BUT MAYOR, RELATIVES HAVE DIFFERENT IDEAS

Officers Discount Possibility 2nd Youth Involved In Slaying

CISCO (AP) — Officers discounted any possibility today that anybody other than a high school sophomore could have murdered a 53-year-old church secretary. But the mayor of the town and the relatives of Nathan Curry, 15, had other ideas. The motive remained a mystery.

"We're satisfied at the present time we have the right person," said Dist. Atty. Earl Conner, "but we will continue to check all possibilities."

Curry, described at Cisco High School as the "quietest boy in town," gave officers a signed statement Tuesday night in which police said he admitted the slaying of Mrs. Florence Hussey.

The body of Mrs. Hussey, secretary at the town's First Baptist Church, was found by the pastor, the Rev. Jesse Cassie, last Thursday when he went to her neat frame home to see why she had not come to work. She had been beaten about the head and stabbed 14 times.

Surrounding the body were bloody fingerprints, sand and artificial flowers, the latter from a metal planter.

Curry led police to the missing planter, a hefty brass object, Tuesday.

Police of the county, city and from Fort Worth said they believed that about wrapped things up.

But Mayor John Webb, referring to the continued lack of charges against young Curry, said officers might be seeking a second youth in the slaying.

"That's what the holdup is," he said.

"I hope to God no other boy is implicated," Webb went on and added:

"He is taking all the blame." Webb, who said he was present during some of the interrogation of the youth, told a newsman that young Curry had been "watching her through her windows and had fixed her back door so he could get inside."

VACANT HOUSE

The mayor said the youth moved into a vacant house his father had purchased next door to Mrs. Hussey's recently rented home. "he even moved his clothes in," Webb related. And on warm nights, the mayor said, the boy slept outside between the two houses.

An autopsy soon after Mrs. Hussey's body was found resulted in the physician saying she had not been raped.

Mrs. F. P. Curry, the boy's mother, said she believes her son knows something about the killing and might be trying to shield someone, but she adds:

"He didn't do it. All I want is the truth."

Nathan's pretty sister, Linda, a junior college freshman, is just as certain her brother has killed nobody.

CONTENTIONS

Mrs. Curry and Linda contend: 1. He was in their home, just two doors from that of the slain woman, at the time the murder is believed to have occurred.

2. He was groggy from an extensive overdose of narcotics which he reportedly used to alleviate severe migraine headaches when he signed the statement.

3. He possibly confessed to protect his mother, whom he may have believed "in his drugged condition to have been the killer."

4. A stocky woman in an old black car was reported seen entering the house the night of the murder.

Conner and Police Chief S. E. Parkinson claim there was no evidence to substantiate these claims.

Conner said further he believed Curry was rational when he made the lengthy statement.

Newsman were not permitted to see the statement or the prisoner who has been confined in a second-floor cell of the Eastland County jail at nearby Eastland.

NATHAN CURRY
"Quietest boy in town"

lanky youth, "he was the quietest boy in town."

Joe Turner, football coach and instructor at the high school, said Curry was an average student who "never gave me any trouble."

Turner said the youth was "nice, quiet and well-behaved and apparently never caused any one any trouble."

The motive for the murder remained a mystery, but the mayor indicated he felt the killing was due to a "sex urge or an attempt at the perfect crime."

Conner said, "There was apparently no motive—just an urge."

The district attorney said he would continue to question the suspect until "some odds and ends are wrapped up and I'm doubly satisfied" the case has been closed.

He indicated the youth may be given psychiatric treatment.

Study Group Urges State Sales Tax

Texas Bank Deposits Up

Similar To That In Pennsylvania

By The Associated Press

Texas bank deposits indicated Thursday that business in the state as a whole is, as one observer put it, "now at a high mid-summer level and headed for further solid growth during the remainder of 1961."

Initially every city reporting in a spot check of large communities showed increased deposits.

The totals were as of June 30, a date when federal and state banking authorities called for reports.

At least two cities, Houston and Abilene, reported all-time record deposits.

Dallas banks showed a record for mid-summer.

The prediction of solid business conditions for the remainder of the year came from Richard Curry of the business news department of the Dallas Times Herald.

R. P. Doherty, chairman of Houston's National Bank of Commerce, said the figures "show Houston is on the threshold of another period of sustained growth."

At Wichita Falls, which showed a whopping $25 million gain over a June 15 bank call a year ago, the boom in deposits was credited to a huge wheat crop and on construction.

Others, such as observers in Longview, said increases "reflect normal growth and good business in the Longview area."

The only early report of a decline came from Galveston, the third year deposits have dropped at mid-summer.

Here are some representative deposit figures, the June 30, 1961 figures given first and the June 15, 1960, figures second.

Dallas County	$2,602,268
Harris County (Houston)	$8,358,520,918
Lubbock	$212,504,135
Wichita County	$199,228,809
Waco	$144,000,000
Midland	$130,904,102
Taylor County	$115,837,429
Galveston	$112,207,048
Abilene	$109,250,333
Longview	$51,608,059

AUSTIN (AP)—A subcommittee of Gov. Price Daniel's tax study group recommended today adoption of a sales tax similar to that in effect in Pennsylvania.

The subcommittee report was not to be acted on by the full 19 members of the Texas Education and Welfare Committee until 2 p.m.

Daniel appeared briefly before the group but did not make direct comment on the subcommittee's recommendation. He said only "I hope you will continue to do all you can to help us work out this tax problem at the special session."

French Robertson, Abilene, head of the subcommittee, said his report was made after an on the ground investigation in Pennsylvania by a group of Texas tax experts.

LESS CONCERN

"Our findings lessen previous concern over the difficulties of administering the Pennsylvania type of tax," he said. "In conclusion we believe that a modified version of the Pennsylvania plan much as contained in a bill by Rep. Ben Atwell in the regular session could be written that would solve our tax problems."

The Pennsylvania plan and the Atwell legislation consists of a large number of selective sales taxes by which a specific rate is levied on specific articles.

Robertson said the subcommittee's recommendations to the Legislature were general instead of specific. He said the subcommittee also believes that supplemental taxes, both temporary and permanent, will be needed to augment a sales tax in order to satisfy Texas' spending needs.

Today's session was the first meeting of the full committee since it was organized. Most of the session was assigned a five-man subcommittee that held public hearings June 30 and 26, and Saturday the subcommittee made a preliminary report saying it was still looking for a compromise.

NO ENTHUSIASM

"The subcommittee has not found any widespread enthusiasm for further compromise as of the date of this report," said French Robertson of Abilene, head of the subcommittee. "It hopes that more evidence of a spirit of compromise will appear prior to the meeting of the full committee on July 6-7 and certainly before the first special session convenes."

The governor's committee will not be the only strategy session in Austin before the Legislature returns. Speaker James Turman said he has talked with some House leaders and will hold a Saturday morning meeting of "key chairmen and personnel."

Turman said he considered calling a pre-session meeting of the House Revenue and Tax Committee but decided against it for fear some members might object.

"I do hope that House members will come to Austin ready to take quick action on our tax and appropriation problems and on the Hiale Aikin school recommendations," Turman said.

"The tax committee will be ready to start work the first day and I hope they will report out a bill in time for the House to consider it on Friday of the first week or at least the first of the next week."

Church Council Debates U.N. Entry For Red China

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A major Protestant assembly today recommended, in round-about fashion, the admission of Red China to the United Nations.

The action sparked a flurry of debate.

It came in a vote by the General Synod of the newly formed United Church of Christ to commend work of its Social Action Council during the past biennium, which had included a call for U.N. membership for Red China.

In upholding the move, representatives of the two-million-member church became one of the first denominations in the country to take such a position.

Stephen West, Indianapolis, Ind., urged an amendment, excluding the council's particular action on Red China from assembly endorsement. But his limiting move was defeated.

The Rev. Dr. Everett McNair, chaplain of Talladega College, Ala., said present U.S. policy against recognizing Red China was throwing that country "into the arms of Russia."

SEGREGATION

The church, with its new top officer plucked from a Midwestern pulpit, also considered whether to keep giving aid to its segregated institutions. A few church-related colleges, and numerous congregations, do not include Negroes.

After electing the Rev. Dr. Ben M. Herbstler, a Norwood, Ohio, pastor as president, the church also considered further action on the subject, backing "universality of membership" in the United Nations.

A pending resolution, up for action today, said: "Communist systems cannot be overcome merely by a policy of isolating Communist nations from the community of nations."

"The Russian, Chinese and other people living under Communist governments are also members of God's family.

"We are now called upon to develop strategies for living with these nations, while working earnestly to increase justice. To effect changes where change is needed, and to strengthen all the elements that contribute to peace."

Resisting the spread of communism is essential, but "simple hostility on our part is not helpful to the cause of peace, freedom and justice," the resolution said.

"Our country must also lead in the political and social reform that so much of our world needs," it added.

Dr. Herbstler, 56, a bespectacled sandy-haired pastor in Norwood ever since he began preaching 30 years ago, was elected Wednesday by a 518 to 165 vote over the Rev. Dr. James E. Wagner, of Philadelphia, a nationally prominent churchman.

After his victory, Dr. Herbstler took the rostrum at the church's general synod to promise his utmost efforts to lead the church to increasing devotion "to the demands of the Gospel of Jesus Christ."

He added: "Those demands include, beyond a personal commitment to the way of Christ, also an unending effort to guarantee to all men, women and children, here in America and to the ends of the earth, a chance to live in freedom, good will, justice."

ASKS HELP

He said he would need the "help of every member" of the church and "the grace of God and his power." He called on the assembly for a moment of silent prayer, which he closed with his entreaty: "Lord, make me an instrument of thy peace."

Dr. Wagner pledged his support to the winner as "one of the finest pastors and best administrators we have," and "my brother in the Lord."

A nominating committee had thrown its weight behind Dr. Herbstler, bypassing both Dr. Wagner and Dr. Fred Hoskins of New York, who had been co-presidents of the church in its formative period.

The two-million-member denomination is made up of the Evangelical and Reformed church which Dr. Wagner had headed, and the Congregational Christian churches, of which Dr. Hoskins had been chief executive.

After the nominating committee made its decision not to choose between them, and bring in a new top officer, Dr. Hoskins stepped out of the picture, taking a seminary professorship. But a rank-and-file group nominated Dr. Wagner.

Bobby Files 2 Suits In Mississippi Balloting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy today filed two suits in Mississippi charging discrimination against eligible Negro voters in that state's Clarke and Forrest counties.

The suits, brought under the 1957 and 1960 Civil Rights Act, named the state and the registrars of the two counties as defendants. They are the first voting rights actions in Mississippi. Similar actions have been brought in Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee.

Justice Department officials said other voting rights investigations are pending "in a number of additional Mississippi counties."

In Jackson, Miss., Gov. Ross Barnett termed the suits as interference "with local self-government."

Barnett declined specific comment because he said he had not seen the complaints, but told the Associated Press:

"I don't understand why they want to interfere with local self-government. Local self-government is the thing that made this nation great."

The opinion was the result of a request by the city to renegotiate a 1932 contract to provide water for the Big Spring State Hospital.

Representatives from the city appeared before the board May 22 to ask the increase. The 29-year-old contract provides water to the hospital for 10 cents per 1,000 gallons. Mayor Lee Rogers told the board that it now costs the city 17 cents per 1,000 gallons, before distribution and treatment costs are added.

The hospital's board asked the attorney general if passage of a bill in the last Legislature gave the board authority to renegotiate the contract. The attorney general opinion said it did not.

"It is well settled," the opinion said, "that a resolution does not have the force and effect of a statute, but is rather an expression of the legislative opinion or will with regard to a particular subject."

Water Ruling Against City

AUSTIN (AP) — The attorney general held today that the Texas Hospitals Board may not renegotiate a water contract with the City of Big Spring unless the state receives "new and adequate consideration."

The opinion was the result of a request by the city to renegotiate a 1932 contract to provide water for the Big Spring State Hospital.

Representatives from the city appeared before the board May 22 to ask the increase. The 29-year-old contract provides water to the hospital for 10 cents per 1,000 gallons. Woman Jumps Into Pool, Saves Kennedy's Daughter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Caroline Kennedy, 3, daughter of the President, got into water over her head in a friend's swimming pool a week ago and was rescued by a young matron who jumped into the pool fully clothed.

Caroline suffered no ill-effects. Nor did her rescuer, Mrs. William Saltonstall, who is expecting a child in the early fall. Mrs. Saltonstall is the daughter-in-law of Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass.

The White House confirmed the incident today after the Evening Star published a story about it written by society columnist Betty Beale.

The episode was at the suburban Maryland home of Mr. and Mrs. Newton I. Steers Jr. Attended by a nurse, Saltonstall had gone there for a birthday-swim party for Ivan Steers, 3, Mrs. Kennedy was not along.

White House press secretary

Pierre Salinger said that Caroline was splashing around in the pool on an inflated rubber ring and slipped out of it.

"Mrs. Saltonstall jumped in and pulled her out," he said. "It was not a serious matter. People were all around watching. She was out of the pool in seconds."

Apparently, Salinger said, Caroline wasn't even under long enough to swallow any water, and, in any event, showed no ill-effects.

Mrs. Saltonstall, when called by an Associated Press reporter, said, "I was the one who jumped in. She declined to discuss the matter further."

The Star story related:

"Three-year-old Caroline, along with a group of her friends, was attending the third birthday party of Ivan Steers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Newton I. Steers Jr. Mrs. Steers is the former Nina Auchincloss, daughter of Hugh D. Auchincloss who is Mrs. John F. Kennedy's stepfather.

"The party was held on the spacious grounds of the Steers residence at 6601 River Road, Bethesda, Md.

"Six or seven mothers and their small children were present at the gathering that also included two or three nurses and their charges."

"The President's daughter had been accompanied to the party by a Secret Service man who was on duty at the entrance to the grounds and by a relief nurse who takes Caroline out when her regular nurse, Miss Maud Shaw, is looking after her infant brother, John Jr."

"Mrs. Saltonstall had only time to prepare her children for the pool when she suddenly heard one of the mothers say, 'Is she all right?'"

"She looked over toward the pool and saw Caroline in the middle of the pool alone, holding onto a board raft. But even as she looked the raft flipped away from Caroline's hand and she started to go down. The water was four feet deep there, over her head.

"Without any thought of her own condition, Mrs. Saltonstall, whose third child is expected in two and a half months, ran to the pool and jumped in before the other parents and nurses had fully taken in the situation.

"Unknown to the other adults, Caroline's nurse had gone into the house to change into her bathing suit."

"By the time Mrs. Saltonstall got to Caroline the little girl had gone under. However, when she pulled her up the youngster seemed unaware of what had happened. Her only reaction was one of surprise. She did express some wonderment that Mrs. Saltonstall should be in the pool with all her clothes on."

Deposits Steady For Local Banks

Big Spring banks held an almost perfectly steady hand on deposits in comparison with a year ago according to figures released today in response to call of conditions as of close of business on June 30, 1961.

The comparable date for the call by the U. S. Comptroller of Currency and the State Banking Commissioner last year was June 15. The deposit figure this June 30 was $32,353,500, up but $20,585 from the comparable date a year ago.

Loans and discounts of $11,986,424 were up by $974,245, and the cash total of $7,643,356 was down by $1,815,892, reflecting heavier investment in bonds.

The total resource total was $35,564,862, up by $193,610 from a year ago.

TOTALS LISTED

The three banks had a total of $8,949,123.03 in U. S. government bonds and $6,182,489.15 in county and municipal and other bonds, an aggregate of $15,137,331.18 in bonds. This compared with $14,228,720.86 on the comparable date a year ago.

On the last call, March 31, 1961:

Loans and discounts	$11,986,424.44	June 15, 1960	$11,012,179.26	Gain-(Loss)	$ 974,245.18
Deposits	32,353,500.00	June 15, 1960	32,332,917.38		20,582.62
Cash	7,643,356.49	June 15, 1960	9,459,258.57		(1,815,892.08)
Total Resources	35,564,862.56	June 15, 1960	35,711,251.91		153,610.65

the deposit total had been somewhat higher at $34,545,812.49, an all-time record. Loans and discounts then stood at $11,513,966.12, cash at $9,725,288.80 and total resources $37,654,784.23.

The report by banks on June 30 was:

FIRST NATIONAL — Loans and discounts $6,595,217.02, deposits $15,823,796.53, cash $3,943,503.37, total resources $17,568,976.92. The bank also had $4,124,914.41 in U.S. bonds and $2,496,496.79 in county and municipal.

STATE NATIONAL — Loans and discounts $3,349,088.94, deposits $11,815,964.86, cash $2,914,503.44, total resources $17,202,035.52. The bank also held $3,019,862.50 in U.S. bonds and $3,208,236.30 in county and municipal.

SECURITY STATE — Loans and discounts $2,042,118.48, deposits $4,713,779.21, cash $985,659.66, total resources $7,768,557.62. The bank also had $1,894,345.12 in U.S. bonds and $303,586.12 in county and municipal.

The new Coahoma State Bank missed the call by one day. It opened Saturday morning, July 1.

Kuwait Asks Guarantee

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Kuwait declared today the U.N. Security Council must give it an effective guarantee of independence before it can feel safe enough to ask British troops to withdraw from the oil-rich desert sheikdom.

Abdel Aziz Hussein, Kuwait's spokesman at the council, spelled out his country's position at a news conference prior to an afternoon council session.

He made clear that a pledge from Premier Abdel Karim Kassem of Iraq not to use force in the current crisis would not be sufficient to allay fears that Iraq would try to overwhelm Kuwait.

He said admission of Kuwait to the United Nations as a member nation and withdrawal of Iraqi claims to Kuwait are prime conditions for any request for the British to withdraw their armed forces.

"We want a resolution from the council recognizing that Kuwait is an independent country and that the claim of Iraq to Kuwait has no basis," he declared.

The United Arab Republic and the Soviet Union urged the council Wednesday to call for British troop withdrawal. The troops were dispatched to Kuwait at the request of Sheik Abdullah as-Salim as-Sabah, who charged Iraqi troops were threatening to invade his newly independent country.

The British announced today the movement of British troops into Kuwait has been completed.

Little Hope For Life

Rugged Country May Help Find Girl, Kidnaper

MOAB, Utah (AP) — Officers searching the vast southeastern section of Utah for a killer-kidnaper and a teen-age girl hoped today that the rugged country would be on their side.

Object of the search was Denise Sullivan, 15, of Rockville, Conn., and the man who kidnapped her after killing her mother, Jeanette Sullivan, 41, and seriously wounding their traveling companion, Charles Boothroyd, 55, also of Rockville.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation entered the manhunt on Wednesday, and Grand County Sheriff John Stocks said officers fear the girl may not be alive.

"It's not going to be alive, girl alive to testify against him," the sheriff said. He estimated her chances for life at one in 100.

Boothroyd was flown to Salt Lake City where he underwent surgery for removal of two .22 caliber slugs from his face. He was in fair condition.

While the search for the murderer-kidnaper spread into near-

Oklahoma Crash Fatal To 3 People

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Three persons were killed in a two-car crash in central Oklahoma today.

The Highway Patrol said I. R. Trammel, about 60, of 4002 Chicago St., Amarillo, Tex., and his wife, Millie, were killed when their car and a second car collided 17 miles east of Norman on Oklahoma 9.

Driver of the other car, Gordon Cartwright, 40, Shawnee, Okla., also was killed. The lone survivor was Melton Lee Trammel, 14, Amarillo, believed to be the Trammel's grandson. The boy was reported in fair condition with possible fractures of a leg and arm.

Bombs Damage Radio Station

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Bombs damaged a radio station operated by Canadian Roman Catholic priests and a priest's residence Tuesday night. Catholic miners called to defend the buildings then clashed with Communists.

The homemade dynamite bomb blew in doors of the buildings and shattered windows. The radio station broadcast a running account of the incidents and called on the miners to defend the buildings.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic archbishop of San Antonio, Robert Lucey, left Wednesday to return home after a short visit in Mexico. He visited the archbishop of Mexico, Miguel Darío Miranda y Gomez.

U. S. Used First Postage Stamps 114 Years Ago

By SAM BLACKBURN
The United States Post Office Department, which came into existence with the establishment of the union, placed the first postage stamps on sale 114 years ago today.

The Post Office Department had been extremely cautious in adopting the postage stamp. Great Britain had been making use of these stickers to indicate postage paid on letters since May 6, 1840. Brazil had been the first Western Hemisphere nation to issue postage stamps. It began dispensing its stamps in March, 1843. Switzerland was issuing stamps printed in two colors as early as 1845.

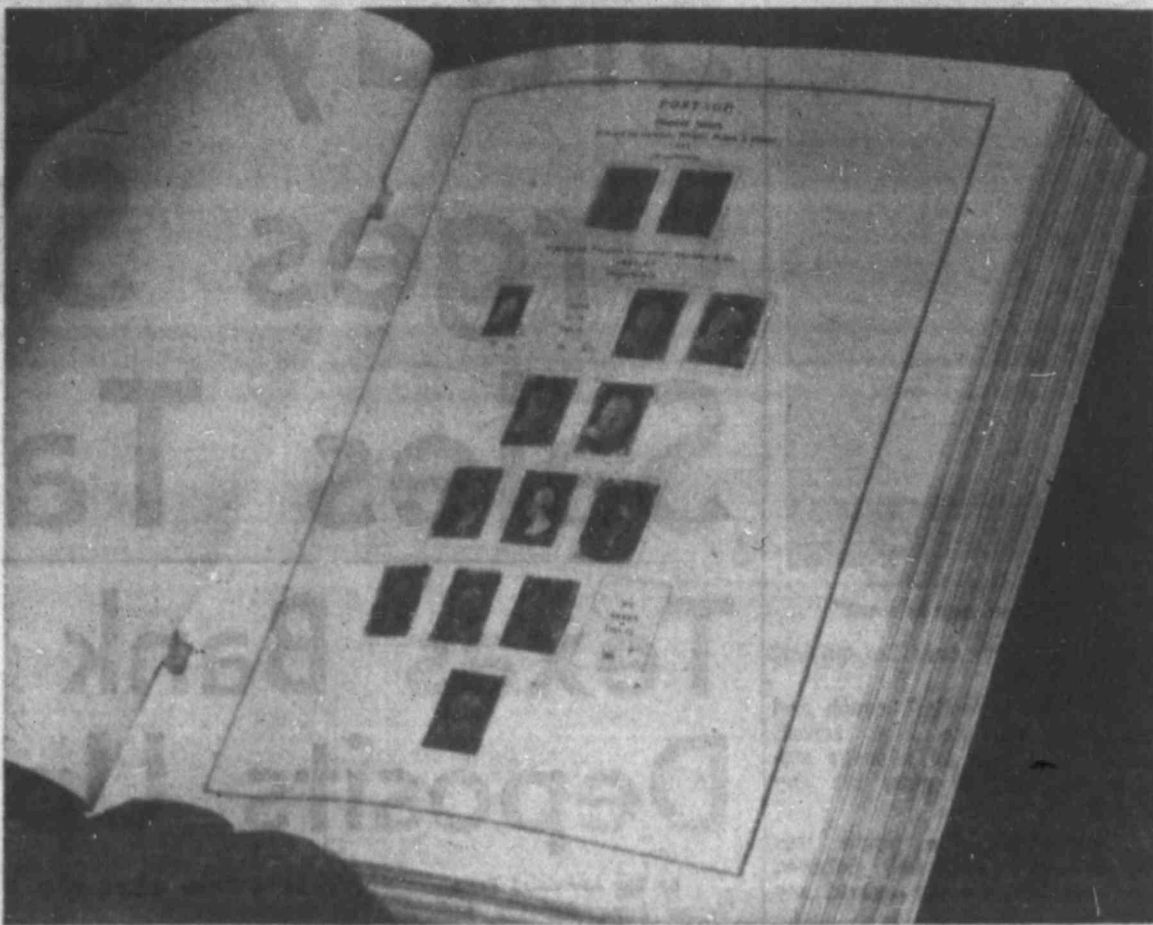

The U.S. Post Office Department issued two denominations of stamps in that July 6, 1847 issue. One had five cent value and the other 10 cents. They established a precedent.

The portraits of Benjamin Franklin and of George Washington appeared on these first stamps. Since that time, their pictures have been featured in every regular issue the post office has issued.

Franklin was the first postmaster general of the nation and the man who probably did more to establish the postal system in this country than any other. Washington, of course, was the first president. Today's regular stamp issue features Franklin on the half-cent and Washington on the one cent denominations.

The first stamps placed on sale were not perforated. The user had to cut the stamp out of the sheet with a pair of scissors. Perforated stamps did not appear until after 1857.

Despite the more than a century which has passed since the first stamps appeared, there are numerous copies still in existence. They are prized by collectors who seek perfect copies rather than just the stamp itself.

Rare Postage Stamps Of 114 Years Ago

This page of 13 exceptionally fine copies of the first postage stamps printed by this nation, owned by Dr. Otto Wolfe, Big Spring philatelist, have a catalog value of nearly $1,000. Today is the 114th anniversary of the first printed postage stamps to be placed on sale in this nation.

Dr. Otto Wolfe, 1607 Osage, who is a veteran stamp collector and who has one of the most complete collections of U. S. stamps in Texas, has two fine copies of the original 5 cent and 10 cent issues. The five cent stamp has a catalog value of $50; the 10 cent is valued at $110. They continued in use until 1851.

Dr. Wolfe has copies of all of the U. S. postage stamps issued in 1847 and from 1851 through 1857 with the exception of three. The one cent blue in the 1851 series has a catalog value of $350. A light blue of the same stamp is worth $85. The thirteen stamps which Dr.

Wolfe, has in his collection, representing all but three of the issues by the United States from 1847 through 1857, have a catalog value of more than $900. If you have any good clean copies on old letters you may find in your great-grandmother's attic, you may have a small fortune on your hands.

Today, the Post Office Department puts a new issue of stamps on sale nearly every week. Special commemorative issues honoring everything from the discovery of the Pacific to the dairy industry are printed by the millions.

No special stamp has been issued to commemorate the 114th anniversary of the first stamps but if postage meter machines do not put the postage stamp out of business by 1997, the odds are the U. S. will have a commemorative to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the first U.S. postage stamps.

Design Or Accident, Car Hit By Train

SALEM, Va. (AP)—Was it design or destiny that brought Elizabeth Webb Howard to the quiet railroad crossing in this small Virginia town?

The No. 51 Norfolk and Western freight train smashed into the woman's car Wednesday, tearing it apart and hurling Mrs. Howard from the wreckage.

At the controls of the train was her husband, E. O. Howard. Today Mrs. Howard, 39, lay unconscious in a Roanoke hospital, near death with head, chest and undetermined injuries. The impact of the crash hurled her 90 feet from her shattered car.

Her husband, a train fireman who had temporarily taken over the controls of No. 51 from the regular engineer moments before the crash, was said to be under the care of a private physician and could not be located.

J. N. Dillon, the regular engineer, took No. 51 westward to the end of its run after the crash and his whereabouts were not immediately determined.

Raising the question that something more than chance might have been involved in the crash was Salem Chief of Police George T. Eades.

Eades said Wednesday night the circumstances of the crash were not clear but there was some evidence it "was not an accident." A note was found in Mrs. Howard's purse, he said, but would not reveal its contents. He declined to say more.

No relatives visited Mrs. Howard at the hospital Wednesday night. She lay deep in a coma. Hospital officials said her condition was "very serious."

Sir Anthony's Son Seen As Right For Princess

LONDON (AP)—Society folk today viewed Nicholas Eden, handsome son of Sir Anthony Eden, as the strongest contender for the hand of Britain's most eligible bachelor girl, Princess Alexandra.

Young Eden's chances took a rise in Mayfair's eyes with the announcement Wednesday that his father, the former prime minister, had been made an earl.

That automatically raised Nicholas Eden's only surviving son, to the peerage as a viscount and the heir to his father's earldom. Socialites figured that the royal family, having seen Princess Margaret and Alexandra's brother, the Duke of Kent, marry commoners, would be pleased to see the queen's tall, attractive first cousin choose a husband from the peerage.

Nicholas, 30 and looking a lot like his handsome father, has long been a part-time escort of the 34-year-old princess. Recently they have been seeing much more of each other.

They go to the theater together and have supper afterward by candlelight in London's smart clubs. They went to Ascot together and Queen Elizabeth invited Nicholas to her house party at Windsor during Ascot week, which to the socialites put the seal of royal approval on the romance if there is one.

New President

HOUSTON (AP)—Dr. Kenneth Pitzer is the new president of Rice University. He succeeds Dr. William Houston, who has been on a year's leave of absence. Pitzer, 46, was dean of chemistry at the University of California.

Hoffa Plows Under All Opposition

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A dues increase and broad new powers today helped James R. Hoffa consolidate control over the Teamsters Union.

Hoffa dealt his minority opposition a series of smashing setbacks attempting to block his way to a new five-year term as union president.

Hoffa scored his biggest triumph on winning convention approval of a yearly $12 million dues increase at a grueling all-day and night session of a special Teamsters convention.

Hoffa gavelled through the convention an easy boost in his own salary from $50,000 to $70,000 a year. It made him the highest paid union official in the land. But he said he deserved it because he presided over the biggest U.S. labor organization.

The dues increase over delegate protests would boost Hoffa's headquarters revenue to about $20 million a year. It would raise member dues requirements by $1 per member per month.

Milton J. Liss, president of the Newark, N.J. Local 478 and Hoffa's only opponent for re-election, lost a series of convention floor battles to limit his program.

Liss and others argued that the dues hike and other proposals would limit local union autonomy and right to serve in union office and as convention delegates.

The convention shoved through new provisions to limit rank and file members to hold union office and to attend future conventions. These new rules, adopted by the convention, require that candidates for national union office serve at least two years in local office and that local officials must attend at least 50 per cent of local union meetings.

Hoffa obviously was in full charge of the 2,000 delegates as he called for decisions on a series of proposals that would build his union power.

Among other changes overwhelmingly approved by the delegates was an extension of jurisdiction to cover all workers in all industries regardless of work claims made by other unions.

President Joseph Curran of the National Maritime Union, a leader in the recent shipping strike, spoke to the convention and urged a quick realization of a land, sea and air union combine.

Curran, an AFL-CIO vice president, said he hoped that the AFL-CIO will soon withdraw its three-year-old expulsion of the Teamsters on corruption charges. Curran said the Teamsters should be brought back into the AFL-CIO for the nation's economic welfare.

THE BIBLE

By T. H. Tarbol, preacher
Church of Christ, West Highway 88
P.O. Box 1285.

Bible prophecy has proved true, and we are therefore compelled to believe the Bible.

Words were written about a coming event, before the event took place, and before it could by any natural means be foreseen.
For example, Isaiah 53 was written 700 years before Christ; yet it pictures in detail the person and the suffering of Jesus Christ. No one else in history who could have fulfilled Isaiah 53; but Jesus Christ did, even to the details of his prayers for those who crucified him, and the place where he was buried. How can this be explained except to say that Isaiah spoke as he was moved of the Holy Spirit (II Pet. 1:21)?
"And he made his grave with the wicked, and with the rich in death; because he had done no violence, neither was any deceit in his mouth. . . . Yet it pleased the Lord to bruise him. . . . and he was numbered with the transgressors; and he bare the sin of many, and made intercession for the transgressors" (Isa. 53:9-12).
Welcome to our mid-week preaching service tonight at 7:30. —Adv.

Tear Gas Used On Demonstrators

Riot police use tear gas to turn back demonstrators in Lima, Peru, as members of a striking construction workers union attempted to march to the morgue to claim the body of a fellow member killed by police during an earlier clash between striking and non-striking workers.

East German Chief Rattles Berlin Sabre

BERLIN (AP)—Walter Ulbricht, East German Communist leader, vowed today to put an end to West Berlin "as a stronghold of the cold war" when he gets a peace treaty with the Soviet Union.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev has promised him one by the end of the year. "With the conclusion of a peace treaty, even if it is only with the German Democratic Republic," said Ulbricht, "there will begin a new settlement of the West Berlin question. I want to leave no doubt about this."

"This means that the center of provocations in West Berlin and its misuse as a stronghold of the cold war will in any case be eliminated."

Ulbricht has made clear in the past that he wants full control over land, sea and air routes to Berlin. He has also said he will insist on the closing of the big reception center at Marienfelde, where 500 refugees from communism are taken in daily.

The only question, Ulbricht said, was whether the process would be "easy and painless or more difficult." Ulbricht spoke for 90 minutes to the People's Chamber, East Germany's Soviet style parliament.

Gaming Machines Turned To Ashes

LONGVIEW (AP)—Only ashes and mangled metal remained today of 43 marble tables and several gaming horoscopes destroyed by a bulldozer and flames as "illegal." The stuff was worth $15,000.

The 124th District Court ordered the machines destroyed. They were seized by state police. Liquor Board agents and operatives of the Gregg County grand jury April 27. They were found in a Longview warehouse and at 10 driveways in the county.

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Prospects of a tomato shortage because of heavy rains in producing areas shot prices from about 5 cents a pound to as high as 40 cents per pound in Mexican markets today.

Zoning Commission Plans Public Hearings On Changes

Public hearings on two proposed zoning changes were set for the Aug. 1 meeting of the planning and zoning commission. One proposed zoning change was denied, and a plat of the second section of the Highland South Addition was approved with one minor change, at the Wednesday meeting of the commission.

Residents of Wood Street, represented by F. W. Jarratt and T. A. Rogers, presented a petition asking that the north and south sides of Wood, between State and Settles, be changed from residential to neighborhood service. The commission recalled that a former request for rezoning the area was withdrawn by the residents, until the new zoning ordinance was effective, at the board's suggestion.

A public hearing is being called, according to law, for the regular meeting on Aug. 1, when the engineering department will have worked out set-backs of possible buildings, and other details necessary for neighborhood service zoning.

Mrs. D. W. Rankin Jr., representing the Marvel Garden Center, Gollard and Marcy Drive, appeared requesting a rezoning of Lot 5, Block 2, of the Choate Addition, east of Austin Street, to neighborhood service. Mrs. Rankin said she had part of her nursery on the north side of Marcy, and another part for retail sales on the south side. She said she did not own the property, and requested the rezoning of the new lot to allow ample space for growing and for selling, with the intention of buying the lot.

The commission discussed the proposed rezoning from R-1 residential to NS, and turned down the change because of the possibility of future requests which would set up a ragged series of residential-neighborhood service areas.

A request was heard for replating Blocks 4-5-12 in the Fairview area, on the West end of town. Glenn Thompson, Abilene, proposes to build minimum FHA type houses in the three blocks. He asked to have the lots replat-

Anti-Red Move

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The president of the American Chamber of Commerce of Mexico said Wednesday that "there is strong evidence of mounting antagonism toward Communism." In Mexico Ellsworth Stinyard said statements by some local officials and anti-American demonstrations had "seriously affected the tourist trade and new investment climate."

ted to face north and south instead of east and west. He said some of the lots, now facing on Hillcrest, did not have entrances since the street was not developed and was merely a drainage channel. The commission approved the replating.

A plat of the second section of Highland South Addition, being developed by Ike Robb, was approved provided an alley shown on the north side of the area is eliminated. This addition was included in the Master Plan, and the preliminary plat approved two years ago. It is now outside the city limits and would require annexation when development starts.

Following suggestions of the engineering division, the property owned by the Cole sisters in south Big Spring, recently zoned as MF, was re-approved for zoning as a Planned District for Multi-family use. The developers, Madison and Pennings of Houston, have approved the new zoning, and agreed that it must be developed according to ordinance.

The developers have proposed an apartment district with 32 one-bedroom, 72 two-bedroom, and 16 three-bedroom units. There will be 130 covered parking spaces and 100 open spaces.

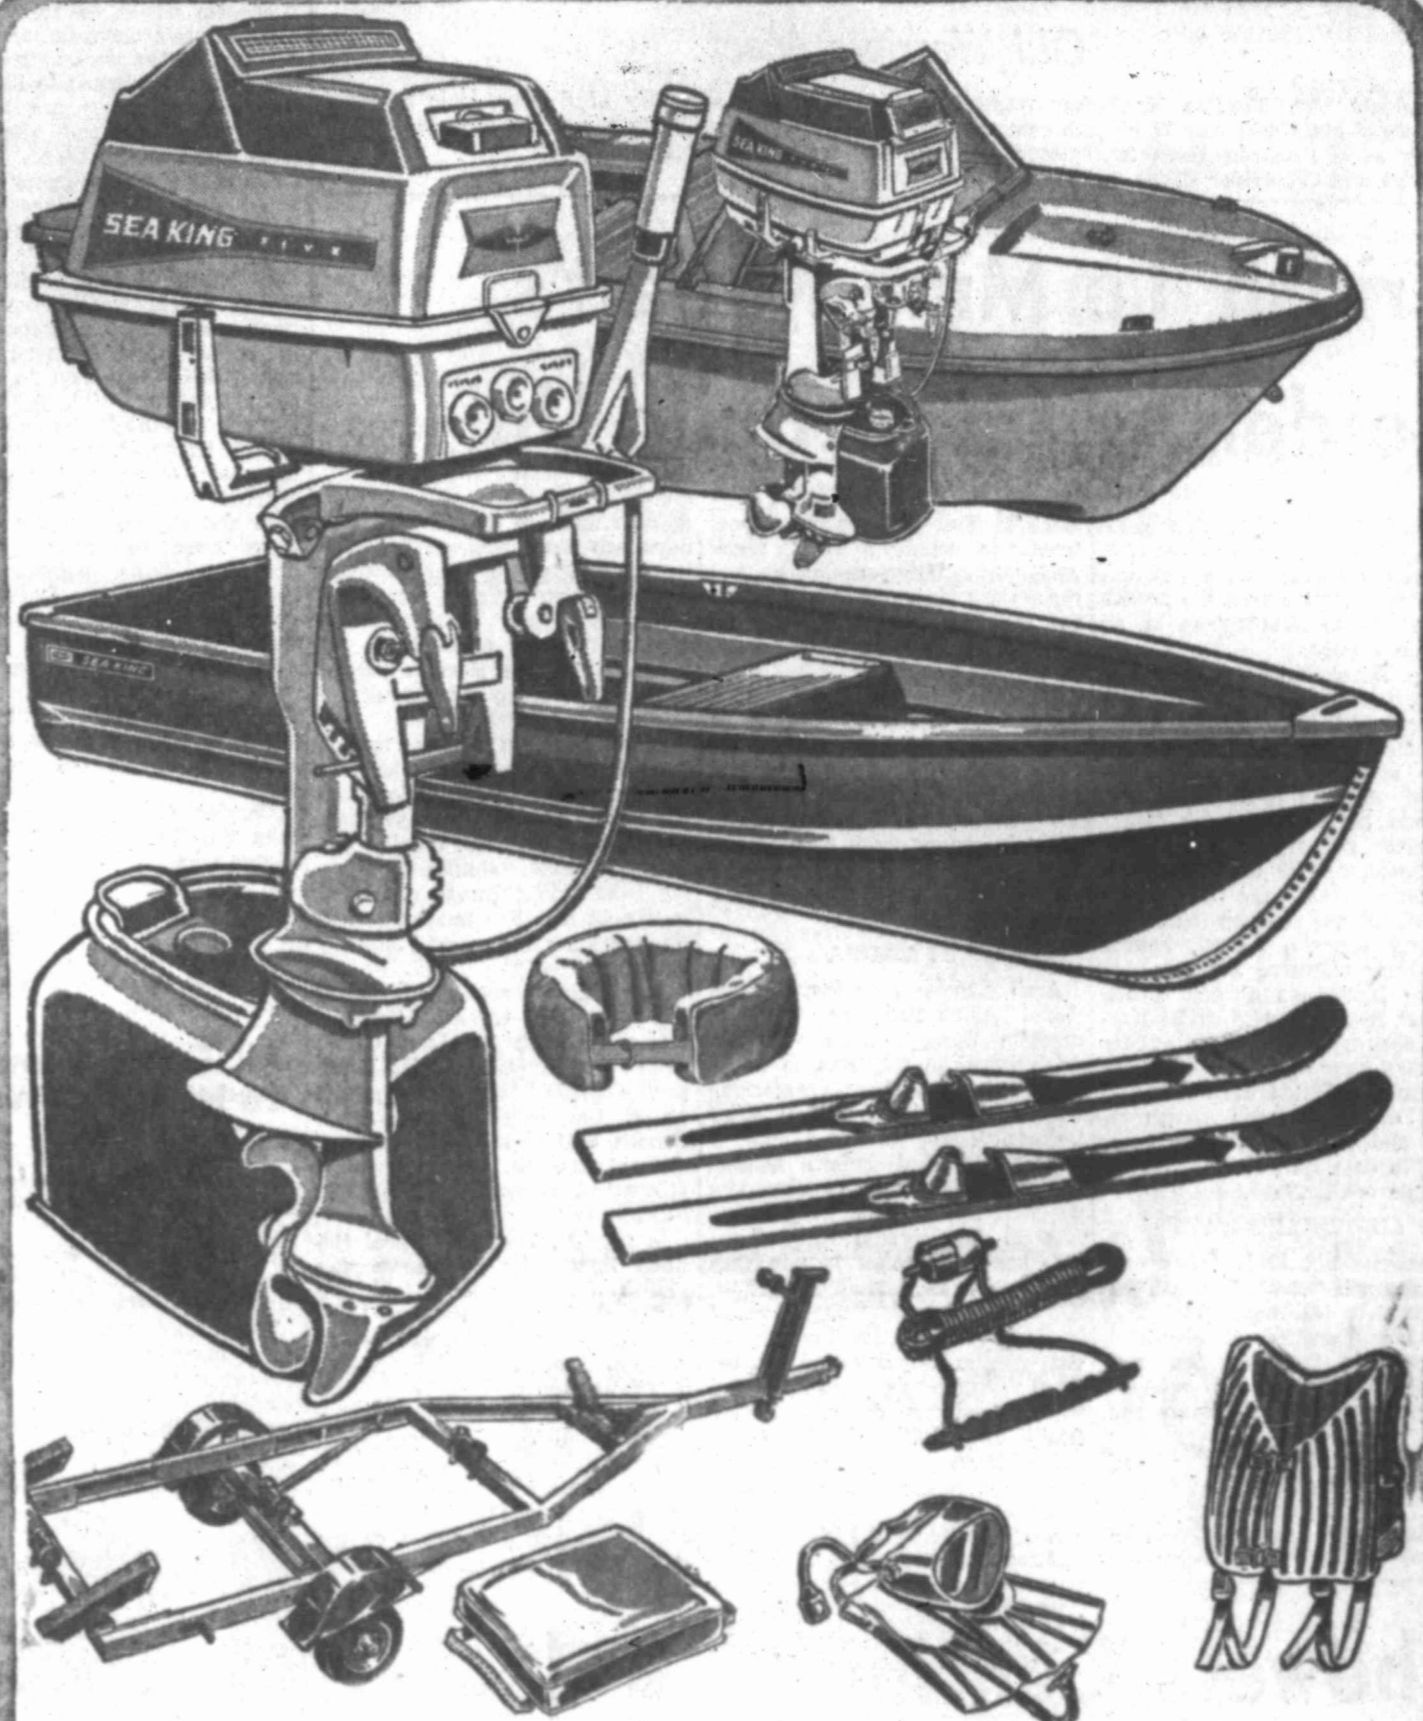

A public hearing was called for this change on Aug. 1.

British To Mine Kuwait's Border As Iraq is Build Up

KUWAIT (AP)—Britain's commander in Kuwait has ordered the desert frontier mined, charging Iraqi forces across the border appear to be building up at an increased pace.

Brig. Derek Horsford, defending his decision to mine the frontier, declared: "I have been ordered to come in and organize the defense of this country. If I am caught with my pants down then I would deserve the sack."

British military sources said the Iraqis, despite their continued insistence that they would get control of the oil-rich sheikhdom only by peaceful means, appear poised for offensive action.

(The Iraq news agency reported that Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem, after a plane survey of areas near the Kuwait border Wednesday, denied the British reports of Iraqi troop concentrations and said the British know that "to date Iraq has not moved a single soldier.")

LEGITIMATE WAYS

(Kassem said in his statement that Iraq will "combat British imperialism by all legitimate ways until the liberation of our Arab countries in the gulf and until Kuwait, the stolen part, is saved and restored to its homeland, Iraq.")

(In the U.N. Security Council the United Arab Republic and the Soviet Union joined Iraq in demanding the immediate withdrawal of the British forces that went to Kuwait after an appeal from the country's ruler, Sheik Abdullah as-Salim as-Sabah. And there were hints the council might ask the Arab League to settle the crisis generated by Iraq's claim to Kuwait.

(U.A.R. delegate Omar Loutfi, in insisting the Arab League be left to deal with the crisis, said "my country opposes any idea of annexation of Kuwait by Iraq. But we cannot oppose any program of unity among Arab brothers. In the spirit of self-determination we support Kuwait's claim to independence.")

IN ARABIA

Arab League Secretary-General Abdel Khalek Hassouna, trying to mediate through talks with the Arab governments, was in Saudi Arabia today after conferring with Sheik Abdullah and Premier Kassem.

Hassouna said before leaving Wednesday he was convinced a peaceful solution could be found. Radio Mecca said King Saud, who has sent troops to join with the British in defending Kuwait, had expressed his "urgent wish" to Hassouna that the tiny Persian Gulf nation be admitted to the Arab League as a full-fledged member without delay. Iraq opposes admitting Kuwait to the Arab alliance because it would constitute recognition of Kuwait's independence.

Six hundred British marine commandos who set up a forward defense line in the desert five days ago were relieved by fresh troops Wednesday after about a third of them suffered from heat exhaustion. Most quickly recovered but some were flown for treatment to the aircraft carrier Bulwark hovering off Kuwait.

WORRIED

Brig. Horsford, after touring front-line defenses, said he was worried about the conditions under which his men were working. "Winds whip up cruelly hot burning sands, absolutely stinging," he said. "Imagine what it is like—it is not so much the heat as this burning wind all day long."

Six British warships, including the aircraft carrier Centaur, started through the Suez Canal, bound for Kuwait. U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser, who seized the canal from British-French control in 1956, made no attempt to block them though he is opposed to the British force in Kuwait.

In London, Lord Privy Seal Edward Heath, No. 2 man in the British foreign office, told the House of Commons that the United Nations is considering taking over in Kuwait and "our minds are not closed on this."

Meanwhile, he said, Britain's defense buildup is "proceeding according to plan." He said there still is anxiety "concerning Iraq's threat to the independence" of the sheikhdom, which supplies 40 per cent of Britain's oil.

N. Wisconsin Is Added To Drought Area

By The Associated Press

Northern Wisconsin today was added to the drought-ridden Great Plains area as Minnesota sought addition of 9 more counties to the 24 already declared federal disaster tracts.

In the western Dakotas, stockmen joined crop growers in deep concern over dwindling water supplies and were moving cattle to greener pastures or preparing for their early marketing.

Grasshoppers were added to the drought plague in eastern Montana, where federal-state crop reporting services, predicted many fields wouldn't even be harvested.

Sen. Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., called for early action by federal authorities to aid farmers in that state's drought area. Unless there is rain soon, Wiley said Wednesday night that farmers all over Wisconsin would be suffering.

Minnesota's Gov. Elmer L. Andersen said the worsening drought was bringing appeals to his farmers whose pastures are browned over by the sun and whose feed grain crops are withered.

Granting of new disaster appeals would place 33 of Minnesota's 87 counties into the emergency category.

In North Dakota, water was drying up in wells, creeks and ponds to threaten stock along the western and southern boundaries. There has been no growth of pastures or wild hay in the western two-thirds for weeks.

With temperatures in the high 80's again, much small grain was reported beyond salvage. But the corn and soybeans in the eastern zones were accorded a chance, assuming some moisture does come. All of North Dakota was declared a disaster area last week.

Western South Dakota cattlemen were reported either moving herds to greener pastures and water or holding dispersal sales, disposing of all but foundation stock.

Charles Govern, cattle expert with the South St. Paul (Minn.) Commission Co., said the unseasonable marketing forced by the aridity was bound to carry prices downward. But he added that housewives could look for little if any effect on prices they pay for meat, this year at least.

'Beat Navy,' Cadets Sing Out

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP)—"Beat Navy, sir" snapped 850 young cadets who registered on Wednesday as the 163rd class of the United States Military Academy.

The young men represent 50 states and 5 foreign countries. After receiving their equipment and military haircuts, they spent the remainder of the day running in double time.

The orientation period will take up the first two months of the four year course.

"Beat Navy, sir" is the plebe response to an upperclassman's salute.

Showers Continue Across Broad Band

By The Associated Press

Showers continued today across a broad band from the central plains to the north central Atlantic Coast.

Hail, heavy rain and gusty winds hammered sections of north central and northwest Missouri, Kansas and south central Iowa Wednesday night. More than 3 inches of rain drenched Grinnell, Iowa, and many sections along the Missouri storm belt.

Both Kansas City, Mo., and Kansas City, Kan., were hit hard by the severe weather. Telephone and electric service was disrupted streets and basements were flooded and traffic was curtailed. More than four inches of rain fell in the area.

Two funnel clouds which did not touch ground were sighted a few miles south of Topeka, Kan. Widely scattered showers hit the central and northern Rockies, the Florida Peninsula and along the north Pacific Coast. Mostly fair weather prevailed in other sections of the country.

It was a little chilly again this morning in northern areas east of the Mississippi River. Temperatures ranged from the 40s along the northern border to the 70s south of the Ohio Valley and central Atlantic States with 80s along the Gulf Coast and extreme southern Florida Peninsula.

Woman In Coma Gives Birth

ABILENE (AP)—Mrs. Sharon Jones, unconscious since an auto accident last Dec. 19, gave birth by Caesarian section Wednesday to a son.

She was reported in good condition but still unconscious today. The infant weighed six pounds and four ounces and doctors said he was "seriously ill with a respiratory ailment."

Mrs. Jones, 23, was a former beauty contestant. People have contributed more than $5,000 to a Sharon Jones fund started several months ago.

Breaks Hand Instead Of Block

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, Ga. (AP)—Marine fido expert Sgt. Carl Freudenberg of Parris Island, S.C., broke his hand instead of a concrete block during an exhibition before a sunshine festival audience.

At the exhibition Tuesday, Freudenberg was supposed to have shattered the block with a slap of the edge of the hand.

The Marine, undaunted, had the hand treated, then returned for the next show and shattered the two-inch building block—with his other hand.

Jaycees Planning Tri-Regional Meet

COLORADO CITY (SC)—Colorado City Jaycees are in the final stage of preparation for the Tri-Regional summer convention to be held in Colorado City July 8-9.

Drew Ballard, Jaycee president, said about 300 Jaycees and Jayceettes are expected from the 34 towns in the three region area, which stretches from El Paso to Cisco and from Stamford to Fredricksburg.

For entertainment, the Jaycees have combined something old (a tour thru the Frontier Museum), something new (water skiing at Lake Colorado City), something borrowed (the Col-Tex Club for Saturday night's dance) and something bar-b-cued (Saturday afternoon); which will make the fun side of the convention as completely programmed as the business sessions.

The business session will open with general assembly Sunday morning at 9:30. State president Lewis Timberlake of Stamford will address a combined luncheon at Civic House and the final business session will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

Registration is slated to begin at noon on Saturday, Ballard said, and registrants will be given a kit with tickets to all activities and maps showing how to get there; and a sack with 30 or more odds and ends, from an electric bulb, ("To cast a little light on the subject," Ballard said) to a can of machine oil ("So that things will run smoothly," he added).

Dam Request To Be Heard

AUSTIN (AP)—The Board of Water Engineers has agreed to hear a request for permission to build a dam on the Little Wichita River.

The board will hear a Wichita Falls request Sept. 18 for approval of a permit to build an on-channel reservoir on the Little Wichita River to impound 228,000 acre feet of water.

The dam, 10 miles southwest of Henrietta, would impound the water from which the city intends to take 63,400 acre feet annually for municipal purposes.

Princess Grace Visits Lourdes

LOURDES, France (AP)—Princess Grace of Monaco arrived Wednesday at this Roman Catholic shrine in southern France with a pilgrimage from her home principally.

The princess, former movie star Grace Kelly, interrupted a yacht cruise to be with the group.

Princess Rainier remained aboard the yacht Christina with a party including ship owner Aristide Onassis and opera singer Maria Callas.

Most Algerians Return To Work After Strike

ALGIERS (AP)—Most of Algeria's Moslems returned to work today after a 24-hour general strike and riots during which French forces killed 30 Moslems and wounded about 300.

Some tension remained in outlying areas where emotional Moslems were burying their dead. Troops in Wednesday's trouble spots remained on the alert to put down any demonstrations that might develop during mass funeral services.

Algeria was bustling with activity again. Reports said conditions were normal in other coastal cities and in most of the interior.

The French reported six of their men dead and 20 wounded after the violence.

The 24-hour strike, called to protest President Charles de Gaulle's threat to partition Algeria into European and Moslem enclaves, was 90 per cent effective throughout the country and bolstered the exile rebel regime's prestige and bargaining position with the French.

There were mass demonstrations of support in neighboring Tunisia and Morocco. Ferhat Abbas, head of the rebel exile government, told a crowd of Moroccans in Casablanca: "Algeria is one and indivisible. It is not a gruyere cheese which can be carved up."

A high French official in Algiers grimly admitted the disorders "hardly contribute" to the chances of peaceful coexistence between Algeria's nine million Moslems and one million Europeans or to association of an independent Algeria with France.

De Gaulle threatened last week to partition Algeria if no agreement on Algeria's future ties with France is reached. Before Wednesday's violence French officials said peace talks between the French and the rebels, suspended since June 13, probably would resume next week.

Pro-rebel demonstrations became riots in eastern Algeria and half a dozen towns near Algiers. It was one of the most powerful displays of pro-rebel feeling among Algeria's Moslems since the rebellion broke out nearly seven years ago. French officials conceded it showed virtually complete Moslem support for the rebel drive to win independence from France.

The bloody repression of the rioters put France in an awkward position before world opinion and increased tension and bitterness among the Moslem populace.

It struck hard at the pride of the embattled French army in Algeria, already shaken by recent purges and trials that followed the abortive mutiny last April against De Gaulle's government.

Officials appeared openly disturbed at the depth of bitterness in the officer corps.

Many officers blamed the demonstrations on the government's unilateral cease-fire order, claiming rebel guerrillas have been able to regroup and reorganize in a number of areas because of the army's activity. A French spokesman said 14 of the Moslem dead were rebel soldiers in uniform.

The government last month called a halt to the anti-rebel offensive at the start of the peace talks at Evian-Les-Bains. The rebels rejected the order as a propaganda move and vowed to fight on.

Wednesday's violence also deepened the apprehensions of Algeria's Europeans, who fear they will suffer at the hands of the Moslems should France ever pull out of Algeria.

A blonde mother of two summed up their feeling.

"God help us if the army ever leaves Algeria," she said.

GIs Cited For Rescue

ASCHAFFENBURG, Germany (AP)—U.S. Army officials said today two soldiers who saved the life of a German boy and then disappeared have been recommended for the Soldier's Medal, the highest army peacetime medal for bravery.

The two, Elzie Dean Scott, 19, Omak, Wash., and Michael Wickwire, 20, Spokane, Wash., were wandering around downtown Aschaffenburg, June 10 when they spotted Michael Strenger, 5, hanging by his hands from a fourth-floor window of his home, about 100 feet above the ground.

They braced themselves under the window, locked arms and seconds later, caught Michael as he plunged screaming toward the concrete sidewalk. When Michael's mother and German police looked for the lad's rescuers, they had disappeared.

But their buddies back in camp heard radio broadcasts about the incident and after days of persuasion, finally talked them into identifying themselves. Officers of the 33rd Heavy Tank Battalion, 3rd Armored Division, quoted Scott and Wickwire as saying they left the rescue scene when they saw Michael was back in his mother's arms.

Davis Calls Tides Meet

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Gov. Jimmie Davis called a closed meeting of top Louisiana officials Wednesday with U.S. Rep. Edwin Willis, D-La., on the tidelands question.

The conference appeared to touch the status of congressional legislation and other questions in the offshore boundary dispute with the federal government.

Willis is chairman of a U.S. hearing on legislation backed by Louisiana which would give Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama the same 10 1/2 mile boundary in the Gulf of Mexico the Supreme Court recognized for Florida and Texas.

The government recognizes only a three-mile limit for Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama.

Israeli Rocket Reaction Mild

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Israel's new space rocket drew headlines in the Arab press here today but the newspaper reacted with less alarm than expected. Some said it should teach the Arab countries a lesson in international cooperation.

Al Jarida noted that the meteorological rocket was sent up Wednesday from a secret Israeli launching pad as Arab countries girded for a fight against Israel's plans to divert Jordan River waters for irrigation.

The Israelis insist the rocket is strictly a scientific tool and not a military weapon, but the leftist Al Shaab noted Israel also has its own nuclear reactor.

Six Apply For Lake Position

Only six applications for the caretaker job at Moss Creek Lake had been turned in shortly before noon today, according to Bruce Dunn, director of public works, but many other persons have picked up forms.

Interviews for the post were to begin at 2:30 p.m. today in Dunn's office. Applicants were asked to schedule a time for the interview when their applications were turned in, Dunn said.

"We hope to make a decision Friday," Dunn said. "At present the vacancy is being filled by temporary personnel."

Applicants will be interviewed by members of a committee composed of Dunn, R. V. Forestry, assistant director of public works; Roy Anderson, assistant city manager; and Roy Hester, superintendent of the water plant.

"These men all have some connection with the caretaker so they will assist in his selection," Dunn said.

The vacancy was caused by the death Sunday of Frank Weldon Covert, superintendent of city lakes since 1938.

Duties of the custodian include selling and checking recreation permits, maintaining the area, maintaining and operating the pumping stations at Powell Lake and Moss Creek Lake and patrolling the lake for violations of regulations.

Urges A Look At Hospital Work Program

AUSTIN (AP)—The state auditor recommended today that a closer legal look be given a program at the San Antonio State Hospital that has patients working for outside commercial concerns.

The report also recommended tighter control on disposal of personal effects of former patients and suggested an official of the institution be charged rent for a vegetable garden he plants on hospital grounds.

The audit report added that records for the year ending Aug. 31, 1960 were more accurately kept than in recent years. It also said there has been improvement in preventative maintenance procedures and noted that the grounds are "exceptionally clean and orderly."

"It seems to us that certain legal aspects pertaining to the industrial education program need clarification," said the audit report signed by State Auditor C. H. Cavness.

In July of 1959 the hospital established an industrial education program in connection with its occupational therapy unit to train patients who are capable in work that would benefit them when they are able to leave the hospital.

Incest Complaint Is Filed Here

Charges of incest have been filed against Charles Glenn Connelly, 44, an oil field worker, who lives near Coahoma.

The charges were filed in the court of Jess Slaughter, justice of the peace, on Wednesday afternoon. The complaint was signed by his 15-year-old daughter.

No bond has been set in the case. Connelly was in Midland today undergoing lie - detector tests at the Department of Public Safety.

Investigation of the case was by Fern Cox and Bill Whitton, deputy sheriffs, and Bobby West, investigator for the district attorney.

Old Settlers' Pavilion Improvements

Workmen in the top picture are shown putting up the trusses for the roof of the 40 by 60-foot addition to the pavilion. The roof will be of wood shingles. The concrete slab should be poured either today or Friday, Bruce Dunn, director of public works, said.

In the lower picture, the men are shown working on an extension to the barbecue pit. This will better serve the larger crowds expected with the addition to the pavilion, according to A. K. Steinheimer, city manager. Shown, left to right, are Nazario Juarez, Marcelo Lozano and Pablo Ramirez Jr.

Union Takes On Little Giant Of Auto Business

DETROIT (AP)—The United Auto Workers Union takes on American Motors Corp.—the little giant of the auto industry—in labor contract negotiations today.

AMC is small in comparison with the big three—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler—but in the past three years it has had spectacular success with its compact Rambler and made the big companies sit up and take notice.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther may find AMC a tougher bargainer than the big three. AMC President George Tomney has been outspoken in his criticism of big labor unions and also of big corporations. He doesn't like pattern settlements.

But the UAW will insist that American Motors settle on the same terms this year as the big three.

When present three-year contracts were signed in 1958, the union allowed AMC some concessions. Annual improvement factor wages were frozen for two years at AMC's Kelvinator division in Grand Rapids, Mich.

The company also was allowed to skip cost of living increases for two years at Grand Rapids.

AMC sought unsuccessfully in 1958 to win similar concessions at its automotive plants in Wisconsin.

The union has noted the growing importance of American Motors in the auto industry.

As the fourth largest of the nation's auto firms, AMC's share of the market in the first four months of this year was 6.10 per cent compared with Chrysler's 11.30. Both firms were well behind General Motors' 46.23 per cent and Ford's 28.01. AMC was far out in front of Studebaker-Packard, the only other independent, which was down to 1.35.

With sales lagging in the entire auto industry, American Motors' profits were down to $2.2 million in the first quarter of 1961 compared to profits of $14.4 million in the same period a year ago.

American Motors has reported a profit in every quarter so far of the present contract. The UAW noted this in serving notice on Chrysler that it can expect no contract concessions because it lost $21.9 million in the first quarter of 1961. The union said this showed that management, rather than the contract, was to blame for Chrysler's financial problems.

AMC has almost doubled its production force in the past four years.

The present contract with the UAW covers 22,800 employees at automotive plants in Milwaukee and Kenosha, Wis.; 2,100 at appliance plants in Grand Rapids and 100 in Detroit facilities on defense contracts.

Also surviving are his mother, Mrs. Nettie Overby, Jacksonville; two sisters, Mrs. Ed Williamson, Jacksonville, and Mrs. Eustes Nation, Roscoe; one brother, George Overby, Sweetwater; 46 grandchildren and 13 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Friday at the First Baptist Church with the Rev. C. R. Adathis, pastor of the Lenora Baptist Church, officiating, assisted by the Rev. W. H. Ulman, First Baptist minister. Burial will be in the Evergreen Cemetery under the direction of Arrington Funeral Home.

Paving Work Closes Street

Plant mix is being added to the intersection on Scurry at Fifteenth street and that portion of the street will be closed until the mix has been rolled, according to Bruce Dunn, director of public works.

"We should get Scurry seal coated early next week," Dunn said.

Workers are putting up trusses for the roof on the addition to the Old Settlers' Pavilion in City Park. The post supports are up and frames have been laid for the concrete slab, Dunn said.

"The slab will probably be poured this afternoon or Friday," he added.

Work on the roadside park on National west has been halted until completion of the Old Settlers' Pavilion. When the park is completed, it will have a picnic shelter, paved parking area for persons who want to watch airplanes, picnic tables, and a barbecue pit.

To date the area has been cleared, dirt hauled in, grass planted, and a sprinkler system installed, Dunn said.

Police Report No Major Calls

Big Spring has been without an accident of any consequence in the past 24 hours. Police were called to one at 808 NW 6th, where a parked car rolled down a hill and struck a fence.

Except for dog calls, prowlers, one reported theft, and routine calls, police investigated no major reports.

Richard Eastman of Blum's Jewelry reported the theft of the front floor mats from his car at 221 Main.

A report of a man lying on the shoulder of East Third, out from Birdwell Lane, was investigated at 5:30 p.m. The man was taken to the Howard County Hospital Foundation where he was treated for heat exhaustion and released. He was John Bivins, 23, of Cheyenne, Wyo.

Missing Money Still Sought

No new developments have arisen in the investigation of a $1,500 theft from the Newsom Food Store on South Gregg.

The money disappeared from a safe in the store sometime Tuesday. It was in $20 bills officers were told.

Investigators have talked to a number of persons and are continuing to check into the case.

Dinner To Honor Unit Observers

A special dinner for institutional visitors, at Webb AFB observing the AFOTC summer training unit, is scheduled at 6:30 p.m. today at the Officers Club.

The visitors include Dr. R. L. Ropp, president of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute; Dr. Gerald T. Hudson, dean of the College of Agriculture, University of Arkansas; Dr. Joseph A. Riehl, dean of the University of Southwestern Louisiana; Dr. Martin O. Juel, dean of students, Southwest Texas State College; Dr. Monroe S. Carroll, provost of Baylor University; Dr. Cecil L. U. S. Opposes Bias Against Negro Envoys

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department called Washington real estate leaders to a meeting today in a move to curb housing discrimination against Negro diplomats in the nation's capital.

Undersecretary of State Chester Bowles arranged to address the closed session to stress the Kennedy administration's concern over practices it says are giving Uncle Sam a bad name abroad.

President Kennedy's protocol chief, Angier Biddle Duke, termed the discrimination question urgent because "American relations with new countries are vitally affected by the treatment which their diplomats receive in Washington, being the capital of the United States."

About 25 or 30 African diplomats' families were reported to have run into varying degrees of difficulty in getting living quarters there.

The number of African diplomats seeking living space here is expected to soar to a hundred over the coming months as new countries — wooed by both the United States and the Soviet Union—open their missions in Washington.

Washington is a semi-southern city and the only major American city where Negroes form a majority of the population—53.9 per cent. Some housing segregation has been removed in recent years but much remains without legal sanction. Property owners in the District of Columbia are under no legal compulsion to sell or rent to Negroes.

The Washington real estate board, a nongovernmental trade association, has cooperated with the State Department in seeking quarters for Negro diplomats, but does not have enforcement powers.

Duke billed the State Department meeting as an "exchange of views" aimed at securing voluntary cooperation. He said about 60 or 90 D.C. officials, real estate board members and individual real estate owners and property managers accepted invitation to attend.

Not at issue are the embassies, large and handsome buildings which the African governments have been able to buy at choice locations.

Officials said the main problem is living quarters for lower level African embassy employees who want to live in apartments. They say the Africans are more willing to excuse racial snubs in the South than in the federal capital, where they contend federal antidiscrimination policies should prevail.

While racial discrimination in apartment leasing is freely admitted to be a fact, some landlords say there are other reasons for reluctance to admit diplomats from new countries.

They cite complaints that diplomats throw too many parties, move often, abuse diplomatic privileges exempting them from many local ordinances, are immune from suits for damage they might cause, and practice native customs which disturb American neighbors.

According to private real estate sources, all but a couple of the African diplomatic families now have quarters in good locations commensurate with the rent they pay.

Police Checking On Window Peepers

Police have had several calls in the last 10 days concerning prowlers and window peepers. Chief Jay Banks said the department was making every effort to apprehend them.

"We have had a great many calls," he said, "and in some instances have found evidence of prowlers and window peepers. We feel that most of it is being done by boys. In fact a man caught one Wednesday night, but the boy broke loose and got away. It is a dangerous thing for a man or boy to be doing, as he is inviting a face full of buckshot, or worse."

"Tracks and other evidence show that some of the calls are results of actual prowlers," the chief said. "In some other cases we have found no tracks, but we are still keeping a sharp lookout for suspicious persons and we investigate every call that comes in."

Four calls came in Wednesday night about faces at windows and noises by prowlers.

Washington Real Estate Men Offer Apartments

WASHINGTON (AP)—Several Washington real estate owners offered today to open large luxury apartment buildings to Negro diplomats in response to an appeal from President Kennedy.

Harris Wofford, special assistant to the President, conveyed Kennedy's views to a closed meeting of Washington real estate leaders called by the State Department to curb housing discrimination against African diplomats in the nation's capital.

A plea on behalf of the State Department was made by under secretary Chester Bowles.

Kennedy's protocol chief, Angier Biddle Duke, reported that the real estate owners reflected a "most cooperative attitude" toward easing the discrimination, which Kennedy believes is giving Uncle Sam a bad name around the world.

Racial snubs against Negroes in this semi-southern city are of increasing concern to the Kennedy administration as new African countries send envoys here in growing numbers. The Communists are ardently wooing the new nations and point to discrimination in America, especially in the federal capital, as evidence of U.S. hypocrisy.

Inspection Finds Nothing Serious

Nothing serious was found on the inspection trip by the sanitarian. Webb AFB officials, and A. K. Steinheimer city manager, Wednesday, Steinheimer said.

"I can't speak for the air base," he said, "but we found some minor things that needed attention for sanitation purposes, and the operators agree that they needed fixing and that they would correct the defects."

"As far as the city is concerned, what was found was minor, and we believe everything called to the attention of owners will be corrected," he said. "Further inspections will be made at a later date, and Lige Fox, sanitarian, will make his report to the city."

Crime Probe Subpoenas Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators planning a massive investigation of coast-to-coast racketeering reported today they are quietly issuing subpoenas for big shot gamblers, narcotics and white slavery mobsters.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate investigations subcommittee, has announced previously such an inquiry was getting under way. He has declined to identify any of those about whom the inquiry will center.

The subcommittee has had a great deal of experience with witnesses making sudden trips outside the country once word gets out that they are under investigation.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., senior Republican member of the subcommittee, confirmed that subpoenas are being written and handed out to U.S. marshals to be served on wanted witnesses.

He indicated the first batches of subpoenas being written are for gamblers, but it was learned some of those sought also are reputed big time operators in narcotics and prostitution rackets.

They cite complaints that diplomats throw too many parties, move often, abuse diplomatic privileges exempting them from many local ordinances, are immune from suits for damage they might cause, and practice native customs which disturb American neighbors.

According to private real estate sources, all but a couple of the African diplomatic families now have quarters in good locations commensurate with the rent they pay.

Reds Got A Sleeper In Sherman Jones

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

If Cincinnati fans felt glum when catcher Ed Bailey, one of their favorites, was traded to San Francisco, they now can shrug off the sorrow. There was a sleeper in the swap — Sherman (Roadblock) Jones, a 6-foot-4 right-handed reliever brought up by the Reds from Jersey City 10 days ago.

Jones 1-1 as a rookie for San Francisco last year, was only so-so in four relief appearances for Cincinnati (10 runs in 10 innings). But Wednesday night he choked off his ex-mates on two hits for eight innings in his first major league start and the Reds padded their National League lead to three games with a 3-2 victory over the third place Giants at San Francisco.

St. Louis helped the Reds with a 9-1 romp at Los Angeles against the second place Dodgers as All-Star first baseman Bill White crashed three home runs. Milwaukee swept a two-night pair from Philadelphia, winning 5-4, in 12 innings, and 4-0. Pittsburgh-Chicago was rained out.

Jones, 26, stepping in as a starter for the Reds when Ken Hunt came up with arm trouble, gave up a fourth-inning run on a walk, a hit batsman and a wild pitch, but held the Giants hitless for 5 2/3 innings. He gave way after the Giants clipped him for two singles in the ninth, but after reliever Jim Brossnan walked in a run, Bill Henry came on and nailed it by getting Ed Bressoud on a fly for the final out with the bases loaded.

It was the fifth straight victory for the Reds, who broke a 1-1 tie in the sixth inning on Vada Pinson's home run, then counted the clincher on Gordy Coleman's homer in the seventh. Both shots were off southpaw Mike McCormick (7-9).

For all his slugging, White ran second as a game hero to right-hander Bob Gibson (6-5), who tagged the loss on Johnny Podres (8-2) with a two-run homer in the second inning and checked the Dodgers on four singles—all in the first three innings. White belted Podres, Roger Craig and Jim Golden for his homers, good for four runs, while becoming the first visitor to put three shots over the distant right field fence at the Coliseum in one game.

The Braves, after losing four in a row, won the opener on a walk and a double by reserve infielder Felix Mantilla against losing reliever Frank Sullivan (3-9). Don McMahon (4-0) was the winner in relief of Warren Spahn.

Lew Burdette (9-3) breezed for his fifth straight victory in the second game, blanking the Phils on five singles. He also doubled home the only run he needed in the second inning off Ken Lehman (1-1).

NO DEPTH

Pitching Hurting Tiger Chances

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

If there's a weak link in Detroit's chain of thought about winning the American League pennant it's the lack of depth among starting pitchers. And because of it, the Tigers' lead is down to only half a game over the New York Yankees.

The big 3 1/2 of the staff—Frank Lary (12-4), Don Mossi (9-2) Jim Bunning (8-6) and Phil Regan (7-4)—have accounted for 36 of Detroit's 51 victories, the bullpen has collected 12.

Bunning won his third in a row as Detroit won the opener of a day-night doubleheader at Boston 6-2 Wednesday, but the Tigers then lost the nightcap 8-3 as manager Bob Scheffing turned to sometimes starter Bob Bruce when confronted with his second twinnbill in two days.

The split, coupled with the Yankees' 6-0 victory over third place Cleveland behind the four-hit tossing of rookie Roland Sheldon, also put the Tigers on behind New York in the "lost" column.

Baltimore closed within a half game of Cleveland by beating Washington 2-0 on the four-hit pitching of Dick Hall, the Los Angeles Angels beat Minnesota 6-2 and Kansas City spilled the Chicago White Sox 8-3 in a game called after six innings because of rain.

Right-handed Bill Monbouquette (8-4) and reliever Mike Fornieles checked the Tigers on five hits in the nightcap. Dick McAuliffe and Rocky Colavito, who drove in five runs in the opener, homered for Detroit before Fornieles nailed it with 3 1/2 innings of perfect relief.

The Red Sox collected 12 hits, including homers by Jim Paggiaroni and Gary Geiger.

Bunning gave up seven hits and struck out six while beating Billy Muffett (8-6).

Sheldon (5-2) won his fifth in a row for the Yankees with his first major league shutout. He started at his own request in self anger after giving up a steal of home while working one inning of relief against Detroit Tuesday.

Yogi Berra's two-out single gave Sheldon the edge with a first-inning run off loser Gary Bell (5-9). Roger Maris closed the scoring with a solo seventh-inning home run, his 32nd and stayed 17 games ahead of Babe Ruth's record 60 pace of 1927.

Hall (5-3) a right-hander, shut out the Senators for the second time as the Orioles put away their 12th victory in 13 games. Marv Breeding scored both Baltimore runs against Bennie Daniels (4-5).

The A's tagged Chicago with a fifth straight loss, dropping the Sox back to sixth place, on four-run bursts in the first and second innings. Juan Pizarro (4-2) lost his second in a row, while ex-White Sox right-hander Bob Shaw was the winner.

Steve Bilko drove in the Angels' first three runs with a pair of doubles. Ken Hunt also drove in three runs, with a ninth-inning homer. Jim Donohue (3-2) was the winner in relief. Jim Kaat (3-8) lost it.

Tulsa Winning In Mexico

By The Associated Press

The Tulsa Oilers are finding Mexico City a fine place to get ahead in the Texas League.

Playing north of the Rio Grande the Oilers worked up to second place but they just couldn't gain ground on the loop-leading Amarillo Gold Sox.

Since the six-team Texas League loop has been in Mexico for the Pan American Association games with the Mexican League Clubs, Tulsa has won two titles and the Gold Sox have lost two to cut Amarillo's lead to only 2 1/2 games.

The Texans had a better night Wednesday, taking four of the six games with the Mexican Clubs. The losses were chalked against Amarillo, which bowed 10-1 to the Monterrey Sultans, and Victoria which dropped a close 1-0 game to Veracruz.

Tulsa downed the Mexico City Reds 5-2. Austin won 4-2 over the Mexico City Tigers, and San Antonio needed 12 innings for its 4-2 win over Poza Rica.

The stars of the evening were the Texas League's cellar club, the Ardmore Rosebuds. Trailing 2-3 at the end of the eighth, the Oklahomaans tied up the game in the ninth and then exploded for seven runs in the tenth for a 10-3 victory over Puebla.

The teams move around in Mexico Thursday night. The Mexico City Reds will be host to Victoria while the Mexico City Tigers will entertain Amarillo. San Antonio will be at Monterrey, Austin at Vera Cruz, Ardmore at Poza Rica and Tulsa at Puebla.

Charnley Wants Another Shot

ROME (AP) — British lightweight Dave Charnley, who stopped Raimondo Nobile of Italy in the fourth round Wednesday night, said today he wants another shot at the world lightweight title.

"I plan to meet Joe Brown, the champion, as soon as possible," Charnley said. Brown already has defeated Charnley twice.

McKinley Delighted Wimbledon Crowds

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Gangling Christine Truman of Britain defeated Renee Schuurman of South Africa today and gained the women's singles final in the Wimbledon tennis championships. The score was 6-4, 6-4.

The 6-foot Miss Truman Saturday will meet the winner of the match between Sandra Reynolds of South Africa and Angela Mortimer of Britain.

Miss Truman, a hard-hitter who volleys and smashes with the power of some men, quickly seized the initiative by breaking Miss Schuurman's service in the opening game.

In the second set, the South African sought to discourage Miss Truman's net-rushing tactics. But Christine's reach and power proved too much.

Chuck McKinley, 20-year-old star from St. Louis who was released from suspension only six weeks ago, slammed his way into the men's finals Wednesday and will meet Rod Laver of Australia for the cup Friday.

McKinley, hailed as the most colorful personality in this year's tournament, is the first native American to reach the finals of this historic event since 1955.

"I can't tell you how much this success means to me," McKinley said after he had blasted Britain's Mike Sangster 6-4, 6-4, 8-6 to gain Friday's final against Australian Rod Laver. Laver beat Ramnathan Krishnan of India, 6-2, 8-6, 6-2.

"That suspension upset me a lot. I meant missing the U.S. indoor championships, and I had set my heart on winning that. When I was banned from playing, it upset my confidence and set back my game.

"Now it's come back again and all that trouble seems over and forgotten."

The U.S. Lawn Tennis Association suspended McKinley because he threw his racket during a Davis Cup match last winter.

"I wouldn't be honest if I pretended I really understood why I was suspended," McKinley said. "I threw my racket—right. But it wasn't because I was annoyed with the crowd or with anyone else. I was just angry with myself."

McKinley had three days of practice with Earl (Butch) Buchholz, the lanky pro star also from St. Louis, before coming to Britain.

"I was grateful to Butch for that practice," McKinley said. "It did my game a lot of good after the lay-off."

"I was at the peak of my form when I got back from Australia. I reckon I'm back to that peak now."

McKinley watched the first set of Laver's massacre of Krishnan and said he wasn't worried.

"Laver's playing well, but then I'm playing well too," he said. "I'm looking forward to the match and I think the chances are pretty even."

Vikings Kick Off Season For Pro-Football Leagues

NEW YORK (AP)—Professional football, now a six-month operation, resumes Friday when the first National Football League team, the new Minnesota Vikings, reports to its training base at Bemidji (Minn.) State College.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle gave the Vikings permission to get an early start on the job of sorting out the players from other clubs although the league rules specify a July 16 start.

The Dallas Cowboys also were given an earlier starting date because they have an early August exhibition game with the Vikings. The Cowboys will work out at St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn. Rozelle also granted the Philadelphia Eagles an earlier date because, as the defending champions, they must play the College All-Stars Aug. 4 in Chicago. The Eagles will open practice July 11 at Hershey, Pa.

Wins 1st Game

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Wade Blasingame, a $100,000 Milwaukee Braves' bonus buy, won his first game in the class C Pioneer League Wednesday night as the Boise Braves scored a 6-3 triumph over Pocatello. The 18-year-old Fresno, Calif., whiz walked eight and struck out 10 in 8 1/3 innings.

Fairfield To Defend Title

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Don Fairfield starts defense of his St. Paul Open Tournament title today with National Open champion Gene Littler and Billy Casper slight favorite to pocket the $4,300 first-place check Sunday.

Fairfield broke a four-year drought by winning at the Keller course.

Littler, saying he is a little tired and finding it hard to get "up" since winning the Open, said he feels he's regaining his form after not playing too well the last two weeks.

Casper, who lost in a playoff at Flint, Mich., Monday, figures to be in the running from the start.

Charley's Splits With TESCO Club

Charley's Package Store put together a pair of hits and a bobble to squeeze in a seventh inning run Wednesday evening at the City Park to gain a split with Texas Electric Service Company of Midland.

TESCO had taken the first end of the softball doubleheader 6-1, while Charley's grabbed off the second 4-3. This gave the locals a season record of 10-14.

Bob Lamberth will be the winning pitcher in the first game, scattering six hits nicely. He had superb control, striking out seven and issuing no walks, three of the hits by Charley's were doubles. Lonnie Crosby gave up only six hits, but his three walks, plus slow play added cost him four unearned runs.

Jimmy Gibson Has No Hitter

Jimmy Gibson threw a no-hitter at the Comets Wednesday evening at the International League park as the T-Birds went on to take a 6-0 victory.

Jimmy struck out 18 and gave up only four walks. Willis aided the cause with a triple in the fifth. Bobby Bahn, tagged with the loss, hurried well and struck out nine, but he allowed too many hits, three by Jackie Gibson.

This evening at 7:30 p.m., the Duggers will meet the Tams.

Jobs Picture Is Varied

WASHINGTON (AP)—Employment rose to a record high in June, but because of a great surge of teen-agers into the labor market unemployment also increased sharply.

The Labor Department reported Wednesday that total employment rose by 1.9 million to 68.7 million from mid-May to mid-June. The latter figure was a few thousand larger than the previous employment records set in June and July of 1960.

Unemployment increased by 800,000 to 5.6 million. The department said this was about the expected increase for this time of year.

It is possible for employment and joblessness to increase simultaneously because of changes in the total number of persons in the labor force. This force is defined as persons at work plus persons looking for work.

The outpouring of youngsters from schools hunting temporary or permanent jobs is an annual problem in the job market—but it is greater than ever this year.

In June, a total of 2,486,000 persons, aged 14 to 19 left school either temporarily or permanently and started looking for work. Of this total, 900,000 were listed as jobless in mid-June, a figure larger than in any other postwar year.

However, the Labor Department stressed that there was a 500,000 increase in the employment of adult men, a better-than-seasonal pickup.

This was partly offset by a 200,000 drop in employment of adult women, mostly schoolteachers.

In telling of the rise in total employment to 68.7 million, the department said:

"There were unusually large gains in both the farm and non-farm sectors."

Liquor Board Loses Appeal

AUSTIN (AP)—The Third Court of Civil Appeals has denied the Texas Liquor Control Board a rehearing of its case against the Diners Club Inc.

The court recently upheld a district court injunction against enforcement of a liquor control board order that contracts between the Los Angeles-based corporation and 26 Texas liquor retailers are illegal. The contracts provide for the purchase by the club of its members' credit accounts at a 6 1/2 per cent discount, with the club assuming collection.

The court overruled the board's motion for rehearing without written opinion.

Childhood Ulcers Gain Attention

Ulcers in childhood, the chance you might get mumps a second time, the amount of food needed in hot weather use subjects for focus on health.

Ulcers in Children

Parents should be aware that ulcers are not only a possibility in their children—but may actually be on the increase.

In the past four years, there has been a noticeable increase in the incidence of ulcers in children between the ages of 4 and 12, says Dr. Jerome Weiss of New York City.

These children usually show a strong need for love, praise and appreciation—so limitless that it usually is not satisfied by the mild reassurances the child receives through the day. These children are usually well-behaved, tense and anxious to please.

Emotional control is needed not only by the child with an ulcer, but by the parents, teachers and others who deal with him. Constant correcting and demanding creates stress and tension in the home that leads to ulcers.

Repeat Performance

If you got mumps on one side, can you get them on the other? Probably yes, answers a doctor-expert for the American Medical Association. But it isn't very likely. If a mumps virus strikes one side, there is some general body protection against new attacks, but not as much as there would be in a case of measles, for instance. But several virus agents or bacteria can cause the swelling of mumps, and diagnosis of a first or a second attack may be in error.

Hot Weather Diet

The idea that you need to eat less in hot weather may be wrong, especially if you're working.

U.S. Army researchers found that eight healthy young men working outdoors under a hot sun, or in the shade needed more food and calories than men working in cooler climates.

The increased calories needed were probably due to the heat load which increased blood action, sweating and energy use due to a raised body temperature.

Middle-Aged Diet

A diet high in protein and low in saturated fats controlled both weight and cholesterol in middle-aged men who tested it, a doctor says.

Cholesterol is a waxy, fatty substance, found in food and blood, which some experts believe causes narrowing or hardening of the arteries and subsequent heart attacks.

Dr. Norman Jolliffe of the New York Department of Health tested a diet low in beef, lamb and pork but accenting fish, seafood, veal and poultry, on men aged 50-59.

Usual, high protein diets use beef, lamb and pork, but these diets often show a rebound of cholesterol levels after an initial drop.

For 111 men who used the diet, 97 were successful in losing weight too. Calorie intake ranged from 1,350 to 2,000, and the average weight loss was 19 pounds.

Mac Visits Battle Scene On Luzon

DAGUPAN, the Philippines (AP)—General of the Army Douglas MacArthur returned today to the scene of his first landing on Luzon Island in the World War II liberation of the Philippines.

Young and old, thousands of Filipinos in this coastal area that took the brunt of MacArthur's massive assault in 1945 turned out to cheer the hero on the fourth day of what he says is probably his last return to the Philippines.

Wearing the old crushed campaign hat that was a familiar sight here in the liberation days, MacArthur was barely visible as he struggled through the crowd that greeted his train from Manila to a waiting car for a motorcade through the streets of Dagupan.

A gentle rain was falling, but it made no difference to the cheering throng. Many waved U.S. flags.

The motorcade stopped briefly at the present government home economics building, which served as the general's first headquarters building after the assault in January, 1945.

En route from Manila, MacArthur's train passed 100 miles of lush green rice fields, now flooded in the monsoon season. At every station schoolchildren gathered to cheer and wave flags at the man who is living legend here.

Hearing Slated In Paternity Suit

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A court hearing is scheduled July 14 on actress Joan Tyler's request for an order restraining George Jessel from disposing of his assets pending trial of her paternity suit against him.

Miss Tyler, 27, requested the order Wednesday. She contended that Jessel's permanent place of business is in New York and that the 63-year-old entertainer may transfer his holdings out of California, causing her and her unborn child "irreparable damage."

Miss Tyler's suit doesn't say when the child is expected, but she said one of court that she expects the baby in December. Jessel denies paternity. A hearing on the suit itself is set for July 27.

President Speaks

President Kennedy re-emphasizes his interest in Latin America by speaking at a celebration of the 150th anniversary of Venezuela's independence. The President spoke in a park near the Pan-American Union building in Washington. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Assistant Secretary of the Interior John Carver are at right. In background is statue of Simon Bolivar, who aided in liberation of six American republics, including Venezuela.

K's Friend Called 'Naive'

MOSCOW (AP) — Iowa corn farmer Roswell Garst, an old acquaintance of Nikita Khrushchev, is being described in the Soviet press as a man who doesn't pay his hired hands very much. And some of his political ideas were called "somewhat naive."

This portrait of Garst was written for the official newspaper Rural Life by A. Romanov, one of the Soviet journalists who recently toured the United States at the invitation of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

After a visit to the Garst farm, Romanov wrote: "On his 5,000 acres of land he employs 20 men, who know well how to handle farm machinery and are real masters in their trade.

"He does not pay them much: $1.10 an hour on weekdays and $1.70 on Sundays. In this respect he acts like a man who knows well the value of money, and takes good care to have every dollar bring him a clear profit of two.

"Besides, a high price is not set in the United States on the labor of those who produce wealth for others."

Romanov approvingly noted that Garst called the arms race a "world craze" but Romanov added: "Some of his views as, for example, the idea of dividing the world into literate and illiterate, rang somewhat naive."

Describing the inside of Garst's house, Romanov wrote: "The walls inside the cottage, as I remember them, were light green, the carpet green, too. In fact the green seemed to absorb the strong odor of manure carried in from the cattle enclosures."

The area around Garst's farm was depicted in a gloomy fashion, Romanov said he was able to view it when Garst took the Soviets to see land that was lying idle because the U.S. government was paying to have it idle.

"On our way," wrote Romanov, "We passed empty little farm homes with broken window panes and doors swinging in the wind. The homes had been abandoned by their owners. We wondered: Where were those farmers now whom the land no longer feeds? Some may have turned into homeless tramps, others, if lucky, got jobs in town."

EXPERT
In Coon Rapids, Garst called Romanov a "three-hour expert."

He recalled that Romanov visited the farm with a group of other people last May 14.

"He stayed about three hours," said Garst, "then went home and wrote an article about our farming operations. That would be like me going to the Soviet Union, staying three hours, and writing all about Russia—full of inaccuracies."

He said the Soviet newsmen stopped at the farm on a Sunday during corn-planting time.

"We had been rained out for a week before and decided to work that day," Garst said. "Most of the employees he saw were day laborers which we use occasionally throughout the year. Most of our employees are permanent, year-round men living in nearby farm homes."

INACCURATE
Garst said Romanov was particularly inaccurate about the amount of land he actually owns.

"He not only grouped my land, but also land owned by my sons and some of the farm hands I manage for others," said Garst. He did not reveal, however, how much land he does claim title to.

Garst also took exception to Romanov's calling some of his political ideas naive, and to the Soviet's gloomy description of the farm area around the Garst homestead.

Garst said he told Romanov that the countries with high literacy rates, including the United States and Soviet Union, have been the leaders in progress, whereas famine and poverty were rampant in nations with high illiteracy.

He added that technical progress in the United States has enabled the country to take more men off the farms and put them in industry, whereas the Soviet Union is using nearly half its total population on the farms.

Regarding Romanov's description of the interior of the Garst home, Garst said: "That doesn't bother me. But it probably will make my wife a little angry."

Mitzi Suffers Major Disasters

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Mitzi Gaynor waited nervously today for her hairdresser to bail her out of a catastrophe caused by two rarities—her nightclub debut and a Las Vegas rainstorm.

Her wardrobe of seven original gowns got soaked in transit from Hollywood and ruined. Four were Parisian models, and three were made in the United States for her appearance at the Flamingo Hotel starting tonight. None was useable.

Cartons containing the gowns were turned upside down after being unloaded from an airplane during a shower Monday, she said.

The actress put in a hurried call for a Los Angeles fashion designer to whip up a new ensemble, and the show—she hopes—will go on.

Judge Asks New Stickney Trial

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP)—The Court of Criminal Appeals at Austin had a lengthy opinion today, from Dist. Judge Cullen Briggs, asserting that condemned Houston killer Howard Stickney deserves a new trial.

Briggs saved Stickney from the electric chair June 22 and held a long habeas corpus hearing here. Stickney was convicted of the Galveston beach murder three years ago of pretty Mrs. Shirley Barnes, whose nude and battered body was found later in her Houston apartment.

Stickney is charged also with the murder of Clifford Barnes, her husband.

Briggs mailed the appellate court a four page finding of facts asserting that someone besides Stickney could have killed Mrs. Barnes. He accused the district attorney's office at Houston of "concealing and suppressing" testimony during the murder trial.

The Spirits Speak

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—Terse but bespeaking a domestic tragedy was this report of an explosion investigation by Middletown patrolman Howard Watson: "This officer found one bottle of wine had been hidden in the oven of a gas stove. It exploded when the oven was lit and the spirits did speak."

Southern contribution to the current enclote craze is this bouffant pants-suit topped with a built-in, reversible panel in front. The red, white and blue costume is appropriately called "State-side." At right is a space age inspired suit made of silky looking cotton faille. These sportswear designs were among those shown recently during Dallas' 11th annual Fashion Mart, the nation's third largest fashion market.

July Is The Month For Garden Clean-Up

By ANNE LEFEVER
July should be clean-up time in the garden, since many plants have finished their season of bloom and may be pruned back for more blossoms or removed from the beds.

Plants which will profit from a shearing include verbena, petunias, sweet alyssum, daisies and crape myrtle. Apply liquid fertilizer and keep them well-watered for prolonged beauty.

Zinnias, planted early this month, will come into flower in a surprisingly short time, and marigolds still have time to mature and bloom if they are planted soon. Don't let the little seedlings suffer for shade and water.

Both zinnias and marigolds will form better-shaped plants and will flower more freely if the first large bud in the central case is removed before it opens.

Put in another planting of gladiolus corms for late October blossoms.

Madonna lilies should be dug now and stored in a cool dry place until fall, when they can be replanted with bone meal and superphosphate.

Cuttings root better in hot weather, and it's not too early to begin thinking about potted plants for winter beauty in the home.

Take slips from such garden plants as plumbago, shrimp plants, coleus, begonias and geraniums; you'll enjoy pots of rosemary, thyme, sweet basil and mint

Pretty Frock

It's pretty as a picture, yet simple as a little girl's dress should be. No. 3130 comes in sizes 2, 4, 6. Size 4 takes 2 yards of 35-inch fabric.

Send 25 cents in coins for this pattern to IRIS LANE, Big Spring Herald, Box 1490, New York 1, N. Y. Add 10 cents for each pattern for first-class mailing.

For the New Spring - Summer Pattern Book featuring the pick of the season's up-to-the-minute wearable styles, send 50 cents.

This winter, and these, too should be started now for indoor growth.

Four inches is a good length for a cutting; remove all but the top which should be kept moist but not soggy.

Fill empty spots in flower beds with dwarf dahlias; all dahlias require plenty of water and food for strong plants. If you would have large blossoms, disbud the stems.

Chrysanthemums need extra attention through July, with food and water, since they are always hungry and thirsty. Feed about every 10 days with liquid manure and give them plenty of water. Pinch back the tops through the rest of this month to form well-shaped strong plants.

Cables Meet For Family Holiday

Mr. and Mrs. Rob Edredge of Alpine, were guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Petty during the long holiday. The four joined in a family gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Canable during the Fourth of July.

Others in the home were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Holmson of Baytown; the Rev. and Mrs. Don Canale of Keith and Ky of Alamogordo, N. M.; Mr. and Mrs. Buster Canable and Jeannie.

Baked Ham

A small amount of baked ham leftover? Cut it in matchstick-size strips and add it to a tossed green salad along with grated Parmesan cheese; or add it to the egg mixture you are going to scramble for lunch or brunch; or mix it with leftover diced cooked potatoes and cream sauce.

Kay McNew Is Shower Honoree

Kay McNew, bride-elect of Jimmy Clay, was given a bridal shower Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. T. H. Tarbet with 10 hostesses honoring the bride-elect.

Assisting Mrs. Tarbet were Mrs. Jack Dunning, Mrs. Virgil Russell, Mrs. Roy Chapman, Mrs. Clint Miller, Mrs. Jim Millican, Mrs. Alvin Huskey, Mrs. Harold Gilmore, Mrs. M. F. Dumsagan and Mrs. Kenneth Cox.

They presented the honoree with an heirloom bedspread and also gave white carnation corsages to Miss McNew and her mother, Mrs. Wayne McNew.

Thirty-five guests attended the shower. The table was covered with a floor length white organdy over orchid cloth. For the centerpiece, styrofoam wedding rings were placed around a white satin mound with a lace ruffle. On top of the mound was a bride and bridegroom figurine.

Cook Doughnuts

When doughnuts are ready to be turned over, they will rise to the surface of the fat and you will see some color around the edges. It takes from three to five minutes for doughnuts to be cooked on both sides.

Talks To The Mature

Mary Astor, whose profile was considered the most beautiful on the screen, tells how to avoid anxiety about departing youth and beauty. She is currently being seen in "Return to Peyton Place" for 20th Century-Fox.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Mary Astor Gives Advice On Maturity

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD—Mary Astor has known many emotions in her life, but now she has found a contentment that she has never known before.

"It takes discipline not to have anxiety about entrance into older age," she observed. "Anxiety is a destructive force that has an aging effect. I know a woman who was very beautiful who now spends most of her time trying to preserve herself. But because of her anxious hours about the next wrinkle, she really has destroyed her looks."

"A forward point of view, and a full day will give you an easy ride along the road of maturity. You have to reach for interests outside of a squirrel-cage activity; get off the merry-go-round that leads nowhere and stop thinking about yourself."

"It takes discipline to overcome inertia," Mary continued. "You have to force yourself. Make up your mind to do what is best for you rather than what is easiest."

"We were lunching at 20th Century-Fox where Miss Astor made 'Return to Peyton Place.'"

"I make a big thing of breakfast," she confessed. "I have fruit, two eggs, bacon, whole wheat toast. What you eat before noon is the least fattening. You have a chance to burn it up. I love food, and it requires a lot of discipline for me to think of calories before taste. When I go to a restaurant for dinner, I always try to stay within my calorie limit. It's the easiest way for me to avoid being overweight. I know it's the food I like but don't need that gets me into trouble."

Miss Astor took her glasses out of her purse to scan the menu and picked fresh fruit for dessert.

"I used to be secretive about my bad eyes," she said, "but now I've lost that vanity and I enjoy seeing."

KEEPING YOUNG
Age is not a matter of birthdays but how young you feel. Here are two leaflets that will make you feel younger and look younger:

Leaflet M-15, "Exercising to Keep a Youthful Face"

Leaflet M-40, "How to Stay Young"

As a special offer, Lydia Lane will send you both leaflets when you write her and enclose 10 cents AND a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, Big Spring Herald.

ROUND TOWN

With LUCILLE PICKLE

Back from a month's stay in San Francisco, Calif., are the C. RHOADS and their daughter, Regina. The three took an apartment on Telegraph Hill, where they had an excellent view of Golden Gate Bridge, Berkeley, Richmond and the quaint city of Sausalito. They could also see Alcatraz, and on a clear day they could see San Quentin which is about 12 miles from where they were living.

This was the third and longest stay in San Francisco for the family and this time they saw more of the fascinating city. They visited China Town and saw the unique telephone system used there; they saw "Fiorello" and, although they didn't know it, were present for four earthquakes. They also were comfortable when San Franciscans were suffering from the heat when the temperature went to 100 degrees.

When they returned they stopped in Las Vegas and saw the Danny Thomas show at the Sands and were in on a special show when the Crosby boys, Peter Lawford, Sammy Davis Jr., Dean Martin and Frank Sinatra stepped in to surprise Thomas. In California the family toured San Simeon's big attraction, the Hearst castle and spent the night at the Madonna Inn at San Luis Obispo.

The B. M. KEESSES are back from Atlantic City where they attended sessions of the National Education Association.

Holiday guests of MR. and MRS. FRED BECKHAM were the BYRON TERRELLS and their son of Smyer; the ROLAND BELCHERS of Lubbock and MRS. TOM SHOCKLEY of Marmilton. Mr. Terrell is superintendent of schools at Smyer. The Belchers have only recently moved to Lubbock from Columbia, S. C. She is a native Texan but has lived in Virginia where she taught school for several years before moving to South Carolina.

The Beckhams had been in Westbrook over the weekend with her father, I. W. RAMSEY, who

Delegates Chosen For Convention

Three delegates to the state convention in Fort Worth were chosen when the Texas Association of Beauty Culturists met Wednesday night.

Chosen to attend were Mrs. F. McGowan, Mrs. John Polone and Lloyd McCann. Mrs. Polone will be the Lone Star entrant at the convention which will be held August 13-15.

From July 16 through 27 Mrs. Polone will attend the national convention in Miami Beach, Fla.

Reunion Is Held

had as his guests his cousins, MR. and MRS. FRANK RAMSEY of El Campo. When they returned here, Sunday he accompanied them home.

MRS. R. C. NICHOLS, 1019 Nolan, is back home after receiving treatment at Scott and White in Temple. Mrs. Nichols will be at home approximately a month before entering Howard County Hospital Foundation for surgery.

MR. and MRS. H. H. SQUYRES are happy great-grandparents for the fourth time, and this time it's a great-granddaughter. The little girl was born June 23 in Baldwin Park, Calif., to MR. and MRS. PHILLIP SQUYRES. She has been named Raynell Doraline.

The Squyres have five grandsons and one granddaughter and four great-grandsons and now one great-granddaughter.

About 56 descendants of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Riley Burrus met Tuesday in City Park for a picnic and family reunion.

Attending from Big Spring were Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Mahoney, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hughes, Kenda and Steve; Mr. and Mrs. Preston Adams, Michael and Stanley; Mrs. Doyle Graham and Ricky; Janice and Louise Bollinger.

Towns represented included Lorraine, Ackerly, Waco, Sweetwater, Coahoma, Midland, Rising Star; coming from out of the state were G. W. Bryson of Tucson, Ariz.; Joe Bryson and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Bryson, Diann and Debra, and Marilyn Graham, all of Wishram, Wash.

Knott Resident In Kansas For Season

KNOTT (SC) — Charles Free is spending the summer with his brother in Kansas.

Mrs. W. J. Hogue is visiting relatives in Eunice, N. M. Here from California is Mrs. Jack Patten, who is a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Little, and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nichols and family and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jackson and family attended the reunion of the Jackson family in Colorado City during the Fourth of July.

Three members of the Rebekah Lodge, Mrs. O. B. Gaskin, Mrs. Gerald Willborn and Mrs. Alton Chapman, were present for the banquet of the Rebekahs in Big Spring recently. The affair was in honor of the state president of the Rebekah Assembly.

Relatives Attend Family Reunion

Fifty-five relatives attended the family reunion of Mrs. W. D. Pinkerton, 609 Colgate Ave.; Sunday at City Park.

Relatives attended from Stamford, Houston, Midland, Waco and El Paso. Local families present included Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Pickling, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Reed and Billy Stevens.

Lake Outing Held By Baptist WMU

Baptist Temple WMU held a picnic at Lake J. B. Thomas on the Fourth for members and their families. Four couples went to the lake Monday night and prepared for the picnic.

Arriving Monday were Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Jarrett, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Modisette, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Edwards and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Sandridge.

Double-Ring Ceremony Unites Miss Yell, Jarrell Driggers

STANTON (SC) — A double-ring ceremony performed by the Rev. N. T. Gault, the bride's cousin, united Shirlee Yell of Stanton and Jarrell Driggers of Odessa in marriage Monday at the First Baptist Church.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. M. I. Yell of Stanton, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Driggers of Odessa.

The church was decorated with candelabra decorated with orchid chrysanthemums and greenery. Helen Creech sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer" and Peggy Creech played the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown covered with white lace. Across the bodice were scallops and the dress was fashioned with a V neckline and a floor length skirt. The bride's bouquet was of white carnations with white roses.

Helen Glaspie was the maid of honor. She wore an orchid, cotton sheath with an organza overskirt and carried orchid chrysanthemums. Sandra Powell, bridesmaid, was dressed identically to the maid of honor.

Bestman was Dwain Youngblood of Odessa. Ushers were Allen Green, Adrian Green and Ronnie Driggers. Flower girls were Angela Mitchell, Barbara Stroud and Judy Driggers, all dressed in pink cotton and white lace dresses.

Linda Glaspie and Vickie Driggers were altar taper lighters.

For a wedding trip to Houston the bride wore an orchid silk and cotton dress with a matching jacket. Her corsage was of white roses.

The couple will make their home at 607 E. Johnson in Odessa.

Mrs. Driggers is a graduate of Stanton High School. The bridegroom graduated from Permian High School in Odessa and is attending Odessa Junior College.

A reception for the couple was held in the church reception hall. Assisting in the receiving line were the couple's parents and the wedding party.

White lace covered the table, which was centered with a three tiered wedding cake decorated with pink and orchid roses and a miniature bridal couple.

Registering guests was Deanna Lampinen. Members of the house party were Nancy Johnson, Carolyn Manning, Betty Solomon and Betha Solomon.

Out of town guests were Mrs. and Mrs. H. W. Driggers, Mrs.

Culinary Comments

Mrs. Moran Oppegard gives some cooking tips to her daughters, Jane, 11; and Nancy, seven. The girls especially enjoy helping their mother make toffee bars and stand ready to taste the results.

Mrs. Oppegard Likes Cooking And Bowling

This week's cook is quite a bowler, something she has been doing for only a year. On her league, Mrs. Moran Oppegard, 2800 Navajo, won a second place in team bowling and a first place for the most improved bowler.

Other interests of the mother of three children include teaching Sunday School at the Lutheran Church, taking swimming lessons, sewing, and of course, cooking. During the summer Mrs. Oppegard devotes most of her time to her children, Kal, 13; Jane, 11; and Nancy, 7. Mrs. Oppegard now is taking swimming lessons at the Y so she can join her daughters when they swim.

Another favorite activity of the family, especially the children, during the summer is the frequent camping trips and cookouts. Nancy and Jane have learned

Here's Quantity In A Dessert Recipe

When you are asked to bring dessert for 25 to 30 persons at a club meeting, keep the following recipe for Apple Cheese Crisp in mind.

It is a practical dessert to make and to serve. The filling is moist because of the creamed cottage cheese and juicy apple slices, yet it is not so runny that it's hard to slice nicely. If slices into forty 3 by 3-inch squares which might be served on paper plates.

- APPLE CHEESE CRISP
(Forty servings)
- 8 lbs. pared, sliced apples
 - 1-3 cup lemon juice
 - 2 cups sugar
 - 2 1/2 tps. cinnamon
 - 4 lbs. creamed cottage cheese
 - 1 1/2 quarts sugar
 - 1 1/2 quarts sifted all purpose flour
 - 2 tps. salt
 - 2 1/2 cups butter
- Arrange apple slices in buttered baking pan and pour lemon juice over top. Combine sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle over apple slices. Spoon cottage cheese over apple slices. Sift together 1 1/2 quarts sugar, the flour and salt. Cut in butter until mixture is crumbly. Cover apple mixture with topping and pat down firmly. Bake at 375 degrees about 1 hour or until apples are tender. Cool, cut into 3-inch squares.

Don't Ruin Picnics By Cooking Foods

Picnics often are hard work for the one who packs the picnic basket. But if you rely to a great extent on ready-to-serve foods and wrap them in aluminum foil for safe traveling then you can put on the final touches right at the picnic site and it will be fun for all.

- Try this menu—
- BAKED HAM
 - Green Bean and Onion Salad
 - Sliced Ripe Tomatoes
 - Celery and Carrot Sticks
 - Nut or Raisin Bread
 - Potato Chips
 - Frosted Cake
 - Iced Tea
- Buy a whole or half ham already cooked, at the food market or delicatessen. Or buy barbecued chickens at a chicken barbecuing market.
- Canned green beans and onion slices take but a moment to arrange in a bowl—the dressing in a separate jar. Celery and carrots are easy—whole tomatoes right in their jackets. And a wonderful nut or raisin bread and delicious cake from the bake shop. Even iced tea comes in instant form now—so that ice cubes are

Count Wallpaper

If you wallpaper a room this spring, be sure to record the number of rolls of paper that you use. The information will be helpful when you paper again.

Whipped Cream

Fold half a cup of heavy cream (that has been whipped, sweetened and flavored with vanilla) into half a cup of applesauce; serve over squares of warm spice cake.

Porcelain Is Perfect For Grills

Porcelain enamel, a finish which does not rust, fade or discolor, is the perfect material for outdoor grills. This glass-fused metal is as tough as the steel itself and as easy to clean as your finest china plate.

A chuck steak, cooked over an ordinary grill, will cause a lot of after-cooking fuss because of its dripping. If you baste it frequently, as in this recipe for a Heavenly Steak Bun, the fuss will be even greater.

When the porcelain enamel grill has cooled, it is simple to swish it clean with a damp cloth. And you can leave the grill out-of-doors in all weather with no fear of rust.

HEAVENLY STEAK BUNS

Buy a 5-4 pound chuck steak and marinate for 12 hours in the refrigerator. Broil over glowing coals 20-30 minutes per pound, depending on rareness desired and thickness of steak.

Brush frequently with marinade. When steak is cooked, slice diagonally and place slices in toasted frankfurter rolls which have been spread with blue cheese butter. Top with sliced tomato and lettuce, season and serve hot.

MARINADE

- 1 lemon, sliced very thin
 - 1 carrot, scraped and thinly sliced
 - 1 cup wine vinegar
 - 1 cup oil
 - 1 small onion, sliced thin
 - 2 sprigs parsley
 - 1/4 tsp. thyme
 - 6 whole cloves, bruised
 - 1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
 - 1/2 tsp. freshly ground pepper
- Salt to taste.
- Combine all ingredients and heat to boiling point. Simmer 5 minutes and let cool. Place steak in porcelain enamel casserole and cover with marinade.
- Place in refrigerator and let stand 12 hours. Remove steak from marinade and broil over hot coals. Reserve marinade for basting or to use as a salad dressing. Yield: 2 1/2 cups marinade.

CHEESE BUTTER

Mash 1/2 pound cheese and 1/2 pound butter until smooth, adding cream to moisten. Add 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce if desired. Spread on toasted buns or freshly broiled steak. Yield: 1/2 cup spread.

No Waste With Summer Squash

You can eat every bit of a tender summer squash—skin, flesh and seeds—whether green, yellow or white skinned, long and slim, round or scalloped.

There is absolutely no waste to this vegetable when it is fresh and unblemished.

June marks the opening of the summer squash season and supplies usually remain plentiful for the next three months, reports the Agricultural Marketing Service.

Summer squash is one of our oldest American families. The Indians grew squash long before Columbus arrived here. They called it by a name that means "green-raw-urripe."

And, like the Indians, we use summer squash when it is still unripe, but we usually cook it.

What a boon to weight-watchers are summer squashes, because they are so low in calories. They contain vitamins A and C plus small amounts of minerals and other nutrients.

Remember that the more color there is in a fruit or vegetable, the higher is the food value. It's true about summer squashes, too. The deeper the yellow of the meat, the more vitamin A the squash contains.

To make most of the delicate flavor and color of summer squash, cook in a small amount of water until tender but firm.

Serve with butter, minced parsley, paprika, bacon bits, chopped shallots with tops or tomatoes. To change the flavor, sprinkle the squash with a sharp grated cheese or dill seed.

Pie Dough

If the pie dough you are rolling out springs, lift it from the board or prepared pastry cloth with a spatula; if you keep turning it over, you'll work in too much flour.

Tulip, Dutch Chocolate Share Distinction As World Gifts

"Holland's gift to the world" is a distinction that's shared equally by two of the country's chief products: The stately tulip which graces the garden and table alike, and the delicious Dutch chocolate which finds year-round use in many fine products and the gourmet dishes they make.

Using instant Dutch chocolate-flavored mix, a delicious cloud-light cream cheese cake has been developed which can easily share honors with the sprightly tulip for eye appeal and table decor. The dessert's fine flavor is due to the mix which is made with Dutch-process cocoa. When combined with plain cream cheese, dairy sour cream and other basic ingredients, it produces a dessert supreme.

The trick to making it a picture-pretty dessert is to bake it low and slow. "Low" refers to the oven temperature, which is 250 degrees F., and "slow" to the time necessary to bake this sumptuous cake. To bring out the full chocolate flavor, the dessert should be cooled at room temperature and then chilled in the refrigerator for several hours.

For extra-special elegance, top the dessert with whipped cream and shaved chocolate just before serving time. Your guests' delight will prove that this glamorous dessert is well worth the special care.

DUTCH CHOCOLATE

- (Makes one 9-inch cake or approx. 10 to 12 servings.)
- 2 (8-oz.) pkgs cream cheese
 - 1 1/2 cups crushed vanilla wafers (approx. 38 wafers)
 - 1/4 cup melted butter
 - 1/4 cup sugar
 - 1/4 cup instant Dutch chocolate mix
 - 1 tsp. vanilla extract
 - Dash salt
 - 2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
 - 1 cup (1/2-pt.) sour cream
 - 1-3 cup sugar

Cream Cheese Delight

Dutch chocolate flavored mix and cream cheese produce a dessert that vies with the tulip for eye appeal. The dessert's fine flavor is provided by a mix which is made with Dutch-process cocoa.

- 1/2 cup heavy cream, optional
 - 2 tps. sugar, optional
- Let cream cheese soften at room temperature. In a large mixing bowl combine crushed wafers and melted butter. Press crumb mixture evenly on bottom and sides of a well-buttered 9-inch spring-form pan. Place in refrigerator to chill.

In large mixing bowl, cream the cheese until fluffy. Combine the 1/2 cup sugar, chocolate flavored mix, vanilla extract, and salt in a small mixing bowl. Blend into slightly beaten egg yolks.

Add chocolate mixture to cream cheese, keeping mixture smooth. Stir in sour cream. In a medium-size mixing bowl beat egg whites until foamy. Gradually beat in 1-3 cup sugar. Continue beating until whites are stiff enough to hold a peak, but are not dry. Gently fold into cream mixture. Pour into chilled crumb shell. Bake in a slow oven (250 degrees F) for 2 hours. (DO NOT OPEN OVEN)

DURING BAKING) Remove from oven.

Set away from drafts until well cooled. Remove sides of pan. Refrigerate several hours or overnight to develop best flavor. Whip heavy cream with 2 tablespoons sugar. If desired, garnish cake with whipped cream and shaved chocolate.

Note: This dessert cuts best with moistened cake breaker or thin, sharp knife, as the texture is light and moist.

Tomato Aspic

Mold tomato aspic in a shallow square or rectangular pan. Cut in small squares and arrange in lettuce cups. Garnish with sieved or sliced hard-cooked egg. Nice with mayonnaise or French

Macaroni

Mix cooked elbow macaroni with a snappy cheese sauce; top with slices of tomato and add a layer of grated cheese. Broil until cheese melts and tomatoes are hot.

Prune, Apricots

Double them up. Serve spiced prunes and dried apricots as a meat garnish. Delicious with pork chops.

A Devotional for Today

Ye are bought with a price; therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit, which are God's. (1 Corinthians 6:20).
PRAYER: O God, as Christ laid down His earthly life that we might find eternal life in Thy love, so infuse our spirits with sacrificial dedication. Through us may Thy love be a conquering power over prejudice and hate. For His sake. Amen.

(From The Upper Room)

An Uncivilized Record

We call ourselves a civilized nation, and yet latest totals showed 924 violent deaths during the Independence Day holidays.
 According to an Associated Press tabulation at noon Wednesday, 509 had died in traffic; 63 in boating mishaps, 204 by drowning and 148 by miscellaneous means.
 The traffic toll is shameful, even in the face of greater number of cars on the highways. Statistical gains of fatalities per million miles travelled are not enough; what we need is to save lives. There is probably an irreducible minimum, considering the human factor, but we have nowhere approached that minimum.
 Another alarming feature of the violent death total is that of the deaths connected with aquatics. The 204 by drowning and 63 by boating yields a total of 267 connected with recreation on water. Traffic used to account for the preponderance of deaths, but the figures show only 54 per cent attributable to that. Aquatic-connected deaths rose to 29 per cent. In our own area we have seen a similar rise in the number of fatalities in or on water as compared with those on highways.

While we can't let up a minute on highway safety, the trend suggests that we had better redouble our efforts to promote water safety. Safety is safety, but apparently people have to be prodded into it.

Impact Of Craftsmanship

Ernest Hemingway died early this week as he had written, abruptly, violently. Whether he shot himself with a shotgun accidentally or on purpose is of not a great importance, although to shoot oneself in the head with such a gun would be difficult by design, let alone by mere chance.

The important thing about Hemingway was his effect on the world of letters. He lived lustily, and most of his copy was of that variety—robust, direct, forceful. He commanded attention with his "Farewell to Arms," which also was made into two memorable motion pictures, and followed through with other notable books, including "Death in the Afternoon," "For Whom the Bell Tolls," and "Old Man and the Sea."

Oddly, it was the latter, a relatively tame piece for Hemingway, that won him the Pulitzer prize but the committee admitted that it was his overall performance that influenced the choice. His plaintive story of the old man who set out to catch the great fish demonstrated his ability to take even the simplest incident and tell it with such power that the reader could not let go.

The impact of Hemingway upon modern writers is one of style and craftsmanship rather than of content. Long before Dr. Rudolph Fleisch and others were lecturing us on readability, Hemingway was breaking up massive, confusing and wearisome passages into brief sentences built with short, trip-hammer words. He prodded and drove the reader along with his short machinegun bursts. Hemingway never wore a reader into submission.

Smaller The Dividend, The Better?

Alice looked up from the stock market page, a frown on her face. She rushed over to the bookshelf, found General Dynamics Corp. in Standard & Poor's manual, consulted a broker's market letter, and then blurted to the assembled empresses: "I've never been so disappointed in my whole life. This defies the whole theory of growth dynamics."

FOR EMPHASIS, she repeated what she said in a louder voice, and the door opened. The Red Queen entered, saw the manual in front of Alice, and shouted: "Disobedient again? How many times have I told you to play the piano and not the stock market!"

"But I can't help it, Your Majesty. When I stopped smoking, I had to take up a substitute vice."
 "What's wrong with the piano?" demanded the Red Queen. "After all, it's a Kranich & Bach."

"A CHRONIC WHAT?" said Alice, as she consulted the stock table, and mumbled: "33% high, 32% low, close 32%—on the low. High for year 45%, low 31%."
 "What are you muttering?" demanded the Red Queen, waving her mace. Her loud voice brought the White Queen running, followed by the Carpenter.

"What's wrong?" asked the Carpenter.
 "Alice," said the Red Queen. "She's interested in Bach, Blyth, and Blair, instead of Bach, Beethoven, and Brahms."

"THERE'S AS MUCH rhythm in the stock tape as in Bach," countered Alice defensively. "Look!" She held up a chart of industrial stock prices. "See how it undulates. At a distance, you can't tell it from the score of Gershwin's Concerto in F."

"Don't change the subject," replied the Red Queen sternly.
 "I'm not," said Alice. "I merely aim to explain my General Dynamics theory of growth. In 1951 sales amounted to just over half a billion dollars; ten years later they were just under two billion, nearly four times as great. The company is so sold on growth it titled its 1960 annual report Perspective."
 "SOUNDS TO ME like the title on a free-form impressionist painting," interjected the Carpenter.

"Hmmp," hummed Alice, as she held up another chart. "I'm disconcerted. Why should General Dynamics stock sell near its low for the year? Only the other day, directors omitted the dividend. Could anything be more constructive?"
 "Dear, I don't know much about Wall Street," said the White Queen, plaintively.

What Others Say

As a presidential candidate John F. Kennedy was deeply dissatisfied when he met Richard Nixon in the first televised debate between the two.
 He said he wasn't satisfied "to have 50 per cent of our steel mill capacity unused." He said he wasn't satisfied "when the United States had last year the lowest rate of economic growth of any major industrialized society in the world." He said the nation's ability to sustain its defenses and meet its foreign commitments depended on its economic growth.
 Kennedy was altogether satisfied when he met the press the other day to discuss the same matter. He said it was his judgment that the Soviet Union wouldn't outproduce the United States at any time in the 20th century. He said United States growth would be "far easier to sustain" than Russian growth which started from a lower base.
 What was true the other day was equally true last September. The relative economic strength of the United States and Russia hadn't changed in any fundamental respect. The relevant economic statistics were basically the same. The only significant intervening change concerned Kennedy's own purposes and therefore his selective use of the available statistics.

No More Aspirin For Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first half of 1961 was a kind of aspirin for a headache that won't go away. We are now fresh out of aspirins.
 Up till June 30 President Kennedy's administration had—comparatively—a delightful time with both Congress and the Russians. In Congress, where he lacks enough support to sail his programs through as he asks, he used two simple but adroit methods to get what he wanted:
 1. For the most part he offered very moderate programs which, by their nature, avoided violent opposition differences with members of Congress on various points but not on total programs.

 2. He used persuasion and concessions by himself and members of his White House staff to win over such opposition as he had. This has been a very smooth operation. Kennedy's own 15 years in Congress made him expert on this.
 THE RESULT was a big batch of legislation which — if that had been all that was involved—would have given him a very successful first year in office. But it wasn't all.

Congress cleaned up most of the programs before June 30. But the three biggest and most controversial were left over until after the Fourth of July holiday.
 These were federal aid to education, the foreign aid program and medical care for the aged. The medical care bill looks just about dead for 1961, isn't likely to get action until 1962.

The big stumble in his foreign aid program is his request to Congress to give him authority to promise this aid on a five-year basis. He wants recipient nations to be able to plan long-range instead of on the present year-to-year basis.
 CONGRESS IS hesitant about signing the check for that far ahead. There'll be rough-and-tumble on this one.

Watch Her Line

NEW YORK (AP) — "Dear Pavement Plato: Recently you wrote on how to tell if a girl is losing interest in you.
 I think I have just the opposite problem. My girl is showing so much interest in me I am afraid she wants me to marry her.
 How can I be sure?
 Doubtful!"

Nothing could be simpler, my boy. She is probably a talent scout for matrimony—and has picked you as her number one target—if:
 Her father keeps offering you his car so you can take her riding.
 She always carries a needle and thread in her purse—just in case you should need a button sewn on.
 She would rather drink beer at a ball game with you than go dancing at a night club with Cary Grant.
 She starts making remarks such as, "Some girls like real expensive engagement rings, but I think that's a waste of money, don't you?"
 When you tell a funny story at a party, she chuckles even before you reach the punch line.
 She begins to take a kindly interest in your money. For example, "You're too generous for your own good, dear. You didn't have to tip the waiter that much."

 Instead of asking for the latest romantic novel at the lending library, she checks out the latest cook book.
 She proudly shows you a new burn on her finger and says, "I got it in the kitchen last night trying out a new recipe." (Where does she think you thought she got it anyway—sliding down a rope ladder from the Brooklyn Bridge?)
 Your hair is falling out, but instead of kidding you, she says, "I just love your high forehead. It's a sign of intellect."
 You're a bit on the plump side but, instead of advising you to go on a diet or visit a gym, she sighs, "My, you're so much fun to struggle with. I hate skinny men."
 When you admire her new frock, she shrugs and says modestly, "It's just a little thing I made myself."
 She can't stand the cigars other men smoke, but "yours are different somehow—they smell so manly."
 Instead of a $1.30 necktie, she buys you an expensive fishing rod for your birthday.
 Brooker, if this is the way any girl in your life is acting, it's time to run for the hills or walk to the marriage license bureau—depending on how strong you feel.

But to most Americans Cuba probably looks like small stuff while tiny Laos, lost in Southeast Asia, seems far away and not vital. If this had been all that was involved in foreign dealings, it could probably have been swept under the rug.
 But it wasn't. From the very moment he took office Kennedy knew before the year was out he was going to have trouble with Russia over West Berlin. Premier Khrushchev had warned of it last year.
 But for most of Kennedy's early months in office Khrushchev was rather gracious, as if allowing the new President to move into his new house before pulling the roof down around his ears.

To Your Good Health

Dandruff Is Essentially A Skin Disease

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
 "Dear Dr. Molner: How can I prevent dandruff? Everywhere I go people stare at me. My hair is full filled with it—B. S."
 "Dandruff" is the result of a skin (or scalp) disease called seborrhea. It can affect the eyebrows, the skin behind the ears, or other parts of the body.
 So keep in mind that it is, essentially, a skin disease. It isn't as a rule too hard to treat, but the treatment has to be continued indefinitely, because it's the sort of ailment that can be suppressed but isn't so readily cured.
 Various preparations for the scalp usually contain different combinations of salicylic acid, sulfur, resorcin and tar extracts.
 My best advice is not to be in too much of a hurry: Permit your doctor to establish a treatment program that will really work and will be safe for you, so thereafter you can carry it out by yourself.
 "Dear Dr. Molner: I have worn contact lenses for almost nine months. I wear them about 16 or 17 hours a day and feel no discomfort.
 Recently, however, the lenses seem to become blurred after I wear them several hours, though I wash them four or five times a day, they don't clear up. Will such a condition correct itself, or is it something that can't be helped?
 —A. Z."

due to one of two things: Either the cornea (the surface of the eyeball) is becoming sensitive to the plastic of the contact lenses; or the plastic has taken on fluid and become thicker, and is touching the cornea.
 Go to the fitter and see if the lenses can't be adjusted.
 "Dear Dr. Molner: Where can I purchase an infra-red lamp? On my doctor's advice I purchased one for my back. Now I have moved to a different city, and the lamp has burned out.—E. K."
 You can buy one from any medical or hospital supply house.
 "Dear Dr. Molner: I am in my middle 40's, and have been told time after time that I am doing wrong washing my face with soap and water. Is this proper or not?
 They tell me I'm stretching the skin which will cause wrinkles. As of now I have a beautiful complexion and no lines. I've seldom used make-up or cream.—Mrs. W. D."
 Listen to me, Mrs. W. D.: Years and years ago Aesop wrote a fable about this very same sort of thing, except it happened to be about "sour grapes." Your letter doesn't explain who is telling you, time after time, how to wash your face, but there's nothing wrong with using soap and water. And you have the complexion to prove it. In another 20 years or so you may have some wrinkles, but so will the people who keep giving you all this gratuitous advice.

 "Dear Dr. Molner: A year ago I had an operation for ulcers and 60 per cent of the stomach was removed. Since then I have lost 25 pounds. What can I do to gain weight?—M. O."
 Loss of weight is not unusual as a result of this type of operation, because the food passes through the smaller stomach faster. The answer is to eat small meals oftener, and to eat high-calorie foods. This should maintain and probably increase your weight.
 "Dear Dr. Molner: Will cod liver oil help arthritis?—E. L."
 In my opinion—I'm afraid not, of course, but I have seen no evidence that it helps arthritis.
 Count your calories the easy way! To receive a copy of my pamphlet, "The Calorie Chart," write Dr. Molner in care of the Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling.
 Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

Guess Who Pays The Bill?

Many things these days are getting themselves priced out of the market. The latest addition may be the decision to raise automobile insurance rates.
 Of course, the decision may be necessary, as the companies point out, due to increased costs. But auto insurance is no longer a matter of individual choice; it is a matter of government requirement. For practical purposes, a motorist, if he is to obey the law of the state, is required to carry liability insurance. Should he have an accident he can lose his privilege to drive if he doesn't have insurance.
 The rate is set by government fiat. The coin has been fixed; the motorist must carry insurance and must pay what the government decrees. Whether heads or tails, the motorist picks up the tab.

UNFORTUNATELY, many motorists take the easy way out by becoming a gambler. They don't buy it. They drive without liability insurance hoping they will not become involved in a wreck. When they are involved, the other motorist has to rely on his own insurance.
 In general, the entire situation has become muddled by too much government interference.
 The penalty plan attached to auto insurance costs has been beaten too. Either the ticket-paying motorist appeals his case, keeping it off his record, or he decides to stop buying insurance and avoid the costs, whatever they might be. Again, his fellow motorist is the loser.
 The whole mess is indicative of what happens when the government jumps in to straighten out something. We end up deeper involved in an unworkable situation than ever before.

THE INSURANCE companies should be able to earn a profit as well as any other company or enterprise. But the best place for them to get it is in a free market place. Competition between companies is the best way to hold down prices. In any competitive situation, there is always someone who can find a way to sell something just a bit cheaper. And the buyer usually profits as a result.
 Auto insurance, in one way, can be compared with a tax. The government demands we pay it, then sets the price. We have no say in the matter and can disobey the edict only as a gambler dodges the law. With luck, we come out OK.

ON THE OTHER HAND, it can be expensive. There is no reason why insurance rates cannot be doubled, even tripled, for no reason. Apparently, there is reason for the latest 15 per cent jump, but the reason isn't necessary. The edict can be capriciously established at any point.

Unless, like a gambler, we decide to risk the lack of insurance, we pay for it. I have run this risk at times and admit it is an uneasy feeling. Insurance coverage gives the motorist a comfortable outlook. Unless he stops to think that he may be the only one on the road that has bought it. Then it's a bit disquieting.

Note To Boss: Keep The Blinds Down

No one argues about the inadvisability of chucking stones on the part of those who live in glass houses. Stones may not a prison make but they do afford a large means of exit if aimed at a plate glass. It seems to me that in my collegiate youth there was a popular song advising Maryanne to keep the shades down. But, for the life of me, I can't remember the rest of the musical admonition. Anyway, windows were windows in those days, and had not spread into picture expanses with open living openly arrived at.

HOWEVER, this is all by the way. In the mid-20th Century glass has become the most popular building block of all, both for home and factory, office and apartment. Park, Third and other avenues in New York are rapidly becoming canyons not of brick and steel, as once pictured, but of glacial and translucent precipices.

The fashionable office building of the moment, such as that of Lever Bros. and Scagram, only contain enough steel framework to anchor the glass walls. Their imitators are legion. Window washers are in shorter supply than that old-fashioned category, the general houseworker, who is one with the dodo.

BUT UNTIL a day or so ago, I never contemplated or dreamed of the moral aspect—the power for positive good—that lurked in all that glass. Then I heard the story of the Park Avenue dowager who lives in an old apartment building surrounded by glass office buildings.

It is impossible for her to look out of her windows without gazing squarely into a number of offices as open to her as if they had no walls at all. And she began to jake a vicarious interest in the office workers to right, to left, in front and in back of her apartment.

THE DOWAGER was particularly interested in the comings and goings in the office nearest her. A plush enclave so close she not only felt she could reach out and touch it but knew all the personnel.

The boss's office was especially lush, furnished rather like an executive drawing room, plus, of course, a refrigerator. She noted that his secretary was an especially pretty young girl who reminded her of her own granddaughter who was a student at Radcliffe.

The old lady began to take a great interest in her granddaughter's double. So the day the boss put his hand on the girl's knee, to the young lady's obvious annoyance, the dowager had to take a tranquilizer.

FROM THAT DAY, with the Venetian blinds up and visibility unlimited, things went from bad to worse. The boss became more persistent in his unwanted attentions, with the young girl doing her best to be an artful dodger.

By this time the dowager was burning with righteous indignation from her box seat opening on so much inquiry. Then came the fatal day when the boss arrived with a box, which he untied in the presence of the pretty secretary. It contained a white mink stole which he offered the girl and which she vigorously refused.

NEXT—AND this the dowager believed only happened in comic strips and slapstick movies—ensued a chase around the boss's desk. Only youth saved the girl, who managed to keep ahead of and out of the grasp of the boss until she could make it to the door and safety.

The long and short of it is that the scene made the old lady so made that she went to her bank, rummaged through her securities and discovered she owned a large chunk of the company for which the boss worked. Well, he has been transferred. And the pretty girl works in tranquility for his successor.

The moral, of course, is that men in glass offices shouldn't chase secretaries—with the blinds up.

The Gallup Poll

Little Support For Civil Defense

PRINCETON—The American public appears to be in a state of confusion regarding the effectiveness of the Civil Defense program in their own communities.

Of those interviewed in a national cross-section survey, nearly six out of every ten persons (59 per cent), said they knew so little about the Civil Defense program that they had no opinion about it.

Among those who had an opinion, slightly more said that it was being handled well than said it was being handled poorly in their local area.

EVIDENCE that the Kennedy proposal that Civil Defense be put under the Department of Defense would likely be well received by the public comes from a second question, asking whether Civil Defense should be placed under the National Guard.

Weight of opinion is nearly two to one in favor of putting the National Guard in charge of Civil Defense.

Here is the first question put to a cross-section of the public:
 "What is your feeling about the way Civilian Defense is being handled in this local area—do you think it is being handled well or poorly, or do you have little or no knowledge about this?"

Here are the results obtained:
HOW IS CIVIL DEFENSE BEING HANDLED?

Well	Poorly	Have little, no knowledge
22	19	59

Greatest criticism of local Civil Defense programs is found in the Western states where 32 per cent say that Civil Defense is being handled poorly in their local communities as opposed to 22 per cent who say that it is being handled well. Slightly less than half (46 per cent) of those interviewed in this region say that they know little or nothing about the Civil Defense program in their communities.

The ratio of those who believe Civil Defense is being handled well as opposed to those who say it is being handled poorly is highest in the Eastern states.

The views of the public by region of the country:
HOW IS CIVIL DEFENSE BEING HANDLED?
 (BY REGION)

Well	Poorly	Little, no knowledge
28	19	53
19	17	64
17	14	69
22	32	46

Greatest criticism of the way Civil Defense is being handled is to be found in the large cities, while the least criticism is in small towns and rural cities.

Indicative of a desire for a different approach, almost twice as many people think it would be a good idea to put the National Guard in charge of Civil Defense as think it would be a poor idea.

Following is the question asked:
 "Some people have suggested that the National Guard take charge of the defense of civilians instead of a separate Civil Defense unit as at present. Do you think this would be a good idea or a poor idea?"

Here are the results:
NATIONAL GUARD TAKE CHARGE?

Good idea	Poor idea	No opinion
49	26	25

Among those persons who say Civil Defense is being handled poorly in their local areas, many blame an apathetic or uncooperative public.

Typical comments:
 "People aren't cooperating with the authorities....half the people don't realize the seriousness....why bother—we'll be wiped out anyway....people are not much concerned about it....we don't take enough interest...."

ON THE OTHER HAND, criticism is often leveled at the ineffectiveness of the local Civil Defense administration, as the following comments reveal:
 "Just a bunch of boys playing with Uncle Sam's money....they're not advertising the dangers enough....things are pretty haphazard right now....the program is not strict enough....it's political....the program should be publicized more...."

C. L. KAY

LCC's Kay To Speak Here

C. L. Kay, vice president of public services and industrial relations of Lubbock Christian College, has been scheduled for two addresses here July 18.

He will give his illustrated lecture, for which he was awarded the George Washington honor medal, at the Rotary Club at noon and then will repeat it at the St. Mary's Episcopal Church that evening at a lay meeting. A native of Pennsylvania, he holds degrees from the Eastern New Mexico University in Portales, and has done graduate work at the University of Colorado and Texas Tech. He has made more than 350 addresses to various organizations during the past two years.

House Bans Proposals To Increase Size

WASHINGTON (AP)—House leaders have quietly but firmly rejected all proposals to increase the size of the House in order to prevent some states from losing seats because of population declines.

The effect of the decision may be that the House elected in 1962 may contain dozens of members chosen in statewide rather than district voting.

Of the 25 states whose congressional delegates will increase or decrease in the next House if the size of that body is not enlarged, only 13 have enacted redistricting laws. In two of those 13 states the legislative action has not become final.

The others presumably are waiting to see what Congress will do, or have encountered political obstacles in their redistricting efforts. Among them are Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Illinois, with a total of 63 seats in the new Congress if the size of the House is not changed. All may be elected in statewide contests.

Several plans to save some states from losing seats have been proposed in the House, but the current outlook is that none of them will get anywhere.

One proposal, by Rep. Frank Chelf, D-Ky., would increase the size of the House starting in 1963 from the presently fixed 437 to 450. That would not protect any state from losing seats, and at the same time keep the size of congressional districts relatively uniform, would require an increase to more than 500 members. House leaders consider that number too unwieldy.

Congressional leaders believe that once the state legislatures are convinced that there will be no action by Congress, they will move swiftly with redistricting legislation rather than take political risks which normally accompany state-at-large congressional elections.

In states losing seats, all members must run at-large unless their legislatures enact redistricting laws. In those gaining seats, only the added seats would be contested on an at-large basis in the absence of redistricting.

Mother, Son Killed In Crash

MULESHOE, Tex. (AP)—A mother and her infant son were killed and three persons injured Wednesday night less than a mile west of here on U.S. 84.

Killed were Mrs. Loraine Parker, 25, and Allen Ray Parker, 17 months. Mrs. Parker was the wife of Curtis Parker, a farmer living near here.

Injured included Lillian Parker, 4, another daughter, and occupants of the second car, Joe Sparkman and Judith Allen, 22, both of Slaton.

New Security Branch Planned

LONDON (AP)—Lord Carrington, the first lord of the admiralty, said Wednesday he is establishing a new security branch to prevent recurrence of recent leaks of royal navy secrets.

A government committee criticized admiralty security after a trial earlier this year disclosed a Soviet spy ring had access to some of the Navy's most prized secrets.

2-Car Collision Is Fatal To 2

BEAUMONT (AP)—Two Groves residents were killed and four injured, all seriously, in a two-car collision near here Wednesday. Killed were Mrs. R. C. Hancock, 25, and her daughter, Terry, 3. Robert Hancock, 2, and Roy Hancock, 1, sons of Mrs. Hancock, were among the injured. Injured in the second car were Mrs. Glenn Mullins and her son, David, 2.

Few Showers Off Coast As Another Hot Day Dawns

By The Associated Press

A few thundershowers rattled off the Texas coast as the state started another hot day Thursday. Over the state itself, the weather was quiet. A few low clouds floated over the San Antonio and Austin area but the rest of Texas skies were generally clear. Only four of the 28 stations reported to the Weather Bureau recorded highs of less than 90 Wednesday. Tops as usual was Presidio, this time with 104. Rain reported Wednesday included El Paso 1.54 inches,

Demo Party Slices Deficit

NEW YORK (AP)—John M. Bailey, the national Democratic chairman, said Wednesday the national committee has raised $3 million since January, reducing the party's deficit to $900,000. He predicted that the remaining portion of the deficit, incurred during last year's presidential election campaign, would be wiped out by the end of 1961.

Why Newspaper Advertising is The Advertiser's BEST BUY

. . . of the total of 10 Billion Dollars spent on advertising in America, nearly one-third was placed in Daily Papers!

Why do advertisers show such confidence in the power of newspaper advertising?

They know that advertising is a two-way street . . . that readers are constantly looking for a myriad of goods, services, bargains and ideas. They know the people read newspapers thoroughly.

Experience has shown them that newspaper readers are enthusiastic prospects who know what they want and that the place to find it is in their daily newspaper. Advertisers know that their daily newspaper reaches more prospective customers more effectively and economically than any other medium.

DEAR ABBY

Talent Scout An Old Line

DEAR ABBY: I met a man on a bus. He was very polite and well-dressed. Maybe I should tell you I am 16, but look older. This man said he was a talent scout and he thought he could get me in the movies. He asked me to go up to his hotel room to read over the contract, but I didn't have time because I was supposed to meet my mother downtown.

He gave me his name and telephone number, and told me to call him. He asked me not to tell my parents about meeting him. I don't want to pass up a chance to get into the movies, but I have never done anything behind my parents' back. What should I do?

DEAR SIXTEEN: DON'T call this man. He's as phony as a paper moon. His "talent scout" line went out with celluloid collars. Tell your parents about him.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married a very short time and have been told that I am wearing my rings backwards. I wear my engagement ring first because I was engaged first. Then, right next to it, I wear my wedding ring. People have told me that it should be the other way around. I still think I am right, but I would like to be sure.

DEAR JUST: The wedding ring should be placed on the finger first (closer to the heart), and the engagement ring is worn next to it.

DEAR ABBY: My husband runs a gasoline station. He is known as the softest touch in town. He gives credit to all the dead-beats. When they have cash, they go somewhere else.

When the cash register rings, it is a NO SALE because he is there getting a dollar to give someone who hands him a hard luck story. We are far from rich, but as long as he has a dime, he'll give somebody who has nothing a nickel. At this rate we will never have anything. How can I convince this big-hearted lunkhead to realize that he is a fool? POOL'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Your "big-hearted lunkhead" may be overdoing things, and a reminder that his big heart could break him may be in order. But a man who will split his dime with another who has nothing is not a "fool," and you could learn from him.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. S. W.: Your son sounds like the kind of man who sows his wild oats six days a week... then goes to church on Sunday to pray for a crop failure. Don't count on teaching a 44-year-old dog new tricks.

What's bothering you? For a personal reply, write to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Eichmann Blames
Hitler For Plan

JERUSALEM, Israel (AP) — Adolf Eichmann reached into the SS files today to show that Hitler invented the plan to exterminate Europe's Jews.

But in the process the files branded Eichmann himself as the chosen "head" of the machinery which resulted in six million deaths.

West German counsel Robert Servatius put Eichmann on the stand for the 13th and probably last day of the defense and made a bold move to cast all the blame for the holocaust on the fuhrer.

This was done through affidavits made at the Nuernberg trials by Maj. Konrad Morgan, a judge in the SS (Elite Guard) legal branch.

Servatius introduced the documents to the evident satisfaction of Israeli Atty. Gen. Gideon Hausner, who urged the three-man tribunal to accept them in toto.

The documents established that Hitler conceived the extermination plan and used a special unit to carry it out. This was a small group of "only several hundred" which got its training first by liquidating the mentally ill in Germany.

Eichmann listened in rapt attention as the Morgan affidavit blamed Hitler, police commissar Christian Wirth, SS chief Heinrich Himmler and others.

Then a portion of the statement shifted to Eichmann. Morgan said as an SS judge he felt he had to act when he discovered the extermination plot and he tried to bring Eichmann before a special SS tribunal in 1944.

"This was referred to Kaltenbrunner (Gestapo chief Ernst Kaltenbrunner), who received my order for the arrest of Eichmann. Kaltenbrunner summoned Mueller (Gen. Heinrich Mueller, Eichmann's chief). They declared to the court that the arrest of Eichmann was out of the question because Eichmann was fulfilling a special, secret function given to him by the fuhrer himself."

Later in the statement Morgan said Eichmann's IV-B-4 office in the Gestapo—"Jewish affairs"—was separate and independent and had the job of transporting the Jews to the death camps.

Morgan maintained that "Eichmann was the head of the whole action" and repeated this once more in another section in which he said "Hitler ordered a system devised to spare the victims worry and pain and the man to head the action was Eichmann."

Eichmann, who has maintained insistently that he was only a transportation officer, sat rigidly in his bullet-proof, glass-enclosed dock while the evidence unfolded.

Has Eyes Only For Husband

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I don't want to look at anyone else but him."

That's what actress Lauren Bacall said Wednesday when photographers asked her to turn away from her new husband, actor Jason Robards Jr., to pose for pictures.

The couple, married at Ensenada, Mexico, Tuesday, sipped champagne and nibbled cake at a movie set news conference.

They previously had been turned down for marriage licenses in Las Vegas, Nev., and in several European countries because of the questioned legality of Robards' quickie Mexican divorce from his second wife Rachel. Miss Bacall is the widow of actor Humphrey Bogart.

Of marriage, Miss Bacall said: "It's the best thing in the whole world. I never felt better."

Medics Protest Drug Authority

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Medical Association vigorously protested Wednesday against giving a government agency authority to pass on the usefulness of drugs.

It said the effect of this provision in the drug industry anti-trust act introduced by Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., would be "to limit research, the marketing of drugs, and the exercise of discretion by the medical profession."

The AMA's position was set forth by Dr. Hugh H. Hussey, Jr., of Washington, chairman of its board of trustees, at the start of hearings on the legislation by the Senate Anti-trust and Monopoly subcommittee.

Kefauver, the subcommittee chairman, said in an opening statement that the public's patience "with price-gouging in drugs is wearing thin" and that the people will demand direct government controls unless Congress acts along what he termed the "relatively moderate" lines proposed in his bill.

Kefauver said his bill would encourage competition and thus reduce medicine prices without resorting to direct federal control over drug prices.

The measure is the product of nearly two years of investigation by the subcommittee.

The investigation caused a partisan split among the subcommittee's members. The Democratic majority handed down a report last week accusing large drug manufacturers of abuses, including excessive pricing.

Republican members called the majority report a biased and unfair monstrosity, contending it was based on testimony from prejudiced witnesses.

Key provisions of Kefauver's bill would: 1. Give the Food and Drug Administration broad new powers to license the manufacture of drugs and revoke the licenses for cause. 2. Restrict the use of patent agreements covering the production of new prescription medicines.

3. Require FDA to test and approve new medicine products, ride herd on advertising claims for medicines, and force clear warnings concerning any possible harmful side effects of medicines. He charges such advertising "is often misleading and sometimes downright false."

4. Require simplification of the official names of drugs, with the idea of encouraging doctors to prescribe medicines by the official names instead of brand names.

Upper crust and unattached young men may be interested in knowing that the Playboy Club of Louisiana will open in New Orleans next October. This plush key club is one of several headquartered in Chicago, the brainchild of hard-driving Hugh M. Hefner who pushed aside the old Esquire magazine with his own publication.

Things learned about the music business. BMI, the songwriters' licensing and protective agency, is not the monster that some people think. Said one musician: "You have to have at least four published songs, and then the BMI board has to pass on you before you can get a license." The agency will take a songwriter in with only one song, the only restriction being against songs which are of such poor quality that they will never be played by anyone anywhere.

Said another "But you can't make a record without permission (from BMI or ASCAP.) It's illegal." It's still a free country, and anyone can press a disk without anyone else's permission—provided you don't steal someone else's song.

Said a radio man: "You can't get a record played over a radio station without the BMI tag (or ASCAP). BMI has contracts with all the stations excluding other records."

(Hundreds of recordings are played over radio stations every year without the BMI tag; BMI has no such contracts, and the organization's officials say they do not want any.)

Word from Hollywood supports the contention that pioneers are of the same spirit in every age. Tom Tryon, who plays Texas John Slaughter in a western TV series, is rehearsing for a Walt Disney movie, "Moon Pilot."

A Levelland native, Margaret Lewis, is aiming high in the pop and country field. Her latest disc, "John DeLee," is a slow paced dance rhythm for fast music (and you may have to hear the record to figure this one out). It's based on the "rag," a foot-stomping step that came from the hills, with enough rock rolled in to satisfy teenagers.

Miss Lewis now headquarters in Shreveport, which is logical—that city being the starting point for Johnny Horton, Elvis Presley, Tommy Sands, Johnny Cash and many others.

Anyone headed out New Mexico way next week might take a look at some fine paintings. The versatile painter, Harold Cook, will have a one-man show at Gallery A in Taos July 9-29. In addition to prizes won in all parts of the country, Cook's murals may be seen in Taxco, Mexico; Springfield, Mass.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; San Antonio and Corpus Christi; and Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn.

The St. Louis Mo., Municipal Opera season is well under way. "The Great Waltz" is finishing its run this weekend; the rest of the summer program goes this way:

"Kiss Me, Kate, (July 10-16); "Destry Rides Again" (July 17-23); "Robin Hood" (July 24-30); "Wish You Were Here" (July 31-Aug. 6); "Can-Can" (Aug. 7-13); "Cinderella" (Aug. 14-20); "Flower Drum Song" (Aug. 21-Sept. 2).

Recently, the Texas Fine Arts Association regional show got off to a fast start—so fast, in fact, that many members of Las Artistas, a TFAA chapter, complained of not having enough time or notification; the result of which being that Las Artistas went ahead with a strictly local show later on.

Terry Patterson, regional TFAA director, now comes forward with a note that "the reason for having (the show) in May was that the winning pictures had to be in Austin by June 1" for the state competition at Laguna Gloria. "I hated to go ahead of the club," Terry said, "but I had to."

The Bell Tolls For Hemingway

KETCHUM, Idaho (AP) — The bell tolled today for famed author Ernest Hemingway who was to be laid to rest in a tiny well-kept cemetery in the heart of the hunting valleys he chose as his home.

Members of the family planned to gather in the cemetery to meet the hearse carrying the dark gray metal casket.

The Hemingway home overlooks the little valley where the grave was dug Tuesday for the 61-year-old Nobel and Pulitzer prize winner.

Hemingway died Sunday of a shotgun blast in the head. It was ruled self-inflicted. But authorities made no determination as to whether it was accidental or on purpose.

The Rev. Robert J. Waldmann, pastor of Our Lady of the Snows Catholic Church at nearby Sun Valley, will conduct the simple rites. He said there would be no eulogy, but a meditation on death. The only time Hemingway's name was to be mentioned was in the closing prayers.

The author's fourth wife, fondly known as Miss Mary, will make her first appearance since the death. She has kept isolated in the house while members of the family made the sad journey to this southeastern Idaho resort area for the funeral of the writer whose tempestuous life was mirrored in his famous books.

The family — which includes three sons, a brother and three sisters — was together for the first time in 30 years.

It was Hemingway's oldest son, Jack, the first member of the family to arrive after the death, who picked out the casket. Other members of the family have not seen it. Neither have they viewed the body which has been kept at a funeral home in Halley, 12 miles away.

There were reports Idaho State Police would be brought here to guard the cemetery gates. The public and the press were to be kept outside the wire fence.

One of the pallbearers, Forest MacMillen, Las Vegas, Nev., hotel executive, said Miss Mary "is taking it very well, but she is very, very upset. I admire her for the way she is taking it." "She has many very good friends here, and she has not refused to see anyone who was her friend or papa's. Deep down, I think she'll probably stay here. She was a follower of hunting and fishing, too."
