Texas Senate Approves Largest Appropriations Bill In History

Kennedy Asks Drastically Overhauled Aid Program

President Links Aid, Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy asked Congress today for a drastically revamped long-term foreign aid program — the most sweeping overhaul since the Marshall Plan started in 1948.

It would include $7.3 billion in five-year loan authority to meet "the crucial decade of development" abroad.

The President put no over-all price tag on his program. But officials figured the five-year total would run several times the $7.3 billion proposed for economic development loans overseas.

For the coming year, the program would equal the $4 billion sought by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower for foreign aid.

In a special message to Congress, Kennedy said, "It will both benefit and benefit us to take this step boldly. For we are launching a decade of development on which will depend, substantially, the kind of world in which we and our children shall live."

Kennedy said the 1960s offer a golden chance to put more than half of the peoples in underdeveloped lands on their own feet economically and the rest closer to the day when they no longer need aid.

But without this massive outside help from the United States and other free industrial countries, he said, resulting chaos abroad would cost even more and "would be disastrous to our national security, harmful to our comparative prosperity and offensive to our conscience."

OBSTACLES The President hoped to overcome opposition in some congressional quarters both to the money amount and to his loan systems which would bypass congressional appropriations procedures. Key legislators rebuffed Eisenhower on similar counts in the past.

Kennedy proposed: 1. Lumping most existing economic aid programs into a single new agency whose boss would report directly to the secretary of state and the President.

Labeling the present setup "bureaucratically fragmented, awkward and slow, competing and confused," Kennedy proposed that the new agency take over: "The multi-purpose International Cooperation Administration (ICA), the Development Loan Fund (DLF) easy-term loan agency, the food for peace farm surplus disposal program and the new Peace Corps of volunteers for overseas work."

BORROWING 2. Five-year authorization for the new aid agency plus five-year authority to borrow from the Treasury to make loans for economic projects abroad, $900 million in the fiscal year starting next July 1 and $1.6 billion annually for the following four years.

The loans would run up to 50 years, at no interest or at low rates of perhaps up to 2 per cent, and would be repayable in dollars.

Kennedy saw long-term authority, rather than the present year-by-year appropriations system, as the core of his plan to tackle foreign economic problems which he said require long-range solutions. "A program based on long-range plans instead of short-run contracts cannot be financed on a short-term basis," he said.

Mrs. Gable Names Son

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Clark Gable's widow pondered 24 hours, then decided to name the late actor's newborn son John Clark Gable.

Kay Gable, 43, explained Tuesday that it was a tough decision because many of her husband's fans had urged in cards and telegrams that she choose Clark Jr.

But she said Gable, childless in four previous marriages, didn't want his first offspring to be a junior.

"He told me that would be too much of a handicap for a little kid to bear," Mrs. Gable said.

BOSSSES, LABOR Told To Cooperate WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has appealed to management and labor to keep the national interest in mind in their disputes.

If they don't cooperate for the general good, the President warned significantly, an impatient federal government will take a greater hand in getting the two sides together.

This was the implicit, clear message in Kennedy's talk Tuesday to a group of top business executives and labor union chiefs. He had called them together to make them policy-making partners in his administration.

Found Guilty LONDON (AP)—Three men and two women—including an American couple—today were convicted of stealing royal navy secrets for the Soviet Union and sentenced to prison terms ranging up to 25 years.

Court Refuses Woman Rehearing AUSTIN (AP) — The Court of Criminal Appeals refused today to reopen the case of Maggie Morgan, Houston Negro sentenced to die for her part in the November 1959 slaying of Mrs. Joseph Selby.

The Morgan woman was denied a rehearing. The court already has upheld the death sentence.

The woman was convicted of masterminding the slaying.

Rockin' In The White House

President Kennedy uses the high-backed rocking chair in his office during a conference with Vice President Lyndon Johnson. The chair is one of his most treasured possessions, and the White House physician, Dr. Janet Travell, is pleased. She is convinced that rocking in a high backed chair is a fine way to relax.

Final Total On City Budget Lists $2,260,945.25 Spending

Final totals of the 1961-62 fiscal budget for the city, which the Big Spring City Commission will present at the public hearing Thursday, indicate the expenditures will be $2,260,945.25.

This corrected total is slightly less than was reported earlier. The new budget calls for revenues of $2,399,742 and will give a surplus for the budget year of $138,796.75.

The hearing is set for 7:30 p.m. in the city hall. One of the major expenditures of the city is purchase of water from the Colorado River Municipal Water District. A. K. Steinheimer, city manager, estimates the city will purchase 2,402,000 gallons in the fiscal year beginning April 1.

On this quantity, the city will pay a total of $420,789, based on $144.120 for the per gallon cost and an estimated $276,668.88 in fixed charges.

The budget, as currently proposed by the commission, is predicated on several changes within various departments. One change is the method of feeding prisoners housed in the city jail. In the past, the fire department has handled this chore at a cost of 65 cents per meal, $8,500 last year.

In the new budget, the police department will use the kitchen at the station to prepare meals for prisoners, using trustee cooks. A stove and refrigerator will be purchased and the police officials expect to realize a savings of $3,900 per year.

It was pointed out that the firemen were given the food contract in the past as a pay increment and it meant about $10 monthly to each man. To take up the slack, the commission added $7 per month to the pay hike for firemen.

In another police department change, the uniform allowance was increased from $100 to $150 and the city will purchase and issue them. No changes were made regarding uniforms for firemen.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House today passed an emergency unemployment aid bill intended to start payment in early April of nearly $1 billion in benefits.

Hamilton Man Colorado City Crash Victim

COLORADO CITY (SC)—Elliott West Landau, 21, of Hamilton, Tex., was killed early this morning when the truck he was driving came down the hill on State Highway 208 and went across U. S. 80 into Lone Wolf Creek.

Highway 208, Hickory Street in Colorado City, joins U. S. 80 there. The accident was reported at 5:15 this morning and the body was removed at 6:30 by local police, firemen, sheriff's officers and the highway patrol.

Authorities do not know what happened to cause the accident. There were no skid marks to indicate that Landau tried to brake the truck. It is owned by Joyner Trucking Co. of Idalou, and was loaded with wheat.

The body is at Kiker and Son Funeral Home, pending arrangements.

Manslaughter Charged In Tower Disaster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force Col. William M. Banks has been accused by the Air Force of involuntary manslaughter in the collapse Jan. 15 of a radar tower off the New Jersey coast.

Twenty-eight men died when the 6,000-ton Texas Tower tumbled into the Atlantic during a howling gale.

The Air Force first announced that Banks had been accused of "culpable negligence" and dereliction of duty. Two other officers, Maj. William R. Sheppard and Maj. Reginald L. Starke, also were accused of dereliction of duty.

The three officers exercised varying degrees of command over the radar tower 85 miles southeast of New York City.

The Air Force Tuesday said that the charge of "culpable negligence" could be more specifically phrased as "involuntary manslaughter."

News Parley WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's news conference Thursday will be broadcast live at 6 p.m. EST, in a change of plan that raised speculation about an important announcement on the crisis in Communist-threatened Laos.

State Spending Measure To House

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate overwhelmingly passed today a $2.5 billion state appropriations bill, the largest in Texas history.

Senate action sent the state spending bill to the House where representatives are expected to pass their version in about two weeks.

The bill passed the Senate on voice vote with Sen. Culp Krueger of El Campo the only opposing member. Krueger said voting to spend money without knowing how much tax money will be available is an "open invitation to continue the deficit spending."

Most of the 20-minute discussion on the bill was devoted to the allocations for junior colleges. Several members said they were disappointed in the per pupil allocation formula set by the appropriations committee but expressed faith in the five senators who later will serve on a joint conference committee to beef up salaries for the junior college teachers and provide more money for students.

While the Senate quickly handled the big spending bill, House members tangled again on proposed state controls over the importation of milk to Texas. The milk bill debate dragged on for almost two hours without any definite action. Most talk centered on a compromise by Rep. Grainger McElhany of Wheeler that would let other states import milk to Texas provided Texas inspectors certify at least twice a year that the out-of-state dairies pass the same sanitary standards required of Texas dairies.

The Senate passed 20-9 a bill that would authorize a transfer of funds in the land commissioner's office to finance more appraisers for veterans land loans.

EQUAL RIGHTS House members could get around to voting on a proposed constitutional amendment (HJR2) granting women equal rights with men on all legal matters. Debate began Tuesday.

Senators apparently decided the state has enough state supported colleges to worry over and rejected a drive to add the University of Houston to the system of 19 state supported colleges. The vote was 14-15 with two thirds approval needed.

The horse race betting bill of Rep. V. E. (Red) Berry of San Antonio did not get out of the House.

DEATH PENALTY The House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee recommended passage of a bill (HB67) abolishing the death penalty in Texas. The measure also lets juries specify how long prisoners must stay in jail before being eligible for parole.

The House Constitutional Amendments group recommended passage of a measure (HJR2) that would let Texas voters decide if persons over 65 years should get a $1,500 exemption in state, city and local property taxes.

The Criminal Jurisprudence Committee sent to the floor a bill outlawing the sale of switchblade knives (HB66) and providing penalties for kidnapping when a hostage is unharmed, is not taken across a state line, and no ransom is asked (HB597).

Phone Company Planning To Build Work Center Here

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. will build a work center to serve its operations here late this year or early in 1962, Cliff Fisher, district office manager, has been informed.

The company has purchased a tract 200 by 300 feet between West 3rd and West 4th at Brown Street as location for the center. The deal by which the company became owner of an 8-lot tract was consummated last week. The owners were Mr. and Mrs. Isadora Weiner.

The company will build a warehouse type building on the site and house all mobile, maintenance and construction operations in this building, Fisher said. All material will be stored in the plant, including all cable and poles. No estimate was given on the probable cost of the improvements contemplated by the company.

P-TA Must Be Educational Force, Conference Is Told

The Parent-Teacher Association is an educational force and if it fails in this role it misses its mark. Mrs. F. C. McConnell, Austin state P-TA vice president, told 150 delegates to the 14th annual spring conference of District No. 16.

Mrs. McConnell's address was a highlight of the morning's general session which was held at Cosden Country Club. She spoke after Mrs. Chesley McDonald.

STERLING CITY, had set the conference theme: "Homes Develop Character For Tomorrow's World."

Earlier, Mrs. Vernon Jackson, Grand Prairie, state cultural arts chairman, had appealed for emphasis upon the arts as a means of developing the creative abilities of the people.

Upwards of 200 were expected for the luncheon at Cosden Country Club when life memberships were to be awarded for exceptional services to P-TA.

The great changes which occurred in the wake of the industrial revolution of the past century will seem as a mist before a tidal wave in comparison with the tide of what Mrs. McConnell called the second industrial revolution. This actually encompasses at least seven simultaneous revolutions in technology, fuel and power, the rising of the Afro-Asian nations, the population explosions in backward nations due to advent of modern medicines, extra-terrestrial exploration, and finally the communistic revolution which seeks to exploit others. In this global battle for the minds of men, Mrs. McConnell said that "we can advance no faster in providing education than the negative voices in each community will allow."

"We must not be blind to our educational shortcomings," she said, "but we must know what we are talking about to understand our problems."

The challenge is multiplied by the tempo of events, she added, what with a thousand years of technical advance being crammed into the space of a decade for some new nations.

"History moves so swiftly that those who do not anticipate historical change, prepare and plan for it, may not survive it," she said. She emphasized the importance of individuals in promoting national will and patriotism, sacrificial leadership, enlightened support of an adequate educational program. This generation, she said, has the opportunity to make the greatest contribution of any in history.

Mrs. Jackson told delegates that culture is how a people lives, and that art is a mark of distinction for culture. She urged cultural arts chairmen to "step up efforts to develop the creative abilities within their communities and thus create a good atmosphere for development of character for tomorrow's world."

The ingredient which can get results in various areas in music, painting, crafts, drama, etc. Against a backdrop of decorations, including the inscription of the conference theme in gilded letters, Mrs. McDonald gave the conference charge while the high school girls chorus, under direction of William Bender, furnished vocal accompaniment. Little Donna Read, with a lighted globe in her hands, was highlighted among a group of school children.

Mrs. J. H. Homan, vice president of the district, was in charge of the opening exercises. A. K. Steinheimer, city manager, gave the welcome address and Frank Wilson, Colorado City, responded. Mrs. Leslie Payne, Sterling City, explained the various exhibits and displays.

Workshops were to follow the luncheon, and the final general session was to start at 3 p.m.

Gathered For Chat

Explorers Spend Weekend Camping In Big Bend Park

Explorer Post No. 1, becoming well known for its wide range of activities, recently spent a weekend in Big Bend National Park. There were 36 members and leaders taking part in the trip.

The Explorers spent the weekend camping, mountain hiking, swimming in the river and nature study. On the way back to Big Spring, they stopped at the Sand Dunes State Park, near Monahans. The Explorer activity was planned in crews of six men each. Each crew cooked and camped together. Crew leaders were Don Morris, Pat Nelson, Jimmy Burson, George Bass, Benny Kirkland, and Jimmy Haynes.

A major problem of the Post has been transportation. This was solved by Joe Leatherwood, who made the Big Spring Farm Growers Association bus available. Casden Petroleum Corp., McGibbon Oil Co., and Leach-Oldham Oil Co. provided the gasoline.

Also making the trip were Post committeemen Ben Kirkland, who drove the bus; Mrs. Kirkland; Nancy Thomas, Post Little Sister; Lt. Sue Barton, Webb AFB nurse; and Post advisors Capt. G. T. McMillan and Lt. Stan Grant.

The next big trip planned by the Post will be to the Davis Mountains and the McDonald Observatory in April. Also on the agenda for the future is a raft trip down the Rio Grande River.

Martin County set the pace in percentage of quota with 61.8 by setting $18,737 in bonds during February, making a total of $24,738 for the year. Dawson County, with $31,050 sales during the month, boosted its total to $38,734 for the year, and its percentage to 35.2.

Other February sales in the district, cumulative sales and percentage of quota, were: Andrews $14,774, $18,598 and 29.2; Gaines $1,482, $13,994 and 19.8; Howard $72,533, $144,203 and 19.5; Mitchell $19,717, $40,031 and 14.8; and Scurry $48,900, $79,081 and 21.4.

During the past month bond sales in the state aggregated $14,219,831, making the two months total, $29,881,518.

What Tropical Plants Need Here Is Protection

By BRUCE FRAZIER

Mrs. John Rudessel Sr., Ackerly, writes: "I enjoy your column in the Herald so much. I ordered a Ponderosa Lemon tree and received it this morning, but there were no instructions on how to care for it. Would you please tell me how much water it needs and anything I need to know about its care? It had three lemons set on it. Should I remove them..."

I am happy you like this column, and it is a pleasure to use this method of helping people with their gardening problems. You know, West Texas can grow many things, and by helping and encouraging people to do what they can, our area can become more beautiful year after year. I have seen vast changes take place in the past 25 years here.

About the Ponderosa Lemon; you have an interesting plant and so here are some things that may be helpful. First of all it is a tree, and while it would under normal tropical climatic conditions grow to considerable size, we don't live in the tropics and this is the first problem. In caring for tropical plants in our area, we must provide protection.

With lemon, I would suggest planting it in some container about the size of a wash tub. Provide drainage and use good soil to pot it. Keep the container and tree size small enough to move it inside in cold weather and outside in warm weather.

Keep the size back to whatever is convenient for the place where you wish to grow it. The Japanese dwarf many varieties of trees and you can keep the tree about as small as it is now, but you won't have much luck making it any smaller. Pruning and allowing the roots to get pot-bound will work together to dwarf the tree. About the lemons on it—I would allow them to stay on as long as they will, though they will most likely shed by themselves.

The Ponderosa is one of the largest lemons. The fruit will be as large as a grapefruit, but soft like a lemon. They should be wonderful for iced lemonade or lemon pies, and with care you may expect to produce some lemons from time to time.

For anyone who likes cultivating citrus trees in containers in this climate, I would recommend the Mexican lime. It is naturally smaller, and blooms and produces fruit at the same time. I have grown one of these trees, but was never able to get it to fruit, but I am tempted to try again.

For answers to your garden questions write in care of the Herald.

Quitting Council

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — One of South Africa's three largest Dutch Reformed churches said Tuesday night it is withdrawing from the World Council of Churches. Officials of the Nederlands Hervormde Kerk said the decision was taken because of council condemnation of South Africa's racial segregation policy. The church has more than 200,000 members.

Actor Takes Youthful Wife

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Actor Steve Cochran's third wife is a Danish office worker, Jonna Jensen, 19.

"My friends will never believe this," Cochran, 32, said after they were married by the Rev. Thomas A. Robertson at the Church of Christ.

"She's so different, so European and devoted," the actor said of his petite brunette bride. Cochran was divorced 10 years ago from actress Fay McKenzie. He previously was married to artist Florence Lockwood, Miss Jensen said this is her first marriage.

Scriptural Mission Work

By T. H. Turbot, preacher
Church of Christ, West Highway 80

The local church should be independent of all other congregations. See the Bible and history. There is to be no intercongregational organization.

When we went to Australia, one congregation in Big Spring paid our salary. Other churches of Christ contributed to the work we were doing. But none of these sought to control the congregation we helped form in Melbourne, Australia. They made their contributions only because they believed in the kind of work we were seeking to do.

And what was the work we were seeking to do? It was the same

DEAR ABBY

SEE THE TEACHER

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What do you do about a teacher who doesn't do her job? My daughter is in the fifth grade and is failing in her work. She brings home papers that some child has corrected and everything is marked wrong. Unless I, and the rest of my family, have forgotten everything we ever learned in school, a good portion of her answers were right. Still the teacher accepts the grade given by a mere child. We used to grade each other's papers once in a while when I went to school, but the teacher always went over the papers again herself. Don't tell me to talk to the teacher because I have tried that, and she is either hard of hearing or doesn't care.

DEAR ANGRY: Give the teacher one more chance. Write her a note telling her that you would like to talk to her before you talk to the principal. I think you'll find her hearing improved.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is 52 years old and for the last six months we have been trying to get him to take a bath. He wears the same shirt, socks and underwear for three weeks straight. He insists they are not dirty. I have to sneak his clothes out of his room when he's asleep in order to launder them. He claims it's too cold to take a bath or shower. He does wash his hands and face when he gets up in the morning. He is real sweetheart in every other way. We've tried everything. What now?

DEAR WIFE AND FAMILY: There is something wrong with a grown man who is afraid of soap and water. If you can't get your "sweetheart" to listen to a doctor's lecture on the importance of bodily cleanliness—pray for an early summer.

DEAR ABBY: At a family get-together (at the home of a sister-in-law) I offered to help her clear the table after dinner. She said, "Thanks a lot—I'd rather do it myself—these ain't my PLASTIC dishes, you know."

Abby, I felt like two cents. Maybe my dishes aren't as good as hers, but I can certainly carry dishes from the table to the sink without breaking them. I just stood there, red in the face, and didn't say a word. What should I have done?

HURT: You did exactly what you should have done—minus the red face. The embarrassment you felt should have been for HER, not yourself.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "VERY MUCH AFRAID": There is nothing to fear. Had your friend been even slightly infectious, she would not have been discharged from the TB hospital. Therefore, it is far safer to associate with her than someone who has never had a chest X-ray. . . and could be one of the estimated 100,000 Americans walking around with active TB and doesn't know it.

"What's your problem?" For a personal reply from Abby, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Candidates Heap On More Coal

By CLAYTON HICKERSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

With less than two weeks to go, Texas' 71-candidate field for the U.S. Senate heaped on more coal for the stretch run Wednesday.

The race for Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson's former Senate post became an endurance test for candidates and voters as words piled on top of words.

Only one thing appeared certain: A runoff election would be necessary following the April 4 voting. No candidate among the 71 appeared to have a clear majority.

Political observers still contended that the two most outspoken liberals, Maury Maverick Jr. and Henry Gonzalez might split enough labor-liberal votes to keep each other out of a runoff.

But the same was true of the most outspoken of the conservatives, interim Sen. William Blakeley, running for his first elective term, and John Tower, the Wichita Falls Republican. Many politicians believe they would split the conservative vote right down the middle.

CLOSE FINISH: Making the puzzle more complex were the so-called "middle of the road" candidates among the "big six," Atty. Gen. Will Wilson and Rep. Jim Wright. If this pair split the moderate segment of the vote, a close finish for the "big six" seemed inevitable. Even with heavy voting, a few votes might make a big difference.

The candidates and their supporters knew the situation as the moment of decision drew nearer. Efforts were redoubled.

At least five of the candidates hit San Antonio Tuesday almost simultaneously. Gonzalez, Tower, Wright, Maverick and San Antonio resident Frank Maters each made several separate appeals for votes. The din was terrific.

OIL IMPORTS: Blakeley was in San Angelo and Abilene Wednesday. He planned to be in Austin Thursday morning and in San Antonio later in the day. He told his Abilene audience foreign oil imports should be cut 50 per cent and said at San Angelo he would like to see farmers free of government restrictions.

Blakeley said farmers, "once the backbone of the free enterprise system, have lost their freedom." Wilson told a Hereford rally Tuesday the threat of world communism remains the No. 1 problem for the United States. He later held a televised press conference in Amarillo.

Wright, who will be guest of honor Thursday night in Dallas at an appreciation dinner, and Maverick both told San Antonio television viewers they were best fitted to work with the Kennedy administration.

Wright pointed to his experience as a member of the House. Maverick said he backed the New Frontier and was a Roosevelt-Yarborough-Kennedy Democrat.

Wright said Texans don't want a Senator dominated by extremists.

City Budget—This Year And Next

The time element, plus the complexity involved in today's fiscal facets of government, have combined to just about squeeze out any opportunity for a layman of Big Spring to make an intelligent analysis of his municipal budget.

A public hearing is scheduled at the City Hall for 7-30 p.m. Thursday, but rare indeed will be the taxpayer who can, by that time, be able to voice a studied opinion on any item, pro or con.

The budget did not reach the commissioners (for public purposes) until this past week. It took the commission itself until Sunday night to put a stamp upon it.

particularly in the lower hourly wage brackets. But we feel that some disparity is being created in salaries in higher positions when you consider such things as length of service and overall contribution to the city's operations.

We question such transactions as moving the food service from the fire department—where performance has been proven—to a new branch of the police department, where expenses could mount.

We wish that the parks department were not perennially left at the tail-end, with little chance to improve the recreational lot of the people.

But these are matters of opinion and other citizens very possibly would be concerned with other municipal matters. And it's possible that the budget as drawn would meet general commendation.

In this budget message to the commission, City Manager A. K. Steinheimer cautioned that "it will probably be necessary to increase taxes for the calendar year 1962."

This being true, citizens who feel the pinch of the tax levy might wonder if it would not be a prudent course to cut every conceivable corner this year to achieve a reserve and perhaps avert a tax raise next year.

It is difficult to find fault with the granting of salary raises to public employes who may be below the general level of workers in their category, particularly in the lower hourly wage brackets.

HARRIS AND THEY SAID IT COULDN'T BE DONE

James Marlow Labor Talks In Happier Setting

WASHINGTON (AP)—The labor-management conference President Kennedy put in motion Tuesday at least begins under happier conditions than the same kind of conference President Harry Truman called in 1945.

That was an unpredictable time of great pressures. Compared with that—although Kennedy says this is a critical period—his conference starts work in a moment of comparative calm.

The Truman conference, after the end of World War II, met when labor feared one thing—big unemployment—and wanted another—big wage boosts. Besides labor itself was split.

THE WARTIME needs of the country had kept industry and employment at a peak. But with the Japanese surrender and industry's switch to peacetime production, labor could foresee millions out of jobs.

Employment at a peak. But with the Japanese surrender and industry's switch to peacetime production, labor could foresee millions out of jobs.

Labor, whose wages were held down during the war, also wanted to jump ahead fast. Strikes were starting. The AFL and CIO were then antagonists, not part of one organization as they are now.

The CIO wanted the conference to agree on a wage policy. The AFL, the coal miners and the employers argued that wages should be settled by individual employers and unions.

IT WAS A conference which got nowhere. Last year President Eisenhower tried to get a labor-management conference established without any representatives of the public on it. This one met a few times and got lost in arguments.

Kennedy, with his 21-man conference, has gone further by including representatives of the public alongside top leaders of business and labor.

There are no big strikes threatening. There is no impending crisis. The big labor organizations, now merged except for the miners, are not feuding.

SO THE PRESSURES are not so intense as those which sat on the shoulders of Truman's conference. But still there are pressures of another kind which, if not explosive, are just as real.

The country is in a recession and unemployment is the highest in more than 20 years.

Kennedy doesn't want any price-wage push that would put the country deeper into inflation or that would hurt American trade in competition with other countries.

At a recent news conference Kennedy said that labor and management had a tremendous common stake in keeping American goods competitive in foreign markets.

Otherwise, he said, "we are going to find ourselves in serious economic trouble."

In short, Kennedy is relying on this conference to persuade employers and labor unions to forget some of their differences in the national interest and cooperate to help lick some of the nation's biggest problems.

Ex-Solon On Jury

The Hard Way

SPENCER, Ind. (AP)—Russell Farris was out walking in the woods when he saw a rattlesnake. Farris threw up his left hand in protection and fired his .22 caliber pistol with his right. The bullet passed through his left hand and killed the snake.

Around The Rim The Settlements That Didn't Make It

A friend called the other day and inquired: "Didn't there used to be a place around here called Conahasset?" Indeed there was. This was a small settlement in northern Glascock County and it was named by the late William (Cap) Cushing for Cohasset in his native Massachusetts.

Today there is little to mark the spot where the store stood near what is now the O'Barr well field. Graded roads along section lines helped by-pass Conahasset, and a store up the road gradually got all the business. Ultimately this yielded to one still further north at a point call Three-Way.

Another settlement which didn't make the grade was Morita. This was the breaking point between Big Spring and Stanton, and there were legends (likely no truth in them) that the spot had once been the site for a monastery.

Prospective land buyers were brought in from the Midwest and many, pleased by the greenery and brimming natural lakes in the wake of unusual spring rains, bought tracts. Unfortunately, natives pirated many of the Soash customers at slightly lesser figures than the promoter quoted.

There was talk about building a railroad from Big Spring to Lamesa to close the gap between the T&P and Santa Fe. Local backers had the line laid out to go by way of Soash. But drought came along, and most of the settlers gave up.

Probably the most promising of the towns in Howard County to falter and then fade was that of Soash. This was the center of a great land development W. P. Soash carved out of the Slaughter ranch empire. The concrete hulk of the bank building, then the finest between Fort Worth and El Paso (according to contemporary boasts) still stands on the prairie.

THIS IS ALL that remains of Soash, but the winds whistling through the old hulk give a ghastly effect for a spot that might have been a thriving city had everything gone right.

J. A. Livingston Farm Price Sag: The Law Of Returns

The saying, "There'll never be any more land; you can't grow buying it" has lost some of that that's old in them that hills flavor. The land rush has subsided.

For the first time since the Korean War prime farm land values have declined. The worth of farmland and buildings was estimated by the Department of Agriculture at $134,400,000,000 on November 1, 1960, $700,000,000 less than on March 1, 1960.

HARSH REALITY has caught up with the upward-and-upward expectations. Why? Because in the last seven years, farm values had increased 35 per cent. Yet net farm income had not risen at all.

Last year, farm real estate sold at 9.5 times net income as against less than six times in the 1950-54 era. Farm land, like stocks, entails greater risk the higher the price-earnings ratio.

The long postwar rise in price has resulted in (1) an increase in tracts hanging over the market, (2) less demand for land, and (3) increased resistance by prospective buyers to asking prices, according to reports of real estate experts to the Department of Agriculture.

REAL ESTATE agents say that they now have to put in more effort to make a sale than last year and the year before. It has more time to close a transaction—more inspection trips to properties and some increased difficulty in arranging finances.

This is partly explained by the increased number of parcels on the market. The choosy buyer pays more visits to more farms.

But it also indicates that buyers aren't snapping. Since the price trend is downward, the prospect doesn't feel rushed.

BUYING A FARM today is buying a business. The average farm in the U. S. (excluding Hawaii and Alaska) is worth $33,242, according to the latest census. That's $13,000 (63 per cent) more than in the 1954 census. The average size of a farm rose from 242 to 302 acres, or 25 per cent.

Farmers, themselves, have generated most of the farm real estate activity in recent years. As they mechanize, they can handle more land. So they buy or rent neighboring farms.

Rising taxes deter the put-and-away-and-forget-it buyers. Taxes now amount to about 8.5 per cent of net farm income nationally. They run from 15 per cent to 20 per cent in the Northeast and 10 per cent or more in most other states except those in the Southeast, where they're lower.

THROUGHOUT the country, the price of and demand for public services are rising. The need for greater police and fire protection, for upkeep of more heavily traveled and wider highways, for better and bigger schools with more highly trained and, hence, more highly paid teachers, generates higher governmental costs—and taxes.

So, land isn't any longer a cheap ride. The housing slowdown in 1960 also cut sales of farmland. Fewer development tracts were sold. If President Kennedy's housing program reinvigorates construction, then rural sales for building developments may pick up.

IT WOULD BE EASY to generalize and say that inflation is passe, that the fight to the land is finished, that we're at the end of the land-rush cycle.

For the time being, the scarcity theory (there'll never be any more land) has given way to a business query: Will it pay?

Holmes Alexander Problems Of A City—St. Louis

ST. LOUIS—"Your wives and daughters dare not venture out on their own neighborhood streets after dark," Republican Mayoralty Candidate Ben Lindenbusch was telling a ward meeting.

He might have been addressing citizens of almost any city of the nation; indeed, of the Western World. In my own roamings, I can think of only Tel Aviv as a big town where, by the account of local newsmen and visiting couplets, it is reasonably safe for lone or defenseless persons to move around at night.

WHEN I WAS IN Israel, I thought that this unusualness was because that country lives as the U.S.A. once did—industrious, dedicated, religious and don't-tread-on-me! And I have thought since then that the horrors of Anglo-American cities have been the evil flowers of racism, idleness, cynicism and "world" peace-at-any-price.

St. Louis, as every visitor learns, is one of the few cities with a strong, winning personality. What speaks to you here are the romance of the river, the redolence of Old France left by the early fur traders and their priests, the true glamour which clings to a land where pioneers and savages fought until a civilization was evolved, the grace of established wealth and the continuing class struggle toward another evolutionary society.

THIS MUCH IS here—and you get the idea that nature would find a way out of the normal difficulties of change and growth if only the liberal politicians and the social planners would stay home. The together-ness of these do-gooders is apparent in the bumps and gashes on the city's otherwise fair face.

Horizontal slums have been razed, but resurrected in the form of vertical jungles where the wretched inmates of redevelopment apartments have nothing to replace even the compromised privacy of the family shack with its folksy linen on the outdoor clothesline and a sense of immediate egress onto the cheerful sidewalks with its hopscotch games and roller skaters.

More than a hundred thousand, St. Louisans have fled the city in the past decade, but density has been transferred without being relieved. The residential West End, where Negroes constituted 2 per cent of the population in 1950, has 70 per cent now. The city-wide population was 18 per cent Negro in 1950 and is 29 per cent today. The white population was 18 per cent Negro in 1950 and is 29 per cent today. The white population is down by 24 per cent over the same period.

With the decline of the home as a family castle, morals and religion have suffered here, as everywhere. The emergence of a national Peace Corps in places where covered wagons, cavalry and artillery used to enchant the bystanders is a travesty that requires no comment.

PERHAPS BECAUSE the nation's man-hood has allowed all this to happen, the women of St. Louis seem more aroused than usual in a local election. They are not likely to accept a situation where it's a risky mission for a mother to attend a P-T-A meeting, or for a stenographer to scurry after hours from her office to the parking lot, or for school children to venture out of police protected paths. The women, I am told, intend to hold the political incumbents responsible—which means in language of the past: "Throw the rascals out." The St. Louis mayoralty election of April 4th is the first of many others around the nation.

If there's a virago revolt in the making, our cities may yet be saved. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Daylight Problems

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Daylight saving time always brings problems to those who live along the borders of the changing time zones, but the problems of Richmond and Norfolk are a real tale of two cities.

It takes a legislative act for a Virginia area to observe a time other than standard. Such an act is on the books, applying only to cities between 200,000 and 225,000 population.

It applied only to Norfolk at the time it was passed. Now Norfolk has advanced to 205,000 in the 1960 census, and Richmond has dropped from 230,000 to 219,000, making the act apply to only Richmond.

Richmond's city council has voted for daylight time. Norfolk city fathers are scratching their heads.

David Lawrence Two Versions Of Freedom Of Speech

WASHINGTON—Not so very long ago those persons who publicly criticized the Supreme Court of the United States for its "desegregation" decision were being accused of "defiance" of our "judicial institutions" or of trying to "undermine their prestige." But no such treatment probably is in store for the 79 leading American professors in 79 universities and colleges who have just issued to the press of the nation a bitter statement criticizing the Supreme Court. They object to the fact that the Supreme Court in two successive cases has declared constitutional the right of the House Committee on Un-American Activities to require witnesses under certain circumstances to answer questions about Communist activities in America. Indeed, this is today "the law of the land."

THE PROFESSORS, in their statement, contend that they are "dedicated to the proposition that free enquiry and free expression nourish mental growth and are thus basic to the nation's growth." But then the same 250 professors go on to demand the "abolition" of the House Committee because they do not agree with its expressions of opinion or its attempts to elicit information about Communist operations in this country.

While the same statement condemns "trial by publicity," the officials of the American Civil Liberties Union—who say they "canvassed" the professors to obtain their signatures—announce that this organization is "engaged in a long-range campaign" against the continuance of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

IT IS NOT CLEAR just what the professors want to accomplish outside or inside American colleges and universities, though there is an implication that they believe they have a right to carry this type of controversy directly into their classrooms. Presumably there would be nobody with similar knowledge present on the other side to rebut their arguments before the students. The professors, in their statement, complain that "many teachers in the colleges and universities, as well as in the public schools, have grown timid about stating, even for classroom discussion, ideas which someone later might interpret as subversive."

WHAT THE professors really object to is the effort of the House Committee on Un-American Activities to do something which none of the executive agencies like the CIA or the FBI can do—namely, to expose in the midst of the "cold war" the workings of the Communist apparatus inside the United States.

The professors who signed the latest petition do not hesitate to identify themselves with the prestige conveyed by the names of the universities and colleges that employ them. Thus the statement, in giving the list of the 250 professors, attaches in each case the name of the university or college where they teach and their subjects. The following notation is included:

"THE INSTITUTIONAL affiliation of the remaining signers is for the purposes of identification only and in no way commits the institution to the views expressed."

But why is it necessary to "identify" these professors by using the name of their respective colleges and universities and by specifying the subjects they teach? Will the general public assume that, because these professors hold such positions, they perhaps reflect the views of a substantial number of other professors who were or were not "canvassed"?

There are, for example, among the signers 18 professors from Harvard, 13 from Yale and 3 from Princeton. Is the public to infer that the board of trustees of Harvard or Yale or Princeton or the faculty of each approves the use of the names of their universities in the public prints hereafter as an attachment to any political-propaganda document regardless of content?

WILL THE PARENTS of students in those universities feel any concern that some professors holding views of this kind will dominate discussions of Communism in the classroom? Will some of the donors of funds to the various universities begin to harbor fears that such funds may be used to hire professors who advocate that a gag be imposed on the free expression of ideas by a committee of Congress—especially on a topic of vital importance to the security and safety of the United States?

THESE ARE questions that naturally will arise now. The professors, in their statement, concede that "the Committee has later improved its hearing manners," but this apparently isn't enough—they demand that the committee be abolished altogether, notwithstanding the fact that the courts specifically are empowered to correct any abuses in the conduct of hearings.

The late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes once defined "free speech" as "freedom for the thought we hate." But these college professors don't want the House Committee on Un-American Activities even to exist, let alone to speak out under the free-speech clause of the Constitution—which, incidentally, applies not only to the signers of petitions but also to members of Congress and to all citizens.

Careful Salesman

SALINA, Kan. (AP)—A book salesman asked police to give him a list of the names and addresses of members of the Salina police force.

The salesman of first refusal to tell him he wanted it but finally convinced he needed it to be sure not to call on any policemen while making his door-to-door rounds.

Salina has an ordinance which discourages door-to-door selling and provides for the arrest of salesmen who cause complaints from residents.

Hal Boyle An Aggrieved Housewife

NEW YORK (AP)—If there's anything to this extraordinary perception business, I wish I could figure out how to tune in on my husband's wave length.

Not that I want to check up on his thoughts about that little blonde. It's just that it would be such a big help in menu planning.

I know why they call the dinner table the "roaming board." No matter what food I fix, the man of the house groans when it appears. Seems it just wasn't what he had in mind.

As sure as I've bent over a hot stove all day preparing a delicate repeat of hummingbird's tongues under glass, for dinner he informs me in disgusted tones that he had a hummingbird tongue sandwich for lunch.

If I was out with the girls for lunch and hope to sneak by with just a cold tuna fish platter for the evening meal, that's the day he reports he was so busy at the office he didn't have time to eat, and he is in a real steak-and-potatoes frame of stomach.

The next night, in an effort to make amends, I prepare a stuffed turkey with all the trimmings. But it's my goose that's cooked! It seems he took on an expense-account luncheon at the ritziest place in town and he is more stuffed than the turkey.

And of course there's always that day when I clean the refrigerator and decide that in the interests of economy somebody else sides me ought to eat the leftovers.

So I throw everything into a pot, hoping to convince the family that hash is the fanciest of dishes.

As the wives have already guessed, my husband picks that night to report at the last moment he's bringing home a friend.

Always eager to please, I recently prepared a menu with all my star boarder's favorite foods. The table was charmingly set. The children were sternly cautioned not to complain about the breaded veal cutlets, which they both dislike as much as their father likes them. Homemade corn muffins were in the oven. A welcoming smile was on my face. This would be a dinner to be remembered.

Just when a cheery step should have been heard on the threshold, an ominous telephone bell was heard instead.

"So sorry I didn't have a chance to call you before," my husband apologized. "I've just been so busy at the office I didn't have time. I'm going to go out now and grab a sandwich. I'll be home later.

Maybe ESP isn't such a good idea after all. If he knew what I was thinking he wouldn't come home at all. JOY STILEY (For Hal Boyle)

To Your Good Health Heart Disease Can Have Many Symptoms

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. "Dear Dr. Molner: Is a cough a symptom of heart disease. My brother died suddenly apparently from a heart attack. He never complained of being ill, but he had what he termed a cigarette cough. Would lying in front of a fan cause a heart attack? Please explain—A.S."

A cough can be, in some cases, a symptom of heart disease—but I think it's safe to say that in any such case, there will always be some other symptom, too. It may be shortness of breath, sometimes heart pain (but far from frequent), edema (that is, accumulation of fluids, and hence puffing and swelling of feet, legs or other parts of the body), perhaps blueness or faint color in the skin—oh, quite a number of things.

Still other symptoms, which the patient can't see but the doctor with instruments can detect, will be present in chronic heart trouble. The cardiogram, the stethoscope, and sometimes other devices will show these.

In some heart cases, "cardiac asthma" occurs. This can bring a cough. In other heart cases, this does not occur.

A cough can be the result of cigarette irritation, throat irritation, lung trouble, nervousness, allergy, common cold, flu, bad tonsils, and a lot of less familiar causes.

As to "lying in front of a fan," this wouldn't cause a heart attack.

In short—and I guess this is what I really want to get across today—you have to remember that "heart trouble" is a general term, just as "foot trouble" is general. The latter can be weak arches, athlete's foot, ingrown toenails, planter warts, bunions, cramps, swollen feet, corns or a broken toe. All "foot trouble."

It can take 10 years for a bunion to develop—or more. Or you can get a broken toe in a split-second stumble.

So with the heart. An attack may (although it rarely does) strike without any warning. Most of the time, however, the various kinds of heart trouble give warning in-advance, at reasonable intervals, go to your doctors and tell them—about any and all symptoms noticeable since the last visit, they will have at least a fair warning of what to look out for, what troubles to guard against.

You can't tell, positively, in advance, when a tire will go flat, or the vacuum cleaner will develop "sclerosis of the dirt-catcher," or an electric light bulb will burn out.

The human body is a lot more complicated than any of these. Health isn't something that stops all of a sudden, as a rule. Usually there's advance warning, and we should heed it.

A cough isn't "a sign of heart disease." But a cough, like a squeak in a car, is a sign of something. So observe, and take care of the small squeaks as they appear, and you'll be doing a fair and sensible job of protecting your health. Hunting for some simple sign—afterward— isn't of much use.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What can be done to obliterate tiny surface blood vessels of the nose?—A.M." Nothing that I know of.

Count your calories the easy way! To receive a copy of my pamphlet, "The Calorie Chart," write Dr. Molner in care of the Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible. Copyright, 1961, Field Enterprises, Inc.

No Opposition But School Issue Downed

EDITOR'S NOTE—Just about every intelligent community "No" was for the school bond issue and levy. There was no organized opposition. Yet Parma voters defeated the measure the first time round. This is the second of three articles on school financing problems.

By G. K. HODENFELD
AP Wire Service

PARMA, Ohio (AP)—The $3-million school bond issue and the two-mill school levy on the Parma ballot last May didn't create much of a stir.

Why should they? In eight previous elections the city had approved school bonds for $23 million and school levies totaling 13 cents on every $100 of assessed valuation.

In Ohio, school bonds and levies need only a bare majority of the votes cast, 50 per cent plus one. Parma voters had always backed their schools with majorities ranging from 61 per cent to 89.9 per cent.

Besides, the voters had been told, with so much new property coming into the city rolls, the bond issue wouldn't raise taxes at all. The two-mill levy would increase taxes on the average home by $13 a year—less than the cost of a pack of cigarettes a week.

ALL FOR IT
The weekly newspaper, the Chamber of Commerce, the PTA, the church leaders were all for it. There was no organized opposition. The people of Parma seemed to agree that the city needed the bond money for another junior high school and three elementary schools, and the levy for new books and more teachers.

So the people of Parma went to the polls on May 3, 1960, and turned down the school bonds by a vote of 9,990 to 9,706. They turned down the levy by a vote of 10,753 to 9,922.

Last fall the Parma voters were asked once more to approve the same bond issue and tax levy. The situation was much the same—no organized opposition, considerable organized support.

So the people of Parma went to the polls again on Nov. 8, 1960, and this time they approved the bonds 30,566 to 15,337 (66.7 per cent), and they approved the levy 29,745 to 15,886 (65.18 per cent). Only 44 per cent of the registered voters went to the polls last May, but the turnout reached nearly 90 per cent in November. In May it was the primary election, in November it was the national presidential election.

NEVER VOTE
"I never vote in the primaries," one voter said. "You have to say whether you're a Republican or a Democrat, and I don't think it's anybody's business."

A housewife said she had voted against the bonds in May, but voted for them in November. "I thought they were just fooling us when they said the school program would have to be cut back without the levy," she said, "but they weren't."

What was the cut back in the program that had convinced her? Was it the fact that Parma couldn't hire the 60 additional teachers it needed, that old textbooks couldn't be replaced, that kindergarten was cut from half a day to one-third of a day?

"Well, I didn't know about those things," the woman said, "but my son was on the wrestling team, and they said there couldn't be any more out of town trips for the athletic team."

SO WHAT?
"I didn't vote in May, and I didn't vote in November," another woman said. "I'm busy, I've got four kids to look after. And what difference does it make? We'll always have schools."

Parma is about 65 per cent Catholic and has five Catholic elementary schools and one small girls' high school. Before both elections, every Catholic priest in Parma asked his parishioners to vote for the public school issues. "Look," said the woman.

"We've got four children in parochial school. That costs us money, believe you me. I can't support the Catholic schools and the public schools, too. They'll just have to get their money somewhere else."

The elderly man down the block had sent all his children to parochial schools, too.

"We voted for the school issues," he said. "We always do. The public schools have to be supported. Even so, I think there is going to have to be some sort of federal aid to education."

LOW COST
Before both elections, supporters of the school issues stressed the low cost to the voters. Not everyone believed them.

"Sure I know what they say—this isn't going to cost us anything but a few pennies," a housewife said. "They always say that, but I notice the tax bills just keep going up and up. They're not fooling me."

Parma's three junior high schools are badly overcrowded, officials report, with as many as 38 or 40 pupils to a room. The elementary crush has been temporarily handled by renting space in church buildings.

"I don't believe all this stuff about our schools being overcrowded," a man said. "I think they're just wasting the taxpayer's money."

"Wasting the taxpayer's money" would seem to be a charge hard to prove against Supt. Paul Briggs and the Parma School Board.

FOUR FOR THREE
A school bond issue passed several years ago gave Briggs enough money for three elementary schools. He managed by cutting corners, to build four new schools for the same money.

The Parma High School cost $5.5 million when it was built in 1953, and it would cost $6.8 million to duplicate today. It's big, fancy, and expensive. Briggs, who came to Parma in 1957, is building Valley Forge High School, with the same capacity, for $4.2 million.

In many ways, Parma is a lucky community. The Parma school district is only 50 per cent developed, and it is the fastest growing of Cleveland's many suburbs. This means more children, and more children mean more schools. But it also means new taxpayers, new property on the tax rolls, and a chance to keep property taxes at a reasonable level.

There isn't a slum in the district. I found only a few complaints voiced about the school administration or the school board. Most people in Parma believe they are getting full value for their school tax dollar.

But, with everything apparently going for it, the $3-million school bond issue carried by only 66.57 per cent in the November election.

WACO (AP)—The wife of Lawrence Pope and a San Antonio psychiatrist testified Tuesday that the 42-year-old Giddings newspaper publisher did not appear to be normal.

They were the first defense witnesses called in the trial of Pope, charged with the $1,744 robbery of the First State Bank at Thornton. Defense attorneys are seeking to prove Pope is insane.

Mrs. Pope said her husband "thinks this insanity plea is a legal dodge. He thinks he is perfectly sane and we are foolish to think he is insane."

She said Pope was "badly hurt after being fired as president of the West National Bank last August and became touchy when I questioned him about anything and became sloppy in his appearance."

The San Antonio psychiatrist, Dr. Alfred Hill, said Pope was schizophrenic and that "he knows right from wrong but has no regard for other people's opinions."

The state rested its case at mid-afternoon Tuesday after presenting 20 witnesses.

The defense has indicated it will present about nine defense witnesses.

NEW YORK (AP)—After six years of scientific research, the tobacco industry reports it has found no evidence of any link between smoking and lung cancer.

The statement came Tuesday from the scientific advisory board of the industry's research committee.

"Perhaps the most significant development has been the general recognition that we do not yet have the answers," the statement said.

Scandal Probe Moves To Tarheels' Campus

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—The spreading basketball scandal reached into the South today with the admission by Chancellor William B. Aycock that New York City investigators had visited the University of North Carolina.

Two representatives of the district attorney's office in New York City visited the University of North Carolina on Tuesday. They were seeking information in connection with the current scandal.

Aaron Wagman, previously convicted of trying to bribe a University of Florida football player, and Joseph Hecken were arrested in New York last week when the basketball scandal broke.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association today urged lawmakers and enforcement agencies to take aggressive action to control organized gambling and stamp out the "despicable characters" who seek to profit through the corruption of sports.

Johnny Carrigan, director of the Big State Baseball Summer Camp who visited here last week, says he talked with Bobby Bragan in Arizona recently and the former big league manager is impressed with the managerial plan advanced by Phil Wrigley.

BOB BRAGAN

The insurance premium taken out by the Palm Springs (Calif.) golf course on that hole in one during tournament play back in January (it was won by Texan Don January) cost tournament officials $13,500.

In two years now, Lloyds of London, which had the policies, has lost $82,500 on the venture. I'd say that was expensive advertising.

I rather doubt the risk can be underwritten next year.

The baseball brochure prepared by Julian Pressley, veteran coach of the Odessa High School Bronchos, is the most complete I've seen for the sport on the high school level.

Along with other information, the brochure reveals the fact that Odessa High has beaten Big Spring 11 of 14 times in District 2-AAAA play since Steers were elevated from Class AAA.

Only conference schools to hold an edge over the Bronchos in the lifetime series are Abilene, which has beaten Pressley's team eight times in 14 starts; and Midland, which is 11-10 against Odessa.

Since 1954, Odessa High has won 130 games while losing only 47. Pressley's most successful team was the 1958 club, which won 23 of 26 assignments.

They say T. G. Hull, who is retiring as basketball coach at Amarillo High School after a record tenure, won't have to take a pay cut, even though he'll remain on as a classroom teacher.

His annual stipend amounts to something like $6,600.

His job could be offered to George Carlisle, the veteran successful mentor of Clear Creek High in Galveston County. Carlisle, however, works for a school system which doesn't have any acute money worries and probably is making more than $6,600 yearly now.

The pari-mutuel handle at Sunland Park race track last weekend amounted to $508,615, despite the fact that bad weather plagued the track.

That's three straight weekends that the betting handle has exceeded half a million dollars.

When the National Wildlife Federation headquarters building was dedicated in Washington, D.C., by President John Kennedy earlier this month, one of those present for the ceremony was Cecil (Cy) Reid, the present general secretary of SCOT (Sportsmen Clubs of Texas), an outstanding athlete for Big Spring High School 30 years ago.

Reid, who resides in Austin and whose mother still lives here, accompanied Henry LeBlanc, SCOT president, to Washington for the ceremonies.

Joe Gordon Sings A Happy Tune For Kansas City A's

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Joe Gordon is an eternal optimist. The new manager of the Kansas City A's thinks he can lift last year's cellar dwellers into the first division of the American League.

Aside from having a new shortstop and a different set of catchers, this is virtually the same team that won only 56 games in 1960.

Gordon can finish fifth this year and still make the first division because of the American League's expansion into a 10-team circuit.

If Gordon had to name his starting pitcher today, he'd pick rookies Jim Archer and Norman Bass, along with Ray Herbert and Bud Daley, as his big four. That's a pretty sad commentary considering that Archer had an 11-12 record at Miami last year and Bass, not even on the A's roster, was 6-11 at Sioux City.

Both Nylon, Rayon

The first tire to be built with both nylon and rayon piles was unveiled in Detroit recently by J. P. Seiberling, president of Seiberling Rubber Co. The firm has developed the rubber industry's first tire in which the strength features of nylon and the comfort features of rayon have been combined. The new product, claimed the president, is stronger than an all-rayon tire, yet shows none of the "morning thump" often found in nylon tires. Nationwide deliveries of the new tire have been made to Seiberling distributors, including Creighton Tire Co.

Creighton Features
New Seiberling Tire

The rubber industry's first tire in which a combination of both nylon and rayon piles is being used has been announced by Seiberling Rubber Co. The firm says it has developed an auto tire combining two piles of nylon fabric and two piles of rayon. Creighton Tire Co., local Seiberling distributor, received its first shipment of the new tires recently. "This is the first time a tire manufacturer has taken advantage of the two cords in its standard four-ply passenger tires," said Charlie Creighton. "Despite extensive claims by nylon and rayon producers, Seiberling sees advantages in both cords." "So the company is now using the two together in its line of Super Service tires... tires of original equipment level. "We now have the first tire on the market that capitalizes on the features of both fabrics. It has nylon for strength—without morning 'flat-spotting'—and rayon for comfort." Creighton has the tires in both black and white sidewalls, and in tubeless and tube-type construction.

Garbage Can Is A Trap
For Roaches

"I've invented a trap for roaches" writes Miss E. G. "my garbage can! I simply painted the brush on liquid Johnston's No-Roach on the lid of my garbage can. Shortly after I picked up the lid, and lo and behold, the roaches were having a regular feast of No-Roach! Soon they were all dead as doornails, and that's the last I've seen of these pests for several months now!"

This new formula is:
(a) Effective against all crawling insects, including the new-resistant roaches;
(b) Easy to use;
(c) Safe to use around children and pets;
(d) Stays effective for months with only one application.
It's called Johnston's No-Roach. When you use No-Roach, there's no need to move dishes, or to breathe harmful sprays. Just brush this odorless, colorless liquid on cabinets, baseboards, windowsills, doorsteps, cracks, drainpipes—wherever roaches and ants may enter. It dries quickly to form an invisible death zone for all crawling insects. They walk across it... and die within minutes! Brush on No-Roach and forget it for months! It stays effective 24 hours a day.

No-Roach works against roaches, ants, waterbugs, spiders, silverfish, all crawling insects. In the 8 oz. bottle or pint, it is available at your favorite drug store or supermarket.

Trial Starts

Joan Brock, 27, of San Antonio, charged in the gunshot slaying of W. S. Carpenter of Lufkin, sits in the Angelina County courtroom at Lufkin with her two court-appointed lawyers, William D. Bishop Defends Pike's Integrity

HOUSTON (AP)—The Rt. Rev. John Hines, Episcopal bishop of the Diocese of Texas, says he has "unqualified respect" for the integrity of Bishop James Pike of California. The Rt. Rev. Pike was accused of heresy last week by Episcopal layman Ernest Caldwell. The charges by Caldwell, a lawyer, stemmed from Bishop Pike's Lenten talks here. He said he believed neither Paul nor Mark subscribed to the doctrine of the virgin birth of Christ, and he later said he doubted if Christ had knowledge of the Holy Trinity, Father, Son and Holy Ghost.

Convict Allowed To File Suit On Prison Director

HOUSTON (AP)—Filing of a personal injury suit against Texas Prison System Director O. B. Ellis was authorized for a convict Tuesday by Federal Judge Allen B. Hannay. The order by Hannay granted Donald Ray Wilson of Austin the right to file the suit in federal court without paying court costs. Wilson's petition alleges that prison guards whipped him severely last April 29. The convict said the beating was an attempt to get him to confess being an instigator of a prison riot. He seeks $25,000 damages. An assistant prison director, Richard C. Jones, denied that Wilson was being mistreated. "I don't know anything about the case, but I'm sure there is nothing to it," Jones said. "If he was gassed, he asked for it." Jones said tear gas is kept at the Huntsville prison for use in event of riots. Wilson has been in prison since June 18, 1956. Jones said insubordination prevents the prisoner from receiving credit for good behavior and that he will not be released until March 1965. He seeks $25,000 damages. Hospital Volunteer Indoctrination Set

An indoctrination and orientation of volunteers for the Veteran's Administration Hospital is scheduled for 8 p. m. March 27, in the recreation hall at the hospital. At the indoctrination, chiefs of all services which use volunteers will tell about the work done by the service and work which volunteers can do. At the beginning of the orientation, Mrs. Ara Cunningham, voluntary service officer, will pass out a check list for those attending, to mark the area in which they desire to work and the times which would be most convenient for them.

Thixton Gets Cushman Line

Cecil Thixton has been announced as the new dealer in Big Spring for Cushman motor scooters. Thixton is a veteran cycle dealer, having served this area for more than three decades. He has stocked several of the models in the Cushman line and also is increasing both the number of models and also the parts support. The product is put out by Cushman Motors, a subsidiary of Outboard Marine Corporation, which introduced the first practical motor scooter 24 years ago. Now they operate on 4-cycle motors generating up to five horsepower and in a variety of prices.

Moroccans Free Yanks

RABAT, Morocco (AP)—Three Americans and eight other foreign oil prospectors kidnaped by Moroccan tribesmen were free today and their abductors were hailed as patriots. King Hassan II, after announcing the release of the men, reasserted Morocco's claim to the Spanish Sahara (Rio de Oro) south of the border and praised the tribesmen who seized the foreigners in the disputed region. The oil men's whereabouts had been a mystery and fears for their safety were growing when the young king summoned American, British French and Spanish diplomats to announce their release Tuesday night. One Spaniard disclosed the oil men were turned over to the Moroccan army the day after rifle-bearing tribesmen captured them about three miles south of the Moroccan border.

HE'S SEEN THE LIGHT
Bedford Forrest twitches dimmer

High School Stage Gets New Lighting

It may not light up the sky, but the new dimmer system at the high school auditorium will light up its stage.

And, a whole new world of possibilities in lighting effects is now possible, according to Bedford Forrest, high school speech and drama instructor. Forrest pointed out that the new lighting control system can be used for many auditorium programs besides stage plays.

The dimmer system is contained in a single box-like machine which stands seven feet high, with a thickness of two feet and a three-foot width. Individual control units are connected to rows of lights over the stage and the footlights. It is also possible to connect lines to portable spotlights for area lighting effects.

Besides switches to individual lights the dimmer has a row of levers operating rheostats which can brighten or dim the illumination, and all units may be operated collectively or individually.

Forrest demonstrated just one of the many possible lighting effects—that of a flash of lightning reflected inside a building. This operation required quick manipulation of switches linking white, blue and red lights, and of the levers controlling variation of brightness. The effect was startling.

"This dimmer system," Forrest said, "opens up a whole new vista of possibilities. I plan to make extensive use of it during the forthcoming production of 'Teahouse of the August Moon.'"

Casting For Easter Pageant Set Thursday

Have you ever wanted to act in a play, but didn't have a chance? Or maybe, afraid you couldn't remember all of those lines?

Here's your chance. Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Prairie Playhouse in City Park, the Big Spring Civic Theatre is casting its annual Easter Pageant. The annual pageant will be presented Saturday, April 1, in the City Park amphitheatre.

As usual, there will be no admission charge and the whole family is invited to attend this non-denominational telling of the Easter story.

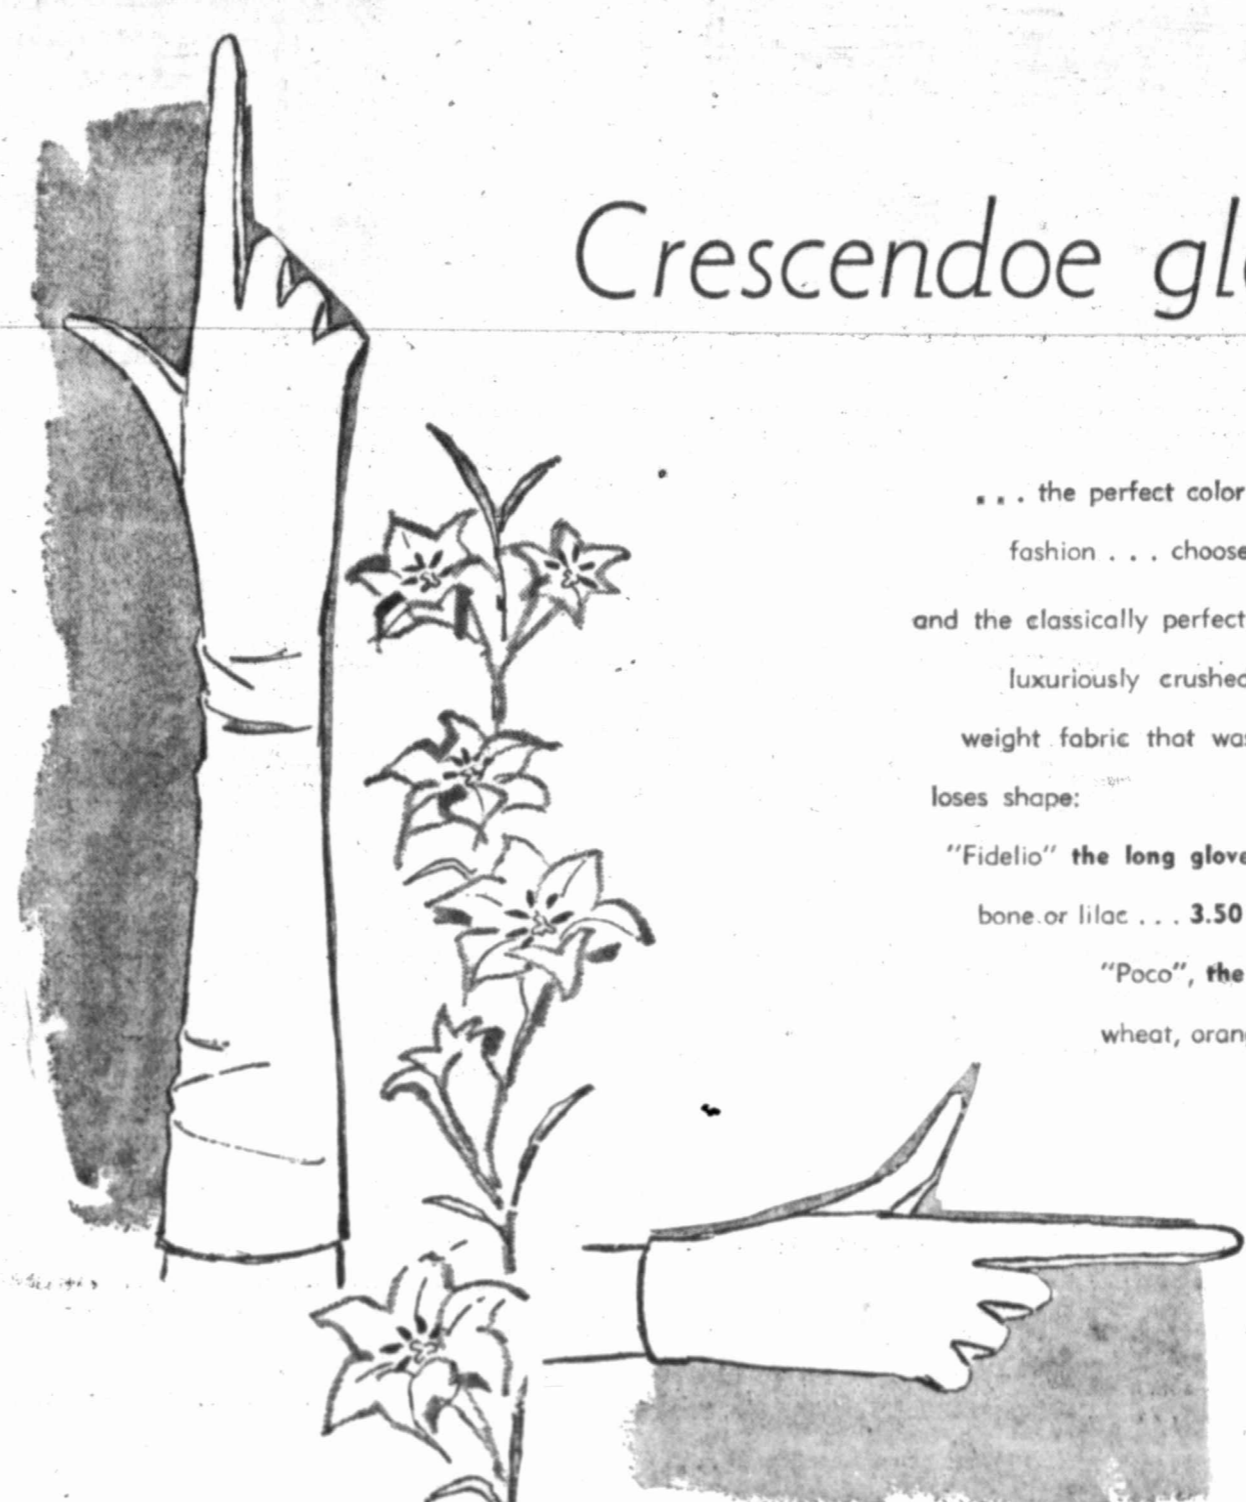

Residents who have never been in such a production are invited to try out for parts Thursday. The pageant is told by action and a narrator, so it is not necessary for members of the cast to memorize lines.

Final organization of the production and of the pageant will be completed before the casting begins. Only a few rehearsals are planned this year.

The BSCT pageant has probably attracted the largest gatherings to see a stage production in the history of this area. Over 5,000 were counted one year. The 1961 version is the fourth annual staging.

Cool Morning, Warm Afternoon

By The Associated Press

Clear skies and cool temperatures covered Texas Wednesday with a warming sun expected to shoot temperatures upward by mid-afternoon.

There had been no precipitation in more than 36 hours at 6 a.m. and none was expected through Thursday.

Temperatures, ranging from 31 at Dalhart to 62 at McAllen, at 4 a.m., were expected to soar into the upper 80s in South Central Texas during the day.

Tuesday's maximum temperatures ranged from 65 at Amarillo and Dalhart to 88 at Presidio.

Hearing On Auto Insurance Bill Draws No Opposition

AUSTIN (AP)—Two bills revising the so-called safe driving insurance plan were routinely in House committee today after a public hearing Tuesday produced no opponents.

The bills are HB18 and HB110, both somewhat similar to a pending measure by Sen. Grady Hazlewood, in the Senate.

Brad Smith, traffic safety officer for Gov. Price Daniel, told the House Insurance Committee that the merit rating plan now on the books has made "hundreds of thousands" of Texas motorists more careful.

"I think it is overwhelmingly clear that the people of this state, while generally favoring merit rating, feel there are certain inequities that should be eliminated," said Rep. Reed Quilliam of Lubbock, author of HB18.

The bills would remove a number of violations, such as running a stop sign or red light, from the list of offenses for which a motorist's insurance premium could be increased. Quilliam's bill would also remove speeding.

HB110 is by Rep. Skeet Richardson of Fort Worth. It makes a driver's violations for only the previous year count against him. Quilliam's makes offenses count back to January 1960.
