No Sign Of Life From Sunken Tower

reached the personnel quarters of the storm-sunk radar tower today reported he received no response to taps on the side of the structure. It had been believed some men might have survived in watertight compartments.

Underwater noises, of possible human origin, were reported detected in the vicinity Monday and early today by Navy underwater listening devices.

This gave rise to hope some of the 28 men who were aboard the so-called Texas Tower in the Atlantic might have managed to remain alive after the tower collapsed in a storm Sunday night. But the grim effort at possible rescue continued. Scores of Navy men and employes of private concerns marshaled every resource

Couple Held After Girl's Body Found

The body of a 6-year-old girl with a heart condition, kidnaped from a farm labor camp last Thursday was found today in a field.

A search party found the body after the pregnant wife of a former mental patient, accused as the kidnaper, confessed that her husband had abducted pretty Rose Marie Riddle. She told where to look. Sheriff's Capt. Al Loustalot said the body was in open rangeland about a half mile north of Highway 466 and about 60 miles northwest of Bakersfield.

"He drove north several miles. He made me get out of the car and he drove off across a field with the girl. When he came back later, the little girl was gone and the whole front seat was covered with blood.

Mrs. Lindsey said the couple then proceeded to San Francisco, checked into a cheap hotel and engaged in a drinking bout that lasted several days.

Lindsey, a former Texas convict and acknowledged onetime mental patient, claims he blacked out for the whole period concerned and has no recollection of being with the child.

Loustalot said Lindsey had not been told that Rose Marie's body had been found. Loustalot said Lindsey would be charged with kidnaping and murder and that he was sure the same charges would be filed against Mrs. Lindsey. Loustalot said he had no details of the finding of the girl's body by searching officers, but: "Mrs. Lindsey was attempting to guide them and put them right in the

The time to transplant is now in the winter time, and the proper size plant is the smaller seedling plant. It is not always easy to tell if a plant is a small seedling or a shoot from an older root, but when you begin to dig you will know if it is too large to move. Get as much of the root system as possible and if you can, always try to take a ball of earth with the main root system without allowing it to crackor break away from the roots. You may cover this with burlap to make it easier to handle and pin it with box nails.

Plant at the same depth the tree was growing, and water immediately, firming the soil around the roots and ball of earth. I have moved plants from one to three feet in height successfully many times. It also helps to note the direction the plant was growing and replant it with the north side facing north.

NO CONCLUSIONS

In its typical conservative fashion the AMA cautions against drawing any conclusions. It says among other things the exhibit was primarily for demonstration purposes, the answers are an interesting by-product and results shouldn't be considered representative of the total population, or even of the people who attended the show.

All of this may or may not be true. But the AMA adds one wellproved comment - one which causes many sleepless nights for auto company executives.

It is: "People's stated opinions as to what they plan to do in the future often fail to reflect what they actually do when the time comes to take action.'

After all these disclaimers the AMA got down to summarizing the answers. All in all they were interesting but not sensational. More than half of those answertion said flatly it was poor.

It wouldn't exactly be free but it would represent a substantial savings.

If that could be done at the same time -or even later-it would give to the plant sharply. Moreover, the building had to the utility it requires for a county fair or other major exhibits. The Belden Pull, which in Texas corresponds to the Gallup and other polls on a national front, shows that a begin majority of Texams think that no new taxes are necessary to meet the state's needs. And even if they were, there is no clear cut idea as to preferred source. The general sales tax is slightly ahead. followed by taxes on such things as alcohol, tobacco and luxuries, then by a state income tax.

Assuming that taxes are necessary these same people give schools and teachers about two-fuirds of the vote. Other state services such as highways, state petral, etc., get substantial backing, but state (mental-tohercular) hospitals and the state's fiscal plight.

special schools fall off to about seven per cent of the total.

Obviously the state's solons and its governmental leaders aren't getting through to John Q. Public. The experts concede that it will take something like $200,000,000 in new revenue to yerk the kink out of the state's present fiscal tangle and to finance the demands of additional services such as more money for schools and teachers, more patrolmen, employe pay raises, slightly more aid to the eleemosymary institutions.

The latter view is probably a lot near correct than the borseback opinion of the average citizen in the poll. The results. however, do indicate that there needs to be a far greater peneral awareness of

That is: what it means to change administrations in an era of revolutionary turmoil and nuclear armanents.

HOW COMPLEX the process is perhaps even the new principals engaged in the act have not yet begun to appreciated. This Ellingtrated most clearly at the only point at which negotiations with the Soviets have been going on-the proposed nuclear test ban talks at Geneva.

When two and a half months ago it was agreed to suspend those talks, pending a new man in the White House, the date of February T was set to resume. This early deadline was fixed in the belief that a new President would, shortly after his election on November 8, name a Secretary of State who would begin to work closely with the retiring Secretary. Under those circumstances it would have been possible to designate a negotiator for the Geneva talks and, far more important, to arrive at an agreed position for restarting the pegoliations.

BUT IT HAS not worked out that way. Dean Rusk, the new Secretary, has found it more difficult than had been anticipated to draft men to serve with him in the State Department. Not only is a good man hard to find but often good men cannot be persuaded to take the jobs in which they could best serve.

So, as it appears now, the February 7 date cannot be met and the British and the Soviets will have to be asked for an extension of time. Continuing for more than two years, the talks cover the most complex technical problems directly related to the politics of the cold war. Even though able career officers carried on at Geneva after Ambassador James J. Wadsworth, left to replace Henry Cabot Lodge at the United Nations, a new chief negotiator would take a lot of coaching to get up to date.

FIRST AND FOREMOST, the new administration must weld conflicting viewpoints together and hammer out a reasonable negotiating position. That was difficult in the Eisenhower Administration, Several. times with quiet and courageous determination Secretary of State Christian A. Herter stood off the Pentagon, the Atomic

Some among those who will have a voice in shaping foreign policy in the Kennedy Administration feel a test ban agreement is not important. But anyone who has been at the U. N., as Wadsworth has, knows that every nation, and particularly the underdeveloped powers, is counting on an agreement During the campaign President-elect Kennedy said he would "direct vigorous negotiation in accordance with my personal instructions on policy." In the same statement he left no doubt of the "extreme importance" he puts on an agreement with proper safeguards.

ON LAOS the urgency is equally great. Premier Khrushchev has said that he is willing to hold a conference of the powers involved in the crisis that has threatened to enlarge into a general war. This is a decision that the Eisenhower Administration with only a few days to run cannot.

The complexity of the Laos situation is almost as great as that on nuclear testing. In an article in the current Life magazine Far Eastern correspondent Stanley Karnow says of the "mess in Laos" that the United States has made just about every mistake that could be made including the squandering of $300,000,000 in aid money. ### Holmes Alexander Watch Out For The Professors

WASHINGTON-Here come the professors! Nobody at the Democratic National Committee seems to know how many of the 400-odd persons to get jobs under the new administration wear the academic handle to their names, but the number is considerable, with the Northeast corner of the country acting as the brainbasket. What does it mean? Well, it means for one thing that John Kennedy really did defeat Richard Nixon last November and that an important difference between the candidates is now salient. NIXON WOULD HAVE built a "poli-trust" rather than a braintrust. His intimates and advisors, despite some campaign efforts to show otherwise, wear the low-crowned derbies of practical politics, as different as can be from the tight halos of the socio-scholars who are swarming into office as Kennedy follow-The shift of a few thousand votes last November would have meant lowbrow fashions this winter, but it didn't happen-bence the intellectual migration to many key positions of action and influence in Washington.

WHAT ELSE does it mean? Among the oracles often consulted by political writers is a venerable sage who saw what happened in 1933 under Franklin Roosevelt. Why the professors? "Because," I was told, "the President-elect thinks they know more than he does." Well. . . maybe so. But part of the virtue in John Kennedy is that he was a politico, by ancestry and practice, before he grew into an intellectual. You can always tell such a man as Kennedy-but the professors can't tell him much.

There hardly breathes a person on Capital Hill, where the President-elect served for 14 years, who can indisputably tell you how far left, or how far right, Kennedy's beliefs range on the familiar issues. All anybody can be sure of is that Kennedy is "practical"-which is what many admirers mean when they say he's "moderate."

LIKE ANOTHER well-advised young man, John Kennedy is apt to give many his ear, but few his voice. The professors will influence him-they won't own him. This is how it should be. Professors and other intellectualists are like the rest of us in one respect. Singly, they may be real nice fellows, kind to their mothers, fond of their country. But in numbers, and under excitement, they are subject to a dangerous mob spirit. Nice people of every sort are the same. Last fall, in the respectable city of Dallas, a meeting of Junior Leaguers and former finishing school gals went berserk, under the mesmerisms of the staid, decent Congressman Bruce Alger.

THE METAMORPHIZED ladies became screaming furies and, as part of a mob, reviled Lyndon Johnson and pawed at his wonderful Lady Bird. This same sort of thing can happen if the professors get carried away with a passion to repeal human nature and remake the world. Anybody who doubts this inherent danger in agglomerated intellectualism ought to improve his mind with "The Politics of Upheaval" by Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., a close friend and advisor of the President-elect. Back in the 1930's, the intellectualists found the New Deal much too slow and moderate. To them, then as now, capitalism must go!

"THERE IS NO WAY at all in which capitalism can be 'reformed' into giving decent or efficient results" Strachey). ". . . Roosevelt intends to move toward fascism" (I. F. Stone), "The essential logic of the New Deal is increasingly the naked fist of a capitalist state" Max Lerner). Unless the nation is to be doorned with "confusions and miseries . it must prepare to supercede capitalism with socialism. There is no longer a feasible middle course" (An editorial from the New Republic). This is how professors, joined together for mischief, can cut up. Better watch it, Mr. President-elect! (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Then he proceeded to list an hawks out of first place. armful of reasons why Patterson won the heavyweight championship from him with a fifth-round knockout last June 20.

1. He fought too many exhibitions after winning the title from Patterson in 1959, and that made things too easy for him. 2. He lost six pounds the night before the fight and entered the Johansson arrived Monday night from Paris, and will attend the New York Boxing Writers dinner tonight where Patterson will get the Boxer of the Year award. Then he heads for Florida to look for a training camp. The third go in their series is scheduled for Miami Beach on March 13.

"I've looked at the films of the fight many times," said Johansson and I still don't know how I ever got caught with that punch. It never happened to me before and I don't intend to let it happen

"After all, I knocked Floyd out once and stunned him in the second fight. I'm sure I'll win this one. I've knocked him out a thousand times in my dreams and I know they'll come true."

Maybe the dreams told him what round he would finish Patterson? "Nope," he answered, "I can't tell what round it will be. But I know I'll beat him." Ingo said he had been boxing seven or eight rounds a day and doing five or six miles of roadwork a day for the past two months.

"Now," he observed, "I'm Tigers:

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

BILL RUSSELL, defensive wizard of the Boston Celtics, when asked how he reacts to the chore of guarding Wilt Chamberlain:

"Let's say I have mixed emotions. I have a three-part defense

I use against him. One-I try to keep him from the ball, Two-if that doesn't work, I try to stand between him and the basket . . . Three is when everything else fails, I panic." DICK YOUNG, New York writer:

"It's a Barnum & Bailey world, and even a hip gee like Leo Durocher can take a long time finding it out. Now, his back-slapping buddies have left him, because somebody else is picking up their tabs at Romanoff's, and Leo is desperate enough to take a coaching job for $15,000, which didn't used to cover his bills for Chanel No. 5. Not much more than a year ago, when L. Durocher still was considered hot baseball property, he was dictating the lofty conditions it would require to lure him away from the handshaking world of show biz, back to the fist-shaking world of baseball. It would take a piece of the club, he said airily; salary alone wouldn't do it."

AL LOPEZ, discussing Johnny Romano, the catcher the Chicago

White Sex traded to Cleveland recently: "He will become a pretty good catcher, but when we had him he didn't like responsibility. He would just as soon you call his pitches for him. I'll never do that for a catcher of mine. A catcher has got to be a general. He has to call the shots on the field."

DAN DEVINE, coach of the Orange Bowl champions, the Missouri

"Two years ago, we went in with hopes high, foolishly high. I might add-for a victory over Oklahoma. They beat us, 39-0. It crushed us. But that's when the sophomores promised the seniors that they'd beat Oklahoma before they graduated. For two years, I thought about that promise. So did they. Last November, we went to Norman again, On a fourth down play, Mike McClellan of OU ran 70 yards for a touchdown as 57,000 spectators went mad, I had a sinking feeling inside me that the promise wouldn't be kept. No team had run more than 27 yards on us because our pursuit is relentless. But then we began to move and we won, 41-19, our first victory there in 24 years."

JOHN CARMICHAEL, Chicago writer: "It was popularly believed that Curly Lambeau originated the from the roof of the stands, or thereabouts, but Curly always insisted the honor belonged to 'Lone Star' Dietz back in the days when Dietz sent the Boston Redskins (now Washington) against the Giants. 'Lone Star' had decided the best strategy was to kick off and then try to take the ball away in New York territory. He left explicit instructions to that effect . . . and climbed to his box, wired for sound, in the stands. As he reached his perch and looked down upon the field he saw his Redskins lined up in receiving formation. Quickly he grabbed the phone. 'I told you to kick,' he bellowed, 'What's the matter with you . . . don't receive ... kick, kick, kick! As he paused for breath, he heard his assistant reply: 'We did. The score is 7-0. Harry Newman ran it back 94 yards.' "

PEAHEAD WALKER, after his first season out of football coachng, discussing Wally Butts' prospects on a quiet life: "He'll find that it's so nice to be out of all that tension that he'll never want to go back to coaching again."

PRESS MARAVICH, Clemson basketball coach "When I came to Clemson to be interviewed for the basketball coaching job, Frank Howard asked so many questions it was like I was going to work for the FBI. Finally, when I got ready to leave and go back home to Pennsylvania, Howard grunted, 'Yank, do you think you can coach basketball?' I told him, 'Howard, I can coach basketball twice as good as you can coach football.' So what happens? Well, while I've had four straight losing seasons Howard has taken his team to three bowl games."

BEN HAWKINS, local Internal Revenue agent, after watching SMU defeat TCU in basketball at Fort Worth last weekend:

"Jan Loudermilk (of Big Spring) looked like a space-man, the way he was taped up, but he carried SMU against TCU. Some ball game, even if TCU did lose."

Midland county farmers with the most recent developments in agricultural research. Dr. Burnett's topic of discussion will be, "Soil and Water Conservation Research in the South Plains," and will be based upon the research on water conservation and wind erosion control being conducted at the field station. This research is applicable to the cultivated, moderately coarse textured dryland soils of West Texas and eastern New Mexico.

The Midland Junior Chamber of Commerce is expecting a large attendance. Other speakers on the program include Earnest Thaxton, agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Pecos, who will discuss management production.

Forecasting? You Get Everything But That On TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP-TV Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—One thing you can say for television is that it's not content just to talk about the weather. It has done something about it-so much that it sometimes takes special skills to find the forecast in a TV weather

Obviously, the TV people with their marvelous visual tools could not allow some well-tailored announcer to look into the camera and say simply: "Tomorrow is going to be cold and rainy. No, we have to see it. The weather reporter enthusiastically draws swooping lines on a map of the country while chattering merrily about highs roaring down and fronts building up.

Just as we are trying to figure out if that means a local hurricane or blizzard, our instructor slips in the forecast with the speed of light. If our attention is diverted for a second, we miss it. But that isn't all. In our vicinity and I suspect in yours, too) TV weather reporting is largely woman's work, and the woman is usually a glamor girl. Therefore, while the gentlemen of the great home audience are concentrating on her curves and the ladies are criticizing her clothes and hairdo, the forecast is beclouded further. In our area, we have one weather girl who zips so fast through the high fronts and low pressures that she uses the leftover time reading fascinating tidbits from almanacs, about the anniversary of the Battle of Hastings or the lemmings' march to the sea. But then if we really want the
