Home Wasn't Built In A Day, Nor Remodeled

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The first summer in a new house is likely to present frustrations. The tendency of new home owners is to try to do everything at once.

They want the attic expanded, a screened-in porch, flower gardens, vegetable gardens, tree screens, shade trees, a beautiful lawn, all in one season. It can't be done. Hard work and a long range plan must go into the development of your house.

Summer is the best time to consider changes. Jot down what you need and when you should do it. A 5-year plan is not too far fetched, if you must work on a budget.

Here are some suggestions: Is the view unsightly? If a neighbor keeps trash around or has an unkempt place, an evergreen screen will help offset the unpleasant view. Buy small evergreens in the fall. These are cheaper if bought small and in quantity, usually available from the state. If the idea is postponed for several years, and larger trees are then required, the cost may be prohibitive.

Do you plan a screened-in porch? Now is the time to decide where you need one, and how it is to be placed. There is no time like the present to observe whether the place you have tentatively chosen is too cool or too hot.

Will it block out light from another room? A screened-in porch should have some shade, some sun for best enjoyment. The north side of the house is not always the best place for it.

If flowers haven't materialized after all your careful planning, paint some butter-tubs in house-matching colors or buy some strawberry jars and place them in areas that could use some liveliness. Fill them with cacti and other succulents, petunias, variegated ivy.

Is the lawn more than you bargained to keep up? If so it is better to hire a young boy to keep it in shape while you do other chores. A sickly lawn should be tilled for fall treatment and reseeding.

If the lawn extends under a large shade tree, so that the grass withers, mark out the area for a ground cover of ivy, pachysandra or myrtle. If the soil is prepared properly, the plants will multiply and give you a lush green over the former bare spot.

Do you lack shade trees? Now is the time to decide where one is needed. Buy a fast growing tree that will thrive in your area.

If the vegetable garden you've planted is too large for you to handle, try to get a neighbor to assist with the upkeep in exchange for the fruits of his labors. If you can't get help, take care of the area you can do easily, rather than let your house chores go to pot.

Porch, patio or lawn furniture should not be purchased in willy-nilly fashion. It is better to start with lawn furniture that also may be used on the porch or terrace than to buy porch furniture to use outdoors.

If not weather proof, you will need to carry it back and forth every time there is a dark cloud in the sky. Some chaise lounge pads are not useable after they are hit by the first downpour. New fillings do not dry out easily.

Storage Shelves

Kitchen storage shelves that are just wide and tall enough to hold one row of groceries are extremely convenient. This way canned and packaged products do not need to be piled on top of each other.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Ratliff, Sterling City Route, and his parents are Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Middleton, Albany, Ga.

During the ceremony wedding music was provided by Dolores Ratliff, vocalist, and Pat Allen, pianist. Miss Ratliff sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was escorted to the altar, decorated with daisies, orchids, and dogwood, by her father. She wore a dress of Viennese lace fashioned with a billowing skirt and accented with daisies around the sweetheart neckline. The dress was complemented with an empire waistline and covered buttons down the back. Her accessories included a white cultured pearl necklace and matching earrings. For something old she carried a handkerchief belong to her grandmother, something new was her ensemble, and something blue was a blue garter. She carried a bouquet of orchids and daisies.

Jean Yates was the maid of honor and she wore an orchid sheath dress with a white organdy overskirt. She also wore an orchid headband and carried long stem white carnations with orchid streamers. Blanche Ratliff, bridesmaid and the bride's sister, wore an identical outfit.

Dee Ratliff, the bride's brother, was the bestman. Attendants were Edell Ratliff and John Weidon Ratliff, also brothers of the bride.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to Carlsbad Caverns the couple will reside at 1610 Johnson.

The bride is a graduate of Forsan High School where she was a member of the National Honor Society, Future Homemakers Club, pep squad, choir and the student council.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Albany High School and is associated with an uncle in the grocery business.

A reception at the church followed the ceremony and in the reception line with the couple were their mothers.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Dee Ratliff and Mrs. J. W. Ratliff. Guests were served a tiered, orchid and white wedding cake topped with the bridal couple.

Registering guests was Blanche Ratliff. From out of town were Mrs. Middleton of Albany, Ga., the bridegroom's mother and Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Ratliff of Andrews.

A SPIRITUAL BODY

By E. E. Tarbet, preacher Church of Christ, West Highway 20 P.O. Box 1352

The new Testament church is not a political body, nor a social club. It is a spiritual body. "Ye also as lively stones, are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ" (I Pet. 2:5).

Jesus separated church and state when he said, "... Render therefore unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's; and unto God the things which are God's" (Mat. 22:21).

Thus the church is not political; and the state is not religious. The state should not meddle in the things of the church; and the church should not meddle in the affairs of state.

The church has a definite mission.—a spiritual mission (I Tim. 3:15; Eph. 3:10, 11; I Cor. 16:1, 2). Therefore it is a mis-appropriation of funds and a misuse of our trust when we make the church a social club by putting it in the entertainment business. There are other institutions designed to take care of that need. The church is a blood-bought, spiritual institution with a divine mission. Adv.

Vows Read In Dallas

LAMESA (SC)—Wedding vows for Virginia Lee Holder and Robert L. Burdick were exchanged at 7 p.m. June 8 in Dallas at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Connolly Baldwin. The double ring ceremony for the couple was read by the Rev. Bruce McIver, pastor of Wilshire Baptist Church there.

Mr. and Mrs. Abe Holder of Lamesa and Mr. and Mrs. Roger L. Burdick of Fort Worth are parents of the newlyweds.

Julia Holder, sister of the bride, was soloist. Mrs. Gene Bates of Waco was the matron of honor and Lynn Holder, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid.

Thomas Cantrell of Fort Worth served as best man and ushers included Edward Holder, the bride's brother; and George Fuquero of Waco.

The bride's gown of imported nylon embroidered tulle over net and taffeta was designed with a sabbina neckline outlined in pearls. The fitted bodice had short sleeves complimented with gloves and terminated in a point at the center front waistline.

The circular skirt, with fullness of lace, net and taffeta and highlighted at the bottom edge by two pleated ruffles, swept into a graceful train at the back. The bride carried an orchid and stephanotis shower.

For their wedding trip to Acapulco, Mex., the bride chose a beige silk suit with beige and blue accessories. They will make their home in Dallas.

The bride attended Baylor University and is presently employed as a teacher in Dallas schools. The bridegroom attended Texas Wesleyan College and is vice president of Mail Messengers.

Angola Uprising Censored But Vast Terror Reported

EDITOR'S NOTE: Vets by correspondence in Angola have become rare. In this West African area, torn by strife and terror, the Portuguese are operating under wraps and enforcing a strict censorship. AP correspondent Peter Grose, stationed in the Congo, went into Angola on an old visa—and was told to depart on the next plane. But the plane didn't leave for three days. This dispatch was brought out and filed free of censorship.

By PETER GROSE

LUANDA, Angola (AP)—A Portuguese air force pilot landed his little one-engine plane in the main streets of a north Angola town a few days ago, bringing needed supplies to settlers besieged in the terror of the Angolan uprising.

European residents of Sanza Pombos were so grateful for the pilot's errand they renamed the street for him. Every day air force planes are taking off from the dream-like seaside resort of Luanda, airlifting goods and encouragement deep into the African bush. There white settlers and blacks are locked in perhaps the most gruesome chapter so far in the attempt of the black man to throw off his colonial rulers.

The Portuguese know they are at war. They are meeting terror with more terror, frenzied hatred with vengeance.

FEAR FOR LIVES
In the process many of the 4½ million people in an area twice the size of Texas are fearing for their lives. An uncountable number — well into the thousands — have already died.

The uprising is now in its fourth month and shows signs only of intensifying.

Planes and boats with Portuguese troops arrive weekly, building up for sweeping operations late next month when the tall elephant grass is fried out and burnt, depriving the native guerillas of their best hiding places. About 15,000 Portuguese troops are now on the spot ready for action. Three months ago there were no more than 1,000 white soldiers in Angola.

Since March 15, when Angolan nationalists launched their first largescale attacks, no plantation, no house in northern Angola has been safe from rampaging tribal warriors, fiery-eyed Africans waving their machetes, whipped up to a peak of excitement.

NO VILLAGE SAFE
No native village has been safe from Portuguese reprisals and grim determination to eradicate the sources of discontent, the people who think of self-government.

In this Angolan uprising killing people is not enough. In a conflict in which the generating of fear is the chief weapon for both sides, quick and simple death is too easy.

Atrocity stories—so easily exaggerated—are too consistent and well documented to be disbelieved. Burials alive, mass decapitations, cutting up of bodies are matters of fact. They are being committed by both sides.

A widespread native superstition is that people killed by bullets can be resurrected, for their bodies are still intact. Therefore the Africans must make certain their victims will not come alive to betray them. And the white men must convince the natives that death is real and final.

FRAUDULENT
Longtime Portuguese residents are convinced the uprising is fraudulent as a nationalist movement.

The attacks have been directed, in many cases launched, from outside the country, across the frontier of the former Belgian Congo. Other independent African countries are open in their moral and financial support for the natives.

Portuguese military intelligence sources state flatly that at least five of the top leaders of the uprising received training for subversive activity in Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union. They claim to have found thousands of Communist propaganda pamphlets among the attackers.

They say the primitive warriors have been drugged with marijuana and whipped into frenzies of hatred by sorcery and magic.

On their side the nationalist leaders—outside the country—in Leopoldville—tell of centuries of Portuguese colonial repression. Though many of them have lived outside the colony they consider themselves true Angolans. If they went abroad for a foreign education, it could be because there is not one institute of higher learning in Angola and no more than four high schools.

BARREN BORDERS
So the terror rages. A semicircular area along the Congo border from Noquito Maquela do Zombo is completely deserted by the villagers, who have fled across the frontier as refugees. An area to the south is also deserted—but here most villagers were not lucky enough to escape alive.

At least 90 native Protestant pastors—suspect to both sides—are missing without a trace.

The Portuguese securely control the coastal fringe north of Luanda but from about 60 miles inland to the far border the northern province is undefended. The army struggles to keep the main north-south road open, encountering skirmishes daily.

Four districts are under proclaimed martial law. Over 6,000 European women and children have been evacuated to Luanda. The men are armed and required to remain together in the towns.

How is it going to end? "We are dealing here with a chain reaction — reprisals and more reprisals," said a Luanda businessman. "It just boils down to the hatred one man can stir up for another, whatever his color."

"Maybe that will never end."

Law Dogs?

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Police here are giving serious thought to using German shepherd dogs for law enforcement work, inspector John Fitch reported Sunday.

Lamesan Gets Post With DAV

BROWNWOOD, Tex. (AP)—Disabled American Veterans named Durwood Bailey of Baytown state commander at their Texas convention Sunday.

They picked Houston as their 1962 meeting place, leaving the date to be set later.

Other officers elected are: A. A. Alexander, Dallas, senior vice commander; Anna M. Brown, Kerrville, junior vice commander; W. D. Wells, Brownwood, chaplain; and R. L. Price, Lamesa, judge advocate.

DEAR ABBY

Time To Say 'No, hTanks'

DEAR ABBY: I am so aggravated I can hardly write this, but I am going to get it in the mail and pray it makes your column if it's the last thing I do. Today I was invited to my FOURTH shower for the same girl. First her mother gave a linen shower. Then her sister gave a kitchen shower. Then her first cousin gave a greenback shower requesting $3 toward the honeymoon. And now her future mother-in-law is giving a "grocery shower" to stock her cupboards. If I go to this one it will have cost me $16. And I am not through yet because I have to buy a wedding present. I thought relatives were not supposed to give showers. Has etiquette changed? And is this shower racket as disgusting to others as it is to me? Please print your answer in big, bold type, Abby. I am sure it will interest many others, as the season is upon us again.

BLED WHITE
DEAR BLED: Etiquette has not changed. Some people have. It is entirely improper for a relative to give a shower. It should be a gathering of a girl's closest friends to surprise the bride-to-be with token gifts. The gifts should be within the means of each invited. The bride's mother usually determines the number of showers given. It is up to her to avoid duplications of the invited guests, since close friends are invited to the wedding, which requires another gift. In my opinion, to request "cash" is crude and nasty. There is only one way to stop this shower racket. Decline politely.

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a father who puts himself first in everything? He turns to the channel HE wants to see on television, and nobody in the family can say a word. He buys candy and ice cream for himself and keeps it in the refrigerator and makes other members of the family BUY it from him. He never misses church on Sunday and sits in the front row where everyone can see him. Do you think a person like this belongs in church?

QUIET WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Can you think of anyone who needs it more?

DEAR ABBY: Last Saturday I left the hot water on and my father made me pay him a dollar. This morning HE left the hot water on and when I told him he owed me a dollar, he gave me a dirty look. Don't you think he should pay ME a dollar? I am 9 years old and only get 25 cents a week allowance.

MISS TREATED
DEAR MISS: Your father should have paid you a dollar. But don't buck authority.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "Half of me is saying yes and half of me is saying no." Tell me which half is saying what and I will tell you what to do.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Be sure to

Ancient Jail Being Turned Into Museum

PORT LAVACA (AP) — Calhoun County's ancient jail is being converted into a museum.

Calhoun County's only execution took place behind its walls almost half a century ago when Henry Wilson was hanged for a $2.25 robbery in which he critically beat a Port Lavaca school teacher. In those days, executions were done locally.

There are no living witnesses to that hanging which took place on the second floor of the old jail on a scaffold built for the occasion and rigged so none of the half-dozen or so officers who took part ever knew whose hand sent Wilson to his death.

But the wife of the late W. N. Stanton, a deputy, remembers the day of the crime and its events.

Across the street from the Stanton home was a little grocery owned by the late Ray Johnson, whose sister-in-law, Miss Jeffie Hedgepeth, taught school and occasionally minded store.

On the day of the robbery, Johnson called and asked her to check up on Miss Hedgepeth, as he had been unable to reach the store by phone.

Miss Stanton found the teacher, her hair matted with blood, slumped on the floor.

At the trial Miss Hedgepeth was able to identify Wilson positively.

Wilson's loot was a silver dollar and $1.55 in smaller silver. The sheriff rigged a system of small ropes extending through a panel back of which several officers stood.

Only one of the ropes tripped the trap, although all were pulled at once on the sheriff's signal.

The old jail was replaced in 1959 by a new glass and aluminum structure, part of Calhoun County's brand new courthouse.

So now, the old building, built in 1887, is to be refurbished and will become a museum.

French Farmers Protest Policy

PARIS (AP) — Thousands of French farmers paraded through two widely separated provincial towns Sunday in demonstrations against the government's farm policy.

The demonstrations—at Auch in southwest France and Rennes in the north—followed by three days of violent protest action of 4,000 farmers in Morlaix in the northwest corner of the country.

At Auch, 5,000 farmers used tractors to block traffic for several hours. At Rennes more than 2,000 farmers filed through the central part of town, also blocking traffic.

Kennedy, Still With Pain In Back, Returns To Work

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy, still on crutches although his ailing back is better, heads back to Washington today to face a busy week.

Kennedy, traveling by jet plane, was due back in Washington in time to play host at a White House luncheon in honor of Premier Amintore Fanfani of Italy.

Assistant White House press secretary Andrew T. Hatcher said he expected Kennedy to be on crutches for several more days. The crutches, prescribed by Dr. Janet Travell, the President's personal physician, lessen the discomfort from his back injury.

Kennedy took another long dip Sunday in the heated salt water pool at the villa where he stayed while here. Afterward Hatcher relayed word from Dr. Travell that Kennedy "continues to improve."

The President missed Mass for the first Sunday since he entered the White House. Hatcher told newsmen, "I imagine it had something to do with his back."

Except for the time spent in the pool, Kennedy spent his final full day here reading and relaxing.

One story he read quoted Tass, the Soviet news agency, as saying Premier Khrushchev proposed to Kennedy at their recent Vienna meeting that a German peace conference be held at once.

Lyndon May Still Have Eye On Presidency

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lyndon B. Johnson has been thrust into government activity than any previous vice president in the following article. Jack Bell, veteran head of The Associated Press' Senate staff, examines Johnson's assignments.

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—The word around Washington is that if broad government experience and political know-how can do it, Lyndon B. Johnson will be ready if the Democrats want to nominate him for president in 1968.

The vice president is a busy man these days, penetrating further into government than any of his predecessors ever had the opportunity to.

His hours are so long and hectic time to think about anything other than the series of jobs President Kennedy has assigned to him.

But who can say that he doesn't sometimes dream of the day when he might step into the No. 1 post after Kennedy as completed a second term?

It's a long time before 1968, when Johnson will have his 60th birthday. But if Republican Richard M. Nixon could win a presidential nomination from the vice president's chair, Johnson's friends think he can do it, too.

NO ARGUMENT

They say if Kennedy continues to pursue the course he has followed since his inauguration, there won't be any argument about Johnson's qualifications to step into the younger man's shoes. Kennedy has laid out five broad fields of operation for his vice president.

Significantly the President picked Johnson to head the Space Advisory Council. The vice president thinks that is his most important job. There he is in the middle of efforts to put up communications and weather satellites—and eventually to put a man on the moon.

As head of the Equal Employment Opportunities Committee, Johnson has been getting in some licks in the civil rights field where, as a Southerner, he was politically weakest. Kennedy has asked him to undertake. This fits in with the fourth field, the international assignments the President continually is giving him. These included conferences with heads of state on his trip to Southeast Asia and one around the world, as well as a previous trip to Africa, France and England. In each of these Johnson has served as the President's personal representative.

NO HELP

Johnson recognizes that this will not help him politically in the South. But he is in the process of making himself a national man as he thinks befits the office he occupies.

Even while he was running hard for the 1960 nomination that went to Kennedy, Johnson often told friends he did not believe any Texan would be nominated for president by the Democrats in his lifetime. If the process of making himself a national man makes him more available for such a nomination, Johnson would be pleased to change his mind.

The vice president ranks his job as chief of advisers to the Peace Corps as third in line of importance in the tasks Kennedy has asked him to undertake.

This fits in with the fourth field, the international assignments the President continually is giving him. These included conferences with heads of state on his trip to Southeast Asia and one around the world, as well as a previous trip to Africa, France and England. In each of these Johnson has served as the President's personal representative.

Beyond that, Johnson was left in charge of the store when Kennedy went to Paris, Vienna and London. Keeping constantly in touch with Kennedy, the vice president presided when military, diplomatic and other chiefs were called together on the Dominican Republic crisis.

Along with House Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., the vice president has become one of Kennedy's chief advisers in a familiar fifth field—what to ask of Congress and how to go about getting it once the request has been made.

Adlai Winds Up Trip To Brazil Today

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson winds up his Brazilian visit today apparently satisfied the United States will be able to work closely with President Janio Quadros.

Because Quadros has been following an independent line since he took office in January, his attitude was a particular concern of Stevenson's on his Latin American tour as special envoy of President Kennedy.

Details of Quadros' two-hour, 15-minute talk with Stevenson Sunday at Sao Paulo were not disclosed but it was obvious they got on well together.

Stevenson said he was comforted by the extent of agreement and that he looked forward to an era of greater cooperation between the two countries.

Quadros embraced Stevenson warmly and later asserted relations between their countries are good.

It has been known for some time that Quadros was unhappy about the United States' Cuban policy. He has been urging hands off since the ill-fated April invasion of the island.

Stevenson, nearing the halfway mark of his 18-day Latin American tour, also has been finding other countries cool toward further action against the regime of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

On the other main problem Stevenson has been discussing with South American leaders — Kennedy's plans for economic improvement — Stevenson indicated Quadros agreed this was the best way to defend the hemisphere against extremists.

There was no occasion for public gatherings to see Stevenson during his trip here because he was trying to avoid the limelight. But it appeared that the attitude of the Brazilian people was friendly. The only political demonstration in the country during his stay was in Recife, 1,150 miles from Rio, and was not connected with his visit.

Stevenson leaves today for Paraguay, where he expects to get the approval of dictator Alfredo Stroessner for U.S. policies on Cuba and Kennedy's economic program.

Stevenson already has visited Venezuela, Argentina and Uruguay. He ran into his first public opposition Friday in Uruguay when Castro supporters called a mass meeting to protest U.S. policy and repudiate his mission.

Negroes Fail To Open Pools

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—An attempt to break segregation barriers at a municipal swimming pool failed Sunday when the Negroes found it and three others closed because of bad weather.

It is city policy to close swimming pools when thunderstorms are in the area, according to George G. Robinson, director of the Recreation Department.

A spokesman for the Jacksonville Youth Council of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said the Negroes would try again to integrate city pools.

New Hurricane Season To Open

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Another hurricane season starts Thursday with forecasting, tracking and warning machinery primed for a quick fix on any potentially dangerous gale.

The season is an arbitrary period, extending to Nov. 15, in which the U.S. Weather Bureau's records indicate hurricanes are most likely to form.

The first hurricane of 1961 will be called Anna in accordance with a series of names that goes through the alphabet to Wendy.

19 Of 36 Aboard Airliner Die In Crash Near Cairo

CAIRO (AP)—A KLM Lockheed Electra crashed shortly before it was to land in Cairo today, killing 19 of the 36 persons on board.

The plane was carrying 29 passengers and a crew of seven. KLM said the 17 survivors included 13 passengers and four of the crew.

KLM said the prop-jet crashed into a hill just outside the airport as it was coming in to land. It caught fire as soon as it hit, an airline spokesman said.

Among the passengers were nine KLM employees on vacation. The airline said all the other passengers were foreigners but could not give their nationalities immediately.

It was the second mishap to a KLM plane within 24 hours. An engine on a Dutch DC7 caught fire and went out of control on a flight from Hartford.

Stickney Aide Seeks Woman For Evidence

HOUSTON (AP)—The lawyer for convicted killer Howard B. Stickney is trying to find a woman he says can prove evidence was withheld from Stickney's murder trial.

The lawyer, Bob Looney of Houston, said Sunday he hoped to produce the unidentified woman at a habeas corpus hearing Wednesday in Corpus Christi when Judge Cullen Briggs is to rule on a petition from Looney.

Briggs stopped Stickney's execution minutes before the Houston man was scheduled to die Friday night for the Galveston beach murder of Mrs. Clifford Barnes.

Neil McKay, the man who prosecuted Stickney, said the idea of evidence being withheld was fantastic and not true.

Looney said T. L. Parker, a former investigator for the district attorney's office, took a statement from the mystery woman during the investigation of the case, and was told to forget it by someone in the district attorney's office.

Looney said the woman, whom he had not found Sunday night, told Parker Stickney had a seizure the night of the slaying and Mrs. Barnes was alive at the time.

U.S. Team Leaves Tonight For Castro Tractor Deal

WASHINGTON (AP)—A four-man American team leaves for Havana tonight in hopes of closing a deal with Prime Minister Fidel Castro to swap 500 tractors for 1,200 Cuban invasion prisoners.

The U.S. technical team representing the Tractors-for-Freedom Committee cabled Castro Sunday night that it would arrive in Havana at 8 a.m. Tuesday after an overnight stop in Miami.

The path to Havana seemed cleared of any official obstacles. Representatives of both the U.S. and Cuban governments said the team could get the necessary travel permits in Washington this morning.

But it remained to be seen whether Castro would agree to the terms the committee is offering. The pro-Communist Cuban has been talking publicly about deals the Americans say they will not accept.

A spokesman said the U.S. team of four non-government farm machinery experts hopes to complete arrangements in Havana in about a day, returning to the United States Wednesday.

In its cable to Castro, the group said it had power to negotiate only on details of the committee version of a swap and is in no position to discuss any other matters.

The Tractors-for-Freedom Committee is headed by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, labor leader Walter P. Reuther and Dr. Milton Eisenhower, brother of the former president. The group of private citizens was set up with President Kennedy's help after Castro's May 17 offer in a TV speech to exchange his captives from the U.S.-aided invasion for 500 tractors. The committee has been soliciting donations to pay for the tractors.

Castro also has talked about political prisoner exchanges, a subject unacceptable to the committee. He has been vague about what prisoners he would return.

The members of the technical team are Prof. Roy Bainer, head of the University of California agricultural engineering department; C. H. Hansen, asst. professor of agricultural engineering at Michigan State University; J. B. Liljedhal, agricultural engineering professor at Purdue University, and Duane P. Greathouse, director of the United Auto Worker Union's agricultural implementation department. An interpreter will accompany the group.

Symbol Payment At Church Made

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—A symbolic rental payment of one red rose was made Sunday by the congregation of the Zion Lutheran Church in nearby Manheim.

The ceremony at the 68th annual Feast of Roses fulfilled a request in the deed of Baron William Stigel, famed ironmaster and glassmaker when he gave the congregation its church site in 1772.

Mrs. Don Shettel, of Harrisburg, Pa., represented the Stigel heirs. She was presented the rose by Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa.

A Devotional for Today

When a man's ways please the Lord, he maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him. (Proverbs 16:7.) PRAYER: Our Father, teach us to realize how much depends upon everyone's giving good account of his stewardship. Help us to become worthy stewards for Thee. In the Redeemer's name. Amen.

An Unnatural Attitude

Roscoe Drummond, a veteran columnist who is not given to extremes and who is respected for his objectivity as well as his perception, has written a message which will be repeated. In essence it is this: "Too many Americans, including some public officials, are saying that the U.S. just isn't strong enough to stand up against Communist aggression and that all is hopeless."

leads to national paralysis. It leads to spineless acceptance of Communist expansion because the Communists are ready to risk war for what they want we are afraid to risk war for what we want—our own freedom and others."

Strengthening Enforcement Power

The United States Supreme Court, in 5-to-4 decisions, has substantially strengthened the enforcement power of the two main federal statutes designed to control Communist subversion. The majority of American public opinion and Congress will welcome these decisions, and we believe rightly so, but the genuine democratic concern for civil rights of the dissenting justices—Warren, Douglas, Black and Brennan—is due thoughtful respect.

and necessity of overthrowing and destroying the government of the United States by force and violence." This act was held constitutional in a 6-to-2 decision by the Supreme Court in 1951, but its teeth were pulled by the Yates case in 1957 which exempted "abstract" advocacy "divorced from any effort to instigate action to that end."

Laughter Doesn't Mean Humor

Utterable utterances: REV. THEODORE HESSBURGH, president of Notre Dame University: "We live today in the threatening shadow of thermo-nuclear destruction and theologize about the morality of war as though the spear had not been superseded by the ICBM."

SYDNEY J. HARRIS, columnist: "Some persons fancy that they have a large sense of humor because they laugh a lot; but the dynamics of laughter range all the way from hate to hysteria, and much of what passes for merriment is merely veiled hostility or muffled anxiety."

AL CAPP, the cartoonist: "The more Washington correspondents a paper features on its front pages, the faster the reader turns to the back pages where he can read the reports of people he really understands, about things that really interest him, like the comics and advice to the lovers."

A SPINSTER's letter to a New York newspaper: "The income tax is one of the greatest hoaxes ever perpetrated on the American people. Why must we spinsters and bachelors support all the brats and delinquents that are let loose to prey on innocent people? Some people are like animals; they breed like rabbits and then expect us to take care of their offspring."

REV. MARTIN LUTHER KING of Atlanta, Ga.: "Any religion that professes to be concerned with the souls of men and is not concerned with the slums that damn them, the economic conditions that strangle them and the social conditions that cripple them, is a dry-as-dust religion."

President Needs To Slow Down

WASHINGTON—Everybody is sorry to learn that President Kennedy's back is giving him trouble again. Though only 44 years old, he still suffers occasionally from a strain developed in college-day athletics. It was aggravated by a war injury.

But the President's health has been a source of worry lately for other reasons. Many people here feel he has been working too hard. This is, perhaps, a natural tendency for a new President. There is much to do—so much to learn—that it produces a kind of impatience, if not impulsiveness.

MR. KENNEDY has never been the executive of a large organization and therefore has had little experience with the problem of delegating responsibility to others. He likes to do things himself—to get at questions firsthand and to communicate directly with subordinates in the government who are handling a problem rather than go through their superiors.

This is a commendable desire but, unfortunately in government as well as in business, there is a limit to what the top executive can afford to do with his time every day if he doesn't want to become unduly engrossed in detail. After a while the executive who tries to do too much in a day finds that he really hasn't much time to think.

Texas Drive-In Grocery Genius Dies In Dallas

DALLAS (AP)—Joe C. (Jody) Thompson, who was credited with transforming the corner ice house into a multi-million dollar drive-in grocery enterprise, died Sunday.

The 60-year-old Dallas civic leader and board chairman of the Southland Corp., had been critically ill in a hospital since May 15. Under his leadership a few dozen ice houses in Dallas became the present chain of 7-Eleven Stores and Cabell Minit Markets.

As board chairman and former president, he headed a multi-million-dollar corporation which has more than 300 stores in Texas and 105 on the East Coast.

Southland Corp. subsidiaries include 7-Eleven Food Stores of Texas, Oak Farms Dairies, Circle T Meats, Cabell's Dairy, Cabell's Minit Markets and Southland Ice Co., the parent firm for which Thompson first went to work after his graduation from the University of Texas in 1922.

SURVIVORS

He leaves his widow, the former Miss Margaret Philp of Dallas, and three sons, John Thompson of Dallas, Southland Corp. president; Jere Thompson, president of 7-Eleven Stores of Florida, and Joe Thompson Jr., a University of Texas student.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at the family home here. Requiem mass will be celebrated at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in Holy Trinity Catholic Church, where Thompson was a member.

Thompson was born Jan. 25, 1901, to Scotch-Irish parents in Waxahachie, Ellis County. Shortly afterward, the family moved to Dallas.

He began his 39-year business career in Dallas the day after he was graduated from the University of Texas with degrees of a bachelor of arts and bachelor of business administration.

GROOMED HORSES

At the university Thompson was president of his senior class and manager of the school's football and basketball teams. The day after discarding his graduating robe, he was grooming horses that pulled ice wagons and was loading the blocks of ice they delivered for the old Southland Ice Co.

Two years later Thompson was seeking a financial cushion for his marriage to the daughter of the late postmaster John W. Philp.

He suggested promoting ice-cold water melons—Texas' first—through the various ice houses. The plan brought him a $2,300 profit that summer.

By 1927, he had discarded the prongs and groomer's brush to become the firm's secretary-treasurer. That year helped put into effect another employee's suggestion for Southland Ice to start selling milk, bread and eggs. These sales at 21 outlets are said to have made them the first drive-in grocery stores.

BOUGHT OUT

Southland Ice continued to branch out, but the 1929 depression brought setbacks and the company went into bankruptcy. Thompson headed a group of Texas business men who bought the properties in 1934.

More stores were added. At first they were called Totem Stores. The name was changed to 7-Eleven Stores in 1945. Meanwhile the parent Southland Corp. branched into the dairy business in 1936 and now says its Oak Farms Dairies branch is the largest independent dairy in the state.

Southland established Circle T Meats, offering quick-frozen and packaged meats, in 1954 and the Cabell Dairy and Minit Markets became part of the system in 1959.

Thompson also was a director and former president of the Cotton Bowl Association, a director of the Republic National Bank of Dallas and the State Fair of Texas, a regent of the University of Texas and a former Dallas and Highland Park city councilman.

No Foundation

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexican Ministry of Foreign Relations sources said Sunday a report that the Mexican and U.S. presidents might meet at the border soon were without foundation. It was said that if President Adolfo Lopez Mateos was contemplating such action, he already would have asked congressional permission.

Gulf Areas Get Drought-Breaker

By The Associated Press

Drought-breaking downpours of up to 8 1/2 inches brought dollars to Texas coastal farmers and stockmen Sunday. Streets at Freeport were flooded for a time.

"The rain was worth nearly $1 million to Brazoria County farmers and ranchers," said Walter L. Crosby of Beach Port, 5 miles west of Freeport.

Some streets were closed by high water at Freeport, which got 6 1/2 inches of rain, 4.06 inches of it in 90 minutes. Palacios received 2.06 inches. Showers were widespread throughout the central and coastal areas.

The rain gauge on Crosby's farm measured 8 1/2 inches during a 24-hour period.

"Corn, cane and hay especially needed rain," he said. "The dry weather had begun to affect the price of cattle. Some stockmen were selling their cattle because they didn't have grass to feed them."

Corpus Christi measured 2.37 inches of rain between noon and 6 p.m. Sunday. Other official reports included: Victoria 87 of an inch, Galveston 51, Austin .10, College Station .05, and Houston .01.

Mayor J. O. Fossil Jr. of Brazoria, 15 miles west of Freeport, said the rain "was wonderful for us. Pastures and crops were suffering but the rain came too late for some corn that was planted early," he added.

Light rain continued Monday in the El Paso area and skies were partly cloudy over East Texas, the interior of South Central Texas and the Panhandle. Elsewhere, Texas skies were clear.

Temperatures at dawn ranged from Dulhart's 63 degrees to 77 at Cotulla, Laredo, Corpus Christi, College Station, Galveston and Beaumont. There was fog at Alice and Lufkin.

U.N. Is Topic At Neutral Meet

CAIRO (AP)—The role and the structure of the United Nations is one of six subjects that will be on the agenda of the uncommitted countries when their leaders meet in Bled, Yugoslavia, Sept. 1, officials announced Sunday night after a preparatory meeting here.

Imports Push Drive For Shrimp Bill

DALLAS (AP)—A big jump in shrimp imports has prompted the introduction of a bill to protect both U.S. and Latin American shrimpers, Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., said Sunday.

Noting that imports currently fill 45 per cent of the market in this country compared to only 5 per cent in 1940, the senator said, "This proposal is not aimed at our Latin American friends but at the danger of a great swarming of American markets by shrimp from the Indonesian waters and from the southeast shores of Asia."

Yarborough discussed the measure he has offered in a radio program recorded for use by Texas stations.

"The bill I'm co-sponsoring would not curb this former rate of imports but it would establish a country-by-country quota system for the future based on imports in 1960," he said.

This would protect "the domestic market and the market of our Latin American friends to the south who already have their established rates of imports," the senator said.

Imports within the quotas would be duty free, those exceeding the quota would be subject to tariffs. This plan is based on findings of the United States Tariff Commission.

Establishing a fair and equitable quota market would not only protect American shrimpers, but in the long run would also protect foreign shrimpers because it would help assure them of a stable market in the future.

CINEMA COMMENT

By Bob Smith

"One-Eyed Jacks" is an unusual western.

Its main strength is its ribald realism. The plot may be predictable at times, but the language, actions of the characters, and the sets, costumes and scenery look like what historians claim the Old West really was like.

The acting, as one might expect with a top cast, is fine. The only criticism to be made in this department is that Marlon Brando, one of the finer actors of our generation and a good director also, is not capable of directing himself. In his attempts to create a character of a close-mouthed western badman, he starts mumbling his lines inaudibly as he ever does when directing himself. This is the movie's greatest weakness.

Otherwise, "One-Eyed Jacks" is one of the best of its class in several years. It is the story of two men, Brando and Karl Malden, who are cornered by Rurales after robbing a bank in Sonora, Mexico. Malden double-crosses his partner and makes off with the gold for freedom in the States, while Brando serves five years in a Mexican pest-hole prison.

Brando escapes and tracks down his partner in a California city where the latter has become sheriff and has married a handsome Mexican woman (Kate Jurado) and adopted her way daughter.

Brando exacts his vengeance, but not in the way writers of western tradition usually have it. In fact, this story is more in the tradition of "Hamlet" in that practically everyone gets killed, and all are hurt in one way or another.

To a person who spent his childhood under the shadow of Adolph Hitler, a movie like "Mein Kampf" brings back chills and feelings of horror. To the new generations which have arisen since World War II, these portions of history must always remain as impersonal as the First World War was to my generation.

Yet, through documentary films, it is possible for younger minds to comprehend at least partially the enormity of the Nazi crime.

"Mein Kampf" is made up almost entirely of German film clips captured after World War II. The editors spliced in other strips from newsreels, both Allied and German, and from other sources. Extensive usage also was made of still photos.

The result was a documentation of cruelty and sadism, and of a nation gone mad. Technically, the film suffers from many flaws, including poor editing in spots, but mostly from the age and poor condition of film. However, this latter flaw actually increases the sense of authenticity.

Many people who remember the horror of Hitler will not want to see "Mein Kampf." They have already seen enough to last a lifetime. Yet, considering that the world still is largely ruled by dictators, it might behoove us to remind ourselves occasionally of what happens when a nation loses its freedom, however uncomfortable that reminder may be.

Probably, ultra-rightists will object to the fact that the narrator of "Mein Kampf" sits rather hard on the Nazis and not too hard on the Communists. Yet, this is the story of a period in history when little was known of the Soviet Union, a nation that kept to itself and whose foreign agents had not yet been exposed as they are today—a period when Hitler and his Third Reich were the mortal dangers to the world.

"Mein Kampf," in fact, might well serve as a warning to our newer generations—for it is now known to the world that the Communists are as capable of sadistic crimes as were the Nazis. It might help us to remember that there is really no such thing politically as right and left, but only authoritarian and libertarian; and that Communist and fascist are the same breed of rat.

If you are not afflicted with political apathy, see "Mein Kampf," and take the kids—a nightmare or two for the youngsters now might mean a world of tomorrow freed from the sort of living nightmare depicted in "Mein Kampf."

Rusk Says U.S. Doesn't Agree On Russ Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk says it's obvious the United States does not agree with the latest Soviet proposals on Germany and Berlin.

Rusk told newsmen Sunday night "anything involving Germany and Berlin is something that will have to be discussed with other governments." Other U.S. officials reported consultations would proceed with Britain and France, the two other West Berlin occupation powers, and with West Germany and others.

President Kennedy will bring up the Soviet proposals when he meets at the White House today with Italian Prime Minister Amintore Fanfani, Italy is one of America's North Atlantic allies.

The Soviet proposals were contained in a memo which Moscow made public Saturday. The Soviets had handed the memo to U.S. officials at Vienna a week ago following Kennedy's meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

U.S. officials said the memo generally restated in written form what Khrushchev had told Kennedy. They said the memo basically was a reoffering of previous Soviet proposals which the West has rejected.

Khrushchev called for an immediate peace conference on Germany. The conference would write a peace treaty to fix Germany's irrevocable borders, make West Berlin a demilitarized "free city," end the allied occupation of Berlin and turn over control of its lifelines to the East German Communists.

If the West does not want an immediate conference on Germany, Khrushchev said, then West and Communist East Germany should work out a settlement themselves in six months.

The Western allies have long held that a German peace treaty can be written only by the wartime coalition that defeated Hitler's Germany and a freely elected government representing all of a reunited Germany. They steadfastly have refused to sit down at a conference table with East Germans.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin united Sunday in terming unacceptable Khrushchev's proposal for a peace conference without prior German reunification.
