Taft Family, In U.S. Since Beginning, Will Meet Again

By JOHN KNOX
MENDON, Mass. (AP)—The illustrious and far-flung Taft clan makes a pilgrimage next week to the little farm town where it first took root in America.

The occasion is the traditional "Taft gathering" on Aug. 29 when all available members of the clan get together to pay homage to their common ancestor, Robert Taft, who settled in Mendon 231 years ago.

The original Taft was a humble carpenter and farmer who came with his wife Sarah from the British Isles to carve a new home out of the southern Massachusetts wilderness in 1679.

His distinguished recent descendants have included:

William Howard Taft, the 27th president of the United States and later its chief justice.

Robert A. Taft, the outspoken, longtime "Mr. Republican" in the U.S. Senate.

CHURCHMAN

Charles P. Taft II, former mayor of Cincinnati and president of the old Federal (now National) Church of Churches of Christ.

Ezra Taft Benson, secretary of agriculture and one of the Twelve Apostles of the Mormon Church.

Alphonso Taft, secretary of war and attorney general in President Grant's cabinet, who transplanted the best known branch of the Taft clan from Vermont to its current stronghold in Cincinnati in 1838.

Alphonso was one of the moving spirits behind the first Taft gathering in 1874. They have been held irregularly ever since. The last—and most exciting—was in 1954.

The excitement was provided by an uninvited guest named Diane, a hurricane that turned into a cloudburst washing out bridges over the West, Mumford and Blackstone rivers over which Tafts had to travel.

OTHERS STRANDED

More than 300 redoubtable Tafts, including 86-year-old Walter Taft of Belmont, Mass., managed to make it but an estimated 67 others were stranded in various parts of the northeastern United States.

Better weather and better attendance are expected this year but still no one is sure just how many will be on hand since no one knows exactly how many of colonist Robert Taft's progeny are around.

Not as anyone sure precisely where in the British Isles the original Taft hailed from. It may have been England, Wales or Ireland. All have been mentioned.

Robert and Sarah arrived in the colonies in 1678, staying for a time in the coastal town of Braintree before moving to what was then called "Mendham" in the wild interior.

OHIO DYNASTY

One of Robert's great-grandsons, Aaron, moved to West Townsend, Vt., around 1800 to become the grandfather of Alphonso, the Taft who wandered even farther afield to establish the dynasty in Ohio.

Alphonso's sons added luster to the name.

One, William Howard, became president of the United States. Another, Charles Phelps, built the Cincinnati Times-Star into one of the most influential newspapers in the Middle West. A third, Horace Dutton, founded the Taft School, a preparatory academy in Watertown, Conn.

DEAR ABBY IT'S AN EXCUSE

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am very much in love with a man. He told me he was very fond of me but not to plan on marriage because he was married once and his wife double-crossed him and he will never be able to trust another woman again.

I love him, Abby, and have proved it in every way I know how, but he still says his bad experience can't let him trust another woman. Does his excuse make good sense to you?

WANTS A WEDDING RING

DEAR WANTS: It makes about as much sense as a man who will borrow a car but refuses to buy one—because he once got stuck with a lemon.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't tell me to send my husband to our clergyman because he would never go. In fact, he even stays away from funerals because he thinks the minister is talking about him.

My husband has a drinking problem. One night he was passed out on the sofa when my sister and her husband came over, so we just let him lay there. Suddenly he jumped up like a mad man and slapped my face. He said he saw me kissing my brother-in-law. He must have been dreaming. My sister took my part, so he kicked her. Then her husband got mad and hit my husband and the fight started. It took the police to break it up.

I left my husband that night. A

THIS DAY IN TEXAS

By CURTIS BISHOP

On this day in 1907 the State of Texas imposed its first regulations upon the driving of automobiles.

A speed limit of 18 miles an hour on a state highway was set, with a maximum of only eight miles an hour within the limits of any corporate town. Drivers were also required to brake their machines to a stop at a signal from the driver of a horse team and let the animals pass.

Another regulation required that each motor vehicle should be equipped with a bell which the driver had to ring in warning as he approached a cross street or a road intersection.

The law also provided for the displaying of state licenses on all motor vehicles, the first regulation enacted for the registration of cars. Licenses were cheaper then, like everything else, the charge being only 50 cents.

License tags were purchased at the county clerk's office, which is about the only thing about this early law that has not been changed.

The Topic Of Taxes

Recently the Governor's State Finance Advisory Commission noted that Texas ranked near the bottom in total revenue from state taxes compared with personal income. In this respect the state ranked 37th in the nation with 3.9 per cent of per capita income going for taxes as compared with the national average of 4.2 per cent. Schools get 1.7 per cent of personal income in Texas, which makes the state 19th in this respect.

Previously, members of the panel had advanced some of their conclusions on types of taxes which Texas could best levy to balance its budget. Prominent among the list was that of the general sales tax, or in its modified form as a selective sales tax. Still another was the proposal of a payroll tax.

It remained for Jerry Holleman, executive secretary for the state labor federation, to propose the state income tax.

While he did not elaborate, it is presumed that he has in mind one patterned after the federal system—exemptions on the bottom end and accelerated bite on the top end.

It is doubtful if his proposal will find much immediate following. The sales tax, to which he is so bitterly opposed, also faces some formidable barricades, including what might be taken as a recent expression of public sentiment against it.

All of which settles nothing except the fact that taxes and how to raise them will be a paramount matter facing the next Legislature. Perhaps the observation of French Robertson, member of the committee, is well taken, for he suggested that whatever tax is employed should be a pliable one that will expand with the economic expansion of the state. Finding it will be no easy job.

Defense May Get More Support

America's military strength is "second to none and will be kept that way." Moreover, if additional funds are needed to step up the country's readiness, "I shall promptly request the necessary funds."

So said President Eisenhower in his message to a reconvening Congress Monday.

He noted "an intensification of Communist treachery," pointed out that "the Soviet dictator has talked loosely and irresponsibly about a possible missile attack on the United States."

Communist treachery was noted in the Congo, and Mr. Eisenhower said flatly that "we know about Cuba."

The message obviously sought to offset Democratic (and some Republican) demands for a stepped-up military program, by promising acceleration where needed—presumably if and when the President, on his own motion, deems it necessary.

The Democrats are ready to cite chapter and verse wherein a Democratic Congress provided funds for additional defense insurance and the administration impounded them or at least kept them inactive and unused.

Since some of the additional insurance provided for in the unused appropriations are of a nature to require considerable time to bring to fruition after a start is actually made, the Democratic majority is not likely to accept the President's promise of action without reservations.

After all, we all do know about Cuba and Khrushchev's intemperate threats.

Who's Responsible For Government?

WASHINGTON — A different type of national political convention has assembled here this week under circumstances that reflect seriously on the prestige of the United States throughout the world.

At a time of crisis, at a time when America boasts of her democratic institutions, the fact is that, among persons abroad schooled in the science of government, the term "responsible government" is not applied to the system in effect in this country. It is more often described as "irresponsible government."

THUS, IN THE elections two years ago, the American people chose the Democratic party to control and rule the Congress of the United States. Since its members in the House and Senate comprise a majority of virtually two-thirds and since a few additional votes are usually available from the opposite party, even the veto of a President can be overridden. Why then cannot the major planks of the platform of the Democratic party be put into effect by law—or rather why haven't they been enacted in the last two years?

The truth is that, in actual practice, the Democratic party does not command a majority because it is divided on such issues as "civil rights" and on many economic questions. There is no such thing as party discipline. A member of Congress can desert his own party and suffer no penalty—not even the loss of a committee chairmanship, which his party can at will withdraw from him.

THEORETICALLY, as Congress reassembles after a recess taken primarily to allow members of both parties to attend their national political conventions, there is every opportunity to pass the most important provisions of the Democratic party platform. If there is economic discontent or dissatisfaction among the American people with anything that can be cured by law, the party which has been in control of Congress for the last two years is responsible for failure to provide the remedy.

If the members of the party in power do not face up to their obligations, the people presumably have a right to choose another party at the polls. But in virtually all the Southern states there is no active or organized Republican party which puts up candidates for Congress. This, too, impresses foreign observers as a weakness.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY, moreover, needs to win something less than a majority of the seats in the Northern states and yet, by adding its Southern Democrats, can still control both houses of Congress.

As Congress reassembles, there is a novel situation which serves to re-emphasize the irresponsibility of the present system. Lyndon Johnson, nominee of the Democratic party for the vice presidency of the United States, is also the majority leader of the Senate. His sponsor at the Democratic national convention at Los Angeles, Sam Rayburn, is still the Speaker of the House of Representatives. Yet, for the action or inaction at the session beginning this week, there is no way at present by which the American people can fix responsibility on the Democratic party.

SENATOR KENNEDY, the Democratic nominee for the presidency, already has brushed aside the role of Congress at the current session. He says publicly that little can be done to fulfill the provisions of the platform because the Democratic party does not control the executive branch of the government.

To observers, however, from other countries where parliamentary systems are in operation, this will appear to be a sweeping admission of the failure of the American system. For if a party commands virtually two-thirds of both houses of Congress—enough to assure an overriding of the presidential veto if the public desires a piece of legislation—it seems strange that the fault should be placed on the "other executive wing" which has no vote in Congress, and has the right of participation in the actual writing of legislation.

All he can do is appeal for the passage of needed legislation, which Mr. Eisenhower has done in his message. Abroad the prime minister is chosen from and remains a member of Parliament.

IF THERE is something wrong with America for which the Republicans are to blame—and the speakers at the Democratic national convention seemed to think so—then, it will be asked, why isn't it more important for the members of Congress who belong to the ruling party to begin passing the corrective legislation at once? Why will they engage instead in maneuvers at this current session, which promises to be a continuation of the same political farce that characterizes the system of choosing party nominees at national conventions? Do the people really have a say, or do the political cliques and blocs that blame everything on each other actually run the country? And when will the people become sufficiently aroused to demand a system of "responsible government"?

Demo Steamroller Is Under Way

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Democrats have scolded their worst foe to party unity and now should be able—thanks to their overwhelming numbers in both houses—to steamroller the Republicans for the rest of this abbreviated session of Congress.

As the drama unfolds in these blazing August days on Capitol Hill—with the presidential campaign due to start in early September—here are some very important figures to keep in mind:

In the Senate the Democrats outnumber the Republicans 66-34 and in the House, where there are five vacancies, 280-152. Tuesday the Democrats showed what they could do to the Republicans when they chose to stick together.

THEY CLOSED RANKS with a bang—Northern Democrats and Southern Democrats together—to block a Republican attempt to force action on some civil rights bills.

Although earlier this year the Democratic-run Congress passed the second civil rights bill in the 20th century—the first was passed in 1957—President Eisenhower called for some civil rights legislation.

If the Democrats had permitted a Senate wrangle over civil rights, that would have ended any hope for real accomplishment in this Congress before it adjourns.

Eisenhower breakfasted with his Republican leaders in Congress and one of them—Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois—promptly returned to the Senate and offered a two-point civil rights measure.

Democrats from North and South—with four exceptions—joined to smash the Republican proposal. This would indicate they're prepared to do the same to any further attempt in this field.

TO SEN. JOHN F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential candidate, and his vice-presidential running mate, Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, the Northern Negro vote next November will be important. So will the white Southern vote.

But both took a stand against the Republican move on civil rights. The Republican civil rights action was an attempt to get the Senate so snarled up in a Southern Democratic filibuster against any new civil rights measures that it couldn't act on four measures which Kennedy considers of primary importance.

There are federal aid to education, housing, medical care for aged, and raising of the minimum wage.

The Democrats, because of their terrific majorities in both houses, have the numbers to pass the four measures mentioned by Kennedy since in both houses only a majority vote is necessary to pass a bill.

They face the possibility of one hitch—a veto by Eisenhower. Congress can pass a measure over a presidential veto only by a two-thirds vote in both houses and in both houses the Democrats lack a full two-thirds of the membership.

In this highly steamed-up election Eisenhower and his advisers will have to think twice before vetoing a measure which has broad popular appeal, such as the four measures listed by Kennedy.

If, with their huge majorities, they do not pass the kind of legislation urged by Kennedy, the Republicans can ask the voters: why give control of Congress to the Democrats again in November if when they outnumber us so one-sidedly as they do now they still can't agree long enough among themselves to do something?

Electrolysis For Removal Of Unwanted Hair

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. The following letter from an electrologist in Los Angeles is interesting. It was inspired by one of my columns.

"Dear Doctor: The beauty editor of the paper thought you would be interested in the case I discussed with her of growth of hair in the palm of a man's hand."

"The hand had been seriously injured in an accident. Reconstructive surgery was performed and a graft taken from the man's abdomen. He is exceptionally hirsute; therefore the skin grafted to the hand was dense. It was most embarrassing for him to extend a 'fuzzy' or 'bristly' hand in a handshake, or to touch anyone."

"The patient's surgeon referred him to me. By now 80 per cent of the hair growth in the palm has been completely destroyed, and further treatments will result in complete removal."

"Many years ago treatments for removal of superfluous hair brought about unpleasant results, but today in our field, as in the medical field, we have at our disposal improved equipment and techniques. Members of our state association also are pledged to the highest standards in serving our patients."

"Yes, there is hair (whether hair can be adequately controlled or concealed) by bleaching, shaving or use of depilatories.

For cases of real need, where permanency is called for, removal by electrolysis is the only method I know. It is painstaking work, requires a skilled worker who knows how to do it. Happily, we have such skilled workers with the equipment and know-how."

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have been troubled with an itchy rash on my hands. I have been taking both B-complex tablets and Vitamin E. Do you think the Vitamin E could cause it? Could chemicals in the city water cause it? Or detergents? —Mrs. E.M.P."

Itchy rash on the hands is usual contact dermatitis—something you touch rather than something you swallow. I would suspect detergents first, then a host of other things—nickel on scissors or other utensils, carbon paper, furniture polish, soaps, plants, etc."

Dr. Molner is delighted to receive letters from his readers, but regrets that because of the great number received daily he cannot answer them individually. Whenever possible, Dr. Molner uses readers' questions in his column.

Around The Rim

Something Else West Of The Pecos

We hear much about the law west of the Pecos; not quite so much about the hospitality west of the Pecos. As a recent guest in the city of Pecos, I can testify that cordiality still abounds, but hardly to the heights it attained in a historic meeting of the West Texas Press Association there in 1939.

Attending the WTPA parley there last week, I fell to visiting with Barney Hubbs, who recently sold the newspaper which he and Joe Founs had operated as the Enterprise. Barney, who is rounding out 40 years in printing and journalism, was the host publisher in 1939 and enlisted the aid of the Pecos Chamber of Commerce. He got it in a most substantial way, for when the word went out to delegates it was simply this: "When you cross the Pecos, throw away your pocketbook."

THEY MEANT it almost literally, for cafes, service stations, etc., were admonished not to charge the delegates; they could just send the tab to the Pecos chamber or the Enterprise.

The first rattle out of the box the gentlemen of the press were bundled up and hustled off to the Carlsbad Caverns where the WTPA and the New Mexico Press Association had a joint meeting in the depths of the caverns. The next day they had the concluding sessions of WTPA at Pecos.

This would have been enough—more than enough—but it wasn't all. The convention adjourned to the McDonald Observatory and to Fort Davis, and then over what was pretty rugged trails to the heart of the area destined to become the Big Bend National Park. There members camped and explored and ate great stores of fried catfish fresh out of the Rio Grande.

NOR WAS THIS all, for the caravan wound back by Alpine and thence to Fort Stockton where George Baker and his partner, the Pioneer, and the Fort Stockton Chamber of Commerce staged a big barbecue in honor of the delegation.

You couldn't do that sort of thing today—indeed, no one would remotely expect it—but the old timers still talk about that touring convention of 1939 when hospitality set an all time record.

Home Was Never Like This!

Recently I have been ruminating a good bit on New York City's much-advertised role as a Summer Festival or vacation land and on the nation's seven Astronauts. The parlay is not quite as wild as it seems, as you will see.

In the first place, as a long-time resident of New York, the city has never seemed such-a-much to me as a summer resort. It can get mighty hot and humid in these parts. But in 1950 we have so far been blessed with dreamy weather.

THOSE OF US, who went to the Democratic national convention in Los Angeles were lucky, weatherwise, too. It was not until I started zigzagging back across the country on the way to Chicago for the Republican convalescence that I realized how beautiful New York could be in the good, old summertime and how cruelly I had misjudged her.

My first stop out of Los Angeles was Davis, Calif., in the Sacramento Valley. Without any preparation I was plunked down in a heat wave that sent the thermometer to 104 and 105, respectively, during two days with my Aunt Vere.

MY IMPULSE was to wilt, but I had too much pride just to sit and let a woman in her seventies wait on me. I did protest feebly on the 105 day when she insisted on cooking a turkey dinner in my honor.

As I took off for Boise, Idaho, to visit my Aunt Nell and Aunt Kit, and the plane got into the cool upper air, I began to live again.

Then, just as we were about to land in Reno, where I had a two-hour wait for the connecting plane to Boise, the pilot cheerfully announced that it was 107 at the Reno airport. However, the airport was splendidly air-conditioned.

TO WHILE AWAY the interim, I picked up the local paper which had on its front page a horrendous quarter-page picture of the nation's seven brave astronauts being led out that day and turned loose, one by one, to survive on the blistering/Nevada desert around Reno.

My impulse was to call the Humane Society, the President, and the Defense Department. But it was Sunday, and before anyone answered anywhere the Boise plane came in and I flew off to my old home town. Ah, the years I have sat in New York, nostalgically boasting of its cool summers, its icy August nights!

THE FIRST DAY I was there, it was 105. The second, the mercury stood officially at 111, and Boise was the hottest point in the U. S. A., harring only Death Valley.

And all the time I was searching the papers, trying to find out what had become of the astronauts, but nary a word in the papers. I thought the government was probably ashamed to admit the brave lads had died in the blazing desert.

I flew off to Chicago on a day when the Boise thermometer only hit 102 and I was still trying to show my aunts, in their upper eighties, that I could take it just as chipperly as they. But I kept thinking home—meaning New York—was never like this.

THE WEATHER in Chicago was durable. But again I searched the papers in vain to find out what had become of the astronauts. Not until much later, when I read they were all present at Cape Canaveral for a test-firing of a space capsule, did I finally learn the seven had survived the heat.

But I'll bet a dollar after all the ordeals through which they have been put, if any astronaut is ever shot into space, nothing will ever lure him down again unless he is promised a nice, cool summer in New York. (Copyright, 1950, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Common Sense And The Common Market

BRUSSELS—Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson, not often considered a diplomat at home, sometimes talks like one when he gets abroad—a good, tough one.

Benson left this favorable impression at a luncheon speech before some Belgian officials, businessmen and economists. He implied very candidly that he was disappointed in the protectionist gimmicks which the 6-nation Common Market of West Europe is raising against its best friend and godfather, the USA.

THE COMMON MARKET is somewhere past its point of no return as an economic unit almost identical in size and variety with the USA. Things are going very well for the Europeans. Internal trade restrictions are falling away, year by year. There is an impressive integration of agriculture, heavy industry and peaceful development of atomic power.

It's predictable that in another decade or so we will see what early postwar visionaries—among them Churchill and Acheson—halled as a "United States of Europe." This idea, a dream of every continental conqueror, from Charlemagne through Napoleon to Hitler, is probably good for Europe. The question—Is it good for the USA?

MR. BENSON is not making any snap judgments. He came here to talk with European farm producers and their leaders in government. He hopes to find new markets for American surpluses. West Europe is a good customer which, although 87 per cent self-sufficient in farm goods, is also a purchaser that takes over $700,000 a year in American products. We would like to increase the amount—or at least hold the business.

In order to keep the door of West Europe open for farm sales, the USA has tried to set a good example in close-to-free trading. The Secretary pointed out in his address here that we practice liberal trading as well as preach it. We have recently increased our quotas for purchase of European cheeses, eliminated import controls over barley, oats and some dairy products, and reduced or eliminated numerous restrictions on oilseeds and feed grains which the Common Market has for sale.

IT CAN'T BE REPORTED that the Common Market has knocked itself out in reciprocity, although it is too early for anything like a firm and severe judgment. The process of economic integration requires many compromises and arrangements which are several years from being in final form. But, to be frank, some of the protectionist methods in being here are not merely McKinleyesque—they are Rube Goldberg in comic ingenuity.

For example, as a substitute for a high and honest tariff wall against American wheat, there are internal laws which require flour millers to use anywhere from 35 per cent to nearly 80 per cent of domestic wheat. The device excludes a lot of foreign competition—but it is said to be backfiring. The bread from this protectionist flour is not very edible.

BREAD SEEMS to be sinking as a marketable product for another reason—prosperity. European industries are booming. Workers and merchants are eating more meat. This might mean big sales for American-grown feed-grains (oats, barley, sorghums) which are today our outstanding sales to West Europe. But the Common Market nations are now planting their own rice and tobacco instead of buying from abroad.

Thrift is the watchword for the Dutch, Belgian and Luxembourgers who make up the Benelux part of the Common Market. Thrift is not exactly compatible with share-the-wealth. The Benelux governments occasionally buy up farm goods to sustain the price, but they do not get stuck with surpluses as we do. Instead, they release the goods for sale as soon as the price is adjusted, or they give the food—as a treat—to their armed forces.

RECENTLY, BELGIAN troops feasted on butter, and French troops celebrated on free wine. A Common Market official was asked here by an American reporter if the member nations were storing food for a war emergency. With cheerful fatalism, the official replied that, if war came, his people would all be dead—or if not dead, would be fed by some other country.

Well, it all raises quite a subject for debate. Does it pay to promote and protect an economic competitor who is big enough to hurt you? (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Train's Voice Changes

LONG BEACH, N.J. (AP) — The Pennsylvania Railroad's shore commuter run has reached its adolescence. Its voice is changing.

Harmonizing chime horns are replacing the old monotone signals on the diesel engines.

The switch has two objectives, a railroad spokesman says—to boost safety and to pacify nervous-rattled residents who claim the old horns sounded like the bellows of a wounded rhinoceros.

Rebel Safe Given

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — A Confederate safe which has been gathering dust in the basement of the Richmond post office has been turned over to the United Daughters of the Confederacy which will exhibit it at the headquarters here. Postmaster Fergus McHee says he doesn't know the age of the safe, which weighs about a ton, but assumes it has been in the postoffice since before the Civil War.

First Federal Plans Open House For 25th Birthday

The First Federal Savings & Loan Association, which started from scratch a quarter of a century ago, celebrates its 25th anniversary with open house Thursday.

There will be refreshments and favors for those who visit the plant at Fifth and Main to see how savings and loan accounts are serviced. The association will give away $1,000 during the day as a gesture of appreciation of business that has seen assets skyrocket phenomenally during the past few years.

From a modest $18,806 on the books at the end of the first half year of business, the association now shows $7,090,532 in 1,267 first mortgage loans. Savings (shares) have jumped from $27,320 to $8,682,137 in that space of time, and assets have soared from $27,905 to $8,638,358 as of July 31, 1960.

DECADE GAINS
Bulk of the gain has come within the past decade, and currently the association is putting new loans on the books at about the rate of $175,000 per month. For the past six years, loans, shares, and assets all have increased at the rate of approximately a million dollars per year.

The First Federal Savings & Loan Association was chartered in June of 1935 and the first minutes are dated June 17. Thirty-six attended the first meeting and another 18 sent in proxies. Named to the first board of directors were Dr. M. H. Bennett, president; W. W. Inkman, vice president; J. B. Collins, secretary-treasurer; Tom J. Coffee and Wm B. Currie. Of that group, J. B. Collins, who now resides in Abilene, alone is alive.

Immediately after organization (June 26, 1935): Collins resigned as secretary and J. B. Currie was named to succeed him. Robert Stripling was elected when Stewart resigned on Aug. 1, 1943, but Stewart remained on the board.

3 PRESIDENTS
The association has had but three presidents. Dr. Bennett resigned in 1948, and in December of that year, W. W. Inkman was named to succeed him. R. L. Cook was elected president in September of 1950 upon the death of Mr. Inkman.

There has been a similar steadiness in board personnel. Cook came on the board to succeed Tom J. Coffee, who moved out of state in 1948. On June 12, 1950, Elmo Wasson succeeded Wm. B. Currie, deceased, and in December of that year, J. Gordon (Obie) Bristow succeeded Inkman, deceased. R. V. Middleton succeeded Collins, who moved from town, on May 12, 1952, and the last change was when K. H. McGibbon took the place of Obie Bristow, resigned, in January of 1955.

Among those who were represented at the first meeting who still have active accounts with the association are G. H. Hayward, James Little, Winelle Woodall, Janet Robb O'Brien, J. Y. Robb Jr., E. O. Shot Delayed
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Technical problems with the Thor-Delta carrier rocket caused a second postponement early today in an attempt to launch a 100-foot balloon communications satellite into orbit.

Another launching attempt will be made Friday.

Lost License
SENECA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Police said Louis Phillips, 50, had been driving for 30 years without a license. When they halted his car Monday on a routine check and asked to see his license, Phillips told them he mislaid it in 1930 and just never got around to getting another one.

More Jobless Pay Frauds Charged
BROWNSVILLE (AP)—More charges of drawing unemployment compensation while working for pay were filed here Tuesday. The latest complaints named 23 employees of a food processing plant. Similar charges were brought against 49 others working for the firm last week. County Judge Ben Hardy has levied $25 fines against 14 appearing before him in the case so far. He also ordered each to repay the money.

Since the end of World War II, the demand for loans has rocketed, but so has the number of shareholders and their savings.

BIG DIVIDENDS
Starting with a dividend of $148 the first half year, the association has paid out over a million dollars in dividends in the 25-year period. Through Dec. 31, 1959, the amount was $959,766, and since then, a semi-annual payment has been made.

From the 70 shareholders added the first year, the gain dipped to zero during the years 1941-42-43, but by 1953 it crossed the 100 mark to hit 162 and last year the figure was 271. Numerous families use it for their savings accounts, along with trusts, and a lot of parents who are salting money away for their children. The latest figures show 2,759 investors on the books.

FIRST LOAN
The first loan approved by the association was in the amount of $600 to G. J. (Bill) Earley, now deceased, for home improvements at 1702 State.

NEW BUILDING
In September of 1953, the association occupied its present building on property acquired at 500 Main Street. At that time a shift was made to machine posting; nevertheless, the volume of business has been such that the force has steadily enlarged. The Association has acquired other property so that it will be in a position to expand further as the need arises.

State Deficit
AUSTIN (AP)—The state treasurer's books show a deficit in the general revenue fund of $39,061,860 July 31—more than $6 million dollars deeper in the red than a month ago. The June 30 deficit at the Treasury level was $32,919,501. A total of $65,354,712 in warrants on the general revenue fund were outstanding July 31.

Kobi Signs Up For Five More

M. Sgt. Clifford W. Kobi has re-enlisted at Webb for five years—instead of the usual four. With almost 16 years' service on his record, he signed up under a new Air Force directive, to go for "20 or more."

Sgt. Kobi's military career started in 1941 and was broken, 1945-48. During the war he served in England with the U. S. Eighth Air Force as crew chief for P-38 and P-51 aircraft. Since then he has been stationed in Germany.

His second time at Webb, he received his current assignment after completing his last overseas tour of duty. The sergeant is an aircraft inspector in 3560th Maintenance & Supply Group.

He is a native of Garrett, Ind., and his wife, Virginia, is also from Indiana. They have two sons.

NEW YORK (AP)—Agreement has been reached that Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy should meet in live debate on television and radio.

Atlas Test Covers 7,000-Mile Course

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force has fired its Atlas missile over a 7,000-mile course and has taken over three more operational launching positions for the big intercontinental range missile.

The Atlas was launched Tuesday in another demonstration of the rocket's accuracy and range versatility. The target was between the normal Atlas range of 6,325 miles and the record 9,000 miles covered by one of the missiles last May.

The test, termed successful by officials, was "one of several planned over various ranges. Another Atlas is being groomed for an 8,000-mile flight. Scientists also want to check the performance of the missile's nose cone, which is subjected to varied re-entry conditions over different ranges.

Strategic Air Command headquarters in Omaha announced three Atlas launching facilities at Warren Air Force Base, Wyo., have been turned over to SAC's 564th Missile Squadron.

Several hours after the Atlas launching, an erroneous signal caused the cape range safety officer to destroy a Redstone missile a minute after it was fired.

The slim Redstone lifted off on what appeared to be a smooth start to a 200-mile flight. But the Army announced later that "there was an apparent erroneous indication that the missile was off course, which caused the range safety officer to destroy it."

Webb Man Gets His 2nd Ace

Seventeen years ago at the Country Club in Mayfield, Ky., Churk "Churk" Blalock registered his first hole-in-one.

Sergeant Blalock's dream stroke came on the 13th hole (a 150-yarder) as he toured the base greens with Capt. James E. Greene, Wing Staff Judge Advocate, and T. Sgt. William Petrofski of Air Base Group.

"It was pretty quiet that afternoon—little or no wind—and the sun was almost blinding, so we couldn't see where the ball went as we hit the back nine," Churk said.

Perkins is Choice Over Joey Lopes

CHICAGO (AP)—Eddie Perkins of Chicago, No. 4 ranked lightweight contender by the National Boxing Assn., rules a solid 2-1 favorite for his Chicago Stadium bout with Joey Lopes tonight.

Perkins, 23, has defeated Chico Rollins, Larry Boardman and Paola Rost this year to gain his high ranking. He hopes to earn a shot at Joe Brown's title.

Lopes, 29, once was the No. 1 lightweight contender and in his last bout in Chicago Stadium three years ago he battled Brown to a draw. He has a 49-20-5 record, including 19 kayos, but has won only five of his last 14 starts.

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN CHICAGO (AP)—If the All-Stars have a surprise to tantalize the seasoned Baltimore Colts Friday night, it may be in the person of Walter Beach.

Beach probably is the best break-away runner Head Coach Otto Graham has — and speed is essential if the graduated collegians hope to score.

Graham likes to hark back to the 1958 game, his first as All-Star coach. His team ran up the biggest score in the mid-summer football series by trimming the Detroit Lions 35-19.

But the 25-year-old Beach may be close to the answer.

3 New Police Cars May Be Bought Soon

Three new police cars, replacements for cars now in service, may be purchased next month. The city commission agreed to take bids on standard size vehicles at its Sept. 13 meeting.

City Manager A. K. Steinhilber told the commission Tuesday night that two of the cars proposed for replacing 1959 Plymouths, will have registered 40,000 miles by the time bids are taken and new cars are received. The third, a 1960 Ford, will have about 64,000 miles.

Repairs on one of the Plymouths, have topped $800 and reached $1,300 on the other. The city has spent nearly $800 in repairs on the Ford.

Chief Jay Banks said that these cars are now reaching the point where they will be in the shop often for repair work.

The city will advertise for bids on three cars, with an option to buy two.

Webb's Safe Drivers

Webb AFB's safe drivers, all assigned to Base Refueling Section, have been driving for a year without an accident or a single violation. For the achievement they received safety awards from Lt. Col. Asa A. Adair, commander of M&S Group.

Agreements Ok'd For Relocations

LAMESA—Two agreements for relocation of poles, cables and distribution line facilities were approved by the Dawson County Commissioners during a regular meeting.

The court okayed an agreement for $1,344 for relocation of poles and cables along U.S. Highway 180 between U.S. 87 and the Borden County line. Work is to be done by the Pala-Lambro Rural Telephone Cooperative.

The second agreement was between the court and Lyntegar Electric. It provides for relocation of distribution lines on U.S. 180, east of Key. Cost of this project was tabbed at $159.

MONEY SAVED

The firm of Underwood and Neuhaus, Houston, will handle the refunding, bearing expenses involved. The lower interest rate is a saving of $1,443.60 over the eight years remaining until the bonds are retired.

Ordinances were approved rezoning the Sands Motel and Coronado Hills subdivision properties from A residential to F commercial and the final reading of an ordinance annexing 100 acres of Kenwood Addition was okayed.

Mike Franco, sponsoring a Mexican Independence Day fiesta Sept. 15-17, was given permission to block North 4th, from Lancaster to Bell, during the three nights of the celebration.

An old hangar building owned by the city was turned over to Webb AFB for disposal. A lease agreement between the city and the Air Force, made about two months ago, called for the disposal of the surplus building.

Group Formed To Work For State Loan Amendment

WACO—Formation of the "Texas Committee to Eliminate the Loan Shark Evil" was announced today by Abner V. McCall, executive vice-president of Baylor University.

McCall will serve as chairman of the citizens' group. Prior to assuming his present position at Baylor, he has been Associate Justice of the Texas Supreme Court and dean of the Baylor Law School.

"This volunteer committee, which will work for the adoption of constitutional amendment No. 4, is essential to the elimination of this evil and the removal of this stigma from the fair name of Texas."

Other members of the committee include Governor Price Daniel, Attorney General Will Wilson, and Lieutenant Governor Ben Ramsey, each of whom has had an interest in this problem and has declared support for the constitutional amendment.

"Texas is one of the few states that does not have adequate laws to regulate the small loan industry. As a result, the State has been notorious for abuses of small borrowers."

Paul Harvey Is Lamesa Speaker

LAMESA — Paul Harvey, nationally-known radio newscaster, will be speaker for the annual Lamesa Chamber of Commerce banquet on Oct. 29, it was announced by Don Nutt, president.

Harvey, a popular speaker throughout the nation, was selected by chamber officials at a recent executive meeting.

The annual banquet will be held in the high school cafeteria and then move to the new auditorium for the principal address. Tickets will be sold in two classifications—one group for the banquet and address and one group for the address only, said Pat Ryan, chamber manager.

Showers In Wide Area

By The Associated Press Heavy rains fell in widely scattered sections of Texas early Wednesday.

Telegraph, near Junction in the Hill Country west of Austin, had 5 1/2 inches between midnight and 2 a.m. Junction measured 3 inches.

Downpours hit the Dallas area early in the morning. Seagoville reported about three inches and Mesquite had more than two inches. Ennis, south of Dallas, also had heavy rain.

The Weather Bureau reported thundershowers fell over most of the state, from the Panhandle through the South Plains into West Texas and across the northern part of the state south to Junction.

The rains followed a weak cool front that moved into the state and during the early morning extended from the northeast corner of Texas, south of the Fort Worth-Dallas area and south of Abilene and Midland.

Other rainfalls included Waxahachie 3.40 inches; Crandall 1.13; Rosser 1.42; and Farmersville 2.38.

El Paso, Midland, Amarillo and San Angelo had early morning showers.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 58 at Dalhart to 80 at Galveston and Corpus Christi.

Thundershower activity hit along the Red River Valley and portions of North Central Texas. Some shower activity was reported in Southwest Texas and in the Panhandle. A line of scattered thundershowers extended from 20 miles northeast of Waco to Dallas to Van Alstyne to 10 miles east of Clarksville.

A brisk rain fell at Stephenville Tuesday dropping one inch of rain on the city and causing water to run in the streets. 24-hour period ending at 6 p.m. Tuesday included Amarillo 48, Junction 26, Dalhart 18, Mineral Wells 17, Houston 15, Midland 12, Beaumont 10, Wichita Falls 07, Galveston 06, Abilene and Victoria 14 and Alpine 02. Temperatures ranged from 104 at Presidio to 80 at Dalhart.

The five-day forecast issued Wednesday calls for heavy to moderate rainfall throughout the state with temperatures about normal in eastern and Central Texas and 2 to 4 degrees below normal in Western Texas.

Baptists Planning Mass Groundbreak

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Baptist leaders from throughout Texas will lean on a 20-foot shovel handle Thursday to break ground for construction of a 4-million-dollar addition to Baptist Memorial Hospital.

An address by Dr. Forrest Freezer of Dallas, executive secretary of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, will precede the ground breaking.

Emotional Problems Arise In 'I Passed For White'

The emotional problems involved in miscegenation are dramatically told in Allied Artists' "I Passed for White," scheduled to open Thursday at the Sahara Theatre.

As the title suggests, the film tells of the desperate plight of a beautiful, white-skinned Negro woman who decides to pass for white when she meets and falls in love with a handsome, young scion of a wealthy socialite family.

For the two leading roles, producer-director Fred M. Wilcox, who also wrote the screenplay based on a book by Mary Hastings Bradley, imported two young stars from the legitimate theatre in New York, both of whom are comparatively new to Hollywood. Sonya Wilde, who makes her screen debut in the picture, is cast as Lila Brownell, Negro woman, while James Franciscus will be seen as the man from whom she keeps the truth. Franciscus is best known for his role as the young detective in television's "The Naked City" series, although he has appeared in several motion pictures.

Others in the cast include Pat Michon, Elizabeth Council, Griffin Crafts, Isabelle Cooley, Lon Balantyne, James Lyndon and Freita Shaw.

Danny Kaye Finally Plans Television Show

By BOB THOMAS AP Movie - TV Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—You really have to see Danny Kaye working before a live-breathing audience to see what makes him unique.

Unlike most of his fellow stars, he uses no hard-sell, no jokes about himself. He comes out in sport coat and slacks. He uses no props except his agile, expressive hands. There isn't the slightest tinge of blue in any of his material.

He comes out with the "git-gat gittle" song he has been doing for 20 years. He follows with other standards: "Dena," "Balling the Jack," "Minnie the Mocher." He does an imitation of a Democratic orator that harks back hilariously to Los Angeles in July. He abuses and confuses his listeners with a wild community sing and has them howling for more.

Kaye also differs from other top stars in the way he has handled his career. His date at the Desert Inn is his first work in a year, his first night club date in 15 years.

This fall, Kaye will make his debut as a live entertainer in television. He makes a movie only every year or two.

Despite such little exposure, he remains among the show biz elite. "It's not that I don't like to work," he said. "I knew from the start of my career that I wouldn't do more than one picture a year. I would do more if I were an actor. But I'm not. I'm a very specialized kind of guy, and it's hard to find material for me."

"I haven't had anything against TV. I've just waited until TV was ready for me, until I could be given the time I needed for preparation."

Another reason for the trend of Danny's career is the kind of a guy he is. He doesn't need the constant gratification of an audience, as do Red Skelton and Jerry Lewis. He has been in all phases of show business but that is not his sole life.

He can get on time-consuming passions, such as his world tour for the United Nations Children's program which resulted in a celebrated filmed TV documentary.

His latest love is the wild blue yonder.

"That's what I've been doing for the past year," he explained. "That's why I haven't been working."

Now he's a full-fledged flier and comes down to earth only when necessary.

But that's the way it has always been with Danny.

A Singing Cowboy Who Doesn't Sing

By RAY SHAW AP Newsfeature

Allen Case, star of "The Deputy" series on television, doesn't claim a faster draw than rival TV cowpokes, but he'll match his vocal chords with any as long as the duelling ground is out of television camera range.

Case, who had a measure of success in Broadway musicals and touring companies, insists he would rather hang up his six shooters rather than peddle his wily into a setting sur in the old singing cowboy tradition.

"My kind of singing isn't Western or country," the handsome Texan says. "It's musical comedy. I once turned down a television series in which I'd play a singing troubador, and I've never regretted it."

He keeps his voice in trim by personal appearances and television variety shows.

As the Deputy, Case is making money he might not be able to on Broadway, while at the same time keeps his name before the public. "Television," he says, "has given me an identity I didn't have before." But he plans to hike back to Broadway when the series goes the way of all TV shows.

He was the male star in "Once Upon a Mattress" before Hollywood beckoned.

In "The Deputy Sings," (Columbia) Case displays a pleasantly casual style on some old favorites—the closest to Western songs being "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows." At times Sinatra-like intonations pop up, but when Case isn't attempting to follow the old master, it's an enjoyable sojourn with "Bewitched," "The Very Thought of You," and "I Only Have Eyes for You" included.

Eydie and Steve Sing the Golden Hits (ABC-Paramount) — the Don Costa background is a bit brassy for the sentimental ballads of Eydie Gorme and Steve Lawrence, but the lyrical union is as blissfully sweet as their marital union seems to be. The golden hits, which include "I've Heard That Song Before," "Sentimental Journey," "Green Eyes," and the like, are ripe with nostalgia for the mid-thirties set.

Love Is a Now and Then Thing (London)—The album introduces British actor-turned-singer Anthony Newley with a repertoire of old standards. Newley's voice surely isn't the greatest to come out of the Isles, but his unusual phrasing and suppressed British accent make this a record worth listening to.

Scherzade (RCA)—Serious music lovers may shudder to think still another interpretation of this popular staple is on the market, but the treatment given the Rimsky-Korsakoff masterpiece by Fritz Reiner and the Chicago Symphony Orchestra will delight all. The sound is superb, capturing the Arabian temptress in all her fleeting changes.

The Magic of Earl Grant (Decca)—Supper club favorite Earl Grant, most noted for his vocalizing, accompanies himself occasionally on the organ or piano in a fine collection of standards. Grant lyrically captures moods and emotions in "Unforgettable," "Fascination," "Teach Me Tonight," "My Dream is Yours."

Sit-Ins Finally Gain Entrance

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Negro youths finally got into an Oklahoma City restaurant Tuesday as demonstrations settled into a methodical pace in their fourth day.

A small group of Negroes went inside Bishop's Restaurant downtown and sat for an hour without being served. Guards who had prevented their entry earlier were absent.

Another group marched in front of a cafeteria for three hours. They did not gain admission.
