Conservatives Expected To Win In Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's voters have their say Sunday on conservative Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda's appeal for a mandate against neutralism in the cold war and in favor of the military alliance with the United States.

Ikeda's Liberal-Democratic party is heavily favored over the left-wing Socialist. A forecast of fine weather pointed toward a record turnout among Japan's 54 million registered voters.

They will choose 467 members of the House of Representatives, from which a new government will be formed.

News papers forecast slight gains for the Socialists and the conservatives at the expense of the moderate Democratic Socialists.

Much interest has centered on the latter party's future. Its members split off from the Socialists a year ago. Its leaders bitterly criticized leftist violence and supported democratic institutions during the Nixon-Kennedy style television debates that gave an American flavor to the three-week campaign.

MAJOR TESTS

The balloting provides the first major test of sentiment on the turbulent events that jarred world confidence in Japan's young democracy — street rioting that forced cancellation of President Eisenhower's visit in June and the assassination of Socialist party leader Inejiro Asanuma last month.

Ikeda has billed the election as a referendum on the central issue behind the June riots — continued military alliance with the United States.

To gain the mandate Ikeda is seeking, the conservatives have to win heavily and exceed their traditional postwar 2-to-1 margin over the leftist opposition.

DOUBT

Despite the political arguments, there still was doubt on how strongly foreign policy has influenced voters in the rural areas, which normally are conservative. Distrust of big-city Socialists is traditional there, and the people tend to vote on the basis of personalities and the complicated network of family and local obligations the Japanese call "giri."

Last July Ikeda succeeded Nobusuke Kishi after Kishi had resigned under widespread criticism for his tactics in ramming the U.S.-Japanese Security Treaty through Parliament. After four months of bolstering his reputation as a brainy economist and a flexible, reasonable leader, Ikeda dissolved Parliament and asked the voters to boost his party's 283-member strength in the House of Representatives to at least 312.

OLD LINEUP

When the old house was dissolved last month, this was the lineup: Liberal-Democrats 283, Socialists 122, Democratic Socialists 40, independents 2, Communists 1, vacancies 19.

STORIES CONFLICT

Top Communist Meeting Is Closing

MOSCOW (AP)—The Communist world's summit meeting was reported drawing to a close Saturday after an unusually long session. It opened 10 days ago. But not all sources were unanimous on progress. Some said talks still are under way on whether to take a tougher line in the cold war against the West.

The first indication that the marathon meeting may be ending was the departure Saturday of President Antonin Novotny of Czechoslovakia for Prague. Some sources, however, said Novotny went home for other reasons and that the Communist meeting continued without him.

CONNECTION

(In Budapest, the Hungarian Radio announced the Hungarian Parliament will meet in special session Dec. 1. Although no announcement was made about the Moscow meeting, it seemed likely the Hungarian Parliament session was connected with the summit talks.)

The immediate issue is a dispute within the Communist world on how to come up with a formula satisfactory to both Moscow and Peking on the theory that whether to take a harder line against the West and force the issue on such problems as West Berlin.

Some leaders in Red China have been criticized here for insisting on a hard line. The opposing view, shared by Soviet Premier Khrushchev, is that peaceful coexistence with the capitalist states is essential to avoid nuclear war and permit what the exponents believe will be a slower, certain victory for communism.

An area murder case may have been cleared with the arrest of two Latin-Americans at Lamesa. Officers had a confession from Alfredo Gonzales that he shot and killed Herman E. REACH OUTCOME

From such a pronouncement on Communist ideology Westerners might read the outcome of a dispute on Communist strategy—whether to take a harder line against the West and force the issue on such problems as West Berlin.

The opposing view, shared by Soviet Premier Khrushchev, is that peaceful coexistence with the capitalist states is essential to avoid nuclear war and permit what the exponents believe will be a slower, certain victory for communism.

CRASH REPORTED ON EAST IS 20

Highway patrolmen reported a minor accident occurred on East IS 20 Saturday morning, but damage was limited to only skinned fenders and broken head lights.

The mishap occurred on the North service road at the Moss Creek Lake road. Laura B. Burrow, 1100 E. 13th, and Ray Leon Tully, Webb AFB, were drivers involved. Apparently, both motorists were being watchful of a third car, when they collided.

The United Fund is snapping on its "afterburner" in an effort to try to end its campaign successfully this week. The metropolitan division and Webb AFB have gone over their targets, and some other divisions are getting close. If all contacts are made, it is possible to reach the $98,000 goal.

Another distinguished visitor is scheduled for Dec. 12 when Clarice Kline, president of the National Education Association, spends a day in the schools here. She will be the first NEA president to visit this area.

An Intent Listener

President-elect John F. Kennedy, right, was an intent listener in Austin, Tex., as Rep. Sam Rayburn, Speaker of the House of Representatives, talks with him just prior to his return to Florida. Pentagon May Get Shuffled

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy Saturday began Pentagon reorganization talks with the goal of saving taxpayers some money while gearing the nation's military might more closely to the nuclear-space age.

The talks were with Sen. Stuart Symington, the Missouri Democrat Kennedy asked to study and report on how to streamline the Defense Department.

SHAKE UP

What Symington told a news conference Saturday and what Kennedy said during the campaign about economy and modernization of the Pentagon presaged possible recommendations for a far-reaching shakeup in the defense establishment.

Whether Symington, a former Air Force secretary, might get the call to direct a shakeup as the new secretary of defense remained a matter of speculation.

The Missouri senator said it wasn't discussed, that "I would rather stay in the Senate," and that he so told Kennedy last August. But he didn't rule out taking the post should Kennedy insist on it.

The president-elect and Symington, with Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla., present part of the time, talked for an hour and a half in the living room of the Spanish-style Kennedy mansion on the oceanfront.

OLD IDEAS

Symington told a news conference afterward that the Pentagon organization still is based fundamentally on World War II ideas, although there have been three major technological revolutions in national defense since that war.

"Any organization which is based on World War II," he said, "could not possibly be the right type and character of organization to have in the nuclear-space age."

Symington is head of a five-man committee studying the defense structure. Although Kennedy's staff had announced Symington would bring his report along Saturday, the senator said it won't be finished before the end of the month. He said there is disagreement on some points but the committee is trying for unanimity.

INFORMAL

Thus the Kennedy-Symington discussions were in the nature of informal, preliminary talks.

Asked if he could mention some areas of agreement, in general terms, within his committee, Symington told newsmen: "Well, we all agree that this organization is not the right organization. And we all agree that if we have an organization which recognizes the great technological developments that have happened, are happening, and undoubtedly will happen, then, with the proper organization we will be able to get more for the taxpayers' defense dollar. On those two points we are in agreement."

JOHNSON PROMISES MORE FREEDOM OF INFORMATION

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)—Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson said Saturday that if the world gets through the dangers of the near future it will be because people in government and private life act with that greater sense of dignity and high purpose which the crisis of the age demands.

Johnson, en route to a Paris meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, promised the newspapers of America that the upcoming Democratic administration will give the nation the "fullest possible freedom of information."

The vice president-elect spoke to the closing session of the annual convention of The Associated Press Managing Editors' Association.

Russians Oppose Seating Kasavubu

U.S. Bears Brunt Of Red Attack

By MILTON BESSER
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union unleashed a bitter attack on the United States Saturday in an effort to bar a General Assembly seat to Congo President Joseph Kasavubu. But Western diplomats remained confident that the Assembly would vote in his favor.

Valerian A. Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, told the Assembly his country would not be bound by any decision upholding a recommendation of the Assembly's Credentials Committee that a delegation headed by Kasavubu be given the vacant Congo seat.

ALCOHOLISM

Former Patients Visit Here Today

Scores and scores of former patients who found help and strength to face their problems will return today for the second homecoming of the Big Spring State Hospital Alcoholism ward.

Coincidental with a return of grateful men and women and their families, the Texas Commission on Alcoholism will have its quarterly meeting at the hospital.

SPEAKER

Dr. Jim Rountree, Kerrville, is to be the featured speaker at the homecoming program set for 2 p.m. in Ward 10-A (the north wing of the new building) at the hospital. Officials emphasized that the program will be started promptly as scheduled because of time limitations. There will be a fellowship period and refreshments immediately afterwards in the central dining room.

Shelby Parnell, coordinator for the alcoholism ward, said there had been numerous calls and letters from former patients saying that they planned to return for today's get-together. After all, that will be the major portion of the program and a few impromptu talks by former patients will be heard. Chaplain Marvin Berkeland will word the invocation and Dr. Preston Harrison, hospital superintendent, will extend the welcome.

717 GAME

In February of 1959 when the first homecoming was held in the high school cafeteria, 171 registered for the event. This year twice as many are expected.

Among those due to be here with the commission are Frank B. Campbell, Austin, executive director of the commission; Leslie Ross, Austin, director of rehabilitation; and Harry Graham, San Antonio,

Nikita Plays Careful Game With Cubans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev may be putting a loose halter on Prime Minister Fidel Castro of Cuba because Khrushchev wants to promote chances for a summit conference with President-elect John F. Kennedy next spring.

But there are undoubtedly other reasons for his reported effort to slow down Castro's anti-American campaign. And one of the reasons given considerable importance here is that Khrushchev does not want to be called upon to carry out his threat to back up Cuba in a war with the United States. He wants Castro to stop short of crowding the United States to the danger point.

COINCIDENCE

State Department experts were interested Saturday in the coincidence of reports from Havana that Khrushchev had advised Castro to go more slowly in his conflict with the United States and reports from Moscow that the Communist summit conference there finally had ended.

Originally called in connection with the Soviet Union's national anniversary celebration earlier this month, the conference ran on several days longer than expected. Western experts said this probably meant Khrushchev and his Red Chinese critics were having trouble working out their over peaceful coexistence in the point where they could show some degree of unity to the West.

SOFTER LINE

This implies that Khrushchev is still fighting hard for a softer line than the Red Chinese favor. Apart from the long-range war or peace issue, however, is the question of the Soviet-Red Chinese bloc policy at the summit of the new administration in Washington next January.

Again the experts here believe that Khrushchev is doing everything he can to maintain a reasonably friendly and hopeful attitude toward Kennedy. They say this does not mean that he expects real settlements or is prepared to make concessions to the West on major issues like disarmament and Germany.

RECOVER IDEA

More likely it means that he wants to recover the use of the summit conference idea as a pressure to force the West into negotiations and, he may hope, into eventual concessions. Khrushchev lost this advantage last May when, after the U2 spy plane incident, he refused to negotiate with President Eisenhower and broke up the summit conference in Paris. Since Kennedy's election he has made clear that he wants to establish a different relationship with the incoming U.S. leader.

Should Castro provoke the United States into military action over the Guantanamo Naval Base — a danger almost wholly discounted here — the result might be to put Khrushchev in the position of having to make good on his rocket threat against the United States if it fought Cuba, or seriously lose face. Khrushchev tried to get off the hook several weeks ago by saying that his rocket threat was really just "symbolic" of Soviet support for Castro.

ADJOURNED

The Assembly met in a special Saturday session on the question but adjourned until Monday without reaching any decision. It still must hear a long list of speakers before reaching the voting stage.

Zorin's speech bristled with angry denunciations of the United States, Belgium and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization powers.

But he was careful to point out that it was the present U. S. administration he was accusing. He already has expressed Soviet willingness to confer with the incoming Kennedy administration on disarmament, and his language Saturday indicated Moscow might be putting off feelers for talks on other issues as well.

PUPPET

Zorin called Kasavubu a puppet of the United States and attempts to seat him in the Assembly "an indecent farce."

"The whole history of the international crisis in the Congo is one of direct interference in the affairs of that country by the United States and the NATO powers," he said. "It is an interference in which the United Nations Command and the secretary-general unfortunately became a participant."

UF DRIVE

Cleanup Push Begins Monday

The United Fund drive edged to within $10,000 of its goal Friday, as campaign leaders prepared for a three-day cleanup push starting Monday.

The cleanup drive has been dubbed "turn on the after-burner" and workers are being urged to turn on the reserve steam to wind up the campaign successfully and on time.

Biggest news of Friday's meeting was announcement that the metropolitan division had gone over its $5,000 goal. It was the first of the six divisions to reach the mark and was a double victory as the division goal was $2,000 higher than last year.

With Friday's report, the division had a total of $5,611 in the till for a goal percentage of 106.22. Chairman of the women's section of the division is Mrs. O. S. Womack; James M. Hardy is chairman of the men's section.

Total collections for all divisions stand at $88,172.21 toward the $98,210 goal. Randall Polk, president, urged all workers and all divisions to jump in and match the pace of the metropolitan division.

"We want to complete our campaign on time with enough money to supply the needs of the 12 welfare and guidance agencies that depend on us for financial assistance," he said.

These 12 agencies depend in a large part on the United Fund for the money to continue their operations throughout the year. Many of them get their sole support from this source. Howard County and Big Spring have never failed to meet this need.

Included in the United Fund are the Salvation Army, YMCA, Westside Recreation Center, Red Cross, Milk and Ice Fund, Air Force Aid Society, Texas United Fund, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Heart Association, Texas Rehabilitation Center, and the Summer Recreation Program.

On the latest report, the big gifts division had collected $37,423.50, special gifts division had $9,620, employees division had $17,182.41, the public employees division had $17,446.20 and the out-of-town division had 46.3 per cent of its goal.

Recheck Asked

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Bexar County Republican leaders asked a recheck of the 423 voting machines used in the Nov. 8 general election here. In the first day of the recheck Friday, the Kennedy-Johnson Democratic ticket gained 50 votes on their 11,800-vote margin.

PHS To Study Water Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP)—Water pollution, an increasingly painful national headache, will be given a three-day conference treatment here Dec. 15-17.

Under sponsorship of the Public Health Service, hundreds of experts will swap ideas of the problem and what can be done about it.

Surgeon Gen. Leroy Burney, who called the conference at the request of President Eisenhower, said 1,500 persons are expected to participate. Represented will be major water using industries, agricultural groups, conservation organizations, public health leaders and government officials from local, state, interstate and federal agencies.

Dr. Burney said the objective is to reach an agreement on a set of national goals to halt water pollution and to draft specific programs to achieve the goals.

LETTER TO EDITOR

'Spoiled Teen-Agers' Said An Unfair Generalization

To the Editor:
In response to what Mr. Chamberlin said in the Herald on Friday, I should like to say that he is drawing an unfair generalization when he stated, "The teenagers of this city are spoiled!"

In the first place, it is certainly not the majority of the youth of this city who are found in gangs, breaking the windshields of people's cars. As a matter of fact, many of the windshields broken belong to the cars owned by teenagers, who have to pay for the damage themselves. We are just as anxious as the adults to put a stop to this illegal and costly menace to the public.

But, just because these things do happen, I feel that it is a personal affront for someone to state that the teenagers of Big Spring are spoiled! If, indeed, they were, it would be entirely possible that more than just this would happen. I should like for Mr. Chamberlin to reconsider his statement, and perhaps revise it to state that many of the teenagers of Big Spring are spoiled, but certainly there are far more who are honest, law-abiding citizens who are just as anxious to uphold the laws of our city, state, and nation.

as are the majority of the adults, who are certainly no angels themselves.

As one last point, I wish to say that although the adults are very adept at criticizing the teenagers of this age, they often do not stop to consider the fact that the teenagers of today learn and act as they do because of the adults, who can never find the time or the money to contribute to the civic and community organizations which are designed to keep the youth off the streets and out of trouble. I should like to ask Mr. Chamberlin if his conscience is entirely clear that he has done his share to help the teenager rather than criticize what that same teenager has learned from the adults.

Glass Curtain Wall Is 'New Look' In Nation's Homes

Window walls and sliding glass doors in homes, glass curtain wall construction of commercial buildings and greatly increased glass areas of automobiles are bringing an "open world" outlook to America today as never before, independent glass distributors were told at a national sales management meeting just concluded at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

Participating in the meeting which was sponsored by Libbey-Owens Ford Glass Co. was James Vines of Western Glass & Mirror Co., Big Spring.

Import of both plate glass and window glass has grown to serious proportions, creating a critical problem for the domestic manufacturer and the American factory worker, he said.

Tremendous expansion in the architectural use of flat glass has been realized in the past 25 years, E. R. Pierce, vice president—distributor sales, pointed out. Still-rolling ribbon windows in schools have made the outside world a part of every student's curriculum.

With the larger glass areas today insulating glass appears high on the list of what people say are the most desirable features of a home. Big structural mirrors have displaced the small medicine cabinet mirror in the bathroom. The public has voted in favor of sliding mirror doors in the bedroom.

Explaining

L. Stanley Grant, weather instructor at Webb AFB, spent considerable time explaining various geologic formations found by the students on the trips. His wife is eighth grade teacher at Goliad Junior High School.

Science Trip Can Also Be Enjoyable

It started out as a field trip for the eighth grade students at Goliad Junior High School, but the sponsors enjoyed it as much as the students.

That is the report from L. Stanley Grant and his wife, and L. Jerry McMillan, Webb AFB airman. On two weekends, they have taken groups of students into the Big Bend park, trips that started on Fridays and concluded on Sundays.

The trip included stops at Boquillas Canyon, the Basin, and the ghost town of Terlingua. Other stops gave the students views of the Chisos Mountains and Lost Mine Peak.

The students were taken to various sites for study of geologic formations and remains of prehistoric animals. Even old legends of the area were told over campfires.

Survival discussion, particularly regarding dangers that might have been encountered along the many trails, was another phase of the trip.

Such trips for junior high students were recently outlawed by the Snyder school board. In Big Spring, the trustees recently discussed the matter and decided to leave approval in the hands of the administration. All agreed they are of benefit to education when properly chaperoned.

The sponsors on the recent trips were pleased with the behavior of the students and reported they felt the trip to be beneficial to all students who made them. And the students are in full agreement.

Bills Readied

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Harrison Williams Jr., D-N.J., said Friday the "spirit of the new administration" plus prior spadework have cleared the way for action next year on migratory labor legislation.

Williams, chairman of the Senate subcommittee which has been studying migrant problems, said he expects to introduce again some of the bills that died during the past session.

Nurse

Susan Barlow, nurse at the Webb AFB Hospital, made the trip and provided medical aid for bruised knees and scratched arms. But primarily, she joined in the fun.

W. Texas May Get Extra Congressman

AUSTIN (AP)—It took the legislature seven years to decide where to put Texas' new congressman earned under the 1950 census. It could take even longer to find a home base for No. 23 due under the 1960 census.

So many political angles are involved that the legislature might not ever be able to find one area suitable to a majority. In that case, the new member of the House of Representatives would be a "congressman-at-large" for the state as a whole.

DIES

Martin Dies of Lufkin won that statewide job when the 1950 census increased Texas' representation from 21 to 22.

There had been no successful effort to revise congressional district boundary lines since 1933 when the legislature finally agreed in May 1957, to locate the extra man in populous Harris County. It is now the only one in the state with two men in Congress.

The 1957 bill shuffled the boundaries in eight other districts in a modest effort to keep representation somewhat abreast of population gains and shifts as reflected in the 1950 national nose count. Redistricting will be a hard job from the standpoint of practical politics when the legislature meets again in January — so hard that many think the lawmakers will follow the congressman-at-large plan again.

DALLAS

Since Houston, the state's largest city, now has two congressmen, Dallas could assert a claim for two in view of its gains in the 1960 census.

But the fact that the Dallas district is the only one in the state to have a Republican congressman — and very well could have two if it gets two seats — would make the going rough in the Democratic Texas Legislature.

Other big cities such as San Antonio, and fast-growing metropolitan complexes and industrial areas such as Beaumont-Port Arthur-Orange, Corpus Christi and El Paso might also be fighting for at least a share of additional representation. Far West Texas areas such as Midland-Odessa and Lubbock have grown at a terrific rate.

The general population trend in Texas in the last 30 years has generally been a shift west and south, with some notable exceptions, and from rural to urban. Congressional redistricting lags far behind the trend.

SOME OVER

Several Texas districts are far over the 350,000 considered an average, and many are far under.

The smallest in the state is the one least likely to be changed: The Northeast Texas district represented by Speaker Sam Rayburn of Bonham. Efforts in the past to increase its size by bringing in additional counties have run into the toughest kind of opposition in the legislature — usually credited to Rayburn's friends there, and he usually has many.

Any major effort to change the geography of the congressional districts could set off a major con-

What Sin Is

"... Sin is the transgression of the law" (1 Jno. 3:4).

Although we are under grace (the Old Testament law having been taken away at the cross), we are "under law to Christ" (1 Cor. 9:21). If we were not, we could not sin, for sin is the transgression of God's law.

The law of Christ may be disobeyed by (1) doing what is forbidden, or (2) leaving undone what is required. See Jas. 4:17.

We are sinners because we have acted wrong, or failed to act right. This proved we do not inherit the sin of Adam. The Actions of one person cannot be inherited by another. God is too fair to condemn us for the sin of Adam; but if we do not come to the Saviour, we will be condemned for our own sins (Rom. 6:23).

DEAR ABBY

NO AUTO

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: When my husband goes out of town he makes sure our car is never left at home for me to use. He doesn't come right out and say he doesn't want me to have it, but he either leaves it with his brother (who has a car of his own) or else he promises it to "one of the boys" at the office. I've never had an accident or a ticket, so he doesn't have to worry about that. And I've never given him any cause to doubt me or to be jealous. Why does he do this, and how can I change him?

DISCOURAGED
DEAR DISCOURAGED: Your husband's insecurity is showing. In the "old days" men would keep their wives pregnant or barefoot to make sure they didn't stray. Today, they remove the "wheels." Bring the subject out into the open and discuss it freely. Once he's gained self-confidence he'll leave you the car.

DEAR ABBY: I am what is known as a "brain." I always get straight A's. This may sound wonderful, but it isn't. The other kids are so jealous, they shun me. Even the smart kids. I try to be friendly and never brag about my grades, but the resentment is always there. I would like to have some friends, but I am not going to get poor grades on purpose to do it.

THE BRAIN
DEAR BRAIN: Face it. There are plenty of "brains" who have lots of friends. If you are disliked generally, there must be another reason. Use some of that brain power to figure out why.

DEAR ABBY: Please advise me if I was right or wrong for accepting a diamond ring from a man who, at the time, was still married, claimed he was going to get a divorce, but instead was trying for a reconciliation with his wife. We have nothing to do with each other any more. Am I right in keeping the ring, or should I return it to him?

TYLER
DEAR TYLER: You were wrong to accept the ring under those circumstances. Return it.

DEAR ABBY: That foolish girl who whined because she has to wear braces on her teeth in high school doesn't know when she's well off. I am 13 years old and will have to wear a 14-pound brace on my back for the rest of my life.

Board Accused Of Imposing School Program

By F. K. HODENFIELD

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP)—The influential College Entrance Examination Board was accused Friday of trying to impose a standard program of instruction on the nation's schools.

Frederick M. Raubinger, New Jersey state commissioner of education, said the board's commissions on mathematics and English "are arranging curriculums which they hope to make national in scope, and which they will enforce by means of the college board tests."

Approximately 300 colleges and universities use the college board tests as one criteria for admission.

Raubinger's remarks in the final session of the annual meeting of the Council of Chief State School Officers triggered a lively debate on how to bring about needed changes in public education.

"The college board's proposed curriculums do not give us the progress we need, progress through experimentation," Raubinger declared. "This is an imposed curriculum."
"I look with dismay at any development which means that in every high school across the country, every teacher and every pupil will be following one particular program that eventually will open the doors to college."

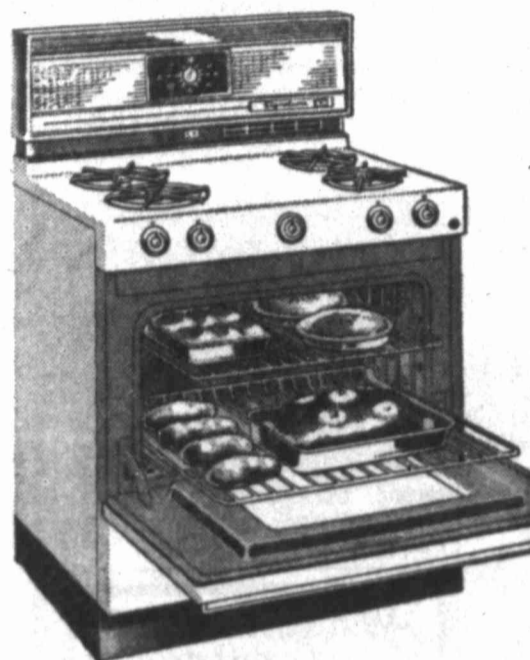

Floyd Rinker, executive director of the college board's commission on English, said there was no intention to impose any curriculum on the schools.

"Whether our proposed programs will influence the curriculum, we don't know," he said. "Personally, I hope so. The present English curriculum is a bit of a morass."

Fun For The Youngsters

Mrs. Harold Butler and Mrs. Thomas Curran, representing the Non-Commissioned Officers Wives Club, inspect the swing set given by the group to the Special Education School at 1100 Rannels. The youngsters immediately began putting the equipment to good use. This is one of the many of the on and off-base projects sponsored by the club. Of the 91 children in the school, 16 come from homes of people associated with Webb AFB. Currently the club is arranging Thanksgiving baskets and layettes for Christmas.

GARDEN TALK

Several Varieties Can Become 'Dwarf Trees'

Mrs. Aubrey Reid invited me to make a talk for the Perennial Garden Club of Midland, and during the course of the evening several people asked questions about dwarf trees. Here in West Texas it is only recently that anyone considered these unique specimen plants for our landscapes.

Everyone has heard of the Japanese and Chinese trees that grow for hundreds of years and yet stay small enough that they can sometimes be used as centerpieces for table decorations. There are many varieties of trees that lend themselves to this dwarfing, but a few years ago I started dwarfing some seedling junipers. These are the native "cedars" as they are commonly called locally.

I planted a box with cedar berries and in about four months I had a whole forest of seedlings. Most of them were allowed to develop normally into trees but a few I planted in very shallow clay dishes. They grew well and the roots filled the container and became bound to it by their mass. They became so compact that the entire plant could be lifted from the dish and from time to time I pruned the roots and top to an attractive shape and replaced the plant in the confining container. Within three years I had a most attractive miniature cedar tree. Unfortunately this plant was lost, but I hope to begin again this fall now that there is a plentiful new crop of cedar berries. This time I plan to attempt to dwarf a larger number of plants. These may find a place in our landscapes in a few years.

Water and plant food should be kept in proper supply for these potted trees; otherwise they require very little care. Many other varieties of plants will lend themselves to this treatment. It is up to the gardener to try several and choose those he fancies for special attention.

There is another type of dwarf tree, and this one grows in the ground out in the yard and is

Abdullah Loses His Argument

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Thor L. Berthen, 60, told police he was soaking up sunshine on his front steps when along came this sailor who said his name was Abdullah and asked directions.

They got to talking and it seemed natural when Abdullah said he didn't trust banks and showed Berthen a large roll of bills. Berthen argued about whether banks can be trusted, and ended by betting Abdullah $1,500 that they could. To make absolutely sure he went down to the bank and withdrew his savings of $2,202.21, which Abdullah counted and wrapped in a newspaper.

He handed the newspaper to Berthen and left. Berthen unwrapped the newspaper. It was empty.

dwarfed by grafting the variety of tree desired on a root stock that prevents normal growth. This process dwarfs the tree's top so that it will fit into a limited space in planting. Fruit trees are most often worked into landscapes by this dwarfing method.

Council To Mull Utility Costs

Ordinances governing water and sewer main extensions and subdivision development will be considered by the city commission Tuesday, 5:15 p.m., at city hall.

City Manager A. K. Steinheimer had drawn up a separate ordinance concerning water and sewer main extensions, divorcing this item from the proposed subdivision ordinance.

The commission will probably move to strike 10 blocks from the assessment paving program, due to lack of property owner interest. At the last meeting, commissioners instructed Steinheimer to write property owners, giving them a final chance to indicate interest in the paving. Steinheimer said none of the property owners had responded.

NEW VEHICLES

Steinheimer said he would present proposals to buy two new city vehicles, including a pick-up truck for the water meter readers and a police car.

The ordinance is designed to regulate the buying and selling of all used merchandise, but is aimed specifically at salvage metal and used car parts dealers. A proposal to change the parking meters in the municipal parking lot (Ritz Theater lot) from the present three hours for 10 cents to possibly two hours for 10 cents will be discussed.

Steinheimer said that Roy Anderson, assistant city manager, is preparing a report on the cost involved in changing the meter heads to various time schedules.

The commission may take up the State Highway Department's proposal for an overpass across the T&P railroad on U.S. 87. The proposal was presented last meeting but no action was taken.

CABLE TV

Don Mansell, manager of the Seminole Cable TV company, will be at the commission meeting to request a franchise for cable television in Big Spring, Steinheimer said.

Steinheimer said he doubted that the commission would act Tuesday night on the franchise request. He said that Mansell has not yet made arrangements for use of utility poles, and other pertinent facilities.

Other items expected to receive commission attention include right-of-way purchases for Interstate 20, additional streets in the assessment paving program and the second reading of a re-zoning ordinance for property in the Fairview Heights Addition.

It Rained $20 Bills

NEW YORK (AP) — It rained $20 bills on the upper West Side Friday night.

The salty and into the outstretched hands of startled passers-by. There was one catch: The money was as phony as if it had been $19 bills.

Three detectives, acting on a tip, broke into the apartment of Miles Leslie, 51, and before they could stop him he had chucked $3,500 worth of funny money out the window.

The cops watched in horror as the bills floated lazily to the ground — 20 floors below. They managed to retrieve 76 of the bills, but 99—or $1,980—still are missing. Altogether, Leslie had $3,700 worth of counterfeit money, police said.

Leslie and William Stewart, 32, a companion, were booked on charges of possessing counterfeit money and held for federal authorities.

Police had a word of warning for the new owners of the money: Don't try and spend it.

A Pat on the Back

FOR JAMES

How many juveniles in Big Spring are not delinquents?

Practically all. Statistics say, and records prove, that 96.4 per cent of our youngsters and teen-agers are law-abiding, responsible citizens who are a credit to their parents and community.

"Youth Appreciation Week"—November 14th through 20th has been celebrated nationally by Optimists International for four years but this is the first year for the program in Big Spring. The theme of the week is "a pat on the back" for young people all over the world, and public recognition of their talents and accomplishments.

Locally, the club has several major activities planned for the coming year; the most ambitious being a more organized athletic program for boys in areas where facilities are inadequate. In April, they will sponsor a contestant in the National Boys' Oratorical Contest which awards a college scholarship as the coveted first prize. During the year, they sponsor a Pony League baseball team, a Soap Box Derby driver and stress safety precautions by giving free inspections to school children's bicycles.

Optimist President James Calmes is a congenial young man of the type so often inadequately described as "a nice guy." Sincerely modest, yet proud of his club's work, he seems to personify the Optimist slogan, "A Friend of the Boy."

Born in Kansas City, Mo., in 1929, he was raised in Clinton, Okla., where he met and married a pretty brunette named Frances Sullins. He earned a BS in Pharmacy at Southwestern State College in Weatherford, Okla., and has a service record of 4 years in the Army.

James and Frances moved to Big Spring in 1956 with their children, Charlotte, 8, and Mike, 6, when he accepted a position with Leonard's Pharmacy. He leads a Gra Y group at Cedar Crest School and he and Mike are known respectively as "Setting Sun" and "Rising Sun" in the Sioux tribe of Y Indian Guides.

Hunting and golf are his favorite sports and he is looking forward to trying out the new Country Club course.

The Calmes family live at 3234 Drexel and attend the First Christian Church.

10 Cities To Vote On CRMWA Plan

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Staff Writer

Ten cities vote Tuesday on a vast project to supply themselves with water—largest program of its kind in Reclamation Bureau history.

The cities plan to repay virtually every dollar they borrow from the government.

The huge reservoir and aqueduct program will stretch, if approved, 200 miles from the middle of the Panhandle deep into the South Plains.

DROUGHT
It is a region that occasionally suffers from drought. But strangely, some cities have no city water problems because of a vast underground reservoir that can be tapped by wells as needed.

The project calls for a dam on the Canadian River near Sanford. The dam would impound 961,000 acre feet of water. An acre foot is 325,851 gallons. The administration would be the Canadian River Water Authority.

Cost of the project would be about $96 million. But the dam and land covered by water will be the smaller cost.

Of that $96 million, aqueducts of almost 300 miles long to carry the water to the cities will cost about $65 million.

The government will bear about 64 percent of the cost because of the project's value in flood control, recreation and wildlife.

Communities which will vote are Borger, Pampa, Amarillo, Plainview, Lubbock, Slaton, Tahoka, O'Donnell, Levelland, Brownfield and Lamesa. Lamesa and Slaton vote only on a federal contract, not on a city-authority issue on which other cities also vote.

10 YEARS AGO
Congress authorized the project about 10 years ago. Nothing was done, partly because of the Korean War and also because the cities could not agree on sharing the cost.

Some communities near the lake did not believe they should pay the same as communities requiring longer pipelines. Those far from the proposed lake said those near the lake would have a new and valuable recreational facility.

Voters will ballot on two issues. One will be on a proposed contract between the city and the authority setting out the amount of water available to the city and the rate of pay.

The other is on the contract between the river authority and the government calling for repayment of the construction loan in 90 years.

Meetings of city commissions brought agreement on share of costs, amount of water and rate of water.

COSTS
These were the agreements:
Cost share:
Lubbock $37,548,000; Amarillo $26,659,000; Pampa $5,977,000;

Borger $4,837,000; Levelland $4,372,000; Lamesa $3,845,000; Brownfield $3,024,000; Plainview $2,791,000; Slaton $2,041,000; Tahoka $621,000; and O'Donnell $423,000.

Estimated water charge in cents per thousand gallons:
Lamesa 29.16; Brownfield 29.13; Levelland 27.86; O'Donnell 25.42; Tahoka 22.85; Slaton 21.70; Lubbock 17.06; Plainview 14.13; Pampa 13.52; Amarillo 12.90; and Borger 12.86.

Builders Hold Tuesday Meet

About 450 West Texas general contractors, architects and guests will hold a joint dinner meeting at the Odessa Country Club Tuesday. Dr. Kenneth McFarland, Topeka, Kans., will be the speaker.

Dr. McFarland, one of America's most prominent public speakers, is a business man, industrial advisor and personnel consultant. He is retained by General Motors Corporation as educational consultant and holds a similar responsibility with the American Trucking Association.

A highlight of the meeting will be the presentation of awards for excellent craftsmanship, which will be presented to men in various building trades in San Angelo, Big Spring, Midland, and Odessa. A top man has been selected in each city by a special awards committee headed by Harry Devlin, Odessa architect, and F. C. Gipson, Odessa contractor, from nominations submitted by members of the West Texas Chapters of the Associated General Contractors and the American Institute of Architects, which are sponsoring the meeting.

Banquet tickets are available in advance from local members of the Associated General Contractors or the members of the American Institute of Architects. No tickets will be sold at the door.

2 Cents A Gallon

BLANTYRE, Nyasaland (AP)—Well owners are selling water for two cents a gallon in drought-stricken southern Nyasaland.

Texas Has Tree Champ

Texas for the third time is the possessor of a national champion big tree. The nation's largest water oak (Quercus nigra) has been located in Shelby County.

The giant tree is owned by E. H. Lawson of Center, and was discovered by Emory Covington of Timpan. Measurements were verified by Wesley Estes, former assistant district forester of the Texas Forest Service.

Vital statistics are: circumference, 20 feet 3 inches; total height, 70 feet; and crown spread, 100 feet. The new champion equals the crown spread of the former "champ" in Hillsboro, Ga. but surpasses it in circumference by three feet five inches.

Authorities Fight Criminal Center

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Government, religious and social leaders are struggling to stamp out a criminal center in an unfinished hospital building here.

Started as a children's free hospital by dictator Juan Peron, the building never was completed for lack of funds. Homeless workers and their families, with a good assortment of criminal types, occupied it before Peron was ousted by a military revolution in 1955.

Since then the vast structure has been a nation by itself, with its own laws. Entire families have lived in one-room "apartments," content with the rent-free squalor and promiscuity.

Program For Disabled Veterans Gets Extension

A training program for disabled World War II veterans that ended in July has been brought back to life for another five years, Ray Boren, contact representative at the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital, reports. Some 1,000 veterans, most with serious disabilities, may benefit.

They were undergoing training when the program, Public Law 16, came to an end on July 25. A new law permits virtually all of them, those who were in training on June 1, to resume their courses at government expense.

Also, the law establishes a new deadline of July 25, 1965.

The vocational training program for most disabled World War II veterans ended four years ago. But a special four-year extension was granted in certain exceptional cases, mainly veterans so badly disabled they couldn't possibly have come in under the original deadline. It is this four-year extension that expired on July 25—and to which five more years have been added by the new law.

The law does one thing more. It keeps open the doors of the vocational training program to disabled World War II veterans classified as exceptional cases. They now have the right to begin training, so long as they complete it by the new 1965 deadline.

The exceptional cases include World War II veterans whose disabilities prevented them from entering or completing training prior to the program's original deadlines; those who originally received training, but whose discharges later were changed—but too late to get in under the original deadlines; those for whom a service-connected disability was not established in time to begin and complete a course of training.

The new law does not affect a separate training program for disabled Korean veterans. This program has its own deadlines, still in the future.

Judge Hung In Effigy

BATON ROUGE (AP)—An effigy of U. S. District Judge J. Skelly Wright stood beside the front steps of Louisiana's towering state capitol Saturday.

The figure appeared as petitions circulated here calling for impeachment proceedings against Wright who ordered integration of New Orleans schools.

A group of teen-agers was seen leaving the area soon after the figure was placed on a pole in a drainage grate.

The figure was labeled "J. Wrong." On the back was a swastika, symbol of wartime Nazi Germany, and on a piece of paper on the front was the hammer and sickle symbol of Communist Russia.

The figure held a small noose, which was around the neck of a doll, labeled "States' Rights."

No More Of This 'Tell It To Judge'

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—State Safety Commissioner Glenn Loyen has promised the Kentucky County Judges Association he will order troopers to stop advising ticketed motorists to "tell it to the judge."

Some judges have complained that the drivers take the advice literally and bother them at all hours, trying to get tickets fixed.

Dr. O'Brien To Teach Job Text

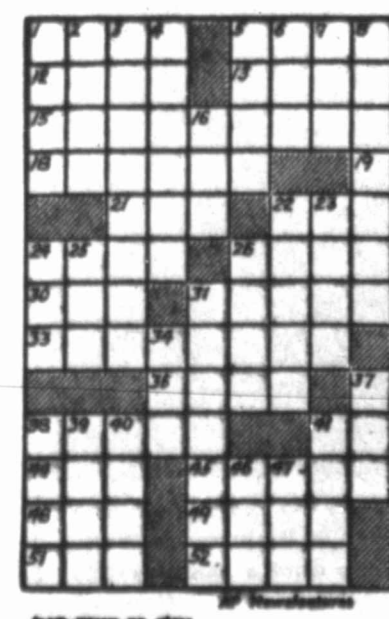

Dr. P. D. O'Brien, past or of the First Baptist Church, is to teach lessons from the book of Job at the Mt. Bethel Baptist Church, NW 4th and Trades Ave.

The lessons will be at 8 p.m. daily Monday through Friday. Dr. O'Brien has taught lessons from the book of Job numerous times and is regarded as a deep student of the book. The Rev. Sammie Davis, Mt. Bethel pastor, invited the public to attend these sessions.

1961 Lincoln Continental

The 1961 Lincoln Continental is a completely new, distinctive luxury car with smaller dimensions in length, height and width. The car is available in two models, the four-door sedan (above) and the only four-door soft top convertible produced in America. Many exclusive new features have been added to the Lincoln Continental and all cars will undergo individual, rugged testing procedures. The new model is on display at Truman Jones Motor Co., 403 Runnels.

'61 Lincoln Continental Has Engineering Improvements

The 1961 Lincoln Continental, going on public display at Truman Jones Motor Co., 403 Runnels, marks the debut of a distinctive luxury automobile.

Styled in the classical tradition of its predecessors, the 1961 version has smaller dimensions in height, width and length. Exceptional mechanical reliability has been built into the car through a series of new engineering techniques.

The Lincoln Continental is produced in two models, a four-door sedan and a four-door soft top convertible, with completely automatic top. This is the first four-door soft top convertible built in this country in many years.

The car is 212.4 inches long, 76.6 inches wide and 53.5 inches high with a 123-inch wheelbase.

Engineers developed a car with improved materials, closer tolerances, precision fittings, and a stronger body with more and better sound-deadening materials.

The 1961 Lincoln Continental has a smoother ride due to improvements in the front and rear suspensions, shock absorbers and spring mountings. A greater use of rubber isolates metal components. In effect, the car is riding on a layer of rubber.

In addition, the car is easy to handle because of a lower center of gravity, a reduction in wheelbase and overall length and a smaller diameter steering wheel set at a new angle.

Also aiding the driver are better brakes with a 100 per cent increase in potential life and new tandem action hydraulic windshield wipers which provide variable speeds and quiet operation.

Maintenance features include a 30,000-mile lubrication free steering and suspension system, a 6,000-mile oil change and nylon coating on all instrument panel wiring.

The Lincoln Continental will undergo three exclusive major tests in addition to the usual wide range of quality inspection methods. Every car will be road-checked, each engine and transmission will have a lengthy "hot" test and all wiring will be subjected to an electronic circuit testing machine. A 12-mile road run will be given all Lincoln Continentals, the longest road check given any car in American industry. Nearly 200 items will be examined during this test.

The engines, which are rated at 300 horsepower, will be "hot" tested for three hours. At the conclusion of this time, each engine is torn down, visually inspected and reassembled before it is installed in the car.

Blind Parents Deliver Child

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Albert Lemcool is almost blind. So is his wife, Drenice. Yet they managed to deliver their 6-pound, 7-ounce daughter at home Friday without the aid of a doctor.

"I didn't do much," commented Lemcool, 25, who has had no previous experience at baby delivery.

Lemcool, an X-ray darkroom worker, and his wife, 22, had been expecting the baby for three weeks. It arrived at 3 a.m.

The parents, who met at the Saginaw Institute for the Blind, have been married four years and have a two-year-old daughter.

Lemcool has 21 per cent vision. His wife is able to see to a distance of about six inches.

Murder Charged Against Two Latins In Brownfield Case

LUBBOCK (AP) — A five-year trail of crime that left three men slain was recounted in a statement which officers said a Latin American youth signed Friday.

Alfred Gonzales, 20, who signed three statements, was charged with the murder of a Brownfield filling station attendant, Lester McPherson, 35, Dec. 26.

Valentine Diaz, 19, who signed a statement telling of his part in the holdup, was also charged with murder.

The statements were given to Texas Ranger W. E. Renfrow, and Brownfield officers.

Gonzales also signed statements in the shooting death of Herman Curtis, 61, during a Lamesa filling station robbery in 1956, and the stabbing death of Jesus Olguin, 30, in the men's room of the Victoria City Hall in 1955.

Officers said Gonzales' statements in the three slayings were made after he was identified by Diaz as the triggerman at Brownfield.

Brownfield citizens had offered a $3,000 reward in the McPherson killing.

Officers quoted Gonzales as saying he stabbed Olguin "because he came up to me and cursed me."

He was quoted as saying he shot Curtis because he tried to prevent the holdup but that he killed McPherson "so he couldn't identify me."

Diaz was arrested at Lamesa, 75 miles south of here, after officers received a tip.

Gonzales was brought here from jail at Lamesa. He and Diaz were arrested there on burglary charges but Diaz was out on bond.

After making their statements, the men were taken to Brownfield where officers said they re-enacted the robbery and shooting.

Both men said McPherson offered no resistance when Gonzales pulled a pistol and said it was a holdup.

"Gonzales told the attendant to back up and he said he shot him as the victim was doing as he was told," the officer said.

Morgan Copeland, Brownfield district attorney, said he may call a special grand jury Monday.

Rad Ware Has Top Honors In Chamber Member Drive

Rad Ware copped two top prizes in the annual membership campaign of the Chamber of Commerce. In a special chili supper held in the Texas Electric Service Co. office Friday, Ware received a watch from Zales Jewelry and a silver tray from Cizon's for winning top place in points and first place in sales.

Ware made 12 sales for $438 to lead all other workers in the campaign. Oscar Glickman won a wall barometer, given by Herphill-Wells, for being highest on his team.

The two - 12 member teams reported a total of 65 sales for more than $2,500 to bring the campaign to a successful close. Clyde McMahon was chairman of the drive.

John Currie, the winning team captain, was presented with a plaque, naming him the team captain of the year. All participating workers were given certificates.

Motorist Freed In Wreck Charge

NEW YORK (AP) — A magistrate has dismissed all charges against a motorist whose car plowed into pedestrians at busy Fifth Avenue and 42nd Street, killing one woman and injuring 10 other persons.

Morton Kirsch, 56, lost control of his auto Oct. 8, hitting the pedestrians and then a bus. Three women were knocked under the bus by Kirsch's car. Florence Noren, 75, was fatally injured.

Police charged Kirsch with failing to observe a signal light-falling to keep in the right traffic lane, and operating a car with defective brakes.

Magistrate Edward J. Chapman ruled Friday there was insufficient evidence to support the charges against Kirsch.

Short Gun Wins Federal Case

CHATTANOOGA, Ten. (AP) — An eighth of an inch kept police from making a federal case out of Shirley Clark's shotgun.

Miss Clark, 22, was arrested Thursday night after her gun blasted a hole through some friends' front door.

Officers accused her of possessing a sawed-off shotgun—a federal offense. Federal law defines a sawed-off shotgun as one with a barrel no longer than 18 inches.

Miss Clark complained, so a federal officer and a city detective whipped out a tape measure. The barrel was 18 1/2 inches long.

Now Miss Clark faces a City Court hearing Monday on charges of drunkenness and discharging a firearm within the city.

1,891 Killed

AUSTIN (AP)—State police said Saturday 1,891 persons have been killed this year in Texas auto accidents.

Big Braves To Meet Monday

An officer's briefing for newly elected officers of the seven new Indian Guide tribes is scheduled for Monday at 5:15 p.m. in the YMCA, according to James M. Hardy, general secretary.

Purpose of the meeting, Hardy explained, is to acquaint the new Big Braves with their responsibilities and discuss the ways to make a good tribe.

R. H. Weaver is to speak on officer responsibility and planning for a good tribe. Hardy will explain the time schedule and meeting outline, as well as the resources available.

Buddy Redden, Longhouse chief, is to discuss the Longhouse organization and its function.

The meeting is for Big Braves only.

ABC Club Gives $150 To Campaign

The board of directors of the American Business Club have voted to donate $150 of the club's funds to the United Fund drive, president Bob Rogers told members at their regular luncheon Friday noon at the Settles Hotel.

The board also agreed to furnish a Christmas tree for the Veterans Administration Hospital patients and supply gifts of fruit and candy to children of the West Side Recreational Club during Yuletide, as well as purchase $10 worth of TB Christmas seals.

Rogers also informed the gathering that special invitations are going out from the ABC club and other local service organizations to Webb AFB personnel to become members of the club.

Merrill Creighton was named to head up the committee for the club's Christmas party. The club will again assign personnel to man the Salvation Army kettles the Tuesday prior to Christmas.

A total of 51 persons were present for the meeting and Rogers said one of the major planks in his platform was to boost attendance. The club will not meet next week, due to the nearness of the Thanksgiving holiday. It will reconvene Friday, Dec. 2.

Bill Leach was introduced as a new member.

TB Seals Are Mailed

The last of some 7,000 envelopes containing Christmas seals are now in the mail or in the hands of Howard Countians.

These are the appeals from the Howard County Tuberculosis Association to join in the fight against a once almost-vanquished killer that shows signs of deadly revival in Howard County, where 82 per cent of the seal receipts remain, the incidence of tuberculosis is on the increase.

Seal sale workers met Friday with Mrs. George Peacock, chairman for final review of the annual fund raising project upon which the work of the association de-pendes for the next year. Working with Mrs. Peacock are Mrs. Vincent Friedewald, mail seal chairman; Mrs. Dean Forrest, publicity chairman; Mrs. Walter Slate, bond chairman; and others.

Last year, support of the seal purchase appeal enabled the association to provide 2,000 patch tests in schools within the county. In addition, the association financed 79 X-rays to follow up on TB diagnosis. It also conducted a program of health education, contributed to medical research and aided in rehabilitation as well as in case finding.

Currently there are nine Howard County residents in TB hospitals, and one more is being prepared for admittance. There are 25 local residents who report regularly for medical supervision.

In 1961, if public response is generous, the association hopes to broaden its patch test program so that cases among children can be checked in their incipency. Frequently, these positive reactions, lead to discovery of cases in adult members of the families.

Funeral For Gable Is Simple, Quiet

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The women in a man's life help reveal what kind of person he was.

Clark Gable had five wives and many sweethearts. They, perhaps, provide the most useful means of understanding the fabulous star, who otherwise revealed little of his true self.

Wife No. 1 was Josephine Dillon, a warm-hearted actress and director who met him in a Portland, Ore., theater and taught him how to act. They married in 1924, when he was 23 and she was 40. They were divorced in 1930.

Wife No. 2 was Rita Langham, a double divorcee Gable married in 1931 when he was 30 and she was 41. They were divorced in 1935.

Lusty, fun-loving Carole Lombard seemed a perfect match for Gable. She pulled him out of his gloom, and their raucous life together became a legend. They had met and quarreled at a party; next day, she sent a cage of doves to his apartment. That became their way of settling arguments.

She called him Pappy and he called her Mrs. G. She once sent him for Valentine's Day an ancient Ford painted white with red hearts. He hopped up the motor and drove it for a year.

On the night of Jan. 16, 1942, he was waiting at Glendale Airport for her return from a war bond selling tour. She never made it. Her plane had crashed into Mt. Charleston, Nev.

Gable plunged into depression. Carole's last message to him from Amarillo, Tex., had been: "Hey, Pappy, you'd better get into this man's army." He enlisted as a private that year.

In 1949, he surprised everyone by eloping with three-married Lady Sylvia Ashley, widow of Douglas Fairbanks Sr.

Gable had popped the question at a party the night before. It proved to be a wrong impulse. Within a year, he told her: "I wish to be free; I don't want to be married to you or anyone else." Her friends said she felt like the second wife in "Rebecca," living in the same house with Carole Lombard's memory. His friends said he couldn't stand her lap dog and her chit-chat friends.

Kay Williams Spreckels, a friend for 15 years, was next. Again he eloped, again with a mature woman of the world. The marriage brought him much happiness and he guarded it against intrusion from the outside world. His happiness was compounded by the prospect of becoming a father for the first time.

But death intervened.

The famous names who helped Clark Gable rule Hollywood in his golden age gathered today to pay him last honors at a simple, quiet funeral.

Two hundred mourners filed into the Church of the Resurrection where Gable's casket lay amid banks of floral sprays. Three hundred spectators stood quietly a considerable distance from the church, and there were no displays of fan adulation that have marred other Hollywood funerals.

An American flag stood at the head of the rose-covered casket, and a squad of steel-helmeted air-men stood at attention outside the church, honoring Gable's service during World War II.

The famous names and Gable's lesser known coworkers in his 30 years of films sat listening to the organ strains of Strauss waltzes and Debussy. They heard the simple Episcopal service, including the 46th and 121st Psalms and 1 Corinthians 15.

The services were conducted by Air Force Chaplain John E. West. According to Episcopal tradition, there was no eulogy.

The ceremony was short and quiet, in accordance with Gable's wishes.

Entombment did not follow immediately. Forest Lawn officials said it might occur next week. Gable will lie in a crypt in the great mausoleum, scene of a stained glass reproduction of the Last Supper. The body will rest beside that of his third wife, Carole Lombard, and a place has been reserved for his widow, Kay Williams Gable.

Gable died last Wednesday night at 59 after suffering a coronary thrombosis 10 days earlier.

Jeers Fail But Officer Loses

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Patrolman William Sturges didn't let the jeering from the workers stop him ticketing cars parked near a factory Friday.

But he did stop when an employee leaned from a window of the Electric Storage Battery Co. plant and yelled: "There's an emergency. A man's been caught in the conveyor belt."

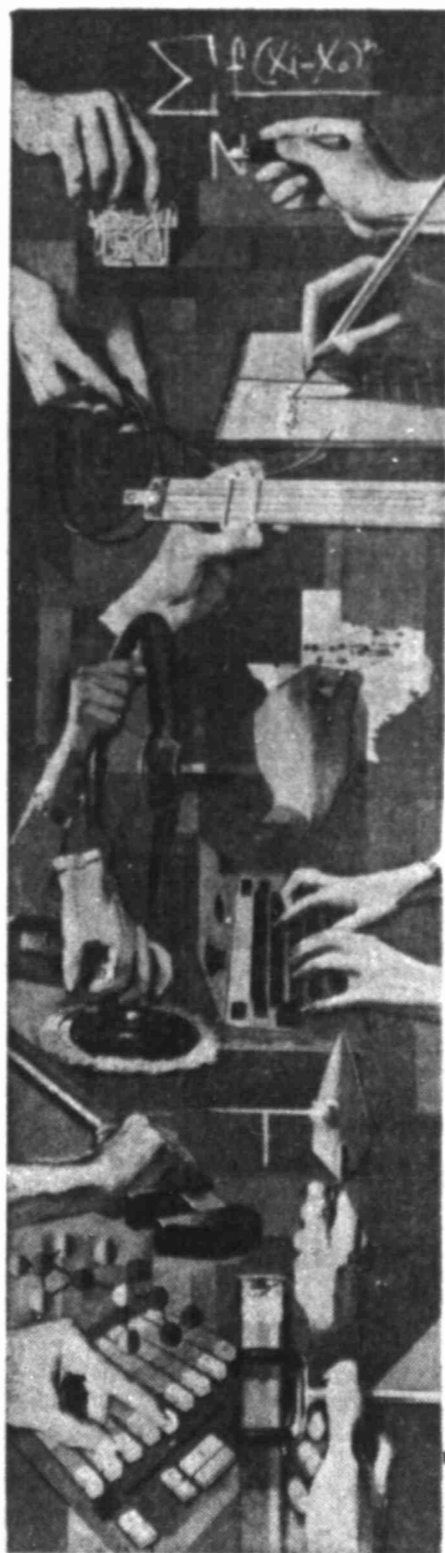

Sturges called for help. Two police cars, two fire engines and a rescue truck rushed to the plant, tying up evening rush hour traffic.

Inside the plant, however, they found no one caught in a conveyor belt.

When Sturges went back to ticketing illegally parked cars he found they had been moved.

Good Weather Lets Many Harvests Move

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Good weather in West Texas permitted farmers to step up the grain sorghum and cotton harvests in the past week. It was a different story in parts of South Central and the upper coastal counties where farmers have been trying to wind up their harvests, said Director John Hutchison, Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

In the less favored areas rains had fields too wet for any kind of work.

Ranges, grain and legume pastures improved. Livestock conditions generally were good.

Moisture is adequate in the Panhandle. Open weather pushed the cotton and sorghum harvests into full swing. Grains made excellent growth.

FULL SWING

Favorable weather following the hard freeze Nov. 9 aided harvesting of the South Plains (Lubbock). With good weather the harvesting of cotton will be in full swing next week. The sorghum harvest is 90 per cent complete with excellent yields.

Last week's freeze speeded up the mechanical harvesting of cotton in the Rolling Plains area (Vernon). Moisture is adequate and rains are making excellent growth and furnishing good grazing.

The cotton harvest in far West Texas ranged from 50 to 75 per cent complete. Soil moisture is adequate except in far western counties. Range conditions were fair to good.

Ranges and livestock were in good shape in Central West Texas. Moisture was adequate and winter weeds made good growth. Early rains provided grazing. Screw worms were troublesome and ranchmen were busy caring for hunters.

North Texas field work was at the maximum. Grains made good growth. Favorable weather enabled farmers to destroy cotton stalks.

Rains left plenty of moisture in Northeast Texas and further boosted grains and legumes.

SHORT TO WEST

Moisture is adequate in the eastern counties of Central Texas but short to the west. The Central Texas cotton harvest is about over and the peanut and pecan harvests well under way. Oats made good progress and furnished some grazing.

Moisture is excellent, oats are growing fast and cattle are in excellent condition in deep East Texas.

Open weather is needed to finish planting and the planting of flax, oats and legumes in South Central Texas.

Fields were flooded and all work was at a standstill at midweek in the upper Gulf Coast District. Rains forced another extension of the cotton stalk destruction deadline. About 15 per cent of the cotton crop in the upper counties remains in the field.

15 Area Farmers, Ranchers To Tour Cornbelt Center

Fifteen area farmers and ranchers will leave Nov. 26 for Iowa and a tour of the cornbelt feeding center. They are among 66 West Texans who will make the trip.

The tour is aimed at learning how Iowa farmers profitably feed livestock for market, and tour personnel hope that a marked encouragement in West Texas for finishing more cattle and hogs for market will result.

The tour is sponsored by the agriculture and livestock committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The group will visit six farms in Iowa, including the Roswell Garst farm near Coon Rapids. In addition to the farms, the tour will include feeding research facilities of Iowa State University. Livestock specialists from the university will accompany the tour.

Before beginning the cornbelt feeding tour, the West Texas group will spend one day in Chicago at the International Livestock Exposition. Special railroad cars will carry

Rescuer Killed At Fire Scene

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Truck driver Stanley Wagner 35, rushed to aid two young persons trapped in a burning car on a highway today. Minutes later he was dead, struck by another automobile rounding a curve.

Injured in the same mishap were six other persons who had stopped at the scene.

Returning from his night deliveries of fuel and oil, Wagner saw Donald Burns, 21, and Monica Post, 19, both of Grand Island, pinned in their automobile which had struck a bridge abutment. Wagner extinguished a small fire that had started in the wreckage.

An automobile driven by William Murray, 22, of Niagara Falls rounded a curve and struck the Burns car, hitting Wagner.

Miss Post was reported in a critical condition at a hospital and six others were hospitalized.

Police said the accidents had happened minutes apart and that Murray had been unable to stop his car in time. No charges were placed.

Bites Both Ways

TOKYO (AP) — A man who made a racket out of teasing dogs into biting him and then collecting damages from their owners was sentenced Friday to a year in jail. The Tokyo District Court found Yoshio Itzaki, 35, guilty of collecting a total of $73.33 from nine dog owners this year. The 10th he tried his racket on called the police.

Eagle-Giant Bout Is NFL Headliner

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

The last time the Philadelphia Eagles and New York Giants met on consecutive Sundays the Eagles swept the pair to climax their third straight Eastern Conference championship in the National Football League. That was in 1949.

Now the Giants are shooting for three titles in a row and are 3-point home favorites to defeat the conference-leading Eagles today in the headline game of six on the NFL schedule. The Eagles (6-1) and Giants (5-1) meet again next Sunday at Philadelphia.

Jofre Takes Crown Home

By JIM BACON

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Brazil has its first boxing champion in history today and Eder Jofre's right hand thus becomes as famous as coffee and the samba in the South American republic.

Jofre, who boxes like Sugar Ray Robinson and punches like a diminutive Joe Louis, took the National Boxing Association's version of the world bantamweight championship Friday night with a lethal one-punch knockout of Mexico's Eloy Sanchez.

The lights went out at one minute and 30 seconds of the sixth round for the stoic Sanchez. Jofre's right didn't travel far. It didn't have to.

It caught Sanchez flush on the jaw and the game Mexican almost took a back flip before he hit the canvas.

"I was surprised when he stayed down," Jofre said later. Ringsiders weren't. Sanchez lay flat on his back several long moments after referee Mushy Callahan raised the Brazilian's gloved hand in victory.

Jofre, a 2-1 favorite, weighed 118 pounds as did Sanchez. Ironically, the knockout punch came as Sanchez was delivering his best fight of the evening. The round was savage with Sanchez unhooking a right that sent the Brazilian's mouthpiece flying. The punch brought a rousing ovation from the predominantly Mexican audience of 6,500 but Jofre's right cross quieted both the fans and Sanchez.

Wild confusion broke out among the 200 or more flag-waving Brazilians in the crowd as scores of them climbed into the ring screaming Portuguese congratulations to Brazil's new national hero.

Police reinforcements were needed to free Jofre from his countrymen and get him safely back to his dressing room at the Olympic Auditorium.

The new champ wants to take on Alphonse Halimi of France next to clear up the world title dispute. Halimi is recognized as the European bantamweight king. There seems little doubt that the Jofre-Halimi world championship fight will be held in Sao Paulo.

George Parnassus, who was co-promoter of Friday night's fight, made an agreement with the fighters that if Sanchez won, the title fight would be staged in Mexico. If Jofre was the winner the Halimi bout would be in Sao Paulo.

The crowd, which paid a gross of $40,010, was far from capacity but it was the noisiest of the year. The Brazilian delegation carried Brazilian flags and a big bass drum.

Jofre's trip-hammer right caught Sanchez in the fifth of the scheduled 15-rounder for a nine count.

"I did not expect him to get up from that punch," said Jofre. "Then, when I hit him with that right cross in the sixth, I was expecting him to get up."

Sanchez didn't. The Mexico City slugger, fighting with the stoic determination of his Indian forebears, was pummeling Jofre with some close-in combinations.

Then the Mexican lowered his head.

MEET THE 'seniors'

OF THE COSDEN FAMILY . . .

MARGUERITTE COOPER

This is the 19th in a series of special Cosden presentations recognizing the long and value services of those employees who have been associated with the Company 15 years or longer. Cosden is proud of its scores of workers who have contributed their efforts through so many years toward the success of the company.

It would be sheer guesswork to estimate the number of birthday cakes Margueritte Cooper has baked for friends and associates during her fifteen years with Cosden. The figure could be astronomical, however, because baking is a hobby with her. She has been cooking since she was ten, and new recipes continue to magnetize her.

Reading, television and club activities consume much of her leisure time. She is a charter member of the local Desk & Derrick Club and was its first corresponding secretary. Last year she was vice president. She concentrated her efforts this year as chairman of the nominating committee and as a member of the program committee. She is on the roster of Big Spring Rebekah Lodge No. 284, and is active in East Fourth Baptist Church as associate superintendent of Primary II Department.

Her companion at home, 507 Gollad, is a fluffy white Persian cat which she claimed from the pet haven of her sister and brother-in-law, the L. A. Plovmans. The roaming feline was christened Bull of the Woods.

Margueritte's affiliation with Cosden dates back to Oct. 23, 1945, the day after she left Civil Service at the old Bombardier School here. She had studied commercial subjects in regular and post-graduate work at Big Spring High School, from which she graduated in 1932. A year at Howard Payne College gave her additional training. Although born in Colorado City, she has lived in Big Spring since 1931.

As a secretary, she worked for Cosden in the sales department, was supervisor of the steno pool and, on Dec. 16, 1954, became Girl Friday for Mr. Marvin M. Miller, Senior Vice President, Producing Division. This is her present job, and it is a good observation point from which to survey the progress Cosden has made. Margueritte is proud to have joined the ranks of Cosden's fifteen-year employees.

COW POKES By Ace Reid

"If this outfit don't quit givin' green stamps, them women are gonna starve us cowtraders to death!"

Today Is Deadline For Overseas Mail

Today is the figurative deadline for mailing Christmas packages overseas to members of the Armed Forces or to authorized U.S. civilians abroad. Although chances of delivery may be lessened, packages will be accepted Monday—or any time, Postmaster Elmer Boatler said. However, every day lost makes it just that much less likely that delivery can be made on time. The Nov. 20 date applies to mail and parcels going by surface transportation. You can still get packages and letters overseas by airmail, and the suggested period for this is Dec. 1-10. Boatler said that parcels should be prepared with care to prevent breaking or crushing. For this reason, wooden boxes or metal containers are considered good. Heavy fibre board will suffice, but it should be wrapped with heavy paper to provide added strength. Materials in the parcel should be firmly packed, cushioned and filled out with packing material. It would be wise to enclose the name and address to whom the contents are directed, along with a list of items in the parcel. This will help get the package delivered if the exterior address should be lost or obliterated. Postage will be based on the zone charge to the APO or Fleet Postoffice through which the mail is consigned. Airmail up to eight ounces will be seven cents per ounce; over eight ounces will be charged at 80 cents per pound. In addition to regularly prohibited items through the mail (such as liquors), the Christmas mails may not contain cigarettes or coffee in some instances, and matches or lighter fluid in none.

W. F. Oyster Rites Held

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Willie F. Oyster, 55, former Colorado City water superintendent and city inspector, died at the Pecan Grove Rest Home in Sweetwater Thursday, after a long illness. Oyster was born June 28, 1905, in Cooper, but had lived in Colorado City since 1944. He was a member of the Church of Christ, the Masonic Lodge, Lion's Club, and married Lotice Rorie in Cooper in 1924. Mrs. Oyster died in 1935 and he married Margaret McCorkle in Hugo, Okla., Feb. 3, 1937. Funeral services were held in the Church of Christ, Saturday at 10 a.m., with E. H. Masters, minister, officiating. The Rev. Don Mecoy, pastor of the First Christian Church, assisted. Burial was in the Colorado City cemetery under the direction of the Kiker and Son Funeral Home. Masonic rites were held at the graveside. He is survived by his widow; a son, Wilford, Colorado City; a daughter, Miss Margaret Ann Oyster, Chinle, Ariz.; two brothers, Dave and Henry Oyster, both of Cooper; two sisters, Mrs. L. H. Harrow, Cooper, and Mrs. Bert Willis, Dallas; and two grandchildren.

Boatler Urges Early Mailings

Faced with the possibility that the 1960 Christmas season will set an all time holiday mailing record, Postmaster Elmer Boatler has announced that he's starting his annual "mail early for Christmas" campaign immediately. The Postmaster offers these helpful mailing tips to insure delivery of your Christmas cards and gifts on time. First, check your Christmas card list very carefully—make sure each address is complete with full name, street and number, city, zone and state. Second, for your Christmas gift packages, stock up now on heavy wrapping paper, sturdy corrugated cartons, strong cord, and paper adhesive tape. Third, remember that you can include your Christmas card or letter inside your gift package by adding the appropriate first class postage to the package itself. Fourth, buy your postage stamps now. Don't wait until the last minute when long lines form at the stamp windows. The post office will help residents plan Christmas mailings in a special pamphlet, which gives full information about proper packaging and wrapping of parcels. The post office will also supply free labels which read, ALL FOR LOCAL DELIVERY and ALL FOR OUT OF TOWN DELIVERY, so that residents can sort Christmas cards into two groups, with addresses all facing one way, thus insuring fast delivery. Use only First Class postage on Christmas cards, Boatler said. Cards sent by first class four cent, or seven cent Air Mail, may include personal handwritten messages. First Class mail also receives full forwarding and return service. Don't fail to put a return address on every Christmas card envelope. Not only is this socially correct, but it helps tremendously to keep the mailing lists up-to-date. Boatler says that with residents' help he'll get the Christmas mails through on time. He is making many advance preparations to handle the 1960 Christmas mail rush by putting on extra mail clerks and carriers, and by arranging for expanded facilities. The Postmaster asks that Big Springers make it a point to mail Christmas cards and gifts for the most distant points well before Dec. 19. Those for nearby destinations should be mailed by Dec. 15, or at least a week before Christmas.

Rites Held For O. L. Summers

COLORADO CITY (SC)—Orvil Leslie Summers, 38, of Westbrook, died at 9 a.m. Friday morning in the Johnson Hospital in Loraine after a week's illness. He was born Sept. 13, 1922 in Oklahoma, but had lived in Mitchell County since 1924. He was employed as a gas station attendant in Colorado City. Funeral was held at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Kiker and Son Chapel with the Rev. Kenneth Andrews, pastor of the Westbrook Baptist Church, officiating. Burial was in the Westbrook Cemetery under direction of Kiker and Son Funeral Home. He is survived by his stepmother, Mrs. Bessie Summers, Colorado City; one sister, Mrs. Howard Johnson, Abilene; one half-brother, Hazlan Summers, Colorado City and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Noel Griffith, Westbrook.

Dr. Dunn Will Speak Tuesday To Medical Group

Dr. Jack Dunn, Lubbock, specialist in neurological surgery, is to be the speaker for the meeting of the Permian Basin Medical Society Tuesday. The staff of the Big Spring State Hospital is to be host for the affair, which begins with a 7:30 p.m. dinner in the Central Dining Room at the hospital. Dr. Dunn's discussion is to deal with "Hemispherectomy in Infantile Hemiplegia." He has a number of colored slides to be projected in connection with the discussion. His subject is based on a study of cases which he did while at the Institute of Neurology, Queen's Square, London, England. Although the field is a highly specialized segment from neurosurgery, it does bring up interesting observations on brain function, Dr. Dunn pointed out. Once a year, the staff of the state hospital has the society members and their wives as guests for a dinner and a scientific meeting. Doctors from the VA and Webb AFB hospitals also are invited as guests, said Dr. Preston Harrison, state hospital superintendent.

Reader Finds Fault With Texas Ballots

To the Editor: On the news tonight it was said that thousands of ballots in the recent election were invalid because of failure to mark out all but one of the candidates in each race. I have heard of this same problem over newscasts on radio and in articles in your paper. It is said that in some counties the invalid ballots ran as high as 12 per cent. This type of error in marking the ballots in this state is very easy to make. I found two such mistakes on my own ballot when checking it over after marking it. I cannot understand why this "scratch-out" system is used. It is very confusing, and as I said, it is very easy to overlook marking out one name. What is the objection to the system most states use; that of simply placing an "X" beside the candidate of one's choice? With this system it is almost impossible to make an error in marking the ballot, and it seems to me that it must be just as easy to count the ballots as it is with the "scratch-out" system. I really can't understand why such a complicated system is used when such a simple system is available. Sincerely, CAMILLE S. KELLEY 906 1/2 Asiford

New Areas Of Learning At Marcy

By ANNE LEFEVER
Teachers and pupils never had it so good as do those at Marcy School—thanks to a group of lively women who are adding fun and knowledge to the regular curriculum of the school.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Leonard Einstein, who originated the project, wives of military personnel at Webb Air Force Base are devoting time each day to additional instruction of Marcy pupils.

Included in the group of instructors are women who are singers, art teachers, music instructors, dancers and professional models. For the love of teaching their art, the volunteers take over a period at some time each morning supervising groups of children and working with them.

First graders are being taught music; second grade youngsters are learning arts and crafts as well as painting. In the third grade, the interest is centered in musical rhythms, while folk dancing and painting have been added to the training of the pupils in the fourth grade.

The study of art and training in arts and crafts enrich the curriculum for boys and girls of the fifth grade; sixth grade girls are taught sewing, while the boys take painting, and all are receiving guidance in arts and crafts.

Each grade is divided into two sections for the instruction, with a leader and a helper or helpers teaching the activity. Once a month, leaders meet to exchange views, map programs and iron out any difficulties which may have occurred during the preceding period.

The project was started with arts and crafts only in the last three months of the past school year; this fall, it has been greatly enlarged with plans under way at the present time to add training in posture and charm. The instructor will probably be Mrs. John T. Groves, who has been a professional model, Mrs. Einstein stated.

Assisting Mrs. Einstein are Mrs. Vincent Brophy, who serves as liaison between the program and the volunteers; and Mrs. Lawrence Bassett, who teaches arts and crafts. Leaders include Mrs. Gregg Smith, instructor in sewing; Mrs. Alfred Short, teacher of music and Mrs. John Bodak, who teaches art.

Arts and crafts are taught by Mrs. Fred Armstrong, art and rhythm by Mrs. Donald Coakley; folk dancing by Mrs. Charles Weaver; music and rhythm by Mrs. John L. Geslin, and arts and crafts by Mrs. Junell Gary.

Mrs. Robert G. Bryank is also a teacher of folk dancing, and Mrs. Ernest Baumann is an art teacher.

Others, who give of their talents in the various fields, are Mrs. George Soupe, Mrs. Melvin Eden II, Mrs. Paul S. Moore, Mrs. Edward E. Moore Jr., Mrs. Michael L. Murray; Mrs. Grady Wilson, Mrs. Frances L. Bates; Mrs. Gerald K. Martin, Mrs. Robert Choplin.

Also, Mrs. Richard H. Goddard, Mrs. A. D. Johnson, Mrs. Willard A. Mason Jr., Mrs. Donald L. Olsen, Mrs. Larry Van Pelt, Mrs. Charles Lillie, Mrs. David C. Hopkins, Mrs. Dwight D. Miles, Mrs. William Schultz, Mrs. John Nugent, Mrs. Jon DeLune, Mrs. Terry Yuzbama and Mrs. Jon M. Zachen. And Mrs. Arthur Ross, Mrs. Gary S. Robbins, Mrs. Wayne Steele, Mrs. Morris E. Robertson and Mrs. William Daoust who serve as three of the leaders.

ALL THE INTEREST HERE IS created in the arts and crafts class instructed by Mrs. Leonard Einstein. The boys are painting their names on clothes pins which can be used as identification clips. The older groups have made puzzles from jar tops, cats from oatmeal and salt boxes and piggy banks from cottage cheese cartons. Mrs. Einstein directs the "extra-curricular" program of activities at the Marcy School.

ALL JOIN HANDS, sings the caller and around they go in a square dance set. Youngsters at Marcy School are learning folk dancing along with their regular studies, which are probably not nearly as much fun. Just as interested as the dancers are the two super-

SINGING IS A SERIOUS BUSINESS with some of the first grade students who are getting their "do re mi" under the leadership of Mrs. Alfred Short. To most of the children this is the first training of this sort and the reaction is sometimes hesitant while at other times all the youngsters join in the vocalizing.

A MACHINE MUST BE THREADED JUST SO or there's no luck with sewing, these youngsters in Marcy School are learning. Mrs. Gregg Smith is one of the leaders in the project being carried on by a group of wives of Webb AFB personnel to give pupils a bit of extra-curricular training in various branches of culture. Learning to sew under her guidance are Sandra Gradel, standing, and seated, left to right, Patsy Thorp, Lillie Lott and Georgie Burns.

A BOY'S BEST TEACHER is his mother and this is true in the case of Scotty Bassett, whose mother, Mrs. L. J. Bassett, teaches oil painting to her son and others who are interested. This instruction is part of the unique plan being used at the Marcy Elementary School with volunteer teachers.

Jessie Paddick Becomes Bride Of Kenneth Tindol

In a double ring ceremony performed Friday evening in the Grace Baptist Church Jessie Paddick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Turner, Gail Route, became the bride of Kenneth Tindol, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Tindol of Big Spring. Vows were read by the Rev. Ronnie Allen before an altar decorated with arrangement of white mums, palms and candelabra.

Vows Read In Church Parlor Unite Couple

Dr. P. D. O'Brien read the vows Friday evening that united in marriage Mrs. Nadine Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Adams of Colorado City and Don McEntire, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McEntire of Lubbock.

Vows were read in the parlor of the First Baptist Church as the couple stood before an improvised altar decorated with baskets of bronze chrysanthemums accented with yellow pom pom chrysanthemums.

For her wedding the bride chose a dress of egg shell colored lace featuring long sleeves and a jeweled neckline. She carried a tailored corsage of yellow rapture roses nested in a shower of yellow satin streamers on a white Bible. Mrs. Billy Wayne Cockrell of Knott attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a shoulder corsage of gardenias.

Bobby McEntire of Lubbock served his brother as best man. Prenuptial music was provided by Jerry McClure. Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Cosden Country Club. The bride's table was covered with a white cloth and centered with an arrangement of white gladioli and white pom pom chrysanthemums accented with silvered leather fern.

The couple will make their home at 2000 South Monticello.

Local Group Plan Clinic

The Big Spring chapter of the National Secretaries Association has been chosen by the Texas-Louisiana division to host the pilot leadership clinic here Dec. 10.

Members were told of the selection at the Thursday meeting in the Cosden Snack Bar. This will be an all day clinic from 9 until 4 at the Setiles Hotel and more than 100 secretaries are expected to attend. They will be from points in Oklahoma, Texas and Louisiana. Mrs. Billy Mack Sheppard is chairman of the project.

Dec. 1 is the deadline for applications for the 30-hour business administration study course in January. This course is to prepare secretaries to take the Certified Public Secretary's examination in the spring. Mrs. Harold Cain is the CPS chairman and information concerning the examinations may be had by contacting her at Webb AFB, AM 4-2511, Ext. 334. It was pointed out that membership in the secretaries association is not necessary but secretaries must meet certain qualifications before they can take the examination. A total of 1,711 secretaries have been certified during the nine years of the CPS program. 245 candidates having been certified last year, Texas ranks second in the international association.

Mrs. Winifred Greenless was the hostess for the meeting and served refreshments from a gaily decorated table. The cloth was orange and a dried arrangement of flowers, brown and orange leaves was used for the centerpiece. The Thanksgiving motif was used in serving accessories.

Mrs. Bobby Asbury and Mrs. Sheppard will be hostess for the Christmas party.

Coffee Is Given

The brown, gold and copper tones of the autumn season were effectively used Saturday morning by Mrs. J. Tip Anderson when she entertained with a coffee at her home.

A hanging basket filled with brown and yellow daisy chrysanthemums served as a decoration on the entrance porch. Calling hours were between 9:30 and 11:30 a.m.

Mrs. T. A. Underhill, Mrs. Alison Muneke, Mrs. Harris McCannless and Mrs. John Balch assisted the hostess and wore pine cone corsages.

The serving table was laid with a beige linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of yellow chrysanthemums. Serving was done from a copper service.

For Leftovers

Old-fashioned New England cooks sometimes used to chop the vegetables leftover from a "boiled dinner" and put the mixture into a hash.

Fools For Fashion!!

By JOE MOREFIELD
Since we all love fashions and hair plays a major part in fashion, let's learn to protect mother nature's natural asset. The cosmetology profession has been concerned for some time as to what brush rollers are doing to women's hair.
Nylon brush rollers are definitely breaking the hair, especially hair which has fashionable color and permanent waves. In using rollers, the hair should be rolled without brushes and rolled loosely. When wet hair is rolled around a roller tightly, the hair draws when drying, causing too much strain on the hair shaft, and after a period of time the hair will start falling out. You've seen what happens with pony tails, so ladies, let's quit horsing around and take care, never put brush rollers in the hair.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Actresses Answer Readers' Questions

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD—(Editor's Note: Miss Lane invites your letter but regrets that a personal reply cannot be given. From time to time, she will answer beauty problems in the Hollywood Beauty column.)

AUDREY HEPBURN

Q-I have been married 12 years and we have three children. I do all my own housework, and my husband complains that I have let myself go. Is this fair? It makes me mad that he expects a glamour girl with all I have to do. I don't want our marriage to break up. Please help me. (Mrs. F. Q., Honolulu, Hawaii)

A-Audrey Hepburn says, "There would be fewer divorces if the wife took half as much time and pains to be well-groomed for her husband as she did before her marriage. I don't have the nerve to let my husband see me when I am not looking my best. Somehow we find time for the things we feel are important. It is often said that a man loves with his eyes as well as his heart. If you adopt a grooming routine and form a habit of looking your best, I am sure that your marriage will be a happier one."

Q-I had a baby a few weeks ago and I'm very anxious to get back into my clothes that I wore before I became pregnant, but everything is too tight in the waist. Can you tell me what the stars do to get their figures back?

A-Audrey Dalton's waist is as tiny as before she had her baby, and she says, "I worked at getting my waistline back with exercises every single morning. I began by stretching as far as I could to the ceiling, holding a heavy book in my hands. Then I fell over rag-doll fashion with my head between my legs. Once I had limbered up, I stood up straight, stretched out my arms shoulder height and turned as far as I could in one direction and then as far as I could in the other."

Q-While doing this I kept the lower part of my body straight. To get good results, you have to keep the lower part of your body perfectly still so you can get a really strong pull.

For more exercises to regain a good figure after childbirth, send for Leaflet M-9. For each copy send 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, Big Spring Herald.

Q-I used to receive many compliments on my hair, but I'm worried about it now and so I'm turning to you for help. I find that I can't get it to grow any more. It's soft and fine and splits on the ends. (T. D., Patterson, New Jersey)

A-Opera singer Helen Traubel solved a similar problem. She says, "I have very fine hair and I was troubled with it breaking off at the ends. Then someone told me to try using a brush with plastic bristles. I like using it so much that I bought a smaller one which I use for shampoos and I find it gives a fine stimulation to my scalp."

Here are three leaflets to help you regain your youthfulness:

M-13 "Ten-Day Trimming Diet"

M-21 "Prevent That Double Chin"

M-55 "Complexion Magic"

For your copies of these vital leaflets, send 10 cents for EACH one and only one self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, Big Spring Herald.

Brownie Pound Cake

Does your family like brownies? Here is a new idea for a brownie cake.

BROWNIE POUND CAKE

- 1 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 1/2 cup cocoa
- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 3 eggs
- 1 1/2 cups coarsely broken walnuts.

Grease pan (9 by 5 by 2 1/2 inches); line bottom and sides with paper; grease paper. Sift together flour, salt and cocoa; cream butter and sugar; beat in thoroughly 4 of the eggs, one at a time. Add sifted dry ingredients; stir until smooth. Beat in remaining egg just until smooth; do not overbeat. Fold in walnuts. Turn into prepared pan. Bake in slow (300 degrees) oven about 1 1/2 hours or until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean. Allow pan to stand on wire rack 10 minutes; turn out and cool right side up. (Cake will have characteristic crack on top.) Store in tightly covered container for several days before slicing thin. Cake mellows and gets softer on storage.

For French Fries

When you finish cooking a batch of french fried potatoes put them in a clean paper bag to absorb any extra fat. If the bag is set in a warm oven it will keep them hot until ready to serve.

Applesauce Go-Along

Applesauce go-along for browned pork chops gets zippy flavor with the addition of horseradish.

Add Celery Salt

A famous New York oyster bar always adds celery salt to their oyster stew. Could be that this practice originated with the New England way of adding finely diced crisp white celery to panned oysters made with cream and sherry.

Antique Folding Bed Is In Use In W. R. Campbell Home

By ANNE LEFEVER
If you were lucky enough to have the old-fashioned type of grandmother or an aunt who owned the massive furniture of an early day, you probably slept in just such a bed as Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Campbell, 1511 Stadium, own.

It's an old folding bed, which looks very much like a large wardrobe when it is closed. When the front is lowered, it makes a most comfortable bed—just a bit short, by modern standards.

Mrs. Campbell remembers sleeping in the bed when she visited her grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kiechle, in Evansville, Ind. Even as a child, she hoped to own the bed some day, and Mrs. Kiechle always promised her that it would be hers.

The bed was bought by the Kiechles in the early years after their marriage in 1889, and Mrs. Campbell thinks that it must be at least 65 years old. It weighs 160 pounds, 250 of that being lead weights which control the balance.

So perfectly balanced is the mechanism of the bed that five-year-old Jason lowers or lifts the front with no difficulty or danger.

Fashioned of beautifully-grained wood, the bed holds a full-length mirror which would be an attractive addition to any room. Ornate carving enhances the front and top and carved metal legs give decorative touches on the sides. Occupants of the bed at the present time are the two daughters of the family, Jan, who is 11 years old, and Betsy, who is seven. The Campbells have another son, Ricky, 12.

The bed is not the only antique highly-prized by Mrs. Campbell, whose home town is Rowena; from her grandmother, she also inherited an ornate iron table with marble top and shelf. On display in the home is an old-fashioned plush album with all the typical art—the stiff, formal bridal couple; the stern men and women who peer at you from cardboard portraits and the little nude babies on rugs.

Adding beauty to the family room are articles of genuine hobnail glass including a sugar, creamer, candy dish, vinegar, cruet and sirup pitcher. Hand-painted treasures are a large pitcher and a grouping for a dresser—powder bowl, pintray and a flat bowl with a hole in the top, known as a hair-receiver.

Plans of the Campbells are to refinish the old bed at some future date, but right now, it goes on being pulled down at night and lifted to its resting place each morning.

First It Isn't—Then It Is

The handsome piece of furniture in the upper photo looks like a wardrobe, doesn't it? But it's an old-fashioned folding bed. When the front is pulled down, the carved iron at each side serves as legs. In the lower picture, Mrs. W. R. Campbell, the owner, is shown with five-year-old Jason, who lifts and lowers the bed easily, due to the well-balanced mechanism. The bed, shown ready for sleepers, can be made up, ready for occupancy, before it is lifted back into position.

College Girl Is Honor Student In Electrical Engineering

By MARCY C. O'LEARY
The Worcester Telegram
WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—Brains and beauty do mix. Miss Judith M. Anderson, 21, a four-year honor student in a five-year electrical engineering course at Northeastern University, Boston, proves it.

Judy worked this summer on the test set of the U.S. Navy Polaris missile at the Bedford plant of an electronics company. And she was crowned queen of the 1960 Military Ball of H-Company, 11th Regiment, Seaboard and Blade, of the Boston area ROTC units.

Slender, chestnut-haired, 5-foot-5 Judy is a serious-minded beauty. Because her curriculum calls for a five-year cooperative work program, she goes to school 10 weeks, then works 10 weeks. Her only vacation this year was a week during the summer at the electronics company (Raytheon) where she has worked intermittently for the past three years.

When she is graduated in 1962 she will have had the equivalent of two years' work experience.

Six girls started with Judy's electrical engineering class at Northeastern. Only one other remains. Some, she explains, had trouble with their studies. One left to be married. So it goes.

Judy does some drafting and other detailed work for the Polaris in the Missile Systems Division's lab at Bedford. In the previous years she did the same type of work at the U.S. Army's Hawk. Her work period salaries help pay her $1,200 a year in tuition and other school expenses.

At school Judy has been on the Dean's list three years, is a member of Eta Kappa Nu, honorary electrical engineering fraternity. Recently in a nationwide competition Judy won the $500 Lillian Moller Gilbreth scholarship, sponsored by the Society of Women Engineers, and honoring the efficiency engineer.

A native of Malden, Mass., Judy is the eldest of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Anderson's three children. A sister, Karen, 17, is a student nurse, and sister, Faye, is a high schooler with a talent for painting. Judy wishes she had more feminine company in her field. She decries the loss to the world of science of the skills and aptitudes of girl students whose brilliant minds are directed elsewhere.

Old-time supper worth repeating: fried salt pork, baked or boiled potatoes and fried eggs. This comes from New England.

Turkey Tip
Before the turkey goes into the oven it may be coated with flour, salt and pepper. A mixture of melted butter and hot water may be used for basting.

Beef To Be Plentiful

If beef is your meat, October and November will be good months in buying plenty of it.

The beef animal has been considered a source of choice meat from earliest time. Take the Bible's fatted calf, prepared for the prodigal son, for example. Beef was the mark of festive eating.

Then, there are the legends of Merrie Olde England telling of beef joint on the tables of the aristocracy. King Charles II of England was so impressed with a steaming platter of beef he ceremoniously honored it with a knighthood. To this day, one of the excellent beef cuts is known as Sir Loin.

It's still true. You're eating like a king when you have sirloin steak. But you don't have to have purple blood to appreciate or afford the deliciousness of this and other beef cuts. Beef is so plentiful and economical in America these days it has become regular fare for everyone.

Beef cattle numbers the first of this year were up 7 per cent from a year earlier. For the first time on record, all cattle on farms exceeded 101 million.

On July 1, cattle and calves on feed were 4 per cent greater than a year earlier. Fed-cattle marketings in July and August were some larger than a year ago. More young stock are coming along on the ranges.

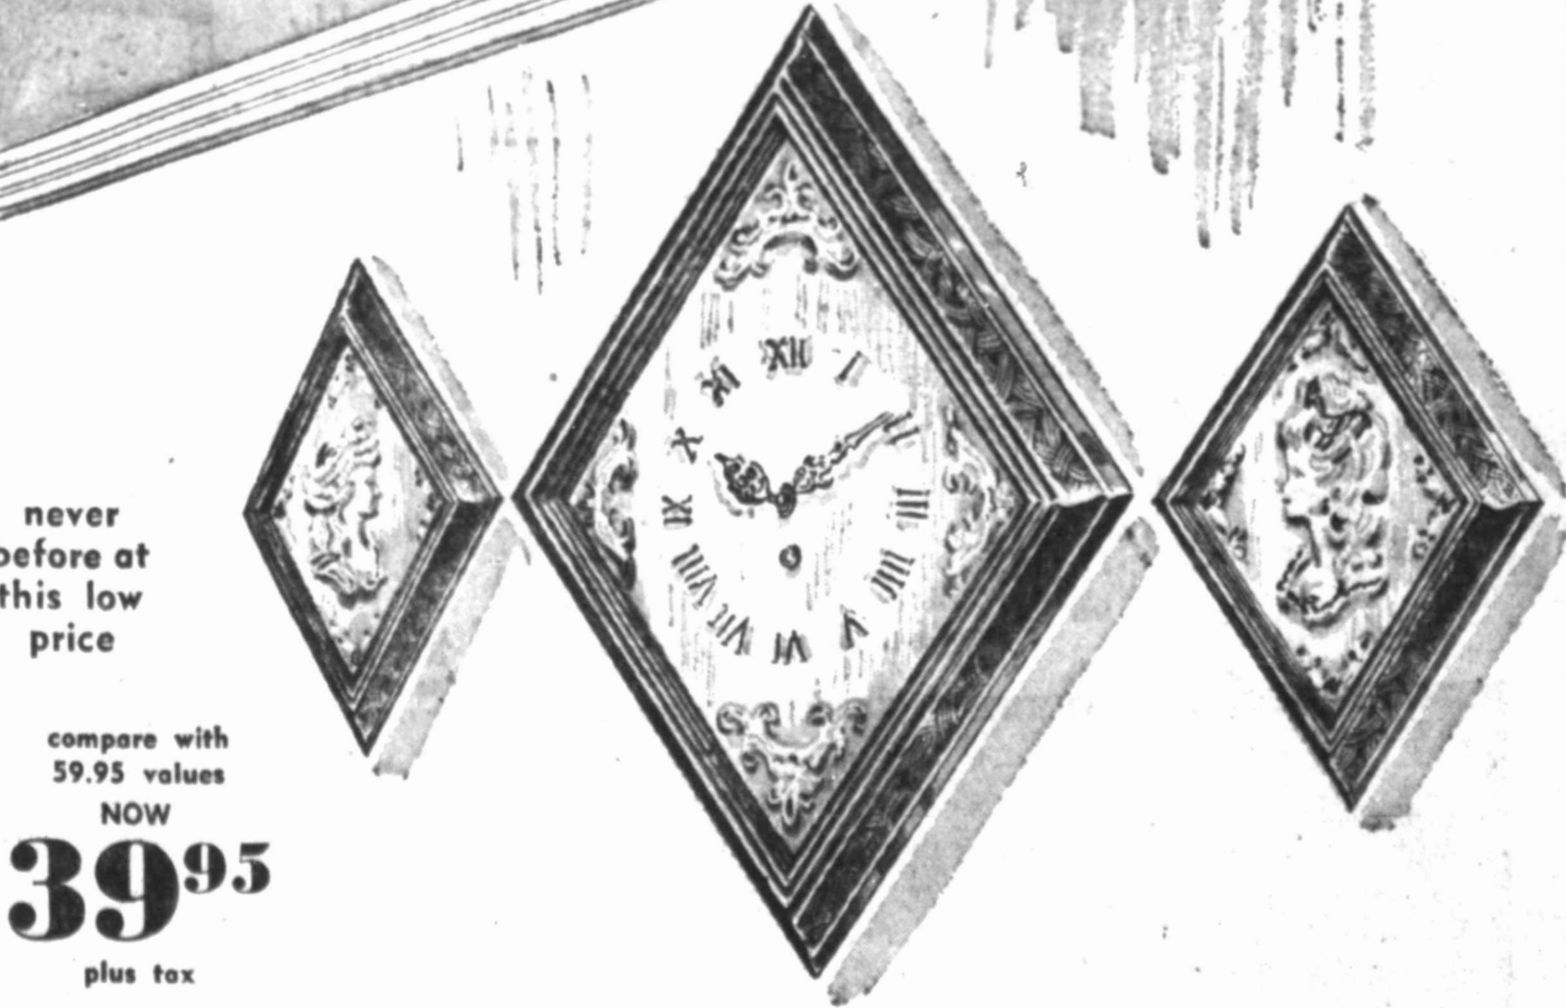

The average person will eat 84.5 pounds of beef in 1960. That's almost 3 pounds more than a year ago and 19 pounds more than the 1947-49 average.

Right along with the abundance, you may have noticed the lower prices. Retail prices on nutritious chuck roast and hamburger, for example, average 2 cents a pound less in August, 1960, than a year ago.

Nice for a Sunday-night buffet: slice a cooked chicken and mold it in an aspic made from chicken stock. At serving time garnish the unmolded jellied chicken with an abundance of minced parsley and some lemon slices.

Mrs. W. R. Potter Is Forum Speaker

"A Time of Thanks" was the subject of the program brought by Mrs. W. R. Potter of Roscoe for members of The Woman's Forum when they met in the home of Mrs. Cecil McDonald Friday afternoon.

In enumerating the many things for which thanks should be given, Mrs. Potter listed the wonders of nature; the blue sky, the running water in the brooks and rivers, the changing seasons. She reminded the women of the pleasure of past memories; the good feeling of living in a friendly town and in doing so she used familiar poetry. She urged the women to give thanks for good books, for music and pictures and also suggested they try to accomplish the art of relaxation in order to better enjoy God's handiwork.

During the business session the club voted to buy a $10 bond from the TB Association. Names were drawn for the Christmas party.

Announcement was made of the Charm Course to be sponsored by the Cactus Chapter of the American Business Women's Club, slated at the old SUB at HCJC on Nov. 28-29.

Mrs. Potter was given a corsage and a gift from the club. Seventeen members and the guest were served refreshments by Mrs. McDonald and the co-hostess, Mrs. Elvis McCrary.

Ear Piercing Coming Fashion Or Going Fad

Pierced ears are a fashion, not a fad! However, by the time a person reaches the age of 16 years she very seldom will have it done. At one time it was a fad but in later years has proven to be more of a fashion.

Some babies' ear lobes are penetrated before they reach the age of one year.

Most people have their ears pierced by a friend or a person who does it as a hobby or a job. The most common way is to deaden the ears with clothes pins before inserting a large size threaded sewing needle into the earlobes. A cork is held to the back of the ear; when the needle hits the cork, the cork is jerked away in order to pull the thread through the ear.

The needle and thread should be dipped into alcohol or otherwise sterilized before being inserted. The possibility of infection is high if precautions are not taken.

Another way of deadening the ears is by pinching them with the thumb and forefinger for several minutes or by holding an ice cube to the lobes. The act of piercing is painful if the right method is not used, but is not dangerous if the proper care is taken.

A doctor will do the job for a small fee. He uses a deadening ointment on the ears before inserting a shot of pain killer. He uses a regular shot needle and will either put a sterile string, sterile wire or solid gold rings into the ears. This is definitely the most painless and safest way it can be done.

Solid gold earrings or a string should be put into the newly pierced ears so that they may be moved gently. A petroleum jelly should be applied to the earrings, or whatever used, so they may be easily moved through the ears at least twice a day. Some people even use broom straws.

Earrings for pierced ears are beautiful and comfortable to wear. At one time most all young women had the operation performed, and most older women have, or have had at one time, had penetrated ear lobes.

Most women have a certain pair of earrings that are worn all the time night and day, but still there are those that like the long dangling ones and prefer a change of style.

The comparison of sales between earrings for pierced ears and clip earrings are to every 10 pairs of clip earrings, one pair for pierced ears is sold.

After the ears have been perforated and have healed completely, they very seldom grow up except for a thin piece of skin at the back of the ear lobe. This skin, however, may be easily and painlessly pushed back again.

ARE YOU ONE OF THE 3 TYPES OF WOMEN WHO DOESN'T USE A GAS CLOTHES DRYER?

MRS. SEMORE CASH
Money means nothing to her. Has a wealthy husband who pays all the bills without batting an eye. She just buys... and, of course, uses nothing but the most expensive, whether it's automobiles or appliances. (What else can a woman of her social position do?) She's not concerned with the phenomenal savings in operating costs of a Gas Dryer. Twenty-five dollars a year? Trivia, my dear Cavendish!

MRS. L. M. CAREFREE
Time means nothing to her. No kids to keep up with... belongs to no clubs or organizations... doesn't have to fit her hours to any particular schedule. She's not impressed by the fact that the faster performance of a Gas Dryer provides precious minutes to the harried homemaker with an over-crowded schedule.

PRUNELLA HARDTACK
You can't convince HER that the clean, live flame in a Gas Dryer is completely isolated from the clothes... that National Fire Underwriters statistics prove Gas near the bottom of the list as an accident cause... that the low heat—high air flow principle of Gas Drying is completely safe for even the delectable of synthetic fabrics. No matter how valid the advantages, she'll stick with her prejudices.

RIGHT NOW, YOUR GAS APPLIANCE DEALER IS OFFERING THE YEAR'S BEST BUYS ON FAMOUS-NAME GAS DRYERS. IF YOU'RE NOT ALREADY USING GAS FOR DRYING, THIS IS THE TIME TO CHECK THE FACTS. LIVE MODERN... FOR LESS... WITH GAS!

Old-Fashioned
Old-fashioned cooks sometime made French toast differently from the way it is prepared today. Instead of beating together the egg and milk as the coating for the bread to be fried, they dipped the bread slices first into the milk, then into the beaten egg.

Newcomers Arrive Here From Spain

Before their arrival in Big Spring the family of T. Sgt. Caldwell Cunningham had made their home in Zaragoza, Spain, for the past 33 months. The Cunninghams have two daughters, Susan Carlette who is three years of age and Diana Lynn who is 18 months old.

T. Sgt. Cunningham who has been in the Air Force for the past 12 years is an air traffic controller. His hobbies include fishing and golf.

The couple who both list their hometown as Mobile, Ala., met at a party given by his sister after his return from a duty in Japan. They were married in Mobile and made their first home at Sewert Air Force Base near Nashville, Tenn. T. Sgt. Cunningham then spent a year in Korea before the family moved to Spain.

The Cunninghams say they liked Spain fine but were ready to return home by the time the three years had passed.

While living in Spain Mrs. Cunningham was an active member of the NCO Wives Club where she served as decoration chairman for the club and was a member of the Base Protestant Women's Guild.

Out She Goes

S. Sgt. Warren D. Hannabass demonstrates the height of the concrete structure to be blown out of the "big spring" as S. Sgt. George H. Schweickert (top) watches Francisco Torrez set the jackhammer for a dynamite hole. The Big Spring Hunting and Fishing Club is restoring the spring to its natural state, and has the help of the Webb Air Force Base Explosive Ordnance Team. The concrete work was the base for a water pump used many years ago by the Texas & Pacific Railway to pump spring water down to the old T&P shops. (USAF Photo by Airman 1. C. Tom C. Matthews.)

Historic Site Being Restored

A renovation and restoration is under way for the city's No. 1 historical site. That is, of course, the "big spring."

The work is another contribution to the public enjoyment by the Big Spring Hunting and Fishing Club, an organization of Cosden Petroleum Corp. employees which acquired acreage south of town that encompassed the site of the historic watering place. The club some years ago dedicated five acres of this tract to public use, and it was designated as "Pioneer Park."

Protective fences were built around the big cavern, a roadway was built for sight-seers. In 1949, the centennial year for "discovery" of the spring, a special marker was built.

EROSION

The erosion of weather, plus appalling damage by vandals, had wrecked the marker. The roads had deteriorated.

So, the Cosden people have set out to do something about it. A new marker — of metal and stone — has been erected, with the earnest hope that it will be respected as a place of historical respect and left alone by mischief-makers. Fences have been strengthened. The county is in the process of repairing the bit of winding road through Pioneer Park.

Major undertaking, however, is the removal of a massive concrete structure which has been in the old spring for many years. It was the base for the pumps which sent spring water coursing down to the Texas & Pacific Railway Shops over a half-century ago. Removal of the concrete will restore the spring to its approximate native state.

VOLUNTEERS

In this work, more volunteers have come forward. They are from Webb Air Force Base, the base's explosive ordnance disposal team was at work this past week setting off charges of dynamite and C-4 (plasticized explosive). This technical assistance from Webb was made possible through coordination of Col. A. F. Taute, deputy wing commander; Douglas Orme, president of the Big Spring Hunting and Fishing Club, and Col. Donald W. Pendergast, M & S Group commander at the Base. Webb's two-man EOD team, Staff Sergeants George H. Schweickert and Warren D. Hannabass, furnished the technical "know-how" and the club supplied the material. An inspection by the technical men revealed that 33 sticks of dynamite plus some C-4 would do the job.

The National Guard unit here placed guards at the site during detonation periods to assure complete safety.

With the ultimate clearing out of this concrete wreckage, and the completion of the roads and new marker, the "big spring" will be in readiness again for sight-seers.

PRESERVATION

The Cosden people — with many other civic leaders who have pressed for preservation of the old spring — are hopeful that renewed public interest will help develop the site as a scenic attraction and a spot of tourist appeal.

The "big spring," of course, was a watering place for buffaloes, Indians, trail blazers and pioneer settlers, in the 19th century. With the coming of the railroad in the early '80s, the big water supply was tapped to supply the steam locomotives and the T&P's division shops.

The spring went dry soon after the turn of the century, has remained so since, except when flood runoff fills it. It remains, however, the site of exceptional natural beauty.

Youngster Ends Dunning Terror

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — No longer will Edward Kelleher, 9, have to worry about what happens to little boys who don't pay a $60.33 hospital bill.

He won't have to appear Monday before a magistrate, for the magistrate canceled the hearing when he learned Edward's age.

And Constable Harvey Robin said his office won't send Edward summonses and dunning letters any more, now that Robin knows Edward is a boy, not a man.

Edward's mother said her son had been frightened by letters threatening to attach his "salary" and sell his personal belongings. Robin said he never authorizes threatening letters, even to adults, and fired the clerk who sent them.

The Kellehers thought an insurance policy would cover a minor operation Edward had three years ago at Metropolitan Hospital. Now that they know it won't, Edward's father has paid $10 on the bill.

Colorado City Residents Ponder Area's Position

COLORADO CITY (SC) — About 400 Colorado Citizens attended the Town Hall meeting at Civic House to hear a series of reports on Colorado City's economic position and discussions of Colorado City's strong and weak points.

The Thursday meeting was sponsored by Colorado City's Industrial Foundation and Industrial Team Chairman Charley Thompson acted as chairman.

Frank Kelley, Magnolia oilman and Mitchell County farmer and rancher, speaking on the economic climate offered by Mitchell County, mentioned the trend from the farm to the city and the concentration of people in the larger cities and said, "I think the small town has just about hit bottom. . . . I believe that we are going into an era in which the small town is attractive to small factories."

As Midland and Odessa got the benefit of nature in drawing oilmen and oil companies to their areas because they were "where the oil was," Kelley predicted that water which Colorado City has in abundance — would eventually act as a similar magnet to water-seeking industry.

Banker Gus Chesney, speaking on territorial relations, said that Colorado City's economy was based on cotton, cattle and oil, "in that order," and suggested that Colorado City merchants take greater interest in "our trade area" and become better informed on interests and needs of the small communities in the area.

Other speakers included Dr. Bill Rhode, Harry Ratliff, Bob Reilly, J. W. Randle and Roy Bates.

Eldon Mahon, owner of Radio

Station KVMC, told the group, "Too many of our businessmen think of their competition as the man across the street — our competition is Abilene, Sweetwater, San Angelo and Big Spring. On present paved highways, our people can go to those towns in minutes, and do you know that the Abilene Reporter delivers 1,223 copies daily in Mitchell County? And it carries advertising."

Mahon mentioned that the Big Spring Herald and San Angelo Standard also had circulation in Mitchell County and added, "We have got to be competitive."

Jeweler Buzz Majors echoed Mahon's thought, adding, "Let's start making competition instead of trying to meet it."

Y's Youth In Government Trains New Young Leaders

By DAN HARDING

With the election still fresh in our minds, let's stop and think of where our future presidents, governors and legislators will come from. As always, they will come from all parts of America—the farm, the city, the village and the town. What are some of the training grounds for these future politicians? There are many. One of the most interesting and fruitful is the YMCA Youth and Government Program, which is doing something specific to develop potential leaders among young men in this country.

Senator Frank Church (D Idaho) was the keynote speaker at one of the conventions this summer. Twenty-three years ago, Senator Church began his political career as a delegate to the first Youth and Government session in the State of Idaho. He is just one of many men in public office who gained their first experience in government in this way.

In the next few months in YMCAs all across the country, H-Y Groups will begin training and preparing for next spring's Youth and Government program. The young men participating will study, read, make reports and participate in discussions on the problems of government and governing. Problems will range from zoning in their home town to the educational budget of the state legislature.

Student leaders are brought from all over the state to attend a model legislature which elects student state officials up to and including a student governor. They then go through actual parliamentary procedure, including the introducing of laws and bills.

For at least one day these someday-to-be leaders actually sit in the seats of both governor and mayor. They learn first-hand the day-to-day activities and problems of governing the community—and often make contributions to its welfare by suggesting legislation.

For example, a few years ago the student legislature in New York proposed that a bill be passed which would require Boards of Education to adopt an insurance plan to cover students against accidents while engaged in supervised athletics. The bill passed the student legislature and its members were satisfied with the experience gained at "playing government." One year later the legislature of the State of New York, having heard about the action of the Youth and Government legislature, brought the bill before its body and it became the law of the state.

The stated purpose of the H-Y program is to prepare a selected group of young men for moral and political leadership in the American Democratic process. From this program will emerge many of the political leaders of tomorrow. Those who have no aspirations for public service will come away with a keener understanding of what makes their local and state governments work, and hence help to form a more intelligent electorate.

CAMP FOR NIGHT
Members of geology float-trip make camp in Santa Elena Canyon.

Geologists Take Canyon Raft Trip

Last weekend the structural geology class from H-CJ took one of the most exciting and unusual field trips ever made by the geology department. It involved a 17 mile float trip down the Rio Grande through Santa Elena Canyon in the Big Bend. Making the trip were Jim Bain, Leon Byrd, Lendon Hightower, Dick Madison, Ken Hooper and their instructor, Ken Seewald. Also with the group was Clyde Seewald, brother of Mr. Seewald, who is a sophomore geology major at the University of Texas. The group left the campus at noon Friday, Nov. 11, and returned last Sunday night.

The purpose of the trip was to study the structural features of the rock formations exposed in the walls of the canyon. The canyon, carved by the downcutting action of the Rio Grande through millions of years, exposes rocks that date back over 100,000,000 years thus providing excellent exposures for reconstructing past geologic events. An added incentive in making the trip was the thrill of making a float trip through the most dangerous of the 3 canyons in Big Bend.

The float trip got underway at 1 p.m. Saturday afternoon starting at the small settlement of Lajitas where the group had camped out on Friday night. During the first part of the journey the river moved slowly, allowing time to study the geology in detail. By nightfall the group was some 10 miles down the river and an overnight camp was made within sight of the canyon proper.

Sunday morning the group was soon within the Canyon, where for seven miles the river is boxed in between sheer walls averaging 1,500 feet above the river level. On mile within the canyon a large boulder slide almost blocks the river. Getting past this slide proved to be the most exciting part of the trip. The river narrows to several deep, swift channels that wind around the large boulders from the slide. Riding the raft through the rapids and swift currents provided enough thrills for everyone.

After getting through the slide the rest of the trip was an anticlimax, but occasional white water rapids and cross channel rapids provided some excitement. The mouth of the canyon was reached at 2 p.m. Sunday afternoon.

At present the geology department plans to make a similar trip through Mariscal Canyon on Dec. 10 and at some later date to make the 23-mile float trip through Boquillas Canyon.

ELVIS PRESLEY

Critics Like Elvis In His New Movie

By JOHN LARSEN

Elvis Presley is not the kind of guy who would say "I told you so!" But he has every right to utter these words with the greatest of glee because the critics have at last discovered that Elvis can act. Critics from coast to coast are eating their words.

Elvis smiles when he reads the reviews of his latest Hal Wallis film, "G. I. Blues." "I've never been so gratified," he said, simply. "It's like being exonerated for something I didn't commit. I prayed for the day those critics would find something kind to say about me."

Those who remember Elvis Presley when his records sold like the proverbial hot cakes, can tell you how deeply hurt he was when adults slammed his records and his personal appearances. "It did not matter that his RCA Victor records sold like crazy and that the kids crowded the theaters wherever he played; what mattered is that adults disapproved and that bothered El," a good friend recalled.

"Elvis isn't a casual guy; he's sensitive and takes criticism—especially unjust criticism—to heart. He used to brood about the stuff that was printed about him," another said. "and so did his late mother. She couldn't understand why people panned her boy. If only she could have lived to see the about-face critics have taken. She would have been proud and happy."

From the moment Elvis was released from the Army, one topic of conversation dominated the stories written about him—love! Elvis is not exactly a shrinking Romeo, and girls play an important part in his life. "I'm not ready for the wedding march bit," he said recently. "I know a lot of girls and intend to play the field until the right one comes along. I am not in any hurry to fall in love, but I'm not running away," he said.

Tuesday Weld and Sherry Jackson are two of the girls El flipped over recently, but both girls got over their crushes in record time. Juliet Prowse, the fascinating dancer-actress who co-starred with Elvis in "G. I. Blues," was reported to be in love with Elvis and he with her. But there is no basis of truth here. "We had a ball working together," Elvis said. But those who had seen them together on the set suspected that El's feelings for her went deeper.

"I've got a goal," Elvis told us, "and that is to become the best possible actor. I don't want to walk through a role; I want to do a great job. I want people to respect me as an actor. I hope every film I do shows an improvement," he said with sincerity.

Election Compared To TV Quiz Show

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—A professor says the recent general election was a "marketing contest between two men" with mass communication media pushing the candidates in much the same manner as cigarettes, pills or patent medicines.

Dr. Dallas W. Smythe, of the University of Illinois told an adult education council here recently that American politics is undergoing a transformation "from local and personal influence the selection of candidates and the formation of platforms to organization men and their manipulation of images via Madison Avenue."

Don't Let Her Interfere With Your Education

By BESSIE LITTLE
Publisher Teen Parade

DEAR BESSIE: I'm having quite a battle with my girl friend. She thinks I'm lazy because I won't get a part-time job. Money right now isn't important to me; what is important is that I use every free moment studying. I'm taking evening college courses while I'm in my senior year in high school and the going is rather rough. My parents give me an adequate allowance but it doesn't allow for extras such as dating. Babs, my girl, wants me to take her places I can't afford. I'm half-tempted to give up night school because I don't want to lose Babs. What are your views, Bessie? I bet a lot of guys have the same problem.—GEORGE G.

DEAR GEORGE: I've received quite a number of letters from Under Twenty males faced with the same problem. My answer has never deviated—stick to your books, ambitions and dreams. Instead of hampering you, Babs should be proud of your scholastic achievements and encourage you towards your goal. If she is fond of you she would be satisfied to date you without the expensive trimmings. She would also try to create ideas—parties, outings, church socials, etc.—that would cost mere pennies. However, if these things don't appeal to her, why try to hold her? Seek the companionship of girls who will admire and encourage you. Lots of luck, George.

Jean's letter and tell her that you've been dating and that you think it would be wise for her to do likewise. Don't make a big dramatic production of it but tell her that you still want to be friends and look forward to seeing her during your vacations. Meantime, tell her to keep writing. She won't go into shock.

DEAR BESSIE: I never have any fun because I had to quit school and take care of my bed-ridden mother. My father died in a car crash about six months ago and we had to let the woman go who took care of my mother while I was at school. It was no problem while my father was alive because he was home nights and that gave me a chance to date. I love my mother and feel sorry for her but I am beginning to be filled with self-pity because I'm lonely and bored and starved for young companionship. Can you help me, Bessie? I'm 17 and would like to graduate from high school.—BETTY C.

DEAR BETTY: There are many things you can, should and must do. I suggest you first discuss the situation with your pastor. I am certain he can arrange to have some one stay with your mother while you are in school or on an occasional date. You can also call on your local chapter of the Red Cross and Visiting Nurses Service for help.

I also strongly suggest that you keep in touch with your young friends. Invite them to your home, keep up with their activities even if you can't be with them as often as you'd like. You should not become a hermit because your mother is bed-ridden.

DEAR BESSIE: At first I didn't mind going Dutch treat because I know that Dick can't afford to take me to the movies and restaurants. But every once in a while he is so broke that I pay for his ticket and food. Lately he hasn't even attempted to pay his own way. Dick says he simply hasn't got the money for dating. If I don't pay, he won't see me and I don't want to lose him. How can I make him share expenses and not lose him?—DOROTHY O.

DEAR DOROTHY: I'd tell Dick to get lost. He's spoiled rotten. You're pretty young to be keeping a Junior Gigolo. I'm not entirely against Dutch treats but I am completely against holding a boy's interest through your purse strings. Start dating boys who are more considerate—the sooner the better. MRS. BOHANNON
Painting on display at the library

Artist Of Month Selection Is Made

Mrs. Don Bohannon is Big Spring's Artist of the Month. She was selected at the last meeting of Las Artistas in the beginning of a new membership activity plan. A new artist of the month will be selected at each of the club's monthly meetings henceforth.

Members bring paintings to each meeting, a short exhibition is held, and votes are cast for the best painting.

The winning painting is exhibited in the Howard County Library for one month. Mrs. Bohannon's work went up Thursday.

Title of the work is "Dry Gulch," and Mrs. Bohannon painted it specifically for the first artist of the month competition. It was painted from imagination, and employs blues, purples, greens, browns and yellows to create a landscape of a desolate gulley with mountains in the background.

Mrs. Bohannon, of 1405 Virginia Ave., is left little time for her art work, since she has housewife duties, as well as helping her husband in his distributor business.

She has been painting for the last 10 years, although she always has had a lively interest in art. She has 25 paintings to her credit so far.

Mrs. Bohannon has been active in Las Artistas, having served as treasurer and chairman of several exhibitions.

Elvis Presley Movie Here As Midnight Show

That day is about to dawn. Elvis Presley's first picture following his two-year Army service is scheduled to arrive next Friday at the Ritz Theatre for a midnight show. It is the Hal Wallis production, in Technicolor, "G. I. Blues."

In the Paramount romantic comedy which co-stars the dancing star of "Can-Can," Juliet Prowse, Presley portrays an American soldier stationed in peacetime Germany. The role, in a sense, duplicates cinematically the star's Army chores during his military service. The U. S. 3rd Armored (Spearhead) Division, which occupies a pivotal defense position in West Germany and with which Presley served, plays itself in the film—with one big change. In the movie, all of the "maneuvers" primarily involve girls, specially three lovely frauleins played by the shapely, red-headed Miss Prowse, Sigrid Maier and Leticia Roman. Robert Ivers, James Douglas and Arch Johnson play buddies of Presley.

"G. I. Blues" contains ten new songs which Elvis sings, and Juliet swings, plus a couple of favorites thrown in for good measure.

Beauty Busts Bosom Barrier

Lydia Alfonsi has finally crashed the Italian bosom barrier. Ignored for several years by the bust-conscious Italian moviemakers, the trim starlet is now enjoying a busy film career. She owes it all to director Jules Dassin, who spotted her picture in a fan magazine and immediately cast her in the role of the police chief's mistress in "Where the Hot Wind Blows."

The part has encouraged dozens of young Italian actresses with slender figures, who hope that the "new look" is here to stay.

Doris Day, Rex Harrison Seen In Mystery Story

"Midnight Lace" opens Tuesday at the Ritz.

Doris Day, Rex Harrison and John Gavin help tell the story of a strange, terrifying game played with a woman's love—and her sanity. Also starring are Myrna Loy, Roddy McDowall, Hermoine Baddeley and John Williams.

Miss Day portrays a wealthy young married woman who is the unrelenting target for terror.

Marking Rex Harrison's first appearance in a Hollywood film in more than six years, the star of "My Fair Lady" plays the suave British financier and husband of Doris Day.

John Gavin is seen as a building contractor quite concerned with Doris Day's well-being.

"Midnight Lace" also stars Myrna Loy as Doris' aunt; Roddy McDowall as a prime suspect; and Herbert Marshall who appears as a business associate of Harrison.

Featured are Natasha Parry, British actress who makes her American film debut as a neighbor and close friend of Doris; Hermoine Baddeley as a pub owner; and John Williams as the meticulous Scotland Yard inspector.

Audie Murphy Lauds Gabaldon

"History in her peculiar way has only recently uncovered the exploits and valor displayed by a U.S. Marine named Guy Gabaldon. Certainly he is one of the greatest heroes of all time."

That's the tribute paid by Audie Murphy, America's most famous hero of World War II, to another veteran of the same conflict whose heroism till now has gone comparatively unknown.

Gabaldon, portrayed by Jeffrey Hunter in "Hell to Eternity," is officially credited with having captured "more than 1000" Japanese during the Battle of Saipan.

New Staging Method Used

A new and different staging of Mezzat's "Don Giovanni" will be presented this afternoon and Wednesday evening by the Dallas Civic Opera Company as its last production of 1960.

The new staging method is designed to add new theatrical impact and visual novelty to the story of the legendary Spanish lover, Don Juan, and his reckless amours.

A raked, or inclined, stage helps create the illusion of bringing the audience closer to the stage action.

Fans Get Close Look At Fire

Fans will get their first "inside the battle" view in "Hell to Eternity" through development of a new type of camera that makes possible photography that previously would have consumed both camera and cameraman in flames. It is a camera with a 6-inch lens that retracts to 25-mm. It was introduced by Director Phil Karlson and Producer Irving H. Levin for Atlantic Pictures and Allied Artists.

The new equipment makes possible close-range photography of flame throwing and other incineration.

THE WAR FOR THE UNION, Vol. II: War Becomes Revolution. By Allan Nevins, Scribners, $7.50.

In the early spring of 1862, hope flamed high that the conflict which had split the nation might soon be ended. The fall of Forts Henry and Donelson had opened the heart of the South to Federal armies. New Orleans had been captured. A massive Union army was almost within sight of Richmond. So bright was optimism, that recruiting was stopped in the belief the North had enough men in uniform to finish the job of smashing the Confederacy.

The period of hope was sadly brief. U. S. Grant was caught off guard at Shiloh. Henry Halleck frittered away opportunity in the West; George B. McClellan did likewise in the East. Both North and South realized grimly that a long and bitter struggle lay ahead.

It is a story of disillusionment and regrouping for the long haul that Allan Nevins tells in volume II of his study of the Civil War, a volume that advances magnificently to No. 6 his momentous and monumental work on the period from the Mexican War through Reconstruction. These days of 1862-63 were the

Vicious Game Depicted In Italian Film

The game known as The Law, so devilishly vicious that it has been banned in its native southern Italy, is revealed to the world for the first time. The sadistic pastime, which has occasionally driven its players to the brink of madness, forms the theme of Joseph E. Levine's "Where the Hot Wind Blows," opening today at the Ritz Theatre.

Starring Gina Lollobrigida and Yves Montand, the film reaches a high point in its tavern scene, where The Law is traditionally played in parts of Italy and Sicily, although the players know they can be sent to prison if caught participating.

Playing The Law can bring out the best or the worst in a man, but invariably it's the worst. Five or six players, fortified with several jugs of wine, deal cards or roll dice to see which of them will be "The Boss."

The man chosen to be "The Boss" then has complete power, for a period of time, over the rest of the group. He makes the laws and says anything he pleases to his victims. "The Boss" humiliates and insults the others, tries to break their self-control. The other players try, in turn, to preserve their pride and tempers.

When one round is over, another player is chosen as "The Boss." This provides the others a chance to show their sadistic nature and to avenge the insults handed out during previous rounds.

The stake in each round is a bottle of wine. The player must ask "The Boss" for a glassful, not knowing whether or not they will be allowed to drink. "The Boss" aims his insults at the victims' weakest points. If a truly cruel and sadistic person, "The Boss" can occasionally break down a victim and leave him a writhing mass of agony. In fact, in its final moments, the game has been known to erupt into physical violence. In some cases, knives have been drawn and The Law has ended in a wild free-for-all.

In "Where the Hot Wind Blows," audiences will see The Law played by Yves Montand and five others. As Brigante, the village racketeer, Montand makes a terrifying "Boss," who shatters his victims in a vicious display of cruelty.

RANGE CONSERVATION

Range conservation, a topic of major concern to many in the western sector of the U. S., is now a topic for stamp collectors.

Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield announced that the Post Office Department would issue a 4-cent Range Conservation stamp on Feb. 2, 1961 at Salt Lake City in conjunction with the annual meeting of the American Society of Range Management.

Also cooperating in plans for the first day ceremony are the Forestry Service and the Soil Conservation Service of the Department of Agriculture, and the Bureau of Land Management and Indian Service of the Department of the Interior.

The new stamp will depict the importance of grassland and livestock to the nation's agriculture. It will dramatize the development of range conservation from the pioneer days of the open range to today's scientific range management techniques.

The design is divided into two parts. The left half features a reproduction of "The Trail Boss," a line drawing by western artist Charles M. Russell. The right half shows a contemporary range scene.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the 4-cent Range Conservation stamp may send their self-addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Salt Lake City 1, Utah. Each envelope must be marked in pencil in the upper right corner the number of stamps to be affixed. Again a reminder that requests for first day covers must be post-marked five days in advance of the issuance date—or prior to Jan. 28, 1961.

The John Foster Dulles Memorial stamp will be first placed on sale at Washington, D. C. on Dec. 6, 1960. Collectors who have not already done so may send addressed covers, with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Washington 13, D. C. The outside envelope must be marked "First Day Covers Dulles Memorial Stamp." The design and information on this 4-cent stamp have been reported previously in this column.

Pakistan has issued two new stamps to mark the second anniversary and progress made by the country under the regime of F. M. Mohammad Ayub Khan. The 2-annas brown, pink and green, and the 14 annas blue, yellow and green bear the same design.

Veteran Builder Holds Mass Open House Today

By JACK RADER

Builder E. C. Smith will put 12 of his newest creations on display for Big Spring residents today with a mass open house in Suburban Heights.

The homes which will be open for public viewing, between 1-6 p.m., are in various stages of construction, from the foundation stage to near completion.

The Suburban Heights project is the latest venture of the E. C. Smith Construction Co., which Smith heads. In addition to his own building sites in the subdivision, Smith has recently acquired 20 houses which H&H Homebuilders Inc., Abilene, had under construction in Suburban Heights. Smith plans to complete these projects.

BEGAN WITH 32

Smith began his construction career six years ago in Big Spring when he built 32 houses in the Avon Addition. That project was completed the next year with the building of about 50 more houses.

That first venture was no modest beginning, exactly, but is dwarfed by present proposals for a 640-acre Kentwood Addition which extends from FM 700 south past South Mountain.

Kentwood Inc., of which Smith is president, is developing the property which will, in the next seven years, include about 1,600 homes and a 40-acre shopping center. A school site is also planned.

The developing company is currently working on 100 acres of the 640-acre total. "We hope that by developing it in parcels we can have a really fine addition to the city," Smith said.

BUILT 500

Smith figures that since he began building in 1954 he has built about 500 homes, at least 400 of them in Big Spring. He has also built homes in surrounding communities.

Last year he built about 100 homes in the Douglas Addition, plus homes in Andrews, Snyder, Wink, Coahoma, Lamesa and San Angelo.

A few other projects in the past five years include homes on Yale in the College Park Estates, in the Settles and 18th area in the Gerald Smith Addition, and the Hall Addition. At present, Smith has about 40 homes under construction.

The construction company did the completion work at the new Big Spring Country Club and built the Mid-West Building at 7th and Main. Smith was building ma-
