GOP Leaders To Cooperate On Defense

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Republican leaders announced after a party policy meeting today they will cooperate to expedite passage of President Kennedy's enlarged defense money bill.

"I think the timetable is to have it on the President's desk by next Tuesday night," Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Senate Republican minority leader, told reporters.

"This is an emergency situation," Dirksen said, "and I think there will be no difficulty for the President's request."

Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, agreed with Dirksen and said Kennedy spoke frankly and forthrightly to the American people and the world as well Tuesday night.

He said Kennedy's talk was "firm" and "I believe and I hope it is now clear to our enemies as well as to our friends the strong position we have taken."

"We have made it clear we mean to carry out our commitments," Dirksen added. "There is going to be no fooling."

Kennedy Asks $3.5 Billion More In Defense Spending

217,000 More Men Sought

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy asked Congress today for $3.5 billion in new defense funds to re-enforce the nation's military might in preparation for a showdown with Russia over Berlin.

Following up a declaration Tuesday night that the United States will defend Berlin with force if the Russians try to drive out the Western Powers, Kennedy sent a message to Congress today asking for a 217,000 man increase in the nation's regular armed forces.

He already had announced that he was ordering draft calls "doubled and tripled" so that as many as 24,000 young men a month may soon be going into uniform. The July call was for 8,000 men.

To raise the permanent level of the nation's conventional warfare forces, Kennedy asked Congress to add $3,454,600,000 to appropriations for the Defense Department.

The would bring the total asked for the Defense Department military operations for the present fiscal year up to $47,507,113,000.

Kennedy said Tuesday night he does not plan to ask for new taxes now but declared he would propose tax increases if necessary later.

In a no-surrender speech Tuesday night on the Berlin crisis and the worldwide Communist threat, the President laid out his six-point program of military preparation and told the nation in grim words intended also for Soviet Premier Khrushchev:

"We do not want to fight—but we have fought before."

He pledged to take the initiative in seeking a peaceful solution through negotiation with the Soviet Union but ruled out any solution which would yield West Berlin to Communist demands.

NO SURRENDER

"We seek peace," he said, "but we shall not surrender."

Kennedy made clear that the military reinforcements he wants are not to meet the Berlin crisis alone but have been designed through long weeks of planning to give the United States a permanent boost in strength.

He called on the NATO allies to step up their own military preparation toward the 30-division goal which NATO set several years ago for combat-ready defense forces in Western Europe.

The President told the nation his six-point program will require sacrifice, courage and perseverance.

TAX PROBLEM

Kennedy said the measures will not immediately require any increase in taxes though they mean an officially estimated budget deficit of more than $5 billion. But he declared bluntly that if tax increases are needed to achieve a balanced budget next January, "those increased taxes will be requested."

The six steps Kennedy announced in his address from the White House are these:

1. A request to Congress for an additional appropriation of $3,447,000,000 for the military forces, plus a request of $207 million in new funds for civil defense. The civil defense funds will go for such purposes as providing shelters against attack in a nuclear war.

2. A request for an increase of about 125,000 men in the Army's total authorized strength, which presently stands at 675,000, to bring the new level up to a million men. The increase will be used to fill out present understrength Army divisions and to make more men "available" for prompt deployment.

3. A request for an increase of 29,000 in the active-duty strength of the Navy and 63,000 in the active-duty strength of the Air Force.

4. An immediate order, which is within the President's present authority, that draft calls "be doubled and tripled in the coming months," plus a request from Congress for authority to call up various ready reserve units and individual reservists. Given such authority, Kennedy said he plans to order a number of air transport squadrons and Air National Guard tactical squadrons to active duty in order to increase U.S. airlift capacity. He said other reserve forces will be called up if needed.

5. Retention and reactivation of "many ships and planes" which have been retired from active service or were due for retirement. Kennedy said specifically he would delay retirement of B-47 bombers in order to strengthen U.S. strategic airpower.

WEAPONS

6. Procurement of nonnuclear weapons, ammunition and equipment at a level which will take about $1.8 billion, or a little more than half of the $3,447,000,000 requested new military money.

Kennedy said he had heard the argument that West Berlin, surrounded by Soviet troops and close to Soviet supply lines, was "militarily untenable."

"So was Bastogne. So, in fact, was Stalingrad. Any dangerous spot is tenable if brave men will make it so," Kennedy said.

The President delivered his speech seated behind his desk in his White House office. His manner was intense and somber throughout. He never smiled.

Because of added personal remarks at the end, which he spoke with extra emphasis, he ran nearly two minutes overtime on his half-hour talk.

Congress gave enthusiastic support to Kennedy's warning to the Kremlin. Both Republicans and Democrats signaled solid support for his request for new defense spending.

Draft Call To Go Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—The draft call for September will go up to 20,000 men, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said today. The July call was 8,000.

McNamara did not amplify that statement in testimony prepared for the Senate Armed Services Committee. It was considered likely, however, that the higher figure would be maintained until the armed forces have increased their size.

Edmondson Gets 12 Years

Levy Lee Edmondson, 23, native of Martin County, pleaded guilty to burglary in 110th District Court on Wednesday morning. He confessed that he broke into the home of Calvin Hamilton his brother-in-law, here on May 2 and took two guns. These guns were pawned in a Lubbock pawn shop.

Edmondson was sentenced to 12 years in the state penitentiary on recommendation of Gil Jones, district attorney. Twelve years is the maximum penalty which can be assessed for burglary.

Edmondson's most recent escape was an abortive jail break attempt by himself and Frankie Lee Bean, another prisoner, on July 16. The escape try failed and terminated with both Edmondson and Bean clubbed into submission by A. G. Mitchell, deputy sheriff.

Bean, who is also under indictment for burglary, was at the Big Spring State Hospital today for observation. His attorney and the state had asked the hospital to check him for possible mental disturbance.

Edmondson, who had indicated he intended to fight the indictment against him, Tuesday had asked for appointment of another attorney than Roger Brown, who had been originally named to represent him. Edmondson was represented today by Carol C. Smith.

Pestered By Dogs

Dogs were reported pestering mailmen and some residents on Marshall and Bluebonnet were warned that unless such pets are kept from causing trouble, mail will not be distributed.

In another instance, a cat was said to have dropped dead shortly after being sprayed by the city fogging machine.

City Cracks Down On Jungle Areas

Weeds, which have become prolific all over the city, following the recent rains, have become a problem.

The city commission heard a report from City Manager A. K. Steinheimer on what the city would do with its own property, curb lines, and drainage areas, and the steps being taken to have private property cleaned up.

"City crews will begin work Wednesday to cut weeds and grass on all city property," Bruce Dunn, director of public works, said.

"There are many places in the city where the jungles have become a breeding and hiding place for flies, mosquitoes, and snakes. These will be cleaned up."

Steinheimer said that Fire Marshal A. D. Meador is investigating every call coming in about the weed growth on lots and that photographs were being made. He also said that letters are being sent to property owners citing the city ordinance regarding the maintenance of property and cutting of weeds.

"We are sending out these letters and notices now and they will be followed by a second letter if the property owner does not take care of the areas. If the warnings are still ignored," Steinheimer said, "we plan, after 10 days, to file complaints in Justice Court and take legal means of cleaning the lots."

"We now have close to 150 lots on our list. We do not have the forces to cut these weeds and clean up the lots so we will have to contract the job. The cost is assessed against the property, with a 10 per cent interest fee attached, all of which will be added to the taxes."

Separating The Beans From The Rocks

TUNIS (AP)—French and Tunisian forces in battle-scarred Bizerte were strengthening their military positions today against the threat that fighting would break out again.

The French commander, Vice Adm. Maurice Amman, called the situation explosive and said the French had to police the area. The French showed no sign of withdrawing from the city of Bizerte in accordance with the U.N. Security Council cease-fire resolution calling for a pullback by both nations.

Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba told a news conference Tuesday "fighting is bound to start again" unless the French withdraw into the Bizerte naval base, leaving the Tunisians in control of the channel between the Mediterranean and the sea.

In Bizerte Tunisian troops still held only the native quarter. Arrivals from there said they were erecting protective ramparts for infantrymen guarding the gates of the walled quarter.

Across the street, in the modern European section, French paratroopers were throwing up sandbagged positions. The heavily armed French also took over more strategic street corners and re-established tank-reinforced checkpoints outside the city.

The paratroopers, hardened by fighting in Algeria, were at many points, searching vehicles and the few refugees still straggling toward Tunis.

Bourguiba was reported under fire within his own government. Certain high Tunisian officials reportedly suggested the president, by throwing a siege around the base last week after the French rejected his ultimatum to evacuate it, had precipitated a crisis from which Tunisia could not profit.

U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold continued conferences with Tunisian officials, but so far his presence had no visible effect on the tense situation. He came to Tunisia at Bourguiba's invitation. The French ignored him.

Negotiations to make the cease-fire permanent were still blocked by a point-of-pride dispute over where to hold the talks. The French insisted on a neutral site; the Tunisians held out for the local government headquarters in Bizerte.

In a dispatch under a Washington dateline, Tass gave the first Moscow reaction to the President's speech on the Berlin crisis.

Kennedy reiterated his former contentions to the effect that the Soviet Union intends by a stroke of its pen to bring an end to the legal rights of the Western powers to be in West Berlin and the ability of the United States to make good on its commitments to the population of West Berlin," Tass said.

Although the President attempted to present the stepping up of the U.S. military preparations as a reaction to the (June 4) Soviet aide memoire and to the increase in the Soviet military budget, he himself admitted that the United States itself started the buildup of its military strength much earlier, immediately after his inauguration as President.

"While admitting that the entire situation in Germany is abnormal, the President did not submit any proposals toward elimination of this abnormal situation."

The President concluded his bellicose speech with assurances of U.S. peaceful aspirations.

Social Security District Office Slated For City

Big Spring is to be headquarters for a new district Social Security Office to serve seven West Texas counties.

George Mahon, congressman, notified the Herald Tuesday afternoon that the Commissioner of Social Security Administration had approved the plan for a district office here and said the new agency will be put in operation in the near future.

Designation of the office here is result of efforts begun early this spring. A survey of the activities in the social security field here found that 17 per cent of the total cases handled by the Odessa District office, (of which Howard County is a part) came from this county. The suggestion was advanced that it would be more efficient to establish a district office here.

Counties which are to be served out of the new district office here are Howard, Glasscock, Dawson, Mitchell, Borden, Martin and Scurry.

The setup creates an entirely new district. It is formed by taking three counties from the Odessa district, two from the Lubbock district and two from the Abilene district. Glasscock, Martin and Howard are now part of the Odessa district; Dawson and Borden are in the Lubbock district, and Mitchell and Scurry in the Abilene district.

The Odessa office is currently serving 15 counties. With the establishment of the Big Spring office, the number will be reduced to 12.

When the new office will be put in operation was not announced. It is estimated the office will require the services of at least six and possibly seven employees. The Odessa office now has an authorized payroll of 17.

The Social Security operations in this county are already big business and are expanding to even bigger proportions annually. By the end of 1960, more than 1,600 men and women in this county were on the rolls of the social security system.

Checks being received by these clients were running in excess of $100,000 per month.

Tass Laughs Off Speech

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet news agency Tass declared today President Kennedy is using "the so-called threat to Berlin allegedly coming from the Soviet Union" as an excuse to justify the arms race.

In a dispatch under a Washington dateline, Tass gave the first Moscow reaction to the President's speech on the Berlin crisis.

Kennedy reiterated his former contentions to the effect that the Soviet Union intends by a stroke of its pen to bring an end to the legal rights of the Western powers to be in West Berlin and the ability of the United States to make good on its commitments to the population of West Berlin," Tass said.

Although the President attempted to present the stepping up of the U.S. military preparations as a reaction to the (June 4) Soviet aide memoire and to the increase in the Soviet military budget, he himself admitted that the United States itself started the buildup of its military strength much earlier, immediately after his inauguration as President.

School Board To Study Budget

Trustees of the Big Spring Independent School District will meet at 5:30 p.m. Thursday at the Couden Country Club to review the proposed 1961-62 school budget, Sam Anderson, interim superintendent, said today.

"This is not a public budget hearing," Anderson said. "It is a work session to acquaint trustees with what has been proposed." The public hearing will be held later.

Another item on the agenda is the term during which Anderson will serve as superintendent. His appointment to replace Floyd Parsons was approved at a meeting July 19, but the length of tenure was not set.

Plans Made For Cotton Award

Seven members of the Chamber of Commerce agricultural committee met this morning to lay plans for the $500 First Bale of Cotton award given annually to a Howard County farmer.

The group discussed various means of obtaining funds for the award and decided to conduct a mailing campaign to members of the Chamber. Committee members expect the first bale to be ginned in the latter part of August.

The committee also decided to study other award ideas at meetings throughout the year in addition to outlining a program of activities for agriculture on a year-round basis.

Wesley Deats, chairman, announced that members will take up the possibility of a farm tour program at their next meeting on Aug. 15.

Lake Thomas Still Overflowing

Lake Colorado City is within 1.5 feet of spillway level, Texas Electric Service Co. reported Wednesday.

The lake stood at 2,068.80 feet on Wednesday and the spillway level is 2,070.30 feet. Recent rains brought the lake up to the highest mark it has been in many months.

Champion Creek Lake stood at 2,044.25 feet which was 35.75 feet below spillway.

Lake J. B. Thomas, already spilling full when last week's rains began, is still overflowing.

TESCO said that inflow into Lake Colorado City and Champion Creek Lakes has stopped.

Some German Escapes Are Spectacular, But Not Most

EDITOR'S NOTE: There have been many stories about the number of fugitives fleeing out of East Germany. Here is shown some of the others and how behind these figures, is the story of just one refugee family.

By CARL HARTMAN BERLIN (AP)—Some people escape from Communist East Germany by speeding a car through a control point manned by the Red people's police.

Most refugees don't do anything so spectacular.

Manfred H., like the majority, fled Communist rule in nothing more dramatic than a commuter's train. He came with his wife Luise, a pretty blue-eyed brunette, and Angela. Angela is a year old and has a nasty bruise on her nose because she does not yet walk very well.

She does not have to. The H.'s brought a surprising amount of baggage, and Angela's streamlined baby carriage.

"It's hard on the nerves, though," said Luise.

Manfred explained how it was done. He is a train dispatcher and knows all the angles. He is a good-looking man of 28, carefully dressed in a shabby sports jacket and slacks, with a necktie to show he isn't an ordinary workman.

EATING BANANAS When I met the family on a bench in the yard of the Marienfelde refugee camp, Manfred and Luise were munching bananas. In Leipzig you only get bananas twice a year, when the big International Trade Fair is on.

The H.'s lived in Leipzig, in a 2 1/2 room apartment on the third floor of a four-story house. The roof was so bad—not from bombing, Manfred explained, but from neglect—that the people on the top floor had to move out and the rain came through the third-floor ceiling.

Outside of that, it wasn't a bad apartment as Leipzig apartments go and the rent was certainly cheap. It had to be. After 12 years of working for the state-owned rail system, Manfred was still making 500 marks a month—$125 at the official rate, but a good deal less in purchasing power.

Luise worked for the railroad too, until Angela came. They had a church marriage but Manfred thought it wise not to mention that at the office.

NO GOOD "It wouldn't have done me any good," he said.

Luise had to spend all her time on housework and shopping. It's not that anyone is starving in East Germany. There's food to buy—bread and cabbage, mostly, and meat and sausage in the small quantities poor people can afford. Butter and potatoes are rationed.

Their parents left for West Germany some years ago. Then the young people tried to get permission to go, or even to visit the old folks. The authorities stalled. It was all right with the police, but the railroad people wouldn't allow it.

"They don't mind people leaving after they're on an old age pension," Manfred explained. "But when you've got a job, it's different. And then, for someone like me, it was pressure all the time. I wasn't in the party—yet. But everybody made it clear that if I didn't join, I'd never get anything much in the way of a job."

So last spring they started to make their plans. They sent spare clothes and bedding to their parents in the West, by mail. They were careful to take the packages out only at night.

DIDN'T DARE They thought about selling their furniture but did not dare. A local party secretary lived in the apartment downstairs.

Manfred set off alone on a preliminary trip to Berlin, with a heavy suitcase that held some of their more precious belongings. At Schoenefeld, on the southern edge of the city, there was a police check.

"Where are you going? Why? What have you got this in your valise for, instead of that?" They wouldn't believe his story and sent him back to Leipzig. Before he got there, the police visited Luise.

She succeeded in convincing them that she knew nothing about any plan to get away.

When Manfred got home they put a note in his workbook that he had been found trying to reach

Carr Will Leave For Washington

Carlton L. Carr, better known in Big Spring as "Choo Choo," leaves for the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital early in September to take a new post as management analyst in the VA internal audit service in Washington, D.C.

Carr, who came to Big Spring to be associated with the VA hospital even before that big institution was opened, has been a resident of the city for 11 years. He observed his 11th anniversary with the local hospital where he is administrative assistant in charge of professional services, on April 10.

His new assignment in Washington is a major promotion and, as he termed it "too good to pass up" although he said he regretted leaving Big Spring.

Carr is a pioneer in the Veterans Administration service. He began his career as a public official in the labor department. In 1945, he was sent to Amarillo, with the VA hospital service, and in December 1947, he was transferred to Alexandria.

He came to Big Spring three months ahead of the formal opening of the new Big Spring VA Hospital on July 10, 1950.

Carr moved into his new home at 300 Westover Road, a little less than a year ago. He is now endeavoring to dispose of his home.

He must begin his new duties in Washington not later than Sept. 5. No announcement has been made of who is to succeed Carr at the Big Spring VA hospital here.

Congressmen Laud Kennedy's Warning

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional leaders today enthusiastically praised President Kennedy's blunt warning to the Soviet Union that America will fight for Berlin if necessary.

Republicans and Democrats signalled solid support for Kennedy's request for $3,454,000,000 in new defense spending. There was no publicly dissenting voice to his program of boosting military strength by 217,000 men.

There even was Republican backing for a $207-million break-ground fund for building civilian defense fallout shelters. In the past, Congress has snubbed such requests.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he has concluded "we have reached the stage where we must do something about this. We cannot permit the Russians to use this avenue of possible blackmail."

ECONOMY HOPES

Many who applauded Kennedy's firm stand on Berlin said they hoped the extra defense outlays could be offset by postponing some of Kennedy's domestic programs.

There was a general sigh of relief in Congress that Kennedy was not asking for any immediate increase in taxes.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., head of the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, said members have to face the fact that the President's program may require a boost in taxes. But he said he, for one, wouldn't vote for an increase "until we have made every effort to make savings elsewhere."

Dirksen said that his only critical comment about Kennedy's report to the nation was that the President should have said he was giving up some of his domestic programs.

"If freedom and survival are worthwhile, they come before the butter of domestic programs," Dirksen said.

CUT SPENDING

Sen. Homer Capehart, R-Ind., said that Kennedy could "cut out a lot of spending" if he chose. He said he hopes the President will let up on "this emergency business" which he said had been in vogue under Democratic presidents.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Senate Democratic leader, said that if the economy sputters as expected there may be no need for higher taxes. "If it doesn't," he said, the country is going to have to pay the bill.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S. D., said it is time for Kennedy to "put some first things first."

"He should call off his demand for non-essential spending and practice some fiscal belt-tightening," Mundt said.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said the Democratic administration already has given signs it intends to do this. Case said Kennedy had indicated he intends to "get going on the facts of strength without rattling the sword."

NO DISSENTION

There was no dissenting note to Kennedy's declaration that the West intends to stand on its rights in Berlin—and fight for them if necessary.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said Kennedy's request for a military buildup should be "a signal to Mr. Khrushchev that we mean business."

Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said Kennedy's bluntly worded talk should "clear up any possible misunderstanding between ourselves and the leaders of the Soviet Union."

House Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., said he believes Kennedy may have awakened the people to the fact that "this time we may be facing a serious crisis."

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, chairman of the conference of Republican senators, predicted Congress will "back the President wholeheartedly."

Capehart and Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, complained that Kennedy had omitted any direct reference to Cuba and events there including the hijacked American airliner still held in Havana after its passengers had been returned to Miami, Fla.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said Kennedy's program "deserves and will receive the fullest measure of bi-partisan cooperation."

President Didn't Notice Perspiration During Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tiny beads of perspiration dotted the forehead, the back of the neck and the hands of President Kennedy Tuesday night as he delivered his radio-TV speech to the nation.

Kennedy seemed oblivious to this. Under the glare of camera floodlights, he concentrated on getting across to his unseen audience the sternest message of his short tenure in the White House.

For more than a half hour, the chief executive, 44, was the picture of intensity. His manner was as somber as his words telling of possible atomic war over Berlin and his plans to avert such a war.

Kennedy spoke from his oval office in the executive mansion, behind his carved wood desk on a swivel chair slightly raised for better camera focus. He wore a dark blue pinstripe suit, a blue tinted shirt and dark blue tie with green and red dots. He wore no makeup over a late-in-the-day shadow of a beard.

Glancing at a large-type text on a lectern, Kennedy spoke fairly rapidly without extra heavy emphasis until the end. Then he gravely added a "personal word" not in the original text.

Slowly, he told his fellow Americans:

"When I ran for the presidency of the United States I knew that this country faced serious challenges, but I could not realize nor could any man realize who does not bear the burdens of this office, how heavy and constant would be those burdens.

"In meeting my responsibilities in these coming months as president, I need your good will and your support—and above all, your prayers."

Kennedy's hands touched the papers of his text restlessly, perhaps a bit nervously, as he spoke. The President did not smile once either during his speech or as he strode from his office afterwards.

The 350 extra words at the end, plus the 3,000 in the text as distributed in advance, carried Kennedy 1 minute and 50 seconds beyond the limit originally set for his nationwide broadcast.

About 50 newsmen, cameramen and aides crowded into the presidential office. Among them was a representative of the Soviet news agency Tass, who watched impassively.

Texas Guardsmen Are Ready To Go

NORTH FORT HOOD (AP)—Two commanders of Texas units made immediate comment on President Kennedy's outline to build up the nation's defense forces.

Maj. Gen. Carl Phinney of the 36th Division, now in summer training here, said the President's plan was a very logical approach.

He said that unless he received orders to the contrary the 36th Infantry boys would return to their home stations as planned on Aug. 6.

In Dallas, Lt. Col. William Crandall, commander of the 69th Troop Carrier Squadron, said his tactical air reserve unit is ready for whatever job is asked of it.

Crandall said he had received no mobilization orders. The 69th flies the C119 Flying Boxcars.

Phinney said the President's plan "means that everyone connected with the armed services, including the National Guard, will certainly be called upon to improve their readiness."

During the President's talk, troops of the 36th sat silently, huddled around the scattered supply of radios.

"It was as if the chaplain was talking," said Capt. Henry Johnson of Houston.

Phinney interpreted the President's approach to the world crisis in Berlin as resulting in additional training periods for the National Guard.

"This could be accomplished by increasing the number of drills at the armories at the home station, and the number of weekend drills that the National Guard units would schedule," Phinney said.

Generally, the guardsmen themselves were not surprised at what the President had to say. Few actually thought that the division would be mobilized immediately.

Staff Sgt. Wesley Pryor of Katy felt it would be better to give the guardsmen at least a 30-day notice to take care of matters at home.

"I am ready now if they want me," he said.

Many felt that Kennedy took a definite stand against the Communism threat, but Maj. Theodore S. Maffitt Jr., of Palestine observed the President "left the door wide open" concerning the call up of troops.

Capt. Russell Thomason of Texas City said the President "showed he is not responding to hysterical pressures, but he is planning to take whatever measures are necessary."

Texas Weather Generally Dry

By The Associated Press

Generally dry and warm weather continued over Texas Wednesday.

A few showers fell along the upper coast during the early morning. Skies were partly cloudy over South Texas and generally fair over North and West Texas. Early morning temperatures varied from 65 at Dalhart to 81 at Galveston. Maximum readings Tuesday ranged from 96 at Wichita Falls down to 81 at Alpine.

Forecasts called for clear to partly cloudy skies with widely scattered thundershowers through Thursday. Little change in temperatures was expected.

"I THINK"

By T. H. Tarbet, preacher
Church of Christ, West Highway 80
P.O. Box 1388

Who cares what I think? Who cares what you think? Or what your preacher thinks? What men want to know is (and what they need to know) is, "What does the Bible say?"

Let a man refrain from giving his opinion on Bible subjects. "If any man speak, let him speak as the oracles of God" (1 Pet. 4:11). Let him speak where the Bible speaks, and be silent where the Bible is silent.

If he does not know the Bible answer, let him be humble enough to say, "I don't know the answer." Nobody needs his opinion. Christian faith does not come from hearing the opinions of men. "So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God" (Rom. 10:17).

Mr. "I Think" should be hung. Let us use the platform of the "all authority" of Christ; the galleys of God's word; and the rope of our own humility—and let us hang "Mr. I Think."

The people are starving to death for Bible preaching in the pulpit, and Bible teaching in the class room.

Plan to be with us Thursday night at 7:30 in the regular mid-week service. Sermon, "Too Far to Jerusalem" (1 Kings 12). Question period follows sermon. We can not promise to entertain you; but we will do our best to instruct you from the word of God. —Advt.

The Fascinating Fogger

The fogging season is in full swing and mosquitoes are being given frequent doses of malathion in a diesel carrier. Although children sometimes follow the truck, as the young man shows here, this practice should be discouraged.

Mosquito Fogging Machine Follows Regular Schedule

A daily schedule for fogging mosquitoes in various areas of the city has been outlined by Bruce Dunn, director of public works.

"We have had the schedule since fogging began and have been able to follow it pretty closely except during rainy weather," he said. "Perhaps some citizens may not notice the machine in their area and think they are being overlooked."

Dunn said the fogger was formerly operated early in the morning and late in the evening when mosquitoes are flying about. This makes the treatment more effective. Spraying is now done each evening from 2 p.m. to 10 p.m.

The city has been divided into six areas, each of which is served on a different day. "Hot spots" in some places are fogged daily or as needed, Dunn said. He pointed out that these areas are constant breeding places for mosquitoes.

Most of these places are in Edwards Heights, near the Texas and Pacific Railroad tracks and at the salt water pond on the west edge of the north side.

Areas, and days they are served, are:

Area 1, Monday, east of Birdwell Lane and south of US 80 east. This includes the Howard County Junior College area, Monticello Additions, East Park, Worth Peeler, Kentwood and Canyon View subdivisions.

Area 2, Tuesday, east of Gregg, south of Eleventh Place and west of Birdwell Lane. It includes Washington Heights, Cedar Ridge and the Robb Addition.

Area 3, Wednesday, east of Gregg, south of the railroad tracks, west of Birdwell Lane and north of Eleventh Place. This takes in Boydston, Stanford Park, Hall Addition and Hillcrest Terrace Subdivision.

Area 4, Thursday, the area north of the railroad tracks.

Area 5, Friday, east of Hillcrest Avenue, south of the railroad tracks, west of Gregg and north of FM 700. This includes Indian Hills, Edwards Heights, Jones Valley and Lakeview Addition.

Area 6, Saturday, west of US 87 south and south of FM 700. This takes in Wright's Airport Addition, Avion Village, Thury Subdivision, Kennebeck Heights, Coronado Hills and the Douglass Addition.

Ancient Waters Found In Sahara

By The Associated Press
Ancient waters, death among the mammoths, and bug wars are in the science news:

Old Water

Water in some deep wells in the Saudi Arabian desert appears to range from 20,000 to nearly 250,000 years old, three U.S. Geological Survey scientists report.

They measured the age of water through its content of radioactive carbon-14, which is formed in the atmosphere by cosmic rays, and then drifts to earth or falls in rainwater.

The deep well water may have fallen as rain during the Wisconsin glacial period when there were heavy rains, said Leland Thatcher, Meyer Rubin and Glen F. Brown. They analyzed samples of water collected by the Arabian American Oil Company.

Bug War

To fight insect pests, use bug-eating bugs, urges Carl B. Huffacker of the University of California.

He doesn't think man has done enough to enlist predatory bugs as allies in fighting pests, and thinks they can do a good job.

In a current project Huffacker is trying to find a natural enemy to control scale insects in olive trees, and says a very effective predatory insect has been imported from Persia. A related insect, from Spain, didn't work out too well, he adds.

As successes in bug-to-bug war, Huffacker cites the importation of Australian beetles to control a weed in Northern California rangelands, and the spread of milky white disease among Japanese beetles infesting eastern states.

Mammoths' Demise

There's a wide belief that glaciers sweeping down from the north suddenly wiped out 50,000 woolly mammoths roaming the Siberian tundras 10,000 to 30,000 years ago.

But William R. Farrand of Columbia University's Lamont Geological Observatory finds evidence against this theory.

He agrees the mammoths did die suddenly, as evidenced by food found in their teeth and stomachs, but thinks they were probably asphyxiated when they drowned in lakes or bogs, or were trapped by mudflows or cave-ins of river banks.

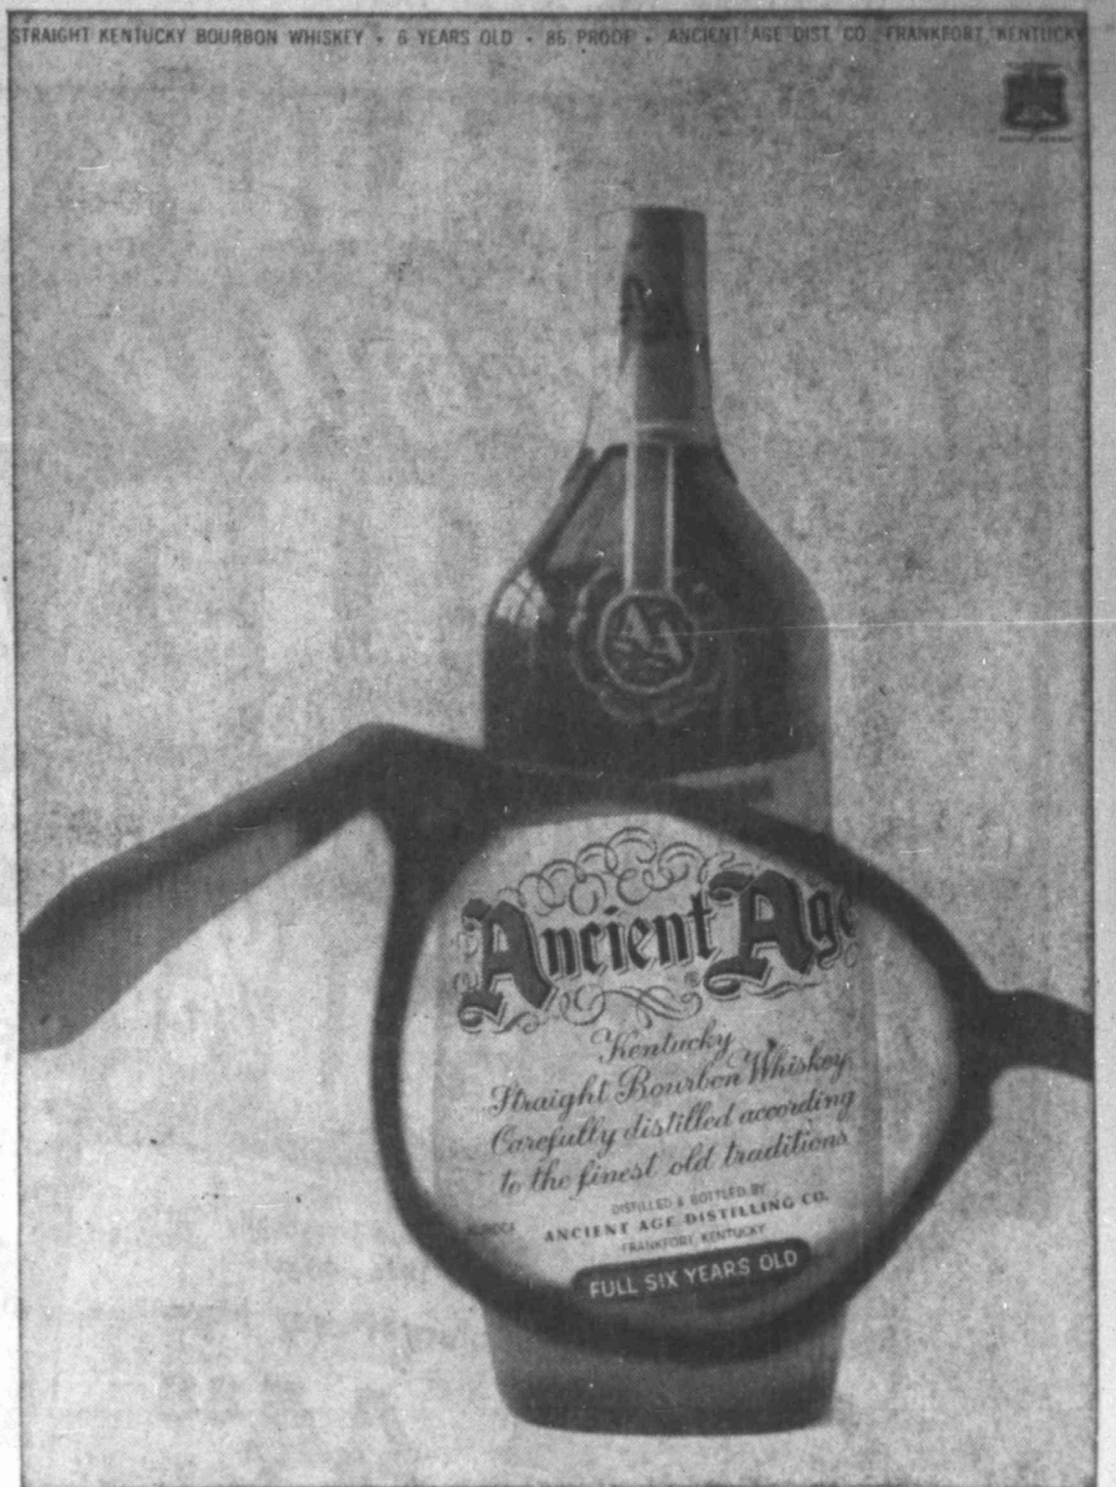

Only 39 remains of mammoths have been found, and this number is about what could be expected from accidental burial, he says. The fact most of the remains were decayed or mutilated by predators before freezing indicates the mammoths didn't perish suddenly in glaciers.

Moth Defenses

To keep the species alive, Emperor moths of Barro Colorado Island in the Canal Zone have developed camouflage systems and a kind of chemical defense against enemies.

In camouflage, some species when resting resemble dead leaves or bits of bark. Others use eyespot patterns on their wings which make them look bigger than they are, and make them look like enemies of small birds which normally feed on the moths, reports Dr. A. D. Blest of University College, London.

Still others have developed a nauseous taste or odor to keep from becoming meals for birds. Some types of moths are actually poisonous.

Take a good look before you buy.

- Does it say straight Kentucky bourbon?
- Is it always made in the same distillery?
- Has it been aged not 4, not 5, but a full 6 years?

Now—if you can find a better bourbon... buy it!

T&P To Halt 2 Daily Trains

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Texas & Pacific Railway plans to discontinue two daily passenger trains between Fort Worth and Marshall effective Aug. 6.

The proposal was made public by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The service involved in the extreme western leg of the Louisiana Eagles, which now operate through service between New Orleans and Fort Worth.

The company said the service can be shifted to two other trains, the West Texas Eagles, which operate between El Paso and St. Louis via Fort Worth and Marshall.

The railroad reported the Fort Worth-Marshall run of the Louisiana Eagles resulted in losses of more than $129,000 for the fiscal year ending in March.

McCarthy Papers To Marquette U.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—The public and private papers of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., have been given to Marquette University, his alma mater, by his widow, Jean McCarthy.

Announcement of the gift was made by the Rev. Edward J. O'Donnell, Marquette president. The first installment of 30 boxes of the senator's papers was received at the university Tuesday. After sorting and cataloging the collection will be made available to scholars in the university's Memorial Library as part of a research program being carried on by Marquette in American history.

Turncoat Sued In Auto Death

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A convicted Korean war turncoat was sued Tuesday for $115,000 as a result of an auto collision last year.

Claude Batchelor, a former Kermit, Tex., resident, was named in the suit filed by the husband, Pedro G. Barrera, son and three daughters of Mrs. Simona Barrera, who died in a November collision on U.S. 90 near the west edge of the city.

Batchelor was fined $500 on negligent collision charges filed after the wreck.

Red China Hails Cuban Celebration

TOKYO (AP)—Red China today hailed the eighth anniversary of the Cuban revolution, combining its praise for the Fidel Castro regime with a bitter attack on the United States.

An editorial in the official Peiping People's Daily said the Cuban revolution set "a brilliant example for the world's oppressed nations and peoples."

The editorial, reported by the New China News Agency, accused the United States of preparing "new military ventures." It charged that troops are being recruited in the United States, Puerto Rico, Guatemala, Nicaragua and El Salvador for action against Cuba.

U.S. Bracero Demand Is Down

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The demand for Mexican workers to harvest crops in the United States has decreased this year.

The government said that through last Friday a total of 111,772 braceros had left for the United States.

Despite the decrease in the number of workers leaving the country, a shortage of workers is reported in northern Mexico, particularly around Matamoros, across from Brownsville.

Judge Killed

A Devotional for Today

All Israel from Dan even to Beer-Sheba knew that Samuel was established to be a prophet of the Lord. (1 Samuel 3:20.)
PRAYER: O Lord our God, may Thy love to us in Christ Jesus have more power over our hearts and affections. Increase our faith and cause it to work by love, and to bring forth fruit to Thy glory. In our blessed Redeemer's name. Amen.

Any Modern Day Traitors?

The big appeal being made to Americans right now is to rally in full support of President Kennedy, to unite 100 per cent against the ruthless inroads of Communism. We are in a great crisis, and unity is of the essence.

The present position of our young President is being compared to those of (1) Lincoln, who had a miserable time getting the Union campaign going when the Civil War broke out; and (2) Franklin D. Roosevelt, who had to harness the nation's facilities first to whip a depression, and later to fight a world war.

One major difference is that, in instances cited above, the people already had agreed on a common enemy. The North knew it had to win; people in 1933 knew that they were without jobs; and, after Pearl Harbor, they certainly were ready to respond to leadership.

Today, is the nation really equipped, mentally, morally and spiritually, to stand fast against the attacks on the Free World, even if these attacks are as far away as Laos and Kuwait, and Berlin?

One editor—Tom Anderson of Farm and Ranch, an influential magazine in the agricultural belt—has been printing some direct-from-the-shoulder opinions on our weakness in the face of Communist inroads. Matter of fact, he calls his editorial page "Straight Talk," and that's just what it is.

A couple of recent issues had, first, an imagined letter to Benedict Arnold, and then an imagined reply from Arnold.

Editor Anderson's thesis was that General Arnold got a bum rap, and was ahead of his time. Wrote Anderson: "You merely tried to sell this country out to friends and kinfolks. . . . Your successors are selling us out to Mother Russia, and they're not even our own folks."

Anderson went on to say in his editorial that there are not many Communists in America, but, "Of course, what counts is not how many Communists there are in government, but where they are."

The concept that "empty bellies" is what causes Communism is a fraud, said this editor. "There are more Communists with Harvard accents than there are in Anderson's point is that too many people of influence are succumbing to the line that you can do business with people like Khrushchev. He further wrote: "The enemy is waging war upon us. Unless we plan to surrender, we are at war. Unless we plan treason, we plan victory. The Communist policy has never changed since 1917. To bring about through any means possible the universal Revolution to establish the universal State. Many non-Communist Americans are promoting the same."

The "containment" of Russia has failed, said this editor, and "coexistence" makes no sense.

Editor Anderson's position—as he writes it to Benedict Arnold—is that those who are adhering to the idea of doing business with the Commies are guilty of treason, since treason is "adhering to the enemy, giving aid and comfort to the enemy."

Well, this is pretty strong medicine, and perhaps unpalatable, like some medicine. But there is great truth here.

The Russian line has never deviated. While we in this country have permitted too much deviation, a lot of it because we're fat and happy; a lot of it because we do not understand where the real Communists are, and a lot of it because the welfare state, sounding as appealing as it does, is right up the alley toward "aid and comfort to the enemy."

David Lawrence Communist Influence In Tunisia

The tragedy of Tunisia is not just an episode in the relations of two countries. It is worldwide in its significance. For it means that passion and not reason still is the ruling motivation in international disputes.

Frenchmen and Tunisians lie dead today, their families in mourning, just because the President of Tunisia was impatient and couldn't wait to invoke the orderly processes of the United Nations. Instead, these new become a procedure of autopsy to determine blame, rather than a means of preventing bloodshed that has already occurred.

THERE IS debate going on now as to where the responsibility for the attack on French troops shall be placed. Each side will insist it had legal rights under international law—the French to protect a clear-cut foreign territory, and the Tunisians to order a foreign contingent to evacuate its sovereign territory when negotiations to effect a change in an existing agreement had stalled.

But impatience to get an agreement signed is not a justification nowadays for any nation to start a bloody conflict. World opinion has favored the use instead of the United Nations tribunals to bring about a settlement by peaceful means of all questions in dispute.

PRESS OPINION in Europe is cautious and restrained. For Tunisia has been a friend of the West. But says the London "Times":

"President Bourguiba, hitherto respected in the West as a moderate nationalist leader in the New Africa, cannot expect much sympathy for his latest conduct over Bizerte. He can justifiably argue that continued French possession of the naval base at Bizerte is incompatible with Tunisian sovereignty. But dilatory through the French may have been in this matter, there was no excuse for Tunisia precipitating things to the point where a clash was inevitable."

"DOES MR. BOURGUBA seek to show that, like the Algerian nationalists whose rivalry he fears, he can also employ force to get what he wants from Paris? Is he attempting to cover up his designs on the Sahara—which run counter to both the French and the Algerian claims—with an exhibition of strength over Bizerte? Or did events pass beyond his control?"

Back of all this is an unexplained mystery. Why does a friend of the West suddenly go berserk in diplomacy? What influences are behind it? Certainly the stakes are high, as control of Saharan oil and pipelines to the Mediterranean comprise a valuable and important asset. Could it be that Mr. Bourguiba has de-

James Marlow JFK's Points Mostly Psychological

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was clear in President Kennedy's address to the nation Tuesday night that he sought a psychological effect. But it wasn't clear what practical effect there can be in increasing the armed forces by only 217,000 men.

At least he indicated the United States may have reached a turning point.

For years now this country has simply been reacting to Russian actions, dancing when the Russians called the tune. Judging from Kennedy's talk, the United States will now start showing some initiative in dealing with the Soviets.

But his address, tough as it was in warning the Russians they can't take Berlin without a fight, still left the door wide open for a conference with them to settle the dispute peacefully.

AT ONE POINT Kennedy even indicated the West might be willing to make concessions—but not major ones—to avoid conflict. Just how far he is willing to go with concessions—or being tough—is for the future.

But there could be no doubt he had three targets and three psychological aims:

1. The American people—to prepare them perhaps for rougher things to come by telling them the administration intends to take a firm stand on Berlin, even if it means a military showdown with Russia.
2. The Russians—to let them know, if they think the allies lack the will to fight and that threats can scare and split them, that they have war on their hands if they push too hard.
3. The allies—to stiffen their backbone, by putting the United States firmly beside them, and at the same time needle them, even embarrass them, into doing more for their own defense by increasing their own military preparations.

WITH ALL THIS said, the question remains:

Are the Russians going to be impressed by Kennedy's announcement he is adding 217,000 men to the armed forces—particularly when he didn't say he's sending them to Europe where the Russians far outnumber the allies in ground forces?

If they are impressed it will probably be more by Kennedy's expressed determination not to be pushed out of Berlin, leaving it up to them to guess what kind of force the United States would use to stop them.

In any showdown it is unlikely Kennedy would try to stop the Soviets with ground troops.

Two years ago—which was the last time the Russians threatened Berlin—President Eisenhower rejected arguments of his critics that the United States should make a big ground force buildup in Europe to chill Russia's blood.

HE SAID March 11, 1959 that such a buildup was unnecessary because "we are certainly not going to fight a ground war in Europe." This could be interpreted as meaning that if war came it would have to be a nuclear one.

Just a few months after that Kennedy—on Dec. 9, 1959, while he was still a senator—was asked if the United States was in a position to fight any kind of war for Berlin except a nuclear one. He said no.

It's possible he has changed his mind, for he said Tuesday night "we intend to have a wider choice than humiliation or all-out nuclear action."

But if he knows how the allies, tremendously outnumbered on the ground, could hope to stop the Russians short of nuclear war he didn't explain that.

He may have meant that by taking the tough line he followed he hopes to convince the Russians he means business and that the way to avoid a nuclear war is not to start any kind of war.

Hal Boyle Dickering On The Dock

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks by incoming tourists that drive customs inspectors to the border of insanity.

"What's wrong with wearing two overcoats in July? You've just got a naturally suspicious nature."

"Go ahead, wise guy, and open the bag. It took me and my wife and the steward to close it. Let's see how many of you it takes to put it back together again."

"Imagine it—having to be searched to get back into your open Jackie Kennedy's suitcase."

"Personally, I'm a Democrat myself, but I'm a close friend of our Republican county chairman back home. Just what are you fellows looking for most?"

"Have a cigar. Have two cigars."

"It's heartwarming to see how patient and thorough and hard-working you boys are. Never mind that bog over there. It's okay, just laundry."

"Do me a favor, will you? I'm mad at my wife. Open all our bags. Ah, first one is mine—the other 14 are hers."

"Whatever you put in your report, please don't say anything about those towels or ashtrays, or the Hilton people will pick up my credit card."

"I know it looks new but we've had this camera in the family for years. Here, I'll prove it. Stand still, and I'll take your picture. Hey, Maude, come over here. How did you say this d—d thing works?"

"I suppose a lot of people with things to hide try to soft-soap you boys, don't they? Heh, heh, heh."

"Now I wonder who in the world put that in there."

"I don't see how you can deny it's an antique. We bought it on a six-month around-the-world cruise, and I'm 66 years old myself."

"Yes, it does have a 25,000-franc price tag, but you know how the French exaggerate. Actually, it's just a little cologne for my old Aunt Melissa."

"They told me it was holy water and now you tell me it's whiskey. The saints be praised, it's a miracle!"

9:10 a.m.—Mother complained that studio had not delivered paid-for photos of her children. Deputy Ben Sobczyk called the studio, arranged it.

9:15 a.m.—Man complained his ex-wife annoyed him with phone calls, cut him short with her auto on the highway. Deputy F. Robert Sdao talked with the wife, who promised to mend her ways.

9:30 p.m.—Pigs reported in some backyards. Deputy Richard Detscher arranged to get them back in their pens.

7:30 p.m.—Housewife complained about youngsters 3, 4, 5—including her own—who take toys from neighbors' yards. Deputy William H. Munch talked with the mother and asked them to advise their youngsters of right and wrong.

NOT FATAL, BUT VERY ANNOYING James Marlow JFK's Points Mostly Psychological

To Your Good Health Cardiogram, X-Ray Show Different Things

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: I am confused because one doctor who examined me took a cardiogram and prescribed nitroglycerin tablets. Later my present doctor took an X-ray instead, which showed that my heart was enlarged—he had said beforehand that he suspected this. He told me I should take digitalis tablets, and not nitroglycerin.

He also asked me whether I ever had swollen ankles or blue fingernails. What would that mean? And what does the digitalis do to help my condition?—A.R.L.

I can't positively answer today's question without having had a chance to study the individual case. In a way it's like asking why one mechanic decided that the timing gears of an engine needed adjusting, and another said the carburetor was out of whack. And after they got through, the mechanics decided that both things were contributing to the engine's poor behavior.

It's the same with physical ailments—except more complicated. With a cantankerous engine, the owner tells the mechanic how it behaves: Hard to start, lacks power on hills, poor pickup, etc.

The same with a heart. Any fever? Pain? Shortness of breath? Cough? Swelling of feet, ankles, legs? That's the "M.H." or "medical history."

The stethoscope discloses the sounds of the heart, whether normal, or some gurgling or "murmurs." And the physician judges whether the murmurs are trivial, or significant.

The cardiogram reveals the electrical or nervous impulses which govern the rate and rhythm of the heart beat—the "timing gears," if you choose.

Finally the X-ray shows the size and shape of the heart, because if it is or has been under severe strain, the organ becomes enlarged to compensate for this.

With heart pain (angina pectoris) nitroglycerin pills often are the best possible answer. Taken when needed, they relieve the pain (usually within a minute or two) by relaxing the arteries and letting blood flow easily through. Where the pain results because of constriction of the arteries, there is no better remedy.

But if the more basic problem is a "tiredness" of the heart muscle, which is one sort of thing that shows up sharply in the form of heart enlargement, the best treatment is a "booster" action for the heart muscle. That's what digitalis does. It strengthens the contraction of the heart muscle, thus augmenting the surge of blood through the system.

As for the questions about swollen ankles, or blue fingers, the first is a possible indication of congestion (there are other causes, or course), and the other, the blue fingers, indicates a lack of enough oxygen in the blood.

There are various causes of this, too.

This is an oversimplified explanation, but I hope and believe it gives a thumbnail sketch of what kind of trouble a heart may have, and hence deciding which type of medication may bring the most improvement.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can a man who is declared sterile in early years ever change when he grows older?—M. M."

It is possible, since fertility can vary from time to time. If the early sterility has been proved to be due to injury or some infection (such as mumps) it is unlikely to change. If, in a given case, there is a question as to whether fertility has returned, the best answer is to repeat the fertility tests.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Molner in care of the Big Spring Herald for his booklet, "Ear Noises—Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Holmes Alexander The President May Take Action

WASHINGTON—Of the many in Washington who know and like President Kennedy yet are deeply disappointed in his performance there are two distinct divisions. There are those who believe JFK is in waters over his head, churned with a tide he lacks the strength to buffet, and that he is floundering so desperately that only a forgiving Providence can save him and the nation.

OTHERS, as often as otherwise including myself, believe that the peril is dire, that the President has done almost everything wrong, and yet that he has in him the gift of courage which has sustained him through lifelong illnesses and injuries, and which will respond to the whirlwind of adversity by making him increasingly stronger and wiser.

Challenged to prove these convictions, as your correspondent recently was when expressing them in a public address, the optimist often has to confess to lackjaw. But in the press conference of July 19, Mr. Kennedy made it easier for us credulous critics to point to something like a silver lining. Asked to comment upon the "vicissitudes" of the Presidency after six months on the job, JFK put together these thoughts:

IN THE STATE of the Union address to Congress last winter, he warned that "the news will be worse instead of better." This prophecy has come true for us, but "Mr. Khrushchev would probably agree" to the same proposition about the Communist bloc.

Mr. Kennedy went on to refer, off the cuff and not as coherently as his admirers would have liked, to "the food shortage in China. . . difficulties in other parts of the bloc empire, relations between certain bloc countries and all the rest."

Around The Rim City Manager With A Backbone

There are times, when a reporter tries to think up something to say, that he accidentally runs across something expressed by another writer in better words. It has been refreshing of late to find a city or town which has told the taxpayers that they could take care of their own problems without running to Big Uncle for help. Italy, Texas, was one. Berger did likewise.

BUT ONE of the best examples of fearless talk has recently come from Newburgh, New York, where the city manager is attempting to get rid of moochers on the public funds. The title of an editorial in The Dallas Morning News, probably written by Dick West, is "Newburgh Moochers Whine," and the editorial says:

"Two-fisted City Manager Joseph Mitchell, of Newburgh, N. Y., proposes to weed out the moochers on the welfare rolls of the city.

"The New York State Public Welfare Association says it is inhuman. Gov. Nelson Rockefeller professes to be shocked. The moochers are whining all over the place. And Sen. Barry Goldwater is making hay while the fireworks shine.

"NO MORE cash payments, says Mitchell; welfare payments will be made in kind.

"Able-bodied adult males will work 40 hours a week or get nothing.

"Mothers of illegitimate children who have any more illegitimates will go off the rolls." (In Texas the welfare program has encouraged an increase in illegitimate children by making payments to keep them up.)

"A reliever who refuses a job will lose welfare aid.

"RELIEFERS who quit a job of their own accord get no relief.

"Allotment for a relief family will be cut down to the takehome pay of the lowest-paid city employe with a family of the same size.

"Cases of aid for dependent children will be reviewed monthly.

"Relievers who come to Newburgh without an offer of a job there are out of luck.

"Unless aged, blind or disabled, relievers can expect no more than three months of aid in a year.

"THE WELFARE department of Newburgh will have a budget and stay within it. The budget will contain a monthly expenditure which may not be exceeded.

"Homes of dependent children involved in aid cases will be inspected. If the children are not properly taken care of, they will be put in foster homes in lieu of state aid to their parents or guardians.

"New York State threatens to cut off state aid to Newburgh. New York is in deadly fear that Washington will cut off New York. Albany authorities summoned City Manager Mitchell to an investigation. Mitchell said that if they wanted to investigate, the problem was in Newburgh, and not in Albany. They could come to Newburgh, so far as he is concerned.

"THAT MAN MITCHELL must be quite a man. He knows how to talk to bureaucrats in a way that makes the cold shivers run up and down their backs."

All of which brings back memories of depression days when a reliever had to drive up his groceries and supplies in a good automobile to get them; when we heard men say "I am a $2 an hour man, and won't work for less"; when cattle and hogs were being slaughtered because of the surplus and owners getting paid for them but starving families couldn't get a bite of good beef being slaughtered and carcasses being destroyed; and a lot more things that those who would work, at anything they could find, were paying for.

If a few more cities could find the backbone to want to take care of themselves, the national debt could soon be retired.

Inez Robb Man's Inhumanity To Man

By RICHARD STARNES
(For Inez Robb, who is on vacation)
Leaving one of the early recitals of horror in the Eichmann trial, I fell in step beside an elderly colleague—a Turk—on the walk down the hill from the Beit Ha'am courtroom to the center of Jerusalem.

The old man wore a topcoat draped over his shoulders, cape-style, against the evening chill that descended from the harsh Judean Hills. His English was frail and my Turkish was entirely absent, but we managed to communicate after a fashion.

IN THINKING about the Eichmann trial, I have ended after nearly 16 weeks, I now tried to winnow its real meaning from the unbelievable mass of unbelievable truths that have been offered in evidence. I have concluded that the nucleus of meaning was contained in something the old Turk said that evening.

It had been a day of unrelied horror in the courtroom, and most of us who had heard it were shaken by it, although we should not have been. Reporters covering the trial of a man accused of complicity in the murder of 6,000,000 people have no right to be shaken by anything they hear. But somehow 6,000,000-deaths are an abstraction, and no amount of reflection on the total can prepare one for the dismal, detailed chronicle of how these lives were actually ended.

AUSCHWITZ, in all its horror, is one thing; Auschwitz where children were given sweets to soothe them at the door of the gas chamber is an intensely personal tragedy. The 400 or so correspondents in Jerusalem at that time included men and women who had spent their lives recording iniquity and misery in all its awful forms, and yet I venture there were none who were not moved to the brink of tears by some of the testimony at Beit Ha'am. The old Turk, bowed under his cloak, an expression of unutterable sadness on his face, had seen his share.

HE WAIVED vaguely toward the modern building behind the high wire fence which we had just quit. "Eichmann is nothing," he said. "Nothing. A beast, a coward, yes. But he is of no importance."

I demurred gently, but he waved aside my objection. "This trial will only prove what we have known all along," he insisted, pausing while he groped for the proper words to make me understand his meaning. "Herr Eichmann is nothing. The real enemy is man."

It was not an original thought, of course, and surely it has been said better than it was that evening in Jerusalem. Robert Burton put it, "The greatest enemy to man is man," and Burns spoke of the "man's inhumanity to man." But, in seeking the deeper meaning of the Eichmann trial, I have often thought of the old Turk dismissed the Gestapo bureaucrat with a wave of his hand and placing guilt in the proper quarter.

THIS IS NOT to say that Eichmann is not guilty. I think the endless trial has proved his guilt. I think Eichmann should make whatever inadequate expiation he remains capable of. But if all we take from the Eichmann trial is the righteous certainty that the sparrow-like transportation officer was guilty, then it will have been a monumental waste of time and a tragically misused opportunity.

Who, for example, will be "guilty" if 30 times 6,000,000 die in a nuclear bombardment? Whose burden is it when a child dies of want and neglect in some squalid Iranian cave? At whom shall we point the finger if famine decimates an overpopulated world?

WE INSIST we are a civilized people, and then we see Eichmann. If you look into the bright and innocent eyes of a child, you will see yourself mirrored. But take small comfort from that; look into the eyes of a murderer and you will again see yourself.

Mankind has not yet learned the tragic lesson of the universality of guilt. He refused to learn it in the Jerusalem of 2,000 years ago; perhaps it is too much to hope that he will learn it in the Jerusalem of today.

Paris Designer Unveils Figure Flattering Styles

By NADEANE WALKER
PARIS (AP) — Good-looking clothes that flatter the figure with a pure princess line were shown in Jacques Heim's "spirals" collection today.

The only things unwearable in the whole show were some of the colors—sallow sepia and greeny browns. More agreeable were warm browns, mid-gray, off-white, mustard gold, orange tones and black.

The designer thinks the most special things in his collection are two-one coat dresses, mostly spiral wrapped. Those, as well as most dresses and suits, mold the figure to the bottom of the hip and then flare flatteringly to a hemline which has dropped by an inch to cover the knees.

There are also dresses that look like suits and back-opening coats and jackets that appear to be worn backward. Taken on the whole, things are not what they seem in the fashion picture this season.

Capes and cape effects drop in a point behind in the Heim collection. Here again are necklines with scarf extensions draped around the shoulders. But in spite of its twisty name, the Heim show is generally clean-lined and simple.

Jackets are short or medium in length. Fur collars are modestly small. Cocktail and dinner sheaths mold everything but the waist, with a few high-waisted empire numbers thrown in.

There are flecked tweeds, textured wool coats, silk crepe dresses, velvets and pale gold to coppery and cut steel larnes. Dark glitter comes with jet and iridescent trimmings.

An Indian war bonnet that comes in green-black cock feathers. There are also battered halos and unicorn hats pointing off to one side.

At least one cocktail sheath has a mink-banded hemline. A black olskin suit with white looped wool collar and beret could brave all weathers, and a black crinkled Orion dress successfully impersonates suede leather. There is also a suede cape coat. Basket-weave self material in border bands is frequently used as trim.

Bobble-ended chain necklaces are worn backward to fill in bare backs. A sequined tweed beret dresses up a tweed outfit.

Has Effective Diet

Laurie Brady tells how she lost 10 pounds in 10 days in today's Hollywood Beauty column.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Actress Diets To Lose Pound A Day

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — Laurie Brady looks more like a teen-ager than the mother of two, and when we met for lunch the other day, I told her so.

"It isn't hard to be slim after having a baby, if you try," she replied. "When I decided my children were old enough for me to go back to an acting career, I had to take off the 10 excess pounds I'd been carrying since my youngest child was born."

"With my first baby, I worried a lot," Laurie revealed, "but I followed all the rules and did everything the doctor said to do, and I was back to normal almost immediately. But with the second baby, I knew what to expect and I indulged myself to the extent of gaining 35 pounds. I lost it all but those 10 pounds after the baby was born."

"How did you lose the 10?" I asked, for she certainly didn't look overweight.

"My doctor gave me a severe 750-calorie diet, but I had lots of vitamins and minerals as supplements," she explained.

"I had a boiled egg, one whole orange and black coffee for breakfast. For lunch I had raw vegetables such as carrots, celery and green pepper slices, cold beef or lamb and a glass of skim milk. For dinner I had a green salad with lemon juice dressing, steamed green or yellow vegetables and chicken, fish or liver. In 10 days I had lost the 10 pounds," Laurie confessed.

"And you didn't eat it back again?"

"No, my rule is to leave the table feeling as though I would like a second helping. I think you know when you are eating more than you need," Laurie said.

"After I got thinner," she continued, "I was chosen over 50 other girls for Milton Berle's old bowling show. They told me they wanted a wholesome type, and I guess I fitted the bill because I wear only lipstick and a little eyeliner. I try to keep my skin in good condition so I won't need make-up."

"I think it helps to use a mask once a week. My favorite one is something I make myself. I mix raw oatmeal with enough warm water to soften it and make a paste. I smooth this on a clean face and lie down for 10 minutes. When I rinse it off, my skin is soft and clear."

Water Control Bill Is Given Committee OK

After testimony heard Wednesday morning, a Senate Committee in Austin gave unanimous approval to a bill designed to clarify the authority of the Colorado River Municipal Water District in dealing with pollution in the area of its reservoirs.

The bill will be reported accordingly to the Senate for action by that body. It will, of course, have to clear the House also.

CRMWD Manager E. V. Spence testified at the hearing Wednesday morning.

The District, although it carries authority for protecting the purity of its water, is seeking a clearer establishment of pollution control authority, since it will be broadening its area of operations with a new reservoir in Southern Mitchell County.

The bill proposes correction of pollution of the Colorado River and its tributaries upstream from Coke County; proposes control of brine by capping and plugging abandoned oil wells, covering salt pits, etc., and authorizing the use of salt water—if necessary to free the use of fresh water—for certain mining and industrial purposes.

Robbery Trial Gets Started

Ehwood Frazier Buntin, 39, charged with armed robbery, is on trial today in 118th District Court. A jury was selected and sworn in shortly before noon. Dist. Atty. Gil Jones read the indictment against the defendant and court recessed for lunch.

Testimony was started when the court resumed after the noon recess.

Buntin is accused of having held up Marie Gilley, clerk in a Big Spring liquor store on the night of March 20. He took $90.25, the indictment charges.

He was arrested in Martin County at a roadblock a few minutes after the alleged holdup.

Jurors in the case included Harold Fischer, R. E. Hughes, Mrs. Albert L. White, Mrs. C. E. Gossett, R. E. Collier, Joe Martinez, Bobby S. Wash, Roy Tidwell, Mrs. Frank Morphis, Bobby J. Stewart, J. B. Libby and Janie Phiergo.

Buntin is represented by Bill Eysen and Sewell Couch. The state is represented by Jones and County Attorney Wayne Barnes.

Vandalism Reports

Three instances of vandalism were investigated by police, one also involving a theft.

Early this morning patrolmen noticed that a window was broken at a pawn shop at 102 E. 2nd, and notified the owner. Preliminary investigation failed to uncover anything missing but later a .32 caliber pistol was reported missing.

Vandals broke a window at a club on U.S. 90 west, but entry was apparently not attempted. An attempted entry was reported by Mrs. Charles Downing at the Big M Drive-In on U.S. 97 south. Two screens were cut and one was open but no entry was made.

City Sells Tract To VFW; Well Water Service Discussed

The city commission, with E. C. Smith, developer of the Muir Heights Addition, discussed Tuesday the proposed plans submitted by Forrest and Cotton for furnishing water to the area.

The proposed addition, with surrounding acreage which may be used for future development, is above the existing high service area. The estimated cost of $100,000, submitted for furnishing water, was considered higher than that for which money was available and the commission authorized a further study of adding pumps to the Section 33 line from city wells.

The commission approved the sale of two acres of land out of the Boy Scout lease in Section 18 to the Veterans of Foreign Wars for $1,250 per acre. The acreage is separated from the main tract, used by the Scouts, by a ravine and is located so that a better watch may be kept over the entire area. The VFW, represented by C. L. Foster, proposes to build a new meeting hall on the acreage and to erect a chain link fence around the property. The $2,000 coming from the sale was earmarked for the special improvement fund on parks and the golf course.

Jack Shaffner, representing Lloyd Curley, appeared before the commission asking for clarification of dates and policies under which surveys by the developers and by the city were to be completed for developments of additions. On two former occasions the city commission authorized surveys for utilities to be made by developers, with the city surveying for streets and drainage. A cut-off date of August, 1962, was set for the completion of engineering for all subdivisions where plats have already been approved. This date would include utility surveys by the developer and street grades by the city.

In other business the mayor appointed George Zachariah and Paul Kasch as a committee to work with City Manager A. K. Steinheimer to study the possibility of the use of meters on taxicabs. It was pointed out that the present tax service zones created a problem, and that many complaints were received about high rates for transportation over short distances in a given zone. It was also pointed out that meters are being used on cabs in most cities of comparable size.

Bruce Dunn, director of public works, submitted a proposed schedule for garbage pickups. He said that the city now has six trucks and that a new schedule was being set up to insure pickup even though a truck covering one route might go out of service for repairs. By setting a schedule for three trucks to be operating from

Castro's Cuba Celebrates 8th Year Of Revolution

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's revolution celebrates its eighth anniversary today with a giant Havana rally, a major speech by Castro and Soviet spaceman Yuri Gagarin as guest of honor.

Thousands poured into the capital to cheer the Soviet conqueror of space and to hear the bearded prime minister whose revolt finally overthrew Dictator Fulgenzio Batista two and a half years ago.

Today was the third of four days of celebrations commemorating the ill-fated attack on the Moncada barracks in Santiago in 1953 that marked the birth of Castro's revolution. But a parade of 70,000 Tuesday abounded with pictures of Lenin and Soviet Premier Khrushchev as well as the heroes of the Cuban revolt.

Electric signs lit up the sky over Havana with the word "par" — peace.

Stripped-Down Tax Bill Enters Senate For Test

AUSTIN (AP) — The House-passed tax bill, stripped of $75 million in estimated money-raising power by a comptroller's gloomy forecast, headed today for its first Senate test.

Sen. Wardlaw Lane's State Affairs Committee was set to report into the revenue bill (HB20) in an afternoon hearing.

The bill's chances of clearing the Senate without a complete rewrite appeared almost nil after Comptroller Robe. Calvert estimated it will raise only $234,962,128 — some $73 million shy of the $328 million estimated by its author, Rep. Charles Sandahl of Austin.

Lane, an outspoken advocate of retail sales taxation, wrote the Senate version of the regular session's House bill 334. This version is based mainly on a 2 per cent sales tax exempting food, medicine and some other items. It was rejected by the House 72-72 on the last day of the session.

Many House members say they believe the Senate will rewrite House Bill 20, sending back a bill similar to Lane's version of House bill 334.

The Sandahl bill is based mainly on a 2 per cent retail sales tax on power and motor driven objects, construction materials, utility sales and items costing $5 or more. The comptroller said this would raise about $40 million less than Sandahl figured.

The House worked two hours in its first meeting since passing the tax bill Saturday.

Representatives passed and sent to the Senate a bill to set up a "little Hoover commission" to seek ways of making state government less costly. The bill was passed 83-35.

Zapata Now Is Suffering Its Second Major Crisis

ZAPATA, Tex. (AP) — Eight years ago citizens of this Border town faced a crisis.

Their homes were to be flooded by Falcon Lake, just created on the Rio Grande.

True, the government had paid them but many were reluctant to leave their dwellings of nearly a lifetime, for many.

At the last minute, many choked back the tears, picked up their belongings and moved to higher ground.

Now these people face another crisis. The county's only bank has been closed more than a week and is in the hands of a receiver. Many have their living savings in the institution. They don't know how much, if any, they will get back.

A check given on their account cannot be processed. Grocery money is short. It's getting shorter.

The townspeople met their crisis in 1953. They say they will meet this one too.

NEW TOWN
Zapata is a bright, new resort town, a far cry from the adobe huts and shacks that made up most of the community eight years ago. City officials say this new town, born on a hilltop, has been making progress ever since. Its fancy motels and cafes cater to the sportsmen from all over the nation who swarm to the huge lake.

Zapata is made up of a proud and noble people," Sheriff C. M. Hein said. "They didn't buckle under during the flood. They won't buckle under now."

"They are shocked. They are uneasy. But they won't panic," he said.

"We have to convince merchants not to fold up even if this thing takes a long time to clear up," he added. "That's how we can convince other areas we are worthy of assistance in the form of possible loans."

"People don't like to talk about how much money they have in the bank," one merchant said. "They are just adopting a wait and see attitude."

FEELING PINCH
Some merchants were already extending credit to hardship cases but merchants themselves were beginning to feel the pinch of no banking facilities in the county.

"The people will have to start tightening their belts," M. Ramirez, a grocerman said. "Those who have been eating cake will have to start eating beans."

Ramirez said he had about $2,500 on deposit and in checks that could not be processed. He said messengers were being sent by merchants to Laredo, about 50 miles away, to cash checks on out of town banks.

"These people have confidence in their officials," Rafael San Miguel, rancher and oil man, said. "This thing can be worked out."

San Miguel was reported to have

Tow Service Meeting Set

A committee of persons familiar with problems of wrecker, tow-in, storage and impounding vehicles is set for 2 p.m. Thursday, according to A. K. Steinheimer, city manager.

At the meeting will be Steinheimer, Jay Banks, police chief; John Burgess, city attorney; Patrolman Claude L. Morris Jr. and Patrolman Robert E. Dugan.

Commissioners approved specifications and regulations relating to such service at a meeting July 11.

Wrecker services which wish to be called must be approved by the committee. They will be called on a rotation basis, either weekly, monthly, or as recommended.

The services must have standard fees, equipment must meet basic specifications, service must be prompt and storage facilities must be fenced and locked or guarded. Refusal to answer calls would mean automatic cancellation of the turn of rotation.

"We will discuss the matter and draw up a town ordinance," Steinheimer said.

Hit, Run Wreck Among 4 Reported

A hit-and-run accident was reported to police Tuesday along with three other minor incidents.

Howard Frances Dupree, 2604 E. 16th, told police someone in a green pickup truck hit his car at 4:57 p.m. while it was parked in the 100 block of Main, causing about $40 damage.

Another accident involving a parked vehicle occurred in the 3600 block of U.S. 90 west. Charles Beardon, Odessa, was driver of a car which collided with a parked car belonging to Clyde Yarborough, Odessa.

Sites of other accidents and drivers involved were 100 block of East 10th, Abe Holder, 812 N. 17th, and F. L. Johnson, 611 George, and 3500 U.S. 90 west, Glen Leroy Sehested, Snyder, and Bandy Riggs Roth, OK Trailer Courts.

Fire Put Out

Firemen extinguished a fire in a washing machine at the OK Trailer Park Tuesday at 1:05 p.m. The fire was attributed to a short in the electrical system. The condenser on the machine was the only damage.

NEAREST BANKS

The nearest banks are in Laredo, Rio Grande City and Hebbronville, all about 50 miles away.

The townspeople cluster in knots in and outside the bungalow-villa-covered brick courthouses each day awaiting an answer. They are patient, just waiting.

On the second floor, the grand jury has met and a receivership hearing has been held. Neither have supplied the complete answer.

Manuel Medina, grey-haired president of the bank, testified this week in the receivership hearing. He answered some questions but he invoked the 5th Amendment on the one they were waiting to hear: "Was there enough assets to be liquidated to pay off the depositors?"

Across the street from the rear of the courthouse stands the bank-inside receiver George Byfield and his staff work behind closed doors.

Byfield has answered some questions too. He said things may be in better shape than at first believed. But he says it will take lots of time and effort. He said he might be able to turn up other assets such as notes payable, property and credit with other banks.

500 Acres May Go On Block

Five hundred acres of surplus land inside the Big Spring City limits and a part of the property of the Big Spring State Hospital may be offered for sale.

In Austin on Monday, the State Board of Hospitals and Special Schools discussed a suggestion that the land be sold and it was reported all members of the board favored the idea.

The State Hospital here owns 600 acres of land, W. G. (Cotton) Kirklin, Odessa, member of the board, pointed out that the hospital actually needed only a 100 acres and that the excess land should be turned over to business or for residential development.

"I am sure the local units of government could use this land for taxation," Kirklin said.

However, the board has no authority to sell the land directly. The board would have to go before the legislature, get a bill introduced and passed. The money received from the sale of the land would go into general revenue.

At the last session of the legislature, a bill which authorized the sale of surplus land at Abilene State School was passed.

Program Set For Newcomers

Some fifty new airmen will assemble at the Service Club Thursday morning for an hour-long orientation on what they can expect at Webb AFB. Every airman who has reported for duty at Webb since May 1, will be present.

The group will be greeted by the Wing Commander, Col. Donald W. Eisenhart. Among those scheduled to speak to the newcomers are the base chaplain, the base legal officer, the provost marshal, and a representative of the Chamber of Commerce.

Maj. Thomas J. McArdle, the chief of administrative services, will introduce the speakers. The program was planned by Capt. Charles A. Smith, Wing information officer, and M. Sgt. George E. Ray, Wing Sgt-Major.

The program was planned at the suggestion of the base command, in the belief that many of the difficulties facing the new arrivals at Webb could be dissipated by explaining some of the problems, and pointing out solutions.

The program will be repeated every two months for such new arrivals as may report for duty during the previous 60 days.

Can May Be Only First Step In U.S. Mobilization

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's call to the colors for thousands of Americans may be only the first step toward mobilization to meet the worldwide Communist threat.

Kennedy indicated as much in moving to boost the nation's manpower by 217,000, to mass heavier conventional firepower, and to array more ships and planes to ferry U.S. fighting men to any area.

"In the days and months ahead," he told the nation Tuesday night, "I shall not hesitate to ask for additional measures from the Congress, or exercise any of the executive powers I possess to meet this threat to the peace."

"Everything essential to the security of freedom will be done; and if that should require more men, taxes, controls or other new powers, I shall not hesitate to request them."

Kennedy called for a boost of 217,000 soldiers, sailors and airmen by doubling or tripling draft calls which recently have been running at 6,000 to 8,000 a month, and by mustering some reserve and National Guard units.

Counting earlier requests for 25,000 more men, this would swell the total of U.S. men-at-arms to 2,735,000.

If he feels the need, Kennedy could draw heavily on 400,000 National Guardsmen and 1,700,000 Army ready reservists, as well as thousands more Marines, Air Force, and Navy reserves.

More than two weeks ago, Soviet Premier Khrushchev declared he was canceling announced plans to slash the Soviet armed forces which now stand at about 3.6 million men. He said he was increasing arms outlays this year by about $3 billion.

To maintain strategic U.S. bombing strength, the President announced he was setting aside, at least for now, plans to retire the aging six-jet B47s. There are about 1,000 of these 600-plus-mile-an-hour bombers in this country's long-range striking force.

To do all this, Kennedy sought a $3,347,000,000 boost in this year's defense budget. Counting previous requests, this would bring to $6 billion the additions he has asked for preparedness since taking office. It would bring the military budget to $47.5 billion, the largest by far since World War II.

Of the latest increase, about

$1.8 billion would be used to buy non-nuclear arms and equipment.

Under Kennedy's plan, the Army would go up from 873,000 to 1 million, the Air Force from 325,000 to 388,000, and the Navy from 625,000 to 657,000.

Kennedy previously asked Congress to boost the Marines from 175,000 to 190,000.

The additional 123,000 Army troops would be used to fill out present Army divisions, and to make more men available for prompt shipment to threatened areas.

The Army now numbers 14 regular divisions—five in Germany, two in Korea, one in Hawaii and six in the United States.

To bring about a relatively quick build-up in vital airmen and seafight capability, Kennedy looked to the Air National Guard and the motoball fleet of reserve ships.

W. Europe Welcomes JFK's Speech

BERLIN (AP)—President Kennedy's speech was warmly welcomed today in threatened West Berlin and throughout Western Europe.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, declared in Bonn he was "happy that the United States has resolutely taken over the leadership of the West."

West Berlin morning newspapers remade their late editions to carry long excerpts from the address. A typical headline was the Morgenpost's "Kennedy prepared to do everything for Berlin's freedom."

The speech came too late for editorial reaction in most European capitals, but the liberal Le Matin of Antwerp, Belgium, commented:

"This speech means above all that the United States wants to fully assume its duties as leader of the Western world. Kennedy clearly expressed the American determination to take the diplomatic initiative back from the U.S.S.R."

First Communist reaction was bitter. The official East German news agency, ADN, asserted that Kennedy deliberately distorted Soviet proposals for relieving the Berlin situation.

"He also failed totally to mention the danger to the peace of Europe posed by West German militarism," ADN said.

In Rome, both the official Communist organ L'Unita and the Red-leaning Il Paese described the speech as "threatening and bellicose."

As usual, Moscow radio and the Soviet news agency Tass were silent.

Vienna's independent Kurier headlined the quotation "An attack on Berlin is an attack on us all" and the independent Kronenzeitung said "President Kennedy calls for extreme toughness."

London's Conservative Daily Sketch said Kennedy "gave Mr. Khrushchev a grim warning last night in the loudest speech since he became President."

In Amsterdam, the Liberal De Telegraf carried the headline "United States not too soft to fight" and the Catholic Volkskrant said "Kennedy strengthening forces willing to talk but also to fight."

The Communist East German radio singled out Kennedy's statement that the West is willing to negotiate over Berlin as a point of difference between Washington and "the extremists in Bonn."

America's allies in Asia were favorably impressed by the speech.

Officials Seek Recovery Methods In Airliner Theft

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials searched today for a way to retrieve from Havana a hijacked American airliner. No course looked very promising.

By freeing its passengers and crew Tuesday without releasing the plane, Prime Minister Fidel Castro indicated he presently doesn't intend to return the four-engine craft detoured to Cuba at the point of a passenger's gun.

The $3.5-million airliner thus becomes one more piece of American property taken over by Castro.

U.S. authorities are keeping books on the Castro seizures for a day of reckoning.

The State Department said it was awaiting word from the Swiss on a U.S. demand that Cuba return the airliner. The Swiss Embassy in Havana has handled U.S. affairs in Cuba since the break in U.S.-Cuban diplomatic relations.

What future diplomatic step will be taken, if Castro refuses to release the plane, remained unclear. Washington could formally protest even though similar complaints in the past have failed to judge Castro.

On the legal front, experts said there is no international court to which the case can be taken with a prospect that Castro would bow to a court ruling to turn over the plane.

They suggested Eastern Air

Lines, the American owner, could make it difficult for Cuba to use the airliner outside Cuba, however. They said this could be done by legal moves seeking recovery of the craft if it lands abroad.

One question a non-Cuban court might have to decide is whether the plane was legally confiscated by the Castro regime or still rightfully belongs to the American firm.

A similar question is now before a court in Montreal. The Canadian government seized a Cuban cargo vessel which a private company claims belonged to it before Castro took it over.

U.S. authorities estimated that more than 10 Cuban planes, some hijacked and some on planned flights, have been seized in this country during Castro's regime.

They contended that these seizures were by due legal process, stemming from private citizens' financial claims against the Castro government, as opposed to what they called arbitrary governmental seizure in Havana.

Congressional demands that the United States use force to regain the plane met a cool reception from Kennedy strategists.

Present U.S. policy is to foster economic growth and anticommunism in other Latin-American countries, then put a hemispheric squeeze on Castro.

Surgeon Named In Damage Suit

A former Big Spring physician and surgeon has been sued for $1,000,000 damages in a suit filed Tuesday in 118th District Court.

The plaintiffs in the case are Mr. and Mrs. James G. Hovey, whose home is in Midland. The defendant is Dr. T. J. Williamson, who formerly was on the staff of the Howard County Hospital, as residing in Kerrville.

The petition, which says that on June 23, 1958, Mrs. Hovey gave birth to a child by Caesarean section, with Dr. Williamson as the surgeon. It is alleged that additional surgery was performed that had not been authorized by the patient or her husband.

Letter Tells Tragic Story Of Robbery

NEW YORK (AP)—“We may wind up in jail for a long time. We may get killed. But we’ll get the money.”

These were the closing lines in a letter that Richard James, 25, wrote—but never mailed—to his mother prior to a dramatic, bullet-punctuated $15,515 robbery of a West 23rd Street bank Tuesday.

James was captured. His partner, Lawrence Williams, 26, died in a gun battle with police across from crowded Pennsylvania Station only moments after the robbery.

Police found the letter in James’ room, along with detailed maps and plans for subsequent holdups of two other West Side banks.

The two bandits, Negroes, used a taxicab for what apparently was their first journey into bank-robbing. James remained outside the Broadway Savings Bank while Williams, armed with a sawed-off shotgun and a .45 caliber pistol, went in.

In a loud voice, Williams commanded a teller to fill a bag with money. Then he threw a smoke bomb to obscure his movements.

The bank’s assistant secretary, Walter Engker, 52, was shot in the leg when he grabbed a gun and rushed at Williams as the robber fled outside and joined his companion in the cab.

Police cornered the bandits at Eighth Ave. and 33rd St., across from the rail terminal.

Passengers Aboard Stolen Plane Were Well Treated

EDITORS: Following is a North Miami Beach man's account of the hijacking of an airliner he was riding, and his experience as a guest and sharp questioner of Castro Cubans at Havana.

By AL LANKEN
As told to The Associated Press
MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—There was steak for lunch and steak for supper. And daiquiri cocktails.

“How is the food? Everyone in Cuba eats like this,” one of our heavily armed guards told me. Then he asked, “Are you going to tell the people back in Florida about it?” I think they were trying to counteract the stories about food shortages in Cuba.

Another thing — the Cubans I talked with insisted absolutely, positively that communism does not exist in Cuba. It's socialism, they told me.

All this while Fidel Castro and a big crowd of Cubans stood in a pouring rain to welcome Yuri Gagarin, the Russian astronaut who arrived at Jose Marti Airport shortly after our hijacked Miami-to-Tampa airliner was forced to land.

At Havana we were taken out three at a time and were carried in jeeps and cars to the airport buildings where we saw men, women and kids all wearing guns.

At the airport hotel the passengers were all isolated from everyone. We got extremely courteous treatment but every request we made—even to go to a rest room—touched off a conference. They couldn't seem to give a straight answer.

I think I was the first to ask permission to make a telephone call to tell my wife, Christine, that I was OK. They turned that down. Later after I got chummy with some of the guards I received the request but after a huddle, they said no.

I'm heading out on my rounds again representing a television film distributing company. This time I'm bound for Atlanta.

Woman Spared From Chair

AUSTIN (AP) — Maggie Morgan, the Negro fortune teller convicted of masterminding the slaying of Mrs. Joseph Selby, has been spared from the electric chair.

An order from Gov. Price Daniel commuted her sentence to life imprisonment. The governor acted on a recommendation of the State Board of Pardons and Paroles.

Mrs. Morgan, 46, was convicted of masterminding the November 1959 killing of Mrs. Selby in her Houston home. A 300-pound Negro longshoreman, Clarence Collins, was convicted of firing the pistol that killed Mrs. Selby. He received a 90-year prison sentence.

A Travis County jury sentenced Joseph Selby, the slain woman's husband, to life in prison for his part in the crime. Selby allegedly hired Negroes to kill his wife.

Patra Mae Bounds, a massage parlor employe, was the state's star witness in the trials of the other three persons charged in the crime. She was given a 10-year suspended sentence.

DEAR ABBY

A Few Years Don't Matter

DEAR ABBY: I am a 63-year-old widower who is interested in marrying a lovely little gray-haired widow. She has a sparkling personality and seems to be made to order for me. Her children are married and so are mine. She never has mentioned her age. She appears to be about 55 or 56, but friends who have known her longer than I tell me she is every day of 60. Do you think it would be out of line for me to ask her how old she is?

DEAR GRAY: Don't ask her. But if she tells you, add five years and marry her anyway.

DEAR ABBY: I am a man of 44 and I am married to a woman of 38. We have been married two years and we agreed when we were married that we would wait a while before having a family. Well, I think we have waited long enough, but my wife keeps stalling. I feel it will be unfair to the children to have parents that are too old to be companions to them. Am I wrong or is she?

DEAR EDDIE: You are right and if you want “originals” you had better hurry before the factory goes out of business.

DEAR ABBY: My husband died, leaving me with two little girls. I remarried. The parents of my first husband are still the grandparents of my children. The parents of my second husband also call themselves the “grandparents” of my children. When the “real” grandparents come to visit us, I don't know how to introduce them to my “friends.” They are no longer my “in-laws,” but they ARE my children's grandparents. How do I introduce them without too much explanation?

DEAR CONFUSED: CONFUSED them as “Mother and Dad So and So—my late husband's parents—Susie's and Mary's grandparents.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CALIFORNIA: Yes, in your part of the country the children grow taller. And the marriages shorter.

Ready Epitaph

LA CHATRE, France (AP) — A French couple and their four children were burned to death Tuesday when their car crashed into a roadside memorial to 19th century novelist George Sand.

On the memorial are the words “Here starts the Black Valley.”
