Jack Adds To Cabinet, Holds Budget Parleys

Roswell Gilpatric Air Force Aide

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy today picked Roswell Gilpatric, who was undersecretary of the Air Force in the Truman administration, to be deputy secretary of defense.

Kennedy announced selection of the 54-year-old Democrat as he started day-long conferences on planning of the new administration's budget against a background of concern over the business slump—a slump also bothering the outgoing Eisenhower regime.

Gilpatric, a New York lawyer, will be No. 2 man at the Pentagon under the new secretary of defense, Robert S. McNamara, who is resigning as president of the Ford Motor Co. to join the Kennedy administration.

Gilpatric was undersecretary of the Air Force in 1951-53. In 1956-57 he took part in a study of the defense establishment, financed by the Rockefeller Brothers Fund. In 1958 he was named by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., to the advisory panel of the joint congressional subcommittee on military applications of atomic energy.

Gilpatric also is a member of two study committees which have prepared reports for Kennedy on the Defense Department and national defense problems.

He won a Phi Beta Kappa key for scholarship at Yale. He was graduated from the law school there in 1931 after serving as editor of the Yale Law Journal.

Gilpatric has been a member of the New York law firm of Cravath, Swaine & Moore since 1940 with the exception of the period he served at the Pentagon.

He also is chairman of the board of trustees of the Aerospace Corp., founded this year at the end of the year.

END NEAR FOR CHEER FUND

The Cheer Fund was just under the $1,000 mark today, and — since there are three more days for people to remember needy children — prospects appear good that enough money will be raised.

Table listing donors and amounts for the Cheer Fund, including names like Ruth K. Murdock, Jenny Fink, and others.

request of Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. as a nonprofit organization to assist the Air Force in space and missile problems.

Although a Democrat, Gilpatric crossed party lines to support Republican Nelson A. Rockefeller for the New York State governorship two years ago.

He has taken a keen interest in the nation's military affairs and has been an advocate of strong defense measures.

Gilpatric is a native of New York City and has served in various capacities with numerous civic organizations.

Another member of the Kennedy Cabinet, Secretary of the Treasury-designate Douglas Dillon, turned up in Palm Beach today as Kennedy opened budget talks with the experts he has named to advise him.

Dillon, a Republican now serving as undersecretary of state in the Eisenhower administration, told reporters he did not know whether he would sit in at the budget conference.

Vacating at nearby Hobe Sound, Fla., Dillon said he came to Palm Beach primarily to confer with Kennedy aides in preparation for taking over his new job next month.

On hand for the meeting with Kennedy were David E. Bell, Harvard economist who will be Budget Bureau chief; Elmer B. Staats, present deputy director staying on as No. 2 man under Bell; and Kennedy staff members Theodore Sorenson and Myer Feldman.

Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, told a news conference that Kennedy plans to resign soon from the Senate.

Gov. Foster Furcolo of Massachusetts announced Tuesday night he will appoint Benjamin A. Smith II of Gloucester, a former Harvard roommate of Kennedy, to the Senate seat when Kennedy gives it up.

Kennedy said the economy's "lack of vigor" would have a bearing on tax revenues. He implied that this must be taken into account in charting a spending program.

President Eisenhower is preparing a final budget for the fiscal year starting July 1, 1961. He will send it to the new Congress early next month. It will be up to Kennedy to decide on any revision after he takes office Jan. 20.

Y Leader Praises Christmas Pageant, Set Again Thursday

In a flurry of colorful costumes, real animals, devotional music and spectacular lighting, the YMCA Christmas Pageant unfolded for two performances Tuesday, re-telling the story of the birth of Christ.

"It was inspirational, even worshipful," James M. Hardy, YMCA general secretary, told the cast following the first performance. Many spectators crowded among the cast to compliment them on the production.

Two more performances of the pageant are slated for Thursday. The first will be at 7 p.m. and the final one at 8 p.m.

Residents may sit in cars to see the pageant, as many of them did Tuesday. However, there is plenty of standing room near the set for those who would like to get a close-up of the action.

"It's Christmas and we are celebrating the birth of Jesus," Hardy said. "This well-done pageant emphasizes the meaning and spirit of the annual observance."

YMCA officials are making plans to have the Thursday performance put on color film which will be used by the YMCA year-round.

The pageant opens with the appearance of four prophets and the narration includes scripture from the Old Testament books of Numbers, Micah, Deuteronomy and Isaiah. Each prophesies the coming of Jesus.

The narration then follows the New Testament text of Matthew and Luke to describe events leading up to the birth of Jesus.

The colorful costumes were designed by Mrs. John Rudeseal with many of them on loan from the Big Spring Civic Theatre and the First Christian Church. The musical score was prepared by Mrs. Carl Bradley and Capt. Gerald McMillan.

The beard preparation and other make-up for the cast is being handled by Mrs. Herbert Johnson, Mrs. Howard Brown and Mrs. Roy Roseme. Jimmy Taylor, Howard County agent, is furnishing the animals and handling them when they get cantankerous.

The cast includes Sharon Gary as Mary; R. R. McEwen Jr. as Joseph; Mrs. Joe Pickle as Elizabeth; Katherine Hepper as the Angel; Glen Puckett as Herod; Buddy Redden and Wayne Burns as priests; Joanna Patterson, Katherine Boren, Gwen Davis and Karen Hodnett are the temple girls; Joe Pickle, Oliver Reed and Dr. Glenn Allen are the wise men.

The shepherds include Sherman Smith, Coy Mitchell, Gary Pickle, Harold Macomber and Paul David Pickle. The prophets, who double as innkeepers, include John Rudeseal, Bruce Dunn, Dick Bailey and Ralph McLaughlin.

The set preparation was by L. D. Chrane and Terry Patterson.

Fight Blaze On Carrier

The fight to conquer the blaze that swept through the carrier Constellation at the Navy Yard in Brooklyn continued as dusk settled over the city. The dock was jammed with rescue and fire apparatus. The fire later was successfully controlled.

Navy Court Convenes As Fire Chief Lashes 'Slobs'

NEW YORK (AP) — A naval court of inquiry convenes today to study the disastrous fire that struck the aircraft carrier Constellation. Expected to be on its agenda is the City Fire Department's stern criticism of naval safety procedures aboard the big vessel.

Three more charred bodies of workmen were recovered from the Constellation Tuesday, bringing to 49 the number lost in Monday's fire. The blaze scorched the ship from stem to stern, buckled plates, twisted beams, and set back the carrier's completion date by at least a year.

Damage was estimated at $75 million. In Washington, a second naval group, this one composed of four technical experts, will inquire into "possible fire hazards to ships under construction at Navy and private shipyards." The Navy said the panel will consider specifically the substitution of metal for wooden floors for staging or scaffolding, among other things. This was the center of the city's criticism. Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanaugh Jr. said there would have been "a substantial difference in the intensity and extent of the fire" if metal rather than wooden scaffolding had been used.

The Fire Department requires the use of metal scaffolding on city pier projects, but the Constellation was being built at the Brooklyn Navy Yard and was out of the city's jurisdiction. Cavanaugh commented angrily on the disaster at a Fire Department promotion ceremony, attended by reporters without his knowledge.

"You may hear more about yesterday's fire when investigations are held," he said. "There is just no excuse for these things that go on happening." Urging fire inspectors to get tough, he said: "Get these slobs out of business. That goes for officials slobs as well as civilian slobs. There is no magic in these great agencies."

When Cavanaugh learned that reporters were present and had overheard his remarks, he hastily added he was not trying to tell the Navy how to operate and said the service has its own experts who "undoubtedly will come up with the same answers I've got in mind."

The fire commissioner followed this up with a statement today denying he had made any reference to the Navy in his speech. He said his remarks were only general ones about recent fires in New York.

His reference to the wood scaffolding was made during the fire. Navy Secretary William B. Franke, who came to New York for a personal inspection of the damaged $250-million carrier, said the use of wooden staging was standard naval procedure. He said he sees no reason to change unless such a move is recommended by the inquiry court.

However, Vice Adm. Charles Welborn Jr., 2nd Naval Dist. Commandant, said he would recommend metal scaffolding on future Navy projects. Franke said that as far as he could tell, neither carelessness nor sabotage caused the fire. The Navy has said a "pure accident" started the blaze: A fork lift sheared off the plug on a tank of fuel, and the volatile liquid poured into a compartment where a welder was at work. While the Navy and the Fire Department differed on the safety issue, on one thing they were agreed: The courage and skill of the 350 firemen who fought the blaze. "Our men went in like great soldiers," said Cavanaugh.

An explosion of undetermined origin buckled the walls and roof of this north Austin home. Owner B. R. Forrester and his wife were deer hunting and their teen-age sons were in school at the time of the blast. The boy's grandmother, Mrs. Ann Scott, had left the house shortly before the explosion.

Industry Hesitation, Dollar Prestige Vied For Headlines

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Industry's hesitation waltz and the debated prestige of the dollar have vied for the headlines in 1960. And here, in one man's opinion, are the 10 top business stories in a year that leaves a lot of people more perplexed as it ends than when it began.

1. The recession puzzle. Is it or isn't it? And if this is only an adjustment, when will we be adjusted? The story has run almost the whole year through—industrial production halting, unemployment high and rising now, steel output making one disappointing headline after another, business trimming spending on plant and equipment and hesitant about the new year, inventory policy turning hand-to-mouth and stubbornly refusing to change back to build-up.

OUT OF COUNTRY
2. The gold loss and the dollar's reputation. In the last three years some $11 billion more have gone out of the country than have come in, and $5 billion of these expatriated dollars have been turned into gold—our gold. Some Europeans wondered out loud if the U.S. dollar is as impregnable as it once was. For a brief period the price of gold on the London market was bid up to $6 more than the legal U.S. price of $35 an ounce. Angry or startled denials of dollar weakness or devaluation plans came from both sides of the Atlantic. To slow down the outflow of dollars and gold President Eisenhower made front-page headlines with cost cutting devices, such as bringing home dependents of U.S. military forces overseas.

3. The stock market. Tumbling prices hogged the business headlines in the early weeks of the year. Through the remainder of 1960 partial recoveries and subsequent backslidings alternately comforted the optimistic or caused the timid and cautious to shiver. Mutual fund sales slowed.

LOSE MONEY
4. Easier money. The Federal Reserve Board relaxed its tight-money policy as business slowed. It cut its discount rate from 4 to 3½ per cent in June, dropped stock margins to 70 per cent from 90 per cent in July, cut the discount rate again in August to 3 per cent, freed more bank reserves for lending in November and December. The banks themselves cut their prime lending rate to 4½ per cent from 5 per cent in August. But at year's end bank loans to business had responded only feebly to easier money moves, the steam had gone out of the consumer installment purchases, and housing starts were lagging.

5. The election enigma. Business took a wait and see stance, uncertain just what President-elect Kennedy might be planning or what Congress would approve.

MARGINS CLIPPED
6. The profit squeeze. Faltering sales in some industries clipped profit margins. In others, sales rose but profits still sank under the load of increasing labor and other operating costs that couldn't be offset by higher prices because of growing competition.

7. Foreign turmoil. General business uncertainty was fed off and on all year by a series of setbacks or threats to international stability—the U2 incident, the collapse of the Paris summit meeting, Castro, the Congo, Khrushchev's shoe brandishing at the United Nations.

8. The Detroit question mark. The auto industry turned out more cars in 1960, but the burgeoning compact cars took less steel and other materials than the old chariots. And dealers' stocks of unsold cars at times hit records.

NO HALT TO CLIMB
9. The high cost of living. Commodity price weakness didn't halt the relentless climb of the consumer price index as the cost of services and of some finished goods continued to rise.

10. The fickle consumer. He began to save more, borrow more cautiously, switch his spending tastes from many big-ticket durables to soft goods, and give an increasing share of his money to services. His intentions were surveyed every little bit, but at year's end business still couldn't be sure if he would be its salvation next year.

Physical Fitness Among Kennedy Aims For Nation

NEW YORK (AP)—A four-point program of physical fitness aimed principally at the nation's youth is proposed by President-elect John F. Kennedy to be put in operation when his administration takes office.

In a copyrighted article in Sports Illustrated, Kennedy wrote that a growing softness in Americans "is a menace to our security as well as our ability to live up to the challenges which lie ahead."

He suggested establishment of a White House committee on health and fitness to carry out a program to improve the physical fitness of the nation; place physical fitness of youth under direct responsibility of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare; invite governors of every state to attend an annual national youth fitness congress; and to proclaim through all government departments that promotion of sports participation and physical fitness is a basic and continuing policy of the United States.

Propaganda Made From Air Disaster

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany's Communist regime today tried to make propaganda capital out of the Munich air disaster.

The Communist party newspaper Neues Deutschland told its readers that if the U.S. military plane that crashed on the city last Saturday had been in a hangar in the United States, 30 Munich families would have been spared Christmas sorrow over loss of their relatives.

3 Possible Causes Listed To Air Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three possible causes of history's worst aviation disaster in New York last Friday have been put forward.

1. The ground radio navigation equipment that guides a plane in its holding pattern may have been at fault.
2. There could have been a brief but critical lapse in radar surveillance from the ground of the two planes that collided over Staten Island.
3. A passenger on the United Airlines DC8 jet may have knocked away delicate navigation equipment in the plane by using a transistor radio or a portable dictation machine.

These ideas were advanced Tuesday by persons who are interested parties in the intensive investigation of the collision of the jet with a TWA Super Constellation.

The first two theories came from W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines. The third came from John R. McDonald, an official of the Air Line Pilots Association.

The ALPA has been at bitter odds with E.R. Quesada, head of the Federal Aviation Agency. McDonald underscored this Tuesday when he blasted Quesada for commenting on the crash.

"Quesada is in no position whatever to make any statements as to the possible cause of the New York accident," McDonald said.

Quesada said he had no comment "at this time" on McDonald's statement.

Quesada had told President Eisenhower in a personal report on the crash that the United Air Lines jet was 11 miles off course when the collision occurred.

Israeli Reactor Is 'Peaceful'

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion told Parliament today that the atomic reactor Israel is building in the Negev desert will be "dedicated entirely" to research for peaceful purposes.

Ben-Gurion said the reactor — Israel's second — would not be completed for three or four years.

When completed, he said, "it will be open to students from other countries as well." He said it would have a capacity of 24,000 kilowatts, far greater than the 1,000-kilowatt training reactor built in the Rehovoth area with U. S. help.

Ben-Gurion's statement was prompted by newspaper reports published in Washington and London that Israel, with French aid, was secretly building an atomic reactor that would be used to produce an atomic bomb. Both the Israeli and French governments denied the report, saying their nuclear cooperation is entirely to peaceful purposes.

Blustery Weather Ushers In Winter

By The Associated Press
Blustery, snowy and cold weather ushered in the winter season today from the eastern Rockies into the Northeast.

The snowstorm which buffeted the Midwest, with foot-high falls in some areas, spread into the Ohio Valley during the night, dumping heavy snow in many areas.

Powered by strong winds, the storm headed eastward into western and central parts of the mid-Atlantic seaboard states and extended eastward over the Great Lakes region and southwestward through the Ohio Valley.

At least nine deaths were attributed to the stormy weather, which erupted in the Plains and spread eastward rapidly. The storm deaths included five in Ohio, three in Illinois and one in Missouri.

The broad blanket of snow in the Midwest, plus strong shifting winds and sharp drops in temperatures, made it look and feel like midwinter before the official arrival of winter at 3:27 p.m. EST today.

Numbing cold gripped the north central region as the mercury plunged below zero across the snow-covered sections of the midlands. The cold air dipped southward into Texas and the Gulf Coast.

It was 13 below zero in Aberdeen, S. D., and the subzero sting was felt in northern Illinois with 2 below in Rockford, Chicago, covered with a record prewinter snow carpet of 12 1/2 inches, shivered in near-zero readings.

The heavy snow covering appeared to guarantee many areas a white Christmas on Sunday. No general immediate break in the cold weather was indicated.

Travel, both by motor and air, was sharply curtailed throughout the snowbelt. Snow diminished to flurries in most Midwest areas, and clean-up crews were on 24-hour schedules clearing streets and highways.

Chicago's Midway Airport, called the world's busiest, was closed for more than 12 hours as workers cleared the runways of the heavy snow. Airports in Cincinnati also were closed.

Ohio and Pennsylvania battled the storm. Falls of 8 to 14 inches were expected in western Pennsylvania, with 7 to 10 inches in Pittsburgh. A half foot of snow fell in a four-hour period in the small town of Somerset, Pa.

U. N. Delays 15th Session

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. General Assembly recessed its turbulent 15th session early today after approving a resolution requiring all members to share in the cost of the 1960 U. N. Congo operation.

The Soviet Union vigorously opposed the plan. It made it plain it would defy the Assembly majority by refusing to supply any part of the $48.5 million to be raised by assessments. The vote was 46-17 with 24 abstentions.

The Assembly also authorized Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld to spend up to $24 million for the Congo operation during the first three months of 1961.

The 99-nation Assembly adjourned at 12:57 a. m. to begin an 11-week recess that will end March 7.

The stormy three-month session, which opened Sept. 20, was notable chiefly for the visit of Soviet Premier Khrushchev and the bitter Soviet campaign against Hammarskjöld.

OTHER IMPACTS
The session also felt other impacts of the Congo crisis, the uncertainties of the U. S. presidential election, and the growing pains that came with the admission of 17 new members, 16 of them African.

These factors resulted in prolonged debates, paralyzing deadlocks and a general slowdown of work that forced postponement of action on many major items, including disarmament, until the second part of the session.

The final hours were devoted mostly to budgetary and other housekeeping questions, but the crucial issues raised during the session persisted.

Soviet Delegate A. A. Roachin told the Assembly just before the postmidnight vote on the Congo budget: "One of the main causes of the situation as it now prevails in the Congo is to be found in the fact that the secretary-general, on his own initiative and without any authorization from the Security Council, has set up a United Nations Command . . . consisting mainly of United States nationals and nationals of other countries in NATO."

The Russians indicated they would continue their attack. Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin called a news conference today to review the work of the session.

U. S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth commented that the 99-nation body had been working "in a period of crisis which has tested the United Nations—and is still testing it—to its very foundation."

Wadsworth said in a statement that the Soviet Union, because its plans in the Congo had been frustrated, had tried to punish the United Nations "to misrepresent and libel it, to hamstring its operations and to drive Hammarskjöld from office."

Although the Assembly deferred action on many issues, it did make several positive decisions, including:

1. It called for steps to bring "to a speedy and unconditional end colonialism in all its forms and manifestations."
2. It declared the Algerian people have the right to independence and the United Nations has a responsibility to help bring it about.
3. It called on the nuclear powers to make every effort to reach an agreement banning further nuclear test explosions. It also called for a permanent agreement to prevent dissemination of nuclear weapons to countries which do not have them.

The Assembly was unable to agree on any resolution on the Congo crisis. After weeks of debate on general disarmament, it decided to put the question over until it resumes in March. It postponed for another year consideration of the seating of Red China.

Other key issues were not even discussed. These included President Eisenhower's proposal for economic aid to Africa, outer space, the Hungarian problem, Communist Chinese occupation of Tibet, Soviet charges of U.S. aggression, Cuban complaints against the United States, and the continuing division of Korea. All will be taken up at the March meeting.

When these discussions take place, the United States will have a new delegation headed by Adlai E. Stevenson, named by President-elect John F. Kennedy to replace Wadsworth Jan. 20. Many delegates are looking for sharp changes in U.S. policy, which has been criticized by many Asians and Africans.

Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., a member of the U.S. delegation, also has taken issue with U.S. policy. He called two recent U.S. votes shocking. These were the American abstention on the resolution calling for an end to colonialism and its vote against an Asian-African resolution for a U.N.-supervised referendum in Algeria.

Freezing Weather Chills State On First Winter Day

By The Associated Press
Freezing weather gripped all of Texas except the extreme southern area Wednesday, the first official day of winter.
The freeze extended to a line running along the upper coast to Palacios and Victoria on west to Del Rio on the border.
Dalhart, in the Panhandle, had the lowest reading, 15 degrees. Brownsville had the highest reading at dawn, 39.
Other morning lows included: Lubbock and San Angelo 20; El Paso, Wichita Falls and Texarkana 21; Amarillo and Alpine 22; Midland and Waco 23; Dallas 27; Austin 28; San Antonio 29; Beaumont and Houston 31; Galveston and Victoria 32; and Laredo and Corpus Christi 37.

Falangist Jailed For Franco Insult

MADRID (AP)—An army court-martial today sentenced a young Falange youth front leader to 12 years in jail for calling Gen. Francisco Franco a traitor to his face during a party ceremony.
Jose Roman Alonso Urdiales, who was on active military duty, also was sentenced to complete his military service in a penal brigade and completing the prison sentence.

New Satellite To Take Earth Temperature

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Discoverer XIX is in orbit today to take the earth's temperature. This knowledge will help future Midas satellites detect any hostile missile firings by reporting flashes of heat above the normal level.

The 81-foot two-stage Discoverer rocketed southward through scattered clouds from its seaside launching pad Tuesday afternoon. The 25-foot, 2,100-pound second stage went into a 93-minute egg-shaped polar orbit 130 to 400 miles out.

Other Discoverers have carried a recoverable capsule but not this one. Instead, it has a load of electronic gear to measure the earth's normal heat radiation.

Forthcoming Midas — missile craft will have infrared "eyes" to spot the heat of enemy launchings. Eight to 12 Midases will provide continuous coverage of the defense alarm system — space world's surface.

Scientists say they must know exactly how much background infrared light is reflected by the earth to Midas satellites so they can accurately measure a hostile missile has been fired.

Multiple Midases blanketing the globe could relay almost instant warning to alert target areas up to 30 minutes in advance of an atomic strike—the time it takes an intercontinental missile to fly full course.

Young Crash Victim Buried

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Stephen Baltz, 11, who for some 24 hours was the only survivor of last Friday's tragic air collision over New York, was buried Tuesday.

Ironically, an airliner dived above the snow-covered pine trees in Memorial Park Cemetery in suburban Skokie as the boy's body was lowered into a grave.

Stephen died of burns and injuries Saturday, the 13th victim of the crash of two airliners. He was among the 84 passengers on one of the planes.

Stephen was buried after simple services in the Methodist Church where he was baptized and in whose boys choir he sang. Three hundred persons filled the church.

The Rev. Dr. Harold Bosley said: "Birth and death are part of God's plan. . . . Love and loss go hand in hand." The pastor made no mention of the air disaster.
There were some tears among the mourners and a few muffled sobs. But Stephen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Baltz, and his sister, Randee, 9, sat dry-eyed and soberly attentive. His younger brother, William, 4, did not attend the services.

Kennedy Seeks To Curb Filibusters

WASHINGTON (AP)—Liberals of both parties cheered today President-elect John F. Kennedy's plug for Senate action to curb civil rights filibusters.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., said Kennedy's statement Tuesday in Palm Beach, Fla., that he feels a simple majority of senators should be able to limit debate "gives our cause a tremendous boost."

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., called Kennedy's stand heartening. He said in a separate interview it is "consistent with the Democratic party platform" as well as with Republican campaign pledges to make every effort to change the existing rule.

Hart is one of about 40 Democratic senators invited by Sens. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., and Joseph S. Clark Jr., D-Pa., to caucus Dec. 30 to organize a new attack on the Senate's so-called filibuster rule.

As the rule stands, two-thirds of those voting must approve before debate can be limited on civil rights or other measures.

Clark said in a statement Tuesday that Kennedy's comment should provide "a shot in the arm" for efforts to change the rule.

"I predict that we will succeed in restoring majority rule in the Senate in 1961," he said. Kennedy told a news conference he and Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson agree that it is up to the Senate to decide what changes, if any, it wants to make in the rule.

But Kennedy added he feels it should be possible for a simple majority of senators to shut off debate. This is consistent with his Senate record.

Two years ago Kennedy joined Democratic and Republican liberals who sought to make such a change. They lost, 67-28. He also was on the losing side of a 69-36 vote on a proposal to permit three-fifths of those voting to limit debate.

Hart and other Democratic liberals are expected to support an effort at the opening of the new Congress to adopt new Senate rules by a majority vote under a procedure by which a majority of those participating could halt any filibustering efforts.

These Democrats, backed by Case and other liberal Republicans, contend the Senate is not a continuing body and, like the House, must approve its rules at the start of each Congress.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, presiding till Jan. 20, supports this position. So does Kennedy.

But nobody involved believes a Senate majority would approve any such ruling.

DEAR ABBY

NOT LAWFUL

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My girl friend is very jealous. My wife doesn't give me any trouble, but my girl friend checks every move I make. She calls all over town tracing me and hangs around the hall when we have Union meetings. I don't know how many people she has watching me. I would like to get rid of her but she sticks like flypaper. I am 37 and she is 24 and a hot-tempered, suspicious Latin-American, if that helps you any. She has threatened to kill me if I look at any woman (outside my wife) and I think she would do it. Can I get any help from the Law?

DEAR ABBY: Several months ago I sent 25 cents for a celestial map of the planets. It was offered by a reputable manufacturer of canned goods. However, I made the mistake of writing for it in our son's name. Today he received literature from a publishing company urging him to get out and sell their comic books. I refused to allow him to do this, however, since he is only 6 years old.

Moonstone Water, Porpoises With Ideas In Science News

By The Associated Press
Christmas dinner in the antarctic, water from moon stones, and executives plugged into the wall are subjects this week for science at work.

ANTARCTIC CHRISTMAS
Just four years ago this Christmas two scientists sat under the brilliant antarctic sun and sipped on cocoa, marmalade and biscuits — food left behind in 1912 by an explorer's tragedy.

The food, preserved by the cold, had been left behind by British explorer Robert Scott who perished within 60 miles of his base camp after becoming the second person to reach the South Pole.

You may not be able to get blood from a turnip, but there are signs that earthmen on the moon may get water from rock.

Business executives in the world of the future may be plugged into a computer.

The computer acts as a vast community pool of fact. By plugging into the computer from his office, the executive can draw on any set of facts he needs to make his decision.

Murphy Awarded Security Medal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert D. Murphy, who played the U.S. cards in the desperate World War II game of North African intrigue and became the nation's top career diplomat, was named Tuesday as recipient of the National Security Medal.

The White House said President Eisenhower conferred the decoration on the retired undersecretary of state.

After the fall of continental France, Murphy headed a mission to French North Africa ostensibly to inspect consulates and conduct relief activities, but really to set up intelligence networks and, later, pave the way for U.S. landings by lining up clandestine French help.

times the speed of sound to pull away from the earth.

But the speed complicates the problem of approaching and landing at the destination planet. Now General Electric scientists have developed a shock tunnel that can produce these extreme speeds and the atmospheres believed to exist on Mars and Venus. They will study the effects of escape speeds on various shapes to help in designing space ships.

LAZY PORPOISES

The porpoise never ceases to amaze. These remarkable sea animals actually ride the bow waves of ships, scooting through the ocean as an apparently effortless hitchhiker.

The porpoise apparently spots his free ride from a distance, heads purposely toward the ship, finds his position and actually gets pushed along by the bow wave, the way a human surfer rides a wave to the beach.

Now scientists report they have seen porpoises riding wind waves on the open sea and reason that this could be the way porpoises travel long distances during migration.

FLIGHT BY SIGHT

Bank swallows and perhaps other birds use landmarks to guide their way home, a University of Wisconsin researcher reports.

The swallows were captured and released up to 175 miles from the burrows where they make their homes. The farther from home the birds are released, the fewer make their way back, it was found.

ANNOUNCING PAYMENTS TO RAMBLER BUYERS AS RAMBLER'S SALES VOLUME INCREASES

Why You Should Join Rambler's New Crusade For Adequate Progress Sharing With Customers

GEORGE ROMNEY
President, American Motors Corporation

Rambler's rise to a top position has put us in the position to undertake a new crusade. This program, which could provide greater individual and national benefits than any we've yet undertaken, calls for customer progress sharing.

As volume goes up, costs come down. So, sharing economies that would result from a 50% Rambler sales gain over last year for the period December through March could provide payments to customers of $18,698,062.

But, before presenting our new Rambler crusade, let me review some highlights of the first one.

When we forged our basic Rambler concepts, U.S. cars were in a size, horsepower and styling-change race that cost the car buyer money. So, we developed the compact, economical, modernly engineered Rambler.

CONSUMER BENEFITS FROM LOWER PRICES
Because of low volume, we had to price our first Rambler Americans about equal with Chevrolet and Ford, traditionally "lowest priced."

As our output and economies increased, we shared the resulting economic advantages with Rambler customers. Despite inflation, we kept prices low. We also concentrated on durability and quality. That is why Rambler excels in trouble-free operation, as shown by trade surveys made by others.

What has this done? It has increased our sales—made us a vigorous new competitive factor, compelling all competitors to introduce compact cars. Their compact cars unquestionably are better buys than their big cars, because their big cars don't have the compacts' advanced engineering.

Despite these moves to meet Rambler competition, Rambler American models are now priced not only below competitive big cars but below their economy compacts as well.

In addition, Ramblers provide customers several exclusive trouble-free

"I believe participation by all consumers in economic progress is absolutely necessary in meeting the nation's economic needs."

engineering advances such as the acid-proof, rustproof Ceramic-Armored muffler and tailpipe.

The Rambler line includes three basic sizes of compact cars—Rambler American, Rambler Classic and Ambassador, the latter two developed after the original American series.

RAMBLER SALES SOAR
In two years, Rambler's per cent of market has more than doubled. For the last 38 straight months, Rambler sales have established a new record for that month. We want to continue this growth by serving you even better.

THE NEW RAMBLER CRUSADE
Our new Rambler crusade, like our compact crusade, is based on sharing Rambler progress with car buyers.

We believe the new Rambler crusade has timely significance. Our country currently is experiencing a mild economic slowdown—with rising foreign competition and weakness of the dollar. Our larger competitors are considering partial manufacture and importation of cars for the U.S. market from abroad. There is a general profit squeeze.

We believe the greatest single economic cause is that relatively too much of the fruit of industrial effort has been going to a few well organized economic groups, not to the consumer.

CUSTOMERS TO SHARE RAMBLER PROGRESS
We decided there was something we could do. We decided to share future progress with ALL customers who take

HOW PAYMENTS TO BUYERS WILL BE DETERMINED IN AMERICAN MOTORS' CUSTOMER PROGRESS SHARING PROGRAM

IF SALES ARE UP over last year	BUYERS RECEIVE BOND PAYMENT SALES LEVELS
	U.S. SAVINGS BONDS (Monthly bonds)	DECEMBER (Dec. 1960)	JANUARY (Jan. 1961)	FEBRUARY (Feb. 1961)	MARCH (March 1961)
50%	$125	45,247	97,671	140,139	195,946
40%	$100	42,231	91,159	130,796	182,883
30%	$75	39,214	84,648	121,453	169,820
20%	$50	36,198	78,136	112,111	156,757
10%	$25	33,181	71,625	102,768	143,694
SALES FOR SAME PERIOD LAST YEAR		30,165	65,114	93,426	130,631

NOTE: In all cases, "BUYERS" means a person who actually takes delivery, not places an order.

WHY IT WILL PAY YOU TO BUY NOW. This unique program is cumulative and retroactive. Early buyers can get more, but never less bonds, than buyers in succeeding months. Your Rambler dealer will be happy to give you the complete details of the plan but here is a quick example of how it works and keeps on working for you:

If December Rambler deliveries increase 20% over last December, December buyers of new Ramblers or Metropolitanans will receive $50 bonds. As the four-month period progresses, additional bonds will be mailed to the December buyers each time the cumulative sales reach a higher bond payment sales level.

Also, if sales increase for the four-month period exceeds 50%, proportionate additional payments will be made to all buyers during any of the four-months.

delivery of a new Rambler or new Metropolitan between December 1, 1960, and March 31, 1961, from an authorized Rambler dealer (excluding governmental sales), giving them most of the benefit of additional cost reduction resulting from further increases in Rambler sales volume.

This can mean a sharing with Rambler buyers during the 4-month period of government savings bonds (Series E) with a maturity value from $3,679,850 (10% sales increase), to $24,930,750 (50% increase). See chart for details.

BOTH CUSTOMERS AND AMERICAN MOTORS GAIN

You have everything to gain and nothing to lose by joining this crusade. The same is true for us.

You can't lose because Ramblers are better than big cars and the best of the compacts. Ramblers are more trouble-free, more useful, lower priced.

You make your regular deal in the regular way for a new Rambler. You then may share proportionately in the economies and profits of higher Rambler volume in December, 1960, and the first three months of 1961.

We gain by acquiring more Rambler owners, which will make our growing market even larger in the future. That's because Rambler owners become Rambler salesmen and are the most loyal "repeat buyers" of any make.

Ask your neighbor all about his Rambler, then join the Rambler crusade. Join us in focusing the nation's attention on the essentiality of equitably sharing economic progress with ALL consumers if the WHOLE NATION is to prosper.

George Romney

P.S. Some may say one company can't do much about national problems as big and complex as those cited above. Well, that's what skeptics said about Rambler's first crusade. Let's remember, every great thing is born small. If this new Rambler crusade is right, it can succeed and spread, just as the compact car concept did.

Mr. Romney's recent New Press Conference on "Customer Sharing and the Nation's Economy" attracted nationwide notice. For complete text of his statements, write American Motors, Box 29, Detroit 32, Mich.

Monkeys are caught by filling a coconut shell with chopped coconut meat. The monkeys grasp a fistful and, unwilling to let any go, cannot withdraw their paws. So, they are easy victims. The U.S. consumer is not yet as scrawny as shown, but unless there is a more equitable division of the productivity increases, he will get that way. One of the three American groups must let go and set an example—or all will be captured and, along with the consumer, all will suffer.

7 Diphtheria Cases Reported

PLAINVIEW (AP)—Seven new cases of diphtheria were reported here Tuesday, bringing the total to 38 since the first case was diagnosed Nov. 2.

Free clinics, staffed by city and school nurses, have been established to vaccinate school children. More vaccine was ordered from Austin to accommodate the rising number of cases in this South Plains city.

Charles Mathews, school superintendent, said when schools open Jan. 3 a doctor's certificate, indicating effective vaccination, will be required of each student.

Little Girl Turns Mishap Into A Christmas Display

TYLER (AP)—A little girl has turned a Christmas mishap into a Christmas display. Elaine Brown, 5, thought it would be great fun about three weeks ago to ride a horse on the farm of her grandmother, Mrs. Ollie McGowan at Bascom, Tex.

And as sometimes happens to youngsters riding horses, she fell off. So did two cousins, Mark and Alan Vernabo of Dallas. But Elaine suffered a broken leg.

But she refused to allow her injury to dampen her Christmas spirit. She persuaded her father, Gordon Brown, to paint her cast red as a Christmas gesture. "Her doctor didn't see that it would hurt a thing," said Brown. "We used red liquid shoe polish, a half bottle for the first cast, and then put on a second cast," he said.

Father and daughter agree that "She's going to ride again as soon as she gets well."

Elaine's colorful cast proved an effective traffic stopper when passersby recently noted father and daughter taking a breather from their Christmas shopping and sitting on a bench on the Tyler city square.

"Someone told her she should paint her toenails green to carry out the Christmas colors," Brown said.

Elaine eyed her toes peeping out from the cast and asked: "Could we?"

Debbie, Elvis Get Sour Apples

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—In 1954 Debbie Reynolds won a golden apple from the Hollywood Women's Press Club for being cooperative. But Tuesday she got a sour apple, meaning least cooperative.

"She was just never available," the women said, explaining Debbie's new status.

Among actors, they awarded a sour apple to Elvis Presley—not because of him but because of his manager, Col. Tom Parker. They called Parker "impossible."

Golden apples—for most cooperative—went to Nanette Fabray and Janet Leigh (a tie) and to Jack Lemmon.

The club's 100 members voted the awards.

STATE HOSPITAL CELEBRATES CHRISTMAS
Lee May plays Santa to 862 patients in 12 wards

Volunteers, Patients Have 'Best' State Hospital Party

Christmas came to the Big Spring State Hospital in a big way Tuesday night, on what was termed the best Yule party ever held for the nearly 900 patients.

"The party was the best of any we have had," Dr. Preston Harrison, manager, said. "Everyone seemed to have a wonderful time, patients and volunteers alike."

Dr. Harrison praised the volunteers who made possible the parties, one for each of the 12 wards, for their outstanding work. Volunteers helped hand out gifts, serve refreshments and provided musical entertainment.

Special entertainment was provided by Ben Hall and His Circle Four Ramblers, the Runnels Junior High School girls choral group, and Capt. and Mrs. Alfred Short. The entertainers circulated through the hospital, lending a real festive, holiday air, according to Dr. Harrison.

Mrs. Haskell Beck, who coordinated the volunteer activity, lauded the cooperation of the many volunteers. "Everyone seemed delighted to come to the wards and help," she said. "Everything went smoothly and the patients were relaxed and really enjoyed themselves."

Many patients joined in singing with the entertainment groups, and at least one talent find resulted. Dr. Harrison said. A young Latin-American boy demonstrated a "beautiful voice" no one knew he had, the manager said. This patient - participation was termed an important contribution.

Volunteers, representing civic, social, service and church organizations were on hand for the ward parties, each contributing to the success of the evening. "Each did a wonderful job," Dr. Harrison said.

"Don't forget Santa Claus," Mrs. Beck said. "The patients loved Santa visiting with each ward." Lee May salesman for the West Texas Office Supply, Midland, decorated yuletide duty as Santa, minus the red suit and beard, but playing the role, nevertheless.

May made the rounds of all the wards, helping distribute gifts and adding his joviality to the general Christmas atmosphere.

Another big factor in the success of the parties was the presence of many families of patients, Mrs. Beck said. "It seems that more and more families are taking an interest in the patients. A great many were here last night. Having their loved ones with them really helps the patients."

Volunteer groups holding ward parties included the Registered Nurses Association, Kiwanis, Rotary, Woman's Forum, Junior Woman's Forum, Rebekah Lodge 284, Licensed Vocational Nurses Assn., 1948 Hyperion Club, Business and Professional Women's Club, Big Spring Credit Women's Club, American Business Club, Midland Jay-Cees, Big Spring Jay-Cees, Downtown Lions Club, Evening Lions Club, Midland Volunteers, John A. Kee Rebekahs, Airport Baptist Church and the Tri-Hi-Y girls.

SA Toyland Opens Friday

Food and toys will be given to needy families registered with the Salvation Army beginning Friday, Dec. 23, according to Capt. James Jay, local commander.

Cards are being sent to the families on the Salvation Army list informing them of the status of their applications. Each card states the time and date to pick up the items.

The old site of Mead's bakery, 8th and Main, will be used as the toy shop and the food baskets will be given from the Salvation Army office.

Capt. Jay said that 46 families have been adopted by various organizations which is considerably more than this time last year.

Crippled Children Center Gets Girl Scout Yule Cheer

Girl Scouts brought Christmas cheer to the Crippled Children and Adults' Center Tuesday afternoon. Celebrating its first Christmas, the center was a maze of tears and smiles, as the joyous atmosphere touched patients and guests.

Acting as hosts, Girl Scouts furnished entertainment, refreshments and gifts for the 14 children enrolled as therapeutic patients.

Their first undertaking, the Girl Scout Junior High Council voted to sponsor the party at its own expense. Officers of the council include Donna Pendergrast, president; Nancy Booher, vice president; Barbara Burklow, secretary, and Pauline Miller, reporter.

The Christmas tree, donated by the Webb AFB Officers' Wives Club, was decorated several days prior to the party by members of the five Big Spring Girl Scout troops.

Troop 34, led by Mrs. W. H. Booher, gave Christmas stockings stuffed with candy and fruit; Troop 340, led by Mrs. Lee Burklow, furnished gifts for the girls; and Troop 22, led by Mrs. C. E. Thomas, furnished gifts for the boys.

Mrs. D. W. Pendergrast, Troop 209 and Mrs. James Bonar, Troop 210, served the refreshments prepared by each of the troops.

Sales Tax For School Policy Up For A Vote

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' administration, hit by new federal court action, today seeks House passage of a controversial sales tax raise pegged to the school integration fight.

The $28-million tax increase hits the House floor in a four-bill package under top priority. The Senate returns at 7 p.m. to act on the package if it passes the House.

Backers of the tax raise claimed it is needed for the state's program to keep white children from going to school with Negroes. The number of opponents among the 101 state representatives is unknown.

As a tax raise, the measure needs a two-thirds majority in each chamber of the Legislature. This means 68 votes in the House and 20 in the Senate.

Revenues from the tax would be dedicated to grants in aid to parents who wish to send their children to private school cooperatives.

In New Orleans Tuesday, U.S. Atty. M. Hepburn Many requested contempt citations against three top Louisiana officials.

Many contended House Speaker Tom Jewell, Lt. Gov. C. C. Aycock, and Education Supt. Shelby Jackson were in contempt when they refused to pay employees at two New Orleans schools integrated by federal order.

Many also asked that Secretary of State Wade Martin be enjoined from refusing to certify the reelection of Matthew Sutherland to the Orleans Parish School Board.

Sutherland defeated three segregationists for the school board post. He ran on a platform of keeping schools open, even if integrated. The Legislature has withdrawn the right of New Orleans voters to elect their own board.

Two New Orleans city councilmen criticized Davis for putting a segregation tag on the one-cent sales tax raise.

New Orleans City Councilman Fred Cassibry said the tax raise would be a "harsh, unfair tax on the people of Louisiana who are least able to pay."

And Councilman Theodore Hickey called Davis "a banjo-playing liar" for trying to raise taxes in the name of segregation.

Louis M. Riecke Sr., president of the Orleans School Board ousted by the Legislature, said both the Legislature and private sources had promised money to meet New Orleans school payrolls.

The Legislature has refused to recognize the school board since Nov. 14, when two New Orleans elementary schools were integrated, and has cut off the board's funds.

The familiar pattern continued Tuesday at the two integrated schools, William Frantz and McDonogh No. 19.

Eight white children and one Negro attended classes at Frantz, and three Negroes were alone at McDonogh.

Four Arrested For Petty Thefts

Police cleared five recent petty burglaries Tuesday with the arrest of four juveniles who were turned over to A. E. "Shorty" Long, juvenile officer.

Detective Jack Jones and Aubrey Hurley took the boys out of school Tuesday afternoon and after they admitted the burglaries they were in Long's custody. The boys' ages ranged from 7 to 11.

Cleared by the arrest were burglaries of the Sunshine Laundry, 1111 W. 3rd; Electric Service Co., 1221 W. 3rd; Premier service station, 1001 W. 3rd; and a truck owned by Borden Milk Co., 1001 W. 4th.

The take in each of the burglaries was small, including a gun machine, several cartons of soft drinks, ice cream cones, cans of paint, a flashlight, chewing gum, candy and peanuts.

Youths Caught After Chase

Two juveniles from Big Spring stole an automobile at Forsan Tuesday and in a wild chase, overturned and fled on foot. Officers captured them a short time later.

One of the boys, age 15, has a record of service at the State Training School for Boys at Gatesville. The other lad is 14. They had not been brought before County Judge Ed Carpenter at noon Wednesday.

Through a series of circumstances, they were cornered about 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, not long after they had taken a 1954 Ford belonging to B. R. Stewart, Forsan.

They stopped in Sterling City to get gasoline, then sped away without paying. When the alarm was sounded, a pickup was put on the police radio. Texas Ranger John Wood, returning from San Angelo, spotted the car and gave chase.

The lads attempted to whip down a county lane and flipped the car over two times.

As Woods came upon the scene, the boys emerged from the badly battered car, shed their coats, and took out for the brush. Woods began tracking them.

About that time Sheriff Miller Harris and Tommy Cole, returning from delivering two men to San Antonio, happened along, and so did Sterling County officers. They drove down into the pasture to find Woods and jumped the boys, who gave up.

Both apparently were unhurt.

Schoolmen Propose Ideas For Better Deaf Education

DALLAS (AP) — Superintendents of the state's five largest school districts proposed Tuesday two major changes in a bill to furnish better education for Texas' deaf students.

The school officials met here to discuss details of the bill expected to be submitted to the next session of the Texas Legislature. The group said it will ask the legislature to increase from $400 to $500 the annual per pupil allotment from the state for transportation between the pupil's home and the schools that will be established in each of the five districts.

The superintendents plan also to ask for an additional capital outlay of $2,000 per teacher by the state to be applied toward the purchase of buses and teaching equipment.

Attending the session, hosted by Dr. W. T. White, superintendent of the Dallas School District, were superintendents Dr. John J. McFarland of Houston, Dr. Joe P.

Moore of Fort Worth, Dr. Thomas B. Portwood of San Antonio and Dr. H. E. Charles of El Paso. The plan is designed to relieve overcrowding at the State School for Deaf Children in Austin and to give better local education for youngsters in their home counties.

The proposal would reimburse each district for its teacher salaries on the district's own salary schedule. The Dallas School District also urged a provision calling for the limitation of each class to eight students rather than the current minimum of 14.

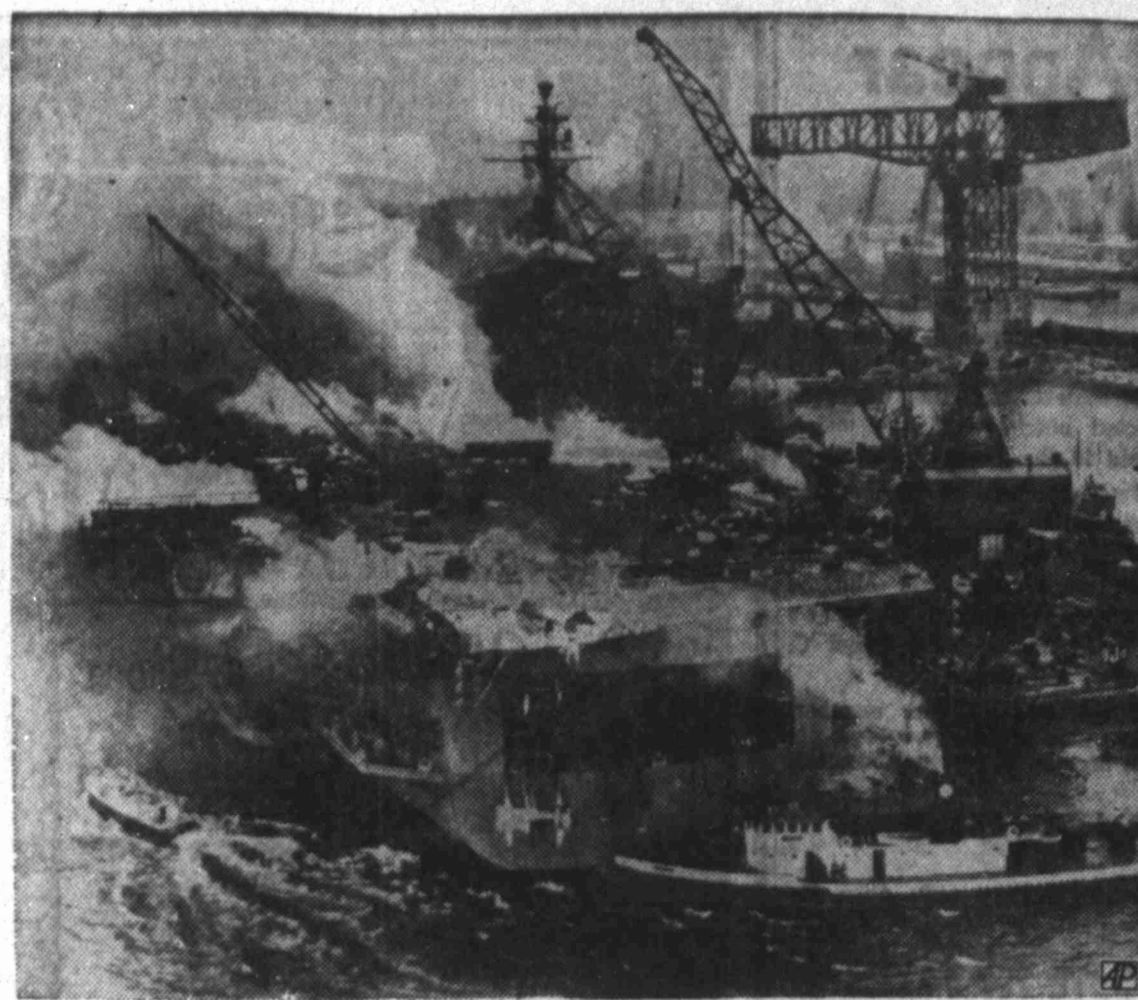

The program, if it meets with legislative approval, will probably begin in September 1961.

The appointment, effective Feb. 1, was approved by the City Council Tuesday. He will get $17,500 a year.

Pigford has directed three West Texas and Arizona health departments since 1952. He was rehired in Lubbock after leaving there to head the Maricopa County, Ariz., Health Department in 1958.

Former Roommate To Fill Out Kennedy's Unexpired Term

BOSTON (AP) — Benjamin A. Smith II, 43, a former Harvard roommate of President-elect John F. Kennedy, has been tapped to fill out the two years remaining of Kennedy's Senate term.

Smith, a former mayor of Gloucester and currently a manufacturer in that seaport city, was notified of the appointment Tuesday night by Kennedy himself.

Democratic Gov. Foster Furcolo announced late Tuesday he would name Smith to the U. S. Senate "at the suggestion of President-elect Kennedy."

Smith said the first word he had received of the appointment was a direct telephone call from Kennedy from his winter headquarters in Palm Beach, Fla.

Smith said Kennedy will resign his Senate seat Jan. 3 and that Smith would take over on the same day, giving him seniority over other freshman senators due to be sworn in a day later.

Furcolo said it was his understanding Smith would not seek a full six-year term to the U. S. Senate in 1964.

However, Smith refused to speculate on his political plans of two years hence.

BOTH STUDENTS

Smith became acquainted with Kennedy when both were students at Harvard. They shared a room in Harvard's Winthrop House with Torbert H. MacDonald, now a Democratic congressman from Massachusetts.

Smith graduated in 1939, one year ahead of Kennedy, and like Kennedy served as a naval lieutenant in the Pacific during World War II.

Smith and Kennedy have been close, socially and politically, since their undergraduate days.

They were ushers at each other's wedding, and Smith has been an active campaigner for Kennedy in all of the latter's political bids.

Smith was a fullback on the Harvard football team. Later he gained prominence as a yachtsman and sport fisherman.

BIGGEST TUNA

In 1946, Smith caught the biggest tuna ever taken on rod and reel in Ipswich Bay, a 718-pounder.

He is president of five Gloucester enterprises: Merchants Box Factory, Cape Ann Fisheries Inc., United Fisheries Co., Gloucester By-Products Inc., and the Gloucester Community Pier Association, Inc., which controls the big state fish pier.

He is an active member of the Democratic City Committee and with his wife—the former Barbara Mechem of Lake Forest, Ill.—and their five children, worships at Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Gloucester.

Crosby Paternity Suit Jury Picked

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bing Crosby's son Dennis was too much under the influence of liquor to remember details of a romance with a divorcee, says her attorney in a paternity suit.

Nine women and three men jurors were picked Tuesday to hear Marilyn Miller Scott's action against the crooner's singing son.

The tall divorcee, 28, wants Dennis, 26, declared the father of her daughter, Denise Michelle, 3. He says he isn't.

Mrs. Scott's lawyer, Milton Zerin, told the jury he expects to present evidence showing that when she and Dennis met in 1956 Dennis often drank more than 15 cocktails or highballs an evening.

Dennis was married in 1958 to former showgirl Pat Sheehan, 28. They have a son, Dennis Jr., 20 months, and Crosby adopted her son, Gregory, 9, by a former marriage.

Giving

It is a part of Christian duty to give once a week, when the disciples meet for the communion.

"Upon the first day of the week let everyone of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him . . ." I Cor. 16:2. c.f. Acts 20:7.

The duty to give into the treasury of the church, applies only to God's children. The command in Scripture is always directed to them. It is not right for the church to beg money from the world; to stand on the sidewalk holding out her hand, or to solicit the business houses.

Neither should she expect a contribution from those who visit her services. Thus we never take collections at mid-week meetings, nor at any time except at the communion services on Sunday. We are interested in your soul; not your money. Welcome to our meetings. Next preaching service, Thursday, 7:30.

Tom Tarbet, Christian, or member of the Church of Christ.

Convict Cleared Of Manslaughter

MIAMI, Okla. (AP)—An Oklahoma prisoner, serving a 35-year sentence for manslaughter, was cleared Tuesday when a Texas convict admitted the crime.

The State Pardon and Parole Board agreed to ask the governor to grant Louis William Bennett a full pardon after Oklahoma Crime Bureau agents and the FBI interviewed Leonard McClain, 34, in prison at Huntsville. He told the authorities he beat Fred F. Erenst, 70, in 1957, 10 days before he killed his Dallas landlady.

Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Wed., Dec. 21, 1960 9-A

Bennett, who was sent to the penitentiary three years ago for the crime, pleaded guilty at Bartlesville to the beating. He said recently he had been drinking heavily and had suffered a nervous breakdown and was willing to say anything to get out of jail. McClain is serving a life sentence for the Dallas slaying.

She May Walk

Glenda Rae Farham, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Farham, Pampa, is getting her first installment on a new mode of personal transit. She has suffered from club feet and twisted legs since birth and might have become the world's fastest crawler, as it was her only means of getting around. Family friends referred the little girl to the Texas Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children at Dallas. It often has been referred to as "The House of Miracles" because of the thousands of youngsters who have been rehabilitated there in the past 37 years. The hospital is supported entirely by free-will gifts from Texans, usually made during the Christmas season.

Witnesses Appear For Crime Probe

BEAUMONT (AP)—The House General Investigating Committee, pushing its probe into alleged vice conditions in this South Texas area, Tuesday heard testimony of leading Jefferson County officials. The top law enforcement officers testified behind closed doors and refused later to divulge testimony in the afternoon hearing.

The hearing, described by legislators as an executive inquiry, is to determine whether charges of flagrant gambling, prostitution and traffic in dope and liquor have foundation in this populous area.

Rep. Tom James of Dallas, vice chairman of the committee, described the area as flourishing in criminal activities after Texas Rangers Dec. 3 staged gambling raids at seven places here.

Dist. Atty. Ramie Griffin, who said earlier he would give the committee his full cooperation, was the first to testify Tuesday. Also appearing before the committee were Beaumont Police Chief Jim Mulligan, Criminal Dist. Judge Owen M. Lord, Beaumont Asst. Police Chief Willie Bauer and Beaumont Chief of Detectives Jim Stafford.

James said the fifth member, John Allen of Longview, was absent because of personal business. Speculation continued that legislators may conduct a public hearing here similar to one conducted at Amarillo in which testimony indicated a collapse of law enforcement and links between elected officials and the underworld in the Texas Panhandle.

Four members of the five-man investigating committee were here Tuesday. Along with James on hand were Menton J. Murray, Harlingen, chairman; Charles Ballman, Binger; and Lloyd C. Martin, Normangee.

James said the fifth member, John Allen of Longview, was absent because of personal business.

Oil Industry Tone Optimistic

AUSTIN (AP)—The tone of the oil industry for the future is optimistic, says Railroad Commission Chairman Ernest O. Thompson.

Thompson Tuesday predicted a 3 per cent increase in crude oil demand in 1961 over 1960. He noted that the financial statements of 1960 show increased earnings.

"It is a source of great satisfaction that there is no Texas crude that does not have a market for the allowables," Thompson said in a year-end statement.

"We are just now getting over the gut of the market caused by the Suez Canal incident. It has been a long hard pull but happily now overcome through long restraint," he said.

His report showed 17,732 oil wells drilled in 1960, including many dual and triple completions. He said there are 197,147 producing oil wells in the state.

The export and marginal wells total 109,215 and produce 1,192,597 barrels daily. Proratable wells total 87,932 with an average daily allowable of 1,614,048 barrels. In addition, the state produces 606,000 barrels of natural gasoline distillates and condensates each day.

another victim of Castro's anti-American blizzard. The more typically Cuban gift-bearers, the Three Kings, arrive as usual Jan. 6. Good children will awaken to find toys from Communist China and Czechoslovakia.

The displacement of Saint Nick by Uncle Nikita is evident elsewhere on the Christmas landscape. Many Cubans will sit down Christmas Day to turkey brought from the Soviet Union.

But for many Cubans, it won't seem like Christmas without their traditional lechon—roast pork—garnished with rice and black beans. Shoppers report lechon scarce.

An underground newspaper mocked the shortage: "For the first time the Cuban peasant won't eat lechon for Christmas. Gentlemen, how good communism is."

Black beans are also hard to find. There are no apples and grapes—popular holiday fare. But the government promises Czechoslovakia will send the fruit for the holidays.

In addition to food shortages, bitterness and personal unhappiness hang over this second revolutionary Christmas.

On the night before Christmas—and throughout the holiday season—not an anti-Castro Cuban is to stir in celebration. They have quietly adopted a protest policy of nonobservance, except for a toy or two for the kids.

The mass exodus of Cubans unable or unwilling to live under Castro has left many families broken for the holidays.

Carrier Dead On Honor Roll

WASHINGTON (AP) — The names of the men who lost their lives in the fire aboard the aircraft carrier Constellation will be entered on a roll of honor placed on the ship, the Navy said.

Plans for the honor roll were announced by Adm. Arleigh Burke, Chief of Naval Operations, in a statement he described the delay caused by the fire in the Constellation's joining the fleet a severe blow.

"But this is something we can regain," he added. "Repairs can be made. New wiring can be installed. New machines can be built."

"But, there is absolutely nothing that can replace the dedicated men who gave their lives during the construction of this ship."

"The Navy will try in every conceivable way to ease the pain and the burden on the families of these men. I can assure them that the sacrifice of their men will be known to all who sail in the Constellation — their names will be placed in the ship and will remain with it for the duration of her service to our nation."

Communism Is Called Unique In Dictatorships

FORT WORTH (AP)—The deputy director of the Central Intelligence Agency said Tuesday Russian leaders are promoting "a world revolution which is unique in the history of dictatorships."

Gen. C. P. Cabell said the free world is facing a military threat and the question is how, where, and when the Soviets will strike. Cabell told the Tarrant County Medical Society that "Premier Nikita Khrushchev and his aides want to dominate the whole world."

"There is the language of total war. They have a consistency and a single-mindedness about promoting a world revolution which is unique in the history of dictatorships," he said.

Plants And Plantings Can Be Ideal Christmas Gifts

The other day I got a post card asking: "Is it proper to give shrubs or trees as Christmas presents?"

The writer didn't sign a name, but they did go on to say: "I know poinsettias and other flowers are sent as Christmas gifts, but how would you manage a peach tree?"

To answer this question, a few years back I gave three mimosa trees as gifts to special friends. I took the trees by the homes of these people and stopped in to tell them I wanted to plant a tree in their yard as a friendship tree. I let them choose the spot, and together we planted and watered it. Of course, I went inside afterwards and visited a while.

Today those trees have grown very large and important to each of those yards, and every time the mimosa blooms, or shades the yard on a hot summer day, we remember when we planted it. I have re-visited each of those homes countless times, but always there is the tree to remember.

Mrs. Velma Rankin who is a student in my class in Landscape Gardening at the Howard County Junior College suggested rose bushes for Christmas gifts. I had a letter on that subject not too long ago, also. A rose bush does not take up as much space as a tree, and gives about as much pleasure. S. P. Jones gave me a red rose several years back, and every time it blooms I remember his thoughtfulness.

Perhaps I won't be giving away any secrets, if I mention that a Brownie troop is making little planters and wrapping them in a package with some bulbs for gifts to their special friends for Christmas.

Even small packets of seeds make good gifts. Lowell Knopp gave me a packet of special onion seeds imported from Italy, years back, and Mrs. Walker Douglass gave me some giant mustard seed, you know the kind that if you have so great a faith, you can move mountains. The seed are very small, but the mustard plant that grows from it is taller than the house. Both those gifts mean very much to me, and neither one

Project That Should Be Well Received

Announcement was made this week of plans to construct an apartment center at Westover and Marcy.
As with any business venture, a history of operation is required to evaluate the prudence of such an investment. However, there is every reason to believe that a project of this nature will be well received.
Plans call for eight apartment units at the outset, and these will provide 32 living units. Twenty-four of these will be two-bedroom apartments and eight one-bedroom units. The over-all facility will have refrigerated air-conditioning, central heat, terraces and other recreational refinements which will add to the livability of the center. In so many words it will be designed to provide all the comforts of home, yet without the responsibility of maintenance, yard work, etc.

There are many couples who would prefer this sort of arrangement, particularly those who are here on moderate-term assignments. More mature couples, too, frequently find this an arrangement far more satisfactory. The single units will make it possible for those who want privacy, but in proximity to others, to share in a congenial neighborhood experience.

Until this plan was announced, there was no suitable answer to these specifications. We have a feeling that this will attract support as well as interest.

Should Demonstrate A Need

Rep. Wesley Roberts of Lamesa announced in Austin that his interim committee on saving taxes has stepped up its investigations. Speaker Waggoner Carr was before the committee Monday and urged an accelerated tempo of study. He also hoped that the committee will recommend to the legislature that a permanent group be named to study tax savings. Tax savings is certainly a field everyone should be vitally interested in. Therefore it will be of more than passing interest to note what the committee has to recommend when it makes its report Jan. 30.

The speaker has a point in contending that governmental economizing is more than a "one-time, meat axe process." Significant economy is more apt to accrue from sustained effort over a long period.

Yet, the ability of a committee to demonstrate an essential need for its continuation. If this would amount to nothing more than an abdication of the responsibility of the legislature to a committee, then there would be little justification for such a panel. It may be that the pin-pointing of certain areas of potential saving will be useful and profitable to the legislature, but the final responsibility of tax savings is squarely upon the shoulders of those elected to represent the people.

Looking At Kennedy's Cabinet

WASHINGTON — The Cabinet gives advice. It doesn't run the government if there's a man of strong personality in the presidency with opinions of his own.

Hence the question of whether President-elect Kennedy has appointed a good Cabinet depends for an answer upon what kind of chief executive the new incumbent of the White House is himself going to make.

Few people except his intimates know whether Mr. Kennedy follows the advice of experts or forms his own conclusions. Opinions differ on this point, but the fact remains that the President-elect is relatively inexperienced in governmental operations as such. So he has made a wise decision in gathering to his side a number of able men.

BEFORE Warren Harding was inaugurated President in 1921, he had promised the nation he would pick for his Cabinet the "best minds." He did get some—among them, as Secretary of State, Charles Evans Hughes, who later became Chief Justice. Today it might be said that Mr. Kennedy has at least tried to get "bright minds."

In this category can be put the new Secretary of State, Dean Rusk. The same is true of the men whose names are in the headlines—for Secretary of the Treasury, Douglas Dillon, and for Attorney General, Robert Kennedy.

ABRAHAM RIBICOFF is regarded in connection as an able governor, and is being talked of as likely to be appointed to the U. S. Supreme Court some day. The new Secretary of Defense, Robert S. McNamara, is reputed to be agile-minded and energetic. The new Secretary of Agriculture, Governor Orville Freeman of Minnesota, always has been in the thick of the farm-policy controversy. Arthur Goldberg, the new Secretary of Labor, is regarded as an astute lawyer.

Governor Luther Hodges, who is to be Secretary of Commerce, is an able man with a business background, but it remains to be seen whether he will offset in Cabinet councils Mr. Goldberg's pronounced partisanship for the labor-union viewpoint. The latter was responsible for much of the strategy of the last steel strike, since he is general counsel of the steelworkers union. He is also special counsel of the AFL-CIO, so the labor-union leaders who helped Mr. Kennedy get elected ought to be happy.

THE NEW SECRETARY of the Interior, Stewart Udall, who has served Arizona in Congress, is given high praise by a political opponent—Senator Barry Goldwater of the same state.

TROUBLE FOR THE UMBRELLA MAN

James Marlow

U.S. Should See A Lot Of Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy has picked a 10-man Cabinet in his own image: It's conservative-liberal and hard-driving. Therefore, a lot of action can be expected from the new administration.

The incoming Cabinet differs from President Eisenhower's first Cabinet of 1953 in two obvious ways: Eisenhower's was much more conservative, and Kennedy's is far more scholarly.

While action can be expected from the new administration, it does not—judging from the records of Kennedy himself and his hand-picked top 10 men—figure to be of the startling kind.

THERE IS A BASIC difference between the Kennedy administration and Eisenhower's: The new one is already committed to having the government take a stronger hand in American life than Eisenhower favored.

For example, the five-point plan which Kennedy Tuesday said he will seek quick congressional action: federal aid to education, raising the minimum wage from $1 to $1.25, a program for medical care for the aged tied to Social Security, expansion of federal aid to housing, and help for depressed areas.

None of the five points is new or startling. Kennedy promised them all in his campaign. All would put the fingers of the government deeper into American life.

SOME MAY NOT like the thought of this, but those fingers have been going deeper year by year as the American society becomes more complex and interdependent.

There is an explanation why the Kennedy Cabinet should be conservative-liberal instead of extremely liberal or wholly conservative. This is not a time of acute disstress, requiring extreme and sudden remedies as was the case with President Roosevelt's early New Deal when innovations were needed to cope with the depression and bring America up to date.

Kennedy, like Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, is both conservative and liberal. He would hardly pick a Cabinet which reflected anything but his own views. Eisenhower's Cabinet represented his own conservative thinking.

NONE OF KENNEDY'S Cabinet has unusual national stature, such as Adlai E. Stevenson has. Kennedy, who never left any doubt in the campaign he would be the boss, figures to be dominant in his administration or in any disagreement with a Cabinet member.

It is perhaps significant he put Stevenson in a secondary role as American ambassador to the United Nations. Stevenson, with a large following here and abroad and aware of it, might have created a national problem for the new president if the two men disagreed.

None of the 10 Cabinet members—including Kennedy's brother, Robert, the new attorney general—has been a very controversial figure. With the exception of Robert Kennedy, who sometimes gets fiery, the Cabinet members have a pretty subdued public record.

The reason for that appears to be this: All of them, whether their experience was in government or business or politics, have been managers trying to get things done. Therefore starting out the Kennedy administration should be able to run smoothly.

Modern Attraction
BALTIMORE (AP)—You know how it is on Sundays, when the kiddies go out to the airport to watch the big jets come in? Well, don't kid yourself.

At Friendship International Airport one sunny Sunday, for instance, the eyes of young America weren't on the airliners. The spectacle they climbed on, touched, stared at and exclaimed over was a miniature, imitation 19th Century railroad locomotive in the lobby which costs 10 cents to ride.

Virus Or Germ Can Cause A Fever Blister

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
"Dear Dr. Molner: What causes a fever blister? I got rid of one and another takes its place."
—L.M.

Aggravating, isn't it? Often some persistent virus or germ is the cause. Oddly enough, I won't go into the reasons, which are, when you get down to it, quite logical) sometimes a small-pox vaccination will stop recurring blisters of this sort. Chronic infection lingering on in the skin can also be a cause. So can an allergy.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am moving from my own home to a hotel where I'll have to use a bathtub to which a few strangers will have access. What cleansing medium is advisable?—A.W."

For all practical purposes, just remember that soap and water and a good rinse is the simplest procedure, because soap is a very good antiseptic. That's all I'd do. If you insist on further precautions a swabbing of the tub with any of the household cleaning agents containing chlorine would be all right, or to go even more to extremes, a dilute antiseptic solution containing phenol—which, of course, must be diluted and must be used with care. But soap and water will kill, thin out or disable most any of the germs that could be left by a previous user.

Keep in mind: The previous user probably uses soap, too, and is a naturally clean person or wouldn't be using the tub, so the chance of picking up germs is really very slight indeed.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What causes the growth of stray hairs on the faces of so many women after they reach the menopause? Is there any safe, permanent way of removing them?—B.N.S."

Some women encounter this before menopause. Usually it is a family trait. After menopause, the explanation is simple: that there has been a shift in hormonal activity in the body, because hormones from the ovaries decrease and other hormones become more dominant.

Bleaching these hairs to make them less noticeable is often a perfectly adequate answer. Removal by electrolyses or "electric needle," is safe. Your physician can refer you to someone who is skilled in this work.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Why is coffee bad to drink after it has stood awhile? My friends are warning me about this, but they don't give me any reason. I always pour it into a glass.—H.B.W."

If coffee is allowed to stand on the grounds, more extractive materials are taken from them. The coffee is more bitter, but that's

Around The Rim

An Unusual Day

It had been an unusual day; you couldn't put your finger on it, but there was something definitely different about it.

From his vantage point along the slopes of the greenish Judean hills which looked down into a little valley where other flocks grazed, Johann had seen an increasing number of travellers making their way along the trail which led to the city clustered about the crown of the hill. He had asked the venerable Kadmiel concerning the meaning of this, and the old shepherd had explained that it had to do with a decree that the mighty Caesar Augustus had issued.

JOHANN DID not exactly understand it, but Kadmiel had waved him back to his sheep tending with a curt reminder that it was of no worry to a beardless young man.

But on this day there seemed to be an almost steady stream of pilgrims coming down the road from the distant Jerusalem. Still at late afternoon they came, some walking, some upon their beasts, some hobbling. Johann had never seen such an assortment of people—those whose retinue bespoke their wealth, those whose very bearing evidenced their station, and those obviously poor, wretched, beaten and covered. There had even been one man leading a beast on which a young woman, obviously heavy with child, had balanced precariously.

THE SHADOWS HAD begun to stretch down the slopes, and, prodded by Kadmiel, Johann had gathered the flock and headed for the fold. Night came on rapidly, and Johann kindled a fire against the early spring chill. He and Kadmiel sat silently, eating their barley cakes and some dried meat.

Johann's eyes fell upon the dull glow from the town on the hill. Tiny points of light flickered like distant stars. He wondered about all the people there, where so many could possibly stay. Perhaps it was not so bad to be a shepherd like himself and Kadmiel, or like those abiding with their flocks in the field below the city. At least you could bed down in peace and quiet with your sheep.

AS HE GLANCED at the campfire of the valley herders, he became conscious of some strange stirrings. The shepherds were not still or huddled about their fires, and he could have sworn that he heard voices—not the fragments of babble that drifted on the crisp air, but voices that seemed to be singing unlike anything he had heard before. He spoke to Kadmiel about this strange thing, but the old man grunted that it was the breeze playing tricks.

Johann had not spent years in the field to be tricked by a quirk of nature. He cocked his ears as he peered upon the silhouettes against the valley fires. Again he could hear the undulations of the sweetest, most stirring sounds imaginable. A sense of peace and joy seemed to envelop him.

JOHANNAN puzzled over what he could make out, for some special sense seemed to tell him the shepherds were falling back as though afraid. There was no mistaking that they were doing an inexplicable thing—they were leaving their fires and flocks to wend their way up the hill toward the escarpment bordering the town.

He could not take his eyes off them, and as they blended into the darkness and then reappeared as shadows on the ridges, he noticed for the first time that they were moving toward a grotto which had become visible through some illumination as unreal as a dream.

THERE WERE people there, but he could not quite make them out, nor could he understand what they would be doing in a place normally used for livestock. The shepherds moved into this odd light and approached the half cave almost timidly, reverently, and they seemed to bow.

Johann could stand it no longer. He did not ask Kadmiel to watch after the sheep; strangely it never entered his mind that this was important anymore. Actually he was half surprised to himself speak at all.

"I must go and find for myself what is the meaning of this thing which I have both seen and heard."

Call A Halt To Election Post-Mortems

Let's see—it is now a trifle more than six weeks since the national election. It is understandable that defeat, by such a very narrow margin, is indeed gall and wormwood to the Republicans. That is only human.

But does the Grand Old Party have to keep up its public wailing? Isn't there a point at which sportsmanship sets in, even if it kills the boys in the clubhouses?

NATURALLY, the Democrats stole the election. But to date, the GOP hasn't been able to prove it on 'em. So, apparently, the Democrats are going to be allowed to keep their ill-gotten gains, i.e., the Presidency.

In the face of the awful inevitable, can't this nation have a moratorium on further analyses of the election, usually by pollsters, proving that the only persons who voted for John F. Kennedy were Catholics, Negroes and Jews?

None of the 10 Cabinet members—including Kennedy's brother, Robert, the new attorney general—has been a very controversial figure. With the exception of Robert Kennedy, who sometimes gets fiery, the Cabinet members have a pretty subdued public record.

The reason for that appears to be this: All of them, whether their experience was in government or business or politics, have been managers trying to get things done. Therefore starting out the Kennedy administration should be able to run smoothly.

GRANTED MY poll isn't scientific. Still and all, it proves to my satisfaction that the mop didn't flop entirely in one direction.

Never before in my memory have election returns been so painstakingly analyzed, mainly—it seems to me—to prove that in any one of 50 ways the Republicans were robbed.

The latest theory advanced by Dr. Gallop, who has ferreted through the election returns like an FBI man on the trail of the 10 most-wanted criminals, is that the female voter remained loyal to the GOP. It was men—think of it—MEN who turned the tiny tide for Kennedy.

GOLLY, and it was women who were supposed to go for the Democratic candidate. He was the answer to the gypsy's incantation: tall, dark, handsome and with money to burn. I remember the pre-election prognosis that Mr. Kennedy, if elected, would owe the office to silly, soft-headed women who couldn't resist his charm and his good looks.

Now it turns out that the female vote was true-blue—Nixon down the line! And it was man, that unstable, hysterical creature, who elected Kennedy.

"THIS FACT emerges from the Gallup Poll's post-election analysis of the vote (Presidential) by sex," the poll admits.

Now that the vote has been analyzed by race, color, creed and sex, and now that it has been diced by economic, urban, suburban, exurban, farm, labor and capitalist factors, what's next? For whom, for example, did the redheaded voter cast his ballot? The supermarket set? Oh, the possibilities are endless, and that's what bugs me.

Mr. Kennedy won by an eyelash and no one realizes it more than he. But it does seem a little early in the game to blame him for rising unemployment because he didn't name all members of the Cabinet a day after his election. And he was publicly charged with just that only last week. Isn't it time enough to push the roof in on him once he's in the White House? And isn't it high time to call a halt to all these post-mortems explaining how the Democrats got illegal possession of the ball?

Romney Follows Henry Ford The First

Hit-'em-on-the-flank George Romney is hitting again. His latest maneuver in the battle for a larger share of the multi-billion-dollar automobile market establishes him once again as a master tactician.

When American Motors Corp. started to come up from nowhere to a billion dollars a year in sales, Romney couldn't afford full-page newspaper advertisements, magazine displays, or TV commercials.

HE GAINED headlines—free advertising—by attacking General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler for producing "gas-guzzling dinosaurs." The compact car flanked their products.

Now he has modernized an old idea in a new sort of Big Three bigness. Back in August, 1914, Henry Ford the First got nationwide publicity by offering to rebate $40 to $50 a car if more than 300,000 Fords were sold in 12 months. Sales came to 308,213 vehicles. Ford refunded $50 per car, more than $15,000,000. It was a great success, which confounded competitors.

PROJECTING himself in the role of Knight Protecting the Consumer, Romney is seeking to "create" news to re-attain Rambler's sales momentum. Rambler sales in the recession year of '58 doubled those of the preceding year. In 1959, a near doubling took place. And this year, although sales are estimated at an all-time high of 438,000 cars, the gain over '59 amounts to only 19 per cent; the '59 rise was 85 per cent.

Late in '59, Ford brought out the Falcon, General Motors the Corvair, and Chrysler the Valiant. Later on, still other smaller cars debuted, and this year, General Motors came forth with three additional all-new styled. The Big Three were hitting Romney on both flanks and center.

WITH THE imported Metropolitan, the American, the larger Rambler, and the luxury Ambassador, Romney no longer had the Big Three surrounded. Yet, he had geared up American Motors' plant capacity to sales of $50,000 to 600,000.

To utilize that capacity, to push sales to new highs, has become essential if American Motors is to derive the benefits of "scale." Administrative salaries, taxes, interest, etc., must be spread over a greater number of units. Otherwise, gross profit per unit will fall.

So, to achieve progress, Romney offers to share progress with his customers.

IT'S THE PSYCHOLOGY of the chain letter. The man or woman who buys a Rambler gets a chance at savings bonds with face values of from $25 to $125, but only if car sales rise 10 per cent above the comparable months of a year ago. The greater the percentage rise, the greater the progress-sharing.

Wall Street didn't hurray the scheme. American Motors stock fell to a new low for 1960. Romney's conditional profit-sharing plan is an ex post facto price cut and a legal commitment to remit profits. Some Wall Streeters reasoned: "This is a gimmick to sell a product that isn't selling itself."

EXECUTIVES of other companies told me: "Well, isn't that what we do when we want to spur sales, except that we make the extra allowance to dealers? Then dealers grant better trade-ins to customers. This induces the dealers to work harder to sell."

Romney figures he's got Rambler dealers working for him. Now he wants customers to join the fray. But, if he's to maintain profit margins, he'll not be able to budget as much money for dealer incentives.

Detroit's not discounting the maneuver. Henry did it. Can George?

Books Make Good Gifts For Any Age Youngsters

There are books for all the family, but none will be more appreciated at Christmas than books given to youngsters who are just beginning to read.

A mother with foresight will purchase these beginner readers for her 6 or 7 year old. The small fry may need help with some words, but once they begin to know the joys of reading, a new world will have opened to them.

"Green Eggs and Ham" by Dr. Seuss (Random House), author of the hilarious "Cat in the Hat" books (still wonderful), is another adventurous tale for those learning to read. Instead of the 200 words Seuss has been playing with in his beginner readers, this new adventure uses only 50 different words. The story is about Sam-I-Am and a shaggy friend on whom he tries to foist green eggs and ham.

"Air Around Us" (Grosset and Dunlap) tells the story of wind, hurricanes, lightning, thunder, snow, rain and helps to answer the small child's questions in the same easy - to - read formula that marks other books in the series that includes stories of insects, reptiles, birds, time, sounds, airports, rocks and minerals, dinosaurs.

"My Hopping Bunny" by Robert Bright (Doubleday) is the story of a little boy's purchase of a bunny who turned out to be very unusual. He could hop over the tallest church steeple, but then one day he hopped too high and must be saved by his young master.

FOR 7 AND OLDER The "how and why" books (Wonder Books.) These include the how and why of rocks and minerals, electricity, stars, rockets and missiles, weather.

FOR 8 TO 14 YEARS "The Planet We Live On" by Felix Sutton (Grosset and Dunlap) is a fascinating treasury of information about the earth. It describes our glaciers, minerals, deserts, caverns, animals. There is an interesting chapter on primitive cave men and illustrations of cave paintings from the ice age.

OVER 12 YEARS "Gods and Heroes" adapted by Morris Schreiber (Grosset and Dunlap) are the stories of famous myths and legends of the world. A book for a youngster who'd like to read about King Arthur and his Knights and the wonderful legends of other lands. The colorful myths of Greece and Rome are included. "Greek Gods and Heroes" by Robert Graves (Doubleday) recounts the rise and fall of the Olympians, and tells stories of the magnificent Greek gods in a new narrative approach.

The "We Were There" series continues. (Grosset and Dunlap). New books include "On the Santa Fe Trail" by Ross McLaury Taylor and "At the Opening of the Atomic Era" by James Mueves. The books are fiction based on actual happenings, factually accurate.

"Big Game Hunter" by Felix Sutton (Messner) is the story of Carl Akeley, one of America's foremost big game hunters who did it all in the interest of science. Sutton tells Akeley's adventures in vivid fashion that should have real boy appeal.

Another Biff Brewster mystery adventure is "Brazilian Gold Mine Mystery," and the perennial favorite Tom Swift pops up again in "Tom Swift and his Spectromarine Selector."

Books of special interest to girls are new editions of the Bobsey Twins, a new guide to good looks for young girls, "Put Your Best Look Forward," by Glynn Hiller (Doubleday) and "Your Own Room," an interior decorating guide for girls by Mary Furlong Moore (Grosset and Dunlap).

'Sit-In' Drama Was Effective But Loaded

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP-TV Radio Writer

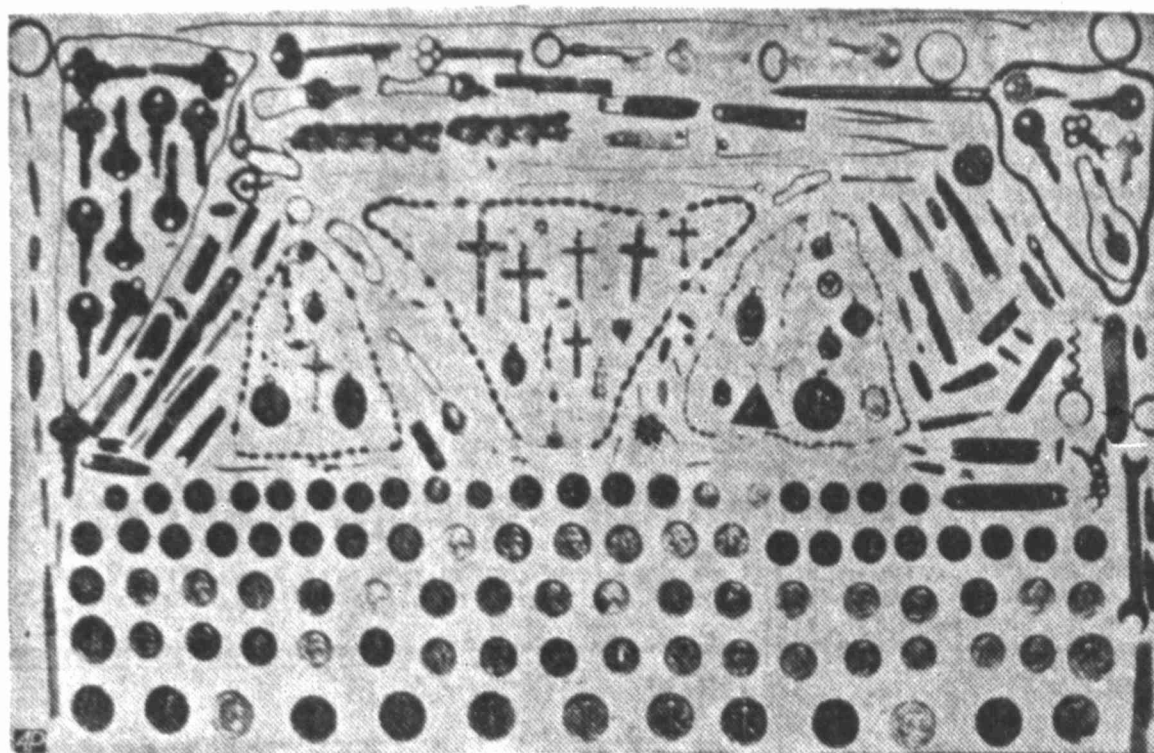

NEW YORK (AP)—"Sit-In," the second of NBC's excursions into strongly editorial broadcasting in a series called "NBC White Paper," Tuesday night proved to be a powerful and sympathetic account of the Negro lunch-counter demonstrations in Nashville, Tenn.

It told clearly and graphically the story of the successful efforts by young Negro students to force local stores to serve Negroes food. It included film shot during scuffles between blacks and whites and filmed interviews with leaders of both factions and community officials. Often the camera work was imaginative and shockingly effective, and the earnest statements of the Negroes, marked with a religious flavor, were moving.

Sometimes, however, the scenes—such as the one in which a group of young Negroes were gathered in a gymnasium singing and talking—looked rigged and showed signs of careful stage management.

The principal difficulty with the program was in its failure to give the other side as fair a break as it provided for the pro-integration forces. The camera went back and back again to a young tough who described with brutal relish his own part in attacking the sit-in sympathizers, to a white housewife and to a local businessman whose anti-integration stances were not convincing to this reviewer. Surely, these people were as carefully selected by the producers of the program as were the sensitive-faced and articulate young Negroes and whites.

Television used in this intimate, dramatic way can be a sure-fire molder of public opinion.

Found In One Man's Stomach

This is an exhibit of the 258 objects swallowed by a 36-year-old mental patient at Brooklyn State Hospital in New York. An operation was performed to remove them. The objects include $19.19 in change, a corkscrew, rosary beads, 26 keys of assorted sizes and shapes and a five-inch wrench. The case was reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Panel That Exposed Video Scandals Shoots At CAB, ICC

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House subcommittee that exposed the TV quiz show scandals has fired a parting salvo of criticism at the Civil Aeronautics Board and the Interstate Commerce Commission.

It was learned Tuesday night that the House subcommittee on legislative oversight, which goes out of business Jan. 3, adopted the critical report of its staff at a secret meeting Friday. The report is to be made public today.

Rep. Steven B. DeRouin, R-N.Y., was one of several subcommittee members who protested making the report public. DeRouin called it "unfair, unjust and beneath the dignity of a congressional committee supposed to be seeking the facts."

"It isn't very American," DeRouin added, "for the committee to make the report public without first holding hearings to determine whether the charges are true and give the people concerned their day in court."

There was no immediate comment from CAB or ICC spokesmen.

The charges in the report were in general terms and made few specific allegations against individuals. Among subcommittee charges:

1. The ICC was lax in renewing the operating certificate of Interstate Dress Carriers, Inc., a New York truck company that hauls garments, despite the company's "long history of violations of ICC regulations."

2. Alleged close relations between a trucking trade association and ICC officials in Texas and alleged favored treatment for the association in enforcing regulations. No names of companies or individuals were specified except for last names of some ICC personnel and others in several letters quoted by the subcommittee report.

3. The CAB's findings of probable cause of air accidents "are conditioned on the effect such findings may have on the promotion of civil aviation." Also, the CAB takes too long to decide economic proceedings before it and certain CAB officials have received "unusual hospitality from air carriers. . . . Again no names were specified."

The subcommittee, under Chairman Oren Harris, D-Ark., made headlines in the past two years in its investigations of TV quiz show scandals, payola practices in broadcasting, and alleged backdoor influences on members of the Federal Power Commission.

Among its recommendations, the report placed high priority on a proposal that TV and radio networks, as well as individual stations, be licensed and regulated by the government.

Congress rejected bills that would have put this into effect at its last session on grounds that there had been no hearings on the views of opponents or advocates of the legislation.

Under terms of the special resolution creating it, the subcommittee goes out of business Jan. 3. Subcommittee members reportedly have agreed not to ask that its term be extended or renewed.

Conviction Upheld In Party Line Case

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—The New Jersey Supreme Court has upheld the conviction of a woman for refusing to give up a party line telephone for an emergency call.

By a 4-0 vote, the court upheld conviction of Mary C. Zielinski of Milburn, who was fined $200 in Essex County Court.

She was charged with refusing to give up the party line when Dr. Marvin Becker of Newark tried to call an ambulance for a woman heart patient.

Preminger, Lengthy Opus Maker, Hates Long Films

By JULIA SALTER
DALLAS (AP)—Otto Preminger, who has made two of the better known long movies, said in an interview here Tuesday he doesn't like long movies.

"I do not like them and only make them as long as they have to be," said Preminger, who produced and directed such lengthy pictures as "Anatomy of a Murder" and "Exodus."

"People generally, however, like long pictures," said the producer-director, a balding man in his 50s. "They like to sit long for their money as demonstrated by the popularity of double features. Frankly, I concentrate so hard on a movie that a long one tires me."

Preminger was in Dallas in connection with the opening of "Exodus" today. It is three hours and 31 minutes long.

The producer-director has a definite success scale by which he measures his pictures.

"I do not think a movie must be enthusiastically liked to be a success. If it stirs up comment and controversy and causes people to think, then I think it should be considered successful," Preminger said.

When the topic eased around to the current controversy over "adult movies," the movie wizard had definite ideas and retorted, "Well, what kind of movies should we make for adults? Should we sell them toys?"

"Every person mature enough to vote or fight for his country should have a right to select his own entertainment. I am against any form of censorship. I don't want to let anyone tell me what I can put in my movies," Preminger said.

"Yet, I agree that parents should continue to have a right and an opportunity to keep their children from going to any certain movie. And I feel it is the duty of the movie makers to let parents know—in advance—about the content of any new movie which might be open to question."

Author Freed On Conduct Count

NEW YORK (AP)—A disorderly conduct charge against Norman Mailer, author, has been withdrawn in Manhattan Arrest Court.

It resulted from a dispute over a $7.60 bill for food and drink at a night club on Nov. 14.

Oscar Goodstein, owner of the club, offered to withdraw the charge. Magistrate Walter J. Bayer accepted after Mailer agreed not to take any action against Goodstein, or the arresting officer, or the city.

The author is scheduled to appear in Felony Court to face a charge of stabbing his wife, Adele.
