Soviet Spaceship Speeds Toward The Planet Venus

Probe Will Send Data On Neighbor

MOSCOW (AP)—A 1,148-pound Soviet "space station" hurtled toward a mid-May rendezvous with the planet Venus today after a spectacular piggy-back launching the United States does not expect to achieve for another 18 to 24 months.

The space traveler carrying a hammer emblem with the Soviet coat of arms should reach the area of Venus when earth's sister planet will be about 26 million miles away, the Soviets said.

The latest Soviet space shot—second in eight days—was aimed at investigating conditions on and around the planet, whose perpetual mantle of clouds has made it a mystery to scientists.

The aim is either to hit Venus or to have the ship pass closely enough to send back detailed studies, Victor Razvykin, director of the Moscow Planetary, told reporters today. He said it was far from certain the ship will hit the mysterious planet.

NO PHOTOS The space ship has a radio transmitter believed capable of sending messages across millions of miles of space, but Razvykin said it has not been announced whether the vehicle carries equipment to relay photographs back to Earth. He declined to speculate on this.

Scientists and officials on both sides of the iron curtain hailed the Venus shot as the greatest space feat since the Soviet Union orbited her first Sputnik three years ago. It added to the Soviet Union's other claimed accomplishments, which include hitting the moon with a rocket, photographing the far side of the moon and orbiting the sun.

The White House issued a terse statement that President Kennedy had been advised of the rocket firing and that the United States had been tracking it ever since. A Defense Department spokesman said the Pentagon knew about the firing before the Soviet Union announced it Sunday.

U.S. BEHIND Dr. Hugh Dryden, deputy administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said in Washington the United States is at least 1 1/2 to 2 years from achieving the kind of several-stage launching of such a large object reported by the Soviets. But he said he was not surprised by the announcement.

"We have known for some time," Dryden said, "that they had the booster (rocket) capability for such a mission."

U.S. space officials pointed out, however, that the United States already has successfully fired a rocket into the area of Venus with somewhat the same purpose as that announced by the Soviets.

They referred to Pioneer V, the 94.8 pound rocket launched last March 11 from Cape Canaveral, Fla. Its main aim was to go into orbit around the sun, although the general purpose was somewhat like the new Soviet probe, NASA officials said.

LOST CONTACT Pioneer V lost radio contact with the earth when it was 22.5 million miles away.

Caton Strikes 17 Cases

Judge Ralph W. Caton, 118th District Court, Monday morning struck 17 cases from his docket, passed six for the week, and set down eight to be disposed of without jury between now and Friday.

There were thirty-two cases on the docket which the judge had slated for hearing this week. Two of the cases were consolidated and will be handled as one, later this week.

In the 17 dismissed, the court called the matters and no one appeared for either defendant or plaintiff. Where this situation arose, the judge summarily dismissed the matters on his own motion.

Most of the cases had been on the court docket for a long time, he said. He had previously written to all attorneys in the cases advising them of his intention and inviting them to be present at the docket sounding today.

House Okays Juvenile Bill

Rep. David Read advised today that the Howard County juvenile board bill had passed the House this morning in Austin.

Sen. David Ratliff is due to introduce the bill in the Senate, Rep. Read said the bill came up on second reading today and passed, and that he requested and got a suspension of the rules which permitted the bill to come up for final passage. This carried, and the measure is due to go on the Senate calendar.

Fierce Battle Is Reported In Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — Government officials have confirmed reports of a fierce battle between government militiamen and anti-Castro insurgents in the Escambray Mountains of south central Cuba.

The fighting Saturday was reported between the towns of Trinidad and Topes de Collantes Peak, in Las Villas Province. Military spokesmen in the area confirmed there had been a big battle with some killed but refused to give details.

Military headquarters in Havana denied any knowledge of the fighting, but a traveler returning from the area said there were heavy casualties on both sides.

Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government has maintained a virtual news blackout on the Escambray operation, refusing to confirm reliable reports that 50,000 to 60,000 militiamen were ringing a rebel theater of operations in the mountains.

Occasional unofficial reports of clashes get through. The latest said a battle took place on the road between Topes and Trinidad,

Officials Plan Trip To NYC

City Commissioners George Zachariah and John Taylor, and City Manager A. K. Steinheimer, will leave early Wednesday morning for New York where they will contact bond buyers and rating houses. The contacts will be made in order to get the highest rating for Big Spring and the lowest interest rate on the first bonds sold for the expansion program under the city's Master Plan.

Steinheimer said Monday morning that the trip was definitely set up after a visit of two men from The First National Bank of Dallas, last Friday. John Clayton and Thad Keenan, representatives of the city's bond fiscal agent, took a firsthand look at the city and its expansion program so that they could talk to bond buyers and rating houses in New York, and could set up appointments for the Big Spring men.

The brochures being printed for the use of buyers will be taken to New York and shown. Several hundred of them will be mailed over the country. The brochures were scheduled to arrive in Big Spring Monday or Tuesday from the printer.

Zachariah, Taylor, and Steinheimer are scheduled to return from New York Friday.

KATANGA RULERS REWARD KILLERS

Lumumba Is Slain By African Villagers

ELIZABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—Patrice Lumumba is dead, the Katanga government announced today, and the African villagers who killed him have received a reward of $8,000.

The interior ministry of this secessionist province declared the Congo's deposed premier was "massacred yesterday morning" along with two aides said to have fled with him three days earlier.

Godefroid Munongo, the interior minister, told reporters: "I will speak frankly. If people accused us of killing Lumumba, I will reply: 'Prove it!'"

The effect of the slayings was to bring the long-brewing Congo situation to a new crisis holding the threat of civil war. It came as Katanga was flexing its military muscles with a drive which brought a U.N. warning.

U.S. SHOCKED Lumumba's death was announced two hours before the U.N. Security Council met in New York to deal with the deteriorating Congo situation. There the United States expressed shock at Lu-

Guilty Pleas Anticipated

Wayne Burns, county attorney, said Monday morning that he anticipates several of the 37 defendants, listed on the current county jury docket, will enter guilty pleas this week.

The docket was sounded by Ed Carpenter, county judge, at 1 p.m. A jury panel of 30 members has been ordered to report to the county court at 9 a.m. Tuesday. The docket will continue through Friday of this week and from Monday through Friday of the week following.

Some of the defendants were confused as to the time the docket was set and reported to the court at 9 a.m. Monday. They stood around in the second floor corridor until advised that the docket would not be called until 1 p.m.

Spring Weather For Dixie States

By The Associated Press Spring-like weather prevailed in much of the South and in wide sections of the central part of the nation today.

But it was chilly and wet across most of the northern tier of states from the Rockies into New England, munba's death, and promised cooperation with Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold in undertaking a full investigation.

But the Soviet Union, long Lumumba's supporter, said the killing was just another indication of how Hammarskjold has operated in the Congo with the backing of a U.N. peace force. The Soviet Union said President Tshombe's Katanga government must be made to pay.

In Elisabethville the interior minister refused to name the village where Lumumba died.

"We do not want the Africans of the tribe which killed Lumumba to be identified because they might be the subject of eventual reprisals by Lumumbists," said Munongo.

FOR CAPTURE "This village will be given the total of 400,000 francs — $6,000 — promised by the Katanga Cabinet for the capture of the three men, and I shall say no more about it."

Munongo called Lumumba a criminal responsible for tens of thousands of deaths in Kasai and Katanga provinces, and insisted the handling of the case was a local matter.

Lumumba, firebrand of Congo independence and first premier of the new country, was 35. Munongo asserted Lumumba and his aides died not far from where their escape car had been found. This spot previously was described as 45 miles from the farmhouse the three men fled Friday. This, in turn, was 220 miles west of Elisabethville.

ECHOES DUE The death of Lumumba is bound to have widespread repercussions in the Congo, where tribal rivalries are fierce.

He became premier when the Congo attained independence from Belgium last June 30. Soon Soviet technicians and equipment were flowing into the Congo, along with a U. N. peace force of 20,000 men which Lumumba at first welcomed, then repudiated.

In September, Congo President Joseph Kasavubu, after weeks of uncertainty, threw Lumumba out of office and sent him to jail for trial on charges of crimes against the nation.

But even in detention Lumumba made his weight felt, and at the time of his death his followers were in control of about a third of the Congo.

COVER STORY Some U.N. officials had expressed belief the Katanga government's report of Lumumba's escape last Friday was a story designed to cover up his death.

But Interior Minister Munongo insisted African villagers killed Lumumba, along with two lieutenants, Maurice Mpolo and Joseph Okito, just outside their village Sunday. He said the three were buried there.

"Three cabinet ministers (of the Katanga government) left by plane to see the bodies in order to investigate the killings," Munongo told reporters.

Munongo said earlier 100 police and provincial troops had been thrown into a search for the Lumumba party, with helicopters and spotter planes. One of these planes sighted the car in which Lumumba supposedly fled.

Katanga Province, headed by Moise Tshombe, broke away from Lumumba's central Congo government as Lumumba took over the prime ministry last summer. This was one of the sorest points the Lumumba regime had to face, because Katanga has most of the Congo's mineral riches.

PRISONER MOVED After his arrest Lumumba was first jailed near Leopoldville. But three weeks ago the ex-premier was brought to Katanga Province on the ground he could be detained more safely here.

Tshombe has insisted Lumumba made a genuine escape last week. But he declared Lumumba's fate was an internal matter and none of the United Nations' business.

Hammarskjold had sent Brig. Gen. Mengasha Hyassu of Ethiopia, chief of staff of the U.N. command, to investigate Lumumba's fate.

Sunday Tshombe said he was awaiting a full report from his own investigators.

A newspaper in Durban, South Africa, reported from Elisabethville that it was believed the battered, blindfolded ex-premier was shot to death Jan. 17, just after he was flown to Elisabethville from the Leopoldville area for more secure imprisonment.

The U.N. command reported two opposing Congo armies were converging on Bumba, a river town on the frontier of Lumumba-aligned Oriental Province. A third force of Katanga soldiers was on the move in its own province.

The troop movements heightened U.N. officials anxiety that fullscale civil war might break out.

Dag Proposes Full U.N. Probe Of Lumumba Death

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold today proposed a full and impartial investigation of the death of deposed Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba in Katanga Province.

Hammarskjold told the U.N. Security Council he had instructed Brig. Gen. Mengasha Hyassu, chief of staff of the U.N. Congo Command, to insist upon complete cooperation of the Katanga authorities.

He spoke as the council met in a crisis atmosphere caused by the news of Lumumba's death.

U.S. Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson quickly threw his support behind the secretary-general's proposal. He called the news "distressing and deplorable."

Stevenson appealed to all governments to avoid action which might inflame the situation and to continue to give support to the United Nations to insure success of its mission in the Congo.

He called for an acceleration of efforts to find a Congo peace formula.

Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zorin declared that the provincial government of Moise Tshombe must be made to pay for the killing of Lumumba.

He also assailed Hammarskjold, blaming him for permitting such a thing under the blue flag of the United Nations.

"We find a hypocritical ring in these proposals for a so-called investigation," Zorin declared. "We have not the slightest confidence in the secretary-general or his staff after all that has been committed in the Congo and Katanga."

Zorin criticized other members of the 11-nation Council for turning down a Soviet request for a private meeting on the Congo.

The Soviet Union tried and failed Saturday to get a private meeting of the council that afternoon to consider the rumors that the Congo nationalist leader and two associates imprisoned with him in Katanga Province were murdered.

School Bill Points Up Money Problem

AUSTIN (AP) — The state government's hard choice in money matters was pinpointed today in companion University of Houston bills up for hearing before House and Senate committees.

The problem in essence is whether to continue expanding state-supported colleges and if the answer is yes, where is the money coming from?

The situation comes to its first climax before the new legislature as the 57th session goes into its sixth week with a heavy committee load of controversial bills.

Before the Senate and House powerful State Affairs Committees today are twin bills making the University of Houston a fully state-supported college. SB2 by Rep. Robert Baker of Houston and HB11 by Rep. Criss Cole of Houston are the proposed laws putting into effect a recommendation of the Texas Commission on Higher Education.

The addition of the Houston University to full state support would cost the deficit-ridden general revenue fund $4 million a year, the commission said in adopting its report last November. The university has an enrollment of more than 11,500. It now gets state money for the first two years of its program.

The commission's recommendation was premised on a condition that the legislature first "adequately" finance the present 19 state supported colleges, some of which are fighting the Houston plan. This could break out into the open at the committee hearings: The first in the Senate at 3 p.m., the second in the House at 7:30 p.m.

Series of important proposals to change the election code comes before the House Committee on Privileges, Suffrage and Elections at 7:30 p.m. Included is a controversial measure that would require runoff in special elections to fill vacancies in Congress. Texas now has such a law in U.S. senatorial special elections. A sharp division between backers of Speaker James Turman and Rep. Wade Spilman was indicated in the committee's first consideration of the measure late in January. It was regarded as a reflection of the bitterness between Turman and Spilman as a result of the close race for speakership.

Gov. Price Daniel's program for erasing the deficit gets its first test in committee hearings later this week as the lawmakers move closer to work out the answers to the financial problem. The University of Houston question is merely typical of the much larger situation in which the legislature must find $200 to $300 million in new money to retire the deficit and balance the budget for state operations during the next two fiscal years.

One of the anti-deficit bills is HB331, which Daniel says will remove an unfair advantage now enjoyed by 7,000 out-of-state corporations in franchise tax payments. The other is a proposal to add three per cent to the natural gas production tax, HB339. Both of these measures would directly affect the natural gas production industry.

Steakley Cites Freedom Of Press

SWEETWATER—No one bears a greater responsibility for the preservation of a democratic society than the press, Zollie Steakley told the mid-winter meeting of the West Texas Association here Sunday.

Justice Steakley, member of the Texas Supreme Court, declared that responsibility of the press increased in direct portion to the freedom of the press.

There is nothing free about freedom, he warned, and urged the press to dig hard to get the truth and to present it fairly and honestly.

Approximately 100 area newspapermen participated in the one-day parley at the Baker Hotel. Saturday night they had been guests at a reception given by the Sweetwater Reporter.

H. A. Tuck, editor of the Hereford Brand, gave tips on how hometown newspapers can step up both the quantity and quality of pictures. Photographers need to be combination artists and steeplejacks to come with unique, interesting products, he said.

A panel arranged by Leon Fleming, editor, and Cynthia Allgood, woman's editor, of the Sweetwater Reporter, presented the women's point of view on newspapers. Francis Perry, Ballinger, chairman of the scholarship committee, outlined several alternatives for increasing this program or its effectiveness. Vern Sanford, manager of the Texas Press Association, skimmed the legislative hopper and reviewed principal bills, also those which might affect the freedom of the press.

He believed that a bill introduced by Rep. Wesley Roberts, Seminole, to ask for a preferential referendum on major types of taxes would show in favor of a sales tax. He predicted, however, that those favoring a sales tax would make a try to get a bill through without a referendum. L. B. Smith, Brady, reported for the TPA.

Steakley, a former Sweetwater resident, was introduced by Joe Bell, Colorado City. He used Franklin's words—"you have a republic if you can keep it"—to illustrate the importance of a free press adequately informing the public.

He said he had never known the press to act unfairly if it had access to all the facts. He charged the publishers to deepen their senses of responsibility in what he called an acute hour of peril for freedom.

Confusing, Isn't It?

Carolyn Sewell is confused, because no matter which way she goes, those numbers just don't add up right. And Dr. Nason, in today's article, would say Carolyn is one of the many students who are sad victims of an age which can measure 1/100,000th of an inch but can't tell its students the importance of arranging numbers in neat and orderly columns. Which is to say, neatness is even more important in mathematics than in other subjects, for just one digit out of place can throw off the whole answer.

YOU CAN GET BETTER GRADES

It Pays To Be A Neatnik
When It Comes To Figures

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed. D.
with HARRY KARNES

Neatness and orderliness can help you make better grades in arithmetic and mathematics. Unhappily, many students neglect these simple rules because no one has explained how important they are.

Let's face it. Modern education many times neglects the individual student. This is not necessarily the fault of the schools. It is a consequence of an exploding school-age population and shortage of teachers and classrooms.

Teaching techniques are designed for classes of 35, 40, 50 students. Potentially good students get into bad habits and are not exposed to good habits. Training in neatness is drastically curtailed by punch-card tests made for rapid grading. All tests cannot be of this type, however, and when the student faces new situations, he is in trouble. Good scholarship becomes impossible.

Recently on grade card day, a father brought his 10-year-old son to us.

Jimmy's card bore a hard and uncomprehending "Needs to improve" behind Arithmetic. Translated to the less compromising language of 20 years ago, the grade was F—standing for Failure.

The boy seemed bright enough. We decided to experiment. We wrote out some columns of addition, some subtraction, and some multiplication. He worked the problems rapidly and faultlessly!

We asked Jimmy to return the next day and bring some of his arithmetic papers with him. He did, and the source of the trouble was immediately apparent — so obvious that you would wonder why the teacher or the parent hadn't seen it.

Jimmy, who understood the intricate processes of arithmetic perfectly, had never learned to copy numbers down in straight columns. He had been applying the right principles to the wrong numbers because of a purely physical mistake!

"What does your teacher say about your papers?" we asked. "She says they're wrong."

We're afraid we would have to give that teacher a B—for Blindness. Or maybe that is unfair. Poor lady — perhaps she didn't have the time to say more.

TWO EASY SYSTEMS

After learning to be neat and orderly, Jimmy started turning out perfect papers in school.

We simply cannot stress too strongly the importance of details. A small error, a small omission can destroy completely the effect of a large amount of otherwise flawless work.

You should do these things as a matter of course:

1. Arrange your work neatly on the paper.
 2. Use the correct symbols.
 3. Make sure that plus and minus signs, equal signs, fraction lines, exponents, and other marks are neatly and correctly placed.
 4. Make sure that everything you write on the paper is actually true.
 5. Do scratch work on a separate piece of paper so that your mind is not distracted from the actual steps of the problem.
- As you get into more advanced work, you will find that problems no longer can be solved at a glance. Then you must make use of a special technique. It is based on this fact: Nearly all complex problems in math can be solved piece by piece.
- Let's run through the steps that will help you.
1. Write the problem correctly on the paper.
 2. Look at the problem, searching for some small part of it which you know how to simplify.
 3. Simplify it.
 4. Rewrite the problem with

THE UNDENIABLE

WHAT DOES GOD SAY?

By T. H. Terrell, pastor, Church of Christ, West Highway 20

"I will hear what God the Lord will speak" (Psalms 85:8).

In religious matters our question must always be, "What does God say about it?"

He alone is authority. Men want it otherwise, and say, "The consensus of opinion is . . ." or "The Reverend So-and-So says . . ."

God has spoken on the matter of salvation.

First God has spoken concerning man's need for salvation (Isa. 55: 1-7; 64:6).

Then God has spoken concerning the perfect sacrifice provided to save man (Heb. 9:12, 14).

Bright Venus Presents Many Unsolved Mysteries

NEW YORK (AP)—The planet Venus, target of the Russian rocket, is the third brightest object in the earth's sky and this month is near its brightest stage.

Only the sun and moon are brighter.

Venus comes to within 26 million miles of the earth—closer than any other planet—but it presents many mysteries. The view of the surface of Venus is blocked by clouds around it.

Some astronomers say Venus may be too hot for any form of life.

Because Venus is so close to the sun—67 million miles—it gets about twice as much sunlight and heat as the earth. In addition, its cloud cover and the large amount of carbon dioxide in its atmosphere may let sunlight in but prevent heat from escaping—much in the manner of the glass of a greenhouse. The average distance between the sun and earth is 92.9 million miles.

Venus is about 7,700 miles in diameter, near the size of the earth. Its weight or mass is estimated at about 81 per cent of the earth's mass.

The planet turns on its axis about once every 243 days. The year on Venus—the time it takes to circle the sun—is 225 days.

Sale, Judging Highlight Show

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—The annual Hereford sale and judging in a number of livestock divisions highlighted the San Antonio Livestock Exposition today.

Judging included Hereford and Angus breeding cattle; open classes of steers, lambs and hares; the open Delaine show; junior Hereford and Angus heifers; junior goat show and the open goat show.

Judging was centered Sunday on the halter classes of quarter horses. In the stallion classes, Dandy Day, owned and shown by J. P. Eppy of Fort Davis, was the grand champion.

Nunes Cameo, owned by E. P. Waggoner of Vernon and shown by Jimmy Randall, was grand champion mare.

Also held was the judging of breeding cattle for sales order in the sale scheduled for this week. In the Hereford classes, Luther Hill's Luma Ranch of Blanco showed the champion bull and the 5-Bone Ranches of Wichita Falls the reserve. Ard Richardson of San Antonio exhibited the champion sale female.

WHAT DOES GOD SAY?

By T. H. Terrell, pastor, Church of Christ, West Highway 20

"I will hear what God the Lord will speak" (Psalms 85:8).

In religious matters our question must always be, "What does God say about it?"

He alone is authority. Men want it otherwise, and say, "The consensus of opinion is . . ." or "The Reverend So-and-So says . . ."

God has spoken on the matter of salvation.

First God has spoken concerning man's need for salvation (Isa. 55: 1-7; 64:6).

Then God has spoken concerning the perfect sacrifice provided to save man (Heb. 9:12, 14).

Also He tells man how to reach the shed blood of Christ, that his salvation may be assured (Rom. 4:3). God's message on salvation is as plain as words can make it and as examples can show it (Acts 2:37, 38; 8:12, 35-38; 22:16).

Welcome to our services. We promise to give you a "thus saith the Lord" for every thing we preach. Bring your Bible, also your note pad. Check everything by your own Bible.

Next preaching service: Thursday, 7:30.

DEAR ABBY

LET ACTIONS SPEAK

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I met this girl last June and we fell in love, boom! Just like that. I am 22 and she is 17. Her mother likes me but her father hates me so bad I have to see this girl on the sly. You see, I just spent 15 months in prison and her father can't forget it. I have never seen her father and he refuses to even meet me. He told his daughter if he ever caught her with me he would break her neck. Abby, I am really a swell guy. I am going straight. I want to marry this girl, but how can I when her father won't even let her go out with me? Please help me. Thanks a million.

GOING STRAIGHT

DEAR GOING: Put yourself in her father's shoes. How would you like to have YOUR 17-year-old daughter "in love" with a fellow just out of prison? He has nothing against you personally, but he doesn't like your record. Even now you are sneaking behind his back. I advise you to stay away from the girl until you have "gone straight" for a year and are able to show by your actions—not only words—that you are a "swell guy."

DEAR ABBY: You said in your column that it was all right for husbands to have a night out with the boys as long as the boys were boys. What about the wives? Don't you think while the boys are out we girls should hire sitters and also have a night out with the girls, as long as the girls are girls?

DEAR "GIRLS": Better pick another night. You might run into the "boys."

DEAR ABBY: Five of us have been in a car pool for about two years. Four of us are in our late 20's and one lady is about 50. From the minute this older lady gets into the car, no matter who is talking, she interrupts and monopolizes the conversation. She does this all the time. No one has been able to finish a sentence in two years. Our question: Is there a polite way to tell this older woman to KEEP QUIET so someone else can get a word in edgewise?

FRUSTRATED FOUR

DEAR FRUSTRATED: You are all adults, so rudeness should neither be tolerated nor excused because of "age." One of you should tell the offending party (nicely) the consensus of her fellow passengers. If she doesn't get it—or doesn't like it—let her get another car pool.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SICK AND DISILLUSIONED": Talk to your clergyman about an annulment. When a woman marries, she is entitled to a man for a husband.

"What's your problem?" For a personal reply from Abby, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Who pays for what? For Abby's pamphlet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Couple Sought In Torch Death

HOUSTON (AP)—Police in Miami looked today for Leslie Ashley, 23, and Carolyn Ann Lima, 18, Houston people wanted for questioning in a torch murder here.

Fred Tones, a Houston real estate man, was shot six times and his body burned with gasoline last Monday night. Ashley and the Lima woman were seen in his law office a few hours before the body was found.

Police said the two left Houston in Tones's late-model white car. Charges of transporting a stolen car across a state line have been filed against them.

Ex-Manager Dies

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Harry O'Hagan, 70, former manager of the Waco and Dallas Country Clubs, died here Saturday.

Third Time Winner

Mark Alexander, 14, proved a third time winner for his family Sunday. He is shown here as his mother, Mrs. Jack Alexander, pinned his Eagle badge on his uniform while Lester Goswick, Scoutmaster of Troop No. 3, looks on. Mark is the third son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander to earn the Eagle badge, highest in Scouting. Ray Alexander was the first to qualify, followed by Don Alexander. Mark is a three-year veteran in the troop and is its senior patrol leader.

Lady Ditch Digger? Why Not, Says A Good One

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—A lady ditchdigger? Why not? asks Esta Belle White, 35, mother of four. "It may not be ladylike, but there are a lot of things women do now that were unheard of a few years ago."

Mrs. White of Madison holds a septic tank installer's license in Lake and Geauga counties and is a partner—a working partner—in the White Excavating Co., founded by her husband, Richard. White said he started teaching his wife to operate excavating tools a year ago—at her request.

"What she knew about installing septic tanks you could stick in her ear," said White. But Mrs. White went to work on a practice area on their 70-acre farm and within a few days was digging ditches with the precision of an expert. Now she can handle all the jobs connected with installing a septic tank system, from estimating costs to putting on the finishing touches.

She has done so well, White has taken another job as a heavy equipment worker on a section of the Ohio North-South Freeway.

"With the business in her hands I don't have to worry," said White.

Mrs. White says when she goes to work people "are a little concerned when they learn a woman is 'going to do the job,' but I haven't received any complaints yet."

Myers Re-Elected

FORT WORTH (AP)—The American Hebrew congregations Southwest Council re-elected Louis Myers of Tulsa president Sunday. Dr. Irving Brown of Tyler was named state chairman for Texas.

Real Estate Issue Spreads

DETROIT (AP)—Skirmishing over whether real estate brokers must sell to anyone, once they list a piece of property for sale, now has reached Michigan courts on two fronts.

The fighting may go on until both the Michigan and United States Supreme Courts have been called in to name a victor.

Three Lansing brokers have obtained a temporary injunction against enforcement of a rule by which the State Corporation and Securities Commission would prohibit brokers and salesmen from discriminating because of race, color, religion, national origin or ancestry.

The rule was drafted to knock down a process by which five suburban Grosse Pointe communities screened prospective owners, scoring points under such headings as "general standing, race, degree to which prospect appears to have absorbed local customs and swarthisness."

In Detroit, William Bufalino, a member of the Teamsters Union's board of monitors, is suing for $1 million. He claims he was libeled and slandered in being turned down as a prospective purchaser in Grosse Pointe, one of five northeast Detroit suburbs which used the screening system.

STATE LICENSES

Both real estate brokers and salesmen must obtain state licenses to operate in Michigan. Lawrence Gubow, state corporation and securities commissioner, ordered into effect last Aug. 14 the now enjoined rule which would bar real estate brokers or salesmen from individually or jointly refusing to sell, rent or perform any other customary service because of race, color, religion, national origin or ancestry "of any person or persons."

This so-called Rule 9 would have the effect of telling real estate brokers they could not accept a listing where the owner specified sale only to persons of certain color or ancestry.

A broker accepting the listing of a piece of property, whose owner put racial restrictions on it, would subject his license to cancellation.

An owner still would be able to sell to whomever he pleases if he finds a buyer without a broker's or salesmen's assistance.

Terminating the rule illegal, three Lansing brokers won an injunction against its enforcement until the issue is settled.

Mild Cold Front Moves Into State

By The Associated Press
 A mild cold front swept into the Panhandle Monday but it was expected to make only a slight dent in the spring-like weather over Texas.

The state had unseasonably warm weather Sunday. At Wink and Laredo the temperature rose to 84 degrees.

The front was expected to bring cloudy weather.

Showers were predicted for Northeast Texas Monday and along the coast Tuesday.

Winds were brisk with warning flags raised on many lakes. Stiff winds Sunday whipped a forest fire that destroyed more than 600 acres of pine trees in Jasper County. A smaller fire burned in Orange County.

Latest Space Shot Is Most Significant

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The Soviet Union's Venus-bound messenger is her most spectacular and significant space shot in several respects:

1. It apparently opens a fourth phase in the Soviet space program—to explore the planets. The next and fifth stage could be to put man into space.
2. The Soviet Union created, in effect, a space platform from which to launch a talkative and guided visitor with a good chance of hitting or going into orbit around Venus. Orbiting and seemingly innocent space platforms, say some military experts, might also be used suddenly to launch nuclear warhead rockets downward at prime targets on earth.
3. It is another dramatic demonstration of the Soviet lead in space capabilities, and of quick exploitation of space frontiers before that capability is equalled or surpassed.

POINTS EXPLAINED
To amplify these points:
The Soviet Union's first phase was three Sputniks exploring space and space conditions near earth. Then came three shots concerned largely with the moon. Then three studying effects on animals and other life in space travel around the earth.

Now the fourth stage is the exploratory reach towards nearby planets, with a space craft carrying a Soviet banner, as did the one which hit the moon in 1959.

Veiled by obscuring white clouds, Venus is a wondrously bright planetary target. The weight—4,181 pounds—of the Venus messenger indicates it carries instruments which could answer puzzling questions about Venus, if the probe comes near enough in mid-May and still can radio back what it finds.

Soviet announcements have not yet spelled out what the equipment may be. But it could be no equipped that radioed data might supply more accurate knowledge about the size and mass of Venus perhaps give clues about its temperature, and the possibility of forms of life on Venus.

En route, the space vehicle could add greatly to knowledge about radiations in space, magnetic fields, and effects of the sun and space phenomena upon life on earth.

U. S. RECORD
The record for radioing back data about space now is held by the U.S. probe, Pioneer V, which kept talking over a distance of 22 1/2 million miles while it went out to become a little man-made planet of the sun.

The Venus messenger did not directly take off from earth. It was launched from a bigger Sputnik, weighing perhaps seven tons, which had been put into earth orbit, the Soviets report.

Circling rapidly above the earth, the rocket for Venus already had overcome part of the problem of the earth's heavy tug of gravity before it was launched, due to its height and its speed.

It could thus carry fuel, control stations from which big and lightweight space ships, also assembled in space, could take off efficiently on the months-long space missions.

One dream for the space age is to rocket up into a precise orbit the prefabricated material which men in space then could put together to fashion great service stations from which big and lightweight space ships, also assembled in space, could take off efficiently on the months-long space missions.

The Soviets have taken steps along these lines.

It Hurts The Dentist, Too

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Like countless thousands, do you find it painful and upsetting to visit your dentist?

Well, a psychologist has come up with the theory that the dentist's work is more painful to him than it is to you.

Furthermore, says Dr. Sidney Gitlin, the tensions of hurting patients while fixing their teeth lead many dentists to mental instability, frustration and heart attacks.

Writing in the current bulletin of the Philadelphia County Dental Society, Dr. Gitlin says the rate of heart attacks among dentists is second only to physicians in the professional ranks.

The psychologist says patients' fear of the chair produces several situations, including cancellation of appointments at the last minute or coming in late, upsetting the dentist's schedule.

Other patients delay paying their bills, says Dr. Gitlin. He says it's their way of saying to the dentist, "You hurt me. Now it's my turn to hurt you."

Everyday experiences such as these often leave dentists in a state of frustration and tension, claims Dr. Gitlin.

"How many times," asks Dr. Gitlin, "has a dentist wished he could dig a little deeper with a probe, or drill a little longer, in order to retaliate for some hostile act that a patient directed his way?"

Builder Includes Bomb Shelters

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP)—A builder who is selling homes equipped with nuclear fallout shelters says: "I'm not running scared. I'm sure a lot of people are not afraid. But who expected the bomb to drop at Hiroshima?"

The homes, in the $17,000-$18,000 and $30,000 classes, are in a new development an hour's drive north of Los Angeles.

Builder Lou Towne says he believes it is the first time an entire development is being equipped with shelters.

The 10 x 10-foot shelter, located under the garage, costs about $1,300—and is not optional. Walls are of 6-inch concrete blocks and the ceiling has concrete about 6 inches thick, plus 19 inches of dirt.

Blue Law Charges

HOUSTON (AP)—Police filed 13 charges against employees of two familiar companies for doing business on Sunday. The two firms, an auto agency and a builders supply store, have been charged a total of 46 times since Mayor Lewis Cutler ordered enforcement of the state Sunday closing laws six weeks ago.

William S. Ginn, 45, General Electric Co. vice president from Schenectady, N.Y., who bossed 17,000 employees in seven plants of the nation's largest electrical firm.

George E. Burens, 55, GE vice president on special assignment for manufacturing services at Louisville, Ky.

Lewis J. Burger, 48, Fort Wayne, Ind., GE division manager who formerly headed the switchgear division, succeeding Burens in that job.

Edwin R. Jung, 58, vice president of Clark Controller Co., Cleveland. Jung has been with Clark 33 years.

The two Westinghouse Electric Corp. executives already in prison are John H. Childs Jr., 57, Sharon, Pa., vice president of the transformer division, and Charles I. Maunel, 60, Drexel Hill, Pa., sales manager of the steam turbine division.

The seven men, who reportedly earn between $25,000 and $135,000 annually, will occupy separate cells in the Montgomery County prison, which is 20 miles north of Philadelphia. It is a 112-year-old structure that can house a maximum of 275, but now has 205 inmates.

Warden Andrew White said there will be no preferential treatment for the men. They will follow the same daily routines as other prisoners.

Wake-up time is 6:30 a.m. Lights go out at 9 p.m. But prisoners can listen to jail-supplied radios until midnight when silence is mandatory. There is an afternoon exercise period and prisoners can borrow three books.

Missionary Sees African Harm From Polygamy Rule

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the big roadblocks to Christianity in Africa is its rule against polygamy. A church official, back from that continent, is convinced there should be some changes in the rule.

"Frankly, after a year over there, I changed my mind about polygamy," said the Rev. Chester Lee Marcus of Cleveland, Ohio, secretary for racial and cultural relations of the United Church of Christ, in an interview.

"A whole system of social security and general welfare is tied up in this institution of multiple marriage."

At present, African churches deny full membership to families of men with more than one wife—a widespread situation in Africa. They can become only "associate members," which means they can not attend and contribute.

"They can attend and contribute but cannot come to the Lord's table," the Rev. Mr. Marcus said. "In most every church there are as many noncommunicants, who would like to be full members but can't, as there are communicants. This is no way to draw them into committed church life."

MUST MODIFY

If Christianity is not to remain crippled by this condition, he said, the churches must modify the rule to admit such persons, on condition that the husband takes no more wives, and their children are taught that monogamous marriage is best.

"We could bring at least two-thirds of these people into the church on that basis," he said. "We should accept all people who want to come."

The Rev. Mr. Marcus, 43, a scholarly, bespectacled Negro clergyman, spent the last year in western African countries on special assignment by his church, a recent merger of the Congregational Christian General Council and the Evangelical and Reformed Church.

He said the present rigid anti-polygamy restriction, set up under influence of missionaries imposing Western cultural patterns, has become a "very serious" obstacle. It contrasts with Islam's policy, which does not oppose polygamy.

CURTAILED

"Our evangelistic outreach has been greatly curtailed," he said. "We accept all kinds of other sinners into the church, assuming that polygamy is sin, and hope that in the fellowship of the church they will develop the sensitivity to see the sin and get rid of it."

However, he added, the idea that polygamy in Africa is sinful is "an assumption I'm not prepared to make. Sin has to be tied in with a man's motives, and in this case the motives are the highest rather than the lowest."

"Polygamy is all these people have known. When they come in contact with Christianity and believe it, they want to be a part of it. Yet they have a responsibility to their families—to several wives and children."

"It is asking too much to say that a man should abandon three of his four wives, especially when this relationship was entered in good faith, with no awareness that a moral question was involved."

He said eventual economic and social changes will do away with polygamy in Africa.

But at present, he said, it is a stabilizing force that assures care for widows and children, who otherwise would be left abandoned and homeless.

"There are no orphaned children in Africa," he said. He added that whenever a child's father dies, a brother of the father or other male relative is duty-bound to take widow and children into his family.

"They are really, genuinely taken into the new household," he said. "They are just as much a part of the family as the other wives and children."

"In this way, women continue a life of dignity instead of being castaways or left on a state dole. And every child has a home. He said polygamy slowly will disappear, as Africa evolves from a barter economy to a money economy and wives become expenses or liabilities rather than assets.

4 More Executives Slated For Jail In Anti-Trust Case

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Four more high-salaried electrical firm executives were to start 30-day prison sentences today for fixing prices and rigging bids in America's biggest federal antitrust case.

Two of the seven officials ordered jailed a week ago in the smashing of the giant conspiracy already are behind bars. They surrendered unexpectedly Friday—three days ahead of schedule.

The seventh—John Marvin Cook, 54, Fox Point, Wis.—was granted a delay in starting his jail term because of his daughter's engagement party this week. He is marketing vice president of Cutler-Hammer, Inc., Milwaukee.

Slated for prison today in nearby Norristown are: William S. Ginn, 45, General Electric Co. vice president from Schenectady, N.Y., who bossed 17,000 employees in seven plants of the nation's largest electrical firm.

George E. Burens, 55, GE vice president on special assignment for manufacturing services at Louisville, Ky.

weekly from a small library. They can have visitors Wednesday and Saturday.

Ginn, as director of the turbine division, supervises plants at Schenectady, Elmira, N.Y.; Lynn, Fitchburg and Everett, Mass., and Erie, Pa. He is also in charge of the Knolls Atomic Power Laboratory near Schenectady.

The seven men ordered to jail were among 44 executives and 29 electrical firms sentenced last Monday and Tuesday by U.S. Dist. Judge J. Cullen Ganey.

Fines totalled $1,924,500, with a portion already paid. The judge, condemning the conspiracy as a blot on American business, gave 24 other electrical industry executives suspended jail terms and placed them on probation for five years.

Red Cabbage

Adding lemon juice, vinegar or tart apple to red cabbage when you are cooking this vegetable helps to retain good color.

Sweetbreads

A pair of sweetbreads will do for 2 portions if they are to be served in a cream sauce.

Cold Shoulder

Perhaps inspired by a girl wrapped in a bath towel, designer Rudi Gernreich has created a wool knit sheath that bares a shoulder for a fresh cool look. Minus waistline darts or tucks, the body does the figuring subtly in the fluid fabric around it.

USE FURR'S BEEF IN A STEW!

-IT'S ECONOMICAL, IT'S GOOD!

MADE FROM LEAN TENDER CUTS OF CHOICE BEEF

BEEF STEW
4 cups water
2 lbs. stew meat, cut in 2-inch pieces
1/2 cup sliced onion
1/4 cup sliced carrots
2 tsp. salt
1 bay leaf
2 pepper corns
1 cup sliced mushrooms
4 Tbsp. butter
1/4 cup flour
2 Tbsp. lemon juice
1 Tbsp. chopped parsley

Simmer the first 7 ingredients at low heat. When meat is tender, remove the bay leaf and pepper corns. Sauté mushrooms in the butter. Add flour and lemon juice. Add this to the meat and cook until thick.

A Devotional For Today

By grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God. (Ephesians 2:8.)
PRAYER: Our loving Father, source of every good gift, grant us Thy gift of faith that links us with our all-powerful Saviour, through whom we become more than conquerors. In His name. Amen.
(From The 'Upper Room')

Desirable But Sometimes Too Expensive

James B. Zellerbach, a former ambassador to Italy, complains that some of our partners in the NATO alliance are handing Russia a knife "to cut our collective throats" by trading with neutralist countries in strategic materials.
He was even more pointed than this. He singled out the United Kingdom as one of the worst offenders.
"When you state it as a proposition that the free world should not contribute to its own downfall by letting the Communists exploit its economic strength, everyone of course agrees," he added. But a number of governments, he went on, seem to believe that the rule does not entirely apply to them.

This has long been a thorny problem. Even in the days when efforts were made to apply economic sanctions against aggressor nations, cracks in the dike widened into massive leaks. Always there seem to be those who convince themselves that they have a peculiar situation which entitles them to an exception.
The "out for conscience's sake, is not to trade with the enemy but to trade with a neutralist country—which in turn trades with the enemy. It is difficult to draw the line, but somewhere it must be drawn or collapse of selective trade bans is inevitable.
Trade and profit are desirable, but not at the expense of freedom.

Service Taken For Granted

Last week the fluctuations of the weather finally snapped a water main downtown, causing crews to shut off water service temporarily in a part of the area. Naturally this caused some inconvenience, and it might be observed, too, that it was a bit inconvenient for those men who had to wallow around in almost ice cold water to repair the break.
During the thaw-out following last week's snow and glaze storm, a few power lines snapped. Again there was a short disruption in service, causing inconvenience. But the men who had to shiver up that icy pole with arctic breezes stabling at them while they restored service were a bit inconvenienced, too.

In times past this has happened to telephone service. In isolated instances, there have been disruptions in gas service.
The point is that these are for the most part rare exceptions. We have become so used to complete and faultless service in our utilities that the slightest deviations from normal are prone to fret us. They do give us pause, however, to consider the over-all blessings of our utilities and of the service we receive. When you go to figuring up the things which have contributed to modern living, you will have to put utilities up in the top bracket.

David L. Lawrence Nation's Leadership Turns To God

WASHINGTON—Something truly inspiring happened at 8 o'clock Thursday morning in the Hotel Mayflower ballroom as the President of the United States, the Vice President, and several members of the Cabinet—Catholic, Protestant and Jew—sat down together with delegates to the International Christian Conference at a prayer breakfast.

The occasion was the ninth annual presidential prayer breakfast held under the auspices of the International Christian Leadership. Simultaneously in 20 states, governors were present at similar breakfasts.

THERE WAS NO REFERENCE to the so-called "religious issue" in American politics unless it was implied in the remarks of Vice President Lyndon Johnson, who said:

"In recent months our nation has re-examined and reaffirmed the principle of separation of church and state. We cherish that principle and the protection that it affords the integrity of each man's soul. I'm sure the principle has no stronger defender than the man who sits with us this morning as the President of the United States.

"BUT WE NEED to remember that the separation of church and state must never mean the separation of religious values from the lives of our public servants."

In view of the fact that several months ago there was some doubt expressed that a Roman Catholic, as President, would attend any public functions concerned with religious matters on an inter-denominational basis, the presence of President Kennedy was itself refutation of such a theory. He not only attended but made a speech in which he said:

"I THINK IT IS most appropriate that we should be gathered together for this morning's meeting. This country was founded by men and women who were dedicated or came to be dedicated to two propositions: First, a strong religious conviction, and secondly a recognition that this conviction could flourish only under a system of freedom.

"I think it is appropriate that we pay tribute to that great constitutional principle which is enshrined in the First Amendment of the Constitution, the principle of religious independence. But I think it is also important that we pay tribute and acknowledge another great principle, and that is the principle of religious conviction. In this nation, freedom has no significance unless it is accompanied by conviction. And therefore the Puritans and the Pilgrims in my own section of New England, the Quakers of Pennsylvania, the Catholics of Maryland, the Presbyterians of North Carolina, the Methodists and the Baptists who came later, all shared these two great traditions which, like silver threads, run through the warp and the woof of American history."

Man's Castle Invaded

DENVER (AP)—This is about a Denver man who, like so many husbands, has a joint checking account with his wife at the bank. Only he has a separate account, too, for poker winnings and similar windfalls.
One day a vice president called him into his office and showed him a check written on the separate account and signed with the man's name. The signature was almost identical—but not quite—to the man's own handwriting. But the man said he'd be glad to approve it. He recognized the handwriting. It was his wife's.

Piercing Practice

RED BANK, N. J. (AP)—The age-old practice of piercing earlobes for earrings is being modernized, according to Jeweler Paul Seldin.
The old method was to force a probe through the flesh to a cork held on the other side of the lobe. But this painful system has been replaced by a spring-loaded device which, Seldin says, "permits greater accuracy and doesn't hurt a bit."
Through the centuries people have had their ears pierced for a number of reasons—to improve eyesight, guarantee good hearing, and ward off the evil eye. But the best reason, Seldin said, is insurance. "If you buy a pair of earrings for $1,000, you don't want them to fall off."

Kennedy And Smith Cross Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and his wife spent the weekend in Virginia's hunt country — the home territory of Howard W. Smith, a sharp-eyed banker and one of the shrewdest men in Congress.
Just two weeks ago Kennedy was barely able to chase Smith up a congressional tree.
Smith, a House member for 30 years and set in his ways, represents a district which includes Middleburg, where the Kennedys

Hal Boyle Eating And Neurosis

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail.
If you are too finicky about what you eat, it may be a sign you're neurotic. Psychologists say normal people have fewer food dislikes than the emotionally disturbed.
The country isn't going to the dogs—it's going to the horses. The population grew only 18 per cent in the last decade, but attendance at thoroughbred race tracks leaped more than 55 per cent. In 1960 some 33,933,796 track visitors bet $2,507,061,567.
Even doctors are finding it difficult to keep up with all the new "wonder drugs." In the last 20 years more new specific drugs have been developed than in all previous medical history.
Good advice: Don't feel downhearted if you strike out when attempting to do something. Babe Ruth struck out 1,330 times in his career, but that isn't what he's best remembered for.
Juvenile puffery: A survey showed some British parents pack cigarettes in their children's school lunch boxes. A fourth of 2,500 young smokers (age 9 to 17) said they did so with full parental knowledge.
Our quotable notables: "All the discontented people I know," said David Grayson, "are trying sedulously to do something they cannot do."
Have you made out your will yet? Two of every five adult Americans haven't. One big reason: Many have a foolish superstition it will bring bad luck. (But the only bad luck it brings is to their survivors.)
Latin isn't as dead a language as you may think. In New England a monthly magazine, printed entirely in Latin, has 30,000 subscribers around the globe.
Zoo facts: The ancients thought the leopard was a cross between a lion and a panther. This explains its name—leo for lion, and pard for panther.
Red-faced apology: Recently we said anyone wanting to give his girl an unusual valentine could surprise her with a pile of pennies for only $220. Well, lovers, our arithmetic couldn't have been worse. At least 999 readers have written in to point out that there are 16 pennies in a foot, and a mile of pennies would therefore cost $944.80. (So give her a box of dough, did you know the average U.S. family eats 245 pounds of bread a year?)
Worst pun of the week: Singer Enzo Stuarti says he knows a musician's daughter who has boy friends by the score!
Religion adds measurably to your personal happiness. Researchers at the University of Michigan found that people whose religion was important to them had fewer personality conflicts than those to whom God remains largely only a three-letter word.

To Your Good Health Osteoporosis Calls For Regular Treatment

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
"Dear Dr. Molner: Can you tell me something about osteoporosis?"
—Mrs. C. M. C.
This is but one of many letters on the subject. I picked the shortest. Since some letters have expressed great alarm, I trust we can all agree that to a considerable extent.
Osteoporosis is—well, let's start another way. We think of our bones as being hard and inert. This is far from true. Bones, like any other part of the body, can undergo changes.
We likewise think of bones as being "made of calcium." They contain calcium, but they also contain an inner substance made up of protein, and between that and the hard outer surface is fat or marrow.
Healthy bones depend on many factors, the chief ones being good nutrition, use of the bones (exercise), and certain glandular factors.
Osteoporosis is a thinning of the hard, "bony part of the bone." Several causes may be responsible. One is disuse. Prolonged bed rest, or being in a cast for a long time, can cause this thinning or softening.
Malnutrition can do the same thing. So can lack of Vitamin C (in this case it is called scurvy), or an excessive intake of Vitamins A and D.
Lack of hormones from the ovaries is a quite common cause in women after menopause. Usual-

What's Spain Without The Siesta?

One thing and another:
As far as I am concerned, Spain is out. Definitely and positively.
Time was when I thought Hispania would be the ideal country in which to settle. But no more.

Francisco Franco, strong man of Spain, has decided that the afternoon siesta must go. Seems he had a government commission look into the matter and it came back to report that the siesta period, which sometimes extended for three hours, is outmoded.

AND JUST when I thought Spain was years ahead of its time and all the other people in all the other lands would come around to their way of thinking.

The commission contended that most Spanish workers just waste the time and don't even take a nap during the prescribed siesta time. What is worse, the Franco appointees said, as a result of the late finish of the working day, the people get to bed too late. Some never get enough sleep and, as a result, national productivity suffers.

FRANCO'S WORD has been law since his first assumed command but I don't think the Spanish people are going to like this. It's hard to change a habit of centuries. I'll bet, if the truth were known, El Presidente himself, grabs a few winks himself—after lunch.
The siesta lovers should name a committee to investigate Franco's group of snoozers. If they did, I wager it would be composed of a bunch of insomniacs who can't even sleep at night.

IT'S VERY EASY to become a weather snob, I've been told.
The people in California and Florida are invariably trying to rub it in on the residents of the Northeast and Midwest who, in turn, insist they relish snow in winter and rain in the spring.

The citizens of London, though, take a perverse pride in their weather. They insist it is "the worst in the world."
During the last three months of 1960, London was visited by 14 inches of rain, the most in a comparable period in more than a century.

SOME HISTORIANS claim the English weather serves to make the residents the hardy individuals they are, durable and resolute when things aren't going their way.

The weather rarely cooperates in London. The year 1940 is a typical example. The German Luftwaffe was trying to wipe out the city at the time and the Londoners were praying for rain. So what happened? Not a drop of rain fell on the city for 46 days.

QUOTES FROM "The American Teen-Ager," written by H. H. Remmers and D. H. Radler:
"Thirty-seven per cent of the young adults in the nation say that the immigration of foreigners into this country should be greatly restricted since it may mean 'lowering national standards.'"
"Fifteen per cent would refuse to some criminals the right to have a lawyer."
"Fourteen per cent think there is something evil about scientists."

"FOURTEEN PER CENT declare that foreign countries have very little to contribute to American progress."
"Thirty-three per cent say that people who refuse to testify against themselves should be made to talk or should be severely punished."
"Seventeen per cent say that it may be right for police to jail people without naming the charges against them."

What To Do About The Welfare State

WASHINGTON—Harvard Professor and Historian Arthur Schlesinger inadvertently painted himself with the concentric circles of a bull's-eye target — and then went to work as President Kennedy's chief brain trust.

In a broadcast debate with William Buckley, editor-writer of the conservative magazine National Review, Schlesinger told listeners that the "best defense" against Communism is an American welfare state. This instantly aroused the fallen-but-not-quashed coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats to a fury which shook the Kennedy honeymoon cottage.

LUCKILY FOR himself, Schlesinger is not up for confirmation. He is not (as wrongly written and assumed) a speech-ghost for the President. The professor is mainly around to think through the administration problems, submitting them to the searching X-rays of historical perception. To do him justice, I have obtained two definitions of "welfare state," to which he subscribes.

1. "The scheme of society for which we stand is the establishment and maintenance of a basic standard of life and labor below which a man or woman, however old or weak, shall not be allowed to fall. The food they receive, the homes they live in, their employment must be the first care of the state."

2. "I BELIEVE that the American people feel that our production is so great that we can put a floor under the necessities of life—food, education, medical care, housing—so that every family may have a minimum decent living."
The first of these quotations is from Winston Churchill, the second from Robert Taft. Both quotations are fragments. They are not to be considered the life philosophy of either man. Still, Schlesinger does believe that the government has a duty to provide for its people "a floor under the necessities of life." Not many congressmen would disagree too violently with him until the time came for deciding who would be eligible, who would have the politically-valuable role of donor, at what hour of need and in what amounts would the charities be given, and whether this game of rob-Peter-pay-Paul could possibly be played without the loss of liberty to both Peter and Paul.

IT'S MY OPINION that Schlesinger ought not to be hanged until we hear more about such incriminating details. Certainly, as Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina has said, neither a Communist nor a welfare state leaves anything much to individual reliance and freedom of action. But, unless I am mistaken, Schlesinger brings to the White House a strong historical conviction that, despite campaign oratory about Rooseveltian upheaval, the "happy days" of that revolution are not "here again."

FOR ONE THING, the "princes of privilege" on whom FDR made war have departed, and the new breed is reemerging in the Cabinet by Defense Secretary Robert McNamara. For another, there is so much legislation on the books that Mr. Kennedy will not have to ask nearly as much of Congress as Roosevelt did.

This much, I think, represents the administration position to date—and it is, like Mr. Kennedy himself, practical and moderate. It is not, however, faintly related to the Old Guard position, so ably championed these days by Sen. Goldwater.

THE ARIZONA conservative would like to dismantle the welfare structure of the federal government, restore tax revenues to the states so that public charities could be performed at home. It's not likely that Arthur Schlesinger, or any other New Frontiersman, would ever agree to that. He and his kind didn't come to Washington to relinquish their own empire.

One Dior At A Time, Please

Of the seven deadly sins, pride is not my besetting one. There are days, and this is one of them, when I feel that almost anything would improve the old that remains myself into "an updated flapper," whatever that may be, is the proper prescription.
Even in my salad days, which coincided with the end of the flapper era, I wasn't a very hot prospect in that league. And I don't think that even the Paris couture, which has decreed the "updated flapper look" for 1961, can fan into flames those old ashes of mine.
LET ME SEE, that gives me a little more than a fortnight to transform myself into the new woman, a 1961 flapper, flat in the balcony, loose in the blouse and minus a waist, snug at the hips and bare from the knee south.
The Paris designers have decreed that on the new front there shall be no tier. Women are to be flat-chested and waisted. And it all reminds me of the old saw about the commuter who stood at the bar methodically drinking Martinis, chewing up each glass but always tossing the stems away until the bartender leaned over and said, "You're throwing the best party away!"
THE PARIS COUTURE loves to trifle with what God hath wrought, but it has never yet been able to abolish Marilyn Monroe. That is a shattering thought, fit to be pasted in the hat, for consultation in dark hours when girls will be boys.
However, the situation is not hopeless for women like myself who feel that the ukase to transform themselves into an updated flapper calls more for a miracle than money. While the House of Dior and other important designers are abolishing the bosom and abandoning the waist, the two master designers of Paris, Givenchy and Balenciaga, have belted or sashed their dresses at the normal waistline.
AT LEAST that is the gladsome word

Students Seek Integration At Film Houses

By The Associated Press

More than 500 Negro and white college students sought integrated admission at theaters in four Texas cities Sunday.

Similar demonstrations, in observance of the birthday of emancipator Abraham Lincoln, were staged in New York, Chicago, and Boston in front of theaters which are not segregated but which have common ownership with Southern theaters which do.

At Dallas, San Antonio and Houston, and in the University of Texas area at Austin, the students quietly lined up at theater box offices. And when refused tickets for the Negroes, they would reform at the end of the line.

LUSTY SONGS

But in downtown Austin, the demonstrators, singing to the tune "Battle Hymn of the Republic," sang out lustily that "We Are Going To Hang Orval Faubus to a Sour Apple Tree," and "We're Going To Send Jimmie Davis to an Integrated Hell."

The references were to Gov. Jimmie Davis of Louisiana and Orval Faubus of Arkansas, two Southern governors who sought unsuccessfully to evade federal court orders to integrate schools in their states.

Between 200 and 250 white and Negro students took part in demonstrations at two downtown Austin theaters and at two in the University of Texas area. Approximately 200 participated in the stand-ins at three Houston theaters, about 80 at two Dallas theaters and approximately 30 at one San Antonio movie house.

With the exception of one theater in the University of Texas area, all of the movie houses at which the demonstrations were staged are owned by Interstate Theaters, Inc. with headquarters in Dallas.

NOT CHANGED

Raymond Willie, vice-president and general manager of the Interstate chain, said Sunday night the company's policy of maintaining segregated theaters has not changed.

Shortly after the demonstration ended at San Antonio, an anonymous phone call said a bomb had been placed in the theater. An intensive search revealed no bomb.

At least two clergymen took part in the demonstrations. In San Antonio, a Catholic priest, Father Sherrill Smith, told a pre-demonstration planning meeting, "The matter of interracial justice is a matter for all Americans. If I were a student, I would be marching with you."

In Austin, the Rev. Lee Freeman of the University Baptist Church was among the university area demonstrators. Freeman told his congregation at the end of his morning sermon that he would support the stand-in groups.

When Are They Weaned?

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

DETROIT (AP) — If students are treated like babies in high school they can't be expected to act like adults in college.

Lloyd S. Michael, principal of Evanston (Ill.) Township High School, voiced that warning today in urging broad new programs of counseling for college students.

In a prepared speech to the National Association of Secondary-School Principals, convening here, Michael said: "In too many high schools, youths are typically treated as immature, irresponsible persons requiring a maximum amount of supervision and control."

"It is folly to assume that these same youths, after a senior prom and a magical summer, are ready to shoulder all the responsibilities of adults in a new environment where they are essentially without restriction and supervision."

Michael said that about one out of four students who enter college drop out by the end of their freshman year, and that only two out of five entering freshmen stay to graduate from the same institution four years later.

He said colleges and high schools alike have a greater responsibility than they are now assuming to see that the right student goes to the right college.

"Mistakes are too costly," Michael said, "for the failure in one college can mean the end of a youth's education."

With 50 per cent of the nation's high school graduates now going on to college, Michael said, preparation for college is a primary function of the secondary schools.

This means, he said, that academic programs must be given more emphasis in high school, and standards of achievement must be raised.

Michael praised the advanced placement program of the College Entrance Examination Board as "perhaps the best plan for cooperative action in the curriculum between school and college."

Under this program, worked out by teams of high school teachers and college professors, bright high school students take college level courses in 11 subjects.

Dean Stephen Romine of the University of Colorado told the convention that a population explosion at the college level, plus the growing popularity of a college degree, is putting tremendous pressure on the colleges to be more selective in their enrollments.

Sanders' Sizzling Finish Earns Him Phoenix Playoff Shoots Eight Under Par To Tie Palmer

By CARL BELL

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Arnold Palmer and a man who infringed his patent on incredible finishes, Doug Sanders, met today in a golf match that seemingly couldn't be — an 18 hole playoff for the Phoenix Open championship.

The winner gets $4,300, the loser $3,000, and each takes a fourth of the day's gate receipts.

Sanders was eight big strokes behind the front-running Palmer Sunday at the start of what was scheduled as the final round.

He proceeded to slash eight strokes off par to set an Arizona Country Club course he had to scramble for an even par 70. They pulled into the 72-hole mark deadlocked at 270, 10 under par for the distance.

Sanders, 27-year-old advocate of the short backswing, was the picture of perfection as he drove out of the fairway only once; hit every green in regulation and rang up a card of 10 pars and eight birdies.

Palmer also parred his holes, but his four birdies were offset by an equal number of bogeys in his worst round of the tournament.

At that the muscular Miamian would have won it had it not been for an unplayable lie on the 16th hole. Purposely shooting down the left side for the most desirable approach to the green, the top money winner of 1960 hooked his drive into an oleander bush.

After dropping out with a one-stroke penalty, Palmer took a bogey 5 on the 339-yard hole.

Sanders, playing out of Ojai, Calif., came within an inch and a half of getting a victory-sealing eagle on the par-5 18th hole when his 45-foot putt stopped in front of the cup.

Palmer came into the 18th needing a birdie 4 to tie. His second shot was in the fringe at the left of the green, 50 feet from the pin. He ran the ball up with his putter but hit too strongly and rolled eight feet past. The great pressure player got down from there for his birdie.

Jack Fleck, who won the Phoenix Open last year in a playoff with Bill Collins, finished one back at 391 for third money of $2,000.

Don January was fourth at 372 for $1,700. Dave Marr and Johnny Post tied for fifth with 374, winning $1,450 each. Collins and tournament tenderfoot Jackie Cupit of Longview, Tex., each took $1,250 with 375.

Cokes' Toughest Test Set Tonight

DALLAS (AP)—Curtis Cokes, Dallas' promising young welterweight, gets his toughest test tonight when he takes on veteran Charles (Tombstone) Smith of Los Angeles in a 10-round fight.

Smith once was one of the top-ranked welterweights of the country and is now in the process of attempting to regain his standing.

The fight goes on after a week's delay. It was twice postponed. Smith said, however, that he had profited by the layoff. He said he was badly in need of work.

World's lightweight champion Joe Brown also is on the card, boxing an exhibition with Texas Lightweight Champion Rio Randall.

Tech, Looking Like Shoo-In For Title, Faces Tough A&M

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

Texas Tech, riding on top with a five-game winning streak, meets Texas A&M at College Station while Arkansas and Texas battle at Fayetteville Tuesday night in action that could set the big four of Southwest Conference basketball to two.

These games involve the teams left strictly in the title, running. Tech leads with 7-1 while Texas, Arkansas and Texas A&M are tied for second with 5-3.

Texas Tech can become a heavy favorite for the title should it lick the Aggies for the second time—the Red Raiders beat A&M 74-56 to start their streak that has shot them two games out front.

The winner of the Arkansas-Texas game would become the leading contender.

Embittered Texas A&M, which fell two games away when it was upset by lowly Texas Christian, 66-66, Saturday night, could throw the race into a three-way proposition by toppling Tech. Then, Tech, the Aggies and the Texas-Arkansas winner would be bunched with only a game separating the leaders from the two runners-up.

But there are few who will predict that Texas Tech is to falter now. The Raiders get better with each game, and ride high with their Mutt and Jeff combination of big Harold Hudgens and little Del Ray Mounds.

And Tech is doing the best work on the road, the places where championships are won. True the only defeat for the Raiders was on a foreign field when they lost to Texas 63-55, but they beat Arkansas, Southern Methodist and Texas Christian away for the best

Mutt And Jeff Act Unfunny To Texas Tech Opposition

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—Texas Tech lost five of its first nine games and was being written off as a Southwest Conference Championship contender. But that was before Mutt and Jeff took over.

Today Tech leads the conference with a 7-1 record, is two games ahead and highly favored to gallop in with the championship.

In the comic strips Mutt and Jeff furnish some laughs. But on the basketball court Texas Tech's version produces little amusement for opposing coaches.

Mutt is the Red Raiders' towering center, 6-9 Harold Hudgens. Jeff is 5-9 1/2 Del Ray Mounds. They give the surprising Raiders a terrific one-two punch.

Coach Glen Rose of Arkansas summed it up like this: "Hudgens shoots 30 points from inside. Mounds shoots 30 from outside—how you going to beat that?"

Blueblood Pooches Enter Kennel Show

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Blueblood pooches from 46 states and three foreign countries converged on Madison Square Garden today for dogdom's most important event—the Westminster Kennel Club show.

Every one of the 2,548 entries must have won a blue ribbon in a recognized show before entering Westminster, so there never is a real favorite.

The breed judging will be held today and Tuesday morning. Then the six finalists will be decided, and finally at about midnight Tuesday, Dr. Joseph E. Redde, an East Longmeadow, Mass., dentist, will pick the best in show.

This year, more than usual, the 83th edition of the Westminster figures to be a scramble because the defending champion will not be back. Chik T-sun of Caversham, a sharp Pekingese, has been retired by Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Venable of Atlanta.

The other five group winners returning include: Ch. Pinetop's Fancy Parade, a Cocker spaniel belonging to William J. Lafson and Mrs. Rose Robbins of Petersburg, Va.; Ch. The Ring's Banshee, a bas-

Sun Devils Can Win This Week

By The Associated Press

Arizona State's Sun Devils, rolling along with an unbeaten record in championship play, can just about sew up the Border Conference basketball title this week.

By beating West Texas State Monday and New Mexico State Saturday, the Sun Devils would have an 8-0 record with two games to go. New Mexico State, the closest contender, would be 3-2 with five games to play.

Arizona State appears quite capable of winding it up prematurely. The Sun Devils beat New Mexico State 95-66 when the teams met the first time.

Arizona State whipped Arizona 94-78 and Hardin-Simmons 97-78 last week while New Mexico State was letting down the flood gates in a smashing 107-79 triumph over Texas Western.

In other conference games Hardin-Simmons took an 81-65 licking from Texas Western while Arizona was edging West Texas State 66-63. Hardin-Simmons' two losses knocked the Cowboys out of contention.

West Texas State did the conference proud by downing Oklahoma City University 78-75 in an inter-sectional battle.

McLaughlin Takes El Paso Rodeo Title

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Don McLaughlin of Fort Worth won the calf roping championship and the top money of $1,200 in the 24th annual Southwestern Championship Rodeo which ended Sunday.

Walt Mason of Tucson, Ariz., the bare bronc riding champ, won $1,058.40; Larry Condon of Omak, Wash., won the bull riding championship and $999.34; and James Bynum of Forrester, Tex., took the steer wrestling honors and $969.60. Enoch Walker of Cody, Wyo., won the saddle bronc riding crown.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Race track officials in New Mexico are worried. Members of the state legislature have come to the conclusion that the tracks are making a killing and want the state to get on the gravy train.

The tracks now pay one-half of one per cent of their mutual handle to the state but bills have been introduced in the state house to up the state's take to as much as ten per cent.

Race officials, who have to deal in the most off-beat politics in the state, reason they can make money and stay in business if the tax bite is doubled. But ten per cent! That would drive all the racing people out of business in a hurry.

It's possible the man who introduced the bill for a ten per cent tax bite is anti-racing anyway, and wants to end betting in the state. It would appear that way.

At any rate, a fight is shaping up in the state. Millions of dollars have been invested in racing ovals in New Mexico and the legislature waited until the investments had all been made before talking of cutting in for more of the loot. If the Sunland Park people had known the solons were going to get greedy, the $3 million plant probably never would have been built. It was erected largely with Texas money, you know.

That well known razor blade company will not sponsor the Game of the Week over a national TV hook-up during the 1961 baseball season.

It cancelled out, according to the best report, because it had to black out the cities where the games were being played—which cut a good deal of the market that the sponsor was trying to reach.

Delnor Pass, the local high school basketball mentor, compares Odessa High's Dubby Malaise (who scored 36 points against Poss' Steers here the other night) with Max Williams, the former Avoca all-state operative who went on to make good at Southern Methodist.

Pass reasons that Malaise is just as good a guard as was Williams. The only phase of his game in which Delnor would give the edge to Max would be in passing, and Malaise has another year in high school to improve in that department.

The college scouts from all over the country are going to be camping on Dubby's door before he's through. Dubby's father, John (coach of the Bronchos) is a graduate of North Texas State College.

One of the ladies who is a major stockholder in the New York National League club, which opens play in 1962, wanted to call the team "The Larks." She was outvoted.

The New Yorkers probably never would have lived down the name.

The betting is about even that Midland's Bulldogs will never get beyond bi-district play in the basketball round. There are those who are convinced that the Bulldogs will march straight to the crown that eluded them last year, however.

The Bulldogs have their work cut out for them in bi-district. Bel-Air is in command out in the Border City. Bel-Air's only loss in conference play came when a 6-foot-4 pivot man, Ernest Campbell, was sitting on the bench with an ankle injury.

Ray Sanchez, the El Paso scribe, says Bel Air is one of the finest teams ever to represent that district. The team boasts splendid balance.

This Is Show-Down Week In Big Loop

By DON WEISS

Associated Press Sports Writer

The big conferences, which furnish the bulk of the field for the 25-team NCAA championship tournament, tonight move into what could be a straightening-out week in college basketball.

Key pairings are spread throughout the schedule all week, with the Big Ten, Big Eight, Southeastern and Ohio Valley conferences first off the mark in games that will help fill the NCAA lineup and the National Invitation Tournament as well.

Ohio State's top-ranked Buckeyes, needing the Big Ten title to qualify for defense of their NCAA championship, are home tonight against Northwestern—seeking to stretch their winning streak to 34 before moving to Iowa City for Saturday's showdown with second-place Iowa.

Iowa, still kicking despite the loss of four regulars because of poor grades, is home to Wisconsin tonight. A victory for both the Bucks and Hawkeyes would put Ohio State at 9-0 and Iowa at 6-4 for their Saturday collision.

In the scrambled SEC, Kentucky—a mediocre Wildcat this year—challenges Mississippi State the conference leader with an 8-0 record, a nine-game winning streak, and a 16-3 over-all mark. SEC runner-up Vanderbilt (6-2) is at SMU with the game taking on added importance because Mississippi State will not go into the NCAA tournament if it wins the conference. State, like two years ago, will pass up the NCAA under an unwritten state law forbidding competition against Negroes.

Also tonight, Kansas and Kansas State resume their duel for the Big Eight title. Ohio Valley Conference leader Western Kentucky is at second-place Eastern Kentucky, and in a big Eastern duel—second-ranked St. Bonaventure (16-1) plays NIT-bound Providence (16-3).

Kansas State is at Colorado and Missouri at Kansas with the Wildcats and Jayhawks currently sharing first place with 6-1 records. Western Kentucky is 7-0 and Eastern Kentucky 6-2 for their top 16 in action now Saturday-OVC duel.

All six members of the nation's topped by Ohio State's 83-68 victory over Michigan State as Jerry Lucas set a Big Ten record of 48 points. Tom Stith had 27 points and Freddie Crawford 26 as St. Bonaventure routed Boston College 103-69. Chet Walker's 31 points led fourth-ranked Bradley over St. Louis 69-54, moving the Braves within a half game of leading Cincinnati in the Missouri Valley Conference.

North Carolina, No. 6, thumped Wake Forest 98-78 with York Lawrence scoring 30 points and Doug Moe 25 but Kansas State, No. 7, needed Al Peithman's basket with 9 seconds left to edge Iowa State 66-65. Revamped Iowa, No. 9, shrugged off the loss of four regulars and topped Indiana 74-67.

Some of the luster of tonight's St. Bonaventure-Providence match was lost when Rhode Island spilled the Friars, 78-76, for Providence's first loss at home in 37 games.

The veteran fight manager who has handled Jack Dempsey, Archie Moore, and many others during his long career made the prediction Sunday on a visit to Johansson's training camp.

Reed gained the indoor final by beating upsetter John Cranston, the Marine from San Marino, Calif., 13-11, 6-3, 6-2. Savitt, finalist for the fourth straight year and winner in 1958, advanced with a 9-7, 6-1, 4-6, 6-4 victory over 17-year-old Chris Crawford of Piedmont, Calif.

Reed is a pleasant, blond-haired young man who acknowledges that he never has let tennis interfere with his pleasure. He likes the social whirl.

Reminded that some people were comparing him with former national champion Art Larsen, who used to train on beer and hot dogs, Reed said: "Well, I don't know about the hot dogs."

The colorful Californian, a former student at San Jose State, said he never followed the practice of other players in keeping in shape by doing road work and taking other exercises.

"I have trouble getting up in time to get to the courts on schedule," he confessed.

Mickey Wright Has Big Round

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Mickey Wright, the tall power hitter of women's golf, celebrated her birthday two days early this year. The biggest present was a $1,347 check.

The 25-year-old professional has been tabbed by many as potentially the best woman golfer ever to swing a club. She came close to realizing that potential with a five-under-par performance for 72 holes in winning the St. Petersburg open by four strokes Sunday.

The 5-foot-9 blonde from San Diego, Calif., turned in a card of 72-70-67-70—279.

Her first St. Petersburg title came over Louise Suggs of Atlanta, who finished with a 73 Sunday after three consecutive rounds of 70.

Miss Linda Browder, 20, of Kilgore, won the crown from a group of 45 contestants in the National Beauty Salon Week Queen for Texas, in Dallas. Miss Browder, a striking redhead, is a lieutenant in the famed Kilgore Rangerettes.

France Rejects Language Of Soviet Protest

PARIS (AP)—France told the Soviet Union Sunday it could not accept some of the language Moscow used in its note protesting the French buzzing of Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev's plane off the Algerian coast.

The French note addressed to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko said France will let the Kremlin know the results of its investigation. But the note said "certain terms employed in the Soviet note" sent here Saturday are considered inadmissible.

French jet fighters intercepted the Soviet plane last Thursday while Brezhnev was en route to Morocco and Guinea.

The French said one fighter fired warning shots to attract the plane's attention after the four-jet airliner was found too far south of its scheduled course for Morocco and failed to identify itself.

France expressed "sincere regrets" for the incident but insisted its patrols looking for arms shipments to the Algerian rebels have the right to intercept any plane within an 80-mile "zone of responsibility" along the Algerian coast.

The Soviets rejected the explanation. They demanded again that the guilty fliers be punished, accused the French of trying to whitewash the incident and insisted the whole affair was "nothing but an act of international banditry."

In London it was understood France resented the Soviet Union calling its fliers "bandits," objected to a contention that direct shots and not warning shots were fired, and said the Soviets cried falsely of interception over international waters for a plane the French say was off course.

Federal Rural Program Urged

DALLAS (AP)—General Manager Clyde Ellis of National Rural Electric Cooperative Association called today for a broad federal rural development program. Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., and 43 other senators are sponsoring an area redevelopment bill—with support of the Kennedy administration.

"The rural America we have known and cherished is caught in a vicious cross-fire of dwindling prices, rising costs, shifting persons and changing cultures," Ellis said.

He also stressed what he termed "other problems" of the rural electric systems—wholesale power supply and territorial protection.

"The demands of our consumers for power are doubling every six years. In many areas, our systems do not know where the power they will need 12 to 24 months from now is to come from," he said.

To help alleviate this problem, Ellis called for "a more dynamic generation and transmission program" by the rural electric themselves, along with a "nation-wide transmission system interconnecting the power producing regions, jointly owned and controlled by investor-owned utilities, state and municipal utilities, rural electric systems and the federal government."

The association will be headed during the coming year by R. A. Yarborough of Childrens.

The Texan was elected Sunday along with other officers by NRECA directors. Yarborough, 33, is manager of the Gate City Electric Cooperative of Childrens. He formerly was manager of the Hall County Cooperative.

One Wheeled Wonder

Army PFC Louis Norwood of suburban Adkins, near San Antonio, uses this unicycle to transport himself around Ft. Sam Houston, where he is assigned to the Medical Training Center. It saves gasoline, and he can handle the contraption well enough to maintain a military bearing as he salutes Lt. Esther Tinklenberg of Woodstock, Minn.

TUESDAY

Maverick Brings Campaign Here

Maury Maverick Jr. of San Antonio, candidate for U. S. Senator, will be in Big Spring Tuesday for a 12:30 p.m. luncheon at the Wagon Wheel Restaurant. Maverick will make Big Spring a stop on a whirlwind tour beginning in San Angelo, and including Big Spring, Midland, Odessa and Lubbock. Maverick, member of the State Democratic Executive Committee from Bexar County and former member of the House of Representatives, is a practicing attorney in San Antonio. Maverick, 40, is the great-grandson of Samuel A. Maverick, a signer of the Texas Declaration of Independence. He is the son of the late Congressman and mayor of San Antonio, Maury Maverick Sr.

Burglary Nets Yeggs $1,500 Here Saturday

Fifteen hundred dollars in cash and some checks were reported stolen from the home of Mrs. J. N. Enloe, owner of the Dog House Beer Tavern sometime Saturday night. Mrs. Enloe told police that she had placed the money in two cigar boxes and put them under the mattress in her bedroom. Entrance was gained by prying open a rest room window which leads into her bedroom. She said the money was in assorted $1, $5, $10, and some $20 bills, with approximately $50 in dimes and quarters. Several other reports of thefts were investigated by police during the weekend. T. A. Welch of the Welch Trucking Co., 1610 E. 3rd, reported a set of mirrors, $28; airhorn, $35; three more mirrors, $24, stolen from an automobile on his parking lot. He also reported the theft of gasoline from equipment at the concrete plant on Marcy Drive. A man was arrested following theft of $115 from the cash register at the Sinclair Service Station at 702 W. 5th. L. M. Castleman, owner, said he and his father were in the wash room and that a Latin American male was suspected of opening the register and taking the money. The man was arrested before he left the area. Neel's Transfer Co., 101 Runnels, reported gasoline stolen from one of their trucks Sunday. A can and a hose were left at the scene. Jack Watkins, 1200 Pennsylvania, reported a wheelbarrow stolen from his home. The rubber-tired wheelbarrow was rolled down an alley where it was loaded into a vehicle. Dean Newsom, Vealmoor Rd., reported the theft of two hubcaps from his car while it was parked on the Ritz lot. Gulf Oil Co., 312 State St., reported two truck tires, stolen. Tom Hill, who called police, said he did not know whether other items were missing. At 6:30 a.m. Monday police were called to the Big Spring School bus barn where several items were missed. Included in these were a truck screw jack, several flares, three quarts of oil, a first aid kit, and 30 gallons of gasoline.

Tonn Describes Addison Property As Rich In Nickel

DALLAS (AP)—A veteran Colorado mining man said in Federal Court today that one of John Milton Addison's controversial mining properties contains substantial deposits of nickel ore. Appearing as a defense witness for Addison's co-defendant, Miles White, Howard Tonn of Idaho Springs, Colo., added that he had taken more than 3,000 samples of ore from the property in question, 100 miles northwest of Denver. Tonn said the ore on the 20,000-acre tract is found in pyrolytic iron varying in richness from 10 to 90 per cent. Addison, White and four of their associates are on trial for the fourth week on charges of mail fraud, conspiracy and violations of the Federal Securities Act.

Small Colleges Warned Not To Copy Big Ones

AUSTIN (AP)—Small colleges were advised today not to be a "weak carbon copy" of the big ones. Dr. Alfred Hill, executive secretary of the Council for the Advancement of Small Colleges, made the suggestion to a state conference of more than 100 junior college administrators and board members. "If the junior college deserts its traditional functions of two-year terminal or transfer courses and its services to its community in an attempt to compete with, instead of supplement, the four-year college," Dr. Hill said, "the year is failing in its educational mission. We can no longer afford to have a thousand little colleges just like standing in a row." He called for the small college to "clarify its public image."

Fisher Rites Set Tuesday

LAMESA — Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday from the First Methodist Church in Lamesa for Samuel Emmett Fisher, 64, who died Sunday afternoon in a Lamesa Hospital. The Rev. Cecil Tume will officiate assisted by the pastor, the Rev. G. Lloyd Mayhew. Burial will be in Lamesa Memorial Park under the direction of Higginbotham Funeral Home. Mr. Fisher was born in Burnett and came to Dawson County 29 years ago. He moved to Arlington four years ago. Survivors are his widow, Catherine of Arlington; five daughters, Mrs. Fred Flannigan, Lamesa, Mrs. Kent Morgan, Big Spring, Mrs. M. W. Pruett, Arlington, Mrs. Jimmie Little, Bridgeport, Mrs. Boyd Mahney, Lamesa; four sisters, Mrs. Lora Moore, Miss Lena T. Fisher, and Mrs. M. X. Hobbs, all of Houston, and Mrs. Ree Allgood, Longview; two brothers, H. H. Sr., Longview, and R. A. of Duncan, Okla.

Wooten Shows Reserve Calf

A first place calf, shown by Cary Wooten of Big Spring, also took reserve champion in the medium weight, open class division of the San Antonio Livestock Show, Monday morning. Cary, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Harvey Wooten, San Angelo Highway, and a 4-H Club member, took two calves to the open show and he also won a seventh place in the lightweight class. The producer is located 548 feet from the south and 12 feet from the west lines of labor 51, league 258, Briscoe CSL survey, on a 3,604 acre lease, eight miles southwest of Patricia.

Artist, Once Abused, Now London Giant

LONDON (AP)—The ghost of Henri de Toulouse-Lautrec must be quietly chuckling today at the success he is enjoying in London. British art lovers are lining up by the thousands to visit an impressive exhibition of 89 of the little Frenchman's paintings and drawings at the Tate Gallery.

The last time Toulouse-Lautrec had a London exhibition on such a scale was in 1898—three years before his death at the age of 36.

It drew a spate of abuse. The critics and the hostile public derided the cruelly accurate pictures of Paris night life as "vulgar" and "revolting."

Toulouse-Lautrec, in London at the time, took it all in his tiny stride. The little man, whose legs were stunted by two falls in childhood, was amused.

Now he comes back as a giant. His new exhibition—of the same paintings—is drawing nothing but praise from critics and admiration from the public. On opening day 3,000 persons visited the exhibition. Another 2,000 saw it during the four hours it was open Sunday.

The show will continue through March 15. It was organized by the Association Francaise d'Action Artistique and the British Arts Council.

Shootings Kill More Than Traffic In Weekend Count

By The Associated Press

Shootings accounted for more lives than traffic mishaps as the violent deaths over the weekend in Texas reached at least 18.

Nine fatalities were blamed on gunplay while traffic accounted for seven deaths. One Texan died in a fire and one woman was crushed to death by a falling boulder.

The tabulation began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended Sunday midnight.

Gregg Deerfield, 2, of Fort Stockton was killed when an auto driven by his mother, Mrs. Nina Dean Deerfield, 27, overturned Sunday on a country road about 18 miles north of Fort Stockton.

By Bob Smith

There were a lot of good points to "Mr. Angel," but one thing kept nagging at this critic all through the performance—that was the dilapidated condition of the high school's flats. There was one large blotch, an overpainted area, high up on one flat, and every time one of the actors slammed the set's door, the entire arrangement of flats visibly vibrated.

A few days after the play was over, I dropped by to see Bedford Forrest, the high school speech and drama instructor, and we took a quick inspection tour of the auditorium.

One of the first items to be revealed was the fact that the auditorium was badly designed in the first place. No storage place is provided for flats, furniture and props, and the design is such that there is no direction in which needed expansion might take place.

The flats proved to be old and dilapidated, as I had suspected, and there aren't enough of them. Someone, Forrest said, had used the wrong kind of paint on the flats, many years before. One must use a water-base paint so that it can be washed off and the flat used again. With any other kind of paint, one gets layer after layer—and when one layer cracks, "it makes the whole flat look sick."

The present flats have been scraped free of their layers of oil-base paints, but that left the canvas limp. The flats, as a result, must be re-sized, and this is expensive. "Properly handled," he said, "no re-sizing is needed."

Re-sizing means taking the canvas off the wood frames and stretching it tightly back again, replacing that canvas which is no longer usable.

The wood frames were splitting, and this is going to mean eventual replacement of the frames. There aren't enough braces, either. "About half as many as we need," was Forrest's way of putting it. It is lack of braces that causes the set to wiggle when the door is slammed. It also causes the flats to lean several degrees off plumb. The resulting illusion from the audience's standpoint is ludicrous, and it tends to destroy the dramatic image the actors have so carefully built up.

This shortage of flats and braces, Forrest averred, means the same set must be used over and over again. "There's nothing to put our imaginations to work with."

The furniture situation is even worse. I asked Forrest to show me his stage furniture, and he dragged out a broken, worn, filthy easy chair, set it in the middle of the stage and, pointing, muttered "That's it."

Every single piece of furniture must be begged, borrowed, or well, borrowed. And borrowing has its drawbacks. There is always the danger that vandals will break in and damage the furniture (it has happened before), the borrowed items must be hauled back and forth between stage and store (movements that are always a danger to the borrowed items), the constant begging in itself often is embarrassing to the students even though the merchants who have lent furniture have done so generously, and it makes for a lot of red tape and wasted time just getting the furniture lined up.

The lighting system isn't much better, and here we are back once more to the original design of the auditorium. The two rows of lights above the stage are placed about six feet behind where they should be, and there should be four rows anyway.

But the greatest need, Forrest said, is a dimmer system. (A matter which the administration is reported to be working on now.)

The present control system consists of a long row of individual switches, each controlling one light or a set of lights. There is no way to dim these lights gradually—it's either on or off and no in-between—and there is no way to set up a coordinating central control of all lights. That long row of switches presents lighting crews with an almost impossibly complicated task, in which errors are multiplied.

Ours is the only major school in the area from Abilene to Odessa without a dimmer system. Indeed, even some of the smaller schools have them—Seminole, Snyder, Lamesa, for example.

The situation is even worse in regard to costumes—there aren't any. And no proper storage, anyway. Forrest put it this way, "Sometimes it's cheaper to rent (costumes) than make them, and then store them for the mice to eat."

Well, after such a disappointing tour, one is moved to ask what is needed, I did.

"More flats, new flats," Forrest began, "and repair of the old flats. More braces."

"We need a dimmer system, worst of all. This would give us specific lighting effects, making possible such things as total blackouts or a moonlight effect, for example. There's an almost endless list of the effects we could get with a dimmer system, but the main general advantage would be that of area lighting instead of flood lighting."

"We need a whole new lighting system—we need more lights, and we need to re-arrange those we have now."

"We need stage furniture—just the basics. Any item of furniture one would expect to see often in real life, and which is found in most plays."

He listed the props his department needs, such as dishes, ashtrays and the like. He specified that just the basics should be bought, leaving the more unusual props, furniture, etc., to be borrowed or rented. The basics could be used over and over again, "but it wouldn't do to have the school buy a lot of stuff that would only be used one time."

And the cost of all this? I asked. Forrest wrestled with that one awhile and finally came up with what he said was a rough estimate—"at least $5,000 just to get things like they ought to be."

I came away with the feeling that our city could afford to do better by our high school thespians than has been done—particularly in light of what has been and is being done in neighboring communities.

In the final analysis, the issue always comes back to the people, not the school board or the administration. When the public decides it wants a top speech and drama department, we'll get one. And one that will not be forced to go abegging just to put on a play.
