LONELY SPOT IN THE HILLS
... Where JFK Will Visit In Eastern Oklahoma

IN OKLAHOMA President Will Dedicate Road

BIG CEDAR, Okla. (AP)—President Kennedy is scheduled to arrive in the wilderness Sunday to dedicate a new road, talk with Oklahoma leaders, and maybe patch a political fence or two. Kennedy will speak about 1:15 p.m. EST at ceremonies dedicating Oklahoma Highway 103 through the Ouachita National Forest.

The ceremonies will be held in this tiny community which can count only one house and one country store.

There are no restaurants or hotels, no telephones or even drinking fountains in Big Cedar. Closest facilities are about 20 miles away.

The 50,000 persons expected to show up for the President's speech were urged to bring a box lunch, a jug of water, and have themselves a picnic.

Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., and other prominent Oklahomans are convinced, however, that the hilly, heavily wooded area of eastern Oklahoma can be turned into another Canaan.

Kerr has long taken a lead in getting the rivers dammed and the roughest spots smoothed out so industries can be lured into the area.

Kerr smoothed out a pretty good sized chunk of it for himself, building a $350,000 mansion on the side of Winding Stair Mountain about six miles south of Poteau and 25 miles north of Big Cedar.

Kennedy will spend Sunday night in this 9-bedroom, 13-bathroom house that is headquarters for the senator's 55,000-acre black Angus cattle ranch.

Also serving as host will be Oklahoma's young Gov. J. Howard Edmondson, 35, who has been close to the Kennedy family.

A third host will be Rep. Carl Albert, the Democratic whip of the House whose district stretches over the Ouachita and Kiamichi Mountains where the new road runs.

Reviewing The Big Spring Week
With Joe Pickle

With our string of football victories snapped, it would be easy to be resigned to the idea that all good things must end. Maybe, but we like the phrase once popularized by Scarlett O'Hara—"tomorrow's another day."

The cotton harvest, seldom later here, seems at last to be hitting its stride. Saturday gin yards were almost inundated by a wave of cotton. One reason for the slowness is the large percentage of the crop which will be harvested mechanically (by strippers). While it won't affect yields materially, it will reduce the volume of braccio labor.

The pattern of violent deaths continued through the week. Last weekend Fredrico H. Coronado, 29, of Levelland was killed in a two-car collision 16 1/2 miles north of Lamesa. Roy V. Brown, 40, itinerant painter from Cleburne, died after an altercation in the railroad yards here, and Lewis Davis, an Oklahoman, was charged with murder.

Our United Fund leaders are re-groupping forces for cleanup work this week. If contacts can be made on cards still outstanding, campaign chairman Marvin Miller is confident that the goal can be reached—perhaps by the end of this week. Meanwhile, neighboring cities last week got their UP appeals under way—Mitchell County seeking $24,000 and Dawson County $39,000.

It was almost like the passing of an era—the death of Mrs. Mary

Cambodians Threaten To Join Commies

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—Prince Norodom Sihanouk, who has severed diplomatic relations with Thailand, threatened Saturday to make a complete break with the non-Communist world.

The neutralist chief of government in a radio address bitterly complained that the United States will not permit military aid granted Cambodia to be used against neighboring Thailand.

"American military aid, in effect, does not permit us to defend our liberty and independence except in the unique cases when we are attacked by Communists, who in the present case do not menace us," he said.

The prince declared he already had warned "the free world, and the United States in particular, that Cambodia will never give in before the menaces of its neighbors and all those who attack our neutrality and our independence."

The prince severed relations with Thailand Monday after Thai Premier Sarit Thanarat charged that Cambodia was being used as a base for Communist attacks against neighbors. Later, the Cambodian Foreign Ministry offered to open its borders to prove no Communists were operating in Cambodia.

(Government officials in South Viet Nam Saturday charged Cambodian militia invaded Wednesday 110 miles southwest of Saigon, the Vietnamese capital. They said one Cambodian was killed and three were captured in a minor clash.)

"This appeal to make the free world understand is my last appeal," the prince said. "I point out that there is nothing but some twenty millions of dollars in American aid that still ties us to the free world."

"If the United States wishes to persuade itself that we are disinterested, let them take back this aid, which is accompanied by too much suffering."

Fall Fatal To Adolph Spreckels

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Adolph Bernard Spreckels II, an heir to a multimillion-dollar sugar fortune, died Saturday of a brain hemorrhage.

Police said Spreckels fell after leaving the cocktail lounge of a plush motel, striking his head against a stone pillar.

Dr. Frank Vigil, assistant county medical examiner, said the hemorrhage apparently was the result of the fall and head injury.

'Postcard Girl' Gets Home Job In Peace Corps

WASHINGTON (AP)—A young woman whose post card touched off a furor about the Peace Corps in Nigeria, will stay with the corps—in Washington.

The announcement Friday that Margery Michelmore, 23, would be assigned here came shortly after it was disclosed that President Kennedy had written her a brief letter of encouragement.

Miss Michelmore of Foxboro, Mass., was among a group of Peace Corps teachers assigned to Nigeria. She wrote a post card describing living conditions in the African country as primitive and apparently dropped it. Nigerian students at Ibadan University came in possession of the card and promptly demanded ouster of all corps teachers.

Water Group To Hold Meeting

MALLEN (AP)—The Texas Water Conservation Association will hold its annual meeting here Nov. 5-6.

President Max Starcke of Austin led the meeting "is fittingly placed in the Lower Rio Grande Valley where the people know what water is worth."

Col. L. H. Hewitt of El Paso, U.S. boundary and water commissioner, will speak.

Farmers, ranchers and businessmen and engineers from over the state will attend.

AF Plane Defies Reds In Flights Over East Berlin

Reds Plan To Go Ahead With Big Bomb Test

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev has implied the Soviet Union will go ahead with the explosion of a 50-megaton nuclear bomb despite what he called the hysterical clamor of bourgeois propaganda and the concern "of even fair-minded people."

In the face of world appeals to halt Soviet nuclear testing, Khrushchev declared before the Soviet party congress Friday that the Soviet Union "cannot refrain from carrying out those tests" because of what he called preparations for war by the Western Allies.

Khrushchev had said previously the 50-megaton nuclear bomb—

WASHINGTON (AP)—The fallout cloud from Russia's 30-50 megaton nuclear explosion was carried by weather Bureau observers Saturday and headed eastward along the northern states toward the Great Lakes.

The invisible mass of radioactive debris is expected to take a couple of days to cross the United States from the Pacific to the Atlantic.

An estimated 200 miles wide, it passed over Washington, Oregon and northern California early Saturday and headed across the northern states toward southeastern Canada.

Robert List, a Weather Bureau fallout expert, estimated it was being carried by winds of about 80 m.p.h. Rain or snow along some parts of the cloud's path, List said, "could wash some of its radioactive particles to earth."

"We would be surprised if we get any more debris from this than any other Russian explosion," he said however.

equal to 50 million tons of TNT—might be fired Monday or Tuesday.

The premier's statement came before the U.N. General Assembly voted 87-41 urging cancellation of the superbomb test.

The text of his speech was withheld from publication until Saturday night.

Khrushchev denounced as "strange logic" assertions that the Soviet nuclear tests with their accompanying fallout were crimes against humanity in view of U.S. atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki in World War II.

He called this an act of "senseless brutality and without any military necessity" and said "some American politicians were and still are proud of this mass killing."

He said the Soviet decision to resume nuclear testing "was precipitated by all who cherish peace and refuse to shut their eyes to the dangerous intrigues of the enemies of peace."

"In adopting that decision," he said, "the Soviet government realized, of course, that the reasons which made it renew the tests would not be understood immediately by all. Indeed, today even fair-minded people express concern over the consequences of the nuclear explosions that are being carried out."

He said "imperialist propaganda" has been taking advantage of the humane sentiments of "certain fair-minded people abroad (who) have been unable to see their way clear in the complicated international situation."

Allies Urged To Beef Up Armed Power

LONDON (AP)—The United States has urged West Germany, Britain and France to meet the Soviet threat to Berlin with the biggest buildup of military power in Europe ever seen in time of peace.

Dependable sources, reporting this Saturday, said U.S. Deputy Defense Secretary Roswell Gilpatric outlined the buildup in a weeklong swing through West Europe.

The program already has brought the United States to semi-mobilization. The sources said the movement of 57,000 new U.S. troops to Europe is under way and an additional two to six divisions may follow around the first of the year.

These reinforcements for six U.S. divisions already in West Germany are designed to show the Soviet Union that the United States means to fight in defense of Berlin, if necessary.

An added although unspoken implication of the rundown Gilpatric gave to Defense Ministers Franz Josef Strauss of West Germany, Pierre Messmer of France and Harold Watkinson of Britain is that the three countries should contribute more to Allied power in Europe.

Gilpatric ended his talks evidently hopeful that:

1. West Germany will act swiftly to help fill the present $200 million gap between U.S. spending and earnings in deutschmarks.
2. France soon will assign two extra divisions withdrawn from Algeria, to the supreme Allied commander in Europe, Gen. Lauris Norstad.
3. Britain will strengthen its strategic military reserve and step up training of reservists. The present intention of ending conscription this year may be reviewed.

The pattern of Gilpatric's talks in Bonn, Paris and London suggested the performances of these countries do not yet match their capabilities.

Final Big Push Planned To Wind Up UF Campaign

Volunteers move into the most intensive week of the United Fund, determined to carry the campaign "over the top" by Friday. This is the wind-up date which has been set by Chairman Marvin M. Miller, and he has scores of workers who will be striving to meet it.

A special team — men and women included — gathers Monday morning for a review of prospect cards in the general or metropolitan division, and there will be a determined effort to reach more people who have not yet been contacted.

The November 1 pay day is expected to bring a sharp jump in pledges made by employees in various categories.

Saturday, normally a dull day at the campaign office, was brightened with news of a major gift from the Howard County Beer Distributors Assn. They turned in a contribution of $600, and this represents 100 per cent participation in the group.

The Fund campaign, with this addition, stood at $2,278,12.

A goal of $105,000 is established, to meet operating funds for 12 welfare agencies during the next year, and to meet a $2,500 commitment from the community to aid victims of Hurricane Carla.

A review of various divisions by leaders Thursday indicated that the quota can be met easily.

"All that is needed is for every citizen to do his fair share," said Miller. "This is not unreasonable, and if it happens, we will have a resounding community success."

End Of Castro's Regime Forecast

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Six refugees from the Fidel Castro regime in Cuba Saturday predicted the downfall of the bearded dictator's government by Christmas.

However, they either couldn't or wouldn't give any further details.

The six—rescued after high wind and rough seas thwarted their effort to reach the United States in a sailboat—arrived here aboard a Coast Guard cutter.

The 33-foot sailboat, being towed by the cutter Kimball, disappeared and apparently sank Thursday night. They left Cuba last Saturday.

The six are Pablo Hernandez, 38; Maria Martinez, 16; Carlos Arancibia Jr., 43; Carlos Arancibia Sr., 14; Federico Avila, 24, and Ramon Soto, 40.

Dudley Underwood, immigration inspector, said the Washington office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service, after getting copies of their statements, had decided they were only refugees and ordered them released.

The end of the Castro government within the next two months was predicted in a brief interview with newsmen following their release.

"By Christmas the Castro government will be destroyed," Avila, a former Cuban engineer, said. He did not elaborate.

Avila continued: "We all know Castro is a communist. He is at present teaching government officials the Russian language and indoctrinating them with the philosophy of Karl Marx and the USSR."

Avila also said Castro had ordered Cuban school teachers to begin teaching English.

"Castro said the United States would soon become a socialistic

Tanks Retreat From Positions

BERLIN (AP)—The U. S. Air Force sent a plane circling over Berlin at low level Saturday, reasserting American rights to fly there despite a Soviet protest. The two big powers had ended a 16-hour warlike face-down only a short time before by withdrawing tanks from Berlin's perilous border front. Through the night the tanks' guns had pointed at one another at pointblank range of 200 yards.

New Tropical Storm Grows

MIAMI (AP)—Hurricane Hattie, lashing the western Caribbean with winds up to 125 miles per hour, headed northward Saturday toward Cuba.

The season's eighth tropical storm was about 900 miles south of Florida Saturday afternoon.

An 11 a.m. advisory reported it centered 125 miles east of Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua, and 425 miles southwest of Kingston, Jamaica.

Hattie may cause floods in Jamaica within 24 hours, the advisory warned. Small craft in the northwestern Caribbean were cautioned to remain in port.

The Weather Bureau reported Hattie had intensified "and is now a dangerous storm."

Forecasters estimated it would take Hattie two or three days to reach Cuba unless it increased its speed substantially. It is on a northerly course at 7 m.p.h.

Rain squalls and stiff winds raked south Florida.

REDS WITHDRAW

The 10 big Soviet tanks were the first to withdraw from the Friedrichstrasse checkpoint.

About 75 minutes after the Soviet behemoths withdrew to a point 1,200 yards away and out of sight, the four U. S. Patton tanks that had been facing them pulled back to a point 800 yards from the frontier, and the atmosphere at the checkpoint suddenly became relaxed.

Less than an hour and a half after Berliners drew a long sigh of relief, a U. S. C-47 transport plane circled repeatedly at 600 feet over the Soviet tank concentration in East Berlin. It had the look of a new test, this time in the air, of Soviet Berlin intentions.

The flight came in a matter of hours after a Soviet protest on U. S. helicopter flights over East Berlin, described by the Russians as violation of East German airspace. The United States insists on Allied air as well as land rights in the whole city of Berlin.

The C-47 overflew took place in warm, sunny mid-afternoon weather. The plane took off from Tempelhof Airport. The two-engine ship circled East Berlin for 10 minutes and about 10 times over the area where the Soviet tanks were nesting.

Brig. Gen. Frederick O. Hartel, U. S. troop commander in Berlin, watched the plane from U. S. checkpoint Charlie at Friedrichstrasse. Then, less than half an hour later, the C-47 appeared again, this time flying much deeper into East Berlin but at a higher altitude. It circled and flew back West.

A U. S. spokesman would say only that the C-47 followed a normal flight pattern into East Berlin. He would not comment on its purpose, except to say "we cannot release" information on that. He added the flight adhered to agreed four-power flight regulations.

PROTEST CERTAIN

If the Russians are protesting helicopter flights as violations of East German air space, they are all the more likely to react unfavorably to low-altitude flights by military planes into East Berlin. He would not comment on its purpose, except to say "we cannot release" information on that. He added the flight adhered to agreed four-power flight regulations.

Satellite To Be Orbiting

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 150-pound, cigar-shaped satellite carrying communications components will be placed into orbit from Cape Canaveral, Fla., in the next few weeks to test the readiness of Project Mercury's worldwide tracking network.

The Mercury program, operated by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, has as its ultimate goal the sending of a three-man spacecraft to the moon and returning it by 1970.

A four-stage solid-propellant launch vehicle will be used to place the satellite into an elliptical orbit around the earth—400 miles away at its farthest point. The payload will remain attached to the 64-pound burned-out fourth-stage casing. The total weight in orbit will be 24 pounds.

During the satellite's first three orbits around the earth, its equipment will broadcast signals to be picked up by Mercury network stations in the United States, Mexico, Bermuda and Australia.

The tank face-down ended with a last fleeting minute of electric tension as Soviet tankmen started their motors. At that moment U. S. tankmen were on the alert, but it was soon apparent the Russians were going to withdraw.

While a tense crowd of West Berliners watched from a distance, East German police — Vopos—began clearing away a small knot of East Berliners from the area of the Soviet tanks. Something was about to happen, and a chill went through the spectators.

Then jocular Soviet tank men began shaking hands all around. The Soviets, in their black coveralls, climbed into the hatches of their machines and started the motors. They started forward for a moment, while watching U. S. tankmen on the West tense. Then the Soviets pulled away.

Quickly a U. S. Army sedan with five uniformed Americans passed across the checkpoint and drove into East Berlin in the oily path of the Soviet tank.

U. S. cars—and Soviet military cars as well—had been probing and checking across the border all through the night. A group of East German army officers came to the sector border and looked over the situation.

Winter To Make Its Debut Today

First real sample of winter was forecast for today and tonight by the U.S. Weather Bureau. A cold wave pushing through the middle west should hit Big Spring by noon today. It is expected to bring cold, cloudiness, occasional rains and rapidly falling temperatures.

Sunday night, the coldness will increase and there is a chance of light snow mixed with the rains which are slated for late in the evening. The temperature on Sunday night should drop to 34 degrees, the weather bureau estimated.

Monday, the Bureau said, will be cloudy and cold with the dampness continuing.

The blustery wintry storm was churning eastward from the Central Rockies Saturday.

Whipping winds piled up a broad band of snow from the Central Rockies into Montana and at higher elevations in Nevada.

The Kansas City Weather Bureau issued a warning to stockmen and travelers of strong northerly winds and heavy snow Saturday night and Sunday over portions of the Rockies and Central Plains.

Heavy snow was forecast for mountain areas of Wyoming and Colorado.

High winds and blowing dust were forecast for New Mexico.

An overnight freeze nipped parts of the East, but a warming trend sent the mercury climbing into the 50s and 60s during the day.

At Concord, N.H. the mercury zoomed from 19 to 54 during the day. The Philadelphia airport had a record low reading for the date of 36 degrees.

Building up behind the snow storm, colder air from Canada was expected to pour across the border into the Rockies and Plains on the tail of gusty northerly winds.

East of the snow storm, a brisk current of moist air funneled up into the Mississippi Valley and Great Lakes regions, triggering showers.

Dry conditions were the rule along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

Shutdown Of Chrysler Is Threatened

DETROIT (AP)—Disputes over working conditions in the plants plagued the United Auto Workers Union Saturday as it sought to wrap up a new labor contract with Chrysler Corp. by Halloween.

Unless an agreement is reached by Tuesday night, the UAW's executive Board will serve on Chrysler a 48-hour notice of contract termination. This would mean a Thursday strike deadline.

The board Friday night put off setting a strike deadline to allow more time for a peaceful settlement and avoid a third strike in the auto industry. The board said it took into account Chrysler's financial position. The company lost $20.5 million in the first nine months this year.

Disputes over work rules at both the national and local level shut down GM two weeks in September and Ford Motor Co for 13 days earlier this month. Similar disputes have held up final ratification of American Motors Corp.'s profit-sharing pact with the UAW.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther decided on a new strategy in dealing with Chrysler. Reuther and the union agreed to dispose of local issues first and then bargain on wages and benefits.

But the company and union reached the showdown phase of bargaining without a national settlement on wages and still lacking local settlements at 12 of the union's 88 bargaining units in Chrysler plants.

DEMOS MEET WITH CHAIRMAN OF STATE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE John Wallace, left, Douglas Orme, Judge Ed Carpenter, Mrs. Martin Binder, Connolly

Demo Chairman Says Party Will Be Vigorous In 1962

The Democratic party will be more vigorous than ever in next year's elections, Ed Connolly, Abilene, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, told two dozen county Democratic leaders here Saturday.

Recent defections to the Republicans in Texas have been publicized beyond their true significance, he said, "because most of them were Republicans already."

Connolly said that he was pleased to see a Republican organization shaping and thought it would be a good thing, adding wryly, "so long as it remains in the minority. And I am confident that it will continue to be just that."

He predicted that Democrats would maintain a tradition of battling it out within the party over nominees and issues but would unite on candidates and platforms after the primaries are over.

In Speaker Sam Rayburn's words, he appealed for Democrats without pre-fix or suffix.

"It looks like there will be plenty of candidates to choose from in the Democratic primaries — for governor, lieutenant governor and other posts. I hope that Democrats will vigorously support their favorites in the primary, then unite solidly in the general election. We are going to work harder than before."

Some have criticized the administration for slowness, but they have mistaken caution for timidity, he said. With a period of orientation passed, he forecast increasing bolder attacks on problems, both foreign and domestic.

Regarding Republican gains, he declared: "Sure they have grown, and they will continue to grow as the state grows. But our analysis, based on gubernatorial races, shows that the Democratic party has grown far faster."

In a question period, Connolly urged individual Democrats to take the initiative, to speak up "for we have the right to criticize even within our own party." He was hopeful that election code reforms would be executed by the next legislature; that so far as he knew the only other impending congressional resignation in Texas would be that of Frank Icard of Wichita Falls late in November; that divergent views within the Democratic party had and would continue to result in a balanced program.

Connolly was presented by Frank Hardesty, county Democratic chairman, who lauded him as "the man who has done more to unite the party than any other Democrat I know. He has done a great job." Mrs. Martin Binder, district committee woman from Big Spring, who presided, was praised by Connolly. "She has," he said, "done a great job and I hope we can have her for many more years." The Dutch treat affair was held at the Big Spring Country Club. Dean Johnson, Abilene, assistant to Rep. Omar Burleson, came here with Connolly.

Red Spokesman Cites Need Of 'New Blood'

MOSCOW (AP)—With an attack on Y. M. Molotov and other oldsters of the antiparty group, a top Soviet Communist party leader said Saturday the time has come to inject new blood into the party.

Frol Kozlov, ranking secretary of the party's central committee after Premier Khrushchev, told the party's 22nd congress its leadership needs "a steady flow of new, promising people with initiative."

He indicated that there would be a sweeping away of dead wood in the party as well as the probable ouster from the party of the antiparty group—which lost to Khrushchev in a power struggle in 1957.

"Leading party bodies must with a firm hand be rid of those who have been longer on the job than is good for the party, who have come to believe that there is no one who can replace them, have stopped in their progress and, although unable to cope with the work entrusted to them, cling to their leading positions," Kozlov declared.

After assailing Molotov, former Premier Georgi Malenkov and former Deputy Premier Lazar Kaganovich of the antiparty group, Kozlov indicated that the party leadership had resisted attempts to legislate for periodic purges of party membership.

"Such a measure is unnecessary," he said. "The party is strong enough, ideologically and organizationally, to clear its ranks of those who violate the program or the rules without purges."

Kozlov directed most of his criticism at Molotov, now a delegate to the International Atomic Energy Commission in Vienna.

Kozlov said Molotov has displayed a "special zeal" in defending his views denounced as Stalinist and antimodernist.

"He even characterized the new (party) program as anti-revolutionary in its spirit," Kozlov asserted.

Kozlov reviewed that part of the party rule book that provides that the central committee and the party Presidium must have an influx of new members at all regular elections of not less than 25 per cent of its membership. The Presidium members will not be elected for more than three successive terms under the new rules.

Kozlov stressed however that the rules exempt "experienced leaders enjoying high esteem" — such as Khrushchev. He said such leaders could be re-elected by general election at least three quarters of the votes in a secret ballot.

Variance Granted For Church Plan

The Big Spring Zoning Board of Adjustment, in a called meeting Friday at 3 p.m., granted a variance in backlot clearance for an addition to the First Presbyterian Church at Russells and Eighth streets.

The board voted unanimously to grant the variance if the addition conformed to the type structure used in the old building. The addition is a continuation of the old building.

The hearing was asked in order to allow the architect to complete plans for the building.

Non-Essential, Doubtful And Wrong

By T. H. Tarbet, preacher, Church of Christ, 2900 West Highway 84 P.O. Box 1282.

To 45 people who responded to heaven's invitation during our revival, just closed, it meant they were getting on the right road. So Sunday morning (10:45) my sermon shall be, "Now that you are on the Right Road."

It should be of interest, not only to these 45, but to all who have any interest in traveling the right road. First we shall see from the Bible, what every person who is on this road has done to get there. Then we shall consider the problem of staying on the right road and of reaching the desired destination — heaven.

Sunday evening at 7 my subject shall be, "Some things that are Non-Essential, Doubtful and Wrong." It too, will be a Bible sermon purely. Are you afraid to hear the Bible? Are you afraid to face up to what the Bible condemns? If you should be holding to things that are non-essential, doubtful and wrong, would you want to know it? If you love the truth, you would. And those who love not the truth are sent a strong delusion that they might believe a lie and be damned. See II Thess. 2:10-12.

Welcome to our services. —Adv.

Leaders At IAPES Conference

Left to right: Glenn Bunn, personnel officer at the Big Spring State Hospital; Raymond Brown, field assistant, Bureau of Apprenticeship Training, Department of Labor, El Paso; W. B. Fleck, manager of Industrial Relations, General Tire and Rubber Co., Odessa; Hays Bacus, personnel officer, VA Hospital, Big Spring and Leon Kinney, chairman of the institute planning committee. All but Kinney were guest speakers on the two-day meeting of the IAPES here on Friday and Saturday.

Human Rights Must Remain Paramount, Club Is Told

Preservation of the rights and dignities of the individual is an issue of paramount concern to America today. A. C. Akins, Odessa industrialist, said Saturday.

Speakers before the luncheon meeting of the San Angelo District Club, International Association of Personnel in Employment Security, Akins declared that the United States is the greatest and best nation in the world and must be preserved as such.

He warned that even if the population explosion so much discussed doubles or triples the population of this nation, it must still be kept clear that each man and woman is an individual — not just a statistic on the records of the population.

The preservation of human rights and the dignity that is the individual's is the one way to perpetuate the American way of life.

Akins spoke at the Cosden Country Club at the closing meeting of the ninth annual IAPES district meeting. He was presented by W. A. Hazelwood, president of the San Angelo District Club.

Sixty-two members of the club were in attendance at the Friday and Saturday sessions of the club and more than 40 attended the luncheon which brought the meeting to a close.

Leon Kinney, who was president of the club last year and who arranged for this year's program, was presented with a gift by his fellow members as a token of appreciation.

The club will meet in 1962 in San Angelo at the San Angelo College.

At the Friday night meeting, Dr. W. A. Hunt, president of HCJC, welcomed the guests to the college and to Big Spring. C. N. Haskew, the president of the San Angelo District Club, responded to the welcome.

Fred Wendt, president of the Texas chapter of the IAPES, was special speaker and discussed the opportunities for service in meeting of the challenges of the sixties.

Initial forum session on Friday night dealt with the challenges to education. Dr. Hunt outlined the challenges and Sam Anderson, superintendent of the Big Spring Independent School District and Ben Johnson, HCJC dean, discussed how these challenges are being met at the public school and college levels.

W. Hays Bacus, personnel officer for the Veterans Administration Hospital, presided at the opening forum session on Saturday morning. The topic was "Meeting Employment Requirements and Job Needs." Speakers were W. B. Fleck, who is manager of Industrial Relations for the General Tire and Rubber Co., of Odessa; Glenn Bunn, personnel director for the Big Spring State Hospital and Raymond L. Brown, field assistant in the Bureau of Apprenticeship Training, U. S. Department of Labor, at El Paso.

Closing forum session, presided over by the Rev. Donald N. Hungerford, of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, was devoted to "Meeting the Challenges to Community Life." Francis Flint, manager of the Big Spring YMCA, and Carroll Davidson, manager of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce,

She lived in Martin County since 1942, coming here from Stockdale. She married Dewey Anderson in Stockdale on Dec. 11, 1939. Mrs. Anderson was born Sept. 23, 1912 at Form, Ark.

DECISION SATURDAY Senate Election Is Bitterly-Fought

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—San Antonio chooses a congressman next Saturday in an election that follows one of the sharpest liberal vs. conservative fights in Texas history.

The campaign of Democratic state Sen. Henry Gonzalez and Republican lawyer John Goode Jr. has been in striking contrast to the typical Texas election in which each candidate tries to convince the voter that he is more moderate than the next middle-of-the-roader.

Gonzalez, 44, has hitched himself firmly to the New Frontier programs of the Kennedy administration, for which he campaigned last year.

"I would like to go to Washington as an enthusiastic Democrat carrying a message to the President that the people of Bexar County think that the party he leads is doing a good job," Gonzalez said.

Goode, 38, came out against "federal control of agriculture, our school system, medical care—in any field where state and local governments are doing the job that needs to be done."

"Our tax revenues should go to defense, not into social experiments," he said.

Goode and Gonzalez have largely ignored the other three candidates. The high man will win regardless of whether he gets a majority.

The other three, all Democrats, are rare book dealer Norman Brock, 53; printer Ernest Cude, 54; and retired veterinarian G. H. Allen, 78.

Gonzalez has endorsements from President Kennedy, Vice President Lyndon Johnson, Sen. Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex.), Gov. Price Daniel, several Texas congressmen and organized labor.

Former President Dwight Eisenhower is due here Sunday to campaign for Goode personally.

Eisenhower may speak to a crowd which Republicans expect at the airport for his arrival, and to appear three times for Goode Monday, the day's campaigning to be climaxed by a rally in front of the Alamo.

Tech Plans Its Homecoming For This Weekend

LUBBOCK—Texas Tech will be humming this week with preparations for its annual Homecoming Friday and Saturday.

Festivities will feature appearances scheduled Friday by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The vice president is to address a dinner of the Tech Century Club, an Ex-Students Association organization, and crown Tech's Homecoming Queen in public ceremonies at 8:30 p.m. in front of the Science Building.

Class reunions will be held Friday night following the coronation. Classes of 1945 through 1961 will gather in the Union Building. Classes of 1925 through 1944 will have a reunion dance in the Caprock Hotel.

A homecoming parade will begin at 10 a.m. Saturday to wind its way through downtown Lubbock and out to the Tech campus. Exes will be guests at a luncheon at 11:30 a.m. Saturday in Lubbock Municipal Coliseum.

Tech's Red Raiders will meet the Rice Owls in a Southwest Conference football game at 2 p.m. in Jones Stadium. The homecoming dance is set for 8 p.m.

Cubans Rescued, Finally Reach U.S.

BROWNSVILLE (AP)—Six Cubans, rescued after high winds and rough seas defeated their efforts to reach the United States in a sailboat—arrived Saturday aboard a Coast Guard cutter.

The 23-foot sailboat, being towed by the cutter Kimball, disappeared and apparently sank Thursday night.

Dudley Underwood, immigration inspector, who questioned the refugees, said the six told him they were fleeing Cuba because they were "dissatisfied with the Castro government." They said they left Cuba last Saturday.

Judge Succumbs

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP)—Dist. Judge Robert Stephen Vance, 48, died Saturday after a long illness.

Pope Says A Daily Prayer For All Newborn Babies

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII, nearing his 80th birthday, prays daily for every newborn baby in the world.

The pontiff, elected to the papal throne just three years ago Saturday, disclosed this to newsmen this week in a special audience he described as a family affair.

His broad, good-natured face beamed—several times he smiled and chuckled—the Pope spoke casually.

"You know," he said, "at 80, sleep does not always come as it does to a baby."

It is then, while waiting for sleep he said, that he turns to newspapers, books, or prayer. He prays for the world in those moments, he added, with the comment that his daily prayers include the entire 15 mysteries of the Rosary. He said that while contemplating the third mystery—the Birth of Christ—he dedicates his prayers to newborn babies.

"Those prayers," he said, "I devote to all the babies born in the preceding 24 hours. This way, I pray for all of them."

Earlier, in a formal address in French to the newsmen, who had come to give their birthday greetings, the pontiff urged dedication to truth.

"By working for truth," he said, "you will also be working for human fraternity. Because it is error and the lie that divide men."

Next week, combined celebrations will be observed here to honor Pope John's birthday and the anniversary of his election as the supreme ruler of the Roman Catholic Church. Highlight of the observance will be a papa a capella in St. Peter's Basilica next Saturday.

Pope John was born Nov. 25, 1881, at Sotto il Monte, a little town in northern Italy, whose names mean "Under the Mount." He was elected Pope Oct. 28, 1958 and crowned seven days later, on Nov. 4.

Saturday morning, recovering from a case of the sniffles, the Pope celebrated Mass in his private chapel. At noon, Vatican radio broadcast a two-minute anniversary address by the Pope in which he greeted bishops and members of the Roman Catholic Church throughout the world.

Scout Training Session Slated

A basic training session for cub masters, den mothers and others interested in Scout work will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the old Student Union Building at Howard County Junior College.

Pack and Den achievement will be studied. Instructors will be Capt. Charles I. Lillie and Ronnie Downey, both of Webb Air Force Base.

and the Rev. Hungerford were the speakers.

The institute was the ninth meeting of its kind. Leon Kinney, manager of the Texas Employment Commission office of Big Spring, was chairman of the committee on arrangements. He was assisted by Jack Hatch, Jeff Collier and Roscoe Gillean.

Thanksgiving Proclaimed By President Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy called upon all citizens Saturday to observe Thanksgiving Day Nov. 23 in a manner "not only to preserve our blessings, but also to extend them to the four corners of the earth."

"Let us by our example, as well as by our material aid, assist all peoples of all nations who are striving to achieve a better life in freedom," Kennedy said in his formal proclamation.

He urged all citizens to make this Thanksgiving not merely a holiday from their labors, but rather a day of contemplation, to be observed "with reverence and with prayer."

Divorce Grounds Idea Assaulted

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The president of the American Association of Marriage Counselors says all legal grounds for divorce should be discarded.

Dr. David R. Mace, associated professor of the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine, said that he would end marriages only after thorough examination by well-trained advisors has shown the marriage to be unworkable.

"The idea of husband and wife as adversaries is entirely contrary to all principles of marriage and should never enter divorce proceedings," he told Florida marriage counselors at a seminar.

Just as the country's early pioneers faced perils, Kennedy said, awesome perils again remain to be faced, but he added:

"Yet we have, as in the past, ample reason to be thankful for the abundance of our blessings. We are grateful for the blessings of faith and health and strength and for the imperishable spiritual gifts of love and hope. We give thanks, too, for our freedom as a nation; for the strength of our arms and the faith of our friends; for the beliefs and confidence we share; for our determination to stand firmly for what we believe to be right, and to resist mightily what we believe to be base; and for the heritage of liberty bequeathed by our ancestors which we are privileged to preserve for our children and our children's children."

Webb Airman Winner Of Top Show Prize

After a three way tie, Airman J.C. Jerry Stephenson, Air Base Group, walked off with the "best of the show" prize at the Webb AFB hobby show last week.

The judges — Lt. Col. Beverly V. Pearson, Mrs. Charles W. Head Jr., and Mrs. Wilson H. Banks— had awarded equal numbers of points to three entries making it a three way tie.

Stephenson's entry — a decorated dish — will be entered in ATC competition at Randolph AFB. He received a ceramic figurine, a certificate of recognition, and a quantity of ceramic supplies.

First Supersonic Trainers Due At Webb By End Of Week

Within the week Webb AFB is expected to receive its first T-38 Talon supersonic training planes, the successors to the workhorse T-33 twin engine jet trainers.

Representatives of Northrop, developer and manufacturer of the new plane, are due here Friday, and the schedule calls for Col. Wilson Banks, wing commander, to receive the first pair of planes Saturday morning.

In steady sequence, other T-38s will follow until more than three score are on hand. The shift to the T-38s for student training will not take place until next spring; meantime instructors will be mastering the sleek craft capable of going faster than the speed of sound.

Already 10 Webb pilots have completed the T-38 instructor's course at Randolph AFB, and returned to Webb. Another six pilots are enrolled for the course at Randolph and will complete their training in six weeks. Captains Richard H. Miller and Donald L. Michels were held over at Randolph upon completion of the course and assigned as instructors.

MORE TRAINING

Back from Randolph are Col. Benjamin F. Yeargin Jr.; Captains Ivan D. Appleby, Howard D. Austin, Niles A. Carter, James A. Chestnut, Sam P. Colquitt, Robert F. Daley and Jerry Welch.

Currently in the class in training on the T-38 are Captains John B. Dak, Alan G. Broughton, Robert C. Hogan, Norman D. Peters, and Paul J. Plucinsky.

The course at Randolph requires approximately six weeks and includes 35 hours of flying time. As the pilots complete the course and return to Webb, they are given students from the T-33 pilots. This will continue until all Webb T-33 pilots have been qualified as T-38 instructors.

When Webb reaches its authorized T-38 pilot strength, there will be 75 qualified pilot-instructors ready to meet the four classes of students as the T-37 training is completed. The first of these student classes on the T-38 is scheduled to begin on Feb. 9, 1962. The small group of students recently sent to Randolph for training on the T-38 went primarily as a test.

The Air Training Command has been training pilots in the highly competent but subsonic T-33. Air Training Command officials realized that student pilots trained on the subsonic basic aircraft lacked the experience necessary for safe transition to the high speed century series—the F-100; he is not physically, or mentally, prepared for maneuvers at Mach 1.5 and up.

ATC believes the T-38 to be the answer. It has a low landing speed, short take-off requirements, a high rate of climb, and wide mission flexibility. This means the student, now, can have the benefit of those flying techniques peculiar to the aircraft he will fly, while he is yet in training.

This sleek trainer is a two-place Mach 1.2 aircraft, powered by two General Electric J46 engines, equipped with after-burners; it has a 7.5 thrust to weight ratio, and the capability to climb at the rate of 30,000 feet per minute—and a ceiling of 55,000 feet.

Racial Integration Makes Long Strides At Texas U.

AUSTIN (AP)—Since a Negro mailman went to court 15 years ago to protest racial segregation at the University of Texas, the school has become the South's most desegregated state university.

"It is my honest opinion that this is true," Dr. Joseph Smiley, president of the university, said.

A Negro, Gwen Jordan, became the first of her race last week to be elected to the Student Assembly. In the same election, students voted 5,312 to 3,293 in favor of allowing Negroes to play on varsity athletic teams, although the vote does not bind the regents.

Many of the school's 20,000 students assert the school has not integrated far enough or fast enough.

Virtually all of the 300 or so Negro students think more needs to be done toward giving them full access to all university facilities and activities, including housing.

The latest open instance of Negro resentment to present racial barriers was a sit-down demonstration last week, in which about 60 Negro students sat for an hour in the lounge of Kin-solving women's dormitory.

49th To Stage First Review

FT. POLK, La. (AP)—The 49th Armored Division holds Wednesday its first formal review since the troops left civilian pursuits two weeks ago.

And to test the sometimes spectacular communications of a crash-type division, a single voice will control the division which at one point will be spread across 10 miles of Louisiana hills.

The voice will be that of Maj. Gen. Harley West of Dallas, controlling 15,000 largely Texan troops.

The National Guard outfit reported for extended active duty Oct. 15 and streamed into Ft. Polk in force a week ago. Pentagon orders are that the atomic-capable division get itself in fighting shape within 12 more weeks.

The division itself is scheduled to have slightly more than 14,000 men. But Gen. West, chief of the 49th, eventually will control about 25,000 troops, including attached units and those assigned otherwise to Ft. Polk, which he also commands.

The Pentagon called up the division at the beginning of the Berlin crisis. At that time, the officers and men were considered one of the top six National Guard divisions.

The Reformation

October 31 has come to be regarded as the birthday of the Protestant Reformation. It was on that day, in 1517, that Martin Luther nailed his 95 theses on the door of the Castle Church in Wittenberg.

What was Martin Luther's great discovery? It was the cardinal doctrine of the Bible: "Therefore we conclude that a man is justified by faith, without the deeds of the law." Romans 3:28.

For hundreds of years the established church had taught that man was saved by faith plus deeds. Luther discovered that the Bible taught salvation alone by faith.

"By grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves; it is the gift of God, not of works, lest any man should boast." Ephesians 2:8. Also Romans 11:6.

It was the Reformation of Martin Luther that once more brought this fundamental Bible doctrine into the light of day. Protestant America will have fallen on evil days, when once it surrenders one jot of this primary doctrine of the Christian faith.

If you would like to know more about the teachings of the Christian religion, if you have no church affiliation and are in need of spiritual counsel, please write us.

Thank you, Texas Newspapers!

For 20 years, Texas newspapers have been giving the government free space in which to advertise U. S. Savings Bonds.

You've seen the ads: you save more than money with U. S. Savings Bonds. Those ads have sold an impressive number of bonds in Texas, bonds that have helped, and are helping, your government defend freedom at a precarious moment in history, when freedom is in desperate need of defending.

When you buy these bonds you serve well the cause of liberty. You enable your country to build up her own defenses without doing damage to her economy. You insure the future for this and succeeding generations.

The space occupied by the ads that sold those bonds was donated to your government — and that means to you — by the newspapers of Texas.

We thought you'd like to know.

"The public-spirited newspapers of Texas have made an important contribution to the well-being of this country," says Ed Gossett, Co-Chairman of the Texas State Savings Bond Committee.

"We are happy to salute the generous newspapers of this State. They have done their part, and more, in giving the public an understanding of the importance of Savings Bonds — to individual buyers, and to the cause of freedom. And they have certainly made this Committee's job easier."

The 31-year-old fire truck, left, and the 36-year-old one at right, would be retired from service by the City of Big Spring, under recommendations of the State Board of Insurance in Austin. Key rate credit for them has been removed from insurance premiums. Howard Dodd, driver, and Fire Marshal A. D. Meador are in the 31-year-old pumper, left, and Barney Lopez, driver, and Fire Chief H. V. Crocker are in the 36-year-old. Both are Seagraves pumpers.

City Fire Insurance Costs To Be Raised

A five-cent charge will be added to Big Spring's key rate on fire insurance, according to recommendations made by the State Board of Insurance.

The break-down shows a one-cent charge will be added until the 1.5 million gallon storage tank for the business area is completed; a two-cent charge is recommended because of a 21 per cent deficiency in fire fighting personnel, and two cents because of the lack of a ladder truck.

City Manager A. K. Steinheimer and Mayor Lee O. Rogers, received copies of the recommendation from George C. Hawley, chief engineer for the rate and casualty section of the state board. Recommendations for improvement, and reasons for extra charges, according to Hawley, follow:

RECOMMENDATIONS

"The increase in the population of Big Spring since the last inspection results in the elevated tank scheduled for next year, however, will bring it back up to requirements. A 1-cent increase in charges is now in order in your key rate until such time as the new tank is in service.

"The main and hydrant improvements under construction at the time of the inspection will help considerably. However, mains and hydrants in the principal mercantile district are still in need of improvement. We are enclosing a map with our recommendations, and urge that special effort be directed to eliminating the deficiencies.

"We recommend that plans for inspecting and painting all fire hydrants this year be carried out. We also recommend that each hydrant be tested for gallons-per-minute flow and all that flow less than 500 g.p.m. be painted red, 500 to 1,000 g.p.m. painted orange, and over 1,000 g.p.m. painted green.

INCREASE

"The increase in population also increases the number of paid firemen required. At the time of the last inspection the department was 13 per cent deficient in full paid firemen and a 1-cent charge now appears in the key rate. The fire department is now 21 per cent deficient and a 2-cent charge is in order in the rate.

"To eliminate the charge, 10 additional firemen would have to be hired. To reduce the deficiency back to 13 per cent, with a 1-cent charge, four additional firemen would be needed. As the city grows, more firemen must be hired to keep up with the growth.

"The city's two oldest fire trucks, the 1928 and 1930 Seagraves, should be retired from service. We are removing the credit allowed in key rate for these two trucks. Two new 750 g.p.m. triple combination pumpers should be purchased as soon as finances permit.

"The city has been needing a standard 65-foot aerial truck for a long time and at the present time there is a 2-cent charge now appearing in your city's key rate. We feel that it is very important that you make a special effort to purchase a new 65-foot aerial as soon as possible since your principal mercantile district has numerous tall buildings and fighting a major fire in this area would be very difficult and, perhaps, impossible without an aerial.

BUILDING CODE

"The question of a modern and up-to-date building code has been discussed and we have recommended several times that a new code be adopted.

"We know that your city is growing and that if the city does not keep up with the increasing population with fire protection it is hard to catch up if they get too far behind."

Two new fire trucks and two new stations are included in the Master Plan bond program for 1963.

"We are doing what we can, with the finances we have, to correct deficiencies," City Manager Steinheimer said, "and we are going to have to do more in the future. We are working on a new building code and hope to have it complete by Jan. 1.

"The population growth of Big Spring in the past few years makes it necessary for us to make more plans for the future. Some of the funds will be available under the bond program, but more is going to have to be done. The city commission will be given recommendations, and an opportunity to study the needs soon," he said.

Shaved Head Brings Good Luck, Reprieved Man Jokes

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — Howard Stickney rubbed the big bald spot on his head and declared with a broad grin: "Boy! Getting this old head shaved seems to bring me good luck!"

It was 10 o'clock Thursday night on death row in the state prison.

Stickney had just been told by prison chaplains he would not die at midnight. A judge in Georgia had granted a 15-day stay of execution.

He sent a note across the courtyard to warden H. E. Moore's office. It was for the throng of reporters who had come to see him die. It read: "Come on over. Let's have the tea party!"

The newsmen who had covered Stickney's last scheduled execution June 10 laughed. The stay that night came just 40 minutes before he was to have died. Jubilant, he had invited them to his cell block for what he called a "tea party." No tea, just talk.

So the reporters went to death row with the guards for a repeat performance.

Stickney was composed and cheerful. He shook hands and lit a cigarette. He wore white denim trousers and a T-shirt.

"This time it was easier," he said. "I was hopeful for a stay but actually not expecting it. I had made peace with myself... and God... and that makes you feel easier... Still I couldn't keep from hoping... It's human to want to live."

Had he ordered a special meal? "No," he replied. "They asked me, but I turned it down. James Edwards, who went down there (Stickney nodded toward the death chamber at the end of the cell block) the other day, had refused to eat. He told me that what he was going to have was nothing to celebrate with a feast."

"That's the way I felt. I just nibbled on a doughnut and drank some coffee before they shaved my head."

There were four envelopes lying on a small table in his cell, and a small Bible.

"I wrote my mother, brother, attorney, and some friends in Florida," he explained. "In case... well... you know."

Stickney had risen at 8 a.m. Thursday. He had shaved and showered, eaten a big breakfast of hot cakes, eggs, bacon, stewed peaches, toast and coffee.

He chatted through the morning with the death row inmates—Fred Leath, 45, of Fort Worth, and Adrian Johnson, 19, of Houston.

In the afternoon, Stickney's mother, Mrs. Frances Wagner of Houston, and his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Stickney of Texas City, visited him.

Mrs. Wagner cried. Stickney refused food after his

Youths Seek Local Gifts To Christian Aid

A host of goblins will be scouring Big Spring Tuesday night for treats. These however, will be asking treats for persons they do not even know.

That is the night 10 local churches put on their drive to collect funds for the Christian Rural Overseas Program.

The organizations from the Wesley Memorial Methodist Church will cover their portion of the city Monday night because of a conflict Tuesday, according to the Rev. Joe Leatherwood, chairman of the promotion committee.

Youths participating in the drive will meet at the First Methodist Church at 7 p.m. to get their collection containers and identification badges. They will return at 9 p.m. to report and enjoy in refreshments.

The city has been divided into segments which the high school and junior high students will cover. Junior high students will be accompanied by an adult.

CROP is a joint project of 35 Protestant and Eastern Orthodox churches to bring food, clothing, medicines and other supplies to political and disaster victims overseas.

"Since 1947 shipments of CROP food and fiber gifts have totaled 22 million dollars," Rev. Leatherwood said. "This includes government surplus commodities."

CROP is represented by service clubs, church groups and other youth organizations in addition to the Grange, Farm Bureau and Farmers' Union. Most donations are in the form of food, clothing, medicines and local gifts will be used to assist in transporting these goods, according to Rev. Leatherwood.

"By working together the churches can accomplish things which the individual churches could only begin to do. CROP has the organization and experience to put this united effort to the best possible use," he said.

Churches participating in the local drive are the First Methodist Church, Park Methodist Church, Wesley Methodist Memorial Church, First Presbyterian Church, St. Paul Presbyterian Church, First Christian Church, St. Mary's Episcopal Church, First Church of God, Church of the Nazarene and Bethel Baptist Church.

family left. At 6 p.m., assistant warden Joseph Byrd read the death warrant. Then Stickney wrote the four letters. Then he read from the Bible.

Hard Luck Hits Sam Fishermans

Hard luck descended on Mr. and Mrs. Sam Fisherman almost simultaneously.

He went to Houston last week on advice of his physician, and when a decision was reached to operate this Tuesday for removal of his voice box, Mrs. Fisherman prepared to fly there.

Dr. O. E. Wolfe, friend of the family, took Mrs. Fisherman to the Howard County Airport Friday, and while she was waiting for the plane to arrive, she slipped and fell. Although in considerable pain, she insisted on making the flight, but at Dallas her daughter, Mrs. Sam Bloom, met her with an ambulance. At a hospital it was discovered she had sustained a fractured hip, and surgery was performed Saturday morning to help correct the condition.

Safe Raided By Burglars

Burglars made off with $120.39 and $640 in checks from Walker Brothers, 1010 Lamesa Highway, Friday night, according to Jerrid Walker.

Walker reported the entry to police who found the rear door opened and the safe pried open with tools obtained in the building. The meticulous burglar swept up the parts of the safe and deposited them in a wastebasket before leaving. He also returned the tools to their proper place, except those which were taken.

Another burglar found high-spirited pickings at 301 N. Bell in the form of 44 half-pints of liquor, Clarence Shaw told police Saturday shortly before noon. Entry was gained by breaking a lock on the rear door of the establishment.

A flurry of other thefts and burglaries were reported, making the Friday and Saturday total eight.

Mrs. Richard Dennis, 304 Harding, reported a class ring and a transistor radio stolen from her home between 7-9 p.m. Friday. Mrs. Alex Patterson, 1410 W. 2nd, told police someone stole a purse containing a billfold and personal papers from the front seat of her car while it was parked in front of her home Friday night.

The accessory knobs and horn button, all valued at about $5, were reported stolen by Jeffrey Jones, Knott. He told police the items were stolen while the car was parked at the First National Bank Parking Lot between 12:30-6 p.m. Saturday.

An old rifle worth $25 was reported stolen from the truck of B. T. Faulkner, 1415 Wood, while the truck was parked at the Ritz Parking Lot Friday evening.

Weldon Tibbs, 3707 Dixon, reported the theft of a portable radio valued at $49.95 from his residence. He told police the radio was left at that address while he was moving from another address. The house was locked when he left and still locked when he returned and found the article missing.

A burglary which netted nothing as far as J. C. Jones, manager of the Baroid Division, 107 Young, could determine, occurred some time Friday night. The North door to the warehouse had been opened.

Carla Didn't Slow Builders

AUSTIN (AP)—Hurricane Carla didn't keep Texas builders from setting a nine-month record in total value of building permits, a business survey showed Saturday.

Estimated value of building authorized in Texas for the January-September 1961 period was $1,047,250,000, a 5 per cent gain over 1960, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research said.

The bureau said the "brightest segment in the third quarter has been the apparent recovery of the homebuilding industry." Residential, one-family dwelling permits in July-September rose 23 per cent over the third quarter in 1960.

Non-residential construction slipped slightly in the past three months, especially in September, which went by without a single permit issued which exceeded $2 million.

Two Accidents Are Checked Out

Leo Henry Hicks, 71A Ent. Webb Village and Margie W. Jones, 603 Douglas, were listed as drivers involved in a minor collision at FM 700 and Westover Road about 5:40 p.m. Saturday.

H. C. Wallin, Route 1, escaped injury when his car plowed over the curb causing extensive damage to his car about 9:15 p.m. Saturday. He told investigating officers he was trying to avoid another car at the time. The accident occurred on FM 700 near Cosden Refinery.

Traffic Toll Up

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas traffic deaths are slightly higher this year than in 1960. State police reported Saturday 1,441 fatal accidents with 1,766 deaths this year compared to 1,432 fatal accidents and 1,763 deaths last year.

RECORD CROWD VIEWS PARADE

Perhaps the biggest crowd in the history of Homecomings for the Coahoma High School was present Saturday to view the train of 16 floats and numerous ornamented bicycles which highlighted the event. The winning float was presented by the Cub Scouts and featured an Indian theme, complete with wigwam and little Indians. A chuck wagon barbecue was served at the high school cafeteria to more than 400 persons. Pictured in insert at lower left corner are the queen who was crowned at half-time Friday night, Elaine Carpenter, a sophomore, and her escort, Vernon Long.

Artists Show Their Talents In Exhibit

Nearly 100 paintings by members of the Las Artistas Club and their friends were on display at the war memorial on the Howard County Court House grounds Saturday.

These sidewalk shows are staged each fall by the club. The whole purpose of the exhibit, according to Mrs. Don Bohannon, president of the club, is to give the members and other painters a chance to display their work to the public.

She said that this year's show was about on a parity with the one last fall and that the public manifested much interest in the paintings shown.

Works of all kinds were displayed—oil, pastel, watercolor, charcoal and pencil. There is no competition at the sidewalk shows.

Artists from Big Spring, Stanton, Lamesa, Snyder and Garden City had paintings on display.

Mrs. Bohannon said that the Las Artistas now has about 30 members. It meets once each month. This fall, the club has made arrangements to screen special art films at each meeting to further familiarize the members with the work of masters.

Refresher Course

Dr. and Mrs. Dick Lane will be in Albuquerque, N. M. this week while he takes a refresher course in the construction of dentures and correction of the lower jaw. The latter is a field arising from findings that ill-fitting dentures, unbalanced teeth, etc. can result in other physical distresses.

Texas Publishers Disagree Widely On Episode At Kennedy's Luncheon Meeting

By The Associated Press

President Kennedy's luncheon Friday for Texas newspaper executives brought clashes of opinions Saturday from the persons who attended.

The clashes were so strong that one executive used the word "denouement" in describing an exchange at the meeting itself.

At least one guest said the President told him nothing he did not already know.

Others praised the luncheon meeting as greatly increasing their information and helping editors understand Kennedy's position on problems.

Opinions expressed after the meeting apparently had little relation to the political party or personalities of the various newspapers supported in last year's presidential race.

But nothing at the meeting appeared to cause as much comment as an attack on Kennedy and his administration made by E. M. (Ted) Dealey, publisher of the Dallas Morning News.

Dealey himself said his statements "caused a sort of ruckus." Dealey said his statements reflected Texas public opinion "as I understand it and as it had been presented to me."

"The general opinion of the grass-roots thinking in this country is that you and your administration are weak sisters," Dealey said he told the President.

"We need a man on horseback to lead this nation and many people in Texas and the Southwest think you are riding Caroline's tricycle."

Dealey declared the public is aroused and wants no concessions made to Russia—"The people are convinced that we are so far ahead of the U.S.S.R. in every respect that we should lead from strength, not from weakness."

The publisher said Americans want the truth "Bitter though it may be."

Dealey added, "So let the administration put all its cards on the table face up—no more secrecy, no more muzzling the military, no more half knowledge and half truths."

It was Dealey who said "not a great deal of new information was acquired by the visiting publishers." He called it "pretty much a water haul."

Charles Woodson, publisher of the Brownwood Bulletin, spoke up at the luncheon in what Dealey called "no uncertain terms" to denounce the visiting publishers.

Dealey said he asked for a show of hands of those "who thought I might be out of line. Less than half of those present raised their hands."

The executives' opinions of the meeting were compiled by stories they wrote for their own newspapers or in interviews with Associated Press reporters.

Rhea Howard, publisher of the White Falls Record-News and Times, was strong in his praise. "I am more sold on President Kennedy than ever before," Howard said.

James F. Chambers Jr., president of the Dallas Times Herald, said "America's newspapers will be able to do a better job of informing the public because of President Kennedy's press lunches."

"He told us what is on his mind and in his heart. Whether you are a Democrat or a Republican, you couldn't help but feel his sincerity."

Col. B. J. Horner, publisher of the San Antonio Light, discussed with Kennedy the coming congressional election in his city where Democrat Henry Gonzalez and Republican John Goode are battling.

Howard McMahon, publisher of the Abilene Reporter-News, said the executives heard a great many things they ordinarily do not have an opportunity to hear. Kennedy has a "real grip" on the situation, McMahon said.

Roderick said that in his view Kennedy's personal popularity has increased tremendously since the election.

Nineteen Texas newspaper executives attended the meeting.

FALL FLOWER SHOW

Mrs. Bruce Frazier Wins Top Honors

Mrs. Bruce Frazier carried home the sweepstakes honors in both the horticulture and artistic divisions of the Big Spring Council of Garden Club's annual Fall Flower Show Saturday.

The autumn presentation, based on the theme "Cities of America in Bloom," was staged in the Howard County Junior College Auditorium.

Other winners in addition to Mrs. Frazier were Mrs. Dale Smith, who was winner of the Tri-Color award and Mrs. Kyle Caudle, who won the Award of Distinction. The three women are all members of the Spaders Garden Club.

Pat Shipland won the junior achievement award in the junior division of the show.

Rosebud Gardner, Club's table featuring limes, lemons, coconuts, and a whimsical Hawaiian figure, the display being titled "Honolulu," won a blue ribbon. The Four O'Clock Garden Club entry "Boston" also won a blue ribbon. It featured pink spider chrysanthemums and a pink cloche.

The After Five Garden Club's Education Display drew much attention. It featured a miniature landscape and a display of long grasses.

The show was judged by a group of out of town experts and the final system approved by the Texas Garden Clubs Inc., was used as a standard to determine the winners.

A complete list of all placings in the show will be published in Monday's issue of the Big Spring Herald.

Texas Electric Service Co., in cooperation with Quigley Flowers, provided a three tiered waterfall as a centerpiece for the show. This display was complete with vines and flowers and added a realistic touch to the scene.

Texas Retail Sales Drop

AUSTIN (AP)—Retail sales dropped 7 per cent from August to September, mainly because of the sales tax going into effect, the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas said Saturday.

The September drop left total sales down 1 per cent from the first nine months of last year.

"There are increasing signs of a buying mood on the part of the consumer" and stated the outlook for the rest of 1961 is optimistic," the agency said.

Total sales for September were $915 million, bringing the nine-month period sales to $8,068,200,000. While the Texas decrease was 7 per cent from August, nationally sales dropped less than 1 per cent.

Retail sales in August increased 11 per cent, which was the month before the sales tax went into effect. Miss Lambeth said the drop during September "was expected."

Further reductions in sales were brought about in the coastal region, the report said, because of Hurricane Carla. Many stores were closed after the storm because some stores suffered damage to buildings and merchandise which required replacement and repair.

The report said an unusual rise will be brought about as repairing and rebuilding of homes and businesses and replacement of furnishings and clothing progresses.

In the major cities, Fort Worth reported a drop of 16 per cent; Austin and San Antonio, 12 per cent; Houston, 8 per cent; Dallas, 6 per cent; and El Paso, 2 per cent.

Coahoma Stages A Big Homecoming

COAHOMA — Homecoming festivities for Coahoma High School saw hundreds of spectators line the streets during the grand parade of floats Saturday morning, according to Mrs. Don McKinney, this year's homecoming president.

Intermingled with the decorative floats were bicycles especially ornate for the occasion. The queen rode one of the floats.

Queen Elaine Carpenter, a sophomore crowned at half-time of the game Friday in which Coahoma lost to Rotan 26-6, was chosen from among eight entrants. Judges for the contest were Coahoma exes who now make their home in Big Spring.

Car Strikes School Bus

A car crashed into the rear of a Sands School district bus late Friday but there were no serious injuries.

Highway patrol officers said that John Gilbert (Dick) Clay, 58, Knott, was in a 1959 sedan driving on FM 846 near Middle Knott. He glanced from the wheel to see what his two young grandsons, who were passengers in the car, were doing.

The car crashed into the rear of the school bus, driven by John Ray Allred, 17. The bus had come to a stop in the road to unload two students.

Slight damage was caused to the bus. The car was damaged extensively and Clay was cut about the face. He was given emergency treatment at Malone-Hogan Foundation Hospital and dismissed.

Highway Patrol Officer Jimmy Parks said he gave both drivers tickets for traffic violations.

Gas Company's Report Wins An Award

AMARILLO — Pioneer Natural Gas Company has won a first place award in the 21st annual report survey sponsored by Financial World magazine. It is believed to be the first award of its kind ever to be received by a company in the Panhandle and South Plains area.

The award is in recognition of having issued the best annual report to stockholders for the year 1960, in a classification of gas companies with revenues under $40,000,000. Symbolic of the achievement, a bronze "Oscar-of-Industry" trophy will be presented to C. I. Wall, president of Pioneer.

The Financial World competition, considered the nation's most distinguishing forum for evaluating annual reports, is open to all manufacturing and service companies, large and small, in the United States and Canada. In this year's competition, more than 5,000 annual reports in 96 categories were reviewed in selecting the winners.

Mishaps Involve Parked Vehicles

Police investigated two minor accidents Friday and Saturday. Both involved parked cars.

Driver of a car which collided with a parked wrecker in the 1100 block of the Lamesa Highway was Merlin A. Hager, Brownfield. The wrecker belonged to L. M. Sherbert, Lamesa.

The other collision was at 2204 Alabama and driver of the moving vehicle was Troy Ann Drinkard, 2204 Alabama. The parked car belonged to Joseph Lee Manly Jr., Rankin.

Blowout Wrecks Tourist's Car

Mrs. Beulah Holt, 17, wife of George Holt, 22, Barksdale, La., was given first aid treatment at a Big Spring hospital for minor injuries received when the Holt car turned over late Saturday on US 87 south of town.

Highway patrol officers said that a right rear tire on the Holt car blew out and it flipped over. The 1955 coach was extensively damaged. Holt was not injured. He was en route from Alaska to Barksdale at the time of the accident.

Veteran T&P Employee Dies

Funeral services will be held at 4 p.m. today for Claude Irving Wright Sr., 63, veteran railroad employee, who died unexpectedly Saturday morning at his residence, 710 Galveston.

Born July 26, 1898 in Eastland, Mr. Wright moved to Big Spring in 1923 from Pecos. He worked with the Texas and Pacific Railway Company here from 1923 until retirement in January, 1958. He was an electrician.

Mr. Wright was married to Miss Alice Dublin on Nov. 14, 1920 at Pecos. He was a member of the First Christian Church here and was affiliated with Staked Plains Chapter 178, Big Spring Council 117; Commandery 31, and the Suez Temple of the Shrine.

Business Club Hears Humorist

Louie E. Throgmorton, who said he was from a small town in Arkansas few people ever heard of and who described himself as still a country boy at heart, regaled members of the American Business Club with a succession of fun-filled stories at the service club's regular luncheon Friday at the Settles Hotel.

Throgmorton made use of no subject in particular but touched lightly on a great many things, ranging from politics to automobiles and football.

The club will hold its next luncheon meeting at the Cosden Country Club on Friday, Nov. 3, due to the fact the Settles Hotel is being remodeled and cannot accommodate the members' on that date.

Chad Rockett, former Big Spring resident, was a guest.

THE WEEK

Ezell, 88, here a week ago today. Mrs. Ezell was the only surviving resident here who had come to Big Spring when it was indeed only a spring, and with her passing we seem to lose contact with those rough, early days.

Unexpected death claimed two other old timers—G. F. (Slick) Duncan, Coscoo district manager, and Mrs. E. W. Burleson, who had lived here almost half a century.

Those who have not driven over the new section of divided highway on U.S. 87 North ought to make it a point to direct out that way. The 15.5 mile stretch from Fairview north, built at a cost of $547,578, makes all the difference in the world on this busy route. The improvement of the section from Fairview to Big Spring next year can come none too soon.

Hila Weathers, formerly Chamber of Commerce manager at Stanton, has been named coordinator of the volunteer services at Big Spring State Hospital. She will succeed Mrs. Lou Hyre, who has capably directed this activity for the past year, around Dec. 1.

Stormy, as Mrs. Weathers is known, won't need any indoctrination to the area, for she lived here for many years and counts it home.

Suez Shrine Temple is adding something to its repertoire of fun. Last week the temple took delivery of motor scooters which will be used in ceremonial and other parades. Each of the 20 riders will acquire his own scooter and uniform. The Temple has in addition a choir, band, two marching units, a horseback unit, and drum and bugle corps.

The City of Big Spring came out well on the sale of $1,125,000 of bonds last week. The $68,000 of general obligation (tax) bonds sold for 3.675. The $445,000 revenue bonds for 3.87. The total interest of $837,930 over the life of the bonds was $194,312 less than the amount allowed in setting up allocations under the master plan.

Webb-ABE came home with another championship last week—the Air Training Command trophy for the best in touch football for the second consecutive year. The 331st Fighter Interceptor Squadron, in the midst of the William Tell competitive weapon contests, ran into frightful luck on the initial round and fell behind.

The school board has a new member. Joe Moss, secretary and counsel for Cosden, was named to succeed Dan M. Krause, who resigned to take a position with Dresser Industries in Dallas.

Another member of the communications family got going officially last week when KFNE-FM went on the air. This unit, broadcasting on 95.3 megacycles, is of a different type than the AM (regular) stations, requiring a special set or combination.

It looks as though those interested in residential development and construction are about to get together on organizing a chapter of the National Home Builders Association. This is due to be wrapped up at a meeting Tuesday evening in the Texas Electric Service conference room when builders (project or custom), developers, suppliers, etc. meet again.

Kennedy Looks At Farm Policy, Can't Muster Any Enthusiasm

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy shows signs of becoming disenchanted with his administration's farm policies, sources close to the White House said Saturday.

This feeling is ascribed to two factors: Disappointment that those policies have not brought a speedy reduction in troublesome farm surpluses, and the knowledge that continuing heavy subsidy costs jeopardize the drive to balance the budget.

Various sources familiar with the President's views on the matter emphasize, however, that there are no indications Kennedy is thinking of retreating from present policies—at least not in the foreseeable future.

His administration seeks to strengthen the role of the government in agriculture—a direct break with efforts of the Eisenhower administration to get government out of farming. Present policies envision management of supplies of farm commodities with the goal of stabilizing prices at levels deemed to be fairer to producers and at the same time eliminating surpluses which are costly to the government.

The administration placed great store in a new feed grain program under which farmers are being compensated $780 million to reduce plantings of corn and sorghum grain. The purpose was to reduce surpluses of these grains. But results are falling short of expectations.

The White House sources say doubts have been raised as to whether it ever will be possible to accomplish an adjustment in farm production needed to bring satisfactory farm prices and eliminate heavy government costs. Because of the technological revolution in agriculture, farmers are able to produce more and more with less and less land and other productive units. Technology thus

Kennedy is reported likely to go along with the present policies for a time because he does not know and has not had enough time to study the farm situation with the idea of determining to his satisfaction whether there are more effective policies; it would be politically unwise to shift now because such action would be seized upon as an admission of failure on the farm front.

Nevertheless, qualified sources said, these factors would not necessarily rule out a change if the President came up with what he thought was a better approach and it could be adopted without seeming to concede defeat in the past.

Informants said that until rather recently, Kennedy had left the handling of farm matters almost entirely up to Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman. Later, they said, the White House has been taking a hand.

Present policies are based largely on ideas of Dr. Willard Cochrane, former University of Minnesota professor who heads the Agriculture Department's economic service. Cochrane was a Kennedy farm adviser during the presidential campaign.

The administration — particularly the Agriculture Department — will almost certainly insist publicly that all is working out satisfactorily on the farm front. In the case of the feed grain program, the department maintains that government costs would have been much larger without the program.

On the other hand, the American Farm Bureau Federation has labeled this program a "billion dollar fiasco." The farm bureau wants less rather than more government in agriculture.

An 'Apple' Is Picked Up

Being picked up to return to Tyndall AFB and again dodge deadly air-to-air missiles and rockets of the Air Defense Command's supersonic interceptors is a pesky Ryan "Firebee" target drone. These "sophisticated apples," being used in William Tell 1961, are stand-ins for large enemy bombers in the competition designed to display the ever increasing effectiveness of air defense.

The drones are equipped with a recovery parachute system which lands them softly in the Gulf of Mexico where they are picked up by helicopter. Some of the drones have made more than 15 flights before a supersonic collision with a missile has given the helicopter pick up pilots a rest.

Houston Man Newest To Seek Ramsey's Post

AUSTIN (AP) — Sen. Robert Baker of Houston jumped into the growing list of candidates Saturday for the 1962 lieutenant governor's race.

Baker, a Democrat, was the third man to enter the race officially.

Sen. Preston Smith of Lubbock, another Democrat, announced last week he would make his second try for the post. Smith ran third in a field of 12 in 1950 when former Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey began his 11-year stay in the office.

Republican O. W. Hayes of Temple was the first to enter the race, more than two months ago.

Hayes, vice president of the Continental Belton Co. at Belton, has been campaigning over the state on a platform of conservatism since his announcement.

Baker said he has started his campaigning with speeches in South Texas and many larger cities.

He said he would not label himself a liberal or conservative, but added "I think you could say I'm a bit to the right of center—a conservative, but with no reactionary biases."

Several others have indicated interest in the race.

Sen. A. M. Aikin of Paris, the only man to force Ramsey into a runoff after Ramsey first won the post, said many of his friends are urging him to make the race.

"If it looks like I can . . . if it works out, I might run," he said.

"Anyone in the Senate would like to be lieutenant governor."

House Speaker James Turman of Goher has said he is anxious to run for the post.

Sen. Crawford Martin of Hillsboro said he will run "if something doesn't come up."

Donald Yarborough, the Democrat whose campaign against Ramsey last year netted him more than 630,000 votes, has been mentioned as a candidate.

Civil Defense Step-Up Due, Berry Says

The Department of Defense means business in its program to step up civil defense. W. D. Berry said here Saturday.

Berry returned last week from Los Angeles where he attended a national CD meeting and was in a special school held at nearby naval station.

One of the first things will be a survey of potential shelters in event of nuclear attack, he said, and this date will be processed immediately to give the individual communities a clear look at their situation regarding safety, supplies, etc.

Berry said that plans were being implemented for breaking down governmental functions into the smallest denominators which could function independently if cut off from all others.

The Navy is to undertake intensive training programs of civilians in dealing with radiation problems. First aid and other programs also will be stepped up, he predicted.

Civil Defense, said Berry, is no longer regarded as a household joke but as a grimly serious business.

Weapons Meet Is Near Conclusion

With the program accelerated by good weather, the world wide Air Force weapons competition—the "William Tell" meet — was about over Saturday.

And the disappointing news, locally, from Tyndall AFB Fla., was that the 331st FIS team, based at Webb, had been left pretty much out of main honors.

Only unofficial reports had reached here Saturday, but it was understood that a night mission flown Friday night by Lt. Col. Jack C. Price and Capt. Thomas A. Nelson was under question, and that scoring had not been completed on it.

This would have been the last mission for the 331st, and it had scored 2,100 on three earlier runs.

Meanwhile the 33rd FIS from Goose Air Base, Labrador was supposed to have made its fourth perfect sortie for a final score of 4,000. This would be the best mark ever registered by any type of aircraft in the history of the William Tell meet.

In this year's competition were the F-102s, which is the aircraft of the 331st, the F101s and the F106s, each in a different category.

While the competition at Tyndall will be over, some demonstration runs by fighter interceptors against "enemy bombers" invading the area (simulated by drones), will be done next week, and representatives of the press and industry will be on hand to witness these via closed circuit television.

Marvin M. Miller and R. W. Whitney will be Big Spring representatives at this program.

Pass Interception

Buster Barnes (51) of Big Spring is shown side-stepping Franzy Tubbs of Odessa after picking off a Panther pass in Friday night's football game at Odessa. Periman won the District 2-AAAA game, 32-8. Barnes played an outstanding game in the line for Big Spring.

Permian Panthers Bruise Past Big Spring, 32-8

By TOMMY HART
ODESSA — Odessa Permian proved once again here Friday night, and quite conclusively, that a good big team can thump a good little team.

The Permian juggernaut bruised to a 32-8 victory over the plucky but outclassed Big Spring Steers to retain its chance at a first place finish in District 2-AAAA standings. A crowd estimated at 9,000 looked on.

Big Spring, unbeaten going into the game, could never mount a drive against the ponderous Permian line. The bulky Panthers, who outweighed the Steer forwards by a good 20 pounds per man, devised the best pass defense possible to stop Big Spring's aerial game — that of never giving quarterback Jerry Tucker time to plant himself, spot his receivers and throw the ball.

The Panthers, who went into the contest with a 5-1 record, used the Longhorns' favorite weapon, the forward pass, to get two of their TD's, capitalized on a fumble for a third and drove 75 yards for the fourth.

All of the scoring was accomplished in the first half. The Longhorns contained the Panthers very well after the intermission but could get nothing going themselves.

Permian took the opening kickoff and rolled 75 yards for the initial score of the game. The march required 14 plays. The Permian club stuck to the ground on the drive, giving the ball first to Mike Love and then to Richard Tucker in the march. Love, a junior who shakes the ground when he runs, got the score from the two on a straight power plunge from the two, then added the two PAT's on another run. The clock showed 5:30 to go in the opening period when Love got the tally.

A fine punt by Jack Irons, a clipping penalty against Odessa on the runback that moved the ball back to Permian's seven and a fumble on a handoff by Frank Sloan which Mike Hughes recovered on the Panther 12, set up the Big Spring tally.

David Maberry got it with shocking ease with the aid of fine blocking on the left side of the Big Spring line on the first play. Tucker added the extra points to tie the county at 8-8.

That was all the scoring in the first quarter but the Panthers used the wind to good advantage in the second period to pick up their other three scores.

Gary Birdsong pounced on a Big Spring bobble on the Longhorn 23 to set up the go-ahead touchdown early in the round.

Sloan fumbled in the march down to the goal but end Max Courtney turned it into a break for Odessa when he recovered down on the one. From that point, Love got the score with 6:59 left in the round and Sloan added the two points on a run to make it 16-8.

The Panthers waited until just before the half to get their other two TD's and then took to the air to get both of them.

Sloan employed a slick bit of strategy to score one of them, drawing in the Big Spring halfbacks by faking into the line, then drifting back to pass.

He found end Mike Payte a good 20 yards behind the nearest Steer and hit him with a perfect pass. The play covered 57 yards and ran the score to 23-6. Love again made the two extra points.

Only 2:12 minutes were left in the quarter but Odessa had time to get the ball and score again. Irons had to punt into the wind and Permian started another offensive from the Panther 45.

Jimmy Routh gathered in a pass from Sloan and seemed all but gone when a desperation tackle by Maberry flagged him at the Steer 12. From that point, and with only 14 seconds remaining in the period, Sloan again passed to Payte for the TD. This time, Max Courtney made the two extra points on a pass from Sloan and the score mounted to 32-8.

James Gilbert stopped an Odessa thrust in the third round by intercepting a Sloan pass on his own two.

Big Spring on two occasions maneuvered into Permian territory with the wind to its back in the fourth, once pushing to the 26 and again to the 25, but Permian dug in to hold.

Tucker was injured early in the fourth period but later returned to action.

Stout line play by such boys as Butch Vaughn, Bobby Minars, Buster Barnes, Hughes and Bobby Fryer kept the score from mounting higher.

Score by quarters:
Permian 8 21 0 0 — 32
Big Spring 0 0 0 0 — 0

Mountaineers Win Over Soldiers

WEST POINT, N.Y. — Glenn Holton, a 19-year-old sophomore fullback from Barboursville, W. Va., led an aroused West Virginia team to a 7-3 upset victory over Army Saturday night by 23,525 fans.

Holton charged through the Army line for hunks of yardage all through the afternoon and crashed through for a score from the Army 9 in the third period.

Glenn Bennett added the extra point.

A local hunting party, composed of eight men, met at Rangley, Colo., recently and drove 30 miles southeast in the Douglas Creek area at the foot of the Cathedral Bluffs about 6,500 feet above sea level to begin a successful deer hunt. In all, the group killed 14 deer, more than any other party in the area. Those making the trip were include A. C. and Boyce Hale, Jerry Callahan, Bill Best, O. D. O'Daniel, Alton Ledbetter, Elvon DeVaney and Ted Fowler. In photo at the left, several of the mirmods are shown in camp. At the right, Boyce Hale stands beside the deer he killed, which he had to drag about a mile through thick brush after shooting them. His animals dressed out at 205 pounds.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

Biggest home crowd in local history sat in on the Big Spring-Abilene Cooper football game here last weekend, when 7,158 paid their way through the gates. . . . The cash income from the game amounted to $7,316.25. . . . Of the turnout, 98.5 per cent were from this area, since only 63 student and 50 adult tickets were sold for the contest in Abilene. . . . Cooper didn't even send its band over here. . . . Birdie Tebbets, manager of the Milwaukee Braves, said of Roy McMillan, the one-time Longhorn League star, recently: "I have said, and I will never retract, that Roy McMillan is the greatest defensive shortstop I have ever seen in baseball, that he is still the greatest in the game, and that he is the toughest man I have ever seen in a baseball uniform. . . . Eddie Mathews, the Braves' third sacker, chimed in to laud Roy, too: "Playing next to McMillan made a better fielder and ball player out of me" . . . That Midland High football team which plays here next Friday night has been starting six seniors, three juniors, a sophomore and a freshman. . . . The frosh is left end Ross Montgomery, who already weighs 194 pounds. . . . They must feed them well in Midland. . . . Permian, Big Spring's foe last Friday night, starts nine seniors and two juniors. . . . Murry Holdich, the Sweetwater mentor, says a bad call by an official cost his team in its District 3-AAA game with Lamesa the other night. . . . The play came on Lamesa's try for point after its fourth quarter touchdown, at which time a Mustang was charged with roughing the kicker. . . . Holdich contends the game films showed the charging lineman didn't touch the kicker and added the official admitted later he had pulled a rock in making the call. . . . Lamesa got a second chance on the PAT and made good on it. . . . The Tornados went on to win the game, 7-6. . . . Murry also said a Lamesa spy might have lifted a key Sweetwater play from the dressing room blackboard and used it to defeat the Mustangs. . . . Abner Haynes of the Dallas Texans is the finest broken field runner I've ever seen in football.

Y Here To Stage Regional Tourney

The local YMCA will host the annual West Texas Regional Basketball tournament here March 22-24. . . . The top two clubs in the ten-team field become eligible to take part in the Four-State Area tournament at Wichita Falls March 30-31. . . . Teams from El Paso, Abilene, San Angelo, Midland, Plainview, Dumas, Perryton and Odessa, as well as Big Spring, will compete in the meet here, according to Joe Leach of the Y. . . . When Bradley Mills took over as head football coach at Odessa High School last week, his annual salary jumped to $9,786.25. . . . An Odessa head coach starts at $8,746.25 and is raised $200 a year until he reaches $10,346.25, the maximum allowed. . . . Carey Junior High's sixth grade basketball team in Cheyenne, Wyo., fielded a starting team averaging 6-foot-5 in height last year. . . . Bill Murray, Decatur Baptist College; Bubba Bailey, San Angelo; and Tracy Cox, Frank Phillips, were among the 50 top basketball scorers in the nation's junior college ranks last season. . . . Ed Beck, the one-time University of Kentucky

Patton Accurate As A PAT Kicker

Cliff Patton, the former kicking star for the Philadelphia Eagles, was the fellow who prepared that letter to the Steers which appeared in last Thursday's edition of The Herald. . . . Patton once kicked 126 consecutive field goals for the Eagles, missed one, and then kicked nearly 70 more in a row before calling it a career. . . . He recalls quite vividly the one he missed: It came, shortly after a son of his was born, in a game against the Washington Redskins. . . . Bob Goode, a former running great for Texas A&M, jumped over the would-be block-

'seniors' MEET THE OF THE COSDEN FAMILY...

H. C. TIDWELL

There was a time when H. C. Tidwell had a hand in helping replace the lamps all over the Big Spring refinery. His work as a shift electrician for Cosden has more recently revolved around instrument maintenance on various units at the plant.

He has been in the electrical department since Aug. 29, 1949, when he bid in as an electrician's helper. Originally, he had joined the company on July 8, 1946, as a yardman. Three months later he was repairing cars in the tank car department.

Tidwell's history includes a five-year record in the U.S. Army. A memorable date was Sept. 9, 1943, when he and his buddies in the 111th Medical Battalion of the 36th Division moved into Palermo. Ironically, he was away from his group on leave in England when armistice was declared.

Bernice Bunger of Big Spring became his bride on Nov. 15, 1945. They make their home at 2107 Grace, where ample space permits their daughter, Angela Dawn, to enjoy a horse. Angela, 10, is a fifth grader at Forsan School. Her brother, Gary Don, celebrated his third birthday on Oct. 21.

Fishing is a sport both Mr. and Mrs. Tidwell claim. He also lists gardening and photography as special interests. A native of DeKalb, Tidwell is a Baptist and a Mason.

There was a time when H. C. Tidwell had a hand in helping replace the lamps all over the Big Spring refinery. His work as a shift electrician for Cosden has more recently revolved around instrument maintenance on various units at the plant.

He has been in the electrical department since Aug. 29, 1949, when he bid in as an electrician's helper. Originally, he had joined the company on July 8, 1946, as a yardman. Three months later he was repairing cars in the tank car department.

Tidwell's history includes a five-year record in the U.S. Army. A memorable date was Sept. 9, 1943, when he and his buddies in the 111th Medical Battalion of the 36th Division moved into Palermo. Ironically, he was away from his group on leave in England when armistice was declared.

Bernice Bunger of Big Spring became his bride on Nov. 15, 1945. They make their home at 2107 Grace, where ample space permits their daughter, Angela Dawn, to enjoy a horse. Angela, 10, is a fifth grader at Forsan School. Her brother, Gary Don, celebrated his third birthday on Oct. 21.

Fishing is a sport both Mr. and Mrs. Tidwell claim. He also lists gardening and photography as special interests. A native of DeKalb, Tidwell is a Baptist and a Mason.

Civil Rights Proposals May Be Put Forward Next Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy may ask Congress to act on civil rights proposals next year, Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said Saturday.

Mansfield, the Senate Democratic leader, said he did not know which of several controversial proposals advanced by the Civil Rights Commission might be sponsored if the President decides to seek action.

Republicans who class themselves as liberals have criticized Kennedy for not recommending any new civil rights legislation. Some of them have indicated they intend to make this an issue in next year's congressional campaign.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has been under pressure from some Democrats to come up with specific legislative suggestions. But he is reported to have delayed any decision until early next year.

In a series of reports, the Civil Rights Commission has called among other things for legislation to ban racial discrimination in labor unions. It has proposed legislation to make completion of a sixth grade education sufficient qualification to pass literacy voting tests. It has asked for federal action to require local school boards to comply with the Supreme Court's integration ruling. The commission also has urged Kennedy to issue orders against segregation in the National Guard, to insure Negroes equal job opportunities on all federally subsidized projects, and to bar segregation in government-aided housing.

The commission's legislative recommendations are of a nature that could be expected to provoke strong opposition from organized labor against the commission's recommendation that Congress write into the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act a provision barring any union from refusing membership to "any person because of race, color, creed or national origin."

The AFL-CIO already has rejected proposals to penalize unions that refuse to lower racial barriers. It favors a voluntary program.

Mansfield told a reporter he sees no likelihood that the Senate will amend its antifilibuster rule in the next session to make it easier to get civil rights legislation up for action. This rule, No. 22, requires two-thirds approval of those voting to obtain a debate limitation. "I do not anticipate any action on Rule 22 in the next session," Mansfield said.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich.,

an advocate of passing additional civil rights legislation, said in a separate interview he fears Mansfield has the situation sized up correctly.

"We would only be kidding ourselves if we thought that we are going to get Rule 22 changed in the next session," Hart said. "It just doesn't seem to be in the cards."

Hart said he thinks a new effort should be made to pass civil rights legislation, nevertheless, rather than contending which makes it spread through the group.

Yawning Called Not Contagious

CHICAGO (AP)—Yawning isn't contagious, a physician stated today in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Arthur Grollman of Dallas, Tex., wrote: "Psychologically, yawning implies sleepiness, fatigue, or boredom. Since members of a group are usually in a similar state of mind, it is likely that when one member of the group yawns, the others may tend to do the same. It is suggestion, rather than contagion, which makes it spread through the group."

Equipment Is Scrutinized After 21 Football Deaths

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The chairman of the NCAA committee on football injuries said today he has become highly suspicious of the helmet and face protector.

"I'm speaking only for myself," said Ernie McCoy, Penn State athletic director, "but I am concerned about the helmet we have been using, and some changes may be required."

Already this season four collegians, two semi-pro players and 15 high school boys—a total of 21—have died, most as a result of injuries.

"We haven't come to any official conclusions yet," said McCoy. "We are gathering the facts. In fact, we have offered to take over some of the research that is being conducted by the coaches' committee on the subject."

McCoy said that he thinks the plastic helmet and the protruding face guard have resulted in added danger.

"Furthermore," he said, "the way the boys tackle these days doesn't help. Almost all tackling is around the chest, with the hope of causing a fumble. That can snap the neck back."

"I remember in the days of Fielding Yost, he would get terribly upset if we tackled anywhere other than the knees. How often do you see that today?"

McCoy said that his committee had taken a survey two years ago on injuries.

"We found some interesting things," he observed. "For one, we found that the biggest percentage of injuries occurred in the beginning of the third period of games. That would indicate that the boys have not been warming up enough before the second half. Perhaps we should make a compulsory rule that they warm up for five minutes."

"Then we found that most of the seasonal injuries took place in the first three weeks of practice. Perhaps the conclusion here is that there has been too much head-knocking at the start before the lads are properly trained."

McCoy pointed out that at Penn State the players wear a stocking around their necks filled with sponge rubber during practice.

"They wouldn't be without it once they've used it," he said. "We also ask the boys to wear mouthpieces rather than face protectors. It's hard to get youngsters to do this because they've been trained in the use of face protectors all during high school."

Dallas Seeks To Be Spoiler In NFL Race

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Winless Washington and thrice-beaten Dallas are in spoiler spots—potential jugglers of the Eastern Division standings—as the National Football League hits mid-season today.

They play rematches with Eastern co-leaders Philadelphia and New York, and each is a decided underdog. Dallas is at New York and Philadelphia at Washington.

At a glance, it would appear to be a breather for both the Eagles and Giants. But each was pressed to the limit by its opponent the first time around this season.

Washington, 0-6, which hasn't won in 14 games, came close against the powerful Eagles early this season. A pair of third-period touchdown passes by Sonny Jurgensen pulled out a 14-7 Philadelphia victory.

And Dallas, 3-3, was driving for the tying touchdown two weeks ago when Erich Barnes intercepted a pass and ran 102 yards for a Giant touchdown that turned the tide in a 31-10 victory.

Washington's chore would appear to be the toughest. The Redskins' youngsters just haven't been able to get sorted out yet, while the powerful Eagles got their running attack in gear last week.

In the west, rampaging Green Bay, 5-1, goes against the Minnesota Vikings, 1-5, for the second straight week, and San Francisco, 4-2, will try to recharge its shotgun offense at Pittsburgh, 1-5.

In the others, Cleveland, 4-2, visits St. Louis, 3-3, Chicago, 4-3, and Detroit, 3-3, tries the revamped Los Angeles Rams, 1-5.

Green Bay, which romped over the Vikings 33-7 last week, takes its powerhouse to Milwaukee for a rematch. Linebacker Ray Nitschke and flanker Boyd Dowler, who have been called to military service, probably will be making farewell appearances for the Packers.

But Paul Hornung, the Packers' league-leading scorer, got a reprieve Friday. He was ordered to take another physical examination, which probably will require at least a 10-day delay in his induction.

Cleveland's Bobby Mitchell, also service-bound, will be making a final appearance at St. Louis.

Lehigh Shocks Lions, 14 To 7

NEW YORK (AP)—A slashing ground attack led by Pat Clark and Boyd Taylor carried Lehigh to a 14-7 upset football victory over Columbia Saturday.
Clark raced 32 yards for a touchdown in the third period and Taylor plunged over from the one yard line in the fourth for the scores.

Houston Could Take Over Division Lead

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Eastern Division of the American Football League, already tied into knots, could become worse than a jungle of grapevines Sunday.

Already there's just one-half game difference between first place and last with New York and Boston tied for the lead, Buffalo third and Houston the league defending champion now driving back from a near-disastrous start, fourth.

New York makes its second straight trip to the West, playing Oakland. If the Titans are no more successful on this one they'll lose the top spot in the Eastern Division. Denver beat them last week 27-10.

Houston will be at Buffalo and Boston at Dallas. If Houston should beat Buffalo while New York and Boston lost, then the Oilers could move into first place.

San Diego, leading the Western Division, hasn't a worry in the world despite the fact that it's great quarterback, Jack Kemp, is ailing. The Chargers have won seven straight games and arrived at the halfway point leading second place Dallas by 3½ games. It will take a lot of faltering for the Chargers to lose their advantage.

San Diego plays Denver at San Diego Sunday. Denver has won its last two starts and has shown strong indications of a revival although the Broncos can't expect to figure in the championship since they are four games behind with seven to play.

It is the first weekend of the season when all games are scheduled on Sunday. The Buffalo-Boston game had to be postponed from Friday to Sunday due to storm conditions.

Houston, which bounced Dallas 38-7 Sunday, will be seeking revenge in the invasion of Buffalo. The Bills whipped the Oilers 22-12 in Houston B.L. (before Lemm).

Wally Lemm became the coach after Houston played a 31-31 tie with Boston and his first game was the unmerciful strapping of Dallas. The Houston-Buffalo game matches the league's top offense, as boasted by Houston, with the second best defense.

Dallas is all crippled up and will be minus its versatile fullback, Jack Spikes, for the game with the high-riding Boston, which plastered Buffalo 52-21 last weekend.

Lee made eight down, renewals to 14 for the Eagles.

San Angelo Lake View Is 31-8 Winner Over Wolves

back to the Colorado City 35. As the buzzer sounded, Havlik circled left end for the final three yards and final score.

COLORADO CITY — Colorado City opened its defense of its co-championship of District 3-AAA with a 31-8 loss to the Lake View Chiefs here Friday night.

Lake View, with a win last week over Snyder, now owns a pair but must meet Lamesa and Sweetwater farther down the trail.

Lake View's QB Jim Havlik and halfback Larry Hudson carried much of the offensive burden for Lake View. Halfback Ken Northcutt for Colorado City.

Defensive standouts for Lake View included center Larry Word and halfback Larry Hudson; and for Colorado City, guard Darrell Davis and quarterback Danny Latimer.

The two teams battled on even terms the first quarter, and it took a real weirdie for Lake View to break the scoring ice.

On fourth down and operating on its own 25, Colorado City chose to run the ball and lost nine yards to the 16, where the ball went over. Colorado City held, however, and on fourth down, Lake View's fake field goal formation evolved into the Statue of Liberty, with Hudson coming around with the ball.

As he was tackled at the 13, the ball squirted from his arms. Lake View halfback Lehman Caley ran under the fumble and carried down to the C City six. The Chiefs fumbled to the two with tackle James Braher falling on the ball at the two to retain possession. Hudson went in from the two to score. Big fullback Mike Saunders kicked the point.

With little over a minute in the half, the Wolves tried running on fourth down again—this time from the 50. The play lost three yards and in two plays the Chiefs had themselves another score — on a pass play from Havlik to Hudson, good for 47 yards.

After the kick to Colorado City, Lake View intercepted a Colorado City pass and ran the ball

Eagles Defeat Midland Lee

ABILENE — The Abilene Eagles had to charge from behind to topple Midland Lee, 14-7, in a District 2-AAA football game here Friday night.

Jack Middlebrooks scored all the points for the War Birds. He got a touchdown in the opening quarter from the 35-yard line and tipped the scales Abilene's way by going over from the three in the third. In all, he gained 230 yards rushing the ball.

Lee managed its score in the third when Charles Kuykendall passed 23 yards to Chester Watkins.

Abilene ran up 261 yards rushing the ball and added 27 passing. Lee gained 120 yards rushing and 50 yards through the air.

Lee made eight down, renewals to 14 for the Eagles.

Middies Beaten By Pitt, 28-14

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Quarterback Jim Traficant's two touchdown runs and a rock-bone defense earned Pitt a 28-14 upset football victory over Navy Saturday, halting the Panthers' four-game losing streak and the Midshipmen's four-game winning skid.

Traficant, who missed the first few games because of a leg injury, dashed eight yards up the middle for the first score in the first period and raced around right end for six yards late in the third period.

Pitt's defense didn't let Navy's attack get started until the waning minutes of the game when Panther reserves filled the line-

Bobcats Nudge Broncs, 18-6

SAN ANGELO — An inspired Odessa High team gave the San Angelo Bobcats a battle but lost a District 2-AAAA decision here Friday night, 18-6.

The win was the fourth straight in conference play for the Bobcats. Odessa has beaten only Abilene Cooper this year in four league assignments.

Larry Mullins tossed a 33-yard pass to end Bill Sinches for San Angelo's first score in the opening period.

Odessa fought back to tie the count on a 51-yard offensive, with quarterback Larry Jernigan traveling the last two yards for the TD.

The score remained 6-6 until deep in the second quarter, when Mullins hit Bill Cameron with a touchdown pass from the Odessa 30.

The final Angelo tally occurred in the third round at the end of a 52-yard march, Mike Tabor going over from the one.

San Angelo made 14 first downs and 120 yards rushing to eight down renewals and 140 rushing for Odessa. Aerial gains favored the Bobcats, 147 to 13.

Gray Ladies At Work

COFFEE TIME on the wards at Webb AFB Hospital, and the Gray Ladies with their carts are a welcome sight to the patients. Airman 3. C. John Fausey can testify to the popularity of the corps, as he accepts a cup of coffee and exchanges a bit of conversation with Mrs. Arthur Smith, at left in photo above, and Mrs. Herbert Heater.

Homes. Mrs. Charles Watson holds Gary Lee, while Sheri Lynn is in the care of Mrs. James Maness. (Photos by Keith McMillin)

PRELIMINARY TESTS for out-patients at Webb AFB Hospital clinic are administered by Gray Ladies, thus freeing nurses for professional duties or attending to patients. Ronald Mead, five-year-old son of S. Sgt. and Mrs. Wendell Mead, 1505 Avion, sits quietly as Mrs. James W. Harper takes his temperature.

A STORY HOUR is an excellent way to amuse a young hospital patient. Mrs. Robert Bales has found as she works as a Gray Lady in Webb AFB Hospital. Listening to the story (in photo above) is Eleanor Poland, who is seven years old and in the second grade at Marcy School. Such tasks as this are all in a day's work for Gray Ladies, who will have an orientation course Monday through Wednesday on Ward 3.

KEEPING RECORDS is an important phase of the duties of Gray Ladies, since they must be neat and legible as well as accurate. Mrs. Robert Hartzog (pictured at left) a member of this helpful corps, was found in the clinic at Webb as she made entries into the permanent chart of one of the patients.

What's With Weather? Good Question Many Ask Repeatedly

Weather - weather, something about which everyone talks but does nothing, except for the meteorologist. He does not claim control of prevailing weather conditions, but in most instances he can determine and predict as to hemispheric activities.

In the past few years, great strides have been made on this level; however, the field remains lucrative according to Capt. Glen Lingenfelter of Webb Air Force Base. With increased air operations and space flights advancement, there should be an even greater expectancy in this area of work.

Speaking from a monetary standpoint, a meteorologist might possibly accomplish more as a private consultant in weather forecasting, but in the Air Force there is a daily challenge, Lingenfelter points out. He believes the military service is symbolic to the public, therefore offers the individual an opportunity to fulfill an obligation to his fellowman. At Webb he is an instructor in weather.

Captain Lingenfelter and his wife, Eileen, arrived in Big Spring, Sept. 18, their 12th wedding anniversary. For the past two years they have made their home in the Philippines where he was stationed at Clark AFB. While at Clark, one of the largest and most important air bases, Lingenfelter issued weather forecasts and briefed air crews on weather conditions.

When work is done, the weatherman might take off for a game of golf or perhaps into the air. At the age of 38, Captain Lingenfelter received his rating as command pilot, having accumulated 15 years of rated time.

Vacations for the Lingenfelters are usually in the winter at Havre de Grace, their parents' home, located on Chesapeake Bay. Here it is the captain spends much of his leisure time duck hunting, which is the reason for winter-time trips. Their plans are to be there this year by Christmas.

Sewing and bridge are Mrs. Lingenfelter's hobbies. Included in her accomplishments as a seamstress are handmade jeweled collars and accessories for dogs. Examples of her work are worn by her pair of silver poodles, Suzi and Beau. From the deep South, the poodles were acquired in Georgia and Mississippi.

While in the Philippines, Captain Lingenfelter and his wife traveled throughout the Far East and visited many of the islands. Believing that there is a challenge in climatic conditions which exist south of the equator as opposed to that in the Northern hemisphere, he now has the desire to observe this "down under," in Australia.

Leaving Clark Field the afternoon of Sept. 14, the Lingenfelters made the 6,000-mile trip to San Francisco via Pan-Am jet, in little less than 3 1/2 hours. They crossed the international date line, of course.

Commenting on their first trip to Southwest Texas, the Lingenfelters agreed "Climatic conditions are wonderful here. Also, the rich relationship existing between the base and Big Spring is exceptional."

Designer Will Keep Men In Uniforms

NEW YORK (AP)—No matter how the wind blows in the Berlin crisis, American men will be in military clothes, if haberdashery designer Robert Beach has anything to do with it.

Men have never really gotten out of them anyway, he claims. Beach discounts any suggestion that a former soldier or sailor might be tired of or psychologically depressed by khaki, olive drab or navy blue. Indeed, using these colors, he is designing a line of suburban clothes based on those created by Uncle Sam's tailor.

"I live in the suburbs and all the men I know out there fish or work in their yards in khakis, sometimes with the pants cut off at the knees," Beach claims. "Or they wear military jackets hunting or sailing."

Because from 10 to 20 years have passed since many American men were issued their last government wardrobe, Beach figured some items surely must have worn out enough to need replacing. He is also influenced by the number of American travelers who buy military looking men's wear in Europe.

Thus Beach's suburban clothes in poplins and chino cloth have plenty of epaulets, straps, knit belts and slide buckles for realism. The line is already extremely successful, Beach claims, except for one item.

Because men seemed to like them for boating, Beach faithfully copied a navy blue chief petty officer's jacket. But competition from Army and Navy surplus stores was too keen.

Beach couldn't find a way to stamp former soldiers' old service numbers in his jackets. "Men seem to like this touch," he sighs. "It adds charm."

1 lb. medium-sized shrimp
2 cans (each 10 oz.) frozen condensed cream of shrimp soup
2 tps. curry powder
1/4 cup undiluted evaporated milk

Wash shrimp in cold water; drain. Simmer shrimp in 1 cup water (without salt), covered, about 5 minutes. Drain, reserving 1/2 cup of the cooking water. Shell and devein shrimp; cut in half lengthwise so shrimp retain original shape.

Turn soup into a saucepan; add the shrimp cooking water and curry powder; stir often over low heat until soup thaws. (Don't worry if soup looks curdled.) Add evaporated milk; beat slightly with a fork or whisk and bring to boiling to make smooth.

Add cooked shrimp; reheat but do not boil so as not to toughen added shrimp. Serve with salted peanuts and chutney. Makes 5 servings.

ROUND TOWN

With LUCILLE PICKLE

The strong winds of the past few days have taken their toll of the pretty October daisies that so beautifully decorated the front of the FRED EAKER home at 1500 Main St. For several weeks the flowers, called butterfly daisies by some, have presented a most attractive sight with the solid mass of purple blooms. Although Mrs. Eaker has had them in the front bed only two years they have multiplied until there is now a solid covering. She got the start from MRS. HARRY LEES who hasn't been as successful with her flowers. Although they are called butterfly by some, Mrs. Eaker says the honey bees have had a field day this year and have been thick in the posies.

WAYNE GRIFFITH and BUDDY NEWELL are planning to leave this afternoon for Denton where they are attending NTSU. They have visited their parents, MR. and MRS. J. M. GRIFFITH, and MR. and MRS. ROSCOE NEWELL.

Completing a weekend of attending football games, a party of Big Spring men are expected back here today from Austin. For night they were back in Austin for the Texas game.

DR. and MRS. WENDELL E. McKISIK of San Antonio have been the houseguests of her sister, MRS. CHARLES TOMPKINS.

The worst part of having an air base in one's city is that the time always comes when the personnel has to be sent on. The transfer of COL. AUGUST TAUTE with his nice family is good for the Tautes but too bad for those of us who are so fond of them. Although they have been stationed here only about 18 months, we have grown to feel that the son, CHIPPER, is almost a part of our family of boys. He will stay to complete his work at HCCJ when the family moves to Del Rio.

Say When

Count on eight servings to a regular (1/2 quart) bottle of champagne. Champagne may be served in punch cups if these are on hand and champagne glasses are not.

Wash Carefully

Thaw frozen scallops before using them, being sure to wash them in cold water to remove any shell particles.

Mushrooms Are Superb Stuffed

12 medium-sized mushrooms (caps about 1 1/4 inches wide)
2 tbsps. butter or margarine
1/4 cup finely chopped onion
2 tbsps. packaged fine dry toasted bread crumbs
Salt
Wipe mushrooms with damp cloth; remove caps from stems. Chop stems fine; there will be about 1/2 cup; reserve.
Melt 1 tablespoon of the butter in an 8-inch skillet; add mushroom caps, cavity side up; cover and brown lightly for a few minutes. Uncover; turn and cook other side lightly. Remove mushrooms and any liquid; reserve.

Add remaining 1 tablespoon butter to skillet with onion; cook onion slowly until golden; add chopped mushroom stems and continue cooking a few minutes. Mix in 1 tablespoon of the crumbs; add salt to taste; mix in liquid from mushroom caps.
Stuff mushroom caps with mixture; sprinkle with remaining 1 tablespoon crumbs. Before serving heat under the broiler. Makes 2 to 4 servings.

Jenkins Anniversary Will Be Celebrated

An open house this afternoon will mark the Golden Wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. M. Jenkins, who were married in Winchell, Oct. 22, 1911.

The party, to be given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Jenkins, 1705 Settles, was slated a week later than the actual date in order that the children might be present.

Friends are expected to call at the Dudley Jenkins home between the hours of 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. Mrs. Jenkins is the former Melvil White; the couple was married by the Rev. R. L. Freddy in his study. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Jim White, with relatives present for the ceremony.

Their first home was in Brown County, and later they moved to Tom Green County. In 1938, the family came to Big Spring; their home is at 1201 Sycamore.

Hosting the open house along with the Dudley Jenkinsees will be the other children of the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Gillis May and Mrs. George Barler, all of San Angelo; Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Jenkins of Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wimberley of Tucson, Ariz.; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Miller, all of Big Spring.

Gold satin will cover the table, which will have an overskirt of gold net, marked at each corner with gold and white bows holding chrysanthemums.

A tiered cake will be served with crystal and silver appointments used, and the center arrangement will be of chrysanthemums flanked by golden candles.

Style, Color Variation Highlight Of Fashion

Style and color variation highlight the fall - winter fashion picture for shoes.

Seemingly a permanent shoe style since introduced in 1956, the pointed toe will share the style scene with variations of the oval and square.

Much excitement has resulted from this introduction into the shoe world. Choice of toe shape provides something for everyone for the first time in several seasons.

The shape of the toe is determined almost entirely by the shoe design. For daytime it is logical to wear the squared-off and oval toes. The square toe varies from a hint of squareness to a bunted, inch-wide square. Its symmetry depends on height of heel. In most instances, the wider the square of the toe, the lower the heel.

The crescent toe, a softened curve, is suggested for afternoon shoes. It is called the Dauphin toe in France and in Italy it is the biscuit toe. For walking shoes, the oval toe is a natural and is also complementary to suits and afternoon apparel.

Although the pointed toe is seen during afternoon and morning hours, it is seen more often with evening wear.

Heels of medium height, straight or curved, are to be worn from morning to night.

Convenience Ideas Are Noticeable On Food Shop Shelves

The pass word for today's living is convenience. It is demanded for many things - foods, appliances, architecture, decorating, and even in clothes. Certainly, you are aware of the no-wrinkle dresses for traveling.

However, the convenience trend in foods has been the most noticeable. The steady growth of packaged mixes, instant products, frozen foods, packaged dinners, and canned main dishes shows the increasing demand for convenience foods that combine quickly to make complete meals in minutes. This consumer demand has resulted in the steady improvement of the products themselves, new packaging techniques, and the standardization of package sizes.

With such foods as prepared sauces that take hours to cook now on the market for just heating and serving, the techniques of cooking have and will continue to undergo changes. There will be more interest in how to serve and what to combine to make interesting dishes than in the actual start-from-scratch type of recipe.

Foreign dishes will become increasingly vital to family tastes. With more people traveling, there will be more interest in foreign dishes.

Convenience foods have found their niche in today's menu planning. A convenience food, prepared for Mrs. Homemaker with a true chef's touch, becomes her dish when she adds a creative idea.

Variety In Style Sought By Manufacturers And Buyers

No one wants to look the same all of the time. Types of clothes and time of day call for a variety of looks and lasts in shoes, according to the Shoe Fashion Board of St. Louis.

The point is still out in front on slender heels, high and low... light, feminine, elegant for dress wear. But two new looks, crescents and squares, are stepping in to capture new interest and carry out new fashion trends to easy sophistication and mobility. Three cheers for three toes!

The SFB notes that points pivot on thin heels of many shapes. Needle and needle-needle points are still fashion and volume. Some points are squared off at the tip. Crescents are softened over toe, do not look like old ovals and are gently sloped from throat to slightly shortened forepart, sleek and smart.

Squares are new flat-tops. The throat-to-toe line lowers gradually, accommodating the foot to the end of the toes, then lengthens and flattens in a square. The shoes are soft. Novelty... the pinched broad square that is slightly curved at the end.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY Ideas On Fashion, Make-Up By Debbie

By LYDIA LANE
HOLLYWOOD — When I first met Debbie Reynolds, she was a teen-age tomboy, who thought she wanted to be a gym teacher more than a movie star. The other day when Debbie came to lunch at MGM in a chic suit and beautiful jewels, I reminded her.

"Yes, I remember," she laughed. "But you can't remain a tomboy. You can't stay the same no matter how you try. And those who don't want to grow up shut out a great deal of happiness in life."
 "But the other extreme isn't good either," Debbie said, pointing out that in Hollywood so many young actresses are impatient for sophistication. "I've been lucky to enjoy each period of life, and I hope it will always be like that. When you grow up too quickly, you look back and wonder what you missed. I was never mature beyond my years, but I started to do my big growing up when my marriage broke up."

"Shortly after that, I did a picture in Spain and when it was over, Eva Gabor invited me to go to Paris with her. How she loves beautiful clothes! She spent her entire salary there in less than two weeks. I realized it gave her a thrill to be as perfectly dressed as possible. I was startled when I looked at some of the price tags, but through her I became interested in high fashion."
 "I am only five-one, but fortunately I have a long waist and long neck and I can wear anything," Debbie continued. "I just finished making 'Star' in the West, and I wear some beautiful clothes in it. My mother is very clever and can make anything. She still sews for me, and I think she could have been a famous designer if she'd not been such a devoted mother."
 "I know what my home life meant to me, and I try to be with my children as much as possible. I don't want them to be spoiled and unwilling to accept responsibility."
 "Parents and children need to build respect and understanding for each other, but above everything else a child needs to feel secure. This is not easy in a broken home, but so far my children are happy and disciplined."
 Debbie was not wearing a make-up base and I remarked about her clear and lovely complexion.
 "My skin is very dry and I don't go in the sun a lot any more. Seeing how tan you can get is just murder on your skin. I am a great one for trying every complexion aid I hear about, I want all the help I can get, and I believe in starting beauty routines early in life."

 "I always get my face as clean as I can, and then I use a cream for dryness. It is a definite help. When I am tired and I put some of this cream on, it brings color and life to my skin. Harry (her husband) is Harry Karl; hates a greasy face, but this cream goes zoop! and disappears as fast as I put it on."
 Debbie had ordered a ground-round patty, sliced tomatoes and skim milk.
 "I'm still hungry," she said, asking the waitress to bring some fresh pineapple.
 "When you are small, one pound means a lot. Do you have a weight problem?"
 "No, because I'm so active," she replied. "People who don't care for sports or never exercise usually have trouble staying thin. I am very critical of my figure. I notice a lot. Do you think my right arm appeared to be more developed than my left. That often happens with athletes, and I used to play a lot of tennis. I got a spot reducing machine—a little one—and it really worked. I took off almost two inches."
 "Exercising is important whether you want to reduce or not," she went on. "Even if you do one simple routine a day, it helps. It is just a matter of setting aside a few minutes a day. Bath time is suitable for a short work-out. A few deep knee bends, stretching over and touching the toes, rotating the upper torso can do wonders for keeping in shape. Then popping into a shower or relaxing in a tub of hot water will make you sleep better and feel better."
 "If you hear of any startling new things in the world of cosmetics, call me," Debbie said in parting. "I think people who close their minds to new products are missing a lot."

KEEP SLIM AND YOUNG

Ray-Williams Nuptials Celebrated In Lamesa

LAMESA (SC) — The Friendship Baptist Church was the scene Saturday at 7:30 for the wedding of Connie Lane Williams and Ronnie Lee Ray. The Rev. Monroe Teeters, pastor, officiated for the single ring ceremony.

The ceremony was performed before an archway entwined with ivy and showered with white gladioli and tangerine chrysanthemums. Cathedral tapers in pedestal candelabra fringed the background for the arch with large baskets of white gladioli and tangerine chrysanthemums flanking the center arrangements.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal wedding gown of white nylon net over satin. The fitted bodice featured a scalloped Sabrina neckline accented with appliqued Chantilly lace. The long, tapered sleeves ended in points over the hands.

The bouffant skirt was overlaid with appliqued Chantilly lace that formed four points around the skirt. Her veil of nylon net and crown of seed pearls, and she carried a cascade arrangement of white spider chrysanthemums.

Karen Millsaps was maid of honor and Darla Jo Williams, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Annett Williams, the bride's cousin,

Couple Takes Vows In Forsan Wedding

FORSAN (SC) — In the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Strickland, Billie Ruth Blankinship and Roy Eugene Strickland exchanged double ring vows before the Rev. George Harrington of Big Spring, Friday evening.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Blankinship of Burket, formerly of Forsan, and Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Strickland.

Wearing a white woolen jersey sheath, the bride was given in marriage by her father; her accessories were white, and she carried pink carnations on a white Bible. She wore a blue garter, which had been borrowed from Mrs. Paul Harvey, and had placed birthdate pennies in her shoes.

Attending the couple were Janette Strickland, sister of the bridegroom, and Sp. 4 Larry Blankinship of Fort Hood, brother of the bride.

Pink roses decorated the three-tiered cake which was served at a reception for about 30 following the ceremony. A lace cloth covered the table, centered with white roses in a crystal bowl.

MRS. ROY STRICKLAND

The bride, who was a senior in Cross Plains High School at the time of her marriage, attended school in Forsan; the bridegroom is a graduate of Monterey High School in Lubbock.

The couple will make a home in Big Spring.

For Fall-Winter

An autumn-winter surprise is the ever-stylish patent leather, especially the new brown shade and the wonderful quality transition.

All-day smart with the dark cottons and silks or the lightweight wools which make up fall and winter wardrobes.

Traditional in the shoe world, the patent this season is better than ever. The leather will not crack and is as light as a feather.

Miss Shelburne Is Bride Of B. Myrick

COAHOMA (SC) — The Presbyterian Church was the setting Saturday for the mid-afternoon wedding of Jo Dell Shelburne and Bobby Myrick.

The Rev. Al Seddon of Big Spring, minister of the church, read the double ring vows before a background of white chrysanthemums and gladioli in baskets.

Dressing For Slaw Sharp, Sweet

- 1 tsp. salt
- White pepper
- 1 tsp. sugar
- 1/4 tsp. dry mustard
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 egg
- 1/4 cup cider vinegar
- 1/4 cup sour cream or substitute

In the top of a double boiler together thoroughly the salt, dash of pepper, sugar and mustard; stir in 1/2 cup of the milk. Whisk in egg until combined; add remaining 1/4 cup milk. Slowly stir in vinegar.

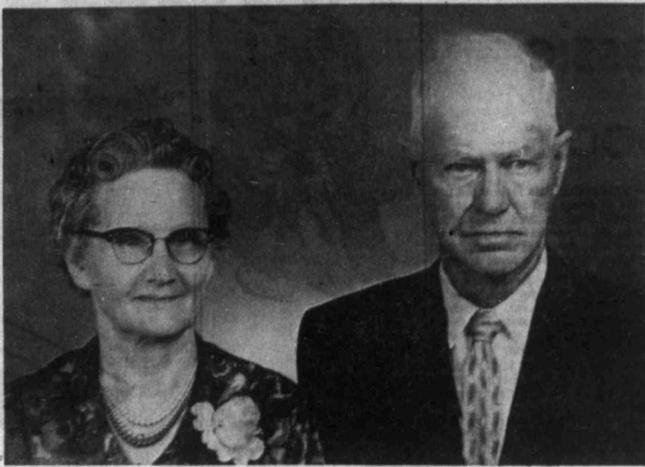

Cook and stir constantly over hot water until as thick as thin white sauce. Cover and cool. Gradually fold into sour cream.

For slaw, moisten shredded cabbage with dressing, adding more sugar if you like; refrigerate overnight before serving. Makes 1 cup dressing.

Smooth Leathers Are Worn On All Occasions

Finishes that range from the subtle flat glow through the waxy gleam to the high gloss, turn up in every kind of shoe for every kind of occasion. And, according to the National Shoe Institute, when there is a grain to the leather it has a subtlety to it, a quiet elegance—as in brushed pigskin, a finely pebbled grain, a reptile.

WATCH FOR PATENT One surprise is the patent leather. The brown or black dress pump and the little walking shoes with straps and with ghillies. These are smart with the dark cottons and silks or the lightweight wools which make up the fall and winter wardrobe.

Coffee, Shoe Breaks Are Energy Builders

Being quick-energy conscious, workers have made the coffee break almost universal. Naturally, added energy comes simply from a break in the working routine. It is the change of pace that is beneficial both physically and mentally.

The shoe break is another effective energizer. A change of shoes provides the change of pace that lifts morale and also acts to boost physical energy.

CHANGE HEEL HEIGHT
The National Shoe Institute indicates that women profitably change their shoes three, four or even five times during a day.

A changed heel height gives all the muscles of the leg and foot a change, a practice performed unconsciously by most women.

A change from slippers into a pair of this season's sturdy-heeled soft-leathered walking shoes is made to do the morning's shopping. Higher heeled pumps may be the choice for a luncheon date. For a meeting or party later, switch to a slightly different heel-height, a different toe shape. For instance if your day shoes have the flattened square toe, change for afternoon into a pair with the new crescent toe.

Depending on plans, evening may be a change to an after-five sandal or to the gay, flat-at-home slippers.

This change of pace is particularly important to the working woman, who is inclined to wear, from early morning to quitting time, the same pair of shoes.

Walk to work in one pair and change at the office to a higher heel. At lunch time, switch to the pair with the firm support and walking heel. An additional pair might be tucked away in a drawer for that last minute invitation which might preclude going home to change.

Whatever the vocation, the shoe break will reduce tiredness and loss of vitality.

Go-Go-Go In Many Classic American Mocs, Ties, Boots

Clothing and shoes reflect the American trend toward a more casual manner of dress. More and more, comfort appeals to the meticulous woman. With this in mind, the flat was created for women of all ages. It is fashion - right and styled to meet the need of any occasion.

Three Little Flats

Go-Go-Go! Go casual in classic and continental mocs, slimmer ties and boots, slip-ons with slanted cowboy heels. Go dating in dressy pancake-heel flats with giant bows, fringed flaps . . . all the latest trims. Choose toes sharp 'n pointy or smart 'n squared! Catch-the-eye colors are new brights and pales like goldbrick, mulberry, paleface, greige, wintergreen and stone . . . flattering browns and blacks.

This season flats feature the new rise of vamp and up-curve at the throatline-on tailored ones which take on a bootlet effect, and on dressier, date-line flats with scallop, bow and jewel trend.

Highlight flats for holiday selling include square toes, jeweled vamps, soft doeskins, multi-color combinations - a style for every interest and all of the more casual holiday activities.

A "big wardrobe" impression is created with flats having basic, blending of colors plus change-of-pace colors.

New textured leathers are softer than ever before. The smooth crushed leather, soft suedes and brushed pig are also among the most - likely - to succeed.

Colors run riot in browns, beige to golden, greyed to reddish . . . blazing greens, deep blue greens . . . plush mulberry . . . polished black calf.

Cushion - crepe bottoms are a must, particularly in the medium and lower - priced brackets. Too, the sueded nylon continues its rise in color casuals using medium-weight, cushion - crepe soles.

Tassels are an evident detail in classic slip-ons with lace-types returning. And quantone stitching, used a hair above the sole line, is another detail of the tie and slip-on.

Color and comfort have zoomed for the leisure life.

Gracefulness - Comfort Spring Fashion Trend

Jody Jacobs of Los Angeles reports that in tailored dress spring lines the following fashion themes stand out:

Trend—Look of airy gracefulness in dressy styles and solid comfort for spectator inspired tailored shoes. Lower heels prominent for both.

Silhouette — halters, slings and sandals dominate the dress field. Narrow straps, fine elastic zoning, more open backs and toes, and spectator pumps are the dominating influence in tailored patterns. But these are often many steps removed from the old classics. Some have open back treatments. Square throats are liked for simple pumps.

Lasts — Moderation is the key for needle toes. Crescents are on the rise. There are some squares on tailored shoes.

Heels—Medium down to 10-8 in vari-shaped stacked heels for tailored shoes, more often set farther back than formerly. Narrow flared silhouette in 12-8 to 24-8 liked for dress shoes. Also more interest in 18-8 heels on open patterns.

Colors—Black, topaz and taupe, bright navy, bone and white, two-tone combinations (usually a color with black patent) bright blues, yellow, bright green and red.

Materials — Patents, lustrous straws often shown with patent trim, smooth leathers, patterned silks sometimes also combined with leather and snake as spectators.

Brady People Are Guests Of Washes

FORSAN (SC) — Mr. and Mrs. Albert Crumley and Alva Jean of Brady have been here to visit in the C. V. Wash home.

George O'Barr has been in Houston and Cypress for about two weeks.

S. J. Willis is a patient in a Big Spring hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Klahr and Mrs. Sylvia Angus were Midland visitors Friday.

The John Kubeckas are in Midland this weekend as guests of the L. W. Moores. Carle Dunn was a recent guest in the Kubecka home and when he returned home to San Angelo, he was accompanied by Mrs. Bonnie Harvey, who will visit his parents.

The Roy Walravens have been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wright and son of San Angelo.

Majorette Mickey Is A Real Trooper

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa. — Even though she's only 16, blonde Michelle (Mickey) Kraynak can look back on 13 years of experience as a majorette.

The pert, blue-eyed lass started twirling a baton with the Lincoln High School band at the age of 3. Now a senior at the Western Pennsylvania school, Mickey still is going strong.

Aside from her longevity as a majorette, Mickey has the distinction of never missing a practice session or performance of the band.

An apparent work of art . . . irrisistant light with a skirt of chiffon and satin embroidered bodice. Endowed with a sixth sense for beauty and a natural capacity for fun. It lives every glorious moment . . . catering to a lady's love for luxury. In green and shocking pink.

Halloween Has Been Left To The Young Generation

Tuesday night is Halloween. How you regard it and what customs you hold to be proper in its observation will be partially determined by where you lived as a child and from what part of the world your ancestors hailed.

For Halloween has its own special features in nearly every land in Christendom. In this country, where the people are a blend of the races of all of the world, the customs have become a sort of conglomerate—parts of the practices of a score of nations being molded into a new ritual.

Here, in these more enlightened days, what Halloween does there will be largely relegated to the younger generation. The kids will be out, as they traditionally are, on their trick-or-treat raids. And many pounds of candies, cookies, fruits and the like will be dropped into countless paper bags held in the grubby hands of an army of goblins, ghosts, witches, pirates, western outlaws and such from coast to coast.

EMENACE
Time was—and the memory of it is still green in the hearts of many persons—when Halloween was a night of great menace and dread. It was the night dedicated to unbridled mischief and vandalism. Householders, fearful of its havoc, baited down as though preparing for a hurricane. Assuredly it was the doings of the younger set which precipitated the damage but evidence shows that not all the blame for these destructive practices was properly the responsibility of the kids. Halloween used to be a time when the warped vandalistic trails of many older folk were unleashed and allowed to run wild.

What is Halloween and where did it originate?

It is not, as some seem to believe, a church festival. It is one day ahead of All Hallows Day (Nov. 1) which came into existence in 610 A.D. The Pope of that time ordered the ancient Paganism converted to a Christian church dedicated to all martyrs. A celebration was ordered to honor these dead—a festival called All Hallows.

ANCIENT CELTS
But long before 610 A.D., the last day of October had been observed as a special occasion. The ancient Celts of Great Britain since times of antiquity had celebrated the feast of Samhain (End of Summer) on Oct. 31. The Druid priests on the last night in October sacrificed a horse to the sun god in appreciation for the good harvest. As late as 400 A.D., natives of the British Isles were still making Oct. 31 sacrifices to the moon god—a survival of the ancient Druidic practices.

And long before the Christian era, most European peoples had had been specially marked so that it could be identified. And each person who threw in a stone had prayed prior to throwing his stone into the dying fire. When the fire had completely gone out, the participants searched the ashes for their individual stones. And if a stone could not be found that person was doomed—he would not live to celebrate another Halloween.

In Scotland in the olden days, the girls had a ritual for Halloween they believed would reveal their future marital destiny.

On the fateful night, the girls would place three bowls in front of the fire place. In one bowl was clean water, in the second dirty water, and the third bowl was empty. The girls would blindfold themselves and then thrust a finger into one of the three bowls at random.

The girl whose finger was thrust into the bowl of clean water was thus assured she would marry as a maid. The one who wound up with a finger in the dirty water would wed as a widow.

And the luckless gal whose finger found the empty bowl was destined, so they believed, to become an old maid.

The witches are no longer with us. Werewolves and vampires are for the late, late TV shows. All the menace that Halloween poses for us now is the jingle of the door bell and the high piping treble of very youthful extortionists.

Their witchcraft is simple. The incantation they use is terse: "Trick-or-treat!"

Ahmad Bashir Back Home, And Without The Big Head

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — Ahmad Bashir arrived home today and assured his countrymen that his high-style trip to the United States has not given him a big head—or big ideas. They had feared it might.

"I would not change my profession," he said. "I am proud of it, and I will continue driving my camel."

But the smiling camel-cart driver was still getting the VIP treatment, even though he is back.

U.S. Ambassador William M. Rountree was among the crowd at the airport that greeted him with shouts "Zindabad!"—long live.

On hand, too, were Bashir's wife and four children. Bashir came back alone, keeping the promise that he would not bring back an American wife. As a Moslem he's entitled to more than one if he desires.

Bashir's wife stood in a corner, hiding her face with her veil. It is not customary for Pakistanis to talk to their wives in public, and the couple avoided meeting each other in the presence of outsiders.

But the camel driver said he had brought her a present. "It is a secret," he said. "Why should I tell folks what I have brought for my wife? She will know when I reach my hut."

Questions Ticket Policy, Music Fare Is Defended

To the Editor:

Last Wednesday morning I went to the business office of the Big Spring schools for the purpose of buying football tickets to the Odessa-Big Spring game. After standing in line for an hour, I finally reached the ticket window. When I requested tickets to the game, I was told that only people with season tickets were entitled to purchase tickets at that time. I think I should have the same rights as anyone else, regardless of whether I had a season ticket.

I have been a taxpayer for many years and pay school taxes although I have no children in school. There are many people who live in Big Spring who are not property owners and therefore do not have to pay school taxes, though they may have a season ticket for home football games. Who spends the most money with the schools?

I think whoever is responsible for this rule is unfair to me and other citizens who do not hold the home game season ticket. When tickets are put on sale to the public, everyone should have the same chance to buy. Why should our school board permit the athletic department to distinguish between those who hold season tickets and those who do not? Everybody should be treated alike, no favors shown to a certain group of people. I think it is time some changes are made in the policies set forth in the purchase of tickets.

Yours truly,

Second Forum Set Monday At HCJC

The second session of the Freedom Forum, "Freedom Through Education," will be held Monday night at the Howard County Junior College auditorium, with C. L. Kay, conference leader, in charge again.

The second session will take up the subject, "The Structure of the American Way of Life." James Cape, general forum chairman for the Junior Chamber of Commerce said this week. "We were pleased with the attendance at the first session last Monday, and are looking forward to many more tomorrow night."

The objectives outlined in the course include: to build economic and political leadership; to compare and contrast Soviet economic power with our capitalistic system; to develop a conviction of the soundness of America's free enterprise; to alert American citizens to the nature and tactics of communism; to arouse people to a conscious need for more honesty, integrity, moral strength, and integrity.

Kay, who is vice president of public services at Labrock Christian College, says the lessons are objective, non-political, educationally sound, and professionally taught.

like the kind of music the stations play, she should get another station or turn it off. Your elders had to listen to "Bye, Bye Blackbird" and watch you do the "Charleston" and "Lindy Hop", so let us listen to "Big John."

A Devotional for Today

I beg you to reaffirm your love for him. For this is why I wrote, that I might test you and know whether you are obedient in everything. (II Corinthians 2:8-9, RSV.)

PRAYER: We thank Thee, Father, that Thou hast given us the great privilege of serving Jesus, our Lord. Bring often to our remembrance His love outpoured on the cross. Render us obedient to Thee through power given us by the Holy Spirit. In Christ's name we pray. Amen.

Up And Up She Goes

At this time of the year, a few holders of automobile liability policies have received their new premium notices. Not in every case, but in many, there has been sobering, if not jolting increases. Some of these have run up to 65 per cent.

The public may as well brace itself, for the end of the year will bring down the avalanche because originally most people took out their original liability policies soon after an act of the legislature became effective. This happened to fall toward the end of the year, consequently this is the renewal date for many.

Evidently, the record of payments on claims has been such that the State Insurance Board was convinced that higher rates were justified. Companies cannot long exist unless they have a margin of income over outgo.

This, however, does not alter the fact that in a lot of instances the cost of liability insurance has, within half a dozen years, more than doubled. Regardless of the cause, the policyholder is having to pay more and more.

If rates are reasonable in view of losses, then there are at least three points with which policyholders may concern themselves. One is to consider the alarming number of collisions, something that doubtless may be reduced by generally safer driving. Perhaps credits could be arranged for those who achieve a string of years of accident-free driving.

Another point is to consider the sharp rise in replacement and repair charges, and certainly in jury awards. Double-standard pricing policies, gaudy, impractical designs which make it necessary to replace the side of a car instead of a fender, and a disposition to sanction overly liberal awards because "the insurance company is paying for it" are matters to ponder for corrective action.

And finally, whether for good or bad, the compulsory feature of the insurance needs to be re-examined. Although it is not admissible in court whether a defendant carries liability insurance, it is now ingrained in the average juror's mind that underneath are the everlasting arms of the insurance company.

Looking Ahead to Reunions

A week ago Big Spring High School had its homecoming and during this weekend Coahoma has been observing similar festivities.

In both instances, the activities began to crystallize at the last minute. Coahoma had a set of ex-student officers to handle the mechanics of the program.

If these activities are to be continued on a fairly regular basis, it seems to us that the formation of some sort of an ex-students association would be in order. This would leave in the hands of the adults the responsibility of coordinating activities in advance of the stated reunion dates instead of leaving it up to student councils to prod the exes before there is a last-week awakening.

Marquis Childs Agonizing Problem On Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON — If ever a President needed to have steady nerves and to detach himself as nearly as possible from the fierce pressures beating down on him it is the man who now occupies the White House.

His position is incredibly difficult. On the one hand he is imprisoned by allies who persistently refuse to see the need to begin a rational search for a way out of the Berlin crisis. On the other hand the wild irrationality of the Soviets in exploding the super bomb has set off a wave of fear and anger around the world.

BETWEEN THESE two extremes the President seems to be immobilized. He finds it hard even to communicate the nature of the trap in which he finds himself. If he talks publicly about the problem of the Allies the crack in the West wall will be widened. Almost anything he might say about Soviet action in spreading a new rain of radio-active fallout on helpless peoples would feed the fear and accentuate the frenzy.

Still another element has contributed to the sense of immobilization that this grim moment has brought. The Asians and Africans have simply declined to stand up and be counted on the fallout threat and the menace of the Soviet tests in the atmosphere. And this raises a point being widely discussed in private at high-policy levels here.

ON NOVEMBER 7 Prime Minister Nehru of India is coming to Washington on a state visit. This is considered as perhaps the most important of the long succession of visits that have occupied the President's time. Under Nehru's direction India is seeking to follow the path of freedom as against the example of Red China, which is a totalitarian regime enforcing with the utmost ruthlessness an extreme form of collectivism. The United States, along with Britain and other Western powers, has done a great deal to help in the vast experiment India is undertaking.

YET INDIA'S delegate to the United Nations, V. K. Krishna Menon, the Minister of Defense, is contributing perhaps more than any single individual to frustrating the Western effort to get a strong resolution on nuclear testing. While no official will say it out loud the Indian effort seems calculated to give the Soviets an out and at the same time to embarrass this country if and when the President decides it is essential to conduct American tests in the atmosphere.

The resolution put forward by India proposes a new uncontrolled moratorium on all tests. The adoption of this resolution could coincide with the end of the present series of Soviet tests. Then with fine self-righteousness—the Communist bloc peoples have never been told of the current test series—they could agree to abide by the moratorium and try to turn the propaganda knife against the United States for continuing to test.

IT HAS become clear that during the uncontrolled moratorium, which lasted more than two and a half years, the Soviets went ahead with the most elaborate preparations to carry out their present test series. With the exception of preparing for underground tests, which do not pollute the atmosphere, this country strictly observed the conditions of the moratorium. The President has said that he will never again agree to such an uncontrolled and unobserved moratorium.

The resolution put forward by the United States and Britain calls for agreement to a draft treaty that would outlaw all tests under inspection and control. The draft treaty submitted by the two Western nuclear powers embodies all the 18 articles which have been agreed to, along with parts of additional articles accepted at Geneva before the Soviets reversed their position and came out against any inspection and control.

ARTHUR DEAN, head of the American delegation at the Geneva test talks, has declared that such a treaty could be ratified within 30 days. That may be a slight exaggeration but it is surely untrue, as Krishna Menon is said to have led many delegates to believe that the test-ban treaty would be as hopeless to obtain as general and complete disarmament.

Contrary leadership by India could have swung the balance in the view of officials who have been observing the struggle at firsthand. Similarly, Indian influence would have made it much easier to get a suitable solution of the dispute over an acting secretary-general that now seems to have been resolved.

NO ONE QUESTIONS Nehru's right to keep his old and close friend, Krishna Menon, at the head of his delegation at the U. N. What makes the situation more paradoxical is that Indian newspapers have expressed widespread condemnation of the Soviet tests and the fallout danger resulting from them. The unspoken question in the minds of his hosts when the Prime Minister comes here next month will be with respect to the double standard of stern denunciation for the United States, as so often in the past, and turning the other cheek to the Soviet transgressor.

Year To Be Better, But How Much Better?

The shape of business in 1961-62 will be far different from that of 1960-61, because of the shape of the automobile industry. It could be better, but it isn't bad.

Dealers are now showing 1962 models. Unlike last year, their car lots are not loaded to capacity with year-old models that they must push out at all costs.

Last year's new cars in October and November are like common stocks in a declining market. Just sitting, they depreciate. And carrying charges—interest—eat into the dealer's profit-and-loss account.

Dealer inventories of new cars, at 657,000, are down 200,000 from a year ago (see chart). And since clean-up of 1961's was good, the great proportion is 1962 models. The depreciation problem has been minimized.

Moreover, fewer used-cars are overhanging the market, and prices are good. Two-year-old Chevrolets and Fords generally sell about $100, or 8 per cent above what a comparable two-year-old would have sold for a year ago. This is a good beginning.

BUYERS BETTER OFF
And so is the indicated 1961-62 pattern of production. It will not be as erratic as 1960-61 output. Influenced by a high level of sales in October and early November, 1960, automobile companies produced for an expanding market.

Perhaps they were fooled by the burst of effort of dealers to sell 1960 models. But the dealers soon ran out of immediate customers.

And production went on merrily, too merrily, and soon dealer inventories were well above a million cars. Result: Layoffs and stop-and-go production. The new wage contracts include short-work-week benefits for workers. Stop-and-go production will cost companies cash.

Car buyers—youth and I—are in better financial shape than last year. Our cars are not mortgaged up to the door handles. Repayment of automobile installment debt on cars has exceeded new credits for nine months on a seasonally-adjusted basis. Automobile installment debt on Aug. 31 was $17,340,000,000 versus $18,020,000,000 the year before.

On top of that, personal income has been rising. Inference: Consumers have buying power.

SALES INDECISIVE
Sales reports for the second ten days of October were indecisive. Only American Motors, up 10 per cent, and Studebaker-Packard, up 11 per cent, reported gains. General Motors was down 6 per cent from the second ten days of October a year ago; Ford 13 per cent; Chrysler 29 per cent.

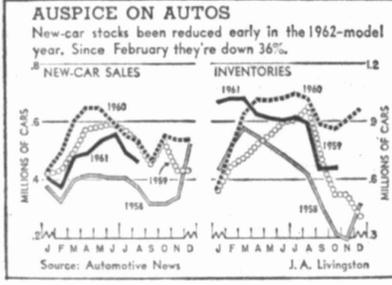

But James M. Roche, director of GM distribution, is optimistic. He considers the results encouraging. Both GM and Ford, hampered by strikes, have not adequately stocked dealers in key models.

Despite the saying, "As autos go, so goes the country," it's more reasonable to say that as goes the country, so go autos.

Passenger cars are a consumer good. They respond to consumer demand. They don't create it.

To be sure, sometimes something radically new and attractive stimulates desire. The automatic transmission was a technological breakthrough which in time generated dissatisfaction with older models. It was responsible, in my opinion, for the high level of sales in 1955.

BERLIN DRAWBACK
The compact cars also marked

000 the year before. On top of that, personal income has been rising. Inference: Consumers have buying power.

BERLIN DRAWBACK
The compact cars also marked

a technological change, which followed the foreign-car invasion. And though the compact has taken a larger share of sales of domestic cars, it has not greatly expanded the total market. Aside from 1960, sales of domestic cars have been below the levels of 1957:

Year	PASSENGER CAR SALES (IN THOUSANDS)
	Domestic	Foreign Total
1954	5,503	32
1955	7,111	38
1956	5,857	36
1957	5,775	207
1958	4,276	378
1959	5,427	614
1960	6,078	499
1961 (Est.)	5,250	450

BERLIN overhangs the automobile market even as it does the stock market. People are uncertain. They know that the horrors of nuclear warfare are a war deterrent, yet they also know that the insistence of Khrushchev on "his way" in Berlin is a constant good toward war.

The bitter, ceaseless test of wills is a pall on initiative, desire, and the light-spirited confidence that cause people to spend. So even though personal income and credit models are favorable, psychology is not.

Though 1961-62 will be better than 1960-61, the big question still is: How much better?

Around The Rim Weather Report For The Coming Year

As surely as appears the harvest moon, there comes across the editor's desk a new edition of The Old Farmer's Almanac. It has been my pleasure to report on each issue for several years, and now I greet 1962 version which, the publishers say, is for the 170th consecutive year.

THERE IS nothing else quite like the almanac, and I would say that it has been a distinct contribution to the American memorabilia. In many and many a home, an almanac rested right along with the Bible and possibly some Dickens or Shakespeare as an infallible source of wisdom.

I picture an almanac as having been devised and edited for sturdy Yankee stock, and that its place of popularity would be in stormbound homes in a rocky land, where for long winter nights there would be nothing to do but peruse this fountain of intelligence.

BUT THE almanac followed the pioneers as they trekked westward, and prairie homes — and Southern ones, too — put the compendium in a prominent place. After all, it still can be used to settle arguments — if you are interested in such matters as eclipses of the sun, the phases of the moon, the way to prune plants properly, and what the game laws are in various states.

TO THUMB through the Old Farmer's Almanac is to bring on a wave of nostalgia. The format itself remains in the antique sort of type and wood-block illustration.

Its subject matter is not exactly what would appeal to the hurrying populace of today, since there remain a few pages of charades and puzzles, some fables, and bits of verse (the 1962 edition features an illustrated presentation of "The Rhyme of the Ancient Mariner.")

BUT OF COURSE, it is in the realm of weather that the almanac claims authority, and many in the farmer of years gone by who would refuse to attempt any sort of project until he determined if the almanac signs gave the go-ahead. The Old Farmer's editor has adopted a sort of tongue-in-cheek attitude about this, and writes that "as long ago as 1936, infallible Bill (another forecaster) declared that of the more than 17,000 licensed weather forecasters in good standing in 1935, his investigations, Congressional and otherwise, had revealed only 278 were not quacks, and of these 278 about 30 per cent were under suspicion."

THE ALMANAC's expert, Abraham Weatherwise, deplores a trend toward "overstepping bounds of sound ethical practice." "Unfair competition and fee cutting and quackery."

And also says: "The most frequently asked question at the offices of the Old Farmer's Almanac is how we make up the weather. Before we get a chance to open our mouths the one who asks the question usually tells us how we do it so the question really never has been answered. Here is what they tell us:

"YOU DO IT by averages. You just take the U.S. Weather Bureau temperatures over a number of years and then you use the 50 year average as your forecast. But of course you are all wrong about this because I have read in the papers that the climate is getting warmer. Why, they say that pretty soon palm trees will be growing in Labrador and Florida will be too hot to live in. You do it by studying the squirrel's tails and caterpillar spines. And sometimes you often kill a goose and look at its insides. But my grandmother could do it better than you can. She said you should follow the course of the Gulf Stream. Anyway you are all wrong because we read in the papers how the climate is getting colder and pretty soon Florida will be covered with an ice cap."

OK, SO ABE Weatherwise says that 1962 will be a bit below normal in temperature, and considerably below normal in precipitation. "However, except for a wicked February and a rainy September, we see nothing too ominous about it. It will be favorable, as was last year, for most undertakings."

That's what the book says. —BOB WHIPKEY

David Lawrence Industry's Losses Affect Uncle Sam

WASHINGTON — Somebody has taken away this month at least $143 million of prospective tax receipts from Uncle Sam — maybe more — and the public doesn't know anything about it.

All that the American people know is that there has been some kind of wage increase in the steel industry which took effect on October 1. They haven't been told that this means additional wage costs of somewhere between $120 and $150 million on an annual basis — and some estimates run as high as $200 million.

LIKEWISE, in the auto industry about $125 million now have been added to costs by the new wage contracts.

Taken together, this is an increase in expenses in these two industries of about $275 million. Hence, the federal government, which might have gotten 32 per cent in the form of taxes on profits from the corporations — or about $143 million — now loses that sum.

Where does it go? Most of it goes to individual who pay a relatively low income tax, and they spend it in large part for consumer goods and pay higher prices for many of their necessities.

ANOTHER $122 million that could have been utilized by the companies to build plant and equipment — projects that would have really stimulated employment — is not going to be available to the private companies that earned it. This trend is what is worrying businessmen these days.

But, sooner or later, the American people will have to begin worrying, too, because Uncle Sam's tax receipts are going to be steadily diminished if such costs are regularly added in industry and there is no corresponding "benefit" obtained. "Productivity" is the word often used to describe such a "benefit." But "productivity" doesn't come primarily out of harder work or longer hours. It comes out of new machinery and more "automation," and this takes money to purchase. It is precisely the additions to this reservoir of funds in American industrial companies that are being steadily prevented.

IF, IN ALL corporate industry, the same scale of wage increases is applied as the average of those emerging from the October 1 pay raise in steel and the 1961 wage contracts in autos, it is estimated that $2.9 billion would be added annually to corporate wages and salaries. Indeed, approximately $4.5 billion would be the total increase in corporate employment-costs if "fringe benefits" are included.

Here is a $4.5-billion item which must come out of profits. Hence, federal taxes would drop $1.8 billion. This takes into account an offset of about a half-billion dollars in income tax receipts from individuals, so the net loss to the Treasury would be at least $1.8 billion.

WHAT COULD Uncle Sam do with $1.8 billion? All expenses could be paid for the operations of Congress, the executive offices, the Commerce Department, the Interior Department, the Justice Department, and the whole judiciary system.

But worse than all this loss in federal taxes is the impact which the new wage costs would have upon the future of American business expansion. Internal corporate funds for investment would drop from $30.3 billion in 1960 to $28.1 billion unless stockholders were to accept a cut in the wages of their money, usually called "dividends." If anything like that happened, it would mean that companies would have a hard time raising money for expansion except at very high interest rates, and this in turn would cost Uncle Sam more in tax receipts because interest payments are a deductible item on taxes.

THE TRUTH is that the economic system of this country cannot absorb these extensive increases in wage costs and still accumulate enough profits to buy the desired amount of new plant and equipment. That's why the heavy-goods industries, which are today the source of so much unemployment, have been hurt in recent months. That's why business is worried.

To Your Good Health In Visiting Doctor, Don't Lose Your Patience

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Here is a letter that might help a lot of people — both doctors and patients.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I follow your column every day and enjoy it much. I'm not very strong for doctors as such, because I refuse to spend the afternoon sitting in their offices when I have a definite appointment. I wish you would write about that, along with your opinion on a funny trouble which I have each year in July and August. It's not hay fever, and it's not an allergy, why just those two months?"

"It's a breaking out, mostly around my ankles, which burn and itch. I eat just the same, and wear the same clothes the year round. — B. J."

Here we have a case of irritants — at the ankles and at the other end. At which end shall we start? Oh, at the upper end, I guess — the stewing about waiting to see the doctor.

I cannot, with a clear conscience, deny that sometimes patients have to wait. That's why we have "waiting rooms," preferably with magazines containing only articles that can be read in five minutes or less, so that people don't get half way through one, only to be called in to the doctor and never to finish it. Remind me to suggest that some doctor publish a magazine designed entirely for waiting rooms.

The fact is that I don't know of any way of making "appointments" just exactly with the clock. You can't tell when a "simple" case will require some more questions, thought and testing. As to the other end of the itch, the ankles in July and August, I can say just this: It certainly sounds like an allergy. "Hay fever" is only one allergy among many. There are grass fever, rose fever, allergies to other flowers and plants and trees.

Think! What do you do in those months? Visit in the country? And walk through fields of woods? Work in the garden? Spend a lot of time at a beach? What's DIFFERENT? Look there for the answer.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Does 'falling of the womb' always require an operation? — M. T. M."

Definitely no. The answer depends on the degree of drop and how much distress it causes you. Occasionally a pessary may be helpful. In other cases, no treatment is required.

MRS. B. H.: "Myalgia" means muscle pain.

What are ulcers? How should they be treated? What can you do to help rid yourself of ulcers and stay rid of them? For answers, read Dr. Molner's helpful new booklet, HOW TO HEAL PEPTIC ULCERS AND KEEP THEM HEALED. In your copy write to Dr. Molner for a copy of the Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Holmes Alexander Our Deterrent Is Not Detering

WASHINGTON — Ernest Hemingway's coverage of Max Baer's fight with Joe Louis, back in the prewar days, is an unforgettable treatise on combat timidity — and, by chance, a stinging commentary on Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell Gilpatrick's list — cocking policy speech last week.

IT IS A FINE thing for a fighter to cock his fist, but not if he doesn't throw it. In the Louis — Baer match, both men heavyweight champions in their time, Maxie brought to the ring a sculptural physique and one of the most devastating right — hand punches of the era. But — and this became the thesis of Hemingway's write-up — Baer was too scared to throw it. He crept about the ring, evidently paralyzed at the thought of what Louis could do (and finally did do) to him.

HEMINGWAY wrote that he and practically everybody else had known fear, but that for a man in nothing but gloves and trunks to climb into a prize ring and play the pitloot before thousands of paying customers was a sickening sight to behold. The novelist, a personal friend of Baer's, hated what he had to write — as do many of us today in other circumstances — but there was this magnificent giant of a fighter whose strength and skill were made a mockery by his craven concern for keeping the peace.

WELL, SECRETARY Gilpatrick made a rousing good speech at Hot Springs, Va., before the Business Council — many of whom manufacture or finance our military striking force. Gilpatrick brandished our American might. He spoke of 600 heavy bombers, many more medium bombers, six Polaris submarines at sea, several carrier task forces and numerous land — based missiles.

But does anybody believe that JFK has the will to throw this punch? Has all that pale intellectualism around the White House lost the name of action?

THE REPUTATION for empty bluster is not only very poor public relations, but it is probably equally dangerous to our country than all the bombs in Khrushchev's arsenal. There is a military opinion in Washington today that Big K has already begun "World War III, which is conducted with a new weapon — radio-active fallout. At this writing he has exploded 29 some nuclear blasts, but since he has no respect for America's power he may go right ahead and explode 100 or 200 of those Siberian shots.

WHAT IS HE accomplishing? He is putting an increasing amount of nuclear substance into the winds which blow across the Pacific Ocean, crossing northern Japan, reaching Canada, touching continental U.S.A., and finally arriving at West Europe. By this time the fallout is much dissipated. The residue which gets to Russia is the least of all.

This, I say, is a military opinion given me by an officer I respect. The scientists will have to say if it is possible for Khrushchev to sprinkle our country with noxious fallout, increasing the dosage until it poisons our milk and grain supplies — and cleverly contrives, at the same time, to spare Russia.

BUT CERTAINLY Khrushchev would not be up to any such devilry if he shook in his shoes at what we might do to him. Our deterrent has not deterred him even a little bit.

Estimates Hiked On Dawson's Big Crop

Crop estimate for Dawson County, which has been pegged at 175,000 bales since the beginning of the season, was upped to 190,000 last week by the Texas Employment Commission office in Lamesa.

County growers have ginned 132,332 bales and it is evident to checkers there are perhaps 60,000 more bales still to be harvested.

HOWARD UNCHANGED Howard County's crop estimate was raised to 50,000 some weeks ago and has not been revised since that time. As of Friday, the gins in this county had han-

DEAR ABBY Prospects Ain't Good

DEAR ABBY: I have been married only a few months, and my biggest problem is what my husband did to our car. He fixed it so that it makes a loud noise when we go down the street, and it shimmies when it gets to a certain speed. We attract a lot of attention, which I do not like. I asked him to fix the car so it will be quiet and steady, but he says he likes it this way. Fooling with cars is his hobby. I am 19 and he is 18. Can you help me?

DEAR ABBY: I am now going with a guy who used to go with my sister until she found out he pulled a dirty trick on her. He has been sweet to me, and I like him a lot. My sister is always cutting him down, and trying to talk me out of liking him, but I like him anyway. Do you think he can be trusted?

DEAR ABBY: I am a happily married man. About two months ago I received a letter from a girl I once went with before I met my wife. (She got my address from a relative). This girl and I had a pretty big romance, but it blew over. I didn't answer her letter because I didn't want to start up with her again, being married and all. Then she wrote another letter. This one was terribly mushy. She told me how much she loved me and missed me, and reminded me of several things I would sooner forget. She asked me to write to her. I don't want any more of her

DEAR GAY: Listen to your sister. Hers is the voice of experience. CONFIDENTIAL TO EXHAUSTED DAUGHTER: Why is it that the world is so kind and sympathetic to people who are blind, but they treat deaf people as though they were just plain stupid? Only the hard-of-hearing can know the loneliness, frustration and humiliation endured by the deaf. Hearing aids have helped many. But they can't help everybody. Please have more patience, compassion and understanding for your mother's condition.

Goliad Band Working Hard

By ROXANNE BOLTE
Goliad band members are as busy a bunch of people as we have here at school. They are working on a routine for the Inter-scholastic Music Meet which will be held December 2 in Odessa; they are practicing faithfully in order that they may play at half-time during the Senior High game with Madison of Midland on November 3, and they are preparing for a joint Christmas concert with the Chorus. At present there are eighty members in the "A" band.

Three speakers from Goliad's Curtain Club appeared on the Kiwanis program Thursday noon. Sherry Root spoke on nuclear attack; Nancy Head spoke on "How to Care for Your Dog"; and Patty Haralson spoke on collecting rocks. The Curtain Club consists of approximately thirty members from the 7th, 8th, and 9th grades. They are making plans to give plays and participate in other special activities during the year.

The schedule for those abominable nine weeks tests is as follows: third and fourth periods on Tuesday, Oct. 31; first and sixth periods Wednesday, Nov. 1; second and fifth periods tests on Thursday, Nov. 2. Good luck all!

In charge of the monthly calendar on display in the office window are Ann Howitt and Janet Jones. The calendar includes events of importance to Goliad students, as well as birthdays of the teachers. Be sure to check the calendar each month for current happenings.

The candidates for this year's football sweetheart from the 9th grade are Linda Fullbright, Brenda Gray and Terry Cuthbert. Candidates for her court from the 8th grade are Sue Burns, Tommie Touchstone, and Jackie Crawford; 7th grade candidates are Linda Kirby, Karen Brown, and Linda Robertson. Names of the queen and her court are to be announced Nov. 2 at the Goliad vs. Sweetwater football game to be played here in the old stadium.

Seventh grade cheerleaders showed to advantage during the Goliad vs. Runnels game played Oct. 26. This was the last seventh grade game of this year, and it ended up with an 8-0 score in Runnels favor. This was the only Goliad game played last Thursday.

Mr. S. A. Walker, principal, assures us that after football season is over, we may look forward to class parties. Keeping up our grades and backing our teams keep most of us busy during the opening weeks of school.

The high school choir has been working diligently preparing for a choir clinic which was held this weekend in Odessa. Many major choir directors from colleges such as North Texas University, Baylor University, Texas Tech, Texas University, and others came to assist the high school choirs by helping correct their mistakes so that they might be able to achieve better singing.

The Big Spring Senior High Chapter of Future Farmers of America brought back its share of honors from the State Fair livestock show in Dallas last week. Mike Houston's registered heifer received fifth place in her class. Receiving 11th in the same class was Danny Coats. Don Wortham and Dick Carleton won blue ribbons in the steer division. Tommy Weich's steer won a red ribbon. Truett Vines, instructor and sponsor, accompanied the boys.

Nine members attended the District IV FTA meeting held in Kermit on Saturday. Mike Lowke and Sandra Crawford were Big Spring's representatives in the district Mr. and Miss FTA contest. Each contestant was required to give a speech on "The Teacher-Guardian of Tomorrow." The members attended various workshops at the convention. ## SHS Plans Busy Week

By MARSHA BRISTOW
STANTON — Hello again! So many things have been happening that I missed the deadline for the megaphone last week.

Last week we played the Denver City Mustangs, so there was quite a bit of excitement. Each day we had a pep rally at lunch. We had a pep rally and parade downtown Thursday night, and a parade after the pep rally Friday afternoon. Our boys put up a valiant fight; but since we had to lose, we are backing Denver City all the way to state.

Our homecoming is next Friday, so this week promises to be one of activity. Each day will be a special day for dress. Some of the days will be Kid's Day, Hoho Day, Western Day, School Spirit Day, and Dress-Up Day. We play Staton for homecoming.

Of course everyone associates mums with homecoming. The seniors are selling mums this year. There are three sizes and prices. The $1.75 mum will have a ribbon back, red number, and streamers; the $2.25 mum will have autumn-leaf backing, red number with a gold football and streamers; the $2.75 mum will be surrounded by small feather mums, red SHS or number, and bells on the streamers. Naturally all you guys need to buy your gal a mum, so see Glenda Payne, Cheryl McArthur, Mona Elyne, or Marsha Bristow.

Our FHA meeting was Thursday. I gave a program on the National FHA meeting. I wish everyone could attend a national meeting. It is quite an experience!

Our student council delegates will return today from Amarillo. They attended the annual SASC meeting. Attending were Glenda Payne, Ann Mary, Mary Glaspie and Mary Wilson; Mr. Johnson sponsored the group.

Last Friday night the band sweetheart was elected. The candidates were Wilma Doshier, Nina Yater, and Marsha Bristow. Wilma was elected. She received a bouquet and flower tiara from the band. The majorettes also honored Mrs. Larry Lewis. She has worked countless hours with us on routines, and we wanted to show our appreciation. We presented her with a gift and a gold mum.

The football sweetheart candidates have been announced. The senior candidate is Brenda George; junior candidate, Marilyn Sale; sophomore candidate, Judy Pinkerton; and freshman candidate, Mary Beth Glaspie. Good luck to all!

College Y To Organize At HCJC On Monday

By LYN CLAWSON
Tomorrow morning during the activity period an organizational meeting of the College Y will be held. This meeting will begin at 10:10 a.m. in the parlor of the SUB and all HCJC students are invited. A program will be presented to explain the purpose of College Y. This is the first time in several years that HCJC has had a Y club and I believe that it will benefit the campus greatly. A regular meeting time will be set at the meeting tomorrow.

A group of students met with Fran Flint, YMCA secretary, Mrs. Terry Patterson and Mrs. Florence Watson, sponsors, Monday during the noon hour to discuss establishing the Y group. Attending were Marilyn Bigham, Carolyn Sewell, Amy Eysen, Lillian Burnett, and Lyn Clawson. Marilyn was placed in charge of getting a place and time for the meeting. Lillian is in charge of the program and Lyn, the publicity. I'd like to urge all interested students to attend the first meeting.

Martin Landers, HCJC speech teacher, announced that HCJC plans to send representatives to the Drama Festival which is to be held the first week in March at Lon Morris College and to the Forensic Festival to be held in Temple in April. The Christmas play is to be presented Dec. 19.

Yesterday several SGA members journeyed to Odessa to the West Texas Regional Junior College Student Council meet. Making the trip were Harold Jones, Penny Jones, Kay Crowover, Judy Foster and Miss Barbara Hazelwood, sponsor. Penny acted as spokesman for the group.

Doug Davis also went to Odessa yesterday to see Lonnie Scott, who is National Phi Theta Kappa vice president, to discuss plans for a State Phi Theta Kappa Convention. Doug is national treasurer of the group and local president.

All students who have not done so, please get your picture proofs back to Barr's Photocenter tomorrow.

Beginning in the ninth week of school an intramural girls' basketball tournament will be held each Monday night at the HCJC gym. Girls in the various physical training classes will participate in the contest. It will be a round robin elimination lasting four weeks. At the last game, a special half-time show will be presented. Also at the last game, ten cents will be charged to cover the cost of ribbons to be presented to the winner, and two of the HCJC basketball boys will referee the game.

Tommy Gilmore, president, announced that the BSU will hold its regular monthly meeting at 6:30 Tuesday night in room A-2 at the college. Plans for a city wide youth revival and vesper services will be discussed.

HCJC basketball boys traveled to Abilene yesterday to scrimmage the Abilene Christian College team. The ACC team will come here this week.

Sigma Delta Phi, science and engineering society, is to meet Monday during the activity period in S-6. There will be a program and a business meeting. All boys interested in science and engineering are invited to join this group.

Two Local Youths Win Free Records

Forsan Students Name Duchesses For Annual Fall Festival; Plan Homecoming

By BONNIE SIMPSON
FORSAN—The Student Council held a meeting Wednesday at 12:30. The council decided to order 1,000 programs for the Christmas program. It was also decided that they would donate $25 to the Forsan Welfare Fund, $10 to the Blocker Jr. High Student Council in Texas City to help them recover from Hurricane Carla, and to pay $3 for membership in the International Good Will in Mexico. One and one-fourth points are to be given to any member who suggests a project which is approved and then carried out by the council. Carla Hughes suggested mirrors in the new rest rooms at the football field. This was voted on, and passed.

The boys football pictures have come in and these are $2.50 a package. They include individual pictures and a group picture. These can be picked up in the library if you haven't gotten yours yet. Be sure to pay for them as soon as possible!

A hayride was held for Spanish Club members and their guests, Monday night. Students met at the home of Walter Fields and a hayride went on from there. Everyone reported a good time. Spanish Club members, please remember to pay your dues. The deadline is nearing.

The duchesses for the annual Fall Festival were picked last week. A Duchess was picked from each room and she in turn picked her escort. They are then voted on by all high school students to determine the queen of the Fall Festival. The same thing is done by grade school in order to determine the princess. The queen and princess are then revealed the night of the festival. The duchesses and their escorts are: seniors—Sandra Griffith and Walter Fields; juniors — Bonnie Simpson and Jerry Shortes; sophomores—Heleen Holladay and David O'Brien; freshman — Roberta Hammock and Carl Wayne Clanton.

The seniors have been taking Education Progress tests and should finish Monday. As soon as they finish, the freshmen will start taking theirs.

Next Saturday is the annual Forsan Homecoming for exes. Registration begins at 2:00 p.m. and visitation and coffee continue throughout Saturday afternoon in the high school cafeteria. It is sponsored by a committee made up of exes in this area. The barbecue supper starts at 5:30 p.m. and will be followed by a business meeting and a program in which the homecoming candidates give their speeches, and then the Homecoming Queen is to be elected by the exes. The football game starts at 7:30 with the presentation of the queen at half time. Everyone be sure to come, especially all you exes!

Elaine Carpenter Crowned CHS Homecoming Queen

By LINDA THOMAS
COAHOMA — During the half-time of the Homecoming game Friday night, Elaine Carpenter was crowned Homecoming Queen by Truett DeVaney, former Coahoma student. She was escorted by Vernon Long. Elaine, a sophomore, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed J. Carpenter.

Other queen nominees were: Jenine Hodnett, escorted by Donnie Reid; Margie Appleton, escorted by Joe Adams; John Ellen Ford, escorted by Tommy Grant; Linda Roberts, escorted by George Owen; Sandie Clanton, escorted by John Lowe; Shana Fryar, escorted by Ronnie Walker; and Eddie Wolski escorted Janice Steagald.

Many pep gimmicks were used during the week to help promote school spirit. The students wore red and white during the week. Tuesday freshmen fixed signs and wore them all week. Wednesday the sophomores joined them with their own signs. Thursday the juniors started wearing signs and Friday the seniors dawned their signs. After each bell Thursday and Friday everyone yelled "Best Rotan." Friday morning at 8:40 the freshmen started beating tom-toms and kept it up until the kick-off at 7:30 that night. All these things contributed to the high spirits that were aroused for the game with Rotan Friday night.

Wednesday three permanent football captains were chosen for the year. They are Frankie Frenza, Billy Ford and Bill Turner.

At 10 a.m. Saturday the Homecoming parade began. The parade consisted of about 14 float entries, the school band, the town fire engine, numerous bikes and other entries.

At noon the P-TA served barbecue in the school cafeteria. Following lunch, a business meeting of the exes was held.

Students qualifying for the honor roll for the first six weeks of school with five A's are Paul Camp, Marilyne Johnston, Darlene Mason and Beatrice Torres.

Those having four A's were Dwayne Fraser, Jimmy Shafer and Larry Newman.

Sandra Nichols, Johnnie Wayland, Elaine Carpenter, Cheryl Childers, Vernon Long, Tommy Menser, Leitha Mason, Shana Fryar, Carolyn Conway, and DeJores Bender had three A's.

FHA girls are selling mums for the football game next Friday night when the football and band sweethearts will be crowned. The Bulldogs will complete against Merkel then.

The student council is selling Bulldog decals for 35 cents each. Be sure and support your school by buying one.

'Magnificent' Only Way To Describe 'Spartacus'

"Spartacus" is still the big news during Big Spring's movie week. The award-winning spectacular will continue at the Ritz Theatre until the middle of the week, and then will move over to the State through Saturday.

"The World, the Flesh and the Devil" is the other holdover, and there are two monster movies and a comedy in the new list. There's only one good returnee.

We realize the word has been overused, but there is only one way to describe "Spartacus." It is magnificent.

This film won four Academy Awards, and took several years and many millions of dollars to make. It runs for four hours, in color and on the wide screen, and classifies as one of the most spectacular of spectacles. Yet, the film's values are such as to prove that the Hollywood spectacular finally has grown up.

The trouble with spectaculars always has been that too much attention is paid to the extravagant scenes and sweeping mob shots, and too little attention to the characterizations. Again, it is almost insurmountable difficulty for a script writer to account for both the Big Picture and the comparatively little people who are caught up in the currents of history.

Dillon Trumbo, who scripted "Spartacus" from the Howard Fast novel, has succeeded admirably in integrating the characters of the story with the broad sweep of history. Director Stanley Kubrick kept the pace tight and suspenseful.

Neither Fast nor Trumbo had much to work with. Spartacus, the rebellious slave who almost destroyed the Roman Empire, was thoroughly expunged by his destroyers, so that hardly even a legend was left. They were forced to make assumptions, to fictionalize and add dialogue, and to do a bit of oversimplifying. What they came up with was logical, although the scripted version differs from a few points from the majority views of historians.

CHANGE COURSE
Actually, the story of Spartacus is so much a part of Roman history that it could not have been told without creating a complete portrait of the man himself, albeit guesswork, and a detailed recounting of pre-Christian Rome. And Spartacus was but one of many major historical figures, each of whose actions helped change the course of civilization.

Thus, to make "Spartacus" as a spectacular was inevitable. To make it also human was a necessity. And, to tie together the sweep of history and the human personalities, utter realism was a must.

All this has been accomplished. Kirk Douglas, the film's producer, carries himself with a wondering dignity as Spartacus, the gladiator who was born a slave, illiterate and resentful, but with an intelligence and a compassion for his fellow man that are dangerous to a slave.

Counterpointing Douglas is Laurence Olivier as Crassus, the mortal foe of all that was not Roman. He moves deeply into the heart of a fanatic and, in creating Crassus on the screen, reflects all that was wrong in Rome, for in the victory that Crassus won over the rebel army of Spartacus lay the turning point that changed Rome from a republic into a dictatorship.

The character of Spartacus naturally overshadows the others, since the story revolves about him. Yet, no role is too small for Charles Laughton.

His role as Gracchus, the senator, is big with a capital B. Gracchus was a conniver, and not above a bit of bribery; yet, beneath his corrupt exterior was a heart that laid its life on the altar of freedom.

Laughton, with one simple sentence, an inflection, and a subtle facial expression, sums up the mind of Gracchus: "I would rather have a little corruption and freedom than an honest dictatorship."

CONNIVER
Gracchus' code might well be remembered today. But there is an even more important point which the film subtly makes. It is that free men do not always win, no matter how hard they fight. Sometimes, the cool, ruthless, reflective mind of the natural-born dictator overrides and eventually obliterates all the raw courage that free men can muster.

These three are the most important characterizations. Secondary characters, however, also are pivots of history, and great performances were given by all. Among these are Jean Simmons as the fictional slave girl whose love for Spartacus helped keep him going; Woody Strode as the giant Ethiopian gladiator whose sacrifice built into Spartacus a burning hatred of all slavery; Peter Ustinov as the simpering Batiatus, trainer of gladiators and collector of gold; John Gavin as a young Roman officer named Julius Caesar; and Tony Curtis as Antonius, the singer of songs who learned to be a freedom fighter.

A word about the battle scenes: Most of the slaughter is skipped over, awaiting the final battle when Spartacus finds himself trapped between two Roman armies.

This final battle scene is terrific, not for the actual battle it depicts, but for the effectiveness of the scenes that precede and follow.

Your reviewer has yet to see a Hollywood battle scene that shows how wars in the sword-and-shield days were actually fought, but this one comes closest.

There is a long moment before the battle which shows the audience the power that conquered the world.

The army of Spartacus is lined up, mob fashion, on one side of the valley, soberly awaiting the assault. Across the valley, marching to the muffled throb of drums, come the Roman legions—in formation, moving steadily over the valley, and instantly reacting to their officers' commands. The

Wild Fowl Starts Fuss

ATHOL, Mass. (AP) — Flying feathers, flying glass and flying fists suddenly disturbed the decorum of a junior high school industrial arts room one day last week.

For one confused minute nobody knew what had happened as one student leaped up in anger and clouted the student behind him.

What happened was this: A partridge flew through a window pane, and before falling stunned and injured on the floor, struck the back of the first student's head. He reacted instantly by slugging the innocent student behind him.

Instructor Reino Sandberg took in the situation, quieted the ruckus, and dispatched the injured wildfowl—destined to find a place in Sandberg's freezer.

Now, Almost Anyone Can Run

KEOTA, Iowa (AP) — There won't be any names on the ballot here for the Nov. 7 election of city officers.

The reason: All the candidates for town offices forgot to have their nomination papers signed and notarized, as required by law.

City Clerk Jack McFadden said the mistake wasn't discovered until too late to remedy the situation. He said the citizens will have to elect a mayor and five councilmen by write-in ballot.

Polite Gesture To The Japanese

TOKYO (AP)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker of Canada rode through the streets of Tokyo in a decorated horse-drawn carriage Friday for an audience with Japanese Emperor Hirohito.

The Canadian leader delighted his airport welcomes by delivering one sentence of his short arrival address in Japanese. "I bring greetings from the people of Canada," he said in halting Japanese. For Japan, it was an almost unprecedented gesture by a foreign dignitary.

Stamps In The News

By SYD KRONISH
AP News Service Writer

Three new airmail stamps depicting Biblical sites, the latest in its historical series, has been issued by Israel. The 40 agorot violet shows the tomb of Jethro at Kefar Hittim. The 50 agorot olive pictures a view outside the walls of Jerusalem. The 1 pound pink illustrates a scene taken at the old city of Jaffa. This series was first introduced in 1960, reports the Israel Philatelic Agency in America.

Jethro was the priest of Midian and his daughter Zipporah became the wife of Moses. The stamp showing Jerusalem also features a picturesque windmill and the branch of a stately tree in the foreground. Jaffa, noted in the 1 pounder, is mentioned in the old Testament as a famous seaport. Today it is still a great export city for Israeli products.

All nine stamps in the series were designed by Miss Friedel Stern.

The United States will issue a special stamp early in 1962 commemorating this nation's contributions to the international struggle against malaria. The decision to issue the stamp was made by Postmaster General J. Edward Day at the suggestion of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and on the recommendation of the Citizens' Stamp Advisory Committee. Details as to design, date of issuance and place of first day sale will be announced shortly.

GARY COOPER & DEBORAH KERR
The great Coop's last picture legions wheeling about each other in perfect order.

It was this organization of perfect order that gave Rome her triumphs, for the legions could be moved about the field at a signal from the commander almost as easily as a chess player could move his pawns across the board.

The actual battle breaks up into the usual Hollywoodian mob scene, but it is followed with a vista of carnage, accompanied, not by a musical score but by the silence of death. One seldom sees such as this from Hollywood.

"Everything's Ducky" is a new twist on the old talking mule joke (remember all those "Francis" movies?). And from the previews, it looks like a steal from the comics and a talking duck make life miserable for the U. S. Navy.

MONSTER MOVIES
The two monster movies are double-billed, the first being "The Bride and the Beast," Boris Karloff returns to the medium that ruined his Hollywood career in "Frankenstein 1970." Karloff is one of the finest actors alive, but his role years ago in the first Frankenstein film left him typecast and stereotyped, and he ended up going on to Broadway for a brilliant career.

Perhaps he'll be lucky this time, and, like Vincent Price, another fine actor, make his fortune in a medium he must detest.

"The Naked Edge" is Gary Cooper's last movie, in which he stars with Deborah Kerr. It's not a really bad movie, as many critics have pontificated, but it is hardly good enough for the late great "Coop" to die on.

"Hell to Eternity" is the story of a young soldier whose World War II exploits rival those of Sergeant York, but whose heroics were shadowed by the dropping of the first atom bombs. Stars

HACKETT, SCUTTLEBUTT & ROONEY
It's a steal from the 3 Stooges

Jeffrey Hunter and Sessue Hayakawa have some highly-charged dramatic moments as the Japanese officer is talked into surrendering.

It is double-billed with "I Passed for White," which is a poor attempt at capitalizing on the race issue. In addition to being a badly-done film, it is an insult to both white and colored races.

"The World, the Flesh and the Devil" was reviewed in Thursday's Herald. It is a semi-science fiction film which also deals intelligently with the race problem. Harry Belafonte, Mel Ferrer and Inger Stevens find themselves the sole survivors on the North American continent after the Third World War, and the big question they must resolve is whether to give the human race a new and better start, or fight World War Number Four.

Mickey Rooney, Buddy Hackett and a talking duck named Scuttlebutt vie for comedy honors in "Everything's Ducky," a Barbro Enterprises production due Thursday at the Ritz Theatre. The Columbia comedy also stars Jackie Cooper as a psychiatrist and introduces Joanie Sommers.

DUCKY
In "Everything's Ducky," Rooney and Hackett play sailors at a Naval rocket base who become involved with the duck, which is the sole possessor of a top scientific secret concerning a rocket formula. Cooper plays the Naval psychiatrist to whom the boys come with their problem, while Miss Sommers is seen as a Navy secretary for whom Rooney has a yen.

"Everything's Ducky" was written for the screen by John Fenton Murray and Benedict Freedman. The songs in the Columbia comedy are sung by The Hi-Lo's, Don Taylor directed and Red Doff produced.

Run-Up Pad Completed, Rules For Mexican Entry Simplified

A run-up pad has been completed at the north approach to the County Airport. This was a part of the joint county-federal project in which the island in the front of the terminal building has been paved and run-up pads constructed to allow ample room for warming up and turning by heavy aircraft. There is also room for pull-overs for passing by smaller aircraft if not ready to take off.

Private fliers going into Mexico have, since late in September, been able to enter on the strength of the aircraft's registration certificate.

Notices posted on airport bulletin boards read: "The Mexican embassy in Mexico City has advised that the director general of Mexican customs has instructed customs officials at Matamoros, Tamaulipas, that private aircraft be permitted entry on presentation of the aircraft's registration certificate. He is instructed not to detain fliers for lack of ownership title. The pilots will need properly executed flight plans, and proof of status as a tourist as submitted on the immigration form."

An order has also been issued by the Federal Aviation Agency that the registration certificate of an aircraft must be permanently displayed in the craft, at the cabin door or cockpit entrance, visible to all passengers and crews.

A new twin-engine aircraft is now based at Howard County Airport. Kasch Brothers came up a few days ago with a Piper Aztec, a five-passenger job. Fred Kasch, one of the owners, has a multi-engine pilot's license as well as a single engine license. The new craft will be used in looking after the widely scattered construction jobs now being handled by the Kasch firm. Paul Kasch, the other brother, has a license for flying the firm's single engine Piper Comanche which has been owned for several months.

"We couldn't take care of the supervision of jobs in Andrews, Lubbock, Wichita Falls, Marlin, Bryan, and other places if we didn't have the airplanes," Paul said recently. "We can now cover every job in a single day if we don't have to stay at one place too long. At least we can spend our nights at home whereas we would have to be days on the road without the airplanes."

A new supersonic basic trainer, which has gone through numerous tests at Edwards Air Force Base, has come into the picture for use in the USAF Air Training Command. Within the week Webb AFB will receive its first of the planes. It is known as the T-38 Talon, a two-place, Mach 1.2 aircraft powered by two General Electric J-85 afterburning engines at 3,850 pounds of thrust each, with only 2,600 feet of run needed to lift it off the ground. It can climb at a sea level rate of 30,000 feet per minute, have a ceiling above 55,000 feet, and can produce a maximum speed in excess of Mach 1.2 (One and one-half the speed of sound.)

In the basic training of pilots, cost projections indicate that use of the T-38 on a 130-hour training program would produce savings of more than $10,000 per student, in comparison to a 160-hour program for the T-33 and F-100 combination.

"The T-38 promises to open a new era in the training of USAF pilots," Lt. Col. Arthur W. Buck, T-38 Category III Test Director, USAF Air Training Command, wrote for Interavia, World Review of Aviation and Astronautics. "It meets all high-performance training requirements for transition to the most advanced manned aircraft." Not only can the Talon fulfill this critical assignment, it can do so at comparatively low production and operating costs.

Local Bank Buys City Bond Issue

The first $145,000 in general obligation bonds sold Tuesday night by the city commission, has been purchased by the First National Bank in Big Spring, Lester Morton, president, announced Friday.

"We do not have delivery, but will have when they are issued about Nov. 28," he said. "We have also bought $50,000 of the revenue bonds sold."

"We feel that they are excellent bonds and are proud to be able to buy them," Morton said. "We feel that Big Spring will go on an 'A' rating by the time the next issue is sold, instead of the 'BAA' rating now held, which will mean that a better market will be enjoyed."

In explaining the purchase of the revenue bonds, Morton said the banks could buy up to their loan limit on this type. The $50,000 is much less than the First National's loan limit.

The general obligation bonds were sold to The First National Bank in Dallas Tuesday night, and the revenue bonds were sold to Rauscher, Pierce & Co., and others. The First National of Big Spring purchased the bonds from these firms.

Chaplain To Attend Confab

Chaplain (Maj.) Benjamin F. Meacham will represent Webb AFB at the second annual ATC Chaplain's conference at Randolph AFB, San Antonio, Nov. 7-9. Chaplain Meacham has been selected to speak on "The Chaplain at a Pilot Training Base."

Lt. Gen. James E. Briggs, ATC commander, is scheduled to give the welcome address to the conferees. Chaplain (Col.) L. R. Priest, Command chaplain, is conference host.

Guests will include Chaplain (Maj. Gen.) Terence P. Finnegan, chief of Air Force chaplains, and two members of his staff—Chaplain (Col.) Roy M. Terry of the professional division, and Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Francis K. Murphy of the personnel division.
