Reds Got Truck, West Got Passengers

East Berlin police inspect a damaged postal truck after three young East Berliners crashed it through a barbed wire border fence and escaped into the American sector. A West Berlin policeman watches at the right. The truck straddled the border, most of it remaining in the eastern sector. The escaping youths suffered minor injuries but won freedom.

U.N. Faces Peril In Its New Session

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The prospect of an East-West clash over a new U.N. secretary-general to succeed Dag Hammarskjöld cast a shadow over the opening of the U.N. General Assembly today. Already faced with grave cold war issues, the session may be the most crucial in the United Nations' history. Within hours after Hammarskjöld's death in an African plane crash Monday, stunned delegates began casting about for a way to avoid an East-West deadlock that would paralyze the secretariat, the administrative arm of the world organization.

as candidates came from the non-aligned nations of Asia and Africa, who now hold almost a majority in the assembly. There was no indication of firm support behind any one of them. A new secretary-general must get past the threat of a Soviet veto, which the Soviets could exercise if they decide, as expected, to push their plans for reorganizing the United Nations and curbing the powers of the secretariat developed by Hammarskjöld. A new secretary-general must be nominated by the Security Council with the agreement of all five permanent members — the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and China. Then the nomination must be approved by the General Assembly.

cluding such cold war issues as Red China's admission, testing nuclear weapons and disarmament. The Berlin crisis also may come up. In the gloomy atmosphere, many delegates were heartened by the announcement that President Kennedy will address the assembly to reaffirm U.S. support for the organization in its hour of crisis. The White House said Kennedy will appear here this week or next, but Friday was the most likely date. But delegates were most concerned at the moment over the urgent question of choosing a successor for Hammarskjöld, whose term would normally have run to 1963. The Soviets are expected to press with new vigor for their bitterly disputed plan to replace the secretary-general with a three-man board. In this triumvirate would be a Communist, a Westerner and a neutral representative, each with veto power.

8-Day Pattern For Oil Flow

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Railroad Commission today set the October oil allowable at 26,682,214 barrels daily, a decrease of nearly 49,000 barrels daily from September. The commission retained the record low 8-day production pattern for the sixth straight month. October will be the 14th month in the past 18 that Texas wells have been held to the 8-day scale. Eleven of 12 major oil purchasers nominating at the commission monthly oil proration hearing recommended the 8-day pattern. John Crutchfield, representing Corpus Christi area independents, recommended the 8-day scale. However, he said if it had not been for hurricane Carla and damage to facilities on the coastal sea his group would have recommended a 9-day pattern. The 48,490 barrel daily decrease is caused mostly by October being a 31-day month, compared to 30 days in September. The companies' barrels per day recommendations and number of days desired were: Nine days—Sun Oil, 109,407; eight day—Indiana Oil Purchasing Co., 228,000;

Mobil, 217,200; Cities Service 84,000; Sinclair, 115,900; Shell, 152,500; Standard of Texas, 33,600; Humble 339,966; Texaco 182,000; Gulf, 205,000; Atlantic Refining 77,500; and Phillips, 121,600. Sun Oil said it would buy 5,000 barrels per day on an eight-day pattern and 3,000 barrels daily on nine days. Most of the companies said they would be in balance on the eight-day scale. Mobil, however, indicated it would purchase 10,000 barrels daily on the eight-day pattern. Today's monthly proration hearing was the first since July that the commission has had a full set of three members. Former Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey was sworn in as the third member Monday. Purchasers of Texas crude indicated before today's hearing that they will buy 2,457,268 barrels daily in October, a drop of 26,748 barrels per day. The decrease is caused mostly by October being a 31-day month, compared to 30 days in September. The U.S. Bureau of Mines forecast of October demand for Texas crude was 2,460,000 barrels daily. This was a decrease of 80,000 barrels per day.

Major Overhaul Program For 2 Downtown Hotels

A renovation and overhaul program, which will require six months to complete and will bring the Settles Hotel to a new and modern appearance and transform the Crawford Hotel into a downtown apartment building, was announced today by Great Plains Hotel Co. new owners and operators of the two establishments. Lloyd A. Sifford, Atlanta, Ga., a hotel consultant with a lifetime of experience in the field back of him, is here supervising the program. He is obtaining estimates from builders, painters and air conditioning men and will leave this weekend on a shopping tour of eastern and northern markets in quest of furniture for the two hotels. Sifford said that he has been retained by Bankers Life & Casualty Co., Chicago, which acquired title to the two properties and under which the Great Plains

Hotel Company is an operating company. Sifford said that he proposes to completely redecorate the Settles. The lobby will be repainted and refurbished. The restaurant on the main floor and the hotel kitchen will be redone. A complete new kitchen is to be installed. All rooms will be redecorated and overhauled and new furniture installed. Air conditioning equipment will be either replaced or repaired to insure complete and modern operation. The Settles will continue to operate while the renovation is under way. "Sam Peters, who is an excellent manager, will continue in his post; there will be few if any changes in operating personnel," said Sifford. Meantime, Sifford is setting up plans for the Crawford job at the same time he works on the Settles project. The permanent hotel tenants of the Crawford have been advised of the changes planned and offered accommodations in the Settles. They have been told that the Crawford functions as a hotel will shut down as of Oct. 15. The task of remodeling the hotel rooms into small efficiency apartments, completely refurbished and redesigned will be started about that time. Sifford pointed out that the first floor of the Crawford will not be involved by the work on the upper floors. The coffee shop, the bus station and the other first floor operations will go on as usual. Tenants who have offices in the building will not be disturbed. Sifford could make no estimate on how much money it will take to do the jobs he has in mind for the two buildings. "I have not as yet received any

Lyndon Finds Storm's Cost $500 Million

BAY CITY, Tex. (AP)—Officials from Texas coastal areas added up Hurricane Carla's bill for Vice President Lyndon Johnson and it approached $500 million. The vice president met with about 500 city and county officials in Bay City Monday during a day-long tour of the section of the coast hit by Carla. "We must roll up our sleeves and rebuild what has been destroyed," Johnson told the crowd. "As we drove through these disaster-stricken cities I was amazed at the courage of these people," he said. "I looked into their faces and saw sorrow reflected at their loss. "But I also saw determination to come back, to recover their losses and rebuild," he said. "Without the Weather Bureau, news media and Civil Defense we would have had at least 3,000 persons killed," Gov. Price Daniel said.

KILLED 30 The storm and its tornadoes killed 30 persons in Texas after it hit a week ago Monday. "The government will work with state and federal agencies to get this area back on its feet," Johnson said. "We will make a first hand report to President Kennedy and the Congress and hope to follow up with immediate action." Johnson, several Texas congressmen and a group of federal agency officials toured the area from Houston to Corpus Christi by helicopter and bus. Johnson talked with some victims of the storm, including Robert Dunn, 15, the lone survivor of two related families whose 11 other members drowned near Freeport. "Keep your chin up," Johnson told the boy. "You have been a brave lad."

Johnson's caravan drew only casual notice in Texas City and the other stricken cities. Most of the people went right on clearing the rubble of their homes. "It is bad," Mrs. Armstrong said. "But we are counting our blessings. It could be worse." The ceiling and walls of the Armstrong home hang in strips because of Carla's waters. Johnson said he thinks the Palacios area was hardest hit by the storm. From Bay City Johnson made an inspection of Port O'Connor, Port Lavaca, and Port Aransas before moving down the coast to Corpus Christi. He returned to Washington Monday night. Damage estimates range up to Galveston's $269 million. Over two-thirds of the homes in the county were under water at the time of the storm.

CLEANING HOME Arthur Armstrong, a chemical worker in Freeport, was visited by the vice president as Armstrong tried to clean his once-flooded home. "It is bad," Mrs. Armstrong said. "But we are counting our blessings. It could be worse." The ceiling and walls of the Armstrong home hang in strips because of Carla's waters. Johnson said he thinks the Palacios area was hardest hit by the storm. From Bay City Johnson made an inspection of Port O'Connor, Port Lavaca, and Port Aransas before moving down the coast to Corpus Christi. He returned to Washington Monday night. Damage estimates range up to Galveston's $269 million. Over two-thirds of the homes in the county were under water at the time of the storm.

Storm Relief Fund To $840

Some more gifts today sent the Red Cross storm relief fund to $840. Latest to help in this great humanitarian task are: Dave Duncan $100, Preach Martin $10, Christopher Class of the First Christian Church $10, Companion Class of the First Baptist Church $10. The local chapter of the Red Cross has been assigned a quota of $3,960, but has not made an organized campaign. It continues to invite gifts from those who would like to help in the rehabilitation of the hurricane victims. Checks made to the Red Cross may be sent either to Box 626 or to The Herald.

Local Guard Unit Is Called To Duty

WORD SPREAD FAST

Big Spring, C-City Men Will Have About 30 Days

The word spread fast. Almost all of the 81 men in Battery A of the 3rd Rocket Howitzer Battalion, 132nd Artillery of the 4th Armored Division knew this morning that they would soon be called to active duty. These are National Guardsmen living in Big Spring and Colorado City. Capt. Dewite Stevenson, commanding officer of the local unit, said this morning that he is waiting for official orders. "Motions are probably about 30 days away," he said. "Some of our men will probably go on active duty in advance of the regular unit. Sergeants may be sent to a training school."

Recruiting for the local Battery has been halted, Capt. Stevenson, reported Monday. "We filed a list of our needs to gain full strength with the Adjutant General's Department in Austin," he said, "and are awaiting word on what to do." Ready reservists of other units may be assigned to the Battery to bring it up to strength, Stevenson said. "It's what is called a 'hip-pocket' deal whereby we will have men to give us full strength taken from the ready reserve lists of National Guard units not being put on the priority list," he said. "These men would not drill with us, but would continue with their own units until the 49th is called up. They would then join us for whatever training necessary to fill our assignment. We are not taking any one who has not had basic training because we do not offer that." Stevenson said he would not know what assignments to the Big Spring unit would be made until the Adjutant General's office notified him. A survey of ready reserves in other units would have to be made before assignments to particular units are made. "We are holding two Sunday and two Tuesday night drills each month now," Stevenson said. "The two Sunday drills include one extra day. The Tuesday night drills are for two hours each." The regular annual federal inspection of Battery A was scheduled for Oct. 13, by a regular Army officer.

Departure Is Effective On Oct. 15

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Army National Guard divisions and 249 Army reserve and guard supporting units were called to active duty today effective Oct. 15. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced the action, affecting 73,000 officers and enlisted men, at a news conference. The guard divisions are the 32nd Infantry of Wisconsin and the 49th Armored of Texas. The Big Spring National Guard unit, Battery A of the 3rd Rocket Howitzer Battalion of the 132nd Artillery, is a part of the 49th Armored. The local commander said 81 Big Spring and Colorado City men are affected by the announcement.

McNamara noted that the addition of these units to active forces will give the United States 10 combat ready divisions in this country by the latter part of this year. "These divisions will be available as part of our strategic reserve for movement to any part of the world, including Europe," McNamara said. The 73,000 men affected by the new callup bring to 151,500 the number of reservists and guardsmen ordered into uniform under this country's military buildup in the mounting Berlin crisis. All told, President Kennedy has received authorization from Congress, to call up to 250,000 men for as much as a year of service. McNamara noted that two other National Guard divisions, the 26th Infantry of Massachusetts and the 28th Infantry of Pennsylvania have been placed on priority status.

He said developments in the world would determine whether the 26th and the 28th would be called at a later date. If conditions improve, he said, the Wisconsin and Texas guard divisions may be released from duty in less than 12 months. The secretary said "no decision has been made to send any divisions to Europe." Call-up of the Wisconsin and Texas divisions will raise Army strength to 16 divisions. In addition, there are three combat-ready Marine divisions. The federalization of the two National Guard units appears to set the stage for possible movement to Germany of two—and

Mass Evacuation In Hurricane's Path

CAPE HATTERAS, N.C. (AP)—Hurricane Esther churned toward the North Carolina coast today, triggering the start of a mass evacuation from dangerous low-lying areas. The whirling giant carried winds up to 150 miles per hour. "Safety precautions should be started now," the Weather Bureau warned. "Some escape routes will become flooded as waters rise today and tonight."

Hurricane warnings were raised this morning from Cherry Point, N.C., northward to the Virginia Capes. Gale force winds were forecast for that portion of the coast and were forecast to increase to hurricane strength—75 miles per hour. Gale warnings were extended northward from the Virginia Capes to Cape May, N.J., and over the south half of Chesapeake Bay. Hurricane watch continues northward from Myrtle Beach, S.C., to Cherry Point and from the Virginia Capes to Cape May.

such destructive giants as Hurricane Hazel which moved in over eastern North Carolina in 1954 and caused $750 million damage. Hurricanes Connie, Diane and Ione passed through the area in 1955, followed by Helene in 1958 and Gracie in 1959, all of which caused property losses in the millions of dollars. STORM SEEDED Small portions of Hurricane Esther were seeded with silver iodide during the weekend when she passed near Puerto Rico but Weather Bureau scientists reported no apparent effects on movement or intensity of the storm. Robert Simpson, deputy director of meteorological research for the Washington Weather Bureau, called it a "preliminary type of test."

TOWARD COAST At 8 a.m., the Weather Bureau said the big storm was 335 statute miles southeast of Cape Hatteras and bearing toward the coast at 14 miles an hour. Rising tides and seas already were buffeting this coast line, known as the graveyard of the Atlantic. But the Weather Bureau said the northwesterly curve of the storm could carry the eye, or center of the storm, just off the coast. Coastal residents, veterans of many a big blow, worked throughout the night, moving house trailers to higher ground at Morehead City, about 75 miles from Cape Hatteras. Tides were running up to three feet above normal and the ocean was rough with heavy swells. The Coast Guard said the swells have existed for "two or three days," possibly caused by earlier hurricanes.

BIBLE FUND AT ITS GOAL For all practical purposes, the Bible Class Fund had reached its requirement today, with another day of heavy contributions. REPLACES DAG New Negotiator In Katanga Talks The plane may have been shot down was groundless. The possibility of sabotage or armed attack had drawn banner headlines in Rhodesian newspapers. The lone survivor, Harry Julien, an American U.N. security guard, was quoted as saying a series of explosions shook the four-engine DC8B before it plunged into a forest reserve north of town and burned. Seasoned pilots who viewed the fire-blackened wreckage agreed with Matlick. They said it looked like typical results of a crash caused in a landing approach by loss of power or faulty instruments. A Ndola hospital spokesman said the survivor is as comfortable as could be expected, adding: "He still is very ill and is under heavy sedation. He has not spoken since he was brought here." Col. Maurice Barber, civil aviation director of the British-run Central African Federation, heads the inquiry into the crash. The U.N. intelligence work is directed by Col. Bjorn Egge, a Norwegian. Owners of the plane, the Swedish Air Co., said in Leopoldville the plane might have been shot down by a jet fighter from rebellious Katanga's tiny air force. A U.N. spokesman said neither gunfire nor sabotage could be ruled out. British and Rhodesian authorities launched an investigation. As the bodies of Hammarskjöld and the other victims were brought to the Ndola hospital mortuary, the world's uneasy capitals worried about the effect of his death on the United Nations.

EVACUATED Two Texas towers off the New England coast were evacuated. The towers are radar stations that form part of the U.S.-Canadian defense warning system. The towers are on shoals 80 to 100 miles offshore. A spokesman for the air defense sector said he did not know how many men were evacuated. A similar tower off the New Jersey coast collapsed during a storm last January with a loss of 28 lives. If the storm should strike the North Carolina coast, as its present path indicated, it would follow

Relief Help Still Arriving

Donations continue to arrive at the local Salvation Army Post, but not in great quantities as when the relief campaign was at its height. So far more than three van loads have been collected to aid persons in distress following Hurricane Carla.

A partial load will be taken to San Antonio today by Mitchell Van and Storage. There is not enough for another load, according to Mrs. (Mrs.) Robert L. Short.

Clerics Are Free On Bond

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Thirteen of the 15 Episcopal clergymen jailed on breach of peace-degregation convictions were released on $500 bond today.

The Rev. Robert L. Pierson of New York, son-in-law of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, read a statement on the sidewalk in front of the city jail.

Pierson, 33, said the clergymen were arrested because they "have been engaged in a pilgrimage of prayer to testify to the nature of the Christian church. We cannot submit to the immoral laws which demand that we separate racially."

The Rev. V. Powell Woodward of Cincinnati read a statement appealing "to the United States Supreme Court, if necessary, to obtain justice."

Referring to City Judge James Spencer's comments that they violated Episcopal Church law as well as city law, Woodward said, "We do not believe that Judge James Spencer is competent to find us guilty of violating Episcopal Church law. His venture into canon law obscured the criminal issue."

'Music Man' Composer Has Song Aimed At Fatty Youth

WASHINGTON (AP)—If President Kennedy's youth fitness experts have their way, the nation's school children will soon be working off "chicken fat" to a tune composed by Meredith Willson, author of "The Music Man."

Until recently, about the most strenuous exercise Willson ever took was blowing the flute. But he has suddenly become a physical fitness fiend and has composed words and music to go with a set of calisthenics.

A sample of the ballad: "Touch down ev'ry morning. Not just now and then. Give that chicken fat back to the chicken. And don't be chicken again. No, don't be chicken again."

"Touch down" in the song signifies touching one's toes. As the song progresses the victims also must do push-ups and other exercises. The whole thing lasts 6 1/2 minutes and anybody who can finish without puffing is in good shape.

The government hasn't any money to put the recordings in the nation's schools. But it figures that if some civic group or other angel will come forward with $30,000 the job can be done. Willson isn't charging a nickel for his labors.

It all came about when Bill Whitman, publicity man working gratis for the Physical Fitness Council, approached Willson with the idea that he compose a song. Filled with patriotic zeal, Willson practically had the thing finished before he got back to the office.

But there were some bugs. For example, the first version called for 40 quick pushups, which might kill anybody except a professional strong man.

So Willson got together with Ted Forbes of the Physical Fitness Council. For a solid 10 hours Willson polished up the music, and lyric, while Forbes did the exercises. At the end Forbes was so beat his hands shook and he couldn't eat dinner.

Willson then took to doing the exercises himself, and is reported to be slimmer than he was.

He and Charles B. (Bud) Wilkinson, University of Oklahoma football coach and President Kennedy's chief adviser on youth fitness, have become fast friends, though they never have met. Willson, while in the throes of creation, kept calling Wilkinson long distance from Los Angeles and playing the opus to him.

Wermuth, 46, a Republican, said, "there are definite political overtones to this entire (Jefferson County) grand jury investigation."

Wermuth is charged with illegally obtaining $3,673 in county funds over a two-year period. He posted a $4,000 bond.

Wermuth was credited with killing 100 Japanese soldiers early in World War II. He was captured and spent three years in a Japanese prison.

A woman in the ground fell before reaching the ground and was taken to a hospital.

In another daring escape reported by police, two East Berliners crossed the barbed wire fences Monday in a storm of bullets from submachine guns of Communist police.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Bill Merry, 32, a copy editor with the Montgomery Advertiser, was in critical condition in a hospital Monday after accidentally shooting himself.

Merry, a native of Amarillo, Tex., and a former wire editor of the Temple (Tex.) Daily Telegram, was shot while showing a pistol to a friend Sunday.

He underwent brain surgery for removal of a .45 caliber bullet.

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel has moved the execution date of Joe Cephas Singleton from Oct. 8 to Oct. 23 to permit him to file application for a writ of certiorari with the United States Supreme Court.

County Hires Burns For ROW Cases

Wayne Burns, county attorney, has been employed by the county commissioners to represent the county and the state in appeal hearings on US 87 right of way valuations. It was announced Tuesday.

Burns will be paid $250 per case in the appeals. There are seven appeal cases pending.

Ed Carpenter, county judge, said L. J. Davidson moved that Burns be employed and that the motion was seconded by Rufus Stallings. The motion carried unanimously.

Burns, as county attorney, has no official obligation to represent the county in such matters unless specially employed to do so. The state, unhappy with the findings of a special appraisers commission on land needed for right of way on US 87, has ordered all findings appealed.

The cases have finally been officially filed in the county court. They will be tried before juries and the jurors will decide if the appraisers allowance was equitable or not.

No date for the trial of the cases has been set.

The county is acquiring the right of way for the state but it is understood the state will ultimately repay the county half of the costs.

Bold Reds Raid Provincial Capital In South Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, (AP)—In their boldest stroke of South Viet Nam's civil war, Communist rebels attacked and burned the capital of Phuoc Thanh Province, the government said today.

The daring raid, the first on any provincial capital, was staged early Monday on the capital, Phuoc Vinh, the government said. The city is only 60 miles north of this capital.

The Communist Viet Cong raiders held the town for several hours in predawn darkness, burning and ransacking several provincial buildings. One source estimated 1,500 guerrillas took part in the attack. The government said the raiders attacked to liberate rebel prisoners.

It marked a new height in violence in the areas north of Saigon where the rebels are believed to be building strength.

Military sources said there were only 70 Civil Guardsmen in the provincial capital when the attack came. The commander, a major, his deputy, and a number of others were killed. About 50 wounded were brought to hospitals in Saigon.

The change of cities was announced Monday by Col. Earl C. Dunn, of Corpus Christi, association president.

The dates for the meeting are Nov. 4, 5.

Impact Votes Wet

IMPACT, Tex. (AP)—The small city of Impact, near Abilene, may become the first place in Taylor County permitting the legal sale of beer and liquor.

Impact voted Monday 18 to 2 to permit the sale of liquor and beer for off premises consumption.

Taylor County Judge Reed Ingalsbe said Monday night he would call a special session of the county commissioners Sept. 28 to canvass the votes.

Following the canvass, if the vote is ruled to be favorable, applications for liquor licenses may be filed with Ingalsbe.

The city of Impact—with about 200 residents—was formed this summer.

A hearing to test the legality of the incorporation, requested by Atty. Gen. Will Wilson, will be held Oct. 9.

Ladybird Urges TV Fight Evils

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson told the New York chapter of American Women in Radio and Television Monday night that its industry should be used "to fight the overlapping statistics of ignorance and poverty."

The vice president's wife owns stations KTBC and KTCB-TV in Austin, Tex.

The electronic media "could be the most constructive catalyst for turning the tide against illiteracy and disease," Mrs. Johnson said. "The foresight and ingenuity of private industry" is needed in addition to a government program.

"The quickest answer to those three words—poverty, disease and illiteracy—may lie in our very media and may lie in your very hands," Mrs. Johnson said.

Labor Law Reforms Sought
MEXICO CITY (AP)—The Mexican Confederation of Workers was reported Monday to be mapping a drive to swing labor law reforms during this session of Congress.

Topping the list is a hike in the federal minimum wage law from the present 14.50 pesos (1.16 dollars) a day to 24.65 pesos (1.97 dollars).

The reforms sought by the confederation also would bring more government control over union-management relations, such as establishment of a government-Union-Management Board to set wages and working conditions.

Also among the confederation's aims is revocation of the government ban on a union for bank employees.

ROUND TOWN

With LUCILLE PICKLE

Pouring over the papers from east to west we find a variety of advertising for women's wear all the way from hats to slippers and what we see is not too different than what merchants show in Our Town.

For instance, in San Francisco one of the most striking ads shows a fiery sheath of sequins for dinner and other after dark affairs — also a jersey street length frock topped with a sequin jacket. A display of jewelry features sparkling, lacy looking pins and neck pieces as well as the long strands of aurora borealis. Six strands of cultured pearls and matching rings and ear clips are also shown.

In San Francisco the ladies are getting ready to entertain at the fall functions and, of course, they are going to use fresh flowers in attractive wicker bird cages and large flat baskets with beautiful handles.

Across the nation in Milwaukee, Wis., stores are showing tone on tone shoes and cotton knits, two pieces or plain cotton dresses with knit sweaters. Another handsome offering was a jersey dress topped with a hem length tweed coat with fur trim. The dress has just a touch of tweed at the waistline. For the glamorous evening one shop shows sleek black satin pumps with ornate rhinestone buckles.

For the cold winters in Louisville, Ky., one shop displays a good looking cotton suede coat that is guaranteed to turn back the cold. . . Most of the suits are fur trimmed and the women in Louisville evidently go in for slim pants and slim skirts with pullover sweaters and cardigan types. . . The Kentuckians are now in the midst of their state fairs and, as is true everywhere a fair is in session, there are groups of kindergarten children and Girl Scouts.

Back across to Los Angeles the buyers have supplied the swank shops with sports wear from Europe which are featuring beautiful combinations of yarns. . . these fashions are also favoring the tapered pants and slim skirts with the brightest colors in loose fitting tops and pullovers. . . Los Angeles is going heavy on dazzling white hats and they are in every shape and size imaginable. . . the footwear ads show some dress shoes with bobbed off toes but the trend here is mostly to flats. . . anyway, they don't show much that our merchants are not offering.

MARTHA JANE is the name of the fourth daughter born to DR. and MRS. GLEN ALLEN on Saturday. The family now has four girls and one boy.

MR. and MRS. W. F. TAYLOR got a big thrill Friday night when they were in O'Donnell to see their grandson, FENN, son of the Wayland Taylors, play football. The Taylors also visited Mr. Taylor's brother and sister-in-law, MR. and MRS. R. A. TAYLOR, who live near O'Donnell.

First Day On Duty

Rev. Max Maguire, new chaplain at the Big Spring State Hospital, assumed duties Monday.

New Chaplain At State Hospital

The Rev. Max Maguire Monday assumed duties as the new chaplain at the Big Spring State Hospital.

He replaces Chaplain Marvin Berkeland, who left Feb. 14 to be director of chaplaincy service for the Lutheran Welfare Society at Des Moines, Iowa.

Rev. Maguire came here from Richmond, Va., where he had just finished his supervisory training in chaplaincy at the Medical College of Virginia.

He had one year of clinical pastoral training at Topeka State Hospital. At the same time he was acting as pastor of a rural parish near the Kansas city.

While in the seminary at San Francisco, Rev. Maguire worked as an intern chaplain at San Quentin Prison for one year.

"I became interested in chaplaincy in 1954," he said. "There is a tremendous need in that field and I felt that was the area I wanted to pursue in ministry."

Rev. Maguire surveyed his office, still cluttered with books and supplies which needed unpacking, and noted that it would be a while before the office would be in the right order.

"But everything else here is in good order," he observed. "Rev. Donald Hungerford did an excellent job while there was no permanent chaplain here."

Rev. Hungerford, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, served as chaplain during the interim between leaving of Chaplain Berkeland and the arrival of Rev. Maguire.

Rev. Maguire was born June 12, 1926 at Dwight, Kan. He has lived most of his life in Kansas.

Webb Troop Honors McRee

Scout Troop 146 at Webb Air Force Base had a night of awards and festivities including a birthday celebration and a pot luck supper.

Bill McRee, scout executive, was honored with a birthday party after he made a short talk. Col. Leonard Einstein gave a short message urging parents to participate in scout activities.

Mrs. Wilson H. Banks greeted the boys on behalf of Col. Banks, Webb commander, who was unable to attend.

Installed as Tenderfeet were Gary Kappas, Jerry Ramey, Gregory Willis and Michael Gary. Receiving first class awards were John Davis, Tom Virent and Brian Smith.

The pot luck supper was prepared by Mrs. Walter Jessup, Mrs. Avery Willis and Mrs. Harold W. Clark.

Next month the troop will go to the Concho River at San Angelo Oct. 22-24.

Tickets for the Big Spring Concert Association series are going rapidly, and patrons are urged to place orders as soon as possible.

This was the report Monday by Helen Hurt, membership chairman. A big effort is planned for the next two weeks to close out ticket sales for the four planned programs this season.

"We still have some tickets available," Miss Hurt said, "but we expect them to move rapidly."

The first program of the series will be in city auditorium Oct. 7. Tickets may be purchased at Zack's, Cosden Petroleum Corp., First National Bank, and the Herald office.

Good Government, Birth Rate Action Urged By Official

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—George W. Ball, U.S. undersecretary of state for economic affairs, said today countries receiving economic aid must plan their development with an eye toward good government and the birth rate.

Ball, speaking to the board of governors of the World Bank, said that "We must face up to the uncomfortable fact that economic development will have to be accompanied by other political, social, cultural and economic processes."

Glickman, Brown Are Cited For Chamber Member Records

Two members of the Contact Club, the membership relations arm of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, have received credit for a total of 100 new members enlisted in less than three months, entitling them to lifetime memberships in the Chamber.

Oscar Glickman, operator of the Record Shop, and Jeff L. Brown, Cosden, have each sold 50 memberships during the brief period of the club has existed, Davidson said.

The club seeks to stimulate interest in the community through work with the Chamber of Commerce. Members urge business men to join in building the community by serving on one or more of the chamber committees.

It will act as the official host of Big Spring. To qualify for this capacity of official host members must sell five new memberships in the Chamber and one each month thereafter and a plaque for their place of business.

"These contact club members have done a tremendous job. They have sold more than 200 memberships during the brief period of the club has existed," Davidson said.

Doubled-Barreled Congratulations

J. O. Daifson, president of the Contact Club, congratulates the two members who have earned lifetime memberships in the Chamber of Commerce by selling 50 new memberships each since July 1. Oscar Glickman, right, won the race between himself and Jeff Brown by turning in number 50 Friday. Brown did it Saturday. The Contact Club is the membership relations branch of the Chamber and seeks to interest local businessmen and other citizens in the advancement of their city by cooperative work through the Chamber.

Killing Called Affair Of Honor

WINCHESTER, Ind. (AP)—Tom Cisneros, 31, of Floresville, Tex., was held in jail today in the slaying of a Mexican laborer in what was described as "an affair of honor."

Prosecutor Zane E. Stohler said Cisneros, the chief of a tomato picking crew, admitted shooting Jose Calvo, 50, Rio Bravo, Mex., Saturday night in an argument over a young woman.

The prosecutor said Calvo's stepdaughter, Marie Louisa, 17, went away for two days with Cisneros's younger brother, Jesse, 19.

Calvo felt disgraced, Stohler said, and demanded that the gang boss arrange a marriage between the young couple. When Cisneros failed to do it, the Mexican came to see him at the tomato pickers' camp on the edge of nearby Lynn.

Stohler said Cisneros told him he was afraid of Calvo, although the latter was unarmed. He said Cisneros stepped into his cabin, got a pistol and killed Calvo with two shots.

Acreage Hike Can Avoid Supply Loss

MEMPHIS — The supply situation facing cotton today contains all the elements that led to vast market losses, and a threat to American security, during and after the Korean War, the president of the National Cotton Council warned today.

J. Clyde Wilson, Phoenix, said this points to an acreage increase next year over that established for 1961 in order to avoid the threat of a shortage of American cotton. He said a committee of the council is meeting with the Secretary of Agriculture on Thursday to review the problem. The secretary is required by law to set the national acreage allotment by Oct. 15.

In a letter this week to the council's delegate membership, Wilson said:

The carry-over of old crop upland cotton was down to 6.8 million bales Aug. 1, and official estimates of the U. S. Department of Agriculture indicate a further reduction this season. Foreign stocks, in relation to business volume, are around the low point for the entire postwar period and contain nothing to offset a war threat. The USDA's estimates for the current season, indicating only a modest reduction in the carry-over by next Aug. 1, are relying on an export figure of only 5.75 million bales. There are indications of a higher export volume.

If the national acreage allotment should turn out to be inadequate, a rush of export orders to build up foreign stocks could be expected. This could exhaust stocks and bring on export limitations, with soaring world prices to foreign suppliers.

Ignores Warning

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP)—An apparently overweight burglar did not heed a diet warning in a cafe break-in recently. Police said the intruder broke one window, found it too small for entrance, got in by breaking a larger side window. Then the burglar made himself some sandwiches before leaving, officers said.

Safety First Is Her Motto

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP)—Safety first is the motto of 10-year-old Elizabeth Ann Cooke of Charlotte. And, thanks to her letter, it also is the motto of a Charlotte television station.

She wrote the station "you are not being very helpful" in teaching safety to viewers. She said she objected to a brief commercial plugging the station's news programs which showed, among other things, a burning cigarette and an open package of matches.

For safety's sake, Miss Cooke wrote the station, "put the cigarette in an ashtray and shut up the matches." The station said it had done more than that—it had discarded the slide entirely.

Reds Cripple U.N.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson worked urgently behind the scenes today to keep the United Nations from being paralyzed by the Soviet Union on appointment of a successor to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld.

Rusk was due to hold his first meeting here with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko this afternoon when the U.N. General Assembly begins its annual session. He wanted to talk with Gromyko about the crisis created by Hammarskjöld's death as well as the Berlin crisis, which they have agreed to discuss.

Western diplomats saw little chance the Soviet government would agree to work with Allied and neutral nations in choosing a new secretary-general speedily. Conversations are therefore under way, they reported, to find some means of assembly action to temporarily bypass the veto power which the Soviet Union can use in the Security Council to block any new appointment.

In the view of Rusk and other Western leaders here the situation is little short of desperate. Without an administrative head the secretariat, which is the action arm of the world organization, cannot function effectively much longer. This is particularly true in the strife-torn Congo, where a breakdown of U.N. authority would probably result in civil war in which the great powers might become engaged.

Disorganization of the U.N. machinery is assumed by U.S. leaders to be Moscow's goal. They are deeply worried about the worldwide dangers of a prolonged dispute over the issue.

Under the U.N. charter, a new secretary-general must be chosen by the General Assembly upon the recommendation of the Security Council. Like the other big powers, the Soviet Union has a veto in the Security Council. It opposes a single secretary-general. A year ago Premier Khrushchev personally led a fight to replace Hammarskjöld with a three-man board.

A few hours after news of Hammarskjöld's death reached here Monday Khrushchev's deputy foreign minister Valerian Zorin, gave clear indication that the policy has not changed. At an informal meeting of the Security Council Zorin objected strenuously to describing Hammarskjöld in a public statement on his death as "secretary-general."

Astonished members of the council, including Stevenson, assailed Zorin's stand and he finally modified his objection. But the statement as issued contained a sentence at the end noting the Soviet reservation about any reference to Hammarskjöld as secretary-general.

It may turn out that Khrushchev will try to lump his demands for reorganization of the United Nations with his demands on the Western Allies in the Berlin crisis, backing both with his nuclear weapons power.

Rusk and Stevenson decided, however, that they should try to devise some means of protecting the United Nations as much as possible against the damage of a prolonged battle over Hammarskjöld's successor. In consultation with leaders of other friendly delegations they encouraged the idea that the power to act urgently could be found in the General Assembly where the veto does not exist.

Diplomats familiar with this developing plan said the objective would not be to name an acting secretary-general but rather to set up a caretaker administration under an official empowered to carry out the directives of the Security Council and the assembly until a secretary-general can be named.

Cub Scout Den
Organizes With 7 New Members

Cub Scout Den 6, Pack 14, was organized at the home of its Den Mother, Mrs. Bluford Turner, Monday afternoon. Seven and eight-year-old boys and their parents were present. The new members are David Humphrey, Gene Tuckness, Jerry Rosh, Jeff Mitchell, Steven Lawellen, David Kohane, and Jarrell Carroll.

The group played games and sang songs. Each paid his dues to the Den Mother. Denner and assistant denner chosen were Jarrell Carroll and David Humphrey. The Den Mother gave each new Cub the five rules for becoming a Bobcat, and explained them. A theme of "Harvest Fair" was planned for the September meeting. Monday was set as the regular meeting day, at 7:30 p.m., at the home of the Den Mother at 606 E. 15th. The Pack meeting, which will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 28, at the high school cafeteria, was discussed.

Refreshments of cookies, Cokes and coffee were served to the seven new Cubs and their parents, and the meeting ended with the Cub Scout song, "The More We Get Together," and a prayer by Jeff Mitchell.

To Honor Teachers

The Park Hill P-TA will honor teachers during its meeting slated today at 7:30 p.m. Dr. R. Gage Lloyd will give a tribute, followed by a reception. A short business meeting is also set.

Killed

United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld, killed in an air crash near Ndola, North Rhodesia, is shown leaving Paris for Elisabethville during a previous Congo visit. Hammarskjöld had been on a flight from Leopoldville to Ndola at the time of the crash.

Board Denies Racism Continues

HOUSTON (AP)—The Houston School Board denies that board regulations are continuing segregation in Houston's schools despite a federal court integration order. The denial—filed in a federal court Monday—is an answer to a petition filed on behalf of 12 Negro children Sept. 8.

The Negro petition said school board regulations about medical examinations, transfers and forcing children in a family to attend the same school violate the integration order.

Federal Judge Ben C. Connally, who made the original order, has the case under advisement.

Dodgers Fall Farther Behind In Loop Race

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer

overtake the Reds, the Dodgers had their latest win string broken at four games Monday night when sixth-inning home runs by former teammates Don Zimmer and George Altman gave the Chicago Cubs a 5-3 victory.

It was a critical loss for the Dodgers, three down in the lost column with only 11 games to play, and reduced the idle Reds' magic number to seven to clinch their first pennant since 1940.

Rog Maris Faces Rough Challenge In O's Park

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer

Rog Maris, held to a pair of singles in 18 official efforts at Baltimore's Memorial Stadium must accomplish an amazing flip-flop and tag two home runs in three games at the Orioles' home park to tie Babe Ruth's home run record.

walls, a Baltimore pitching staff that has allowed Maris only one home run all season and the distinct possibility of a visit from Hurricane Esther all bar Roger's way to the Bambino's 34-year-old record.

DANGER FLAGS FLYING

Snyder Will Be A Worthy Foe

R. C. Moore, the Big Spring coaching aide who was saddled with the job of scouting Snyder for the Big Spring Steers, labeled the Tigers as "the most improved ball club in a week's time" he'd seen in a long, long time.

who missed Big Spring's game against Plainview, was in uniform Monday but wasn't able to run at full speed. He may play Friday night but the coaches would rather save him until he's completely well.

R. C. MOORE

Snyder plays host to Big Spring Friday night in an 8 o'clock game. The Steers will be returning to competition after a layoff of a week.

Snyder, coached by one-time Big Springer Horrace Bostick, has now lost two straight games—to Berger, 22-0, and Andrews, 12-8—but Moore said the losses reflected in no way the excellence of the team.

Moore reminded that Berger is a state-ranked ball club in Class AAAA circles. In the game with Andrews, Moore stated, the better team definitely didn't win.

The Tigers, according to the scout, boast good size, especially in the line, and probably are one of the quickest teams they will face all season.

Along the line, the Bengals have three players who weigh less than 180 pounds. The others vary in weight from 189 to 200. (They'll outweigh the Steers considerably up front).

mark in a two-night doubleheader tonight, then winds it up in a night game Wednesday under the 154-decision allotment decreed by Commissioner Ford Frick.

The Orioles' mound corps and the Stadium's distant home run territory have combined to limit opposing sluggers to only 42 homers in 75 games, and have completely contained Maris. His lone homer, off Chuck Estrada, came at Yankee Stadium May 21.

Hurricane Esther, meanwhile, has picked up speed and threatens to jumble the schedule in the final drive for No. 60.

The two-nighter, in which Maris will face left-hander Steve Barber (16-11) and right-hander Skinny Brown (10-4), plus Wednesday and Thursday night games closes out the New York Yankees' schedule at Baltimore and takes them to Boston, also in the path of the crushing hurricane.

Barber, with seven shutouts this year, and Brown have allowed only 12 homers each this season. Right-hander Mill Pappas (12-8), slated to start Game No. 3 for the Orioles, has permitted only 13 go-pber balls.

Whitey Ford (24-3) and Bud Daley (11-17) will go for New York in the two-nighter, with the Yankees 10½ games ahead of the second-place Detroit Tigers.

Any combination of two New York victories or Detroit defeats will give the Yankees their 20th pennant.

Prairie View is the home football schedule Saturday, meeting Jackson State in a Southwestern Conference game.

Prairie View tied for the championship last year.

Prairie View already has played a game this season. Last Saturday the Panthers and Tennessee State battled to a 2-21 tie at Nashville.

Game Officials To Discuss Rules At Meeting Of QBC

A group of game officials, headed by Pete Cook, will meet with members of the Big Spring Quarterback Club at the high school cafeteria this evening to discuss rules.

The conclave starts at 7:30 p.m. Game officials are invariably exasperated during and after a game by fans who have either backed the wrong team or who are in the dark about rule interpretations or both.

Since football rules get more complex all the time, co-captains of the Quarterback Club think it is an appropriate time to have a panel of arbiters bring the fans up to date, as well as they can in the allotted time, on the statutes governing the game.

An added treat for those attending will be the screening of color films of the 1960 Southwest

Erdelatz Gets His Notice

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Eddie Erdelatz, the only football name the Oakland Raiders had when they started last year, no longer has a job with the American Football League club.

After his team lost 55-0 and 44-0 to Houston and San Diego in the league openers, Eddie drew his walking papers from the Raider owners. His assistant, Marty Feldman, was named to succeed him.

Last year Erdelatz, a winning coach at Navy, moulded a team that was termed "a bunch of guys named Joe," and finished better than three other clubs. Since Oakland was the last club formed and missed the draft meeting last year, not much was expected of it.

This year the Raiders have won only once—losing three exhibition games. The Raiders meet Dallas, another powerful club, this Sunday.

Erdelatz resigned from the Naval Academy football job in 1958 after nine successful seasons and a disagreement with officials there. Last year he was named Oakland coach at a time they had no players. His club won six and lost eight in the inaugural season.

When Feldman accepted the head coaching job he said, "I feel the club is absolutely salvageable, despite two major setbacks in two weeks. It's too late to make any major changes in personnel now. We'll go with what we have and try to jell it into a representative ball club."

Louisville Nears Win In Playoffs

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The Louisville Colonels and the Houston Buffs will rest today before re-opening the best-of-seven American Association playoff series Wednesday night at Houston.

Louisville leads the playoff finals 3-0 and needs only one more win to take the series and earn a berth in the Junior World Series against the winner of the International League playoffs.

The Colonels, last year's Junior World Series champs, put down a Houston rally in the ninth inning Monday night to edge the Buffs 4-3.

Bears Won't Neglect Their Running Game

By The Associated Press

Coach John Bridgers of Baylor likes to pass and does pass more than any other team in the Southwest Conference but he's not willing to go hog wild about it. He says you have to have good running, too, if you're going to

It left much to be desired, he commented, as he drilled the Bears' long and hard Monday to get his running offense in shape for the game with Wake Forest Saturday night.

Coach Jim Myers of Texas A&M wasn't so much concerned with passing as the ability of his team to stop passes thrown by the opposition.

He discovered in Monday's drill that his quarterbacks, Jim Keller, Ronnie Brice and John Erickson, were quite sharp at throwing the ball but the defense against passing "was ragged."

The Aggies drilled for two hours against Houston offenses and defenses in preparation for Saturday night's game.

Coach Abe Martin of Texas Christian thought he would have to click well on passing in order to beat anybody this season. And he feared the umbrella defense Kansas will be throwing at his Horned Frogs Saturday night.

Rice coach Jess Neely indicated he was all set for the Louisiana State invasion. He made one change Monday—he moved sophomore Johnny Nichols up to first team guard in place of Walter Ligon.

Southern Methodist coach Bill Meek was glad to note that he probably would be at full strength Saturday when his team meets Maryland.

Only Mike Rice, the fullback, was still nursing injuries and he was expected to be all right by game time.

Coach Frank Broyles of Arkansas was worrying about the condition of his quarterbacks as the season opened with Mississippi neared. George McKinney was still weak from a bout with festinal flu and second team quarterback Billy Moore had a swollen knee.

Texas prepared for a trip to Berkeley to play California Saturday. The Longhorns will work out at home through Thursday.

Sophomore quarterback Duke Carlisle still hadn't recovered from a sprained ankle, but coach Darrell Royal said he thought he would be ready by game time.

Texas Tech named its team captains for the opener with Mississippi State, Center Charles Harrison and tackle Larry Mullins will head the first unit.

Open On Oct. 11

MONTREAL (AP)—The National Hockey League today released its schedule for the 1961-62 season. The 70-game season opens Oct. 11 and closes March 25.

Bill Orweg, athletic director at the University of Indiana: "You can't have a winning program without freshmen who are capable of becoming seniors. It takes seniors to win in the Big Ten, and you don't get to be a senior by flunking out as a sophomore or junior. Indiana has lost so many promising athletes through academic deficiencies in recent seasons that we are now scouting honor rolls as closely as all-state rosters in marking boys for athletic scholarships."

Alworth Gets Final Shot At Ole Miss On Saturday

By WICK TEMPLE

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Lance Alworth, who may be the finest halfback Arkansas ever had, gets his last chance at an old foe Saturday when the Razorbacks tackle Mississippi in Jackson.

Alworth was signed to a Mississippi football scholarship when he graduated from Brookhaven, Miss., High School. But the Rebels dropped him when he married.

Then he came to Arkansas, and it's been uphill ever since for the 180-pound triple-threat.

"I don't have to get ready for Ole Miss," he said. "I've been ready for three years. This is one I want to win."

His first time out against the Rebels, as a sophomore, was a bust. They ganged him on a punt which lost seven yards and stopped him dead in the line. Ole Miss won 23-0.

"I don't have to get ready for Ole Miss," he said. "I've been ready for three years. This is one I want to win."

His first time out against the Rebels, as a sophomore, was a bust. They ganged him on a punt which lost seven yards and stopped him dead in the line. Ole Miss won 23-0.

Last year at Little Rock, Alworth was signed to a Mississippi football scholarship when he graduated from Brookhaven, Miss., High School. But the Rebels dropped him when he married.

Then he came to Arkansas, and it's been uphill ever since for the 180-pound triple-threat.

A Devotional for Today

"This will be a time for you to bear testimony." (Luke 21:13. RSV.)
PRAYER: Dear Father, we thank Thee for Thine own Word in which we meet Thee, and for salvation through Jesus Christ. Help us to use our opportunities to witness for Him. In His name we pray. Amen. (From The 'Upper Room')

How To Stretch Those Relief Dollars

Every day more people are moved to want to make some expression of concern for the thousands of people who were displaced by hurricane Carla along the Gulf Coast.

It is not surprising—and indeed it is encouraging—that so many have volunteered to organize some measures of relief. These have ranged from churches to individuals, from lodges to informal groups.

While this is a most commendable response, we would like to suggest once more than in most instances the maximum good can be accomplished by channeling gifts through the established institutions.

The two principal ones are the Salvation Army and the American Red Cross. They operate primarily in different fields—the Salvation Army giving emergency aid in food and clothing, etc., the Red Cross in sustained, rehabilitative relief.

Both are experienced, and both are parts of national organizations relying mostly on seasonal, professional help. Both know the problems and pitfalls of administering disaster relief, and both know how to move with a minimum of overlapping so that aid goes further and accomplishes more.

Many having clothing and funds through the Salvation Army, and its officers are in the field making distribution now.

The heavy chore, however, is yet to come. Here the Red Cross is charged to move in and systematically assist people in re-establishing their homes. So if you want to have a hand in helping people get back, to replace lost bed clothing, furnishings, household goods and make basic repairs, make out a check to the Red Cross today. Red Cross has been through this in countless disasters and can thus make your money accomplish much.

Passing Of A Dedicated Servant

The tragic and untimely death of Dag Hammarskjöld on a mission of peace in the Katanga province of strife-torn Congo is not only a major blow to the United Nations but to the cause of international understanding.

As secretary-general of the United Nations, Hammarskjöld had repeatedly been on the firing line of explosive situations. His position called for unbiased administration of the U.N. affairs, but Russia repeatedly castigated him as being pro-Western and thus anti-Russian. He had been the target of a sustained Soviet barrage of derisive propaganda as the Reds sought to have him replaced by a committee arrangement to direct the U.N.

Mr. Hammarskjöld bore this with biting dignity and without recrimination. Yet, he was unflinching in the face of Soviet pressure and did his utmost to make the United Nations effective in resolving international difficulties.

History will have to record the verdict of the effectiveness of his efforts, but there can be no question about the integrity and intense dedication of Dag Hammarskjöld in the cause of civilized settlement of world tensions.

Despite crocodile tears which may be shed, the Russians may be expected to renew pressures as the United Nations faces the tremendous task of naming a worthy successor.

Personnel Troubles In Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON — The foreign aid agency as a stepchild of government has suffered under grievous handicaps. And since Congress has rejected the Administration plan to remove some of those handicaps the stepchild will continue to suffer.

A PARTIAL CURE, some of the smart men in the White House apparently believed, was to put an able banker in charge of the program. That would win over the business community and eventually the conservatives in Congress might come to accept the respectability of foreign aid. They might even at some remote point of time realize how much waste and inefficiency there is in the start-and-stop system that depends on annual appropriations at the whim of Congress.

But the banker, George D. Woods, whom the Administration considered naming to head the Agency for International Development (AID) had a fatal defect. Mr. Woods had volunteered early in the Eisenhower Administration to help put an end to the Tennessee Valley Authority — to take the government out of the power business. As an eager volunteer he brought a banker colleague, Adolph Wenzell, to Washington to further the plan. The consequences were most unhappy for the Eisenhower Administration when Wenzell, who retained his banking connections while working in the Bureau of the Budget, was charged with conflict of interest and a loud and angry uproar hit the headlines.

IT SO HAPPENS that TVA is the goal of virtually every visitor to this country from the new and underdeveloped nations. The advanced capitalism of the assembly line and mass production is beyond them. But in the complex of water, power and land that is TVA they see a way to raise their own level of living. The appointment of a banker to head the aid program who had been not only willing but eager to liquidate TVA raised an immediate question as to whether projects such as TVA in Ethiopia, Afghanistan or wherever would be vetoed.

THAT WAS the international aspect of the unfortunate proposal. More important, both for the Kennedy Administration and the country, was the issue of support here at home for the foreign aid program. Its principal backers have been among the citizen groups deeply committed to TVA, to cooperatives, to public power development. To alienate them would be to leave the program with few partisans, since most of the business community has long been opposed to what is often scornfully referred to as the "give-away program." This is a calculation that seems never to have occurred to the smart men in the White House.

BUT THE SNAFU over the proposed designation of Woods may have served a purpose, i. only in revealing the great difficulty of finding the right man to administer a troublesome and often unpopular program. This should not be seen simply as a contest between the good guys and the bad guys — the noble liberals versus the crusty conservatives — as in a TV drama. There is a great unresolved problem of gaining acceptance for foreign aid for the long pull; of finding an administrator who can speak with authority and confidence to further an understanding of the program and its objectives.

The Eisenhower Administration failed lamentably to come to grips with this problem. The former President made several tries. He brought in from private life James H. Smith, who made no impression on the agency or the country.

AFTER A LONG and futile search James W. Riddleberger, a career foreign service officer, was tapped to succeed Smith. Riddleberger was frank to admit that the only reason he took the job was because he couldn't get away. He was left to shift more or less for himself and ill health was a further handicap. The agency, then called the International Cooperation Administration, ran by default.

President Kennedy named Henry R. Labouisse to head ICA. He had early banking experience, followed by a variety of assignments in the Department of State. For four years he was head of the United Nations agency for Palestine refugees, a thankless and all-but-impossible assignment in which he distinguished himself by his diligence, tact and efficiency.

IF A DEVOTED public servant with a broad background in public service is the man for the job, then Labouisse was an excellent choice. One of the unfortunate consequences of the flap over Woods is that his usefulness in this field may have been seriously impaired. Inspired stories emanating apparently from the White House, seeking to justify the fact that Labouisse would be passed over, rated him as not "hard" enough in cleaning house in ICA. But until a new agency was formed under new authorization by Congress he had no chance to show what he could do.

A SHREWED veteran of the Washington press commenting on the controversy had this to say: "Too many people in the Kennedy Administration fail to understand the difference between acquiring power and administering power." It is a telling judgment. The appointment of a Woods thrown into a fast-moving campaign might have won some support. But today by the test both of politics and administration it rates low.

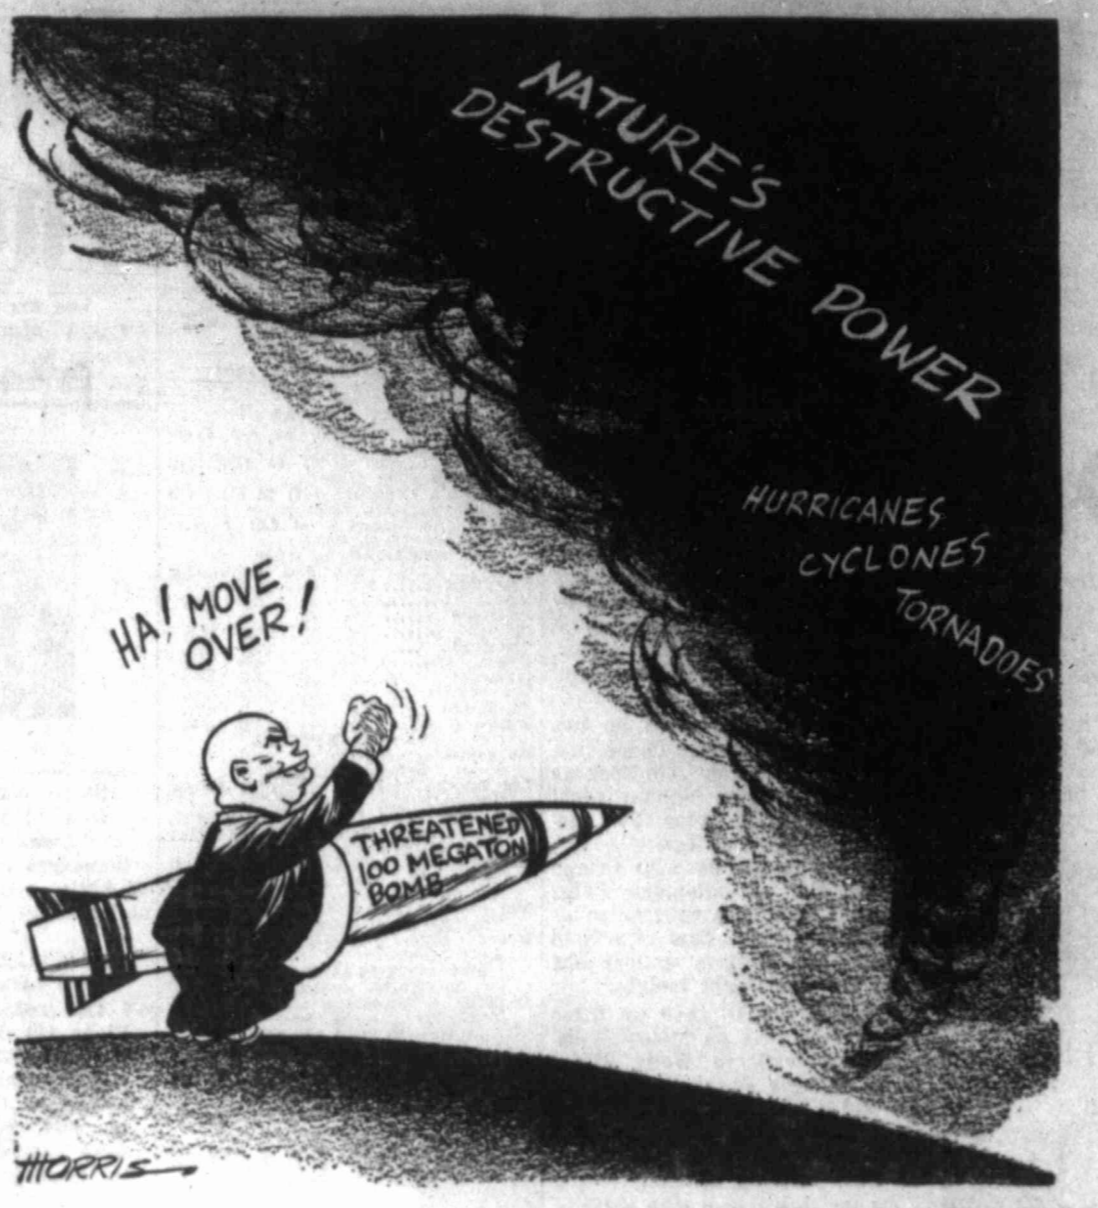

Giant Vegetables

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Imagine cabbage heads big as half bushel baskets; okra pods as big around as broom handles; bean pods two feet long.

Such gigantic vegetables are grown on a 60-acre farm here by Jim Wing. He sends them by air express to Chinese customers in New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia.

These are real Chinese vegetables which are naturally much bigger than American truck crops, Wing says.

The 71-year-old native of China has been growing them 15 years for Oriental epicures in the northern cities.

The Ogre Of Inflation

NEW YORK (AP)—On all sides today voices are being raised to urge others not to arouse the half ogre of inflation. The growing din warns you that he may soon start to stir.

Everyone is against inflation. And everyone blames the other fellow for it. It's the fault of labor, or business, or government, depending with which side you're aligned.

In simple terms inflation means that your dollar seems to buy a little less all the time. It can take the fun out of getting a pay boost.

or higher prices for your goods or services, or the property you sell or rent.

THE COST OF living—which is what most folk think of when they speak of inflation—look a big spurt after World War II, another one during and after the Korean fracas, a more moderate spurt from 1955 to 1958, and then crept slowly higher until this summer.

It takes $128.10 to buy today what you could have bought for $123.70 in 1958, or $114.70 in 1954, or $104.80 in 1948—or $60.30 in 1941.

The sudden raising of voices at this time is because three factors with disturbing possibilities are under way or expectable shortly: Steel wages are going up next month and the steel companies would like to raise prices. Steel is a basic material for many consumer items. Auto pay hikes—often a pace setter—are being negotiated and motorists wonder what that will mean in terms of prices of the new models.

AND THE GOVERNMENT is increasing its spending and therefore its borrowing when business activity is already on an upswing. So now President Kennedy is warring against steel and autos setting off a wage-price spiral in other parts of the economy. Labor says its demands needn't cause price hikes. Management says it can't promise to hold the price line when costs are rising.

And business and banking experts are asking if the government's pouring more money into the economy than it is taking out in taxes won't pump up the money supply enough to set off an inflationary boom that could get out of hand.

And the public? It should react but probably won't—until the cost of living actually surges. For one thing the public at the moment is still in a powerful bargaining position. Because of over capacity to produce and keen competition in many industries the prices of goods have been fairly stable. The cost of services has kept on rising. But in most goods themselves you can shop for bargains.

RIISING PRODUCTIVITY pops up frequently in the present name-calling over the threat of more inflation. In most cases it means using machines to get more goods for less man hours of labor, whether in the factory, the office, or on the farm. A sizable part of the present unemployment has been laid to this by the unions.

The President has been told by his economic advisers that this rise in productivity can let industry absorb the upcoming wage boosts, if they are moderate, without price rises. The unions hold that labor should get some of the gain in higher wages. It charges that otherwise profits are all set to go up sharply.

The World Is A Workshop

NEW YORK (AP)—"The best way to stay young," said Fredric March, "is to regard the world as a workshop."

At 64 March, still physically trim and one of the handsomest men in show business, has no desire to sit in a front porch rocker waiting for Uncle Sam to send him his Social Security check.

Neither he nor his wife, Florence Eldridge—for a generation they've been one of the nation's best known theatrical couples—plans retirement, or regards it as a rainbow blessing.

"Maybe the youngsters have time to daydream about retiring," said March. "But not us."

"We're tapering off a little, but we both feel that if we don't keep growing by trying new things we'll vegetate—and that is no existence."

"I feel sorry for business men who are retired automatically. To have to close your desk on your 65th birthday, when you are really the same you were the day before—that is tragic."

"It is better to taper off, to let go gradually."

It is hard to see where March is tapering off. Winner of two Academy awards, he recently completed his 65th film, "The Young Doctors." He is now re-barring for a role in the new Broadway play, "Gideon," which may be his 81st or 101st stage vehicle.

"I'm not sure which it is," he said. "I never kept track of them."

March switched to acting after he found a youthful career as an embryo bank executive stultifying. An attack of appendicitis gave him the leisure, while recuperating, to decide to gamble on a life in the theater.

It proved a rewarding choice in more ways than one. As a film matinee idol March played against most of the top feminine stars of his time, ranging from Clara Bow to Tallulah Bankhead, Greta Garbo and Kim Novak.

As long ago as 1937 the U.S. Treasury listed him as the fifth top-salaried man in the nation. He got $484,687 that year.

His 40-plus years in the entertainment field have given March some theories on survival.

"To last you have to keep healthy in body and mentally alive," he observed. "You have to keep interested in other people, and to remember that you are no bigger an actor than you are a person."

"I think it's unwise if you are a person too involved in just the amusement world. You warp yourself as a person if you do. That is a pitfall to avoid."

"The more interested you become in others the better you come in your own job."

The boredom and ennui that afflict some actors hasn't touched March, and he doubts that it ever will. He added:

"Acting can be a very healthy life. Many actors live to be quite old, and as for actresses—well, they seem to last forever."

There Are Many Sources Of Bad Breath

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
More inquiries about bad breath—"What causes it?" "What can I do about it?"

Not so many years ago such letter writers usually added, "I brush my teeth three times a day and use a mouthwash—so what else could I possibly do?"

Today, however, people realize that bad breath may be more than just a matter of the mouth.

It is true that dental disease can cause bad breath. Sometimes diseases of the gums can produce it. And there's another, quite important element that is too often overlooked. Because of the shape and spacing of teeth, some people are much more likely to have particles of food become jammed between the teeth, invisibly, invisibly—but a spool of dental floss and a few minutes spent in dragging out some of these particles can surprise you. And for some people, no amount of brushing will get them out.

But if it isn't that—what other sources of bad breath? Infected tonsils, or sinuses, or adenoids, or nasal infections, or lung diseases. And by the latter I don't mean tuberculosis, for there are many lung diseases, and there are, as well, infections which may not go deeply into the lungs but attack the bronchial tubes. Bronchiecta-sis, about which I have written often enough, can also produce bad breath.

But let's go on from there. There's a popular misconception that faulty or irregular elimination may cause bad breath, and that cathartics will help. I can't put much stock in this idea.

But I can, in some cases, agree that what one eats, or how one's digestion works, may be involved. Onions, garlic, leeks and some other foods have, should we say, a persistent aroma. Sometimes the foods we are brought up to accept have an effect. And I can't help believing, without having scientific proof, that some people smell worse than others as the result of eating certain things.

And for still one other possibility, with some individuals cutting down on sugar helps. Although I have some theories, I can't offer positive reasons. It's some vagary of physical chemistry, I guess. But cutting down on sweets, cake frosting, candy, etc., does prove helpful for some.

A final possibility is disease of the gall bladder or stomach, which may or may not be associated with how much fat we eat. If, for one example, the gall bladder is out of order, our digestion of fats is likely to be impaired.

Whether for this reason, or for others, sometimes bad breath is relieved if the patient switches

First Aid For A Wounded First Aider

You never can tell in this racket. Last week, I wrote of my personal misadventure as member of a class in first aid back in those hectic and unstable days soon after Pearl Harbor.

The mishaps I recited seemed funny to me then, they were funny to my classmates and even the instructor laughed at them.

I know nothing of modern methods of teaching first aid and I think that the somewhat wild-eyed efforts at that distant time to indoctrinate everyone with some knowledge of the art may have contributed to the many ludicrous incidents which transpired.

Anyway, I understand that while most of the folks who read this department got a chuckle out of the article there were others who saw nothing funny about it. These were the teachers of first aid, and they seem to think I was attempting to sabotage their work.

Not so.

I HAD NO INTENTION of doing any harm to any one. I do not think I did any harm.

I thought the episodes I cited were amusing. I still do. They did not stop us from going ahead with our study of first aid at the time they happened. Indeed, in view of the highly tense conditions with which prevailed in those days, I think we were happy developments.

We were taking ourselves very seriously at the time. I am sure a great many of my fellow citizens were thoroughly convinced that the German and Jap air force commanders were in deep conference on just how to drop a slew of blockbusters right in the heart of our town.

THEREFORE, since this dread thing was looming, it behooved us to make ourselves ready to render assistance to the victims. Hence, the widespread epidemic of first aid classes; the intensified courses in the duties of air-raid wardens and the training accorded uneasy housewives in how to drive emergency ambulances.

Actually, none of these terrible things feared ever developed. We were fortunate enough never to face air raids; there was no call made for us to put into practice the special skills we had absorbed.

AS TIME PASSED, the instructions we had been given began to fade in our memories. And I'll wager, unless they have had refresher courses since (which I have not) the star pupils of the classes in which I studied would be not too helpful now if called upon to render first aid.

And the way human being are, the only features of the training period which stayed with us were the blunders we made and the off-beat episodes which developed.

Need For A World Of Law

HOLMES ALEXANDER has left on a brief European vacation. During his absence a number of prominent and interesting guests will contribute columns.

By SEN. STUART SYMINGTON
WASHINGTON — Today we face the paradox of more troops marching into more places, at the same time the people of the free world search desperately to find the right road to peace; and all of us know that both our security and well-being will be affected by that search.

Holmes Alexander has affirmed his means of stating my beliefs.

I BELIEVE the right road lies in a world rule of law, which maybe hard for some of us to grasp and understand; an intangible concept, one that cannot be seen straining through the sky, or diverting the flow of rivers, or furnishing light to our cities.

To understand the possibilities of such a development requires the patience of impatient people, and many years of training for the untrained.

WE WHO ARE free know that Government should be the servant of the people. But the Communists hold, as their basic tenet, that each citizen must be subservient to the will of the State. Conformity is required — disagreement not allowed.

One has often heard it said that the greatest inheritance of the English-speaking peoples is the common law tradition.

Part of that tradition was welded into the American scene during our formative years, and our great founding charter, the Constitution, translated that tradition into a viable framework of government.

IN THE UNITED States and a few other free countries, this tradition has resulted in protection to a degree found nowhere else on earth: protection of our individual rights and liberties, our property rights and our domestic tranquility.

In the past, most of us have taken these rights for granted. As Communism now increases its sway over more millions of people, however, the advantages of living under law become a more practical matter for every free citizen.

These advantages are the hope which we offer the world; not promises or vague plans, but the actual experience of many centuries.

TO BE SURE, there are the immediate aspirations of less fortunate nations for material benefits — roads, dams, power lines, schools — and we should have supported these aspirations.

But the long-range goals of these people are also our own goals — a better life, greater human dignity, and above all, individual freedom.

To that end, in our dealing with other countries, we should underscore the need for an effective legal system; and this is especially true in the newly emerging nations.

We must present to them that the history of the world shows rule by law has been the only method for the attainment of an orderly society of individuals; and that therefore it is the one real hope for a peaceful society of nations.

THE EFFORTS of the governments and the people of the free world should be twofold: continue to perfect the existing legal systems within our own countries; and increase research and study in the area of world law. Through such study we will be able to present more effectively the need for this tool in the construction of world understanding.

We Americans are the rightful leaders in this worthy cause. Our own experience verifies the fact that a rule of law puts what is right ahead of what is expedient — and places the wisdom of reason ahead of reaction to emotion.

THOSE EXPERIENCES show what can happen when judgment of the courts replaces the resort to war — when law, instead of force, governs the affairs of nations.

Only through some form of a world rule of law can we achieve the passionate desire of those who now live in this nuclear space age — peace, both lasting and just.

Judge Due A Quick Promotion

When the United States Senate convenes to consider the elevation of Judge Irving R. Kaufman from the United States District Second Circuit Court of Appeals, it will be surprising if the promotion isn't voted in big time.

Even if Southern Senators are offended by Judge Kaufman's insistence on the desegregation of public schools in New Rochelle, N. Y., they should at least find grim humor and proof, in his judicial action, that segregation and racial prejudice exists on both sides of the Mason-Dixon Line.

A QUIET, scholarly and gentle man, Judge Kaufman was catapulted into national prominence and an agonizing personal ordeal in 1951 when he was assigned to preside over the trial of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg and Morton Sobell, charged with having given United States atomic secrets to the Soviet Union.

From the moment the trial opened until long after the Rosenbergs were executed in Sing Sing prison for treason, Judge Kaufman was the personal target of a sustained campaign of terror and abuse mounted by Communist sympathizers of the Rosenbergs. The avalanche of poison-pen mail alone would have shaken a lesser man.

THE NATURE of his purgatory was different from that of Judge Harold R. Medina, who presided over the nine-month trial of the American pollsters in 1949, when the behavior of the 11 defendants and their lawyers in the courtroom was calculated to drive the judge into a nervous collapse. But the pressures on Judge Kaufman were equally intense.

The Rosenberg trial was relatively brief. It lasted from March 7 to March 29, 1951, when the jury brought in a verdict of guilty.

AFTER TAKING his problem in prayer to his synagogue, Judge Kaufman on April 5 sentenced the Rosenbergs to death and Sobell to 30 years imprisonment. Now the Communists quadrupled their efforts, and the ordeal of Judge Kaufman, and that of his wife and children, multiplied. It reached a scorching crescendo by June, 1953, when the Rosenbergs were executed.

In the interim, the defense made 16 appeals to the District Court, seven to the Court of Appeals, seven to the U. S. Supreme Court and two appeals for clemency to the President of the United States. But in every instance the law and the Executive stood firmly behind Judge Kaufman.

TWO MORE recent cases have kept Judge Kaufman in the national eye: The trial of the mobsters arrested in the 1957 gangland convention at Apalachin, N. Y., and his more recent decree that the public schools of New Rochelle are no more immune to the Supreme Court order to desegregate than those in the South.

The bitterness and the harassment that has accompanied the New Rochelle fight is reminiscent of the Rosenberg pressures. Recently one of the judge's sons said to him, "Dad, if someone takes a pot shot at you, we'll never know whether it was the Rosenbergs' sympathizers or the New Rochelle segregators."

In the meantime, Judge Kaufman, highly respected in judicial and legal circles, perseveres, endures and administers justice. (Copyright, 1961, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Filling 'Er Up In Space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Attendants who man space "filling stations" of the future won't get by with just a friendly smile and the uncomplicated question: "Regular or ethyl?"

An astronaut might steer his space ship into a filling station orbiting the earth and say: "Fill 'er up with inhibited red fuming nitric acid, and unsymmetrical dimethyl hydrazine."

The first part, IRFNA, is an oxidizer, a chemical with high oxygen content. Because there is no oxygen-laden air in space, rocket engines can't depend on it to ignite fuel as earth-based automobiles can. The second part of the order, UDH, is the actual rocket fuel.

When another space pilot pulls in and asks for hydrogen peroxide, it won't be used to bleach his wife's hair. It will be his oxidizer. The fuel to go with it could be any of the following: aluminum-enriched polyethylene, boron trimethyl, cyanogen, diborane, lithium aluminum hydride or pentaborane.

Dag's Death Stuns World

By The Associated Press
The death of Dag Hammarskjöld in an African plane crash left the non-Communist world stunned today. Fear was expressed that his passing put the future of the United Nations in peril.

From every quarter tributes flooded to the memory of the secretary-general who died in the restless search for an ideal—a world peacefully united to prevent war.

Even those who often had challenged his policies hailed him as a dedicated man. In the capitals of the West there was a heavy atmosphere of mourning.

Radio and television news bulletins retold of the crash of Hammarskjöld's plane as the U.N. secretary-general was flying on another peace mission—this time to meet Moise Tshombe, president of war-torn Katanga. Somber headlines dominated newspaper front pages.

President Kennedy said Hammarskjöld's name "will be treasured high among the peace makers of history." U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said: "I have lost an esteemed friend and the world a great servant."

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain, who had been cool to U.N. action to suppress Tshombe's secessionist regime, called Hammarskjöld "a world servant who has pursued his duty with courage, singlemindedness and devotion."

The French, bitter at what they regard as U.N. interference in Bizerte and Algeria, were shocked. The Foreign Ministry expressed "deepest emotion."

India's Prime Minister Nehru, a leader of the nonaligned nations who hold the balance of power in the U.N. General Assembly, called Hammarskjöld's death a "special tragedy."

The Belgian government sent a message to the United Nations deploring his death and saying his service to the United Nations had gone to "the supreme sacrifice."

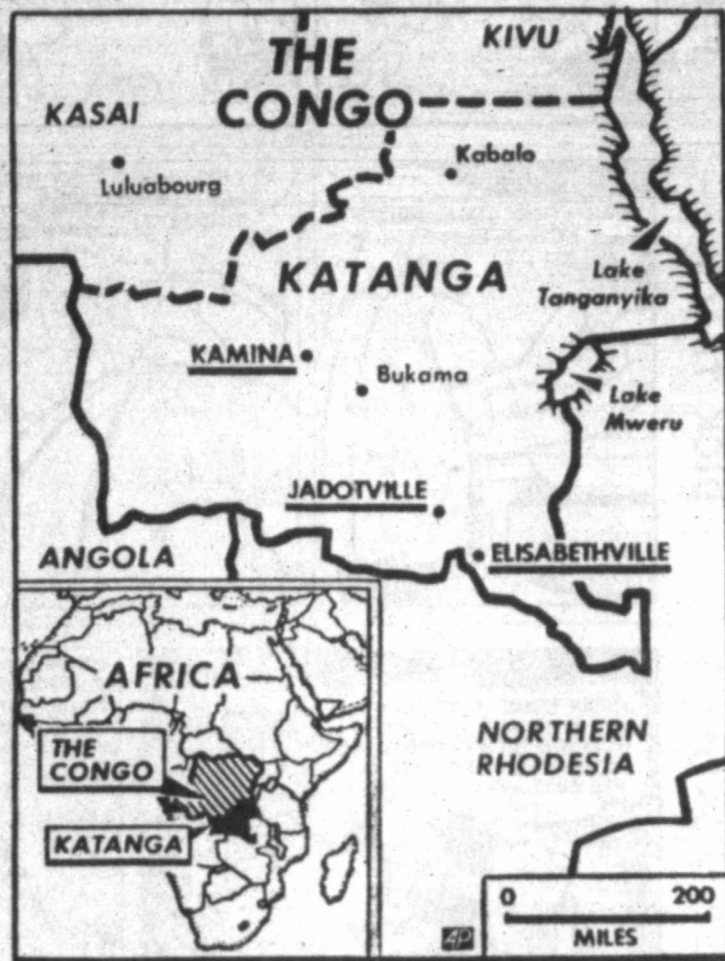

Sir Roy Welensky, prime minister of the Central African Federation who had assailed the U.N. action in Katanga, called Hammarskjöld "an indefatigable worker in the cause of world peace."

Moscow and Peking broadcast the news of Hammarskjöld's death without comment. The Soviet press kept the news off the front page.

In France, the Communist newspaper L'Humanite said Hammarskjöld "was the victim of the same people whom he did nothing to prevent from assassinating (former Congolese Premier Patrice) Lumumba last year."

Israel and the United Arab Republic, who had often used his services as mediator in their quarrels, found themselves in rare agreement in expressing a sense of loss.

In Sweden Hammarskjöld's native land, King Gustav VI proclaimed today a day of national mourning. Radio Sweden ran several special broadcasts in memory of Hammarskjöld.

Katanga Battle Areas

Underlined are Katanga the provincial capital of Elisabethville and the towns of Kamina and Jadotville where United Nations troops were battling Katanga forces. War-painted Baluba tribesmen also were attacking the U.N. in Kamina.

Solons Applaud JFK Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) —Democratic and Republican congressional leaders applauded today President Kennedy's decision to address the United Nations.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Senate Democratic leader, predicted Kennedy will place before the United Nations a new disarmament plan and call for fresh negotiations to end nuclear testing.

Kennedy's decision to fly to New York to address the new session of the U.N. General Assembly was announced Monday by the White House.

Kennedy probably will speak Friday or Monday, depending on the schedule adopted by the assembly.

A White House official said the death of U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld strengthened the President's desire to appear before the United Nations.

Kennedy believes, the spokesman said, that "now, at a time of crisis for the U.N., would be a good time to go there and affirm support of the U.N. and its principles."

Kennedy expressed Monday the hope that U.N. members will "try to build the U.N. into the effective instrument for peace which was Dag Hammarskjöld's great ambition."

The Senate and House passed a resolution expressing deep regret over Hammarskjöld's death in a plane crash.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said in a separate interview he thinks Kennedy will be able to "invigorate the thinking" of U.N. members and "give them assurances of the steadfastness and firmness with which we stand behind the world organization."

Instead Of Just Berlin, There May Be A U.N. Crisis

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — Instead of just a Berlin crisis, there may be a United Nations crisis.

The United States and Russia hold in their hands the fate of the world organization and therefore just about any hope for peace, remote as that seems.

The fateful question now is whether the two giants can agree on a successor to U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld, who was killed Monday in an African plane crash.

At last year's U.N. meeting in New York Premier Khrushchev not only called Hammarskjöld a fool but said he had become a Western tool.

The secretary-general is the organization's highest executive officer. He runs it under the direction of the Security Council and the General Assembly.

Khrushchev a year ago demanded that Hammarskjöld be replaced by three secretaries-general: one representing the West, one the Soviet bloc, and one the neutrals, with each able to veto what the others wanted.

This would render the United Nations helpless in any crisis and leave it, at best, strictly a debating society. It is questionable the United States would remain a member if three secretaries were appointed.

Outside the Soviet bloc Khrushchev got small support. Neutrals tried to suggest a middle ground —that the organization appoint three special assistants to the secretary-general. One would speak for the West, one for the Communist bloc, the other for the neutrals.

Nothing was done on this. Hammarskjöld refused to quit. The Soviets were stuck with him, it seemed, until his term would expire in April 1963. His sudden death now gives Khrushchev a fresh chance to tear up the United Nations.

This country and Russia have other pressing problems — like Berlin and disarmament—and it's possible, to avoid an immediate U.N. crisis, they may reach a temporary compromise on a single successor to Hammarskjöld.

By letting such an individual serve out the unexpired term, East and West could postpone their U.N. fight for two years. Even mentioning this kind of reasonable, if temporary, settlement comes under the heading of wishful thinking.

These next few days will reveal what is on Khrushchev's unpredictable mind.

U.S. Royal To Introduce New 'Low Profile' Tire

"The U. S. Royal 'Safety-800' is really a tire to watch for," says Ted Phillips, owner of Phillips Tire Company, 311 Johnson.

Being announced now in all the leading magazines, this tire is said to be brand-new and better in every way—the only all-new one at the '62 auto shows. "Low Profile" is the term U. S. Royal is applying to this lower, wider shaped tire which is being put on one out of four new 1962 cars. Its superior skid resistance (thanks to deeper tread grooves and a unique tread design) and quieter, cooler ride at high speeds is said to be due to the new "Low Profile" construction. U. S. Royal claims its "Safety 800" will ride better and last longer than any tire in its field.

Phillips is also Big Spring's Mohawk dealer; the popular pickup tire which is now being constructed of new, synthetic rubbers that are said to outperform natural rubber. Mohawk is an economical tire that is available in both passenger car and truck sizes. The Michelin "Metalic" tire carried by Phillips is the first of steel cord construction on the market. The "Metalic" with its steel cord casing is advertised as being the only tire that completely solves the problem of tire performance on fast, long-distance transport. Due to continuous flexing, ordinary tires on heavy vehicles may reach a temperature of 250 degrees. At this heat level steel cord is claimed to be 15 times as strong as textile. The Michelin "Metalic" is said to eliminate blowouts and can be retreaded several times.

Phillips Tire Company, in business for 23 years, is the only re-capping shop in town. If you are not ready to purchase new tires, let them recap the ones you have and add months of mileage. For information call AM 4-8271.

Misguided Mate

GARDINER, Maine (AP) — Mrs. Erland Jordan's misguided pet male duck enjoys being a family man. He left the Jordan summer cottage recently to take his place with a mate and three ducklings he found on a neighboring lawn. He rarely leaves them, and then only to scare up food or chase away wild ducks. One problem: His "family" is made of plastic and helps decorate the lawn.

Fine Merchandise, Excellent Service Called Traditional

"Since 1901, it's been traditional at Big Spring Hardware to handle only first-class merchandise and give first-class service," said Leon Kinney, of Big Spring Hardware.

"Our store is one of the few in town that can completely outfit a home with brand-name, nationally-advertised merchandise," continued Kinney. "We can start with picture hangers; furnish each room in the house and end up in the garage where we can completely equip your home workshop or put new tires on your car."

Big Spring Hardware management believes in stressing the importance of purchasing from well-known manufacturers and merchants who have established a reputation of honesty and integrity.

By doing this, customers are sure there is something to back up a "guarantee".

Brands you know are in each department of the store. For instance, "Delta" and "Skill" make the power tools featured in the hardware section. There, too, you'll find a quality line of hand tools by "True Temper", "Plumb" and "Disston".

With the hunting season here, now is the time to inspect the Remington, Winchester and Browning guns now in stock. There are hunting accessories, too; gun cases, hunting jackets and a complete line of camping equipment made by Coleman.

Fishermen will want to see the Shakespeare rods and reels and for the golfer there are clubs, carts and bags by Spalding and Rawlings.

In the housewares department, all name-brand cooking utensils are featured plus a large gift selection of glassware, china and small appliances.

Everything purchased at Big Spring Hardware can be bought on convenient terms with up to 36 months to pay.

FIVEASH CAN DO IT

Heating Systems Should Be Checked Before Fall

"When winter finally decides to come to West Texas, it comes in a hurry," says E. A. Fiveash. He operates the Fiveash Plumbing and Heating Company, 821 E. 3rd.

"Many people wait until their home is uncomfortably cold before they have heating systems checked," Fiveash said.

To avoid delay in service when you need it most, he suggests giving your heating and plumbing systems a complete check now.

Filters should be cleaned or replaced. Pads meant to be used only one season can be purchased at reasonable cost. The aluminum filters can, of course, be cleaned and used again.

Furnaces should be checked, gas lines inspected and heat controls tested for accuracy. This can be done at your convenience by one of the licensed plumbers from the Fiveash firm. You'll get good service always—but faster repairs now before the cold weather strikes.

Fiveash has in stock all standard plumbing fixture parts and are trained to repair or install your heating or cooling equipment.

A new item carried in the shop which will be needed now is the "RP Super Filter Coat." This pressurized spray is used to re-coat the EZ Kleen washable air filters after cleaning. This product aids in the control of airborne bacteria; reduces pollen and unpleasant odor.

Fiveash Plumbing is the local dealer for A. O. Smith "Permaglas" water heaters — the heater with a 50 per cent longer guarantee. Stop by the shop or call AM 4-6111 for free estimates.

Shortcuts Sought For Forestry

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Forestry experts are trying to find shortcuts in growing trees.

They are trying to find ways to reforest southwest Florida's cut-over lands with tropical hardwoods that grow and mature faster than the native slash pine.

The latest experiment is a planting of eucalyptus which mature in 20 years or less, compared to 30 years for a native slash pine.

Some tropical hardwoods can be cut in less than 10 years for making pulp paper. Others, such as the cajuput, produce oils for medicinal such as cough drops and inhalers.

Texans Seek New Frontier

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)—With U. S. frontiers disappearing into history books, families of Texas ranchers arrived in Auckland Monday looking for new territory to open.

Woodrow Glasscock, from Corpus Christi, brought with him his wife, two daughters, mother, mother-in-law, married son and the son's wife.

With 13 generations of pioneers behind them who worked their way across the frontiers of America, the Glasscocks hope to continue family tradition if suitable undeveloped territory can be found.

Smart Raccoons

NAPLES, Fla. (AP)—A Florida raccoon will never be cold or hungry as long as there are humans about.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis Shavin, who had been camping on a deserted island near here, got acquainted with the ingenious creatures.

"We had barely set up our tent when the raccoons started lining up for food handouts," Shavin said.

"Then, the first nippy night, we woke up to find several of them trying to bundle with us in the blankets. They easily figured out how to work the zipper on the tent flaps and get inside."

TIME OUT: REAL DRAMA IN COURTROOM

AUSTIN (AP)—The jury had been out more than five hours and the tension was reaching a peak.

Suddenly, there was a knock from inside the jury room. Two defense attorneys hurried to their table; a third went for the defendant. The three prosecution attorneys scurried to their chairs.

Newsman shuffled toward doors leading to telephones. A low murmur began as spectators slid into their seats.

The jury bailiff came through the door with a note in his hand. He stopped at the prosecution table and showed it to the district attorney. He repeated the process at the defense table.

The bailiff then went through the door leading to the jury's office. A newsman followed him and asked what was happening.

Without replying, the bailiff produced the note. It read: "Coke. Coke. Coke. Coke. Orange."

Road Builders Moving Mountains

CHATTANOOGA (AP)—Road builders plan to move a mountain to fill a valley here.

It's part of a $3½ million project to build a 1.3-mile freeway section, and calls for moving nearly two million cubic yards of dirt from the city's west side to a low area.

The tops of two hills will be carved off to provide the fill dirt.

Loss To Vandals

CHATTANOOGA (AP)—The loss of 1,000 window panes has given city school officials a $10,000 pain.

School Supt. Bennie Carmichael said vandals knocked out the panes in vacant school buildings during summer vacation.

Carmichael noted that the more than $10,000 it will cost to replace the windows and repair other damage is enough to build a new classroom.

DEAR ABBY: My wife is a crossword puzzle nut. That's the first thing she goes for in the newspaper, and heaven help anyone who bothers her while she is working a crossword puzzle. She has worked books of crossword puzzles, and is always on the lookout for more. She even takes them to bed with her. If she gets stumped, her disposition is ruined. I can't even get a kiss from her until she's finished her crossword puzzle. How does a husband buck competition like this?

FOUR-LETTER-WORD MEANING DOPE
DEAR DOPE: Only a big square would surrender to a lot of little squares. The 5-letter-word that should give a woman a feeling of complete achievement, satisfaction and pleasure, is HUBBY—not HOBBY.

DEAR ABBY: I have a son six months old, and I want to take him for a hair-cut, but every time I mention it to a friend or relative they tell me not to because they say it will keep him from talking at an early age. Is this true? Also, how old do you think a baby boy should be before he gets his first hair-cut?

CONFUSED
DEAR CONFUSED: There is NO truth in the story that a hair-cut will delay a baby from talking at an early age. A baby boy should have his first hair-cut when he starts to look like a girl wearing boys' clothes.

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I were married, I was a widow with two children, and he was a widower with three. We have been married four years now and I have adopted his children and he has adopted mine. We all have the same surname and are a very happy family. My only problem is inquisitive friends who constantly ask, "Which children are yours and which are your husband's?" I am sometimes asked this in the presence of the children, and this puzzles them because they know they all belong to both of us. How should I handle this?

TONGUE-TIED
DEAR TONGUE-TIED: When faced with this rude question reply, "They are all OUR children." If the curious persist, call a halt to it by adding, "Why don't we skip it? It's not very important."

CONFIDENTIAL TO GRANDMA OF TWELVE: If all the sins of your own lifetime were contained in one big stone, could you lift it high enough to throw it at an unwed mother?
