Traveler A Bit Leery In Red China Debates

EDITOR'S NOTE — While in Shanghai to visit his impressed brother, James Maryland Attorney General William C. Walsh was taken on various tours of the city and its environs by Communist guides. In this last of three articles, Walsh tells about the things he saw and heard.

I spent nine days in Shanghai. On three separate afternoons, I saw my brother, Bishop James Edward Walsh, who is serving a 20-year sentence after conviction on espionage charges.

These prison interviews were, of course, my purpose in coming to the People's Republic of China, but in the intervals the representatives of the Chinese Travel Service and the Chinese Red Cross urged me to visit places of interest in this biggest city of China.

They seemed very anxious to have me do this, so I acquiesced in their suggestions, saying I would leave the selection of the places to them.

I was taken to various department stores, to Sun Yat Sen Park, and to what was called "The Export Hall" which displayed a number of articles I was told were produced in China. There were some pretty good-looking automobile tires, including a set of white walls, a piano and other products.

ENTERTAINMENT
I was also taken to two Chinese operas, a movie, and a recreation center featuring a variety of entertainments, including opera, films, shooting galleries and the like. I saw a very good acrobatic show there.

I also visited a commune about 20 miles from Shanghai, which I was told was the latest in that area, with 10,000 families and a total population of 50,000. Of these, 20,000 men and women worked—15,000 in agriculture, 5,000 in industry—while the others were children or people too old to work.

I was told there were many schools in the commune, including kindergartens, primary schools and what they called middle schools, which apparently correspond to our high schools. They told me there were some 400 teachers in the commune.

SHOOK HANDS
Since it was summer, the schools were closed but on the afternoon of my visit some Chinese ladies were having a singing class for about 30 youngsters from 3 to 8 years of age. This group was being led by a little girl about 8 years old, and when I appeared the singing stopped and all the children came up and shook hands with me.

I did not visit any of the schools and factories in the commune but I saw several stores and the mess hall, and I noticed some of the conveniences which included electricity, water and toilet facilities.

I was also taken to what they called a satellite town. This commune was about 20 miles from Shanghai. I was told the town had been established in 1958 and now had about 70,000 inhabitants. Here, as in the commune, the buildings were new. The satellite town also had electric lights and water and I was told it had been laid out in such a way as to allow for future expansion.

NO FACTORY TOUR
There was a hotel, a movie house, stores and factories, but I didn't go through the plants since I told my guides I didn't know much about machinery.

My guides continuously asked me if there was anything particular I would like to do, and while I couldn't suggest any special points of interest, I did tell them that I was a lawyer and that some of my fellow lawyers in the United States would be sure to ask if I had seen any Chinese courts or had met any Chinese lawyers or judges.

On several occasions I expressed a desire to do so, but the gentlemen in charge said they had never been in a court, and they didn't seem to know much about lawyers and judges either. I never visited a court or met any attorneys.

During all the time I spent with the Chinese Red Cross and travel service representatives they continuously talked to me of the progress which they said had been made under communism in China.

RED EVANGELISTS
It was quite obvious they wanted to impress me with these accomplishments and they frequently asked my opinion of what I saw.

I told them that since I had never been in China before, it was impossible for me to make any comparison between the situation now and before the Communist regime took over. Furthermore, 14 days in the country obviously don't make one an expert on Chinese affairs or qualify him to express any views or opinions about the progress or nonprogress of the country.

My final meeting with my brother in Shanghai prison was on the afternoon of Thursday, Aug. 11. On Friday evening, I left the city by train to Canton.

The train was comfortable, and I was given sleeping space in a compartment which provided accommodations for four people. My meals were served there, so I had no difficulties on that score.

TEA WITH LADIES
No Chinese Red Cross or travel service representatives accompanied me on this trip, but at Canton I was met at the station by two ladies. One represented the Chinese Red Cross but could speak no English. The other was from the Chinese Travel Service, and she did speak English.

There was a wait of more than two hours in Canton, and I sat in a reception room with the two ladies. I was served tea but no breakfast, and the travel service lady also undertook to advise me of the glories of communism. She had a low opinion of the United States, claiming that we are imperialistic. And I might add that Red Cross and travel service representatives in Shanghai had the same opinion of the United States. I had a good many friendly arguments with these people trying to persuade them that the United States was not imperialistic. I finally wound up by telling them that I did not expect to convince them. I told them also that there was an old American saying that it is "hard to teach an old dog new tricks" and that in view of this I did not think they would be able to persuade me.

I might note that all these representatives also assured me that none of them believed in God or religion or in any future existence and when I was leaving they told me that China was entirely materialistic and believed that we live only during this life and that death is the end of everything.

The train from Canton reached Schumacher at 11:30 a.m. Sunday, and after going through customs and other formalities at the border, I was escorted to the frontier. Here I met Mrs. Walsh, who had been in Hong Kong but was allowed to come to the border to greet me, together with representatives of the British and American Red Cross, and one of the Maryknoll Sisters.

END OF TRIP
This wound up my trip to the mainland of China. But naturally it did not end my thoughts about my brother, remaining behind in the Shanghai jail.

He first went to China in 1918 as a Catholic missionary. He is now the only American Catholic priest left in China, and I was told there are few foreign missionaries of any faith now left on the mainland.

My brother's mission to China was solely religious, and he has dedicated almost his whole adult life to teaching the Chinese about Almighty God and religion. He had often told me in the past how much he admired the Chinese people—their industry, thrift, devotion to their families and other virtues, and how much he enjoyed working among them.

There are 650 million Chinese on the mainland. I was told this population is increasing at the rate of 11 million or more a year, so within 30 years there will be a billion Chinese.

It is perhaps difficult to understand, but my brother obviously hopes that through some inscrutable plan of divine providence, his presence in China may, in some small way, aid in keeping alive belief in God and religion in that country. And because of this he is apparently willing to stay there if that is God's wish.

Whether this hope will be in any way realized, I do not know. But I am confident that the vast population of China cannot be ignored by the rest of the world, and I do not believe that the problem which it presents can be solved solely through material means.

In view of this, I join in my brother's hope that he may be able to make some spiritual contribution to the welfare of the Chinese people.

He has particularly asked me to thank his friends for remembering him in their prayers. And, as his position is not an easy one, I trust that those who have been praying for him will continue to do so, to the end that he may have the strength to carry out God's will.

Transient Admits Slaying Airman

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A 37-year-old transient, James M. Morrow, who is awaiting trial for the Feb. 20 murder of a Phoenix music teacher, Thursday said he killed an airman in Texas in 1953, officers said.

Detective Sgt. Seymour Nealis quoted Morrow as saying the airman picked him up while he was hitchhiking near Wichita Falls and rode with him to Emis, Tex.

The officer said Morrow told him he shot the airman in the head with a .22 caliber pistol, dumped his body in a residential street in Emis, then drove the victim's car to Dallas, where he abandoned it.

Texas authorities substantiated Morrow's story, Lt. Ralph Walton said. The airman's name was not available in Phoenix.

Collision Of Car, Truck Near Dallas Fatal To 4

DALLAS (AP)—A collision of a passenger car and a trailer truck loaded with syrup early today killed four persons in Dallas.

All four of the dead, two men and two women, were occupants of the automobile.

The truck driver, identified by police as Kenneth Hardy, 30, of Amber, Okla., was cut and bruised but the exact extent of his injuries was not immediately known.

A witness said "Syrup was a foot thick in the street" after the collision. "Glass and bodies, some of them in pieces, are everywhere," the witness said.

Hospital attendants refused to identify the cad until next-of-kin were notified. But newsmen learned that the four dead had been tentatively identified as Darrell D. Hoffman, 26; John Waugua, 33; Ruby Bell Waugua, John's wife; and Isabel Iva Eddy, all of Dallas.

Witnesses said the automobile was traveling east and the truck north at the moment of impact. The truck was licensed, police said, to the Apache Farmers Co-Op of Apache, Okla.

Police said the truck smashed into the side of the automobile. South Central Expressway, on which the accident occurred, is an extension of U.S. Highway 75, a Canada-to-Gulf of Mexico route which connects Dallas and Houston, Texas' two largest cities.

Texas Skies Are Clear

Partly cloudy skies were over Northwest Texas as dawn broke Friday but the rest of the state was clear.

Scattered thundershowers that fell in the Panhandle had dissipated but Childress reported lightning in the distance.

Pre-dawn temperatures ranged from 55 at Dalhart to 76 at Galveston after Thursday's maximums from 84 at Dalhart to 108 at Presidio. A half dozen other points reported Thursday afternoon maximums of 100 degrees or more.

Light showers fell Thursday afternoon around Abilene, Mineral Wells, and San Angelo. Thursday night rains brought .69 of an inch to Dalhart and .63 at Amarillo.

Forecasts generally called for clear to partly cloudy skies over the state through Saturday with afternoon and evening thunder showers. A long-range forecast for the next five days indicated temperatures 3 to 7 degrees below normal and little or no rainfall.

Both Parties Call For End To Religion Political Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican and Democratic national chairmen called today for an end to the religious issue in the presidential campaign, even as they accused each other of backsliding on the issue.

The new round of statements by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, the Democratic chairman, and Sen. Thurston B. Morton, the Republican leader, did little to quiet the controversy concerning the Roman Catholic religion of John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee.

Morton, noting a Jackson statement that the mails are being flooded with anti-Catholic literature, accused Jackson of "trying to keep the discussion of religion alive in the belief it will benefit the Democrat (sic) candidate."

Jackson, saying he knew of none from Republican party leaders, charged that the mailings were an effort to defeat Kennedy. Morton contended that Jackson made charges by innuendo that "he knows are wholly unfounded."

In a statement replying Thursday night, Jackson called on Vice President Richard M. Nixon "to publicly repudiate those who are carrying on a campaign of religious bigotry or forever bear the consequences."

In other developments: —Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, who became a storm center of the dispute, said he was only an innocent bystander — "a babe in the woods," in his own words — when a group of Protestant ministers and laymen met in Washington to issue a statement on the subject. Dr. Peale said he has resigned from the group.

—Kennedy himself took a crack at Dr. Peale when he told a New York Liberal party meeting "I have heard the Republican platform referred to as 'The Power of Positive Thinking.'" That was the title of one of Peale's most popular inspirational books.

Morton, answering a Jackson statement of the day before, said there "seems to be a systematic campaign by highly placed Democrats" and others to "keep the religious issue inflamed."

He called on Jackson and Kennedy to accept a Nixon suggestion and "set a firm date to end this discussion of the subject right now."

Renewing his attack, Jackson said "an organization of Texans for Nixon are spending $1,000 a day on 24 radio stations to appeal to religious intolerance." He said this campaign is being conducted by Carr P. Collins, chairman of the Texan group.

No Suspects Held In Air Bomb Hoax

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas police said Thursday they had no suspects in connection with a bomb hoax that caused a 1½-hour delay of an American Airlines' departure from Love Field and a search of the Statler Hilton Hotel.

Erroneous reports that a suspect had been arrested stemmed from the arrest of a man at the hotel on a theft case, detective Capt. Walter Fannin said.

Newsman Urged To Use Talents In Public Office

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Paul Leake, both a newspaper publisher and state office holder, today urged more newsmen to enter public office because "government needs men trained to seek out the dark corners and raise the lantern."

Leake, publisher of the Woodland Democrat and member of the State Board of Equalization, spoke at a weeklies' forum of the California Newspaper Publishers' Association.

"The newspaper business has produced its share of misfits," Leake said.

"But to a far greater extent it has produced fine Americans — able to dig out truth, smoke out lies, unmask fraud and turn the spotlight on crime and corruption."

"The editor is not glib and is hard to impress. He's forgotten more gimmicks than gray-flannel suits sharpies will ever learn."

Altus Wing Gets Fairchild Trophy

AUSTIN (AP) — The 11th bomb wing from Altus Air Force Base, Okla., today was awarded the Fairchild Trophy for the best bomber unit in the Strategic Air Command's 12th annual combat competition.

General Thomas S. Powers, SAC commander in chief, presented the trophy at ceremonies this morning at Bergstrom AFB. The 11th, now has won the trophy three times.

Defection May Make It Hard For Code Crackers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The defection of two U.S. code specialists to the Soviet Union may make it harder for this country to crack Soviet secret codes, House investigators have learned.

That is because the two former National Security Agency employees — Bernon F. Mitchell and William H. Martin — know U.S. methods of code cracking and can advise the Soviets how to get around them.

But J. Vincent Burke, the Defense Department general counsel testified that Mitchell and Martin "can cause no damage to the security of our own communications."

Burke testified Thursday before a House Armed Services subcommittee, and arranged to deliver the same statement today to the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Both the closed-door hearings are concerned with the Mitchell-Martin defections, but will go into other matters as well.

The armed services group, headed by Rep. Paul J. Kilday, D-Tex., is taking a closer look at the over-all activities of U.S. intelligence operations.

The un-American group will check also on the defection of Vladimir Sloboda, a U.S. Army linguist who fled to Moscow earlier this year.

Kilday told reporters the testimony of Burke and other witnesses Thursday indicated that Martin and Mitchell were part of an espionage ring or had accomplices. He said it was possible they could have taken copies of secret NSA documents with them, but added there is no evidence to show this happened.

Burke said the pair also could have taken some handwritten "briefing notes" which have not been accounted for, but he said these may have been destroyed.

The Committee on Un-American Activities summoned three witnesses today — Burke, Dr. Louis W. Tordella, NSA deputy director, and Maurice H. Klein, NSA personnel director. All were heard by the Kilday subcommittee Thursday. The Kilday group did not name today's witnesses in advance.

BONN, Germany (AP) — Security authorities have smashed a Soviet spy ring in West Germany, the Interior Ministry announced today, saying five persons have been arrested and another 30 are being investigated.

Spy Ring Netted

Both the closed-door hearings are concerned with the Mitchell-Martin defections, but will go into other matters as well.

The armed services group, headed by Rep. Paul J. Kilday, D-Tex., is taking a closer look at the over-all activities of U.S. intelligence operations.

Ethel Blows Herself Out

Hurricane Ethel, once a cruel mass of punishing 150-miles-an-hour winds, withered today to a heavy rainstorm that might bring up to 10 inches of rain to communities in its diminishing path.

The storm that originated in the Gulf of Mexico off Yucatan earlier this week, struck near Biloxi, Miss., Thursday. With its central wind growing less powerful, the storm weakened.

At some coastal points, tides were reported five feet above normal.

Two tornadoes hit northeast Florida, damaging some homes, personal property and utility lines, but no one was reported injured.

Western Alabama and eastern Mississippi were threatened today with heavy rain, the Weather Bureau reported. The storm's winds would gradually diminish.

There were widely scattered showers elsewhere Thursday. Over the central plains, central Mississippi Valley, central and northern Rockies in the Lower Great Lakes and along the South Atlantic Coast the rainfalls ranged from a trace to about one-tenth of an inch.

TRADING STAMPS DISCONTINUED

By All DRY CLEANING FIRMS In Big Spring

AT THE END OF THIS WEEK (SAT. SEPT. 17)

The distribution of trading stamps is a part of the cost of doing business, and represents a sizable percentage in the case of service businesses, like dry cleaning.

As all costs have risen, we have been faced with the decision of perhaps a general overall advancing of prices. This we are unwilling to do at this time. On the other hand we feel that we can drop the costly "bonus" system of trading stamps, and continue to give our customers the best possible service at fair prices.

We have therefore agreed to abandon the policy of offering trading stamps, at the close of business Saturday, Sept. 17. We are confident that our good friends and customers will recognize the sound economics in this decision.

Even Marriage Counseling In For Benefit Of Space Data

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Air Force scientists say a successful 30-day simulated trip into the wild blue yonder didn't solve all space travel problems but it plugged a few holes.

It might even help marriage counseling, one expert at the School of Aviation Medicine suggested.

Capt. William D. Habinetz, 36, Ingleside, Tex., and 1st Lt. John J. Hargreaves, 30, Castle Air Force Base, Calif., emerged Thursday after 30 days, 8 hours and 21 minutes in a 8-by-12 foot pressurized steel tank.

Habinetz lost 5½ pounds and said his knees got wobbly near the end.

The two pilots, both with considerable jet flying experience, take more tests today, then leave to visit their families.

Before leaving the cabin they hung a sign inside saying: "Never volunteer, always submit an application."

Dr. Billy E. Welch, project director, said it would take some time to evaluate all aspects of the experiment "but it is my opinion this was a very successful experiment. I feel we have taken another step up the ladder in determining the factors in man's flight into space."

"Prior to the time we put men in space, for exploration, for work on a space station, we must determine in tests like this what is likely to happen," he said. Welch said the test produced valuable information on recycling of water, an important weight and space problem in loading a space ship. The two pilots started the trip with 22 gallons of fresh water. Waste fluids were purified and added to the remaining fresh water. Solid wastes were incinerated.

neuro-psychiatry branch, said important information was gained in selection of space crews.

"These are two very special people with their background and training," Flinn said. "We know now that a mature individual with high motivations can tolerate frustrations more than others."

"Many marriages could take a tip from this in learning to cope with tensions," Flinn said.

Yarborough Asks New Aged Laws

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Sen. Ralph Yarborough Thursday advocated a revision in social security laws and old age assistance plans to encourage Texans to continue their productive years.

Speaking at dedication ceremonies here for the Golden Age Home for Old Persons, the Texas senator said elderly Texans have lost $20 million a year for nearly five years because of the state's failure to match federal medical aid funds of nine million dollars annually.

Yarborough said Texas ranks 39th in the nation in the amount of average monthly checks for old age assistance.

Plainview Man Dies In Accident

MORRISON, Colo. (AP) — Roy Barrett, 39, of Plainview, Tex., died in a highway accident near here Thursday soon after his truck and another vehicle sideswiped on U.S. 285.

Police said Barrett's truck failed to make a curve about two miles from the collision site, skidded and rolled nearly 300 feet.

Barrett was pinned in the wreckage of his tractor and suffered multiple internal injuries. Police said the sideswiping accident and the turn-over occurred about 30 minutes apart.

Airmen Leave Space Cabin

Capt. William D. Habinetz, 36, left, of Ingleside, and 1st Lt. John J. Hargreaves, 30, Castle Air Force Base, Calif., emerged Thursday after 30 days, 8 hours and 21 minutes of simulated space flight. Greeting the two at right is Dr. Billy Welch, space scientist in charge of the experiment at the Air Force Aerospace Medical Center, Brooks AFB. Dr. Welch claimed the experiment was "an excellent run."

Trains Rerouted

DAYTON, Tex. (AP)—Passenger trains rerouted over Missouri Pacific tracks after a Southern Pacific freight train was derailed near here Thursday, were expected to be back on the SP lines today. Seventeen hopper cars of sulphur went into the Trinity River bottoms about 2½ miles east of here in Thursday's derailment, the cause of which had not been announced Thursday night.

Big Spring's Football For Tonight

Bovines Seek Second Win On Pecos Field

PECOS—Two teams—Pecos and Big Spring—risked undefeated records in an 8 o'clock clash here tonight. Big Spring was the slight favorite but Pecos was the underdog in last week's encounter with Carlsbad, N.M., and came through with flying colors—winning a 20-5 decision. Big Spring topped Pampa, 14-0, in an upset. Emmett McKemie's Steers from Big Spring will field the bigger and deeper club but whether or not they hit harder and are as fast as the home-town Eagles remains to be proved. Pecos is building its team this year around eight lettermen. Ronald Robbins, head coach of the War Birds, is new to the system.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

Pecos, the Class AAA opponent of the Big Spring Steers tonight, piled up three touchdowns against highly-rated Carlsbad last week and came within three yards of scoring again. Outclassed Carlsbad didn't threaten in the last half of the game. The Cavemen made more first downs (16-12) than did Pecos but the Eagles gained 208 yards rushing to only 172 for Carlsbad. Ronald Robbins' Texans won by two touchdowns, despite the fact that they were penalized 1 1/2 yards during the game. All indications point to the fact that the Steers are in for a busy evening.

Danny Birdwell, the Big Spring giant attending the University of Houston, will probably start against Ole Miss in that game at Houston tomorrow night. Birdwell, who is a junior, was running on the alternate unit for the Cougars until Jake Scamian, the regular, hurt an ankle in practice. A similar mishap kept Scamian out of last year's opener with Ole Miss, won by the Johnny Rebs, 16-0.

Major M. G. A. (Cappy) Cappiello of Webb AFB, who currently ranks high in national point standings of the Sports Car Clubs of America, will run in the races at Midland Sept. 17-18. Cappiello drives a little, yellow Fiat Abarth. His car is based here. Teams in the American Football League expect to lose money two of the first three years it is in operation. The average cost of fielding a team is $1 million, a great deal of which will represent a loss this year. In addition, each team has to put up a $100,000 bond, which will be forfeited to the league if the team drops out. "We don't expect to collect a single forfeit," says Lamar Hunt, the Dallas moneybags.

By the time Big Spring plays Abilene here the night of Oct. 21, assistant coach Roy Baird will probably know the Eagles' plays better than his own team. He was assigned to them last week and scouts them again tonight against Sweetwater.

A big reason the major leagues aren't naming the cities they expect to expand in the future is that they want to keep one site open for Kansas City when the A's are shifted again. There's been a community effort to keep the club in town but the fans refuse to get excited about the team. Things for which to look for on TV this fall: Willie Gallimore, the nifty runner for the Chicago Bears, has regained his old zip after limping through the 1959 season with leg miseries. During the 1957-58 seasons, Gallimore gained a total of 1,157 yards rushing the ball. Last season, he was limited to only 199 in 56 attempts. That San Angelo football team which lost to Brownwood last week is largely a junior outfit. There are only six seniors on the 28-man traveling squad.

Snyder, Lamesa Teams Win Here

Snyder's superlatives Ninth Graders ripped Big Spring Runnels, 60-20, in a football game played here Thursday night. Felix Hillario, Tony Carrillo and DeeRoby Garman each scored touchdowns for Big Spring in the last half, Garman on a pass from Carrillo. Snyder led at half time, 22-0. In the game pitting Lamesa against the Goliad Eighth Graders, the visitors won by a score of 6-0. Dick Roberts went over for Lamesa at the conclusion of a 30-yard drive in the second period. Big Spring was outgained only 137 to 152 that one. Rickey Earle and Dub McMeans showed to advantage on offense for Big Spring while middle guard Steve McComb and tackle Skipper Sab-bato were outstanding on defense. Goliad's Seventh Graders also

Bobby Ply Leads Green To A Win

WACO (AP) — Baylor quarterback Bobby Ply completed 18 of 33 passes for 237 yards and four touchdowns Thursday night to lead the Greens to a 47-8 victory over the Whites in the Bears' annual intrasquad football game. A crowd of 7,000 turned out to watch the lopsided contest, which pitted the first and second unit Greens against the Whites.

Yearlings Win By 20-0 Tally

SNYDER — Big Spring Runnels' Seventh Graders blanked Snyder, 20-0, in a football game played here Thursday evening. The Runnels Eighth Graders later lost, 42-18. In the Seventh Grade engagement, Snyder made more first downs than did Big Spring, 8-4, but the Yearlings had an edge in other phases, gaining 301 yards to only 76 for the Baby Tigers. Neither team completed a pass and Snyder had one intercepted. Snyder also lost two fumbles. Big Spring was penalized four times for 50 yards and Snyder twice for ten. Big Spring wasn't forced to punt. Snyder punted twice for 15 yards. Joe Juare counted in the opening quarter for the Yearlings on a 30-yard run at the end of a 65-yard drive. Ray Navarretta later raced 70 yards across the double stripes and Tony Saracho added two extra points. In the third period, Juare galloped 65 yards for a TD. Snyder got inside Big Spring's 20 in the third but stout defensive play held the home team there.

Forsan Hosts Jayton At 8

FORSAN—Forsan, winless now in two starts, faces what its coach, James Blake, will be the season's toughest eight-man football assignment here tonight at 8 o'clock. The Jayton Jaybirds, regional co-champions last year, come to Forsan to help the Batts launch their home campaign. In road starts this year, Forsan has lost to Wellman, 26-20, and Patton Springs, 28-14. Edward Kyle, a 160-pounder, is the chief Jaybird threat. He'll start at halfback. Other Jaybird starters include Harold Murrell, 180, and Royce Stanland, 150, at ends; Scott Dunlap, 175, and Zanny Chisum, 164, at guards; Don Shafer, 150, at quarterback; and Cecil Hallum, 172, at fullback. Sands JH Winner By 22-0 Score

ACKERLY—Sands Junior High School subdued Flower Grove, 22-0, in a football game unrec'd here Thursday afternoon. On the first play of the game, Eddie Herm raced 70 yards for a touchdown and Jerry Mabry tackled two more points on the board on the extra point try. In the second period, Herm broke loose again on a 60-yard punt return, then counted the two extra points himself to make it 16-0 at half time. There was no scoring in the third. In the fourth, Mabry shook himself loose on a 69-yard jump that paid off in a TD for Sands. At 7 p.m. next Thursday, the Sands Juniors play Coahoma here. The Fifth and Sixth Grade intramural program gets under way at 5 p.m. here next Thursday.

Farquhar Attains Links' S-Finals

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Charles Frances Lewis III is the talk of the National Amateur golf tournament. And a lot of the talk, naturally, is coming from his father, Charles Frances Lewis II, pro at the Little Rock Country Club. But nothing would suit Charles Frances Lewis III better, except winning of the title by his son, than to have grandpop Charles Frances I on hand for today's semifinals. Young Charles, age 19, is one of the four remaining in the tournament after Thursday's two rounds which saw the elimination of former champion Harvie Ward. The other semifinalists are Bob Gardner, 29, New York public relations man by the way of his native Hollywood, Calif.; John Farquhar, 24, son of an Amariolo, Tex. pro, and Deane Roman, 22, of Bethesda, Md., winner of the British Amateur last year, and the 1960 Trans-Mississippi.

Trojans, Ore. State Open Grid Activity

Oregon State is still rebuilding under Coach Tommy Prothro, but McKay, one of 18 coaches starting new jobs this weekend, has a similar problem. In fact, All America end Marlin McKeever will play offensive fullback tonight, alleviating a problem caused by the graduation of Clark Holden, the No. 1 ground-gainer last year, and his under-study, Jim Conroy, USC's No. 4 offensive leader. McKeever will return to end on defense. Saturday night in the same Coliseum, Pitt, with its "C" boys—Cox, Clemens and Cunningham—in the backfield meets UCLA, another Big Five member. The Panthers, minus a solid throwing quarterback, must offset the rushing of UCLA tailback Skip Smith with their backfield trio. Georgia and Alabama clash at Birmingham, Ala., in the televised game of the day (ABC-TV, 8:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time). Both are injury riddled but Georgia, defending Southeastern Conference and Orange Bowl title, may have its title hopes dampened by a much-improved Crimson Tide offense. Also in the South, Georgia Tech and Kentucky meet in another

Lamesa Edges Goliad, 12-6

LAMESA—Lamesa scored in the final three minutes of play to nudge Goliad's Ninth Graders of Big Spring, 12-6, here Thursday night. The Mavericks showed a big improvement in all phases on play, Coach Pete Fuglar stated. Robert Goodlett, the club's quarterback, scored Big Spring's TD on a three-yard plunge in the third period. Baxter Moore was held out of action due to a cut lip. Fullback Tim Smith, shifted from the line, played a fine all-around game for the Mavs and proved a hard boy to stop when tugging the leather. Defensive standouts for Big Spring included center Ray Stotts, tackle Kenneth Chrane, end Billy Homberg and Smith.

Stanton Favored In 'Dog Joust

COAHOMA—Two teams no longer in the same classification but who are still spirited rivals—Coahoma and Stanton—clash at 8 o'clock here this evening. Form usually goes out the window in this contest, although Stanton is heavily favored to topple Jimmy Spann's Bulldogs. Coahoma has dropped successive decisions to Hermling and Ozona. Stanton lost its opener to Market but came back last week to rout Big Lake. The Buffaloes, coached by Harlin Dauphin, appear ready to give Denver City a tussle for the title in their new district (3-AA). Stanton boasts such running threats as Thad Koonce and Tommy Newman while the chief navigator of the club is Reggie Church. Robert Turner has emerged as one of the finest ends in West Texas high school circles and will be a distinct threat to Coahoma tonight. Spann is beginning a rebuilding job at Coahoma this year. He has eight lettermen back from last season. They include Sammy Buchanan, a lineman; quarterback Royce Aberegg, fullback Dwan

Cooking Seem Tedious? Lucky You To Have Modern Cook Book

By ANNE LE FEVER
Had you been a homemaker in the period around the turn of the century, you would have measured dry ingredients by pints or pounds and the liquids by pints, quarts or gallons. If you desired a small amount of liquid, it would have been added to a recipe by the gill, the equivalent of a wineglass. This is according to a cook book, which is prized by Mrs. Fred Coleman, 506 E. 16, in her collection of books, of which "Good Living" by Sara Van Buren, is the oldest.

The book, which was given to Mrs. Coleman by her aunt, Mrs. Sallie Harris of Fort Worth, was found in a number of books which were in the home bought by Mrs. Harris several years ago.

"Good Living" was first published in 1890; the author deplored the idea of homemakers following the practice of taking "softe" of this, that or the other, thereby leaving the chance of success dependent upon the accident of guessing happily. Included in the collection of "receipts" is a detailed discussion of cooking temperatures with the warning that the success of a dish is partially the result of having the right type of fire built with which to cook it. "A novelty, and one which will fill a long-felt want is the time table for meats, poultry and game and vegetables," boasted Sara in the preface.

As for the order in which a dinner was served (and such diners as they had!) Miss Van Buren suggested that repetition in a menu be avoided, so that "any two white or brown sauces or any two fried meats or fish do not follow each other so closely as to be unpalatable."

Such a dinner, she wrote, would include raw oysters or clams as the first course, to be followed by a soup. After this, guests would be offered various types of relishes.

Fish with potatoes would be

Makes Comparison

While three-year-old Cindy looks on, her mother, Mrs. Fred Coleman, 506 E. 16th, compares her oldest and newest cook books. The book volume, which she holds, was published in 1890 under the title "Good Living" by Sara Van Buren. Both are part of a collection of cook books, which Mrs. Coleman adds to ever so often. Other interests include fishing and membership in the Pythian Sisters, the Rebekah Lodge and DeMolay Mothers.

next in the parade of cuisine with the main course of filet mignons, roasts of some kind or croquettes served with a vegetable. As if that were not enough, game was to be served with salad—beefsteak with no game, the salad took its place—steaks—the meat and vegetable.

Desserts were ices or cakes and to top it all off, came coffee and liqueurs. Roman punch, whatever that was, could be served between the main course and the salad, if the hostess so desired.

As for tips on making butter, (oleomargarine was a word unborn at the time, of course) great stress was laid on the importance of keeping all utensils perfectly clean. "Do not spare time and trouble in the attainment of this primary necessity," Sara warned, adding that pans "should shine like silver and be kept airing and sunning until put to use." Scalding was the last thing done to a pan before it received the "clean, pure liquid," according to the writer.

And how did she direct the homemaker to test the temperature of the milk to be churned? By sticking her finger in it! Several helpful hints are included in a chapter, "Stray Notes," among them being a way to insure that your chicken dish is prepared with white, tender meat. "The moment before the chicken is to be killed, make it drink one tablespoonful of best vinegar, then finish as usual." (Finish what—the chicken or the race to catch him?)

To preserve ice in the ice-box, Sara instructed housekeepers to wrap it in several thicknesses of

U.S. To Loft Rocket To Study Radiation Peril

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States plans to loft a new 80-foot rocket 1,200 miles high over the Pacific next week in a new-type study of radiation belts that could imperil manned space flight.

This became known today as the National Academy of Sciences announced that U.S. scientists plan to shoot 35 research rockets to various altitudes between 15 and 1,200 miles from Sept. 16 to 22. None is designed to go into orbit.

The occasion will be an "International Rocket Interval" in which various countries will carry on space research as a kind of follow-up to the recent International Geophysical Year.

The academy's announcement said rockets would be launched by the Air Force, Army and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

It said only that NASA planned to launch an Argo D8 rocket to an altitude of 1,200 miles bearing "a recoverable nuclear emulsion experiment."

NASA headquarters declined to release detailed information on the project at this time, but it was learned that it will involve a new-type solid propellant rocket, carrying an 85-pound payload to be launched from Point Arguello, Calif., possibly next Monday morning.

The nuclear emulsion experiment will consist of a series of emulsions, with a record streaks made by particles of radiation as the payload climbs to an altitude of 1,200 miles before arching downward. Means of recovery were not specified.

Witch Doctor Who Sparked Attack Gets Blarney Stone

By ADRIAN PORTER
MANONO, the Congo (AP)— Irish U.N. troops matched wits against an African witch doctor today in an attempt to bring peace to this terror-ridden mining center.

And the Irish appeared to be winning.

Primitive armed Baluba tribesmen roaming the streets agreed to let the Irish open a mile long stretch of road to the airport as an escape route for 73 frightened Belgian settlers huddled in a tin mine company's guest house.

The Belgians—13 women and 60 men—were trapped as hundreds of tribesmen armed with old rifles, spears and bows and arrows swarmed into the town Tuesday and attacked African police led by white officers.

(A refugee aboard a U.N. plane arriving in Elisabethville Thursday night said only 27 Belgians remained in Manono.)

The Balubas, who in this area side with Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba in his feud with Katanga Premier Moise Tshombe, were inflamed by a witch doctor who said them a magic formula he claimed made them immune to "white men's bullets."

The outnumbered police retreated to seek U.N. protection after bloody fighting in which 35 Balubas were slain and 14 wounded.

Two African policemen were killed and one of five two Belgian officers wounded.

When the fighting subsided wives and relatives of the slain Balubas turned the bodies in a circle until the feet touched the place where the heads had lain to confuse evil spirits." Then they draped the bodies in Congo flags and carried them away.

Manono took on the appearance of a dead city with the mines shut down and everything else idle.

The only U.N. authority left in the town was a contingent of 140 men from the Irish 3rd Battalion.

The U.N. blue helmet was the only badge of safety for a white man as bands of tribesmen prowled amid smoldering buildings.

Capt. Pierce Barry, commander of the Irish detachment, gave this account: "Trouble started when about 800 Balubas came into town from the surrounding countryside. They got together with the local witch doctor—Nkubu the Elephant—who is reputed to have magic powers.

"What happened was that the Katanga army dropped grenades on the African quarter in reprisal for the killing of a Belgian captain in an ambush here a couple of days ago.

"The grenades dropped in soft muddy ground and failed to go off. As a result he (Nkubu) was regarded as immortal. He then prepared mixtures and for 2 shillings (28 cents) sold these to Balubas. He announced them with it and told them, 'White men's bullets cannot harm you.'

"They seemed to believe him, for the Balubas started firing on a police patrol.

"Hundreds of them marched on the Town Hall, where police formed up to fight.

"The Balubas walked into a hail of fire, seeming to believe they could not be hurt. They fell like tennies."

After two hours of fighting, the police, with their wives and children, retreated to U.N. headquarters and laid down their arms.

Twenty-two Belgians and 140 Congolese were flown out Wednesday.

Three planes arrived in Elisabethville Thursday night from Manono with 11 Swedish U.N. troops, no longer needed, and 56 refugees.

A Katanga government spokesman reported other fighting in the secessionist province despite U.N. cease-fire orders.

The spokesman said 300 of Lumumba's troops invaded the province from Kivu Province along a railway line toward Kongolo, and that Katanga forces had started defensive action.

He said 300 persons were trapped at a coal mine in Luena.

New Trainer Arrives

First of the new T-37 jet trainers has arrived on the Webb AFB. It is the subject of much speculation on the part of instructors, students, and maintenance men. Weighing less than the conventional medium priced automobile, and powered by twin jet engines, it gives a squat appearance—especially when standing alongside the sleek hull of the T-33. Pictured at the controls of the T-37 is Major Glenn E. Hartwell, SAC officer assigned to Webb as assistant operations officer for the pilot training. With the major are two crewmen assigned to the T-37. They are, from left, Airman W. L. Huselbee, Major Hartwell, and S. Sgt. J. P. Beauchamp. (OFFICIAL AIR FORCE PHOTO)

Turkey Called Staunch Friend Of United States

Turkey is a land much reminiscent of Rip Van Winkle. After centuries of sleep, it is now awakened; noting the tremendous changes in life that have come about, it is working at top speed to catch up.

Turkey stands as a tremendously important safeguard between the western world and Russia. Turks have an inborn hatred of communism. Centuries of persecution by the Russians have so deepened this hatred they are our strongest friends in the East.

Chaplain Howard illustrated his travelsogue on Turkey with colored slides which he had taken in that land. In his year in the country, he traveled from one end of the peninsula to another.

AF Vapor Trails To Be Dissipated

BEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—Vapor trails which in the past have indicated the presence of high flying U.S. Air Force jets, will be ended, the Air Research and Development Command announced today.

break-through was reached after more than five years of research at L. G. Hanscom Field. A six-engine B47 bomber crew, following directions from the ground, first eliminated the vapor trails from the engines on the right side while the three left engines continued to produce the familiar white vapor streams. Then the vapor trails poured from the right engines, while the left engines left no track behind them.

Seabolt Wins Compensation Case

A jury in 118th District Court Thursday acted promptly in awarding Joe Seabolt maximum allowable compensation for injuries he received to a hand. Thirty minutes after jury received the case it returned its verdict to Judge Ralph Caton.

The verdict said that Seabolt is entitled to receive $35 a week for the next 150 weeks as compensation for the hand injury he received while working on a job here in 1959. The defendant in the suit was the Travellers Insurance Co.

A few minutes later, Judge Caton was advised that another compensation suit against Travellers brought by Joe Ulrich, and scheduled to be called up for trial at the afternoon session, had been settled. Details of the settlement were not announced.

This terminated the cases ready for trial on the docket of civil cases which has been under way in the court this week. Two cases were tried during the week.

Judge Caton expressed himself as well satisfied with the results of the docket. Six of the cases on the docket were settled and three disposed of by trial. Two cases dismissed.
