Lyndon Not In Plane As Crash Kills 2

AUSTIN (AP) — The pilot and co-pilot of Vice President Lyndon Johnson's luxurious private plane were killed when it crashed in murky weather Sunday night near the Johnson ranch.

The plane piled up in rugged hill country west of here during pea-soup weather.

The pilot was Harold Teague, 39, of Austin, who flew Johnson on many trips during the presidential campaign.

A Highway Patrol unit located the wreckage of the white Conair in a pasture seven miles southeast of the Johnson ranch.

Johnson was en route to the scene of the crash.

The plane was forced to turn back Sunday night because of mist and fog that shut in the landing strip at the ranch.

The Vice President at his ranch Sunday night asked his neighbors to help locate the plane.

The plane, named the Lucy B, for one of the Vice President's daughters, was a luxury craft equipped with a lounge, kitchen and conference room.

A San Antonio insurance source said the aircraft was owned by Johnson and some associates and was insured for $200,000 to $300,000.

Four Texas National Guard helicopters took off in nasty weather in the search of the rugged Hill County west of here.

Col. Francis Walsh of Bergstrom Air Force Base, control point for the search, went to Johnson's ranch 65 miles west of here on the Pedernales River to supervise the air and ground crews.

The pilots, Harold Teague and Charles Williams, both of Austin, left Municipal Airport at 7:08 p.m. for the landing strip on Johnson's ranch.

The Municipal Airport had a reputation for being difficult to land at.

Officers Seeking Ranger Robber

DALLAS (AP)—North Central Texas officers looked today for Tom Gene Scott, who disappeared in a crowd Saturday night armed with a Texas Ranger's gun.

Mary Cantrell Resigns Her Welfare Post

Mary Cantrell, county public welfare officer for the past 14½ years, tendered her resignation to the Howard County Commissioners Court Monday morning.

Miss Cantrell said that she has some personal plans for the future and will continue to reside in Big Spring "at least for the present."

The commissioners were unanimous in expressing regret at her decision. They asked, in the event they encountered difficulty in finding a replacement, if she would continue until the vacancy could be filled.

Ralph White moved "with great reluctance" that the resignation be accepted. The motion was seconded by L. J. Davidson and the vote was unanimous.

County Slices City Fire Bill

The county commissioners sliced the city's fire protection bill in half this morning.

In an agreement with the City of Big Spring, the county in past years has paid $60,000 annually for fire protection in rural areas, plus furnishing a truck to make such calls.

County Takes Low Bid For Barn Extension

Stanford Engineering Co., Midland, was awarded Monday a contract to build a 60 by 60 foot extension to the north building at the Howard County Fair Grounds.

Howard County Commissioners Court accepted the company's bid of $10,693. Only two bids were posted.

Joe Hayden moved that the Midland firm's bid be accepted. L. J. Davidson seconded the motion and it was adopted unanimously.

The representative of the company, who was present, said that it would take from six to eight weeks to build the extension.

This announcement indicates that the extension could not be completed in time for use by the Howard County Annual 4-H Club and FFA Fat Stock Show slated for March 15.

The enlargement of the building will make it the same size as the south building.

Daniel Abandons Idea For State Payroll Tax

EVERY LITTLE BIT HELPS! Grady Rendel, U.S. Experiment Station, measures Monday's moisture

Now Working On Excise Tax

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Price Daniel abandoned today his idea of getting the 57th Legislature to pass a payroll earnings tax.

Daniel told the Legislature in a surprise message that he and his staff are now working "on a revision of the excise tax proposal which should be ready for introduction and consideration when the deficit retirement hearings have been completed."

The governor's message came without warning to legislators as they started their seventh week with no tax measure yet reported ready for debate.

The payroll tax plan has never been introduced although it was recommended for adoption by both Daniel and his State Finance Advisory Commission.

Revising and increasing present excise taxes was a second choice recommendation of the blue ribbon commission that was named by Daniel to find away out of Texas' financial wilderness.

In his Jan. 18 message to the Legislature, Daniel urged adoption of the commission plan to levy a one per cent tax on all earnings with employer and employee paying equal shares.

He also included revision of excise taxes as an alternate plan. "I said then that I would support and work for either of these proposals," Daniel said in his message.

Another plan — "I added that if any of you has a plan which receives wider acceptance, short of a general sales tax or an income tax, I will work for and support that plan."

In that same spirit, I now feel it is my duty to acknowledge that I have found practically no support in either house for the proposed payroll-earnings tax.

I am convinced, after talking with many members, that it has no chance of enactment.

Daniel told the Legislature that in order to save time "that otherwise might be lost in further consideration of this proposal" he was withdrawing the payroll levy as a possible source of new revenue.

He said the withdrawal was made with the full knowledge and approval of John Redditt of Lufkin, chairman of the Finance Advisory Commission.

"I hasten to add that my discussion with members of the Legislature also convinced me that neither an income tax nor a general sales tax has a chance of enactment," Daniel said.

The governor suggested that proponents of these two taxes should "face their fate as realistically as I have done" and withdraw them.

Daniel urged that the Legislature take immediate action on his proposals to settle the deficit before looking for new revenue to finance spending in 1962-1963.

He said delay beyond the present regular session "will only increase the magnitude of our task."

Daniel concluded his message by saying he would continue to work for the welfare of the state.

Drizzle Prevails In Big Spring, Area

A drizzle, which from time to time developed into brief showers, prevailed throughout much of Sunday, Sunday night and Monday in Big Spring.

Moisture value of the dampness was relatively low. However, farmers were well pleased with the weather and said that it was adding to the already happy crop and pasture conditions in the county.

In Big Spring the U. S. Experiment station reported that 17 inch rain had been gauged north of town. Big Spring Switching plant of the Texas Electric Service Co., gauged .28 inch. The downtown plant measured .21. Chalk in the southeast part of the county had .21, and light mist was reported falling over the Lake J. B. Thomas area.

The moisture was constant over most of the county. There was enough wetness to make some of the dirt roads slippery and the county commissioners court was receiving calls from farmers and ranchers who live on such roads for work with the county road graders.

Snyder reported .10 inch rain. Snow was falling in midmorning at Lamesa and at Courtney. A few brief sleet showers fell in Big Spring. One was Sunday morning and a second at midmorning Monday.

Snow Hits High Plains

A snowstorm developed Monday on the South Plains of West Texas from below Lamesa northward to the Levelland region west of Lubbock. The snow closed some roads by midmorning.

At Lamesa and Levelland, flakes the size of half dollars came down in showers.

The West Texas snow was part of an unstable weather pattern that sent light to heavy rain and a little hail across most of the state.

The sheriff's office at Seminole, near the New Mexico line in Gaines County, said it received snow reports from such widely separated points as Amarillo, Odessa and Hobbs, N.M.

Fort Worth reported hail the size of marbles in some parts of the city. Very little damage occurred.

At Lamesa, the snow storm dropped visibility to a quarter of a mile. Roads from Lamesa to Seminole and from Odessa to Seminole were virtually impassable by mid-morning, authorities reported.

Seminole reported mist at 6 a.m., sleet at 6:30 a.m. and heavy snow beginning at 7:30 a.m. The temperature dropped from 35 to 31 degrees.

Eight miles south of Denver City a car rolled over and authorities blamed the accident on snow-slick pavement.

State Police reported visibility was zero because of heavy snow where the car rolled over. Two other accidents occurred in the Seminole area as roads began to grow slick.

The Denver City-Seminole highway was closed.

County Slices City Fire Bill

The county commissioners sliced the city's fire protection bill in half this morning.

In an agreement with the City of Big Spring, the county in past years has paid $60,000 annually for fire protection in rural areas, plus furnishing a truck to make such calls.

Kennedy Gives Congress $5.7 Billion School Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy today proposed a $5.7 billion aid-to-education program designed to set "a new standard of excellence in education" available "to all who are willing and able to pursue it."

In a special message to Congress, the President called for: — A three-year program of outright grants to the states for use in building classrooms or raising teachers' salaries. It would provide an average of $19.75 for each child in average daily attendance in public elementary and secondary schools the first year, increasing to an average of $24.22 the third year. Total cost: $2.3 billion.

— A five-year program of college scholarships, averaging $700 each with an additional $500 to colleges and universities for each scholarship winner enrolled. There would be 25,000 scholarships the first year, 37,500 the second, and 50,000 thereafter. Total cost: $377.5 million.

— Continuation of the 10-year-old program of long-term, low-interest loans to colleges and universities for dormitory construction, at a rate of $250 million a year for five years. Total cost: $1.3 billion.

— Establishment of a similar loan program for the construction of college classrooms, libraries, laboratories and other academic facilities, at the rate of $300 million a year for five years. Total cost: $1.5 billion.

No funds were recommended for constructing schools or paying church school teachers' salaries. But no distinction was made between public and private institutions regarding college scholarships and loans to colleges.

Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois announced he was ready with a Republican substitute for Kennedy's education program.

Dirksen's measure is a four-year $1 billion proposal. Federal aid to be matched by the states, would be limited to construction of classrooms.

SAM OPPOSES House Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., opposes federal contributions to teachers' salaries.

Kennedy said he will ask Congress at a later date to amend and expand the National Defense Education Act of 1958. The act authorizes the college student loan program and emphasizes improved instruction in science, mathematics and modern foreign languages.

He also said his administration will review the government's current programs in vocational education.

The President's message made no mention of federal aid to impacted areas—districts overcrowded because of nearby military installations. An administration spokesman declined to say whether the impacted area program will be continued, reduced or abolished. He did say, however, that it will be dealt with in the administration's bill to be introduced in Congress by midweek.

EXTENSION A nongovernment source in close touch with the situation said he understood Kennedy would propose a two-year extension of the program, now costing the government $270 million a year.

The President told Congress, "This is a modest program with ambitious goals."

It does, indeed, fall far short of the recommendations he received from his special task force on education last month, and short even of the aid to education bill which died in Congress last year after passage in the Senate.

Kennedy's proposed grants to the states for classroom construction or teachers' salaries would cost $666 million the first year, $706 million the second, and $666 million the third.

The task force, headed by President Frederick L. Hoyle of Purdue University, called for $30 for each pupil in average daily attendance, plus $20 per pupil in states below 70 per cent of the national average income, plus $20 per pupil to cities over 300,000 population. The first-year cost was put at $1.5 billion.

The Senate bill passed last year called for an average of $20 per pupil with a first-year cost of $928 million.

During the first year, the amount of money made available under the administration program for each pupil in average daily attendance would range from a minimum of $13 in nine states and the District of Columbia to a high of $26.57 in Mississippi.

The formula for allotting the federal money is based on the state's total personal income per each child in average daily attendance compared with the national figures.

The states would be expected to maintain their own efforts and contributions, Kennedy said. An administration spokesman said those states which did not would be penalized by the withholding of federal funds.

"In accordance with the clear prohibition of the Constitution," Kennedy said, "no elementary or secondary school funds are allocated for constructing church schools or paying church school teachers' salaries."

He also said that children attending church schools will not be counted in determining the funds each state shall receive.

However, the section dealing with college scholarships and loans to colleges made no distinction between public and private institutions.

The Kennedy proposal would leave it to the individual states to determine how the money should be divided between construction and salaries.

Hammarhjold protested vigorously against the latest slayings. He said the action was "humiliating and derogatory to the United Nations."

The secretary-general gave no details, but said an aide of Albert Kalonji, president of South Kasai, had told Dayal the six were dead.

The dead included Jean Finant, ex-president of Oriental Province; a Maj. Fataki, former commander of the Stanleyville gendarmes; the president of Lumumba's youth movement, Nzuzi; and three men named Muzungu, Elengesa and Yangara.

Stevenson said the latest developments emphasized the necessity for urgent and effective action.

Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zorin said Hammarhjold cannot "escape responsibility for what he should have averted under the original resolutions of the Security Council."

Zorin demanded the immediate arrest of Maj. Gen. Joseph Mobutu, chief of state of Kasavubu's armed forces, and Moise Tshombe, president of Katanga Province.

Report On More Slayings In Congo Brings Protests

The secretary-general's announcement came as the council resumed debate on the Congo crisis after a weekend recess. The public was admitted to the galleries for the first time since last week's bloody rioting. There were no disturbances.

NEW MESSAGE Hammarhjold called the council's attention to Dayal's original report expressing fears for the safety of the pro-Lumumba group and then disclosed that he had received a new message this morning.

"I have to inform the Security Council," he said, "that I have this morning received a cable from the special representative informing me that 'the so-called minister of justice of South Kasai has just confirmed that Finant, Fataki, Yangara, Muzungu, Elengesa and Nzuzi have been executed.'"

Dayal's report threatened U.S. efforts to win council recognition for Premier Joseph Ileo, named by President Kasavubu to head a new central government in Leopoldville. It threw a cloud over last week's suggestion of the U.N. conciliation commission in the Congo that Ileo's regime became the basis for a broad government of national unity.

Some diplomats expected the United States would propose that, in ordering any new measures in the Congo, the council specify that Hammarhjold be given a role, that Kasavubu be consulted and that non-U.N. military aid be kept out.

AMENDMENTS They looked for these proposals to take the form of resolutions to a Congo peace amendment sponsored by Ceylon, Liberia and the United Arab Republic with broad Asian-African support. Any pro-Hammarhjold amendment was considered certain to die by Soviet veto, however.

The Asian-African resolution, submitted Friday, urged that the United Nations use force if necessary to head off civil war in the Congo, that all Belgian military personnel and political advisers leave there and that all countries deny transit to non-U.N. military men headed for the Congo.

No reference was made to Hammarhjold personally in hopes the Soviet Union would not veto the resolution.

A Soviet resolution before the council calls for dismissal of Hammarhjold as "a participant in and the organizer of" Lumumba's killing. It demands punishment of Belgium in the same connection, disarming of anti-Lumumba Congolese troops and the close out of the U.N. Congo operation within a month.

NEW COMMAND In still another proposal, President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, called for a new all-African U.N. command should take over the Congo, free political prisoners, disarm Congolese troops and convene Parliament—and that all foreign diplomats should get out while the Africans put the Congo in order.

Regardless of the attitude the United Nations takes in this, Kasavubu, Tshombe and Kalonji were certain to reject Nkrumah's plan.

State Gets Cold Drizzling Rains

By The Associated Press
Cloudy skies and cold drizzling rains prevailed over much of Texas Monday but the U.S. Weather Bureau said clearing skies and a warming trend could be expected by midweek.

Shortly before daybreak, rain was falling at San Antonio, McAllen, College Station, Houston, Palacios, Laredo, Brownsville, Conilla, Junction, Texarkana, Longview, Wichita Falls and Lufkin. During the night Dallas, Fort Worth and San Angelo had rain. Only in the Dalhart area in the upper Panhandle were skies clear. Pre-dawn readings ranged from 24 degrees at Dalhart to 59 at Brownsville.

Snow, sleet and freezing rain hit the Panhandle-Plains area Sunday but melted at most points during the day. Light, slow rains fell at scattered points across the state Sunday. Maximum afternoon temperatures ranged from 36 degrees at Lubbock to 75 at Brownsville.

A warming trend due in the Panhandle Monday was expected to spread across the northern half of Texas by Tuesday and to reach the Gulf Coast by midweek. Continued showers were forecast to continue in the southern part of the state Monday.

The five-day forecast called for cooler weather and some precipitation the latter part of the week.

Church of Christ, West Highway 88
Recently we have read in the papers about full church membership being denied certain ones in Africa, while they are received as "associate members." They can attend and contribute; but are not allowed to partake of the communion. (When they start forbidding them to contribute, that will be the day!)
In the New Testament church (the body of Christ) we do not read of "full membership" and "associate members." We read, "Now ye are the body of Christ, and members in particular." (1 Cor. 12:27).
We also read that "God hath tempered the body together, having given more abundant honor to

DEAR ABBY

FUR WOULD FLY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 62 and Boris is ten years older than I am. We've both been married before. I was widowed and he lost his wife in the divorce court. (In fact he lost two there.) We met when I rented an apartment in his building. He lives across the hall. We were having dinner in his apartment last night, as we have done many times, when I noticed red lipstick on one of his napkins. My hair is red and I use orange lipstick. When I pointed it out to him he made up a fantastic story, which he later confessed was a lie. He finally admitted he had entertained another woman in his apartment. Do you think a man who won't tell the truth unless he's trapped into it would make a good husband?

"TRAPPER"
DEAR "TRAPPER": Not for a woman who is an expert trapper.

DEAR ABBY: Every time I call my sister's home and her 16-year-old "adopted" son answers the telephone I can't tell his voice from me to be suspicious? Or do I just have an evil mind?

SUSPICIOUS
DEAR SUSPICIOUS: You have an evil mind. Adopted children frequently sound, act, and even look like their adoptive parents.

DEAR ABBY: My husband always buys our children boys' shoes although they are girls. He buys boys' shoes because they are stronger and will last longer. I feel ashamed to take my girls out in public with boys' shoes. One of the girls is in the third grade and the other children notice her shoes and make fun of her. We have five children and our income is small. What is your advice?

First Month For Kennedy

MIDDLEBURG, Va. (AP)—President Kennedy wound up today in the muddy, thawing Virginia countryside the first month of an administration that has swerved sharply from the domestic path of the old one.

In the handling of foreign affairs, the break with policies of the Eisenhower administration has been less pronounced. Yet Kennedy definitely has set out on a challenging course to court Asia, Africa and Latin America and bring them more solidly to the side of the West.

It was just a month ago, in a national capital floundering under a massive snowfall, that Kennedy was inaugurated president. Today, the chief executive was closing out his first month in office in the seclusion of Glen Ora, the 400-acre estate he has rented in the heart of the Virginia fox and horse country. He planned to return to the White House before noon.

The President and Mrs. Kennedy and their daughter, Caroline, flew down from Washington by helicopter Sunday for an abbreviated weekend. Heavy snow was melting fast. Cars were mired down in the road in front of the estate.

That was of little concern to the First Family, since the helicopter set them down in their own back yard. The President scooped up Caroline, perched her on a shoulder and carried her to a car for the 200-yard drive to the house. Kennedy sends to Congress today an aid to education bill. His idea is that the federal government should provide financial help for classroom construction and salary payments to teachers. The matter is a departure from an Eisenhower policy that frowned on assistance with salaries.

But Kennedy since the start of his administration has been departing from the course his predecessor preferred. This has shown up, as campaign pledges foreshadowed, in his programs to combat need, unemployment and slumping business. It turns up in his plan to provide medical care for the aged through the Social Security system.

CHANGE APPARENT
The change is apparent in the Kennedy cancellation of an Eisenhower administration restriction on troops having their families with them overseas. It is evident, too, in the order Kennedy issued within his first 24 hours on the job for distribution of more food to the needy hungry Americans.

In the realm of military might, the new President quickly decreed a strengthening of the missile, Polaris submarine and airlift programs.

All in all, Kennedy has put on a display of energy and action in the White House that hasn't been paralleled for many a day. Along with this, he has made a definite, distinct imprint on social life in Washington and Middleburg.

Presidents just haven't been in the habit of going out to the movies or to dinner with friends. Kennedy likes to go out. He dropped in on a private party after touring the inaugural balls into the early morning hours of Jan. 21.

FINGERS CROSSED
In the area around Middleburg, where millionaires and socialites abound and hunting the gray and red fox is something of a ritualistic fetish, people still are keeping their fingers crossed about the arrival of the Kennedys.

"They don't want their way of life disrupted by throngs of tourists. They are uneasy about an influx of news, telephone and telegraph men."

They wonder whether a mounted troop of Secret Service agents would ride along if Mrs. Kennedy joined the hunt.

Some changes have been wrought. The historic Red Fox Tavern, which dates back to 1728, finds business has picked up. The number of telephone lines out of Middleburg is being doubled.

But this second weekend on which the Kennedys arrived at Glen Ora produced much less of a flurry than the first one a week ago. While rooms at the tavern were sold out, there were far fewer reporters and cameramen on hand.

Labor May Demand Speedup Of Relief

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Organized labor's high command is expected to demand today that Congress put an emergency label on President Kennedy's proposals to give extra relief to the unemployed.

The union chiefs said that unless fast aid is forthcoming the recession could turn into a deep depression. The Steelworkers Union said in a weekend statement that conditions in their half-side industry already have reached the depression stage.

As a first order of business, the AFL-CIO Council was to voice a demand that Congress bypass its

Airlines Begin Furloughing Of Employees

NEW YORK (AP) — Airlines caught in the widest wildcat strike in aviation history began furloughing thousands of workers today.

The four-day-old strike of flight Friday night has cut domestic and international services of the six airlines involved to a relative trickle.

The struck lines agreed the strike has cut normal operations of four-engine jet and propeller planes by 80 to 90 per cent.

Eastern Airlines announced Sunday night it was beginning a layoff of from 6,000 to 7,000 workers in Miami.

Pan American World Airways, Trans World Airlines, National Airlines and American Airlines said they would begin furloughing a total close to 60,000 if the strike wasn't ended today.

The layoffs would affect about 20,000 employees at Trans World, the same number at American, about 15,000 at Pan American and about 3,500 at National.

Western Airlines, the sixth major carrier hit by the walkout, adopted a wait-and-see attitude.

Announcement of the furlough plan came on the heels of an acknowledgment Sunday by Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg that he had been unable to bring about a settlement.

The engineers, members of the Flight Engineers International Union, are protesting a Feb. 6 decision by the National Mediation Board ordering them to join the Air Line Pilots' Association as a single bargaining unit.

Pilots outnumber engineers on all lines, and the engineers say the decision might have the eventual effect of wiping out their union.

Goldberg spent two days in New York City negotiating by telephone with the Engineers' Union and the struck carriers. He left Sunday after union leaders in Washington said their members had sharply rejected his plea that they return to work while their problem was investigated.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said in Miami Sunday night that there was nothing the federation could do to help settle the strike.

Meany said he had tried several times to solve rival job rights claims of the pilots and flight engineers unions but was unable to do so.

Ironically, the only nonstop transcontinental service being maintained by a U.S. airline was by United, the focus of the revolt by flight engineers.

All of United's engineers are pilot-trained and some belong to both the engineers' and the pilots' union—which isn't the case with the six strikebound airlines.

Among other major domestic airlines not caught in the strike are Braniff, Capital, Delta and Continental. These airlines operate mainly on a short-hop basis and use a great many twin-engine planes which don't require flight engineers.

DALLAS (AP) — American Airlines, hardest hit in Texas by the flight engineers strike, Sunday night announced it was "furloughing" more than 1,700 employees in the state effective today.

American made only three of about 20 scheduled flights in and out of the Dallas-Forth area Saturday, the first day of the unauthorized walkout, and only a few were made Sunday.

Dallas Airline Office Lays Off Workers

DALLAS (AP) — American Airlines, hardest hit in Texas by the flight engineers strike, Sunday night announced it was "furloughing" more than 1,700 employees in the state effective today.

American made only three of about 20 scheduled flights in and out of the Dallas-Forth area Saturday, the first day of the unauthorized walkout, and only a few were made Sunday.

American flights were also at a virtual standstill at San Antonio, Houston, El Paso and other Texas points.

Four airlines canceled 13 flights at Houston yesterday. Eastern canceled seven of its 11 flights, American four of its own and three interchange flights, Pan-American one, and National two.

Braniff, Continental, and Delta, the other major airlines in Texas, were not affected by the walkout. Neither was Central nor Trans-Texas Airways affected.

An American spokesman said the company has 1,910 employees in the Dallas-Forth area and more in San Antonio and El Paso. American said management and communication personnel will be retained, leaving 1,885 to be temporarily laid off in the Dallas, Fort Worth area, in addition to more in other Texas cities.

Crucial Week For Tech On The Road

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer
Texas Tech is in excellent position to win its first Southwest Conference basketball championship but, mindful of the fact that its only losses were on the road, goes to Waco Tuesday night to play down-trodden but dangerous Baylor with trepidation.

The Red Raiders cling to first place last week when they bounded back from a 74-71 licking from Texas A&M to blast Arkansas down to a third place tie with an 87-81 triumph. Tech rolled on at the head of the field with an 8-2 record, while Texas A&M, which held the pace and beat Rice 65-58, took over undisputed second place with 7-3.

SWEETWATER (AP) — Murry Holditch was hired today as head football coach at Sweetwater High School. He has been top assistant coach at San Angelo.

Texas, which still has mild hopes of figuring in the championship as the upshot of its 71-65 victory over Southern Methodist last week, meets Rice at Austin Tuesday night and must win or give up everything.

Buckeyes Cling To Lead After Scare

By DON WEISS

Like the frying pan and the fire, it's out of Iowa City (barely) and into Bloomington tonight for Ohio State's singed Buckeyes in the second of two showdown steps toward major college basketball's first all-winning regular season record in four years.

Other pairings in Class AAAA, all the games Tuesday night. Yoleta Beh Air at Midland, Birdville at Amarillo Palo Duro, Dallas Samuel at Fort Worth Paschal, Denton vs. Lufkin at Dallas, Austin vs. McAllen at Corpus Christi, Laredo at San Antonio Harlandale.

IN NCAA MEET
Ohio U., for the second straight year, has qualified for the NCAA's Mid-East regional as Mid-American Conference champion. Cincinnati, which has won 14 in a row, can clinch at least a tie for the Missouri Valley Conference title by beating North Texas State next Saturday.

LOOKING EM' OVER

By TOMMY HART
Tommy Wilkerson is playing better golf than he ever has in his life and could conceivably emerge as the No. One player on the Big Spring High School links team.

Coach Dan Lewis conceded Sloan an excellent chance to win medals in the 2-AAAA meet and, because of his presence on the team, says the Steers will be serious contenders for the conference title for the first time in history.

Midland High School has half its splendid mile relay team back this season. The 1960 quartet ran the second fastest mile relay ever clocked in the state.

The attendance of the AFL's rival circuit, the National Football League, dropped 12-000 despite the fact that it played six more games in 1960 than it did in '59.

Braden Denies Story He Was Fired By HST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spruille Braden has challenged testimony by a former U.S. diplomat that Braden was fired as ambassador to Argentina by former President Harry S. Truman after being accused of helping Latin-American Communists.

Braden, from his home in New York, offered to appear before the Senate Internal Security subcommittee, where William D. Pawley testified in closed sessions last September, to deny the charges under oath.

"I would be glad to have the results of the combined testimony of Pawley and myself forwarded to the Department of Justice if, in the judgment of the Senate, such disposition is warranted," Braden said.

Pawley's testimony was released Sunday.

In Bermuda, where he is on vacation, Truman's only comment was "Spruille Braden did a good job."

Braden said instead of being fired, he had been praised by Truman and awarded the Medal of Freedom, the highest U.S. civilian decoration.

Pawley, Miami businessman and former ambassador to Peru and Brazil, said he received an intelligence memorandum prepared by an Army undercover agent, took it to then Atty. Gen. Tom Clark and was summoned next day to the White House to show it to Truman.

At that time in 1947, Pawley was assistant secretary of state for American republic affairs.

In his testimony, Pawley pictured Braden not as a Communist but as a very ambitious man who "became involved in a program which appeared to be helpful to the Communist party in Latin America."

He said that later Braden blocked his appointment to replace Braden as Argentine ambassador and he was sent instead to Brazil. "Pawley makes only one true statement," relied Braden, "that I blocked his appointment as ambassador to Argentina."

Braden said he had sounded a "long series" of alarms "as to the very dangerous infiltration of communism throughout the American republics," starting as early as 1945.

U.S. Sky Spy Satellites Can Move About

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — An experiment high in space has proved that American sky spy satellites will be able to maneuver in orbit — a major step ahead in their own defense.

A 2,100-pound Discoverer XXI satellite proved this Saturday by restarting its engine on radio command from earth.

Specialists see high significance in the development. No longer will an orbiting satellite be an easy target for enemy ballistic missiles. It will, the Discoverer test indicates, be able to speed up, slow down or suddenly dart in a different direction.

Or it can change the shape, altitude or angle of its orbit around the earth. The way is paved, experts say, for a meeting of several satellites in orbit to form a way station for travel among the planets.

The Air Force launched Discoverer XXI at 2:58 p.m. Saturday, only 27 hours after Discoverer XX went into orbit with a 300-pound capsule. It will be orbited an unprecedented four days before ejection and a recovery attempt.

A medium-range Thor ballistic missile, workhorse of the two-year-old Discoverer series, boosted No. XXI from the ground.

The engine of the second stage, an Agena B, sputtered for 2½ minutes to kick the 25-foot-long, 5-foot-thick satellite into orbit. This engine cut off, then restarted during the first pass around the earth's poles.

"It is another successful experiment to perfect the system for satellite stabilization and control in orbit," said Maj. Gen. O. J. Rittland, commander of the Air Force missile division.

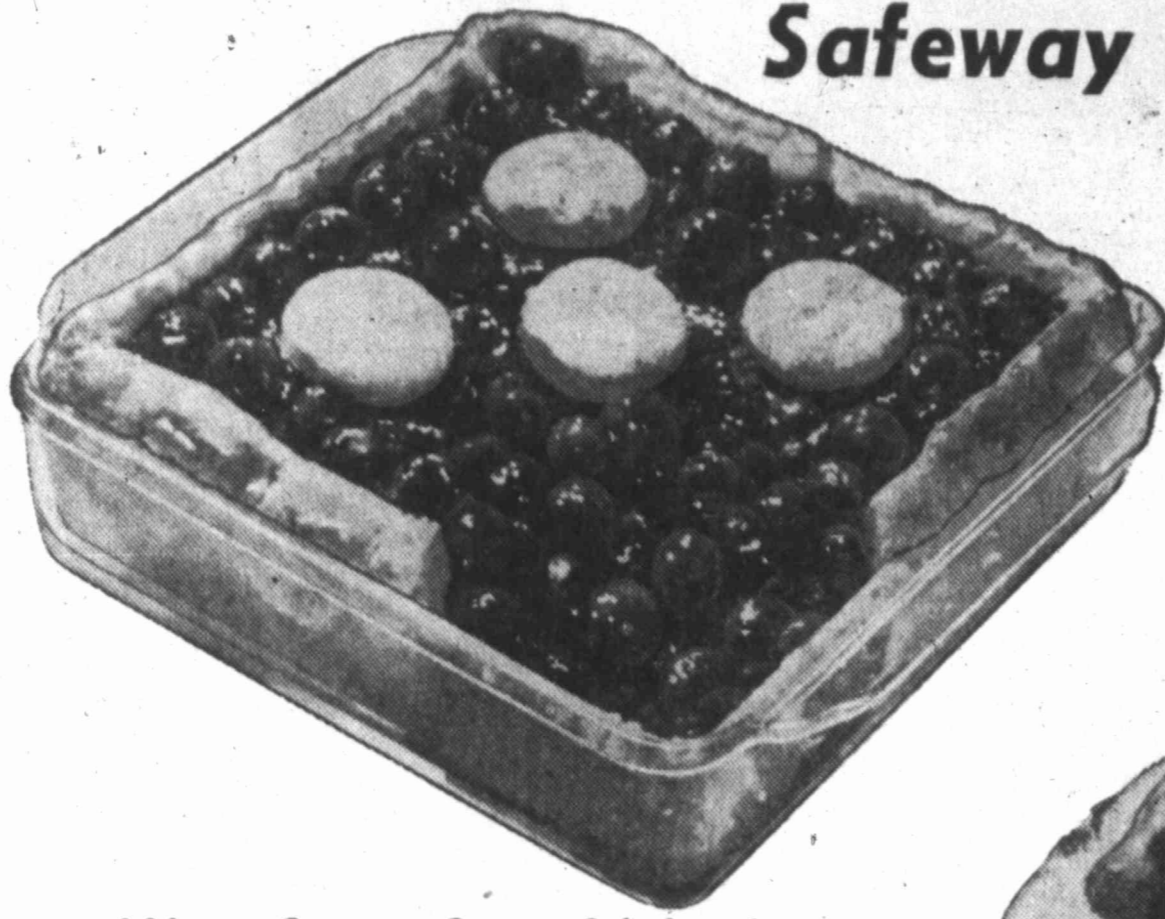

The Air Force said it was the first time an Agena B satellite vehicle had been restarted in orbit. Other engines have been restarted in space, on much smaller satellites. Agena Bs are designed to haul the heavy gear of forthcoming Midas missile-detection satellites and Samos camera-equipped satellites.

There has been unofficial speculation that an ape will be aboard the next Discoverer, which probably will be launched some time next month. The Air Force has refused to confirm the report.

Blakley Plans Report To People

DALLAS (AP) — Interim U.S. Sen. William A. Blakley will make a half-hour "report to the people" tonight over 23 Texas TV stations.

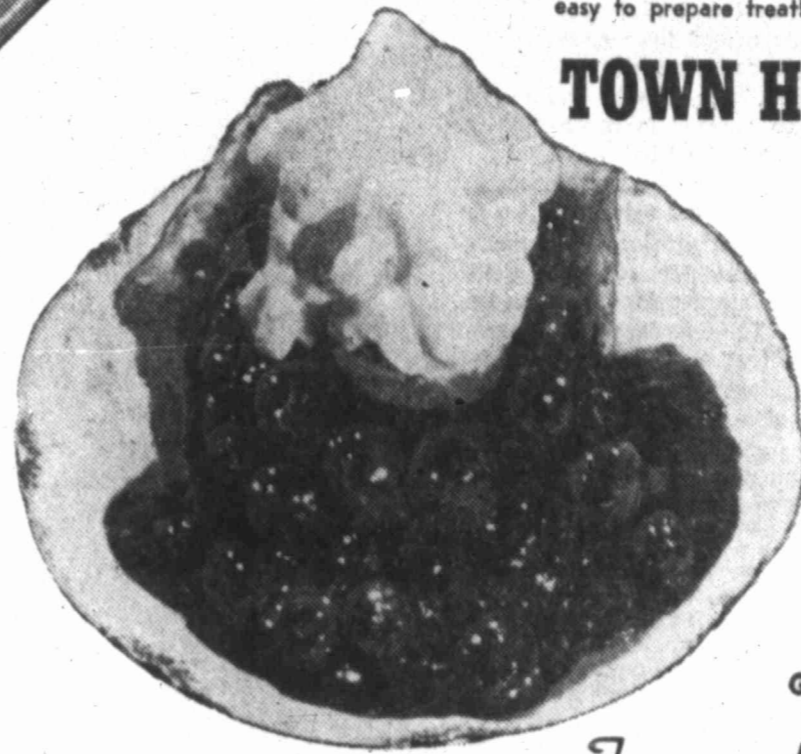

Blakley, who holds the seat on an appointment, is one of the 33 candidates in the April 4 special election to name a successor to the six-year term of Lyndon B. Johnson who resigned to become vice president.

Communist Experts Moving More Into Cuban Activities

HAVANA (AP) — Communist bloc technicians and experts more and more are becoming a part of Cuba's national life. But diplomatic experts here believe they number in the hundreds, not thousands.

Visitors from behind the Iron Curtain fall into three categories: military technicians whose activities and numbers are kept strictly secret, technicians and experts employed by the Cuban government, and trade and commercial experts here under their own governments' sponsorship to scout possible barter deals with the Cuban regime.

"We don't know how many Russians, Czechs and Communist Chinese there are in Cuba today," said one veteran diplomat, "but there are at least several hundred. Most of those we see are middle-aged engineers and other technical experts. If the military technicians include many pilots or other 'fighting men,' the Cubans are keeping them well hidden."

A source close to the Kremlin's embassy in Havana said Soviet officials numbered the Soviets now in Cuba at just over 250. Other sources tend to confirm this figure.

Also here are at least 200 Red Chinese, including a delegation of about 100 who arrived last November. Though they supposedly are agricultural experts, these Chinese are ununiformed.

"It's no secret that some Russian and Czech military technicians have arrived in Cuba to give Castro's soldiers and officers training on tanks, antitank and antiaircraft artillery and some other weapons," one qualified source said.

This informant and a majority of the diplomatic envoys here are inclined to scoff at reports from abroad that the Soviet Union is attempting to install long-range rocket launching pads in Cuba.

"Most said they were 'more than certain' no such rockets or pads have been brought in or constructed here. Castro's propaganda organs consistently have denied the pads exist."

Yet some diplomats claim to have "excellent information" that the Soviet Union has supplied Prime Minister Fidel Castro with some rockets, though they're believed to be of short-range anti-aircraft or ground-to-ground types.

One diplomat said he had information on rockets "seven meters (19.6 feet) long," which his informant was able to describe and draw for him. These reportedly were seen at a military base outside Havana.

Another diplomat reported he was told 28 heavy, tracked vehicles moved 300 tons of unidentified military equipment into the area of Mayari Arriba in Oriente Province in January. He said the heavily guarded equipment included "pipes or barrels" 59 to 65.5 feet long and 20 inches in diameter.

There have been recurring reports the Cuban regime—possibly is constructing submarine or other naval stations on Cayo Largo, large key off Cuba's southwest coast, 60 miles east of the Isle of Pines.

This area has been restricted for months—and the government has not permitted visits to the key nor allowed private planes to fly over it. Cuban journalists who visited the key in the past said there.

The semi-official newspaper Revolution Saturday published a full-page denial of reports from abroad that Cayo Largo has been developed into an atomic or naval base. Cayo Largo is "only a base for melons," the newspaper said, publishing photographs of melons and other vegetables. The newspaper confirmed construction of an airstrip on the key but said it is part of a plan to develop the tiny islet as a "tourist center."

Communist technical advisers sent here under contract to the Castro government have fat agreements, many of them calling for greater expenditures by Cuba than American technicians normally receive for such jobs.

Diplomats here said Soviet technicians in Cuba under terms of the Soviet-Cuban technical assistance pact reportedly receive from $1,000 to $2,000 monthly in salary, part in pesos, part in foreign currency and also air-conditioned homes with an automobile, servants and other services.

Many Communist technicians brought their wives and children and appear to be settling in for a long stay. Others were here only a short time and already have returned home.

Laos King Sets Neutral Policy

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—King Savang Vathana has proclaimed a policy of nonalignment for Premier Boun Oum's Western-backed government and asked three neutralist neighbor nations to send a commission to confirm that Laos wants to live in peace.

The 54-year-old monarch read a declaration Sunday that could open the way for a new international approach toward ending the six-year-old internal struggle, in which the United States backs Boun and the Communists support a rebel faction based on the pro-Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas. The king said Laos would honor international agreements into which it has "freely entered," presumably including continued acceptance of the U.S. millions that finance the Laotian army.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation 178. At all drug counters.

A Devotional For Today

If ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses. (Matthew 6:15.) PRAYER: Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the offer of forgiveness granted us at such cost to Jesus. Grant us, through new life in Him, a spirit of love and forgiveness toward those around us. We ask in His name. Amen. (From The 'Upper Room')

We Hope It Succeeds

A project that strikes us as having more than passing significance was announced last week by James B. Frazier. With his mother, Mrs. Nell Frazier, he announced plans for development of a residential program in northwest Big Spring where most of our Negro families live. In the present housing of most of these people, the range is from a few fairly nice homes to a host of the most squalid and deplorable shacks imaginable. Numbers of them are fire traps, as witnesses the recent fire deaths of three children. Sanitary facilities of some of these hovels are non-existent, a factor which influences the rest of the community. You can close your eyes to unsightly things, but you can't sweep germs under the rug. An attack was made on this problem a couple of years ago, and a small group of which Frazier was one, took the initiative in seeking action through public housing. In a referendum this approach was rejected. Incidentally, it is one of those backing the public housing plan who is now taking the bull by the horns and trying a private approach. If plans are approved by the planning and zoning commission, steps are due to be taken toward providing water, sewer and paving for a new development. Already several families are meeting installments for a down payment, and two other concerns have agreed to handle the paper and to build good, low-cost homes within the means of the families. There are many, many fine, upright citizens in this area who want to enjoy better things and better living, and we hope that this or any other sincere effort to help them help themselves will succeed.

Saga With A Sour Ending

The bizarre saga of John Milton Addison may be nearing its end. A federal district court jury in Dallas found him and some of his associates guilty on 12 of 15 counts of violations of the Securities Act and mail frauds, and the court imposed some sobering sentences and fines. Addison, whose strange magnetic powers in talking people into what he called loans, pleaded that the large funds necessary to bring witnesses in his defense. And this is the strange thing about Mr. Addison: some of those he drained to the point of debt and collapse still swear by him and express great faith in him. Some, but by no means all, the vast majority of his "investors" have long since become disenchanted and most of them have written off their losses as the price of a very dear lesson. Some have told authorities and have testified as to the hokus pokus activities required to keep the show from the door or to continue the shower of shekels. Addison still proclaims his innocence of wrongdoing. Perhaps, for sheep shearing is an honorable occupation. However, Judge T. Whitfield Davidson expressed amazement at the things he had heard during the trial and said "the evidence justifies the verdict." It would seem so, for it is not reasonable to believe that one could take in a million and a half dollars and never really get off the ground on any operation of consequence.

Time To Reveal Facts On RB-47 Affair

WASHINGTON — Enough time has elapsed in the hush-hush period that has prevailed since the American fliers who survived the crash of the RB-47 came home—for the American people to be given the truth about the episode. The fact is that the American plane was shot down when it was 30 miles away from the coast of the Soviet Union. Since it was over international waters, the shooting was a direct attack on the rights of American citizens and a flagrant violation of the law of nations.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY on January 27 ordered the returned fliers not to talk to any members of the press. He explained later that the purpose of the blackout on the news was to give the Air Force a chance to "de-brief" the fliers after they had visited their families. But obviously there was another purpose to keep the subject out of the world press—to irritate the Soviets and cast some doubt on the professions of friendliness being made by them at that time. In fact, the President said the release of the fliers "had removed a serious obstacle in the way of peaceful relations between the Soviet Union and the United States."

SINCE THAT TIME, however, relations between the Communist regime and this country have worsened. Mr. Kennedy had to speak bluntly at his last press conference. He was careful in what he said and revealed that the statement he read had been prepared in advance as a policy declaration, presumably after consultation with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson. The words of that statement were the sharpest issued by the present administration toward the Soviet Union, and in some respects more defiant than any comment by the Eisenhower administration. The occasion, of course, required just such frankness and bluntness. President Kennedy said in part:

"I AM ALSO, however, seriously concerned at what appears to be a threat of unilateral intervention in the internal affairs of the Republic of Congo."

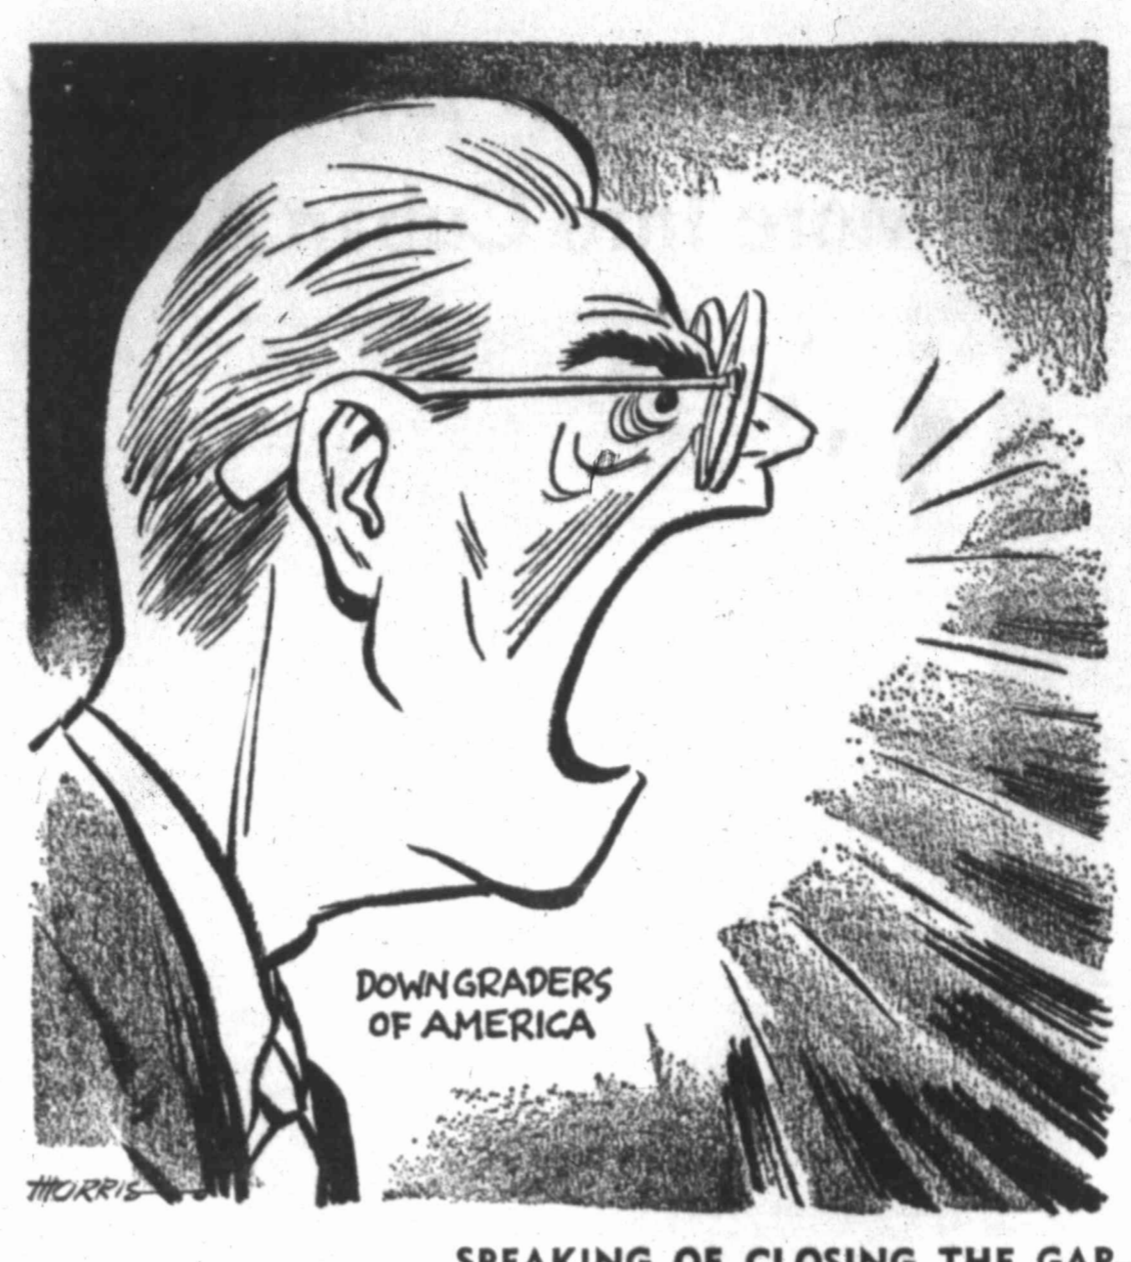

"I find it difficult to believe that any government is really planning to take so dangerous and irresponsible a step. Nevertheless, I feel it important that there should be no misunderstanding of the position of the United States in such an eventuality."

"The United States has supported and will continue to support the United Nations' presence in the Congo."

Will Kennedy Wear Out Welcome?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy may someday get political pneumonia from over-exposure in public. But not now. Meanwhile, he is doing a unique job of public relations in the White House. A president's popularity is always at a high mark in his first few months. So any danger that Kennedy will wear out his welcome must come later. What is unique is that he is trying to establish as much personal contact as possible with the people on TV, before news cameras and in public statements. No matter what his purpose, he is also providing an education in the presidency.

Those Overworked Medics

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail: Doctors used to pride themselves on having "a good bedside manner." ... If fewer do today, it's mainly because they're simply too busy and overworked. The average patient now consults his physician five times a year. ... About 66 per cent of consultations take place in the doctor's office, 19 per cent are home calls, the others are hospital visits or telephone calls. What is the greatest problem mankind faces? ... Many scientists feel it isn't the atom bomb but the human birth bomb: How the world can feed the 100,000 new infant mouths that open for food each day. Women will try anything to become more glamorous. Cleopatra of Egypt, seeking ways to postpone the ravages of age, invented a beauty salve made of flamingo gizzards ground up in hen fat. But Marlene Dietrich, asked what magic cream was responsible for her lovely youthful complexion said, "None—just plenty of soap and water." (But try and tell that to your wife!) Our quotable notables: "The swivel chair has ruined more men than chorus girls or liquor." —Fiorenzo H. La Guardia. "It is Jerry Lewis America's cleanest comedian?" ... His home in Hollywood has 17 baths. Rare parental privilege: Only six fathers in U.S. history have lived to see their sons become tenants of the White House. ... The latest is ex-Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy. ... The other five were the fathers of Presidents John Quincy Adams, Millard Fillmore, U.S. Grant, Warren G. Harding and Calvin Coolidge. If you like a girl '5 foot 2 with eyes of blue," you'd better marry one soon. ... The supply of short girls, no matter what color their eyes, is getting shorter each year. ... By the year 2,000, it is estimated, 30 per cent of American girls will be 5 feet 6 or higher. Planning to sell your home? ... Some real estate men say you can get up to 12 per cent more if you paint it first. Medicine marches on: This was a cure for deafness prescribed in the 13th century: "Find a live lion, hold its right ear over your ailing ear long enough to say, 'Hear, by the living gods and the keen virtue of a lion's hearing!'" (Most thoughtful patients decided they preferred the disease to the remedy.) Oil is still where you find it. ... Sometimes money isn't as important as luck in discovering new petroleum sources. ... Example: 38 of the 39 deepest wells ever drilled ended as dry holes. Quips from our contemporaries: "Most foods that melt in your mouth solidify around your waist." —Catholic Digest. Blood transfusions are relatively new. ... Medical journals report only two in the Civil War. ... And none attempted during the Spanish American War more than 30 years later. Survival tip: If you are ever pursued by a grizzly bear, don't try to outrun him—shimmy up the nearest tall tree and wait for better days. ... The adult grizzly's claws aren't well adapted to tree climbing. This is the most sincere year we've had in a long time. ... Turn 1961 upside down and it still reads — 1961. It was D. H. Lawrence who observed: "A woman unsatisfied must have luxuries. But a woman who loves a man would sleep on a board."

Cervix Ulcers Should Be Treated

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. "Dear Dr. Molner: I want to ask about the occurrence of ulcers of the womb during pregnancy. Are they contagious? Can they hurt the baby in any way? Are they serious? Do they occur when a woman isn't pregnant? — Mrs. R. F." I've boiled this letter down to the essentials, and the fact that this has occurred to many women, regardless of whether they are related to marriage, doesn't essentially matter. These are ulcers of the cervix, or the neck of the womb. Another term for such ulcers is "erosion of the cervix," a not uncommon matter. They are not contagious. They do not and cannot harm the baby in any way. Yes, they occur in women who are not pregnant. Are they serious? Not particularly. They are, usually, due to what we call a low grade infection and hence not likely to explode into any serious situation. At the same time, these ulcers represent an irritation to the cervix which ought to be treated. These nagging, but not very explosive, infections represent a continuing trouble spot which in the course of time takes its toll of physical robustness. You might well compare them to a trivial but persistent cough assuming that there is not serious trouble underlying the cough, or to a sinus which is irritated and ought to be cleared up. Or, to take a quite different type of thing, compare them to a corn or bunion or callus that doesn't disable you, yet steals its little bit of comfort from you each day because it is painful or irritating. Ulcers (or erosion) of the cervix can be the cause of a vaginal discharge. There are many other different causes for such discharge. It may be due to small but annoying organisms such as protozoa, or from some slow but hardy bacteria, or whatnot. In some cases, the irritation may be a sign of something more virulent, but for most, the thing to keep in mind is that an irritation is present and ought to be eradicated. Sometimes the application of medication locally may do the trick. Sometimes cauterization of the irritated spot is the answer. Either way, it is not a worrisome or difficult process. "Dear Dr. Molner: You quoted a doctor as saying that phenobarbital was a poisonous drug. I meant to reread the article but it disappeared. "As I have quite a supply of small phenobarbital tablets on hand (for nervousness) I would like your opinion: Should I or should I not use them any longer? — Mrs. F. C." Did I quote somebody on that? I'd forgotten doing so, but it does not matter. Every trained doctor knows that phenobarbital is a poison, as are a great many other drugs, if taken to excess. Small amounts, taken occasionally, are a good sedative. The trouble is that some people begin taking more than their doctors prescribed, and think that they are getting away with it. Some of these same people ultimately acquire phenobarbital poisoning. No, I don't suggest that you stop using it. However, adhere rigidly to your doctor's instructions as to how much to take, and how often, and for how long. "Dear Dr. Molner: Will excessive coffee drinking and smoking cause high blood pressure? — Mrs. B. M." I have known both to be factors in high blood pressure. Obviously not the only cause, however. How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple. Write to Dr. Molner in care of the Herald for a copy of his leaflet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling. Dr. Molner welcomes all mail from his readers, but because of the great number received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Dr. Molner uses "readers' letters" in his column whenever possible. Copyright, 1961, Field Enterprises, Inc.

What It Takes To Be A Congressman

Utterable utterances: MILWAUKEE JOURNAL: "If you are 52 years of age, a lawyer, have prior political or civil service experience and served in the Armed Forces, you have the qualifications for Congress. At least, a study by Congressional Quarterly, Washington research agency, shows those are the qualifications of the average member of Congress. That makes the average congressman 10 years older than the man who took over the presidency Jan. 20. In fact, there is only one senator younger than President Kennedy. He is Frank Church (D-Idaho), who is 38." NIETZSCHE, the philosopher: "I love the great despisers, for they are the great adorers; they are the arrows of longing for the other shore." WILLIAM JAMES: "The hell to be endured hereafter, of which theology tells us, is no worse than the hell we make for ourselves in this world by habitually fashioning our characters in the wrong way." REV. ALFRED W. PRICE, California minister: "Body, mind and spirit are unified, inter-related and inter-dependent. The condition of one affects and is affected by the other two. It is not possible for any man to separate the three and live in any single one of them to the exclusion of the others. Every word you speak requires the harmonious use of more than 72 muscles. Good health is not, and can never be, merely an absence of disease. Good health is the harmonious operation of every single organ in the body, every thought in the mind and every emotion in the heart." SYDNEY J. HARRIS, columnist: "Hearing a lie about oneself is never so painful as hearing the truth; a lie merely fills us with healthy indignation; the truth can paralyze us with dismay." ST. FRANCIS DE SALES: "The spirit cannot endure the body when overfed, but, if underfed, the body cannot endure the spirit." IRISH DIGEST, Dublin: "One thing about modern art is that things can't be as bad as they are painted." DR. ROBERT KARK, University of Illinois physician: "The quickest way to grow old is to become a drunkard. Many are young in years but old in appearance. I do not know if alcoholism in itself contributed to the age-quickening character of the individuals I have observed, but certainly malnutrition played a big role. The alcoholic does not eat enough, and what he does eat is not balanced in nutritional quality." —TOMMY HART

And Now, A Tax On Toilets!

The ingenuity of our political masters in devising new taxes to plague us citizens is only equaled by our docility in ponying up without protest. But surely the citizens of Minneapolis, proud pearl of the prairies, will man the barricades to fight the latest tax proposal of Alderman Bruce D. Pomeroy. Alderman Pomeroy has told the city fathers that they can bring another $8,500,000 annually out of city taxpayers if they will adopt his plan to place a $12 per annum tax on all but the first toilet in every home, office and factory in Minneapolis. INDEED, Minneapolis' fight is the nation's fight. If this metropolis passively accepts such a tax and if that tax proves a new and profitable source of revenue for the city, then there will not be a tax-free toilet in the United States within the next five years. Let any community in this nation devise a new and artful scheme to lure fresh tax dollars out of the taxpayer's pocket, and it is immediately the nation-wide object of the sincerest form of flattery: imitation. WE ARE LIVING in the age not only of the multiple dwelling but of the multiple bathroom dwelling. When I was a child, one indoor bathroom to a home was regarded as very stylish, indeed. Indoor bathrooms were just plain stylish, period, and one to a home or apartment was deemed not only wholly adequate but luxurious, no matter how large the family. But a one-bathroom home today is regarded as best as "quaint" or "deliciously old-fashioned," and more often as sub-standard housing or a slum. The two-bathroom house is now standard. AND WHY NOT a tax for the stall shower? Who does not remember when the family bathtub, equipped with a show-

Goods In Search Of Salesmen

BONN, GERMANY — President Kennedy's snort of disdain at Germany's skifflet offer of financial aid may turn out to be a sound heard round the world. If the President's disapproval of this ungenerous, not-very-appreciative reaction by a once-aided nation is going to apply elsewhere, we have clearly not heard the last of the matter. Some hard positions, with hard bargaining, lie ahead. BUT MANY OF US who heard the President's masterful inaugural address will want to hear him call on Americans, as well as our allies, to pitch in. After some concentrated association with economists and soothsayers here, I think this would be a good time to suit some actions to Mr. Kennedy's stirring words: "Ask not what America can do for you. ... I am certain, that Americans in the German market can do for themselves—and the country. They can earn greater profits and cause the gold to flow westward again. Specifically, I asked for, and received from the economic attache at our Bonn Embassy, a list of American goods in search of salesmen. The list covers most of four sheets of typewriting-sized paper. It starts with canned goods and vegetables, carries through wash-and-wear fabrics, into certain types of steel and ending with soybean protein products. DOESN'T ANYBODY back in the States have such products to sell? There are 600 American companies doing business in West Germany, but only 250 of them are manufacturers. The other 350 are sales offices, but that still leaves thousands of German retail firms which would buy American goods if a jut-jawed salesman put a stubborn foot through the door. Just writing letters—just wishing it—won't do. The situation may need some explaining. A booming West Germany is not yet turning out goods fast enough to satisfy the demands of its customers at home and abroad. There is a market for American-made machinery because it is often better than the European equivalent and always more deliverable. We hear about the shrinking export market, but in 1959-60 our sale of machinery in Germany jumped by 50 per cent—farm machinery jumped by 200 per cent. THIS IS ONLY the rosy part of the picture. Since January the Common Market called the Inner Six, which includes Germany, put into effect a new schedule of tariffs. It is the first third of a large movement which will create a broader economic rival than we've ever before confronted. As of today, Germany has a tariff that is three per cent higher on some American goods than last year, and approximately another three per cent lower on those goods if they come from France, Italy or the Low countries. Today, and as time advances, American manufacturers will have to overcome this six or seven per cent price spread by making up the difference in quality and fast delivery. NOW, THIS is a challenge both to the USA and to the new President. Our industries have forgotten how to sell. Roosevelt in 1940, called upon us to become the "arsenal of democracy." We recovered artificially from the depression, became fat and incompetent in the war economy. With the beginning of "Foreign Aid," our industries found another subsidized market. We have not had to hustle for many years—till now. We are up against competitors whom we have set up in business, mostly with newer machinery than ours, and nearly always with the benefit of the knowhow which we have taught. It is as if the New York Yankees had traded away their star players, coaches and business management—and tried to win the pennant with what was left. It can be done! But it takes a Yankee will-to-win. And this is where Mr. Kennedy is challenged. Nobody in a long while has made a better start at inspired leadership, or showed the country such a capacity for hustle and do-it-now. The President has the eloquence, the understanding and the opportunity. Let him begin! (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Indian Stand To Win

CIBECUE, Ariz. (AP)—The Apache Indians, once the scourge of gold and silver-prospectors, stand to reap a potential fortune in a new mineral rush—iron ore. Ore prospectors currently are concentrating their attention on the White Mountain Apache Indian Reservation where the Bureau of Mines estimates the existence of 10 million tons of ore. The Apaches, says the American Iron and Steel Institute, were paid $42,100 for prospecting rights and, if the strike pans out, they will receive a dollar an acre per year rental plus 15 to 20 cents a ton for ore shipped. Feasibility of extracting the ore depends upon its quantity and quality to defray expenses in getting it out of the wilderness and into the blast furnaces.

Udall Begins Review Of Oil Import Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The policy of restricting oil imports, particularly residual fuel oil used largely for industrial heating, came up for public review today by Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall.

Udall said the hearing, first scheduled to study the impact of residual oil quotas established in March 1959, has been broadened into an inquiry into all oil import restrictions. It follows close on Udall's order of last Friday raising the daily residual oil import quotas for the three months ending March 31 by nearly 20 per cent—from 530,000 to 630,000 barrels a day. He said he did it because of diminishing stocks on the east coast.

While Friday's order was apart from today's hearing, it warmed tempers even before discussion got under way. Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., wired President Kennedy Friday that the Udall order virtually undermined his administration's policies and moves to assist depressed coal mining areas of West Virginia. Byrd called the order unnecessary and ill-advised.

Sen. John Pastore, D-R.I., called for removing all barriers to entry of the comparatively cheap industrial fuel. He said in prepared testimony that the department's order increasing such import quotas for the first three months of the year merely emphasizes the permanent problem.

"It points up very graphically this artificial, arbitrary imposition of quotas on a necessity of life... an absolute 'must' of industrial existence of our New England areas," Pastore said.

Michael Widman Jr., assistant to the president of the United Mine Workers of America, took a directly opposite stand. He said the UMWA is "unalterably in favor of restrictions on the importation of residual oil."

"Quite obviously," Widman said in a prepared statement. "The human cost of residual oil imports far outweighs any supposed economic advantages to them. The distress caused in coal mining areas by these imports is so great that we are risking economic disaster if we do not alleviate it and do so at once. Human suffering, poor schools, inadequate highways, and a general feeling of hopelessness are the sad results of our shortsighted fuel policies."

Udall said more than 55 million tons of coal are displaced annually by residual oil imports, and this represents over 20,000 jobs for miners and more than $96 million in wages.

Udall said last week the import restrictions proclaimed by former President Dwight Eisenhower had never been subject to public hearing.

Udall said he had some unanswered questions on the subject which he would like to ask in open hearing and to have "a rather searching probe and cross-examination."

Domestic coal and residual fuel oil producers support restrictions on imports—largely from Venezuela—for obvious reasons.

Consumers, particularly the non-producing and fuel-hungry New England region, have fought the restrictions from the start.

Through their congressmen they have protested that limiting quotas inevitably diminishes supplies and results in higher prices—while depleting domestic fuel reserves against an emergency.

Car Explosion Kills Occupant

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Thomas O. Williams, 60, Harrison, Ark., was killed Sunday by an explosion that tore his car apart in a parking lot.

"From all indications he committed suicide," said police Capt. George Owen.

Williams was a contractor. His wife, Fay, 43, told police they came to this area last week on business.

Police said Williams apparently held the explosive charge in his lap. A piece of wire, of a type commonly used to detonate dynamite, was found in his right hand.

Leader Training Course Slated

Lincoln Murder Case Top TV Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Dale Wasserman's "The Lincoln Murder Case" presented Saturday night on CBS was a meticulously constructed, carefully documented and provocative television program. In its subject matter, it was a shocker.
The difficult job of selecting and presenting in dramatic form some of the mass of evidence pointing to a treasonable conspiracy in Lincoln's Cabinet, was skillfully knitted into a gripping whole. Wasserman handled it by having Alexander Scourby, as a sort of prosecutor, narrate and illustrate the assassination plot by word, maps and physical evidence. Then the key moments in the plot and its aftermath were dramatized.

The windup, of course, had to be weak. After Wasserman had made his case and his point—that many people besides John Wilkes Booth knew about the plot to kill Lincoln—there could be no climax because the author believes somebody got away with murder. All he could do to end the show was to point out "the final irony: Only the man they killed lives on. It was a stimulating and absorbing program and grand television.

"Maverick" that vintage Western that took a lighthearted view of the Old West, seems nowadays to have lost much of its bounce and all of its impertinence.

Sunday night's episode, for instance, was cut strictly along familiar horse opera lines—a plot to get rid of the rich heiress and grab the money—and was played with completely straight faces. In addition to a double dose of gunplay, the usual climax battle was staged on the edge of a precipice, in what Hollywood fondly imagines looks like snow. It's too bad its standards have slipped, because it was a refreshing show for a long time.

There was a TV first Sunday night: Lucille Ball, in a scene from her Broadway show, "Wildcat," on the Ed Sullivan Show, sang on key for the first time in the memory of "I Love Lucy" fans. She may not be any Maria Callas, but it was a fast, bright number.

Recommended tonight: "Astaire Time," NBC, 8:30-9:30 (EST)—re-broadcast of the Fred Astaire, Barrie Chase special shown earlier in the season.

Broadway Has A Russian Problem

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Broadway is having its own Russian problem this season.

The Muscovite scene was explored for comic effect recently in "Julia, Jake and Uncle Joe." Undismayed by that setback, another team of laugh seekers now tries flipping back the pages of history for humor in "Once There Was a Russian."

This item, which trundled onto the Music Box stage Saturday night, is better than its predecessor, but still creates no Volga torrent of mirth.

Sam Spewack, veteran of many a White Way frolic, pens a parable of how John Paul Jones was gulled by Catherine the Great and her sometimes minister, Prince Potemkin, in 1787 battling with Turkey.

The script tries for a lot of witty then-now parallels, with dubious results.

Involved as principals are Albert Salmi, as the naval hero; Francoise Rosay, an estimable lady of the French theater, as the empress; and Walter Matthau, the scheming politician. Each seems misplaced and abashed in the charade, nor are their efforts noticeably enhanced by the fourth featured performer, Julie Newmar.

Miss Newmar, a beauty of awesome proportions and somewhat smaller histrionic charm, portrays the No. 1 girl in Potemkin's Crimean seraglio.

The standout work in the company gathered under Gene Frankel's direction is that of Eric Christmas in a brief, delightful bit as a British admiral.

"Once There was a Russian" recurrently promises to lift to comic heights, but most of the time remains earthbound.

Primitively Painted Art By Jailbird Wins Contest

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—An unframed Crucifixion scene, backed with tinfoil and painted on glass because canvas was too expensive for the artist, was chosen third-place winner in a radio art contest.

Then officials tried to find Harold D. Smith, 38, to tell him he had won $50 worth of art supplies.

They finally located Smith, a Negro, in Fulton County Jail, serving 18 months for carrying concealed weapons.

"I had no kind of art supplies," said Smith. "I used a cut-down sign brush and a piece of glass. I asked the jail supervisor if he'd give me the piece of glass.

"I used lacquer paint because it's cheap and wears well. I wish I could have framed the picture, but I couldn't afford it.

"I backed the glass with tinfoil to keep it from being transparent."

The picture, 3½ by 2½ feet and painted against a vivid green and blue background, depicts Christ surrounded by the two thieves, Mary and Mary Magdalene, and a soldier.

Chief Jailer Carl Smithwick saw Smith working on the painting some weeks ago.

"I saw the beauty of it," Smithwick said. "And when Smith finished it, he gave it to me."

Smithwick said he thought about putting it in the jail chapel, or his own church, when someone suggested entering it in the radio art contest conducted by Station WSB.

Smithwick beamed with pride when winners were announced.

"That guy didn't have anything to work with, he just used what he had," he said. "This is wonderful."

Smith said he has been interested in painting since he was a child. An artist friend told him he "had a talent" and helped to teach him.

His only formal training was two years in a vocational high school in his home town, St. Louis.

Five years later he attended a sign-lettering school in which he later taught.

Since that time, he has worked for sign-painting companies over the South "until he got in trouble."

Davis Receives School Bills

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Gov. Jimmie Davis, under federal court orders to keep out of school desegregation, had on his desk today emergency legislation to close and sell public schools when local voters approve.

The fifth straight session of the legislature called by Davis since November's New Orleans desegregation order passed the measure and nine others Sunday.

Some senators called the bill just a way for voters in Louisiana's 67 school districts to express their wishes, since school boards are not required to obey any mandate from an election.

Administration and segregation leaders contend that state law still forbids use of state funds in integrated schools, but a federal court has nullified the laws involved.

The optional school closure and sale bill passed the Senate 35-0. The House approved amendments 73-1.

The key bills go into effect when the governor signs them. The legislature also completed action on bills that would reward informers on persons who encourage or bribe parents to send their children to desegregated schools.

Returns Bodies

BRUSSELS (AP)—The bodies of 25 victims of last week's crash of a Sabena Belgian Airlines jetliner will be flown to the United States for further attempts at identification. Police said identification methods such as radiography might be used.

$25,000 'Fan'

Actress Sandre Dee holds a fan-shaped stack of government bonds totaling $25,000 after collecting them at the Los Angeles County Clerk's office. The bonds have accumulated since 1957, when a court directed that 20 per cent of her film earnings be invested in the securities. Sandra, 18 but now legally an adult because of her recent marriage to singer Bobby Darin, was able to collect the previously impounded bonds.

Rodent Dies As Rocket Explodes

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP)—A 5-foot-long rocket, launched by high school boys Sunday, exploded after rising less than 200 feet.

"Barney," a white mouse carried in the nose cone, was killed. The rocket was designed to eject the cone and parachute the mouse to earth.

Ned Nuss, president of the Topeka Rocket Society, blamed the explosion on a failure of the sulphur and zinc fuel.

Biographer Dies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lee G. Miller, 38, biographer of Ernie Pyle and former managing editor of the Washington Daily News and Scripps Howard Alliance, died Saturday of pneumonia.
