Two Dead, Nine Hurt In Two-Car Crash

Two Stanton children were killed in the sedan shown in the upper left after it was involved in a wreck with the pickup, lower right. The accident occurred at the intersection of the Gail road and the Snyder highway at 9 p.m. Sunday. Seven other passengers in the sedan were hospitalized.

Two Children Killed In Auto Crash Sunday

Two Stanton children were killed and eight other persons injured, several seriously, in a car-pickup collision near here at 9 p.m. Sunday.

A Big Spring man has been charged with murder with a motor vehicle.

The tragedy occurred a mile north of Big Spring at the intersection of the Snyder (SH 350) and Gail (SH 609) highways.

Dead on arrival at the hospital were:

TERESA MARIE FOSTER, 13, Stanton.
SIDNEY ERVIN FOSTER JR., 5, Stanton.

They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Foster Sr., Stanton, and were two of 10 passengers in a 1961 Chevrolet sedan driven by L. L. Brantley, 32, Stanton Chevrolet dealer. Brantley is in Howard County Hospital Foundation in what is said to be a serious condition.

Driver of the second car, a 1954 Ford pickup, was Jim Buck Matthews, 37, a fireman for the Texas & Pacific railroad. His address is given as 1702 Settles. He has been released from custody on a $5,000 bond set Monday morning by Walter Grice, justice of the peace, on charges of murder by a motor vehicle. Matthews suffered a cut on the left arm in the accident. He was held in jail overnight.

Others hospitalized in the crash are Mrs. Iva Jean Brantley, 30, wife of the driver of the Chevrolet, and their infant son, Mike, age about 3 months. It is not believed their condition is serious. They are in the Howard County Hospital Foundation.

In the Malone and Hogan Foundation Hospital are Sidney Ervin Foster Sr., 34, and Kathryn Hughes Foster, 31, the parents of the two children who were killed. Also in the same hospital is Patricia Ann Foster, 11, another of their children. Full extent of their injuries was not known on Monday morning.

In the same hospital is Mrs. Nancy Lou Harvey, 25, wife of Jerry Kenneth Harvey, 28. The Harveys are from Ranger and were in the Brantley car. Harvey escaped with superficial injuries and was not admitted to the hospital.

Foster is a salesman for Brantley, and the three family groups had gone to Lake J. B. Thomas to spend the Sunday holiday. They were en route home at the time of the crash.

Kel Davis, state highway patrol officer, investigated the accident.

The Brantley car, Davis said, was traveling west on the Snyder highway. The pickup, driven by Matthews, was going east. As the two vehicles approached the intersection of the Bail road, Matthews swung to the left to turn onto the Gail highway. The pickup, Davis related, crashed into the left side of the sedan.

The Chevrolet was demolished and made a wild plunge into a field on the north side of the road. Davis said all of the victims were out of the wrecked car and scattered over the terrain when he reached the scene.

Nalley-Picicle ambulances were called and took the injured to the hospital. The two children were pronounced dead on arrival.

Their bodies are at the Nalley-Picicle Funeral home where arrangements are pending.

Teresa Marie was born in Dallas and Sidney Ervin in Breckenridge. They are survived by their parents, their sister, Patricia Ann, and their maternal grandmother, Mrs. Sidney Foster of Corsicana.

Davis said he would seek to have Matthews taken before the Howard County grand jury which convened today. Murder with a motor vehicle is a felony.

Davis said that Matthews made no statement to him or to other officers regarding the accident.

Kuwait, Britain Reject Bid By Iraq To Annex Territory

LONDON (AP)—Britain and Kuwait rejected today Iraqi Premier Abdul Karim Kassem's move to annex the rich Persian Gulf oil sheikdom, Kuwait.

Britain also reaffirmed a pledge to go to the aid of the ruler, Sheik Abdullah Al-Salim As-Sabah if asked.

But qualified diplomats reported that the ruler made no request for immediate help in talks at his palace today with Britain's representative, John Richmond.

The sheik and the British agreed instead they would try to resist Kassem's takeover move calmly and quietly.

MODIFY

Both hope Kassem will be persuaded to modify his stand. Both are anxious to avert a major new Middle-East crisis that could upset the stability of the sheikdom that supplies 40 per cent of Britain's oil.

Britain ended its protectorate over Kuwait last week, but announced it would continue to guarantee Kuwait against aggression if the sheikdom asked for aid.

"Kuwait is an independent, sovereign state," a Foreign Office spokesman said.

Kuwait is one of Britain's main oil suppliers.

OIL RESOURCES

Oil resources in the 5,800-square-mile territory are worked by the Kuwait Oil Co.—jointly owned by the British Petroleum

Co. and the American Gulf Oil Corp. Output in 1959 topped 68 million tons of crude oil.

Kassem's claim seemed to signal a political—rather than military—campaign to take over the territory. The Iraqi soldier-leader announced Sunday he would send notes to all governments with the Baghdad authorities have relations setting forth his case.

But Iraq put up a belligerent front. A dispatch from Baghdad, the capital, said Iraq's army chief of staff called the premier pledges of support.

The chief of staff said the Iraqi army "who destroyed the fortress of imperialism in the Middle East is ready at your disposal."

REPERCUSSIONS

There were repercussions in the Middle East, where the rival ambitions of President Nasser of the United Arab Republic and those of Kassem have clashed.

A dispatch from Damascus said the Arab League Council might hold an urgent session soon to take up what was called the Iraq-Kuwait crisis.

Damascus newspapers bantered Kassem's claim without comment other than to call it a surprise. But Nasser has shown more than passing interest in Kuwait and its future.

In his statement, the Iraqi premier insisted that Kuwait belonged to Iraq by historical right.

Kassem told a news conference Sunday night the takeover would be peaceful and the ruling sheik, Sir Abdullah As-Salim As-Sabah, 66, would be named chief administrator of the 5,800-square-mile territory.

LED REVOLT

Kassem, who led the revolt that toppled Iraq's Hashemite monarchy in 1958, warned the sheik, however, that if he misused his office, he would be considered rebellious.

The British Foreign Office first comment was that "it is Kuwait's affair now." Diplomatic sources

Special Group Meets Tuesday

A meeting to establish a membership relations committee at the Chamber of Commerce has been scheduled for noon Tuesday at the Wagon Wheel Restaurant, according to Clyde McMahon, chairman of the membership committee.

Some 15 civic leaders have been invited to attend.

The committee would act as the official host to guest visiting dignitaries, to be a sales force for the city and to sell membership to new businessmen in Big Spring.

suggested, however, that Britain would be ready to move in with aid if Kuwait sought it.

When it ended the protectorate last week, Britain announced it would continue to guarantee Kuwait against aggression provided the sheikdom asked for aid.

Questioned about Kassem's motives in annexing Kuwait, a diplomatic source in London said the sheikdom "is a very valuable prize—and that is a good enough reason." The ruling sheik has been receiving an estimated $3 million a day from a crude oil output that totaled more than 500 million barrels in 1959.

FOURTH IN OIL

The American Gulf Oil Corp. and the British Petroleum Co. have been jointly engaged in exploiting the resources of Kuwait, which ranks fourth in world oil production after the United States, Venezuela and the Soviet Union. Iraq's output was more than 300 million barrels in 1959.

One London diplomat questioned Kassem's claim that Iraq is entitled to Kuwait for historical reasons. He said Kuwait had been recognized as an independent kingdom after World War I, when it was carved out of the three former Turkish provinces of Basra, Baghdad and Mosul.

Kennedy Moves To Stop Strike

Invokes T-H Act, Names Board

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today invoked the Taft-Hartley Act in an effort to halt the strike of maritime unions.

In an executive order, the President said the strike will, if permitted to continue, imperil the national health and safety.

At the same time, Kennedy set up a three-member emergency board to consider facts and circumstances of the dispute between sea-going unions and ship operators.

Kennedy set a deadline of Friday for the board to make its report.

WILL REPORT

The board, under Taft-Hartley law, will make no recommendations, but will merely report on the issues of the dispute.

Kennedy, unless the strike is settled in the meantime, presumably will then seek an injunction to halt the strike for an 80-day cooling-off period.

The first step of the injunctive machinery is to ask for a temporary restraining order. Under the law, the federal judge who gets the application must grant the temporary restraining order.

Kennedy named David L. Cole as chairman of the emergency board.

Cole is former head of the federal mediation and conciliation service.

Other members are Samuel I. Rosenman of New York and Prof. James J. Healy of the Harvard Business School.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg told reporters the board is expected to act very promptly.

INTERRUPTIONS

Goldberg has given the President a report on a weekend survey of the strike's impact.

In a statement accompanying his executive order, Kennedy said the strike already has resulted in serious interruptions in the movement of food, oil and other commodities.

The supply lifelines to the state of Hawaii have been cut, Kennedy said. "There have been delays in the shipment of military cargoes."

Kennedy noted the suggestion of some union leaders that they are willing to ease the strike to permit the movement of military supplies and essential commercial cargoes.

TACTICAL

"These suggestions appear, on first impression, more tactical than substantial," Kennedy said.

"I request the board of inquiry to consider these suggestions however, and to include findings of fact regarding them in the report the board will submit to me."

Kennedy said that he was anxious that the dispute be settled through collective bargaining.

He urged that the unions and the ship owners involved to continue their bargaining, and use the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, as well as the Emergency Board of Inquiry, in an effort to settle the dispute.

The action today does not bar the unions from continuing the strike.

Under the Taft-Hartley Act, the 80-day cooling-off period does not begin to run until a restraining order is actually issued.

OTHER PROCEDURES

Kennedy said in his statement that he favored more flexible procedures for dealing with labor disputes such as the maritime strike.

He said Goldberg had sought, in the course of this dispute, to develop such procedures, but has been unable to obtain the consent of all parties. Goldberg had suggested the creation of a commission to study the dispute and make recommendations, rather than have it go through Taft-Hartley procedures.

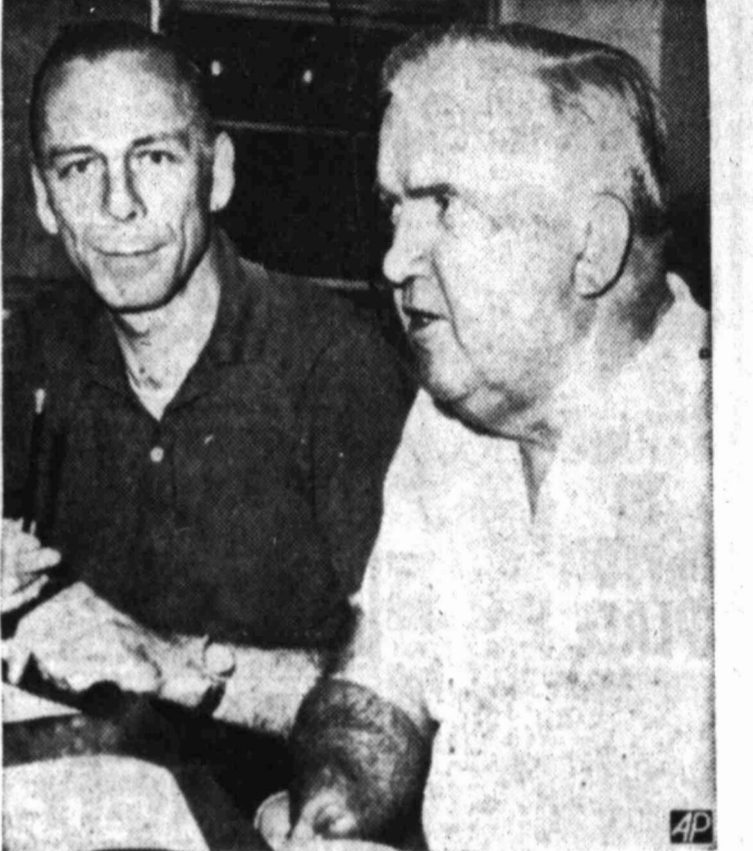

Kennedy said the dispute "presents new evidence of the imperative need for modifications in the present law."

11TH DAY

The strike, now in its eleventh day, involves virtually all American shipping companies and 70,000 men.

The striking unions are the National Maritime Union, Seafarers International Union, National Marine Engineers, International Organizations of Masters, Mates and Pilots, the American Radio Association, the Radio Officers Union, and the Staff Officers Association.

An estimated 150 ships, including passenger liners, are tied up on the East, Gulf and West coasts. Strike losses have run to many millions of dollars a day and from Hawaii have come reports of dwindling food supplies and a piling up of exports.

Union Leaders Reject Strike Truce

Jesse M. Calhoun, left, President of the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association, and Paul Hall, Seafarers International Union President, reject newsmen during press conference in New York to announce rejection of a strike truce proposed by U.S. Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg. The union officials said the proposed 60-day truce in the maritime strike would mean "a surrender of our basic function and rights as a free trade union."

Storms crackle, forcing families to flee floods.

Wichita Falls also was beset by high water and 8 families were taken to higher ground. Another 100 to 100 families ignored warnings and sat the flood out. Rain there measured 4.78 inches.

EXPENSIVE HOMES

The worst misery was in the wealthiest section of Richland Hills, a Fort Worth suburb. There, 100 occupied houses and 11 vacant ones had floods up to their rooflines as Big Fossil Creek poured an avalanche of water into the area of $15,000 to $40,000 houses, almost without warning.

Two men were swept to their deaths in floods at Haslet. Alton Theodore Young, 30, of Rhame and Oliver James Shaffter, 70, of Fort Worth drove a pickup truck into a ditch swollen by rain. They didn't know the culvert had been swept away.

Haltom City, adjoining Richland

Hills east of Fort Worth, was plagued by Little Fossil Creek. Water ran 6 inches deep in 10 houses and a bridge washed out.

Sections of Fort Worth proper were flooded.

HIGHER THAN 1957

The flood at Richland Hills was 2.3 feet higher than the devastating overflow in 1957. The crest hit at 8 a.m. Sunday and within minutes the water was up to the ceiling in some homes. Police sirens resounded through the streets, warning residents of the flood danger.

Richland Hills had eight inches of rain between midnight Saturday and 8 a.m. Sunday. Haltom City's rain gauge holds six inches and it ran over.

The floods subsided during the night, sending the Trinity River on a swift rise. The stream reached 30 feet in Dallas soon after midnight and still was rising slowly. The city was protected by levees, however, and only bottom lands were flooded.

Heavy rains fell along the coast. The Weather Bureau measured 1.26 inches at Port Arthur and 1.17 at Houston in six hours to midnight Sunday.

Other heavy rains included Justin 5.25 inches, Bridgeport 4.73, Benbrook 3.85, downtown Fort Worth 3.68, Decatur 3.70, Rockwall 3.45, Newport 3.25, Lillian 3.50, Burleson 2.72, Rossmore 2.32, Lewisville 2.37, Whitney 2.36, Grapevine 2.27, Gordonville 2.82, Crandall 2.18, Kaufman 1.88, Paducah 1.50, Springtown 1.91, and Longview 1.10. Lighter rains fell at scores of places.

TOO MUCH

Cotton farmers had too much rain and eagerly waited for sunshine. Ranchers were pleased.

For several hours the western part of North Central Texas and the eastern part of the Panhandle were under a severe thunderstorm focus Sunday night. The Weather Bureau cancelled the forecast, however, noting that the thunderstorm activity wasn't expected to be severe as it moved south Monday.

To the north, however, Carnegie, Okla., had damaging wind, hail the size of golf balls and heavy rain. The town is 35 miles west of Oklahoma City. Heavy rain and hurricane force winds of 75 miles per hour hit Central Oklahoma.

Thunderstorms in Texas tapered off toward dawn. The Weather Bureau said widely scattered thunderstorms can be expected again during the afternoon.

Y Captains To Meet

Team captains are due to meet briefly at 5 p.m. today to prepare for the all-out effort to retire the remaining debt on the YMCA.

Approximately 50 workers are anticipated in two divisions headed by K. H. McGibbon and Clyde McMahon. Details of organization will be explained and then captains will immediately begin drafting their workers. Goal of the campaign is $56,000, which will provide for the remaining obligations of the new YMCA plant valued at well over a quarter of a million dollars.

Seven Die At Blind Approach

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Seven persons were killed Sunday night in head-on collision of two automobiles on a hump-backed overpass that has a blind approach at each end.

The only survivor was Anthony Besnynek, 22, whose mother and sisters were killed.

CONFERENCE ON LAOS

Co-Chairmen Hope To Keep It Alive

GENEVA (AP)—The co-chairmen of the international conference on Laos met today to determine how to keep the conference alive until Laotian leaders settle their internal disputes.

A British spokesman said the pace of the meetings might be slowed down to three a week until the three princes of Laos send a unified delegation to Geneva. Britain and the Soviet Union are the co-chairmen.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, the neutralist leader who is virtually certain to become the next premier of Laos, predicted Sunday night that the Laotian crisis would end soon and a national coalition government would be formed.

DEGENERATED

The Geneva conference itself has degenerated in public at least, into a forum for exchanging charges.

The Chinese Communists today accused the International Control Commission of interfering in Laotian domestic affairs. Canada's representative said the commission needed more equipment to travel in Laos and check on cease-fire violations. He accused the Communists of blocking requests for planes and other equipment.

Souvanna predicted a coalition government would be formed in Laos by July 20 but said American officials here said Souvanna appeared overconfident.

Souvanna told newsmen Sunday he will hold another meeting next month with the other two Laotian princes — pro-Western Boua Oun, premier of the royal Laotian government, and pro-Communist Souphanouvong of the Pathet Lao. He said they will draft a joint government proposal for presentation to King Savang Vathana, the ruler of the strategic jungle kingdom.

JOINT DECISION

Souvanna added: "I could easily go to the king myself but this would be presumptuous. Any decision will be a joint one."

The three political princes at a meeting last week in Zurich agreed to ask the king to dismiss their future government "in the interest of perfect neutrality." But they did not go into details or make any specific nomination for premier.

Speaking with newsmen at a cocktail party in a Geneva hotel, Souvanna clearly indicated that he expects to head the new coalition regime. He said his military forces hold the upper hand.

Jury Delayed But Gets Going

Howard County grand jury was more than an hour late getting into action Monday morning. Of the original panel of 20 called for duty, only 11 were on hand when Judge Ralph Caton called court to order.

The court delayed organizing the jury to see if additional members would report. None did. He called Tommy Cole, deputy sheriff, and instructed him to bring in three talesmen.

The three reported and two were immediately excused when they offered good reasons why they could not serve.

I. D. Grice, the third talesman, was retained and made the 12th member of the grand jury. Judge Caton appointed Frank Hardesty as foreman.

Approximately 27 matters are to be presented to the grand jurors for consideration. Gil Jones, district attorney, said that the work would probably take two days to complete.

The grand jurors are: Hardesty, Mrs. Maurine Nugent, G. T. Guthrie, Dan Conley, C. H. McDaniel, Curtis J. Lamb, Clay Reid, M. N. Brown, Charles M. Harwell, Milton Barnett, Charles N. Havens and Grice.

King Reported Stepped Down

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—The ailing Imam Ahmed of Yemen, who ruled his backward Arabian kingdom with an iron hand, is reported by Yemeni sources to have stepped down in favor of his reform-minded son.

Informants said Crown Prince Mohammed Al-Badr, about 35, has taken over the government and the 70-year-old king has gone into retirement in a suburban residential palace outside the capital of Ta'izz.

Governors Pledge Strong Support To JFK On Berlin

HONOLULU (AP) — Governors of both political parties pledged strong support today to President Kennedy in his dealing with the Soviets on Berlin and other crisis areas.

But Kennedy's domestic policies came in for sharp criticism from some Republicans and a Democrat who was one of his early supporters for the 1960 presidential nomination, Gov. John Patterson of Alabama.

EXCITEMENT
Patterson kicked up some excitement on the outskirts of the 53rd annual Governors' Conference by blasting what he called the "childish" handling of the "Freedom Riders" bus controversy by the President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York—who might be Kennedy's Republican opponent for the presidency in 1964—called for a moratorium on political criticism of the administration's international moves.

Rockefeller told a news conference Sunday that Kennedy obviously faces a great many problems "more complex than they looked from outside" the presidency. He said it was too early to make any judgments.

COMPLEX
"The problems are so complex, so serious, they have such an effect on human dignity and liberty around the world, I feel all of us, regardless of party, should stand behind him to support the defense of freedom with whatever steps are necessary," Rockefeller said.

Rockefeller's attitude contrasted with criticisms voiced by former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the 1960 GOP presidential nominee, and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., a potential bidder for the 1964 party prize.

In recent speeches Nixon has contended that the Kennedy administration has tended to "talk big and act timidly." Goldwater has said that it will "take a lot more doing than is being done" to win the cold war.

Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, California Democrat, said he believes the people are supporting Kennedy in the international field despite the Cuban invasion fiasco and the difficulties over Laos. He said he doesn't think this is the time for political criticism in that area.

Brown and Gov. Steve McNichols of Colorado, the conference chairman, said in separate interviews, however, they fear the public is not sufficiently awake to the danger that faces the country if Soviet Premier Khrushchev should decide to force a Berlin showdown.

SERIOUSNESS
Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, scheduled for a major speech at the annual state dinner Tuesday night, has been emphasizing the seriousness of the international situation.

Johnson arrived on the scene Sunday night to take the place of President Kennedy, who canceled out of his scheduled appearance before the governors last week.

Boy Found Safe, Snug In Camp

PINKHAM NOTCH, N.H. (AP) — While more than 100 men and a helicopter searched a White Mountain wilderness, missing Harold Daudelin Jr., 12, was found safe and snug Sunday in a camping area at the base of Mount Adams.

Daudelin, of Rochester, N.H., was one of 22 youngsters in a church group who planned to hike to a camp near the top of the 5,786-foot peak over the weekend. He disappeared about 8:30 a.m. Saturday during a violent thunderstorm.

A U. S. Forest Service official found the boy at Dolly Copp Camp about 2 p. m. Sunday. He was unharmed except for minor scratches and insect bites.

Doctors Urged To Censure Colleagues If Necessary

NEW YORK (AP) — "Physicians must not be afraid to censure or punish their fellow doctors who are guilty" of unethical conduct or incompetence, Dr. Leonard W. Larson, president-elect of the American Medical Association said today.

He also called upon the AMA's 185,000 members for all-out opposition to proposals to pay for old-age medical care out of Social Security funds. Congress now is considering such legislation.

Speaking at opening sessions of the AMA's House of Delegates, its policy-making body, the Bismarck, N. D., pathologist said only an infinitesimal fraction of doctors fail "to observe the law or the dictates of good conscience."

But "that tiny fraction of undisciplined must be excised from the body of medicine, lest it grow like a cancer and thus pollute and corrupt the entire profession," he said.

Dr. Larson, who takes the helm of the society Tuesday night, urged physicians to serve willingly on grievance and disciplinary committees in state and local medical societies.

Grievance committees receive complaints about alleged overcharging, abuse of health insurance, failure to respond to calls, and unnecessary medical service.

Gillett Dies

BEAUMONT (AP) — Services will be held Tuesday for Leonard E. Gillett, 78, a prominent state Masonic worker and retired circulation manager of the Beaumont Enterprise. Gillett died Sunday after a sudden illness.

Six Killed In Auto Collision

CUMBERLAND, Va. (AP) — Six persons were killed and at least six others injured Sunday night in a two-car collision two miles west of this central Virginia town on U.S. Rt. 460.

Only one of the dead was immediately identified. She is June Goff Dawson, 42, of Rt. 1, Rustburg, Va.

State police said the head-on collision occurred shortly before 10 p.m. Three persons died at the scene of the wreck and the other three a short while later.

Five of the dead and some of the injured were taken to the Southside Community Hospital in nearby Farmville. The Dawson woman was one of several injured being taken to Medical College of Virginia Hospital in Richmond, about 45 miles east of the collision scene.

The wreck involved a car and a station wagon, police said, and occurred on a straight stretch of highway. One of the victims was pinned in the wreckage for two hours.

This was Virginia's second major multiple fatality highway crash in two successive weekends. Eight persons died in a head-on collision last Sunday on U.S. 460 a few miles from the historic Civil War shrine of Appomattox.

Fliers On Hand For Dedication

CHASSENEUIL, France (AP) — Three American World War II fliers helped dedicate a monument Sunday to seven of their companions who died when their B17 bomber crashed near here.

They also renewed their wartime friendship with French resistance members who helped them elude German capture for more than two months after the crash landing June 19, 1944.

The fliers are Francis J. Berard, Waterville, Maine; William Massey, Birmingham, Ala., and Lewis Steljes of Boston.

Death Sentence Given For Blimps

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy handed down today a death sentence for its blimp fleet. It announced that eight of its 10 active airships would be deflated and placed in storage by Nov. 30. The two others will be kept in service until a year from now for research and development work.

The decision was made because of a shortage of funds and personnel "combined with the increasing capability of helicopters and fixed-wing aircraft to perform all necessary anti-submarine and airborne early warning functions," the announcement said.

Bumper Baby Crop Continues

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation continues to have a bumper crop of babies.

More were born during the first four months of 1961 than ever before during the comparable period, the Public Health Service estimated today.

The total reached an estimated 1,382,000 registered births during the four months. The old record was 1,362,000 in 1959. Last year there was a drop to 1,340,000.

Arrogance Gets Blame As The Biggest Highway Killer

By HELEN BULLOCK
 Written For The Associated Press
 Dallas Morning News Staff
 Arrogance is king of the killers in the modern jungle of traffic in Texas streets and highways. Another major trigger of death by automobile is the powerful built-in urge of young males to "prove themselves" by showing off.
 These attitudes — the unseemly forces which push drivers to recklessness and high speed and red-light-running and drunken driving — cause more fatal traffic accidents than mechanical failures, slick streets, failing reflexes or poor vision.
 These were the findings of The Dallas Morning News in a study of police records on fatal accidents in the city and county of Dallas and in a sampling of opinions of leading safety authorities all over the country.
 In Dallas and a few other cities over the country, concerned citizens are preparing to launch a new campaign designed to tame the wild and arrogant drivers, through an appeal to morality.
 The appeal to conscience will be carried out through the churches.
 "Unless we can reach the hearts of the people who drive, I'm afraid the traffic death toll will not drop," says Harold Holmes of Chicago, director of religious activities for the National Safety Council.
 Nobody expects it to be easy to change attitudes of adult motorists.
 But even those who feel they may be virtually impossible believe that it is worth an all-out try. And they agree that ministers and Bible teachers offer the best hope for doing the job.
 Police and safety authorities feel much more hopeful about the young folks—the future drivers—and place much of their faith in the eventual extension of driver education to all Texas high school students.
 Teen-agers who have taken the classroom course plus behind-the-wheel training almost all become good, responsible drivers, the experts say.
RESPECT FOR LAW
 The classroom instruction emphasizes respect for the traffic laws and for a car's potential dangers, as well as consideration for other drivers. Thus it helps to shape driver attitudes before they become fixed in deadly patterns.
 In Dallas, as well as other Texas cities, classroom driving courses are available to all high school students and required for most. But a fat $30 fee for behind-the-wheel training excludes the majority of the teen-agers from actual supervised driving experience.
 Thus the majority of today's young motorists have not had the full benefits of formal driver education.
 Insurance companies for a long time have operated on the basis of this actuarial fact of life: Young males have far more than their share of automobile accidents.

EXPERIENCE
 J. O. Musick of Austin, general manager for the Texas Safety Association, illustrates with this personal experience:
 "I have to pay $92 for liability insurance alone for each of my sons (under age 25). The charge for my wife's liability insurance is $55."
 The News made an analysis of the age and sex of the drivers blamed by police for 100 traffic accidents in Dallas County which killed 122 persons in 1960 and 1961.
 Teen-age males make up only 4.5 per cent of Dallas County's total drivers, but were responsible for 20 per cent of the 100 fatal accidents. No teen-age girls were among the 100 "guilty" drivers.
 Why do so many young men literally drive a car to death?
 Police officials, safety experts, psychiatrists and educators agree that one basic and potent human factor is at work.
 This is the universal need of the young male to prove himself and his individuality—plus a powerful urge to taste danger.
SAME PASSIONS
 These are the same passions which impelled yesterday's young males to stand on their heads in front of the girls—and to swipe watermelons.
 A prominent Dallas psychiatrist says the need of the teenage male to prove himself is deep-seated and real, and is tragically frustrated in so many areas of modern life.
 "And remember," he adds, "the young man does not really believe that he can die, or get hurt, or hurt anyone else, though he knows that other people do. He has supreme confidence in his reflexes, though he may never have heard of them."
 So there he is, the deadliest of all drivers: The healthy young male, strong and agile and alert, with all his vital juices spurting him to move fast and show off.
 And there are his wheels, ready to roll with the power of 300 impatient horses, all snorting to do his bidding.
DRINKING
 Drinking scores high on the list of human weaknesses which lead to traffic tragedies.
 Dallas Deputy Police Chief Ray H. Lunday says some people are worse drivers after one or two drinks than others are when clearly drunk.
 "Any drinking impairs driving," says Ira H. Cisin of Berkeley, Calif., director of a drinking practices study for the California Department of Public Safety.
 Cisin predicts the possible development of a sobering pill to counteract the effects of alcohol by hurrying its oxidation process.
 Alcohol is not the only intoxicating drug which impairs driving skill.
 A growing traffic headache is the widespread use of tranquilizers, antihistamines and other drugs which bring merciful relief from pain and tension—but can have serious consequences in traffic.

COMMON CLICHE
 In the male vocabulary, "damn woman drivers" has become a commoner cliché than "damnyankee."
 It is probable that female drivers do activate masculine ulcers, shove male blood pressures to dangerous heights, irritate male nerves to the snapping point.
 But cold figures show that women drivers have a far lower rate of traffic accidents than men, and a significantly lower rate of fatal smashups.
 An important factor in the greater score of the men is the powerful male urge to prove himself, mentioned above.
 Psychiatrists say this instinct is stronger in most men than in most women. By contrast, nature endows the female with a potent protective instinct which may lead to overcautious driving.

MORE MILES, DANGER
 In defense of the poorer traffic safety records of men drivers, it should be noted that men drive a great many more miles than women—and men almost always take the wheel when driving conditions are hazardous.
 Police report a peculiar fact of life in this age of machines and neuroses:
 Nearly every motorist considers himself a good driver—no matter how much the rest of his life is riddled with inferiority feelings. This is true of male and female drivers, of young and old.

 Even the motorist with a hair-raising history of collisions and arrests usually believes in his heart that he is really an expert driver. He blames all his traffic misfortunes on other drivers or on rotten luck.
Ebbtide Sweeps Four To Death
 WESTERLAND, Germany (AP)—A sudden ebbtide caught a group of school children playing in the surf and swept 14 of them out to sea. Four drowned. The others were rescued and hospitalized.
 The children, all between 11 and 13, were bathing at this North Sea beach resort on Sylt Island off the Schleswig-Holstein coast.

Tower Raps Demos Again
 SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Sen. John Tower, the Republican from Texas, warned Sunday night that federal welfare spending could lead to a dictatorship.
 He spoke on the Manion Forum, a taped radio program distributed nationally, saying:
 "Benevolent dictatorships have a way of becoming very benevolent. Actually the government gives us nothing that it does not first take away from us."
 He rapped Democrats for urging the allies to give up colonial possessions. He said colonial people often are uneducated and underprivileged and unable to handle self government.

 The situation, he said, creates "a power vacuum which, of course, international communism rushes in to fill."
Nineteen Die In Japanese Storm
 TOKYO (AP)—Nineteen persons were reported killed, 18 injured and 12 missing in the year's biggest downpour which has pounded south western Japan since Saturday.
 More than 35,000 houses were flooded up to noon Monday in six prefectures in the Shikoku-Kinki area, 300 miles southwest of here. Rice fields suffered heavy damages.

HOW ONE MAN BEAT PSORIASIS
 May 15, 1961, Ft. Wayne, Ind. "Had psoriasis since 1946. Forced out of work three times because of it. Been to specialists, a famous clinic, and used all known patent medicines without any success. Then used GHP Ointment and Tablets in a "controlled" experiment. Within one week remarkable improvement. After few more weeks completely free after 14 years of psoriasis." If you are bothered with psoriasis why not use what GHP Ointment and Tablets may do for you? Full information and details of a 14 day trial plan from Canam Co., Dept. 279 E Rockport, Mass.

Del Rio Loses Base, But Optimism Is On The Rise

By DAN BUS
 Del Rio News-Herald Staff
 Written For The Associated Press
DEL RIO (AP)—Del Rioans, badly jolted by plans to close Laughlin Air Force Base, are beginning to view their city's future with more confidence.
 The gleaming new installation is presently "home base" for the Strategic Air Command's high-flying U2 Scout planes. No one here underestimates the staggering challenge of replacing this important portion of Del Rio's economy which will be lost when the Air Force moves this operation elsewhere next year.
 However, citizens of this town of 18,612 now see the base itself as the solution to the vast number of problems its deactivation will cause.
 "Just look at the industrial buildings out at Laughlin," declares B. C. Kindel, chairman of Del Rio's Industrial development committee.
GOOD BUILDING
 "The new armaments and electronics building out there is built of brick. It has absolute humidity control and temperature control to one-tenth of one degree. It has 24,257 square feet of space. Think what a honey it would make for some electronics firm."
 "Look at those three permanent steel hangars. One has 48,440 square feet and the others 39,594 and 38,559. That's a lot of plant space that can be used by practically any kind of industry."
 "The warehouse is 116,684 square feet, completely air-conditioned and equipped with a sprinkler system. And there are lots of others, too. The base has a good 800,000 square feet of choice industrial space all built new since 1952." The Southern Pacific has a spur into the base from its transcontinental main line.
 Jack Crosby, a successful young Del Rio businessman, sees a great potential in Laughlin's housing recreational facilities for development as a retirement community. The base has 500 new Capehart houses, built at a cost of $8 million and occupied scarcely over a year.
ALL NEW
 "These 500 units are all new brick ranch-style homes. They are equipped with year-round air conditioning and many other luxury features.

 "No other retirement community in America could possibly offer its residents such an array of exclusive recreational facilities. Adjacent are beautiful new officers and non-commissioned officers clubs. The developer could acquire one or both for use of residents of the community."
 "The officers' swimming pool is very near the housing area. The base has a brand new $146,000 bowling alley with automatic pin-setting. The well-equipped gymnasium has steam-bath facilities. The 500-seat base theater, the horseback riding stables, ball diamonds, tennis courts, the dog kennel, the pistol, rifle and skeet shooting ranges and hobby shops are other recreational facilities which would be attractive to older folks with time on their hands.
 "This is a ready-made deal for a real estate developer with the resources to promote it."
ALSO OPTIMISTIC
 Ben Woodson, publisher of the Del Rio News-Herald, also shares an optimistic appraisal of the potential offered by Laughlin.
 "We have something unique here," says Woodson. "Now, let's go out and find some people with vision and energy to reap the rich economic harvests available at Laughlin."
 "This city has a tremendous future despite the closing of Laughlin. First phases of construction of the huge Amistead Dam have started and this will put one of the larger artificial reservoirs on this continent right at our back door."
 "Del Rio is along the Rio Grande and here the charm of old Mexico blends with the romance of the Old West, which is still very much alive in the rugged ranching country surrounding Del Rio."
 Kindel, Woodson and Crosby are among citizens organizing a group to be known as the Del Rio Area Development Foundation. Its purpose will be to find and interest new users for the facilities at Laughlin AFB when the Air Force leaves. The group is now busy compiling detailed information on the installation and Del Rio.

BIG SPRING BUSINESS and INDUSTRY

6-A BIG SPRING, TEXAS, MONDAY, JUNE 26, 1961 6-A

Can Properly Pack

Byron Neel shows the variety of household or store. Complete moves to any part on the items which Byron's Storage & Transfer Company, 106 E. 1st, is able to properly pack, ship by calling or dropping by the Byron office.

Byron Neel's Service Is Backed By Long Experience

Byron Neel of Byron's Storage & Transfer Company has been connected with the moving business almost all his life. Neel is a native Big Springer whose father operated a moving and transfer company here for many years before his retirement in 1937.

Neel learned the fundamentals of packing and shipping from the elder Neel and opened his own business here in 1947. The office has been in its present location at 106 E. 1st for the past four years.

A Byron move begins with your call for assistance by dialing AM 4-4351. At the appointed time one of Byron's four vans arrives promptly at your door. From that moment on, you can relax and enjoy the move.

In fact, you don't even have to be on hand for the packing and loading. Byron's courteous drivers are well trained in packing techniques and are provided with cartons designed to hold specific articles to insure against breakage enroute. Filler pads and dividers are placed between your glassware for added protection. Lamp shades and delicate objects are covered and padded with tissue paper before boxing.

Especially for members of the Air Force (or any overseas traveler) is the popular so-called "door-to-door" shipments. In this method, the huge overseas shipment boxes which hold from 1200 to 1500 pounds, are loaded and completely sealed at your home. The boxes are not opened again until it is done before your eyes at the new location.

Byron's handles many inbound shipments for the government. Household furniture and personal belongings are stored in the large individual family bins under locked protection until the owners arrive in town and find suitable housing. At that time they are delivered immediately and placed in your home as you direct. These facilities are available to everyone who needs to store their possessions for any length of time.

As the local agent for United Van Lines, Byron's is able to handle long distance moves to any spot on the globe. Next time your family needs to re-settle—do it the easy way. Call Byron's Storage & Transfer Company—AM 4-4351. You'll be glad you did.

Convenient Service

The Ideal Laundry & Dry Cleaning Plant, 401 Runnels, is located right on the way to work for many people who need only pause a moment to drop off the week's laundry. There's no necessity to drive extra miles. Or, if you'd rather not bother at all, a call to the office sends a driver to your home. Ideal has served Big Spring residents as both laundries and cleaners for many years. Their work is consistently good and the personnel always courteous. If you call Ideal this week—chances are you will every week. The number is AM 4-8231.

Linen Service Offers Complete Rental Line

Operators of cafes, barbershops, beauty shops, food stores and drug stores have long since discovered it is not economical to invest large sums of money in uniforms, aprons, dish towels, towels and other linen.

The solution is to rent such articles from reliable linen service operators and insure a constant supply of clean linens on hand. The Big Spring Linen Service, 121 W. 1st, is the kind of agency that supplies this desired service.

If you have need for towels and linens in the operation of your business — and every establishment has need for some type—all you need to do is telephone Big Spring Linen Service, AM 3-2456.

Tell the attendant what you require and in no time at all a truck will pull up at your place and your problem will be solved. Not only will the Big Spring Linen Service save you money (as compared to the cost of buying and keeping your own supply of linens and keeping them "laundered") but it will insure that you have an ample supply of clean items on hand at all times.

The Big Spring Linen Service is well known to many business establishments in Big Spring. They have found its services most helpful.

Corps Workers Begin Training

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—The first young volunteers in President Kennedy's Peace Corps headed into a rough schedule today, training for overseas economic duty.

Forty of the men started conditioning themselves and sharpening up their technical skills at Texas Western College here. A similar group arrived for training at Rutgers University in New Jersey for duty in Colombia.

The first day probably will be the easiest of their 12 weeks. On schedule were medical exams and work clothing measurements.

In succeeding days they begin tramping the mountains around this far western tip of Texas in temperatures hovering around 100 degrees, studying geology, civil engineering and surveying.

They will undergo rigid physical exercises. They will learn Swahili, the native language of Tanganyika, the East African country to which 30 of the Peace Corpsmen will be sent in answer to a request for engineers, surveyors and geologists.

In between will be sessions on American history and government and Tanganyika.

A great many of the volunteers appear to view their assignment as does Jim Belsie, 23, of China Lake, Calif. "I joined the corps because I thought I could help the people of these (underdeveloped) countries, help myself by the experience and help our government."

The goal is to show the people what a typical American is. They have seen tourists and soldiers. It now is time to see a typical American.

Bill Zang of Baltimore appears typical of the many in the corps. He wants to stay in the Peace Corps five years, then strike out on his own as an engineer.

"I feel the Peace Corps may become a major solution to the easing of world tensions," said Zang, 28, "and will explain our experiment in democracy to other countries and show how we made it work."

Jerry Parsons, 24, of Albany, N.Y., is one of two Negroes in the group here. "I joined because of an opportunity for adventure," Parsons said.

While in this country, the volunteers receive their room and board and $2 a day. Overseas they will receive subsistence. At the end of their two-year tour, they will receive $1,800.

South Won The Civil War, At Least Kids Think So

By RICHARD H. HOENIG AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—On the basis of the nation's kids' taste in toys, the South won the Civil War.

The fact is clear from early returns that toys decorated with the Confederate flag or colored gray are outselling by far the Union blue models in this Civil War centennial year. This applies to hats as well as dolls and models of 100-year-old sloops of war.

"It's a strange thing, all right. But when you're in sales you don't worry about the psychology," said Tom Slater, sales manager of Benay-Albee Novelty Co., Inc.

"Maybe there are just more rebels in the country," he guessed. Slater's Maspeth, L.I., firm specializes in novelty hats. Its gray Confederate officers' hat and plain cap are outselling the Union numbers 2-1.

Benay-Albee is one of a dozen or so major manufacturers who have gone in big for Civil War centennial promotions.

Their products include costumes, all types of war games, play sets and a full array of weapons from revolver and pistol through carbine, rifle and cannon.

The Toy Manufacturers Association of the U.S., a trade group, reported shipments of members for the first four months were 11 per cent above the similar 1960 period. Orders received were up about the same amount.

"If orders are any indication the South won the Civil War," said Al Rubin, national sales manager for Revell, Inc., Venice, Calif. maker of plastic hobby kits.

The company's model of the Confederate sloop Alabama is outselling the Union's Kearsarge in the South by 40 per cent and in the North by about 30 per cent.

Rubin estimated that close to $100,000 was spent in researching the two sloops.

President Bernard H. Baum of Effanbee Doll Corp., New York City, said his company's Johnny Reb doll is selling better than its Yankee boy mate—both 11 inches high — "but I really don't know why."

William Wimmer, sales manager of the Collegeville (Pa.) Flag Co., said his firm's line of Confederate flags ranging from lapel pin to 6 by 8 feet are selling very well.

Why the interest in these toys? "Americans are more history-minded than ever," says James J. Shea, president of the Milton Bradley Co. of Springfield, Mass., a leading games publisher. "Not since the Civil War have American families shown so much interest in games of strategy and maneuver."

One last note: Parker Bros., Inc. of Salem, Mass., reports sales of over 100,000 in the first few months for its 1863 Civil War game, one of a few that can be won by the South.

Students Married In Wheelchairs

CHICAGO (AP)—Two University of Illinois students who face living the rest of their lives in wheelchairs figured they might as well do it together.

Katherine Merio of Skokie and Thomas Dale Sherman Jr., 20, of Mattoon, were married in matching wheelchairs Sunday in St. Andrew's Greek Orthodox church.

Both were paralyzed from the waist down after separate auto accidents in 1958. The couple will return to the University of Illinois, where they met, in the fall.

Three Drown

HIDALGO, Tex. (AP)—Marcos Villa, a Reynosa carpenter, and his 15-year-old daughter drowned in the Rio Grande Sunday night along with an unidentified man who tried to save them. The drownings were on the Mexican side of the river. Officers said Villa probably suffered a heart attack.

Medics Win Tense Bout

DALLAS (AP)—Medics won a tense 2-hour bout of wits with a mental patient Sunday as the angry youth, 15, perched in a high window at Woodlawn Hospital, then menaced three staffers with a glass "knife."

It started about 8 p.m. when the Latin-American patient picked the lock on a hinged window grill in a stairwell, smashed a window glass with his left fist and threatened from the third floor window unless attendants promised to halt his scheduled electro-shock treatments.

Police and firemen with nets hurried to the hospital. The boy sat with his legs over the window ledge for 20 minutes, balking rescuers with curses and with threats to jump. A nurse and a woman technician persuaded him to leave his lofty ledge so they could bandage his bleeding hand.

Painting Of Tech Educator Is Given

LUBBOCK—An oil portrait of Texas Tech Prof. Ray Chappelle was presented to the institution by his former students Monday (June 26).

Chappelle, who has spent 41 years in vocational agricultural work, retired May 31 as professor and head of Tech's agricultural education department.

The oil painting of him is expected to hang in the main office of the department which he has directed since 1936.

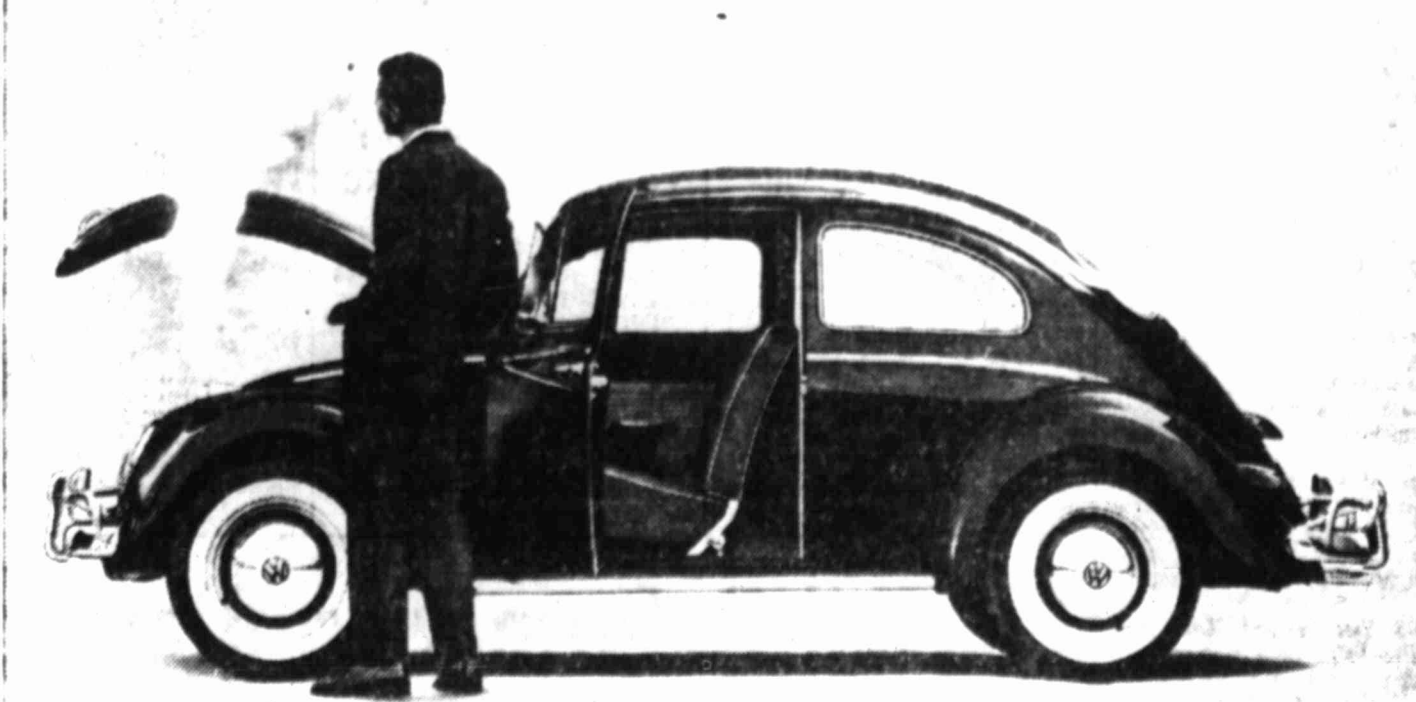

Presenting the portrait on behalf of Chappelle's former students was J. T. Henry of Bronco, who was in one of the first classes Chappelle taught at Tech.

The oil painting is by Thelma Clark Griggs of Lubbock.

Red Officials Given Asylum

RANGOON, Burma (AP)—Two Chinese Communist officials who fled to Burma have been granted political asylum.

They are Han Tiling, 38, formerly with the labor office at the Chinese People's Bank, and Kwang Kway-kyan, 23, a secretary with the government broadcasting department.

Impossible.

A Volkswagen can't boil over. It's physically impossible. The reason is absurdly simple: The VW's rear engine is cooled by air, not water. Since air can't boil, neither can the car.

If you had to, you could drive a VW all day at top speed through a desert. Or edge along in bumper-to-bumper traffic on the hottest day of the year. You may get all steamed up, but not your VW.

Chances are you'll appreciate the air-cooled engine even more in winter. Air can't freeze any more than it can boil. So you don't need anti-freeze. (There's no radiator in a VW. And so no hoses to leak. No draining. No flushing. No rust.)

In the past, a few VW owners have been amused to find a perplexed gas station attendant with a bucket of water and no place to put it.

But Volkswagen has taken care of that in the '61 model. It has a windshield washer that uses water.

Come in and drive a new Volkswagen today. And have the man fill it up.

Asthma Formula Prescribed Most By Doctors—Available Now Without Prescription

Stops Attacks in Minutes... Relief Lasts for Hours!

New York, N.Y. (Special)—The asthma formula prescribed more than any other by doctors for their private patients is now available to asthma sufferers without prescription.

Medical tests proved this formula stops asthma attacks in minutes and gives hours of freedom from recurrence of painful asthma spasms.

This formula is so effective that it is the physicians' leading asthma prescription—so safe that now it can be sold—without prescription, in most states—in tiny tablets called Primatene®.

These Primatene Tablets open bronchial tubes, loosen congestion, relieve taut nervous tension. All without painful injections.

The secret is—Primatene combines 2 medicines in full prescription strength; found most effective in combination for asthma distress. Each performs a special purpose.

So look forward to sleep at night, and freedom from asthma spasms. Primatene only 9¢, at any drug store.

Neighboring States Mull Question Of Income Taxes

CHICAGO (AP)—A key figure in the nation's ever-broadening state income tax picture these days is the fellow who earns his paycheck in a neighboring state. He has been the subject of heated debate in the legislative chambers of several states that collect income taxes. The big issue he poses is which state gets to keep his income tax dollars, the state where he lives or the state where he works?

36 STATES

Thirty-six states and the District of Columbia now impose income taxes. Commerce Clearing House, a private agency that reports on tax laws, says many of the states have satisfactory agreements with neighboring states and others are working toward a solution.

For instance, when West Virginia passed an income tax law recently it was able to work out reciprocal agreements with neighboring Kentucky and Maryland, both of which already had income tax laws.

All three states have directed firms hiring nonresidents to reduce the nonresidents' taxes in the amount the employee is taxed in his home state.

to come by when a great many more employes commute to one state than to the other. For example, approximately 150,000 New Jersey residents flock to New York jobs each morning compared with 50,000 or so New Yorkers who work in New Jersey.

New Jersey had no income tax, but New York had—and Jerseyites who worked there were required to pay it, about $50 million a year total.

Written into the New York tax law is a provision that nonresidents may deduct their home state's income tax from the amount imposed by New York. Faced with the need to raise money for commuter transportation services, the New Jersey Legislature took a close look at this provision and adopted a new law.

NEW LAW

From now on, Jerseyites who work in New York (and only they) must pay a New Jersey income tax in the same amount imposed on them by New York. In effect, they would simply begin paying their entire New York tax to New Jersey.

For its part, New Jersey will begin withholding for New York the income tax of the New Yorkers working in Jersey—about $10 million a year which the New Yorkers theoretically had been required to pay to their home state but which heretofore had not been withheld from their Jersey paychecks.

Noting that the effect of this action would be to give New Jersey $50 million in exchange for $10 million, New York officials are anything but pleased. They point out the Jersey tax may be unconstitutionally discriminatory because it doesn't apply to all the state's residents. They anticipate a court test.

AGREEMENT

Meanwhile, New York, with an apparent eye on collecting from its residents working in Connecticut, has completed an agreement with Connecticut.

New York will make income tax concessions to Connecticut residents working in New York and, in return, Connecticut will supply to New York employment and salary information concerning New York residents who work in Connecticut.

Wisconsin and Minnesota also are involved in a tax controversy. It started when Minnesota adopted a withholding tax which Wisconsin said voided an old agreement that neither would tax the other's residents.

COLLAPSED

Negotiations were started to reach a reciprocal agreement but they collapsed when a Wisconsin legislative committee contended Minnesota stood to gain a half-million dollars a year because more Wisconsin residents are employed in Minnesota than vice versa.

The Wisconsin Assembly is studying a bill that would allow Wisconsin to tax the incomes of Minnesotans working there and distribute the money proportionately to Wisconsin communities whose residents work in Minnesota and are taxed there.

Thirty one of the 37 states which impose some form of income taxes allow their commuting residents credits for taxes imposed on their incomes in other states.

No such credits are allowed, however, in Alaska, Indiana, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Tennessee and Wisconsin.

Ike, Nixon To Help GOP In Pennsylvania

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon meet tonight for the first time since leaving office to help Pennsylvania Republicans kick off a campaign to regain the governorship and a Senate seat.

While the $100-a-plate fund-raising buffet dinner is billed as a testimonial to the two men, it will give Nixon a chance to confer with Eisenhower on Republican politics and world problems.

Nixon is expected to deliver a 30-minute speech, touching on party organization and rebuilding GOP strength in the big cities. Eisenhower is scheduled to make only brief remarks. But his appearance will give George I. Bloom, Pennsylvania state Republican chairman, a chance to find out for certain whether, as speculation has it, Eisenhower might be interested in running next year for the Senate seat now held by Democrat Joseph S. Clark.

David L. Lawrence, also a democrat, now holds the governorship. His term expires next year and he cannot seek reelection under Pennsylvania law.

Inquiry Begins On School Bus Sale

AUSTIN (AP)—A court of inquiry on possible anti-trust violation in the sale of school buses to the state began here today in Judge Travis Blakeslee's County Court-at-Law.

Atty. Gen. Will Wilson requested the court of inquiry. He asserted that his department's investigation turned up "substantial evidence that leads us to believe there is a conspiracy to rig bids and fix prices."

Blakeslee ordered subpoenas issued last week for Jack Fisk, Donald McEvoy, Helen McEvoy, Fred Stround, J. K. Hurst and R. H. Bentley, all of Austin.

Another court of inquiry is scheduled Wednesday in Dallas.

Four of the seven companies that bid for contracts to sell school buses to the state are in Austin. Two are in Dallas and one is in San Antonio.

Wilson said the state purchases some $4 million worth of school buses a year for schools under the minimum foundation school program. He said Texas pays 10-25 per cent more for the buses than some neighboring states.

Under Texas law, all school bus purchases for minimum foundation schools must be made through competitive bids by the board of control. Wilson said his investigation has not turned up identical bids. The bids have been competitive on the surface, he said.

Courts of inquiry are provided for in the anti-trust laws. They do not make findings, but produce testimony under oath which may be used in court proceedings.

Civil proceedings, with damages of $500-$1,500 a day for each day of violation, may be instituted by the attorney general. Criminal proceedings may be filed by district or county attorneys for anti-trust violations.

Hopes Dashed, Not Expecting

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—Belgian hopes for the birth of a child to King Baudouin and Queen Fabiola this fall were dashed Sunday. The royal court in a communique said the queen was ailing and not expecting a baby after all.

"Contrary to what was hoped, a happy event is not expected at the Laeken court in the near future," the communique said. It added that the illness was a slight indisposition "and she will be completely recovered in a few days."

Cuban Training Reported In Florida

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., says he has heard reports of new military training of Cuban revolutionaries in Florida. The State Department had no immediate comment.

Smathers said he had no knowledge of any U.S. cooperation and indicated it was being done by anti-Castro Cubans themselves.

Satellite To Study Particles

WASHINGTON (AP) — The civilian space agency soon will launch a satellite designed to study small particles in outer space and the danger they might damage space vehicles.

The launching, powered by a 72-foot, 36,600-pound, four-stage Scout rocket, will take place at Wallops Island, Va.

Scene Of Mugging

Detective John Nee checks unconscious Evelyn Cramer, 44, victim of a mugging on a Boston, Mass., street, while his partner Frank Powers holds the suspect in the background. Miss Cramer, a waitress, was walking home from work when the two detectives heard screams and checking found the woman lying on the sidewalk. She was taken with the suspect running from the scene. Miss Cramer was taken to the hospital and the suspect, Albert Potter of Lowell, Mass., was booked on suspicion of assault with intent to rob. (AP Wirephoto).

We are sorry but...

THE MARITIME STRIKE HAS FORCED GULF TO REDUCE ITS PURCHASES OF OIL

Gulf Oil Corporation deeply regrets that it has been compelled to reduce its purchase of crude oil in Texas, Louisiana and New Mexico on a pro rata basis. This step has been made necessary by a strike called by the New York bosses of six maritime unions representing employees involved in the operation of Gulf's coast-wise tanker fleet.

This costly strike has halted water movement of crude and products into and out of Gulf's Port Arthur refinery which has necessitated purchaser-proration. The end result of this strike is a loss of more than $200,000 daily to producers and land owners in Louisiana, New Mexico and Texas from whom Gulf purchases oil.

Tax Revenues Reduced Materially

Gulf also regrets that in addition to the large daily monetary losses to producers and land owners, the tax revenues of the states affected are reduced materially.

In Texas, for example, almost one out of every four dollars collected by government at state and local levels combined comes from natural resources, of which oil and gas production accounts for 97%. This includes only the taxes paid on production. Not included are property taxes on office buildings, refineries, pipelines, service stations, and other facilities necessary to the finding, producing, transporting, refining and marketing of petroleum.

Public Schools Hard Hit

Particularly hard hit by this strike are the public schools in these three states which depend heavily on oil production for their revenues. Continuation of the strike into July will mean even more drastic reductions in Gulf purchases and the income of purchasers and land owners as well as state tax revenues.

Gulf wishes to emphasize that the basic issues behind the maritime strike are purely economic in nature. The foreign flag controversy is being used to distort the situation. What is really blocking progress in negotiations is a "power play" by the two major groups of unions. In this power struggle over the years, each of the unions has used the gains of another union to "whip-saw" management into agreeing to higher demands by the others.

As a result of these tactics, there has been an incredible spiraling of labor costs in American shipping to a point where it is difficult to compete against world shipping.

Demands Would Increase Costs Up to 40%

Gulf, among other shipping companies, is now being asked to grant union demands that would increase present exorbitant costs up to 40%. This involves a union package that would cost the United States shipping industry an additional $100,000,000 per year in operating costs. But of far greater importance, if the United States shipping industry accedes to these demands, the United States not only would get involved in difficulties with a number of nations with which it now has free relations, but there would be a reduction in the shipping industry's work-week (another union demand) which would be extremely dangerous to the present level of American economic activity.

Gulf Oil Corporation will not accede to these outrageous demands. Our industry seeks an equitable settlement of this strike on the basis that it will not sacrifice long-term stability to short-term gain. A reasonable settlement is necessary in the best interests of the shipper as well as the oil industry, its employees, and the consuming public.

Tired Trivia Launches New Summer Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Johnny Wayne and Frank Shuster, using their own imaginative material, are a superior comedy team. But, unless they were satirizing TV, they would never have written for themselves the tired trivia that constituted the first episode of their new series.

"Holiday Lodge," which premiered on CBS Sunday night as Jack Benny's summer replacement, has the Canadian comics playing fun-loving social directors at a plus lake resort.

OLD PLOT
The plot was that old mistaken-identity device—a convention of morticians pretending to be florists. When they arrive at Holiday Lodge, acting exactly like TV's idea of the heads of a crime syndicate, our heroes believe it is a convention of gangsters.

Well, you can imagine the fun and puns in that situation. Anyway, the laugh track accompanying the picture was one long loud howl.

I'll bet some of the mail CBS gets (soon outraged funeral directors will be more entertaining than the first show).

CRITICISM
After all of David Susskind's criticism of TV during his testimony the Federal Communications Commission hearing last week, it will be interesting to see how much business—if any—his independent packaging agency, Talent Associates, is able to line up for the three major networks next season.

Susskind has made a hobby of sounding off about the low state of TV programming over the years, but he has never had such a good forum before. He made the most of it.

Actually, Susskind has not had a particularly successful season this year. His "Family Classics" series, which started out as two-part shows on successive nights, dwindled down to one-hour shows.

WON'T LAST
"Way out," the off-beat series launched recently, will not last the summer, and NBC is quietly moving about his forthcoming "Great Ghost Story" summer series, due to start early next month, but still very much in the planning stage.

Recommended tonight: "Peter Gunn," ABC, 10:30-11 (EDT) — singer Jane Morgan makes her debut on the show as a dramatic actress.

Film Going Great, But Maker Has Seen No Profits

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer
STOCKHOLM (AP)—The documentary film "Mein Kampf" had made millions all over the world. But the man who made it has had no returns as yet.

He is Erwin Leiser, a Swedish intellectual who began two years ago to put together a film account of the rise and fall of Adolf Hitler. The result startled the movie world and has affected social and political thinking.

"The film has been playing in 62 countries," reported Leiser, who is gratified by its success. But his profits have been nil so far.

"Under my contract, I am supposed to get an accounting of the profits every six months," he said. "Last December there were none. At the end of June I will get another report. If there are still no returns, I will have some interesting developments in the courts."

SLEEPER
"Mein Kampf" has proved the sleeper of the movie season. It has had a fantastic success in Germany itself. When I was in Japan earlier this year, it was drawing large crowds.

The film has had a strange history in the United States. Producers William Perlberg and George S. Patton saw "Mein Kampf" in Copenhagen and praised it highly to Paramount. They sent a print to New York and proposed an English narration by William Holden, who was also enthused about it. Paramount replied that Americans wouldn't pay to see a re-counting of Nazi horrors. Columbia snapped up the film for a reported $50,000. It is now expected to gross between $2 and $3 million in the United States alone.

The man who made "Mein Kampf" is a stocky, balding 38-year-old who became interested in the project as culture editor for a Swedish newspaper.

ACQUAINTED
"I became acquainted with many persons who had access to the immense amount of footage about the Nazis," Leiser said. He found a producer to finance him and then began the great task of editing the film down to feature length. He served as director and writer.

Why did "Mein Kampf" prove so popular?
"I think it appeals greatly to young people," said Leiser. "They have read about these things in school, but they really can't comprehend them until they see them with their own eyes."

"What they see is real. These things cannot be faked." There have been other documentaries of Nazi Germany, but they have not had the impact of "Mein Kampf." One reason is undoubtedly timing: the revival of interest in Nazism spawned by the Eichmann trial. But credit must also be due Leiser's skill as a film maker. Amazingly, "Mein Kampf" was his first movie.

Illnesses May Be Found Before Patient Knows It

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
 NEW YORK (AP)—Now there are prospects of diagnosing diseases long before you ever know you are sick, a physician said today.

Blood tests for certain tell-tale chemicals would provide the tip-off that a heart, kidney, liver or other organ was heading into trouble, and perhaps even tell why.

Then doctors could start earlier treatments, to prevent or minimize damage.

This research promise was outlined by Dr. Felix Wroblewski of New York City at the opening scientific session of the 110th annual meeting of the American Medical Association.

This year the AMA convention is introducing a new accent on the frontiers of medical research, on the new ideas and trends and discoveries that create tomorrow's medicine.

Part of the idea is to shorten the time lag between laboratory discovery and practical benefit for patients.

Wroblewski's research is an example.

He finds that some enzymes—vital agents sparking chemical processes in the body—are composed of closely related substances rather than being single entities.

One such enzyme, lactic dehydrogenase of LDH, is composed of five elements or isoenzymes. The interesting thing, he said, is that the proportion of these five elements vary in different healthy body organs or tissues.

"Within certain limits, each person's normal patterns are as distinctive as his fingerprints," he explained.

Periodic blood tests could detect early, subtle changes in organs before there were any usual physical signs or distress, said Wroblewski, assistant professor of clinical medicine at Cornell University Medical School.

He finds different patterns of the five isoenzymes in the heart, the thyroid and adrenal glands, lungs, liver, pancreas, spleen, kidney, and blood plasma.

A heart attack should be suspected, he said, when there is an increase in isoenzymes numbers four and five in the blood, since there are the components of the LDH enzyme in heart tissue.

Police Search For Woman Who Dropped Young Boy

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Police pushed a round-the-clock search today for a slender, raincoat-clad brunette who they believe drowned a 3-year-old boy by dropping him off a bridge after binding his hands and feet with her stockings.

The body of blond, blue-eyed Andrew Ashley was found near the shore of an artificial lake in 300-acre Delaware Park. The boy apparently had been dead since Friday afternoon, when he was reported missing.

More than 300 policemen and volunteers checked hundreds of homes and police and army guardsmen fanned through miles of wooded parkland in a two-day search for the youngster.

A neighbor said he last saw Andrew walking Friday with a tall, dark-haired woman. Police believe she was the same woman who left two other youngsters bound and gagged next to railroad tracks recently. Both were found unharmed.

"We're dealing with a woman maniac," said Mayor Frank Sedita.

The boy was found clad in a T-shirt and undershorts. The Erie County medical examiner's office said he had not been sexually molested. A dish towel was drawn tightly around his throat but death was ruled due to drowning.

Police had only descriptions of a woman provided by the neighbor and the two 5-year-old youngsters left tied beside railroad tracks.

One of the youngsters, Richard Edgington, told police a woman lured him from playmates with candy Thursday and took him for a walk through the nearby city zoo before tying him up.

At one point, the youngster said, the woman threatened to drown him.

Seek Assistance

GUAYMAS, Mex. (AP)—Mexican scientists seek the help of the government to establish satellite tracking stations near Mexico City, Dr. Ricardo Monges Lopez said Sunday.

Oil field Mishap

HOBBS, N.M. (AP)—A Texas oilfield worker, William E. Wilson, 35, of Seminole, died Sunday after being struck by some drilling tools.

DEAR ABBY

You'll Surely Lose This Bet

DEAR ABBY: What future is there for a young man, 24, who lives to gamble? It started out to be a hobby, but now it is his full-time occupation. He has ideas that are out of this world when it comes to making a fortune gambling. He is good-looking, well-liked, and educated. He says he has studied the odds, and he gambles "scientifically," so he can never lose. He claims he has read extensively on "the psychology of gambling." So far he has been lucky. But do you think a girl can be happy with a man who makes his living this way?

because I believed his lies, so why should I give him up without a fight? I owe her nothing.

THE OTHER WOMAN
 DEAR WOMAN: There is no man to "fight" for. He has given YOU up. To paraphrase your own words, "If a woman can't steal another's husband, why doesn't she lay off?" Look for a man in your league.

GAMBLER'S GIRL
 DEAR GIRL: The "psychology of gambling" is not very complicated. It is the science of trying to get something for nothing. Don't bet on a gambler. You are a cinch to lose.

DEAR ABBY: A bunch of catty women wrote in asking you if their neighbor, who went to barber college to learn how to cut her husband's hair, carried a hot lunch to his place of work every day instead of packing him a sandwich, never disagreed or argued with him, and always called him "Sweetheart" and "Baby," was the ideal wife, or were the rest of them just "average slob." And your answer, Dear Abby, didn't sound like you. Tell me the truth, do you write your own column every day? Or were you on vacation?

DEAR ABBY: Why does a mere wife think she has special privileges? Everyone knows "Till death do us part" is old-fashioned. If a wife can't hold her husband, why doesn't she get out?

I was married and had one child, aged 4. I fell in love with another man. We worked together. He was married in name only. His wife was older than he was. He married young and didn't know the score.

DEAR FAN: I write my own column every day. And I never go on vacation. If I said that woman was anything but an ideal wife, I must have had a geranium in my cranium. Forgive me?

We planned to get divorces and marry. He wanted to wait. I did not, so I divorced my husband. My boy friend stalled. So I phoned his wife and let her know that I was in the picture. I wrote her letters telling her everything. I also parked outside her house, wanting to talk to her in person, but she ignored me. My boy friend started feeling sorry for his wife and told me to lay off. I refused. Then he finally gave me the old excuse about his wife being sickly, and his children needing him. My home is broken up

Miss Scott, Crouch Marry In Lamesa

LAMESA—The First Methodist Church of Lamesa was the scene of the marriage of Ruth Ann Scott and Carl Wayne Crouch at 3 p.m. Sunday. The Rev. Leo Crouch, brother of the bridegroom and pastor of the First Methodist Church of Hart, read the wedding ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard G. Scott of Lamesa and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Crouch, also of Lamesa.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of hand-clipped Chantilly lace designed with a scalloped portrait neckline and bracelet length sleeves complimented by short gloves.

Re-embroidered lace dotted with seed pearls graced the neckline and the princess bodice flowed into a bouffant skirt which swept to a full chapel train. A teardrop crown of pearls enhanced her fingertip veil of silk illusion. She carried a white Bible.

Charles Zeck of Tula was the best man and Mrs. Wayland Pope of Lubbock served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Joan Beauchamp of San Antonio, Mac Sanders and Martha Hanson of Lamesa, Anita Sue and Terri Pope of Lubbock were junior bridesmaids.

A reception followed in the home of the bride's parents and guests attended from Lamesa, Hart, Dallas, Cooper, Oton, Artesia, N. M., San Antonio, Stinson, Amarillo, Shalimar, Ft. Worth, Wall, Lubbock, Tahoka, San Angelo, Tula, San Benita, Abilene and Austin.

On a wedding trip to Dallas the bride selected a blue suit with short jacket and box pleated skirt with a light blue blouse. The couple will reside in Irving where the bridegroom is educational director of the First Methodist Church.

MRS. CARL WAYNE CROUCH

The couple attended Lamesa High School and Texas Tech where the bridegroom was a member of Alpha Phi Omega.

Bridge Set For Charity

Proceeds from the duplicate bridge games, set for Friday afternoon at Big Spring Country Club, will be donated to the National Foundation for Mental Health, it was announced at the session Friday. A full master point will be given that afternoon.

Winners in the games were Mrs. J. D. Cauble and Mrs. Dan Greenwood, first, north-south; Mrs. E. L. Powell and Mrs. Elmo Wasson, second; Mrs. Doug Orme and Mrs. R. R. McEwen Jr., third; Mrs. B. B. Badger and Mrs. H. W. Smith, fourth; Mrs. J. H. Fish and Mrs. Adolph Swartz, fifth.

Sorority Chapter Has Hobo Party

Members of Alpha Chi Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha and their husbands met at City Park Friday night for a hobo party with stew, boiled coffee and iced tea on the menu.

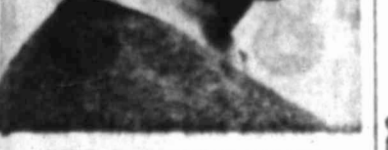

Hostesses were Mrs. Charles Carter, Mrs. Fred Stitzell, Mrs. Wendell Farris and Mrs. J. Pat Waggon.

Jacqueline Cox Is Wed In Lubbock

Mrs. H. W. Wright, 514 Westover Rd., announces the marriage of her daughter, Jacqueline Cox, to Donald Barton, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Barton, Sr. of Lubbock. The couple was wed Saturday in the South Crest Baptist Church in Lubbock in a double ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Brittle S. Cox of Lubbock. She wore a beige silk suit with beige accessories.

After a wedding trip to New Mexico the couple will reside in Lubbock where she is a secretary with Furr's Food Inc. and he is a student at Texas Technological College.

MRS. BILL VAUGHN

Vows Pledged By Lamesans

LAMESA—Sharon Savoy Chapman and Bill Vaughn pledged wedding vows at 6 p.m. Friday in the North Side Baptist Church here with Rev. Giles Hankins reading the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Howard Chapman of Lamesa and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Vaughn of Gail.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace over satin. The bridal gown featured a round neckline and sleeves that tapered to petal points over the hands. From the molded bodice fell a bouffant skirt with scallops extending to the floor in the back. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion fell in tiers from a tiara of rhinestones. The bride carried a bouquet of white carnations on a white ribbon.

Mrs. Hazel Vaughn of O'Donnell, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was the matron of honor and Donna Boles and Delores Scitern of Lamesa were the bridesmaids. Raymond Walton of Gail was the best man and the bride's brothers, Jerry and Billy Chapman, were groomsmen. Johnny Chapman, the bride's brother, and Randle Walton of Gail were ushers. Cheryl and Rhonda Hudson and Pam Derby, nieces of the bride from San Angelo, served as flower girls.

The bride attended schools in Ruidoso, N. M., and Lamesa. The bridegroom attended Borden County Schools in Gail and is now employed with an oil company at Foran.

A reception followed in the fellowship hall of the church and guests were registered from Lamesa, San Angelo, Ruidoso, N.M., Lubbock, Gail, Foran, O'Donnell, Big Spring, and Fort Campbell, Ky.

Mrs. Tavaglione Feted At Shower

A surprise kitchen shower honoring Mrs. Mike Tavaglione, the former Letress Hall, was given in the home of Mrs. Claude Vaughn Jr. Friday afternoon.

The bride was presented with a corsage made of cooking tongs, measuring spoons, a scouring pad and sprinkler bottle cap. The centerpiece was made of colored scouring pads, bottle brushes, a crocheted pot holder and greenery. Dips and chips were served to the 15 guests. Each guest took a favorite recipe to the shower. Hostesses were Mrs. Doyle Rallsback, Mrs. Morris Howland, Linda Lewis and Sue Raymer.

The Tavagliones were married June 12 at the East Fourth Baptist Church.

Women Are Home From Convention

Mrs. Roger Miller and Mrs. John Ansen returned Sunday from attending the seventh annual convention for Texas School Food Service Association in Corpus Christi.

Principal speakers were Dr. John Furbay, director with Trans-World Airlines, who spoke on "A Recipe for World Peace," and Jule Thomas, public relations director at the University of Texas, who spoke on "A Recipe for Professional Peace."

The women also attended the association's president's reception at the Driscoll Hotel and a Corpus Christi luncheon at the Sandy Shores Surf Club. Officers were installed Thursday.

A workshop at Texas Tech was attended by the two women and Mrs. James Porter the week prior to the convention.

Returns

Dr. Sam Sheppard, former osteopathic surgeon serving a life sentence for the 1954 slaying of his wife, gets out of a car at Ohio Penitentiary at Columbus after returning from Marion Correctional Institution. He will undergo medical tests to determine if a lump on his chest was caused by cancer. (AP Wire-photo).

Compares Self With Pilate, Washes Hands

JERUSALEM (AP) — Adolf Eichmann today likened his role in the Nazi slaughter of the Jews to that of Pontius Pilate and said he was able to wash his hands of any feeling of guilt.

The former Gestapo colonel in charge of "Jewish affairs" reached back into Christian history to describe his thoughts of almost 20 years ago when the decision was reached to exterminate the Jews "as the final solution to the problem."

RAPT ATTENTION
All three Israeli judges leaned forward in rapt attention as Eichmann probed into his own ego. His normal manner of speaking, sharp and carefully enunciated in drill sergeant style, shifted to one of soft and earnest pleading.

The key of Eichmann's testimony opening the 11th week of his trial lay in the Wannsee conference of top level Nazi bureaucrats outside Berlin January 20, 1942.

It was there that Gestapo chief Reinhard Heydrich said the final solution was death for 10 million European Jews. Eichmann said he was unaware of this when he prepared the machinery for the meeting at Heydrich's behest.

ENTHUSIASM
Hitler's civil servants from various departments accepted the extermination idea "with boundless enthusiasm," Eichmann testified.

Heydrich, who had expected some opposition, "exulted at the success" of the meeting which required only an hour or so, said Eichmann.

Defense counsel Robert Servatius asked Eichmann about his own reaction.
The defendant replied: "Here I felt a certain solace and appeasement, considering I had done my utmost despite my relatively low rank of lieutenant colonel and I had thought of a 'final solution' which was not repellent or hideous but which was practical and feasible."

DID BEST
"I did my best to bring order into all the turmoil in deportations. My unflinching efforts could be seen in the Radom plan and later in the Madagascar plan (for shipping the Jews to the island of Madagascar). I could say to myself that in spite of my determination, I had to toe the line. What was done was not my doing. I had the feeling of Pontius Pilate. I felt I was not guilty. What was laid down was done by the elite, the popes of the regime."

NEXT WEEK
Servatius informed the courts he would complete his defense early next week, with Wednesday as the latest target date. Atty. Gen. Gideon Hausner calculates he needs four days for cross-examination. After that the prosecution and defense summations will close the books, probably by July 15. The court likely will require a month to six weeks to write the judgment.

Mexico To Add 13 To Fleet

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Thirteen new merchant ships will be added to the Mexican fleet during 1961, a spokesman from the Ministry of the Navy said Sunday.

Nine ships will displace from 1,200 to 6,500 tons and will be in the Gulf of Mexico and the Pacific coastal trade routes.

Two more will be 28,000 tonners on tourist routes on the Gulf and the Pacific coasts, starting in September.

Two ships are dredges under construction at the Baltimore, Md., shipyards.

Ma Ferguson, First Woman Governor, Dies

AUSTIN (AP) — Mrs. Miriam "Ma" Ferguson, the only woman ever elected twice as governor of any state, died Sunday at 86 after a heart attack.

During her terms that started in 1924 and 1932, she was one of the most controversial figures in Texas politics.

Her husband, James E. (Farmer Jim) Ferguson, served two terms as governor before her and was impeached in 1917 for fiscal irregularities. Mrs. Ferguson ran on a platform of vindicating the Ferguson name and won handily. Both were Democrats.

FIRST ELECTED
Mrs. Ferguson was first elected governor on the same day Nov. 4, 1924, that Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross was elected governor of Wyoming. Mrs. Ross, later director of the mint, took office 20 days earlier than Mrs. Ferguson, however.

Mrs. Ferguson's last effort in politics was in 1940, four years before the death of her husband, but she ran a poor fourth against Lee O'Daniel, who later became a senator.

In later years, Mrs. Ferguson lived quietly at her home in this city of her triumphs. Political antagonisms were forgotten in 1955, when more than 300 state officials and leaders honored Mrs. Ferguson on her 80th anniversary.

CONGRATULATIONS
Vice President Lyndon Johnson, then a senator, and former President Dwight Eisenhower were among those sending congratulations. Johnson commented in Honolulu Sunday:

"I deeply regret the tragic news of the passing of Mrs. Ferguson. She was a colorful lady and a good friend."

Gov. Price Daniel, who was in Honolulu with Johnson, said:

"Texas has lost one of its most distinguished citizens and those who knew her have lost a dear friend."

Mrs. Ferguson never had been outside Bell County until 1915 when her husband was elected governor. During her first campaign, her slogan was "Two governors for the price of one."

TWO TERMS
After her first election, Jim Ferguson made virtually all the executive decisions and Mrs. Ferguson devoted most of her time to household duties in the governor's mansion. Her two terms as governor were marked by the issuance of hundreds of pardons to convicts.

Episcopal services will be held here at 5 p.m. today. She will be buried in the state cemetery beside her husband. A daughter, Mrs. Stuart Watt, of Austin survives.

5,000 Return To Work Today

By The Associated Press
The 5,000 striking workers at the huge Texaco refinery at Port Arthur, closed Saturday as a by-product of the nationwide maritime strike, decided Sunday to start returning to work Monday at the 7 a.m. shift.

The National Maritime Union pickets, who had forced closing of the plant, were also reported to have been ordered withdrawn from the main gate of the refinery.

RETURN TO WORK
Members of Local 4-23 of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers union were instructed to return to their jobs.

Officials of the Texaco refinery in Port Arthur—which employs 5,000 workers—asked the men to return to their jobs. The plant was closed early Saturday when members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union refused to cross National Maritime Union picket lines.

The maritime union is one of five taking part in the nationwide strike against American shipowners. There has been no strike violence in Texas.

This is how the situation looked on the Texas coast:

Port Arthur—Gulf refinery operating normally with injunctions keeping pickets away.

NO PICKETS
Texas City—American Oil Co. refinery operating on schedule, no pickets because of a restraining order.

Galveston—Several ships being picketed in port.

Houston—Sinclair refinery in limited production, using supervisory personnel because refinery workers refuse to work.

Corpus Christi—Another Sinclair refinery in limited production, manned by supervisors and technicians.

Brownsville—Still unhampered by strike.

Space Flight Center To Open

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—The United States will open take a step in space next Saturday when the Soviet Union practices secrecy.

One of the nation's top security areas—the Marshall Space Flight Center—will be opened to anyone who wants to take a look.

The Saturn rocket is on the list of special attractions, and any Soviets who happen to be around can drop in with the American tourists.

Guardsmen Ready For Annual Camp

In the cool, early-morning Sunday air, when most citizens are still asleep, about 75 National Guardsmen from Big Spring and Colorado City will leave for two weeks of intensive training at Fort Hood.

A military convoy of 12 trucks and three trailers will leave the Army on FM 700 at 4 a.m. on its way to the Army camp near Belton.

The Big Spring Battery will be only a small part of about 10,000

Guardsmen in the 49th Armored Division who will participate in simulated combat, night tactics, weapon firing and bivouac. The division, operating as a unit, will make two marches to "fight" in the cedar brakes and rocky terrain on North Fort Hood.

The men should arrive at Fort Hood about 3 p.m. Sunday, according to Capt. Dewie Stevenson, unit commander. They will draw their equipment and set up camp Monday morning and that evening will go directly into training.

"All the local Guardsmen must go," Capt. Stevenson said, "unless they have valid reasons to be absent and receive individual permission." There are 84 enlisted men and four officers in Battery A, Third Rocket Howitzer Battalion, 132nd Artillery.

Outdoor living, in the heat and dust of a tent city, will be a part of the training. The only let-up for the men will be a weekend pass June 8-9. That weekend they will participate in the annual Governor's Day Review to be held at the Fort Hood Parade Grounds July 8.

Gen. George H. Decker, chief of staff of the U. S. Army, will pay a visit to the Lone Star Division to observe training and to participate in the Review.

In addition, a team of evaluators will score the unit's efficiency.

Homeward Bound After Spy Charge

Miroslav Nacvalac, accused by the United States of being Communist Czechoslovakia's top spy in this country, poses with his wife, Hana, and their two sons, Miroslav, 8, and Ivan, 10, at New York's Idlewild airport before leaving for Paris and Prague. Nacvalac, a member of the Czech United Nations mission, protested that the United States branded him as a spy and forced him to leave because he would not betray his country. (AP Wire-photo).

Nations Decide On Outside Help

ROME (AP)—Italy and Austria have decided to seek outside mediation in their dispute over South Tyrol. But they still must agree on who will mediate.

A third round of foreign ministers' talks ended inconclusively Sunday in Zurich, Switzerland.

The long-smoldering dispute flared into an outbreak of violence last week that has taken three lives and sent 10,000 Italian troops into the picturesque Alpine region to preserve order.

NEA Conventioneers Hold Hope For Aid

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer
ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—The cautious hope that Congress will pass a program of federal aid to education hung over the 99th annual convention of the National Education Association today.

Many of an estimated 10,000 delegates and observers were buoyed in spirit by a guardedly optimistic message Sunday night from President Kennedy, who said he hoped to sign such a bill before the end of the summer.

OPTIMISM TEMPERED
But their optimism was tempered by the remembrance of many past disappointments.

The President told the convention: "The most crucial period for this legislation is still ahead."

"But," he said, "it is a sound measure. It is a just measure. It is an urgently needed measure—and I have every reason to believe that . . . I will sign into law before the summer is out this nation's first federal aid to education program."

The administration bill calls for the expenditure of $2.5 billion over the next three years, to be used by the states to build classrooms, no amount of state and local support can succeed without your daily efforts to improve the minds of our children.

BOTTLED UP
The bill is now bottled up in the powerful House Rules Committee. The committee, by a 9 to 7 vote last week decided to hold up the proposed legislation until it has had time to consider other bills which would provide federal aid to private and parochial schools.

classrooms, no amount of state and local support can succeed without your daily efforts to improve the minds of our children.

RESPONSIBILITY
"That is why you bear a responsibility for the nation's future that is as heavy as that of any officeholder, and that is also why I think it imperative that our federal aid to education program include funds for teachers' salaries."

The President's message was read to the convention by Rep. Frank P. Thompson Jr., D-N.J., who sponsored the House version of the administration bill.

Mexico Clamps Down On Pouch

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Mexican government has asked all foreign diplomatic missions accredited in the country to stop using the diplomatic pouch in any other purpose than the carrying of diplomatic documents and letters.

Magazines, films or propaganda leaflets should be passed through customs, a bulletin issued by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs said.

As of late, several cases have been reported in which a great number of communist propaganda films and leaflets have been entered under protection of the Russian or Cuban diplomatic pouches.

Gets Contract

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has awarded a $660,000 contract to Chance Vought Corp. of Dallas. The company will make six large liquid oxygen tanks for six Saturn space boosters.
