Priest Surrenders, Asserts Innocence

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—The Rev. John B. Feit, Roman Catholic priest charged with assault to rape, surrendered to officers today and immediately asserted that he is innocent.

Father Feit made $10,000 bond, signed by two priests and a construction firm executive. Miss Maria America Guerra, 20, a co-ed at Pan-American College in Edinburg, Tex., brought the complaint against the priest.

He said he registered under his own name and did not try to hide. He declined to give the name or location of the hospital.

Father Feit said he returned "because Mr. Seman informed me of the indictment against me." Seman said he does not know where Father Feit will stay pending the trial.

LAWYER'S FLEDGE

Officers were unable to locate the priest after the charge was filed, but his attorney, Fred Seman of San Antonio, promised to surrender Father Feit today.

Goldwater Sees Conservative Help As Boon To GOP Chances

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) said today Republican conservatives are volunteering their help—a move he said increases the November chances of the Nixon-Lodge ticket.

Goldwater had fought as too liberal the GOP platform largely dictated by Vice President Richard M. Nixon, but he said later he would support actively the national ticket of Nixon and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge. He said he is encouraged that other Republicans who shared his views are heading his pleas to get out and work for the nominees.

There has been some fear in the Nixon camp that party conservatives might sit out the campaign. But Goldwater, who heads the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee, said in an interview it isn't working out that way.

"Conservative leaders from all over the country have been writing me, volunteering to do what they can for the ticket," he said. "The mail has been very encouraging."

Goldwater added that Lodge is proving to be a surprise candidate as the vice presidential nominee. "I have found in traveling about the country there is great interest in him and support for him," Goldwater said. "In some ways he has become the image of the anti-Communist movement by his vigorous tactics of opposing the Russians in the United Nations."

Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's press secretary, also had some nice things to say about Lodge. He said the U.N. ambassador is "adding considerable to the ticket, particularly in the South."

Klein told a news conference Monday that because of the reception given Nixon on his visit to Maine and because of information gathered in a telephone check of all 50 states, the vice president now feels he has pulled ahead of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, his Democratic opponent.

Noting that Nixon had said at the Chicago convention that the Republicans were behind at the start, Klein said the GOP nominee "now feels he has closed the gap." To this, Pierre Salinger, press secretary for Kennedy, replied: "Mr. Klein may be right."

Kennedy's camp has disputed in the past the efforts of Nixon to assume in the campaign an underdog role that they would like to reserve for their own candidate.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) told the Senate that in an attempt to boost his chances in the agricultural Midwest, Nixon is trying to dump Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson in the campaign.

"Mr. Nixon is starting to wiggle and wobble and duck and hope Mr. Benson won't be around," Humphrey said. "You'd like to forget Mr. Benson. But, gentlemen, you are stuck with him."

Klein said in response to questions about Benson that the Nixon camp hasn't "any engagements lined up for him."

Humphrey's remarks on what he called Nixon's about-face on farm policies brought prompt return fire in the Senate from Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.).

Keating said Humphrey had contended in the May West Virginia primary that Kennedy voted against the people's interests on issues involving farm and other matters.

Humphrey said he did that at a time when he was trying to make a case against Kennedy as a primary opponent.

"I didn't succeed and that's just what is going to happen to Mr. Nixon," he declared.

In any event he said Kennedy's farm record was better than Nixon's.

Von Braun Outlines Plans For Big Rocket

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Rocket scientist Werner von Braun today outlined plans for a four-stage Saturn rocket with the payload capacity of the three-stage Saturn now undergoing tests.

He said a cousin of the larger Saturn may be sufficient to send a space crew safely to the moon. The three-stage Saturn now under test is designed as the United States' first rocket capable of putting a multi-ton payload into outer space.

It is expected to be capable of effecting a soft landing—as opposed to a crash landing—on the moon. "It is scheduled to make its first flight in 1964."

Mother Of Sleeping Beauty Children Enters Seclusion

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Charged with neglecting her two "sleeping beauty" daughters, Lillian Fratanonio, 29, went into seclusion today with her husband and week-old child.

Police said she would make no more statements nor answer any more questions on advice of her two lawyers.

The dark-haired mother was freed on $1,000 bond late Monday to appear at a juvenile court hearing Friday. She was charged specifically with maltreatment of Bernadette, 3, and Venita, 5, by giving them sleep-inducing barbiturates without authority from a physician.

Paul D. White, assistant police prosecutor, said the juvenile court charge against the mother did not bar presentation of the case to the county grand jury.

Barbiturates are not narcotics. Ohio laws make improper use of barbiturates a misdemeanor or maximum penalty is one year in jail and a $500 fine.

On a charge of neglect or abuse, juvenile court can take full charge of the victims and put the family under surveillance. It also can impose a maximum sentence of one year in jail and up to $1,000 fine.

Police said a man came into headquarters Monday night to tell of having seen Mrs. Fratanonio "mixing something" down the hall from the room where Bernadette had lain drugged at Mount Sinai Hospital.

There was no indication when this had occurred, but Sgt. Norman Ferris hailed the witness as "our first break, confirming that Mrs. Fratanonio was doing what she admitted."

The mother of five children—two boys in addition to three daughters—admitted Saturday night, police said, that she had administered the drugs to Bernadette and Venita.

Bernadette lapsed into a period of sleeping spells last September. Her case, thought to be a medical mystery, attracted nationwide interest. The attention was doubled when Venita also went into unexplained comas last month.

The puzzle was solved late last week when traces of barbiturates were discovered in the veins of the children.

The "sleeping beauties," fully awake, since their mother left their bedside to bear a new baby, Antonine, remained in custody of Mount Sinai, under court order.

Judge Margaret J. Spelacy, who will conduct the hearing for TYLER (AP)—Dist. Judge Otis Dunagan Monday re-set for Sept. 8 a hearing on a temporary injunction preventing a strike against the Cotton Belt Railroad.

Beauty

This is 21-year-old Stella Marquez of Long Beach, Calif., after she was named Miss International Beauty of 1961. Miss Marquez was named the winner in a field of 32 beauties from all parts of the world.

He ordered the delay to give the railroad more time to negotiate with the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

A restraining order delayed a strike originally set for July 30. The railroad seeks a temporary injunction as the next step toward a permanent injunction against a work stoppage.

The issue is whether Cotton Belt union workers shall handle all work in the Hodge, Tex., switchyards in North Fort Worth, as they have for 40 years.

The Cotton Belt and the Fort Worth & Denver had agreed that employees of the FW&D, who are members of a different union, should handle some of the jobs.

The Cotton Belt (St. Louis Southwestern Railroad Co.) operates in Texas, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee and Louisiana.

Under the board's proposed plan all elementary school students in one family must attend the same school.

The board's plan, approved 4-2, allows the transfer of students to other schools if they do not "measure up to standards."

A Devotional For Today

The Lord is nigh unto all them that call upon him, to all that call upon him in truth. (Psalms 145:18.)
PRAYER: Our Father, help us in all the varied experiences of life to be keenly aware of Thy nearness. Help us to walk with Thee and talk with Thee. May we always feel at home in Thy presence, in Jesus' name. Amen.

Robbing Peter To Pay Paul

A special report from the Texas Good Roads Association points to a critical element of the Governor's special Finance Advisory Committee. D. C. Greer, state highway engineer, furnished the information which showed that portion of the state's highway program which is inadequately financed is the trunk system other than the interstate highways.

Mr. Greer called for liberalization of the farm-to-market road provisions to permit a more realistic balance of funds for maintenance and construction. Except for a portion of the gasoline tax and the license fees, FM funds are earmarked for new construction. Last year the new construction figure ran to about $50,000,000, while that of maintenance was $17,000,000.

The cost of maintenance exceeded the amount available, thus the only source is to take out of the trunk system program an amount sufficient to cover the needs of keeping up the system, including the farm-to-market program.

Mr. Greer feels that permission to use a portion of the farm-to-market appropriation will help cure this imbalance. This would free more of the trunk system funds to go into modernization of the trunk roads.

Greer said that last year 78 per cent of the rural fatal accidents and 80 per cent of the property damage (an economic loss of $45,000,000) came from the trunk roads, which are in many instances obsolete if not downright backwards. The toll will increase if they are not brought up to date, and they can't be brought up to date without funds.

Another Strike On The Braceros

The U. S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals Monday dissolved district court injunction against Labor Secretary James Mitchell, and thus upheld a requirement of a minimum of 50 cents an hour for Mexican bracero labor.

The suit had been brought in the lower Rio Grande Valley where labor associations sought to escape the $2.50 cut for cotton picking by bracero labor. The Valley Farm Bureau contested the right of Mitchell to "fix wages" but apparently the courts have held that he does have such power as affects the braceros.

This ruling could, of course, have a pronounced effect on harvest costs in this area. The prevailing wage for picking has been substantially less than $2.50 in the past. However, comparatively little of our crop is picked since most operators find it more economical to pull the cotton from the beginning. By this method they may be able to come out on the effective minimum wage.

This development simply points up two things — first that the use of bracero labor by the farmers will steadily become less and less, except in times of extremely heavy production; and second, that the mechanization of the cotton harvest will be stepped up. The mechanical picker may not be any cheaper, but it won't have the host of human problems such as attends the bracero.

Homes Alexander A Court For Small Affairs

THE HAGUE, Netherlands—Here at the seat of many and continuing efforts to find the clue to world peace, the hopes and fears stand out in relatively bold relief.

The hopes, as expressed by the establishment here since 1899 of the Permanent Court of Arbitration, are that nations will do the simple things first—that will not expect too much.

THIS PRINCIPLE, I think, lies at the heart of the arbitration theory—a theory which, in turn, is the true basis of what was once called the World Court and which is now the UN's Court of International Justice.

Arbitration presupposes that the two or more parties to a dispute wish to have the matter settled, even if the settlement should be adverse, as it is bound to be to one or more of the disputants. Arbitration also presupposes that the disputants trust the good faith of the arbitrators. Obviously, these conditions to arbitration will not obtain in large matters, such as those holding life and honor and the highest principle. Neither will they obtain in an environment where good faith does not, never has, and never will exist.

LET US ADMIT, then, that matters of the greatest importance are unsuitable for arbitration. And that arbitration itself is an unsuitable means of solving contentious cases between nations in an atmosphere where the Free World and World Communism are in a death struggle and have no faith whatever in each other's promises or good will.

On the other hand, there are many matters of minor importance or involving weak nations which can properly be handled by the arbitration method. This was what Andrew Carnegie had in mind when he gave his money to set up the machinery which still turns slowly in the Peace Palace. The present Court, with minor exceptions, runs pretty much as Carnegie or his planners envisioned. The 15 judges, serving 9-year terms at $20,000 a year, are in continuous session save when on vacation.

THEORETICALLY all members of the United Nations have access to the Court, but in practice only those who have accepted the Court's jurisdiction, and there are many "Do Not Disturb" signs which refer to the established past and the present sovereignty of the various nations. Also, in practice, nations do not come into this Court unless they want to. They do not bring big cases against big adversaries. That is why only 20 contentious cases have been dealt with since 1946.

BUT SMALL, unimportant cases are not to be despised. The International Court treats them all with immense solemnity.

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Neat fellows, some of these burglars. They tried to crack a coal company safe here and failed. So they tidily put the safe back together again.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

The successful test firing of Polaris missiles recently is more than a reassuring advance in American cold war potential. If it turns out that the United States is indeed ahead of the Soviet Union in making submerged missile launchings an operational reality, this country may have a powerful weapon for use in gaining the diplomatic offensive.

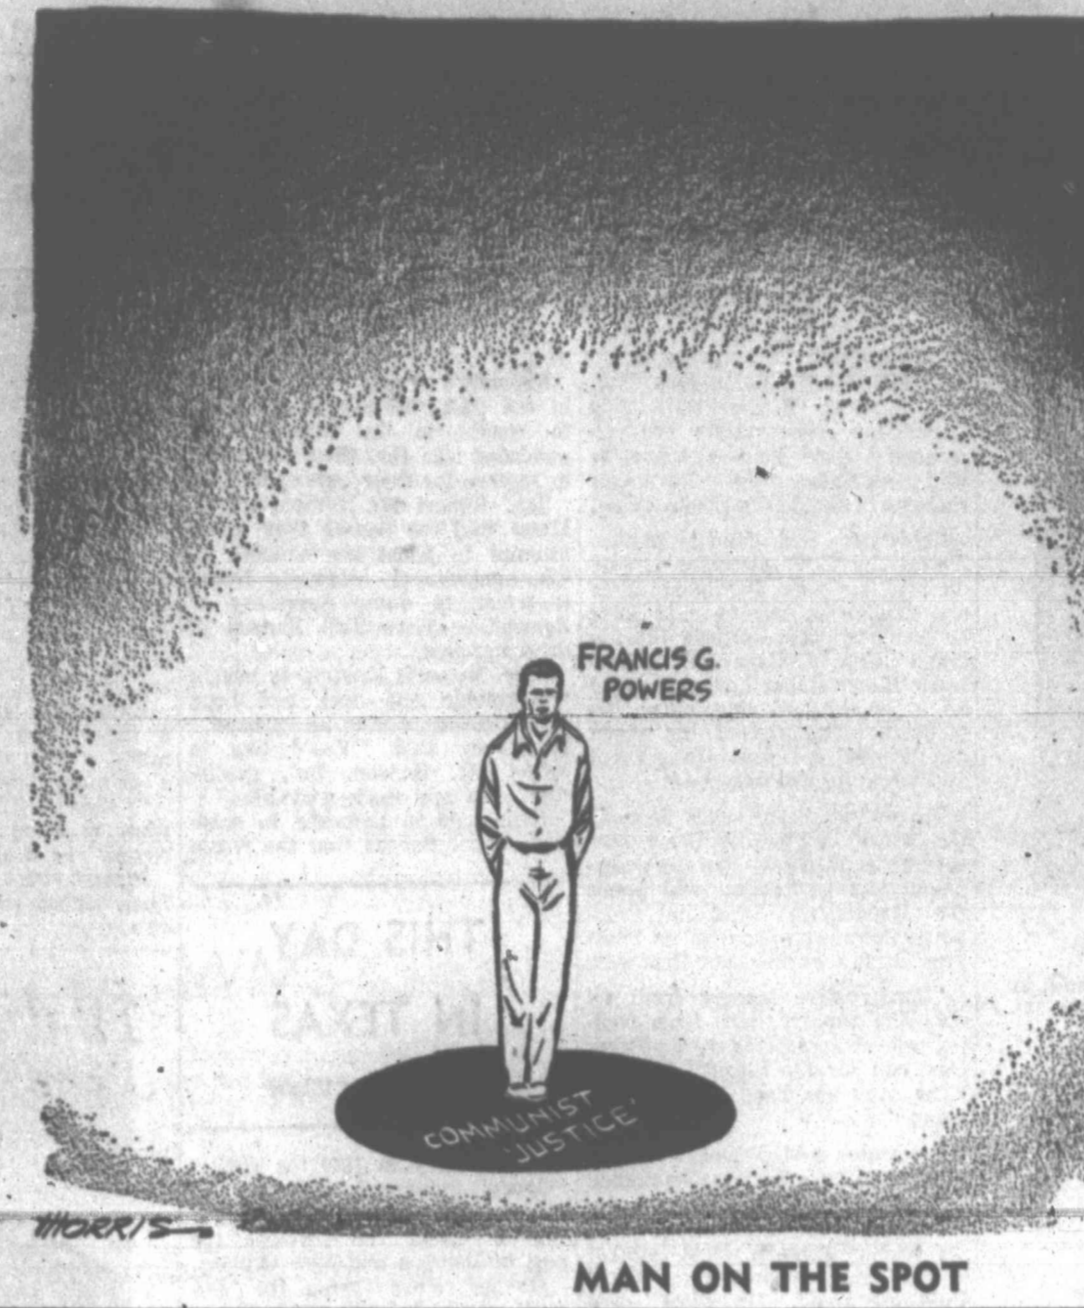

If all goes well, the United States is expected to have its first nuclear submarine armed with 16 nuclear-tipped Polaris missiles ready for actual duty by October. The Navy has 14 nuclear subs built or on order. It is asking for at least 45.

There is danger in overestimating the capabilities of the Polaris-nuclear sub combination. But it seems reasonable to expect that in time it may be able to replace many U. S. overseas bases.

If the United States is able to close up some of its far-flung military installations without weakening its defense structure, it would be in the position to exercise some positive leadership in global statecraft.

The overseas bases — military necessities but diplomatic liabilities — have been steadily growing unpopular in Europe.

ATLANTA JOURNAL

James Marlow Powers Is Just Small Potatoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pilot Francis G. Powers will be just a minor figure at his own spy trial in Moscow.

The Russians will present the American government, which sent him on the spying mission, as the real villain.

Because this is so, Powers, whose U2 plane was brought down last May 1 about 1,300 miles inside Russia, is apt to get off lightly.

The blueprint for the trial was laid down in 4,000-word indictment of Powers made public by the Russians last Tuesday.

It will provide the Soviets with world-wide anti-American propaganda.

THIS GOVERNMENT won't have much defense except to argue fit-forth since the Russians spy on this country.

Otherwise, the American government rendered itself defenseless against the spying charge.

The State Department first denied before the world that Powers was on a spy mission. Then it admitted he was.

After a brief summary of the shooting down of Powers' plane, the indictment goes on for some thousands of words to:

1. Damn the Eisenhower administration for approving the spy flight.

2. Damn American friends and allies—like Norway, Turkey and Pakistan—for letting this country use bases in their territory for the spy flights.

THE INDICTMENT singles out President Eisenhower, Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and Vice President Richard M. Nixon for blame.

The indictment says "they attempted to justify violation of U.S.S.R. sovereignty by American aircraft and elevated such violations into a principle of the state policy of the United States."

Even the late secretary of state, John Foster Dulles, who died almost a year before Powers made his flight, was condemned.

The indictment, accusing the United States of aggression by sending Powers into Russia, said "repeatedly formulated" by Dulles with his philosophy of "balancing on the brink of war."

THE REST of the indictment deals with Powers and his alleged admissions of guilt.

It has been suggested the Russians brainwashed Powers into confessing. Maybe he was. That remains to be seen. One thing is sure—He was caught flat-footed. He may have felt he had no alternative.

The indictment says Powers pleaded guilty to the essence of the charge of spying. If so—and he could hardly do otherwise when this government admitted he was on a spy mission—there wouldn't be much reason for a trial unless the Soviet government, through the Russian lawyer assigned to defend him, argues that he was hardly more than a messenger boy earning a living and that the real culprit was the American government.

Hat Boyle The Crisis Of The Cat

NEW YORK (AP)—The handiest thing to have around the house in an emergency is a wife. There's nothing else makes a man feel safer.

The other morning I was sitting in the living room putting on my shoes. I had one shoe tied and, breathing hard, was about to put on the other when I happened to glance up at the window.

There, as usual, sat our cat, Lady Dottie, on the air-conditioner. She loves to perch on top of the machine and bat at the window glass whenever a bird, butterfly or moth flies near.

I yawned and started to turn my gaze away, but something pulled it back. What was wrong? A second quick glance told me at once, Lady Dottie wasn't inside on the air-conditioner. She was outside on it.

Someone had left the casement window partly open. The cat had climbed out. Now she crouched on the small steel surface of the air-conditioner, looking at me from the ground—nine floors below. If a bird flew by and she made a pass at it, I knew she'd be a goner—nine lives and all.

But it wasn't really the fate of Lady Dottie that worried me. At that moment I could hear my 7-year-old daughter, Tracy, singing in the bathroom. I knew that if anything happened to her cat, well—

"Here, kitty!" I called weakly, rising. Lady Dottie heard me and crouched lower. I was afraid to go nearer. Our cat is very frisky in the morning, and at my approach usually runs around the room and over the furniture like a squirrel. What if she jumped now?

Panic overcame me. My knees weakened. Still holding one shoe in my perspiring hand, I clumped out to the kitchen where my wife was annoying two eggs with a fork in the skillet.

"The cat—the window—Tracy," I mumbled.

Frances took one look at my face and then brushed wordlessly past me into the living room. She hesitated a split second, then moved calmly and slowly toward the window.

"nice kitty," she said softly, "reach her hand unhurriedly out and began to stroke Lady Dottie's back. The cat's ears went back, and she crouched as if to spring away. But in that second's pause, Frances gripped her firmly. She hoisted the cat, still crouching, back inside the window.

Then we heard a cry. Tracy had come to the doorway and seen the rescue. She rushed over, took the cat in both her arms and buried her face in the warm fur.

"You know, if a robber or someone like that broke into this house, I'd bust him right in the nose," I said, lamely. "But when I saw that cat out there, I—well, I—"

"It's all right, Rover," said Frances. "I understand."

To Your Good Health Some Causes Of An Enlarged Heart

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
"Dear Dr. Molner: What about an enlarged heart? Can it be restored to its normal size?—Miss T.L."

The heart doesn't enlarge in the same direction in all cases. It enlarges—as is reasonable to compensate for extra burden on one part or another.

The heart is a remarkable organ. It is made of specialized muscle tissue which is found nowhere else in the body.

It works for two-thirds of the time, rests for one-third, which in a way is like the rest of our body. Roughly, we sleep one-third of the time, and we are active for two-thirds.

Anyway, the heart is, in essence, four separate chambers which hold the blood surrounded by the muscle which, by contracting rhythmically, lets the chambers fill, then pushes the blood along.

Valves between the various chambers make the blood move in the proper direction each time the muscle contracts.

Now then the heart becomes enlarged, there are two principal reasons (there are other lesser ones). The main ones are high blood pressure (which, of course, makes the heart work harder); and leaks in the valves (which let some of the blood move backward with each pulse, so the heart has to work harder in order to pump the same total amount through the body).

High blood pressure, or a defective aortic valve (from rheumatic fever or other cause) will put the pressure on the left ventricle, or left lower chamber. If the mitral valve is damaged (again, usually from rheumatic fever, but possibly from other causes) the pressure is principally on the left upper chamber or auricle.

If some defect or damage in the lung is present, the right chambers are affected; congenital defects (those one is born with) will cause enlargement depending on where they occur.

When the heart becomes enlarged, it does so to make up for the added work which is put upon it. You know how people (or animals) may over-develop muscles that are put under continued extra strain. Workers in certain jobs develop large muscles on which they put large and consistent strain. So it is with the heart.

An enlarged heart doesn't necessarily mean a failing heart, although naturally the cause of the excessive strain should be corrected when possible. At the same time, once the heart is enlarged, it usually remains so.

If the cause is high blood pressure, and the pressure is corrected, there may be a moderate reduction in the size of the heart.

The most dramatic return to normal that I know of is that which occurs when Vitamin B deficiency (beriberi) is corrected.

These days, beriberi is seen mainly in alcoholics who don't eat much and certainly don't eat wisely. When these people are put back on a sensible diet, their enlarged hearts reduce remarkably. But in most other cases of enlarged heart, the enlargement remains.

Keep this in mind: Are you really interested in whether your heart is enlarged? Or do you just want to know that your heart is capable of serving you well? Enlargement, in itself, isn't bad. It's just a sign that some defect has caused the enlargement. If you can correct the original fault, the enlargement is a minor detail, and of no consequence.

NOTE TO J.R.: Mucus in the bowel movement definitely does "indicate something is wrong." Exactly what the trouble is will be found only after further tests. Colitis is one of the common causes.

Bed-wetting is a distressing problem. If your child has the habit, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper for a copy of my helpful booklet, "Enuresis — Ten Ways to Stop Bed-Wetting." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner is delighted to receive letters from his readers, but regrets that because of the great number received daily he cannot answer them individually. Whenever possible, Dr. Molner uses questions in his column.

Around The Rim A Great Gift

I can't remember his name but I still recall vividly the room where he spent his idle time. It all happened when I was a very small boy.

I owe this man a lot. I do not suppose that he intended what he did should have so great an impact on me but regardless of his intention, that was the real result.

He was a contractor. A bachelor who lived in a three room apartment atop the ramshackle building which housed his woodworking shop. A tall, gaunt man, friendly enough but not given to much idle conversation.

MY FATHER went to see this man about a job. I tagged along. It was a bitterly cold day and we climbed the ramshackle stairway which led to his living quarters. He took us into the middle room. With the exception of the openings for the doors and for two windows, every inch of space from floor to ceiling in this room was filled with shelves of books.

There were hundreds and hundreds of them—more books than I had ever seen. While my father and the man talked about the job, I wandered from shelf to shelf reading the titles and marveling that one man had so many books. I remembered that all of them looked worn and used—like books that are well loved and often read.

I had just discovered reading. My field of literary investigation however had been sharply limited. Someone had given me a few copies of the Rover Boys. I had picked up two or three of Horatio Alger's stories. Another friend had presented me with a couple of volumes by A. A. Handy. I remember another series, too—"The Pony Rider Boys." Regardless of their questionable merit as literature they had opened the wonderful world of reading to me.

THE CONTRACTOR saw me looking at the books. "You read books, kid?" he asked. I told him I did. "Like to read some of these?" was his next question. I told him "yes-sir."

He got up and walked around the room scratching at his chin with one hand.

"Well," he said, "now let's see—we'll try you on Cooper, I think."

So he pulled down a copy of "The Deer-slayer." "Try this," he said. "If you like it, come back and we'll find some others."

I did like it. I came back and he provided the entire Leatherstocking series. Then he selected other books, gauging his choice I think by shrewd questions he put to me about what I had read.

Thus I got my first taste of real books. The kind that have endured and will endure as long as there are readers. I read on through that winter and on into the summer. Insofar as I could tell, I barely dented the army of books this man had.

THAT TASTE OF reading he inspired I still have. It has been immeasurable importance to me and I am not happy now if I happen to be in some house where no books are in sight.

I would like to know more about this man. Actually, he was a laborer—a carpenter who had turned his hand to contracting. I wonder where he developed the literary taste he had and where he acquired all of those hundreds of books. I know now that in that crowded room were the classics of all ages; the master writings of the gifted authors of all times. And they were not there for show—they were well-read books, much handled.

I owe many debts to many friends but I sometimes feel that I owe this man, whose name I do not even remember, the greatest debt of all. —SAM BLACKBURN

Marquis Childs Solidarity For The Hemisphere

WASHINGTON. — In the charming upland capital of San Jose in Costa Rica in Central America, the 21 foreign ministers of the Organization of American States have gathered to try to find solidarity for the hemisphere.

Reduced to its simplest terms, as in any good television drama, this will be an effort to separate the good guys from the bad guys. And it is the devout wish of most delegations, certainly of the North Americans headed by Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, that this can be done without the gunfire that customarily accompanies such TV drama.

BUT NO ONE can be sure, for this is just about the toughest operation that the OAS has undertaken in the troubled post-war era. Washington has heard that Cuban agents have been active trying to organize student demonstrations. In view of the peril, Costa Rica was the only country in Latin America with any interest in having the conference held in the capital. The memory of what happened in Bogota in 1948, when a Columbian of an inter-American meeting and nearly 100 delegates were killed, is still vivid.

THE BAD GUYS in this drama come in two sizes. First item on the agenda is the Dominican Republic and the Dominican dictator, Rafael Trujillo, through his agents, engineered a nearly successful attempt to assassinate Venezuelan President Romulo Bentancourt.

When the ministers have disposed of this charge, they will turn to what Washington considers the main show—the resolution put forward by Peru pointing up the threat of subversion and infiltration. While the agenda says nothing about Cuba or communism, the real target will be the increasing activity of a network of agents operating throughout the Americas and financed and assisted by Cuban diplomats and couriers.

WHAT THE United States hopes for is in final resolution condemning any intervention from outside the hemisphere, coupled with a determination to prevent the Communists from taking over through such intervention. The Castro regime will be isolated. Speaker after speaker—and Latin foreign ministers give long and eloquent speeches — will attack Nikita Khrushchev, who is the real bad guy of the conference.

As the delegation from Washington clearly understands, what is so touchy in all this is that there is widespread sympathy in Latin America for the aims of the Castro revolution. The cry of economic exploitation raised by Castro to justify seizure of American properties finds a response in many Latin countries. And so Castro and Cuba will come in for very little direct mention while the effort to document the Communist plot is pushed by Peru, the United States and others.

THERE IS at last a realization—and the delicate operation necessary in San Jose is a recognition of it—that Washington faces a crisis in its relations with Latin America as grave perhaps as any since the promulgation of the Monroe Doctrine. The great mass of the people who have lived so long in an inert, sub-standard level are stirring, and with the prod of communism they will no longer sit while revolutions of tweedle-dum and tweedle-dee take place.

IN BRAZIL, the candidate likely to win the Presidential election in early October, Janio Quadros, is frankly campaigning against the Colossus of the North. He visited Moscow for a long conference with Khrushchev and last spring he went to Havana for talks with Fidel Castro. He is saying that he is the only candidate with the courage to express admiration for Castro.

San Jose will be a test. If at least the appearance of solidarity can come out of this meeting, such were will use it as a base on which to build. But the building must come quickly, and it cannot rest on the comfortable assumption of the past that, with friendly diplomatic relations with a small elite at the top, all will be well if only sufficient aid is handed out. That day, as American policy-makers are now acutely aware, has gone forever. (Copyright, 1960, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Inez Robb Women's Right To Look Like Tramps

Cuba and the Congo have not been the world's only explosive spots in the past week. Civil dissension has flared in New York since Magistrate Edward C. Calozzo refused to permit a young woman to pay a traffic fine for her employer because she came into court wearing slacks.

In Magistrate Calozzo's opinion, such attire is disrespectful of the dignity of the court. This attitude is enough to convict the judge of being a square, i. e., gentleman, in many quarters. And, of course, the women equal-righters have jumped in with both feet in their respective mouths and started baying, a stance at which they are unusually adept.

IT LONG AGO occurred to me that women who say to men, "Anything you can do, we can do better, including wearing the pants," have short memories. They have forgotten the one unalienable right of any woman, an old and honorable right on which no one has yet infringed: a woman to look and behave like a lady, a right women are destroying as rapidly as possible.

The only reason I am not teeing off on female tourists from west of the Hudson who assault good taste and Fifth Avenue with their wrinkled cotton slacks (and their daughters in short shorts with bra tops) is because only a few days ago I saw a group of sophisticated New York women batter decorum beyond recognition.

IT WAS MY SAD LOT to attend the funeral service of an old and dear friend, a man who never in his life looked, dressed or acted other than as a gentleman. The chapel was crowded for the simple service. Without exception, the men present were dressed with decent respect for the occasion.

I wish I could say as much for the women. But at least a third of them had not bothered to wear hats. Such a gauche affront to any standard of good behavior seemed incredible in a chapel where a man's soul was being commended to God in the most beautiful words of the Scriptures.

BUT THE hatless women at the services, in their indifference to decency, were as nothing to the handful of women who attended the services in a state of semi-modesty. Their sleeveless, backless dresses were cut so low that they could have gone directly from the funeral to either a beach or a ballroom.

If shock at such attire on such an occasion lines me up with Judge Calozzo in his squeariness, then I join him with pride. If emancipation for women means to them the right to look like tramps, then they have no right to scream "foul" when they are so treated, as a New England judge pointed out only a fortnight ago.

INFORMALITY in modern life makes for easier living in the backyard, on tennis court and golf course, on the beach and in the home. But there is still a decorum about dress, a bow in the direction of good taste and good breeding, that is mandatory for certain public places and public functions.

Within the past month, New York churches have been campaigning for more seemly dress on women attending Sunday and week-day services. But the churches are licked and so is Judge Calozzo, for whose blood and job the equal-righters are now howling.

Nothing, but nothing, including the church and the judiciary, must be permitted to interfere with woman's latest unalienable right, that of making a sideshow of herself in public. (Copyright, 1960, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Coeds Singing 'Boots & Saddles'

College girls are singing "Boots and Saddles" this fall—new boot styles in lightweight footwear and saddle shoes in vivid fall-foliage color combinations, reports Shoe Fashion Service of Leather Industries of America.

Shoes with the "boot look" have a high-raising vamp and ankle-hugging back. Styles are fashioned in ultra-soft brushed leathers, smoothies and suedes to accent plaid and tweed skirt-and-sweater ensembles so popular with all coeds this season.

The saddle shoe shows up in combinations of white with black, brown or red and a bevy of new "brilliant-leather" tones such as hot oranges, bright blues and cool greens.

"Patch" saddles resembling the irregular patches used to repair fly clothes, are the newest teenage shoe fashion!

Hot Weather Dries Up Texas Fields

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)—Three weeks of open, hot weather depleted surface moisture in practically all portions of Texas, making welcome some spotted showers and downpours during the week.

Cotton and grain sorghums in the areas where these crops are still fruiting and harvest is still weeks away made good progress, said Director John E. Hutchison, Texas Agricultural Service.

But, he added, district agents reported at midweek a need for surface moisture with one exception.

In the upper coastal counties, Silver Whitsett from Richmond reported scattered showers hurt cotton and caused insects to increase.

He said, however, that pastures needed rain at midweek, and cattle were in fair to good condition.

MOISTURE SHORT

Joe Rothe from Westaco reported moisture was very short in far South Texas; the pasture situation is critical and livestock generally are in poor condition. Marketing of livestock was more active than usual but prices were down.

Surface moisture is short in the northern half of Jos. Glover's South Central district. Glover from Gonzales said cattle are doing good but screwworms are a problem.

Moisture generally is deficient for growing crops, said R. G. Burwell from Stephenville, in describing conditions in Central Texas. Cotton is maturing and fruiting but insects are still a problem.

The grain sorghum harvest is well under way with yields better than expected.

Ted Martin from Denton said hot, dry weather burned forage crops and ranges, but added that cotton continued to make good growth.

BROWNING

John Surwick at Mt. Pleasant said—Northwest—Texas pastures were browning and grain sorghum is heading. Vegetables continue to go to market in good volume and the harvesting of Elberta peaches is under way.

The hot, dry weather was hard on crops and pastures, reported Walter Scott from Nacogdoches. Harvesting of hay and silage continued with below normal yields. Livestock and pastures are in fair condition.

Roy Huckabee from San Angelo said cotton was heavily fruited and the grain sorghum harvest would reach the peak next week. Goat shearing is under way and some calves and lambs are going to market in the San Angelo area. Livestock are in good condition.

Ray Sigmund from Ft. Stockton said livestock were in good to excellent condition but marketing was very slow. He described range conditions as fair to very good. All irrigated crops are in excellent condition with the castanolea harvest in full swing.

HARVEST MOVING

James Simmons from Vernon said the grain sorghum harvest is well along in several counties and early cotton is opening in a few counties. Farmers are still fighting bollworms and boll weevils.

W. H. Jones from Lubbock said cotton and grain sorghums, both irrigated and dryland, were making excellent progress. Insects, except in isolated spots, have caused little concern. Ranges are in good condition.

W. W. Grisham Jr. from Amarillo said range conditions are excellent and livestock conditions very good; however, external parasites are a problem in some herds. Irrigated grain sorghum was reported in excellent condition but cotton was described as late and poor.

DEAR ABBY

YOU DID IT

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Tell me if this is just a stage my daughter is going through or what? She just graduated from high school and plans to go to college in September.

She leaves her clothes wherever, she takes them off and doesn't make her bed unless I yell about it. Asking her in a normal tone gets me nowhere. I must raise my voice and shout three or four times. She calls this nagging. She never volunteers to help with a thing.

When she was younger I didn't mind picking up after her, but at her age am I wrong to ask her to pick up after herself?

NAGGING MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Mothers who "do not mind" picking up after their children when they are young, should not complain if they have to pick up after them when they are older. Close the door to your daughter's room and let her wade around in the mess until she finds it so hopelessly inconvenient she will tidy it up herself.

When she was younger I didn't mind picking up after her, but at her age am I wrong to ask her to pick up after herself?

DEAR ABBY: This is going to be hard to believe, but it's a fact. I love a wonderful guy and he loves me. We want to get married but he says the thought of the needle for the blood test makes him weak in the knees. He is 33 and I am 21. Is there any state where you don't need a blood test to get married? He said he'd drive a thousand miles.

WANTS TO GET MARRIED

DEAR WANTS: There's Nevada in the west, Maryland in the east, Minnesota in the north and South Carolina in the south. It shouldn't be difficult to sew him up without a needle.

DEAR ABBY: I don't know how to start this letter but I know if I don't look for help with my problem, my marriage will be ruined pretty soon. I have been married for four years and I have a two-year-old child. I feel so ashamed and guilty about married love that I don't know what to do. There are many questions I would like to know the answers to but I am ashamed to ask my doctor and I can't talk to my mother or friends about anything so intimate. Please, Abby, can you recommend a good frank book about what is right and what is wrong in married love? I only went through eighth grade.

TEARS

DEAR TEARS: Send me your name and address and I will recommend three or four excellent books on this subject. I admire your uncommonly intelligent approach to a very common problem.

DEAR ABBY: That dog fight you had in your column recently brings to mind a wonderful quote by Mark Twain: "If you pick up a hungry dog and feed him, he will bite you. That is the principal difference between man and dog."

Respectfully submitted by—
A DOG LOVER

Missing Girl, Feared A Sex Victim, Is Found Safe

DALLAS (AP)—Dallas officers, acting on a tip from a Fort Worth television station, this morning found an 11-year-old Haltom City girl missing from her home since Sunday.

The child, Patsy Ann Bridges, appeared to be in good health and was apparently unharmed, officers said. She was found in a private home on Dallas' west side.

The search for Patsy took an ominous turn Monday with the discovery of two areas of smeared blood and the arrest of a suspected sex offender. Blood spots were found by Tarrant County Sheriff's Deputy R. D. Bartlett on the eastern edge of Haltom City, near Fort Worth.

Officers arrested a 25-year-old man who released on bond Friday after being accused of indecent exposure.

The blue-eyed girl was found in a house on Peoria Street by Dallas County Sheriff's Deputies Joe Pierce and Joe Rayburn.

Patsy told officers she ran away from home because she could not get along with her 13-year-old sister.

"She drove me crazy," the slender girl said.

Patsy said she walked to the Fort Worth bus depot and a man there offered her a ride to Dallas.

"He talked about his dog all the way. He let me out on Loop 12 and another man drove me to the house on Peoria," she said.

Dallas County Sheriff Bill Decker said he was holding a Dallas man described as a "police character" for investigation on charges of kidnaping and assault. Decker said the girl told him she had been "slapped around" and mistreated.

The first break in the search for the missing girl came Monday night when a woman who did not identify herself called television station WBAP-TV in Fort Worth and gave the address of the house in Dallas where the girl was staying.

At one point in the search Haltom City Inspector J. D. McGuire used a helicopter to help direct the search in a wooded area.

Patsy left home about 9 a.m. Sunday to attend Haltom Road Baptist Church. A church member reported seeing the girl there at 9:15.

Dallas officers said the child's parents and Fort Worth officers were to take her home this morning.

Poll Of News Executives Gives Dick Nixon The Edge

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A poll conducted by the Texas Daily Newspaper Assn. Monday showed that Texas publishers and newspaper executives believe the Republican party will carry Texas in November's general election.

Each newspaper was allowed one vote in the poll conducted at the TDNA's summer meeting here. A victory in November by the Republican team of Vice President Richard Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge was predicted by 17 while 14 felt the Democratic ticket of Sens. John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson would win. The prediction that the Republicans would carry Texas was by a 16 to 14 margin.

When asked which ticket they wanted to win 19 voted for the Republican party and 9 voted for the Democrats.

There were 12 votes for foreign affairs as the campaign issue likely to have the greatest bearing on the printed ballot. Ten participants ranked national defense and security as the major campaign issue and 4 named the national economy and domestic affairs.

Conway C. Craig of The Corpus Christi Caller-Times moderated a panel discussion on circulation problems. Members of the panel were Pat Fincher of the Austin American-Statesman, Shelton Hall of The Victoria Advocate, and Harold Zschach of The San Angelo Standard-Times.

Dallas Times Herald columnist Weldon Owens was the luncheon speaker. He pointed out that every man wants to feel that he is making or has made some contribution for the betterment of mankind.

Gas Is Blamed For Explosion

HOUSTON (AP)—An accumulation of natural gas in a paint-baking oven may have caused a thundering explosion Monday that killed three men and injured 11, an arson investigator said.

The explosion hit the Rheem Manufacturing Co. plant shortly after noon.

Arson Investigator D. A. Whigham said a faulty pilot light may have sparked the blast.

Killed were Jacob McKnight, 55, production superintendent with 25 years service; George Greene, a trouble shooter with 21 years service, and Raymond Mobley, 36, a machine operator with 14 years service.

Greene returned from vacation Monday. He was killed instantly. Phillip Camado, 46, suffered third degree burns over 90 per cent of his body. He was in critical condition.

The plant makes 50-gallon drums for gas, oil and industrial liquids and underground storage tanks up to 55,000-gallons in capacity.

A sign in one of the buildings called the plant the safest in the Rheem organization. The plant, in operation 23 years, had more than one million hours of safe work.

Plant Manager F. J. Deddo said damage will run more than a half million dollars, but said he could make no accurate estimate until the plant is cleaned up.

He said the plant may be idle a month. About 75 or 80 workers were in the plant when the explosion occurred.

Addison Fraud Trial Scheduled

DALLAS (AP)—John Milton Addison will go on trial in Federal District Court here in December on charges of fraud in his uranium operations.

U. S. Atty. W. B. West III said Monday that Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson has indicated that December would be the first available time on his docket to handle the trial.

The 37-year-old uranium promoter is charged with mail fraud, conspiracy and violation of federal securities laws in connection with his widely-known mining and uranium enterprises.

West said he expects the trial to last at least two weeks.

Proposed CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NUMBER TWO ON THE BALLOT

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON AT AN ELECTION TO BE HELD ON NOVEMBER 8, 1960.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 6 proposing an Amendment to Section 4-b, Article III of the Constitution of Texas, increasing to three and one-half percent (3-1/2%) the maximum permitted interest rate on bonds issued under the authority of the Veterans' Land Board; providing for an election and the issuance of a proclamation hereof.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Section 4-b, Article III of the Constitution of Texas, be amended by adding thereto the following:

"The foregoing notwithstanding, bonds hereafter issued by the Veterans' Land Board pursuant to the authority of this Section 4-b of the Constitution may bear a rate or rates of interest not to exceed three and one-half percent (3-1/2%) per annum.

"This Amendment shall become effective upon the date of its adoption by the Legislature of the State of Texas on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1960, at which election it shall have printed thereon the following:

"FOR the Amendment to Section 4-b of Article III of the Constitution of Texas by adding thereto a provision authorizing the Veterans' Land Board to issue the bonds authorized under such Section at a rate or rates not to exceed three and one-half percent (3-1/2%) per annum."

"AGAINST the Amendment to Section 4-b of Article III of the Constitution of Texas by adding thereto a provision authorizing the Veterans' Land Board to issue the bonds authorized under such Section at a rate or rates not to exceed three and one-half percent (3-1/2%) per annum."

Sec. 2. The Governor of the State of Texas shall issue the necessary proclamation for said election, and shall have the same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State.

Proposed CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT NUMBER FOUR ON THE BALLOT

PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT TO BE VOTED ON AT AN ELECTION TO BE HELD ON NOVEMBER 8, 1960.

HOUSE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 6 proposing an Amendment to Section 13, Article XVI of the Constitution of the State of Texas, so as to give the Legislature authority to classify loans and lenders, define interest and maximum rates of interest, and provide for a maximum rate of interest of ten percent (10%) per annum in the absence of legislative action; and to provide for an election and the issuance of a proclamation hereof.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS:

Section 1. That Section 13, Article XVI of the Constitution of the State of Texas be amended so as to read as follows:

"Section 13. The Legislature shall have authority to classify loans and lenders, define interest and maximum rates of interest, and provide for a maximum rate of interest of ten percent (10%) per annum in the absence of legislative action; and to provide for an election and the issuance of a proclamation hereof."

Body Of Kidnap Victim Found

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Police announced tonight the body of Graeme Thorne, 8, kidnaped Sydney boy, was found in the suburb of Seaford.

Graeme, son of Basil Thorne, disappeared on his way to school July 7.

Australian police have conducted their most extensive search in history for a missing person since Graeme vanished soon after he left his parents' apartment.

Ninety minutes after he left a phone caller with a foreign accent demanded 25,000 Australian pounds—$50,000—ransom for his safe return. The caller said if the money was not paid "I'll feed him to the sharks."

The parents sought to pay, but were never able to establish when and where the kidnapers wanted them to make contact.

"All we want is our son back unharmed," Thorne said.

The abduction came shortly after the father won $223,000 in a June lottery.

Broadcast pleas by the parents and provincial authorities of New South Wales to the kidnapers to get in touch again, or at least let Graeme write a letter home, went unanswered.

Julian Arispe (left) and Joe Fierro make a last minute inspection of the floor they have refinished at South Ward school. The building will be used again this year as a classroom.

50 Years Old, But South Ward School Still Sound

After 50 years, the South Ward building is going strong. Several times this venerable structure at Austin and 14th Streets has been consigned to surplus, but always it has been called back into service to solve pressing space problems.

Although it lacks the low sleek lines of modern buildings and suffers some from design by current standards, the plant is still rated as one of the soundest in the system by structural standards.

Two years after the original permanent building was erected in 1913 where the post office now stands, the trustees of the young Big Spring Independent School District observed that there being an apparent and urgent necessity for additional school buildings, the building committee is asked to see about more sites.

This led to a bond issue which passed 53-0 in the amount of $18,000 in May of 1919.

The new plant replaced a two-room temporary frame building which had been erected on the present South Ward site in 1907. The structure had a high pitched roof, a high gable arch over columns that rose from broad steps in the front. On top was a louvered bell tower.

In the construction program in the boom days of 1928, the plant was altered in outward appearance. The cupola for the bell was removed as were the columns, the wide front steps and most of the gable which overrode the columns.

The group first issued its demand Saturday night on the grounds of the Bay Ridge Christian College about eight miles north of Union. The school is under construction and was to be an institution for training Negro preachers.

A spokesman for the white group claimed the school was five miles from the nearest Negro family.

The college is situated in a remote area of Neshoba County, with the nearest telephone four miles away.

In Anderson, Ind., E. F. Adcock, an official of the Church of God is being built, said. "We realize the problem in the South. We don't like to unnecessarily anger these people."

There is no thought of abandoning the college, he said.

Negro College Told To Move

UNION, Miss. (AP)—An estimated 600 white persons at a protest meeting warned officials of a Negro college to move the school from their neighborhood, saying they would not be responsible for what might happen if the move was not made.

200 Miles And 100 Still To Go

SYDNEY (AP)—Dawn Fraser, one of Australia's star swimmers, has swum 200 miles in pre-Olympic training and will swim another 100 miles before her first heat in Rome, Aug. 26, her coach, Harry Gallagher, said today.

"Dawn will be the fittest woman athlete in Rome," Gallagher said on his return from the team's Townsville training camp. "I am more convinced than ever that she will break the magic minute barrier (for the 100 meters freestyle) in Rome."

Dawn, in a special training swim at Townsville Monday night, reeled off times of 1:05.7, 1:05, 1:04.4 and 1:03 for the 110 yards with a 10 minutes break between each spring. Her world record is 1:02.2.

had poor coordination that would interfere with his future athletic activities. He immediately took him to a well respected pediatrician. He was diagnosed as having "young arthritis" with calcification scattered throughout his spine and was offered little hope for recovery. The father, having been previously healed in our clinic of another "hopeless" back condition, remembered, and brought the youngster to us for a spinal examination. He related the medical report with great concern and anxiety and placed the boy's future health in our hands. Aside from arthritis, the boy was highly nervous, underweight, and had marked tenderness and swelling about his shoulders and lower back.

Defective nerves were located and X-rays revealed the cause of this condition to be a spinal injury sustained from falls. After a series of corrective spinal adjustments, alignment was restored and he quickly picked up weight and regained his normal good health and physical coordination. Now, he is becoming the athlete his proud and grateful father wants him to be. No. 1305.

You Can Send A Well Child Back To School

By HALVARD T. HANSEN, D.C.

Sundertime finds children meeting with more minor accidents than any other time of the year. Negligence in checking children following severe falls is the cause of more children's illnesses than any other one thing.

In checking our case histories of children, we find a very high percentage who contribute the onset of their illness to a fall or accident. Adults often trace chronic ailments as far back as their childhood. If you are suffering with some bodily ailment, perhaps you, too, can trace the beginning of your trouble back to a fall or sometime immediately following an accident.

Keep your children's spines free from nerve pressures and structural disturbances during these hot fatiguing days and they will enjoy good health now as well as later. Most of all, at this time of year, see that your children receive attention immediately following a severe fall.

This case from our files will illustrate what can happen and what can be done about it.

Back a few years, one of our local sportsmen, while playing with his child, noticed that the boy could not bend down properly. He also observed that his son

Wrecking Job Nothing For Tank

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A Sherman tank rumbled through 12 blocks of Oakland, smashing houses and trees.

Nobody tried to stop the driver, Abdo S. Allen. In fact, civic leaders stood by watching him.

Allen, a wrecking contractor, contracted to level 12 blocks for a new automated post office distribution center. The best way to do the job, he figured, was to buy a World War II tank he had seen in an Oakland salvage yard.

The tank cost him $2,000. He grossed $64,000 for the wrecking job.

Stamps In The News

By SYD KRONISE
AP Newsfeatures

To honor the 15th anniversary of its establishment, the United Nations will issue a set of two new stamps on Oct. 24, United Nations Day. The 4-cent stamp will be blue and white and the 8-cent will be black and white.

Featured on the stamps will be part of the United Nations' preamble. "We the peoples of the United Nations determined to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war..." The dates "Oct. 24, 1945-1960" appear below an outline of the United Nations building and the U. N. emblem. To obtain first day cancellations of the stamps, send remittance and envelopes to the United Nations Postal Administrations, United Nations, N. Y., prior to Oct. 24.

The 1961 edition of the New World Wide Postage Stamp Catalog (Volumes I and II) and the New American Stamp Catalog by Minkus Publications will be on the market in September.

The New World Wide catalog includes more than 100,000 price changes, nearly all of them reflecting the upward trend of the stamp market. It contains complete listings of all major varieties of all the stamps ever issued at present market values.

The New American Stamp Catalog for 1961 contains lists and prices of all U. S. issues, including revenues, postal stationery, duck stamps, postage dues, Confederate, U. S. Territories and Possessions, and the United Nations.

Japan has issued a new 10-yen stamp to commemorate the 75th anniversary of Japanese immigration to Hawaii. Depicted on the adhesive is a rainbow spanning the Pacific Ocean and the linking of cherry blossoms with pineapples.

The Chinese Nationalist government on Formosa has issued a set of stamps with three different designs to honor the Fifth World Forestry Congress to be held in Seattle, Wash., on Aug. 28. The designs depict forest breeding, forest protection and production of lumber.

Time For The Popcorn Poll Again; Will It Score Twice?

By MARTIN MOON
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Now that the presidential campaign is building up, the popcorn eater will once more be tapped as a political barometer.

Almost every time he buys a bag or a box, the popcorn muncher will be registering his choice for president. According to popcorn manufacturer Jim Blevins, who originated the gimmick in 1948, that means 35 million "votes."

In 1948 when professional pollsters and just about everyone else picked Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to defeat President Harry S. Truman, Blevins' popcorn poll indicated a Truman victory. In 1952 his poll accurately predicted the returns from all but one of the 48 states. In 1956, 25 million popcorn eaters called the election result right on the nose.

Blevins, who peddles popcorn around the world from his Popcorn Village headquarters at Nashville and plants at Ridgeway, Ill., and North Bend, Neb., is sailing into this year's presidential poll with elaborate plans.

Here's how it works. Every time the muncher buys a box or bag of popcorn he'll have a chance to pick a red, white and blue container emblazoned with the names of either the Republican or Democratic candidates for president and vice president. Most of the sales are in movie theaters. This year the poll is being extended to supermarkets and state fairs.

Tabulations of the results will go up outside the local theaters. They are also forwarded to Blevins' headquarters for auditing.

Popcorn Village, which will have about 20 girls compiling poll results, will issue its first national poll result by Sept. 1. Five other reports will follow, with the last Nov. 1.

Those attending, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Garrett and family, included Mr. and Mrs. F. Groda, Hico; Mr. and Mrs. W. Y. Garrett, Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Garrett and Dale, Harold Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Edgar and Jerry, Carl Gene and Donnie Ray, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Pittman and Nelda, Burl Dean, Suzy and Bill and Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Edgar Jr., all of Albany.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Wines Edgar and Billy, Jimmy, Tommy, Earl Dean, Ricky and Jackie, Mandy; Mrs. Elsie Scott and Delores and Jessie, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Scott Jr. and Connie Lea, and Mr. and Mrs. James Redding and Mandy and Julie, all of Andrews; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morrison and Donna and Terri, Big Spring; Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Baker and Alice and Glenda, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Baker, and Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Neill, all of Coahoma.
