Ronnie Anderson Sells Show Winner

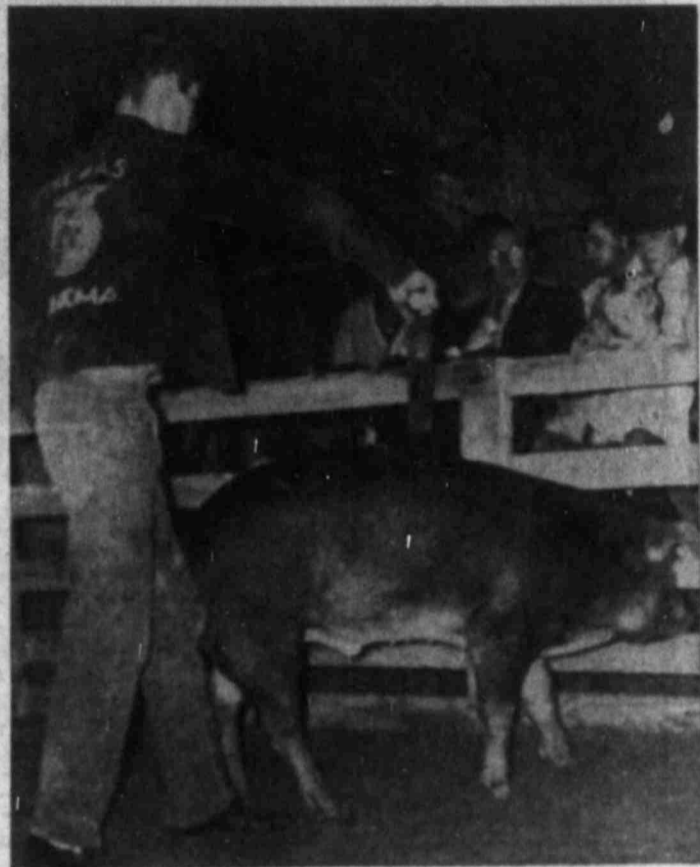

First National Bank of Big Spring paid young Ronnie Anderson, Big Spring 4-H club member, $1.25 per pound for his grand champion heavyweight market hog at last night's auction.

The auction closed the 16th annual Howard County 4-H and FFA Pig Show. Ronnie's pig brought him $262.50 and weighed 210 pounds at the time of the sale.

Coahoma State Bank, a new-comer in the bidding ring at junior stock events, paid a flat dollar a pound for the 185-pound reserve champion pig shown by Travis Reid.

The prices posted for the top hogs in the show were on a parity with the prices paid at other shows in recent years and sponsors of the show were well pleased with the results.

Pushing For An Extra Few Cents Bid

A youthful pig club exhibitor is shown as he jockeyed his animal in the auction ring on Thursday night while Randle Sherrod, auctioneer, pleaded for an increased bid. Thirty show pigs were sold in the hour the auction was in progress.

Those hogs which bidders acquired and which they did not wish to keep. The price paid on resale was market top for the day.

Pigs sold, with the owner, the weight, the price paid and the buyer listed in order:

Candy Sale Is Sell-Out

Big Spring Kiwanians found 1,250 bags of specially packed Halloween trick-or-treat candy far from sufficient to blanket the town Thursday night.

The 10 teams, each comprising five club members, ran out of merchandise long before they had covered their assigned territory.

Ernest Welch, president of the club, said that it was evident at least 1,200 packages of the candy had been sold and that less than 35 bags remain unsold.

Some of the teams ran out of stock before they had covered a quarter of the territory allotted to them.

Welch said that the candy event was a complete success and he anticipated that it would place several thousand dollars in the club's activity fund.

The club voiced its appreciation to the public for its cordial response to the effort.

Anderson Attends Austin Confab

Sam M. Anderson, superintendent of the Big Spring Independent School District, left early this morning to attend a school administrator's conference in Austin.

Purpose of the meeting is to hear proposals concerning the professional preparation of school administrators. Sessions will be conducted today and Saturday at the Driskill Hotel.

HAMBURG, Germany (AP) — Railroad officials counted today 29 persons dead and at least 45 injured after a packed suburban passenger train crashed into a halted repair train Thursday night.

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — Spurred by a handful of agitators, 150 male patients rioted in four wards of the Colorado State Hospital for about four hours Thursday. No one was injured.

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — An 85-year-old man went berserk aboard a crowded San Diego-bound Greyhound bus today and stabbed three persons with a pocket knife before he was subdued by passengers.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican National Chairman William E. Miller said today the Kennedy administration was guilty of censorship, favoritism and "attempting to use reporters as political propaganda conduits."

LONDON (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev approved today the erection of the wall between East and West Berlin.

McCOMB, Miss. (AP) — Nineteen demonstrators arrested for protesting the suspension of two Negro students remained in jail today with no indication bond would be posted.

The 18 Negroes and one white man—part of a group of 119 demonstrators arrested Wednesday afternoon for demonstrating on the steps of City Hall—will go on trial Oct. 23 on disturbing the peace charges. Ten of the group have also been charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Provincial guardsmen in a bayonet and pistol assault, have killed 46 members of a Communist battalion southwest of Saigon in the swampy Mekong Delta, the government announced today.

The battle Wednesday was the latest in a series and brought the total Viet Cong reported killed in the past 10 days to above 250. It seemed another indication that while there was concern about the threat from the Laotian border to the north—most of the actual fighting is still in the delta region, the communists said.

The Lyng gland was removed from Rayburn's right groin during Thursday's surgery.

The House speaker spent a restful night Thursday, an aide reported this morning.

A hospital bulletin said "the biopsy revealed a metastatic malignancy" and "the most likely primary site of the malignancy is the pancreas."

Sam's Condition Reported Better

But Rayburn's Outlook Is Bad

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — House Speaker Sam Rayburn, suffering from extensive cancer, looks a little better today, his physicians said.

They reported in a bulletin that Rayburn no longer was under sedation and was resting comfortably.

Rayburn, 79, entered Baylor Hospital Monday after he failed to respond to treatment in his home town of Bonham, Tex. He left Washington Aug. 31 for his home saying he wanted to rest for what he called lumbago causing pains in the back.

Doctors said Thursday after extensive tests that the cancer has spread to such an extent that no further surgery was anticipated. Only visitors permitted are members of his family, a hospital spokesman said.

The latest bulletin said: "Physicians this morning advised that Speaker Sam Rayburn looks a little better than he did yesterday. He is not under sedation."

"There is very little change in his general condition. He is still serious but not critical. He is resting comfortably."

President Kennedy attempted to speak with Rayburn by telephone but was unable to do so because Rayburn has been under sedation. White House press secretary Pierre Salinger, reporting this, said Kennedy did talk with Mrs. W. A. Thomas, a sister.

Rayburn's physician telephoned Dr. Janet Travell, the White House physician, late Thursday and again Thursday night in order to keep the President up to date on the speaker's condition.

Dr. Travell had given Rayburn a treatment last summer to alleviate the pain in his back.

Word of the gravity of Rayburn's condition brought expressions of sorrow and regret from all over the nation. Telegrams by the score poured into the hospital. So many flowers were received that they were distributed among other patients.

"I'm awfully sorry to hear about Rayburn; there is no finer man or a better public servant than Sam Rayburn," commented Harry S. Truman at Independence, Mo. Truman and Rayburn were cronies. It was in Rayburn's private hideaway in 1945 that Truman received word that Franklin

D. Roosevelt had died and Truman was the new president.

The House Republican Leader, Charles A. Halleck of Indiana, a close personal friend, said he was "deeply distressed." Halleck said he counted Sam Rayburn as one of my great friends in the Congress of the United States."

At Taylor, Tex., where he was attending a political rally, Vice President Johnson, one of Rayburn's most successful political proteges, asked his audience to "bow our heads for a moment of silent prayer for our beloved speaker in his suffering tonight."

TEXAS' Republican Sen. John Tower, whose election Rayburn had opposed, said he was "deeply distressed to learn of the unfavorable diagnosis of Speaker Sam Rayburn's illness."

Rep. Hale Boggs, D-La., said the news "saddens me beyond words."

"I am shocked and heartbroken," said Rep. Frank Thompson, D-N.J. "Like every other member I not only respect him but love him."

In Boston, Acting Speaker McCormack called Rayburn "one of the great Americans of all times" and said he and Mrs. McCormack, "with our people throughout the nation, pray and hope for recovery."

Kennedy plans only a single session with Gromyko. The President's schedule allowed for a meeting of about two hours before he was due at a state dinner being given by visiting President Ferik Ibrahim Aboud of Sudan.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk will sit in at the conference. It follows three exploratory talks Rusk held with Gromyko in New York.

No plans have been made for another separate Rusk-Gromyko meeting. Officials stressed, however, that this depends entirely on Gromyko. If he wants one, the State Department is ready to go along.

The object of these sessions is to find out if the Soviets are willing to negotiate on terms acceptable to the West.

U.S. sources said Gromyko has not yet spelled out the Kremlin position sufficiently to enable the Western powers to decide whether fruitful East-West negotiations are possible. For one thing, the Soviets have not been precise on how their proposed peace treaty with Communist East Germany would affect West Berlin rights which the West deems vital.

American authorities will scan closely Khrushchev's forthcoming policy speech to the Communist party congress, which opens in Moscow Oct. 17. They believe he might shed some light in the speech on any change in Soviet policy toward Berlin and Germany.

The candidate reported by informed diplomats to be acceptable by both Moscow and Washington is U Thant of Burma.

journal, he was suffering from what he said doctors had diagnosed as lumbago. He continued to lose weight while at his Bonham farm and finally yielded to persuasions of friends and doctors that he enter a hospital for a check-up.

Before his departure from the House chamber, over which he had presided more than twice as long as any predecessor, Rayburn designated Majority Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts to substitute for him. The House unanimously elected McCormack speaker pro tem, a designation he will retain when Congress reconvenes Jan. 10 unless the House changes its mind or Rayburn returns.

HARD LUCK FOR BOTH

Freddie Newman, Lomax 4-H Club member, whose 170-pound lightweight market hog placed 14th in his division, ran into bad luck at the Howard County 4-H and FFA Pig Show Thursday.

Newman had entered his hog for sale at the auction on Thursday night. He was looking forward to the nice check the sale of his entry would bring.

But things didn't work out. The pig died after the judging had been completed and before the auction sale opened.

It was reported that the animal became too hot due to the excitement of the show.

So Freddie Newman's entry on the auction sales list was scratched.

James Pollard, whose entry placed 16th in the lightweight division, was moved up into Newman's spot and his pig sold instead.

Miller Harris, Howard County sheriff, was elected president of the West Central Texas Law Enforcement Association at the organization's meeting in Sonora Thursday.

Harris, who was unable to attend the meeting, was notified of his elevation to the office of president Thursday afternoon. He had been serving as vice president. He will succeed Orval Edminton, sheriff of Schleicher County.

Herman O. Moore, sheriff of Sutton County was elevated to vice president.

Mary Kroll of Robert Lee is the new secretary of the association. Directors for the new year include Jim Cantrell, sheriff of Sterling County; Martin Koonsman, with the Abilene Police Department; and Maj. W. E. Speirs, Midland, commander of the 49-county Midland DPS region.

YOUTH Admits Rape Slaying

WHEATON, Ill. (AP) — A teenage boy admitted Thursday night, police said, that he enticed a 7-year-old neighbor girl into a weedy field, raped her and drowned her in a rainwater pond.

Police said Steven Schlenger, 13, a tall seventh grader, admitted killing Vvonne Elliott.

No Shelters, Mrs. K Tells Peace Marchers

MOSCOW (AP) — Mrs. Nikita Khrushchev told a group of Western "peace marchers" today that the Soviet Union was making no effort to build air raid shelters.

"There is no defense in a nuclear war," said Nina Khrushcheva, the wife of the premier. "Therefore, we are not building any bomb shelters. We are not getting ready."

Mrs. Khrushchev made her remarks after spending an hour exchanging pleasantries and debating disarmament with the marchers, who arrived here Tuesday.

The debate took place at Moscow's "House of Friendship," where Mrs. Khrushchev's aides served tea, chocolate and apples.

Most of the marchers did their best to convince Mrs. Khrushchev that, if the world refuses to disarm, one country should set a good example by discarding all its armaments. Mrs. Khrushchev declined to agree.

"We do not want to be the only ones who throw our bombs into the ocean," she said.

She added that in the past 40 years, the Soviet Union has had many unfortunate experiences with war and does not want to be in a position where it could be trampled upon again.

Castro Fusses Over Document

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro accused the United States Thursday of organizing a plot to maneuver more Latin-American nations into breaking relations with Cuba.

Castro told a cheering crowd of more than 10,000 that documents made public in the United States by Cuban exiles "is one of the most shameful acts of Yankee policy."

The document purported to outline Cuban government plans to foment subversion in Argentina.

Skies Clear Over Texas

By The Associated Press

Clear skies and warming temperatures dominated the Texas weather scene Friday and were predicted to continue through Saturday.

Temperatures were generally in the 50s. Dalhart had the low with 48 and Galveston reported a 67 for the high.

Thursday afternoon temperatures were in the 70s and some clouds floated in South Texas skies.

Allies Protest

BERLIN (AP) — The three Western Allies sharply protested today to the Soviets against two shooting incidents involving Communist East German police in Berlin's French sector.

Gromyko Says Danger Of War Must Be Avoided

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko arrived in Washington for Berlin crisis talks with President Kennedy today, saying the danger of war over the explosive dispute "must be prevented."

Gromyko declined to say whether he has brought a new proposal from Soviet Premier Khrushchev. Asked whether there was danger of war over Berlin, Gromyko responded, "The danger must be prevented."

"One thing must be said—the danger must be prevented."

Gromyko was interviewed by newsmen as he stepped from his train upon arriving from New York where he has been attending U.N. sessions.

The Russian foreign affairs leader declared the Soviets want to see a peaceful settlement of the German problem, which is now the toughest major issue between East and West.

But U.S. officials did not expect the session, set for late afternoon at the White House, to provide a dramatic opening for peaceful settlement of the long-festering German dispute.

Kennedy also was ready to re-emphasize to Gromyko Western determination not to yield on Berlin rights—a message Gromyko will likely relay to Soviet Premier Khrushchev when Gromyko returns to Moscow Sunday.

Another matter that may come up in their conversation is the United Nations. The Soviet Union and the United States were reported Thursday night to be in agreement on a candidate for temporary U.N. secretary-general, a successor for the late Dag Hammarskjold.

The candidate reported by informed diplomats to be acceptable by both Moscow and Washington is U Thant of Burma.

With Help For Many

The Salvation Army steps in with help in many instances, from major disasters such as Hurricane Carla, to smaller disasters such as a burned out home. An emergency truck is a welcome sight in either instance. The big task is less dramatic. Nightly, homeless men find shelter and food in dormitories; children find shoes to wear to school; stranded families get help as well as local families in dire circumstances. Your contribution to the United Fund will be shared by this agency, one of 12 that is financed through this annual drive.

No Training In Manners

DEAR ABBY: My 20-year-old daughter is entering her third year at the State University. Her "fiance" is a senior there. They say they are "engaged," but I haven't seen a ring.

I came home unexpectedly one afternoon and my "prospective son-in-law" was sprawled out on my living room sofa. He had removed his shoes. He did not even get up when I entered. He refers to my husband as "The Big Wheel" or "The Old Man." He never says, "I beg your pardon" when he interrupts, which is frequently. Is this the sort of thing they teach at the University?

ers is learned at the mother's knee. Evidently your "prospective son-in-law" learned his manners at some other low joint.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please write, in simple language, the difference between going "steadily" and going "steadily"? I have heard so many different definitions.

CURIOUS: According to my teen-age experts, a boy and girl who go "steadily" have agreed to go with no one else, and make it "official" by exchanging class rings, pins or some other symbolic trinket. When a couple goes "steadily" they simply stand each other to the exclusion of others, but there is no "commitment" or exchange of trinkets.

DEAR ABBY: What is wrong with playing cupid? There is a young man who works with my husband. He is such a nice, clean person. And good-looking, too. He is unmarried, and always alone. I have a cousin about his age. She lives at home caring for her invalid mother. She is a fine girl who has very little social life outside her church. I would like to see these two lovely people get together, but my husband says to leave the man alone because he looks so happy. I have an idea these two would hit it off, but I don't know how to go about getting them together. Should I try? If so, how?

PLAYING CUPID: Invite the couple to a little get-together at your home. But invite others, too, so your scheme won't be so obvious. Cupid does some of his best work by appointment.

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Medical and psychological examinations of two Air Force lieutenants will continue today following completion of their 17-day simulated space flight at Brooks Air Force Base.

The lieutenants—Melvin E. Pollard and Craig Vernon Miller—emerged from a steel tank in which they had lived under space flight conditions since Sept. 18.

Vice President Lyndon Johnson, present to offer his congratulations, said, "I'm very proud of you and your country is proud of you."

Johnson met the officers while touring the Aerospace Medical Center at Brooks AFB.

Pollard, 23, and Miller, 24, are the youngest subjects used in the two-year series of tests of the 8-by-12-foot cabin in which the Air Force seeks to duplicate the conditions of space flight.

Dr. Billy Welch, head of the Department of Space Ecology of the medical center, pronounced the test a success.

The officers spent 20 hours per day alternating at the control panel of a behavior stimulator designed to test their mental and physical reflexes and processes.

Lt. Pollard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Pollard of Quah, Tex. Lt. Miller is from Humboldt, Iowa.

A PERFECT PERSON

By T. H. Tarkel, preacher, Church of Christ, 1209 West Highway 88, P.O. Box 1382.

Another reason for believing the Bible is the perfect character of Christ, as portrayed in the Scriptures. No stream can flow higher than its fountain source; and no imperfect human could have invented the perfect character of Jesus Christ.

The Bible does not just assert that He was perfect; it describes His perfect life in detail. It pictures Him under various circumstances and various trials. There has been no other person like Him, not even in literature.

"Never man spake like this man" (Jno. 7:46).

Several Christmas Programs Are Being Scheduled

Preliminary plans are under way for several Christmas programs this year.

A special committee of the Big Spring Pastor's Association met Thursday morning and laid plans for a parade and the court house lawn display. The YMCA will again produce its pageant.

The pastor's group is exploring the possibilities of resuming an annual religious parade in the downtown area during the Christmas season. The Chamber of Commerce has helped financially with this program in previous years.

The First Christian Church has prepared the manger display at the court house. This display is furnished by the Chamber with the church making necessary arrangements. However, a committee representing the various churches will probably handle the display this year.

The working committee for the YMCA pageant has already held initial meetings and plans are under way to build the set, make the costumes, and select a cast. Last year's cast members are now being contacted as the first step.

Problem Spiked

HAMBURG, Germany (AP)—Three high schools here told girl students they would have to quit wearing spike heels. The schools' lineoleum floors were taking a beating. The girls showed up on Thursday in spike heels, opened their satchels, took out flat heeled shoes, put them on, and went to classes.

Johnson Praises Space Personnel

STONEWALL, Tex. (AP)—Vice President Lyndon Johnson returned to his Central Texas ranch Thursday following the completion of another phase of his space age survey.

Johnson visited the Aerospace Medical Center in San Antonio and said the most impressive thing he has seen during his inspection tour has been the dedicated personnel.

Earlier this week he inspected space laboratories on the West Coast. He plans to make future trips to Cape Canaveral, Fla., and the Marshall Space Center at Huntsville, Ala.

Johnson is chairman of the National Aerospace Council.

Johnson, as a partial summary of his trips, said that there are at least two basic problems within the space industry:

One is training more young men and women in science and the other is the pirating of talent by private industry from government employment.

The vice president later attended a barbecue dinner in Taylor, also in Central Texas, in honor of Rep. Homer Thornberry, D-Tex., of Austin.

He plans to spend the rest of the week at his ranch. He will go to Houston Monday where he will be honored at a luncheon and receive a report from the U.S. Study Commission on Texas and its water problems.

During his San Antonio tour Johnson had an electrocardiogram taken and said the test showed there has been no change in his heart since a serious attack felled him in 1955.

Johnson declared that his survey convinced him that it is only a matter of time until the United States catches up with Russia.

"I am often asked when we will catch up with Russia," Johnson told reporters. "I don't know when but I do know from the type of men and women we are meeting on this trip there is no question but that we will do it."

Haley Loses Fight Against Textbooks

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Textbook Committee approved 71 public school books Thursday, including 24 opposed by historian J. Everett Haley and his Texans for America organization.

Haley opposed a number of geography, history and music books and a dictionary at a Sept. 14 textbook committee hearing. Fourteen of the 15 history texts he opposed were adopted.

The committee announced the selections Thursday after an all-day secret meeting Wednesday.

Most Syrians Say 'Good Riddance'

By DAVID LANCASHIRE
DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—About 70 per cent of Syria's people are glad to be out from the oppressive rule of President Nasser and his United Arab Republic, informed sources say.

The people were sick of the stiff import restrictions, crippling economic decrees, the secret police, terror and unheard-of income taxes imposed by Cairo.

The remainder of the population still stands by Nasser, these informants say. A small but vocal segment of Syria's 4½ million people, it consists of rabid Arab nationalists and Nasser-worshipping students.

Whether the revolutionary regime of Premier Mamoun Kuzbari can command the loyalty of the Nasser-hating majority is another question.

Composed of known rightists and professional men, the revolutionary cabinet may prove not revolutionary enough for some Syrians, possibly even for some segments of the army that installed it.

Despite the regime's neutral policy, 11 of Kuzbari's 12 ministers lean clearly to the West. Syrians are sensitive to accusations of imperialism or capitalism.

Kuzbari's cabinet faces troubles from Egypt, its partner in the U.A.R. until last week's military uprising dissolved those ties.

Nasser is expected to pour in money and agents to whip up dissent and work on Syrian feeling for Arab unity. Damascus once was the capital of Islam and these feelings may be even deeper in Syria than in the rest of the Arab world.

Nasser's powerful propaganda has lost some of its effectiveness in the last three years, however, and closer Syrian ties with neighboring Iraq and Jordan might be enough to offset it.

The Communists, who came close to ruling Syria four years ago, appear to have scant chance for a comeback at the moment.

The Communists were outlawed when Syria joined Nasser's U.A.R.

The party's heyday was in 1957, when Syria accepted $175 million in Red economic aid. About 400 technical experts from behind the Iron Curtain still are working on railways, dams and construction projects here.

Broken up and scattered during Nasser's rule, underground Communists made a bid this week to cash in on the week-old revolution. A party statement issued across the border in Lebanon pledged support to the revolution and demanded participation in the next elected government.

But Syrian political sources say they have learned their lesson and Parliament, expected to be elected within four months will keep the Communists suppressed.

Dropouts Big Problem For U.S. Colleges

WASHINGTON (AP)—Business is booming but half the customers walk out after sampling the merchandise.

That's one of the chief problems plaguing higher education today.

Every year the tide of college-bound students runs stronger, and enrollments rise by leaps and bounds.

But for every two students who start college, one will drop out before graduation.

Why? That's a question which has plagued college officials for years and it is plaguing them here at the annual meeting of the American Council on Education.

"We have been writing and talking about this for 40 years, and we still do not have the answer," Blanchard L. Rice, director of Cornell University said Thursday.

"What we do know is that 50 per cent of those who start college don't finish."

Less than one-third of the dropouts can be classified as academic failures. The others leave because they are unhappy, because they run out of money, because they get married, or because they are thinking of getting married.

"What we really need is better counseling and more exciting teaching, particularly at the freshman level."

Joseph C. McLain, principal of the Mamaroneck, N. Y., high school said he was not so much concerned about getting his top students into college as he was about what happens to them after they get there.

McLain cited a recent study which showed that of the top 30 per cent of the girl students, 50 per cent will graduate from high school, 50 per cent will start college and only 33 per cent will finish college.

Of the top 30 per cent of the boy students, 90 per cent will graduate from high school, 66 per cent will enter college and 50 per cent will graduate from college.

"This is a loss of talent which this nation cannot afford," McLain said. "There is no bigger problem facing the high schools and colleges today."

Successor To Step Up

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sam Rayburn's long, unchallenged reign as speaker of the House of Representatives apparently has cleared the way for an orderly succession by Majority Leader John W. McCormack to Rayburn's seat of power—at least temporarily.

The grip of the strong-willed, but kindly Texan on the speakership has been so strong no rival faction ever developed. And his tenure has been so long the ambitions of any potential rivals have cooled with age.

So, it would seem almost certain at this point that McCormack, a Bostonian, would follow the traditional upward path and ascend to the speaker's chair when Congress convenes Jan. 10 for the second half of its current session.

McCormack, 69, is already speaker pro tem by formal vote of the House. He was elected late last month when Rayburn was forced by illness to return to his home at Bonham, Tex. Rayburn is gravely ill with cancer and aides say his days may be sharply limited.

No predictions of harmony and order would be valid beyond the current session, however. McCormack, despite 21 years as Rayburn's lieutenant in the House Democratic leadership, has nothing like the solid support that made Rayburn speaker more than twice as long as any other man.

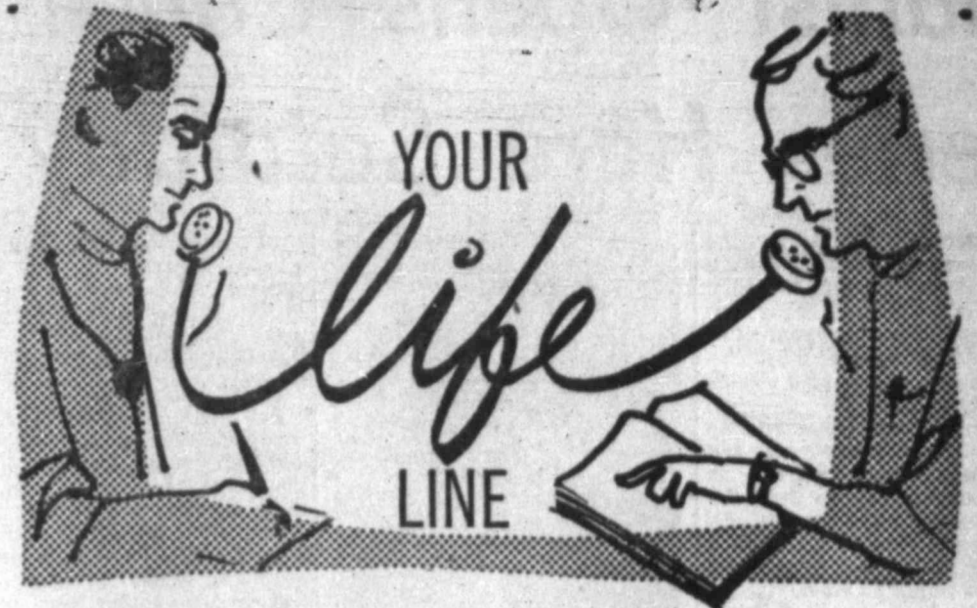

The dreams of power so long suppressed by strong and capable members of the House while Rayburn ruled the roost seemed bound to burst into reality. And a many-sided struggle for the job whose holder is third in line for the presidency should soon develop.

A possible obstacle to McCormack may be supplied by the White House. But, the possibility of President Kennedy intervening is considered a long-shot possibility at this point.

Kennedy and McCormack have been at political odds in the past in Boston, their home city. And, in the last session, McCormack antagonized the administration by insisting that parochial schools have some share in proposed federal aid to schools.

McCormack's view, shared by some other congressmen, was a key factor in helping cut the heart

Petmecky-Thomas Rites Performed In Evening

A ceremony uniting Jerri Nell Thomas and Lewis Adair Petmecky was solemnized Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Coahoma Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Thomas of Sand Springs. Petmecky is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. L. G. Petmecky of San Saba. All are former Coahoma residents.

Vows were exchanged in a double ring service performed by the bridegroom's father. Forming an arch, white wrought iron candelabra holding white tapers were placed on the altar. Flanking the lighted arch were white gladioli and emerald fern. White satin bows marked the pews.

Mrs. Champ Rainwater of Big Spring, organist, played traditional wedding marches and accompanied the soloist, Louis Loveless, who sang "I Love Thee" and "Because." He also sang "Wedding Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

Mr. Thomas accompanied his daughter to the altar, where he gave her in marriage. She was gowned in white Chantilly lace and tulle over satin fashioned with lace figurine bodice and bouffant floor-length skirt of tulle over satin. The scalloped portrait neckline was edged with lace. Lace inserts with matching lace applique were featured in the skirt. Her elbow-length mitts were also of matching lace. She wore a crown of lace embroidered in seed pearls, and fingertip veil of imported illusion.

She carried a white Bible with a cascade bouquet of white carnations and lily-of-the-valley centered with a white orchid. For "something old" the bride carried a lace handkerchief which her mother had carried at her wedding; something new, a necklace, gift from the bridegroom; something borrowed, her dress from Mrs. Harold Perdue; something blue, a friendship garter.

Attendants to the bride were Linda Thomas, the bride's sister, maid of honor, and Johnnie Lou Nichols of Sand Springs, bridesmaid. Both wore street-length dresses of coral brocade taffeta, styled with bell skirts, white gloves and headdress bows of coral brocade taffeta. They carried nosegays of white carnations trimmed with coral ribbon.

Ronnie Bingham of Big Spring served as best-man to the bridegroom and groomsmen was Boots Pennington of Dallas, cousin of the bridegroom.

Ushers were Billy Paul Thomas of Coahoma, cousin of the bride, and Jerry Hutchens of Big Spring.

Susan Smith of Odessa, flower girl, wore a white organza dress. She carried a flower basket adorned with fluffs of net. Walter Gene Rowe of Odessa was ring bearer. Both are cousins of the bride.

After the service, a reception was held in Fellowship Hall of the church. The honored couple and their parents formed the receiving line.

The refreshment table, spread with white lace cloth, featured crystal and silver appointments. Centering the table was an arrangement of coral edged white carnations.

Donna Cramer of Big Spring was in charge of the register. Mrs. P. F. Sheedy, Mrs. J. W. Wood, Mrs. Joe Whirley and Mrs. E. L. Reeves.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Farrar, the bride's grandparents from Midland; Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Birkhead and daughter, Camilla, Midland; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Smith, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Rowe, Mr. and Mrs. Seaburn McComas and family all of Odessa.

The couple left afterward on a wedding trip. For travel the bride chose a black and white tweed suit with box jacket trimmed with black fur collar. Her accessories were a black and white feathered hat, black shoes and purse, white gloves and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Petmecky will make their home in Austin at 1210 Trinity. Mrs. Petmecky, a graduate of Coahoma High School, attended Howard County Junior College and will continue study at the University of Texas.

A graduate of Sterling High School in Sterling, Petmecky attended Austin College in Sherman and H.C.J.C. He too will continue study at the University at Austin and will also be employed with Austin National Bank.

The next meeting is planned for Oct. 23 at 7:30 p.m., when installation will be conducted for the new officers. This will be held at the home of Mrs. Wooten.

as "sermons that I can see." A gift was presented to the speaker and to each of the four honorees.

Songs by Dorothy Wheeler entertained the group; Miss Wheeler, a student at Howard County Junior College, is attending on a scholarship presented to her by the B&PW Club. Robert Phelan was the accompanist for her solos.

A Devotional for Today

By one Spirit we are all baptized into one body, whether we be Jews or Gentiles, whether we be bond or free; and have been all made to drink into one Spirit. (1 Corinthians 12:13.)

PRAYER: We pray Thee, Father, that love and understanding may reign in our hearts in spite of our differences. Unite us in faith into one fellowship with Thee. In the redeeming and unifying spirit of Christ we pray. Amen.

(From The "Upper Room")

Saddening Prospect

News that Sam Rayburn, venerable speaker of the House, has incurable cancer comes as no great surprise but as a distinct shock.

By reason of his remarkable tenure, his rugged regimen, his sense of awareness and talent for leadership, Mr. Sam had almost contributed to an illusion of indestructibility. He had presided over the House of Representatives so long that it will be difficult to imagine the direction of that body without his firm hand.

Mr. Sam, in his long career of public service, had demonstrated his abilities as a practical politician. This, and his place of leadership in his party, has naturally collected some vocal critics over the years. By and large, however, Mr. Sam has enjoyed the respect of not only his constituents, but of the majority of the nation's citizens.

His record of fairness and firmness earned him not only the top spot in the House, but for many seasons the Democratic party turned to him habitually as the permanent chairman of its national convention. Consequently few people in the nation are better known.

It would be easy to speculate on what his removal from the scene will mean, but at this stage, propriety dictates that our concern be for his comfort and peace of mind in the remaining days allotted to him. Although saddening, it is inevitable that even the great trees must fall.

Civilization Marches On

Though civilization may seem to advance rather haltingly these days, with many a stumble on the brink of the abyss, the truth is that progress marches on apace. New gadgets continue to be produced in gratifying number. And if gadgets are not the measure of civilization, what is?

Consider, as but one of innumerable examples, the electrically propelled golf caddy. This triumph of technology has just come onto the market. It may not contribute much to solution of the Berlin crisis, but it certainly is going to ease the golfer's weary path.

This wheeled device, loaded with golf bags, will trundle briskly across the fairway from one lie to the next. And when the dub golfer swings, the electric caddy won't even look supercilious. Progress, as we say, marches on apace.

The Neutrals Are Waking Up To Facts

WASHINGTON — The so-called neutral governments are waking up. They are finding out that the people of the West aren't happy over instances of obvious unneutrality by this same bloc of nations. In rebuttal, explanations now are being offered in their behalf. It is indicated, for example, that the neutrals know very well that the West is right on such issues as nuclear tests but the "non-aligned" nations, as they call themselves now, fear Russia more than they do the United States. They claim they don't want to offend Moscow.

But something is happening inside this country which should not be overlooked by the "non-aligned" American public opinion is being offended. Sentiment is changing. "Foreign aid" as such had hard sledding in the last session of Congress. It will have an even more difficult time in the future. Many members of Congress believe it is in the national interest for this country to use its funds primarily to promote the security of the United States.

The record shows that in recent years a total of more than six billion dollars has been provided by the United States to the 24 so-called neutral nations in the form of economic and technical aid as well as military aid. Money for military purposes amounts to less than 15 per cent of the total.

WHAT HAS THE United States gotten out of all these funds? What benefits can the American taxpayers count on as a result of this spending? The answers usually given are vague. In a general way, it has been money spent to prevent a turn to the Soviet Union.

The situation contains elements of blackmail, and the neutral governments know it. First they talked boldly about refusing aid if there were any strings attached. This turned out to be difficult to define, for nobody knew when a diplomatic favor here and there could be called a string. And, besides, the Soviet Union never attached any strings in advance but merely went about its business as usual. The strings were contained in the neutral countries. The Soviet agents then make contact with local organizations and subsidize them and begin to influence international policies. Then comes the takeover of the national government by Communist stooges.

THE UNITED STATES, on the other hand, keeps hands off internal affairs and really tries to improve the economic status of the people through loans and grants that are fully publicized.

The "non-aligned" countries make a mistake in thinking that this form of aid will continue indefinitely. The first hint that American policy was becoming more realistic was contained in President Kennedy's recent statement when he signed the authorization for another year of foreign aid. He said:

"It is my belief that in the administration of these funds we should give great attention and consideration to those na-

No New Outflow On Horizon

NEW YORK (AP)—The cut in British interest rates this week coincides with renewed worries about the flow of short-term investment funds—and some gold—from U.S. shores.

The cut in London should help discourage any new rush such as the outflow of dollars and funds that a year ago caused doubts, quickly discounted, about the soundness of the U.S. dollar.

Some investment money has been going to London from the United States, New York bankers have reported in recent weeks. And in the last week the U.S. gold supply has dipped after a period of relative stability.

THE PRICE of gold on the London free market has risen and now stands 18 1/2 cents above the U.S. Treasury official rate of $35 an ounce.

The reason for the outflow of funds is that the British raised the Bank of England rate to 7 per cent July 25 from 5 1/2 per cent because the pound sterling was in trouble.

The Federal Reserve Bank discount rate was then, and still is, 3 per cent.

The spread between the two bank rates carries over into short-term securities. Recently British treasury bills have been yielding 6 1/2 per cent, while the yield on like U.S. securities has ranged from 2 1/2 to 3 per cent. The official bank rates set the pattern but don't determine the exact yields on various types of securities.

Some investors, including Americans, with idle money for short-term hire have taken advantage of the higher London rates. There also has been some flight of West German funds to London during the Berlin crisis.

AS A RESULT the pound sterling has rallied and Britain's reserves of gold and currency have climbed.

So Thursday the Bank of England cut its rate to 6 1/2 per cent, doubtless chiefly to ease restrictions on domestic business in Britain itself. The cut isn't a big enough drop to cause any great outflow of funds from London to other money centers, such as New York. But every little bit helps when the United States is trying to maintain its own currency and gold stability.

The drain on U.S. Treasury gold reserves stopped early this year after three years of troublesome outflows. During the summer the U.S. gold reserves held fairly steady.

However, the U.S. is still sending more dollars abroad than it is getting back, although this deficit has been pared sharply after three years of big ones. Until a firm balance is struck some financial observers will still worry about the future stability of the nation's reserves.

A Lesson On Women

NEW YORK (AP)—The things a man learns about women when he is young educates all his days and ways.

It was then, a time ago: There were the four of us, going home after school, in the time when arithmetic counted.

He, the other fellow, carried the other girl's books. Class for the day was done, and a feeling of recklessness swept the campus of the grammar school. I carried the real girl's books. Her name could have been Agnes.

Agnes wasn't the class clown or the school genius. She had brushed brown hair, the most languorous eyes in the fourth grade, and a sense of command. She was a great gal in her time. She had everything going for her—beauty, freckles, charm, and a boy to carry her books home.

I felt mighty proud the first time I was allowed to walk Agnes home, even though she wasn't too good at short division and she spelled by hearsay.

But day after day all she talked about was herself and her own dreams. She never asked about mine.

It occurred to me that all I was doing was listening to her, and her books were getting heavier and heavier. Time was invisibly throwing dishwater on my romance.

So was Agnes. "You're the smallest boy in the class, Harold," she said. "I'm at least a head taller than you. It's embarrassing. Can't you grow any faster?"

"I'll try, Agnes," I answered manfully. Easier said than done. In those days many horses still pulled many wagons in the streets. Now and then a worn-out horse would collapse in midcity, fall upon the street, kick briefly at his tangled harness, then lie quiet—the ultimate in the dignity of workhorse.

On a day going home from school we came upon such a horse, fallen in the street and quivering. It lay there at the end of its will and its ability—dubious, nonviolent, unprotesting, saved from total despair only by the roving eye of aimless hope.

Agnes didn't see the way I did. She walked blithely over, kicked the horse where its mane met its shoulder and said, "Get up, horse! Get up!"

The horse couldn't get up. Agnes walked on home undisturbed, uninvolved. Her books were a burden heavy and hateful, and I never carried them again.

Across 40 years I remember I learned about women from her. Later experiences taught kinder lessons.

Nerves Could Cause Little Blisters

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D. "Dear Dr. Molner: What causes outbreaks of 'little blisters' on the hands?—Mrs. J. M."

There's a substantial observation among many doctors, and I'm sure I'm not exaggerating when I say "nearly all doctors," that this is the sort of thing that often has some connection with jitters.

I am not saying that "nerves" is the sole cause, but I can't help concluding that "nerves" can hold the balance of power. We know that tension has all sorts of physical effects. Nervousness has the nasty and natural habit of jumping in as a "trigger" for some condition that hasn't quite had the steam to break out under its own power.

Skin irritations, stomach upsets, headaches and asthma are outstanding examples of this sort of problem. Today we're discussing skin.

I have the strongest belief in the reality of "psychosomatic ailments," but I sometimes lose patience with people who put all the emphasis on the "psycho" and ignore completely the "somatic." The whole point of the word, of the idea, is that many of our problems are a mixture of BOTH.

When a tense, high-strung individual has persistent skin troubles, it is no less than common sense to try to help that person live a more placid, calm life, and to quit trying to be a perfectionist. Sedatives or tranquilizers may help for a bit.

The "somatic," or physical condition is still there, too.

So for these "little blisters" on the hands, and sometimes elsewhere, here are some of the possibilities:

Allergy — sensitivity to something you touch. Poison ivy is obvious; but other plants, even potted ones in the house, may have a milder effect. Metal, jewelry, paint, glue or stain used in a hobby are just a few other possibilities.

Another is nummular eczema or "housewife's eczema," which doesn't happen to be limited to housewives. Anyone with a naturally dry skin who frequently gets the hands wet is a possible candidate for little patches of blisters or rash. The defatting action of soap and water can bring them, too. Doctors, dentists and dishwashers sometimes encounter this problem.

Are you taking medicine? Aspirin, headache remedies, tonics, laxatives, vitamins, or any medication have reactions in some people. Oddly, sometimes a drug will cause a rash or skin reaction to appear again and again in the same spot. It's known as a "fixed drug eruption."

There are still other possibilities: sensitivity to sun, nutritional deficiencies and some rather uncommon metabolic conditions. To help sort out the likely from the unlikely, consult a skin specialist. Often one visit will do more good than six months of hunting around for the cause by trial and error.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is a person in a coma capable of hearing and knowing what is going on around him?—E. D."

No—but there can be such a thing as a borderline condition, someone rising into the semi-conscious state, hearing and understanding brief snatches of conversation, yet giving no sign of consciousness. Not often—but sometimes. For that reason I make it a rule never to say, in the presence of an unconscious person, anything I wouldn't say if I knew him to be awake and listening.

What are ulcers? How should they be treated? What can you do to help rid yourself of ulcers and stay rid of them? For answers, read Dr. Molner's helpful new booklet, "How to Heal Peptic Ulcers and Keep Them Healed." For your copy write to Dr. Molner in care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 29 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Does Man Share The Doomsday Instinct?

News reports during Hurricane Carla told of a man who survived the floods by spending several days on the roof of a cowshed.

The strangest impression to this survivor was the behavior of the animals who shared the roof with him. Most of them were grass and leaf-eaters, but some carnivores were among them, and a few species ordinarily are to be feared, even by man—especially a helpless, unarmed man caught on a cowshed.

BUT THE ANIMALS were not at their usual behavior. What we assume to be their most basic natural instincts apparently had been extinguished by an intuitive power that goes even deeper than instinct. There was no fighting, no quarreling, no attempts by the carnivores to feed upon the trapped and helpless squirrels and rabbits. Not even the snakes gave any bother.

Similar behavior among natural beasts has been observed at many times and in many places; for example, the common peril of a forest fire in America, during which mixed groups of survivors have found a safe place to hide, and the meat eaters are without hunger. Let there be a drought in Africa, and all the animals move together toward the drying rivers and water holes, or move out of the country. As long as dire peril exists to all living things, the law of the jungle is suspended, and even the tigers go hungry.

IN THIS there may be a lesson. There may be a hope for the race of man, who now sits astride the razor's edge, not knowing whether to jump into the bone-yard or the cornucopia. Man and all his fellow creatures are faced with possible annihilation—yet, man may not yet have lost that most basic instinct that shows itself in the face of Doomsday.

And then, again, maybe man has lost it, or never had it. The fellow on the cowshed pushed away horses and cattle who attempted to board, even though the other animals were preparing to make room for more. The lone human being among them did this for no cruel reason, but only for fear that the large animals' weight would crush the shed and drown them all. Thus, reason prevailed over instinct.

IF TIGERS DO NOT eat when drought drives the animals from the land, men do. This may mean that man does not share the Doomsday instinct; or it may mean that his reason overrides it. It creates a host of puzzling thoughts:

Will the common instinct hold back the finger that sets off the first missile fired in anger; or will reason hold it back; or will man's intrinsic evil drive that finger into the firing button?

The Association Of The Atom And Adam

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. — Ever since nuclear fission ushered in a new world, man has been assailed by his fears and vanity over the effect of close association of the atom on the old Adam.

Let it be said at once that in this community of 27,000 where everyone lives and works with the atom around the clock, sterility is no problem. Indeed, Margaret Sanger may yet feel a call to duty here.

This community supports a high school with 1,400 pupils, two junior highs and eight grade schools. The lying-in section of its hospital is its busiest.

Naturally, this is reassuring for those who work with the atom. But what about men and women who would suffer doses of radiation in case of a nuclear war? Ah, that is something else again. It is a subject under intensive study in the biology and the agricultural departments of the Oak Ridge National Laboratory.

SCIENTISTS LONG to know what the genetic effects of radiation on the descendants of Hiroshima and Nagasaki will be a thousand years from now. Scientists first went to work with the fruit fly, which produces an astounding number of generations in no time at all. This was dandy until it was discovered that the fruit fly's tolerance of radiation doses was 15 times as high as man's.

So scientists here switched to that wee, sleekit, cowrin', timtrotus beastie, the mouse, which increases and multiplies with commendable rapidity, too. The mice colony in the biological laboratory at almost any given time numbers 150,000 of the beasties, all card indexed and IBMed. No scientist in the lab can even guess how many millions of mice have given their all to the lab since its inception.

ALSO UNDER THE "Mammalian (that means you and me!) Radiation Recovery Program" is a project dear to the "civilian" heart—a pill to cure radiation sickness. Is there any such specific yet in this wicked world? The answer is "yes" and "no."

A synthetic chemical christened AET has been invented that will permit a mammal to take a lethal dose of radiation provided that mammal has taken AET in sufficient dosage BEFORE receiving the otherwise lethal dose. Remember, it must be taken BEFORE and not AFTER!

But, says the spokesman for the biology department, "AET has not been used on any large scale with humans" who, understandably, are reluctant to be guinea pigs for lethal doses of radiation even when they have had the right amount of AET BEFORE radiation.

NOW, LET US SKIP to the agricultural laboratory, where scientists are studying the effect of radiation on cattle exposed to radiation at Alamogordo's first atomic explosion in 1945. Five are still living. And for what consolation it may give the old Adam, one cow in this herd dropped a normal calf every year for 14 successive years.

Of a herd of 100 cattle returned from Nevada testing grounds, 60 were subjected to varying amounts of radiation; 40 were not. Now, four years later, the 60 exposed to radiation weigh 100 pounds or about 16 per cent less than the 40 that were unexposed. Only now are deaths beginning to occur more frequently in the 60 than in the 40.

"YOU CAN TELL there's a difference. But we don't know why," said the spokesman of the agricultural laboratory. "That's what we're investigating." In this department, too, a scientific diet can change, beneficially, the distribution of fission products in a cow if the diet is received BEFORE radiation. It has little effect AFTER radiation.

As for encouragement for the old Adam, one of the liveliest legends in Oak Ridge concerns the exploits of a bull, christened Adam, that survived the Hiroshima blast and was brought here to enjoy a remarkable old age.

Nixon Is Dogged By Misfortune

WASHINGTON—The qualities that have brought Richard Nixon to the top—discipline, perseverance, a shrewd and ready intellect—are so conspicuous that his loyal admirers are often puzzled by the fact that he is dogged by misfortune.

His bad luck in confronting former Gov. Goodwin J. Knight in the Republican primary in a painful way. For the titular head of his party, or one who by all rights should after the extraordinarily close race he ran last year be titular head, the primary ought to have been plain sailing.

In his native state, which he carried in '60 by a squeak margin, his should have been a clear track. But the ghost of elections past has risen to plague him, and it will continue to plague him not only in the primary but in the fiercely fought campaign that follows next year.

KNIGHT WAS DEEPLY embittered in 1950 by what appeared to him to be a deal concocted in Washington. At that time Knight was comfortably settled in the governor's office, with every likelihood that he would be re-elected to a second term. The presidential ambitions of another Californian, the then senior senator, William F. Knowland, came into play with Knowland believing his chances would be better in the governorship than in the Senate.

The result was a game of musical chairs, with Knight compelled to try for the Senate and Knowland running for governor. Now and then Knight and Knowland seemed to be running against each other rather than on the same ticket. The Democratic candidate for governor, Edmund G. (Pat) Brown, won by a majority of more than a million.

HOW MUCH NIXON had to do with that "deal" has never been publicly known. But for Knight and for many other Republicans and for Democrats in California he was the principal villain.

There is every reason to believe that Nixon did not want to run for governor. He has a right to expect that he would be the central figure of his party and the spokesman for the GOP on national issues without having to risk his whole future on an uncertain election. But here again the vice president's bad luck is conspicuous.

Having during his eight years in the presidency been indifferent to politics and the practicalities of who gets what and why, Gen. Eisenhower was expected when he retired in January to step right out of the political picture. As has been widely noted, however, he continues to be the star and his interest in politics is far greater than when he occupied the most powerful political office in the world. At a political rally recently he attacked the Kennedy administration in a speech that seemed wholly out of character for the serene hero who had presided with such benign detachment over America's destiny.

INEVITABLY THIS dwarfs Nixon's role and it must further cover a relationship that has been none too happy since 1952 when Gen. Eisenhower let Nixon dangle in a suspense over the charges that business friends had given him a secret fund. Many Republicans believe, along with shrewd appraisers in the Kennedy camp, that if President Eisenhower had not waited until the last two weeks to campaign for Nixon the outcome would have been different. If he had started, say, in early October he could have swung the narrow margin essential to victory.

Now Nixon is committed, and Knight appears to be committed, too, in a do-or-die struggle. This is bound to have its bruising effects. But this observer will venture a rash prophecy. If Nixon wins big in California next year, he will be the Presidential nominee of his party in 1964.

SHOULD THE Kennedy Administration have strong popular backing, Nixon might not want the dubious privilege of running a second time against President Kennedy. Given the split in the Republican party between the eastern liberals and internationalists and the Goldwater isolationists in the West and South, he will have no choice but to accept the prize as the only compromise choice.

The very qualities of discipline and self-determination that have made him so successful in a place just below the top keep the principal prize out of his reach. The family resemblance to Thomas E. Dewey has been noted. After his second try for the presidency, Dewey went in for what Nixon in a recent interview referred to as the big money and with remarkable success. The big money was a temptation for Nixon. But putting it behind him he is now launched on the second phase of an extraordinary career. Copyright, 1961, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

THE NEED AND CONSEQUENCES OF GROWING IN THE KNOWLEDGE OF CHRIST

Scripture—Matthew 11:28-30; Luke 9:51-56; I Corinthians 3:1-4; Philippians 3:14-17.

By N. SPEER JONES

Christ traveled at this time was quite large, consisting of at least the twelve disciples "and also some women who had been healed" (Luke 8:1-2). For such a large party it was necessary to send ahead to make arrangements for accommodations.

Although the Samaritans were not fond of the Jews, they did accommodate them on their pilgrimages to Jerusalem for the feasts. It was not the size of Christ's party that was objectionable to them, it was Jesus Himself, Whom they had heard about.

The passage from Corinthians points up the difference between Christians in their degree of growth. Paul is not speaking to heathens here, but to Christians. Yet they are still "babes in Christ," immature Christians, who need milk, not the solid food of the deepest Christian.

By finding this humility of spirit, Christians grow in their

We have been drafted into the service and love of Christ without force, sword or martial law. II Corinthians 3:14 "The love of Christ constraineth us; because we judge thus, that if one died for all, then were all dead". The force which compels us, the constraint which requires us to obey the gospel of Christ is NOT against but rather is of our own will. We do not obey Christ under protest. The service we are brought to render to Christ is one of loyalty and devotion, doing His will without question! Walpole wrote, "In my youth I thought of writing a satire on mankind but now in my age I think I should write an apology". Christ came to redeem us There is ONE mediator, I Tim. 2:5 (he stands between man and God—it is God's own will). We have an ADVOCATE with the father—I John 2:13 (He stands by our side, representing our case) He is our PROPITIATION I John 2: (He went AHEAD and died for us) A knowledge of Christ as our RANSOM—(The price paid for redemption of LOST MANKIND!) Know these truths by the Bible and accept them by FAITH and OBEY THE GOSPEL. II Thess. 1:7-9, I Pet. 4:17 and your knowledge exceeds all of the worldly wisdom which has gotten mankind into such a depth of perdition that he fears to live! One writer said, "Man is to be trained chiefly by studying and knowing man" BUT this is WRONG BECAUSE—man has sinned and as a transgressor of God's laws he is a poor subject to study for the purpose of becoming elevated, ransomed, saved. The study of man within itself is a poor study. "Looking to Jesus the author and finisher of our faith"—Heb. 12:1-2, "Set your affections on things above and not on the earth" Col. 3:1. Another writer said, "The despise our own race is the price we must pay for a knowledge of it". To some people this is true. To the Christian, like Christ himself there is no hatred of the race but abundant sympathy begetting an effort through the gospel to save the lost! You cannot accept the Bible without accepting these truths for these ARE BIBLE TRUTHS.

Crestview Baptist To Dedicate New Building

By JOE BEYER

More than a year and a half of working and hoping comes to a climax Sunday with the dedication service of the new Crestview Baptist Church. Hoping began in March, 1959 when the plot of ground for the church was purchased by the Northside Baptist Church.

Although services have been held at the church since Sept. 10, work has continued and now only a few classrooms still need paint, according to Rev. R. B. Murray, pastor.

Dedication day will begin as any other Sunday, Rev. Murray said, with Sunday school and regular worship services. Members of the church will serve a barbecue dinner, with all the trimmings, on the church grounds beginning at noon. At 2 p.m. there will be a service in the auditorium at which contractors and members of the building committee present a breakdown of the cost to the congregation. Rev. Cecil C. Rhodes, guest speaker, will then greet visitors.

"We would like everyone to come out and spend the day in services and fellowship," Rev. Murray said. "We are proud of our new church and want everyone to see it. The members of the congregation have worked hard for it."

A tour of the building is scheduled after the afternoon meeting and the rest of the day will be spent in fellowship at the church grounds. Training Union and an evening closing session will end the revival.

Work on the church, located on a three-acre plot, began June 4 with a groundbreaking ceremony. Since then work on the $60,000 building has progressed steadily.

"Actual costs on the church are only about $43,000," Rev. Murray said, "but by the time one figures in the cost of voluntary labor and donated materials, $60,000 is a more reasonable estimate."

Construction of the building was supervised by Pioneer Builders.

The east wing contains the auditorium, with a capacity of 250, (25 chairs are added) the pastor's study and adult classrooms. The south wing has classrooms for other departments.

The congregation of the Northside Baptist Church, most of which now live in the area surrounding the new church, retained its membership with the move.

Home Mission Service Set At Church Of Nazarene

Rev. Raymond Hurn, superintendent of the Abilene District Church of the Nazarene, will conduct one of 30 Home Mission emphasis services in the local church, 14th and Lancaster, tonight at 7:30 p.m.

Before his election to the superintendency, he served as pastor for 16 years in Kansas, Oklahoma, Georgia, and Oregon. During his pastorate at Norman, Okla., he served as chaplain in the Central State Hospital, and also established the Nazarene Student Fellowship at the University of Oklahoma. He graduated from Bethany Nazarene College, and took graduate work at the University of Tulsa.

Also featured in the Home Mission Emphasis program will be three home mission pastors: Rev. Bill Duke, Lubbock; Rev. W. E. Rhodes, Graham; and Rev. Dee Freeborn, Haltom City.

According to Rev. W. M. Dorrough, pastor, the local Church of the Nazarene has 105 church members and is an enthusiastic supporter of the District Home Mission program, having contributed $1,380 during the past year toward the District and Home Missions budget. The Big Spring church is one of 90 in this district.

X15 Pilots Honored

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Two pilots were honored Thursday for pioneering flights in the X15 rocket plane. They are Maj. Robert M. White of the Air Force Flight Test Center and Joseph A. Walker of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration Research Center. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, commander of the Air Force Systems command, awarded White a Distinguished Flying Cross and Walker an Air Force Exceptional Civilian Service Award.

Quick Frozen Grapefruit

Gayle Southerland of Brownsville displays individually quick frozen grapefruit sections that defrost quickly into firm fresh fruit. Previous attempts to freeze whole citrus have always failed because tiny cells ruptured and defrosted fruit was mushy. The new method is expected eventually to supplant the time honored method of marketing citrus in its own skin.

Military Speakers Given Boundaries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has decreed that military speakers at private seminars must stick to military subjects, avoid partisan expressions and must not challenge established policy. McNamara drew these and other boundaries Thursday for military participation in seminars and other information programs sponsored by nongovernmental groups. He left with local commanders the responsibility for determining whether military personnel, equipment and facilities should be allowed to take part in such activities. But he specified that no military organization may sponsor or co-sponsor such programs unless he or a service secretary expressly approves.

Space Potential Called Great

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—One of the nation's top space experts said here Thursday night that the United States has "foundation facilities, and confidence to move ahead in space faster than the Russians." The speaker was Lt. Gen. Howell M. Estes, deputy commander of Air Force Systems Command for Aerospace Systems. He spoke to Rotarians from West Texas and Eastern New Mexico gathering in Lubbock for an annual meeting. Outlining the machinery of aerospace and missile programs so vast it almost defies imagination, Gen. Estes warned, "I want you to realize most clearly that freedom never comes cheap. It is today far more expensive in expendable manpower and money resources than ever before."

Uruguay Clamps Down On Reds

MONTVIDEO, Uruguay (AP)—The government has clamped restrictions on the size and movements of the Soviet Union's diplomatic staff in Uruguay. The National Executive Council ruled Thursday that the foreign office will determine the number of personnel the Soviets will be allowed to maintain on its diplomatic staff in accordance with the size of other diplomatic missions in Uruguay. At present there are about 60 persons on the Soviet legation staff here. An official announcement said Soviet diplomats must get special permission from the foreign office to travel farther than 25 miles from Montevideo and at no time will they be allowed within 25 miles of the Uruguayan frontier, except when traveling on the international highway. All mail packages addressed to the Soviet legation will be inspected by Uruguayan postal and customs authorities, the government said.

Flash Freezing Promises Citrus Industry Advance

BROWNSVILLE (AP) — Development of a new freezing technique which will preserve individual sections of citrus fruit in frozen form has been announced by two local firms. The announcement said the new method promises to stimulate increased use of citrus, particularly grapefruit, and could revolutionize marketing processes of the multi-million dollar crop. Many Sanchez, president of the Brownsville Shrimp Exchange and Cold Storage Corp., and Larry Lightner, local citrus grower and shipper, said the process involves the flash freezing of the tree-ripened citrus sections. They said previous attempts to freeze citrus has resulted in ruptured cells, and when the product was defrosted, it turned to mush. They said the new process, which involves flash freezing of individual grapefruit, orange or tangerine sections results in excellent appearance and flavor. The development and processing techniques were worked out by Lightner and the BSE & CS plant manager Jack Loff. Loff said the defrosted sections look and taste as natural as if prepared from whole fresh fruit. He said a sweetener is added where needed for flavor control.

Liberte To Make Her Last Voyage

PARIS (AP)—The French Line has announced that the Liberte will leave New York Nov. 10 for her last voyage as a luxury liner. After returning to France, the Liberte will be stripped of its furniture and fittings and put up at auction for scrap. The 51,480-ton Liberte was first put into service in 1939 by the North German Lloyd Company under the name Europa. Seized by the United States during the war, the Europa was turned over to France as war reparations, remodeled and put into service under the French flag in 1951. The Liberte will be replaced by the new superliner France, sailing Feb. 3 on her maiden voyage.

Stage Designer Injured In Fall

NEW YORK (AP)—Peter Wexler, designer who arranged the sets for the Shakespeare production at the White House Wednesday night, was injured Thursday in a 26-foot fall onto the stage of Radio City Music Hall. Wexler, 24, suffered a concussion, fractured ribs and cuts and bruises. At Roosevelt Hospital, his condition was described as fair. A Music Hall spokesman said Wexler apparently slipped from a platform while painting scenery for the theater's next show.

Thurber Rests After Surgery

NEW YORK (AP) — Humorist James Thurber rested comfortably Thursday night at Doctors Hospital after undergoing surgery for removal of a blood clot on his brain. Although Thurber had a steady pulse and normal blood pressure, the hospital continued to list his condition as critical. The Ohio-born Thurber, 66, collapsed in his hotel room Wednesday. Thurber came to New York in 1925 and became famous through his stories and drawings in the New Yorker magazine. He has been blind in recent years.

Air Age Lowers Proposed Building

DALLAS (AP)—The First National Bank will slice almost 100 feet off the height of its proposed 50-story skyscraper to keep it from becoming a navigational hazard to Love Field air traffic. An FAA spokesman said Thursday the bank would reduce the height of the building at street level from 706 to 609.5 feet.

Soviets Set Off Biggest Explosion

PARIS (AP)—The Soviet Union today staged its 18th and by far the largest nuclear test in its current series. French government detection services reported. The blast was 1 1/2 times the strength of the last test Wednesday, the detectors said. The last test was reported to have been several megatons in strength. A megaton is equivalent to a million tons of TNT. The Soviet Union resumed testing Sept. 1 after a long halt while nuclear test ban talks were going on in Geneva.

Open House For New Parsonage

The First Baptist Church is observing open house for the new parsonage Sunday from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. The parsonage is located on Coronado Drive in the southwest part of the addition. Members and other interested people are invited to inspect it during these hours, said R. B. Reeder, building chairman, and Merrill Creighton, who supervised its construction. Bob Heinze is the contractor. During next week the Rev. Robert F. Polk and family will move here from Bryan and occupy the house.

There Is No Substitute

Whether you use a painting and decorating contractor or do-it-yourself, there is the right quality paint for your particular job. Don't be confused by extravagant promotions! Quality paint has:

- Durability — resists peeling and cracking
  - Scrubability — stands up under scrubbing
  - Color Integrity — resists fading
  - Hiding Power — covers fully, levels readily
- To be sure of the job, be sure of the paint. Insist on quality paint, made by reputable manufacturers, sold by reputable paint dealers or used by reputable painting contractors.

Misdirected Aid Blamed For Troubles

DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—A British expert on African education said today "misdirected generosity" by American philanthropists has posed a threat to education in developing countries of the continent.

Dr. John F. Lockwood also declared that British-patterned schooling in British Africa has created an inflated prestige for the "white collar job," however humble, at the expense of agricultural development.

In an address prepared for a Duke University symposium on the health, education, economic and other problems of the world's one billion children, Dr. Lockwood, of the University of London, asserted:

"One cause of a good deal of anxiety during the last two years (in Africa) has been the sometimes 'brash intrusiveness'—as an American friend called it—of a number of American philanthropic and other bodies into the African scene with offers of scholarships and bursaries to take young Africans to the United States.

"Some of these offers have been thoroughly welcome," said Lockwood, long-time leader in furthering education in Africa.

"But where they tend in the direction of drawing off students from the indigenous (native) institutions, they have threatened to obstruct the growth of these institutions.

"It cannot be wisdom to hamper such growth. Philanthropy and misdirected generosity can prove disastrous. Happily, signs have appeared of a greater sense of discretion and discrimination in these awards."

Dr. Lockwood said that primary and secondary education in British Africa tends "to be modeled on the traditional British pattern."

He added this pattern has created a souped-up prestige for the "white collar job."

The Duke Symposium, featuring talks by international experts in various fields, was arranged to honor Dr. Wilburt C. Davison, internationally known pediatrician, who recently retired as dean of Duke's Medical School.

Dr. Davison was honored at a banquet Thursday night attended by 1,000 persons, including heiress Doris Duke, a member of the tobacco family which created the university.

Paralysis Victim Takes Top Honors In State Fair Art

DALLAS (AP)—Richard H. Rogers, confined to a wheelchair by partial paralysis, won top honors Thursday night in the Texas painting and sculpture competition.

Rogers, 20, who was handicapped by paralysis following an auto accident five years ago, received the State Fair of Texas purchase prize of $1,000 for a 175-pound 8-foot tall welded steel figure called Golgotha. It is an imaginative interpretation of the crucifixion.

Rogers, of San Antonio, has both legs paralyzed and hand movements so limited he can hardly lift a toothbrush.

He is a junior at Trinity University and has been studying sculpture less than a year.

His work of art, which won the prize from 515 other entries by Texas artists, is fashioned out of used pipe, old bumpers, pieces of bent fenders and other steel items from the junk yard.
