Oil For Goliad

The city's mammoth program to put at least an oil surface on certain unpaved streets got under way today. The first street oiled was Goliad between 18th and FM 700, shown here with one lane already surfaced by the street crew. This section of Goliad is one of 30 to 75 blocks throughout the city slated for the single shot oil treatment. An asphalt stabilization program for an additional 50 blocks also has been outlined, according to Bruce Dunn, director of public works. The oil and asphalt surfacing is to lessen upkeep on those streets which are now the city's biggest maintenance problems, Dunn said. In addition to easing maintenance, in both time and money, the surface will do away with the need for sprinkling the dirt streets with water to hold down the dust. An oil treatment twice a year is being eyed for the future. The program now in progress is expected to continue through August.

Houston School Integration Called

Judge Orders Grade-A-Year Plan Used

HOUSTON (AP)—Federal Judge Ben Connally today ordered that the nation's largest segregated school system begin a grade-a-year desegregation plan in September.

Connally rejected as a "sham and subterfuge" a school board plan of desegregating only three of the 170 schools within the 170,000-student school district.

Today's order calls for desegregation of the first grade next month, the addition of the second grade in 1961, and the addition of one grade each year until complete desegregation is attained in 1972.

The school board had proposed that one high school, one junior, and one elementary school be desegregated. At the same time a 5-1 board majority pledged that no student, white or colored, would be required to attend a desegregated school. Mrs. Charles White, first Negro ever to be elected to the board, opposed the plan.

Connally's order resulted from a 1956 suit filed by the parents of two Negro girls, Delores Ross and Beneva Delois Williams.

The judge ordered that "beginning with the first grade, each student may—at his option, attend any former all white or all Negro school within the geographical boundaries in which he may reside."

He further ordered that the plan shall be extended to the first and second grades in September, 1961, and progress one grade higher each year until complete desegregation is accomplished in 1972.

However, he added that "Nothing in this order shall be construed to prevent transfer of a student, at his request, or pursuant to reasonable transfer rules of school authorities, provided only that race or color concerned shall not be a consideration."

Connally sharply criticized the board for its plan of desegregation, stating that it does not constitute compliance with his court order.

"It does not constitute a good faith attempt at compliance, but is a palpable sham and subterfuge designed only to accomplish further evasion and delay."

School board attorney Joe Reynolds was reported by his office to be in Colorado on vacation, and unavailable for comment.

The board's plan, approved in May by a 5 to 1 margin of the board, proposed voluntary desegregation in three schools in the same area.

School Supt. John McFarland was to have chosen the area. In a June 4 referendum, voters turned down integration by a margin of 2 to 1. The school board had called the referendum "to comply with state law."

WTPA Begins Annual Meet

The annual meeting of the West Texas Press Association will get under way in Pecos this evening.

Among the speakers will be Dr. James H. Jauncey, pastor of the First Christian Church in El Paso; Dr. Alan Maxwell, Fort Davis, director of the radio astronomy station of Harvard College; Bill Colbert, advertising director of the Carlsbad Current-Argus; J. Carter King, Albany, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce; and Dr. C. L. Kay, president of Lubbock Christian College.

Among area newspapermen participating on the program are Jimmy Allison, Midland, program chairman, Joe Bell, who will preside at one of the luncheons; Joe Pickle, Big Spring, chairman of the scholarship committee; Fred Barbee, Seminole, chairman of the seminar committee; Francis Perry, Ballinger, is president of the WTPA.

July Rates Third In Dawson Rain

LAMESA—In addition to being timely, rainfall in the Lamesa area during July jumped into the ranks of the all-time high marks with gauges recording 5.87 inches.

The rainfall was the third highest July reading in the past 50 years and well above the two-inch average for the month. Other high recordings were made in 1955 when July rainfall measured 7.53 inches and in 1945 at 6.19 inches.

Total annual average rainfall over the past 50 years is 17.24 inches.

CRUMPLED FRONT END TELLS OF FATAL IMPACT. Officers check wreck which claimed life of youth

Youth Dies, Another Hurt In Local Crash

Jimmy Don Engle, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Engle, 1005 Howell, was instantly killed at 2:15 a.m. today when the car he was driving crashed head-on into a bridge abutment.

The crash occurred 27 miles northeast of Big Spring on the Snyder highway.

Gary Don Graham, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Graham, 2410 Alabama, is in the Howard County Foundation Hospital gravely injured. He was a passenger in the car. His left leg is broken in two places and he is extensively bruised and cut. Despite the seriousness of his injuries, he was reported to be making satisfactory progress at the hospital today.

It is believed that Graham was in the rear seat of the Engle car, possibly asleep at the time of the crash.

The two youths were en route home from Post where they had gone to compete in the junior rodeo. Both are regular competitors in the junior rodeo contests.

Engle, according to Highway Patrolman Arvin Henry, was driving a 1960 Chevrolet sedan. The vehicle plowed head-on into the abutment with such force that the front wheels were driven deep under the chassis. Jimmy was so trapped behind the steering wheel that rescue workers had to pry the wreckage apart to release his body.

Walter Grice, justice of the peace, acting as coroner ruled death by accident. The body was removed to Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home. A Nalley-Pickle ambulance took Graham to the hospital.

Both boys are active in 4-H Club affairs and Jimmy was a director of the Howard County 4-H Club rodeo association. His brother, Charles, is one of the outstanding rodeo performers on the junior circuit.

Funeral services for the boy will be at 5 p.m. Friday at the East 4th Street Baptist Church with the Rev. Jack Strickland officiating.

He will be assisted by the Rev. Maple Avery, of Abilene. Burial is to be in the City Cemetery with Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

His death is the sixth rural road fatality of the year for Howard County and the seventh motor car death for 1960. One death this year occurred in the city limits. The most recent fatality was Mrs. Nena May Smith, 44, who was killed on May 8, on East U. S. 80.

Young Engle, who was born here March 19, 1943, would have been a member of the senior class in the Big Spring High School this year. In addition to his work in the 4-H clubs, of which he was current county vice president, he has been in FFA work for five years. He was a member of the East Fourth Street Baptist Church.

He is survived by his parents, one brother, Charles; three sisters, Judy, Susie and Cindy; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Engle, and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Johnson, all of Big Spring.

Young Graham is a senior in the Big Spring High School. He has one sister, Jan. Highway Patrolmen Henry and Jack White made the investigation of the accident.

Rights Panel Orders A Hearing On Voting Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Civil Rights Commission today ordered a hearing in Louisiana Sept. 27 and 28 on complaints by Negroes that they have been denied voting rights.

A spokesman said the complaints run into the dozens and involve at least 13 parishes. He declined to name the parishes from which the complaints have been received saying that to do so would hamper the investigative work.

The commission originally scheduled a hearing into complaints from Louisiana for Shreveport July 13, 1959, but this was called off when a federal court enjoined the commission from proceeding with that action. A location for the hearing ordered today has not been chosen.

In the earlier case, the Louisiana attorney general, acting on behalf of a group of voting registrars, raised the constitutional question whether the commission had authority to set up rules of procedure which did not provide an opportunity for a person being investigated to confront the witnesses and conduct cross-examination.

The commission then suspended activities which might have involved public hearings pending a Supreme Court decision.

The Supreme Court on June 29 ruled that the commission had authority to set up the rules. The court also said the 1960 civil rights law contained provisions to clarify the commission's authority.

Prominent Texas Democrats Line Up Behind Sen. Johnson

BLANCO, Tex. (AP)—Prominent Texas Democratic leaders who sometimes have been at odds with each other lined up Wednesday night in apparent agreement behind Sen. Lyndon Johnson.

"The Democratic vice presidential nominee had complimentary words to say for one and all at the barbecue supper in Blanco State Park."

"The type of man that men look to in perilous times," Sen. Ralph Yarborough said of Johnson. "I appreciate your cancelling other speaking dates so you could be with me tonight," Johnson told Yarborough. He also gave the Austin senator credit for helping start the Lower Colorado River Authority.

"We have a good ticket in reverse," said Gov. Price Daniel. "We would have a stronger one if Lyndon Johnson were running for president."

Daniel explained statements he made in Los Angeles that he would support the Democratic nominees but not the platform.

"There are parts of that platform that I'll oppose when it gets up in Congress, not in November," Daniel said. "I'll oppose it in the proper place."

"No one has done more to help me this year than he has," Johnson said of Daniel. National committeeman Byron Skelton and state Democratic chairman J. E. Connally did not speak but Johnson paid them compliments also.

"Here's a national committeeman with a candidate for the presidential nomination who never made a single mistake," Johnson said of Skelton.

"He probably raised the money to send us to Los Angeles and I know he raised the money to get us back," he said of Connally.

Johnson added that he considered U.S. Rep. Homer Thornberry of Austin one of his closest personal friends. "If I could pick another brother I'd pick Homer Thornberry," Johnson said. "He's the only congressman from this district that I would ever admit made a better congressman than I did."

All of the state leaders took part in a closed political workshop session at Johnson's LBJ Ranch before the supper. Some said he praised them for their work in the Johnson-for-President campaign and asked for even more effort in behalf of the Kennedy-Johnson ticket.

Bunche Rushes To Katanga; U. N. Promises No Violence

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold rushed his chief troubleshooter to Katanga today after giving assurance that U. N. forces will not try to enforce the central Congo government's claim on the rich secessionist province.

Dr. Ralph J. Bunche flew to Elizabethville, the Katanga capital, a day ahead of schedule after Katanga Premier Moise Tshombe warned U. N. forces "will have to fight their way in" to his province.

The U. N. Command went ahead with plans to send its first units to Katanga Saturday despite Tshombe's threat. A special multilateral task force was alerted to stand by for the move.

Privately U. N. officials said they expected no serious resistance in the mineral-rich province, whose secession would spell economic doom for the rest of the vast central African country.

The Katanga government ordered general mobilization of all able-bodied men in the province, both black and white, to back up the hard core of 300 loyal Congolese troops serving under Belgian officers.

Hammarskjold sought to soften the defiance of the Katanga leaders by emphasizing the U. N. troops were not acting as agents for the central government of Premier Patrice Lumumba.

He said in a statement that the U. N. force is not under the orders of the Lumumba government nor can it be permitted to become a party to any internal conflict.

The fear he sought to put at rest was stated by Katanga Interior Minister Godefroid Munongo, who said, "We know only too well that the U. N. forces would bring in their baggage the agents of Lumumba."

Tshombe, in declaring Katanga independent of the central government soon after the Congolese army mutinied last month, charged that Lumumba was planning to set up a Communist dictatorship. The provincial premier and other Katanga leaders want the Congo's provinces joined in a loose federation, with their province retaining much of the revenue from its rich uranium and copper mines and its fertile fields and pastures. Lumumba wants a strong central government and looks to Katanga to finance the poorer remainder of the country.

Although the Belgian cabinet agreed Tuesday that Belgian troops in Katanga would turn over their peace-keeping mission to the U. N. forces, Premier Gaston Eyskens said in Brussels Wednesday night their departure would not be immediate.

Belgian Foreign Minister Pierre Wigny told a news conference the Belgian forces, who have been keeping order at the request of Tshombe's government, would leave only when the Belgian command "decides that the security of persons there is assured."

The Soviets, who charged Wednesday in Pravda that Hammarskjold was acting in the Congo as a pro-American agent, said Wednesday night the decision to send U. N. troops into Katanga struck a blow at those who hoped to "ignore" Security Council decisions.

Big Chunk Of Road Deeded

Easement deeds covering slightly more than 35 miles of U. S. 27 north were received by the Howard County Commissioners Court Thursday morning.

The deeds have been on a long circuit getting the approval of the numerous heirs to the Slaughter estate, which has property involved in the deal. The county and state will pay the Slaughter heirs approximately $2,000 for the right-of-way acquired.

One other sizeable tract on which agreement has been reached is still making its rounds of lawyers' offices. This is the property owned by Horace Garrett.

Ed Carpenter, county judge, said that the county is near the end of the task of getting needed land for the improvement of U. S. 27 north, from Fairview to the Martin County line. One or two property owners have not as yet agreed to terms with the commissioners and condemnation proceedings will probably have to be initiated in at least one of these.

So That's What We Were Up To 20 Years Ago?

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP)—Kids' tree houses are "dens of gambling, drinking, smoking and pornographic magazines," says Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, "I want them torn down."

Mountanos said his deputies have been looking in tree houses all over Marin County.

One, he said, was stocked with supplies stolen from a parochial school.

Another was constructed from stolen lumber. Others were built by youngsters who chopped down trees for material.

And in one, the sheriff said, were pictures of nude women, a wine bottle, beer cans, 33 packs of cigarettes, dice, cards and a list of gambling debts.

LAMESA—July water consumption decreased in Lamesa with 60,862,000 gallons tabulated for the city, according to W. E. Sealy, water superintendent.

The July usage total was 27,454,000 gallons of the record pace set in June and was mostly due to frequent and lengthy rain showers.

Cardinal Speaks Hopefully As Clerics Prepare Congress

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Frustrated Cardinal Koenig, archbishop of Vienna, said today the strength of the Roman Catholic Church—"the greatest international organization in the world"—has been too little used to bring the peoples of the world together.

He said he hopes the 37th world eucharistic congress, which is bringing hundreds of thousands of Catholics to this Bavarian city, will show how the strength of religion can be organized to bring more world cooperation.

"For many Catholic Christians from Latin America, Ireland and Spain this congress will probably give a different picture of the Catholic Church than they can get in their own countries. They will see several aspects of cooperation with the Protestant Church we have already achieved in Germany, so that probably this will bear fruit in their countries," he told a news conference.

Speaking of the Communist countries which are Austria's neighbors, he said: "The situation of the Church there is very difficult, but as always when the Church is persecuted there are some who hold strongly to the faith. The Church cannot be destroyed in those countries, and what we lose in quantity we gain in quality."

The Rev. Hans Hirschmann, a Jesuit from Frankfurt who sat at the cardinal's side, gave a number of examples of cooperation between Catholics and Protestants.

Many Protestant families in Munich have lodged Catholics taking part in the congress, as Catholic families lodged Protestants who came to a major meeting here last year. A German Catholic archbishop, Lorenz Jaeger, is the guest of the Lutheran bishop of Bavaria, Hermann Dietzelbinger.

Adopting Three At A Time

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Fornero pose outside a Los Angeles courtroom with the triplet boys who officially joined the Fornero family. Fornero, an electronics executive and his wife, both 45, left the court with tear-stained smiles after adoption of Richard, 14, Robert, center, and George was approved. The boys, age 2 1/2, have lived with the Forneros for more than a year, since their mother gave them up for adoption after her husband deserted her. The boys are the Fornero's only children in 25 years of married life.

Stamps In The News

GUISEPPE GARIBALDI, who unified Italy in the 19th Century, is honored on the 4-cent and 5-cent U. S. "Champion of Liberty" stamps which will be placed on first day sale at Washington, D. C. on Nov. 7.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, in announcing the new adhesive, said: "Garibaldi was a fighter for freedom not only in Europe, but also in Latin America; a born leader of men, and a patriot who unhesitatingly risked his life time and again for a united Italy in which he passionately believed."

The Garibaldi stamps were based on a photograph of a stamp design, a drawing of a medallion and a drawing of a ribbon, spray of leaves and torch.

The 4-cent value will be printed in the green of the Italian flag. The 5-cent will appear in red, blue and other.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations may send addressed envelopes to the Postmaster, Washington, D. C., with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed. Each envelope must be marked, in pencil, in the upper right corner indicating the denomination—denominations to be placed there.

The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be clearly marked "First Day Covers Garibaldi Stamps." Send prior to Nov. 7.

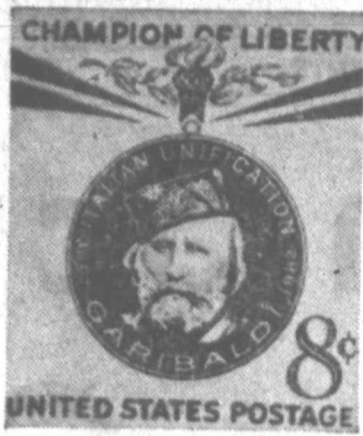

The new 4-cent Pony Express commemorative stamped envelope issued on July 19 in St. Joseph, Mo., is unique in that it has a new blue-lined lining which gives complete privacy to any message enclosed. The relative opacity of the paper has been increased from 89 per cent to approximately 95 per cent. Envelopes will be available at regular post offices in limited quantities as soon as production facilities permit.

The United Arab Republic has issued a new sports set of eight stamps. The 5-mill red shows a football (soccer) game, 5-mill olive green—rowing, 5-mill brown—basketball, 10-mill red—fencing, 10-mill grey—weight lifting, 30-mill violet—horseback riding, 35-mill

Storms Lash Wide Areas

Punishing storms drove deeper into the nation's midsection today, leaving at least two dead and seven injured and property damage in the thousands of dollars.

Sweeping out of the North Wednesday the line of squalls toppled trees and power lines, flooded streets and homes and smashed buildings and store windows in parts of Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana and Iowa.

Today, the Weather Bureau said locally severe thunderstorms with damaging winds and hail were still occurring over the middle Mississippi Valley and the Lower Great Lakes eastward into the Ohio Valley.

At Decatur, Mich., a construction worker was killed and three others were injured when 50 mile-an-hour winds blew down a half-built warehouse they were working on. What the Weather Bureau said may have been a small tornado demolished a Kalamazoo, Mich., greenhouse.

Winds were clocked up to 75 miles an hour at St. Joseph, Mich., and Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, but air-traffic at the latter continued uninterrupted.

One fisherman drowned off the Chicago lakefront when his boat overturned in the rising waters. In flood-besieged Tampa, Fla., the rain-swollen Hillsborough River crested Wednesday and officials said the worst was over.

Charged With DWI Second Offense

Elmer J. Strobel, 40, Fort Bliss, was charged with DWI second offense on Wednesday afternoon after being arrested by state highway patrol officers 13 miles east of Big Spring.

In addition to the DWI second offense complaint, the patrol lodged three misdemeanor complaints against the Fort Bliss man—speeding, passing on wrong side of road and faulty tail light. He was assessed a total of $88.50—fines and costs.

His three offenses in addition to this bond in the DWI case was set at $1,000. The misdemeanor fines had not been paid late Wednesday.

Robert Woolridge, who was returned from Colorado City, pleaded guilty in County Court to a charge of writing a worthless check. Judge Ed Carpenter sentenced him to serve 30 days in the Howard County jail.

Norstad Says Ground Forces In Europe High

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Western forces in Europe would be augmented by formidable reserve manpower if the Soviet Union were to attack Berlin, says U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty Forces.

He made the prediction after a conference with President Eisenhower at the summer White House Wested.

Norstad, who started back to his Paris headquarters immediately after his report to the President, said the NATO deterrent power is highly effective and—in his opinion—will become even more effective.

Norstad and Eisenhower conferred shortly after the summer White House had announced that Eisenhower will end his seaside vacation Sunday and fly back to Washington.

He will arrive in the capital the night before the Senate reconvenes. The House, which also recessed early last month for the political conventions, goes back to work Aug. 15.

During these last few days of a vacation which started July 7, the President is enjoying the company of his four grandchildren: They are David 12, Barbara Anne 11, Susan 8, and Mary Jean 4.

With their mother, Mrs. John Eisenhower, they arrived by plane from Washington Wednesday. They will return with the President and the First Lady Sunday.

Norstad declined to provide any detail regarding his conference with the President.

Newsmen asked him, however, about reports that the Soviet Union might make a military move against West Berlin.

He replied that he had no personal knowledge of any imminent Communist push—beyond what he had read in the newspapers. The U.S. government has said it knows of no basis for such reports.

Asked whether he is confident that NATO forces in Europe could handle any such Soviet attack, Norstad replied that "the forces in my bailiwick" are not the complete deterrent force in that area.

The general said the troops he commands are very significant in size and are becoming increasingly well equipped.

But he emphasized that in the event of any Soviet attack on Berlin, the Soviet Union would have to reckon with all the forces of the Western Alliance—and not just the NATO troops now stationed in Europe.

Reporter Finds Tricycle Set Unprepared For Citizenship

By KATHY SMALL
Elmira Star-Gazette Staff Writer
ELMIRA, N. Y. (AP)—The tricycle set is slightly confused about the national political situation.

This is proved by a survey conducted in pup tents, backyard wading pools and other likely spots. There was reward in trailing the ice cream man's cart.

Most of those interviewed had ready answers. A few seemed reluctant to commit themselves and asked for time to consult their friends. One young man answered every question with: "Gee, I know the answer to that but I forgot it."

"What do you think of the world situation?" was our first question. An eight-year-old gave it some sober thought. "I think it's round," he answered. Other answers included: "It's okay." "It's in outer space."

When asked to identify Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, the young people answered: "I think he's a wrestler." "He's a German spy." "He's a president who travels around the world." An eight-year-old said: "He's a 'communs' man."

Our next question: "What's politics?" got this answer from a six-year-old boy. "Is it some kind of sickness?"

"What is a mayor?" drew these opinions: "It's a bad dream," and "a horse." (A majority of those questioned knew positively that a mayor was a horse.)

"Who do you think will be the next president?" was answered: "Washington or President Eisenhower." "Kenneson." Ninety per cent favored George Washington, although some expressed doubt that Washington still was living.

"What's the Senate?" we asked and drew a blank from all but a six-year-old lover of jet planes. "It's a big loud noise!" he said. "I heard a senate boom one time when I was playing in my backyard."

"What's a convention?" was the next question. An eight-year-old girl said: "It's where they vote for two men to see who will be president." Other answers: "It's a kinda news report." "People with sign poles."

A 10-year-old interrupted at this point to tell us he saw a convention on television and it was just like his Cub Scout meeting because nobody would sit down and the leader kept telling them to be quiet and sit down or they couldn't have the meeting.

"What does the president do?" we asked. "He takes care of atom bombs and things like that." "He travels all over the world like the cops do to see if people are good."

"What's a caucus?" "It's a prickly plant that hurts if cowboys sit on them."

At this point, someone yelled: "I saw a lightning bug!" and off went the future voters, leaving us to mull over the results of our survey.

Bride-Elect Feted At Breakfast

Sheri Webber was honored Thursday at the Desert Sands Restaurant when women employees of The Herald gathered for an early morning breakfast.

Miss Webber of the Woman's Department, is to be married Aug. 19 to Louis Alexander in the First Assembly of God Church. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Webber of Santa Fe, N. M. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Hugh Whitaker of El Paso and the late Mr. Prentiss Alexander.

A gift certificate was presented to the honoree and a shower of trading stamps added merriment to the gathering. About 13 were present for the breakfast.

Elizabeth Daniel Is Workshop Member

DENTON — Elizabeth Daniel of Big Spring is among those attending the sixth annual Traveling English Workshop sponsored by Texas Woman's University this summer.

The workshop left Denton Aug. 2 for a tour of literary and historical shrines in the Northeastern and Central United States. Participants gathered on the TWU campus several days earlier for special reading and lectures in preparation for the tour. They will return to the campus Aug. 21. Tour members will visit Tennessee, Virginia, Washington, D.C., New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Stratford, Ont.

Miss Daniel, 618 Tulane, is chairman of the English Department at Howard County Junior College.

Shower In G-City Honors Mrs. Berry

GARDEN CITY — Mrs. Jack Berry was a recent honoree for a baby shower given in the home of Mrs. Harry Calverley. Greeting guests was Mrs. Clyde Berry, who presented the honored guest, her mother, Mrs. Luke Haggood of Junction, and her sister, Anna Beth.

About 35 attended the party for which the hostesses were Mrs. Calverley, Mrs. Glen Kingston, Mrs. W. E. Bednar and Mrs. Royce Pruitt.

SAN ANGELO (AP)—The Miss Wool of Texas pageant committee has set Sept. 2 as the date for finals in this year's contest to be held here. The deadline for entries is Aug. 10. The winner will represent Texas in the national Miss Wool pageant in 1961.

Combat Garden Insects With Spray And Poison

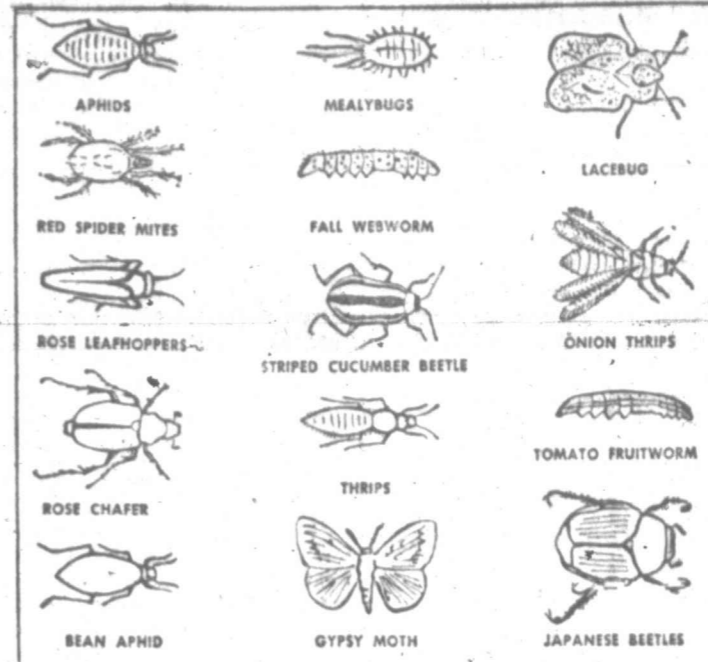

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Let's turn our attention today to the insect kingdom. While we're making you acquainted with some of the beasts (as though you didn't know most of them already through bitter experience), we'll tell you about some of their weaknesses.

APHIDS—These are soft-bodied insects about one-eighth of an inch long. They range from green, pink, red or brown in color and generally are found at tips of young shoots in clusters. They sap the plant vigor, curl or distort leaves and buds, cause malformations of flowers by sucking plant juices. Give them a dose of nicotine sulphate or Lindane.

RED SPIDER MITES—Generally these tiny insects are found on the under side of leaves. When they attack, foliage pales or turns brown. Red spots first appear on the upper sides of infested leaves, then the entire leaf reddens, curls and drops. Spray with 50 per cent Malathion and wash often with a strong stream of water.

ROSE LEAPHOPPERS—Slender and soft and about the size of aphids, these bugs are yellowish white. They cause leaves to whiten and curl. They kill tender plant tips by draining plant juices. Spray regularly with nicotine sulphate or Lindane, dousing both sides of the leaf.

Here are some of the insects against which you battle to save your gardens and lawns. Some are affected by spraying; others succumb to poisoned dust.

ROSE CHAFER—These hard-shelled beetles have long legs and are grayish-brown. They are one-quarter to one-half inch long and feed in clusters. Their favorite menu is flowers, especially peonies and iris. Rose leaf floral dust or DDT is the prescribed treatment.

THRIPS—Slender, hairy, yellowish-to-brownish pests that feed, discolor and deform flowers. For control, spray weekly with nicotine sulphate or DDT. Dispose of blooms that have reached their prime.

JAPANESE BEETLES—Oval-shaped, with metallic-green, shining bodies, they are about one-quarter inch wide and twice as long. Adults feed on foliage, and the larvae on roots. DDT will knock out the old folks and Chlordane the babies.

CATERPILLARS (fall webworm is one)—They feed heavily on foliage and wrap it in web-tents. They are hairy, grayish-brown with orange and black spots. Spray or dust with 50 per cent DDT wettable powder or Lindane.

LACEBUG—Flat, oval body with lace-like wings. They discolor foliage by sucking plant juices from the underside of foliage. Spray weekly with nicotine sulphate.

MEALYBUGS—Tiny, with a white, waxy covering, and generally congregating on the underside and along veins of leaves, and in the crevices and at the base of leaf stems. They stunt and distort leaves. Nicotine sulphate mixed with white-oil will beat them.

GYPSY MOTH—The male is brown with black markings and the females are nearly white with black wing markings. They defoliate plants. Spray with an oil solution of DDT.

Some unpopular vegetable garden invaders include: STRIPED CUCUMBER BEETLE—Yellow beetles with three black stripes over the wings. They are about one-fifth of an inch long and feed on stems, leaves and fruit. Dust them with 1 per cent DDT or malathion powder. ONION THRIPS—Yellow or brown, these tiny, fringed-wing insects suck plant juices. Malathion or nicotine sulphate is recommended.

TOMATO FRUITWORM—These are comparative giants, 1 1/2 inches long, ranging from green to brown or pink and striped, and ugly. They eat holes in fruit and buds. Dust with DDT.

BEAN APHID—Covered with whitish wax, they cluster on stems and undersides of leaves and suck. Spray with nicotine sulphate.

Birthday Party Is For Carla Nichols

At the party given for Carla Nichols on her sixth birthday anniversary, several little guests won prizes in the contests held Wednesday afternoon during the festivities.

Included in the winners were Debbie McDaniel, Kay Nichols, Bill Swafford and Farlan Pfeiffer.

Games were played by the group and favors were balloons, bubble gum and all-day suckers. A cake frosted in white was decorated with pink rosebuds; it was served with ice cream. About 21 were present.

Assisting Mrs. Wayne Nichols, mother of the honoree, were Mrs. L. C. Thornton, Mrs. B. J. McIntire, Mrs. G. C. Heffington, Mrs. Charlie Pfeiffer, Mrs. T. G. Swafford and Mrs. R. W. Nichols.

Tantrum Of Child May Be Just Safety Valve

By DOROTHY WHIPPLE, M.D.
AP Newsfeatures

The bell gongs through the street.

Laura looks up from her blocks. "Ice cream?" she says expectantly. She jumps up and runs to the door.

"No," says mother, "it's almost supper time, no ice cream this afternoon."

The tears well up in Laura's eyes.

"I want ice cream now."

"No, dearie, not today."

Laura stamps her foot.

"You're bad. You're a bad mommy. I hate you."

"I know it makes you feel mad at mommy. I know you would like the ice cream and it makes you angry when I must say no."

Life is full of frustrations for little folk. No one can grow up and have every single wish granted. Part of growing up is learning how to cope with frustration.

Frustration brings anger, bitterness, resentment. This is natural and normal. It is normal for a little child to be angry when he cannot have what he wants right now.

But so often we teach a little fellow to deny his anger, especially anger towards parents.

Parents have to stand as authority. Parents not only give love and comfort to a child, but they must also deny him or sometimes enforce what the child doesn't want. This is part of the job of parenthood.

But when a child shows his normal resentment against authority, often the parent is shocked and scolds the child. Before long the child learns it's safer to hold in the anger. When he does express it, he is made to feel guilty and bad for doing so and this in turn builds up more anger.

When anger is hidden inside, it accumulates. It grows bigger and bigger and may spill over into anger against all restraint, anger against all people.

It's healthier for the child to be helped to express anger and bitterness. Let him know you understand how he feels, that you don't blame him for feeling bitter that he cannot have ice cream.

If he gets his anger expressed, without being made to feel guilty about it, it's over and done with and doesn't build up inside to add fuel to the next frustration-anger episode.

A child who is able to express his normal anger is free to love. Stored up anger poisons love—expressed anger leaves love free to be felt and expressed too.

Understanding of feelings, but control of actions—this is a far healthier plan than denial of a natural normal emotion. Understanding and control will give Laura the security she needs to build up her own self control and not interfere with her ability to love.

Coahoma Woman Attends Seminar

DENTON — Mrs. Paul H. Allen of Coahoma is among those enrolled in a Home Economics Seminar on Wheels sponsored by Texas Woman's University.

The seminar met on the TWU campus July 24-25 and then left by bus for a tour of 17 states and a segment of Canada. Participants will visit points of interest to home economists, such as research centers, magazine offices, industrial plants and food service departments. They will return to Denton Aug. 24.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Eats Five Meals A Day And Stays Slim

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — I wandered onto the "Bat Masterson" set at NBC and watched Peggy Knudsen rehearse a scene, and I thought how little she had changed since Warner's brought her out from New York after her success in "My Sister Eileen."

When I told this to Peggy she said, "I used to live in New York with Jennifer Jones when we both were struggling to be recognized in the theater. And young as she was, Jennifer took very good care of herself. She was the original cream girl. She made me feel that the time to use creams was before you needed them. She told me never to go into the sun without first protecting my skin with cream and insisted that I should use cream after soap and water."

"Another thing Jennifer was careful about was food. I used to grab any old thing when I was hungry but she believed if your body was well nourished it would keep its shape. She was the first person I heard say that many weight problems come from not eating the right foods."

"I don't have to reduce," Peggy confided, "because I have never stretched my stomach. I keep my weight the same although I have five meals a day."

This was something I wanted to hear more about.

"Today for breakfast I had coffee and fresh apple juice. About eleven I had an egg with milk and honey. This is loaded with energy. My lunch was a bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwich on whole wheat toast and hot tea with milk and sugar."

"At four o'clock," Peggy said, "I shall have cottage cheese with fresh chopped cabbage and cucumbers. And tonight I am eating at home and have ordered a dinner of roast beef, hot artichokes, melon and coffee."

"What do you do when you eat out?" I asked.

"My menus vary but I am never tempted to overeat because it makes me most uncomfortable."

Texas Watermelons Make Best Buy List For This Weekend

By The Associated Press

Local supplies of cantaloupes, watermelons and tomatoes are still quite heavy this week, ranking these items among the best food buys at Texas fresh produce counters, the U.S. Agricultural Marketing Service reports.

Most watermelons are from North and Northeast Texas these days.

The supply of tomatoes is still abundant but the volume is expected to slack off by the end of the week. Shipments of California tomatoes are increasing to take up the slack.

The late crop of peaches—good-looking supplies of Elbertas from East Texas and Hale peaches from California—are newcomers to Texas produce markets this week.

Another new item is Montana cherries which arrived in limited volume. Colorado russet potatoes also reached Texas markets Tuesday.

Hyperion Board

Members of the Hyperion Council executive board will meet Friday morning at 10 o'clock in the home of Mrs. G. H. Wood, 1509 Runnels. Members are urged to attend as there will be a change made in the constitution for the purpose of setting the council's luncheon date.

Benefit Supper

A benefit salad supper will be served by members of the BPO Does preceding the bingo games Friday evening at the Elks Club. The public is invited to attend the supper, which will begin at 6:30 p.m. and remain for bingo.

LBJ Could Be President If 'Fate' Holds

By TEX EASLEY
WASHINGTON (AP)—Should the Democrats win the November election, Texas' Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson would become vice president facing this strange-as-fiction circumstance:

Since 1840, every president elected at each 20 year interval has died in office. And 1960 comes at that interval.

William Henry Harrison won the spectacular 1840 campaign which featured mass meetings with log cabins and hard cider as emblems and "Tippecanoe and Tyler too" as the slogan. Soaked during his horseback inaugural parade in a driving cold rain, Harrison caught cold and died a month later from resulting complications.

He was the first president to die in office and served the shortest time of any.

Abraham Lincoln was elected 20 years later, and was assassinated soon after the start of his second term. Then, in 1880, James A. Garfield was elected and a few months later was shot by a disappointed office seeker at the Washington railway station. Elected in 1900 William McKinley was shot Sept. 6, 1901, by an anarchist. He was the third president to be assassinated.

Twenty years later Warren G. Harding became president. Returning from a journey to Alaska, he died in a San Francisco hotel room from undetermined causes.

Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected in 1940. Although this was a third term election, and he won a fourth term in 1944, he died in office, in 1945.

The one Johnson who has served as President—Andrew Johnson of Tennessee—assured that office upon the assassination of Lincoln. Having previously served in the U. S. House and then the Senate, he was nominated as a "War Democrat," selected to give a better "balance" to the Republican ticket headed by Lincoln.

Andrew Johnson drew bitter attacks from Congress because of his veto of bills he considered too harsh on the defeated South. The House passed a resolution of impeachment and at the conclusion of a three-month trial before the Senate he won acquittal by a vote of 35 to 19 against, the necessary two-thirds vote not having been obtained. He later was elected again to the Senate from Tennessee.

Soviets Publicize U. S. 'Spy' Case

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet newspapers kept a full blaze of publicity today on an alleged American spy who, they said, was captured trying to sneak out to Iran.

Expanding the meager details first given, it is now claimed V.M. Slovov was parachuted into the Soviet Union by a U. S. spy plane.

The U2 and RB47 cases have shown that repeated and successful penetrations of Soviet air defenses by American aircraft, such as reported by Soviet authorities, touch a most sensitive nerve in this country.

The Communist party paper Pravda published pictures of material claimed to have been seized from Slovov. This included arms, ammunition, flashlights, a knife and assorted documents — enough to wear down a pack mule.

Quick Reaction By Power Co. Man Saves Lad's Life

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Quick reaction by a power company employe saved the life of Kenneth Bynum when the 16-year-old boy was held for 15 minutes as a human ground wire for an electrical circuit.

Bynum became lodged between a gas stove and a wall Wednesday while trying to install a washing machine in a home. He apparently grounded an electrical circuit between the stove and some nearby gas pipes. Jim Charles, an Arkansas Power & Light Co. serviceman, was alerted to the trouble by radio via the fire department. Charles found the youth unconscious. He moved the stove to free Bynum and began artificial respiration. Bynum was conscious and listed in fair condition in a hospital. Charles said the boy had been acting as conductor of a 110-volt electrical current.

CEMENT BLOCK PAINTS AND SEALERS ARE MADE IN BIG SPRING. SEE THEM CACTUS EAST HIGHWAY 80 "A LOCAL INDUSTRY"

Texas Institute Reports Waste Conversion Success

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Texas Transportation Institute has announced its research has resulted in the conversion of millions of tons of industry by-products into valuable building materials.

Bob M. Gallaway, Institute engineer, says new uses for by-products of the rock asphalt mining industry and skid-resistant asphaltic surfacing have been found.

"Texas is embarked on a major roads building program," Gallaway said. "We are using up our first quality sands and gravels at a fast rate, and are faced with necessity for developing better, safer highway surfaces."

Gallaway has headed research aimed at converting the two major by-products of Texas industry—now stockpiled in masses totaling more than 2,000,000 tons.

The screenings of "fines" left over as a by-product of mining rock asphalt have been developed by the Institute into successful hot-mix surfacing materials.

Surfacing mixtures using the rock asphalt fines already have been put on two residential streets here. An institute spokesman says the paving is standing up under traffic in good shape.

Rock asphalt screenings were used recently in Interstate Highway 35 near Laredo. This highway carries eight traffic lanes and the hot mix utilizing the rock fines extends for several miles.

It is hoped the material may be used for patching old road surfaces, weathered or damaged by traffic.

Slag has been used to produce a high-quality, skid-resistant pavement and fly-ash has been incorporated into cement concrete mixes where it is used as a partial replacement for cement.

Out Of The Fire, Into Firewater

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Some 400 men returned to Portland's Skid Row after more than a week of fighting eastern Oregon forest fires. More than a third were in jail today, the morning after.

The fire fighters turned up in their favorite taverns after up to 10 days of eating smoke and drinking water. Some had up to $100 in their pockets. They lined up six deep.

Officials Ready For Beauty Contest

Officials and 12 contestants were making last-day preparations today for the annual Howard County Farm Bureau Queen contest. The event will be staged at 8 p.m. Friday in HCJC Auditorium.

Jo Anne Forrest, who will emcee the Farm Bureau affair, was making final entries in the schedule.

Mrs. Swindell's Father Succumbs

J. L. Swindell, 2000 Donley, has received word of the death of his father - in - law, C. L. Foster, Bakersfield, Calif., who passed away in Memorial Hospital in that city.

Mrs. Swindell has been at her father's bedside for about six weeks. Survivors, beside Mrs. Swindell, are three daughters and two sons. Funeral arrangements are pending.

The theme this year will be musical, and will include some child singers, it was indicated. Virginia Cain will be the organist. An added feature will be a Future Queens contest, involving Farm Bureau girls of ages 3 to 15. These and other attractions will help pass the time while the judges decide the winner.

The contestants, who must be at least 16 years of age and members of Farm Bureau families, will be judged on the basis of appearance, poise and personality. Top winner will attend the district contest and, possibly, the state contest.

Last year's winner was Penny Butcher, of Ackerly, and her runner-up was Nancy Hodnett, of Vincent.

Cash prizes of $20 and $10 go to the two top winners, plus other gifts provided by local merchants. In addition, every girl who participates in the pageant will receive a gift.

Contest

Dorothy Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coble Williams of Rt. 1, Ackerly, rounds out the total field of contestants to 12, in the Howard County Farm Bureau Queen contest.

House Numbering Progresses More Than Donations

More than 6,000 Big Spring homes have been worked by the American Legion curb numbering crews according to a report from James Napper, crew chief.

The project to paint house numbers on the curbs of Big Spring homes is being sponsored by the American Legion as a community project and to afford employment for high school age boys during the summer.

The idea originated with George Zachariah, who heads the Legion's sponsoring committee. Zachariah was perturbed by the lack of employment for the boys as well as the civic problem of house numbering.

The crews work each street, stenciling the house number on the front curb. No charge is made for the service but owners are invited to donate if they see fit. Only two mistakes in numbering have resulted so far, but Napper urges owners to call Legion Commander Foy Dunlap should other errors occur.

Donations to date from a small percentage of home owners has afforded the boys less than $15 per week for their work, but they are confident of a bigger response throughout the city.

Latter-Day Saints Plan Epic Religious Drama

By GEORGE W. CORNELL, Associated Press Religion Writer, PALMYRA, N.Y. (AP)—It's a strange story, drawn from an obscure religious strand of American history.

Tonight, and for two ensuing nights, it's being told anew in epic drama.

There will be surging crowds, earthquakes, expeditions, prophecies and prayers, crashing thunder, crumbling cities, wars and a vision won.

Allies Won't Talk On Runaway Pilot

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—U.S. and South Korean intelligence officials refused today to discuss how a runaway North Korean fighter pilot was able to land south of the armistice line without being shot down.

Two Communist MIG17 chased the fleeing Lt. Chung Nak-Hyun up to the demarcation line at the 38th parallel in an apparent attempt to force him back, the South Korean air force said.

depicted on the broad slope of Hill Cumorah south of here in a spectacular religious pageant.

Called "America's Witness for Christ," it is presented annually by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon).

The 190th anniversary of the church's founding is this year.

"That gives it special significance for us," says Gerald G. Smith, president of the church's Eastern States Mission.

The pageant is staged in a 100-acre amphitheater seating 50,000. It tells an extraordinary tale, of an ancient migration to this continent from Palestine in 600 B.C., of a flourishing but ill-fated civilization whose people were visited by Jesus.

The episodes in ancient America come from the Book of Mormon, whose contents assertedly were taken from golden plates found buried on the hill here by a young farmer, Joseph Smith, founder of the church in 1830.

Children Die At Hand Of Mother

COPAKE, N. Y. (AP)—Three young children were killed Wednesday night by a mother who wielded an eight-inch butcher knife against their throats before critically wounding herself, State Police report.

The children, ranging in age between 7 weeks and 7 years, were found on a bed, their mother beside them, at Linden farm, about a half-mile from this Columbia County community.

Theresa Vucetec, 30, the mother, was reported in critical condition in Hudson Hospital and wrists had been cut, police said.

Raul Says Brother Will 'Bounce Back'

HAVANA (AP) — Raising clenched fists, Raul Castro told a midnight meeting of the Red-tipped Latin-American Youth Congress that his ailing big brother Fidel will bounce back with a vengeance.

Scuffing at rumors the Prime Minister is seriously ill or will be replaced, the 29-year-old minister of armed forces declared: "The best answer for those people (who spread rumors)—they're going to get it directly."

Raul, heir-designate to the leadership of the Cuban revolution, said his 34-year-old brother is "resting well" and "is going to come back really strong."

"Those detractors and the cynical international press and rumor-mongers are going to feel the strength of Fidel," he declared. "Let them on looking at the Official Gazette have a doctor at their side."

This was taken as a warning that some new retaliatory laws—especially against Americans—are being cooked up. The Castro regime, in ruling by decree, puts laws into effect by publishing them in the Official Gazette.

Raul was in a fiery and confident mood in his first public appearance since returning from a visit to Moscow and talks with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Robert Perkins, 16, an Amarillo High School sophomore, poses with his grandmothers whose dresses he designed and made. His maternal grandmother, Mrs. G. B. Moore of Denver City, left, and his paternal grandmother Mrs. Jess Perkins of Whiteflat, are wearing dresses he made. The occasion was Mrs. Perkins' golden wedding anniversary.

Lad Started Early On Design Career

WHITEFLAT (AP)—Robert Perkins wants to be a dress designer and he started early.

Perkins, 16, is an Amarillo High School sophomore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Perkins of Amarillo.

When he was 12 years of age he began making play clothes for his sister, Troy Ann, then 3 years old.

For the past three years he has made all of the dresses worn by his mother and sister.

He also made the 50th wedding anniversary dress worn by his grandmother, Mrs. Jess Perkins, at the celebration held recently in this community, eight miles north of Matador.

He also made the dress worn by his mother's mother, Mrs. G. B. Moore of Denver City, Tex., when she attended the anniversary celebration.

Perkins is well aware that a good designer makes a lot of money and he wants to be a good designer. His interests are about the same as any other boy his age, except that his plans for the future are definite.

He is active in church work, sings in the Chapel Choir of the First Baptist Church, Amarillo. He has a part-time job as stage hand in his free periods at school. He is studying journalism and works on the school paper and annual.

Perkins was born in Washington, D. C., when his father was stationed there in the Navy. Both his parents are teachers.

Mrs. Perkins teaches 6th grade language arts and social studies in Amarillo's Park elementary school. Perkins teaches geometry and arithmetic in Amarillo's Palo Duro High School. Besides the daughter, the Perkins have another son, Lynn 13, who goes to Stephen F. Austin Junior High School.

The budding designer of women's clothes made a tailored suit and coat for his mother this spring, and also a sports coat for his father.

TV Debates Seen As Chance For Education

WASHINGTON (AP) — To most people, the proposed television debates between Sen. John F. Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon represent just another way the two men can campaign for the presidency.

But to Dr. Ambrose Caliver they represent the greatest opportunity this country has ever had for a mass approach to adult civic education. He hopes to involve thousands of teachers and millions of students in a nationwide discussion of national issues facing the voters this fall.

Final plans for the Kennedy-Nixon debates have not yet been worked out, although both candidates have agreed to participate. It is believed they will be carried by all three major TV networks, probably starting in September.

Dr. Caliver, vice president of the Adult Education Assn. of the United States (AEAUS), outlined his high hopes and his tentative plans today. The plans are far from settled, and it's little wonder: He got the idea only three days ago while recuperating from major surgery, and he is working on it from a hospital bed.

"We want to see discussion groups held in every city and town across the nation," he said. "It is entirely a local problem, and it can be handled within the present framework of adult education programs—in big groups or small, meeting in homes, churches, schools or wherever.

"We in the association plan to provide study guides, which we hope local newspapers will print on the days of the debates.

"We want the American people everywhere to watch and listen to the debates, and then to study and discuss the issues. This can be a great enterprise for citizenship education, and the involvement of citizens in a study of the issues and the fundamentals of our national life."

Dr. Caliver also is chief of the adult education section of the U. S. Office of Education. But he emphasized he is working through AEAUS and his project has no connection with the government.

He also emphasized that "this idea is approached from a strictly educational and nonpartisan point of view. He hopes to enlist the aid and cooperation of such organizations as the National Education Association, the General Federation of Women Clubs, the League of Women Voters, the U. S. Chambers of Commerce, the American Library Association and the National University Extension Association.

Probers Seek Crash Cause Where 54 Passengers Hurt

WILLIAMSON, W. Va. (AP)—Investigators sought today to determine what caused the Norfolk & Powhatan Arrow to slam into another passenger train in the depot yard here.

Mexico Uncheered By Khrushchev Visit

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Mexican government showed a marked lack of enthusiasm Wednesday night toward a report that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev plans to attend the 150th anniversary celebration of Mexico's independence Sept. 16.

Sources at U. N. headquarters in New York said the travel-minded Soviet Premier had notified the Mexican government he would represent the Kremlin at the celebration.

men were injured in Wednesday's wreck, but none seriously. Two of the injured, James E. Wilson, 50, Cincinnati, and Betty Blumer, 44, Louisville, Ky., were hospitalized overnight.

The rest of the injured were treated and released.

The Arrow, twin diesels pulling 11 cars from Cincinnati to Roanoke, Va., was supposed to switch from the main line to a track alongside the depot at Williamson, a coal town on the Kentucky border.

But the switch apparently was open and the Arrow continued about 100 yards on the wrong track, then collided head on with the standing Cavalier, an N&W train running between here and Norfolk, Va. The Cavalier was loading passengers for a return run to Norfolk.

The impact of the crash derailed the engine of the standing train and sent two of its cars crashing onto the platform of the station. Passengers and crewmen were sent sprawling into the aisles of both trains.

Kittinger Plans Another High Dive

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — Capt. Joe Kittinger, of Holloman Air Force Base the man who attained fame by falling down, will take another high dive from the edge of space this month.

Kittinger made parachute jumps of more than 14½ and 12 miles last Nov. 16 and Dec. 11 respectively from a balloon over this southern New Mexico missile range.

The Air Force would not say from how far up Kittinger will make this attempt. Announcement of the date will be made by the Air Force in Washington.

Purpose of the long jumps is to test the equipment used at such heights and human reactions to them as part of the Air Force's space research.

DEAR ABBY

AN OLD PROBLEM

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My wife used to be sweet, affectionate and understanding until we had a baby. Now she doesn't even know I'm around any more. When I come home after a hard day's work, supper isn't even started. She says she's been busy with the baby.

I love my wife as much as I ever did, but I'm lucky if I get a good-night kiss. I used to talk over my work problems with her, and she'd give me good advice. Now she won't even listen. It's getting so I hate to come home nights. What is a husband supposed to do when he knows he is playing—

"SECOND FIDDLE"

DEAR SECOND FIDDLE: You don't need advice—your wife does. She is making one of the most foolish mistakes a wife can make. Stay away from the baby one night and take her on a tour of the cocktail lounges. Let her see all the cute young things gazing over a martini into the eyes of married men whose egos were punctured years ago with diaper pins.

DEAR ABBY: My problem may seem simple but it is annoying. When my husband and I walk together he is always two or three steps ahead of me unless I hold onto his arm.

People have told me they saw us on the street together and they wanted to know if we were mad at each other. He is a great big guy and I am small with little short legs, so I can't walk as fast as he can. But I would like to know what in the heck is his big hurry? THREE STEPS BEHIND—

DEAR THREE STEPS BEHIND: Ask him. And in the meantime—hold onto his arm.

DEAR ABBY: When I left my office job to be married, the other girls took me to dinner at a local nightclub. There were eight single girls at our table. The music started and a nice-looking young man came to our table and asked me to dance.

Since I was guest of honor and my reason for being there was my coming marriage, I didn't feel like dancing with a stranger. So I told him I would rather not, and I asked him if he wanted to dance with one of the other girls. He replied, "No, I want to dance with YOU." I told him again I'd rather not. He thanked me courteously and went away. Did I do the right thing? How should I have handled the situation? It was terribly embarrassing. GUEST OF HONOR

DEAR GUEST: Forget it. You did the right thing.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "EXPERIENCE": No man with a spark of manhood will violate the chastity of the woman he loves. When your boyfriend begins making advances on the plea that "we are going to get married anyway," it is time to get rid of him. He does not love you.

"What's your problem?" Write to Abby in care of The Big Spring Herald. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's pamphlet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send 25 cents and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope in care of The Herald.

Long Time No See

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet soldier knocked out by a bomb blast in World War II has been brought back to consciousness after 18 years, the Soviet news agency Tass reports.

Selby Convicted, Gets Life Term

AUSTIN (AP) — Houston accountant Joseph Selby, 32, faces life imprisonment today after being convicted of shooting and finding some one to shoot his wife to death.

Selby appeared relieved when a criminal district court jury came in Wednesday with its decision after 4 hours and 40 minutes of deliberations.

State attorneys appeared almost stunned, so confident they were that the jury would return a death verdict for the premeditated assassination.

Defense attorneys said they would "Have to think it over" before deciding to ask for a new trial. They have 10 days to file such a motion before Judge Mace Thurman Jr.

The Selbys had been married for 30 years. The little auditor ended that on Nov. 16 when he hired Negroes to gun down his wife, the jury believed.

The 43-year-old mother of two grown children was killed when she walked into her home in a fashionable section of Houston. Her husband, knowing that the assassins lurked in the darkness of their home, was shopping in a drug store, according to his own statement.

The jury heard from the witnesses how they accepted money from Selby on the false pretense of hunting a killer for his wife. One said he suggested poison. Another related he favored a gun. Selby's own confession said he asked that a knife not be used.

The murder plot actually got in gear when Selby contacted Patra Mae Bounds, a massage parlor Negro, who brought Selby and Maggie Morgan together. Mrs. Morgan got the death penalty for her part in the slaying. The Bounds woman testified how she, Mrs. Morgan and a Negro dock hand, Clarence Collins, slipped into the Selby home Nov. 16 with a key Selby had furnished.

The state said Selby was besieged "with a festering notion to get a divorce by murder." The state called it a "monstrous scheme" almost without parallel in Texas criminal history.

After the verdict, Asst. Dist. Atty. Charles Castles of Houston told a reporter "that if there ever was a case of premeditated murder in Texas this was it. What does a jury need to return a death sentence? We thought we had picked 12 people with enough guts to return a death sentence if presented in proper case."

Tollett has been assigned the 2 p.m.-10 p.m. shift, according to Lt. Stanley Bogard, head of the traffic division. The new traffic officer joined the department on May 1, 1958. He was granted a leave of absence to serve six months active duty with the National Guard in October, 1959 and returned to the department April 20.

The Big Spring Police Department's traffic division is back at full strength of six men with the addition of Wayne Tollett, transferred from the radio patrol.

The traffic division was reduced to five men with the resignation last month of Jim Wade who left the department to assume management of the Desert Sands Restaurant.

Scaly Robot Is A Fright

RANGELEY, Maine (AP) — A 12-foot 200-pound robot covered with green scales had the whole town in a stir Wednesday. A waitress came across it by accident in a restaurant walk-in refrigerator. Barbara Brackett said she brushed against the robot, starting off its machinery, and became terrified. She raced out of the restaurant screaming, followed by about 25 patrons.

James Marshall said he built the machine in his spare time over the last two years for use in a traveling show called "Terrors of the Unknown." He was using the refrigerator to test the robot for cold-weather operation. The restaurant proprietor, Elmer Grant, said he had granted Marshall use of the refrigerator. "I never want to see Marshall or the monster again," he said. "I have never seen such a hideous creature in all my life."

A Devotional For Today

Better is the end of a thing than the beginning thereof: and the patient in spirit is better than the proud in spirit. (Ecclesiastes 7:8.)

PRAYER: We thank Thee, our Father, for the guidance of Thy gospel. Help us to be mindful of our need for Thy guidance when we are troubled. May we use the intelligence Thou hast given us to discover truth and develop a mature wisdom. With this resource, help us to live worthily. In the name of Jesus, who taught us to pray, "Our Father who art in heaven . . . Amen."

(From The "Upper Room")

The Thinker Is Still Around

If you're wondering what had become of Bernard M. Baruch, the financier, philosopher and friend of presidents, wonder no more. He is still alive and kicking, and at 90 almost unbent.

To celebrate his 90th birthday, Mr. Baruch will approach the park bench in Lafayette Park, across from the White House, take his seat, and share the benefit of his wisdom with his three companions — a Cub Scout, a Boy Scout and an Explorer Scout, representing the Boy Scouts of America who are sponsoring the ceremonies to honor Baruch. It will be his 90th birthday — August 19.

A bronze plaque will be revealed, disclosing an inscription: "For inspiring devotion to country and distinguished services to boyhood." It will form an inset on a granite boulder at the side of the bench. The unveiling will be performed by President Eisenhower.

Bernard Baruch on his park bench produced in marble many years ago — The Thinker. Baruch's thoughts were often transformed into action, since he was on intimate terms with several presidents from Woodrow Wilson on, and often found a sympathetic ear for his park-bench musings.

Son of a Confederate surgeon, Bernard Baruch served his country in many capacities, always with distinction and unselfishness. No doubt what he has to say to the Boy Scouts on the park bench with him August 19 will be worth listening to. Mr. Eisenhower, as other presidents have done, cocks an attentive ear in his general direction.

More One-Share Sweeneys Needed

"One-Share Sweeney" died in Toronto on Monday full of years (78) and honors. His formal moniker was William R. Sweeney and he was a one-time taxi-driver in Elizabeth, N. J. Fifty years ago he decided to migrate to Toronto and make a name for himself in Bay Street, the city's financial district.

So he became a shareholder in a multitude of corporations. Maybe only one share in a company he regarded as poorly managed. Then he moved in on stockholders' meetings and built a fine reputation of management or whatever group aroused his animosity. Once he insisted the chairman read the company's annual report in full, in both English and French because it was printed in both languages. The fact that the chairman did not understand French did not make the chore any easier.

Often a well-behaved One-Share was welcomed to stockholders' meetings — when he had been invited to attend. But if he'd bought one share in order to use it to right what he thought was wrong, there was trouble. Shareholders with a complaint against the way a corporation was being run would induce One-Share to become an "investor," and the subject was sure for a thorough airing at the next meeting.

But he was no freak, no troublemaker for the sake of making trouble. In his latter years he became a director of several large companies, and president of the Concourse Building, Ltd., of Toronto.

We sometimes wonder if many corporations wouldn't be better off and more efficiently run if there were at least one One-Share Sweeney among the stockholders to attend the annual meetings and raise Cain.

There are very few people in this world who have the hardihood to stand up in meeting on all occasions and speak their minds.

Some of them of course are mere nuisances, but now and then an exception comes along.

Where a willingness to speak out in meeting to the possible embarrassment of other people is wedded to intelligence and an unselfish desire to improve matters there is definite benefit to all.

But such a person, rare as he is, is seldom admired and looked up to. One-Share Sweeney seems to have been an exception, perhaps because — as dispatches made clear — he was wholly unselfish in his operations.

Assassins Have Gone Modern

By JOHN SCALI
(For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP)—Old-fashioned bomb-throwing assassins are becoming obsolete in an age where computing machines and electronic devices are essential tools of day-to-day existence.

The push-button remote control killer has moved onto the international stage to pose the newest and most deadly threat to government leaders seeking to cope with problems in a tense, troubled world.

In the confidential world of spies, plots and security, the near-successful attempt June 24 to assassinate Venezuelan President Rómulo Betancourt now is being studied intently as an astonishing example of how killers have refined their grisly work.

Betancourt escaped death while riding in his official limousine when 1½ tons of dynamite, hidden in a parked car alongside the highway, were exploded by remote control.

HIS WOULD-BE killers set off the blast from a safe distance 300 yards away as Betancourt's car drew opposite the dynamite-rigged vehicle.

Blood streaming from cuts on his face, Betancourt staggered out, saved only because he had been sitting in the back seat. Three aides sitting in the front seat of his car were killed. Eight passersby were injured. His automobile was turned into a smashed fiery wreck.

A painstaking, relentless investigation by Venezuelan authorities since then has revealed the full scientific cold-blooded scope of the assassination plot. The step-by-step details are due to be laid before the foreign ministers of the 21 American Republics when they meet in Costa Rica in two weeks.

AT THAT TIME, Venezuela will offer a mass of evidence aimed at backing up its charges that Dominican strong man Rafael Trujillo, a bitter Betancourt foe, helped mastermind the plot.

A report last month in which Venezuela linked Trujillo with the plot was described in Washington by Dominican Ambassador Vergilio Diaz Ordóñez as a "fantastic reconstruction."

Top U.S. security officials who have examined the case report that it adds up to one of the most "sophisticated" assassinations attempts in modern history. What worries them is that the Venezuelan example may inspire electronic gangsters around the world to try their hand.

The Venezuelan explosion was triggered off by a pocket-size radio-electronic device operated by skilled, technically trained experts who planned the whole operation with rare scientific exactitude.

Amid the 20th Century, scientific approach, however, one homemade Latin-American touch apparently was needed. The assassins were tipped off that Betancourt's car was approaching by an accomplice who waved his sombrero.

The $2 Hotel Room

NEW YORK (AP)—It's a shame the way America lets go so quickly of its past, and one of the traditions it has lost is the fine old tradition of the $2 hotel room.

Whatever happened to it anyway?

In these prosperous times, most middle-aged people shudder at the mere mention of the "depression." It brings up mental pictures of breadlines and grown strong men standing on street corners, trying to sell apples.

Actually, in the trying times between 1929 and the outbreak of the Second World War, I don't recall any man trying to peddle me an apple.

Although the pay was small and the hours long during the depression years — if you were lucky enough to have a job, and most people were — they were years that had some consolations.

One of them was the $2 hotel room.

The room held a big old chipped bureau; two floor lamps, one of which worked; a bedside table; and a huge shabby old chair by the window where you could sit and read the Gideon Bible or look across the court to see if anything interesting was going on in the $2 rooms over there.

Sometimes you had to take a bath down the hall, but if the room did have a bath attached it was huge and often held a tub large enough to cradle the Cardiff Giant.

What the $2 hotel room lacked in style, it made up for in other ways. It was light, airy, generous in size, mellow with the security of the past, and gave millions of Americans a bargain when they needed one most.

Whatever happened to the $2 hotel room?

When you checked in, an elderly

bellhop delivered your bags to a creaking elevator and steered it himself up to your floor. If you gave him a two-bit tip he would flash a look of real gratitude, and if you gave him a four-bit tip he would sit down, break into tears, and tell you the story of his life.

The room was $10 if you stayed the week, $25 to $30 if you stayed by the month.

The room itself was big and comfortable. It had a 19th Century air of durability. It also had a lived-in look, as many of its hundreds of tenants had left some mark of their passing — a cigar burn on the writing table, carpet stains, a telephone number scribbled on the wall by the telephone.

The double bed was big and soft, and over it hung a picture of Whistler's mother to remind the weary traveler that somewhere, sometime, someone had loved and waited for him — and perhaps still did.

As many people today under the age of 35 have never heard of such a thing, perhaps I had better describe it.

The $2 hotel room was furnished, usually, by a somewhat seedy and a bit run-down hostelry that had seen better days. It was strategically located across the street from a tavern that sold a tall foaming glass of beer for a nickel.

The hotel lobby was large and old-fashioned and furnished with plush red remnants of its faded grandeur. The floor was of marble. In the evening aging traveling salesmen, like inland mariners, liked to sit in the lobby chairs and swap lies of their success on the road when they were younger.

When you checked in, an elderly

Survival Of Whites In Africa

WASHINGTON—Something terrible has been happening in the Congo these last few weeks, but for some unexplained reason, the voices of the so-called "liberals" and their organizations are strangely silent, not only here but in Europe. Just a few months ago they cried out indignantly because a few Bantus were killed when thousands of them surrounded and threatened a handful of panic-stricken police to a South African village, who then fired in self-defense.

The parliaments of Europe discussed that issue, and even the United Nations was drawn into the debate. But why, when white women are attacked and a shameful orgy is perpetrated in the Congo, is nothing being said officially and publicly by any government in denunciation of such conduct?

NOT EVEN THE leaders of the British Parliament, which had an extensive debate on the South African episode, have put themselves on record on any occasion on the subject.

The prime minister of the Congo, who recently visited here, calls it all a lot of "fabrications" in the foreign press. Yet the facts have been officially reported. A United Press International dispatch a few days ago gave American Ambassador Timberlake as the source of the information that "two American women missionaries were raped repeatedly and another U.S. missionary was said to have been slain."

DAVID REED, a member of the Washington staff of "U.S. News & World Report," who has been in the Congo for several weeks, cabled a full report, published recently, which said in part:

"The full horror of the mutiny of black troops in the Congolese army is only now coming to light.

"A Belgian doctor and his wife, who is also a doctor, report that they gave injections of penicillin to between 350 and 400 white women who had been raped by soldiers and who feared they might have contracted syphilis. The two doctors say they treated so many rape victims that they lost count of the total. Among their emergency patients were a mother and her two daughters, one 11 and the other 8 years old. All three had been raped repeatedly during a period of 24 hours.

"A FRENCH DOCTOR said he examined two Belgian women, wives of Belgian officials. Both of the women had been raped by 12 soldiers in the town of Kisantu. Among other victims were two American women at a Baptist mission. One was the wife of the missionary and the other an unmarried nurse. They were flown out of the Congo in a U.S. military helicopter.

"It is entirely likely that no one will ever know how many white women were violated by the troops, as the turmoil was so great. Belgians and other whites are pouring out of the Congo by the thousands. Women who were treated by doctors were flown out to safety as soon as possible. There is a feeling that many of the women were so stunned and humiliated by what happened that they did not tell anybody — even their husbands — of the doctors."

THERE WAS A TIME in American history when, if American citizens were maltreated, sharp measures of reprisal would have been undertaken promptly by the government of the United States. But these are strange times. The demands for recognition of "nationalist" causes and the insistence that independence be granted to uncivilized peoples seem to take precedence over all else.

Thus, in South Africa the blacks far outnumber the whites. The movements of the members of the savage tribes are watched through a "pass" system. The blacks are required to live in separate sections of the cities or in "reservation" areas. This is known as "apartheid." The real issue now is whether the whites will survive.

THE EFFORTS of the whites in South Africa to maintain an orderly system of government are being thwarted by boycotts begun by other countries where black or dark races predominate. These boycotts are hurting all races and producing large-scale unemployment. Ghana and Malaya are the two countries which are leading the boycott movement. This form of economic warfare is being encouraged by whites and white organizations in Europe which know very little about the conditions in South Africa. As one writer in Cape Town puts it:

"It isn't as if we were dealing with Europeans who happen to have black skins. We are face to face with millions of blacks who have not emerged from a state of savagery."

Another letter, from a man who until recently was editor-in-chief of a daily newspaper in Johannesburg, South Africa, says:

"BOYCOTTS AND other forms of harmful interference can only tap our not-to-be-potent resources, retard development, and injure the interests of the very non-whites who are pitied as the 'underdogs.'"

"In point of fact, the white man is the potential underdog in this world of artificial black martyrdom and misdirected sympathy — and this goes for the white man in Europe, America, Australia and New Zealand, no less than for the whites in either South Africa or other parts of Africa. Make no mistake, white survival is indivisible, and by this I mean the permanent assets and values of Western civilization and democracy, poised as they now are against the overpowering might of communism and Asian and African nationalism."

Around The Rim

Al Had' A Sense Of Humor

The pundits have long been second-guessing the election in November particularly from the viewpoint of electing a Catholic to the White House.

The memory of Al Smith has been revived to point out the fallacies or the virtues, as the case may be, of supporting Jack Kennedy for the post. That happy warrior made a gallant fight of it, before losing to Hoover, beginning the legend that a Catholic hasn't got a chance to win the highest seat of government.

Al Smith, wheatever else may be said for him, had a tremendous sense of humor. And he was quick to take advantage of any turn of events, twisting them in his favor.

His daughter, who was close to him and his many campaigns, chronicles this story:

A STORY was going around that following Al's defeat at the polls, he sent a telegram to the Pope. It had only one word.

"Unpack."

The daughter carried the story to her father and asked if he sent the telegram. As he often did he asked, "How is the story being received?"

"Very well," she told him.

"Then, I did," he replied with a twinkle.

Many remarks and stories attributed to him have been accepted because they were humorous, or witty, or won him popular support. I assume that story may have also.

I WOULD THINK that Kennedy's religious affiliation is a minor problem. There are probably as many voters who will use the franchise to support him, merely to prove no prejudice, as there are voters who will mix unalterable opposition with the franchise.

Johnson will probably carry Texas for Kennedy, but I doubt that he can carry the nation for Kennedy. The presidential hopeful will be forced to do much of the work himself. And that includes proving to the voters that he can cope with world problems and world personalities.

I feel we know Johnson can, but he won't be in the driver's seat.

Home folks feel that it's too bad that the worthy delegates didn't make it a Johnson-Kennedy ticket rather than the other way around.

Winchell Talks About Winchell

(For Iez Robb, who is on vacation) IN CALIFORNIA—We were at 30,000 feet over the Painted Desert, an hour from Los Angeles, when Winchell went slumming. He stepped through the door from first class and sat down in the tourist section.

And we talked about the most important thing in the world—Walter Winchell.

Well, that is, Winchell did the talking. I just sat there marveling at his modesty. "The way the trade puts it," he said, "I'm getting hot again."

I RECALLED ONE of his greatest failures. It was eight years ago when he set himself before a microphone at a gala event of the country's greatest Republicans at the Uline Arena in Washington.

He pushed back his hat and rattled: "Mr. and Mrs. America and all ships at sea . . . At least, that's what his lips said. The mike was dead. It was dead for several minutes while Walter rattled. Everybody was embarrassed, and when the public address system was repaired, Walter had to start all over again. It all seemed foolish.

"THAT'S THE last time I did it," said the bugler of Broadway, "until this year."

Winchell had looked washed out at that Washington performance. But now he was buoyant. "I don't have as many troubles," he said. He was radiant, and he didn't look his 63 years.

Maybe one reason for his exuberance was that he was starting a seven-week vacation from his newspaper column. Actually, WW is riding a second wind.

"I'VE GOT 14 different contracts in TV and the movies," he said, as he excused himself for a moment while he peeped out the window at the passing panorama of the Grand Canyon. "And he resiled them off. I was impressed. "How many assistants do you have in all these enterprises?" I asked, and he replied: "Nobody but my secretary."

His only assistant is Rose Bigman who's been with him 27 years and remains in New York.

"HER MAIN JOB," he said, "is to keep away from me all the mail that says, 'Winchell, you stunk' and 'Winchell, you are great.' I don't care to see either."

What makes Walter Winchell "hot" again? Fortunately for him, he hit upon the gimmick of narrating shows, like Jerry Lewis' "Bellboy."

The thing that really captured anew his public's fancy was his weekly job of narrating "The Untouchables" on television. But even though Walter Winchell is rediscovered and rejuvenated, he still reflects a bitterness. It shakes him, for instance, when an editor cuts his columns down to a bare two or three paragraphs.

THIS HAPPENED in Washington. So Winchell is cancelling his contract, he said, and is turning his gems over to a weekly newspaper on Capitol Hill, "Roll Call." "I'll make that paper famous," he said.

Just before the "fasten seat belts" lights flashed, Walter turned to go. The blonde in front swung around. "Mr. Winchell," she said, "I want to thank you for what you wrote about my daughter." Winchell leaned over to me and said: "I wrote one paragraph about the girl, who is an entertainer, and her salary jumped from $200 to $1,000 a week."

Kefauver's Test Of National Import

WASHINGTON.—In all the political hullabaloo of recent weeks one long familiar name has been conspicuously missing from the lists. Senator Estes Kefauver, who nearly won the Democratic Presidential nomination and who four years ago was in the No. 2 spot on the Democratic ticket, is engaged in his native Tennessee in a struggle for his political life.

HIS OPPONENT in the Democratic primary on Thursday, Circuit Judge Andrew T. Taylor, is backed by the conservative and reactionary forces in the state with the segregationists well to the fore. According to reports here, the business interests Kefauver has outraged by his price investigations — above all the steel masters and the drug manufacturers — are sending in generous contributions to Taylor's campaign.

The outcome of the primary, equivalent in Tennessee to election, may have more bearing on the national election than is generally realized. A Taylor victory would contribute to an important phase of Republican strategy, which is to paint the Democratic party as hopelessly tied to a reactionary South. Taylor has repeatedly attacked Kefauver for his support of the 1960 Civil Rights Act and similar legislation.

THE REPUBLICANS have already had one generous assist from the South in the re-election of Governor Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas to an unprecedented fourth term. Faubus got about 60 per cent of the vote running against a field of four. This gives him a head start in his ambition to defeat Senator J. William Fulbright whose Senatorial term is up at the end of 1962.

Taylor in his campaign has been calling for legislation to restrict importation of manufactured goods which undersell domestic products. In Tennessee with its textile industry he has stressed textiles made by cheap Japanese labor.

THOSE WHO KNOW Japan at first hand realize that a successful drive to build up the barriers against Japanese manufacturers could tip the scales against America and the West. The Japanese must sell their products in the world market to sustain employment and the present high level of prosperity.

With two Presidential candidates who are more and more being called look-alikes the national face that the respective parties present takes on added importance. Wavering voters may decide in November on which face looks toward the last half of the 20th Century and which looks back yearningly to a past that can never be restored.

KEFAUVER, a shrewd political strategist with a flair for the headlines, is having to walk a narrow line in his campaign. He is a national figure and his reputation would have consequences on the national political scene. But at the same time he must prove to Tennessee voters that he is devoted to their interests.

Both candidates are all out for the Tennessee Valley Authority, which has done so much for the state. But Kefauver can claim that he exposed the Dixon-Yates deal in the early years of the Eisenhower Administration. Opponents charged that his would have been the opening wedge for private power interests to supplant TVA's low-cost power and the exposure of the manipulations behind the deal created a sensation at the time.

EARLIER this year Kefauver's exposure of the high cost of the wonder drugs and the wide spread between cost and selling price got national attention. Older men and women wrote from all over the country to tell how on their small pensions they sometimes had to choose between food and the pills that meant the difference between health and illness.

But set against the Senator's claim to nationwide fame and his liberal voting record is the solid support Judge Taylor has among powerful interest in the state. There is also the fact of the lunch counter sit-ins in Nashville, and elsewhere in Tennessee which had a profoundly disrupting effect. They shook long-established patterns of habit and thought, and Taylor's appeal to prejudice — and the even more violent and demagogic appeal of some of his supporters — may have an effect that cannot be calculated by the customary advance soundings.

Gloomy about the outlook two weeks ago, Kefauver's lieutenants are now more encouraged. But one thing is certain — the results will be studied far beyond the confines of Tennessee.

It's A River, Anyway

THERMOPOLIS, Wyo. (AP)—What river flows through Wyoming's scenic Wind River Canyon?

Don't automatically say "Wind River." You may be wrong.

Somewhere the Wind River changes its name to the Big Horn River and there's a difference of opinion where the change comes. But everyone agrees that the canyon is the "Wind River Canyon."

The Wyoming State Engineer's office has chosen the confluence of the Wind and Little Wind rivers near Riverton as the birthplace of the Big Horn River. Therefore, under that interpretation it is the Big Horn River which flows through the Wind River Canyon.

On the other hand, the U.S. Geological Survey contends that the stream's name is changed to the Big Horn River at the mouth of the Wind River Canyon — and the Wind River actually flows through the canyon.

Angiography Shows Condition Of Blood Vessels

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
"Dear Dr. Molner: To what kind of a doctor would a person go for angiography?" — MRS. E.F.B.

This is a question which, for practical purposes, isn't likely to be of significance to a patient. If angiography is indicated, your doctor not only will say that's the wise thing to have, but also will tell you where to go to have it done.

Angiography isn't a treatment. It is a diagnostic method. As you know, we can "see inside the body" by means of X-rays, but we can't see everything. A bone, for example, stands out clearly. The bone is solid, and shuts off the X-rays as they try to pass through. The flesh (muscles, fat, skin, internal organs, blood vessels, and so on) allow the rays to pass fairly easily.

And an open air space allows the rays to pass still more easily. That is why we can X-ray the lungs. The open air space lets the rays pass through easily. The tissues slow the rays down. Hence we get a nice "shadowgraph" of the lungs, and can detect spots of calcium and scarring on the lung surfaces and so on.

But suppose (from certain combinations of symptoms) we suspect that blood vessels in the brain may be swollen, or clogged, or narrowed. The skull is a dense piece of bone. By the time the X-rays pass through it, there is no visible difference in lesser variations of the body—the differences between brain tissue and blood vessels. So we can't see the shape and size of blood vessels.

That is where angiography comes in. We inject a dye, which is harmless to the body but is extremely dense so far as X-rays are concerned. Then we take an X-ray picture. The dye, in the blood, makes the shape of the blood vessels stand out clearly. We can see where they go, where they are narrow, where they are unduly large.

We inject the dye into the bloodstream for exactly the same reason that we give barium (flavored with chocolate, strawberry, or whatever) when we want to X-ray the digestive tract. The dye (or the barium) is soon gone, having done no harm, but for the time that it remained, it helped us get a clear X-ray picture of the internal tubing, whether blood vessels or alimentary canal.

So to answer your original question, angiography is usually performed by a neurosurgeon (cooperating, of course, with the radiologist who handles the X-ray).

Surgeons (and the radiologists of course) cooperate if the blood vessels that are suspected lie in the chest or abdomen or legs. "Angio-is a term relating to the blood vessels. They can be blood vessels anywhere, but in modern medical thinking, we usually consider them in terms of the head and neck.

In any event, it's a precise procedure, and is not undertaken until, from more easily seen symptoms, we have a good idea where the trouble lies, and we want to make sure.

NOTE TO L.B.H.: Itching ears (as opposed to any other ear trouble) is most likely to be a skin condition, allergy, sensitivity, or what have you. I'd suggest seeing a skin specialist.

Troubled with varicose veins? To make sure you are doing all you can to relieve the problem, write to me in care of the Big Spring Herald requesting my booklet, "How To Deal With Varicose Veins," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover the cost of handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Tigers Launch Play In District Meet

The Knights of Pythias Tigers of Big Spring move to San Angelo tonight for a first round game in the District 3 Junior Teen-Age Baseball tournament.

Brownwood's team, sponsored by the American Legion post there, carried a 13-2 won-lost record on to the field. Big Spring has won 12 of 15 starts.

Farquhar can pick either Richard McCormick, recruited from the Police Department's team, Richard White, Freddie Mears or Rickey Wisener as his pitcher. He's apt to go with White, who wound up with a 5-1 won-lost record for the season. Mears copped four while losing nine. Wisener can play just about anywhere and, no doubt, will be in the starting lineup.

Gene Lamb, also recruited from the Police Department's team, will be behind the plate for the Big Spring team. Lamb is known for his power at the plate.

In action last night, the San Angelo, entry edged by Big Lake, 1-0, in a real thriller.

San Angelo scored in the sixth with the help of two Big Lake errors and a fielder's choice. Scotty Chastain, on the mound for San Angelo, gave up only three hits. He fanned 13.

Mike Holmes and Billy Ashcraft divided time on the mound for the losers. Ashcraft was charged with the defeat, although the only run he gave up was unearned.

Snyder, which drew the first round bye, takes on San Angelo, at 8:30 o'clock this evening.

The survivors clash Friday night for the right to make the trip to the State tournament at Victoria Aug. 11-12-13.

All the San Angelo games are being played in the Bobcat Stadium.

Travis took in the recent all-star basketball game at the Six-Man Coaches Association tournament at Abilene last week and was most favorably impressed with the play of James Glass of Wall, who performed for the East.

According to reports, Wall is headed for Paris Junior College. Phil George, the astute San Angelo mentor, saw him play, however, and Glass could wind up at Phil's school.

Jess Levan, banished from professional baseball for life while performing for Chattanooga in the Southern Association last year, is now working for a pest control service in that city.

Baseball officials blew the whistle on Levan for accepting money to deliberately foul off baseballs.

Deinor Poss, the new Big Spring High School cage mentor, was the left fielder of the Corner Rexall Drug team of San Angelo, which competed in the ASA District Softball tournament here last weekend.

Jim Rathman, piloting the car that won the 500 mile race at Indianapolis last May 30, isn't grateful but he reasons the Speedway people should pay more money to the champion.

The total purse at this year's race was $257,000 but that counted the loot donated by the manufacturers. Rathman says that, compared to their income, other tracks around the nation pay better purses.

Pat Flaherty, who won the 1956 race at Indianapolis but who since has fallen upon hard times (he recently was picked up for bookmaking—a charge he steadfastly denied)—said his first place money was $93,819 but he actually received only $15,000 of that.

Sunny Edwards, the former call roping who moved from here when he purchased the Cree Meadows golf course at Ruidoso, N. M., recently fired a record 30 over his own course.

Edwards has been playing golf only about five years.

Chips Are Down In Junior Meet

By MIKE COCHRAN
MIDLAND (AP)—The chips go down for the seeded stalwarts today as the seventh International Jaycee Tennis Tournament tumbles into the all-important quarterfinal round.

Seven of the eight seeded players remain in the running and today the heads begin to roll.

Both won straight set victories Wednesday. Palmer eliminating Bobby Joyner of Lubbock and Rodney Kop of Honolulu Hedrick defeated James Hardcastle, Atlanta, Ga., and Frank Noble, Danville, Ill.

Joining them are second-seeded David Reed, La* Jolla, Calif.; third-seeded Clark Graebner, Lakewood, Ohio; fourth-seeded Butch Newman, San Antonio, Tex.; Firtzi Schuack, Orlando, Fla.; fifth; Andy Lloyd, Shreveport, La.; sixth; and Cliff Buchholz, St. Louis, Mo., eighth.

Seventh-seeded Jim Parker, Greve Coeur, Mo., was eliminated in the second round by a pulled leg muscle. However, he and Buchholz, top ranked in doubles, won their second match Wednesday, crushing Barry McGrath and John Grantham of Topeka, Kan. 6-2, 6-1.

The singles matches today and Schunck against Newman, Reed against Lloyd and Buchholz against Graebner.

The next one-day tournament sponsored by the Lower Plains Women's Golf Association will take place in Hobbs, N. M., next Tuesday.

Hobbs was the last club to join the circuit.

Several local women are expected to compete in the meet.

Grid Power In South?

DALLAS (AP) — Thanksgiving week, according to the soothsayers, Port Arthur and Baytown will clash in the game that will decide the Class AAAA schoolboy football championship.

This was the long-range forecast at the Texas Coaching School today as Port Arthur was made the favorite for the title but with the proviso that it had to put on a great battle to get by Baytown, the most probable winner of an adjoining district.

There would still be games to play but for all practical purposes the Port Arthur-Baytown game would be the big one.

Coaches interviewed at the coaching school setting on Wichita Falls, Highland Park, Port Arthur and Corpus Christi Ray for the state semi-finals. It would be a return for Ray, which won the 1959 state championship.

Before the state playoffs these were picked as district winners: 1, Ysleta; 2, Odessa Permian; 3, Lubbock; 4, Wichita Falls; 5, Fort Worth Paschal; 6, Dallas Samuell; 7, Highland Park; 8, Tyler; 9, Houston Milby; 10, Spring Branch; 11, Port Arthur; 12, Baytown; 13, Waco; 14, Corpus Christi Miller; 15, San Antonio Jefferson; 16, San Antonio Burbank.

The sports writers disputed some of the coaches' selections although they have been shown to be about 75 per cent accurate in the past. For instance, in Dist. 2, the writers thought Odessa should be the favorite instead of Odessa Permian.

The state championship favorite for Class AAA was Sweetwater, a team with everything it takes. Elwood Turner has 14 boys who started for Sweetwater last year either on offense or defense, and he has 19 lettermen.

Carrollton, Cleburne and San Antonio Sam Houston were the other teams picked to reach the state semi-finals.

District champions were selected as follows:
1, Littlefield; 2, Monahans; 3, Sweetwater; 4, Graham; 5, Carrollton; 6, Mt. Pleasant; 7, Henderson; 8, Corsicana; 9, Cleburne; 10, Huntsville; 11, Bay City; 12, LaMarque; 13, Kerrville; 14, San Antonio Sam Houston; 15, Port Lavaca; 16, San Benito.

Brownfield won the right to play in the Sectional meet by copping the District 2 title at Lubbock last week, besting two Lubbock teams, North Lynn and Southwest, in that order.

The Brownfield team has lots of power in its semi-final game against North Lynn, the District 2 titlist won by the convincing score of 28-2.

Gary Mears will probably pitch for Big Spring tonight.

FIGHT RESULTS

By The Associated Press

San Angelo Man Named Visiting Cup Captain

Lawrence Bledsoe, prominent San Angelo golfer, Wednesday was named visiting captain for the Cosden Cup matches, which will be held here Sept. 2 in conjunction with the 29th annual Big Spring Invitational Coronado Hills Golf tournament.

Bledsoe will select the makeup of his nine-man team and is due to bring several San Angelo players with him.

The San Angelo veteran won the San Angelo Country Club championship this year.

A local captain is still to be selected. Who ever he is, he will be required to meet Bledsoe in the matches.

Big Spring players can win places on the local team in 72 holes of medal play. The makeup of the squad will not necessarily be made up of Country Club members, since special invitations will be sent to other local linksters to try for positions on the squad.

The Cosden Cup matches are replacing the Hall and Bennett Trophy matches, which have been held here for many years. The visiting teams held a big edge in the HB matches. In the past, however, the makeup of the local squad has been made up exclusively of Country Club members.

The tournament committee, headed by Jack Wallace, decided Wednesday to extend personal invitations to well known linksters throughout West Texas, in hoping to register a near record field here.

Over $3,000 will be spent on prizes for the tournament. Sets of irons will go to all flight winners. Flight runnersup will get sets of woods while consolation winners will earn golf bags.

The championship flight will again be made up of 32 players. All over flights will consist of a maximum of 16 players. Entry fee will be $15.

Non-players can gain entry to the Sept. 3 dance planned in conjunction with the meet for $5 per couple. The dance will be held at the Cosden Country Club, with Clark Wynn and his Orchestra supplying the music.

Those planning to attend the barbecue only can purchase tickets for $1.50 each. The barbecue will be held at the Cosden Country Club, too, starting at 8 p.m. Friday, Sept. 2.

A duplicate bridge tournament for the ladies is set for the Cosden CC at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 4. Entry fee will be $2.50 and four prizes will be awarded to the winners.

A putting tournament is on tap for Saturday, Sept. 3. Players can qualify anytime during the week starting Aug. 28, if accompanied by a club member. Only those qualifying on Friday, Sept. 2, will be eligible for the medal prize, however.

Holmberg Behind In Tennis Duel

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y. (AP)—Ron Holmberg, the second-seeded slugger from Brooklyn, N. Y., was in jeopardy today in a suspended match with Allen Fox of Los Angeles in the rain soaked 72nd Southampton Invitation Tennis Tournament.

The Holmberg-Fox match will be resumed with Fox leading, 6-4, 6-6 and Holmberg ahead, 40-15 on his own serve.

In another third-round match, Chris Crawford of Piedmont, Calif., leads Ramsey Earnhart, Ventura, Calif., 6-2.

"I better play well right from the start," Holmberg said, "or I'll be out of this tournament."

In other key matches, top-seeded Rod Laver, the Australian champion, faces another Aussie, John Sharpe, Bob Mark, the fourth-seeded Australian, opposes 18-year-old Marty Riesen of Hinsdale, Ill.

Jimmy Dykes Says He May Not Take Offer

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Whether the most unusual trade in baseball history becomes finalized depends on today's meeting in Cleveland between Indians' General Manager Frank Lane and Jimmy Dykes.

Jimmy is one of the pawns involved in Wednesday's unprecedented trade of managers, with the 63-year-old Dykes going to Cleveland and the 45-year-old Joe Gordon to Detroit.

Dykes' Tiger contract expires at the end of this season. Gordon's contract with the Indians has another year to run.

Marsh Is Key Man In Attack

DALLAS (AP)—The height of the South goes against the North tonight in the annual all-star basketball game of the Texas Coaching School and the tall boys are expected to win the duel.

If they do they will be breaking a 5-year flinch although the North would still hold a long lead in the 15-year history of the series—10 games to 6.

The South, coached by Gerald Cobb of Galena Park, was a 12-9 favorite to remove the humiliation that has been growing to an angry volume.

The South hopes to rally with its giant post men and through possession basketball—ball control—slow down the speedy North to a walk. Cobb, who is coaching his last game, becomes business manager of the school this fall, said this was the only way he might expect to win.

The post men are Joe Fisher of Beaumont South Park and Spencer Carlson of Aldine, each 6-6 or better. Heart of the offense is Bennie Lenox of Clear Creek.

The North will have 6-foot-8 Mike Marsh of Midland as the key man of its attack.

Boyer's Surge Boosts Cards

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer
It's no accident that the latest spurt of the St. Louis Cardinals—six straight victories—coincides with the return to batting form of Ken Boyer.

The slugging third baseman got off to a slow start this year and the team did likewise. A pulled muscle on top of a batting slump benched him for a while.

A week ago, Boyer returned to the lineup and immediately began hitting. The Cards responded by running up a winning streak that Wednesday had them in third place, 3½ games behind league leading Pittsburgh and only half a game behind second place Milwaukee.

Boyer smashed a home run and two singles Wednesday night, scored three runs and drove in two as the Cards outslugged the Braves 13-8.

Pittsburgh retained its three-game bulge on the Braves although beaten by Los Angeles 3-1. The game was called at the end of seven innings because of rain.

and Cincinnati split with Chicago. The Cubs won the nightcap, 4-2, after the Reds had taken the opener 7-3.

A five-run rally in the sixth inning enabled the Cards to snap a 7-7 tie with the Braves. Five homers featured the slugging contest. Eddie Mathews hit his 22nd, Joe Adcock his 19th and Del Crandall his 16th for the Braves. Besides Boyer, Stan Musial cracked a four-bagger for the Redbirds, his 11th.

Johnny Podres' seven-hit pitching and Wally Moon's two-run homers, his 10th of the season, led the Dodgers to victory over Pittsburgh. Bob Friend was the loser.

Pinch hitter John Callison's two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth gave the Phils their one-run triumph over the Giants. Callison's homer provided Dick Farrell with his second victory in two nights over the Giants.

Ernie Banks' 29th home run, with a man on base, was the difference in the Cubs second game triumph over the Reds. Cincinnati had snapped a six-game losing streak in the opener, largely due to homers by rookie Gordon Coleman and Vada Pinson.

Speedy Anklet Is Entry On Friday

RUIDOSO, N. M. (SC) — A well balanced card of thoroughbred and quarter horse races is offered for Friday's program at Ruidoso Downs with races carded from the shorter 350-yard distance through a route race at one mile and seven-eighths to a better than average 870-yard event scheduled with a bevy of top two-year-olds.

Friday has the earmarks of being one of the better race days at the meeting.

The featured race of the day, honoring one of the Southwest's top publications, The New Mexico Magazine, will offer a top field of allowance horses going the six furlong distance. The favorite's role going to Speedy Anklet, a hard luck runner at Ruidoso Downs. Always close in every outing, this 8-year-old daughter of Count Speed—Smart Daughter, from the stable of J. H. Masterson, has competed against better company and should look good in this spot.

Another strong contender here should be Sassy Sissy, from the stable of Joe Welch of Carlsbad, N. M. This Spotted Bull—Saucy Sissy filly holds a world of early speed and may be able to hang on for the six furlong distance.

Another contender could be the four-year-old Muriel Helm, from the stable of R. D. Hay of Dexter, N. M., with Xavier Torres named to the riding assignment, she may fit well. This appears to be wide open event with every horse given a better than even chance to win.

Sunday's card will be highlighted by the running of the Ruidoso Quarter Horse Derby, with ten of the top three-year-old quarter horses in the nation going the 440-yard distance for a total purse of more than $20,000.

Eight of the ten held the top quarter horse grade of AAA while the other two have a more than even chance in the race.

Ex-Cougar Leads Western Amateur

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Phil Rodgers, a powerful Marine Corps recruit, charged Northland course and the Western amateur golf field Wednesday like a one-man landing party.

The former NCAA champion from Houston University now playing out of San Diego, topped 16 qualifiers for championship match play competition by finishing three under par for 72 holes at 281.

Rodgers' three-day performance made the 22-year-old one of the strong favorites for the tournament's 36th championship.

But an impressive roster of rivals was shooting at him. These included the defending champ, Dr. Ed Updegraff of Tucson, Ariz., Walker Cupper Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga.; Labron Harris Jr., of Stillwater, Okla., at 18 the youngest of the qualifiers, and Bob Cochran of St. Louis, at 47 the oldest.

Korean Theater

This renovated railroad company office is the Wogak-Sa Theater in Seoul, founded by the Korean government to revive the nation's theater art.

New Theatre Aids Korean Art Rebirth

By C. S. CHIN

SEOUL (AP)—A small playhouse renovated from an old railroad company office is fast becoming a center for revival of theater art in Korea.

The Wogak-Sa Theater, named after one of the first modern theaters that existed 60 years ago, was primarily meant to be an art center to show foreigners Korea's traditional music and dances.

But since the government founded it 1 1/2 years ago the theater has become a mecca for musicians, dancers and dramatists of all styles.

More than 60 different programs—ranging from stately ancient court music to traditional mask dances and modern ballets—were presented the first 10 months.

More than a dozen plays, mostly works of Korean playwrights, have been staged at the theater, several by professional groups.

ACCLAIMED BY CRITICS
The others were presented by new little theater groups that have sprung up since the Wogak-Sa was opened. One of them, Elliot's "Cocktail Party" recently won acclaim from newspaper critics here.

The government makes no charge for using the theater but limits use by any one group to two or three days.

The 304-seat two-story playhouse in the heart of downtown Seoul not only provides a place for stage-hungry theater art, it also brings about a drastic change in the style of acting in Korea.

Koreans, being theater-loving people, flocked to shows in large crowds before the Korean War and supported several extremely successful theatrical groups. Their performances were given always at big playhouses accommodating over 1,500 persons.

In those days actors had to have powerful lungs. They had to shout their lines to be heard and gesture and act accordingly. Acting in the relatively small Wogak-Sa, actors and actresses can now talk instead of yelling.

Another Roadway Award Is Made

COLORADO CITY — A special commission appointed by County Judge Elmer Martin to set the value of land for right-of-way awarded Luther Long, $7,000 for 23.817 acres of land in a hearing Tuesday.

The Texas Highway Department plans to use the land as part of a bypass on Interstate 20, north of Colorado City. Commissioners were Preston Thompson, R. B. Baker and Ross Dockrey.

GARDEN TALK

Often Leaving Plants Alone Is Best Treatment

Oops! Once in a while a letter gets lost here on top of the desk. Today I opened one dated June 12 from Mrs. Carl McKee of Vealmoor, and my face is red because the letter wasn't... until now, anyway.

She writes, "My nandina shrubs bloom and bloom but never hold the berry. I have Balm-of-Gilead trees in my yard, and little ants are just thick everywhere. The trees get brown, and the leaves fall off. Will you tell me why, and what to do."

First let's talk about the ants on the trees. They are going up there for a number of reasons, but no matter what the purpose, they can be stopped by painting a band around the trunk of the tree with any sticky substance. Molasses, asphalt roofing material, honey, or anything that won't harm the tree but will tangle the feet of the ants will do to stop them.

Balm-of-Gilead trees do get spots on the leaves, and it may be caused by several different insects. The worst one to control is the leaf miner which lives between the outside layers of leaf skin. This bug is protected from most insecticides because there is a thin layer of leaf over both sides of him, and he is in an envelope of membrane which originally was the leaf surface. Look closely and see if this is the case. If you find these are not holes, do nothing to the tree.

There is another bug, a lady bird beetle that comes to the tree and searches this little worm out and breaks in and destroys him. Spraying kills the lady bird beetle, and the worm will defoliate your tree. It may be that you will have to hold off spraying for as long as two years, but at HCJC our trees are doing well today thanks to no spraying, and letting nature take its course. If this is not the insect doing the damage, and he is indeed eating all the leaf, or eating through the leaf entirely, then a good stomach poison will control it.

To get nandinas to hold the berry well, fertilize in January and again in June. Don't let them suffer for water at any time in the summer. Another reason they fail to berry is because of poor pollination at blooming time. Cool weather at that time, a rain or a hot dry wind all can cause poor pollination. There is a chemical called Fruitee-B that can be sprayed on the flowers and this seems to help them set berries. Also nandinas need to be planted in a grouping so as to set berries. They don't berry very well from their own pollen. They need cross pollination with other plants.

If you have a garden question, write to Bruce Frazier in care of the Big Spring Herald. We don't always mislay the letters.

Mountain Climbers To Aid Spacemen

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The men who conquered Mount Everest—tallest point on earth—may assist in sending man on into the heavens through a series of high altitude experiments.

An Air Force doctor plans to examine Sir Edmund Hillary and Dr. Hugh Griffiths, two members of the British party which first climbed the 29,002-foot mountain in 1953, during a nine-month expedition to Nepal starting next month.

Capt. Thomas O. Nevison Jr. hopes the experiments and observations of how men perform at altitudes of 19,000 feet and above over long periods of time will give medical men a hint as to how well space travelers can adapt to thin atmospheres.

Nevison, of the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine at Brooks AFB here, says it would be helpful to designers of space vehicles if the atmosphere inside the cabins could be kept fairly low to match the lack of pressure in space, which is a vacuum.

This, he said, would lessen the need for heavy materials to strengthen the space craft.

Hillary, Griffiths and Nevison will be part of a 15-man party which hopes to scale Mount Makalu, fifth highest peak in the world, and catch at least a glimpse of the Yeti or Abominable Snowman.

Nevison said in an interview he plans to record the pulse, brain waves, respiration, body temperature, skin surface temperature and heart beat of the expedition members through cables attached to transistorized instruments on and in the bodies of the climbers.

If possible, he will use telemeter equipment to send the information from the slopes of the mountain to a laboratory camp at the 19,000-foot pass near the mountain. Nevison also plans to capture samples of the breath exhaled by climbers and analyze it for oxygen and carbon dioxide content.

Israel, Argentina Settle Differences In Eichmann Case

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel and Argentina have settled their differences over the kidnaping of Adolf Eichmann, accused of directing the mass murder of six million Jews under Hitler.

Israeli agents seized Eichmann in Argentina May 21 and whisked him off to Israel, where he now awaits trial as a war criminal. The Argentine government charged that Israel had infringed on Argentine sovereignty by acting without its knowledge or consent. It demanded Eichmann's return to Argentina.

A communique Wednesday night in Buenos Aires and Jerusalem said: "The governments of Israel and the Republic of Argentina, animated by the wish to comply with the U.N. Security Council resolution of June 23 in which hope was expressed that traditionally friendly relations between the two countries would be advanced, have decided to regard as closed the incident that arose out of the action by Israeli authorities which infringed the fundamental rights of the state of Argentina."

Coahoma Budget Hearing Aug. 22

Sen. Johnson Urges New Foreign Policy

BLANCO (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson told his home folks Wednesday night that the nation needs a new foreign policy of using food and fiber surpluses to wipe out fear and famine.

"I believe a little food for hungry stomachs and a little clothing for naked backs will have a lot more influence than the worn-out tanks we have been sending overseas," said the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

Johnson spoke off the cuff to an estimated crowd of 5,000 who gathered at Blanco State Park to hear his farewell address before returning to Congress and the big campaign for the November election.

He leaves Friday for appearances in Oklahoma City and will go from there to Washington. "Everybody is here except a few Republicans," said Mayor George Byars of nearby Johnson City. "We didn't leave enough folks at home to put out a fire if one started."

Johnson was born in Blanco but moved to Johnson City when a boy. Time and time again the crowd interrupted him with applause and shouts of "Pour it on, Lyndon." The nominee wore a conservative brown business suit and white shirt plus a big white hat and fancy hand-stitched cowboy boots.

"I can remember when this county was divided over putting the court house in Blanco or Johnson City," Johnson said. "That's the way some people would like to divide the state today. That's the way Khrushchev would like to divide the nation. "I am not going to hold it against anyone because he was born in a certain part of the country, and I am very proud the presidential nominee, Jack Kennedy, did not hold it against me."

Later Johnson referred to criticism by some persons and groups about Kennedy belonging to the Roman Catholic Church. "Americans would do well to remember that all the denominations in this country are outnumbered 12 to 1 in the world," Johnson said.

"The way to size up a man is to look him in the eye and I have looked in Jack Kennedy's eyes. No human being in the world is going to dictate his decisions. He is going to do what is best for America."

Other guests at the barbecue supper included Gov. Price Daniel, U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough, U.S. Rep. Homer Thornberry, National Committeeman Byron Skelton, National Committeewoman Mrs. Hilda Weibert, and State Democratic Chairman J. Ed Connally. All of them appeared earlier at a closed door workshop at Johnson's LBJ Ranch, along with several hundred campaign workers from over the state.

Some of those attending the "private" meeting said Johnson thanked the group for their help in the Johnson-for-President drive and asked them to continue their effort for the Democratic ticket in November.

Few Showers Fall In Panhandle

By The Associated Press

A few isolated thundershowers fell in the northern Texas Panhandle during the wee hours of Thursday.

But shortly before daylight the entire state was clear except for some low clouds in central and southeast portions of the state.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 82 at Galveston to 67 at Dalhart.

Top temperatures Wednesday ranged from a sizzling 110 at Presidio down to 90-degrees at Corpus Christi. Wichita Falls reported a maximum 103, Laredo 102, Childress, Cotulla, and San Angelo 101, and Mineral Wells 100.

The only measurable rain reported before 6 p.m. Wednesday was Dalhart's .16 of an inch. Forecasts called for continued hot weather with clear to partly cloudy skies and widely scattered or isolated afternoon and evening thundershowers.

Lyndon Unhappy Over Dallas News GOP Endorsement

DALLAS (AP)—Sen. Lyndon Johnson, the Democrats' nominee for vice president, has expressed disappointment over the Dallas News endorsement of the Republican ticket.

Vice President Richard Nixon and his GOP running mate, Henry Cabot Lodge, on the other hand have voiced gratification.

The Dallas News published letters from all three men today.

"I would be less than frank if I didn't tell you I had hoped for the endorsement of the Dallas News," Johnson wrote. "For many years I have enjoyed a friendly relationship with the newspaper and I would have appreciated it if you had come to the conclusion that my candidacy was worthy of your support."

"I have read your editorial. It deals with principles rather than personalities and I appreciate that fact very much. You have been generous and objective in your treatment of me and I know that as the campaign progresses, you will continue to treat me objectively. Even though we cannot see eye to eye on everything, I believe it is possible for us to disagree without being disagreeable..."

Nixon wrote that he "deeply appreciated your editorial," and a one-sentence note from Lodge to the News said he was "deeply grateful."

CHARLES WASH'S WOMEN
... Renee, 3, wife Patsy, Debbie, 7, and Charla, 5.

Daughters' Pets Help Keep Mrs. Wash Busy

By SHERI WEBBER
There is a zoo on East 17th Street — at the Charles Wash home.

Actually that is an exaggeration. But there is a bird, a fat cocker spaniel, a 6-year-old Siamese cat, and three turtles who are named Nancy, Babette and Jeanie. (The names change at the whims of their young mistresses.)

"It takes me all morning to feed the girls and the animals," exclaims Mrs. Wash.

The Washes have three daughters. Debbie is 7 and will be in the second grade this September, while her sister, 5-year-old Charla, will start kindergarten. Renee, 3, will be the only one at home to entertain her mother.

Mrs. Wash is a native of Big Spring. She graduated from the local high school and attended Howard County Junior College.

The former Patsy Young met Charles Wash on a blind date in June nine years ago, and the following November they were married. The young couple then moved to Waco where he finished his degree in business administration. Charles is now in partnership with his father and a brother in the Porsan Oil Well Service.

With three daughters, who are each rapidly growing into young ladies, Patsy Wash has seen the necessity of sewing. So with the help of her mother, Mrs. O. D. Young, she is beginning her first cautious stitches on the sewing machine Charles gave her for Christmas. Patsy still laughs when she remembers that her husband hid the present in the shower of their half-bath.

Another occupation for Mrs. Wash's time is her work at College Baptist Church. On Sundays she teaches a class of six-year-olds. She is also program chairman as well as secretary-treasurer of the WMS this term.

Early American has been the choice of Mrs. Wash in decorating her three bedroom home. "We are furnishing a room at a time," says Patsy. So far they have furnished the living room, master bedroom and dining area with the maple furniture. The girl's bedrooms are next.

The kitchen is furnished with yellow appliances — they include a washer, refrigerator, freezer and dish washer. The oven is built into the wall, and the burners are set into the cabinet top.

One striking decoration was created by Patsy Wash to brighten the hall way. A white bird cage holds a make-believe bird, and artificial flowers and grapes spill through the tiny bars.

Since her husband doesn't care for casseroles, Mrs. Wash usually steers away from them. The one casserole she has found that her husband does like is the Grilled Potato and Hamburger Pie.

Cherry Nut Cake is a tradition in the Wash family; it appears on special occasions, and is a favorite at Christmas time. Patsy Wash finds it to be a pretty cake — pink from the maraschino cherry juice.

GRILLED POTATO AND HAMBURGER PIE
2 heavy skillets
1 lb. ground beef
1 tbsp. butter
1/4 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. dry mustard
1/2 cup chili sauce
1/2 cup black pepper
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
Melt butter and brown the ground beef in one skillet. Add remaining ingredients and keep warm while preparing potatoes.
1 pkg. instant mashed potatoes
2 tbsp. instant minced onion
4 tbsp. butter according to package directions. Stir onion and half of butter in the potatoes. Melt remaining butter in skillet. Spread potatoes in butter and top with hamburger mixture. Simmer until potatoes are lightly browned. Serves 4-6 people.

CHERRY NUT CAKE
Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Generously grease and dust with flour two round layer pans. Sift together:
2 1/2 cups flour
1 1/4 cups sugar
4 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. salt
Add:
2-3 cup shortening
1-3 cup maraschino cherry juice
2-3 cup milk
16 maraschino cherries cut in eighths
Beat for two minutes then add:
2-3 cup unbeaten egg whites (5 egg whites)
Beat two minutes more. Fold in 1/2 cup chopped nuts. Pour batter into pans and bake 30-35 minutes.

Meat Thermometer
Meat thermometers that come with ranges should never be stored in the oven. After using the thermometer, do not immerse it in water or in an automatic dishwasher. It should be washed with sudsy water, then rinsed. If it is stained, rub it lightly with fine steel wool or soapy scouring pad.

Add Color
If you want your pie filling (made from canned tart red cherries) to look bright, add a little red vegetable coloring.

Colorful Paprika Gives Flavor, Spice To Dishes
Only the aristocrats of the paprika world, out of some 400 varieties, end up on your spice shelf as ground paprika. These are the gayest, reddest pepper pods—thick-fleshed and sweetest to the taste. Paprika varieties belong to the big Capsicum family which was discovered in tropical America in the 16th Century, throughout Chile, Mexico, Peru, the West Indies and Central America. The sweet peppers are distinctly different. Big, little; hot, sweet; red, white, orange and green capsicums have been discovered. Since the paprika plant hybridizes readily there are all kinds of species and subspecies from which spice processors can choose the best.

It's not hard to account for the 12,000,000 pounds of paprika we use annually in the U.S.A. when you remember that much of this is used by sausage manufacturers and canners of catsup, condiments and sauces. The popular hot dog is one of the largest paprika consumers.

Many kinds of dishes look more appetizing if you give them a light dusting of paprika. This goes especially for potatoes, macaroni, noodles, egg dishes, cream soups, bland creamed meats and other pale foods. Paprika should, of course, be dashed on the last minute when it is used as a garnish.

Very often paprika is used as a basic ingredient rather than merely as a topping, as witness these recipes:

PAPRIKA-CHEESE CRUST TUNA FISH PIES
10 1/2 oz. can cream of mushroom soup
2 cans (7 oz.) tuna fish, flaked
1-16 tsp. paprika
1-16 tsp. cayenne (optional)
1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. ground black pepper
1 cup green peas
1 1/2 cups whole kernel corn
1 tsp. fresh lemon juice
Paprika-Cheese Pastry
Combine soup, tuna fish, paprika, cayenne, if used, salt, black pepper, peas, corn and lemon juice. Turn into four individual baking dishes. Top with Paprika-Cheese Pastry rolled 1/4 inch thick, one inch longer and one inch wider than the baking dishes. Trim, turn under and flute edge. Cut two or three gashes in crust to allow for escape of steam. Bake in a preheated hot oven (425 degrees F.) 30 minutes or until crust has browned. Yield: 4 servings.

PAPRIKA-CHEESE PASTRY
1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1/4 tsp. salt
2 tps. paprika
Dash cayenne
1-3 cup grated strong-flavored American cheese
1-3 cup shortening
2 tps. cold water
Sift flour with salt, paprika and cayenne. Add cheese and shortening and blend with two knives or a pastry blender until the mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Sprinkle with water. Mix lightly and roll to 1/4 inch thickness, 1 inch longer and wider than the baking dish. Place over top of pie. Trim, turn under and flute edge. Yield: Pastry for four individual pies.

PAPRIKA CRAB DE LUXE IN PATTY CASES
1 tsp. instant minced onion
1 tsp. water
3 tps. butter or margarine
3 tps. flour
1 1/2 cups milk
1 can crab meat (6 1/2 oz.)
1/4 tsp. salt
1-16 tsp. ground black pepper
1 tsp. paprika
2 tps. fresh lemon juice
Pastry shells or bread cases
Paprika for garnish
Parsley flakes
Soak instant minced onion in water for 5 minutes. Sauté in butter or margarine. Blend in flour. Remove from heat and stir in milk. Cook until of medium thickness. Stir in crab meat, salt, black pepper, paprika and lemon juice. Cook only until hot. Serve in pastry shells or bread cases. Garnish with additional paprika and parsley flakes. Yield: four servings.

CHICKEN PAPRIKA
2 1/2 lbs. fryer chicken
2 tps. salt
4 tps. shortening
1 1/2 cups diced fresh tomatoes
2 tps. green pepper flakes
1/2 cup water
1 tsp. instant minced onion
1 tsp. paprika
1/4 tsp. garlic powder
1-16 tsp. cayenne
2 tps. flour
2 tps. water

Salmon: Fish Fit For An Epicurean
By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Newsfeatures Food Editor
Salmon's reputation for being an epicurean food is richly deserved. Steaks cut from the fish can be attractive supper-party fare. Easy to prepare and serve, they are rich enough to make guests feel sumptuously fed.

Spice Up Your Table With Flavorful Creole Cooking

Capture the flavor of Creole cooking! That wonderful Southern amalgam—tomato, green pepper, celery, onion, garlic and parsley—are the savory seasonings of this main dish.

Add crabmeat and eggplant to the Creole combination and spoon back into the eggplant shells, then cover with cheese. Prepare this in advance, if you like, then before serving time forget it while its flavors blend deliciously in the oven.

This is a dish to serve when guests come to lunch or it may be one of the hot dishes on a party supper buffet. Of course there's no law against preparing it for just the family.

You may wish to use quilted foil, as we did in testing this recipe, to make a practical container for the eggplant. Juices collect in the foil and save you scrubbing a pan, and it's attractive when you bring the dish to the table.

BAKED EGGPLANT AND CRABMEAT
1 large eggplant
3 tps. butter or margarine
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
1/2 cup sliced celery
1/2 cup finely cut onion
6 tps. finely cut parsley
4 tps. finely cut green pepper
1/2 clove garlic, crushed
2 tps. medium or dry sherry
1/2 lb. crabmeat, free of cartilage
1/2 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. white pepper
1 1/2 cups medium grated cheddar cheese

Cut eggplant in half lengthwise through stem and blossom end. Cut out the pulp, leaving a shell 1/4-inch thick; cut pulp into 1/2-inch cubes.

Melt butter in saucepan over very low heat; toss eggplant in butter; cover and steam, stirring occasionally, about 10 minutes. Add tomato sauce, celery, onion, parsley, green pepper, garlic and sherry. Bring to a boil; simmer about 10 minutes. Stir in crabmeat, salt and pepper.

Place eggplant shells in center of an 18-inch length of foil (14 inches wide) so stem ends are side by side. Fold over edges of foil around the shells, to form a figure 8-shaped container about 2 inches deep; flute edge (as you would pastry); place on cookie sheet.

Fill the shells with hot mixture; top with cheese. Bake in a moderate (375 degree) oven 40 minutes. Serve in the shells and foil. Makes 4 servings.

Red Tomatoes Enliven Menus For Summer Dinners, Lunches

Do you take advantage of some of the interesting ways fresh tomatoes can bring changes in everyday menus?

One of our own favorite combinations, always well received, is made from layers of ripe tomatoes, paper-thin onion rings and fresh basil leaves marinated in a dressing of oil, vinegar, salt and freshly-ground pepper. Thin slices of cucumber, pared or with green peel left on, may also be added.

If basil is not at hand in your garden, on your window sill or at your market, you may use crushed dried basil. But the marinated leaves taste utterly delicious so, if you can get them, do try this combination. Serve it (with crusty rolls and good butter) as an appetizer, an accompaniment to cold meat or smoked fish, or a separate salad course.

Do you know how to add interest to the usual fillings for stuffed tomatoes? Introduce a surprise. Ordinary egg salad, for example, is elegant when chunks of cooked lobster are included. Or add a flavorful grated semi-soft cheese to a filling of the usual cottage cheese. Cooked chilled lentils, seasoned with oil, vinegar and minced onion are delicious but not often encountered in tomatoes.

Four's A Team

... eggplant, tomatoes, cheese and bacon

bottom. Then spread the cuts apart and put spoonful of a stick-together-filling into and along each cut for a striped effect.

Tomatoes and eggplant are great as a team, but when you embellish them with cheese and bacon you have a hearty and delightful luncheon or supper dish.

LUNCH STACKS
1 eggplant (1/2 lb.)
1 egg
1-3 cup fine toasted bread crumbs
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
4 tps. butter
2 large tomatoes
8 slices sharp cheddar cheese
16 strips bacon (half fried).
Wash and dry eggplant; do not peel. Cut 8 slices 1/4-inch thick from wide center part of eggplant. Beat egg enough to combine yolk and white. Mix bread crumbs with salt and pepper. Dip each of the 8 eggplant slices in egg, then in the seasoned bread crumbs.

Fry eggplant on both sides until lightly browned and cooked through in hot butter in skillet; add butter a tablespoon at a time as needed.

Cut each tomato into 4 slices. On each eggplant slice arrange a tomato slice, a cheese slice and 3 strips bacon (crispcross). Broil until tomatoes are hot, cheese melts and bacon is crisp; or bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven on a cookie sheet for 15 minutes or longer. Makes 4 servings.

NOTE: Narrow ends of eggplant may be sliced and dipped in any remaining egg and bread crumbs and fried.

Salmon: Fish Fit For An Epicurean

but wait till you taste it! The carrots become richly sweet and add color and flavor to the sauce. Light cream instead of milk may be used in the white sauce but in this day of calorie-counters and budget-watchers—we find it quite smooth and delicious as it is.

SALMON STEAKS, WITH CREAMY CARROTS
4 salmon steaks (about 1 1/2 lbs.)
Butter or margarine
2 medium-sized carrots
Salt
2 tps. flour
Milk
1 tsp. medium or dry sherry
White pepper
Parsley

Arrange salmon steaks in one layer in a foil-lined shallow pan just large enough to hold them; brush with melted butter.

With swivel-blade vegetable peeler, pare carrots and cut crosswise into thin rounds. File carrots onto a foil rectangle; dot with 1/4 tablespoon butter and sprinkle with 2 tablespoons water. Bring up long ends of foil to meet and fold over double; fold over ends several times to seal.

Bake salmon and carrots-in-foil in a moderate (375 degrees) oven 20 minutes or until fish flakes easily. Remove fish and carrots. Lift steaks with wide spatula to serving dish turning them over (for best appearance) and keep warm; sprinkle with salt.

Pour salmon liquid into a measure; add enough milk to make a cup. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a one-quart saucepan over low heat; stir in flour. Add milk mixture; cook and stir constantly over low heat until thickened and bubbly. Add carrots and salt and pepper to taste; reheat if necessary. Stir in sherry.

Spoon around salmon steaks; garnish fish with parsley-minced or in sprigs. Makes 4 servings.

NOTE: If salmon steaks are frozen, thaw before using.

Fish Samplers
Hot appetizers are always popular with tall cool drinks. Fish samplers are easy to prepare because they can be arranged on skewers a few hours ahead of serving and held in the refrigerator. Thaw a package each of frozen fish sticks, clam sticks and clam balls. Cut the sticks in bite-size pieces and thread alternately with clam balls, olives, mushrooms and miniature tomatoes on skewers. Broil about 8 minutes, turning frequently and basting with a spicy barbecue sauce. Serve with more barbecue sauce for dunking.

Salad With New Twist

A different twist for a perennial summer salad.

FRUIT AND COTTAGE CHEESE SALAD
1 container (8 ounces) cream-style cottage cheese (small or large curd)
4 to 6 slices bacon (crispy cooked and crumbled)
2 large oranges
2 bananas
4 slices pineapple
Salad greens
French dressing

Mix cottage cheese and crumbled bacon. Peel oranges and slice into rounds. Peel bananas and cut in half crosswise and lengthwise. Arrange oranges, bananas and pineapple on salad greens around cottage cheese mixture. Serve with French dressing. Makes 4 servings.

Sugar Still Plentiful In City; Beef Prices Lower

Cuba hasn't affected Big Spring's sugar supply yet, says one of the local wholesalers.

Although the price of sugar is up 35 cents per hundred pounds, the dealer says that this is not uncommon, for he has often seen sugar prices fluctuate to this extent before.

Sugar is now starting to come from the new state of Hawaii, and it was the wholesaler's opinion that prices would level off in a few weeks.

In Big Spring sugar is moving at a good clip. There doesn't seem to be too much hoarding of the food, for most of it is going into the seasonal job of home canning.

BEEF PRICES
In Big Spring front quarter cuts of beef—such as chuck roast and chuck steak—are now the best buys, relates the owner of a wholesale meat company.

Processed beef is down 3 cents a pound from just a few weeks ago. Best all-around buys come when getting a half or quarter of a beef. Ground beef is moving well in local markets.

Bacon is up in price since this is not the pork season.

VERY big on TASTE

Fashion in dress, as with fashion in food, is very much a matter of taste.

Borden's Golden Vanilla has become the criterion of good taste in ice cream just as Paris is the criterion of design in today's fashions.

Hot appetizers are always popular with tall cool drinks. Fish samplers are easy to prepare because they can be arranged on skewers a few hours ahead of serving and held in the refrigerator. Thaw a package each of frozen fish sticks, clam sticks and clam balls. Cut the sticks in bite-size pieces and thread alternately with clam balls, olives, mushrooms and miniature tomatoes on skewers. Broil about 8 minutes, turning frequently and basting with a spicy barbecue sauce. Serve with more barbecue sauce for dunking.
