

President Adolfo Lopez Mateos was silent on the statecraft made by Emilio Sanchez Piedras, chairman of the permanent commission of Congress.

Sources close to the President said they felt the statement represented the view of a spokesman for the legislative branch and not the executive, which is responsible for Mexico's foreign policy under the constitution. But his speech was billed as an explanation of the basic policies of Lopez Mateos' government, and it seemed most unlikely he would have spoken without consulting top government officials.

Sanchez Piedras told a congressional caucus. "It appears that our northern neighbor (the United States) is closing the doors of its friendship and understanding in the face of the yearnings of the Cuban people to live in liberty and economic independence.

"We, the representatives of the people of Mexico, repeat to the Cuban people our same attitude of solidarity," he continued, "and we wish to tell them that we are certain that their right to live in social justice and economic liberty will have to prevail in this continent in the hope of peace and reciprocal friendship."

He made no direct reference to Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro. The congressional leader said he was speaking for the Party of Revolutionary Institutions (PRI), which has an overwhelming majority in Congress and runs almost all phases of Mexican political life. Lopez Mateos is official leader of the PRI.

The statement appeared certain to cause concern on the part of the U.S. government. The U.S. Embassy was expected to ask the foreign ministry to what extent it reflected the Mexican government's official policy.

Sanchez Piedras' statement also was certain to find no favor with Mexico's sugar industry, which hopes to supply the United States between 175,000 and 200,000 tons of the 700,000 tons of sugar President Eisenhower lopped off Cuba's quota for 1960. Mexico's sales to the United States now amount to about 62,000 tons a year.

The statement followed a series of events which have proved unsettling to U.S. diplomacy in Mexico. First there was the rather exceptionally warm official reception accorded Cuba's President Osvaldo Dorticos during his visit here three weeks ago.

More Adaptable To Rice Farming. This farm near Slaton reflects the 12-inch rain which fell over the West Texas area in the three-day period. Many farms in the area were covered with water.

New Rains Send West Texas Families Fleeing Deluges

By The Associated Press. New overnight deluges on the South Plains of West Texas sent more families fleeing their homes Friday ahead of high water.

A 7-inch downpour at Plainview left 175 persons homeless for a time, while 16 families fled their residences at Levelland, 30 miles west of Lubbock. High water forced several families to leave at Littlefield, also in the Plainview-Lubbock area.

A break in a farm dam added to the high water at Plainview. Running Water Draw, normally a dry ravine cutting through Plainview, became a torrent sometimes a mile wide and often 15 feet deep. It cut off the business district from the residential area.

Before noon, the Plainview flood began subsiding, except in the north and northeastern parts of the city. Rains of 11 inches have doused Plainview since Tuesday, but rains of more than 20 inches have fallen in the past week on other parts of the flat, poorly drained South Plains.

ROAD CLOSED. U.S. 87 on the north edge of Plainview closed, and other highways into the city were blocked temporarily. Numerous highways and farm to market roads around Lubbock, Amarillo and Abilene were closed by high water or washouts.

The weak cool front which has swept back and forth across the state for a week is being the same stretched along a line from Houston to Austin and San Angelo to southeast of Midland. Cloudiness increased along the front. Weather Bureau rainfall totals for the 24 hours ending at 7 a.m. Friday included: El Paso 1.48 inches, Presidio 2.0, Maria 0.3, Lubbock 1.69, Amarillo 2.15, Dalhart 6.5, Wichita Falls 1.19, Waco 5.1, Beaumont 1.4, and Houston .09. Childress 4.1, Van Horn 6.2, Big Spring 0.2, College Station 2.0, and Mineral Wells .06.

DWI Case Ends With Hung Jury

A Howard County court jury deliberated four hours Thursday without being able to agree on the guilt or innocence of Mathias Penn, young airman accused of DWI. The jurors were dismissed by Ed Carpenter and a mistrial entered in the case.

Judge Ed Carpenter polled the jury and said that it stood five for conviction and one for acquittal. The hung jury continued the chain of such developments on the past three jury dockets in cases where Wayne Barden and Wayne Burns have been the opposing attorneys.

Barden has had three county cases terminate in a hung jury for his clients in as many court terms—the only such cases to develop. Penn's case was the only matter scheduled Thursday.

Friday morning, when court convened, it was announced that George Thomas, attorney for Robert Lewis Myers, who is charged with DWI, was ill and could not be in court. The case had to be passed. This was the final matter to be called this week and the jury panel was excused from further duty.

The jury docket opened Tuesday after the July 4 holiday. Burns said he hoped to schedule another jury docket sometime late in August.

Dunlap Wins School Contract

Ray Dunlap, Big Spring general contractor bidding his first job since entering business, was low on additions to the Fluvanna schools Thursday night. His offer was $21,150.

Other bidders were C. M. Pharr, Lubbock, $21,432; T. E. Shelburne & Son, Snyder, $21,988; Harden Construction, $23,740; Knox & Gailley, $24,486 and Parks Construction, $25,400.

The addition includes two masonry classrooms to be added to the present plant. The job will be under the supervision of Centrell & Burns, Lubbock architectural firm.

Dunlap, with some 20 years experience in construction, recently set up his own firm and will operate out of Big Spring. Work is expected to start at Fluvanna in 10 days, Dunlap said, and the contract calls for completion in 110 days. Fluvanna is in the northwestern part of Scurry County.

Niki Hints Reich Pact

VIENNA (AP)—Nikita Khrushchev hinted today that Soviet Union may sign a peace treaty with Communist East Germany in September.

"I will tell you a secret," Khrushchev told correspondents in Vienna. "We have information from West Germany that the West German Federal Parliament may meet in West Berlin in September. This is another provocation."

"We will consider with our friends Otto Grotewohl and Walter Ulbricht whether it would be possible to sign at this time a peace treaty with the German Democratic Republic (East Germany)."

Lake Thomas Nears End Of Good Catch

The Colorado River and Bull Creek dwindled to ripples Friday as Lake J. B. Thomas neared the end of its second greatest single catch of water.

A 7:11 a.m. Friday, the elevation of the reservoir of the Colorado River Municipal Water District had inched up 225.23. This was an increase of 5.66 feet from the level on Monday before rains visited the watershed. It left the lake surface four and three-quarters feet below the service spillway.

Murder Trial Witness Convicted In Income Tax Case

DALLAS (AP)—Lionel G. Rothschild, who was a key witness in the recent El Scarborough murder trial, pleaded guilty to income tax evasion and was sentenced to two years in a prison hospital Thursday.

Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson recommended that Rothschild be confined in the Federal Hospital at Springfield, Mo., for evading $5,876 in income taxes. The 55-year-old cosmetics manufacturer also was fined $3,000 for the 1953 tax evasion.

Both charges testified against Scarborough, who was sentenced to 50 years in prison for murdering Mildred Ott, his part-time girl friend.

From over the area came reports of replenished stock tanks. Natural lakes, for the most part, caught relatively little water since much of the fall soaked into the thirsty fields and pastures.

Street Crews Move To South Parts Of City

City street department crews were expected to wind up work in the North Side today and begin cleaning and patching streets in south portions of the city.

Bruce Dunn, director of public works, said that grading and cleaning of debris in the North Side was about finished and crews would begin moving onto other streets of the city.

Dunn said work would start at Lancaster and move west to the Airport Addition as the first phase. The work will then be moved to the area of Kennebeck Heights, Clanton, Western Hills and the Douglas additions, then east of Edwards Heights. The loop will be completed by work south and north of 11th Pl. further east.

Dunn said the job will probably take two to three weeks.

Says Beauty Is Mental

Jocelyn Brando believes that beauty is in the mind, and she confesses that she does not enjoy teasing with herself. She is seen to be seen in NBC-TV's "Riverboat."

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Miss Brando Gives Tips On Dieting

HOLLYWOOD — As I watched Jocelyn Brando on the "Riverboat" set at NBC-TV, I could detect the characteristics she shared with her famous brother, Marlon.

"I am glad this is in costume," Jocelyn told me later, "because I am not going to buy any clothes until I reduce. There is something deadly about buying clothes in a larger size; the very fact you have nothing to wear is encouragement to diet."

"I had a serious illness and was given vitamins by my doctor that made me gain 12 pounds. I have lost eight and to get back to normal, I have four more to go," she confessed. "I have always been too thin, so cutting down on my eating is a novel experience for me. I fear I have stretched my stomach, because I have such a large appetite now."

"But it is really no problem," she continued, "for I keep house for my young son and he is going through a phase of wanting to eat nothing but hamburger and chicken. When I try to serve him anything else, he says, 'I think I'll just have a bowl of cereal.' So I go along with him and it's working very well. Of course we have green salads and vegetables, but we have so trimmings that are fattening."

Jocelyn confessed that she loved to work in her garden, but says she doesn't enjoy grooming and making herself beautiful. I scolded her for it. "When you make the most of your looks, you can't see it but others can. And you're doing it to please them."

Jocelyn laughed. "My brother scolds me, too, but somehow I feel that if I'm neat and tidy and healthy and happy that I don't have to try to look like a cover girl. To me beauty is in the mind and we have to be true to ourselves."

Seven Students Taking Beauty Exam This Week

Seven students of the Betty B School of Beauty are in Austin this week where they are taking the examinations given by 15 state board.

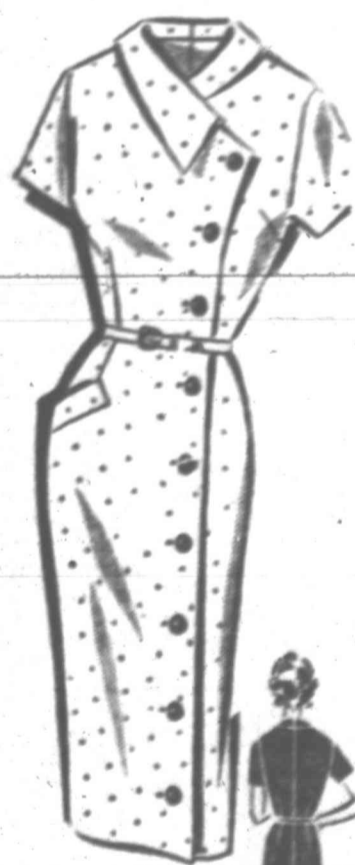

In operation since June, 1959, the school has trained 81 graduates in the arts of hair styling and cutting, manicuring, giving facials, shampooing and other beauty aids. At present, 30 girls are taking training under the supervision of two instructors and a student instructor.

Requirements for the graduate operators include 1,000 hours of work, which is usually extended over a period of six months. An additional three months of training are available to graduate students of the school.

Plans have been completed by the owners of the school for a contest in setting and styling hair, which is open to non-professionals only. Deadline for entering the contest is set for Saturday at 5:30 p.m.

Prizes to be given winners in the event consist of tuition for the course and a student kit, for first place; the kit contains student textbooks and materials necessary for the work. To the second place winner will go tuition for the course, and to the third, a student kit.

Contestants, which may include men and boys as well as women and girls, must be at least 16 years of age to be eligible.

Homes Should Have The Individual Touch

"What good is a decorator if he can't supply unique ideas for his client?" asks Frank Lynn, head of a New York design team that specializes in unusual ideas.

A decorator can't get by just calling himself a decorator and listing the same ideas on every assembly line fashion, he explains. He must do something original for each client.

"The client should get what he wants and likes for his home. But the decorator should be able to give the idea a new twist to make it unusual."

Lynn and his partner, Glenn Higgins, try to get to know their clients before they ever attempt to decorate a home for them. He says:

"We get to know the entire family socially. We try to learn what all members of the family like, their favorite color schemes, hobbies and what makes them tick as a unit. Then we make suggestions to decorate a home for them. We say:

Finch Still Trying To See Carole

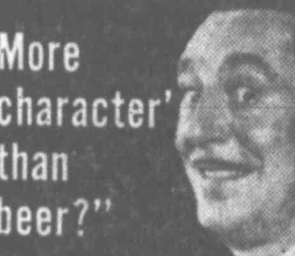

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dr. R. Bernard Finch isn't giving up in his attempts to meet with Carole Tregoff.

Finch, refused by the State Supreme Court in his plea for a private conference room with no guards present, asked Thursday to meet with shapely Carole in the courtroom during noon recesses.

His attorney, Grant B. Cooper, said strategy sessions between the defendants, attorneys and witnesses are needed. The judge is considering the request.

Finch, a wealthy surgeon and Miss Tregoff, his mistress and onetime receptionist, are on trial for the second time on charges they murdered his socialite wife last year. The first trial ended in a jury deadlock.

DEAR ABBY MAN OR MOUSE?

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 18 years and up until lately my husband and I got along like a pair of honeymooners. He never worked, but I didn't care because I took in washing, I liked having him around the house. I always knew where he was and he was always around when I wanted him.

Then he went and got himself a job, which spoiled everything. All he needs is a few dollars in his pocket and he is a changed man. He sasses me back and leaves the house without my permission. He was such a sweet, devoted husband until he started making money. I'd give anything to get him back like he was. Can you help me?

DEAR TEARS: The only way you can "get him back like he was" is to make him quit his job. But that would be unfair. Now that he has at last acquired some ambition and self-respect, you should encourage this manly (if belated) change for the better. If you really prefer a man who is jobless and beholden—you want a gigolo, not a husband.

DEAR ABBY: I know a gentleman never shakes hands with his gloves on. But is it considered etiquette for a woman to keep her gloves on when she shakes hands?

WONDERING DEAR WONDERING: A lady need not remove her glove to shake hands.

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman, 38. I have never been married but I am not giving up hope. (I'm not desperate and can afford to be tussy.) I have a good position in an office. In fact, I run the office.

My problem is that I have been putting weight on like crazy lately. But now that I have filled myself out, I'm afraid if I lose weight I will have wrinkles where I once had fat. I was no beauty when I was thinner, but I think I'd rather be fat like I am, than thin and wrinkled.

None of my good clothes fit me any more and people are beginning to tell me ("for my own good") that I am too heavy. What should I do?

FROM SPREADSVILLE

DEAR FROM SPREADSVILLE: Quit rationalizing and start ratiocinating your caloric intake. Let your physician tell you how much you should lose and how to lose it. If you diet sensibly you won't trade fat for wrinkles.

Ike Signs Law To Construct Big New Dam On Rio Grande

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill authorizing construction of Amistad Dam on the Rio Grande 12 miles upstream from Del Rio, Tex., was signed into law Thursday by President Eisenhower.

The dam, near the confluence of the Devil's River, is designed to impound water for flood control, irrigation and domestic uses. It also could produce electricity.

President Eisenhower and President Lopez Mateos of Mexico both favor its construction. The word Amistad, meaning "friendship," replaces the former designation of Diablo Dam, after Devil's River. The dam would protect areas on both sides of the border from floods. It would be 225 feet high and 6 1/2 miles wide, backing up a lake 80 miles on the Rio Grande and 18 miles on the Devil's River. Its storage capacity would be 5,660,000 acre-feet.

The estimated cost, exclusive of hydroelectric generating units, is $79,120,000. The United States is to pay $56,626,000 of the cost and receive a proportionately greater share of the benefits.

COST TO U. S.

If installed, hydroelectric power generating units will cost the United States an estimated 15 1/2 million dollars additionally. Mexico will pay separately for power generators it may install and receive the output from such equipment. Although the measure only authorizes the project, the Senate Appropriations Committee wrote into the State Department money bill for the year that began July 1, a five million dollar item to permit an immediate start on Amistad. Normally an appropriations bill lags months or years behind such authorization.

Rep. Clark Fisher (D-Tex.) of San Angelo, who introduced the bill, told a newsmen that the five million dollars should be sufficient to complete planning and probably acquire land for the reservoir basin.

Fisher said he also understood that the Mexican government is ready to proceed with its part of the project as soon as the United States begins work.

CONTROVERSY

Power generating aspects of the proposed dam became an issue of some controversy in Congress. As originally introduced by Fisher, the bill would have provided only that the "falling water rights" of the dam should be sold to the highest bidder.

Fisher included this provision in the bill after the Federal Power Commission had said that installation of a power unit by the government would not be economically justified at this time.

Testimony before the House Foreign Affairs Committee showed that the only likely bidder for the falling water rights would be Central Power & Light Co., Corpus Christi, Tex. The company indicated it would pay $37,000 annually for the use of the falling water. It said it would install the generators at its own expense and feed the power output into its system.

Objection was raised to this provision by spokesmen for Rural Electrification Administration Co-operatives in Texas. Then the bill was amended to provide for installation of generators at government expense. The power would be sold to the highest bidder, with preference being given to cooperative and other public agencies.

AMENDMENT

The bill passed the House with this provision, but the Senate amended it to provide that the government could install the generators only if it could be certain that the sale of power would pay for the cost. The House agreed to the change.

Spokesmen for irrigation farmers in Texas' water impounded behind Amistad Dam might be released for use upstream from them—water to which they otherwise would be entitled.

At the insistence of Rep. Joe Kilgore (D-Tex.), a provision was written into the bill specifying that Texas State water officials should determine allocation of the releases of the U.S. share of the impounded water. This was believed adequate to protect the water rights of Rio Grande Valley residents.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Florence Kent, 15, learned all about hypnotism from a book. Well, almost all.

She successfully hypnotized Sandra Kay Meyer, 15, Thursday—and then found she didn't know how to snap her out of it.

Sandra collapsed, Florence screamed for help, and Sandra was rushed to a hospital.

By the time she got there she was just drowsy, however, and a psychiatrist checked the girl and ordered her released.

The ambulance ride, it seems, accomplished what Florence could not.

Mexican Rights Group Hits Kennedy

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Mexican Pro Human Rights Front said Thursday Senator John F. Kennedy's "big stick" policy would precipitate a wave of agitation in Latin America.

Dr. Benjamin Laureano Luna presides over the organization which expressed worries about the U.S. presidential nominee who pronounced himself as a supporter of that policy.

The front reminded that such a policy practiced by a North American president would bring tenseness of relations among the United States and the Latin American nations and anti-American demonstrations.

Ike, On Vacation, Happy As A Truant

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — President Eisenhower, happy as a hookey-playing schoolboy, looked forward today to his second round of vacation golf.

The President and his wife arrived in this New England resort area from Washington late Thursday afternoon. They hope to stay a month.

They had vacationed here in 1957-58, so they are, anything but newcomers. The reception they received left no doubt about that. When they got to Ft. Adams, the naval base summer White House, the President and his lady linked arms and walked in the late afternoon sunlight across a spacious lawn to the summer White House on the shore of Narragansett Bay.

Ahead of them was a 19th Century frame residence, cream-colored and trimmed in white, where they had enjoyed an Indian summer two years ago. Thirty minutes after arriving, the President was off to the Newport Country Club where from 4:45 p. m. until dusk he played 18 holes of golf.

On the 18-hole round, the President played with an old friend, George E. Allen, who accompanied him from Washington; Howard G. Cushing, president of the Newport Country Club, and Jimmie Farrell, the club pro, son of Johnnie, one of golf's greats a generation ago.

At the nine-hole mid-point of the round at the edge of the Atlantic, Cushing dropped out of play and was replaced by James C. Hagerity, Eisenhower's press secretary. "They clobbered us," reported Cushing who had been playing with Allen against the President and Farrell. There was no detail on the extent of the drubbing.

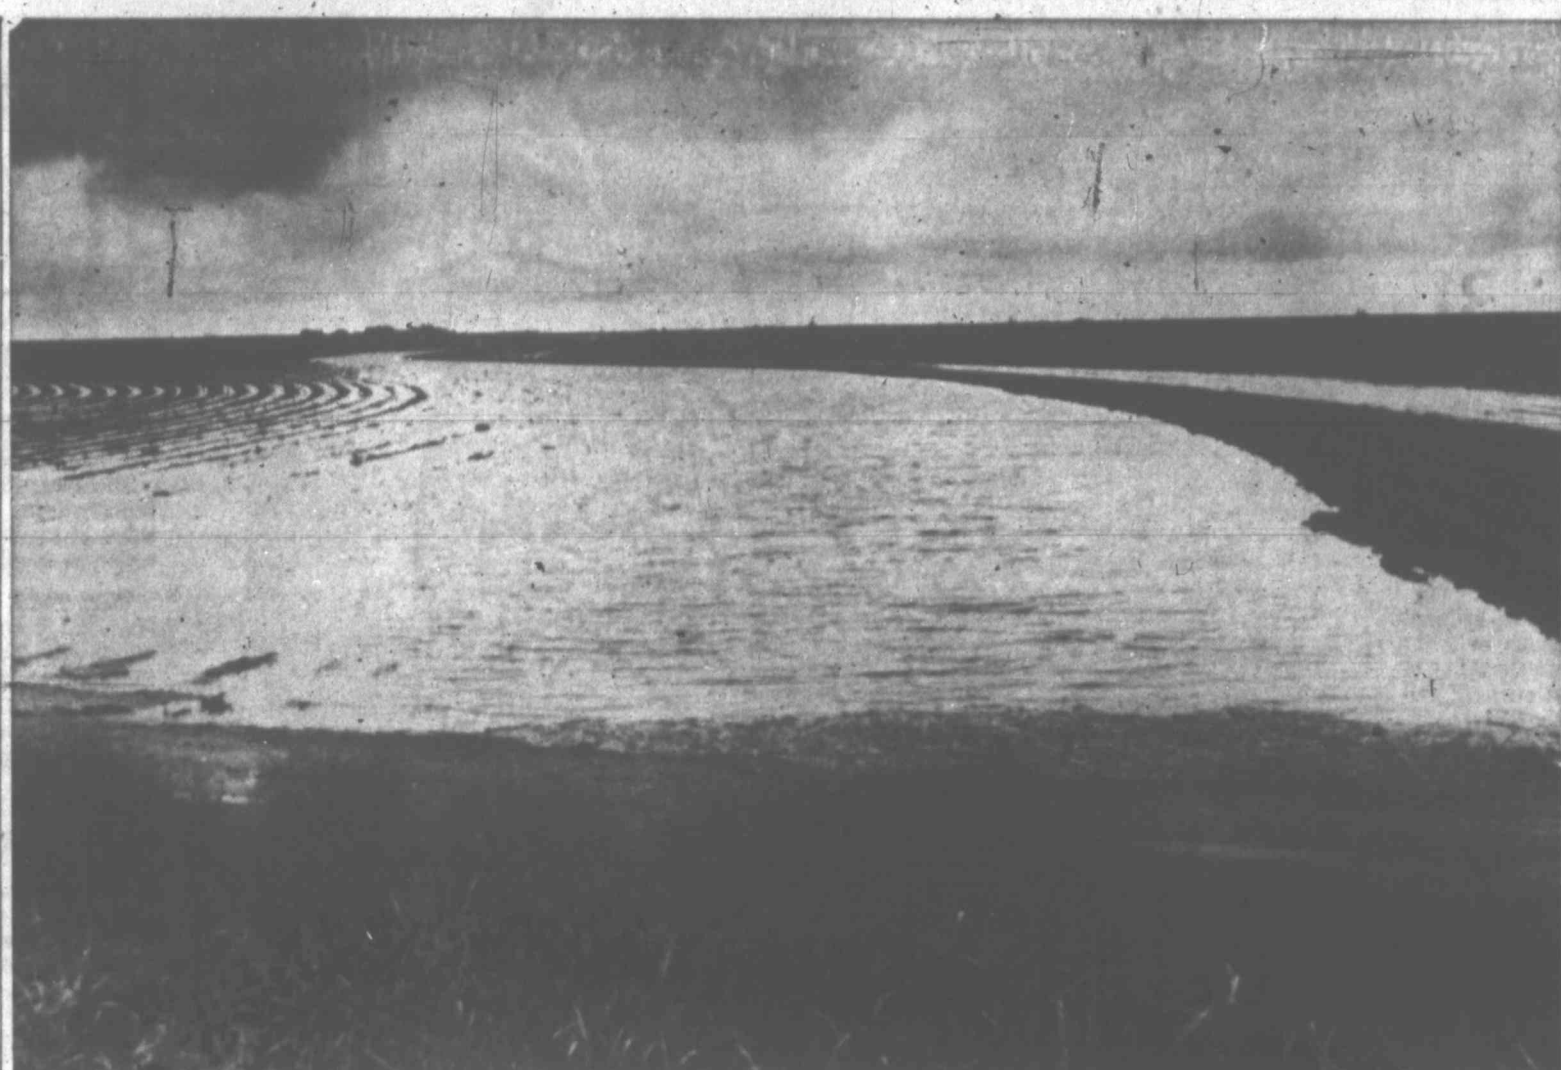

By that time the temperature was dropping from the mid-seventies starting point, and the President remarked in the increasing chill: "I've got to put a sweater on here."

He did, and reportedly he and Farrell had the best of it over Allen and Hagerity on the second nine holes.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower landed at Quonset Point, R. I., and got an enthusiastic welcome from a crowd of about 5,000 headed by Rhode Island Gov. Christopher Del Sesto.

The governor gave Eisenhower three dozen golf balls inscribed "Mr. President." Mrs. Eisenhower received a big bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Then, for the second time in a long history of flying, Mrs. Eisenhower joined her husband in a helicopter flight, this time across Narragansett Bay to the summer White House at Ft. Adams. Mrs. Eisenhower's first "whirlybird" flight was last year in Canada on one of the legs of a visit to Ottawa when she met Britain's Queen Elizabeth II.

GOP Professor To Seek Seat Held By Lyndon

AUSTIN (AP) — A Republican college professor who wants Lyndon Johnson's Senate seat claims he will capitalize on a large "potential protest vote against Johnson" in his campaign.

John Tower said Thursday he has received "much encouragement from Democrats" in his uphill race against the senior Texas senator.

"One prominent Democrat poked me in the ribs and said, 'Son, you're gonna do better than you think you'll do,'" Tower told newsmen.

Tower, who recently resigned as professor of government at Midwestern University to run for the Senate, said Johnson has never gone down on the unpopular side of an issue.

"I don't see how he can be called a strong leader," Tower said. "The time has come for men of conviction."

The 35-year-old Houston native said his campaign, which will get started next month, will be a liberal-conservative battle.

"I'm the conservative candidate, Johnson's the liberal candidate," he said. Tower claims Johnson has not adequately represented Texas thinking, which Tower thinks is predominantly conservative.

"The ACA rates John Kennedy more conservative than Johnson," Tower said. The Americans for Constitutional Action is a non-partisan right-wing organization. Tower said Johnson's Senate votes satisfied the conservative group only a tenth of the time.

By contrast, he said, Johnson's votes pleased the liberal Americans for Democratic Action 63 per cent of the time.

Tower said he is a moderate in civil rights, a strong believer in "fiscal responsibility," an opponent of deficit government spending, and an advocate of states rights and "state responsibility."

Terraces Prove Value To Soil

Terraces long have proven their value in holding soil and moisture in times of heavy rain.

This has been demonstrated again this week in Howard County, especially where closed-ends have been employed.

One example is that on the Douglas Overman farm east of the Kilpatrick Store at Luther. Overman, who has 160 acres east of the store, has about half of his farm terraced under the Great Plains Conservation Program. He built these himself and then closed the ends of the field next to the road borrow ditch.

This week, water that once would have spilled into the ditch to run off, was held behind the terraces to soak into the ground.

Overman is considering closed terraces for the rest of the field. Water stored in the ground is particularly important in crop production in the tight lands such as around Luther.

Jack Buchanan, who rebuilt his terraces on his farm about a mile north of Luther, was another who held the rain where it fell. He worked his system out with the aid of the Agricultural Conservation Program. Both had technical assistance from the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District and the Soil Conservation Service.

In the accompanying picture, the closed terraces graphically demonstrated the utilization of practically all of a 3 1/2-inch rain. The rows behind the terraces, naturally, are contour.

O'Shields, presiding minister of the local group.

The program of the week's activity will begin Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. with a ministerial training school. The theme of the program is "Learning How To Serve Jehovah."

3 Workers Killed In Philly Blast

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A double explosion rocked the South Philadelphia waterfront Thursday, killing three workers at an oil and solvent processing plant, and generating a four-alarm fire.

The first explosion hurled a seven-ton tank filled with paint-base soybean oil in a huge ball of fire 100 feet across a road and some railroad tracks.

It was followed quickly by a second blast and then fire with heat so intense that about a dozen cars parked outside sagged to the ground with tires burned and frames melted.

The victims were Sydney Dawson, 42; Ernest Jackson, 48; and Fred Dewitte, 43. They were employees of Cargill, Inc.

Cause of the explosion was not immediately determined.

Legion Tackles Job Of Painting House Numbers

A curb-numbering project, designed both as a civic and fund raising undertaking, will get under way here Monday.

The American Legion Post No. 885 is sponsoring the ambitious effort to paint numbers on the street curbs throughout the city.

Crews of students will do the work, painting a background block and then imposing the numbers corresponding to the residence at this point.

At the same time, they will leave envelopes at the residence, bearing a message from the American Legion.

There is no set charge for the service—or none at all if the resident does not wish to make a contribution. The Legion simply requests that whatever donation the householder wishes to make should be placed in the envelope so it may be handed to or left for the students crew members.

Half of the proceeds go to the Legion's building fund, the other half to the student groups.

Because there are so many homes which do not have house numbers, or numbers which are not easily visible from the street, Legion officials pointed out that the project is primarily a civic one.

Drilling Speed Record Claimed

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—An apparent world speed record was reported Thursday by oil drillers who cut more than a mile of hole in 24 hours in Timbalier Bay off the southeast Louisiana coast.

Dixie Drilling Co. cut down 5,412 feet in one day recently in drilling the Gulf Oil Corp. No. 158 about 50 miles southwest of New Orleans.

The drillers used a speeded rotary table and a 9 1/2 inch bit at an average of 225 revolutions per minute. Gulf has set the depth to be drilled at 10,150 feet. Dixie and Gulf officials said the previous record was believed to have been about 3,500 feet in one day, set by Creole Petroleum Co. in the Lake Miracabo Field in Venezuela.

Advertisement for Del Rio, Acuna Celebrate Dam: "DEL RIO, Tex. (AP)—Residents of this Mexican border city and their neighbors from across the Rio Grande danced for joy Thursday night over President Eisenhower's signature of a bill authorizing Amistad Dam. Word of this development arrived in midafternoon, and arrangements for a festive celebration quickly took shape. The giant international dam, expected to cost $79,120,000 plus possible additions for hydroelectric power, is planned 12 miles upstream from Del Rio near the point where the Devil's River pours into the Rio Grande. More than 5,000 persons from Del Rio and Ciudad Acuna, its sister city across the border, joined in a gay street dance. It continued well past midnight. Rep. O. C. Fisher (D-Tex.), who introduced the original bill to authorize Amistad Dam, flew here to take part in the celebration. 'Harnessing of the Rio Grande signals a new era for Southwest Texas and northern Mexico,' Fisher said in a speech before the dance. 'This is a project of international significance. Its benefits will be shared by communities on both sides of the Rio Grande from Amistad Dam to the Gulf of Mexico.' Similar expressions came from several other speakers. Oswaldo Martinez, president of the Ciudad Acuna Chamber of Commerce, described the project as of national significance in both his country and the United States. He reported Mexico will finish building a new railroad and highway into Ciudad Acuna before construction of the dam starts."

Experience And Maturity

In his reply to former President Harry Truman's "rigged convention" charges, in which Mr. Truman seemed to downgrade Sen. Jack Kennedy because of the latter's youth (43), Kennedy pointed out that of the 10 men Mr. Truman thought were better qualified than the senator, one man was only one year older than Kennedy and one was a year younger.

Sen. Kennedy dwelt rather at length in pointing out the number of notable men who had powerfully influenced history at an age even younger than his (Kennedy's) own. The list included George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, William Pitt and others.

This was hardly an answer to Mr. Truman's apparent drift of argument; to wit, that Kennedy needed more experience and maturity to be president. That translates into more ability, more wisdom, a greater awareness.

No one would argue that the younger Pitt wasn't qualified in every way to be prime minister of Great Britain at the age of 24, for the very brilliance of his performance spoke for itself. This strapping, nothing short of a genius, is rated by many historians as Britain's greatest first minister.

Did Sen. Kennedy mean to imply that he is as able as Washington, as brilliant as Jefferson, as much a genius as Pitt? Remember, Mr. Truman was speaking of experience and maturity, not of mere calendar years.

We feel that the former president's implied suggestion that Kennedy is lacking in parliamentary and administrative experience and maturity was more than justified. There is not one single outstanding piece of legislation in his name in Congress, or one single example of distinguished leadership.

He is, undoubtedly, a popular man; there isn't any question that he has a way with a crowd, an engaging personality, a captivating grin, a suggestion of glamor.

Radio, TV, motion picture magazines and newspapers have been able to glamorize many people in recent years. They have been able to transmute mediocrity into fame and fortune. (They have, of course, made many worthwhile contributions to this age, and will make many more.)

When it comes to choosing a President of the United States there should be no weight accorded to glamor and an ability to sway crowds to the neglect of demonstrated ability.

Same Old Problem—Barely Missed

Only through a beneficent spacing of snows have we spared a serious flooding problem in our lowland sections. Some five or six years ago families had to be evacuated from those sections following less rainfall than we have experienced since Monday.

The difference between then and now is that each time we reached the flooding stage this week, the rains let up and gave time for the water to run off before new showers returned. Had they been bunched, we would have been in for serious trouble.

When we had successive serious flooding, we got quite exercised by it, especially when the level of water in Sulphur Draw rose precariously near the top of the natural dam on the Wilkinson pasture. Studies were made and several possibilities suggested. As late as last year there was a move on foot to establish a special Soil Conservation watershed project on the reaches immediately north and northeast of Big Spring. Perhaps this is still in the mill, but the gist of it is this:

It may be half a dozen years or more before we face a critical flood problem again, but some of these days we are going to run into something like 1902 or 1923, and when we do we're going to see some costly repercussions unless we work more diligently toward expediting the flow of water down Sulphur Draw through town.

Johnson's Stock Is Rising

WASHINGTON—The Democratic ticket is to be Kennedy and Johnson—or, else Johnson and Kennedy.

The ground swell for the Texas senator for the presidential nomination is growing. He has carefully avoided giving offense to the Massachusetts senator.

But the lines are drawn. Sen. Johnson argues implicitly that he is more experienced in national and international affairs than his rivals. Certainly his statement over television and radio on Tuesday was statesmanlike and politically effective.

Sen. Johnson very wisely painted a picture of how serious are the affairs of the world today and pointedly argued that, when Sen. Kennedy was campaigning in the primaries and lining up delegations, things were different in the world than they are today. Mr. Johnson declared:

"SIXTY DAYS AGO the future looked vastly different than it looks today. Men were talking confidently of far different things than they talk of now. Then came the Paris conference, and Mr. Khrushchev unmasked the future in all its grim challenges to us. . . . The American presidency itself has a far different role than it did when some began seeking to tie up those delegates who will be the convention voters."

Mr. Johnson accused the Communists of moving in "to kill off" and "downgrade" the presidency as a world influence. He added:

"If they can destroy the world's trust in this great office, the Communists can destroy the leadership of freedom itself. That is why—after the Paris conference—I, for one, felt so strongly, as one who shares the responsibilities of national leadership, that we should not do Mr. Khrushchev's divisive work for him."

"I did not—and I will not—lean in to chew on President Eisenhower personally, just as I have not and will not spend my time now trying to destroy any in my party or other parties who might come to this high office."

"MISTAKES HAVE BEEN MADE—and inexcusable ones. But my interest—and I believe the interest of my fellow Americans—is in curing those mistakes, not in exploiting them for political partisan gain."

This is the kind of utterance that can win Republican votes if Mr. Johnson is the Democratic party nominee. Even today it is one reason why his strength has been increasing inside his own party. In fact, with the backing of Speaker Rayburn and a large number of senators and representatives, the Texas senator emerges as the real challenger of the delegate block accumulated in the last few months by Sen. Kennedy through intensive organization in various states.

LYNDON JOHNSON is a skillful campaigner. He has proved a natural leader in Congress. In fact, if there were a parliamentary system in the United States such as in Canada and Britain, he would emerge as the logical choice for prime minister. Incidentally, he has held the post of majority leader for six years, and on the last occasion was chosen unanimously by his Democratic colleagues.

Perhaps Sen. Johnson's strongest point in his Tuesday news conference was the following:

"After July, the bandwagons will be out to pasture. And we will stand face-to-face with whatever destiny this century holds for us—with one man as our leader, the one man that we choose this year, the one man standing out in front to lead us."

"All the forces of evil in this world will stand poised, ready to strike at freedom through whatever weaknesses America may show. Those forces will have no mercy for innocence, no gallantry toward inexperience, no patience toward errors. . . ."

"THERE WILL BE little time to learn this job. We can only anticipate that the next President will be greeted by the Cuba, less than 100 miles from our shoreline. He will be met by efforts to penetrate internally into the republics of this hemisphere. He will be met by new ultimatums over Berlin. He will be met by attacks upon the security of American bases throughout the world—by insults to the American flag and embassies abroad—by indignities against our citizens anywhere."

This is a realistic picture of what the future may hold in store for America. That's why the search goes on for that "someone with the greatest possible maturity and experience" to whom former President Truman referred in his statement last Saturday.

Already Sen. Kennedy has plainly said that he will consider Adlai Stevenson for secretary of state. Yet Mr. Stevenson has lost the confidence of millions of Americans by his partisan attacks on the Eisenhower administration since the Paris conference. These have played into the hands of Mr. Khrushchev. So it will be interesting to know if Sen. Johnson, too, will favor Adlai Stevenson as secretary of state.

PORTLAND (AP)—A man sought to elude pursuers by ducking into the city police station. He was nabbed as he emerged from the building and arrested for shoplifting.

BITING THE HAND—

James Marlow Truman, The Contradiction Machine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former President Truman, a nimble 76, can hop in opposite directions without losing a minute in contradicting himself.

For instance:

A week ago he said he was resigning as a delegate to next week's Democratic convention in Los Angeles. Now he's having second thoughts.

A week ago he implied Sen. John F. Kennedy, 43, and front-runner for the Democratic presidential nomination, was too young and inexperienced for the job.

And it was Truman who announced in 1956 that Adlai Stevenson couldn't win the presidency but three days later said he could, although, as it turned out, Stevenson couldn't.

JUST LAST Saturday, on a nation-wide TV broadcast in a room packed with newsmen, Truman said he had quit as a delegate to the convention because, he implied, it was rigged by Kennedy forces.

A reporter asked him: "What are the conditions, if any, under which you would change your mind and attend the convention?"

The snappy Truman, enjoying the sensation he was causing, shot back: "There are no conditions."

But Thursday he said he had under consideration a request from Missouri's Gov. James T. Blair to attend the convention as a delegate. The governor told Truman "it's your duty to at-

No Doubt About Gout

NEW YORK (AP)—One out of every 100 Americans has a disease at which many of the other 99 often laugh through sheer ignorance.

This disease is gout, a malady which has had a far more important impact on our country than, say, those twin ailments of the advertising world—halitosis and athlete's foot.

Those who laugh at gout might not be here at all except for the dreary dullness of a gout sufferer. Between his pangs this man—Christopher Columbus—discovered America.

Those who laugh at gout might not be Americans at all except for two more gout victims.

One was the brilliant English cricketer, William Pitt. It is said that only an attack of gout prevented him from stopping passage of the Stamp Act, a measure that speeded the American Revolution.

The other was Benjamin Franklin, whose diplomatic genius—despite his throbs of gout—did so much to win American freedom and establish our national unity.

Those who laugh at gout do so in the belief that it is a heavenly penalty for high living. The truth is that gout is an inheritable metabolic disorder, a form of arthritis that afflicts more suspected sinners than known saints only because at any one time the world usually holds many sinners, few saints.

The long and honorable history of gout is recalled in the current issue of "Geriatrics" by two physicians, L. Maxwell Lockie and Richard G. Cooper, both of Buffalo, N.Y.

Gout, which is manifested by painful deposits in the joints and body cartilage and accompanied by a high uric acid content in the blood, is one of the oldest diseases known to man.

It was accurately described by Hippocrates, the "father of medicine," and others as early as the 5th century, B.C. As early as the 17th century Thomas Sydenham, "the English Hippocrates," classified gout as a form of arthritis and gave his view that victims "have received ill seeds of the disease from their parents by inheritance."

The general image of a man with the gout was that of a fat red-faced English lord lying in bed with a heavily bandaged foot propped up on a pillow, a wretch who screamed in agony—if even a fly landed on the bandage.

For a couple of centuries thousands of high-minded men suffered the tortures of gout in secret and silence rather than admit they had a malady others thought comic.

Today, say Drs. Lockie and Cooper, gout is the one form of arthritis that can be easily managed by medicine and diet.

So if you want to become the first man in your neighborhood with a distinctive disease, never mind bragging about your ulcer. Ulcers are commonplace. Gout is the thing. Gout is becoming fashionable as well as respectable.

The guy with gout may also have genius in his genes; the guy who still laughs at gout proves he is merely an uninformed dumbbell.

To Your Good Health Height Is Not What Makes A Big Man

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have heard that dark shadows under the eyes, that is, 'bags under the eyes,' are often due to vitamin deficiency. —A.L."

No, this condition is not the result of vitamin deficiency. It has to do with skin texture and coloring, and fatigue can accentuate it. Loss of tone of skin and the small amount of muscle under the skin, associated with aging, etc., are important considerations.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am 55 and have had mastoid infection since I was a child. Could I syringe my ears with anything that would dry them up? —J.P.M."

I doubt it, my friend. I doubt it so much that I'll give you a flat "no." Infection of such long standing is going to be stubborn. But rather than let it continue, go to an ENT (that means ear-nose-throat) specialist and let him decide the best way to help you. If you don't have a personal physician, call the county medical society and ask them to give you the names of two or three ENT specialists.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Some time ago you discussed a wrist ganglion. I would appreciate a discussion of the other kind. My dad has had treatments for a neuralgia of sphenopalatine ganglia, which seems to control the pain. —S.M."

"Ganglion" (plural: Ganglia) means "knot." In my earlier discussion of a ganglion (or "knot") in the wrist, the term applies to a "knot" or swelling in the sheath of a tendon, commonly in the wrist.

The other type of ganglion refers to a "bunching of nerve cells from which nerve fibers emerge. This is a normal part of the anatomy. In your dad's case, the neuralgia means that something has affected certain ganglia. It could be due to infection or toxemia of some sort. In this particular area, there may be some connection with sinus disease.

As to the other symptoms you mentioned, I am not familiar with their being related to this particular type of neuralgia, so I should suspect these other symptoms to be from some other cause.

Fat! My leaflet "The Lost Secret of Reducing," tells how to get rid of it the easy way. For your copy write to me in care of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Molner answers readers' questions in his column whenever possible.

Bats In The Japanese Belfry

The science of warfare has seen some weird developments.

Take, for example, the bat raid on Japan during World War II, a tale that seemingly comes straight out of some science fantasy magazine, so ridiculous at first glance that most people gave the yarn no credence.

But it actually happened.

The story has the plot lines of science fantasy from start to finish. But come to think of it, the same would be true of the uranium bomb.

THE TALE BEGINS with an idle idea. Someone began adding together certain unrelated facts. Bats, he told himself, fly only at night. In the daytime, they seek out dark places to hide. Caves aren't the only places bats are found. Bats in the belfry, you know. Warehouses are dark. Would it be wonderful if we could train bats to help fight the war?

Well, why not? They could carry bombs, couldn't they?

The idea was taken up with the military and, as so often happens in science yarns, the plan "sounded just crazy enough that it might work." (Quotation lifted verbatim from at least three science fiction stories.)

SOON THESE IDEAS began to form in the minds of military men and scientists working on the project:

1. Bats are plentiful and dirt cheap, and are easily caught and tamed in the daytime.
2. Fire bombs can be quickly, easily and cheaply manufactured in tiny dimensions.

3. Bats could easily carry such bombs strapped to their chests.
4. Such bombs could be fitted with small timers to go off at a specified hour.
5. In a country like Japan, there are literally millions of dark spots in which bats could hide.
6. Japan is largely a firetrap, as conventional fire raids have already demonstrated.
7. Thousands of bats were captured, caged, and fitted with the fire bombs. Planes dropped them over Japan, in the dark of night. With the first ray of dawn, the bats took refuge in dark spots all over the main islands. The dawn was not fully formed when the fire bombs went off.
8. THE PLANES HAD been detected, but had veered off without dropping bombs. Probably some reconnaissance, the Japanese said. The bats, of course, were not detected in flight, and when the bombs exploded, both bat and bomb case were reduced to ashes so that no evidence remained. Mysterious fires broke out all over Japan, and the Japanese were convinced they had been stricken by some weird super-weapon. The fires did a lot of damage, but the psychological effects were even more damaging.
9. So much for the bat raid. Undoubtedly, they would have come up with an even more powerful secret weapon.

Something called an atomic bomb.

Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?

What follows is written by a square's square from Squaresville and in addition, perish forbid, by one who is indeed mid-aged. Consequently, anything here is irrelevant, immaterial and impossible. Natch!

So will some kind person, accustomed to dealing with the mentally retarded, gently take me aside and explain to me what in Sam Hill parents are up to these days besides the country club circuit and the cocktail party bit?

No one has to explain to me what teenagers are up to. I can read that any and every day on the front page and in the vital statistics, police and court divisions. Nor is the square referring to slum kids and grossly underprivileged youth.

THIS SQUARE is interested today in what goes on in comfortable, privileged American homes that they turn out hoodlums and harridans who riot through the streets when they cannot buy admission to a jazz festival at which there is not even SRO.

What happens in the "good" American home today that it turns out teen-age and collegiate bums who not only riot through the streets of Newport, R.I., but fight authorities trying to restore order?

What gives in this same home when the young adults it produces feel violence is their privilege, that it is their right to assault police and U. S. Marines with bottles, and make them the target of full beer cans lobbed with intent to injure?

I am so square and so middle-aged that my sense of humor fails to function when I read of 12,000 teen-age and collegiate jazz buffs rioting through Newport, hurling rocks, bottles and cans of beer at city and state police and firemen, U. S. Marines, naval detachments and National Guardsmen.

WHEN THE RIOT, sparked by over-popularity of the seven-year-old Newport Jazz Festival, was ended, 125 persons had been injured, none seriously. But I, for one, sincerely regret the fact that the forces of law and order were unable to knock together the empty heads of the 12,000 ill-bred, ill-mannered mob whose poison Ivy League colleges.

Newport officials estimate that the surly mob, both male and female, consisted entirely of collectors of 17 to 20 years of age. Many had been drinking beer and whisky all day, having thoughtfully filled their cars with such necessary supplies before descending upon Newport from all over the East, the border states and the Midwest.

AS THE AFTERMATH of the riot, city officials closed the Jazz Festival, whose directors now plan to sue the city for $4,000,000 in damages. The added directors are suing the wrong party. The persons they should be suing are the negligent parents of the disgraced mob.

No modern parent has ever heard the old song, "Where Is My Wandering Boy (or Girl) Tonight?" And if they did, they would snicker and shrug. Who cares where the teen-age brats are, as long as they are out from under foot?

Once they are too old for baby-sitters, too many kids are on their own in all strata of American society. And as for teaching them good manners, self-respect and public decorum, that's OUT! Such a regime would interfere with their personality growth and might tend to constrict the psyche.

AS FOR INSTILLING a sense of responsibility in youth, that's for squares, too. That might lead to inhibitions. And the proof of my squareness is a deep-down, locked-in belief that a few inhibitions wouldn't do us any harm at any age level in 1960.

What are parents thinking of when they let their offspring swarm into Newport by the thousands to riot? To descend on the Florida beaches in spring like locusts and behave like locusts? The Romans had a phrase for it: "In loco parentis," with emphasis on the word "loco-

Cuban Infection At Critical Point

WASHINGTON—While public attention is fixed upon our domestic political drama, the infection in Cuba is reaching the point of intolerable danger to the free world in this hemisphere.

This is not the judgment of mere hysterical professional "anti-Communists" who see Moscow agents everywhere. It is the cool considered conviction of elevated and truly liberal political leaders of South America with whom this correspondent has talked.

These leaders have told our State Department plainly that Fidel Castro has permitted Cuba to become nothing less than a bridgehead for Soviet communism within 100 miles of the United States. They have told the State Department plainly that Castro is spending vast sums—whether his own or Russian money they do not say—all through Latin America to destroy Washington's leadership in this hemisphere.

And they have suggested to the State Department, politely, that the United States government has so far failed to explain the realities to the American people, of whom only a tiny minority has any notion whatever of the facts of life in Cuba.

THESE URGENT representations explain, in part, why the State Department has now at last publicly admitted that its soft line toward Castro is being abandoned. A more compelling reason for the change, however, has been Congress itself.

Congress has been many months ahead of the diplomats in recognizing the true nature of the Castro menace. This has been done almost wholly to a single determined senator, George Smathers of Florida. The administration, for illustration, has now accepted what it so long resisted—the principle of reducing the larger sugar subsidy we grant to Cuba.

This small step, however—if and when actually taken—will be only the barest beginning toward the development of a policy adequate to quarantine the Castro virus.

IT REMAINS CLEAR that the United States can never afford to take the slightest military measure against Castro. World opinion would automatically follow "imperialism," even though Castro's open alliance with the Soviet Union plainly indicates that if anybody is preparing aggression, it is surely not the "Yankee colossus," the United States.

It is becoming equally clear, however, that the whole field of Latin-American relations will be re-examined by the new administration and new Congress arriving in January. Our ablest Latin-American friends believe that in our own interests (and admittedly in their interest, too) we must consider something like a small Marshall Plan for this hemisphere.

THE PROBLEM IS NOW reckoned to be similar in principle to the one we faced in Europe immediately after the war. Want and chaos must be ended lest communism uses want and chaos to entrench itself.

As to the military side of the problem, Senator Smathers' tireless recommendations for a hemisphere security force under the Organization of American States are now making some headway. They were once wholly ignored. Now it can be said that some men, both in the Administration and in Congress, are showing a willingness at least to examine the proposal.

This is a real gain. And so is the fact that professional "liberals," who in the beginning howled Castro up as a kind of secular saint, have ceased their syrupy eulogies of this bearded, this sensitive, this poetic lyncher.

It is even possible that for the first time in modern history the great complex of difficulty that is Latin America may become involved in the presidential campaign itself as an issue of consequence. It is no longer possible to look at this hemisphere as a low-priority foreign policy area. It is becoming absolutely necessary to look homeward as well as across the seas.

Amos Demands Social Justice

THE MESSAGE OF REBUKE AND WARNING WHICH GOD SENT TO HIS OWN CHOSEN PEOPLE THROUGH THE PROPHET AMOS

Scripture—Amos 5:2-6; 8:1-6.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
QUOTING from the Rev. William M. Smith, editor and commentator of Peloubet's Select Notes: "Before his prophetic calling, reared on the edge of the desert, 11 miles south of Jerusalem, Amos, like Micah, was a rustic; and because his father's name is nowhere mentioned, it is inferred that he probably sprang from a poor and obscure family. He raised a peculiar breed of stunted, five-toed sheep, a breed small in size, ugly in appearance, but highly esteemed for their wool. He lived close to nature. His occupation naturally carried him to the wool markets of the northern cities, and he had become acquainted with the life and religion of the people. Though he was untutored, yet, being by birth a morally noble man, he was able to see the truth, and his vigorous yeoman we may set forth wheat, making the sheaf small, and the shekel great, and falsifying the balances by deceit? That we may buy the poor for silver, and the needy for a pair of shoes; yea, and sell the refuse of the wheat?"—Amos 8:4-6.

Amos told them, "They hate him that rebuketh in the gate, and they abhor him that speaketh uprightly. Forasmuch therefore as your treading is upon the poor, and ye take from him burdens of wheat; ye have built houses of hewn stone, but ye shall not dwell in them; ye have planted pleasant vineyards, but ye shall not drink wine of them."—Amos 8:10-11.

"For I know your manifold transgressions, and your mighty sins: they afflict the just, they take a bribe, and they turn aside the poor in the gate."

Minister Turned People Toward Freedom's Cause

The man "putting law and order" in the streets of New Jersey is not a politician, but a minister of the Gospel. His name is John Witherspoon, a minister of the Presbyterian Church and the only ordained clergyman to sign the Declaration of Independence.

Over the years Witherspoon's name has become lost amid the glitter of the giants of independence—John Hancock, Benjamin Franklin and the Adamases, John and Sam.

He doesn't deserve that fate. Witherspoon, with his eloquent dynamic preaching, possibly did more than anyone else to swing the minds of American Presbyterians to the side of the revolution.

As president of the College of New Jersey (now Princeton) he had a strong influence on James Madison. Nine ex-Princetonians sat in on the drafting of the U.S. Constitution.

Witherspoon became a fighting preacher early in life. He was arrested a number of times in his native Scotland for his attacks on the so-called moderate wing of Presbyterianism. He considered himself orthodox in an age of religious upheaval.

His theological writings earned him calls to the presidency from Dundee, Scotland; Dublin, Ireland; Rotterdam, Holland; and New Jersey.

He accepted the latter call in 1768 at the age of 42 and "became an American the moment I landed."

Witherspoon laid down his thoughts on civil and religious liberties in a sermon to Princeton students a month and a half before the signing of the Declaration.

"There is not a single instance in history in which civil liberty was lost, and religious liberty preserved entire."

After the Revolution, Witherspoon turned his sharp pen to the task of helping the unstable young union to find its feet—particularly in the sphere of church and state.

Georgia drew one of his finest barbs when it resolved in its constitution that "no clergyman of any denomination shall be a member of the general assembly." Witherspoon suggested this alternative:

"No clergyman of any denomination shall be capable of being elected a member of the Senate or House of Representatives, because there insert the grounds of offensive disqualification, which I have not been able to discover."

"Provided always that if at any time he shall be completely deprived of the clerical character by those whom he was invested with it, as by deposition for cursing and swearing, drunkenness or uncleanness, he shall then be fully restored to all the privileges of a free citizen."

"His offense shall no more be remembered against him; but he may be chosen either to the Senate or House of Representatives, and shall be treated with all the respect due to his brethren, the other members of the assembly."

Penicillin Discoverer Gives God The Credit

On July 3, 1949 Sir Alexander Fleming, the discoverer of penicillin, came to Oklahoma City to dedicate the Oklahoma Medical Research Foundation. During his dedication he spoke of his own discovery of penicillin and the good that comes from the discovery of healing drugs.

"There are plenty of problems yet which can be solved by simple methods provided the right mind is turned on them at the right time." He said, smiling at his audience, "the story of penicillin brings out these points. It began with the contamination of a cul-

Churches Ponder The Big Parking Problem

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Should downtown churches move to the suburbs to get away from unsightly housing and cold business buildings?

No, says the Rev. Dr. W. A. Criswell, pastor of the biggest Baptist church in Texas.

In fact, the Rev. Dr. Criswell's First Baptist Church of Dallas is sinking its roots even more deeply into the area around Ervan and San Jacinto streets in the shadows of skyscrapers.

And it sends buses into nearby low-income districts to bring more underprivileged people to church.

The emphasis is on youngsters. The church has become a haven for boys whose bare feet show through lattered shoes and girls who stare wide-eyed at the church's beautiful paneled walls.

First Baptist is worth about 10 million dollars, which makes it one of the wealthiest churches in the nation.

Recently, it paid a million-dollar for a building across the street to add to its extensive facilities, which include a gymnasium, bowling alleys and a skating rink.

The work among the underprivileged is supervised by First Baptist's Good Shepherd Department, which has its own minister—the Rev. Johnny Barrett—and its own staff.

But much of the day-to-day work is done by members of the church.

Junior deacons, among them some of the wealthiest men in Dallas, drive the buses that pick up the children and their parents.

The Rev. Dr. Criswell believes that churches have a clear duty to serve downtown areas.

"Pressed against the downtown heart of any city is a large area of declining properties that are rented to the poor," he says. "The downtown church has a God-given commission to minister to these people."

In ministering to them, First Baptist wins many as members.

But quite a few prefer to stay with the Good Shepherd Department and the Rev. Mr. Barrett, who ministers to crowds of 500 or more with an assist from a corps of 70 Sunday School workers.

Women Ordained Swedish Priests

By CARL O. BOLANG
STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Three women stepped into pulpits of Sweden's Lutheran State Church recently amid a storm of criticism and episcopal threats of boycott.

The three, all unmarried, are the first women in Swedish history to be ordained priests.

The question whether to let women take priestly office has divided the Swedish State Church into two camps and has rocked relations between the Church and the State.

Some bishops campaigned for a boycott of the first women priests, while others, including Archbishop Gunner Hultgren of Uppsala, the primate of Sweden, have welcomed them into their dioceses. Still others have not made up their minds.

The clergy against women priests base their argument on the first epistle of Paul to the Corinthians: "Let women keep silence in the churches I Cor. 14:34."

And the church assembly, an advisory body composed of 50 clergymen and 50 laymen, in 1958 voted 69-29 against female ministers. Two members abstained.

But the women priests have law on their side.

The priestly offices were made available to them by an act of Parliament that went into effect on Jan. 1, 1959.

Soft-spoken, scholarly Archbishop Hultgren conferred the orders on one of the women, the Rev.

New Water Boy System
E. E. Posa displays the polyethylene tubing which became one of the first families in the Big Spring area to install the process at their home at 1600 Park Hill.

Water Boy System Features Novel Irrigation For Yards

A new business, recently inaugurated in Big Spring and the West Texas area this spring is Water Boy Systems, an irrigation and watering system for lawns and yards.

The operation in Big Spring is headed by Shiloh Gorman, 803 16th, AM 3-3208, and Post and 10th, Colorado City, hold the area franchise.

The system is different from other watering systems. It is designed to supply an even distribution of water from conventional nozzles and lines. Special ditching machines cut trenches two inches wide and six inches deep, spaced about thirty-six inches apart.

The trenches are partly filled with gravel on which polyethylene pipe, with holes spaced regularly on the bottom side, is laid. The remainder of the trench is filled with soil and sod.

The system operates from a fixed gradient flow and not from pressure so that the water may be turned on to run slowly. A maximum of four hours of watering a week is more than enough because no water is lost from evaporation or runoff, and two hours a week is said to do the job.

The advantages to this system are, of course, evident. Aside from doing away with the inconvenience of moving a hose and sprinkler around, the system saves gallons of water usually lost with conventional methods. It saves hours of time and your lawn will maintain an even color due to even distribution of water, preventing unwatered areas.

With polyethylene pipe, there is no danger of rust or corrosion and the pipe is designed to last a lifetime. The low cost of twelve cents a square foot includes everything—there are no extra charges. And the labor on the job is guaranteed for a year.

With Water Boy, you can now water your lawn while you water it, or have a picnic at the same time.

Water Boy Systems is not a new firm. It was established three years ago in Dallas, and the oldest Water Boy irrigated lawns are located in Dallas. Although the idea is new to West Texas, however, it is a system ideally suited to the area.

Blue Lustre Provides Carpet Beauty Throughout The Year

In the not too distant past, cleaning carpets and upholstery was for spring and fall but in today's modern world, the housewives take advantage of Blue Lustre's easy home cleaning method to keep soft from dulling the full enjoyment of their floor beauty the year around.

Dust and dirt as every homemaker knows doesn't choose any special season to do its dirty work but shows up any time in almost every place, particularly on carpets and rugs.

This doesn't discourage the smart housewife because with Blue Lustre kept on hand, carpets and upholstery always looks fresh and new.

Unlike many old-fashioned cleaners that may be inflammable or have obnoxious fumes, this new cleaner developed through long research, is non-flammable and odorless.

Blue Lustre is a gentle, harmless concentrate in liquid form—it is mixed with water and creates a billowy foam that is then applied to the carpet or rug with any type of rug shampoo applicator or with an inexpensive long-handled brush.

One of the surprising features of this new cleaner is how suddenly the old colors spring back to life again, revealing the beauty of the true colors long forgotten.

The cleaning action of the Blue Lustre foam is unique for it penetrates the carpet soil, holding it in suspension which allows the easy removal of the soil along with the cleaning agent by vacuuming the rug or carpet.

Since there is no gummy-residue left in the carpet to cause rapid resoling, it stays cleaner longer. There is no soaking or matting of the fabric and it is soon dry and ready for use again with the nap left open and lustrous.

It's no wonder that smart housewives list Blue Lustre as first choice for cleaning carpets and keep it on hand to take care of any soiled pathways or spots which may show up from time to time.

They find also that it provides excellent results when used for cleaning upholstery and is handy to keep around the house because it is perfectly safe, odorless and non-flammable. It's economical too for one half gallon will clean three 9 X 12 rugs.

Blue Lustre is also available in the half gallon size and in the large economy gallon size at Big Spring Hardware, 110-117 Main.

Sportsman-Toyland Equipped To Serve

The sun's getting hotter, the days getting longer, and that old urge to get out on the lake grows stronger.

It's summer and, when summer is at hand, the lure of fishing, boating, water skiing and the out-of-doors grow intense.

Chances are when you check over your fishing and boating equipment prior to that all-important first day on the lake, you'll find you need a lot of things.

Make the replenishing of your supplies a one-stop project. Just go to the Sportsman-Toyland Center, 1608 Gregg. The store carries a complete line of everything the fisherman, boater or water skier wants. The quality is high, the price is right, and the selection is the best in West Texas.

Even if the trip is a long way in the offing, why not drop in at the Center and browse around?

You'll be more than welcome and you'll have a chance to look over the things you may need later at a leisurely pace.

Sportsman-Toyland Center also features one of the most complete stocks of toys to be found anywhere. The selection runs the gamut: you can find nearly every kind of a toy that you could possibly imagine. It's a big kick just to look over the amazing display of playthings to be found at this fine store.

Parking is free in front of the Sportsman-Toyland Center. There are no parking meters. The phone number is AM 3-2842.

Dodgers Getting Hot But Face Big Task

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers have begun to look like world champions again, but they still have a long way to go to catch Pittsburgh's Pirates in the National League race.

The Dodgers, who trail by 8½ games, moved within a half-game of third place San Francisco by whipping Chicago's Cubs 7-1 Thursday night for their ninth victory in 11 games.

But the Pirates put away their fourth consecutive success when Bob Skinner cracked a two-out double in the ninth inning that beat Cincinnati 3-2. It was Pittsburgh's 11th last-inning victory.

It also retained their 5½-game spread over Milwaukee's second place Braves, who defeated Philadelphia 2-0 as Hank Aaron backed Warren Spahn's five-hitter with a home run and sacrifice fly. St. Louis rapped San Francisco 7-3.

has won his last two starts for a $10 record. He allowed eight hits and walked four, but struck out eight and blanked the Cubs after George Altman hit his third home run.

Duke Snider drove in three runs. His two-run triple — a high bouncer at Boston, winning 6-5, Washington split a two-night double that was lost in the twilight at the Coliseum — clinched it for the Dodgers as they scored three in the first off Mark Freeman (3-4).

The Pirates trailed 2-1 with two out and no one on base in the ninth at Cincinnati, Bill Mazroski got them rolling with a single, his third hit, off reliever Jim Brosnan. Smokey Burgess, just back from a two-day suspension, followed with a pinch single off loser Bill Henry (1-4), who then gave up Skinner's winner.

Wilmer Mizell (5-5) was the winner, allowing four hits. Elroy Face wrapped it up in the ninth, allowing the Reds' fifth hit as they lost their fourth in a row.

Spahn (8-5), left off the All-Star staff, gained his 27th victory and 4th shutout — both all-time highs among NL southpaws — while walking just one and striking out

10. Lee Walls, who had two hits, and Bobby Del Greco singled with none out in the ninth for the Phils. But after Spahnle gave up a walk that loaded the bases hit into a doubleplay.

Billy Bruton's double and a single by Del Crandall set up Aaron's sacrifice fly in the first inning against Chris Short (4-5). Aaron hit his 23rd home run in the sixth as the Braves ended their loss string at three.

A two-run single by Stan Musial won it for the Cards in the third against Sam Jones (10-8). Larry Jackson (10-8) beat the Giants for the fourth time.

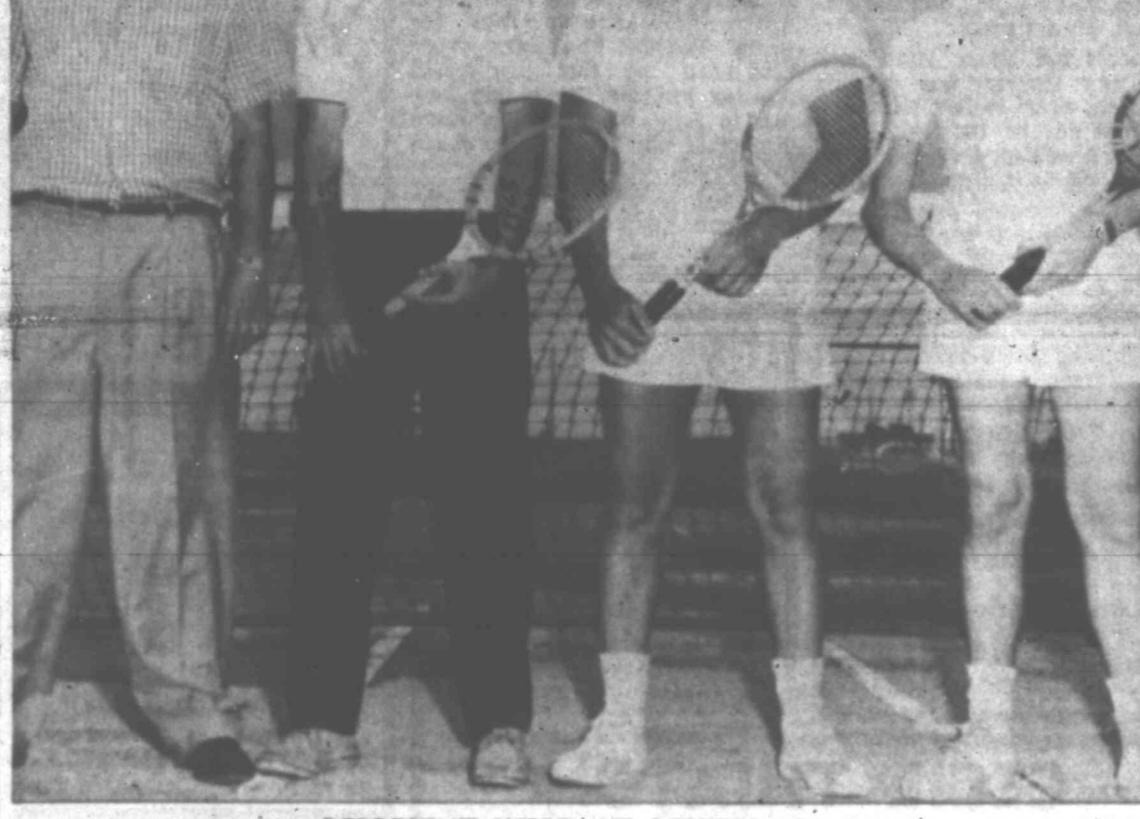

Pirates Topple Comets Thursday

A four-run rally in the second inning put the Pirates out in front Thursday night as they went on to trounce the Comets, 12-7 in the all-city Little League playoffs.

Frank Sabbato collected two hits for the winner and Gary Mears twirled a nifty three-hitter in gaining the win.

George McMillin, Mike Moeley, and Ricky Reynolds collected the only saves of Mears.

Webb Netters Seek Crown

Webb AFB tennis team departed today for the ATC Tennis Tournament at Lowry AFB in Denver, Colorado. The team consists of Captain James W. Shattuck, Captain Curtis D. Westphal, L. L. Murry Denton and A.I.C. Sam McCaughey, pictured above with Jimmy Ray Smith, coach (left).

Captain Shattuck has played on the Webb team for the past two years and advanced to the quarter finals in both singles and doubles play. Captain Westphal was also on last year's team and won several matches before being eliminated.

L. L. Denton played on the base team while a student at Webb AFB and is now with the 331st FIS at Webb. The only new member on this year's team is A.I.C. McCaughey.

The Webb team managed a third place finish out of 13 teams that were competing for the crown last year.

Braves Defeat Reef, 14-7

An eight-run rally in the fourth inning Thursday gave the Braves enough margin to stomp the Reef team, 14-7, in the Little League playoffs.

Danny Graham collected three hits and mates Billy Reagan, Paul Soldan, and Wayne Bogan each collected two safeties to lead the winners at bat.

Johnny Renteria led the losers with a homer and a single.

Art Wall Jr., Is Man To Watch At Toronto

TORONTO (AP)—Art Wall Jr., a macho-like professional from Pocono Manor, Pa., was the man to watch today as a reduced field headed into the third round of the $27,000 Canadian Open Golf Championship.

Wall fired a five-under-par 67 Thursday to seize the lead at the halfway mark in the 72-hole tournament with a 36-hole—133.

One shot back at 134 were Toronto's gangling Al Balding, the surprise first-round leader with a brilliant 64 who fell off to a 70 Thursday, and Tommy Jacobs, from Bermuda Dunes, Calif., who lacked a brilliant 65 on to his opening 69.

But it was Wall who was the player to fear in this 51st open at the 35-37 par-72 St. George's Club layout.

A total of 105 players — 99 pros and six amateurs — survived the second-round. A score of 149 or better was required. The field will be further reduced to the low 60 and ties for Saturday's showdown round.

Par took another severe beating, when 53 shooters got under regulation figures, including former U.S. Open champion Tommy Bolt.

Bolt, with a 66, was all alone at 65. Still very much in contention with 136 were five other Americans — Jay Hebert, Bob Gealy, Paul Harney, Gene Litter, and Sam Snead.

Bluhm Won't Play At Colorado City

COLORADO CITY (SC)—A new champion will be crowned in the Colorado City Invitational Golf tournament, which gets under way today and continues through Sunday.

Bobby Bluhm of Big Spring, the defending titlist, will not be able to take part due to the fact that he is in summer school at Lamar Tech.

Jack's Kin Adds Touch Of Glamor

By BOB THOMAS
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Leave it to California to provide a touch of glamor amid the 4,518 delegates and alternates to the Democratic National Convention.

One of the members of Gov. Edmund G. Brown's delegation bears two famous names. In the political crowd, she's Patricia Kennedy. To Hollywood, she's Mrs. Peter Lawford.

With typical Kennedy smoothness, she has managed to juggle the twin careers of being sister to a presidential aspirant and wife of a movie star, plus managing a seaside manse and a swim with three youngsters. Pat paused between her many duties to discuss the political side of her life.

"It was Governor Brown's suggestion that I be a delegate," she remarked. "I worked for him when I first came to California. He was attorney general then and I worked on his campaign when he ran for governor."

"I haven't been able to attend any meetings of the delegation because I just got back from Europe, where Pete was making a picture. We're having a caucus on Sunday, and I'll be there."

"The delegation is pledged to vote for Governor Brown on the first ballot. After that, I'll be able to vote for Jack. I don't know how the others will vote, but I think Jack should do very well in California. I think he will get a majority of the votes."

Her brother, known to the electorate as Sen. John F. Kennedy, is due to arrive Saturday and she expects to see a great deal of him. But no family parties are planned—"I expect we'll all be pretty busy."

Politics is a family passion with the Kennedys and Pat admitted she enjoys it as much as anyone.

Home Insurance Tags Go Down

AUSTIN (AP) — Most Texas home owners will pay 10 per cent less on their home insurance premiums starting Aug. 1.

State Insurance Board Chairman Penn Jackson said Thursday 80 per cent of the policies issued in the state will be in for the cut, which applies to A and B type policies. The lower rates do not apply to regular fire insurance policies, Jackson said.

C type policies, the high priced, deluxe policies offering full protection for all risks to personal and real property, will not be affected.

Policies included in the premium slash are the family package forms covering fire, windstorm, theft, and vandalism damage to homes and household goods.

Introduced about three years ago, the package policy gives home-owners more general protection on personal property and homes at a lower rate than they would get from separate policies covering separate types of property and risks.

Negro Executed In Angler Slaying

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — George Williams, 30-year-old Austin Negro, died early today in the electric chair at the state prison for the May 1, 1958, slaying of an elderly fisherman.

Williams entered the chamber at 12:02 a.m. He received the first charge of electricity at 12:05 and was pronounced dead at 12:09.

Williams, a Korean War veteran, was charged with shooting to death 67-year-old Charley Heise at Lawton's lake near Georgetown.

Actress Has News For Those Who Wish For 'Good Old Days'

So, you want to go back to the good old days? Perhaps you long for the romantic solitude offered by a ranch miles from nowhere? Or maybe you miss jumping up bright and early, looking forward to a day of wholesome activity in the fresh clean out-of-doors?

If you have fallen into believing this, Betty Lynn, who had a chance to test this philosophy, feels it wise to re-evaluate your thinking.

During the filming of "Geronimo's Revenge," segment of Walt Disney's TV series "Texas John Slaughter," Betty, co-starring as Viola Slaughter, was reminded of the numerous drudgeries endured by frontier women. She and star Tom Tryon were discussing the "Old West" and the "Geronimo's Revenge" script they were working on.

Ah, the good old days. Lassies in Mrs. Slaughter's time, during the early days of the Arizona territory, were able to lounge in bed until 4:30 a.m. And then eagerly begin an 18-hour day by building the fires, milking the cows, feeding the livestock and chopping a cord of wood. This kept her occupied until 5:30 . . . time for breakfast. The morning meal was a light repast of roast beef, several dozen eggs, freshly baked bread, fried potatoes, roasting ears (picked on her way back from feeding the livestock), fresh milk, a gallon of coffee and
