Kennedy Takes A Day Off

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—Sen John F. Kennedy, young Democratic presidential nominee, took a day off today while his campaign manager brother Robert meets in New York with warring pro-Kennedy party leaders of that pivotal state.

The senator scheduled no appointments. He planned some boating and a lot of rest at his summer home, where his vacation up to now has featured more high-powered work than relaxation.

Kennedy said his brother would confer during the day with Michael H. Frendergast, New York state Democratic chairman, on plans to bring rival New York factions into some unified effort in the November election campaign.

Frendergast has voiced vigorous protest against Kennedy's efforts to create a New York branch of "Citizens for Kennedy" as an organization through which independent voters, dissident Democrats and even disgruntled Republicans could work for the Democratic ticket.

Robert Kennedy has been assigned to talk with various factional leaders. The senator said he felt pretty sure his brother would work out something with them before returning here Friday.

The senator says he has been keeping an eye, when he feels like it, on television broadcasts from the Republican National Convention. He said Tuesday he hoped the GOP would write a platform plank on civil rights "as clear and effective as ours."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, new Democratic national chairman, flies here Thursday for strategy talks with Kennedy.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the vice presidential nominee, is due to arrive Friday for a day of conferences on plans for the campaign Kennedy will launch with a speech in Hawaii around Sept. 1.

Kennedy has yet to spell out the legislative program he plans to offer when Congress reconvenes Aug. 8. This is one of the major problems to be considered in his talk with Johnson.

Miss Crocker Aims For Title

Miss Big Spring of 1960 has been hard at work in her efforts to win the Miss Texas title.

Malinda Crocker, 18-year-old daughter of Fire Chief and Mrs. H. V. Crocker, is now in Beaumont, where the Miss Texas pageant, a preliminary to the annual Miss America contest, is taking place.

Miss Crocker, a tiny brown-eyed beauty, won the local title last month in a pageant sponsored by the Big Spring Jaycees. Racking up points in the beauty and poise categories, she cinched her title in the talent division with piano playing and whistling.

Mr. and Mrs. Crocker left with Malinda Monday morning for Beaumont. In the meantime, Malinda had worked on an exhausting schedule polishing her piano and whistling techniques, as well as the elements of poise that are needed in the nerve-wracking evening gown and swim suit competitions.

If Miss Crocker wins the Miss Texas title, she will go on to Atlantic City, N. J., in October for the Miss America contest. Also, she would be the first beauty from Big Spring to win the state contest. Last year Diane Dawson, first Miss Big Spring in the state event was among the final contestants.

The Crocker family is expected back sometime Sunday, after the Miss Texas finals Saturday night.

Continental Oil Decline Reported

HOUSTON (AP)—The first six months of 1960 brought Continental Oil Co. a net income decline of 2.3 per cent, the company reported Tuesday.

A net income of $28,500,000 was equivalent to $1.35 a share of common stock. An income of $29,200,000 was equivalent to $1.38 a share in the first six months of 1959.

L. F. McCollum, president of Conoco, said the principal factor contributing to the decline was a materially lower average price for many petroleum products.

City Police Add Riot Equipment

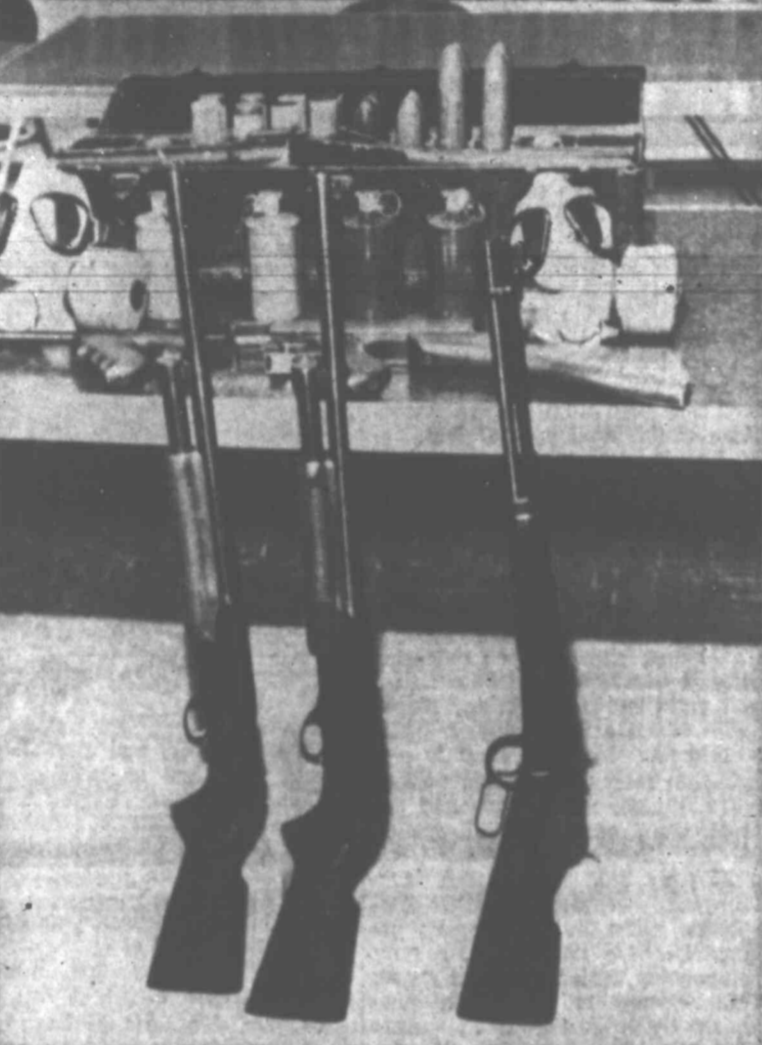

Lt. Stanley Bogard, Big Spring police officer, resembled a man from outer space Wednesday as he demonstrated one of the police department's new gas masks and its gas projectile gun.

The equipment has just been added to the police arsenal. The equipment would be used to flush out a barricaded criminal or disperse a riot. The mask is one of three the department acquired this week from Webb AFB. The department has had the bazooka-type gun several years.

Also displayed on the table were various type tear-gas projectiles and hand grenades for use in bringing riots under control and dispersing mobs and bringing in to the open criminals who barricade themselves in buildings.

Chief Jay Banks cautioned that the equipment is not destined for everyday use. "This is for emergency use only," he said, and only in extreme cases.

The patrol cars are in the process of being equipped with riot-guns or sawed-off shot gun racks. Cars will be equipped with these weapons after the men undergo thorough training in their use at a firearms school here Aug. 8, the chief said. Training will also be given in the proper handling of the tear-gas equipment at the school.

Yiii! The Martians Have Landed!

Well, at least this was the first reaction of our picture editor. But it's not really the Martians—just a demonstration of the police department's new riot equipment.

Court Encouraged In Road Request

Prospects seem bright that the bypass road connecting U.S. 80 and SH 350 east of Big Spring will be given approval by the Texas Highway Commission.

Members of the Howard County Commissioners Court conferred for an hour with the state commission on Tuesday and outlined the need for the cutoff road. The commissioners said the state officials voiced approval of the project and assured the local delegation that it would be given serious consideration. The road has the blessing of Jake Roberts, district engineer for the state commission, but the highway board wants to discuss it further with Roberts before making a final decision.

Ed Carpenter, county judge, L. J. Davidson, Ralph White and Hudson Landers met with the state board. So did Clyde McMahon and Bruce Dunn.

The road would extend for 3.9 miles north from the present termination of FM 700, two miles east of town and connect with SH 350 a little east and north of the Howard County airport.

Its estimated cost would be $356,000 and would include construction of an overpass over the Texas and Pacific tracks. It was estimated the road would serve 400 to 500 vehicles per day when completed and that in 20 years it might be carrying as many as 1,500 cars daily.

Carpenter told the state commissioners that the Howard County Commissioners would be happy to give the road top priority over any farm-to-market road now planned for Howard County. He explained that the road would divert a large volume of heavy traffic off the city streets.

The county commissioners were told that federal aid for secondary roads would be allocated later this year and that it was possible the new road might come under that allocation.

The local delegation also suggested the state give consideration to relocation of FM 700 westward from its present connection with U.S. 87. An offer to obtain right-of-way for this job was made by the Howard County group.

The state board agreed to give this matter study.

Two other farm-to-market roads are on the current agenda for Howard County. One is the Hartwell road, west of Big Spring connecting U.S. 80 and the Andrews highway. The county has already secured all right-of-way and removed all fences on this road. It is ready for construction any time the state chooses to act. Another is the Hamlin road, north of Big Spring. The state is eager to build this road, but the county has not as yet obtained all of the right-of-way it needs for it.

They say it's a foregone conclusion that Vice President Nixon will win the Republican nomination tonight on the first ballot.

This may be, and again, one must remember that most anything can happen in the game of politics. In any event, readers who keep up with the developments as they come may want to use the balloting scorecard to be found on Page 5-B of today's Herald.

Equalization Boards Busy

Prospects were bright this morning that the tax equalization boards of the county, city and school have plenty of work cut out for them.

Second floor corridor of the court house was crowded with taxpayers an hour before the boards began their official sessions Wednesday at 9 a.m. More than 50 had registered for interviews by 9 a.m. and others were showing up as the day advanced.

The two equalization boards, one board representing both the city and schools and the other the county, will be in session today and tomorrow. The city and school board is made up of George Elliott, Bill Sheppard and Lawrence Robinson. The Howard County Commissioners Court serves as the tax equalization board for the county. Real and personal property assessments are on tap for consideration at the two day session.

Taxpayers who feel their assessments are out of line or who have their problems relating to the tax valuations placed on their property will be given a chance to talk to the boards and discuss their problems.

GOP Relaxes As Nixon Date Nears

Texans Appear Ready To Aid Nixon Now

CHICAGO (AP)—Texas Republicans today appeared ready to "make up" with Vice President Richard M. Nixon and help nominate him as the Republican presidential candidate.

Their anger at Nixon began to cool after the Platform Committee released a compromise version of the civil rights plank Tuesday night.

Chances of a civil rights fight on the floor of the Republican National Convention also faded.

Texas GOP Chairman Thad Hutchison said the platform still is too strong to suit the South, while the other side called it too moderate. But the two factions seemed ready to accept it without a floor fight.

Hutchison said he isn't sure what the Texans will do about voting for Nixon. That was to be decided at a caucus today.

The Texans came to Chicago instructed to vote for Nixon for the presidential nomination and Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater for vice president.

They un hitched from the Nixon bandwagon, however, after he began exerting pressure on the Platform Committee to put more teeth in the rights plank.

Hutchison said the delegation voted to free itself from the pledge and members could vote for anybody they chose.

But many Texans said they still plan to vote for the vice president, and there were hints that the entire delegation might hitch itself back to Nixon's going-cart.

While the civil rights plank was distasteful, Hutchison said it is much more moderate than the Democratic one—and that proposed by Nixon and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

"The South and Rockefeller would infinitely more than they did at the Democratic convention," he said.

He was happy that the committee did not go as far as Nixon and Rockefeller wanted it to.

"The Platform Committee has redeemed its dignity by refusing to swallow the whole pill," he said.

"We should take comfort in the fact we stopped them (Nixon and Rockefeller) short of completely writing the platform."

Mrs. Powers Makes Plea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Francis Gary Powers appealed in person to the Soviet Embassy today for permission to visit her husband, awaiting trial as a spy.

She was told Moscow would have to pass on her visa application.

"They said they would let us know as soon as they got word from Moscow," said Alexander W. Parker, Richmond, Va., attorney, who accompanied Mrs. Powers.

Measurement Of Cotton Acreage Is Progressing

About 60 per cent of all of the cotton in Howard County has been measured by the Agricultural Stabilization measuring crews and on at least 50 per cent of the farms farmers have overplanted their quotas, Gabe Hammack, manager of the ACS office, said Wednesday.

However, he said the overplanting is not unusual. Each year the farmers plant excessive acreage beyond their quotas to insure they still have their full allotment if sandstorms, washing rains or other disasters should damage important areas of their fields.

CASE OF THE RED LEAVES

BATESVILLE, Ark. (AP)—When leaves on an elm tree turned mysteriously red, newspaper editor Paul Buchanan sought an explanation from various observers.

It wasn't blight nor insects, experts agreed. Then Buchanan solved his own mystery. He heard his son describing to a friend what a neat job he had done spraying the leaves with red paint.

Martin County Gets Roadway

STANTON — The Martin County Commissioners' Court is now trying to finish its part in the widening of U. S. Highway 87, as it passes across the northeast corner of the county near Ackery.

The county has secured all except two or three tracts of the right-of-way according to County Judge Jim McCoy, and these should be completed soon. The Highway Department has indicated it would like to start work on the project in September.

In Howard County, where virtually all the roadway for U. S. 87 from the Martin County line south to Fairview has been secured, the Highway Department is planning on constructing a divided highway. It is presumed the Martin County portion will be the same type.

In addition to this project, the county is putting through several dirt roads. Most of these are in the north part of the county where the old Slaughter Ranch has been sold and broken up into farms.

These roads do not follow all the section lines, but are being put in areas to serve most of the new settlers.

The county is also building a two-mile road southwest of Stanton and is widening another one north of town.

Martin Expects First Bale In About 30 Days

STANTON (SC) — Martin County should get its first bale of cotton within the next 30 days if some calamity doesn't hit the most promising crop in years.

"This should be a real bumper crop," said Gerald Hanson, former county agent. "Cotton is making good progress and already has three and four bolls to the stalk. The dryland crop looks good, too, and in some areas there is not much difference between it and irrigated cotton."

Farmers were bothered with insects earlier in the season, and more recently had an invasion of boll worms. After a siege of poisoning, the insects are under control. Now, the cabbage loopers are showing up on schedule, and Hanson says they are being found in all stages. Usually, however, they can be controlled with the same insecticides that are used for the boll worms.

Shivers Has No Political Plans

AUSTIN (AP) — Former Gov. Allan Shivers says he has no plans to run for office this year.

But his statement issued to newsmen Tuesday clearly left the door open to any change of mind later.

"I have not made any announcement of an intention to run for any office and I have no present plans to make such an announcement. I continue to be very much interested in state and national politics," he said.

A report floated around Dallas last week that backers of the former governor were seeking to get him to run against Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson in November.

Shivers said he appreciated "the interest of friends who, at various times since I left the governor's office, have urged me to seek public office again." He issued his statement on his return from a trip to Canada.

Fall Is Fatal

KAUFMAN (AP) — James R. Fowler, 22, was killed when wind whipped him and several sections of sheetrock from a pickup truck on which he was riding. Fowler was buried to the pavement.

Candidate Will Be Named Tonight

CONVENTION HALL, Chicago (AP)—In relaxed mood, the Republicans whirled through a round of social activities and sightseeing today preliminary to their convention's big moment tonight—the nomination of Richard M. Nixon for president.

Tensions and quarrels over the platform had faded. The mood was: Close ranks and wham the Democrats.

Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, who once looked as prospective antagonists at this convention, breakfasted together in great harmony.

Accompanied by Mrs. Nixon, the vice president went over to Rockefeller's hotel for breakfast with the governor and the New York delegation.

Rockefeller met him at the curb and they all but embraced, looking like a couple of old college buddies at a 25th class reunion.

Nixon called New York the key state in what he said was going to be a very close election contest.

Rockefeller, his arm around Nixon, declared "he's going to win with New York state in the fall."

In an informal interview, Nixon indicated his vice presidential running mate would not be selected until Thursday.

But GOP National Chairman Thurston B. Morton in a statement an hour later said the convention "is going to try to nominate the vice presidential candidate as planned, tonight."

"However, if the hour should become late," Morton added, "We will put the nomination of the vice president over until Thursday."

Nixon's indication of a delay until Thursday was, in a discussion of his plans to consult with party leaders on the question of the No. 2 spot on the ticket.

He said there would be a meeting tonight—or Thursday if tonight's convention session runs late—of party leaders from all sections to talk about a vice presidential nominee.

"I want to have a full discussion of it before we have a final decision," Nixon said.

In response to questions, he said Rockefeller will certainly be one of those consulted. He also mentioned Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois as among those whose opinions he desires.

Goldwater is at the extreme right wing of the GOP. He was critical of last weekend's Nixon-Rockefeller statement of principles, calling it a surrender by Nixon. He also didn't like some aspects of the platform.

Nixon's mention of the Arizona senator as one of those to be consulted about the vice presidential nominee tended to emphasize the ranks-closing phase into which Nixon, in firm control of the convention, has now carried it. The name still getting most attention in speculation as to the No. 2 spot on the ticket was that of U. N. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

Also figuring in it were Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, Rep. Walter Judd of Minnesota and Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton.

Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan had his backers, too.

President Eisenhower, who was given his big day and night here yesterday in what the convention called "Thank-You-Be-Back Day," breakfasted with his own Cabinet officers and GOP candidates for various offices—about 600 in all.

Eisenhower was presented a bust of Abraham Lincoln. Gov. William G. Stratton gave it to him on behalf of the people of Illinois.

In a little speech of acceptance, Eisenhower recalled Lincoln's pronouncement that the government should undertake only those things that the people are unable to do themselves.

With this as his text, the President urged that GOP candidates follow "the great middle road" and ignore the gutter, left or right.

To rars of thunderous applause, Eisenhower told the convention Tuesday night that his administration had "employed the whole might of our military, economic, political and moral strength to prevent war and to build a solid structure of peace."

Then, in passing the baton of GOP leadership to Nixon, his specially trained vice president, Eisenhower added: "If we can be blessed with experience and steady leadership in Washington, the possibility of the outbreak of future war will be minimized and we can eventually win the peace."

Nixon was in full command of a convention as perhaps no other nominee-to-be except a White House occupant ever has been.

In the past a few outgoing presidents like Theodore Roosevelt and Andrew Jackson have controlled conventions, dictated their nominees, and had the final word on platforms.

This convention listened to and cheered President Eisenhower. It might be said, however, in its own way, because of the two-term limitations imposed upon a president for the first time, he could not threaten or entice the delegates. He could only try to persuade.

Old Settlers To Eat Well Friday

Two thousand pounds of beef, 15 goats, 200 pounds of beans, gallons of pickles, pecks of onions, 130 loaves of bread and a small ocean of black coffee and iced tea.

That's the grocery order Squeaky Thompson, Harold and Melvin Choate, Bill Kuykendall and others are filling today. It will provide the food for the big noon-day barbecue which will be a highlight of the 36th annual reunion and picnic of the Howard Glasscock County Old Settlers Association on Friday.

Thursday morning, trucks will begin hauling in cords of wood to fuel the barbecue pits at the Big Spring City Park. Kuykendall is charged with getting the wood. Harold Choate will fire up the pits Thursday afternoon. At 11 p.m. Thursday, the ton of beef and the pile of mutton will be placed on the grill to barbecue until serving time at noon on Friday.

SON-OF-A-GUN The volunteer workers will watch the fire and the meal throughout Thursday night and until the meal is served. Thompson, president of the association, and his committee will draft a small army to man the slicing knives and other crews to dole out the subordinate items on the menu.

The traditional pot of son-of-a-gun stew, ancient dish of the chuckwagon cooks, will be available for those who want to try it.

Two hundred pounds of donated beans are to be handpicked tonight to rid them of rocks, stems and other miscellany. The bean picking party will be at the residence of Thompson at 1608 Stadium.

"Looks like we will have more pickers than we have beans," observed Thompson, "but that's just fine."

REGISTRARS Mrs. Morgan Martin, secretary of the association, has recruited 12 women to serve as registrars for the big reunion. In order to dine, a visitor must register. The registration will get under way around 9 a.m. Friday.

Thompson said that the finance committee was in session Wednesday counting up the donations made for the picnic.

"We know we haven't got enough money to pay the bill," he said, "but we hope that registration gifts on Friday will work out so we'll break even."

One problem now before the committee is getting a piano out at the pavilion in the park. The piano is needed for the old fiddlers contest which is a highlight of the afternoon program. Prizes of $25, $20 and $15 are posted for the three winners.

BIG DANCE Closing event will be a big dance at the Stampede on the Snyder highway. Jim King and his band will provide the music. The dance starts at 9 p.m. Friday. Mrs. Melvin Choate and Morgan Martin are in charge of this feature. Association officers have extended an invitation to long-time residents of both Howard and Glasscock counties to attend the reunion. Those who have resided in either county for as much as 20 years are considered old timers.

Budget Hearing Is Set For Aug. 9

In another marathon session, the Big Spring Independent School District trustees Tuesday night came up with a tentative budget which will have its public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 9.

In the end, the figure was scarcely different from the total following the initial consideration of the budget two weeks ago. The board discussed at length bolstering several activities pinpointed by evaluating teams. Supt. Floyd Parsons said that provision had been made for added personnel or facilities in several areas of the curriculum, but always the board ran into the perennial problem—money.

So the total budget outlay was left at $2,361,000.75, including $2,067,500 current operational expense plus $293,500.75 capital outlay. Debt service of $28,996 brings the aggregate to $2,396,750.75 level.

An addition was $2,600 at the school's contribution to the juvenile board, which is due to be activated in October. Last meeting an instructional supervisor was added along with 19 secretarial-clerical positions to relieve principals of detailed record keeping and permit more time for actual instructional supervision. These had boosted the total teacher salary outlay to $1,821,750. Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper asked if there could be provision for strengthening the art program and some consideration was given for an art supervisor position. However, no action was taken. Similarly, the matter of office space for some principals was talked at length but differed until such a time as a bond issue might provide ample funds. The board did suggest that a thorough check be made of feasibility of one or two portable classroom units.

An underwrite of $20,000 for the athletic budget (which also includes provisions for cheerleader and pep squad, some hand expense, etc., as well as for activities) was approved. The total athletic budget was $59,917, about $2,000 more than for the original budget last year. However, the budget last year was cut by approximately 15 per cent when the board had to pare the budget to come within available funds.

Earlier, the board talked with representatives of the Kentwood development in southeast Big Spring relative to a possible school site. In a group were Al Milch, Wallace Millwright, E. C. Smith, Ike Whitehead and Roman McCann. They said that a 13-acre tract had been laid out tentatively for school purposes but that pending a final plat additional acreage could be provided. Harold Talbot and O. S. Warrack were named as a committee to check on the matter of a site and to report back to the board.

The board meeting started off at the Sands restaurant, but when coming time came there at 10 p.m. the meeting adjourned to the administrative offices. Following the Kentwood developers, Emmett McKenzie, athletic director, explained various items in the athletic budget which anticipated gate receipts from all sports in the amount of $25,000. Last year's general fund underwrite was also budgeted at $30,000 but the estimated revenues from games were about $2,000 less.

Death Takes Dr. J. S. Roden

Word has been received here of the death, in Columbia, Missouri, Tuesday afternoon, of Dr. J. S. Roden, former practicing physician in Midland and brother of several West Texans well known here.

Dr. Roden succumbed unexpectedly, apparently the victim of a heart attack. He had been teaching in the medical school of the University of Missouri for the past several years, after ill health prompted him to discontinue practice at Midland.

Survivors include three brothers, Tom, Ted and Bill Roden all of Odessa; two sisters, Mrs. Bill Deaderick of Odessa and Mrs. L. C. Stauder of Abilene; his mother, Mrs. A. H. Roden of Odessa. His wife and four children, of Columbia, also survive.

The body is to be forwarded to Glen Rose, Texas, the family home, for burial, and private graveside rites are planned for Friday. Relations requested that tributes be in the nature of gifts to the J. S. Roden Memorial care of Dean of the Medical School, University of Missouri.

More Fires In Northwest

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—The Pacific Northwest has its biggest week-end fire still out of control, had more than 50 new lightning-caused fires today.

The new blazes in Oregon and Washington and Idaho came as a lightning storm passed over the area Tuesday. Most were small and fire fighters rushed to quell them early.

At Boise, Idaho, Bill Logan, 28, was jailed for arson in connection with a 25,000-acre fire that blackened rangeland near Marsing, Idaho, and avenged the Oregon border.

Thousands of fire fighters continued their struggle. The biggest, the 20,000-acre Anthony Lakes fire in the Wallawa-Whitman National forest, remained unchecked.

Other big fires in the Wallawa-Whitman broke over fire lines Tuesday. They were the Cummings Creek fire of 2,000 acres in the Pomeroy district of southeastern Washington, the 5,000-acre Snake Creek fire at the eastern tip of Oregon, and Cow Creek fire, also in eastern Oregon, of 1,600 acres. The Pony Creek fire in the Snake River Canyon was not ringed by lines and had burned 16,500 acres.

In Idaho, the 12,900-acre Hells Canyon fire in Payette National Forest, a 4,000-acre Johnson Bar fire in north-central Idaho, and a 7,000-acre brush fire north of Dubois in Targhee National Forest were still out of control.

Texas National No. 1 Jackson has installed the pump unit and is pumping. It is C NE NE of section 7-34-5n, T&P survey.

NIXON

It was Nixon who told the Platform Committee what to do. It would be Nixon who chose his vice presidential running mate.

Although he put off a final decision until after his own nomination, the odds were very heavy that Nixon will pick telegraphic Lodge, the Soviet-baiting United Nations ambassador, to run with him.

Nixon summoned a score or more of the party's leaders to meet with him in his hotel suite tonight on the vice presidential choice. That made it almost certain the convention will not act on that until Thursday.

There remained the outside chance that at the meeting, Nixon might be convinced that Sen. Morton might be the better entry in November's bitter struggle.

NO CERTAINTY
There was no certainty that Nixon would get the top nomination without at least the formality of a challenge.

Backers of Sen. Goldwater of Arizona, who has made himself a spokesman of the conservatives in the tradition of a Robert A. Taft, were uncertain whether to put his name for a roll call.

At best this would be only a protest gesture. It would be directed primarily at the favored, distant adoption by the convention of a platform liberalized by Nixon with a vital assist from Gov. Rockefeller of New York.

But Goldwater told a reporter that if his name were offered as a presidential candidate, he would ask that it be withdrawn. This seemed to eliminate the last possible chance that Nixon would be challenged in any way for the presidential nomination.

Howard

Fleming Oil Co. No. 20-A Snyder and No. 32-E Snyder are completions in the Snyder field. No. 20-A Snyder pumped 66.38 barrels of 29.5 gravity oil per day, with a five per cent water, on initial potential. Total depth is 2,260 feet.

Lumumba Vows He'll Establish 'Democracy'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba, arriving today in quest of American economic and technical aid, pledged to establish a "true democracy" in his crisis-ridden country.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, greeting him at the airport in a steady rain, expressed "heartfelt wishes for the speedy return of tranquility of your country."

"We are, as you know," Herter said, "doing all in our power to support the United Nations in its response to your appeal for aid."

The bespectacled Lumumba avoided any criticism of Belgium in his arrival remarks. He described as "unfortunate events" the riots and army mutiny which brought Belgian soldiers rushing back to the Congo to protect European settlers.

Lumumba came from New York in a special U. S. Air Force transport for a hastily arranged two-day visit.

An honor guard of Army, Navy, Marine and Air Force units, drenched by the rain, stood at attention. The Army band, plus a big color guard, greeted him.

A Congo flag, a blue banner with gold stars, fluttered from the fender of the car in which he rode with Herter, along with the Stars and Stripes. The Congo flag had been hastily sewn Tuesday night in advance of his arrival.

The Army band did not have time to learn the Congo national anthem. Instead they played the "Stars and Stripes Forever" when Lumumba stepped out of the plane to the sound of a 21-gun salute.

Lumumba, who only last week was talking of asking Russian help to oust Belgian troops from the Congo, was to meet officially with Herter and top administration aides later today in a follow-up to his New York meetings with UN officials.

He will be an honor guest during his stay, residing at the government's Blair House. He is to mix some sightseeing with his official call, including a talk with representatives of the World Bank who might help ease his government's financial plight.

African ambassadors have arranged a dinner and a big diplomatic reception in his honor to demonstrate their backing for the newest independent African nation to emerge from colonialism.

Pope Reveals A New Code

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII, in major liturgical reform for the Roman Catholic Church, today announced that a new code of rules for the Roman Rite and Mass will become effective Jan. 1.

In a formal document—a "Motu Proprio" or order by the Pope's "own hand"—the head of the Roman Catholic Church said the new rules will be promulgated soon.

He said the new code combines the rules of a better form, arranged in a clearer order, and religious services will be shortened and simplified.

He did not specify what changes will be made.

The 73-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church said a new calendar of the Breviary and Mass also will be issued.

Pope John noted that the rules have undergone constant change through the centuries. He said these changes were "not always in a systematic order and therefore not without damage to the primitive (original) simplicity and foresight."

LEAVES HIS MARK
OZONE, Ark. (AP)—Grocer C. W. Melton couldn't catch his burglar who had been looking his paws register at night. So he poured fresh cement around the entrance to the store. The burglar-struck left his footprints, the grocer arrested a 16-year-old youth with fresh concrete on his shoes. The money was recovered.

Military cordons protected all roads to the industrial sites from interference by diehard rioters.

Police confirmed that their gunfire killed five of the slain nine Africans. The police said they fired in self-defense. At least one of the dead was battered to death by rioters enforcing the work boycott.

The rioting was confined to the city's African sectors, which more than 2,000 European and African soldiers and police sealed off to protect the city's 45,000 whites.

Felony Charges In Check Case
Felony check charges have been filed against James H. Trammell, 36, who is now being held in the Howard County jail. Wayne Burns, county attorney, turned the case over the district court because Trammell had been previously convicted by the Howard County court for writing worthless checks. Burns said that Trammell had been released from the county jail only last Friday where he had served a sentence for writing worthless checks. On Monday, Burns said, another check appeared. Trammell was arrested by Tommy Cole, deputy sheriff, and Sid Reeder, Borden County sheriff, at Lake J. B. Thomas on Tuesday night.

Footprints
CLARKSVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The mystery of human footprints in stone are to be a solution today than when they were discovered in 1850. The footprints are on the top and side of a huge stone on a farm in Johnson County. The stone is six feet wide and 10 feet high and geologists say it has been there for hundreds of years.

DEAR ABBY IN A LATHER

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I know this isn't the worst problem in the world, but it's bad enough to write about. I belong to a family of champion "perspirers." My mother walks around the house with a dish towel tucked in her belt because she perspires so much. Last week we went to a neighbor's home to play cards and they said, "Let's use the old cards. Gertie gets them all wet anyway."

DEAR ABBY: What do you say to a teen-age daughter who looks at you with hate in her eyes and says she doesn't owe you anything because she didn't ask to be born? HEARTSICK MOTHER: DEAR MOTHER: No one ASKS to be born. What children "owe" their parents for the gift of life is never repaid to the parents. It is passed on instead to THEIR children.

THIS DAY IN TEXAS

By CURTIS BISHOP

According to the papers of Stephen F. Austin, James Britton Bailey was ordered to leave the limits of the Brazos River colony on this day in 1822.

He declined, and about a year later gained acceptance as one of the original Austin colonies. Actually he had lived at present Bailey's Prairie on the Brazos River since April, 1821.

Bailey admitted to having served a term in a Kentucky penitentiary, and Austin at first didn't consider the colorful pioneer a desirable citizen. But Bailey shortly proved his worth as a settler. He erected the first brick house in the Austin colonies. At this house Brazos settlers took the oath of fidelity to the Constitution of 1824. Bailey also served as a lieutenant of early Texas militia.

The terms of his will insure his place in Texas folk lore. Bailey, ordered that he be buried standing up with a jug of whiskey and his hunting rifle at his feet. Even in death Brit Bailey didn't want to bend his head before his fellow man.

He was born in North Carolina in 1779 and died in 1833. His return to Austin about his jail sentence also deserves perpetuation. He wasn't as ashamed of that, he said, as of the term he served in the Kentucky legislature.

College Student Challenges Johnson - For - President Law

AUSTIN (AP) — The so-called "Johnson for President Law" has been challenged in a suit filed in federal court here.

Michael E. Schwille, a 24-year-old North Texas State College senior, filed the suit Tuesday to test the constitutionality of a state law that permits Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson's name to appear twice on the general election ballot.

The student's attorneys said they base their case on the provision in the U.S. Constitution prohibiting a man from simultaneously holding two offices. This also prevents a man from running for two offices at the same time, the attorneys claim.

The suit seeks an injunction to prevent Johnson's certification by the State Democratic Executive Committee, and to stop Secretary of State Zollie Steakley from entering Johnson's name on the ballot as a candidate for the vice presidency and the U.S. Senate.

DEFENDANTS

It names as defendants Steakley; J. E. Connally of Abilene, State Democratic Executive Committee chairman; Mrs. R. Max Brooks, vice chairman of the committee, Austin; and Jake Jacobson, committee secretary, Austin. Schwille, who said he is a Democrat, denied he favors any possible challenger for Johnson's Senate post.

"I have brought this action to protect my right and the right of other Democrats to vote for two different Democratic candidates for vice president and United States senator at the General Election Nov. 8, 1960."

Schwille said in a prepared statement:

"I have brought this action to protect my right and the right of other Democrats to vote for two different Democratic candidates for vice president and United States senator at the General Election Nov. 8, 1960."

DANGEROUS

"It is my belief that the law which was passed to permit Sen. Johnson to be a candidate for two offices at the same time is basically unfair, dangerous, and unconstitutional. A ruthless and overly ambitious candidate in a similar situation could hold the threat of senatorial reprisal over the heads of potential supporters of the national ticket and gain unmerited support."

"The basic civil right involved in this lawsuit is the right to have one's vote given full force and effect."

Dallas attorneys William F. Billings said the suit was filed in federal court because "we feel that the federal Constitution and federal law, particularly the civil rights statute, offer better possibilities" than could be obtained if the suit were entered in state court.

The suit was filed in Austin because three of the defendants reside here, he said.

PASSED LAST YEAR

The law under attack was passed last year by the 56th Legislature. It provides that a candidate seeking election to the U.S. Senate can also have his name on the ballot as a candidate for either president or vice president.

Jacobson, a former executive assistant to Gov. Price Daniel, said he does not believe the Constitution forbids anyone to seek two offices. The Austin attorney recalled that former Vice President John Nance Garner of Texas ran for U.S. Representative and for vice president in 1936.

Federal District Clerk Joe Steiner said a suit ordinarily takes from two to six weeks to get before the court after it is filed. Steiner said the attorneys must confer with Federal Dist. Judge Ben Rice, who in turn must take the matter up with the chief judge of the Fifth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

OTHER JUDGES

The New Orleans judge must appoint two other judges to sit with Rice if the case comes to court.

Schwille and Billings were flown to Austin by Dallas public relations man Largent Parks in Parks' private plane. Parks, a Republican, said he was interested in the case only as a casual bystander.

Negro Lawyer's Presidency Hopes Come To An End

CHICAGO (AP)—An Indianapolis Negro lawyer's dream of becoming the first Negro to have his name placed in nomination for the presidency ended Monday.

Frank R. Beckwith, who ran against Vice President Richard M. Nixon in Indiana's presidential primary, delivered a withdrawal speech at the Indiana delegation's caucus, calling for Nixon's nomination and praising the GOP as the "party of freedom."

Gov. Harold W. Handley, delegation chairman, said he had explained to Beckwith that he could not be placed in nomination by Indiana because Nixon had won the primary.

George P. Rice Jr., a Butler University speech instructor and Indianapolis lawyer who is white, had said he wanted to present Beckwith "only as a symbolic candidate."

FLEETING FAVOR

Hula Hoops Spun Fast Into Oblivion

Just about this time of the year in 1958, every kid was going steadily in circles. Any direction, you looked you'd see boys and girls deeply engrossed in the task of keeping a loop of plastic around their waist gyrating in graceful circles.

Stores displayed small mountains of these hoops. Long lines of eager buyers crowded cash registers paying for red, green, blue and yellow rings. Hula hoops, they were called. The fad originated on the West Coast, and swept across the nation like wildfire.

Stores couldn't keep enough on hand. Factories sprang up everywhere making hula hoops. Plants which produced other products set up departments to turn out hoops. Big trucks roared along highways delivering huge quantities of hoops to dealers.

Adults tried their hands at hula hooping. Musical shows introduced long rows of chorus cuties in hula hoop routines. Television personalities demonstrated their skill at the art.

VANISHING FAD

Then, almost as suddenly as it had arisen, the fad vanished. Almost overnight the demand for hula hoops halted. The craze had developed in the summer of 1958. It peaked in the fall of 1958 and when 1959 rolled around the hoops were rapidly losing their hold on the people. Today no hoops are to be seen.

But you can still buy a hula hoop in Big Spring. There are several dozen of the gadgets still in the stockrooms of stores. The price? Make an offer. There's a pretty good chance your bid will be accepted.

One store in Big Spring which sold more than 8,000 of the hoops during its heyday has two dozen collecting dust in its warehouse today.

"We sell one every now and then," the proprietor reports. "I imagine we sell about one a week." This same dealer recalls that in the peak of the boom, he had constant orders with a factory in Lubbock to keep his supply of hoops sufficient to meet the demand.

What became of the hula hoop craze?

PRICE WAR

One dealer believes that it was killed largely by price cutting. When the hoops first hit the market they sold for around $1.50. As soon as the amazing popularity of the things was evident, every sort of store began to stock them. You could buy hula hoops everywhere — department stores, grocery stores, drug stores, variety stores even in some service stations. The price began to drop. Just before the end, you could buy a hula hoop for a third of the price it had brought at the outset of the craze.

"People quickly lose interest in something which seems to have no cash value," the dealer said. "When the hula hoops were $1.50 to $1.75 they had a greater appeal and value to the buyer. When the price fell to 39 cents, the appeal disappeared. Besides, such things run their interval and lose their pull rapidly."

"WILD-HAIRED" There is no current comparable fad among the kids.

Some dealers think that this is a good thing. "A town can't stand too many wild-eyed outbreaks such as the hula hoop craze," one merchant said. "Look how much money was poured into these things in the few fleeting weeks they were in vogue. It's not good for a town to have too many wild-haired fads."

Meantime, though, if you simply must buy a hula hoop, there are still some around. But don't count on Junior to get all misty-eyed with excitement when you hand it to him. He's no longer interested in hula hoops.

15 Animals Are Lightning Victims

EAST PRAIRIE, Mo. (AP)—Noah Heath, at the urgings of his sons, set out Monday night to find their missing shetland pony on his farm near East Prairie.

The pony and 14 head of choice beef steers were found dead near a tree—killed by a lightning bolt. Heath, a prominent banker and land owner in southeast Missouri, estimated the loss at $2,600. Old timers couldn't recall another case of 15 animals in one spot killed by lightning.

"There wasn't a single mark on the tree," Heath said.

Creighton Can Inspect For Summer Tire Problems

No season of the year is so hard on tires as summer. Not only does the hot weather and searing heat of the roads offer threat to tire safety, —summer is also that time of the year when most folk drive more. Vacation trips are fun but they are not funny when each day's travels are beset with flats and blowouts. In addition to the annoyance and expense, such incidents are fraught with danger. Make certain the tires you have on your car are in good condition. If you need new tires, by all means talk with the men at Creighton Tire Co., 601 Gregg, before you buy. Newest Wagon Wheel

This clean, well-kept and spacious parking area and the large sign at the "Y" intersection of West 3rd and West 4th mark the spot as far as really fine drive-in eating is concerned. The Wagon Wheel Drive-In Restaurant No. 3 is the latest addition to the "Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Rainbolt's" family of Wagon Wheel drive-ins. Opened last month, Wagon Wheel No. 3 is giving the same kind of prompt and friendly service associated with the Wagon Wheel name in Big Spring. The specialty at the new drive-in is pit barbecue, made West Texas style, according to Al Bagwell, who manages all three Wagon Wheel drive-ins. In addition to barbecue, there is the standard menu of milk, milk shakes, hamburgers and tuff dinners. The new location is at 2105 W. 3rd. Other Wagon Wheel restaurants are at 4th and Birdwell and 2011 Gregg.

Sues Government

Inventor Milton J. Neell displays his working model for a missile guidance system in his home in Dallas. Neell is suing the United States government for 100 million dollars charging infringements on patents he received for the guidance system. Mr. Neell claims he was issued "broad" patent coverage in 1947 on a device which makes use of photoelectric cells sensitive to light and heat rays that guide a missile to its predetermined objective and ascertain the position of the target.

Injunction In Annexation Case Is Given Extension

Judge Ralph Caton, 118th District Court, Tuesday ordered a temporary injunction in the Gay Hill-Center Point school district case extended pending adjudication. The order of the court is that the injunction be handed down on May 12 will continue in force until the merits of the case, testing the right of the Howard County School Board to annex Gay Hill and Center Point to Big Spring District has been "determined by a district court of competent jurisdiction."

1. It stipulated that the Big Spring Independent School District was to take no action to take possession of the two districts nor to take part in the normal operations of the two schools. It also barred the two districts from employing teachers and other help beyond the pending school year or from raising salaries of such employees. Its purpose was to enable the two schools to continue in normal fashion until such time as the legality of the county board's annexation action could be determined by the courts. The injunction also authorized Walker Bailey, as county superintendent, to proceed as usual in the payment of bills for the two school districts.

Nasser Cuts Off Iranian Relations

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser said Monday the United Arab Republic is closing its embassy in Tehran in protest against Iran's policy toward Israel.

Soon after, the Middle East News Agency said Iran's ambassador to Cairo and members of his staff were expelled from the U.A.R.

The Shah of Iran said Saturday his government would not withdraw recognition of Israel.

"There is no need for a (U.A.R.) representative with the Shah, who has sold himself to Zionism and imperialism," Nasser angrily declared.

The injunction as it now applies will maintain the status quo of the schools until the final court ruling on the annexation order has been reached. Recently Judge Caton refused to hear an appeal from the action of the county board brought by the two annexed districts, holding that his court had no jurisdiction. He ruled that the annexed districts had elected to make their appeal to the Texas commissioner of education prior to the time that an appeal had been filed in his court. This would place jurisdiction in the district court in Austin.

This ruling is to be appealed. Transcript of the hearing is being prepared and will be laid before the State Appellate Court for consideration.

Storms Batter 2 Rural Areas

By The Associated Press
Skies were clear over Texas Wednesday after a damaging storm battered two Parker County rural areas Tuesday night.

Forecasts, issued Wednesday by the Weather Bureau, called for above normal temperatures and light to moderate precipitation in isolated thundershowers and thunderstorms.

Searchers called off a hunt early Wednesday for two boats missing at Lake Weatherford. Officials had not determined whether anybody was aboard the light crafts.

Accompanied by brief, heavy rains, the Parker County winds—some witnesses called it a tornado—wrecked a cabin and a boat dock and blew down several sheet-iron boat sheds at Lake Weatherford, five miles east of the Parker County seat.

Charles Beard, Parker County Civil Defense director, estimated damage around the lake at about $40,000.

The Parker County sheriff's office said Wednesday that high winds struck the Springtown community, 35 miles northwest of Fort Worth, but there was no damage. Other sources said a house was damaged and trees uprooted at Springtown.

Pre-dawn temperatures ranged from 68 at Dalhart to a muggy, warm 81 at Dallas.

Wednesday's temperatures were expected to at least equal Tuesday's maximum when the range was from 105 at Seymour to 88 at Alpine. Except for about a baker's dozen of points that had temperatures of 100 or above, all other points reporting were in the 90s.

Invitations Issued For Play Tryouts

Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Prairie Playhouse, the Big Spring Civic Theatre will hold its first reading for an early fall play.

The play, "The Warriors Husband," requires several tall girls and women from 5 ft. 7 in. plus.

T. Sgt. Dewey Magee, the club president, said the theatre group chose a play with 37 people in it for two good reasons.

The readings will be informal and newcomers need not fear being embarrassed according to 1st Lt. James W. Marlin, the play's director.

Sgt. Magee, who once played the male lead in the play, recommended it for this group.

All citizens are invited to join the group to help in plays or in finishing the work on the building.

Lt. Henry Lackey Earns Expert Rating In 331st

Today 1st Lt. Henry F. Lackey of the 331st Fighter Interceptor Squadron passed the final requirement for up-grading to the select group of "Expert" all weather intercepter pilots.

The Air Defense Command gives this highest proficiency award only to those who have flown over 1,000 hours (700 hours of which must have been jet fighter time).

Upon achieving this top rating, Lt. Lackey lauded the work of Maj. John B. Kouns, the 331st materiel officer.

"Every since I have been in an operational fighter squadron, Maj. Kouns has been in charge of maintenance—both here at Webb and also at Stewart AFB in New York.

All of my 725 jet fighter hours have been flown in aircraft maintained under his supervision, and not once have I had a dangerous emergency."

The 27-year-old lieutenant joined the Air Force as an aviation cadet in April 1953 and received his wings in 1955.

He then went to Perrin AFB at Denison, for the all weather intercepter pilot course. He was assigned to the 331st at Stewart AFB, N. Y., in June 1956 and came to Big Spring with the squadron in August of 1958.

After flying F-86L Sabre Jets for over three years, he recently completed transition into the supersonic F-102 acquired this spring by the 331st.

A native of Junction, Ill., and a 1949 graduate of Equality Township High School, Lt. Lackey was employed for three years by the Department of the Army as an accountant in the civil service at Camp Breckenridge, Ky.

Lt. Lackey, the son of Mrs. Ed Keane of Junction, Ill., is married to the former Lillian Walls of Carmi, Ill. They have two children a son, Mark, 3, and a daughter, Lillian, 2.

Coronado Hills Developers Finally Get Zoning Okay

Developers of the Coronado Hills subdivision, on the old Country Club site made good on a third formal bid to have the intersection at Wasson Road and Marcy Drive zoned as a business district.

The city commission, meeting in regular session Tuesday, granted the request. The planning and zoning commission had previously denied the request on two occasions.

The first request for a neighborhood-type business district was made last August and at that time the Odessa developers pointed out that a large drainage ditch separates the area from the rest of the development to the south. This isolation, the developers maintained, makes the area unsuitable for residential development.

Representing the firm Tuesday were Fred Gage and Frank Crockett who told the commissioners that at the present time a pedestrian and bicycle bridge is planned to cross the ditch and that a road would be extended to provide access to the business area from within the subdivision on the east.

The planning and zoning commission also made the recommendation that the property not be re-zoned until the new zoning ordinance under the master plan is put into effect.

Gage repeated the developers' claim that the commercial zoning is good land planning. "We feel we are entitled to this zoning," he said. "It will be good for neighboring areas and it fits into the traffic pattern. Future planning lends itself to this zone," he said.

Marvin Springer, the city's master plan consultant, at the July 13 meeting of the planning and zoning commission when the last request was denied pointed out that a commercial district could be made to work if the intersection was properly protected.

Springer and Bruce Dunn, director of public works, at that time presented a proposed design for the widening of Marcy Drive and providing a system of channels for a protected intersection for possible use in the future.

An ordinance providing for the re-zoning will be drawn up and presented to the city commission at its next meeting.

Chilean Floods Still Rampage

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Water continued to pour today over a valley normally inhabited by 100,000 persons as earthen dams crumbled further below Lake Rihue in southern Chile.

Heavy rainstorms, strong winds and earth tremors added to the plight of the thousands of refugees from Valdivia, in the heart of the valley, a city devastated by earthquakes in May and now almost certain to be destroyed by flood waters from the swollen lake 50 miles upstream.

Several towns in the valley already were under water. Only the tops-of-houses were visible from the air.

Four fishermen were reported drowned when their boat overturned in the rampaging torrent.

Army engineers Tuesday evacuated the last of some 40,000 persons from Valdivia and took them to temporary quarters on high ground.

LUBBOCK (AP)—The body of James Carl Hill, 13, was recovered from a big farm lake 10 miles southeast of here. The hunt continued for the body of his cousin, Ronnie Taylor, 14. The boys drowned Monday when a homemade raft upset in the lake.

A Devotional For Today

Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? or who shall stand in his holy place? He that hath clean hands and a pure heart; who hath not lifted up his soul unto vanity, nor sworn deceitfully. (Psalms 24:3, 4.)
PRAYER: "Almighty God, unto whom all hearts are open, all desires known, and from whom no secrets are hid, cleanse the thoughts of our hearts by the inspiration of Thy Holy Spirit, that we may perfectly love Thee and worthily magnify Thy holy name, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

The Heavy Rise Of Imports

Months ago—last January, in fact—Rep. H. R. Gross, an Iowa Republican, inserted in the Congressional Record his views on the growing menace to American institutions and industries of foreign imports.

The gist of his comment was embodied in an article by Edward Wimmer, vice president of the National Federation of Independent Business.

Mr. Wimmer pointed out that counters were piled high with hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of foreign-made merchandise last Christmas, quoting one department store manager as saying it was hard to find anything made in America in some of his departments.

Mr. Wimmer said an unpleasant incident had happened to him recently: he picked up a small American flag beside his place at a banquet and found it marked, "Made in Japan." In Seattle he bought a scarf, and on his head had found the same three words. A druggist told him the toilet poles made by Indians are now being turned out at half price by Japan. A cigarette lighter was made to sell at one-third the cost of the U. S. product.

"This past year saw nearly $300 million in sales of foreign-made women's wear," Mr. Wimmer is quoted. "The busy Japanese passed the $4 million mark in radio sales. Over half the sales of portable typewriters came over our borders, and it is estimated that 95 per cent of all china sold the past year was foreign made."

Texas has been seriously hurt by imports of cheap crude oil from various places by major companies. Car and steel imports have made themselves felt on the domestic market—and in unemployment figures.

Some American manufacturers have opened up foreign branches, taking advantage of favorable tax and wage conditions, and selling the end product in the U. S., presumably at a wider profit than would otherwise be the case.

Unless something is done to halt and reverse this trend, we are in for trouble in large hunks. It is nice that the U. S. can help other nations recover from depression and get on their feet, but if it is all to be taken out of our own hide, what good has been accomplished?

Trade is one alternate to aid, but trade is a two-way street. Perhaps by ignoring our costs, we are in danger of turning it into a one-way thoroughfare.

Smooth Move For Nixon

Whether the idea was Richard Nixon's or Nelson Rockefeller's we may never know, but the sensational midnight conference between the two in Rockefeller's New York City apartment on convention's eve was second only to Jack Kennedy's tapping of Lyndon Johnson as his running-mate among historical political occasions.

Thanks to the ultraconservative utterances of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, not to mention some of Nixon's own activities and propaganda, the impression had grown that the vice president was the chosen instrument to reverse the "moderate Republican" philosophy of President Eisenhower, and turn the country back to the paths of "regularity" with the blessing of the Old Guard.

Admittedly such an enterprise has its risks, for even the embattled Old Guard is aware that the prevailing sentiment of the country is liberal, a sentiment the intensity of which is distressing to many Democrats as well as Republicans.

There was need for action to combat the apparent notion that Dick Nixon was to be the fair-haired boy of the GOP conservatives. With Nelson Rockefeller holding bloody murder on almost every corner in New York and Chicago about the shortcomings of the Eisenhower Administration (the consistently denied this soft impeachment by always noting to be talking of the future, not of the present and the past), it was up to Nixon to take drastic action to redress such a menacing situation.

Well, out of the Nixon-Rockefeller confab came "14 Points," which left the impression that Nixon was, after all, not a dedicated conservative, but a forward-looking man in his own right.

The effectiveness of this demarche from stalwart Republican rectitude can best be judged by the reaction of the Old Guards. Goldwater called it a "Munich."

In effect, the "14 Points" put words in Richard Nixon's mouth that may or may not belong there, something like "I ain't neither a reactionary; I'm a good moderate Republican."

There was some speculation as to whether Nixon or Rockefeller arranged and insisted on the midnight parley that produced the magic 14 Points. It should be pretty obvious, shouldn't it? Dick Nixon wasn't behind the door when the political savvy was passed out. "Rocky" is an idealist and a political novice.

David Lawrence Putting Together A Platform

CHICAGO—It is difficult to avoid being cynical at these conventions, irrespective of which party holds them. For things are not always what they seem to be. The words in the platforms and speeches are meant largely to catch votes and not necessarily to express any formula for governmental action on specific problems.

The row here over the platform is incredible. Just a few weeks ago, the critics were saying Dick Nixon is a hard-billed "reactionary" and that not a drop of "liberal" blood flows through his veins. Today he is lined up with the newest of the "liberals" — the governor of New York, Nelson Rockefeller. And the news tickers have been telling the public that there was a chance of a Rockefeller-Nixon combination being formed to fight some of the platform committee's "moderate" recommendations. What a change a few bits of dramatic by-play really make!

ACTUALLY, THE Republican platform is basically a document that seeks all the worthwhile objectives which the Democrats extol but looks for sound ways to achieve them—without bankrupting the Treasury, raising taxes unduly and killing off the free-enterprise system.

As for the game of semantics on foreign policy and defense, it is doubtful whether the average citizen cares a whole lot about anything except peace in the world—and a big enough deterrent power to prevent a war. High-sounding phrases by themselves don't build missiles or keep our overseas bases manned with bombers for counterattack.

ON "CIVIL RIGHTS," the Republican platform is characterized by a sane realism. It doesn't propose, as do the Democrats, to change things "in all areas of community life," which is quite an order embracing doubtless the integration of private schools, private clubs and fraternal organizations where obviously the federal government at present has no constitutional powers anyway.

The platform writers here are convinced that they can capture the South and keep Republican strength in the North by heaving fair to both races. The Republican platform speaks of ending discrimination "in all areas of national life." If this means areas of life wherein the national government has jurisdiction, it's an improvement over the Democratic platform.

THERE IS SOMETHING noticeably present in this convention which was conspicuously absent at the Democratic convention. Here they denounce communism comprehensively and don't just lightly touch on it for fear of offending the so-called "liberals." Former President Hoover, for instance, in his memorable address, said to the convention: "We have also been brainwashed with another Communist basic tenet. They insist that love of country, pride of a people in their history, their ideals, and their accomplishments, is wicked nationalism. Ever since the war, the Communist 'fronts,' and the benefactors, and the eggheads have conducted a national chorus of denunciation of this wicked nationalism."

THE KEYNOTE speech of Rep. Walter H. Judd of Minnesota poured it on the Democrats on another theme—the idea expressed by leading Democrats that the Republicans are responsible for the misbehavior of Khrushchev. The other day a former Gov. Averell Harriman of New York blamed the Republican administration for every untoward event abroad and said "Look what is happening in Africa!" Sen. Kennedy, too, in his acceptance speech at Los Angeles said: "As our keynote reminded us, the President who began his career by going to Korea ends it by staying away from Japan."

So Congressman Judd answered with a few reminders of his own, as he cried out to the convention

"It wasn't a Republican administration which at Potsdam gave the Soviet Union East Germany and left West Berlin cut off from the rest of the free world."

MR. JUDD added some reminders also about the giveaways to the Soviet Union at the Yalta and Teheran conferences, conducted by a Democratic administration, as "500,000,000 people disappeared behind the Iron Curtain." This is a sample of what the argument about "lowered prestige" in the world may be like during the coming campaign. But the average American will want to hear something besides mere words—he will want to know what the policies will really be that will keep America out of another war.

ROCKEFELLER'S INTENTIONS

OH, THE UNCERTAINTY OF IT!

James Marlow A Long Time To Say Anything

CHICAGO—(AP)—It has taken the Republicans, as a party, six years to get around to saying they think the Supreme Court was right in outlawing segregation in public schools. The Democrats, as a party, haven't said it yet.

The court handed down its decision May 17, 1954. The first chance either party had to come out flatly in approval of the court's historic and far-reaching action was in their party platforms in the 1956 campaign. Both backed away from a flat approval.

BOTH PARTIES, of course, had their eye on the Southern white vote. Too hearty an endorsement of the court ruling was a cinch to cost votes in the South for the party bold enough to try it.

In their 1956 platform the Republicans wouldn't go any further than saying their party accepts the decision of the U. S. Supreme Court that racial discrimination in publicly supported schools must be progressively eliminated.

THIS WAS QUITE a long way from saying the party approved what the court did. President Eisenhower himself set the pace for such a caution by avoiding saying to this day that he approves the court's action.

But in 1956 the Democrats' platform was even more cagey than that of the Republicans. The Democrats, whose Southern members have been a constant obstacle to civil rights legislation in Congress, contented themselves with this: "Recent decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States relating to segregation in publicly supported schools and elsewhere have brought consequences of vast importance to our nation as a whole and especially to communities directly affected."

It was hardly news that the court decision was going to force big changes.

Two weeks ago at Los Angeles the Democrats produced the strongest civil rights plank in their history—one which may cost them some Southern white votes—but still avoided flat endorsement of what the court did in 1954.

SOUTHERN DELEGATES at the Democratic convention were unhappy over the whole civil rights plank of the party. Then the Republicans moved into Chicago for their convention.

Southern white Republican delegates fought against any strong civil rights plank, though Vice President Richard M. Nixon said he wanted a firm one.

Negro leaders told the Republicans that if they expected Negro votes in the November elections, they couldn't afford to come out with a civil rights plank weaker than the Democrats'.

For days the Republican Platform Committee—at a time when it knew the Democratic plank might cost the Democrats some white Southern votes—fiddled around with the idea of coming up with a less forthright plank than the Democrats'.

In the end it produced a civil rights plank which in some ways was a little tougher than the Democrats' promises on civil rights and in other ways was a little softer.

But the Republicans' civil rights plank wound up being the strongest the party had yet produced. And, on the subject of the court's 1954 decision, the Republicans have ever cared or dared to go.

The Republicans said flatly: "We supported the position of the Negro school children even before the Supreme Court decision and we believe the Supreme Court decision was right and should be carried out in accordance with the mandate of the court."

We play five or six times a year. Never the same place twice. We're no fools. Neither are our hosts.

There's one exception. Every summer we charter a mule dray barge for an afternoon's cruise up a restored canal near New Hope, Pa. Hal Boyle Lesson In Loneliness

NEW YORK (AP)—You want a hobby uncluttered with people? Want to get away from it all? Take up the jazz trombone.

You'll learn just what true loneliness can be.

Lift the slippery slide from its velvet case. Try in the mouthpiece. Purse your lips and watch 'em run—the wife, the kids, and then (ah, treachery) the dog. Vanquished all.

Then blow to your heart's content. Until the neighbor calls—the tone deaf lout.

The trombone—once called the sackbut—is an old friend which came long before the wife, kids or dog. They have all since posed the same question put to mountain climbers—why?

Why, indeed. Because after a long, worrisome day there's no greater pinnacle of pleasure than to point the sackbut ceilingward and blast out the soul-clearing notes of the first downhill slide to "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen."

That's how to get even with the world.

To Your Good Health Old People Must Learn To Avoid Risks

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Have you ever had any contact with an older person who has a broken hip? Well, I'm not going to talk especially about broken hips, today, except to remind you that a broken hip is still a long, tedious, painful and expensive affair. There is the expense of hospital care at first, and then wheelchairs, ambulance charges when it is necessary to go back to the hospital for an X-ray, the cost of a housekeeper if the patient lives alone, and so on.

Some years ago a broken hip was often a death sentence for an older person. Too often pneumonia or other diseases developed, and caused death, because the patient had to lie in bed for months after months. The body processes simply could not be kept toned up through such long inactivity.

Today it is possible for a surgeon to "pin" a broken hip, so the patient can begin to move about, at least moderately, months sooner. Much of the deadly danger is averted. But it is still six months, a year, sometimes even longer, before the patient can really walk again.

How do these accidents to older people occur? Usually you can not get a satisfactory answer: "I slipped," or "I fell," or "I stumbled," or "I think I had a dizzy spell," or sometimes, "I just do not know!"

Of course there are other injuries resulting from such falls, but a fractured hip is one of the chief ones of major peril. Others can range from damaged dignity or simple bruises to sprains, broken arms, cracked ribs, wrenched backs, and even head injuries.

Older bones are more brittle than they used to be. A painful and serious fracture can result from what seems to be a "slight" fall on a level surface.

So it is up to us, as we grow older, to realize that our bones may be brittle, that we do not react as quickly as we used to and that our balance is not what it used to be.

people live to advanced years, it's up to us to learn the risks and learn how to avoid them.

A hundred, or 200 years ago, smart people learned how to watch out for Indians, how to store food in the fall to ward off starvation in the winter, how to load a rifle, harness a horse, preserve meat and keep cabbage in a vegetable cellar.

Today one of the important lessons of daily living is to learn how to keep from falling down! It sounds simple, doesn't it? Yet the National Safety Council has seen fit recently to publish a series of leaflets devoted solely to ways by which older people can avoid accidents.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple. Write to me in care of this newspaper for a copy of my leaflet, "How To Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all mail from his readers, but because of the great number received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Molner uses readers' letters in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim Mrs. Jones And Her Crystal Ball

A few months ago Mrs. O. G. Jones, sister of George O'Brien visited here, and we got to do a little sketch based on a brief family history which included the family's years in Big Spring at the turn of the century.

Back home in North Carolina, Mrs. Jones was going through her things to clean out and destroy some old papers (which she habitually does but not quite) and came across a clipping of a paper she had read before the Federation of Women's Clubs here on April 27, 1910. It was a brief history of Howard County and Big Spring, named for Double or Twin Springs, as she quotes a surveyor by the name of Pope.

All of this was interesting, but hardly so much as her predictions. Let's take a look at a few of them in the light of 50 years passage of time.

"TEN YEARS from now we expect to entertain the State Federation of Women's Clubs." So far as I know, this never came to pass although the district Federation meeting has been entertained several times and the Texas Home Demonstration Clubs held their meeting here.

"The Santa Fe will have gotten sick and tired of trying to go any other way and will be giving us six trains a day."

Santa Fe didn't get tired, but local people once were on the verge of organizing a railroad company to connect with the Santa Fe, Lamesa, and Texas & Pacific Northern got ICC approval for a road to Lamesa, but the depression hit it in the head. Great highways, which would have been beyond Mrs. Jones' most extravagant dreams have supplanted the north-south railroad dream.

"TO THE NORTH, south, east and west, all these hills will be covered with handsome residences." Correct, with minor alterations, for builders are indeed taking to the hills.

"That immense building in McDowell Heights is the Normal we didn't get." (She evidently has reference Sul Ross which went to Alpine.) Big Spring didn't get Texas Tech, some 10 years later, but eventually this prediction did come true with establishment of Howard County Junior College in southeastern Big Spring.

"That one on the north is the $100,000 sanitarium, where all the folks who get sick in East Texas may come and get well." Well, that building on the north is the Big Spring State Hospital, representing a couple of million dollars value and taking care of some 1,000 mental patients. The city has four private hospitals and a huge VA (250-bed) Hospital on the south, plus the Webb-ABF Hospital."

"THAT DEAFENING whistle from Jones Valley (western Big Spring) is from the cotton mill where 500 hands are employed." We never got a cotton mill, but whistle from the east is from Corden's refining and petro-chemical plant and Cabot Carbon where a great deal more than 500 are employed.

"You may take a street car to any part of the city." We did get a bus system, but it folded early this year.

"Be sure to visit the Demonstration farm on the South." An error only in location, for the U. S. Experiment Farm came to be located on the north.

"The Commercial Club (which grew into the Chamber of Commerce) will take the Federation riding if flying machines." Mrs. Jones was probably indulging in a pique pipe dream here, but with Webb AFB on the west and Hamilton Field and Howard County Airport on the north, the facilities for this little junket are certainly available.

"The stars will twinkle to the music of our machinery, and the smoke from our factories will ascend heavenward as a cloud." Selah!

Conventions Are Still Fun For Alice

CHICAGO — Political conventions are a lifelong habit with Alice Roosevelt Longworth, 76, still strenuous daughter of the strenuous Teddy, and widow of Nicholas, former Republican Speaker of the House.

"This is the 12th Republican convention I've attended," she said when we met in the lobby of the Sheraton-Blackstone Hotel. "And, by the way, I helped open this hotel 50 years ago."

"AND IN ADDITION to all the Republican conventions," she continued, "I've been to seven or eight Democratic conventions. I can't remember the exact number because Franklin ran so often I couldn't keep them straight."

"But why Democratic conventions?" I asked.

"Just because I think conventions are such fun," said the chic, slim woman who has been the belle of every Republican gathering since her father entered the White House, which is almost 60 years ago.

"I MISSED the Republican conventions in 1924 and 1956 because I thought they'd be dull," she continued.

"But what makes you think this one wouldn't be in the same class?" I asked.

"Oh, well, I just like conventions," she countered. "And I'm a Nixon woman. I think he'll make an excellent President."

But turning to conventions again, Mrs. Longworth said she had enjoyed wonderful times at Democratic conclaves. "The one that nominated William Jennings Bryan in Denver in 1908 was great fun," she said. "And the Baltimore one that nominated Woodrow Wilson in 1912 was exciting."

"THEN THE Democratic convention that went 103 ballots in New York in 1924 before nominating John W. Davis was exhilarating, too. I kept going back and forth to Washington all the time it was on, but always returning to New York for the next round."

Mrs. Longworth is one of those lucky women for whom age seeps to stand still. She doesn't look a fibeute older than when I saw her here at the Republican convention eight years ago. Again, she is obviously blessed with tremendous physical and mental vitality that distinguished Roosevelts, no matter what their political faith.

SHE STILL WEARS the simple wide-brimmed hats that are one of her trademarks. It was of black straw when I chatted with her, matching the large black buttons down the front of her simple but elegant dark beige dress.

I asked her if she had any sharp bon mots up her sleeves, comparable to the famous comparison of Thomas E. Dewey, when a Presidential candidate, to the mah on the wedding cake.

"You know, I never said that," Mrs. Longworth said, with an impish smile. "It was really Ethel Barrymore who said that. But somehow I got the credit. About a year after it had been in circulation, I saw Ethel and she asked me what I was doing with her story!"

"IT REALLY was Ethel's bon mot and not mine, but no matter how much I disclaim it, I still get the credit."

"What about your mot, in reference to Mr. Dewey's second campaign, that no soufflé ever rises twice?" I asked.

"Now, I didn't say that either!" Mrs. Longworth insisted, but she looked very amused under her broad-brimmed hat. "Truly, I never said it, and I don't know who did or I would give him or her credit. It, I just think it was in the air and everybody said it."

REDLAM was all around us in the lobby of the Sheraton-Blackstone. Kits with Rockefeller banners, including a huge one reading, "Let's Have a Convention, NOT a Coronation," were trying to out-shout youngsters with Nixon placards. Goldwater moppets added to the decibel distraction.

Mrs. Longworth took it all in. She sighed happily and said, "Isn't this fun?"

Holmes Alexander Somebody To Guide The Losers

CHICAGO—When a political party or a business house fails, it passes "into the hands of its receivers"—a contingency which must be anticipated for both Democrats and Republicans.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson is the "receiver" for the Democratic party, and Sen. Barry Goldwater is likewise for the Republican party.

If the "Share America" platform and the bright young candidate of the Democrats should become bankrupt for lack of votes in November—never mind! Old Reliable will still be senior senator from Texas and majority leader of the Senate. Lyndon will pick up the pieces, stall off the creditors, liquidate the assets and refinance the party with leadership and philosophy.

AND IF THE GRAND OLD Party proves to have gone too modern, if Richard Nixon can't quite wear the thinking cap of "statesmanship," don't worry! The lean and keen conservative of the Mesa will receive the remains. Three times in a row, from 1940-48, the "me-too" campaigns failed for the GOP, but Robert Taft kept the party from pulverizing and blowing away. Now the task belongs to Barry Goldwater.

He has little or no chance to make the Republican ticket, yet he is the repository of the two cells of political life—leadership and philosophy. Goldwater has not been what Sen. Everett Dirksen is—the official White House spokesman on the Senate floor. But during the past two sessions, ever since his ringing re-election success of 1958, Goldwater has been spokesman of the Old Guard—which, like Napoleon's, would rather die in its tracks than retreat.

I HAVE WATCHED Goldwater as he has taken the Senate floor, on bills and resolutions, on grave historical events and on mere occasions for opinion-stating. This man, and nobody else, speaks for the party. Goldwater, and not Nixon or Rockefeller or Dirksen or Morton or Percy, is the Republican philosopher. Goldwater, and all Republicans who know their own minds, say "Yes!" to such propositions as these:

That there are too many promises in the platform. Does it matter, since so few of them are honored? Well, Goldwater points out that kept promises, even more than broken ones, have burdened the nation with its endless obligations and debts. It's better to make no promises at all.

That there are too many laws. Goldwater's aim, as President or party leader, would be to repeal legislation by the cart-load. He would never add a new law because it was "needed," but only if it were also permissible as a federal responsibility under the Constitution.

That freedom is more important than welfare, limitation of power is more important than its extension, "streamlining" of the federal apparatus is futile until its reduction in size has been accomplished, the federal responsibilities, such as collecting certain taxes, coining the money, maintaining a national defense, are defined in the Constitution and should be strictly confined to these areas.

But only one party can win in November. The losing candidate will fade, as Dewey and Stevenson have faded—but the rejected philosophy will go into retirement and await the judgment of another day. This is as it should be. Ideas, after all, live longer than men.

Joan Smith Is Bride Of Wilbur Tucker Tuesday

Double ring vows were repeated by Joan Smith and Wilbur Leo Tucker Tuesday evening in the First Christian Church before the Rev. John Black, pastor of the church.

The bride is the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. James P. Smith, 1702 Alabama. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. V. R. McDaniels of Coahoma and the late Mr. J. W. Tucker.

Large palms and tapers in candleabra were combined with baskets of white gladioli as an altar setting for the nuptials.

Wedding selections, played by Mrs. Thomas Lane, organist, included "Whither Thou Goest" and "Always."

The bride's father gave her in marriage. Her gown of re-embroidered lace and silk mist taffeta was designed with a portrait neckline, highlighted with sequins and seed pearls. Long sleeves tapered to points over the hands, and scallops marked the extended waistline. A full taffeta skirt swept into a chapel train.

The bridal veil of French silk illusion was held in place by a miniature crown of tiny lilacs and orange blossoms. On a white Bible, the bride carried a white Japette orchid in a nest of Frenched carnations, showered with potted ribbon.

In line with tradition, she wore a blue garter, old, and presented to her by Mrs. Asa Adair; she had borrowed a handkerchief from Melinda Ray, who served as one of the bridesmaids, and her wedding attire was named as something new.

Donna Dement was maid of honor; Miss Ray, along with Suzanne Smith, a sister of the bride, attended as bridesmaid. Miss Dement, in a frock of orchid-organza and wearing a petal hat with circular veil, carried a nosegay of carnations. Bridesmaids were dressed identically in dresses of pink organza with petal hats and veils. They, too, carried carnation nosegays.

B. S. Hubbard Jr. attended as the bridegroom's best man; ushering was done by Tommy Hubbard and Kenneth Pitzer, who also lighted the tapers.

The bride's sister, Patricia Smith, was flower girl. Her orchid dress was full-skirted with a large bow in the back; this was repeated in the smaller bow used as her headpiece. She carried a basket of rose petals.

Assisting the couple in receiving guests at the reception were their parents and attendants.

Mrs. James Cadzo was at the bride's book; others serving in the house party were Mrs. Adair and Mrs. George E. Ray.

A net cloth with two tiers of ruffles covered the satin cloth on the table which held a cake in pink. Based in a net ruffle, the three-tiered cake was decorated with pink confection flowers on the sides and top.

For a trip to Colorado, the bride donned a dress of light blue dacron; flowers were embroidered on the full skirt and bodice, and her accessories were white. Her corsage was the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Upon the return from Colorado, the couple will be at home at 904 Nolan, Apt. C.

The bride, a graduate of Big Spring High School, was a member of the Shortland Club, the choir, the pep squad and Tri-Hi-Y. Her husband attended BSHS and is now employed by Burleson's Machine and Welding Shop.

Members of the bridal party gathered for refreshments in the Smith home Monday evening preceding the rehearsal. Gifts were presented to his attendants by the bridegroom; the bride had previously given her attendants their petal hats which they wore in the wedding.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Brines of Arvada, Colo., grandparents of the bride.

Six members of the Fisher Circle of Baptist Temple put their theme of community missions to work by visiting the Jenkins Rest Home Tuesday.

The women sang requested songs for the elderly people. A devotion was given by Mrs. Robert Hill, who spoke on the theme of love, stressing the thought "God loved us and sent his son Jesus." The session was closed with prayer.

It's Same Old Story—Designer Vs. Figures

By NADEANE WALKER
PARIS (AP)—Designer Yves Saint Laurent of Dior dropped a fashion bomb today by chopping skirts off short enough to show the kneecap and dropping the waistline nearly to the bottom of the hips.

Busts were flattened and waists swallowed up.
The line was basically a sack, or chemise, with a low-slung bag tacked on at the bottom.

Jackets, too, were dropped drastically to the bottom of the hip, where gathered-on melon skirts took over. Skirts were moderately tucked in at the hem, which usually hit mid-knee level.

Saint Laurent did not baptize his new shape with a name, but it looked a bit like a bomb or elongated melon. It always hung on a long, slack midgy top.

The flapper era influence is strong, but to complicate matters there is an African theme in hats shaped like native huts or ant-hills, and barbaric costume jewelry. Colors are dark for day—brown, black, prune and steel gray; with gold and silver lames, beading and bright shades for evening.

A folksy or down-to-earth touch comes in with knit toboggan caps topped with a wool pom-pom. That they are teamed up with mink and sable does not seem to matter. Several luxurious fur coats have rib-knit sleeves and the knit turtle neck, rolled over into almost a horse collar.

For cocktail and evening there are outright sacks—whatever they may choose to call them this time—and floor-length tents, sometimes dragging yards of mink hem along the floor.

Fidel Offers Revolution As Latin Example

LAS MERCEDES, Cuba (AP)—An ailing Fidel Castro offered his revolution as an example to other Latin American countries Tuesday and repeated charges of U.S. aggression against his government.

Obviously not fully recovered from his bout with pneumonia, the Prime Minister looked drawn and haggard as he hoarsely harangued the crowd. He spoke for two hours and 15 minutes and in the end practically stumbled into the arms of his followers behind him.

Instead of a predicted half million, about 300,000 Cubans struggled through rain, heat and muddy roads to celebrate the seventh anniversary of Castro's revolutionary movement in its birthplace, the Sierra Maestra mountains of eastern Cuba.

Accusing the United States once again of aggression against his regime, Castro said "the principal reason for aggression against our country is to prevent our being an example" to the rest of Latin America.

"We will continue making our fatherland an example that will convert the Andes range into the Sierra Maestra of the continent," he declared.

The Cuban leader also repeated his charge that the proposed new U.S. aid program for Latin America is a bribe to whip up opposition to him.

Wild West For Lyndon

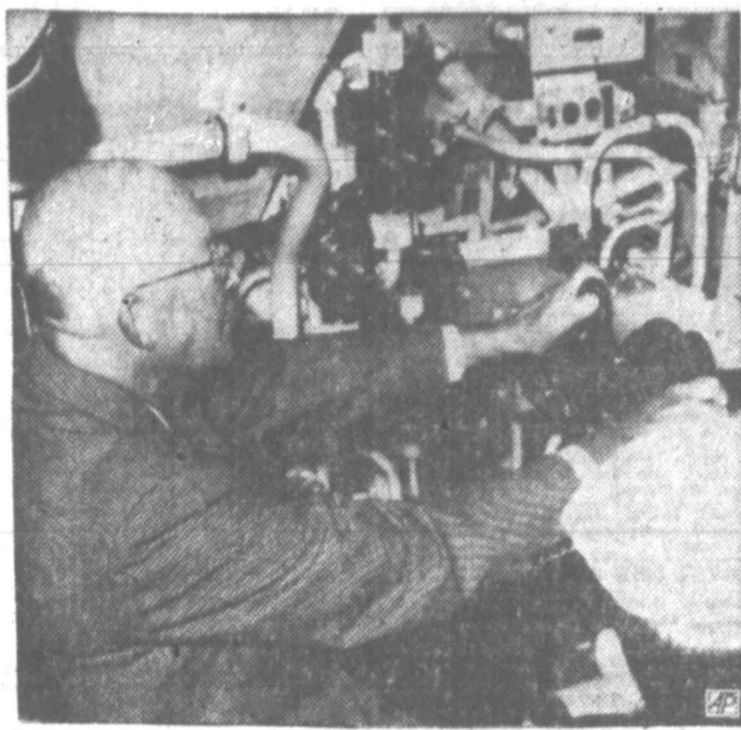

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) posed with Indians, straddled a horse, rode a stagecoach, waved to the crowd and acted like the political candidate he is at the Cheyenne Frontier Days rodeo Thursday.

He is the Democratic nominee for vice president.

Johnson flew back to his Texas ranch last night after promising a "new frontier" if the Democrats win in November.

In an interview he said the Republican party is splintered "with Rocky (New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller) going one direction, (Arizona Sen. Barry) Goldwater going the other direction and (Vice President Richard) Nixon doesn't know where he's going."

Johnson rode with Colorado Gov. Steve McNichols in a stagecoach during the Frontier Days parade. He had luncheon with Wyoming Gov. Joe Hickey.

At The Controls

After the tour he boarded the presidential yacht Barbara Anne and witnessed the firing of a dummy Polaris missile from the sub at the Newport, R.I., base.

Blind Bataan Vet, State Senator Win Vote Runoffs

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A nearly blind veteran of Bataan and a state senator from Tulsa scored victories in Oklahoma's lackluster primary runoff election Tuesday.

Herz Bussey, 37, a county attorney, won a 6-year term on the State Court of Criminal Appeals, beating presiding Judge John Powell almost 7 to 5.

Bussey, a prisoner of the Japanese for four years, lost part of his vision to shrapnel and part to malnutrition. He led Powell in the first primary July 5 and has no Republican opposition.

In the race for the Democratic First District congressional nomination State Sen. Yates Land apparently beat Wesley Disney. Both are from Tulsa. Unofficial counts showed Land won 13,348 to 12,672.

Land meets Rep. Page Belcher, Oklahoma's lone Republican congressman, in November.

In the only statewide race-veteran politician Wilburn Cartwright won re-nomination to a 6-year term on the State Corporation Commission, whipping State Supreme Court Clerk Andy Payne by almost 25,000 votes.

Supreme Court Justice Harry Halley won another 6-year term by defeating District Judge Leslie Webb. Both are from Tulsa.

One of the state questions, approved by more than 24,000 votes, authorizes a $10 million dollar bond issue to set up a revolving loan fund to make loans to new industries in Oklahoma.

The other, which trailed until the last big city precincts came in, approves county elections on raising additional taxes for libraries. It won by less than 1,000 votes.

City To Extend Liquor-Sale Zone

Areas where alcoholic beverages can be sold will be extended on both 3rd and 4th streets east and west, and city control over sales will be maintained with a revised liquor ordinance.

City commissioners agreed Tuesday night to extend the limits of sales from present confines to the city limits on the west end of U. S. 80 and to Birdwell Lane on the east highway.

Control will be taken out of the present zoning ordinance, in line with Marvin Springer's suggestion that zoning control is difficult, and worked into the revised ordinance.

Springer is the city's master plan consultant.

Ike Lauds Defense, Economy Records

CHICAGO (AP)—President Eisenhower says it is "irrefutable truth" that the nation is enjoying unprecedented prosperity, has the strongest military system in the world and is working ceaselessly for peace.

He gave this assessment of his years of stewardship in the White House to an enthusiastic "Thank You Ike Day" session of the GOP National Convention Tuesday night.

Especially in the fields of national defense and economic growth, Eisenhower strongly defended his administration's record. At many points his speech struck at the Democrats, but he could as well have been speaking of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller when he said:

"Just as the Biblical Job had his boils, so we have a cult of professional pessimists who, taking counsel of their fears, coftly mouth the allegation that America has become a second-rate military power."

Rockefeller has criticized several phases of administration activity. Eisenhower, who is nearing 70, received a warm "we like Ike" reception from the GOP delegates, whose party rode to power with him nearly eight years ago after two decades of being on the outside.

The President, as he has before, came up with a dramatic challenge to the dictator in the Kremlin.

Would the Soviet dictator, Eisenhower asked, "agree to holding of free elections under the sponsorship of the United Nations—to permit people everywhere—in every nation and on every continent, to vote on one single, simple issue?"

"That issue is: Do you want to live under a Communist regime or under a free system such as found in the United States?"

"Are the Soviets willing to measure their world prestige by the results of such elections?"

"The United States would gladly do so."

The President listed a string of achievements on the domestic front, defended the administration's conduct on foreign affairs, and said "there are more Americans today employed, at higher wages and with more take-home pay than ever before in our history."

Speaking of gross national product—the sum of all the goods and services produced in the nation—Eisenhower said "we are fed a great deal of information—and much more of misinformation."

"The interesting fact is that in these past seven and a half years the annual gross national product has increased by one hundred billion dollars—or 25 per cent."

"During the almost eight-year duration of the prior, Democratic administration, the gross national product actually declined in every single peacetime year, save one."

Eisenhower defended his long struggle against inflation, which critics have said has blinded him to more pressing problems.

"In the face of all the efforts of the reckless spenders to thwart the administration, a budgetary surplus has been achieved, fiscal responsibility maintained, and confidence restored," he said.

In the military field, Eisenhower said when he came to office his administration had to start almost from scratch in the field of ballistic missiles, and in his term has developed a varied arsenal of these powerful new weapons.

City Borrows Interim Funds

The City Commission Tuesday approved borrowing $50,000 from the First National Bank to operate the city through the summer. The temporary financing is in the form of a loan, pending tax paying time to be repaid not later than 120 days. Interest is at the rate of 1.75 per cent per annum.

The release of $12,000 in United States Treasury bills held in escrow by the First National Bank here was authorized by the commission.

The bills mature Aug. 1 and the bank must be authorized by the city to release them and buy other securities.

Final readings of ordinances re-zoning the Robb and Little properties from residential to commercial were approved and the third reading of the ordinance annexing 100 acres of the Kentwood Addition was okayed by the commission.

Research Due On Screw Worm

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reports that new research on the screw worm, a serious livestock pest in the Southwest, will begin soon at Kerrville, Tex. The research will be financed by a $200,000 appropriation recently voted by Congress.

The new research will be conducted by entomologists of the department's agricultural research service.

Oil Expert Dies

AUSTIN (AP)—Services were held today for John Raush, 53, who died Tuesday after a long illness. He was recognized as one of Texas' foremost experts in oil and gas litigation.

Council Approves Additional Paving

Several more streets signed up for the assessment paving program were approved Tuesday evening by the City Commission to bring the total amount of paving ready for the contractors to over $100,000.

The property owners' share of the bill is about $63,000 to date, with the city picking up the tab for about $41,000. Contractors H. G. Counts and W. D. Caldwell have fixed Aug. 1 as the target date for beginning paving.

The commissioners agreed to participate in paving Ryan between Pennsylvania and Lancaster north of the Veterans Administration Hospital.

The federal agency cannot participate in the assessment paving program and property owners on the north side of the street having indicated a desire for paving of the two long blocks.

CITY TO AID
The city will participate if 100 per cent of the property owners sign requesting paving. The city will save about $1,675 of the paving bill by not installing curb and gutter on the VA Hospital side of the street.

A lot west of Boydston school at 6th St. was accepted by the city commissioners as payment for the $776 paving assessment against the lot. The city will also assume $6 in tax assessments.

The lot is used by city for a drainage ditch and retention dam making the lot unsuitable for any time building. It is a part of the Dora Roberts Estate.

The drainage ditch also runs through a lot just across the street and the city commissioners agreed to pick up one-half the paving assessment on the property.

REQUEST DENIED
The ditch makes it impossible for O. F. Priest Jr., who owns the lot, to utilize more than one-half the land, commissioners agreed.

Parker Construction Co.'s request for additional payment for paving done in the Coronado Hills subdivision was turned down by the commissioners on the grounds that extra paving was done by the company without consulting the commission.

The city early in the year agreed to pay the Odessa firm not more than $1,700 for triple penetration paving. The bill for that type surface came to $1,698.30. The company, however, used a hot mix paving without consulting the commission and the bill was $2,075.70.

The commissioners agreed to pay the originally set price, but no more.

Urban Renewal Project Warming For Stanton

STANTON (SC)—The urban renewal proposal that has blown hot and cold in Stanton for several years is warming up again, according to M. H. White, city secretary.

Recently the local executive director, Floyd Smith, was in Fort Worth helping complete details for signing a third part contract, which in common language means getting things lined up with an engineer in Midland.

White says one local proposal is to enlarge Area II to include the south part of town. The city has several tentative plans for this section of town, particularly in solving the drainage problem. After heavy rains, water fills the lake and often backs up under the railroad to the highway.

The city owns two blocks in this area, according to White, and is thinking of an excavating project so the lake would hold more water, or make it feasible to pump the water elsewhere.

The Area Number I, which has the first priority, includes part of the northern section of town. The work would include some paving and also some sort of drainage work to prevent so much erosion during hard rains. White says the streets were washed badly after a recent rain.

The fulfillment of these needs may be a year or so away, because city doesn't have the money to carry out its part of the agreement, even if the government does indicate a desire to start work.

"After details are worked out and a starting date is set, then we could perhaps vote a bond issue," said White. "The earliest possible date for actual construction will probably be next summer."

Summer Pre-School Band Clinic Signup Due Aug. 1

Junior high school band directors, Tommy Fry and Jimmy Yancey, are rounding up prospective band members this summer in an attempt to give their school music program a more solid footing.

One of their aims is to provide basic training for Doug Wiebe's championship high school band.

"Did you know," observed Yancey, "that the Big Spring bands won over 100 first division awards in solo and ensemble competition last year?"

The Rannels director further enthused that the bands won six out of eight of the interscholastic League contests; and the high school group won high honors in the Enid, Okla., regional festival.

It was at the Enid contest that a judge, famed bandmaster Richard Franko Goldman, called the Big Spring group "one of the finest high school bands I've heard this year."

Yancey urged all parents to consider the advantages of band training for their children, beginning at junior high level, and pointed out the honor of being a member of a winning team.

Fry and Yancey will begin a summer pre-school band clinic Aug. 1 with enrollment of new students. Parents may contact band masters at either of the two junior high schools. All students who will be in junior high school this fall are eligible.

Dulles To Give Data To Lyndon

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—Allen Dulles, head of the Central Intelligence Agency, arrives today to give Sen. Lyndon Johnson his first briefing on security matters as the Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

Dulles will arrive by plane around 6:30 p.m. He will talk with the senator tonight.

Dulles will return to Washington Thursday morning. The CIA director has talked already with Sen. John Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee.

Johnson returned Tuesday night after a flying trip to Denver and Cheyenne, Wyo.

Johnson rode in one of the West's most colorful parades Tuesday at Cheyenne, a cowboy hat on his head and a batch of yellow roses in his hand.

Johnson had no formal speeches scheduled in either Denver or Cheyenne. After boarding the special train at Denver, he made his way from car to car to shake hands with nearly every one of the 1,000 persons aboard.

"The Eyes of Texas" broke from a Negro jazz band as he entered one car.

Stamps In The News

By SYD KRONISH
AP Newsfeatures
Last week's column discussed Australia's new stamp honoring the Golden Jubilee of the Girl Guides Movement scheduled for issuance on Aug. 18. Now U.S. postal authorities have announced a new 4-cent commemorative stamp marking the Golden Jubilee of the Camp Fire Girls. It is due to be issued Nov. 1.
The new commemorative will feature the insignia of the Camp Fire Girls and will be released in New York to coincide with their Golden Jubilee Convention celebration.
The Camp Fire Girls movement was launched in 1910 by Dr. and Mrs. Luther Halsey Gulick. The stamp design is highlighted by the insignia—crossed logs with flame inside a triangle. The dates 1910-1960 also appear prominently.
Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the stamp may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, New York 1, N.Y. Collectors should bear in mind that this is a vertical stamp and covers should be addressed as far to the left as possible. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers 4-Cent Camp Fire Girls Stamp."
Denmark has issued a new 60-ore blue stamp to honor the 10th meeting of the regional committee for Europe of the World Health Organization. The design of the stamp will feature a mother feeding a baby. Also issued by Denmark was a new 30-ore red stamp honoring the centenary of the birth of Niels R. Finsen, reports the Danish Postal Philatelic Agency.

Nicaragua pays tribute to the 10th anniversary of the San Jose (Costa Rica) Philatelic Society by overprinting a three-value set of airmails. The overprint reads: "X ANIVERSARIO CLUB PHILATELICO-S.J.-C.R."

Israel plans to issue a new set of three stamps commemorating the High Holy Days. These 1960 stamps depict glorious chapters of Jewish Biblical history. The 7-agarot shows King Saul, the first King of Israel, in battle array. The 25-agarot illustrates King David playing the harp. The 40-agarot portrays King Solomon holding the scales of justice.

Great Britain has issued a two-value set to mark the tercentenary of Charles II's act establishing the General Post Office. The 3-pence stamp shows a portrait of Queen Elizabeth and a post boy on horseback. The 1 shilling 3 pence vertical stamp depicts a portrait of the Queen above oak leaves and acorns surrounding a crown and a 1660 post horn. The dates 1660 and 1960 appear flanking the Queen's portrait.

Lack Of Fight Hurts Video's Political Rating
By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Notes of a TV convention watcher—
The Republicans brought up their No. 1 star Tuesday night with President Eisenhower dealing the nominating convention a speech that set the partisan pot boiling.
Until the President took stage center, there was little to keep the home viewer glued to the set. It had been an interesting but not particularly vital show. The networks did what they could to stir excitement over the civil rights plank of the platform, the liberal-conservative positions and the vice-presidential choice.
But, as with the Democratic meet, the inevitability of the presidential nomination robbed the convention of its drama and may be the reason for mediocre TV ratings. Americans love a good fight, but respond coolly to political rites.
The President got the complete attention of the TV cameras, of course. Not many other speakers did. Rep. Charles Halleck made the screen with his speech, but Rep. William Miller was shut out.
United Nations Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge got the all-time best exposure of any vice-presidential possibility. His castigation of the Soviets in the Security Council was featured amidst the convention coverage.
Beatniks are taking a beating at Chicago. Herbert Hoover gave them a rap Monday night, and Halleck assailed a beatnik economy Tuesday night.
Sen. Everett Dirksen wins the nod for the best non-prompted speaker since Democratic keynoter Frank Church. Like Church, Dirksen spoke fluently without a glance at notes.
Mark Hatfield, who nominates Richard Nixon for president tonight, is the Republicans' answer to the handsome juveniles of the opposition. In an interview with CBS' Charles Collingwood, the Oregon governor looked as handsome as a TV gunslinger.
ABC seems to be the most steadfast with sticking to the speakers on the podium through thick and thin. CBS is next. NBC appears to wander the most.
Recommended: A course in crowd estimation for TV reporters. A CBS man gussed the Nixon reception at the Chicago airport at 1,200-1,500. The NBC man figured 5,000-6,000.
Too much talk is beginning to show on some of the TV commentators. Edward R. Murrow admitted referring to the Republican toppers as "Noxon and Ricketteller."
