LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Ernest Turner, a 6-foot-2 Negro athlete who attended Dalworth High School, has accepted a scholarship at HCJC. He'll play basketball and run the sprints in track. He averaged 23 points a game in basketball while in his senior year in high school and was an all-state selection. Another trackster who will attend college here is Jerry Gammit of Rochester High, Class B state champion in the high schools two years ago. He's been clocked in 14.7 in his specialty. Cecil Bryant, Kermit pole vaulter, is another boy headed for Howard County JC. Harold Dement, who coached at Galena Park High School from 1933 to 1953, died recently. He was one of the organizers of the Texas Coaches Association. Furman Bisher, the Atlanta scribe, sees Syracuse and Ole Miss as the top football teams again this fall as regards Washington, Illinois, Iowa, USC, Texas, Georgia, Arkansas, North Carolina and the AF Academy as the strongest challengers. Dave Clark, the Olympic-bound pole vaulter who competed in the ABC Relays here in 1959, has already accepted a job as a playground supervisor in the Dallas elementary school system, but the job will have to await his return from Rome in September. Clark never cleared more than 12-foot-3 while in high school at Grand Prairie. A scholarship fund has been set up in the name of the late Ears Whitworth, former Oklahoma State University mentor, at the University of Georgia. Ty Cobb, the baseball immortal, plans to attend the Olympic Games in Rome next month. Cobb now resides at Glenbrook, Nev., on the shores of Lake Tahoe. Tommy Davis, former LSU griddle, will become the greatest punter in the NFL this year, says Red Hickey, the San Francisco Star coach. His punting accuracy for the four-day season at 24:10 was 93.1 percent. That 300 bowled by Sgt. Ed Vieux at the Bowl-A-Rama here the other night was the first in sanctioned play but only the fourth in Big Spring's history. The other three were by J. C. Loper, the late Pete Howze and Jake Douglass and Douglass saw them all. Perfect games got very little recognition in those days (back in the '40's) and Jake's reward was a bowling ball. Howze also had a 200 game to his credit while Harry Hoekendorff, who now resides in Liberal, Kan., bowled a 200. Loper now runs a bowling center in Pasadena, Tex. Douglass, who had a 197 bowling average at one time, intends to start serious bowling again this fall.

Bill Spivey Seeks To Clear His Name

Stanton High School has taken on another assistant coach. He is Larry Lewis, formerly of Hawkins. Stanton's head mentor, Harlin Daughlin, also hails from Hawkins. Seven-foot Bill Spivey, who played in a basketball exhibition here several years ago, is still seeking to clear his name of game-fixing rumors and play in the National Basketball Association. He recently took a polygraph (lie detector) test in Chicago. Spivey was accused of shaving points in games while attending the University of Kentucky in the late '40s and early '50s. Bill has played in the Eastern Basketball League the past two seasons and averaged nearly 37 points a game. Some of his friends say Mickey Mantle is a fatalist and doesn't believe he'll live until he's 50. His father succumbed of cancer when he was 48 and two of his uncles died relatively young. Mickey himself has a bone ailment. Others insist that if Mickey would lay out of competition a year, his limb would be as good as new. During the off-season, Tom Landry, coach of the Dallas Cowboys in the NFL, is associated with an insurance firm in Dallas. Johnny Stidger, Tyler coach and a director of the Texas Coaches Association, starred for Amarillo High School in football in 1934, the year the Sandies defeated Big Spring in the playoffs. Amarillo defeated Corpus Christi, 48-0, in the state final that fall. Stidger has been head coach at John Tyler High since 1955, during which time his teams have lost only four games. Fred Melder, the all-state back Big Spring's Emmett McKenzie coached at Nederland last fall, is bound for the University of Arkansas. Melder won the Sheriff Charley Meyer award as the outstanding back in Jefferson County last season. They say Cleveland outfielder Jimmy Piersall shows no sign of eccentric behavior off the field, unlike 1952, at which time he had his nervous breakdown. Cleus Fisher, the former Midland coach, had to take a cut in salary when he took a job as a football aide at the University of Nebraska.

Three Webb Players Named To Team

Three members of the Webb AFB softball team were named to the Midland City all-tournament squad at the conclusion of play last week. They were Joe Herschog, right fielder; Tommy Curran, left fielder; and Leon Childers, first baseman. Billy Paul Thomas, of the Cook Appliance Co. club of Big Spring was also honored. Coors of Odessa won the meet by defeating A&E Electric Co. of Midland in both ends of a twin bill in the finals, 3-0 and 2-0. Maury Burk of Woden High School, which lost to Big Spring, was named as a leading candidate for the basketball coaching job filled by Big Spring's Vernon Harton at Jacksonville Baptist College last week. In 1930, the year 76 regulars in the major leagues batted .300 or better, the Philadelphia Phillies boasted a team batting mark of .315. They had eight men batting over .300, yet they finished dead last in the standings, 40 games out of first place. The Phillies felt short-changed because they didn't get a chance to bat against their own hurlers. "It would have added another 20 points to our batting averages," Presco Thompson, then a member of the club, said. Don Rossi, who has officiated football games in which Big Spring was involved and who is now an official of the Dallas Texans, at one time served as commissioner of the National Industrial Basketball League. When Floyd Patterson was training for his recent fight with Ingo Johansson, his sparring partners were offered a bonus of $100 if they could knock him down with a right-hand punch, half that if they could deck him with a left hand. None of them collected. The University of Tennessee will be the only football team in the Southeastern Conference which doesn't play under the lights this fall. LSU has seven nocturnal engagements lined up. On Sept. 24, Georgia Tech will have the first opportunity to beat Rice University in any kind of athletic event. The Houston school, as everyone knows, has formerly been known as Rice Institute.

Big Spring Tigers Face Strong Foe

Big Spring's Tigers, riding a lusty 17-0 record this season, are due to face their most trying assignment today as they host the Midland Indians in a 1 p.m. doubleheader. The Tigers were originally scheduled to journey to Andrews for a New Mex-Tex League tilt, but the locals have won the game by forfeit because Andrews has dropped out of the league. Midland's crew is reported to have quite an array of talent, and when they heard of Big Spring's astounding record, they issued a challenge to the locals. Midland brings a 16-2 record into today's doubleheader along with the threat of handing the Bengals their first setback. Bobby Suggs, 4-0 for the season, is due to start one game for the locals and either Danby Valdes,

2-0 or Chubby Moser, 3-0, will likely start the other. Joe Cadenhead, 2-0, will also probably see some action today. The Big Spring lineup includes Charles Bolen, 400, second base; Jackie Thomas, .394, third base; Marion Treadaway, .527, shortstop; Billy Weatherall, .523, right field; Billy Paul Thomas, .529, catcher; Pat Martines, .429, first base; Tito Arencibia, .474, center field; and Robert Dutchover, .500, left field. The Midland lineup includes Joe Thomas, shortstop; Junior Tryon, second base; Cleo Miller, first base; Davis Junny, center field; Roy Washington, left field; Johnnie Loudd, third base; James Taylor, right field; Ralph Jackson, catcher; Joe Tryon, pitcher. Admission for the doubleheader is 50 cents.

Soon To Become History

W. C. Talafuse (left) and Wallace Herring, employees of Railway Express, take a long look at the sign that in a few months will become just another name in history. The Railway Express Agency is now in the process of searching for a new name which will better describe its functions.

Railway Express Has Contest To Find New Corporate Name

By KAY LOVELAND
"What's in a name?" William Shakespeare once asked. Railway Express Agency employees have used all other corporate offices throughout the nation currently have the chance to find out. The Railway Express management is now actively looking for a new corporate name, it was announced here by Agent W. C. Talafuse.

more befitting the modern-day express-business and its diversified and far-flung domestic and international services. A special Name Change Committee has been at work for some six months, researching and evaluating the many problems and considerations of such a change.

CONTEST
A nationwide contest among express employees, June 27 to July 26, has been launched to help find a suitable new name. Grand prize winner will get his choice of any American-model compact car. The express company official said the company hopes to find one

In a communication to the local express office, company president William B. Johnson said, "Certainly the words 'Railway' and 'Agency' in our present name are misleading. This is true not only because of our use of all available means and modes of transportation, but also, as to the line-haul routing, rate-making, chance-to-make-a-profit-or-loss, and other management freedoms provided for the first time in our new agreements signed last year with the National Labor Relations Board. "It is apparent," he added, "that 'Express' is the one word in our present name that is fully descriptive." The word "express" was used in the first expedited package transportation business in America, initially established between Boston and New York on March 4, 1839, by William F. Harnden. It was used by the express companies that followed. The present name came into being in 1929 when the railroads purchased the express properties of the American Railway Express Co., which had been formed in 1918 when all of the existing major express companies were unified at the instigation of the federal government. The company not only is a domestic surface express common carrier, but functions as domestic air express carrier, foreign freight forwarder, customs broker, international surface carrier and international air cargo sales agent.

Now We Need Dry Weather To Dry Up The Soaked Fields

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—The correct amount of moisture is still a problem for many Texas farms and ranches even though there have been good rains during the last week, John Hutchison said today. Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said rains up to several inches had benefited crops and ranches in long-dry sections of West Texas. Heavier rains north of Lubbock curtailed field work and increased the need for open, dry weather. Coastal areas are still drying out from the excessive rains of several weeks ago. The prospects for late hay crops has improved in many sections but the total supply is still short. Livestock generally are in fair to good condition. The wheat harvest in the Panhandle is about 90 per cent complete and rains this week restored the moisture in the ground of all sections. Vegetables in Farmer, Castro and Deaf Smith counties are making good progress. Cattle conditions generally were good.

DRY WEATHER
Rains July 4 ranged from 1 1/2 to 4 and 5 inches over the South Plains. The extremely dry counties in the south part of the district received showers and rains up to 2 inches at midweek and rain was still falling. North of Lubbock where the rains were heavy, farmers would like drying weather so they can get back into their fields. Some crop damage resulted from hail but cotton and grain sorghums looked good. Moisture is needed in the Rolling Plains (Vernon) area for cotton, sorghums and ranges and for stock water in some counties. Cotton planting and replanting has been completed. Early cotton is putting on bolls and blooming is general. A general rain is needed in North Central Texas. Cotton growth ranges from the early fruiting to the half-grown boll stage. Pastures are getting dry but livestock are in fair condition.

Burns Satisfied With Jury Cases

Wayne Burns, county attorney, said he was well satisfied with the results achieved by the jury criminal county court docket last week. Five pleas of guilty developed, he said. One case will be dismissed. A jury acquitted one defendant and was unable to agree upon a second. He said that the results reduce the docket to an important degree and it is his plan to schedule another jury session in August. Probably the cases which were not reached last week will be reset for trial on this next docket, supplemented by others which have developed. Pleas of guilty resulting from the docket were Thomas W. Savelle, DWI, $50 and three days in jail; Woodrow W. Nichols, DWI, $75 and three days in jail; Otis H. Ogden, DWI, $75 and three days in jail; Floyd A. Moore, DWI, $75 and three days in jail. A jury found Paul S. Limer Jr., charged with DWI, not guilty and another jury was unable to agree on the guilt or innocence of Matthias Fenn, also charged with DWI. Burns said that he has been informed that James Kingery, charged with the sale of liquor in a dry area, would report to court on Monday and plead guilty to that charge. Actually only one of the 30 cases on the docket was officially continued. That was a DWI charge against Cleo M. Lowery. Other cases were passed for the reason time did not permit the court to get to them for trial. Burns said he would dismiss a case against Inez Moncada, accused of being a beer retailer drunk on licensed premises.

Setting Adds Interest To New Home

AN UNUSUAL WELCOME awaits guests arriving at the new home of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Woodall, 808 W. 14th, where a small island holds pots of aucuba japonica, and a moat is attractive with water lilies, gold fish and underwater lighting, at left. Walls of glass allow a view of the entrance court from the spacious living room.

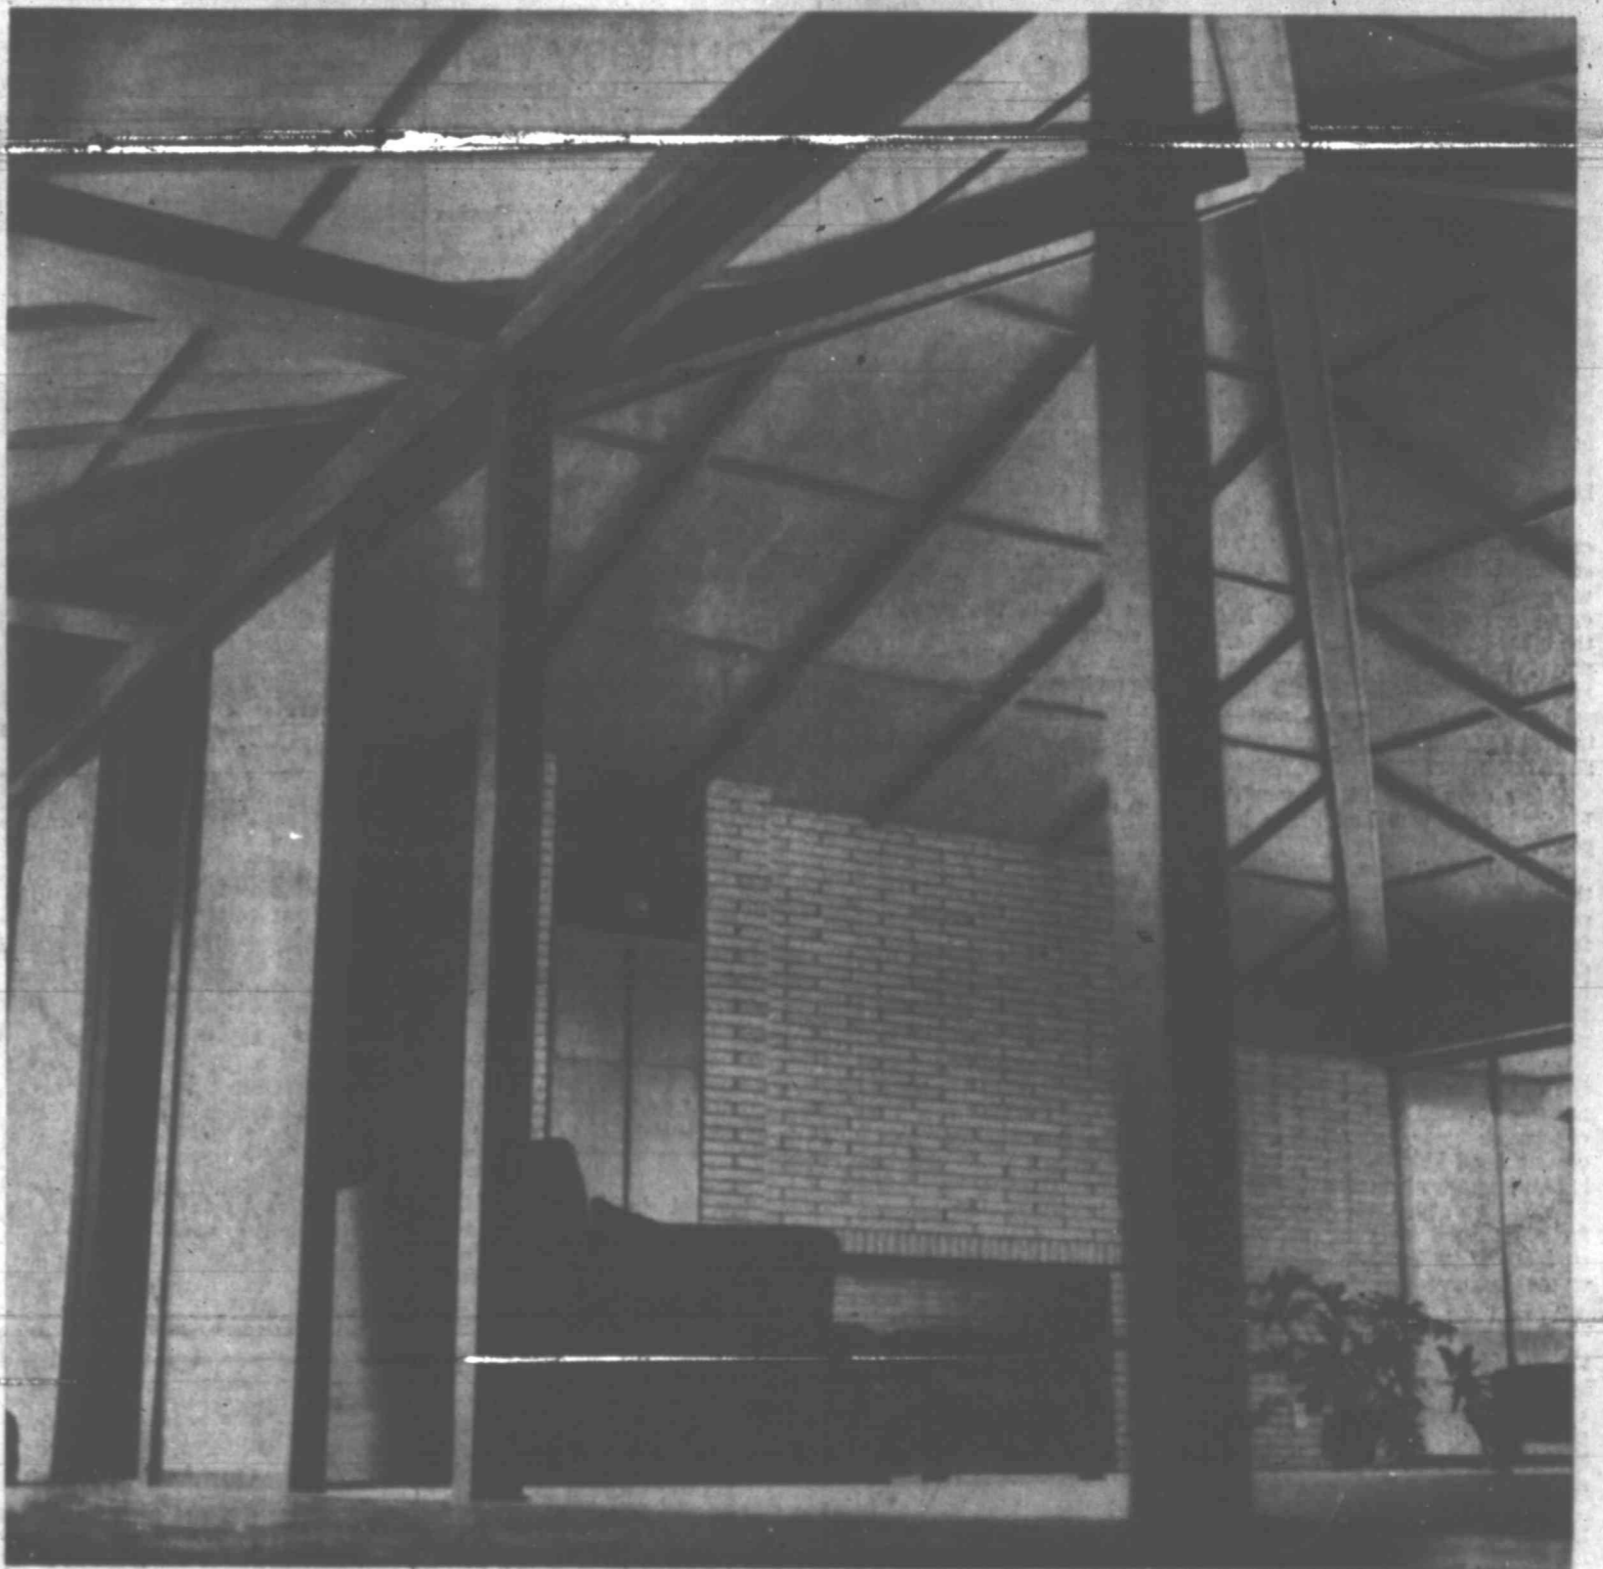

A LONG LOOK is what you'll get in the corridor at the Woodall home when you glimpse the attractive dining room with its paneled walls of mahogany. Bringing the outdoors into the very room is the enclosed garden where elephant ears nod and hibiscus blossoms add color. Vines will cover the wall of bricks, and gravel eliminates the necessity of grass—with its attendant duty—mowing.

Photos by Keith McMillin

TRIANGLES in brown, gold and beige converge at the peak of the ceiling in the master bedroom of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Woodall, who chose carpet in champagne hue as a background for the furnishings in all three bedrooms and in the living room. Blue, ranging from peacock to greenish aqua; gold, and red, from carmine to russet, are the accents in the entire home. The quilted spread of the luxurious oversize bed is in a peacock shade. Outside the glass doors is the room's private garden with a non-bearing mulberry tree, not visible in picture at left, and an ivy vine, just beginning to climb.

PRETTY PATTERNS are made by the large and small beams of the ceiling in the living room at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Woodall, 808 W. 14th. Note the peak of the ceiling of mahogany in a walnut finish. Openings in the foreground of picture are made with the removal of sliding doors, which form decorative panels of grass cloth and antique coral. Roman bricks make the fireplace, to the right of which are the glass doors leading to the terrace on the west.

ONE OF THE NICEST SPOTS in the J. M. Woodall home is the service room, because there you get the full beauty of the little hothouse, pictured at left. Potted plants are always in evidence as decoration for the rooms, and how better to care for them than a small glassed-in enclosure! Sliding doors open to make easy access to the plants for removal from the glass shelves or for watering and feeding.

WORKING HERE would be hard—not from the standpoint of convenience, but because of the beauty outside the kitchen window. The kitchen, shown at right, in the Woodall home overlooks a small canyon to the west of the house, and the ever-changing view is part of the attraction of the room, done in walnut-finished mahogany with Formica tops on work spaces. Pass-throughs lead to the service room and to a small breakfast area.

Realizes Shortcomings.

June Allyson calls her face funny, her voice freaky and her type not of the... she is presently preparing for her fall series on CBS-TV.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Wear Clothes To Suit Your Own Personality

HOLLYWOOD — For many years, June Allyson held top place on the popularity poll for Hollywood stars. Since she has moved to the TV media, Doris Day has been voted this honor; it is interesting that neither of these girls has ever considered herself glamorous, and both of them emphasize health and naturalness. For years June has been the collegiate-type, and the Peter Pan collar, which at one time she even wore on her evening gowns, became a sort of trade-mark. But the other night at a gala Hollywood party, June arrived looking radiant in an off-the-shoulder sheath that was more décolleté and sophisticated than anything I had ever seen her wear. A few days later, at Romanoff's I asked June who had made her gown. "Don Loper," she replied. "I think he's the greatest. And I'm so happy he's making the clothes for my TV show. When I first came out here, I couldn't afford him, but I promised myself when I could, he would dress me. The reason I like Don is that he feels the woman is more important than the dress. So many couturiers are more concerned with designs that overpower your personality. Another thing I like about Don is that his clothes are always comfortable. I know they say, 'You must suffer for chic.' But I certainly don't look or feel my best if I'm cinched in or can't move freely. "You have to feel a dress is right," June declared. "People used to tell me I should go in for high-fashion, but as long as I felt I was the collegiate-type, I had to choose clothes that suited me. Sophistication is not good until you are ready for it." When I first met June, she was not a big star, but she refused to allow the studio to make her glamorous. She told me, "They tweezed out my eyebrows, painted on a large mouth, stuck a lot of gook all over my face and tried to make me look like everyone else. But I wouldn't accept it because I knew it wasn't the real me." June has a freshness about her that is no accident. If ever there was a soap-and-water girl she is it. Perhaps this dates back to her mother, who told her, "No matter how little money you have you can always afford to be clean, neat and orderly and that will carry you a long way!" "I'm so happy that my daughter is tidy and organized," June confessed. "I inspect her closets once a month and everything is always neat and clean." June can't abide the habit of putting shoes in the same closet with clothes. "When you walk around the streets on heaven knows what, your shoes are bound to pick up odors you don't want to have on your dresses. When I was struggling in New York with a tiny closet, I always used to air my shoes on the window sill at night and keep them under my bed during the day. "I enjoy the new sprays they make now for perfuming closets. I use a variety of floral scents but June Geranium is one of my favorites," she confessed. I remarked that she was still wearing her favorite perfume. "Yes," she smiled. "Richard gave it to me when we were first married and I have never tired of it. (June is married to Dick Powell.) For a while we had to send to Paris for it, but it is carried in the United States now." "We were just talking about you," I said to Dick as he crossed the dining room to talk to us. As these two chatted, I couldn't help feeling that any difficulties they may have had in the past were all gone. "That experience taught me a great deal," June said solemnly when I mentioned it to her. "I've been working hard on being more patient," she said seriously. "I used to say, 'I can't be bothered.' Now I say to myself, 'Try to see the other person's point of view.' Until someone attacks your reputation, you don't know how important it is to listen to both sides of gossip. Who knows the true facts and motives of another? When I'm with a group who is tearing someone apart, I walk away

Outside Moves Inside At The J. M. Woodalls'

By ANNE LEFEVER
Pictures and other wall decorations are unnecessary in the spacious new home of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Woodall, which is located at the end of W. 14th St. Just open any of the floor-length draperies on the walls of glass and you have an ever-changing picture. To the west, birds flit and nest in the native cedars, mesquite and other shrubs which have not been disturbed on the low hill. The north windows look over the city, bright at night with twinkling lights, and rooapas on the south side of the home have their own enclosures beautiful with vines and flowering plants. Bringing more of the outdoors into the home is the grouping of acuba japonica in pots on the small concrete island, surrounded by a miniature moat where gold fish, dart and water lilies are beginning to take root. This is the lovely and unusual court which welcomes guests arriving at the covered entrance of the Roman brick home. Entry into the house does not cut from view the court, which is indirectly lighted, as is the entire home. Erosted glass suffuses the light in the rooms, finished in walls of mahogany in walnut shade. Tiny blocks of the mahogany are inlaid to mark panels in the living room, with a polished brick; this was planned especially with ease of cleaning in mind.

Glass doors of the dining room disclose a walled enclosure where elephant ears are already at home in the area with a hibiscus in flower and ivy clinging to the bricks. In the master bedroom, attention is divided between the unusual treatment of the ceiling and the non-bearing mulberry, smooth white rocks picked up in Mexico and a piece of hardened lava, which are all in the room's private garden glimpsed through the window wall. Paneled in pale gold, brown and beige triangles, the ceiling rises to a point in the center of the room; carpet of champagne color makes a delightful contrast for the over-size bed's spread of peacock taffeta. Doors from the bedroom lead into the bath, accented in russet, and into the doctor's study with pleasant facilities and capacious shelves for books. Guest rooms are at the opposite end of the bricked corridor, which becomes a part of the living room with just the removal of sliding panels. These, decorative touches in themselves, are of grass cloth with a frame of wood painted antique coral. Peacock, russet and gold cushions accent the champagne carpet in the living room, where a ceiling of mahogany reaches an apex in a pleasing pattern of large and small beams. Repeating the shades of gold and peacock are the inviting easy chairs and the divan, which make a pleasing contrast to the ebony finished piano. Polished bricks from the corridor extend into the living room as a hearth for the fireplace of Roman brick, which forms the south wall. Through doors of glass on the west wall, one may go onto a terrace for sunning, relaxing or enjoying a view of the enchanting surroundings. Almost the same sights may be seen from the kitchen window; this room, with touches of pumpkin shade, adjoins the service area, with a pass-through between. Probably one of the most glamorous service rooms to be found, its wall is made of the 'small nothouse' holding a group of plants on glass shelves. This adds not only beauty, but interest to an otherwise uninteresting spot; it is an ideal place for starting seedlings, reviving sick plants and providing sun with protection from the wind. Some of the do-it-yourself ability of Mrs. Woodall shows in the cabinets' tops which she has covered in tile, and which are in close range of the kitchen. An indoor grill is set in the midst of work space made gay with tiles of turquoise and brown, and other facilities for entertaining follow the same decor.

Local Girl Honored In Lubbock

An informal coffee given Saturday morning in Lubbock was the initial courtesy for Julie Rainwater, who is to be married to Delbert Neal Shirey August 27. Miss Rainwater is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Champ Rainwater, 715 Hillside; Shirey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Shirey of Midland. The couple will exchange vows in the First Methodist Church. A red and white color theme was used by the hostess, Mrs. Pat Kenney, a former resident of Big Spring, in giving the party. Gifts of lingerie were presented to the bride-elect by the guests, who were her sorority sisters in Texas Tech. Mrs. Oble Bristow was guest speaker for members of the Spaders Club Thursday morning in the home of Mrs. Norman English. A member of the Big Spring Garden Club, Mrs. Bristow chose "Flower Arranging as her topic, discussing methods of making an arrangement and giving demonstrations of the work. Also discussed was the trend toward abstract arrangements, now gaining in popularity. The August 4 meeting will be held at the W. D. Caldwell cottage on Lake J. B. Thomas, when husbands will be guests at a picnic.

Easy Cleaning

To keep varnished or shellacked woodwork clean, wash it with a cloth wrung from warm soap or detergent suds. Then rinse with clear water. When dry, rub the woodwork lightly with furniture polish, if desired.

Schools friends of Judy Perdue gathered at the home of Mrs. Roy Rogan to present her with gifts and lingerie and to linger for visiting Saturday morning. It was from this that Cokes were served, with accompanying delicacies placed near by. About 40 were included on the guest list.

Clean Hands Before Giving First Aid

It is wise to follow the example of surgeons when treating cuts and minor wounds. Before administering first aid, "sterilize" your hands by scrubbing them thoroughly with soap and water. Any dressing that touches the wound should also be sterile. If safe bandages are not available, substitute freshly laundered towels or handkerchiefs. and try not to listen. It takes patience to understand people." DIET TO END ALL DIETING. Some people spend their lives dieting. It is a feast and famine routine with them. Over indulgence must be paid for with punishing rigidity so why not diet sensibly, safely and keep the fat off. You are the only one who really knows what you eat and how much you eat. So why not make this the first day of your fiscal dieting-year. Leaflet M-81, "Diet to End All Dieting," will help you on your way to a lovelier more youthful you. Burrows Mark Golden Year

A prophecy foretold the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Burrow. The couple, married by a justice of the peace, G. W. Sweat, July 10, 1910, will celebrate 50 years of marriage today.

Before Lee Burrow and Dora Nelson met each other, Burrow's father — the late Jeff Davis Burrow — saw the young lady in a general store.

With a strange premonition, Mr. Burrow said to the manager of the store, "That little girl is going to be my daughter — in law some day!"

There were three boys in the Burrow family, and when Lee and Dora did meet some two years later at a singing, the matchmakers had planned for her to go with another of the Burrow boys. But the couple was so attracted to each other that they foiled all the self-made cupid and were married within six months.

Burrow grew up in the New Hope community while his wife is a native of Westbrook.

During the first year of their marriage the Burrows moved 11 times as they went where Lee's work took them. The young bride weighed only 90 pounds, and her new husband complained that the suitcase weighed more than she did.

Burrow farmed in the surrounding area until 1949 when a heart attack put him out of commission for a while. For the past five years the 74-year-old man has been the caretaker at the Westside Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Burrow have one son, J. H. Burrow, of Ackerly, two grandchildren, Gene and Martha Elaine, and two great-grandchildren.

The couple is expecting the immediate family, along with nine of their brothers and sisters to call this afternoon between 2-3 p.m. at their home at 1296 West 6th.

Arrange Work Time To Provide Leisure

Yearning for extra leisure time this summer? Sure you are. Who doesn't look forward to having more time for warm weather fun?

The hitch comes in the busy schedule most housewives have to meet — meals to fix, laundry chores, children to care for, a house to keep clean, shopping, and all the rest.

But maybe this can be the year you finally find time for your favorite summer activities. A little planning could be the secret of getting away from it all.

First, decide what you'd like to do if you had the time. Then try a little experiment. See if you can't rearrange your schedule to keep some time free just for whatever you want to do.

Maybe it would be a couple of weekday afternoons for swimming or just taking a long walk. Maybe there could be a free morning for golf or a drive to visit friends.

Whatever you do with the free time, getting it is the big part of the battle. Here's where the planning — and today's work-saving home appliances and food preparation machines — enter the picture.

Take meal preparations. Summer appetites call for light foods, plenty of salads and cool drinks and desserts. With the help of versatile electric food preparers, you can whip up a lunch of chicken salad, chocolate malted milks, and chilled raspberry whip in no time.

Or take dishwashing. Here's a job that can become drudgery in winter, and even worse in the summer. But with an automatic dishwasher, you can stack the dishes out of sight in the dishwasher all day for one easy washing after dinner.

One unit features a high-velocity wash action which eliminates the need for pre-rinsing. All you have to do is remove food scraps from the dishes. The dishwasher does the rest, giving you more time for a relaxed, easy-living summer.

Water Babies

Swimmers who performed in the Officers' Wives Club water ballet include these women, left to right: Mrs. P. Williams, Mrs. A. Terpening, Mrs. Mrs. R. Penn, Mrs. R. Anderson, Mrs. J. Wickard, Mrs. L. Tuso, Mrs. T. Humphries, Mrs. F. Weissen, Mrs. F. Kendrick, Mrs. J. Harper and Mrs. R. Wensinger.

Ole!

Gay Spanish dancers who helped carry out the Latin atmosphere at the water ballet were Alice Cober and Candy Hensley.

OWC Has A Water Ballet

Mermaids frolicked Friday night at the Officers Club as the OWC-produced their annual water ballet. The program included a Mexican theme and Spanish dancing.

A spaghetti supper preceded the ballet, which started at 8:30 p.m. The Cosmopolitans featured music and dancing after the show.

Directing the show of dancing, diving and synchronized swimming were Mrs. Andrew Terpening and Mrs. Jack Wickard. Five men joined the women to put on clown acts.

An interpretive solo was performed by Mrs. R. R. Wensinger. Swimmers included Mrs. R. N. Anderson, Mrs. R. R. Myers, Mrs. Paul Williams, Mrs. T. G. Humphries, Mrs. Jim Harper, Mrs. F. D. Kendrick, Mrs. Larry Tuso, Mrs. Richard Penn, Mrs. Frank Watson, Mrs. Terpening, Mrs. Wickard and Mrs. James Shattuck.

Preparation day was Saturday. All youngsters between the ages of 3 and 16 are invited to attend. The Rev. Darrell Robinson, pastor of the church, will be in charge.

Vacation Trips Are Reported By Forsan People

Delegates Return From Fort Worth Meeting

Ten delegates from Big Spring have returned from Fort Worth where they attended the state convention of the Federation of Colored Women's Clubs.

A chartered bus carried 29 from the surrounding area to the meeting, which was held Monday through Thursday.

Included among the local women were Mrs. Hazel Merritt, Mrs. Clemmie Johnson, Mrs. Mary Muse, Mrs. Ida White, Mrs. Bobbie Williams, Mrs. Dee Alma Manning, Mrs. Bernice Miller, Mrs. Irene Hunter and Mrs. Henrietta Cooper.

Johnson, sang a solo during the program presented for the group.

Engagement Told

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie W. Adams of Midland announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ruthie, to Wayne Burchett, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Burchett, also of Midland. The couple plans a wedding in the chapel of the First Baptist Church with the Rev. Travis LaDuke, pastor of the Warren Park Baptist Chapel, officiating. The bride-elect is a graduate of Midland High School and is employed with the Midland County Library. The prospective bridegroom is a graduate of Stanton High School and is employed with the City of Midland.

Not Too Early To Plan First School Frocks

Like Alice-in-Wonderland, little girls are full of delightful nonsense and wisdom. But there is pure delight—plus designing wisdom—in the dresses that will accompany little girls to school and social functions this fall. A look of elegance prevails with emphasis on rich fabric design and styling restrained to a simple line. Skirts remain necessarily full for the grammar school set. Sleeves, however, are generally longer—reaching from elbow to three quarters. Along with new emphasis on fabric design is the color combination—more muted and darkened this year. New tonal interpretations show up particularly well in brass greens and golds which are expected to be tops in popularity in prints and solids as well as plaids. White trims—collar and cuffs, laces, rickrack and embroidery—play a varied role of integral importance. Against a solid color they are points of interest; against a plaid or print they appear in a tailored, more restricted use to offset and accent rich pattern design. Ruffles and puffs in abundance are out of the running. Cotton is still king. Most require little or no ironing and one, new to the field, is also stain and soil repellent. Gingham plaids are outstanding in children's wear. However because of the darker colors, prints show increased importance. They are small, neat and more sophisticated in keeping with the prevalent aura of elegance. Corduroy, too, makes a stronger impression this year because it shows off the new colors so well.

THE BREITHAUPT BUNCH
John, Carolyn and 6-week-old Spencer

Veterinarian Is Now Inspector

What does a veterinarian do in the Air Force? He is a meat checker-upper. John Breithaupt graduated from one of the 13 veterinary schools in the United States, Kansas State in Manhattan, Kan. Another duty for veterinarians beside meat inspection is the K-9 corps, but there are no dogs used as sentries at military bases. Animals and their care came naturally for John who grew up on a farm near Baldwin, Kan. It was in Baldwin that he met and began to date an attractive brunette with bright blue eyes. Carolyn Breithaupt finished Baker University with a major in education and taught school in Topeka a year before the couple married. They were married during John's last year of his six-year doctor's course, and during that time Carolyn taught in the little town of Wamego, Kan. Both years she taught the first grade. First Lieutenant Breithaupt enjoys playing golf and tinkering around in his yard, while his wife spends her time "tagging after him" and trying out new recipes. "That is, they used to spend their time that way. Six weeks ago last Friday, in Lawrence, Kan., they added a new member to their family — John Spencer Breithaupt. Spencer is a little item that takes up both his mother's and father's time. He is a tremendous eater and sleeper. "He reminds me of those pictures of that fat Buddha statue," Carolyn laughs.

Don't Barbecue You!

BOSTON (AP)—A word of advice to all backyard barbecue cooks and chefs: "Don't barbecue yourself along with the steak." The words are those of Miles Woodworth, flammable liquids expert of the National Fire Protection Assn., who adds: "Play it safe. Never add any kind of flammable liquid to an already-burning fire." He says the worst backyard cooking accidents are likely to happen when someone freshens an already-started fire with kerosene, paint thinners, alcohol or one of the liquids sold to get a fire going. "The moment one of these liquids hits a live coal," explains Woodworth, "there's a whoosh of flame which can envelop the arms and face of anyone nearby in a searing fire." "Any starting liquids you use before a fire is lighted, use sparingly—and never use gasoline. Keep any containers holding these liquids far removed from the fire." "Keep youngsters at a safe distance too," he advises, "especially little girls in party dresses."

Ingram claimed Carl Hettie Johnson as his bride in a ceremony July 11, 1900, with the couple sitting in their buggy in front of the "preacher's house" at Gustine.

For the first four years of their marriage, the couple lived near Gustine. They moved to Throckmorton County in 1904 and after 18 years there, the Ingrams moved to Dawson County.

They raised their first cotton crop near Welch in 1943 and the following year they bought a home near Ackerly, residing there until 1951 when Ingram retired and they moved into Lamesa.

They have 21 grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren.

Heffingtons Fell In Love At First Sight

By SHERI WEBBER

It was love at first sight—and it has lasted 56 years. Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Heffington married in Indian Territory July 10, 1904.

The former Christian New was 20 years old when she first saw Hodge Heffington at a "literary." This was the forerunner of the Saturday evening movie where young people recited poems and sang songs.

"That's the man I'm going to marry," confided Miss New to a friend.

Miss New didn't manage to meet Heffington that night, but he had been quite taken with her, too. Sunday morning he went to the home of her sister, where Christian was visiting, and the couple spent the entire day talking to each other—not even bothering to stop and eat dinner.

Heffington proposed to Miss New that very first day, but she thought they had better wait. "I thought it was love," says Mrs. Heffington. "But I wanted to be sure." The couple waited from that first Sunday in May until July 10.

Soon after their meeting, Mrs. Heffington returned to her home some 45 miles away. Each week-end, Hodge rode the distance on horseback to visit her. When he asked her father for her hand, Mr. New refused. The couple then planned to elope until a sister persuaded her father to let them marry, and they were married in her parents' home.

Mrs. Heffington still remembers what her husband looked like that first time she saw him. "He was real pretty," she relates. "He had bright blue eyes and coal black hair that parted in the middle and curled over the temples."

The Heffingtons moved to Big Spring in 1907 and have lived here ever since. Mr. Heffington farmed until 1939; then the family moved into the city. He now owns Hefington Wrecking Yard where he puts in a full day. Hefington is 78 years old, his wife is 76.

Today will be a quiet day at the Hefington home at 1606 West 3rd. The couple expects only their seven children, 38 grandchildren and 24 great-grandchildren.

Of the nine Hefington children, seven are still living. All of them live in Big Spring. The three sons are Guy, Denver and Burl. Daughters include Mrs. L. O. Coates, Mrs. Edmund Wise, Mrs. Elton Alexander and Mrs. Garland Gilbert.

What is it about fishing that appeals to so many men? Is it the tang of the out-of-doors, the salt spray, the play of the reel — or is it a part of that age-old challenge of pitting oneself against the forces of nature?

Probably, it is mostly the challenge, for man is forever excited by a dare. Yet, while life is full of challenges, all of them are not fun. When it comes to meeting the greater tests successfully, you need a lot more than a fishing pole. Then it is that Faith comes into its own; then it is that the teachings of the Church are put into practise.

Don't walk by your church next Sunday — walk into it. Equip yourself for your own spiritual future now.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Dr. Paul Young Named Chief Clinical Psychologist Here

Dr. Paul C. Young, with a background of more than two score years of teaching, is now the chief clinical psychologist at the Big Spring State Hospital.

He also will serve as administrative assistant to Dr. Preston Harrison, superintendent, for program development. Dr. Young will be in charge of the graduate study program being developed in conjunction with Texas Tech and, as such, will hold the title of professor of psychology at Texas Tech. The Hogg Foundation is joining with the state and Tech in making the program possible.

DR. PAUL C. YOUNG

LIBRARY

To a fund of $3,000 provided for the establishment of a library in clinical psychology at the state hospital, Dr. Young has added his own library of some 425 technical volumes in this special field.

Dr. and Mrs. Young came here recently from Baton Rouge, La. where he was, for 30 years, a professor of psychology. For 10 years, at three intervals, he served as chairman of the department.

Five years, prior to his professorship, he served as associate professor of psychology at LSU. During 1949 he served as chief of affiliations, including fellowships in the American Orthopsychiatric Association, the American Association for Advancement of Science, and American Psychological Association. He has membership in several associations and is a diplomate in clinical psychology, having been certified by the American Board of Examiners in Professional Psychology.

TEXAS NATIVE

A native of Whitewright and one of 13 children in a family that moved all over Texas (his father was a minister). Dr. Young took a permanent teaching certificate from North Texas State College (then Denton Normal), his B.L. from David Lipscomb College in Nashville, Tenn., his A.B. (cum laude) from Bowdoin College with a major in English; his M.A. from the University of Minnesota with a major in English; his masters and then his Ph.D. from Harvard in psychology.

In addition to teaching experience at LSU, he also taught at Acadia University in Nova Scotia, at Southwest Texas State College in San Marcos; at Florida State College for Women, at Howard College in Birmingham, Ala., at Peacock Military Academy and in San Antonio Academy.

Dr. Young is author of more than a dozen major scientific contributions, six critical reviews and numerous popular articles.

Only Two Tracts Needed For U.S. 87 ROW

Judge Ed Carpenter, Howard County Commissioners court said Saturday that only two more tracts of land needed for right-of-way on U. S. 87 north of Fairview remain to be obtained.

He estimated that less than 15 acres must yet be acquired.

The larger property owners have already either signed easements or have agreed to do so. Most of the smaller property owners have also made assignments. Only two tracts, neither large, remain to be secured.

So far no condemnation action has proved necessary in obtaining the easements. Negotiations have been successful on all of the property handled so far.

Some of the deeds are not yet in the hands of the court but Carpenter has been assured by the owners that the deeds will be forthcoming.

He is confident that the last of the right-of-way can be signed by the end of the month.

The State Highway Commission proposes to let contract for the U. S. 87 improvement program in September. The plans call for transformation of the road from its present form into a four lane thoroughfare extending 10 miles north from Fairview to the Martin County Line.

UT Adopts CEEB Tests

AUSTIN — The University of Texas will discontinue its own admission tests after the 1961 Fall Semester opens.

Thereafter, entering freshmen who have not previously taken the University admission test will be required to submit scores made on the College Entrance Examination Board's scholastic aptitude test as part of admission requirements at the Main University.

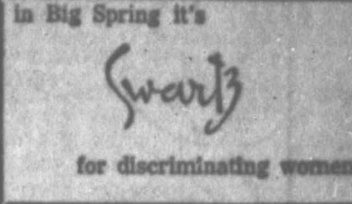

CEEBS tests are available nationally and are required by many outstanding universities. During the past five years, entering freshmen have had a choice of the University's test or the College Board test.

The Testing and Counseling Center has administered the University test on a statewide basis without cost to the student. The College Board test costs each student $4. The Board of Regents approved the change to the College Board test after the Association of Texas Colleges recommended a uniform system of testing prospective students.

The University's agreements, with other Texas junior and senior colleges regarding transfers, will remain unchanged. Dr. L. D. Hawk, University vice president for developmental services, said, "The Main University accepts transfer students who have made acceptable scores on any one of several approved scholastic aptitude tests given at other Texas colleges."

GARDEN TALK

Mexican Garden Modes Can Teach Us Much

Last week I was in Mexico on a 2,000 mile trip visiting the cities of Juarez, Chihuahua City, Torreon, Durango, Parral and points in between. Of course I had to see the gardens wherever I could, and I was greatly impressed by all that I saw. Every one of these towns are located in what we would have to call a desert area, still in every one there were beautiful gardens.

The secret of Mexican gardens is that they are small, yet very carefully tended. We can learn a lot about this sort of thing for our own advantage here in West Texas and eastern New Mexico. A garden does not need to be so very large in order to be interesting and attractive.

There are several differences in Mexican gardens and ours. The main difference is that their gardens are usually entirely enclosed by fences or walls. This idea helps in many ways. It protects the garden from hot drying winds, and also from cold in the winters. These walls are also used as an attractive background for many of the garden plantings.

Every garden has a clear space in it, and if we follow the rules of formal gardening recognized in the Old World we will leave clear spaces in all our gardens. People need space to walk around and enjoy the plantings. Many Mexican gardens are built into the patio part of the home. The true patio dates back to the Aztecs or even before, and was then called in Latin, the atrium.

Each atrium had a pool of water, and at times it was used for bathing, especially by children. These pools and fountains are still a part of the Mexican patios and the very sight of a flowing fountain seems to cool the atmosphere, as indeed the evaporation of the water does.

If you want to build a flowing fountain in your patio it is really quite easy to do. You need a float valve like you find in an evaporative air conditioner. This should be located in the pool part of the fountain, and to make the water flow a simple air conditioner pump attached to the household current will turn the trick. Attach whichever type of nozzle suits your fancy, and you have the machinery for a fountain.

The water is used over and over at very little cost. Add water lilies, rushes, fish, snails, or special lighting effects, and you will have a typical fountain much the same as those found in the Latin world.

If you have a garden question you want answered, write Bruce Frazier in care of the Herald.

A Pat on the Back

For
J. B.
HOLLIS

J. B. Hollis is a firm believer in the old saying, "building boys is better than mending men."

Hollis, a resident for the past three decades of Howard and Glasscock counties, has been working in the Little League baseball program here the past six years.

Now the president of the National Little League, he formerly managed the Dodgers of that league to the league title. He also helped direct a National All-Star team that took part in the State Meet at Fort Worth. He has sponsored both minor and major league clubs.

Last year, he went to Williamsport, Penn., to see the Little League World Series and is making plans to do the same thing this year.

He is a member of the Evening Lions' Club and serves the organization as its lion tamer. He is also chairman of the board of the Park Methodist Church, of which he has been a member ten years.

After operating a grocery store, used car lot and furniture store here, Hollis is now retired. He and Mrs. Hollis have no children.
