TESTIMONY COMPLETED The U2 pilot completed his own testimony in 80 minutes on the stand today. He reiterated that he was sorry he made the May Day U2 flight. He told his Soviet judges he did not think at the time that the flight might torpedo the Paris summit conference or provoke a military conflict.

Reading Public Junks Love For Money

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
NEW YORK (AP)—Time was when many of the nation's best sellers were written by housewives out to prove that sin in the suburbs is even more prevalent than crabsgrass.
Suddenly last summer a readers' revolution set in. William Nickerson's "How I Turned $1,000 Into 2 Million in Real Estate" got a toe hold on the charts and almost overnight books on making money became more popular than books on making love.
Now best-seller ranks include the works of self-made millionaires just busting to tell the world how they crunched the seven figure bracket with no more effort than it would take to give up smoking or grow African violets.
This not only represents a new trend in publishing but goes against the grain of the whole capitalistic tradition.

NO COMPULSION
When Jay Gould cornered the market in rails in the 1890s, he felt no gnawing compulsion to dash off a best seller on "How I Gained Controlling Stock in the Erie Railroad for Fun and Profit in My Spare Time." Old John D. Rockefeller, who hired press agents to keep his name out of print, never would have dreamed of penning his memoirs under an inspirational title like "Master Yourself and the Standard Oil Combine is Yours."

Modern millionaires are far more willing to share their secrets. The only trouble with the how-to-do-it approach to the main vault at Fort Knox is that no two millionaires seem to agree on the best method of making it big and quick.
Consider the conflicting advice handed out by W. Clement Stone and Nicholas Darvas, both non-vegan millionaires and authors of current best sellers.

HAD HARD TIMES
Stone, an insurance man who twice had to pawn his watch to meet a company payroll, is the co-author with Napoleon Hill of "Success Through a Positive Mental Attitude." Darvas, who has built $100 into a 35-million-dollar personal fortune simply by setting a goal and then setting out to accomplish it.

Darvas, a professional dancer, caused quite a stir in Wall Street with a little manual called "How I Made 2 Million Dollars in the Stock Market."
In direct contradiction of millionaire Stone, millionaire Darvas is the leading exponent of a "detached mental attitude." He started playing the stock market quite by accident when a Toronto night club operator offered him 6,000 shares of a stock in lieu of money for a two-week booking. Two months later the stock earned Darvas an unexpected profit of close to $8,000 and inspired him to take the "cold, unemotional approach" to the stock market.

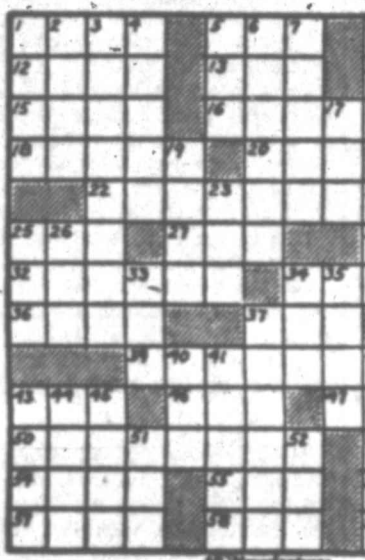

NEW CAREER
Darvas was already making a cozy $1,500 a week when the Toronto windfall set him off on a new career. Stone didn't formulate his goals until he was fired from an insurance agent's job and decided to form his own company.
"I took an ad in an insurance journal," Stone recalls, "and flatly predicted that my firm would become the largest casualty underwriting company in the world." That was 15 years ago. Stone is still a bit short of his goal but 35 million dollars richer for the effort.

Stone, an ebullient salesman type, is convinced that any young man in America can become a millionaire if he only "arouses the slumbering giant in himself and sets himself wholeheartedly to the task of making money."
A progressive mental attitude involves conditioning the mind through the repetition of such "self-starters" proverbs as: "Every day in every way I'm getting better and better," "What the mind can conceive and believe, the mind can achieve," and "every adversity has the seed of a greater benefit."

Darvas, a soft-spoken, artist-type, is suspicious of proverbs, particularly those of the Wall Street variety. One of the first things he learned about the playing the market was to distrust such hoary chestnuts as "You can't go broke taking a profit" and "Buy cheap, sell dear."

New Agency To Draw Master Plan For War

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new central agency will draw up a strategic war master plan stating which U.S. weapons will be used to hit specific targets behind the iron curtain if nuclear war should come.
Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. Wednesday named Gen. Thomas S. Power director of the planning agency to be located at Omaha in conjunction with the Strategic Air Command headquarters. Power will continue to serve as SAC commander and will have an admiral as a deputy for the new agency.
A staff of about 40 top specialists will develop a long-range target program that will be under constant review. The plan is expected to be ready by December for approval of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.
In announcing the new agency, Gates emphasized that the current strategic target plan is a good one. But he notes that largely on SAC's manned bomber force capabilities.
Formation of the new agency is expected to quell a long-smoldering argument between the Air Force and the Navy. Some Air Force quarters have been advocating a separate and over-all strategic command to control long-range weapons of all the services. The Navy opposed this concept.
Gates said the new setup rejected such a concept. He said his decision would centralize planning but would decentralize the actual execution of the plans by the various senior commanders.
The new plan does not represent any change in established national military policy or in relations with U.S. allies, Gates said. He added that when the new plan is worked out any part of it affecting allied preparations will be fully explained.
Gates said it had taken him and Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs, exactly one year to reach the strategic target decision.
The secretary announced his decision Wednesday to the service chiefs and to senior military commanders summoned from their headquarters at home and overseas.
There was little argument within the military services about who would hit what with what as long as SAC possessed a near monopoly on big bombers and big nuclear bombs.
The disagreement blossomed when the Navy came up with its atomic powered submarines, each carrying 16 nuclear-tipped polaris ballistic missiles.
As soon as the Polaris submarine began to look like it would succeed, the Air Force began advocating an over-all strategic command, under Air Force direction, to operate not only Air Force bombers and the intercontinental missiles then nearing operational readiness but also the Navy's missile launching submarines. The Navy objected strenuously and the problem was dropped at Gates' doorstep.
Under the new plan, the Navy will have several means of making its voice heard in the targeting operation. It also will retain control of its Polaris submarines as well as the aircraft carriers from which some strategic bombing missions would originate.
Other Air Force commands, in addition to SAC, will be part of the plan.

Echo Satellite To Move Into Shadow Of The Earth

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Echo I communications satellite, now shining brightly in the night sky, will move for the first time into the darkness of the earth's shadow next Sunday night.
For the next month or two space scientists will be watching to determine what effect, if any, the changed conditions will have on the 100-foot sphere.
Will the huge and fragile ball of plastic film collapse, as some experts fear, and lose its ability to reflect radio waves?
Or will it shrink just a little in the cold darkness, and then blossom out into the sunlight again, as good as ever?
Whatever happens, the sphere will have company of a sort as it orbits around the globe once every two hours for the next year or so.
The Air Force's National Space Surveillance Control Center at Bedford, Mass., says it has identified four separate pieces in orbit with the "big ball." One is the third stage of the Delta launching rocket, carrying a sun-powered radio tracking beacon like the two imbedded on opposite sides of the giant balloon. The other orbiting objects presumably are other parts of the rocket and launching apparatus.
John W. Townsend of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the Echo satellite will travel in darkness for only a brief period Sunday night. But the dark periods will increase thereafter for some weeks, until the satellite is spending 60 per cent of its time in darkness.
This is caused by Echo's steady orbit and the earth's rotation around the sun, putting the sphere periodically in the earth's shadow.
Four times a year Echo will ride in continuous sunlight as it has in its first week. Four times a year the sphere will be chilled by the two-thirds of its orbits that are in darkness.

Broadway Lighting Up For Season

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Broadway is lighting up for the new season with a rush of musicals, novelty shows and hits from abroad. Twenty-six arrivals are booked in every available playhouse for the box office race that starts next month. A dozen others have set everything but an opening date.

The star array includes some performers long absent from the White Way, others in offbeat assignments.

On hand are Lucille Ball, Bette Davis, Tallulah Bankhead, Shelley Winters, Judy Holliday, Angela Lansbury, Margaret Rutherford, Julie Andrews and Julie Harris. The male squad includes Maurice Evans, Laurence Olivier, Jack Lemmon, Anthony Quinn, James Daly, Richard Burton, Menasha Skolnick, Stanley Holloway and Henry Fonda.

OTHER TALENT

Behind the scenes other impressive talent is hard at work. Directors include George Abbott, Dore Schary, Morton da Costa, Moss Hart, Jose Quintero, Otto Preminger, Jose Ferrer, plus English hitmakers Peter Brook, Joan Littlewood, Peter Genville.

Playwright Arthur Laurents is going to double by staging his new script. Other writers on the boards are Tennessee Williams, Ira Levin, Brendan Behan, Mary O'Neill, Frenchmen Jean Anouilh and Eugene Ionesco. Five shows are based on bookshelf bestsellers.

The musical influx starts Sept. 12 with "Vintage '60," an intimate revue. On the 29th the London-Paris hit "Irma la Douce" arrives with most of the West End company including star Elizabeth Seal.

BAWDY TALE

"Tenderloin," based on a novel about bawdy old New York, debuts Oct. 17 with Evans at the top of the cast in his first Manhattan musical. The show is being shaped by Abbott and the rest of the songwriting-producing team that collaborated on the current smash "Fiorello!"

Following in on Nov. 3 is "The Unsinkable Molly Brown," with songs and lyrics by Meredith Willson of "The Music Man" fame. Tammy Grimes and Harve Presnell are starred.

Another hit-making combination fervently seeking a second jackpot is reading "Camelot" for Nov. 17 premiere. Based on a tongue-in-cheek Arthurian novel by T. H. White, "Camelot" has a score by Frederick Loewe and Alan Jay Lerner. The director is Moss Hart. The leading lady is Julie Andrews. All previously joined forces in "My Fair Lady."

"CAMELOT"
For a fresh touch "Camelot" has a different leading man in the person of Richard Burton. TV's dynamic Lucille Ball joins the melody lineup Dec. 15 in "Wildcat," with songs by Cy Coleman and book by N. Richard Nash.

Five dramas with considerable overseas success are also booked, and 20 additional foreign items are being eyed by producers for what could become an exotic stampede on Broadway.

Arriving Sept. 20 is Brendan Behan's "The Hostage" with its English cast; two days later Shelagh Delaney's "A Taste of Honey" comes in with Angela Lansbury and Joan Plowright. Joan Littlewood, who directed both plays in London, is devoting herself here to the Behan opus. "Farewell, Farewell, Eugene," a Yankee-written comedy that went abroad for first major success, unveils Sept. 27 with Margaret Rutherford in the spotlight.

Other imports are Anouilh's "Becket" with Olivier and Quinn on Oct. 6; and Ionesco's "Rhinoceros" with Eli Wallach and Zorro Mostel on Nov. 8.

North Texas Dairymen Have Come Up By Mutual Help

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP)—From a little outfit with debts of $50,000 to an organization with assets of $5 million dollars—that is the story of the North Texas Producers Assn. in 11 years.

The story began June 2, 1949, when about 20 dairymen from 16 counties met here.

They formed an organization to obtain better markets for their milk. They've found better markets, but they need more.

The NTPA has increased to 2,700 members, has bought two processing plants worth more than $1 million dollars and owns or leases a fleet of 150 trucks that handle thousands of gallons daily on their collection routes.

NTPA is still acutely aware of a troubled milk market.

J. W. Woodman, first and only general manager of NTPA, says: "Milk prices have declined throughout the nation and because dairy farmers have certain fixed costs in their operation, they have started to produce more. This, of course, means overall production is increasing steadily. The over-production of Class One milk—that which is consumed as a liquid—can spell trouble for members of the NTPA."

Since a surplus of milk can mean less money for dairymen, they often take milk to areas of shortages or divert the product to Class 2 milk, used in powdered milk, cheese, butter and ice cream.

The $670,000 Munster, Okla., plant operated by the association moved 13 million pounds of milk into Class 1 sales last year, its most profitable milk sales were in Class 1, but it also took in $147,000 from Class 2 uses.

During the same period at the $448,000 Sulphur Springs plant, NTPA put another 13 million pounds into Class 1 uses, and picked up $48,000 on Class 2 sales. About $1.5 million dollars went to producers from the two plants for Class 1 milk. Woodman said in an interview.

"Because milk is perishable and is produced every day, a dairy farmer by himself has little control over the milk supply and consequently has virtually no control over the price he is paid for his product."

"If a dairyman doesn't like the price he's offered, he cannot store it and wait for a better price. He is in an unfavorable position."

Before NTPA was organized, an area dairyman's problem was to find a way to keep excess milk from lowering the price.

The association now operates in 77 counties in North Texas, south Oklahoma and east New Mexico.

The association began with two primary objectives:
1. Have an association employ in every milk receiving plant to check milk weights and run-but-terfat tests.
2. Handle surplus milk, either

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Thurs., August 18, 1960 3-A

through its own plants or by contract with other plants.

In August 1950, distributors in the NTPA area were offered a contract of sale and purchase. The contract stipulated that the association was to have a voice in setting all prices, surplus milk was to be controlled by the association, association employees were to serve as inspectors in plants, and association dues were to be deducted.

FEDERAL ORDER
In May of 1951, the NTPA received its first federal milk order. A milk order, stated simply, is supposed to provide stable and orderly marketing conditions for all milk produced for sale in a designated market area.

The NTPA is a cooperative and is not limited to the area covered by a single milk marketing order. The association actually operates under four marketing orders out of the seven in effect in Texas.

The orders affecting Texas are for North Texas, Austin-Waco, Corpus Christi, San Antonio, Central West Texas, the Texas Panhandle and the Red River Valley. The federal milk order was set up in the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937. Dairy farmers can approve an order by a two-thirds vote. They can cancel the order by a simple majority. The order specifies the terms under which milk can be sold, and the price per hundredweight is determined by the way the milk is used.

The Brazos Valley of Texas looks like the Blue Grass country of Kentucky. And in the fields of the Brazos are Ponies of the Americas. State's 'Blue Grass' Region Gives Rise To Horse Industry

By VICK LINDLEY
Managing Editor, The Bryan Daily Eagle
Written for The Associated Press
BRYAN (AP)—The Brazos Valley of Texas looks like the Blue Grass country of Kentucky. And in the fields of the Brazos are Ponies of the Americas. The breed has mushroomed into popularity and is giving the Bryan area a new industry.
Of all the Ponies of America in the United States, a disproportionately large number are in Texas. The largest group in Texas is in Brazos and Burleson counties, with some others in adjoining Robertson and Milam counties.
The Pony of America popularly is called an Indian pony. It is a strikingly marked animal, larger than a Shetland pony but smaller than a horse. The white, spotted "blanket" is the most distinguishing mark. Other identifications are striped heads, mottled noses and eyes showing whites. Among full-sized horses, these are the marks known as the Appaloosa strain. Some full-sized Appaloosa horses are also bred in the Bryan area.

The Pony of the Americas is first recorded as being used by Genghis Khan, Emperor of the Mongols, and his chief officers. Lesser officers rode solid colored animals, which otherwise were very similar.
The breed spread through North Africa, was used by the Moors in conquering Spain and later by the Conquistadores in conquering Mexico and Peru.
In Central America the animals eventually were turned loose to grow wild in an area where horses previously had been unknown.

The pony became popular several years ago but the supply was limited.
Breeders were trying to re-create the Indian pony by crossing Appaloosa horses with Shetland or Welsh ponies.
The late Clay Dunn of Burleson County is credited with starting a program by which the original breed is being renewed. Strikingly colored stallions are bred to solid-colored mares imported from the mountains of Mexico.
Results were displayed at near-by College Station recently when the first annual show of the Texas Pony of the Americas Club was held.
Breeders in the Bryan area include Jerry Randle of the Circle R Ranch of near Bryan; C. H. Moore of the Hackamore Stables of Bryan; Conley and Betty Wendell of the C-Bar W Ranch of Caldwell; Roy Dunn, son of Clay Dunn, of the 4-D Ranch of Caldwell; and Bud Simmons of Caldwell.
The first national show was held by the Pony of the Americas club at Mason City, Iowa, last year. Iowa is also a center for breeding the ponies. The club issues temporary and permanent registration to approved animals.

Europe Sees Powers As Luckless Casualty

LONDON (AP)—The courtroom conduct of U.S. pilot Francis Gary Powers on the first grueling day of his Moscow trial won him the sympathy and even admiration of many of West Europe's newspapers. They pictured the young American flier as a luckless casualty in the cold war.
Many West European observers also felt the early pattern of the espionage trial confirmed their opinion that the whole thing was a well-staged propaganda show, with U.S. policy rather than Powers as the target of the Soviet prosecutors.
MOST newspapers, including many with their own correspondents attending the trial, were convinced there had been no attempt to brainwash Powers.
Britain's Daily Telegraph said Powers' unprecedented position of a secret agent who had been acknowledged by his principals.
"Given this fact, and assuming he was right in assisting the court at all, the American pilot was magnificent," the Conservative newspaper said.
The London Daily Mail reported that "in his straightforward, almost simple way, Powers fought back at the prosecutor on some points."
The Daily Express correspondent wrote: "Out of it all I felt overwhelming pity for the Powers family. One gets the impression of simple people caught up in the vortex of a quarrel between the two greatest powers on earth."
All over Western Europe reports of the trial were carried under banners in big type stretching over several columns.
"Powers confessed quietly and with dignity," said the headline of a Copenhagen newspaper.
Another Danish paper described the trial as "a big Soviet propaganda show with a small supernumerary in the leading role."
Il Messaggero, Rome's biggest independent morning paper, termed the trial a "sad comedy." Its front-page editorial declared:

"The powers trial is not a legal process. It is a show."
In reality the process in Moscow does not seek to fix the degree of responsibility of the young Powers. It has the sole intention of making accusations against the U.S. State Department and the Pentagon, even the entire American nation and all the Western world.
"This is the truth. It is sad that the life or the liberty of a man is the object of this painful comedy."
"But it is even sadder that a great country and a great people like the Russians should make themselves believing spectators of the process. One speaks of brainwashing in reference to the young Powers. But the true brainwashing is that which the Russians undergo continuously."
France's independent Parisien carried its report under the headline: "Powers does the best he can before the Soviet judicial machine."
In neutral Sweden the Stockholms-Tidningen editorialized:
"One can perhaps venture to hope that even the Russians will recognize this little man who got into a squeeze between the big shots as a comparatively innocent party and that his punishment will be in accordance with this estimate."
German newspapers carried no editorial comment on the trial.

Nixon, In Carolina, Lauds Civil Rights

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon has kicked off his vote quest in the racial-minded South with an espousal of civil rights, an endorsement of sit-in demonstrations and a plea to keep religion out of politics.
The Republican presidential nominee surprised a capacity crowd in the Municipal Coliseum here Wednesday night by speaking out on civil rights. He said his position on that subject is the same in the South as it is in the North, the East and the West.
He said he stands on the GOP platform as "an honest program that will produce progress" in the area of civil rights and denounced the Democratic platform as one that promises "far more than they can produce."
FORMAL TALK
Nixon tossed his civil rights views in near the end of a formal address to an enthusiastic crowd estimated at more than 12,000.
He was applauded repeatedly as he expounded his position on other topics and called for disregard of party labels. The ardor of his audience dwindled noticeably as he called for "progress" in promoting civil rights. But he won more applause when he added: "I recognize that law alone is not the answer" to the civil rights problem.
His audience included a number of Negroes.
Nixon told newsmen later that he does not intend to "avoid or soft soap the civil rights issue" in campaigning scheduled to take him into every Southern state.
HONEST WAY
"I do not believe in going into the South and demagoguing on civil rights," he said at an impromptu news conference upon his return to Washington. "You have to talk in a reasoned, honest way."
In his public address, Nixon did not refer to sit-in demonstrations.

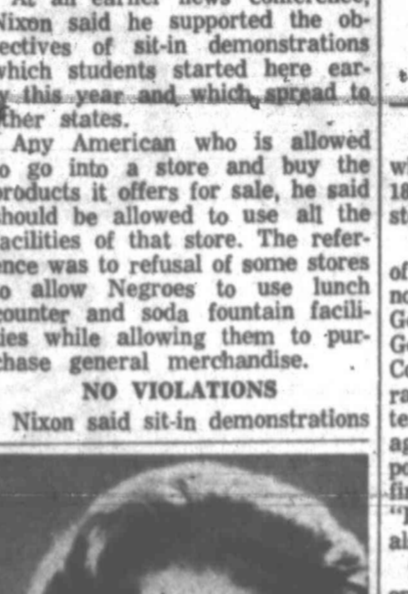

or to the issue of religion, but centered on what he said were basic differences between the two major parties on domestic and foreign policies.
These differences, he said, bring the Republican party more in line with the principles of Jefferson, Jackson and Wilson and justify the departure from Democratic ranks of Southerners who, he said, have been deserted by the Democratic party.
FEDERAL HELP
He said the Democrats favor more and expanded federal help, while Republicans advocate increased opportunities for the individual and creation of "a climate for the individual and for private enterprise to grow."
"If you are looking for promises of what the federal government will do for you," he said, "you should not support me. Our opponents have outpromised us in that field. They cannot outperform us on the results and the goals."
At an earlier news conference, Nixon said he supported the objectives of sit-in demonstrations which students started here early this year and which spread to other states.
Any American who is allowed to go into a store and buy the products it offers for sale, he said should be allowed to use all the facilities of that store. The reference was to refusal of some stores to allow Negroes to use lunch counter and soda fountain facilities while allowing them to purchase general merchandise.
NO VIOLATIONS
Nixon said sit-in demonstrations should be orderly and not in violation of local laws. Whether these laws are valid, he said, is for the courts to determine.

Asked at this televised news conference whether religion would be a major issue in the campaign, Nixon said he hoped it would not. His Democratic opponent, Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, is a Roman Catholic.
"Religion is not a proper issue," Nixon said. "The way I am going to deal with the religion issue is to talk always about other issues and not about that."
Nixon said "the genuine enthusiasm" of his Greensboro audience encouraged him to believe that North Carolina, which came within 15,000 votes of going Republican in 1956, would vote Republican this year.

Cuban Naval Shakeup Due

HAVANA (AP)—A sweeping reorganization of the Cuban navy appeared certain today in the wake of reports that the Castro brothers had smashed a naval plot against their regime.
Government silence prevented official confirmation of persistent reports that Castro agents had infiltrated a group of dissident naval officers at the Casa Blanca base across the way from Havana and uncovered a plot to revolt or defect with two of Cuba's three modern frigates.
Armed forces headquarters denied anything was amiss, but informants insisted about 300 men had been arrested on charges of plotting.
Reports that Navy chief Juan Castineira was under arrest were denied officially, but his whereabouts was a mystery.

THIS DAY IN TEXAS

By CURTIS BISHOP
The Democratic Convention which adjourned on this day in 1892 had set a new high for storminess, even in Texas.
The issue was the renomination of James S. Hogg for the governorship. The opposition was led by George Clark, former Attorney General and then Judge of the Court of Criminal Appeals. The railroads and large corporate interests in the state were strongly against Hogg as a result of the policies he had followed during his first term. The national issue of "Free Silver" or the gold standard also entered into the picture.
The convention quickly developed into a free-for-all. Finally the followers of George Clark left the assembly and met in old Turner Hall while the regular convention held its sessions in the old street car barns and was dubbed the "Car Stable Convention."
Hogg was finally nominated with 697 votes against 106 for Clark and 165 for scattered candidates. The splinter convention, however, nominated Clark, who also won Republican endorsement.
The blistering campaign which followed ended with the re-election of Hogg by a vote of 190,846 to 133,396 for Clark.

Denied Bond

DALLAS (AP)—Quinto Reed, 29, charged with raping a Grand Prairie divorcee, 54, was denied bond when arraigned Wednesday before Justice of Peace Pierce McBride.
The woman, who looks 15 years younger than 54, said her car stalled as she was on route home from her office job in Dallas. She said that Reed jumped into her car. She testified Reed drove to an isolated area and raped her. Reed asserted the woman consented.

Gov. Davis
Takes Schools
In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A new federal-state school integration showdown loomed here today in the wake of Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' take-over of New Orleans public schools.

Davis acted Wednesday to supersede the Orleans Parish (Count-ty) school board under a 1960 legislative law permitting him to take over schools to prevent racial integration.

U.S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly
Wright has ordered the first grade of New Orleans public schools integrated at the start of the fall term next month.

A three-judge federal court meets Aug. 26 to hear a suit by 31 white parents and the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People for an injunction to prevent Davis from interfering with integration.

Issuance of the injunction would strike at the constitutionality of the law under which Davis acted.

It would also cancel an earlier order by State Dist. Court Judge
Oliver B. Carriere ordering the Orleans Parish school board not to comply with Judge Wright's desegregation order. Carriere thus upheld the validity of a state law giving the legislature sole power to reclassify schools as white or Negro.

Another new state law passed by the 1960 Legislature, permits the governor to close all state schools if any one is integrated.

Davis' action gives him control of the schools pending a meeting of the recently-organized four-man legislative committee to reclassify them.

A special legislative session to ratify classification may be necessary, unless the courts void the governor's action.

Davis designated James F. Redmond, Orleans Parish school superintendent, as his agent to run the schools.

He told Redmond to open the schools Sept. 7, the day before they had been scheduled to open.

Lloyd Rittiner, Orleans Parish School Board president, said his personal opinion was that Davis' attempt to keep schools open and segregated "won't work."

Wednesday.

Dr. Hiram Friedsam of Denton made the evaluation for the gov-

Mercy Considered For Midland Slayer

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Pardons Board today is pondering whether convicted sex-slayer Eusebio Regalado Martinez, who was portrayed Wednesday as a grown man with a child's mind, should be spared from his scheduled execution Aug. 27.

The executive director of the Texas Assn. of Retarded children posed the problem of the condemned man's mental competence at a clemency hearing before the board.

He said legislation is needed to enable the courts to deal more adequately with the mentally retarded.

The 27-year-old Latin-American is scheduled to die Aug. 27 for the Oct. 14, 1957, murder of a nine-month-old Midland Negro girl, Cynthia Riggin.

Charles Meisger appeared before the board with the condemned man's attorney, John L. Culver. They were the only ones to speak for the convicted murderer. Board Chairman A. C. Turner said the three-man group will probably reach its decision between Aug. 20 and Aug. 25.

"In this day and age, when social consciousness has awakened us to the need for protection of the weak and unfortunate, an enlightened society must reexamine its legislation and legal processes with regard to the mentally retarded," Meisger said in a prepared statement.

He outlined Martinez' history as a patient for nine years in the state's mental institutions, and pictured him as a physically mature man but with a mind of an eight or ten-year-old child. At the age of 20, Martinez had an IQ of between 60 and 75, Meisger said.

"What headway would be made at this time and what benefit would accrue to society by going ahead with this execution, an execution that would not even be understood, for the concept of death here is clouded by defect?" he asked.

Meisger noted that a person is considered legally sane as long as he can distinguish right from wrong. Psychiatrists' reports on Martinez indicate he can barely tell the difference, Turner said.

After 142nd District Court Judge Perry D. Pickett sentenced Martinez to death April 28, the convicted murderer smilingly told a reporter he had no particular feeling—neither fear nor courage—about his impending execution.

Martinez was twice convicted of the slaying. The first conviction was thrown out by State Court of Criminal Appeals because his attorney was found to be ineligible to practice law in state courts because his state bar dues were not paid up.

Martinez, in a statement introduced at the trial, said he attacked the little girl to satisfy a sexual urge that came over him after he drank whisky, beer and wine with other Latin-Americans.

He was convicted of seizing the baby from the car where her parents had left it unattended while they went to a dance at a Midland night club and beating her to death.

Gov. Price Daniel granted him the customary constitutional 30-day reprieve, moving the execution date to Aug. 27.

Reunion In Shanghai

William C. Walsh, left, 70, held up family photos for his brother, Roman Catholic Bishop James E. Walsh, 69, during a visit with the Bishop in a Shanghai prison. Bishop Walsh is in the Chinese Communist prison serving a 20-year sentence on espionage charges. Walsh, of Cumberland, Md., said the Bishop's parting words after the visit were: "We will meet in heaven." This is believed to be the first picture of Bishop Walsh since he was placed under arrest in Red China in 1951.

Crowd Threatens Accused Sex Killer

BOONVILLE, Ind. (AP)—A convicted rapist accused of killing 11-year-old Avril (Honey) Terry was held under close guard today after an angry crowd of townspeople gathered outside the jail.

Ernest O. Hashfield, 53-year-old trinket maker, was ordered held without bail Wednesday on a preliminary charge of first-degree murder after the little girl's dismembered body was found.

Sheriff Robert E. Shelton and State Police Sgt. Wendelin Opel said Hashfield—erectly—admitted dumping Avril's dismembered body on the Ohio River bank and in the river, 25 miles southeast of Boonville.

The little girl disappeared Tuesday on a trip downtown to buy candles for a birthday cake for her 8-year-old sister, Candace. Hashfield was arrested Tuesday night and at first denied any knowledge of the case.

"His statement and discovery of the body came Wednesday," Sheriff Shelton said a crowd of about 300 persons gathered outside the Warrick County Jail Wednesday night.

"They want a quick trial, and they had a tree picked out across the street they wanted to use," Shelton said. He said that he saw no ropes but that several tomatoes were thrown at his deputies, two of them scoring hits.

Shelton said Hashfield paced his cell nervously but said nothing.

"We had a worse case when we had a race riot here a couple of years ago," the sheriff said. "If it gets too hot they'll have two locked iron doors to come through. Just let them try to get in."

The crowd dispersed before midnight.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Howard Bradley, Hashfield refused to talk.

"I ain't making any statements till I get me a lawyer," he burst.

Hashfield wore overall pants and a blue shirt in his court appearance. He had a black eye, and police said it was the result of a blow from Avril's father, Dr. Robert H. Terry, who had been allowed to question the man.

Police said Hashfield reported meeting the girl when he stopped to help her pick up some pennies she had dropped on the sidewalk. He said she accepted a ride in his car — something her parents had warned her not to do.

Hashfield said they drove to an abandoned strip mine south of Boonville and then went to his home. Sheriff Shelton said the man stated he blacked-out and could recall nothing more until after he tossed the body in the river.

Capitol — With Presidential Candidates — Is Tourist Spot

By TEX EASLEY
AP Special Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—By all odds the most popular spot for tourists here these days is the Capitol—and specifically the Senate chamber. The attraction: Presidential nominees Nixon and Kennedy, and Vice Presidential nominee Johnson.

On the opening day of the current session, the lineup awaiting admission to Senate gallery extended, four abreast, down a stairway and through corridors to the rotunda. Most waited in vain, because those once seated usually stayed so long as the standard bearers were on the floor.

While Vice President Richard M. Nixon, as "President" of the Senate, and Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts were naturally the most looked-for, Texas Sen. Lyndon Johnson obviously was in charge of affairs in the Senate.

Long before Nixon gavelled the session to order at noon Monday the galleries were packed. At 11:40 a.m., a bit earlier than customary, Democratic vice presidential nominee Johnson as majority leader strode into the chamber to his front row, center desk to meet reporters, who promptly swarmed around and began popping questions while the spectators looked on, hoping in vain to catch some of Johnson's low pitched words that even some newsmen missed.

A few minutes later Kennedy, in a dark blue suit, came through the swinging doors into the chamber. After a momentary pause to speak to a couple of Republican senators, he took his rear row seat almost directly behind Johnson's. Only one reporter left the

Barging Oil Man Gives Up Idea Of Using Waterway

DENISON, Tex. (AP)—Barney Holland, Fort Worth oil man urging development of inland waterways, has had to give up on his attempt to push a barge load of oil up the Red River to Denison Dam.

His paddlewheel tug and the barge had to stop at Natchitoches, La., 80 miles below Shreveport, because of low water.

Holland set out with his cargo from Oil City, Pa., down the Ohio River, and traveled without mishap after reaching the Mississippi River, but ran into trouble in the third stream.

Roy Matthias, executive secretary of the Red River Valley Association at Shreveport, reported that Holland "plans to make Shreveport the end of the line on this trip."

"However, he'll start back for Oil City as soon as he finishes unloading this weekend at Shreveport," Matthias said, "and hopes to have better water conditions on the Red River for his second run."

The barge carried three carloads of oil in cases and another carload of bulk oil in drums. After unloading the cases at Natchitoches, it was believed the lightened barge would be able to proceed to Shreveport.

Holland called a halt on this

Texas Senators With Majority

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sens. Lyndon Johnson and Ralph Yarborough of Texas were with the majority Wednesday as the Senate defeated an amendment and a substitute for the pending minimum wage bill.

The amendment, by Sen. Spear Holland (D-Fla.), would have deleted most provisions to put around five million more workers under the wage-hour law. It was rejected 56-39.

A substitute measure by Republican leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois was defeated 54-39.

Death Takes Paul Vance; Early Texas Air Pioneer

FORT WORTH—With the death of Captain Paul Vance in Fort Worth last month, Texas lost one of its real aviation pioneers.

Capt. Vance, who was a part of the history of commercial aviation in Texas from its beginning until the Jet Age, was well known in such cities as Fort Worth, Dallas, San Antonio, Brownsville, Corpus Christi and Big Spring.

A native of Oklahoma, Capt. Vance learned to fly in 1916 in San Antonio. His teacher was the famous Eddie Stinson. By 1922, he managed to buy his own airplane and was barnstorming up and down the Rio Grande Valley.

In 1924, he opened his own flying school in San Antonio which he operated until 1923 when he joined Texas Air Transportation in Fort Worth.

Texas Air Transportation, a predecessor company of American, inaugurated the first passenger schedules in Texas in 1923 flying from Dallas to San Antonio and from Fort Worth to Galveston. In 1929, TAT was merged with Gulf Air Lines to form Southern Air Transport.

In February, 1929, Vance returned to San Antonio to make the first scheduled flight to Corpus Christi and Brownsville on March 12, 1929.

It was later that year that Vance had his only accident. He "ran into a hill."

ONE CRASH
Flying night mail from San Antonio to Big Spring, something went wrong with his altimeter. Vance later explained that in the darkness, he thought he was flying high but was actually just a few feet off the ground. When he got to a hill, he ran smack into it. The plane was demolished, but Vance walked off.

Flying the mail was fun for Vance. He made it that way. For instance, as he flew over the thinly populated West Texas area he felt sorry for the isolated ranch families. There were no telephones and few radios.

So on Sunday mornings, before leaving San Antonio he bought supplies of the Sunday newspapers. As he flew low over the ranch houses he'd drop a copy. Going south he'd stock up on copies of the Big Spring Herald.

Before long, families would gather outside the house on Sundays waiting for the delivery. When he noticed the welcome his papers received, he began to zig-zag off his course to make delivery to as many families as possible along the route.

MEET FOLKS
Vance confided to his friend Paul Harmon that someday he hoped to retrace his route by car and meet the folks. However, Harmon said he believed that Vance never got around to it.

Vance alternated with Ira Fuller, who later was killed in a crash in the same rugged country where Vance went down, and with Ed Bowe on the bi-plane mail run from Big Spring to San Antonio.

In 1934, the cancellation of air mail contracts brought an end to the short cut for South Texas mail service.

That also did in American Airways, the successor to Southern Air Transport, but in its place American Airlines arose. So Vance took his place along side such veterans as Howard Woodall, Ira McConahay and Homer Rader.

WRONG MAN
By that time newsmen and photographers were on hand for a story and pictures. Years later, Vance was in the news and this picture was pulled from the file—

Kittinger Fell At 614 M.P.H.

HOLLOMAN AIR FORCE BASE N. M. (AP)—The Air Force says Capt. Joe Kittinger attained a maximum speed of 614 miles an hour during the free-fall phase of his record breaking 102,500-foot parachute jump Tuesday.

Kittinger ascended above Holloman Air Force Base in southern New Mexico in an open gondola suspended from a balloon. Officials said at peak altitude Kittinger had 99 per cent of the earth's atmosphere below him and the pressure at that height was 0.142 pounds per square inch, or nearly 1-100th that at sea level.

The scientists said they were not able to determine for how long Kittinger fell at the 614 mile an hour speed—equal to 83 mach, nearly the speed of sound—or at what point in his descent he reached top velocity.

Watch For These
The child who does these things will have an easier time adjusting to school.

Puts away his own toys at bedtime, listens when others speak, follows directions, takes over simple household tasks, starts living by the same rising and retiring schedule he will use when school is underway.

and sure enough the Chinaman, not Vance, got in the paper.

With the advent of the DC-3 in 1936, commercial aviation became more of a business, with much of the "seat of the pants" flying and much of the "fun" no longer a part.

But, Vance kept the enjoyment in flying, because he loved it. With American, he grew through the DC-3's, to the DC-4's and the DC-6's, the ultimate of air travel in 1947.

During the war, when the government ran into transportation problems, it called on the airlines and their DC-3's and 4's to get vital supplies to Alaska.

CHIEF PILOT
Vance rejoined his company as Chief Pilot.

But, as he confided to a friend, "Being Chief Pilot is too-much of a desk job. I want to fly."

He resigned the position to take his regular turns in his beloved Flagships. With the advent of the luxury DC-6's in 1947, Vance naturally checked out in that plane.

One of his speed records, he recalled, was established in a DC-6. He flew the airplane from Dallas to New York at 430 miles an hour to set an existing record of three hours and forty-one minutes.

He often recalled that he flew at 21,000 feet, where he was aided by a 125 mile per hour tail wind. Speeds ranged at times up to 456 miles per hour and his plane landed an hour and fifteen minutes ahead of schedule for the 1,374 mile trip.

MASTERED DC-7
The DC-7, the last word in piston aircraft, came along in 1953, and Captain Vance proudly mastered this skyqueen. From Fort Worth, he flew it to New York, Los Angeles and other cities.

It was just a little more than a year ago that American Airlines launched the new commercial Jet Age, with its sleek 707 Jet Flagship. The new airplane meant a whole new era for commercial aviation. It was announced recently that by 1963 American's entire fleet would be jet-propelled, relegating even the proud DC-7 to the status of a museum piece.

Just about the time of the introduction of the commercial jet, Vance retired with some 5,000,000 miles and 22,000 air hours to his credit.

Vance died at his lakeside home last month; he never checked out in a jet.

CRMWD Board Meet Aug. 25

Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District will meet here Aug. 25 at 10 a.m. in the Settles Hotel, Charles Perry, Odessa, president, has announced.

E. V. Spence, general manager of the district, said that progress reports on the district's studies toward a second lake on the Colorado in southern Mitchell County would be presented.

There also will be reports on the survey of salt water pollution of the river flow in southwestern Scurry and northwestern Mitchell counties. The CRMWD holds a permit to impound a second lake provided the salt water intrusion can be handled successfully.

Other routine matters will be considered by the board along with a review of the office space situation.

Legislature Cautioned In Limiting Annex Powers

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—A legislative subcommittee was urged here Wednesday not to recommend any law that would deprive Texas cities of their power to annex more land.

The subcommittee is holding sessions throughout Texas to determine if the next Legislature should change existing laws which permit annexation without the consent of the annexed areas.

Approximately a dozen speakers representing Fort Worth, Dallas, Lubbock, Midland, Arlington, Garland, Plano and Richardson, spoke at the one-day hearing. Almost all urged that no changes be made in the present law.

Dub Rogers, president of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, told the legislators that curbs on annexation would cause "disorganized growth of second-rate cities."

"There has been some unjustified annexation, I admit, but I don't believe the majority should be penalized for the sins of a few," Rogers said.

Arlington City Manager William J. Patrick and Midland City Manager Alex Bul both emphasized the need for annexation powers as a means of preventing undesirable development around the fringes of a city.

Only one of the witnesses appearing at the hearing called for stricter control on annexation powers. He was James G. Robinson, Plano farmer.

"As matters now stand," he said, "we have no rights against encroachment from cities. We ask you to give us protection to keep us from being ruined by taxes and other things these cities can do to us."

Boy Drowns
BROWNSVILLE (AP)—Alfredo Maldonado, 11, drowned in an old river channel Wednesday after he and a companion fell into the water from a concrete dam.

A Devotional For Today

No man hath seen God at any time; the only begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him. (John 1:18.)
PRAYER: O God, let us by Thy grace learn to know the way to wholehearted consecration. Help us to experience the greatest of all miracles — Thou God of the endless universe becoming our life's center. Help us to see Thee; through Jesus Christ Thy Son. Amen.
(From The Upper Room)

It's All Hard Core

The City Commission has trotted out the long anticipated $4,300,000 bond proposal for civic improvements. The issue, by far the largest ever considered here, is designed for underwriting a progressive orderly plan of development over a five-year period.

The proposal follows long master plan studies. The elements are not the result of the master plan, for the needs for these improvements exist regardless of any plan. What is now sought for accomplishment is to coordinate activities in such a way that current dedication can be met promptly and progressively, and that major improvements can be brought about on such a schedule that costly future replacements and duplications will be held to a minimum.

The master plan sets out certain key points on a time schedule. The five-year bond proposal seeks to coordinate the financing with the plan's schedule.

A study of the eight proposals under which the issue must be submitted shows that in fact three-fourths of the anticipated costs have to do with the perennial problems of a growing city — water and sewer improvements and extensions. The remainder has to do with drainage, fire stations, park and paving projects. It's all pretty much hard core stuff.

Voters will have ample opportunity between now and Sept. 13, the date of the election, to learn more in detail about the proposals. They will be the ones to pay for it, benefit from it, and properly the ones who must decide upon it.

Need For More Planning

Traffic was jammed badly Tuesday while portions of Gregg Street were given a repurposing-in-the-downtown area.

This seems to us to point up a couple of things, the first being the need for an additional overpass to handle the U. S. 87 traffic flow. The jam occurred principally because the north-south flow of traffic was choked off at the base of the Gregg Street overpass. What if the overpass were to be damaged to the extent that the traffic flow over it were all but pinched off?

When U. S. 87 is made a divided highway into Big Spring — as ultimately it will if we secure the roadway for this urgent project — we are going to have to do something about a more systematic flow of traffic over the railroad yards.

The second lesson to be learned from the Tuesday jam is that a more penetrating study needs to be given to traffic flow and how to handle it under certain emergencies. We have the impression that Tuesday's clogging, which was aggravated by cross-town east and west traffic in the downtown sector, resulted in a measure from inadequate planning and imperfect execution. This was in the face of some advance warning. What would have happened had an emergency occurred? This is why some fundamental emergency patterns should be set up to meet most eventualities should something happen in the vicinity of our overpasses or in the downtown area.

Khrushchev's New Propaganda Campaign

WASHINGTON—Enhanced by the presence of his wife, his father and mother, the drama of the trial of Francis Gary Powers is intended by the Soviet propagandists to harrow the nerves of humanity on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

It is being staged to show the inequity of the West, and in particular of the United States, and conversely the righteousness and the innocence of Premier Nikita Khrushchev. The script must portray him as the injured party betrayed by the perfidious act of President Eisenhower in sending an espionage agent into the heart of the Soviet Union and then openly proclaiming the right to do so.

WHAT MAKES THE ordeal especially harrowing for Powers' fellowcountrymen is that he simply does not fit the pattern. In the dirty business of spying, the spy is traditionally sinister and evil fellow capable of any kind of rascality or nastiness. But Powers is the boy next door who grew up with an adventurous love of flying.

His wife put it with great poignancy when she said that he should not be considered as a spy at all but as a kind of scout. This has overtones of the Old West and the Indian scouts ever alert to the threat of Indian depredations. Her remark implies an innocence and even a sense of righteousness that may be widely reflected here at home.

EMOTIONS TO ONE side, the Central Intelligence Agency has been devising hundreds of man-hours-skilled, expert man-hours—to an appraisal of the U-2 disaster and the possible consequences of the trial. Powers worked for the CIA in the numerous flights that he made over the Soviet Union.

While the damage done by the U-2 episode and the confused and fumbling way in which it was handled were obvious enough, in the CIA reckoning the immediate harm to the Western alliance was relatively small. One reason was the way in which Khrushchev overplayed his hand. Yet it is here that there is the greatest concern over the trial.

SO FAR AS CAN be determined, Powers told just about everything he knew of the operation in which he was involved, and he has told it in a straightforward fashion. There is little factual information that he could add unless—and this the big unknown—he has been subjected to some form of brainwashing. The top appraisers in the CIA have no way of knowing whether in the nearly three and a half months he has been imprisoned, this has happened.

THE DAMAGE HE could do, under such circumstances, is with respect to the Edge Is Off The Powers Trial

WASHINGTON (AP)—The trouble with the spy trial of U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers in Moscow is that it is an anticlimax. Now, even though it's getting world attention, the edge is off.

The climax came in a few wild and woolly days last May when Premier Nikita Khrushchev trapped the State Department into denying and then admitting Powers was on a spy flight, then proceeded to wreck the summit conference and insult President Eisenhower.

By then the major facts of the case were known. Powers himself apparently had told the Russians all about his mission, and the State Department confirmed it. There was little left for him then but to plead guilty.

Thus long before Powers' trial began Wednesday there was no surprise left except one — what kind of sentence the Russians will hand him.

BY THE TIME the trial started Powers had become—as he was all along—a very minor figure in the over-all power struggle between the United States and Russia.

The real aim of the Russians in bringing him to trial at all was to try to trip him up. The questions asked him Wednesday, and the answers he gave, made this plain enough.

The Russians so maneuvered the questioning that he appeared not as some sinister figure peering down on Russia from 65,000 feet but a kind of mechanical man who was simply carrying out orders when he crossed the Soviet frontier.

Eisenhower at his news conference Wednesday indignantly rejected the idea that the Ameri-

Those Office Ailments

NEW YORK (AP)—There are at least 365 recognized medical ailments, one for each day of the year.

But in the modern U.S. business world there are a number of other ailments which have never been named. They probably cause more lost time and wasted motions—and perhaps more ulcers—than all the illnesses mentioned in a medical dictionary.

Here are a few of these mysterious maladies you can probably find in your own office:

“One-day pneumonia”—A familiar to every personnel director on a symptom for a slingshot. Usually strikes on Monday. Victim makes miraculous recovery during day and shows up Tuesday morning chirping like a bluebird.

“Afternoon sickness”—Patient has three martinis and a parfait for lunch. Snore at desk until quitting time.

“Petty cash aphasia”—The new office boy suddenly trembles and becomes speechless when questioned about $3.56 shortage in the stamp drawer.

“Daily doubtitis”—A gnawing compulsion by employee to go to nearest pay phone to call bookie each afternoon shortly before start of first race at nearest horse track.

“Foot-in-mouth disease”—The junior executive who compliments the boss on his 64th birthday by saying: “Just one more—to go, eh, chief?”

“Sinusure syndrome”—The state of utter panic experienced by the office god-off when he learns the firm has hired an efficiency expert.

“Stomach grip”—A cerebral buzz which grips approximately half of entire staff until they get 10:30 a.m. coffee break.

“The 5:15 p.m. myopia”—This malady makes it impossible for the stenographer to discover any misspelled words in any letter she finishes just before quitting time.

“Post-vacation trauma”—Characterized by a vacant look and an inability to settle down into the old rut. Usually disappears after a week or two. If it doesn't, the employee disappears.

Whipping Not Proper For A Two-Year-Old

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER

“Dear Dr. Molner: My parents say we spank our two-year-old son too often and that we try too hard to make him mind. But don't you believe some children need more discipline than others, especially boys?”

“We spank to make him mind. We have a thin belt of plastic that we use when he throws a tantrum or some such thing that requires more than a scolding. He seems to be quite stubborn so naturally there must be some action taken. I want him to grow up to be a nice young man instead of a juvenile delinquent. Do you think my attitude is wrong?”
—Mrs. B. H.”

Yes, I think your attitude is wrong. Close to 100 per cent of the time, I try to write answers that will help readers. This is one of the exceptions. This time I hope I can write something that will help your young son.

I can agree with you only to this extent. Sometimes a good whack-of-a size to fit the child and the offense is an effective disciplinary measure. A slap on the fingers for grabbing an ash tray or the butter dish. An immediate swat on the place nature provided, when a child deliberately and challengingly disobeys. That's yes.

“But a plastic belt to whip a child of two? Oh please, no! I'm perfectly aware of the adage about “spare the rod and spoil the child,” but too often this is used as an excuse for the parent to take out his own frustrations in “trying to make Johnny a good boy.”

Spanking—or in your case whipping—a child to make him “grow up to be a nice young man” misses the point. Why must a child be disciplined? To “make him obey”? No! To TEACH him!

At two, a child understands only the most elementary things: Don't touch! And other rules as simple as that. He can't possibly understand if you whip him for “being stubborn.” And as a mere male, I'm not wholly convinced that boys are more stubborn than girls.

Wise parents get effective response by telling a small child to go to his room, or sit in a corner, or sit quietly on a hard chair, or sit on the bottom step of the stairs. The tone of voice—firmness, but not scolding—carries a world of understanding to the child.

Whipping (which is not very effective anyway) or the brisk, quick, immediate spank, which is better, is the last resort, not the first.

You cannot—repeat, YOU CANNOT—raise a “nice young man” by whipping. You cannot, must not, assume that the more you punish, the better he'll be. I am sure your motives are fine. But your perspective has been

Around The Rim

No Plan And No Permanence

We stopped at many places on our vacation. In practically every town, we passed long enough, at least, to pick up a copy of the local paper.

One of these was a boom town. Due to the discovery of uranium, the small, almost insignificant village, bloomed into a bustling metropolis of about 25,000 population.

I suppose any city would be strained to provide adequate facilities for this fast growth. But this particular one has fallen prey to the quick buck. Few homes were in evidence, but trailer houses and trailer parks were in abundance.

I WAS TOLD that the city contained over 7,500 trailers and probably half that many more outside the city limits. Despite the good fortune of sudden wealth, the city has grown only in a temporary manner.

Land, of course, is terrifically high. I saw an area large enough to hold three trailers, on a dirt street, that was valued at $50,000. Ten years ago, it was a carrot patch.

Deposits on utilities are also high. The customer must put up $35 to get the water turned on. It costs $50 to get a telephone and only butane, in bottles, is available for gas. Water pressure was low, almost nonexistent at times. There was no central sewer system, only septic tanks. Few streets were paved, most of them dusty and filled with chug holes. I don't think there was a park anywhere in town.

AND DESPITE ALL THIS, the city has a local sales tax. The residents get practically nothing for their tax dollar.

It appeared to me that this town had many advantages that were being overlooked. With this wealth and population, a beautiful city could be built. With a master plan of some kind, the city's utilities could be improved and the costs lowered. The population could be encouraged to be more permanent if well planned subdivisions were installed.

But the town apparently has no far-sighted leaders. They are all looking at the immediate dollar rather than the future of the city. I concluded that it takes more than a natural wealth to build a great city. It requires leaders who will plan for the future. And it requires citizens who will back this planning with faith and votes.

Powers Family Being Used As Pawns

In what follows, it is highly probable that I am cooking up not only a storm but the biggest dish of crow that will ever be set before me. Maybe my indignation at the phony trial in Moscow has unhinged my judgment.

But from the brilliant theatrics with which N. Khrushchev and his master propagandists have set the stage, I am convinced that Francis G. Powers is going to be freed. Oh, the court may find him guilty and impose sentence.

It is a very real and very real fear has been wrung from the old, young wife and Powers' parents have been brought to their knees in an ultimate plea for mercy. Hopalong Khrushchev, the Communist Lochinvar, will ride out of the East, pardon the defendant and score still another propaganda victory.

The script for this trial and its “happy” conclusion were written weeks ago with a masterly cynicism that produced, for their inspired propaganda effect, visas for Powers' wife, his parents and a bevy of doctors, advisers and lawyers accompanying them.

IT IS inconceivable, at least to me, that visas would have been granted to the defendant's wife and parents if the great reunion scene, the dramatic climax when husband and son is again restored to the arms of his family through the generosity of Khrushchev, had not been carefully plotted long ago.

The scenario will show Khrushchev pardoning Powers as a poor boy lead astray by the glittering wages offered him by the ruthless capitalist monopolists of the United States. The world is going to be offered a stunning denunciation (of capitalist villainy) and renunciation (of punishment for Powers) scene by Khrushchev calculated to curl the hair.

FOR HIS OWN purposes, Khrushchev is using Powers' wife and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver W. Powers, with ruthless cunning. It is useless to write that he is using them with “shameless” cunning, for Khrushchev has no shame. And it is too much to expect that an Administration that fumbled the U-2 matter from the beginning would have the wit or the will to prevent the use of Powers' wife and parents as gambits in the Russian propaganda barrage. There is only pity in my heart for them, for they are unwitting pawns in this brutal game. But the State Department, which still controls American passports, was not without its own weapon if it had the gumption to even foresight to use it.

PUBLIC RELATIONS experts among my acquaintance are appalled at the skill with which the Kremlin experts have exploited Powers' family. The Russian P.R.O.s have milked that facet of the trial to a faretheewell. First, they readily got a front-page story by granting visas to Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Powers and their party. And another front-page story, speculative, on why no visa was forthcoming for Mrs. Francis G. Powers.

Then, when the visa came through for the wife, there was another front-page kill. Next, the cable to Powers' parents in London milked the situation for another front-page. The Moscow arrival of, first, the tearful parents, and then the distraught wife furnished further page-one material.

THE SOVIET propagandists have had a field day with this pitiful trio, building a melodrama as crude and corny and far more cruel than “Bertha, the Beautiful Sewing Machine Girl” or “Way Down East.”

Khrushchev et al have plotted the trial and used the wife and parents with diabolic contempt. When the Russian leader has used all ingredients to whip up the United States, as he raved up at the Paris summit, watch for the so-called “happy ending” as his ultimate propaganda landslide.

The Autocrat Who Practices Democracy

PARIS—President De Gaulle was on his way to the States. The reporter who typed it would travel. Perhaps the President could be visited at his resort. “Where does he swim?” This query was received with shock and awe.

“De Gaulle swim?—No body has ever seen him without all his clothes!”

IT IS BOTH A TRUE story—and a parable. De Gaulle without all the garments of dignity, without the panoply of power and the aura of mystique simply would not be De Gaulle. He is greater than a man—a god! And he has brought off miracles in the short history of the Fifth Republic.

His finest miracle, still largely unrecognized and uncelebrated, is the use he has made of France's very recent atomic capability. Two atomic bombs have been fired off in the French Sahara amid general lamentations. More fallout in the air! More armament, hence more danger of war! But De Gaulle had also exploded the French inferiority complex. He had blown up the dungeon where France was relegated in a secondary position among allies. He had begun the restoration—and this had to be a miracle!—of the “grandeur” of France.

THERE WAS NO way to know what a lucky thing this would prove for the NATO partners of France. When Mr. Eisenhower took the first tumble at the called-off Summit meeting, and continued to fall with subsequent humiliations, De Gaulle became the biggest of the Big Three, the biggest single figure in the Free World. He has been a friend in need. He has made the Western alliance stronger by doing what many considered an unfriendly deed that would weaken the alliance.

Another miracle, not very discernible from a distance, is De Gaulle's equally miraculous restoration of French economic stability. He has done this by an austerity program which says in tones that will sound to Americans like those of the late Robert Taft, “Consume less!”

THE FIFTH REPUBLIC is a government which, among other things, withholds products from its own people. The worth of these products is transmuted into greater production through investment in heavy machinery and the like. While not popular, the austerity is acceptable in France because of De Gaulle's inspiring presence. He is described as an autocrat who never hesitates to use power, as a democrat who would never misuse it. Several months ago he appointed as Finance Minister to carry out austerity a public banker named Baumgartner whose American equivalent would be William McChesney Martin, the archconservative head of the Federal Reserve Bank.

IT IS EASY TO SEE why the French capitalists and military authoritarians go for De Gaulle—but no free government in France can stand without Labor support. In the Fifth Republic the working people have been severely pinched by austerity—or, at least, they think so.

From 1952-59 there was a 30 per cent increase in purchasing power. Under De Gaulle's austerity this trend has slowly diminished as inflation has been brought under control. Although employment in France is around 90 per cent, discontent over purchasing power continues. There have been recent strikes by workers in the metal and transport industries and among many government groups which in France include teachers, tobacco and match workers as well as customs and communication employees.

DESPITE THIS much disturbance, Labor stands beside De Gaulle for an overriding reason—Algeria. France has been continuously at war from 1959-60, yet for reasons of profit as well as prestige cannot reconcile herself to giving up Algeria. De Gaulle is the only man alive who is strong enough with all Frenchmen to bring about peace. He is trying to do so by the democratic method of self-determination.

For peace and democracy, the Laborite Left of France stands behind the autocratic miracle-maker who, so far as his countrymen know, probably wears his dignity in swimming and to bed.

Here's Something That's Fine For Home Listening—Chamber Music By Stereo Disc

By L. J. KRAMP
Newsfeatures

New editions of Vivaldi's "Four Seasons," and Bach's "Brandenburg" concertos, and of Beethoven sonatas and Mozart quintets, give the high fidelity fan a rich assortment of stereo records of chamber music.

Chamber music is made for home listening and it is particularly vivid in stereo because it "separates" the instruments so distinctly. Good examples are the "Four Seasons" discs, with their rich harmony and baroque style. Violinist Felix Ayo, well known for his monophonic version, expertly plays the four concerti grossi with Rome's I Musici group (Epic). Soloist Vittorio Emanuele plays with the Society Corelli in the other (RCA Victor), a worthy rival of the 1959 stereo job by the Stuttgart group under Munchinger (London).

Bach, an admirer of Vivaldi, is represented in the stereo disc catalog by five versions of his complete Brandenburg concerti, led by the Boston, Stuttgart and Netherlands musicians. Now comes Yehudi Menuhin's masterful violin playing of Nos. 1, 3 and 5, at the Bath Festival in 1959, recorded beautifully in an album that stands with the best (Capitol).

Three Beethoven sonatas, written for cello and piano over a span of 19 years, are well recorded on three new imported discs by cellist Pierre Fournier and pianist Friedrich Gulda (Deutsche Grammophon). The Mozart quintets, also in three discs, are beautifully played by the Griller String Quartet, with William Primrose on the viola, and are flawlessly recorded at the University of California (Vanguard).

This sort of music not only makes for splendid stereo sound but it makes one realize that he should turn now and then from the great symphonies and concerti of these masters, to recall many of their magnificent melodic works in less well known compositions.

Chamber music lovers also will find a wealth of unusual items in an album of "Telemann Concerti," for oboe, viola and violin, by I Solisti di Zagreb; another of "Tartini and Vivaldi Concerti" for violin, by Jan Tomasow and the Vienna State Opera Orchestra; and "Birth of the Baroque," a collection of music by Gabrieli, Lully and others, by the viols of the Pro Arte Antiqua of Prague (all Vanguard). Also recommended is "Albinoni," concerti for oboe and violin by I Musici (Epic).

These composers, of the intense and turbulent Baroque era of music from 1600 to 1750, were not always inspired but much of their work is very listenable, of a "music to read by" type which has its value for the hi-fi fan who likes classical music but has other things to do.

Of later vintage, and of gratifying beauty in new stereo discs, are these chamber music works: Debussy's Quartet in G Minor and Ravel's in F by the Juillard String Quartet (RCA Victor); Beethoven's First and Ninth (Kreutzer) sonatas, by violinist Zino Francescatti and pianist Robert Casadesu, with "the Kreutzer" all on one side (Columbia); the Brahms Sonata No. 3 in D Minor and the Bach Partita No. 3 in E, by Jaime Laredo, 19-year-old Bolivian violinist (RCA Victor); and

Storms Boom Over W. Texas

Thunder storms continued to boom across the Panhandle-Plains of Texas Thursday as a cool front moved southward into the state.

A severe thunderstorm, accompanied by hail and lightning, dumped 2.54 inches of rain on Peryton in a little more than an hour Wednesday night. Lightning struck and did minor damage to a trailer house and a warehouse.

Most of the Panhandle was under a severe weather alert late Wednesday as the front, which brought the first snow of the season to Colorado, edged into Texas.

Early Thursday a thunderstorm brought rain to Amarillo while at Wichita Falls a light rain was falling. Cloudy weather prevailed over the Northwest, Central and East Texas while far West Texas and the coastal regions were clear.

The front shortly after daylight lay on a line running from Farwell on the western edge of the Panhandle to Childress and into Oklahoma. Pre-dawn readings ranged from 57 degrees at Dalhart to 81 at Galveston, Palacios and Corpus Christi.

Temperatures Wednesday afternoon were mostly in the high 90s and low 90s. Precipitation with 100 or more, the low maximum was 88 degrees, reported at Amarillo, Galveston and Houston.

Soldier Working In Mines Charge Being Probed

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—The U.S. attorney's office has been ordered to investigate the case of a former Army private who said he was sent to work in a Michigan copper mine without Army pay.

U.S. Dist. Judge Robert E. Tehan ordered the investigation Wednesday after a suit was brought by the Army in his court to recover $5,253 in allotments and interest paid to the family of John J. De Francisco, 42, who now is a construction worker here.

Tehan directed the attorney's office to report to him by Sept. 12. Judge Tehan, in continuing the case, said that he was aware that some nations sent men to work in the mines for no pay, but that he did not think the United States was one of them.

Labine Leads Bucs To Win

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Clem Labine has bounced back to the National League with a flourish for Pittsburgh's first place Pirates — and he did it against the Philadelphia Phillies, one of the clubs that "read" him out of business.

It was after Los Angeles traded him to Detroit of the American League in mid-June that the one-time Dodger bullpen ace learned some NL clubs were reading his pitches — getting tips on what he was about to throw from the way he held the ball. Labine got wind of it from Al Dark, then playing for the Phils and now with Milwaukee, after Clem left the league.

SUPERB JOB

Wednesday night, he came back, stepping in on a sixth-inning rally by the Phils and saving a 5-3 victory for the Pirates with 3 2/3 innings of hitless relief.

That kept the Bucs 7 1/2 games ahead of the second place Milwaukee Braves, who trimmed Cincinnati 11-4. San Francisco sent third place St. Louis skidding Danny Birdwell of Big Spring will be one of 63 candidates reporting to the opening University of Houston football practice Sept. 1 in Houston. Birdwell, 6-4, 225, lettered last season as a sophomore. The Cougars will open the season Sept. 17 in Houston's 70,000-seat Rice Stadium with the University of Mississippi, 1960 Sugar Bowl championship team. Birdwell, at the end of spring training, was the Number One center. Running alongside him at guard may be Jim Windham of Colorado City.

Bulldogs Lighter But Some Faster

COAHOMA (SC) — With the first game just a week away, the Coahoma Bulldogs are bearing down on their pre-season football practice.

Coach Jimmy Spann is pleased with the attitude and hustle of the club, but he warns that the Bulldogs will be substantially lighter this year. Only Sammy Buchanan, a 3-year letterman and a junior, and Maurice Cutright, a sophomore, weigh as much as 180. Buchanan is down from 205 which he weighed at the outset of last year's grid wars. Spann isn't too worried about that, because Sammy moves much better. For that matter, the entire club is moving faster, although Spann rates the speed factor as only about average.

Maxwell And January Are Favorites

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — A field of 65 moved out today in the opening round of the Texas PGA Golf Tournament with stars of the tour favored for the top money.

Billy Maxwell and Don January, a couple of Texans who win plenty of money along the PGA tour, were given co-favorite positions although Earl Stewart of Dallas, a former tour star who was champion here three years ago, has been taking the 6,902-yard Hillcrest Country Club course apart.

Stewart and Raymond Gafford, the Fort Worth veteran, each shot an 8-under-par 64 over the course in the tuneup rounds.

Stewart, Gafford, Ernie Vossler and Dick Metz, the world's senior champion from San Antonio, had 68's in the final practice rounds Wednesday.

Maxwell has had three sub-par rounds, one a 65. Metz did a 66.

The field here is the largest in the 40 years of the Texas PGA. The previous high was 93.

The purse for the 72-hole tournament is better than $5,000.

Unearned Run Adds To Yankees' Lead

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Three unearned runs have jarred loose the three-way knot for the American League lead.

An unearned run in the 10th inning brought the New York Yankees a 3-2 victory at Boston Wednesday night. That gave the Yankees a 1 1/2-game edge over the second place Chicago White Sox, who lost 3-2 at Cleveland on an unearned run.

And the third place Baltimore Orioles, carried into extra innings because of an unearned Washington run, dropped their fourth in a row, 11-7 in 12 innings, and fell 2 1/2 games back. It was the Senators' fifth in a row over the Orioles, who have lost nine of 14 to Washington.

Detroit defeated Kansas City 5-3 in the other AL game.

WILD THROW

A walk, Tony Kubek's single and a wild throw by second baseman Pete Runnels gave the Yankees their third straight victory. After being shut out on three hits for seven innings by Billy Muf-fett, they had come from behind for a tie with two runs in the eighth, scoring one on a walk and singles by Kubek and Bob Cerv, then getting the other as Mickey Mantle hit into a doubleplay.

Bobby Shantz (4-3) was the winner in relief. Mike Fornieles (7-3) was the loser in relief.

The Indians handed White Sox relief ace Gerry Staley his sixth defeat after tying the game with two runs in the seventh. It was only the fourth loss in 13 games for the White Sox, who were shut out over the last five innings by Jim Perry and winning reliever Johnny Kippstein (4-5).

FIVE HOMERS

The Orioles ripped five home runs—all solo shots by Jackie Brandt, Al Pilarcik, Ron Hansen, Jim Gentile and Gus Triandos—and socked four doubles, but a six-run seventh inning, with one run unearned, gave the Senators a 7-1 tie after nine. Washington then put it away against reliever Wes Stock (2-1) when he walked the bases loaded in the 12th and then gave up two-run singles by pinch-hitter Julio Becquer and Billy Gardner. Tex Clevenger (5-8) was the winning pitcher in relief.

Frank Lary won his 11th for the Tigers with a six-hitter. After the A's scored twice on half of their hits for a 2-0 tie in the third, loser Ray Herbert (7-13) hit Charley Maxwell with a pitch in the fifth inning and he scored the winning run on singles by Rocky Colavito and Ossie Virgil.

Olympics Move Into Debate Arena As Opening Approaches

By TED SMITS
Associated Press Sports Writer

ROME (AP) — The Olympic games, eight days away from real competition, moved today into the arena of debate and intrigue.

The International Olympic Committee meets Friday to tackle the ever-thorny problem of Nationalist China and find a successor as president to Avery Brundage of Chicago, now apparently not unwilling to be drafted.

The big Finnish and Canadian teams both arrive and the Modern Pentathlon Federation opens sessions, first of the world-wide sports groups to convene.

I.O.C. members huddled through the night in swank hotel rooms and at open air tables on the Via Veneto, Rome's gay white way.

They must decide:

1—Whether to draft Brundage, stern-visaged defender of the amateur code, or choose between Lord David Burghley who won the 400 meter hurdles in 1928, and an Iron Curtain representative.

2—How to find a name under which to admit Nationalist China to these games.

3—When to start the 1964 games in Tokyo. The Japanese are supposed to favor mid-May. The United States and many European nations consider this too early.

Eighty-seven Soviets came in Wednesday. Among the star squads still not in Rome are the United States track and basketball teams, both barnstorming.

There has been the usual rash of minor injuries, but only one top flight athlete has been hurt. He is Tsuyoshi Yamanaka, Japan's bright hope in the 400 and 1,500 meter swimming events. He fell and bruised his left hip, but the Japanese believe he will be back in the water shortly. If he cannot compete at top speed, the United States' chances in men's swimming would be enhanced.

The United States, which lost the use of Phil Baldwin (Muskegon, Mich.), a welterweight boxer because of a kidney infection, petitioned to replace him with Vince Shomo of New York. There was no immediate decision.

The games open Aug. 25 with nearly 5,000 athletes from 87 nations competing — almost double the entry list of any other games.

'Rope Trick' May Boost U.S. Chances In Boxing

ROME (AP) — A new "rope" trick may work for Uncle Sam's boxers in the Olympic Games.

Most experts have brushed off U.S. ring chances in the games, Aug. 25-Sept. 5. But Coach Julius Menendez has devised a method he hopes will cut down American clinching and spur them to the type of boxing pleasing to the unpredictable Olympic ring officials.

Menendez strings a rope across each corner of the practice ring and has two battlers in each corner, one on either side of the rope.

Thus, when the sparring starts, the boys must fight over the rope which prevents clinching and wrestling. It also involves fancy stepping by the boy within the roped triangle.

"The most costly mistake you can make in Olympic boxing is to clinch," said Menendez, San Jose State boxing coach. "The officials warn you twice and the third time you clinch, you get thrown out of the ring."

Sharon Fladoos Is Favored

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Sharon Fladoos, recent champion of the Western junior championship, enters the National Junior Girls Golf Tournament semifinals today in good position to become the "little slam" champion of junior golf circles.

The 17-year-old Lubbock, Texas, star defeated Sandra Haynie of Austin, Tex., in her quarter-final match and meets Ann Baker, Maryville, Tenn., in today's semifinals. Miss Baker defeated Heidi Prentice, Wilmette, Ill., 1-up with three straight pars starting at the 14th hole.

Miss Haynie provided some fireworks in the second round when she defeated Judy Rand, Aurora, Ohio, the defending champion and a co-medalist, 2-up with a pair of 4-foot birdie putts on the last two holes.

The youngest player in the championship flight, 13-year-old Roberta Albers, Tampa, Fla., carried Carol Sorenson, Janesville, Wis., to the 20th hole before she lost to a par 4 on the 358-yard hole.

Judy Torluemke, St. Louis, made the semifinals with a 4 and 3 decision over Robbye Lee King of Arlington, Va.

Miss Sorenson meets Miss Torluemke today.

Closer Race, But Frogs Look Like They May Lead The Pack

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Southwest Conference won't have as much experience as it did last year and won't be expected to fare better in intercollegiate football. But if ever a close race was indicated this is it.

The schools come closer to equal veteran strength. The smallest number of lettermen is at Arkansas—16. The largest is at Texas Tech—21.

There was a wide difference in some of the teams in 1959. Texas Christian for instance had 29 lettermen, South Methodist 23, Texas Tech 22 and Texas A&M 21. The others were 16 or less.

Texas Tech, despite its margin in veterans, is being picked to finish last—it's the Red Raiders.

first time in championship play and history shows a team seldom does well in its initial try.

TEXAS UP

Texas gets the nod as favorite because it seems to have better quality although fewer lettermen. But Texas Christian looks about the same. Arkansas has one more veteran than last season and Baylor has three more.

Those four teams will be the favorites and it's fortunate that the league now has enough members that there can be an upper division and a lower-division. The way it was, with seven members, there was one club always caught in the middle.

Last year the league, counting Texas Tech although it didn't compete in the championship race, had an intersectional record of 15-10-1. The conference had 157 lettermen. This year it has 150. The intersectional schedule is tougher, if that's possible.

TOUGH FOES

Most prominent teams to be met are Southern California, Georgia Tech, Pitt, Mississippi, Oklahoma and Ohio State. It's going to be difficult to do better than break even against that array.

But the race at home should be one, long remembered. The fans must think so, too, since each conference member appears to be up in advance ticket sales.

It is somewhat surprising in view of the fact that Texas will have three professional teams whereas it had none in 1959. It seems the pro boys aren't hurting the colleges after all. Maybe they are promoting football interest.

FAITHFUL ALUMNI

The colleges are in a different position—they have their ready-made fans. The alumni is going to see his favorite team play regardless of how great the pros turn out to be. And the professionals have no alumni—not even the kind that criticizes and seeks to fire the coach.

Southern Methodist was the choice last season and the Mustangs almost fell flat on their faces. Here's how they look this season:

1. Texas Christian
2. Texas
3. Baylor
4. Arkansas
5. Southern Methodist
6. Rice
7. Texas A&M
8. Texas Tech

Patterson-Johansson Bout May Be Delayed Until '61

ROME (AP) — A source close to Feature Sports, Inc., told The Associated Press today there was a strong possibility the third bout involving Floyd Patterson and Ingemar Johansson would be delayed until the spring of 1961.

The fight originally was set for Nov. 1 in Los Angeles. In their first meeting Johansson knocked out Patterson for the world heavyweight title. In their second, on June 30 of this year, Patterson regained the crown by knocking out Johansson.

"The date is not definite," said the source, "but Nov. 1 is not a good time of the year. Also the promoters do not have time to organize and publicize the bout." Feature Sports promoted the 1960 bout.

The source said difficulty also had developed over use of the Los Angeles Coliseum for the bout. He said that the rent had jumped to $75,000 in contrast with the price of $25,000 when the fight originally was discussed.

QB BARBECUE DUCATS READY

Quarterback Club members are urged to pick up their barbecue tickets and push sales for the traditional pre-season salute to the Steer football team.

Dr. Robert Johnson, president of the QB Club, said that tickets could be secured at the Chamber of Commerce or from Milton Carver (Carver Pharmacy), secretary of the club.

Tab for the tickets is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children. Quarterback Club memberships will be $2 and are sold separately from the barbecue tickets. The barbecue is set for Sept. 6 at the City Park Amphitheatre. Opening of the season is Sept. 9 in Pampa, and season tickets go on sale Aug. 29.

New Use For Golf Balls

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Times are tough in the oil drilling business. That's why E. L. Oliver, Oklahoma City driller, took 200,000 golf balls to drill two wells for Powell Briscoe, Inc.

Oliver, his warehouse now full of golf balls, said today "It was as good a deal as I could get the way things are in the oil business."

Powell Briscoe, Jr., an independent oilman here, said he was satisfied with the deal, although so far there's no oil.

Oliver said one test is about completed and looks promising. The other hasn't been started.

Collins Key To University Hopes

By ED OVERHOLSER
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—A pigeon-toed halfback, who has a feeling of inadequacy despite his dazzling offensive performance last season, will be a key cog in Texas' drive this year for a return to the Cotton Bowl.

Jack Collins Jr., son of a former Texas great, led the nation's fourth ranked team last year in rushing, punting, passing and pass receiving and scored 42 points. Not a bad beginning for a sophomore.

"Jack's a kid who never seems to be hustling. But give him the ball and he'll give you a vital first down or a touchdown," said Coach Darrell Royal, a colorful Irishman beginning his fourth season here in the Southwest Conference.

Collins figures he's a light runner. "I'm eager and I get nervous and fired up but I've never been able to get real mad."

"Maybe if I got real mad, I could run over somebody. But I doubt it. I do wish I was tougher out there," he added.

Halfbacks are not one of Royal's problems. He also has Bobby Gurtwitz, a gritty little senior who started in place of all-conference Rene Ramirez as often as not. In addition, there is James Saxton, a whirling ball of nervous energy and the team's most exciting runner.

"It's like blowing up one of those balloons," described Royal of Saxton's running. "You blow it up real tight and then turn it loose. You don't know where it's going and when it's spent, it's through."

More Golfers Invited For Qualifying

At least a dozen players other than Country Club members have been invited to compete for places on the local Cooden Cup team, Jack Wallace, captain, said Thursday.

Still others may be asked to shoot qualifying rounds. Wallace said that the top seven qualifiers would be selected for places on the club. The captain traditionally takes one of the places while the ninth place is left open for the captain to select.

Qualifying for places on the team, which will meet nine of the area's top golfers on Sept. 2 as a prelude to the opening of the annual Big Spring Country Club Coronado Hills Invitational tournament, begins today.

Among those not on the C C membership roster who have been invited to qualify are Col. Donald W. Eisenhart, Jerry Scott, Bobby Blumh, Marvin Wright, Paul Moseley, John Pipes, Richard Pachall, Eddie Harris, Jimmy Newsom, Charles Bailey, Jimmy Patterson, Donald Lovelady and others may be added to the list before the Aug. 29 deadline for the qualifying round.

Tooth Paste Brand Wins Dental Group's Approval

By ARTHUR J. SNIDER
Observer-Chicago News World Service

SNIDER

CHICAGO — In an unprecedented action, the American Dental Association has recognized a toothpaste as having decay-preventing benefits.

The ADA headquarters officially accepted a fluoride dentifrice discovered by an Indiana University dental scientist and marketed commercially by Procter & Gamble Co. under the name of Crest.

The action is significant not only because the ADA has for decades refused to recognize any toothpaste, but has also implied that the public was wasting money buying it.

ADA educational materials have stressed that the tooth brush is a big preventive weapon and that baking soda or salt water are as effective as any tooth paste or powder.

As one toothpaste after another came along with lavish claims for the long-sought ingredient to curb tooth decay, the ADA promptly cautioned the public against extravagant advertising.

Toothpastes containing chlorophyll, ammonia, penicillin, detergents, germ-killers, sugar-blocking enzymes and others failed to win the much-sought ADA approval.

The official nod given to Crest is expected to have repercussions in a dentifrice market where sales exceed $300 million a year.

The endorsement is a personal victory for a 38-year-old biochemist, Joseph C. Muhler, who began working with stannous fluoride as a substitute for sodium fluoride when a sophomore dental student at Indiana University.

Although the conservative ADA continued to decline acceptance of his assertions, Muhler persisted in his research when a less determined investigator might have become discouraged.

Muhler has assigned his patent to the Indiana University Research Foundation.

Procter & Gamble, headed by Neil McElroy, former secretary of Defense, has paid almost $100,000 in royalties to the foundation.

Under university regulations, Muhler is not allowed to participate in royalties but a university spokesman said he had been taken care of with a substantial increase in salary that puts him in "top level ranks."

He also has been awarded a special title as research professor of basic sciences, a new laboratory and the freedom to work on his chosen projects.

Muhler believes even greater advances in stannous fluoride lie ahead.

In an interview with the Observer-Chicago News Service, he predicted that stannous fluoride applied only once to the teeth by the dentist in matter of seconds, instead of many minutes as now, will confer protection for an indefinite period.

Muhler believes topical application by the dentist will be much more important than the toothpaste, and that fluoridated water supplies are still the best and cheapest method of dental decay prevention.

The ADA, in its announcement to the dental profession, also stressed that stannous fluoride tooth paste is an aid but not a cure-all and does not substitute for community fluoridation.

But the decay reduction credited to Crest is marked.

In one test group using the dentifrice "under normal conditions in their homes," there was a 23 per cent reduction, as compared with brushing done with other cleaners.

In another group, where there was supervision of brushing once daily, the reduction was 34 per cent.

Under an ideal setting, where brushing was supervised three times a day, there was a 57 per cent reduction, a figure ranking favorably with 60 per cent reduction in community water studies and 60 per cent in Muhler's topical method.

The ADA has made it clear it was only recognizing Crest and that the acceptance does not apply to any other stannous fluoride dentifrice that may be on the market or might come on later.

Dentists Make History

Brand Of Toothpaste Recognized As Decay Preventive Agent

Stannous Fluoride Used In Product

By RAY BRUNER
Dental Science Editor

The American Dental Association made history today. It officially recognized a toothpaste as an effective decay preventive agent.

This had never been done before by the ADA, which for years had rejected claims of many dentifrice manufacturers, such as "a clean tooth never decays."

The unique distinction of being recognized by the ADA goes to "Crest," manufactured by Procter & Gamble Cincinnati.

"Crest," the ADA council on dental therapeutics reported in today's issue of the Journal of the American Dental Association, "has been shown to be an effective anti-caries (decay preventive) dentifrice that can be of significant value when used in a conscientiously applied program of oral hygiene and regular professional care; Crest dentifrice may also be of value as a supplement to public health procedures."

The council emphasized its action applied only to one inredient in the toothpaste—stannous fluoride, a compound of tin and fluorine.

Back of the council's decision are 10 years of clinical studies. There were seven test groups, each matched by "controls."

One group used the dentifrice "under normal conditions in their home." They experienced a 23 per cent reduction in the incidence of tooth decay.

Reduction In Decay

Members of the second brushed their teeth once a day, under supervision, with a 34 per cent reduction. In a third group, with supervised brushing three times daily, there was a 57 per cent reduction in decay.

The council said these experiences emphasized the need for frequent use of the dentifrice, along with a program of "good oral hygiene," to achieve maximum benefits. "Good oral hygiene" would include proper use of the toothbrush, regular attention from a dentist and avoidance of excessive consumption of candy, sweetened soft drinks and other sources of sugar, which cause teeth to rot.

The ADA now recognizes three methods of obtaining benefits from fluorides:

- Fluoridation of community water supplies.
- Systematic application of fluoride solutions by the dentist to the surface of children's teeth.
- Stannous fluoride dentifrice.

Fluoridation, the ADA council stated, is by far the most desirable method of preventing decay, from the standpoint of cost, effectiveness and convenience.

Preliminary studies by the council suggest that a combination of all three methods may be more worthwhile than one alone.

Fluorine, in fluoride compounds, is a "trace element" necessary for adequate construction of our bodies. Teeth that lack fluorine are more susceptible to decay than teeth that contain an adequate amount.

Not all decay, however, is believed due to fluorine deficiency. Also the use of fluoridation decreases in effectiveness as children grow toward maturity.

Dental Group Okays Crest As Decay-Preventive Agent

The American Dental Association today officially recognized Crest toothpaste as "an effective decay - preventive agent." Crest is the first dentifrice ever to receive such recognition, the association said in Chicago.

In a statement published in the August 1 issue of The Journal of the American Dental Association, the A.D.A. council on dental therapeutics reported:

"Crest has been shown to be an effective anticaries (decay preventive) dentifrice that can be of significant value when used in a conscientiously applied program of oral hygiene and regular professional care; Crest dentifrice may also be of value as a supplement to public health procedures."

"The stannous fluoride dentifrice is an aid to combating dental decay; it is not a curative agent. Nor will it substitute for fluoridation of community water supplies. Fluoridation, which is supported by exhaustive long - term studies, remains by far the most effective means for obtaining the benefits of fluorides."

"We hope that additional studies will further clarify the role of Crest or other dentifrices in the program of preventing dental decay."

Three elements were involved in the council's decision:

Other dentifrices evaluated to date by the council is supported by evidence considered adequate to demonstrate substantial effectiveness.

Results of studies conducted during a ten-year period and "the manufacturer's willingness to limit advertising claims to those supported by adequate research."

Crest made news because it's effective against cavities—not because it's a cure-all

The more you read the clippings above, the more you realize that now you can do something about tooth decay with a toothpaste.

"Dentifrice found to prevent decay . . . won recognition from the American Dental Association . . . never done before." These are some of the words the nation's press used this month to tell the news of the American Dental Association's recognition of Crest* as effective against cavities.

Effective against cavities but not a cure-all

But, effective as this stannous fluoride toothpaste has proved to be, there's a lot more to good dental health than just squeezing Crest on your toothbrush.

The real key is not the use of Crest alone. But the use of Crest as part of a dental program.

The American Dental Association spelled this out in their official statement: "Crest has been shown to be an effective anti-decay dentifrice that can be of significant value when used in a conscientiously applied program of oral hygiene and regular professional care."

Rules for dental health still apply

And that, of course, means the complete dental program your dentist has always recommended for dental health:

1. You still should brush regularly. After each meal is best.
2. You still should brush right. Away from the gums. And make sure you brush every tooth—especially the back ones.
3. You still should watch those treats between meals. Between-meal treats can be overdone. Be sure to follow your dentist's advice.
4. You still should see your dentist twice a year. Give him a chance to spot trouble early and stop it before it gets headway.

Don't expect miracles—do expect fewer cavities

As the American Dental Association says, "Crest has been shown to be effective" (when you use it right and use it regularly). So team it up with the right kind of dental program and start reducing your family's cavities now.

Why is Crest different from other toothpastes?

The answer is simple. The thing that makes Crest different is Fluoristan*—an exclusive stannous fluoride formula.

Stannous fluoride, you know, is a decay-fighter dentists themselves use to prevent cavities. With Crest, you put the same fluoride on your teeth at home, too, every time you brush.

The effectiveness of this fluoride in Crest has been proved by years of tests. Tests in which Crest had to prove its superiority over regular toothpaste. And did in test after test.

Look At the Birdie!

Mrs. Don Wiley points to a tiny bird that sits on the golden branch in her kitchen. The original idea is a mesquite branch sprayed with gold paint. Hanging from it are artificial cherries painted with a bright pink. Multi-colored miniature birds decorate the limbs; three gilt butterflies hover near. Interested on-lookers are Mark and Paula.

Ingenious Homemaker Is Clever Decorator

By SHERI WEBBER

Many of the ingenious things around the Don Wiley home are the result of an amateur fixer-upper, a clever mother and a busy housewife.

"My husband is a fixer-upper," says Sylvia Wiley. In 4-year-old Mark's bedroom is a large table-desk that has evolved from the bookcase headboard of an old bed. Don attached a large sheet of plywood directly underneath the bookcase and put two fan-like legs for a new table. The furniture has been finished in a mellow natural stain. On the walls are fish nets decorated with star fish, sea shells and sea horses that lend a masculine air.

Paula, 2, has a strictly feminine room. Light beige-colored walls are accented with a bright pink bedspread. The white furniture, which Don assembled and finished, forms a corner arrangement that holds the little girl's toys and personal belongings. On the wall over this corner arrangement of chests and cabinets is a trio of fan-made of shelf paper.

"My mother, who lives in Wichita Falls, made the fans," relates Mrs. Wiley. A large sheet of white shelf paper has been topped with a smaller sheet of pink shelf paper. These have been folded together in the fan-like creases. At the base of each fan is a cluster of tiny pink rosebuds tied with a cocoa-brown velvet ribbon.

The master bedroom serves as the den, too, for it is here that the family keeps their television set. "You can't keep a living room looking nice if the TV is in it," exclaims Sylvia. Bright tangerine accents this room, and on the wall hangs a map of Paris that Don picked up while serving with the Army in Europe.

Early Americana has been the Wiley's choice in the living room. An unusual piece in their furnishings is an old desk that Mrs. Wiley's father rescued from several coats of paint. The secretary's bookshelves now hold a display of glassware.

Besides being an expert housekeeper, Sylvia is a busy worker in the Junior Woman's Forum where she serves as vice president and program chairman. "This hasn't been an empty summer," the dark-haired housewife relates. "We have had to get the entire year of programs lined up."

The first Christian Church receives much of Mrs. Wiley's attention. She teaches a class of 2-year-olds, is vice president of the Christian Women's Fellowship, and an active member of the Rosa Ann Park Circle.

"Our circle has a catering service," explains Mrs. Wiley. We cater parties, teas, bridges and coffees usually."

Not only does Sylvia Wiley have experience in catering for large groups, but she manages to do a good job for her own trip. Here she gives her husband's favorite recipe, Meatza-pie, and an extra-special touch for cooked carrots. The Chocolate Peppermint Pie is unusual, while the Egg Custard Pie is an old standard and favorite.

Mix eggs, butter, sugar, flour and salt; add milk, nutmeg and vanilla. Stir well. Bake in a large unbaked pie shell at 350 degrees for one hour or until knife inserted in center comes out clean.

SUGAR CRISPIES

1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. soda
1 tsp. water
1 cup margarine
1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1 egg, unbeaten

1 tsp. vanilla
2 1/2 cups candy-coated puffed wheat
1 cup chopped pecans
Sift flour once; measure and add salt; sift again. Dissolve soda in water. Cream butter, add sugars gradually and cream together. Add eggs and vanilla and beat until blended. Add flour gradually, then add dissolved soda and blend again. Fold in puffed wheat and nuts.

Drop by teaspoon on a waxed paper-covered cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 12 minutes. Good cookie jar filler.

Fresh, Pantry Fruit In Tasty Compote

There's an art to combining a fresh and a pantryshelf fruit and here's an example of it.

BLUE AND GOLD COMPOTE

1 can (1 pound and 4 ounces) pineapple chunks in extra heavy syrup
1 cup fresh cultivated blueberries (washed and drained)
2 tbsps. silvered syrup-preserved ginger
2 tbsps. ginger syrup
Mix pineapple (including syrup) with blueberries, silvered ginger and ginger syrup, cover and refrigerate for at least 1 hour to blend flavors. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Add Creole Touch To Shirred Eggs

When you want to serve eggs for lunch or supper this flavorful dish may fill the bill. It may be made for one or a dozen.

CREOLE SHIRRED EGGS

For each serving—
1/4 cup tomato sauce
1/4 cup diced cooked ham
2 eggs
2 tbsps. grated Parmesan cheese
Heat tomato sauce and ham; turn into buttered shirred egg dish or individual 6-inch pie plate. Break eggs over hot sauce. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake in slow (325 degrees) oven until eggs are firm—about 20 minutes.
Note: Homemade Marinara Sauce is delicious in this recipe. Parmesan cheese may be replaced by Romano, or use a combination of the two.

Vegetable Made Especially For Fish

A savory vegetable combination to serve with bland-flavored fish.

WAX BEANS WITH SCALLIONS

1 pound wax beans
1/2 cup boiling water
1/2 tsp. salt
3 tbsps. butter or margarine
4 large scallions (green onions) Pepper.

Cut tips from wax beans; scrub in cold water; drain. Cut beans crosswise into slanted 1-inch pieces. In a 2-quart saucepan cook beans rapidly in boiling water and salt just until tender—12 to 15 minutes; cover saucepan and turn beans once during cooking. Drain off any liquid from beans.

Meanwhile slice scallions thin crosswise and cook slowly in a small skillet in the butter. Mix beans and scallions; add pepper to taste. Makes 6 servings.

Celery Gives Green Peas Extra Flavor

Add extra flavor to frozen green peas and stretch the servings.

MARY'S CELERY PEAS

1 cup thin crescents green celery
1/2 cup boiling water
1 pkg. (10 ozs.) frozen green peas
1/2 tsp. salt
2 tbsps. butter

In a medium-sized saucepan simmer the celery, covered, in the boiling water for 3 minutes; add frozen peas and salt. If peas are in a block break up with a fork as they thaw and mix with celery. Cover and cook gently just until peas are tender—no more than 5 minutes.

Drain off any liquid; add butter and fold into vegetables until melted. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

Rangetop Cooking For Hot Weather

1/4 tsp. pepper
1/4 tsp. paprika

1 can (3 ounces) sliced mushrooms
1/2 cup heavy cream
2 to 4 tbsps. sherry

Have chicken cut into 10 pieces. Mix flour, salt, pepper and paprika; coat chicken with mixture. Brown chicken in butter in large skillet; cover tightly and cook until tender, turning as necessary. Remove chicken; stir over low heat to get up browned particles. Mix in drained mushrooms, cream and sherry. Add chicken and reheat but do not boil.

Male Chef Requires Real He-Man Props

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

You can lead a man to the barbecue pit, but can you make him cook? Ah, that is the question. But you can, girl, if you'll just tackle the problem head-on with a whole new set of props.

Inevitably the stores for a run-down on inexpensive wares that can fire the amateur chef into instant action. A man likes rugged equipment, not dainty implements and table ware that appeals to the afternoon bridge set.

When it comes to barbecue grills, let him choose his own. Some men prefer hibachis (Japanese grills with wooden bases and handles) that may be brought to the table. Other men like grills that are built into stone walls or set on top of a stone wall. (These require only a cinder block enclosure and a grid across the top.) Posh-type grills with every imaginable accessory are available for well-heeled patio cooks.

COOKING UTENSILS.
The cooking and serving instruments should be king-sized. Long handled forks, spatulas and knife sharpeners are the order of the day, with the stainless steel variety going to five-foot lengths with the additions of extensions, ideal for handling enormous steaks, roast meat on the spit, and in the face of large flames.

When a shore dinner is the order of the day, the great enamel ware pot decorated with lobsters and clams will put your man in the anxious-to-cook mood. These may be found with or without decorations and at a variety of prices. It takes the entire dinner—lobsters, corn, clams, chicken, and what have you—with a container below and spout from which to pour the juice.

Stainless steel ware—platters, pepper shakers, salt and pepper mills—are useful and good for outdoor service. Even the trusty old bottle opener is available in stainless steel wrapped in bamboo and in the shape of a fish. Bamboo wrapped flatware is highly popular for outdoor table service, and has definite man-appeal.

Inexpensive glassware such as handsome oval milk glass platters and coffee mugs keep the al fresco pattern humming with the male touch. Ditto Nordic net table cloths and striped bibs for the shore dinner tribe.

Bread baskets wear slipcovers. Newer types are glamorous—one in the shape of a sauce pan with basket weave handle is pink covered with gold trim and zipper.

Another is long, ideal for French or Italian bread, its pink linen cover with a full-length zipper.

SOME IMPORTED ITEMS
There are imported items for fancier settings.

One set of Italian serving dishes is glass but in brilliant orange, red, blue, green, brown, maroon. Japanese compote dishes are papier-mache, orange lacquered with gold lacquered bowls. There is handsome stoneware from Sweden with floral motif. Danish mosaic ash tray. Outdoor candle light is supplied by tall Dutch vase-like containers decorated simply with varied colored flowers.

One outdoor coffee table is unique. The metal base is about the width, length and design of the old sewing machine covered with a lush green metal vine and gay red cherries. The top is glass. This is a good table for use on the lawn, patio or on an enclosed porch.

The old style sawbuck table, oblong or round, is still a favorite with men chefs. Dress it up in rugged style and you have your outdoor party made. What's more, you'll get that man back to the culinary routine, and he'll enjoy it whether it is indoors, outdoors or in-between.

Patio Party Pleasure

The amateur chef is surrounded by he-man table gear. The oval milk glass platters, coffee mugs and bamboo-wrapped flatware are inexpensive table ware. The Nordic fish set and striped bibs offer galeaty to the lobster roast.

DEAR ABBY

COUNTERFEIT!

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Not all nickels without mint marks are counterfeit. All nickels minted in Philadelphia with the exception of the years 1942 through 1945 bear no mint mark. The others are marked "D" for Denver and "S" for San Francisco.

figures? Any man who would give a woman for cheating that way must be nuts.

HOWARD

DEAR HOWARD: Not all women are naturally round, firm and fully packed. And a man who would turn down a girl just because she wasn't "all there" isn't all there himself.

DEAR ABBY: Can you let me know how many people have been killed or crippled by dogs and how many have been saved by them? I was a salesman, and as far as I am concerned the only good dogs are dead ones. "Man's best friend" scratched up $1,000 worth of plants for me in three days. The owner just laughed.

BLAINE

DEAR BLAINE: The owner could have laughed himself all the way to court. Why didn't you see a lawyer?

DEAR ABBY: I have seen dog owners stand and hold the leash while their dogs mess up the lawns of their neighbors. Do I blame the dog? I do not. I blame the owner.

Child's Study Lamps Important

The eyes of a child are a priceless treasure and deserve the very best care possible. They must serve a lifetime.

Proper lighting is one of the most important essentials for good eye health.

Check the questions below. If you can answer "yes" to all of them, your child's study lamps and study area are all that they should be.

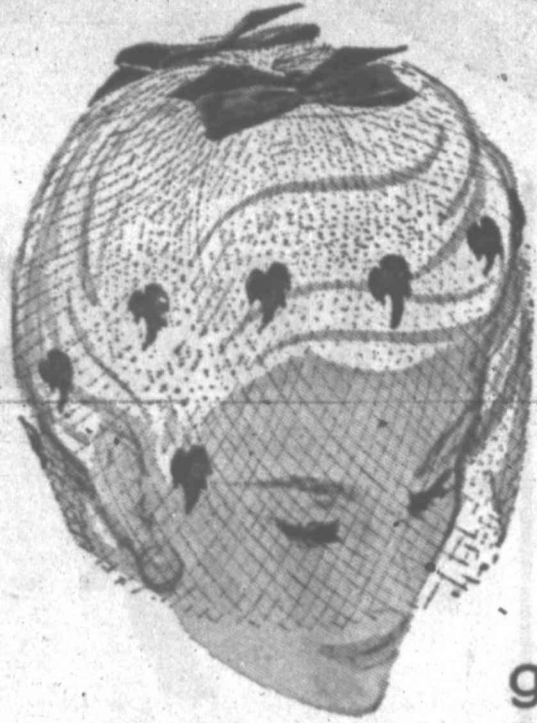

Does each lamp spread light over the entire study area?

Is the area free of hand and body shadows?

Are shades large enough and dense enough to prevent glare?

Are walls and ceilings a light color?

Is there additional lighting in the room?
