Chicago Woman's Car Hits Crowd Of Pedestrians, 5 Die

CHICAGO (AP)—A car driven by a woman who said she blacked out jumped a sidewalk and ripped through a crowd of pedestrians Thursday night, killing five and hurling their bodies across a busy downtown intersection. Three persons, including the driver, were injured. Dead and injured were thrown 25 feet as the car scooped up pedestrians and careened across the intersection at Randolph and Franklin Sts., at the west edge of the Loop. Hundreds of homeward-bound persons in the evening rush hour watched in horror. All five victims lived in west suburban communities. One of the fatally injured pedestrians was sprayed with boiling tar when the careening car struck a two-wheeled heating cart towed by a roofing firm truck. The car, carrying some victims on its hood, then struck another car and both veered side by side out of control.

One body was found Jan. 1 beneath the second car which finally smashed to a halt against a row of cars in a parking lot. The woman's car ended its path of carnage by smashing into a curb. Witnesses said most of the victims were waiting to cross the street and had their backs to the cars. F. Y. Mellen said: "This car passed me going like a bat out of hell. There were three or four guys standing on the corner and they went flying end over tea kettle." The driver of the car that police said triggered the tragedy was Bette Gillespie, 25, a home economist for a utility company. Miss Gillespie, daughter of former Chicago Alderman Joseph Gillespie, told police she started to halt behind a bus when she "blacked out, and woke up in the hospital." Romie Gilkey, 42, driver of the second car, said he was crossing the intersection "when something hit me. It was going so fast it looked like an airplane." Police said both drivers suffered from shock. Dead were Carl Matre, 61, of Des Plaines; Leslie M. Miles, 63, of West Chicago; Carl A. Berggren, of Glen Ellyn; Carby Alward, 44, of La Grange; and Harold Murphy, 49, of Glen Ellyn.

Witnesses Tell Of Beating Case

JUNCTION (AP)—Witnesses at the murder trial of rancher Frank C. Davis Thursday told of a car crash and a fight which led to the murder charge against Davis. The rancher is charged with the beating death of James Drought, a San Antonio attorney, Feb. 15 in San Antonio. Drought died two days later. Both men were 51 years old at the time the incident is alleged to have taken place.

U. S. Engineers Understaffed On Federal Highway Program

By BEM PRICE
Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Bureau of Public Roads has an annual budget of $29.5 million and employs 1,122 engineers, including 150 bridge engineers. With this engineer force the bureau is supposed to exercise supervision over the greatest state-federal road building program in history. Over the past four years the states and the federal government have spent $10 billion on highways and authorized the expenditure of another $10 billion. Since mid-1956 over 40,000 road contracts have been executed and 10,000 are currently in force. When the bureau was charged only with the supervision of the regular primary, secondary and urban road programs, its 1,122-man engineer force seemed adequate. This is the program to which the states and the federal government contribute on a 50-50 basis. But in 1956 Congress set up a huge new program to build 41,000 miles of superhighways over a 20-year period and told the bureau to supervise this program, too, without any increase in engineers. Under this program the federal government pays 90 per cent of the cost. Bureau engineers have to approve the design, plans and specifications for roads in both programs. Further, they are expected to conduct on-the-spot inspections to see that all is going according to contract. In the past four years the engineers have inspected over 135,000 miles of highways and 2,900 bridges. This is a back-breaking chore for such a limited force of engineers. At best, a federal engineer can inspect each job in his district once a month. The inspection may last a day, and in that day he is supposed to check grades, take samples of materials, consult the state's project engineer on special problems, and generally see that the federal government is getting its money's worth. STATE HELP While the federal engineers have to rely heavily on the state's project supervisors and hope the contractor is living up to his agreement. Breakup of a million-dollar highway at Lordsburg, N. M., indicates that federal engineers can't always tell whether a highway is well built just by looking. While the federal government is withholding payment of $200,000 on the Lordsburg project, the fact remains that federal engineers gave preliminary approval to the work. The Bureau of Public Roads did spot the developing land scandals in Massachusetts where selected rights-of-way properties, so the report goes, were overpriced. When the need developed for an investigation, the bureau gave the job to a consulting firm. Critics complained that the federal government shouldn't farm out its investigative chores. BUREAU POSITION The bureau takes the position that the states have their own inspectors and engineers, and for the federal government to set up a more extensive supervisory system would be a duplication of effort. The bureau says it does not feel obligated to question state records as a rule, that it assures these records are accurate and submitted in good faith. Bertram D. Tallamy, the bureau's chief administrator, put the viewpoint in focus last May when he testified before a congressional subcommittee. "The bureau and the states act as coordinating agencies. That is required by federal law. The state initiates projects and presents them to the bureau for consideration. After review, if the bureau concurs, there is a complete meeting of the minds as to exactly what is to be accomplished and how. The state has responsibility for construction," Tallamy said. ROUTINE INSPECTIONS The bureau does have a project examination division which is supposed to act as a sort of roving police inspection force. There are 27 people on its staff. With Congress' permission, the bureau hopes to expand the division to 40. To questions about the adequacy of its supervision, the bureau says other federal agencies are also in the act—the General Accounting Office, the Department of Justice, and Congress. From the time the General Accounting Office actually audits a state's highway program until it reports to Congress, about two years elapse. The Department of Justice usually acts only when requested to do so by the bureau or upon formal complaint. Congress began scanning the highway programs last year through the House Roads subcommittee headed by Rep. John Blatnick, D-Minn. It has held two major hearings. BLAME THE BUREAU While there is a tendency in Congress to blame the bureau for the ills besetting the highway programs, it must be noted that Congress set up the ground rules, established the state-federal relationships, and gave to the states the responsibility for actual road building. If any charge can be leveled against bureau operations, it would be the exhibition of certain bureaucratic tendencies. Though the bureau disclaims responsibility, it was a participant in one of Washington's prize muddles. After the superhighway program began, the question arose whether certain defense items, such as missiles, could pass beneath route interchanges and bridges. For years the bureau had adhered to a 14-foot vertical clearance standard, with Department of Defense approval. KICKED QUESTION When the bureau wrote the Defense Department for a later opinion, the Pentagon kicked the question around for two years and then said it needed 17 feet. After consideration by the Department of Commerce, the bureau's boss, this defense requirement was arbitrarily reduced to 16 feet. Meanwhile, the bureau had approved construction of 800 bridges at the 14-foot clearance figure. To raise these 800 bridges to meet the 16-foot standard, the bureau estimates would cost $176 million. As missile technology advances, missiles are becoming smaller and it is now hoped that 14 feet will be adequate. When the bureau was asked why it hadn't taken action unilaterally to raise vertical clearances, it replied that such a decision would not have been appropriate, that this was Defense Department business and not its own. # Diligently Pray For The Work of Your Church

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

I call Bruce my combination angel-terror. Soon he will be four, and he is a fascinating mixture of mischief and goodness.

At bedtime, I always tiptoe into his room to be sure he's covered. Then it is that I am struck by the innocence of his face in sleep. Then it is that I realize how helpless is this small dynamo, who plunges with such boundless energy about our house and yard all day. Then it is that I am struck by the awesomeness of my responsibility.

I realize it is entirely up to me to see that Bruce learns right from wrong, to see that he grows into the sort of man who will be a credit to his family, his community, and his country. I must teach him to keep a steady heart and a level head, to resist the many temptations that will be strewn in his path, to hold honor and truth and integrity high.

When I think of my task, I send a small and special prayer to God to aid me. And I thank God for his Church on earth which, for years to come, will be helping me, again and again, in making my small mischief into a man.

An attractive Tom Green County girl will represent 17 counties in this area in the state finals of the 1960 Texas Farm Bureau queen contest, Nov. 10 in Dallas. She is Carolyn Ratliff, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ratliff, San Angelo. Miss Ratliff was selected District 6 queen in a contest held Sept. 2 at Big Spring. At the state contest, which will be held in conjunction with the 27th annual convention of the Texas Farm Bureau, she will compete with 12 other district winners for the state title. The winner will receive $500 to cover expenses for herself and a matron escort attending the American Farm Bureau Federation convention in Denver.

A junior in San Angelo Central High School, Miss Ratliff was a member of her county 4-H Club for six years and served as district treasurer one year. She is also active in Tri-Hi-Y, having served in one of the local organizations for over a year.

The comely Farm Bureau queen says her main interest is music. She has taken piano lessons for several years and is now taking voice lessons. In addition, she likes speech and dramatics, and her main hobby is sewing.

She says after finishing high school she plans to attend San Angelo Junior College and later a senior college and major in elementary education. She hopes to be a teacher.

Mexican Economy Free Of Generals On Horseback

By J. A. LIVINGSTON
MEXICO CITY—When the peso was devalued in 1954, there was a run—not on the banks to get money, but on Sears, Roebuck & Co., to get goods.

People feared a shortage of American merchandise. They feared that the 31 per cent slash in the dollar value of the peso would reduce imports from the United States. Yet, about 90 per cent of the products they were so anxiously buying were made in Mexico.

Many Mexicans are unaware of the nation's economic accomplishments. They suffer from an inferiority heritage. Foreign interventions—Spanish, French, and American—and the frequent fawning on foreign officials and business men of self-serving dictators have put Mexican pride at a discount.

SONS ABROAD
Well-to-do, aristocratic Mexicans, often of Spanish descent, still are xenophiles. They send their sons and daughters abroad for an education and their wealth (capital) for investment—usually to France, England, or the U.S. Mexico isn't good enough.

In its early days, La Consolidada steel found that customers distrusted the "made in Mexico" stamp on its products. The imprimatur was left off; it hurt sales. Mexican steel couldn't be as good as American steel, yet Americans founded and ran the company.

The efforts of government leaders to instill pride in country sometimes leads to hard-to-understand behavior.

When floods engulfed Tampico on the East Coast in 1955, American aid was gratefully accepted. Yet, four years later, when a hurricane wrecked the West Coast city of Manzanillo, the Mexican government insisted it could take care of its own and threatened to impose duties on Red Cross shipments.

OTHER ACTIONS
Likewise, President Aleman refused to send Mexican troops into Korea in a gesture of independence of the United States. And some officials have evinced sentimental support of Castro in expatriating American property in Cuba.

Yet—and this is more important—on the United Nations balloting to admit Communist China, Mexico voted "No."

To build confidence of Mexicans in Mexico, the leaders of modern Mexico are improving the civil service. The day when anyone and everyone had his price is gone.

Mexican government employees are polite—but not deferential or obsequious to foreigners. They regard themselves as administrators, not recipients of favors—even though Mexico requires foreign capital urgently.

This urgency explains why successive secretaries of the treasury have kept the peso a "free currency." It can be converted into dollars or pounds or francs on demand. If foreigners feared they could not get their money out of Mexico, they'd not put money in. The economic plans of President Adolfo Lopez Mateos would fail without a flow of foreign, particularly U.S., funds.

SHARP DROP-OFF
Immediately after congressional leader Sanchez Piedras said the Mexicans sympathized with the Cuban revolution, there was a sharp drop-off in investment undertakings by American firms in Mexico.

Would Mexico confiscate foreign property without due process of law and compensation? Carl D. Rosa, of Mexico City, publisher of the "Investors' Mexican Letter," got out a special release on the subject to reassure scared subscribers. He said, and so far he has been right, that the scare would subside.

Mexico is one of the fastest growing countries in North America and in the world. Its population is expanding at a high annual rate (perhaps too high), 2.8 per cent. But the gross national product, in real terms, has been pushing forward at a 5.6 per cent annual rate. Thus, real per capita income is rising—but poverty is still a problem, especially outside the big industrial cities.

CONFIDENCE
The International Bank of Re-

Construction and Development, the International Monetary Fund, and American financial interests, including insurance companies, have shown confidence in this growth with large credits to protect the peso.

As much as any cause for confidence is this often unnoted fact: Mexico's last three Presidents have been civilians. The "general on horseback"—the commander of the troops—is no longer the chief of domestic policy. This is new. It augurs an era of political stability, the sine qua non of long-term economic growth and a rising standard of living.

(This is the third of four articles on the Mexican economy; the final article will appear Sunday.)

Suit Victim Sues Back, Collects

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—When Uncle Sam slapped a suit against her, an angry Gloria Mosby sued right back and emerged the winner by $2,290.

Miss Mosby visited a friend being treated at a veterans' hospital last February. They got into an argument and he shot her, for which he subsequently was sent to jail for 15 years.

The three bullet wounds put her in the same hospital for 10 days and the government handed her a $210 medical bill.

When Miss Mosby wouldn't pay, the government sued. She sued back—for $10,000, charging the government was negligent in letting her assailant sneak a gun into the hospital.

A federal judge Thursday granted her $2,500 damages, minus the $210 hospital bill.

When floods engulfed Tampico on the East Coast in 1955, American aid was gratefully accepted. Yet, four years later, when a hurricane wrecked the West Coast city of Manzanillo, the Mexican government insisted it could take care of its own and threatened to impose duties on Red Cross shipments.

Like-wise, President Aleman refused to send Mexican troops into Korea in a gesture of independence of the United States. And some officials have evinced sentimental support of Castro in expatriating American property in Cuba.

Yet—and this is more important—on the United Nations balloting to admit Communist China, Mexico voted "No."

To build confidence of Mexicans in Mexico, the leaders of modern Mexico are improving the civil service. The day when anyone and everyone had his price is gone.

Mexico is one of the fastest growing countries in North America and in the world. Its population is expanding at a high annual rate (perhaps too high), 2.8 per cent. But the gross national product, in real terms, has been pushing forward at a 5.6 per cent annual rate. Thus, real per capita income is rising—but poverty is still a problem, especially outside the big industrial cities.

Cadillac

First of a thousand happy hours!

Forgive him if he takes the long way home today. For the temptation is always great when the day is fine—and the car is Cadillac—and the name on the title is yours.

The first thing he senses, as he glides out onto the boulevard, is comfort. The car is so generous in its interior dimensions that he can really relax.

And what a wonderful outlook he has on the world about him! Wherever he looks, he finds himself surrounded by a panorama of vision.

Then, as the miles float by, the car's brilliance in motion begins to unfold.

Cadillac's improved power steering, he finds, has taken the last degree of effort out of handling. Its great new engine is a veritable symphony of controlled power and precision. And its new ride is smooth and quiet almost beyond belief.

And the wonder of it is that, if he is like most owners, he'll enjoy more than a thousand such delightful hours before a single year has passed.

In fact, it is doubtful that, in all the world of possessions, there is another that provides its owner such lasting pleasure—in such constant measure—as a new Cadillac car.

Have you thought of someday adding a Cadillac to your happiness?

This is the perfect season—and an early order will assure you a full year with the current model. Reason enough, we'd say, to visit your authorized Cadillac dealer tomorrow.

Mrs. Nebat Karol, of Ankara, Turkey, a guest, spoke to the women, telling them of the lack of clubs in her country. The reason, she said, is the proximity of Russia to Turkey and the ever-constant fear of the infiltration of Communists into every activity of her native land. Gatherings of all kinds are closely observed by the government and inspected at any time, she stated.

MOTHER'S SORROW

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Seven years ago my little girl of nine died suddenly. She was my only daughter and I haven't been the same since. Abby, am I wrong to ask my husband to move? Her playmates live all around us and need I tell you how I feel watching them grow, year after year? I can't hold back the tears when I meet them, so I avoid them (poor darlings). My husband says he's put so much money into this house and feels that I'll get over it. I've been trying to forget but how does a mother forget? He says he wants to teach me to be strong like a million other mothers who have lost a child. I know I'll be happier if we move—then I won't see her bedroom and the chair she curled up in to watch TV, and her empty place at the dining room table. Please, please, Dear Abby, am I asking too much to move?

DEAR MOTHER: You are not asking too much. New surroundings, no matter how plain, would be better than the old reminders. I hope your husband will see it your way and consent to move.

ter or for worse". . . plan on marrying for GOOD!

North Texas Gets Shower

By The Associated Press

Thunder showers and light rains fell on portions of North Central and Northeastern Texas early Friday.

The showers were touched off by a weak cool front that edged into the state Thursday night. Scattered showers fell over Texas early Thursday but by nightfall the rains had ceased.

Rainfall totals for the 24 hours ending at 6 p.m. included .02 inches at Laredo and Alpine and .01 at Victoria.

Temperatures early Friday ranged from 46° at Dallas to 75° at Laredo and Brownsville. The highs Thursday varied from 90° at Presidio to 77° at Galveston.

The Weather Bureau at Corpus Christi said some flooding from heavy rains at Kennedy earlier in the week would occur along the San Antonio River which is expected to crest at 32 to 36 feet at Goliad Saturday.

Disabled Workers Can Get Benefits

About 125,000 disabled workers under age 50 and their families are now eligible for social security disability insurance benefits, according to H. P. Thomas, district manager of the Odessa social security office. Before recent changes in the law, only people between 50 and 65 could receive disability payments. People under 50 years of age could have their earnings records frozen, but could not collect benefits.

Thomas said that most persons under 50 who had their social security records frozen had been contacted by his office, and steps taken to start the payment of their benefits.

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a guy who says he would like to have about six kids, but he doesn't care for marriage. He doesn't mean he never wants to get married. He means he thinks he would like to be a father but he wouldn't care to be a husband. (Am I making myself clear?) He says that the women today are just looking for a meal ticket and once they "pull a guy they take it easy. If I had the chance I know I could prove to him that I wasn't that kind. How can I get him to marry me?"

DEAR WANT: If you're lucky, you'll get him to leave you alone. A man who wants all the dividends but is reluctant to make the initial investment is a poor risk.

Lodge Enjoys Debate At College Speech

CLEVELAND (AP) — Henry Cabot Lodge headed east today after a brisk campaign swing through this area highlighted by a lively debate with students at the Western Reserve University campus.

The Republican vice-presidential candidate obviously enjoyed the exchange with WRU and Case Institute of Technology students Thursday.

Hecklers among the largely partisan crowd of 2,000 interrupted Lodge at the start of his 10-minute speech but were told, "I don't mind the interruptions; it reminds me of the United Nations."

The sharpest exchange came at the end of a question period. One student had been brandishing near the speaker's platform a home-made sign saying, "What about Fayette County?" On the reverse side was a picture of Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential candidate.

Lodge waved a finger at the sign and said, "I answered that!" He said he had spoken out for a strong civil rights program.

Lodge said he didn't know the details of the Fayette County case. Asked why he didn't know the details, Lodge snapped: "It's all I can do to know what I do know and run for vice president."

The sign apparently referred to Fayette County, Tennessee, where a White Citizens Council is accused of bringing economic pressure in an effort to force 1,000 Negro families out of the predominantly Negro county by 1961.

In a speech Thursday night and in his talk at Western Reserve Lodge again attacked Sen. Kennedy for his statements on foreign policy. He said Kennedy spoke hastily on three issues but later changed his position on all three.

Justice Dept. Claims Pearson Column Has False Innuendoes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department says a column by Drew Pearson contained baseless innuendo against Vice President Richard M. Nixon and others.

In a statement issued late Thursday, it said Pearson had implied that the department agreed to settle an antitrust suit against the Hughes Tool Co., because Hughes' lawyer had made a $205,000 loan to a business venture headed by Nixon's brother.

The department said the antitrust action was proposed and the suit was filed after the loan was made.

Robert N. Finch, Nixon's presidential campaign manager, called Pearson's statements "an obvious political smear in the last two weeks of the campaign." He said any suggestions "that we in any way had anything to do with the Hughes Tool Co. receiving any so-called government benefits is pure libel."

Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., said Thursday night that Pearson's charges in the Hughes case, as well as charges he said the columnist made about Maurice Stans, director of the budget, should be aired before the election.

The senator referred to a Pearson report that Stans has been and indirectly still is a participant in oil royalties from 1,060,000 acres of government oil lands in Alaska.

Kefauver said, "thus far, I have seen no denial by Budget Director Stans of the serious allegations in his case."

Pearson had written that the Hughes suit was settled by a consent decree on April 4, 1958, "after the loan was advanced to the Nixon family." He said the loan transaction was made Dec. 10, 1956.

The Justice Department said its antitrust division proposed the suit July 19, 1957, and that it was filed in New York two weeks later. It said the consent decree came April 4, 1958, and was regarded by the department as entirely satisfactory in enjoining the actions it had objected to on Hughes' part.

At the time of the loan, Pearson wrote, the Hughes firm had various important matters before the government and "many of these problems got better treatment after the loan."

The money was loaned to Nixon, Inc., a restaurant chain then headed by F. Donald Nixon. The chain since has been taken over by creditors. The loan was made out to Hannah M. Nixon, mother of Donald and the vice president. Nixon's campaign manager said the loan came not from Howard Hughes or his company but from Frank J. Waters, whom Finch identified as a California friend of the Nixon family. Pearson wrote that Waters was an attorney for Hughes and "was actually acting for Hughes with the approval and knowledge of the vice president."

DPS Rehires Suspended Cop

AUSTIN (AP)—The Department of Public Safety has rehired one of the eight highway patrolmen it fired last April.

A DPS spokesman said Thursday Weldon Parson, 35, Paris, was reinstated Oct. 13 and assigned to the Houston area. Parson is now on a six-month probationary tour of duty that all new patrolmen must pass.

Parson and seven other patrolmen were dismissed from the force April 21 while Parson was serving in the Denton area. Parson was the only one of the eight who applied for reinstatement, the spokesman said.

Col. Homer Garrison, the DPS chief, said Parson's reinstatement did not mean he was exonerated of the misconduct charges that brought about his dismissal from the patrol.

Mills Makes It To Hollywood--For Baby-Sitting

By BOB THOMAS
 AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Thirty years late, John Mills has made it to Hollywood for—of all things—a job of baby-sitting.

One of England's most distinguished actors, Mills has never made a film in Hollywood.

"Fox wanted me to come here to play in 'Cavalcade,'" he recalled. "It was a temptation. After all, I would have played the role I created in England, which Noel Coward wrote for me."

"But the studio wanted me to sign a straight seven-year deal. That frightened me. I had only been on the stage for 18 months. I decided to stay in England and learn my craft. I remained in the theater for 10 years, and I've never regretted my decision."

What brings him to Hollywood now? None other than his talented daughter Hayley, a sensation as a new "Pollyanna." Mills has enjoyed a rare two-month vacation while his 14-year-old has been making her second film for Walt Disney, "Petticoats and Bluejeans." Her father also starred for Disney in "Swiss Family Robinson," made last year in the West Indies.

Southwest Texas Strutters

Debbie's Debut A Dull Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
 AP-TV Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Debbie Reynolds of the motion pictures made her television debut Thursday night on ABC with a special hour's program that was practically a one-woman show.

Miss Reynolds is a cute, vivacious, sweet-faced young woman who dances well and sings appealingly. But except for a moment here and there, it was a dull and uninspired hour.

Her imitation of Zsa Zsa Gabor doing a little cooking and laundry was amusing and her solo impression of a teen-ager on her first date was another bright spot. Walter Brennan and Charles Ruggles turned up in a tedious sketch which didn't improve when they all sang and danced. The sets were undistinguished, the music and dance numbers were pedestrian.

We have been hearing about the large amount of money spent for the program—$250,000 to $300,000 were the figures mentioned—and the program was alleged to have taken much work to put together.

Neither the expenditures nor the effort showed.

THE FRONT ROW

By Bob Smith

Avery Falkner has another feather in his cap.

The Big Spring artist, now a junior art major at ACC, won a $250 scholarship from the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs for achievements in art.

Falkner for the past two years has been a featured artist at the Abilene Museum of Fine Arts in that institution's all-college show. Locally, his paintings are currently the feature at the Sand's Restaurant exhibition.

Falkner's award was one of four made in as many Texas colleges. The other schools were H-SU, North Texas and Tech.

Scholarships were given on the basis of creative ability and efforts toward furthering art.

Las Artistas members are eligible to compete in the annual TFAA show at Laguna Gloria Nov. 6 through Dec. 10.

To be eligible, a member must have dues paid by Nov. 1, and all works must be original. Only one work will be accepted from each entrant.

On the jury will be Otis Dozier, well-known painter who now teaches at the Dallas Museum of Fine Arts; and Roberta M. Alford, chairman of the art department at Newcomb College, Tulane University.

Purchase prizes and awards range from $50 to $35.

Details may be had from the Laguna Gloria Gallery, 3009 W. 35th St., Austin.

Gil Shine, advance agent for the Oberammergau Passion Play, spent an evening recently studying the two scripts I have written for the local Easter pageant.

He noted that, in places, my narration reads almost work-for-word with sections of the Oberammergau narrative. (Naturally, the Biblical portions would be the same, considering they all come from the same source.)

Also, there were some scenes and techniques which I had included in the local scripts, but which weren't used in the Easter pageants, but which are used in the Oberammergau script.

One question that had plagued me was how the passion play script gets around the Lord's Prayer for a mixed audience, see—

More Threats Than Tricks On Halloween

NEW YORK (AP)—There will be more threats than tricks on television during the Halloween weekend, including one NBC special called "Ghosts, Goblins and Kids." It's set for Sunday night, 9-10 (EST) on NBC, and maybe it will keep the youngsters home.

CBS has a treat which is also a little tricky in its family classics series which bows in tonight (7:30-9:30 EDT) with an adaptation of "The Scarlet Pimpernel," but just the first half of the story. The second portion will be seen Saturday night, same time, same network.

Sunday will see an extra large helping of special shows. In addition to NBC's Halloween children's special, there is a Walt Disney production of "Zorro" with Guy Williams on ABC (6:30-7:30 EDT); a closeup of the world of a professional football player on the season's premiere of CBS' "Twentieth Century" (6:30-7 p.m.).

On Monday night, ABC's "Expedition" (7:30 EST) will tell the story of a recently discovered sunken ship that went down 3,000 years ago. NBC has another Dean Martin special on Tuesday night (10-11) with—who else?—fellow clan member Frank Sinatra as guest.

Among the regular shows, Gary Moore will play host to Ed Wynn Tuesday night (CBS, 10-11) and NBC's "Thriller" (9-10) will have Martin Gabel playing the part of a mad teacher about to commit his second murder. On Wednesday, Perry Como (NBC, 9-10) will have Rosemary Clooney as a guest star and CBS' Steel Hour (10-11) is "A Time to Decide" with Nina Foch.
