Cancer Kills Tom Dooley, Medical Hero Of Laos

NEW YORK (AP) — Thomas Dooley, lion-hearted young doctor who battled disease in the Laos jungle even when he himself became ravaged by crippling cancer, died in his sleep Wednesday night at Memorial Hospital.

Dooley's dedication to relieving the plight of the underprivileged and ailing began seven years ago while he was a Navy doctor.

He spent a year of premedical training at the University of Notre Dame before serving (1944-46) as a Navy medical corpsman attached to the Marines.

Dooley rejoined the Navy as a lieutenant (j.g.) and took his internship first at the Naval Hospital, Camp Pendleton, Calif., and then aboard the attack transport USS Montague.

In 1954, at the end of the war in Indochina, his ship aided in evacuation of refugees from Communist North Viet Nam.

Seeing—and feeling—the plight of the hundreds of disease-wracked inhabitants of the area made up Dooley's mind.

He had no money. But he had a fighting heart, boundless energy and a burning zeal.

After leaving the Navy in 1956 Dooley wrote a best-selling book, "Deliver Us From Evil." He used the book's proceeds, and supplies donated by pharmaceutical firms, to return to Laos with three former Navy buddies and set up a small hospital at Nam Tha. He brought in his medical supplies by train, plane, oxcart and dug-out canoe.

LEGION OF MERIT

For his work with the refugees, Dooley won the Legion of Merit, and was the youngest officer in the history of the Medical Corps to receive it. He also was awarded the National Order of Viet Nam, that nation's highest decoration.

Dooley turned over his first small hospital in 1957 to the Laotian government. Then it was back to this country to raise more funds. He lectured and appeared on TV.

In 1958, with Dr. Peter Comanduras, a Washington, D.C., physician, he founded MEDICO (Medical International Cooperation Organization), a nonprofit agency.

Dooley had raised more money with another best-seller, "The Edge of Tomorrow," and returned to Laos to establish a hospital in the village of Moung Sing near the Chinese border.

At first there were only mats for beds, but Dooley considered this his own hospital. It soon was handling 100 patients a day.

FUND RAISING

It was back again to the United States for more lectures and fund-raising.

In 1959 a $10,000 annual award Dooley received from an insurance firm went to another MEDICO hospital in Kenya. But that same year he learned that a tumor on his chest was malignant. A New York operation was termed successful and he went back overseas.

Even though told by some doctors his cancer was arrested, he remarked to newsmen that his type of cancer was the fast-growing kind, but added:

"I figure that what I have crammed into my life makes me really 65."

He managed to get his own plane and flew back and forth directing the hospital. An admittedly avid fund-raiser, he once wryly described himself as "begging, burning, borrowing and from time to time just stealing a bit" for his and other MEDICO hospitals.

COLLAPSED

Last November Dooley, in Hong Kong to discuss a new hospital program collapsed from sheer exhaustion. Came the brace and a diagnosis of "bony destruction to the vertebrae."

After a funeral mass at St. Louis Cathedral, Dooley will be buried in Calvary Cemetery beside his father, Thomas A. Dooley Sr., and a brother, Earle, killed in Germany during World War II. Among survivors are his mother, Agnes, and two brothers, Malcolm, of Huntington, N.Y., and Edward, of Cleveland, Ohio.

Dr. Dooley, semiconscious much of the time during his final hospital stay, was sufficiently alert on his last birthday to receive a visit from Francis Cardinal Spellman.

A birthday message from President Eisenhower epitomized the career of the selfless young doctor. The President said in his greeting:

"It must be a source of heartened gratification to realize that in so few years you have accomplished so much for the good of distant peoples and have inspired so many others to work for all humanity."

Asks For Payroll Tax

West Texans Warned Saline Pollution Problem To Grow

More than 100 West Texans today were warned that the matter of salt water pollution of water supplies will become an increasingly difficult problem.

Addressing the meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Water Resources committee, E. V. Spence, Big Spring, told the group that "if you have salt water pit disposal in oil fields in your area, you will have pollution sooner or later. If you have improperly plugged wells, you will have pollution." He said this problem was already happening on the high plains and in Runnels and Reagan counties.

Spence also stated that smaller communities under existing state pollution regulations would be virtually powerless to deal with the problem.

Howard Drew, Fort Worth, director of research for Texas Electric Service, held out hopes of stretching West Texas water supplies through reduction of evaporation and by de-salting brackish waters.

He said that field tests using a microscopic film had been successful in reducing losses equal to the value of the water conserved.

The most promising process for converting brackish water into potable water appeared to be by electrolysis. This involves passing water through membranes in the presence of positive and negative charges which tend to draw off the sodium and the chloride ions.

Drew said that moderate salty water could be converted to good water at a cost of 30 to 50 cents per thousand gallons, exclusive of plant and disposal costs. He added that one California community which had been hauling in water at a cost of $7 to $8 per thousand gallons had used this process to convert water at $1.45 per thousand, which included all plant and operating costs.

Discussing recommendations of the Texas Water Coordinating committee, Frank Kelley, Colorado City, vice chairman of the WTCC Water Resources Committee, said that re-organization of the State Board of Water Engineers was one of function rather than of personalities.

He added that he felt like a recommendation for a six-man part-time water board would be modified before it reached the legislature. He also discussed recommendations for project financing, planning, pollution control and water rights.

Other speakers who were to be heard included Marvin C. Nichols, Fort Worth, chairman of the Texas Water Development Board; and W. L. Broadhurst, Lubbock, chief hydrologist for the High Plains Underwater Water District.

The meet was being held at the Settles Hotel.

World Citizen Goes To Jail

NEW YORK (AP)—Garry Davis, 39, who once gave up his American citizenship to proclaim himself a citizen of the world today was temporarily without his freedom.

He was sent to jail Wednesday for three days when he tried to pay a $15 traffic summons with a bill inscribed, "One World Credit."

New Savings, Loan Company For Big Spring

A new savings and loan institution in Big Spring is being proposed.

A group of local men who made up a proposed board of directors for what would be chartered as the Big Spring Savings Association will present application for such charter Friday morning to the Texas State Department of Banking in Austin.

Capital investment totaling $225,000 has been paid in, the application says. This represents $150,000 in capital stock and $75,000 paid-in surplus. About 40 shareholders are represented in the subscription.

A proposed board of directors includes John Davis, L. B. (Bill) Edwards, E. P. Driver, Joe Pond, H. W. Smith, Adolph Swartz, Jess Thornton and R. W. Whipkey. For organizational purposes, Whipkey has been elected president, Swartz vice president, and Driver, secretary and treasurer.

A ninth place on the board is being held for the man selected as active manager of the association. This position, of course, will not be filled until action is taken on the charter application.

There is no information as to what the Banking Department's decision will be, or when it will be handed down.

Simultaneous with the filing of the application in Austin, the Big Spring Savings Association also is filing appropriate documents with the Federal Home Loan Bank in Little Rock, for insurance for accounts up to $10,000, and for membership in the Federal Home Loan Banking System. Although deposit insurance (protecting all savings accounts up to $10,000) is a federal function, the new Association would operate under a state charter.

It will be concerned primarily with seeking savings accounts, paying the current dividend rate on these, and with making mortgage loans on residential and other property.

Directors said special efforts will be made to accommodate loans which ordinarily are made out of town, and to work toward keeping Big Spring money in Big Spring.

They said "We feel that the current and prospective growth of Big Spring justifies another savings institution, and that it can serve a place in the building of our community."

Administration Unchanged At First Federal

Administration of the First Federal Savings & Loan Association remains unchanged, following elections at annual stockholder and director meetings Wednesday afternoon.

Returned to three-year terms on the board were Elmo Wasson and Robert Stripling. They serve with R. L. Cook, R. V. Middleton and K. H. McGibbon.

At a board meeting, all officers were re-elected: Cook as president, Wasson as vice president and Stripling as secretary and treasurer.

The board also reappointed all appraisers: R. L. Cook, Robert J. (Jack) Cook, E. P. Driver, Jess Thornton and Harold Talbot.

Stockholders had heard reports showing a year of sharp growth. First mortgage loans increased during the year from $6,727,645 to $7,606,440. Member share accounts (savings) jumped from $6,654,157 to $8,546,660. Total assets currently are $9,362,698, as against $7,579,398 a year ago.

Number of borrowers (for home purchase, construction, refinancing and improvements) was 1,242 at the end of 1960, up from 1,242 a year ago. Number of savings investors increased during the year from 2,362 to 2,948.

On total income of $426,328 last year, the association had a net income of $62,678. This was applied to reserves.

Oil Flow Pattern Returns To 8 Days

Production Falls From Previous Rate

AUSTIN (AP) — The Railroad Commission ordered today a slight cut of 25,610 barrels a day in the statewide oil allowance for February.

The commission fixed the daily allowable at 2,894,477 barrels a day based on an 8-day production pattern.

Oil production has been based on a nine-day pattern for two months.

Most buyers and independent oil producers recommended a switch to an eight-day pattern for the short calendar day-month of February.

Humble Oil Co., the state's largest oil buyer, recommended a nine-day pattern and said Humble had not been able to buy as much spot oil in January as it desired, even on a nine-day pattern.

Charles Shaver, speaking for Humble, said he seriously doubts if Humble can find sufficient spot crude on an eight-day pattern.

Eight of the 13 companies suggested the eight-day schedule.

E. L. Wilson, representing 45 independent oil operators of Dallas, urged the commission to make no material change in the daily allowable. He said the 25,000 barrel cut at the beginning of the month would be offset during February by new allowances for discovery wells.

"We well remember the bad situation we found ourselves in last year when we over produced at the beginning of a bad demand season. It took the rest of the year to get the house straightened out," Wilson said.

He added that his group could not see anything in the nominations or general industry situation to justify an increase of more than 172,000 barrels a day which would result if a 9-day pattern were fixed.

His position was backed up by representatives of independent operators from San Antonio, Abilene and Wichita Falls.

John Crutchfield of Corpus Christi advised the commission to go to a nine-day order because of an increase in nominations, lower crude oil stocks, except for gasoline, and a substantial increase in crude oil being brought into Texas for refining.

Nominations by companies: Nine days, Mobile, Sun, Atlantic, Texaco and Humble; eight days, Indiana, Sinclair, Continental, Cities Service, Shell, Phillips, Standard of Texas and Gulf.

Farewell To The Press Corps

President Eisenhower waves to acknowledge applause of reporters in Washington at the end of his last news conference as chief executive.

Ike, Kennedy Peer At Major Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and President-elect John F. Kennedy canvassed the nation's major problems in a White House conference today lasting more than two hours.

When he came out of the conference, Kennedy told reporters that he and three of his top appointees had "the opportunity to get the thinking of the President and the responsible officers of the government on some of the major problems facing the United States."

Kennedy, bronzed and smiling, was asked how he feels with his inauguration as president scheduled Friday.

"Very good," he replied. A reporter asked if he was excited.

"Interested," Kennedy replied with a broad grin.

A joint statement issued by the press secretaries of the outgoing and incoming presidents said that world areas discussed at the conference included the Far East, Africa, Western Europe and the Caribbean.

MET ALONE

Eisenhower and Kennedy met alone first in the President's office. Then they met in the Cabinet Room with the incoming and outgoing secretaries of state, Treasury and defense for continuation of their discussions.

The statement said that during their discussions, the President-elect and the incoming Cabinet members "were brought up to date on a number of matters affecting the security of the United States."

It was the second time Eisenhower and Kennedy had met for pre-inaugural discussions. They conferred for nearly three hours Dec. 6. Today's meeting lasted about three hours and 15 minutes.

Kennedy told newsmen the two conferences will make the transition from a Republican to a Democratic administration easier.

Kennedy was reminded that Eisenhower had said Wednesday that the transition was going smoothly. Kennedy agreed.

GOLD PROBLEMS

Among the problems touched upon today, Kennedy said, was the outflow of gold. He said this was touched on briefly.

Kennedy said, in reply to a question, that the talks were virtually restricted to foreign affairs as distinguished from domestic problems.

He said that Eisenhower and his associates had offered to continue to help in any way they could after leaving office, if the new administration had any questions they could answer.

He indicated, in reply to a question, that there had been no discussion of any specific mission Eisenhower might undertake for him after returning to private life.

On the ride from his Georgetown home to the White House, Kennedy moved without a police escort. Few of those on the streets were aware he was passing by.

In contrast to the first Eisenhower-Kennedy conference Dec. 6, there was no ceremonial welcome. On the earlier occasion Eisenhower greeted Kennedy on the front steps of the White House after Kennedy had ridden through an honor guard of servicemen.

"Today the small Kennedy motorcade arrived without fanfare. There was a small crowd at the gate. The White House grounds were virtually deserted except for the newsmen.

The roles of the principals in this meeting will be reversed Friday. It will be President Kennedy and private citizen Eisenhower. Kennedy has maintained cordial relations with Eisenhower in spite of the hard fought campaign. This is a marked contrast to Eisenhower's relations with his predecessor, Harry S. Truman.

At their first post-election meeting, Dec. 8, Kennedy and Eisenhower talked alone together for an hour and 50 minutes. Eisenhower was reported much impressed with the man he sarcastically called "this young genius" during the campaign.

At his final news conference Wednesday, Eisenhower said the transition to the Kennedy administration has been going splendidly.

60 Poll Taxes Paid At VA

Sixty poll tax receipts were issued during the day by Mrs. Walter Slate, special tax office deputy, stationed at the Veterans Administration Hospital on Wednesday.

Today Mrs. Slate is operating at Webb Air Force Base, issuing poll tax certificates and exemption certificates to those who need them.

On Monday she will be at the Cosden offices downtown and on Tuesday at the refinery.

A hundred poll tax receipts were sold at the tax office on Wednesday. Mrs. Zarah LeFevre, tax assessor, reported. Deadline for poll tax payments is Jan. 31. Less than 1,700 poll tax receipts have been issued so far this year, she said.

Persons who neglect to pay their poll tax will be deprived of their right to vote in the several elections which are scheduled this year.

First of these will be on April 4 when a U. S. Senator from Texas will be elected.

Mrs. LeFevre said that so far only a few applications for poll tax receipts have been received at the branch establishments she has set up in Coahoma and in different sections of the city.

Tax Bills Become Delinquent Feb. 1

Taxpayers who have waited unduly long to pay their 1960 tax bills are warned that after Feb. 1, the bill will be even larger.

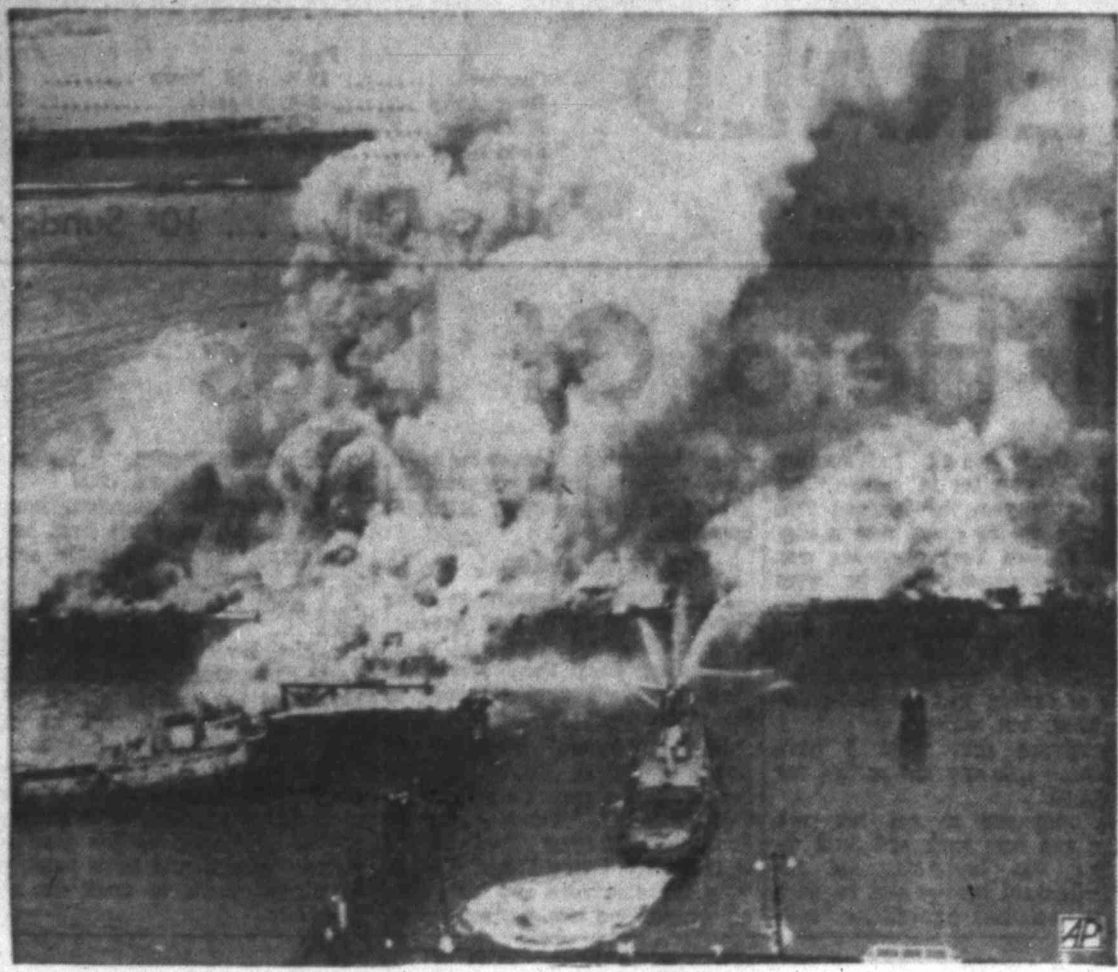

Mrs. Zarah LeFevre, county tax assessor, said that all tax payments for 1960 taxes become delinquent on Feb. 1. This makes the bills subject to penalty of 1.5 per cent.

Thus a tax bill not paid until after January ends will be upped by one and one-half per cent effective Feb. 1.

Lone Star Entry

Workmen put finishing touches on one section of the Texas float in preparation for the inaugural parade in Washington. It features the "lone star" of Texas and an ox-drawn covered wagon. One of the workmen is adjusting the yoke for the oxen.

Navy Dock Burns

Navy fire boats go into action in the Cooper River at Charleston, S. C., as a Navy despoiling dock at the east end of the Charleston Naval Station burns. Several men were injured and six were killed in the spectacular fire.

American Gets Cardinal's Hat

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII today conferred the cardinal's red hat on Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter of St. Louis, Mo., and three other new princes of the Roman Catholic Church.

The public consistory in St. Peter's Basilica, high point of four days of ceremony that swelled the College of Cardinals to 85 members, was attended by 29 previous cardinals, hundreds of bishops, archbishops and priests, and about 10,000 spectators.

Cardinal Ritter was the first to get his hat. As he knelt before the papal throne and two attendants held the broad-brimmed hat—or galero—over his head, Pope John intoned:

"For the praise of almighty God and the honor of the holy apostolic see, receive the red hat, the special badge of a cardinal's rank. By this you are to understand that you must show yourself fearless, even to the shedding of blood, in making our holy faith respected, in security peace of Christian people, and by promoting the welfare of the Roman church, in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost. Amen."

Negroes May Try Own Point 4 Plan

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — The purchase of 5,000 acres of Liberian land for American Negroes is contemplated by the executive board of the National Baptist Convention, U.S.A., Inc.

The Negro religious organization named a commission Wednesday to meet with Liberian officials March 14 to discuss the purchase.

Dr. J. H. Jackson of Chicago, president of the 5-million member convention, said the land would be divided into small farms and sold without profit to American Negroes in an effort to teach Liberian natives Christian living and modern farming methods.

OPEN LETTER
This Week-end

DEAR ABBY

YOU'LL MAKE IT!

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl of 15 and have gone with boys for two years. I didn't realize until reading your column that boys like to be seen in public only with girls they respect. It sure hit home to me. Boys would ask to meet me "later." They would take me out to park, but never ask me to go any place where we could be seen. Your warning came too late for me, but it woke me up.

I'm trying to improve my reputation. But how can you refuse to park with a boy once you've parked with him? Am I hopeless?

DEAR ABBY: Our problem may sound trivial to you, but it is driving us wild. Our neighbors are nice people, but they have two teen-aged boys who play basketball between their house and ours. They have a net on their garage which is only a stone's throw from our window. My husband is retired and he and I are home all day. As soon as these boys come home from school, all we hear is "thump, thump, thump." When it gets dark, they turn on the yard lights and play at night. They know no season. They shoot for baskets and dribble 12 months of the year.

It may seem like a foolish reason to sell a house, but what else can we do? We hate to report this to their mother.

THE NEIGHBORS
DEAR NEIGHBORS: Ask the boys and if they can't find another place for their net, offer to buy them a new one and even to put it up for them. Teen-agers respond quicker to direct, frank complaints than to those routed through their parents.

"Who pays for what?" Send 50 cents to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif., for Abby's pamphlet, "How To Have Lovely Wedding."

Medic Starves Colonies, And Leads Way Against Viruses

GALVESTON (AP) — A doctor at the University of Texas Medical Branch here is seeking to starve whole colonies to death, and with some success.

The objects of this assault on good health are the viruses. Dr. Morris Pollard of the branch describes them to laymen as a midge of the microbe family.

Viruses are responsible for a whole group of diseases ranging from colds to cancer.

"If we can understand the life of a virus, we will be able to understand life itself. It could mean a major break in discovering one of the causes of cancer," Pollard says.

to detect, by color, the chemical reaction in the cells—that is, how the virus was eating.

So far, said Dr. Pollard, the medical team has applied its project to birds with psittacosis infection and cured them. This is important, he said, because psittacosis is contagious to humans.

They achieved the cure by injecting an antibiotic so new that it doesn't have a name, he said.

"With this antibiotic, we were able to interfere with the feeding process of the virus," said Dr. Pollard.

They have also applied their method to the trachoma virus. Trachoma is responsible for 400 million cases of blindness in the world today, he said. It is largely found in countries where sanitary standards are low. Trachoma causes an inflammation of the eyes, clouding the cornea, thus interfering with vision.

"With this new antibiotic, we are planning to run field tests in Far Eastern countries where trachoma is wide spread," said Dr. Pollard.

DEVELOPMENTS

He explained two developments in virus research at the Medical Branch. Working with him on the project are Drs. Yoh. Tanami, Fulbright Fellow from Shinshu University, Japan, and T. J. Starr, a McLaughlin Fellow.

The developments reported by the scientists are:

1. A method by which they can observe how the virus agent feeds itself.

2. Treatment of psittacosis (parrot fever) and trachoma (an eye disease) viruses with the aid of a new antibiotic.

In discussing the broad aspects of this research, Dr. Pollard said: "There is no known, proven treatment of virus disease. Developing a proven treatment is the goal of our research."

Dr. Pollard explains: "Virus agents can cause a wide variety of disease from mild colds to severe influenza, from a benign wart to cancer. Viruses constitute a major problem in the control of infectious diseases in children."

PARASITE
A virus is a parasite on the cells—the living tissue in the body. The virus attaches itself to a cell and bores in. As it feeds on the cell the virus grows, and the cell may be completely destroyed.

"By studying the eating habits of the virus, we can learn how to starve it to death," he said.

"By the development of a special technique in studying virus eating habits we can learn which antibiotic or drug interferes with the growth of the virus."

Medical Branch researchers grew in a test tube the virus psittacosis on tissue cells obtained from the lining of bone joints.

Then, by a special staining process, the growing virus was put on slides. With the aid of an ultraviolet microscope, they were able

The Good Shepherd
Read Jno. ch. 10

"I am the good shepherd," Jesus said in Jno. 10:11. Those who hear His voice and follow Him, are the sheep of His pasture (Jno. 10:27).

"The good shepherd giveth His life for the sheep." (verse 11).

He knows the sheep, and they know Him. (v. 14).

He gives them eternal life; they shall never perish; no one shall snatch them out of His hand. (v. 28).

But notice who these are that shall never perish. They that hear His voice and follow Him. (v. 27). The language is in the present tense. No Scripture says that those who have once heard His voice and once followed Him shall never perish. We stand by our faith. If we do not continue in God's goodness, we shall be cut off. Rom. 11:20-22.

Cox Sees Carelessness In Latin American Relations

Editor's Note: Jack Cox, a candidate for governor last year, has recently returned from a tour of Latin America. He is a Breckenridge, businessman who heads an oil drilling firm. He tells of some of his findings in Latin America in this second of several articles.

By JACK COX
Written For The Associated Press

What has gone wrong with United States relations in Latin America? On my trip through Mexico, Central America and South America, I asked that question over and over of both Americans living there and local government and business leaders.

Also, I asked—and made my own earnest efforts to answer—the important question, what can be done in the future to improve our relations?

Clearly the United States is paying a price in Latin America more for errors of omission than commission. In the period just before World War II, the United States assigned near top priority to building inter-American friendships. The tide ran with us. Since the war, Latin America has been near the bottom in the priority of United States interest and attention—and, directly because of this, the tide has turned against us.

NOT JUST GOVERNMENT
U.S. government policy is not solely responsible for this turn. Our own business interests have directly contributed to the erosion of the prestige of the "Gringos" throughout the Latin Nations—again more because of errors of omission than commission.

American capital has provided jobs, payrolls, opportunity and much else. But American businessmen—and all too often the American tourist—have left behind an impression of superiority. The greatest single contributing irritant in the Latin world is the inability of most Americans to speak Spanish—and unwillingness to learn.

Latin businessmen, basically friendly to the United States, frequently cited to me their own chief irritation that their American counterparts invariably seemed to look down upon them, lowering their intelligence, their modern business wisdom and their own skills. This is the attitude among the educated classes. The resentment is far greater, of course, among the uneducated masses of Latin people and it is this resentment which Communist propaganda is skillfully exploiting.

LOANS MISUSED
While our government usually has wisely followed policies of tying strings to loans made in this region, American businesses—in very recent years—have not been as discriminating and hard headed. For example, "no-string" loan funds secured by Mexico privately from insurance companies in the United States were used to nationalize and socialize public utilities in Mexico City just last year.

The United States, likewise, has been negligent in finding a way to overcome the same problem common throughout Latin America of money loaned for construction projects being siphoned off by graft and other malpractices not tolerated in our own system.

Our governmental programs in Latin America are conspicuously deficient in the use of propaganda to reach the masses of the people in these countries. Americans in most of these countries disdain mingling with or understanding the workingman or poorer classes, and those levels are turning against us.

RED INROADS
Russia is freely transporting Latin trade unionists to Moscow and making inroads with them. The U.S. is making no use of either American labor or farm leaders as emissaries to Latin America and this is a blind spot that should be corrected promptly.

Russia is inviting hundreds of students to study in Moscow while even in Texas the Latin student enrollment at the University of Texas—particularly from Mexico—has dropped to a low mark. Our diplomatic structure in Latin America is operating on an outmoded, underfinanced, less than effective basis.

Unless we are willing, immediately, to face up to our problem and our own declining prestige in Latin America, the United States stands to lose its most important base in world affairs. For Texas, this is especially acute. The Latin market is our own best hope for development of growing industry in the next 40 years. If these Latin lands move behind the "Castro curtain," we will suffer seriously as Texans and, most of all, as free Americans.

Farm Workers Urged To Check Social Security
Farm workers who spent most of their working lifetime harvesting crops for others should make sure that they have a harvest of their own when old-age or disability comes along, and for their families in case of death. Their social security should be tended as if it were an important farm crop.

H. P. Thomas, manager of the Odessa Social Security Office, reminds farm workers that they should be looking after their social security by paying the social security tax and making sure they get credit for all of their covered farm work. This is true whether their boss is the farm owner or a crew leader.

Farm work comes under social security and must be reported if the worker is paid $150.00 during the year or if he works 20 days or more for pay for one farmer or crew leader. A crew leader, is the employer, and he must make the reports unless the farm owner agrees in writing to be the employer.

Farm workers should realize that this tax buys future retirement checks and protection for their families. Farm workers should check with their employers and make sure that the employer is reporting their wages for social security credit.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Maybe June Allyson, 37, and Dick Powell, 36, will live happily ever, after all.

Maybe, said Powell. "If people will only leave us alone."

"That's absolutely right," said June.

The movie couple talked to newsmen Wednesday outside their Beverly Hills home—a day after June filed suit for divorce and Powell flew home from Europe. They didn't say the divorce was off but Powell said: "I still love her, and I'm sure she still loves me."

The actor said, however, that he is moving to the couple's Newport Beach home for a rest.

Miss Allyson would get $2.5 million under a property settlement submitted with divorce papers. They have been married 15 years.

Texans By Hundreds Flow In For The Inauguration

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texans arrived by the hundreds today for the inauguration Friday of John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson.

An estimated 5,000 Texans may be on hand for the event, said Dale Miller, Washington representative of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce. Miller is Johnson's aide on the inaugural committee.

Virtually all of Texas' 22 House members got word from 30 to 40 constituents who were arriving with wives and friends.

A special train came Wednesday bringing a group of Texans who attended a reception for Sen. William Blakley, D-Tex., and Mrs. Blakley.

Among highlights was the $5-a-head buffet reception honoring Johnson and his wife, Mrs. Gib Sandefor, the Texas State Society's entertainment committee chairman who arranged the affair, said requests for tickets had come in from Democratic leaders from practically every state.

Numerous parties and receptions are being held at hotels and homes throughout the city, especially for or by Texans coming to Washington for the inauguration.

SILVER SADDLE
BURNS IN ODESSA

ODESSA (AP)—An early morning blaze, squirting flames 50 to 55 feet into the air, destroyed one of Odessa's largest night clubs, the Silver Saddle.

There were no injuries.

Firemen arrived at the burning building around 4 a.m. and battled the blaze for nearly an hour before bringing it under control.

Assistant Fire Chief Bill Parker, who estimated damage in excess of $25,000, said flames were shooting up 50 to 75 feet and the roof collapsed just as he arrived.

He said he was afraid to send any of his men inside to fight the flames because it appeared the walls were about to explode. Cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Strong Winds Chase Warm Weather Out Of Texas

By The Associated Press

Strong northerly winds whipped a cold front across Texas Thursday bringing an end to unseasonable but pleasant weather which covered the state.

The mass of cold air which moved into the Texas Panhandle Wednesday, Thursday continued to push rapidly southward. The front spread into western Louisiana to just south of Lufkin and 40 miles south of Cotulla early Thursday.

It continued westward across the northern portion of Mexico. Temperatures toppled into the lower 20s in the Panhandle early Thursday and ranged up into the lower 60s south of the front and along the coast.

The front, continuing southeastward during the day, was expected to spread over the entire state sometime Thursday.

Scattered rain fell along and ahead of the cold front over South Central and Southeast Texas but was expected to end in most sections by early afternoon.

The powerful winds prevailing throughout the cold air reached velocities exceeding 40 miles per hour in gusts at many locations.

Among the cities reporting light rain near dawn Thursday were Corpus Christi, Alice, Beaumont, San Antonio, Houston, Laredo, and Galveston.

2 Youths Sentenced On Rape Conviction

WICHITA FALLS (AP)—Two teen-age youths were assessed 30 years in prison Wednesday by a district court jury after they were found guilty of raping a 16-year-old Wichita Falls girl.

The convicted youths were Cecil Tonguet, 18, and Willie Don Preston, 17, both of Shamrock, Tex.

Three other youths arrested in the same case are being held for trial after they become 17 years old.

The attacks occurred last November on a rural road near here.

Political Tightrope In Senate Election

WASHINGTON (AP)—Members of Texas' Congressional delegation must walk a tight rope in deciding whom to support publicly in the state's forthcoming special election to pick a successor to former Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson.

Two of their number are among the principal Democratic entries in the race.

These are Sen. William Blakely, the interim successor to Johnson, and Rep. Jim Wright of Fort Worth.

The lone Republican in the state's 24-member delegation, Rep. Bruce Alger of Dallas says he'll do all he can to help John Tower, Wichita Falls, a GOP entrant.

Rep. John Dowdy of Athens, chairman of the Texas delegation, sizes up the dilemma confronting him and his Lone Star state colleagues with these diplomatic words:

"Everyone is vitally interested and we hope the best man will be elected. All I will say is that I hope the people of Texas will carefully look over the qualifications of all the men before they vote. That's their duty both to Texas and the nation."

Dowdy also observed that he and the others in the delegation will have to work with the winner.

GARDEN TALK

Now Is The Time To Plant Shrubs, Trees

BY BRUCE FRAZIER

In answer to many requests to "Tell us when to plant fruit trees and shrubs and rose bushes..." now is the time to plant.

It has been a long time since we have had this much gentle rainfall at this time of the year. The soil is moist and the weather has been mild. It is winter time and the plants are dormant. This is the time to carry out all those plans you may have made for planting a beautiful yard, or adding some fruit trees.

There are so many things to plant at this time of the year it is best to make a list of the ones you want and then work out the details with your nurseryman. Here is a good idea for making planting plans: Consider the area you have that needs to be planted. Don't overcrowd it with too many plants at first. It is better to fill in the gaps than to have to remove the extras. Try to stay with the old tried and proven varieties of plants in general.

It is fun to try a new plant or a new variety so long as we do not spend all our time and money experimenting on new things that may not do well in the long run. Budget your expenditure between the tested varieties and the new ones so that no matter how the new ones do, you will still have a pretty planting to show for your efforts. In all respect to the new plantings, the large majority of our plants in West Texas today were introduced not too long ago, so you see some experimenting is important.

If you have time to devote to gardening, try transplanting some native shrubs to your yard. I predict that some day we will be propagating native plants to ship out of here to other places.

Now is the time to plant fruit trees and pecans, and flowering shrubs. Replace the things that died out during the past year, and if you have a new home, begin your basic landscape plantings immediately. Trees take the longest to mature, so plant them first in order to get them on their way as soon as possible. Oh yes, and to several who want to know, it is still much too early to think of planting lawns. These do best in June, so concentrate on shrubs and trees and spring flowers.

For answers to your garden questions, write to Bruce Frazier in care of the Herald.

Health Of Missile Ground Crews Stressed By AF Medic

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The ground crews need to be as healthy as the pilots in the space age, the top medical officer in the Strategic Air Command of the Air Force believes.

Ballistic missile sites often are in sparsely-populated areas where medical attention may be hard to obtain, and missile units have so few men that they can be seriously hampered by loss of personnel due to illness or injury, Brig. Gen. Theodore C. Bedwell Jr. explained.

Bedwell, SAC surgeon, adressed more than 300 scientists and technicians attending a series of lectures on space medicine at the school for aviation medicine today.

Bedwell said the Air Force considered attempting to provide a medical unit for every missile unit, but decided against it because "manpower costs, medical training requirements and the lack of evidence to support the requirement for such service indicates that doubtful benefits would be received from such an idealistic operation."

Personnel assigned to missile units are given more first aid training than the average airman receives, Bedwell said, to enable injured or ill personnel to have proper care pending arrival of medical personnel or an ambulance to carry the patient to a hospital.

The emphasis, however, must be on selecting the type of man least likely to become ill or to be injured for missile units, the general said.

Sailing In Space In Science News

SCIENCE AT WORK

Science this week looks at katydid with accents; sailing in space, and a mystery about forest and prairie fires.

ANIMAL TALK

A new long-playing record for scientists has tuned in on katydids with Northern and Southern accents; toadfish growling when an intruder comes along; the grunt of a grouper fish, and the trill of a tree frog, plus many other attractions.

The record and a book, "Animal Sounds and Communications," issued by the American Institute of Biological Sciences, are the latest aid in research to understand how animals and insects really communicate. Their talk concerns mating, availability of food, danger warnings, and other signals.

SAILING IN SPACE

The pressure of sunlight affects the orbit of Echo I, the big balloon satellite launched to explore future means of communications.

This fact confirms the feasibility of another idea: that a satellite could be equipped with a huge sail, made of similar aluminumized fabric, so it could be maneuvered by sunlight pressure much like an ordinary sailboat responds to wind pressure, report scientists of the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory.

Earlier, they had worked out means of keeping a sail open and maneuvering it in relation to the sun and gravitation forces, acting on an idea advanced by Dr. Richard L. Garwin of Columbia University.

HOUSEWIFELY TIP

Scientists were looking for some method of storing uranium in small, water-tight containers with lock-on lids.

The containers had to be small and water-tight. Too much uranium in one pot could create dangers and they should not ever spill.

A housewife-employee solved their problem, suggesting they use a type of pressure cooker, says a release from the Aerojet-General Corp.'s nucleonics plant, Azusa, Calif.

FIRE EFFECTS

Forest and prairie fires cause intense heat, as everyone knows. But the temperature an inch or so below the surface of the ground can be changed very little or not at all, University of Wisconsin botanists report from studies using special thermometers.

This explains why seeds existing just below the surface can be little affected, and then take over in the re-growth after a fire. The knowledge can be helpful in intentional burning and control of various areas to promote game preserves for forms of wildlife, by encouraging the kind of plants and cover they prefer, say Richard Vogl and Prof. John T. Curtis.

'YOU CAN GET BETTER GRADES'

WITH THE SPECIAL OFFER OF THIS 52-PAGE BOOKLET WRITTEN BY AN OUTSTANDING EDUCATIONAL AUTHORITY

There was a time when failure in school seemed no great tragedy. That day is gone forever.

The world today gives its biggest rewards to those who make good grades. Admission to college, and even the award of jobs in many cases, depends on grades.

But, oddly enough, today's methods of mass education neglect the teaching of children how to study effectively in order to get good grades.

To supply the lack, this newspaper has arranged to publish a series by Dr. Leslie J. Nason, a University of Southern California professor and specialist in study methods, to guide those who never have learned how to learn.

Looks Over Cookbook

In the spacious kitchen of her home at 1709 Yale, Mrs. Jerry Spence is getting ideas for the preparations of different types of food from a colorful cookbook. Mrs. Spence enjoys cooking and today is sharing one of her favorite recipes for sweet rolls.

Mrs. Spence Suggests Sweet Butter Horns

Moving to Big Spring shortly after their marriage three years ago were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Spence, who reside at 1709 Yale. The couple both consider their hometown as being Plainview.

They became acquainted while she was employed in Plainview and he was attending a court reporter school there. Prior to that, she had attended Texas Tech for two years.

Mrs. Spence enjoys bowling, sewing and gardening. She has made several of the draperies for the windows of the home they purchased about 16 months ago.

She is a member of the Beta Omicron Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi and will soon become an active member of the 1953 Hyperion Club.

One of the favorite recipes of the Spence household is Butter Horns, a sweet roll recipe, which she says she finds many people in this area have never heard of and she suggests that you try it.

Another of the couple's favorites is stuffed baked potatoes using sour cream and chopped bacon, the Pineapple Bavarian is an easy-to-make dessert and can be prepared easily for a small group.

BUTTER HORNS
RICH SWEET ROLL DOUGH
 4½-5 cups flour
 2 regular cakes yeast
 ¼ cup lukewarm water
 ½ cup sugar
 ¼ cup scalded milk
 2 eggs or 4 egg yolks
 1 tsp. salt
 1 tsp. lemon rind
 1-3 cup butter

Sift flour; crumble yeast in ¼ cup water and teaspoon sugar; let soften for ten minutes.

Put milk, sugar and salt in top of double boiler. Stir in yeast and eggs. Add ¼ flour and beat, then beat in butter and lemon rind.

Add ¼ flour and cover; let stand for 10 minutes.

Turn out on board and with remaining ¼ flour, knead at least five minutes. Put dough in greased bowl turning once. Cover with damp cloth for 1½ to two hours. Punch down and let rise 30 minutes. Turn-out on board and let rise for 10 minutes.

Roll into 12-inch circle about ¼ inch thick. Brush with soft butter. Cut into 12 pie shape pieces. Beginning at wide end, stretch dough as you roll it. Brush with melted butter, cover and let rise until double in bulk. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees) for 12 to 15 minutes.

STUFFED BAKED POTATOES
 Bake potatoes for 1 to 1½ hours. Mix ½ pint of sour cream with ¼ cup chopped crisp bacon.

Remove potatoes from oven and roll gently in a towel until soft. Slit and fill with dressing.

PINEAPPLE BAVARIAN
 1 tbs. plain gelatin
 ¼ cup cold water
 1 8 oz. can crushed pineapple
 1 cup chilled whipping cream
 ¼ to 1-3 cup sugar
 3 tbs. lemon juice

Dash of salt

Dissolve gelatin in water; add pineapple, salt and lemon juice. Fold in whipping cream.

Top with whole fresh strawberries.

Serve cold. Serves 5-6 people.

Heart Shaped Cookies

Bake heart shape sugar cookies for a Valentine party for children frost them with white icing, then with icing that has been tinted red inscribe all sorts of things on the fronts of the cookies, such as "John Loves Mary," using the guests names.

Quick Dessert

For a quick dessert spear cubes of angel food or sponge cake with a fork, dip into melted semi-sweet chocolate squares. Hold over the pan so that any extra chocolate can drop back, then roll cake in finely chopped nuts. Put cakes on tray or cookie sheet and chill until firm.

Parsley Stuffing

You can add minced parsley with a heavy hand to a bread stuffing for poultry.

Turkey Trussing

If it's necessary to truss that turkey, remember to cut the trussing cord about an hour before the bird has finished roasting. Some turkeys come to market with a tuck-in slit for the legs; in this case the wings need only to be folded back akimbo fashion and no trussing is needed.

Colorful Garnish

Next time you have a can of pitted ripe olives in the house, insert some thin strips of carrot through their centers. Add to a salad plate for a pretty and delicious garnish.

Fried Mush

Pour cooked cornmeal into a small loaf pan and chill. Unmold, slice and fry in butter or other fat. If you like a crisp crust, dip the slices in flour or cornmeal before they go into the skillet.

Coffee Flavoring

Don't be surprised if an Austrian nut torte recipe calls for a little finely ground or pulverized coffee. Just add it, straight from the coffee container!

Abundant Cabbage Is Good Eating Variety

New green cabbage is arriving at local markets in abundance from Texas, Florida and California fields, reports the Agricultural Marketing Service.

Acres are up, and the quality of crop is good. Green cabbage is excellent for serving in a variety of cooked dishes, either as an ingredient in meal-in-one meat-and-vegetable entrees, or as the vegetable of the day. Here are suggestions:

SHREDDED CABBAGE
 Wash the cabbage, cut into quarters and shred, using a French-style knife or very coarse grater. Cook uncovered in a minimum amount of rapidly boiling salted water for about 5 minutes. As soon as tender, but still crisp, add butter, salt and pepper. Serve immediately.

BRAISED CABBAGE
 This recipe serves six nicely. Melt 3 tablespoons butter or margarine in a heavy skillet and add 1½ quarts (six cups) shredded cabbage. Cover tightly and cook until cabbage is just tender—5 to 7 minutes. Stir frequently, adding water if necessary. Season with salt and pepper.

FRIED CABBAGE
 Prepare the cabbage as for braising, but remove cover after 5 minutes, and continue to cook until cabbage is nicely browned. Season with salt and pepper.

SCALLOPED CABBAGE
 Cook shredded cabbage uncovered in rapidly boiling salted water, for about 5 minutes. Drain, and add medium thick white cream or cheese sauce. Pour into buttered baking dish; sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs and bake in moderate oven for about 20 minutes.

STEAMED CABBAGE
 Wash and cut cabbage into quarters. Remove most of the core but leave enough to hold leaves intact for serving ease. Fill sauce pan with cooking liquid, to depth of about 1 inch. The cooking liquid may be salted water, or the stock from boiled ham or corned beef.

Bring cooking liquid to boiling point, add cabbage wedges and cover tightly. Cook rapidly until cabbage is tender, from 7 to 15 minutes. Drain, dot with butter and season with salt and pepper—grated cheese, too, if you like. Serve piping hot.

The white, Danish-type, flat round cabbage, which many prefer for salads and cole slaws, also is in plentiful supply. These hard-headed cabbages shred nicely and retain their crisp goodness in uncooked dishes longer than does the green cabbage.

For cole slaws, allow about ¼ pound per person. The yield of shredded cabbage is slightly over three cups per pound, depending of course, upon the fineness of shredding.

Cole slaws generally are served quite moist, with about ¼ cup of dressing being used for each three cups of cabbage. However, the amount and style of dressing you'll want to use depends on family preference.

Consistency of salad dressings also varies, from the very thick sour cream types to the very liquid vinegar-oil types. Evaporated milk dressing is especially popular. To prepare, dissolve ¼ cup sugar and 1-3 cup vinegar. Beat in ½ cup evaporated milk until mixture thickens, then add ½ teaspoon salt.

Cole slaws also can be varied by adding other crisp fruits and vegetables like green peppers, carrots, apples and onions.

Like Cabbage? It Heads List Of Week's Good Buys

By The Associated Press

Many fresh fruits and vegetables are "good buys" in Texas food markets this week, and cabbage leads the pack, the USDA's Marketing Service reports.

Cabbage supplies from South Texas are huge and wholesale prices seldom have been much lower.

Grocery shoppers also will want to heed the abundance of cauliflower, carrots, celery, greens and green onions, lettuce, tomatoes and purple-top turnips, the agency says. Other vegetables in excellent supply are potatoes, sweet potatoes and dry onions.

Texas grapefruit and oranges are at their seasonal peak. Winesap and Rome Beauty apples remain in good supply. So do bananas and lemons. All rate "good buy" tags. Shipments of new-crop avocados have increased substantially.

Prices on snap beans increased this week. Onions, potatoes and sweet potatoes are slightly higher. Cabbage, cauliflower, sweet-corn and tomatoes turned lower. A few new potatoes and cantaloupes showed up this week.

Heavy marketings of poultry this month are being carried out. Chicken is budget priced. Egg prices, particularly on larger sizes, have dropped noticeably. Markets also provide a wide selection of red meats—pork, beef and lamb—in volume. Peanuts, another high-protein item, remain in excellent supply.

SCALLOPED CABBAGE
 Cook shredded cabbage uncovered in rapidly boiling salted water, for about 5 minutes. Drain, and add medium thick white cream or cheese sauce. Pour into buttered baking dish; sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs and bake in moderate oven for about 20 minutes.

Turn out and serve with whipped cream (slightly sweetened and vanilla-flavored).

Valentine Game

Give each guest a sheet of paper and pencil at a Valentine party and see which one can come up with the best short story made from song titles in a given time. The prize goes to the one who writes the best one. An example is: "Sweet Adeline," "You Are My Sunshine," "Always," "I Love You Truly."

Baked Eggs

Your youngsters will like eggs oiled in custard cups. Spoon a tablespoon of cream into each buttered cup before breaking in the egg. Top with buttered crumbs and bake in a slow oven until the eggs are as firm as your family likes them.

Pork Consumption Trends Downward

Are you eating less pork?

That's the trend these days, according to facts compiled by the Agricultural Marketing Service.

From an average of 70 pounds per person just after the war, pork consumption has slipped to 64.6 pounds.

Higher incomes and a population shift to the cities are the main reasons for this decline in demand.

Families with large incomes eat more meat, and they spend more money for it—including pork. But most likely their purchases will be beef, veal and lamb. The extra money will go for higher priced cuts, better quality and meats with more "service" costs.

Last year about 1.6 per cent of the consumer's disposable income went for pork. As recently as 1952, these purchases totaled 2.5 per cent.

This despite the fact that pork prices have declined. Only twice in the past 10 years has pork cost more than beef, and these were in years of low pork consumption.

Together, low consumption and low prices signal a downward shift in demand.

Other causes, as well as income, affect the demand for pork; shifts in the makeup of the population, where it is concentrated, and what it does for a living. Southerners, for example, have always been big pork eaters. Only in the South does pork generally top beef consumption.

Farmers are another large user of pork. Here there is a definite change in demand. The farmer is moving to town. And, as he changes his residence and his occupation, he also changes his eating habits. Hence, some of the decline in pork demand is due to the growth of cities.

Also, in the cities, calorie-conscious office workers tend to limit the amount of pork they eat.

With the widespread use of refrigerators and home freezers, there's a general trend toward the use of fresh meats and away from cured pork items.

Pork, they say, may never regain the position it once held. High-calorie foods are simply not in big demand.

However, farmers are raising more meat-type hogs—the kind that produce leaner and tastier retail pork cuts. This could do much to increase consumer acceptance of pork and pork products.

What To Do With Leftover Turkey

After the family has had its various innings with the holiday turkey, you have only to salvage two cups of diced meat to produce this delicious Cherry Topped Salad Wreath—a perfect highlight for a luncheon or 7' at supper.

CHERRY-TOPPED SALAD WREATH
 1 No. 303 (1 lb.) can water packed red cherries
 1½ cups water and juice
 1 3-oz. pkg. cherry flavored gelatin dessert
 ¼ cup slivered almonds
 1 tbs. (1 envelop) unflavored gelatin
 ¼ cup cold water
 1 cup hot chicken broth or bouillon
 ¼ cup salad dressing
 ½ cup evaporated milk
 ¼ tsp. salt
 1-3 cup chopped celery
 2 cups diced cooked turkey or chicken.

Drain cherries. Add water to juice to measure 1½ cups, and heat. Add cherry gelatin; chill until partially set. Fold in cherries and almonds. Pour into a 6-cup ring mold and chill until firm. Soften gelatin in cold water; add broth and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Cool, add salad dressing, milk, salt, celery and turkey or chicken. Chill until partially set; pour over cherry mixture. Chill until firm. Unmold and garnish with lettuce.

Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

This Squash Dish Is A Favorite

Great flavor combination!
COMPANY SQUASH
 6 small acorn squash
 Salt
 3 tablespoons butter
 3 tablespoons maple-flavored syrup
 Pecan halves

Halve washed squash length-wise; scoop out seeds and stringy portion.

Place squash, flesh side down, in a roasting pan; add ¼ cup boiling water. Bake in 400-degree oven 30 minutes or until tender; water will probably evaporate.

Turn squash flesh side up. Sprinkle with salt; put some of the butter (in small pieces) in cavities and add all the syrup.

Add 4 pecan halves to each cavity and top with remaining butter and a sprinkle of salt. Broil until nuts are lightly browned. Makes 6 servings—2 halves per portion.

Squash, Apples Are Good Team

A vegetable and fruit team.
BUTTERNUT SQUASH AND APPLES
 1 lb. butternut squash
 ¼ cup boiling water
 ¼ tsp. salt
 2 apples (cored and cut in quarters)
 3 tbsps. dark brown sugar
 2 tbsps. dark corn syrup
 ½ tsp. grated lemon rind
 ½ tsp. lemon juice

Pare squash; remove seeds and stringy portion; cut in strips about ¼ inch wide and as long as apple pieces.

Cook rapidly covered in water with salt in 10-inch skillet about 10 minutes; add apple and continue cooking until both squash and fruit are tender—about 10 minutes more. Water should be absorbed.

Add sugar, syrup, lemon rind and juice; mix well and heat. Butter may be added and more salt if necessary. Makes 4 servings.

Add more water if necessary to cook squash and apples; drain.

Drying Tip

After you drain boiled potatoes, shake the spuds in their pan over high heat to dry them.

Squash, Beef

Ever fill baked acorn squash halves with creamed chipped beef?

Flavor Trick

Ever add a bay leaf to a can of tomato soup as you heat it? This trick is particularly good when the soup is diluted with water rather than milk.

Fresh Flavor

Make a gelatin mold of grapefruit juice and add a little mint.

Likes To Nap

Annie Farge, who was born in Paris, laments the fact that Americans are inclined to rush so much they don't take time for a siesta. She is starring as CBS-TV's "Angel."

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Parisienne Deplores Habit Of Rushing

BY LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — No small part of the success of the new "Angel" TV series is due to the charm of Parisienne, Annie Farge. This delightful French mademoiselle trained at the Comedie Francaise before doing a number of French films. Now living in Hollywood with her husband and baby, she is enjoying California life.

"But I find I get tired when too many appointments come in one day," Annie confessed. "A short nap is helpful in combating fatigue, but no one thinks of lying down during the day."

"Have you brought any French beauty secrets with you?" I asked.

Her beautiful brown eyes sparkled with enthusiasm. "Yes," she said. "I learned something from a make-up man in Paris that always works. When I'm tired and my skin doesn't glow the way I like it to, I clean it with cleansing cream. Then I break a fresh egg and smooth the yolk over my face, and while it dries into a mask, I lie down. Then after about 10 or 15 minutes, I wash it off with warm water, and my skin always looks better."

"I like to use egg yolks on my hair, too," Annie continued. "I make a shampoo by mixing a teaspoon of olive oil, the juice of half a lemon and an egg yolk. I rub this into my hair and leave it on about 40 minutes. The oil and egg wash out easily in lukewarm water and leave my hair shiny. If you want to, you can use lemon juice as a rinse, but I don't because my hair is rather dry."

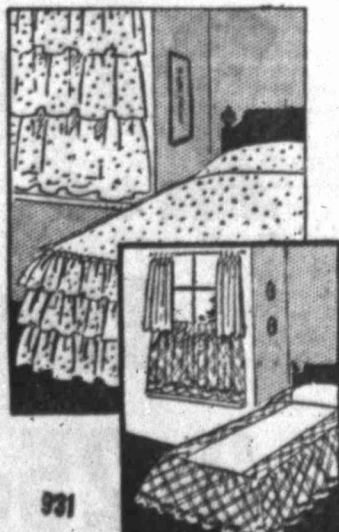

In parting I asked Miss Farge what she liked most about Americans.

"Their punctuality," she said. "In Paris no one is on time, but here, if you have an appointment at 2:30, they are waiting for you. That was a big surprise."

Fairview HD Club Gives MOD Affair

A March of Dimes tea was given by the Fairview Home Demonstration Club Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. F. O. Sorrells. The club donation to the fund was $10 and the members' contributions were $27.50.

Roll call was answered with "The best laugh I have had lately."

Lunch was served by the club at Walker's Auction Sale Tuesday at noon.

The devotion was brought by the hostess and the council report was given by Mrs. Shirley Fryar.

Mrs. O. D. Engle gave the program on cancer. She stated that most people who have cancer are over the age of 55 but it does strike all ages, and that many cases can be cured if they are found in time. She said that cancer is not contagious and there is not one example of it being contracted from another person. She noted that there were three reliable methods for curing cancer—these being surgery, X-ray and radium and that there were seven danger signals for cancer.

Refreshments were served to 15 members and one guest, Ann Thomas.

Mrs. C. L. Kirkland, 1301 W. 5th, will be hostess to the next meeting of the club on Feb. 7 at 2 p.m. contrast to the usually fussy, full-skirted gowns worn by first ladies at inauguration balls.

It is a floor-length sheath with a simple, sleeveless and extremely blousy top.

The dress — which eventually may wind up among the memorabilia at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington — was made public today by the President-elect's press secretary, Pierre Salinger.

The very slim skirt is made of white silk peau d'ange (a sheer silk) veiled with white chiffon. The collarless, sleeveless bodice, richly embroidered in silk and brilliants, is fitted, but it is covered by a transparent, very full overblouse that puffs out like a cloud at the hipbone.

While traveling to and from the three (or four) locations of official inauguration celebrations in the capital Friday night, Mrs. Kennedy will button a floor-length cape around her gown. It is made of the same white silk peau d'ange and is completely veiled in silk triple chiffon.

The cape arches from shoulder to hem with soft waves to the back. It is fastened by twin embroidered buttons under a ring collar.

The new First Lady, highly regarded for her understated high fashion sense, is expected to wear 20-button white glove kid gloves with her ensemble and carry a matching white tailored clutch purse. Peeking from the hemline of her stride-limiting slim skirt will be white silk opera pumps, medium high.

The designer, Ethel Frankau, of Bergdorf Goodman's, left for Europe without waiting to see Mrs. Kennedy wear her creation at the ball.

The store, which had been guarding the costume sketches as if they were a top secret, refused to comment on the cost.

Civil Defense Stressed By Lamesa Delphians

LAMESA, (Sc) — Civil defense at the home level was the program theme for the Tuesday evening meeting of the Lamesa Delphian Club.

Speaking on insidious dangers from within, Bonnie Speck pointed to communism as the most prevalent danger to world peace, and in her remarks on physical dangers from without, Dr. Lily Hilde described the physical effects of radiation and fallout. Dr. Hilde also emphasized the American's complacency. Nuclear and atomic war can happen anywhere, she said.

The clubhouse where members met was decorated with birds, a symbol of freedom. On the mantel border of various colors were in an arrangement which featured a gold cart of good will; on the piano the arrangement of birds depicted the theme, hope. A ceramic figurine of St. Francis feeding pigeons was used to stress compassion; on the tea table, laid with a white cutwork cloth, barren branches sprayed while simulated a tree and attracted white doves of peace with outspread wings to its branches.

Hostesses were Mrs. Carl Rountree, Mrs. A. W. Partain and Mrs. T. F. Vaughn.

Kinsmen Freed Of Bank Fund Fraud Charge

TYLER (AP) — Two kinsmen were acquitted here Wednesday of misapplying funds of the Cotton Belt Bank of Timpson.

All 24 counts against the pair, Darrell Yarbrough and Floyd Yarbrough, were dismissed by Federal Judge Joe Sheehy.

Sheehy told the jury that the government had not proved that Darrell Yarbrough, 35, former executive vice president of the bank, was in charge of the account involved.

The judge added that it followed that Floyd Yarbrough, 48, Darrell's uncle and former operator of a Garrison, Tex., feed store, thus could not have aided his nephew in any misapplication of funds.

Sheehy noted in his speech to the jury that the bank's board of minutes in July 1958 specifically removed the younger Yarbrough from any dealings with his uncle's account.

The government claimed that manipulations resulting in loss of $53,180 began in September of 1958.

The minutes assigned the account to Robin Hooper, then cashier of the Timpson bank. The government maintained that Yarbrough still held authority over Hooper in the account. But the defense denied that contention.

Sheehy added that he found no attempt at fraud by either of the kinsmen.

The government's case was based on drafts drawn by Floyd Yarbrough which were passed around banks in the area and in Dallas. The drafts were on Floyd Yarbrough's feed store in Garrison. The feed store went bankrupt.

Manhunt On In Slaying Of Teaching Aide

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — An intensive hunt was pressed today for a stocky gunman with bushy hair who killed a brilliant University of California graduate student and wounded an English professor late Wednesday.

Fatally wounded by a sawed-off shotgun blast in the back was Stephen Mann Thomas, 29, member of a pioneer ranching family at Ukiah, Calif.

He was a teaching assistant to Prof. Thomas F. Parkinson, 40, who was shot in the face as he arose from his desk in his quiet office on the second floor of Dwinelle Hall.

Parkinson and Thomas had been in conference after classes. The younger man's back was to the open door when the hatless gunman entered and, without warning, fired twice with the double-barreled weapon.

HIT IN JAW
Birdshot from the second blast didn't hit Parkinson full in the face. But it ripped away part of his jaw and blasted out a window behind him. The student writhed on the floor with a gaping hole in his back. Two empty 12 gauge shotgun shells were ejected onto the floor.

Two professors in a nearby office, Brendan O'Hehir and Ralph W. Radar, rushed into the corridor. The slayer ran toward them brandishing the shotgun.

"Outta the way," he said grimly, "or I'll kill you."

Then he darted past them, down the stairs and fled out the main east entrance. Another English professor, Gardner D. Stout, caught a glimpse of the gunman as he ran past a corridor poster advertising a French Quaker film entitled: "We Are All Murderers."

"I never saw the man before," Stout told police.

Relatives of the victims were at a loss for any possible motive for the shootings.

NO MOTIVE
"We have no tangible leads, and we can't learn of any motive," said Police Sgt. Joseph Halleran.

Thomas died in Herrick Memorial Hospital an hour and a half after the shooting. He had been studying for his doctorate in English. He already held masters degrees in fine arts (Iowa, 1957) and English (California, 1959).

A Devotional For Today

All those things hath mine hand made. (Isaiah 66:2.)

PRAYER: Our heavenly Father, we thank Thee for Thy grace and Thy watchful care over us. Keep us faithful to Thee when we are subject to earthquake and fire, wind and flood. When life's billows roar, help us to abide in Thine infinite love. Keep our faith pure and sweet, unspiced by doubt. Anchor us in the sure harbor of Thy love. Through Christ our Saviour. Amen. (From The 'Upper Room')

The Real Test Is Ahead

The community has conferred deserved accolades upon James M. Hardy, who soon will be leaving his post here as general secretary of the YMCA. He is to report to Minneapolis, Minn., as program director.

No student of the local scene can argue the point that Hardy has been the catalyst in remarkable development and expansion of the YMCA program and facilities.

An exceptional young man with exceptional dedication to the cause of service through Christian activity, he learned much from the revered Grover C. Good, who really rooted YMCA in this community. Marshaling great talents as an organizer and an administrator, Hardy progressively involved more and more people in a personal experience with the YMCA and with its objectives.

This community previously honored him as its outstanding young man, and this weekend the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce is paying a similar honor on a statewide basis. It is a tribute to the devotion of a man who never for an instant lost sight of the motivating force of the YMCA movement.

Our five years of association with him have established that he is an unusual individual in many ways, who—often with little thought of himself or his family—has accomplished wonders. The real test, however, begins when he leaves. If the YMCA continues its vigorous pursuit of its fundamental goals, Hardy will have indeed succeeded. That would please him far and away more than kind words, impressive records or personal honors.

Job That Generates Little Enthusiasm

Faced with what most observers believe is a necessity of raising more revenue, the Texas Legislature Wednesday showed little stomach for the task.

The Associated Press dispatch reported that the Legislature sat in glum silence as Gov. Daniel urged a one per cent payroll tax as the least painful way to solve Texas' long range financial crisis.

This may be taken as a lack of enthusiasm for this particular tax; more likely it is typical of the entire feeling about settling on sources to produce more revenue. Nobody gets enthusiastic about levying taxes, particularly those who must face the voters two years hence. Those who may be the chief beneficiaries are inclined to be bolder.

The governor tossed out some other tax proposals, including heavier levies on natural gas, both through higher production and franchise taxes; a property - receipts tax designed to touch interstate businesses; levying of a one - cent gasoline tax; (if the federal government lets its temporary portion of a levy expire) to assume lateral road building and relieve the general fund of this burden; an escheat law to recover and utilize abandoned property and funds for the state.

Whether these are finally adopted in whole or part remains to be seen. The governor offered to go along with most any plan except a general sales tax and a straight income tax. He did cite the need for a broader based tax, and many experts are in agreement that this is necessary, especially if it will grow in proportion to increase in population and business.

Other Men Influence Kennedy

WASHINGTON—What kind of President will John F. Kennedy make? All over the world that very question is being asked. But the answer will not be found in his campaign speeches. Nor will it be obtained by analyzing his personality or career in public service.

In fact, the key isn't in Mr. Kennedy's possession at all. The following persons have the real answer:

Premier Nikita Khrushchev of the Soviet Union.

Chinese Premier Mao Tse-tung of the Red China regime.

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Great Britain.

President Charles de Gaulle of France.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany.

THESE FIVE men control the future "prestige" of the Kennedy administration. For the United States cannot go it alone—it cannot overrule its Allies or force its potential enemy to retreat. The Soviet Union, moreover, can produce crisis after crisis based on disunity or differences among the Western Allies.

The notion that John Kennedy has become dictator of the world's destiny is fallacious. His hands are tied—just as were those of President Eisenhower. All the hysterical rantings of the critics about lowered "prestige" or lack of "leadership" by President Eisenhower ignores a simple fact—that the head of the American government is not the boss and that he has only one choice, between war or peace. If he chooses peace, then patience and forbearance, which are easily misjudged as weakness, can be criticized once more. Significantly, W. Averell Harriman, former ambassador to Russia and designated as ambassador-at-large in the new administration, said on a WOR radio program, taped last Friday, that Americans will have to learn to live with the "cold war" for a long time.

BUT REP. JOHN W. MCCORMACK, the Democratic party's leader in the House of Representatives, in "radio news conference" on Sunday, took a different view as he accused President Eisenhower of "very weak leadership on the world level" and called for sacrifices to roll back Communist gains. He said:

"The American people in my opinion are warriors. We're not quitters. But the people should be given the truth, and they're commencing to get it now through the newspapers."

MR. MCCORMACK discussed Laos, Cuba, Berlin, the Congo and relations with the Allies. He spoke of General De-

Gaulle as "concerned with his internal problems—a courageous man, but uppermost in his mind is France internally, and he's compelled to disregard the world situation."

While not saying so directly, Mr. McCormack implied that Prime Minister Macmillan is inclined to be an appeaser. He remarked that he was sorry to say that Macmillan is "following the pathways that Chamberlain took" when the latter "gave away to Hitler in the hope that Hitler would be satisfied." Mr. McCormack added:

"AND HITLER showed that the road of appeasement is the road to war. We need firmness. It means one has got to be capable and have to take the calculated risk of action and firmness against the calculated risk of inaction."

This is an almost exact description of the art of "brinkmanship" for which the late John Foster Dulles was roundly denounced and ridiculed by many of the speakers of the Democratic party. Questioned about this, Mr. McCormack said that he had been one of the "strongest admirers" of Mr. Dulles' foreign policy in the last two years before the latter's death.

The House Democratic majority leader also declared that defense expenditures should be stepped up because "that's a message to the Communists, to Khrushchev and them, that they understand." He added:

"IF THEY UNDERSTAND that President Kennedy is doing his own homework, is making his own decisions, and when he makes decisions, he means it, that's the language they understand. That will do more to create the spirit, bring back the unity among our Allies. It'll stop countries from being neutral."

What does it all mean? That Mr. Kennedy is going to try to lay down the law to our Allies and tell them they must conform to American "leadership"? Does it mean he will threaten Khrushchev with war if necessary? One wonders how he is going to get the Communists out of Africa and keep them from more aggressions in Southeast Asia. Will it be by offering more money to the "neutrals"?

HOW, MOREOVER, will Mr. Kennedy deal with Communist infiltration in the United States — by supporting James Roosevelt's efforts in the House to cut down the money used by the House Committee on Un-American Activities to uncover Communist operations in our own schools and colleges and to expose their efforts to undermine institutions here and throughout Latin America?

Mr. Kennedy already has many advisers. Some believe as Mr. McCormack does, while others want to hurry up, and admit Red China into the United Nations and retreat on the Quemoy and Matsu question. Mr. Kennedy has the sympathy and best wishes of many citizens who want neither war nor appeasement but, instead, a policy of armed patience in the face of deliberate provocations to war. Eyes Right

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—The eye doctor pointed out a mass of letters and asked six-year-old David Hodges if he could read them.

David shook his head. He gave the same negative response as the doctor traveled up the chart to the huge black letters that even the most myopic can generally read.

David's mother gasped with horror when again, David said he couldn't read the letters. But she sighed with relief when her son added, "But I can spell when I see them."

MISJUDGMENT DAY

James Marlow

Some Changes Made In 8 Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was a sentimental journey and a different kind of President.

On Feb. 17, 1953, when President Eisenhower held his first news conference after taking office, reporters jammed into the high-ceilinged room in the old State Department building near the White House.

He was 62 then and he seemed unsure of himself and tense.

Wednesday, eight years and 192 news conferences later, reporters jammed into the same room to see and talk with the same man, now for the last time as President.

He was 70 now and very sure of himself. And he was at ease. The reporters didn't really go looking for news. They didn't expect much and, as it turned out, there wasn't. Eisenhower had only three days left in office and there was no reason to think he'd light a firecracker.

THEY WENT for various reasons, besides asking questions and jolting down answers. For instance, they were curious, remembering how he had looked in his first meeting with reporters as President, to see how he looked in the finale.

But there was also a sentimental reason for jam-packing Wednesday's news conference. Somehow by this big turnout the reporters wanted to wish him a hearty goodbye.

In the end they never said the word goodbye at all. They just stood up in respect and applauded as he walked out quickly, his hands high in that familiar gesture of good will he always used when standing in the back of an open car to greet crowds in New York, London, Paris, New Delhi.

BUT TIME and the presidency had wrought changes in Eisenhower.

At that first news conference Eisenhower, fresh out of a lifetime in the Army and still a greenhorn in the intricacies of government, faltered as he tried to answer the questions flung at him.

It was painful, so painful this writer, sitting in the back row, gripped his hands together, wishing Eisenhower could do better or that the collective wish of the newsmen would help him to. He was indeed ill at ease.

You wouldn't guess it, of course, if you went back now and read the transcript of that first news conference put out by the White House at the time.

IT HAS NO direct quotes. It said Eisenhower said this or Eisenhower said that. All the uncertainties had been eliminated by avoiding the direct quotes.

Wednesday Eisenhower, after eight years of government, was cheery, sure of himself, unflinching and fluent. His sentences still got jumbled a bit but no more than any man's might in any conversation.

Perhaps most remarkable of all was this: Wednesday Eisenhower, who had a heart attack in 1955, a stomach operation in 1956 and a minor stroke in 1957, was not only pink-cheeked but appeared in every way to be in excellent health.

One thing was sure: He was in good spirits, as a man might be expected to be just a few days before laying down the burdens of the presidency and knowing he was as well-liked at the end as he was at the beginning.

Out To Hunt

ATOKA, Okla. (AP)—An ad in the Jeffersonian read:

"Wallace Betts serves fair warning that his barber shop will be closed every Tuesday until noon during quail season."

The answer. The one real answer is to find out the cause.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have noticed that many people, including myself, have white growths on their fingernails. They seem to grow from the bottom of the nail to the top. What is this and can it be prevented?—D.J."

Little white spots caused by some small injury at the nail bed—as from manicuring. The spots, in such a case, are small air spaces in the nail, and they move out, of course, as the nail grows.

NOTE TO MRS. B.: Milk in the adult diet is important as a source of calcium. Skim milk contains the calcium; removal of the butterfat by skimming makes it more satisfactory, of course, for folks who are troubled by overweight.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Molner in care of the Herald for my booklet, "Ear Noises—Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and envelope.

Dr. Molner welcome all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible. Copyright, 1961, Field Enterprises, Inc.

Around The Rim

Shattering Sight Of Cold Steel

I suppose the snow is about five feet deep in Ohio now. And this creates a terrific traffic hazard in those environs, and I'm not referring to slick streets. Actually, folks up there are accustomed to driving on snow and it offers relatively few problems. The real danger is from snow plows.

In the county where we visited, snow plows were made by putting a huge plow on the front of one of the county dump trucks. And anything further I say about them is pure conjecture.

But it's my guess, that the county authorities, after getting the trucks ready to go, hired either nine - year - old boys who didn't know how to drive, or teenage race - car drivers, or else people with only two days left to live.

BECAUSE, THOSE trucks were the wilder driven vehicles I have ever seen. Imagine driving down a country lane, as are most highways in Ohio, and seeing a flurry of cold steel bearing down on you amidst a white cloud of flying snow. This was my first reaction to seeing one of those things coming toward us.

The bad part of it is that the roads are usually one - way and in good weather, one car yields to another on the shoulder.

But those snow plows never yield. As most of the roads have ditches on either side over six feet deep, it is rather dangerous to get on the shoulder when snow covers them.

BUT IT'S THE only choice. Rather risk any precipice than try to battle one of those trucks driving 60 miles per hour with that huge blade on the front. They never slow down for traffic or yield one inch of the right - of - way.

I believe our city, county and state truck drivers are a bit more courteous here. In meeting these vehicles where one of us must yield right of way, I have usually been fortunate, and the public vehicle paid the courtesy. This never happened in Ohio.

PRIVATELY OWNED trucks are another matter. My experience has been about 50-50. Some of them are extra courteous, others are not. They are more closely akin to passenger car drivers.

I didn't mind the snow, though my good wife Joyce detested it. But I dreaded those snow plows. So back home in Texas, we are both satisfied on this point. No snow, no snow plows.

And Jacquelines Are Everywhere

Don't look now, but when you have a chance to do so unobtrusively, make a tally of all the Jacquelines you can count from the spot where you are now sitting or standing.

Yes, I shall accept in the tally mannequins as well as mademoiselles and mesdames.

DURING THE PAST four weeks I have been under the impression most of the time that I am being followed, even haunted, by the incoming First Lady. At first, there was just one here, another there. I would catch a glimpse of a Jacqueline in the theatre, a bus, across a crowded room.

But then they began to proliferate. Even the spots before my eyes were Jacquelines. And then all those Jacquelines on Fifth Avenue, in the subway, in the ads!

SO I WENT to my doctor, a notoriously unsympathetic Republican. "Tell me, doctor," I cried, "am I losing my mind, am I suffering from hallucinations, has the Democratic victory—after eight years in the wilderness—unhinged this birthright Democrat?"

"Hell, no," he said (he's a blunt Republican), after testing my reflexes and whacking that little rubber hammer against my knees.

"I've been seeing Jacquelines, too, and every place I go. Why, I've seen as many as three and four in some of the best, most conservative Goldwater-Republican families in town."

"And, by God, aren't they pretty?" he asked, using deplorable Republican language. "Every woman under 50 is trying to look like her—same hairdo, same make-up, same clothes. And you know what? If the new Administration consisted solely of Jacquelines, I'd join the party!"

"YOU DISGUSTING old goat," I bel-lowed and stalked out of his office. At least the visit to my doctor had reassured me that all these Jacquelines I am seeing are a reasonable facsimile—well, truth to tell, some are pretty unreasonable even if recognizable—of the new First Lady.

NEW YORK'S Seventh Avenue and the hair-dressing fraternity have never seen anything quite like it—this urge to look like Jacqueline Kennedy, with her enormous wide-brimmed eyes, the heavy, dark eyebrows, her soft semi-bouffant hairdo with that wisp brushed across her high forehead, her fresh, glowing complexion and her innate, simple chic.

If imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, then Jacqueline Kennedy is, today, the recipient of Sincerity, Unlimited. Her imitators include do-it-yourselfers in the subway crowd to women who walk into Fifth Avenue beauty salons and say, "Give me the whole Jacqueline works—haircut, eyebrow, lipstick and send out for a single strand of pearls."

MODELS, a shrewd bunch of cookies, raced to remake themselves, if not nearer to their hearts' desires at least nearer to Kennedy original. Anyone who goes to a fashion show on or off Seventh Avenue today can expect to see Jacqueline, 12 to the dozen, come tripping down the gangway.

Mannequins bearing a recognizable likeness to Jacqueline are just beginning to appear in New York's store windows. Once I felt that the only answer for blue-eyed girls was to kill themselves. But with the Jacqueline makeup and coiffure, they are doing pretty well in this sweatstakes.

All that remains is for some genius, a friend of womankind, to invent a magic potion called "Instant Jacqueline." (Copyright, 1961, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

LBJ In Midst Of Capitol Activities

WASHINGTON — The distance between the Capitol plaza where the President-elect takes his oath, and the White House is about one mile. But, as has been noted many times in the past, this is surely the longest mile in the world.

Anyone with half an eye on developments since Congress came back to town can see that not only has this mile been stretched out but some new traffic obstacles have been thrown up. And on how successfully the new President and the new Vice President can travel this political highway the success of the new administration will depend.

AN INAUGURATION — almost any inauguration—is a time of hope and rejoicing, when the populace turns out with the cheerful conviction that things are bound to be better. Despite the closeness of last November's election, that is the mood of this capital today. The way Mr. Kennedy has conducted himself in the interval since November 8 and the appointments he has made have encouraged the belief that not only will he be a good President, a fair-minded President, but perhaps a great President.

SINCE, HOWEVER, so much turns under the American system of divided powers on the degree of cooperation between the executive and the legislative branches, what has been happening within the Democratic majority in the Senate takes on considerable meaning. In the interval since January 3, what with the rules fight and the divided votes over committee assignments, old divisions and resentments have been sharpened.

To the surprise of practically no one, all this turns around the dynamic figure of Lyndon Johnson, the new Vice President. When in the Democratic caucus on January 3 the new majority leader, Sen. Mike Mansfield, proposed that Johnson be authorized to preside over the caucus even though as vice president he would theoretically be part of the executive branch of government you could have heard that proverbial pin dropping 100 yards away.

SEVENTEEN SENATORS voted against the proposal and under other circumstances, without Johnson sitting there, the total would have been larger. As a compromise it was finally agreed that not only the Vice President but any Senator might preside over the caucus. The belief now is that Johnson will not avail himself of the privilege.

More serious from the viewpoint of the Kennedy program are the committee appointments. Overriding Sen. Joseph Clark of Pennsylvania, who had two years seniority over him and who had long wanted the assignment, the Democratic Steering Committee voted to give a vacancy on Senate Foreign Relations to Sen. Thomas J. Dodd of Connecticut. Both Mansfield and his deputy, Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, voted for Clark.

JOHNSON HAD prepared the way so well that the outcome was never really in doubt. Dodd had broken with the Connecticut delegation last spring and supported Johnson's presidential ambitions in speeches around the country.

Dodd has bitterly opposed the policy positions of Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee. In one memorable hassle on the Senate floor the words spoken were so venomous that they later were stricken from the record. As an obstructionist Dodd can cause a maximum of trouble on the committee.

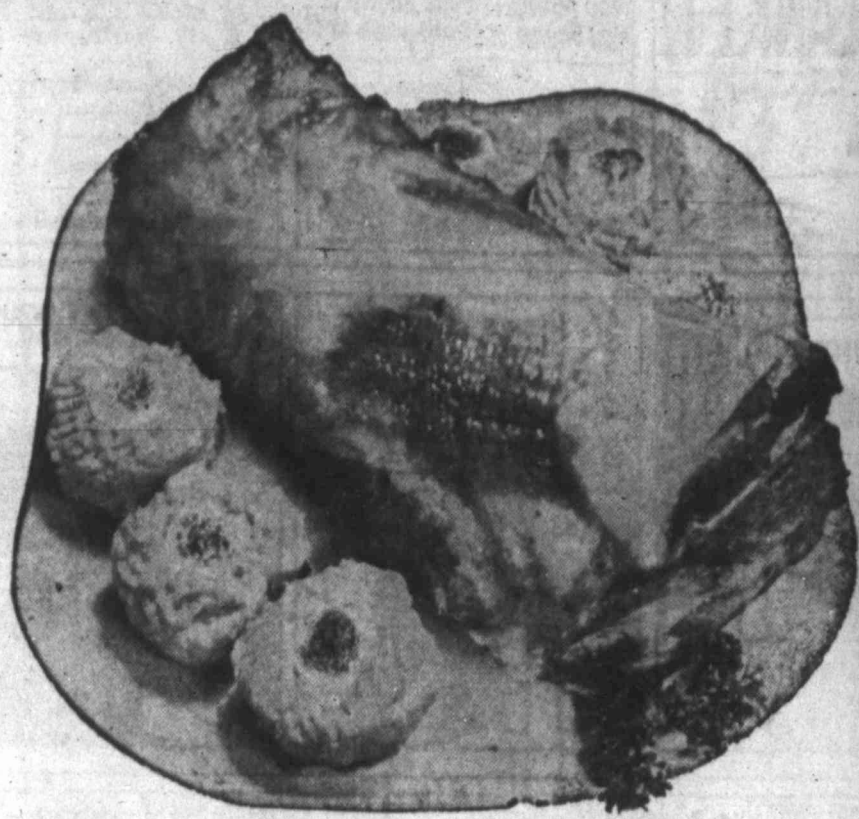

THE FEELING WAS equally strong when the steering group voted to give the newly appointed Senator from Texas, William A. Blakley, a coveted vacancy on the Judiciary Committee. The group was told that two other Senators seeking the post had withdrawn, a report which later proved, to put it charitably, somewhat exaggerated. Blakley, an extreme conservative, will run for election in the Texas primary.

The hopeful view among Democrats who want to see the new administration succeed is that these are all minor skirmishes which will be forgotten when President Kennedy begins to assert his powers. Nor do these hopeful champions of the Kennedy program blame him for the failure—by a four-vote margin—to effect a change in the rules ending the two-thirds vote on closing debate. He could have altered the outcome by a single call. But with this intervention he would surely have put his program in jeopardy.

VICE PRESIDENT Johnson should be extremely busy after this coming weekend—so busy carrying out a whole host of executive assignments that he will be perfectly happy to surrender the powers over the Senate of the United States that he has exercised in such loving detail. (Copyright, 1961, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Anti-Kibitzer Law

CHIPLEY, Fla. (AP) — Kibitzers can get themselves doused offering advice at a fire in this northwest Florida town. Mayor E. A. Thary reports finding a 40-year-old ordinance which says: "Any unauthorized person making any suggestion as to the operation of the Fire Department at any fire, thereby causing confusion to the department, if he shall refuse to discontinue same after being requested to do so, it shall be the duty of the officer in charge to order the water hose turned on him."

Historic Rainmaking Tests Got Rained Out

KINGSVILLE (AP)—One trouble with some of the Texas rainmaking tests late in the Nineteenth Century was that wet weather delayed the experiments.

The idea for the tests grew from an 1871 story that pointed to the grumblings of soldiers about marching through mud, and a theory advanced by Edward Powers that cannonading caused rain.

Illinois Sen. Charles B. Farwell was a syndicate member that built the Texas Capitol Building and received the XIT Ranch in return. And the XIT needed rain.

Farwell pushed through a bill appropriating money for experiments, which were carried out on a ranch near Midland, not the XIT spread. Results were inconclusive.

Government documents a nd newspapers of the 1890's tell how the experiments aroused a furor in South and West Texas.

ANOTHER OFFER

A delegation from El Paso reached the ranch almost as soon as the rainmakers and offered to pay all local expenses and furnished explosives if the government party would come to El Paso.

Almost equally prompt were R. J. Kleberg of the King Ranch and Mrs. N. G. Collins, San Diego financier and rancher.

On learning the appropriations were not sufficient for work in South Texas, they returned home to raise money.

Mrs. Henrietta King, Kleberg's mother-in-law, made a $1,000 donation. George W. Fulton Jr. of Rockport, head of the citizens committee which collected the cash, contributed $300, while other individuals donated the balance of the $2,289.52 spent by the group.

The government's cost, for 20 balloons of varnished muslin and miscellaneous supplies, was $633.52.

Preliminary blasts on a hill west of Corpus Christi were inconclusive. It had been raining during the day and the experimenters were undecided on whether the rain that fell was natural or man-made.

So they moved to San Diego, then in the grip of dry weather. The 15-man party settled down about a mile and a half north-east of the railroad station to wait for clearing weather, for the Corpus Christi disturbance had reached as far inland as San Diego.

FIREWORKS STARTED

On Oct. 15 the Corpus Christi Weather Bureau gave the rainmakers the go-ahead and the fireworks started before daylight the next morning.

Dynamite and other explosives were set off at intervals on the ground after midnight. Three balloons filled with explosives gases and carrying more explosives were sent aloft and exploded. Next morning, several hundred 25-pound packages of dynamite were fired on the ground between 7 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. with only a few scattered clouds showing. These disappeared during the afternoon.

From 3 until 8 p.m., more bombs were exploded on the ground. Five more balloons were fired during the night, and at 3

Lamesa Lions Plan Confab

LAMESA (Sc)—Local Lions are preparing for the invasion of Lamesa Sunday by some 300 fellow Lions and guests at a mid-winter conference of District 2-T-2 club officials.

Reservations have been pouring in for the feature banquet Sunday, making necessary a change in the site. The banquet will be held in the National Guard Armory at 12:30 p.m. instead of the Community Center building.

Herbert C. Petry Jr., chairman of the State Highway Commission, will be the speaker. The two local Lions clubs are hosting the meeting.

Lamesa Lion J. D. Dyer Jr., is governor of the district and will host a cabinet meeting Saturday at 5:30 p.m. A reception is also set Saturday at 7:30 p.m. and registration for the conference begins at 8:30 a.m. Sunday at Forest Park Community Center.

There are 55 clubs in the area district which stretches from Ackery to Plainview and Rotan to New Mexico.

a.m. Oct. 17, the sky was still clear and the wind fresh.

All of the 17th was used in preparing for the final bombardment, when 800 ground charges were to be supplemented by balloon explosions and aerial bombs in an effort to bring down a deluge.

At 6 p.m. there was only one small cloud in the sky, 50 miles to the northwest, and arrangements were complete.

The dynamite and other charges were placed in a 4-mile semicircle. To the left of this were five mortars, designed to cast 20-pound bombs 500 feet high, and a cannon.

At 9:45 p.m. the first combined blast of bombs, balloons and ground charges was fired, and the explosion was felt 27 miles away.

From then until 11:30 p.m. ground charges were fired at the rate of 600 per hour, with an occasional bomb and balloon added.

At midnight, spectators, convinced the experiment was a failure, went home to bed, but the weary experimenters continued to explode balloons.

CLOUDS SPREAD

At 3 a.m. the cloud to the northwest started to spread, soon covering the heavens, and when a last balloon was sent up 30 minutes later exploding about a half-mile south of camp, rain apparently fell there immediately.

Raindrops were also falling at camp. When some ground bombs were exploded, this increased from a sprinkle to a downpour of .47 inches by 5 a.m.

Were the experiments successful? Or would there have been rain in any event?

No one knows, but the experimenters, many of the people of San Diego, and members of the committee—including Kleberg and Fulton—were convinced the clouds and rain were caused by the conclusions.

Collins was the only man not pleased and the experimenters claimed that this was because the rain missed his ranches.

Kleberg was of the opinion that results were encouraging enough to warrant further governmental appropriations, but no more money was made available.

High Fliers Face Jail

AUSTIN (AP)—A flyer who is high before he gets off the ground may be headed for jail if a bill introduced Wednesday by Rep. Stanforth Smith of San Antonio gets into the statute books.

Smith's bill provides a maximum penalty of two years in prison and a $1,500 fine for flying an airplane, aircraft, balloon or dirigible while under the influence of alcohol.

Rep. Henry C. Grover, Houston, introduced bills to prevent payment of unemployment compensation to students and to pregnant women who leave their jobs because of their condition.

A measure to create a state mediation service to help settle "industrial disputes" was filed by Rep. D. Roy Harrington, Jefferson County.

Reps. Jim Markgraf, Scurry, and Bill Hollowell, Grand Saline, filed a bill to bring the state into the federal-state matching program to help needy old persons to pay their medical bills.

Highball Called Aid To Fractures

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—A highball may be just the thing for someone recovering from a bone fracture, says a University of Kansas expert.

Dr. Leonard F. Peltier told a regional group of the American College of Surgeons Wednesday that alcohol helps prevent formation of dangerous fatty clots in the bloodstream.

Such clots tend to form in fracture cases, explained Peltier, a professor of orthopedics.

He urged an ounce of whisky every four hours for four or five days in fracture cases.

Lyndon Is Shaken At Big Texas Fete

WASHINGTON (AP)— Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson had the biggest reception of his political career Wednesday night—and he shook hands in double time to keep up with it.

Thousands jammed the street outside and the corridors of the Statler-Hilton Hotel in a teeming crush to get to a big Texas wingding—the biggest thing so far in pre-inaugural partying.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn and the Texas State Society of Washington invited 6,000 guests at $5 apiece to the affair.

President-elect John F. Kennedy got the party off to a good start with a 12-minute stint in the receiving line, flanked by yellow roses.

Johnson confided to the President-elect that he has lost 20 pounds since the election on a strict diet.

In the lineup were incoming Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall and Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, ex-President Harry Truman, his wife, Bess, and daughter, Margaret Truman Daniel.

Rusk was summarily ordered to move along by a policeman on receiving line duty who didn't recognize him. He got a shove as well, but took it all with a quiet smile.

Johnson shook hands for almost 2½ hours, perspiring but game and smiling to the end.

Mrs. Johnson, who had come from an afternoon of handshaking at an inaugural reception for distinguished ladies at the National Gallery of Art, held forth for about an hour in the receiving line.

The party spread over the first floor and featured 16 bars and 9 buffet tables serving Texas roast beef sandwiches.

"It's a crime," one woman said as she watched Johnson using a hand-over-hand technique to speed up the line of hand-shakers.

There was even a lady who insisted, "How about a kiss?" And Johnson complied.

Toward the end Johnson propelled the line forward in double time, using both hands and virtually pulling people past him. No one seemed to mind in the friendly atmosphere.
