Niki Wants Neutrals To Help In Arms Talks

Ike And Mac Give Support To U.N. Chief

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Macmillan today pledged full support to United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold in the face of Nikita Khrushchev's demands he be fired. At the same time, the two free world leaders called on the 96-nation U.N. Assembly to buckle down to "serious, sober and constructive work" on international disarmament.

This appeared to be a plea to Khrushchev and his Communist allies to forsake further anti-Western propaganda attacks for the sake of serious efforts to ease East-West tensions. Eisenhower and Macmillan, meeting to coordinate allied strategy, issued their joint declaration after a 2 1/2-hour meeting with their foreign policy chiefs. An American spokesman stressed that Macmillan in no way sought to act as a mediator between Eisenhower and Khrushchev or to arrange a face-to-face meeting between the two cold war foes. Eisenhower, pressing ahead with his campaign of quiet diplomacy, met with Macmillan at breakfast in his temporary White House headquarters on the 35th floor of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. Afterward, he arranged to talk with top Ethiopian and Cambodian representatives in the next stage of his drive to woo neutral support for the Western side. Canadian Prime Minister John Diefenbaker was to meet with the President this afternoon just before Eisenhower flies back to Washington.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty summed up the Eisenhower-Macmillan parley at a news conference, saying in part: "The President and the prime minister reviewed the situation in the General Assembly of the United Nations and considered the policies being pursued by their two countries toward their common goal. They were in complete agreement as to the vital role of the United Nations, particularly in the Congo crisis, and the need to give full support to the secretary general in his tasks. Nichols and Khrushchev also has been criticized of the U.N. role in the Congo situation. The Eisenhower-Macmillan meeting was a breakfast conference in the President's 35th floor suite at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. After an hour they called in their foreign policy chiefs, Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and Lord Home, to help plan coordinated Allied strategy for checking Khrushchev's anti-Western offensive in the United Nations.

The President is reported in increasingly confident that numerous neutral nations will join Western countries in defeating Khrushchev's plan to revamp the United Nations to Moscow's design. Pressing ahead on his one-man diplomatic mission, he also arranged to meet with top representatives of two more independent-minded nations, Premier Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia and Deputy Premier Aklilu Abte Wold of Ethiopia. Eisenhower's chats with the Cambodian and Ethiopian will raise to 10 the number of neutralist leaders he has met since he launched his personal drive last Thursday to line up votes for the West in the diplomatic battle against Khrushchev. Eisenhower is understood to be considerably heartened as a result of lengthy conferences Monday and Tuesday with Prime Minister Nasser and President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic. The President met with each of these key neutralist leaders in his temporary New York White House.

A public hearing concerning paving 33 blocks which have been added to the street paving assessment program was to be held at city hall today at 7:30 p.m. The hearing was to be held by the city commission during its regular meeting which begins at 6:30 p.m. Other items due to come before the commission included consideration of property which the Salvation Army proposes to donate to the city acceptance of property from Alcoholics Anonymous, and acceptance of streets on which mechanics liens have been secured to the paving assessment program. The commission also was to read and consider the contract between the city and the engineering firm of Freese, Nichols and Endress for water works construction under the capital improvement program. Readings also were to be given re-zoning ordinances, including the Coronado Hills property, Hank McDaniels property and Eugene Thomas and Dr. Akin Simpson property. The Salvation Army has offered to give land to the city for use as a park. The Alcoholics Anonymous property slated for consideration would allow the city to realign Settles at Lloyd for paving and better drainage.

BIBLE FUND AT THE TOP

The Bible Class Fund apparently had reached its goal Tuesday, thanks to a great response Monday—the best single day of the annual appeal. Three checks from the First Methodist Church accounted for $210. Friends of the fund which finances the instruction for some 90 high school pupils taking Bible rallied to the extent of $262.11. That brought the total to $2,068.61. The figures are unofficial and unaudited and could change. Moreover, several had indicated they were making gifts and these had not reached the Herald. These will be acknowledged as received. The Herald, for itself and on behalf of the sponsoring Big Spring Pastors Association, thanks all who have had a part in this worthy investment. Latest donors are: Young Married Class, Westover Baptist $50.00; George W. Blair $10.00; Mrs. Nannie B. Garrett $10.00; Denver Dunn $10.00; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Stone $10.00; Mrs. C. L. Farm Home Panel Ending 2-Day Area Meeting Here

Supervisors and office clerks from 16 counties of West Texas were to conclude a two-day bi-area meeting of the Farmers Home Administration here this afternoon. L. F. Smith, Dallas, assistant state director, and Robert C. Toon, Dallas, the state real estate loan officer, headed a list of officials here to conduct the briefing on recent changes made by the national office in loan making policies of the agency. "We believe that the changes that have been made will enable the organization to assist more effectively the farmers who are eligible for assistance," said Smith. Changing conditions in agriculture as well as those of the economy in general have created a greater need for effective supervision, Toon told the group. Supervision must be tailored to cope with these trends, and it must be geared to anticipate other changes. Proper supervision, he added, can assist farm families to make adjustments which will be profitable and to make improvements that are necessary to place their farming operations on a sound basis. Supervision also can assist the families in wise use of credit, can graduate the families to other credit sources within a reasonable period of time, and through wise overall operations can protect the interest of the government in the loans. Presiding over the meeting were area supervisors, Denny O. Sullivan, San Angelo, and Milton A. Stinton, Colorado City. They also discussed policy changes in more detail. County representatives were here from Rotan to El Paso for the meeting at the Settles Hotel.

U.S. Offers Reds Atom Moratorium

GENEVA (AP)—The United States today offered the Soviet Union a 27-month moratorium on small underground nuclear testing upon the signing of a big three nuclear test ban treaty. The proposal was made by Charles C. Stelle, acting U.S. delegate, in a move to get the resumed negotiations off to a good start. The United States and Britain were teamed for a joint approach on all major issues as the talks reopened in the Geneva Palace of Nations after a five-week recess. Two-thirds of a test suspension treaty text has already been agreed on during the big three talks, which have dragged on for nearly two years. The remaining third, however, involves major issues of principle, which might require hard and long negotiations.

Moscow Airliner Crash Kills 30

MOSCOW (AP)—A four-engine Austrian airliner crashed in fog and rain near Moscow airport Monday night. An Austrian Embassy spokesman said 30 of the 37 persons aboard died in the fiery wreckage. All seven survivors were reported injured. They included two attaches at the U.S. Embassy here — Air Force Maj. Edward Wooten of Wilmington, N. C., and Army Maj. Willis H. Knipe of Kokomo, Ind. Austrian airline officials in Vienna said three of the dead probably were Americans. They were identified as Miss M. L. Simone, a Pan American World Airlines employee; and a Mr. and Mrs. Ganulin, who flew to Europe from Los Angeles. Wooten's wife told newsmen after a visit to her husband in the hospital that he was "not too badly off." Knipe suffered burns. In Los Angeles, relatives said Dr. H. W. Ganulin, a dentist, and his wife, Lillian, left their Beverly Hills home Sept. 1 on a world tour and that Moscow was on the list of cities they planned to visit.

Nasser Asks Ike, K Make Fresh Start

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Nikita S. Khrushchev proposed today to bring neutral nations into new disarmament talks, and a neutralist leader, Gamal Abdel Nasser, urged the Soviet leader and President Eisenhower to get together for a fresh start on the arms problems. "The two developments highlighted the renewed policy debate of the historic 15th U.N. General Assembly session while a whirl of background diplomatic activity continued to swirl in the assembly hall. The Soviet premier submitted a resolution to raise the membership of the 10-nation disarmament commission to 15. It had equal Communist and Western representation, but Khrushchev sought to add India, Indonesia, the United Arab Republic, Ghana and Mexico. The 10-nation talks broke down in Geneva this summer when the Russians, walking out, said they would bring up the whole arms question in the U.N. assembly. ARMS TALKS President Nasser of the U.A.R., second assembly speaker for the day, has seen both Eisenhower and Khrushchev in private conferences, and he said both expressed willingness to discuss disarmament again. "We therefore suggest," said the Arab leader, "that the General Assembly recommend that the two great leaders should, under the standard of the United Nations, meet either by themselves or together with whom you select among those who are present here, in order for them all to put, under the aegis of the United Nations, guiding rules for a new attempt toward disarmament." The Communist bloc also renewed its attack on the office of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, while outside the United Nations, President Eisenhower put forward strong efforts to rally formidable support behind the U.N. chief. IN AGREEMENT President Eisenhower met with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain and White House press secretary James C. Hagerty pictured them "in complete agreement as to the vital role of the United Nations, particularly in the Congo crisis, and the need to give full support to the secretary general in his tasks." The Russians have suffered a diplomatic setback in the Congo crisis and have protested Hammarskjold's peace-making activities there. Khrushchev arrived at the United Nations rosy and cheerful, despite indications his drive against the U.N. secretariat seemed to be winning little support outside his own bloc, even from the Yankee-hating Cuban delegation headed by Prime Minister Fidel Castro. Khrushchev waved and grinned at the Cuban leader when Castro arrived in the Assembly hall to listen in on the renewed debate. Kicking off the renewed Communist bloc offensive against Hammarskjold, Romanian Communist boss Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej told the General Assembly the secretary-general, in the Congo, "acted, actually, as a spokesman of the colonialist policy."

Moscow Airliner Crash Kills 30

"In its present structure, the general secretariat does not assure the objective implementation of the resolutions of the United Nations," said the first secretary of Romania's Communist party, third of the satellite Communist leaders to address the historic 15th General Assembly session. Castro, in a 4 1/2-hour speech Monday night, went down the line in supporting most Soviet positions, although he remained silent on the issue of Hammarskjold's future. Private conferences between world leaders, committed and uncommitted in the East-West struggle, hit a feverish pace. Everybody was seeing everybody else, behind closed doors, in a gigantic political round robin. Eisenhower's appointments included breakfast with Macmillan and his foreign secretary, Lord Home. At hourly intervals he was to confer with Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia, and Aklilu Abte Wold, deputy prime minister of Ethiopia. He also scheduled a talk with John G. Diefenbaker, prime minister of Canada. NASSER BUSY Nasser has been one of the busiest participants in the off-stage maneuvering. He talked with Eisenhower, President Tito of Yugoslavia, and Indian Prime Minister Nehru (See U.N., Page 2, Col. 4)

Bag, Bike, Book — And Boy Becomes A Big Businessman

A bag, a bike and a book are the tools of trade for 66 Big Spring businessmen who count over 9,500 homes in Big Spring as their sales floor.

They are the carriers who deliver The Herald. These "little merchants" go beyond the three R's of normal education to add a fourth, responsibility.

In taking a newspaper route, these youngsters take on the responsibility of businessmen. There is more to the job than just delivering the paper.

First, he must be a salesman. As he adds customers to his route, he adds money to his pocket.

Second, he must be a credit manager. He must decide how long to let an account go before he makes collection.

Third, he must be an accountant. His route book represents a profit or loss to him, depending on how well he keeps up with what he owes and how much he collects.

Fourth, he must be a banker. He collects his money and pays it out, making sure it is kept safely and accurately.

And, he must be a personnel manager. The carrier is responsible for delivery of his route when he is on vacation or ill. He must have a trained helper who can take his place when he is not available.

Actually, a Herald route boy is not an employee of the newspaper. He is an independent agent whose success depends on his own efforts.

The paper guarantees the "wholesale product," a certain number of papers each day at a certain time. The route boy sells these papers at a profit. It is up to him to give service and make collections.

Any young man who is quite successful at it, in order to obtain a route, the boy must post a $50 bond. If he doesn't have that much money and many of them don't—he may begin saving it from his earnings at $5 per week.

Once the bond is posted, the

Good Way To Save

One of the Herald paper carriers who has saved a chunk of cash is Ronnie Pierce, 1408 Park, who is being handed a check for $250 by Jack Kimble, manager of the circulation department.

Herald pays him three per cent interest on it as long as the boy keeps his route. And more, the little businessman can continue his savings systematically by adding to the fund each week.

Many of the boys do. At least one has $500 in the fund at the present time. In all, the Herald currently holds almost $5,000 in bonds and savings for its carriers.

With schools beginning recently, some of the boys withdrew portions of this money to buy

Monday night. Nasser said of the interview with Eisenhower, "I am looking forward to strengthening the good relations between the United Arab Republic and the United States."

Reporters tried to question Nehru after his meeting with the Arab leader, but all the Indian would say was: "There is no neutral bloc—only independent nations."

Then Nehru hastened across town for a dinner session with Khrushchev.

The results of this feverish round of conferences, plus the speeches by Eisenhower, Khrushchev and other principals in the conflict, may be reflected very soon in the debate on a perennial and critical issue—admission of Red China to the U. N.

CHINA ENTRY

The Soviet Union has before the steering committee a proposal to seat the Communist Chinese. The United States is determined to block it. Here, in all probability, the effect on the nationalists and especially on the newly admitted nations of the past week's maneuvering may become clearly defined.

The steering committee debate on Communist China was to have started Monday night. It was postponed, apparently because of Castro's 4 1/2 hour speech which went on until nearly 3:30 p. m.

The speech seemed to make some impact on the newly admitted African delegates to the U. N. and to a lesser extent on the known neutrals.

It was the longest speech in the history of the General Assembly. Yet the great hall was about three-quarters filled when Castro finished. Some delegates—Nehru among them—left during the speech but returned later to their places.

HELD AUDIENCE

In short, Castro held his audience, and particularly the African and Latin American delegations. The applause that frequently interrupted him was led by the Communists. But they were not the only ones clapping for Castro.

Maurice Dejean, foreign minister of the Central African Republic, said later: "I have no comment on the political side of his speech. But on the economic side, we have many of the same problems as Cuba. Some of these points contained a great deal of truth."

That was fairly typical of the comments of delegates from uncommitted nations. A member said that "the speech had some points."

The U. S. ambassador to the U. N., James J. Wadsworth, quickly issued a statement after Castro stepped down.

"The record of the U. S. in its relations with Cuba is an open book," he declared. "That book has been studied with great care by the Organization of American States. Most of the charges Prime Minister Castro made today have already been examined by the Organization of American States and rejected."

31 Cases Set For New Court Docket

Thirty-one criminal cases are set for trial at a county court jury docket slated to open on Oct. 10, Wayne Burns, county attorney, announced today.

Eighteen of the complaints are against persons charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated. Six of the counts are for violations of the state liquor laws. Four allege possession of unlawful weapons. The docket extends through Oct. 21.

There are individual charges of possession of a barbiturate, theft, and aggravated assaults to complete the docket.

Burns said that he would not estimate how many of the cases would be disposed of at the hearing. So far, he thinks, will end in pleas of guilty. It is possible others will have to be dismissed. It is unlikely that more than 10 can possibly be tried.

County Judge Ed Carpenter will summon a jury panel to report to the court on Oct. 11. The docket will be sounded at 1 p. m., Oct. 10. At that time, the number of possible pleas will be determined and the number of cases which cannot be tried at this term stricken.

House, a suite on the 38th floor of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

To continue his personal diplomacy, Eisenhower was understood to be considering a luncheon meeting with representatives of 13 new African states admitted to U. N. membership last week.

Eisenhower's tactics, unlike Khrushchev who has been leading the Soviet delegation at the United Nations, have been to talk quietly backstage, assisting Herter who heads the U. S. working representatives at the United Nations.

The President appealed Monday for "voices of calm" to help still the furor in the United Nations churned up by Khrushchev's assault.

He joined India's Nehru in pledging to push ahead toward world disarmament—though Khrushchev has threatened to stall progress on this until the United Nations is revamped to meet his demands.

In a formal speech before a dinner meeting of the National Conference of Catholic Charities, Eisenhower called on free nations to share their independence if they are to survive in their battle against "a powerful, secretive dictatorship."

Garza Hole May Have Dual Pay

General American Oil Co. of Texas will attempt dual completion at No. 1-64 Miller in Garza County after a seven-hour drill stem test indicated good pay potential.

Operator will attempt the dual completion in the Ellenburger and Strawn sections at the Gordon Simpson field project. It is eight miles southwest of Justiceburg.

The drill stem test between 8,157-72 feet flowed oil at the rate of 67 barrels per hour after tool was open one hour. Operator recovered a full string of oil and 270 feet of heavily oil-saturated mud from below the operating log.

Drill stem tests are slated at two Borden County wildcats, Gulf No. 1-A Askins, eight miles east of Gail, and Humble No. 1-B Conrad, 23 miles south of Gail.

A drill stem test of the Strawn section was attempted at the Humble venture but the tool failed coming out. Operator is preparing to re-test. The hole is bottomed at 8,065 feet to test between 8,057-85 feet.

Gulf will take a drill stem test between 4,930-5,005 feet. The project is bottomed at 5,005 feet.

Humble No. 1-B Conrad is bottomed at 8,065 feet preparing to take another drill stem test in the Strawn section between 8,057-85 feet. A previous test at that interval failed. Wildcat location is 860 feet from south and west lines of section 71-20-Lavaca Navigation Co. survey.

2 Candidates Meet On TV

CHICAGO (AP)—The 1960 presidential campaign gained momentum today from a history-making face-to-face clash of the rival candidates for the presidency.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy opened up over their differences on farm, school, housing, medical care for the elderly and other issues Monday night before a huge television-radio audience.

The question of the Roman Catholic faith of Sen. Kennedy, the Democratic nominee, never once came up as they debated who can provide the better leadership in the competition with communism.

Kennedy's religion, while never raised by Nixon, his Republican opponent, is considered by most observers to be a major factor in the campaign, along with the civil rights issue.

And while Nixon didn't mention civil rights, either, Kennedy called it "a national responsibility" when a Negro baby, or a Puerto Rican or Mexican in this country "has about half as much chance getting through high school as a white baby."

Kennedy added that the Negro baby has only a third the chance of getting through college, or becoming a professional man and about half the chance of owning a home.

Nixon hammered away on the argument that his Republican programs will move America forward "on the wonderful record we have made over the past 7 1/2 years."

On the other hand, Nixon said, health, education, housing, farm, elderly-medical care and other proposals advanced by Kennedy would boost federal spending by anywhere from $13.2 to $18 billion dollars.

They would, Nixon charged, "lead to stagnation of the motive power that we need in this country to get progress." Nixon said Republican proposals would increase federal spending from 2 to 4 1/2 billion.

Kennedy insisted his program can be included in a carefully drawn balanced budget "if our economy is moving ahead."

And so it went for an hour, with each candidate taking his turn in outlining his case, and answering questions from a panel of television reporters.

The program was carried by all the national television and radio networks—NBC, CBS and ABC, plus MBS radio network. Some individual stations made delayed telecasts and broadcasts of the debate. Television network officials estimated 65 to 75 million persons watched the telecast.

When the program was over, the two contestants agreed on at least one thing: that this first of four nationally televised appearances was good for the country and would increase the turnout of voters Nov. 8.

"Very good," Nixon said of the debate. "Very sharp exchanges," Kennedy, standing by, nodded and said, "Very useful."

While both seemed nervous in the studio before the debate started, they were at least moderately self-assured once the performance got under way.

START MOVING
Opening the debate, Kennedy called for "effective government action," saying, "I think it is time America started moving again."

While Nixon agreed that "we are in a deadly competition" with Moscow and Peiping, he called Kennedy's proposals for moving the economy ahead "simply re-iterations of the programs of the Truman administration."

He contended, as he has all along, that during the Eisenhower administration more schools have been built and more electric power developed than any administration in history while also building more houses and highways.

Kennedy said he does not think "we are doing enough," that he is "not satisfied with the progress we are making" with 50 per cent of the country's steel capacity unused, for example.

"This is a great country, but I think it could be a more powerful country," the Massachusetts Democrat declared.

LOT OF TROUBLE
Nixon said that in the economic race Soviet production is only 44 per cent of that of the United States, and Kennedy replied that 44 per cent was "certainly causing us a lot of trouble."

Kennedy said he would not unbalance the budget except in "a grave national emergency," but that the nation's needs are so great he does not see an opportunity for debt reduction in the next few years. Nixon, chiding him, said the Democratic platform mentions paring the national debt.

Nixon said his own farm plan would rescue the farmer from the price-depressing surpluses overhanging the market while Kennedy's would lead to more government control and higher consumer prices.

Kennedy said, in return, that the administration's farm policy has failed, and that Nixon's proposals are not "very much different" from those of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson.

Both candidates voiced their support of federal aid to school construction. Kennedy also called for federal subsidies to the states to increase teachers' salaries.

Nixon said federal aid to school construction would free more local funds for teachers salaries and Kennedy's plan would lead to federal control.

Kennedy contended the threat of a veto by President Eisenhower prevented enactment of his $1.25 billion wage proposal. Nixon replied that Congress could have overridden the veto except for the fact that on this and some other Democratic proposals, the people supported Eisenhower's position.

New Beauty In 1961 Plymouth

Plymouth for 1961 has a complete new look, and a new ride. Plymouth announces major engineering and styling gains in the areas of economical operation, trouble-free driving and solid riding characteristics.

Plymouth Changes Design, Boasts New Improvements

Plymouth for 1961 has a new look of beauty and a new ride of stability. The makers claim major engineering and styling gains in the areas of economical operation, trouble-free driving, luxury-car appearance and solid riding characteristics.

The new Plymouth will be shown for the first time publicly on September 29 in dealer show-rooms in major cities.

Viewed from the side in silhouette, the new appearance is most pronounced. Designers have reduced the mass of the rear of the car, added to the length of the hood, and used a minimum of side trim. The new design maintains superior directional stability by keeping the center of gravity and the center of pressure as close together as possible.

Plymouth for 1961 offers 26 different models, five engines, four different transmissions, and 14 body color combinations. In the Saver line are two and four-door sedans with either 6-cylinder or V-8 engines; the Belvedere line has two and four-door sedans and a two-door hardtop, all available with either 6 or V-8 engines; in the Fury line are four-door sedan, a two-door hardtop, a four-door hardtop, all available as either a 6 or V-8, and the convertible, offered only as a V-8. Nine different Suburban station wagons are offered: A two-door six-passenger car and a four-door six-passenger (6 or V-8) in the DeLuxe line; a four-door, six-passenger (6 or V-8) and a four-door nine-passenger (V-8 only) in the Custom line; and four-door nine-passenger (V-8 only) in the Sport Suburban line.

Here are some new features: 1. An alternator replaces the old-type generator, keeping the battery charging even when the car is idling in traffic with lights, radio and windshield wiper operating. This lengthens battery life, and eliminates the "won't start" complaint on cold winter mornings resulting from battery failure.

2. An improved carburetor needle valve saves gas because it keeps the air-gas mixture from getting too rich. It has an anti-flood feature for easier starting.

3. A new distributor has a nylon rubbing block at the breaker points which lasts longer and reduces the need for adjustment to maintain fine performance.

4. Improvements in the steering system make steering easier.

5. New quiet-cushioning action built into the shock absorbers makes the ride even quieter.

6. New longer-lasting tires are squeal-resistant and help eliminate noise by lowering the road hum level. Life of the tread has been increased by 15 per cent.

7. The uni-body construction has been further refined through more precise manufacturing methods and is even more solid and quiet.

8. A new magnetic drive in the speedometer operates more quietly by eliminating gear noise resulting from metal-to-metal contact.

9. The starting system has a new solenoid shift which is quieter and longer wearing.

10. Brakes are more durable and smoother. They use Chrysler Corporation-built Cycloflex linings.

11. The new parking brake is safer, more difficult for children to release accidentally. It requires less pressure for securing holding and is in a location which makes it easier to apply.

12. Inner construction of seats is stronger, and there is extra cushioning to the center section of the rear seat, for added passenger comfort.

Most Voters Not Moved Greatly By Video Debate

WASHINGTON (AP)—A survey of voters in 10 major cities indicated today that a majority of those polled were not influenced by Monday night's televised debate between presidential candidates Richard M. Nixon and John F. Kennedy.

However, of those who said they were influenced by the unprecedented hour-long program, more leaned toward Kennedy than toward Nixon.

Only a few persons said they had actually switched from one candidate to the other because of the debate.

The Associated Press survey was conducted this way: AP staffers in each of the 10 cities selected names at random from the telephone book. Those called were asked first if they were qualified voters and if they had watched or listened to the entire debate.

If they answered yes, they were asked if their previous inclination to vote for Kennedy or Nixon was influenced by the debate, and if so, which way and why.

The telephoning was continued until answers were obtained from 10 persons in each of the 10 cities—Chicago, Des Moines, Kansas City, Los Angeles, Seattle, Dallas, Boston, Nashville, New Orleans and New York.

Almost twice as many of those who said they were influenced thought Kennedy made a better showing than Nixon. Most of those however, said they had favored Kennedy previously and were reinforced in their opinion by the debate. Most of those who leaned toward Nixon also previously favored him.

Of the 100 persons questioned,

DURANGO, Mex. (AP)—Fourteen persons were fatally injured in a car accident on the Pan American Road 40 miles south of Durango Monday night.

Their car was hit head-on by a bus.

K May Have Way In Spite Of U.N.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—One of the biggest dangers to the future of the United Nations is that Nikita Khrushchev can accomplish basically what he has set out to do without any necessity for reference to the will of the majority.

This is being discussed in the U.N. corridors in an atmosphere of deep concern.

The Soviet leader has made it as clear as possible that he is out to get Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold by one means or another.

His proposal to replace the office of secretary-general with a pre-paralyzed three-member presidium—built-in veto power—can be looked upon more as a maneuver than as a proposal with any chance of reaching a formal vote.

But it is, in effect, a signal for all-out war by the Communist bloc against the secretary-general. The purpose is to make things so hot for Hammarskjold that he will feel his effectiveness at an end and see no choice but to resign.

Should this come about, Khrushchev will have accomplished his objective.

It would be next to impossible to get a new secretary-general who would be satisfactory to both East and West. The search could go on for months—perhaps even years.

Meanwhile, the office would remain vacant, and the peace-making functions of the office paralyzed.

That actually is Khrushchev's major objective.

It would leave the field open for Communist interference in future emergencies such as the one which has kept the Congo in an uproar since the beginning of July.

U.S. observers here give this interpretation of Khrushchev's aim: What he cannot control he will attempt to crush. He has found he cannot control Dag Hammarskjold. Nor can he hope to control any future secretary-general who would be wholly satisfactory to the West. So Khrushchev is attempting to crush the office itself.

Khrushchev is aware that adoption of his proposal to change the structure of the secretariat is impossible.

A structural change such as he has suggested requires a two-thirds majority vote of the General Assembly. And the change in the charter would have to be ratified by two-thirds of the members including all five permanent members of the Security Council. There is no chance of that.

In fact Khrushchev has yet to put forward his suggestion in the form of a formal proposal. But he doesn't have to do that. All he has to do is continue to insist that he and the Communist bloc have no confidence in Hammarskjold.

If he does that long enough and consistently enough, then this historic session of the Assembly will be, as U.S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth has said, a complete washout.

A Devotional For Today

His merciful kindness is great toward us: and the truth of the Lord endureth for ever. Praise ye the Lord. (Psalms 117:2).

Ill-Starred And Ill-Timed

The United States gambled on a space test Sunday and missed. The timing was purposely designed to bring success coincident with the historic U.N. assembly meeting where an unprecedented number of governmental heads are gathered in New York.

Diplomatic Hay On The Side

The Russian proposal to recast the structure of the United Nations appeared Monday to be in for rough sledding. The consensus was that Nikita Khrushchev had sought to weaken the position of Dag Hammarskjold as secretary-general.

Hammarskjold, being stubborn against Soviet pressures, is not pro-Western, has been a particular thorn in Khrushchev's side.

His three-man commission idea, however, seems inept and impractical for the very reason that Khrushchev himself gave over the weekend in rejecting a three-man armament's control commission.

Marquis Childs Too Many Useless Monuments

WASHINGTON—Tourists who pour into this capital almost invariably speak of Washington's broad tree-lined streets and the vistas that Pierre L'Enfant envisioned when he laid out the first plans for the city.

Thus, the sense of space and light, a river with its banks unspoiled by industry, impresses them perhaps as much as the nation's shrines which they dutifully visit.

IT WAS SYMBOLIZED by the attempt, thwarted for the moment at any rate, to build a memorial to Theodore Roosevelt on the island in the Potomac that bears his name.

AS MANY DEVOTED followers of TR pointed out, nothing could be more fitting as a memorial to him than to leave the island bearing his name a green and secluded place.

WITH THE LAST vestiges of the beautiful untouched America of the past rapidly being encroached upon, Congress has shown a strange reluctance to act.

LITTLE RED SAMBO

James Marlow Inez Robb What The Debate Boils Down To

WASHINGTON (AP)—The big TV debate between the presidential candidates—Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy—didn't add much news in the way of ideas but it served at least two useful purposes.

THE REASON PEOPLE in other countries may not see much difference between the candidates came out clearly enough when Nixon agreed the differences between him and Kennedy were not in goals but in the means of achieving them.

To Americans, however, those means—so far as any differences can be distinguished—are the important points in the campaign.

What each man said Monday night and has been saying looks down to this: "I can do it better."

There is nevertheless a rather basic difference in the two men's approach to the goals they point to.

Kennedy would have more government participation in the national life in the years ahead, explaining: "I don't believe in big government but in effective governmental action."

For example, he advocates government aid to boost teachers' salaries and he would set up a medical-care-for-the-aged program operated under the Social Security system.

NIXON IS AGAINST putting medical care under Social Security and he doesn't want the government helping out on teachers' salaries on the grounds that it eventually would lead to governmental interference in education.

Thus there is—as Americans look on the role of government in every day life—a fundamental difference in the philosophy of the candidates in solving present problems.

This difference—although cluttered up with a lot of debate statistics which voters couldn't very well judge, since they don't have the statistics—was made clear by the two men as they attacked each other's arguments.

This was probably the best service the debate offered to those who will base their presidential choice on ideas, programs and attitudes instead of on personality and various forms of prejudice.

One thing neither candidate made clear was just how he was going to get his programs through Congress. It seems likely the Democrats will retain control of both houses of Congress.

The great bulk of the Democrats and Republicans too, is conservative, as was shown in the late summer session which accomplished little and left liberal-minded Kennedy defeated on two major items he wanted: a program of medical care for the aged and a $125 minimum wage.

The best he could offer was the hope that if elected president of a Democratic-run Congress he could expect more cooperation than if Republican Nixon was elected and had to deal with a Congress where Democrats had a majority.

Since Nixon conceded the Democrats will positively retain control of the Senate and could only hope the Republicans would win the House, the best he could offer was the wish he'd make out all right, too.

Around The Rim The Straight Story Is The Best

I used to have a good friend who always went out of his way to help me get a news story.

He was an elderly doctor. He owned and operated the town's most popular hospital and everyone in the county knew him and respected him—alike for his skill as a surgeon and physician and for himself as a fine individual.

Every time there was a bad accident, a shooting, or any other sort of event which brought the victims to his care, Doc would call me on the phone.

I'D MAKE IT A POINT to go to the hospital personally any time he called. It didn't matter if there really wasn't a story in what he had called about.

He used to make news getting pretty tough on me, sometimes. Invariably when I showed up at the hospital, he'd take me to the room of the individual involved in whatever incident had occurred.

Once in the room at the bedside of the patient, Doc would announce: "This is Sam Blackburn. He's a newspaperman. Now you tell him all about it."

Then he'd vanish from the room. WELL, THE HITCH was that a great many times the victim had no desire at all to tell a newspaperman all about it.

In fact, he probably didn't want anything about it in the papers at all. The result was that he'd clam up and getting anything out of him was like blasting through rock.

In this screwball business, there are a great many times when the reporter is a lot better off if he is not recognized.

He has discovered that folk will answer questions much more freely if they are not told that what they say is likely to be in the newspaper. Many times, when I go on a story assignment, I'd just as soon no one knows who I am or what kind of work I do.

This is generally true in stories dealing with violence and law violation. Except for unusual instances, principals in such incidents are not too happy to answer questions. And if they won't answer questions, it makes the job of finding out just what happened pretty rocky.

Of course, from time to time, you run into some extroverted characters neck deep in trouble who will talk your right arm off about it. He'll even boast, many times, about what he has done and about himself. I don't like these fellows, but I have to admit they make my job easier.

A LOT OF FOLK make the mistake of assuming that if they don't talk, no one will know anything happened. This is not the case—ever. And many many times the facts, even though they may be sorry things, are a lot less damaging than the wild distortions which will be circulated if the facts are concealed.

One thing is inevitable. When something happens, someone knows about it. And that someone seldom is a secretive soul. If the facts are not colorful enough to properly garnish his gossip, he'll add his own extra features.

And the upshot is usually a tale which does the principal a thousand times more harm than if the simple facts had been laid before the public. —SAM BLACKBURN

The Basic Vulgarly Of Khrushchev

In view of the obvious rewards for vulgarity, especially in international life, and in poignant regard for the blood sweat by parents in their effort to turn children from little animals into little lords or lady Faustlers, I wouldn't be surprised if some hep reformer didn't start a movement to abolish forks and knives.

Of course, that would be just the beginning. But polished manipulation of table cutlery is one of the cultural hallmarks of man in large portions of the globe. (Chopsticks are here included and equated with forks and knives. In fact, it is birds' nest soup to learn to wield forks and knives as compared to mastery of chopsticks.)

IT IS NIKITA Khrushchev's unabashed vulgarity and Castro's imitation of it that give both men a head start when dealing with a community of men and nations that have, for centuries, been trying to pull themselves up by their boot straps and whatever Emily Post happened to be making the rules at the moment.

Let it be hastily noted here that both the Russian and the Cuban are quite at home among the table appointments of a seven-course banquet, and a good look at both is enough to convince any innocent bystander that neither has missed a course or a bite. If either of these heads of state had to tighten his respective belt, he'd choke to death.

THE BASIC VULGARITY of both men is in their complete insensitivity to anything remotely associated with good taste, good behavior or even, to cop a phrase from the Declaration of Independence, "a decent respect to the opinions of mankind."

Khrushchev's behavior since his arrival in New York is unthinkable in a gentleman or a cultivated man. Of course, no one has more contempt for both than the Russian leader who, with his coarse brutality, thinks it won't be too difficult, one way or another, to bury both categories.

BUT, SINCE IT IS this very streak, unadulterated and a yard wide, that gives Khrushchev such an advantage in international conference, he is not apt to abandon any of his antics. It is just New York's bad luck that the Russian U.N. headquarters on Park Avenue, where Mr. Khrushchev is domiciled, has a balcony.

Balconies have an irresistible attraction for dictators, as all who lived through the era of Mussolini and Hitler will recall. Khrushchev, with a vulgarian's true enjoyment of the role, has been playing an overblown Juliet to newsmen and any spectators gathered in Park Avenue.

FAR FROM CENSURING Khrushchev for his cheap attention-getting tactics, I am convinced that those who must deal with him ought occasionally to adopt his tactics when negotiating with him. It would at least give the element of surprise and offer the Russian a dose of his own medicine.

There is no point in trying to treat him as the average, decently behaved head of state. Khrushchev knows only too well that the advantage is all with him when his opponents, or the men on the other side of the bargaining table, stick to the Marquis of Queensberry rules, much less those laid down by Lord Chesterfield. In any round with Khrushchev, the mental knuckles have to be at least bare, if not sheathed in brass.

IF IMITATION IS the sincerest form of flattery, then let's flatter the Russian leader by tossing out the etiquette books and meeting him on his own ground.

There is an old folk saying that only a skunk can win a match with another skunk. Unfortunately, that is true and unfortunately, the Western world has been trying to deal with Khrushchev by age-old Western standards. Why not scrap 'em and put a brick in the sock? MR. LODGE, says that, if elected to national office, he also going to join the Cabinet in a higher capacity than any American ever held before.

There MAY BE constitutional as well as ethical objections to both these sets of personal ambition. The Vice President's duties as spelled out in the Constitution are not arduous or glamorous.

MR. LODGE is one of the very best men we have in public life today. He didn't seek the Vice Presidency, but he accepted the nomination with a becoming humility which he ought not now to spoil by showing the appetite of a lesser man.

LYNDON JOHNSON may have a technical right to run for Vice President and Senator on the same day, but it's another act of appetite. Public office is the gift of the people. In another sense, it is a call to duty by one's neighbors and countrymen. In either context, it is ungracious to try for more than one's share.

Hal Boyle Comments On The U.N. Scene

WASHINGTON (AP)—Curbstone comments of a Pavement Plato: The United Nations meetings are getting more and more like a bad TV show—you can't always follow the plot, but the commercials sure do come in loud and clear.

The United States certainly could take lessons from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in one thing—how to get rid of a surplus supply of corn.

There is a growing suspicion that Fidel Castro of Cuba doesn't know the difference between 5 o'clock shadow and the hour before midnight.

So many police are guarding the international statesmen gathered here for the U.N. meeting that anyone in Manhattan not wearing a uniform looks like an exhibitionist.

The easiest way to tell a civilian is this: He's the guy without a motorcycle escort.

Khrushchev's threat to make 10 more U.N. speeches has an ominous ring to it. Once he said, "We'll bury you." Now it is becoming obvious how he intends to do this—not with a spade but with oratory.

Demosthenes learned to speak well by putting a pebble in his mouth. Khrushchev has gone him one better. He's trying to do the same thing with a foot.

A lucky accident happened to one of our friends who was listening via television to the Soviet premier's tirade via television. The battery in his hearing aid went dead—at the same time the picture tube blew out.

At last we can get even with Fidel Castro for seizing a billion dollars in U.S. assets in Cuba. We can make Castro, who is a baseball fan, pay his own way to see the World Series.

The city fathers here are considering changing their tourist slogan to "New York is a Summit Festival."

The international crisis has already had this result in one hornet's nest: a broken limb. It looked as if it would be tough getting back to the ground.

After intently watching President Eisenhower's U.N. address, a wife told her husband: "What impressed me most was that like was wearing a vest. So if you want a vest with your new suit, go ahead and buy it."

What are the signs? And what can we do? First, the early symptoms can be such things as a slight blurring of vision, a feeling of "fullness" in the eye or eyes, especially in the morning, or after leaving a dark place. Later halos may appear—rings around lights or bright spots. Afterwards vision can continue to fail, and there can be increasing pain, including headaches. (Not all headaches mean glaucoma, of course; but as glaucoma advances headaches may well accompany it.)

Rather, glaucoma is a matter of pressure inside the eye ball. The eye, you know, is filled with a watery fluid. Normally the fluid flows gradually in and then out again.

If, for one reason or another, pressure begins to build up inside the eyeball, there may at first be no indication that the person can detect. But let this steady pressure continue, and various symptoms begin. Then as the pressure exerts its influence over a long period, ultimately the optic nerve is damaged. When this happens, the result is impaired vision or loss of vision—in plain language, maybe blindness.

Valiant Adds New Models

Valiant offers a more complete line of body styles for 1961 in the low-price, compact car class, in anticipation of even greater demand for more economical American-built cars. The new Valiant has been improved in many ways for operating economy, durability and smoothness of ride. It continues to accent the lines which won it acclaim last year for smart appearance. Valiant this year will offer air-conditioning as an option.

Choir For Boys Planned At Y

Big Spring is going to have a boys' choir. Don Ford, new choir director of the First Methodist Church, will be the director of the choir to be sponsored by the YMCA.

Everett Taylor, program director, said the idea for a choir has been in the works for several years. It waited on an enthusiastic leader. The choir will be open to boys in grades 4-6. The choir will meet between 4:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. each Saturday at the Y. A swim session will follow each rehearsal, lasting until 6:15.

Interested boys may sign up for the program any time, beginning today. The first meeting will be Oct. 1.

Death Sentence On Nude Statue

BUDAPEST (AP)—Communist authorities have passed the death sentence on the nude statue of a male recently set up in a Budapest park. The half-sitting, half-reclining figure will be melted down.

Somebody photographed a girl sitting in the nude's lap and sent it to the Budapest City Council. The newspaper Magyar Nemzet reported other "frivolous jokes" were played daily on the statue.

State Librarian

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Library Commission has named William K. Peace to succeed Witt Harwell as state librarian. Harwell retires Oct. 1. Peace will be acting librarian until the appointment is made permanent.

DEAR ABBY

ASK AGAIN

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: About three weeks ago I met a sailor at a dance. I am 16 and Jim is 19. We liked each other right away and he asked if he could see me again. I asked my mother and she said I couldn't go out with any sailors. I told her I was going to a girl friend's house and I went with him anyway. When I told Jim I lied to go with him he was furious and made me promise I'd never do it again. He asked if he could meet my parents and show them he was respectable. When I asked them if they would please meet the nicest boy I've ever known, but he refuses to see me without my parents' permission. And they refuse to meet him. What should I do?

DEAR HEART-BROKEN: You must accept the decision of your parents even though they are very unfair to condemn this young man and to refuse to meet him. The fact that he will not see you without your parents' permission proves he has character. Ask your parents again; perhaps they'll realize they are wrong and reconsider.

DEAR ABBY: I am fed up with invitations to baby showers, wedding showers and all the other kinds of showers for people I wouldn't know if I saw them on a bus. This has happened to me several times, and I am sick and tired of being told to buy a present for someone who wouldn't recognize me on the street. I am not poor, but I'm not rich, either. I enjoy buying gifts for people I know, but I am fed up on—

BEING TAKEN DEAR BEING: The solution is simple. When you are invited to a shower that gives you the impression that you are being soaked—turn it down.

DEAR ABBY: A girl who works with me recently got a letter from a man she just met, and it was signed, "TRULY YOURS". Now this girl is no kid, but she went fluttering all over the place, showing the letter around like it was a big deal. Isn't it true that most business and formal letters are signed "YOURS TRULY"? Then don't you think "TRULY YOURS" should also be considered impersonal and businesslike? She took it to mean the man was "truly hers", which is ridiculous. The girls at the office want your opinion.

Nixon Called On To Slap Sources Of Religious Bias

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Democratic National Chairman Henry Jackson says Vice President Richard M. Nixon should do more than repudiate anti-Catholic statements attacking Sen. John F. Kennedy. Nixon must also repudiate the source of these statements, Sen. Jackson said.

"Many of those conducting the anti-Catholic campaign are very active for Nixon," Jackson, D-Wash., said Monday at a news conference.

Jackson said Nixon has failed to repudiate sources of anti-Catholic statements against Kennedy.

"I have called upon Mr. Nixon to repudiate men like Dr. Norman Vincent Peale and others," Jackson said. "It is not enough for Mr. Nixon to repudiate the statements unless he repudiates the source. This has not been done. Of course, Dr. Peale, I think, has now repudiated Dr. Peale, but there are others."

Jackson has dissociated himself from a statement issued by a group of Protestant clergymen voicing doubt whether a Catholic could serve as president without church pressures.

Red Paradise

VIENNA (AP)—Sofia, capital of Communist-ruled Bulgaria, has had no fruits or vegetables for several days. The Communist party newspaper Rabotnichesko reported that the city's director of supply figured the local needs were less than they were scheduled to, and some collective farms could not make deliveries because they did not have enough baskets.

Dixie Demos Give First Round To Jack

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Southern Democratic governors today gave Sen. John F. Kennedy the first round in his television debates with Vice President Richard M. Nixon in their battle for the presidency.

Most of them at the Southern Governors Conference here felt Kennedy had improved his chances of carrying the South by his aggressiveness before the cameras Monday night.

Govs. John Patterson of Alabama and Buford Ellington of Tennessee, both staunch Kennedy supporters, said they thought he was more sure of himself than Nixon.

But Gov. Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia, the lone Republican at the conference, said he didn't think either candidate had scored a knockout blow. Underwood said he thought Nixon was "too polite" to his opponent and that neither seemed to televise too well.

Gov. Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina agreed it was no knock-out blow, although he gave Kennedy the first round. "Kennedy pressed the fight," he said. "And Nixon acted like the accused."

The governors agreed that the TV program definitely had set a new pattern for political campaigning.

Gov. Price Daniel of Texas said he thought the TV debates would have a great impact on the voters. So did Underwood and Patterson although Underwood said the camera hadn't exactly given a true picture of either candidate.

"Nixon looked older on TV than he does in person," Underwood said. Kennedy looked like a school boy.

Underwood said he thought Nixon was more restrained than I felt he should have been.

"I think Kennedy was more sure of himself," Ellington said. "Nixon appeared a little uneasy." Patterson said Nixon simply was faced with "a pretty tough job of defending seven years of Republican administration."

Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina said, "Nixon looked like he had been sick. Kennedy spoke forthrightly and kept Nixon on the defensive most of the time."

Tides Decision

WASHINGTON (AP)—Florida's attorney general Richard W. Ervin Monday urged the Supreme Court to reconsider its May 31 decision limiting the offshore boundaries to Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama to only 3 1/2 miles in the Gulf of Mexico while the Gulf boundaries of Florida and Texas were set at 10 1/2 miles from their coastlines.

Not Great Debate, But Enlightening

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television - Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The two candidates for president, Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. John F. Kennedy, had their historic television encounter Monday night. It did not turn out to be a great debate, full of oratory and emotion, but it was highly dramatic in its earnest, dignified and low key tone.
And it was enlightening to the average citizen.
The four major broadcasting networks collaborated wisely to present the two men in the starkest surrounding. There was nothing to distract the viewer's attention from the candidates. Only the backs of the heads of the network representatives who questioned the two were visible.
Nixon wore a light suit and a solid color light tie. Kennedy was in a dark suit with a solid color dark tie. Neither wore any jewelry or even a handkerchief in the breast pocket, and after the first camera shot showing the whole stage, the cameras focused in closeups on the faces of the candidates as they were talking and—often more interesting—as they were listening intently.

Nixon at the outset looked strained and nervous. The studio lights, in fact, picked up gleams of perspiration on forehead and chin.
But if Nixon looked taut, Kennedy appeared excessively fresh. Both relaxed as the program went on.
They obviously had done their homework thoroughly. Each had his statistics, circumstances and dates well in mind, and was able to rove freely through the mine field of issues from farm problems to the intricacies of budget balancing with frequent stops in between.
The atmosphere throughout was crisp, extremely formal and extremely polite. Neither man permitted himself even a flash of annoyance—or of humor, for that matter.
Nixon did suggest at one point that in terms of experience, his own had been in the executive branch of the government while his opponent's was in the legislature. To this Kennedy replied, that although there was a question of experience there was also one of judgment of the future, adding that history showed there was no certain road leading to the presidency. But this was the closest they came to personal give and take. The rest was on a very high level.
If nothing else, the meeting of the men demonstrated that, where domestic issues are concerned, both men agree generally on the nation's goals. Their disagreement—as Nixon stated a number of times—lies in the means to reach the goals.
Perhaps the panel of network newsmen assigned to question the candidates were hamstrung by the ground rules or awed by their responsibilities, but none of their queries showed much imagination or served as anything more than a springboard for more discussion in areas the candidates seemed to prefer: social welfare legislation, farm surpluses, budget.

Neither candidate said anything he hasn't often said before, and probably said with more color, force and vigor. But also never before have two candidates stood together before millions of voters to state their cases. It was a memorable hour of television. The question now is what affect will it have on the viewer-voter?

Much Of State Receives Rain

By The Associated Press
Rain continued to fall over much of Texas early Tuesday and the Weather Bureau called for showers throughout the day over a wide area.
Days of steady rains dumped up to 5.88 inches at Marshall near the Texas-Louisiana line and Longview got 3.97 inches Monday to bring its 2-day total to near 6 inches.
Drizzle, mist, fog, heavy rains and thick clouds have covered portions of the state for days. And cloudy to partly cloudy skies were forecast for much of Texas Tuesday.

Early in the day rain and drizzle and overcast skies were reported from Midland and Childress eastward through North Central and Northwestern Texas. Texarkana had a thunderstorm at 4 a.m. In South Texas skies were cloudy to partly cloudy and fog formed around Amarillo. But in most sections of the Panhandle and South Plains skies were clear.
Early morning temperatures ranged from 49 at Dalhart to 71 at Galveston.
Tyler, in East Texas, has recorded 3.25 inches of rain in 48 hours.
Rainfall totals for the 24-hour period ending at 6 p.m. Monday included Sherman 1.24 inches, Abilene 1.08, Wichita Falls .96, Mineral Wells .96, Austin .71, Fort Worth .37, Dallas .25, San Angelo .17, Beaumont .05 and Lufkin .05. Abilene has received 18.25 inches of rainfall this year—1.10 inches above the average normal rainfall.

A Subdued Castro At United Nations

Editor's Note—Robert Berrellez, a Spanish-speaking native of Arizona and a member of The Associated Press Staff, has reported daily on Fidel Castro throughout the leader's revolutionary's spectacular regime and has toured with him in Cuba and the United States. Now at the United Nations, where Castro Monday bowed into the diplomatic big leagues on the Red team with a 4½-hour speech, Berrellez gives this closeup view.
By ROBERT BERRELLEZ
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—It was a relatively subdued Fidel Castro who addressed the U.N. General Assembly Monday.
It was not an address that will be endorsed by the Daughters of the American Revolution. But the 4½-hour blast against the United States lacked much of the usual fire.
The Cuban revolutionary chief-tain never reached the towering, incoherent rage that comes over him when he opens up against the United States in his speeches back home.
The fact that the audience—except for the Soviet and Cuban delegates—did not respond at Cuban audiences do may have been a factor in Castro's failure to reach his explosive peak. Castro thrives on a big cheering section.
There were perceptible halts in his oratory when he gave the impression he was waiting for the familiar revolutionary chants that punctuate his speeches in Havana.
He also might have been acutely aware that his audience contained people whom he considered unfriendly. The strapping lawyer-revolutionary seems incapable of tolerating criticism or opposition.
If the explosiveness was lacking, the usual mannerisms he employs to dramatize his remarks were not. He jabbed the air with his fingers and went into the familiar sawing gestures with both arms. But it was like a symphony orchestra conductor leading a string quartet.
There was perhaps another factor in the Cuban chief-tain's failure to blast off in usual style. The reception he has received in New York so far, including in Harlem, has been far under what he probably anticipated. This could have dampened his spirits.

Although he has emphasized that he feels more at home in Harlem among the "poor and humble folk," the response from his new neighbors has been lukewarm. The noisy pro-Castro demonstrations by Cubans, Puerto Ricans and Dominican exiles in the city have attracted only a few Harlem Negroes.
There is a noticeable difference in the Castro of today and the one who came to the United States in April 1959.
Strained relations between the United States and Cuba may be largely responsible for his virtual isolation in his suite. He has said he doesn't want to create problems for the security forces around him. But under similar circumstances Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has been holding regular and irregular press conferences.
In the sole instance so far that Castro permitted U.S. newsmen to question him, he appeared ill at ease and restless. His attempts to be the self-assured, jovial figure he cut for the American press in 1959 appeared to be forced.

To Go Ahead With Sky Spy
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Secretary of the Air Force Dudley C. Sharp says this nation is going ahead with plans to launch a sky-spy satellite without knowing what the Soviet Union's reaction will be.
Sharp, here for a tour of Air Force facilities, told a news conference Monday: "We must have some way to protect ourselves against surprise attack. It's a matter of self-preservation."
Sharp said that he does not think space belongs to any country any more than the oceans do.

'Black Book' Strong Stuff, Even For Hardened Adults

THE BLACK BOOK. By Lawrence Sanders. Dutton, $4.95.
Durrell's "Alexandria Quartet," and especially its opening work, "Justine," that astounding parade of sensuality, have risen to leading positions in contemporary fiction. They came to us rapidly in only the last three years or so. But this Englishman had done a lot of other writing—it books are listed—and the one with which he launched his career almost a quarter century ago is the one that, with misgiving, is called to your attention today.
It was printed originally in Paris by Olympia Press, which also gave us Nabokov's "Invitation to a Beheading" and "Invitation to a Marriage." It could not conceivably have been made available to Americans in the innocent 1930s. Indeed it could hardly ever have been released here before this ultra-sophisticated 1960. This is strong medicine, no children admitted, and in fact only the most hardened adults.
There are some characters outside in everything—Chamberlain, Clare, Lobo, Tarquin, Hilda, the tart Grace, men, women and in between. In form it's the story of Lawrence Lucier who moves into a basement lodging in London once occupied by Herbert Gregory, whose diary, or "Black Book," fills out Lucier's own rabid observations, experiences and reflections on sex, death, sex and individuality, sex, death sex and individuality. It doesn't need to be pointed out. I'm sure, in Durrell's case, that this is not purposely sensational. If there is a preoccupation with the body, there is also an implacable, denunciation of it—infinitely outmoded, second-hand, risks like bagpipes and so on. The point of the book is that precisely the liberties the author brazenly takes serve to define the nature and extent of his revolt against dear old smug England, from which in fact he fled to the lush Mediterranean world. Gregory killed himself with words, we learn—and a lot of them, which you'll not find in any desk dictionary, could about be the death of you, too.
It's too gory, but it's a lot more than smut; it's valiant, and full of brush guffaws, and it scintillates and dazzles.

2 Cops Slashed By Deranged Man

DALLAS (AP)—Two Dallas policemen were slashed Monday night by a man who police said was mentally deranged.
The officers, Thomas Willingham, 25, and Harvey Barham, 28, were released from a hospital after treatment.
The 35-year-old man was captured a few minutes after he left the officers bleeding beside their patrol car.
After psychiatric examination at Parkland Hospital the man was pronounced temporarily insane and placed under arrest. Doctors said he probably would regain his sanity.
