Mrs. Wolf Sets Record

Mrs. Alford Wolf and her gold-colored balloon broke the world's record for sustained balloon flight by women at 11:47 a. m. Monday. At that time she had been aloft for 35 hours, besting an unnamed Russian woman's record of 34 hours and 58 minutes. She was reported still up, northeast of Perryton in Ochiltree County near the Oklahoma Panhandle line, by ground observers following the balloon.

The Pennsylvania woman was continuing her balloon ride and may seek to stay aloft as long as she can hold out.

At 7:30 a. m. Monday she was reported in the clouds beyond Higgins, Texas. She was frequently out of sight in the clouds.

SIX HOURS

The balloon was tracked for more than six hours Sunday night by officers in Western Oklahoma and the Texas Panhandle by the blinking red light swinging from the basket. Some concern was felt when reports came out that she could not get down.

A helicopter was called out from Vance Air Force Base at Enid, Okla., to attempt to rescue her as the clouds closed in, reducing visibility. Sheriff Bill Fitzgerald of Higgins reported that he finally made voice contact with her near Higgins and was told she needed no help. The helicopter returned to Vance.

Mrs. Wolf carried no radio in the balloon because she said it would serve no practical purpose and could cause an explosion if the electrical contacts made a spark and set off the hydrogen in her balloon.

DETERMINED

Ground observers said she seemed determined to reach her goal—breaking the balloon endurance record for women.

Mrs. Wolf, 56, took off in the wicker basket suspended beneath the 50-foot balloon at 12:47 a. m. Sunday from Hamilton Field. By late Sunday night she had travelled more than 300 miles to near Higgins in the Texas Panhandle.

The big balloon, newest non-plastic in the United States according to Mrs. Wolf, carried approximately 34,000 cubic feet of hydrogen. Nearly seven hours were required to fill the bag. The normal filling time, she said, was from one and a half to two hours, but the quarter-inch copper tube brought along on the Houston company's truck would not allow a faster flow of hydrogen.

HIGH WIND

The take-off was delayed because of high wind. Mrs. Wolf did not give her order to start inflating the balloon until nearly 4:30 p. m. The flow of hydrogen was shut off about 11:30. Attaching the basket, sandbags, blinker light, and pulling the balloon away from the hangar at Hamilton field, took over an hour.

When asked what she would eat on the attempted endurance flight, Mrs. Wolf said she would eat very little.

"I will have several beef sandwiches, a small bottle of champagne, a couple of angel cakes, and some tablets given by a doctor. The champagne and angel cakes," she said, "were to satisfy a lefty taste."

The tablets were to prevent, or hold off, sleep, and to keep down hunger," she said.

NO ATTEMPT

"There has never been an attempt by a woman balloonist in the United States," Mrs. Wolf said, "to establish a flight time record. I have thought about it for some time, but there are many problems involved, and these have delayed my attempt. I went to Indianapolis recently but weather conditions were never promising there at this time of year. Everything has to be cleared with the Federal Aviation Agency 36 hours in advance of the flight. A lot can be changed by the weather man in 36 hours. Every aircraft, military and civilian, has to be notified over the possible flight area.

"Once the balloonist is in the air he has no control over the direction of flight. For instance," she said, "I could take off from Hamilton Field, fly 500 miles in any direction, and then pass back over the field tomorrow. I can't watch for airplanes, they have to be warned to watch for me. Therefore, after considerable thought about it, and planning with others, the Big Spring area was chosen. Hamilton field has comparatively little traffic to be tied up, and Mr. Hamilton agreed to let us use the field for preparations and take-off."

LONG INTERESTED

Mrs. Wolf said she had long been interested in balloon flights and had often seen balloon races in Europe.

"Balloons in Europe are quite common," she said, "and they have races frequently. Outside of plastic balloons, there are not more than six in the United States, and this is the newest."

"The basket is much older than the balloon. It flew over London carrying Mike Todd when he made the picture 'Around the World in 80 Days' but it was not used in making the picture itself," she said. "During the last presidential campaign Vice President and Mrs. Richard Nixon were photographed in the basket with this balloon in California. It was filled with helium then because of Secret Service regulations."

Anthony Fairbanks, a representative of the National Balloonists Association, accompanied Mrs. Wolf to Big Spring, and supervised technicalities of inflating, assembling, and the take-off of the balloon.

"It is not so much the flight itself," Mrs. Wolf said. "You know that temperature changes can cause an increase or decrease in the lifting power of the gas used in the balloon. The time aloft will depend upon the temperature changes and how much gas has to be released in order to maintain a sustained flight of a given altitude."

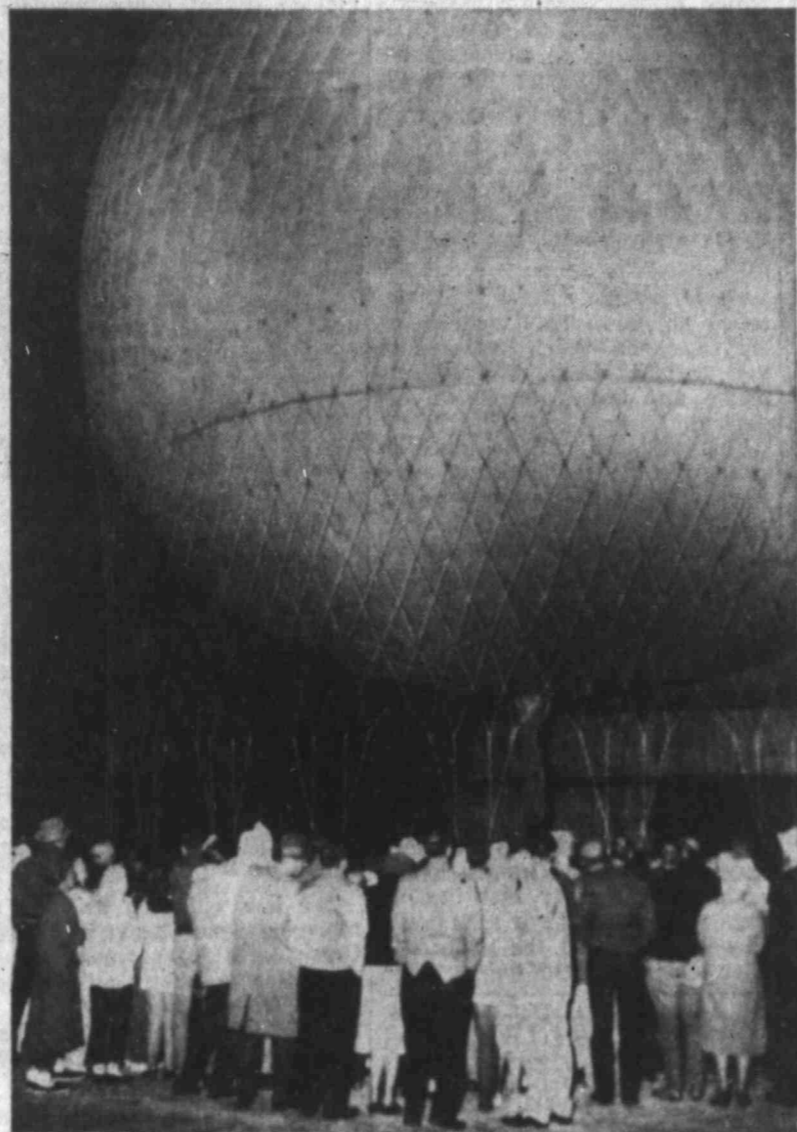

"If the air is too warm during the day I will have to let out some of the hydrogen. As it cools off the altitude lessens and I have to drop some of the sand to relieve the weight. When all the sand is gone and warm air forces me to release more gas, then I will be forced to come down as the air gets cooler. For balloon observation purposes that is the main reason for this flight. The length of time I spend aloft will depend upon how well I manage to hold the proper balance between the weight of the basket and sand and the lifting power of the hydrogen."

GAS VALVE

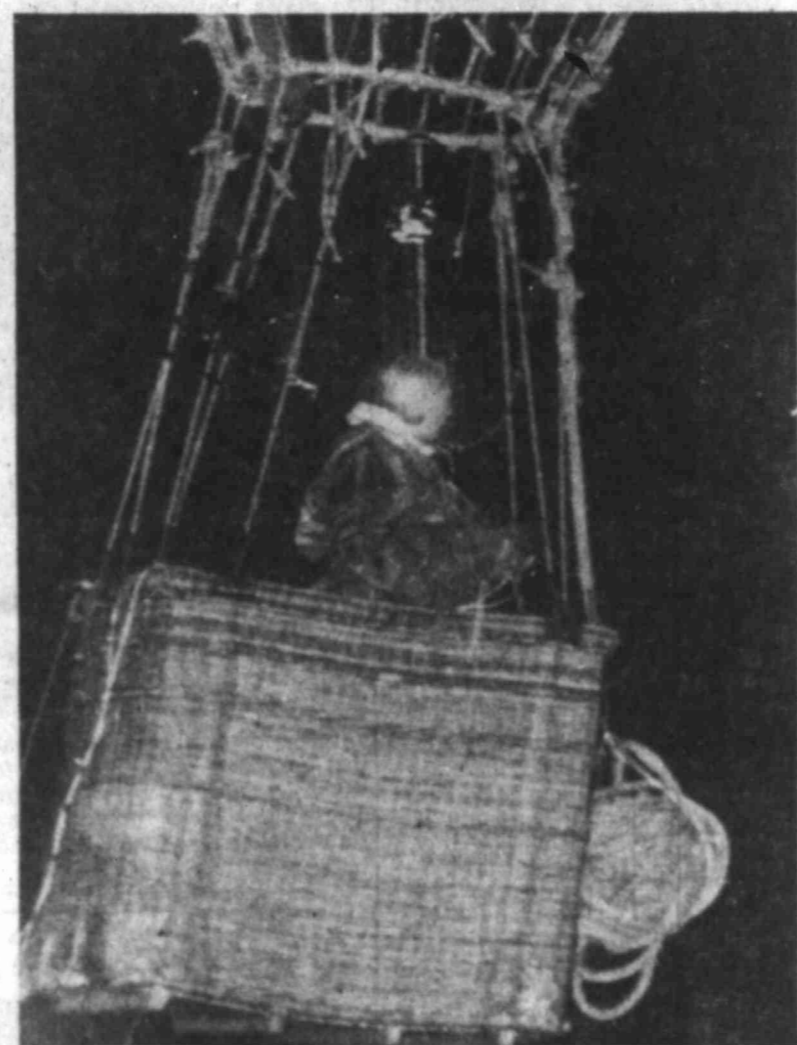

A valve at the top of the balloon, operated by ropes down to the basket, is used to release gas from the bag.

While the balloon was being filled, some 100 bags of sand, weighing 30 pounds each, were attached to the netting to insure proper inflation without tangling the netting around the bag itself. As it filled, the bags were attached to a part of the netting progressively three feet lower each time. When it filled, the sand bags were gradually taken off until only enough remained for ballast in flight. These were then attached to the basket in easy reach of Mrs. Wolf.

Crowds of Big Spring and area residents flocked to the airport during the afternoon and night. Estimates ran to around 3,000 persons in all at intervals. At one time over 1,000 crowded the take-off area, with cars parked as much as a quarter mile away.

Show Of Force Ends Try At Power By Trujillos

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Bowling to a U. S. show of force and opposition from young Dominican air force generals, the Trujillo clan today appeared to have abandoned an attempt to set up a new dictatorship in this Caribbean republic.

President Joaquin Balaguer, pledged to set the nation on the road to democracy, extended his control as 29 top Trujillo officials slipped out of the charter at midnight aboard a chartered airliner and flew to Florida.

Two brothers of slain dictator Rafael L. Trujillo led the exodus of the crumbling family dynasty that ruled the country for 31 years virtually as a private plantation.

The fleeing Trujillos were met by U. S. government officials headed by a Secret Service agent as their four-engine plane landed at Broward County Airport, about an hour's drive from Miami.

The two—Gen. Hector Trujillo, a former president, and Gen. Jose Arismendi Trujillo, who had his own army—went originally into exile three weeks ago but returned quietly last week in what the United States charged appeared to be a desperate attempt to seize power.

AT ODDS

Gen. Rafael L. Trujillo Jr., son of the former dictator who reportedly was at odds with his uncles, quit as commander-in-chief of the armed forces last week when they came back and sailed away in his yacht.

Balaguer, himself a former front man for the old dictator, still faced the prospect of difficulties with strong opposition party elements in carrying out his pledge to bring democracy to the country.

Some opposition leaders were openly suspicious that the threat from the Trujillo faction was not really over. "The pro-Trujillo are too smug about the entire situation," one said.

The president took over supreme command of the military and proclaimed an emergency, just short of martial law.

Balaguer won pledges of support from the new leaders of the armed forces after warning that squabbling could lead to "foreign military intervention"—a clear allusion to U. S. warships and Marine Corps air units hovering offshore.

Four U. S. warships led by the cruiser Little Rock appeared off the coast Sunday and were joined later by eight other ships, including an aircraft carrier.

A dozen U. S. Marine jets swooped close to the shoreline and brought cheers from crowds gathered along the seawall. There were shouts of "freedom at last."

U. S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk had offered Balaguer troops if he needed them to thwart restoration of a Trujillo dictatorship. But there was no indication that the Dominican leader had requested any outside help.

Gen. Pedro Rafael Rodriguez Echavarria, 37-year-old commander of the air force base at Santiago, led the local show of support for Balaguer.

He and other young generals issued a communique saying the air force would "tolerate no attempt to institute in the country a tyrannical or reactionary regime."

An air force jet dropped copies of the communique on Ciudad Trujillo. Reports from Santiago said planes bombed the town of Valverde until the commander of the local garrison agreed to back Balaguer.

MOISTURE WORRIES COTTON FARMERS

Heavy Fog Covers Area, Blamed In Airman's Death

A sippy fog which limited visibility at times to near zero blanketed the Big Spring area Monday and was blamed for the death of a Webb AFB airman.

It also increased the worry of farmers who are anxious to complete the harvest of their cotton and who see a loss in grade due to the prolonged interval of gray, damp weather.

The death, which was described as the sixth in the state chargeable to the inclement weekend weather, occurred at 3:30 a. m. Monday on IS 20. It involved the collision of a passenger car, in which Airman 2.C. Richard Hake, 18, and Airman 3.C. Chris G. Lowrey, 19, both of Webb, were passengers, and a big truck loaded with cotton seed.

Hake was killed instantly in the collision. Lowrey was injured but his condition Monday was reported as satisfactory at the Stanton Hospital where he was taken by Arrington Funeral Home ambulance.

The collision occurred three miles west of Stanton in front of a truck stop known as the Highway Cafe. Name of the driver of the truck was not reported. Highway Patrolman Bobby Papan, Stanton, investigated the accident.

Arrington Funeral Home brought the body of Hake to Big Spring. It is at the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home where arrangements are pending.

Webb AFB said that Hake, a native of Alhambra, Calif., had been at the base since Aug. 26, 1960. He was attached to the Consolidated Aircraft Maintenance department, as is Lowrey.

Lowrey whose home is in Port Huene, Calif., checked in at Webb one day after Hake had arrived, the records show.

Hake, according to reports, was driving the car at the time of the accident.

The foggy, chill weather here was in harmony with bad weather which prevailed over the west Texas area. From two to three inches of snow remained on the ground over much of the Panhandle as an aftermath to the snowfall which occurred during the weekend. Generally, Monday's fog and damp drizzling weather prevailed over the area.

The weather made travel hazardous and the deaths charged to it were credited alike to the poor visibility and the slippery surface created by the moisture.

Five persons were killed Sunday in a head-on collision near Buffalo that occurred on fog-shrouded U. S. 75.

While the fog slowed traffic and slicked streets and highways in north and east sections of the state, a few very light showers fell in the Brownsville area and in northeast Texas. Lubbock had light drizzle before dawn and it was partly cloudy in South-Central Texas.

Only Southwest Texas had fair skies.

Temperatures ranged from 64 at Brownsville to 21 at Dalhart just before daybreak.

Forecasts called for cloudy to partly cloudy skies and slightly warmer daytime temperatures in north central, northeast and northwest portions of the state. More clouds were expected for southern portions of the state with little temperature changes expected except in Southwest Texas where scattered showers and warmer temperatures were expected by Tuesday.

Governor Flying To New Guinea

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller flew toward the Far Pacific today to give whatever aid he could to his son Michael, last reported lost off the wild south coast of New Guinea.

The governor's party took off from San Francisco on a Pan American jetliner for Tokyo.

As Rockefeller resumed his hurried, 10,000-mile journey to the far-distant jungle island in the Western Pacific, he had some hope that his son might be safe. Michael's companion during the New Guinea mishap reportedly has been rescued, Dutch officials reported at the Hague, Netherlands.

And the Dutch also said there was some indication that Michael too would be found safe.

Young Rockefeller was last seen floating on two all purpose military cans that could be used to keep him afloat, his rescued companion reported.

LEFT BOAT

Rescued R. S. Wassink, 34-year-old Dutch official, said he and Michael were forced to abandon their prahu, a native craft made of two canoes joined together.

The two had been on a hunt for primitive art and sculpture along New Guinea's southern coast of swamp and jungle, one of the wildest areas in the world.

The governor, shaken and pale, arrived here this morning from New York on the first leg of the long journey.

In New York, the Journal-American indirectly quoted the Dutch companion, Rene S. Wassink, as saying he saw Michael swimming in the ocean toward the New Guinea shore Saturday morning, New York time. "I don't know if he made it. I haven't seen him since."

That quote was relayed to the newspaper via telephone by Johan Van Beuge, director for Administrative, political and international affairs for New Guinea.

Van Beuge also said Wassink was clinging to the capsized canoe at the time of his rescue this morning.

LAST SEEN

The Dutch government here quoted Wassink as saying he had last seen Rockefeller off the southern mouth of the Eilanden River.

Gov. Rockefeller planned to charter a plane from Tokyo to New Guinea.

The governor, 53, said he had expressed his gratitude to President Kennedy for a message of sympathy and offer of help.

The President had telegraphed Rockefeller: "I am extremely sorry to hear about your son. Everyone connected with the government is most anxious to be of every possible assistance. I hope you will call on us for whatever assistance the Defense Department or any other agency can render."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy flew back from his Western tour today, after a six-hour flight from Los Angeles.

Court Rules Female Jury Service Voluntary

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Supreme Court, with a bow to women who feel their place is in the home, ruled unanimously today that states may relieve women of jury duty unless they volunteer to serve.

The decision was given in the case of Mrs. Gwendolyn Hoyt, sentenced in Florida in 1958 to 30 years imprisonment for killing her husband with a baseball bat.

In an appeal to the high tribunal, Mrs. Hoyt's lawyers argued she was unconstitutionally deprived of equal protection of the law because the jury that tried her was all-male. Florida law says:

"The name of no female shall be taken for jury service unless said person has a state, acting in concert with the clerk of the court her desire to be placed on the jury list."

Justice Harlan, delivering the decision which turned down Mrs. Hoyt's appeal, said there has been an "enlightened emancipation" of women over the years. But still, he said, woman is considered to be the center of home and family life.

"We cannot say," he continued, "that it is constitutionally impermissible for a state, acting in pursuit of the general welfare, to conclude that a woman should be relieved from the civic duty of jury service unless she herself determines that such service is consistent with her own special responsibilities."

Florida is not alone in this position, said Harlan. He related that of 47 states where women are eligible for jury service, 17 in addition to Florida, plus the District of Columbia, give women an absolute exemption.

Today's decision does not mean that all women who volunteer must be taken for jury service. The decision simply upheld the Florida law which says no woman shall be taken unless she registers her desire to be put on the jury list.

In another action, the high court agreed to review a case involving use of an electronic eavesdropping device concealed in a prison room used for conferences between prisoners, their lawyers and friends.

The appeal was filed by Harry

Lanza, who was sentenced to a year in jail for refusing to testify about conversations he had in the room in the Eastview prison in Westchester County, N.Y.

Lanza conferred with his brother,

End Secession

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States, fearful that Antoine Gizenga might withdraw Oriental Province from the Congo, sought today to have the U. N. Security Council call for an end to all secessionist activities in the turbulent country.

Reds Gird Berlin Wall, As If For An Invasion

BERLIN (AP) — The Communists today strengthened the wall dividing Berlin with tank traps and barriers as if they were digging to repel an invasion.

Big propaganda signs were tacked up in front of the Brandenburg Gate reading: "Anyone who attacks us will be annihilated."

About 2,000 workers, under the watchful eyes of 2,000 armed guards, labored feverishly during the night erecting massive fortifications that look more and more permanent.

There was little military activity on the Western side of the wall.

Ten U. S. tanks remained about 600 yards from the Friedrichstrasse crossing point. Two armed personnel carriers stood in the street itself, where they have been for a month.

Streetcar tracks were torn up to make tank traps and the wall was made thicker and higher in a dozen places along its 25-mile length.

At the Brandenburg Gate a double concrete wall went up, each part 3½ to 4 feet thick, about 6½ feet high and only a few inches apart.

At the Potsdammer Platz, once a major crossing point between East and West Berlin, the Communists reinforced the wall with a double row of steel tank barriers. They were shielded by a camouflage net a block long.

Council Accepts Russian Church

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The Russian Orthodox Church was admitted today to the World Council of Churches amid misgivings and considerable acclaim.

The step came as believers of nearly every kind and culture began the most widely inclusive Christian convocation of the modern era.

Outside the meeting place at the Vigyan Bhawan Temple of Learning a picket carried a sign reading "Russian clergy are Communist agents, not servants of God."

But among church envoys here for the council's third general assembly, vigorous applause greeted the action seating the 16-man Russian Church delegation.

Each member denomination — 175 Protestant, Orthodox, Anglican and Old Catholic bodies — was entitled to one vote. Two U. S.

churches abstained—the Russian Orthodox Church in America and the Hungarian Reformed Church in America.

The Rt. Rev. Zoltan Beky of Trenton, N. J., bishop of the Hungarian Church, voiced the fear Russian churchmen would use the council "as a platform for political purposes."

Other churchmen from East and West said the entry of the Russian Church broadened the scope of the Christian unity movement and gave ancient Eastern denominations full representation in it.

Twenty-two other church bodies were admitted, including the Bulgarian, Romanian and Polish Orthodox churches and two Chilean Pentecostal churches, the first Pentecostal groups to join the council.

The additions bring the council to 198 denominations with more than 300 million members in about 60 countries.

With the exception of the Roman Catholic Church, every major confession is now "strongly represented" said Dr. W. A. Visser T'Hooft, the council general secretary.

Never before, he said, has a "greater variety of expressions of the Christian faith been brought together in one movement."

The Russian Church has a membership estimated from 30 to 50 million in a population of 250 million people.

Admission of the Russian Church culminated more than 10 years of negotiation. Dr. Visser T'Hooft said council leaders became convinced that participation of the Russian Church would serve "the cause of Christ."

Back To The Classroom

Joseph R. Turk looks over classwork of 17-year-old Nancy Fitz-Gibbon as he returned to his job as Russian language teacher in Columbus, Ind., high school after brief Army service. After Army Reservist Turk was called to active duty several weeks ago his students petitioned for his release saying he was more valuable to them than to the Army as a clerk-typist. The students now plan to write thank-you letters to President Kennedy and Rep. Earl Wilson (R-Ind.).

Garcia May Protest Vote To Delay Inauguration

MANILA (AP)—A Liberal party leader said today that President Carlos P. Garcia plans to protest President-elect Diosdado Macapagal's election in an effort to delay the Liberal candidate's inauguration.

Sen. Ferdinand E. Marcos, the Liberal party president, said Garcia's Nationalista party, which retained control of both houses of Congress in the election last week, may refuse to proclaim Macapagal president after canvassing the vote next month.

Such a proclamation is required by law, Marcos said, and legally any protest of the returns would have to be made to the Supreme Court after the proclamation by Congress. Normally the new president would be sworn in at the end of December.

No immediate comment was available from Garcia, who conferred with other Nationalista leaders at the Malacanang presidential palace. Garcia refused Sunday to concede the election and said, "There are grounds for doubting the accuracy of the compilation of election returns."

Liberal party leaders conferred at Marcos' home to devise counter measures should Garcia try to block Macapagal.

Macapagal was hiding out in Manila after reports of threats to his safety circulated in the city. He and his family left their suburban home for an undisclosed place.

Manila Mayor Arsenio Lacson criticized Garcia for casting doubt on the returns made public by the Commission on Elections.

Independent vice presidential candidate Sergio Osmena Jr., running about 175,000 votes behind Macapagal's running mate, Emmanuel Pelaez, wired his congratulations to Macapagal Sunday night.

"The overwhelming victory of the Filipino people as indicated at the polls is for a change in the administration," said Osmena.

Reynolds Has Wide Margin

DENVER, Colo. — Benny Reynolds, Melrose, Mont., hit a cold streak at Greensboro, N. C., last week, but he still held a wide margin in all-around cowboy honors for the year.

With $28,603 earned, he appeared a cinch for the title with only two more shows — Los Angeles, Calif., and Las Vegas, Nev. — remaining before end of the official 1961 rodeo season. Guy Weeks, Abilene, pushed his earnings to $25,361 by placing in saddle and bareback riding events and calf roping at Greensboro, and was in third place. Hanging in second was Dean Oliver, Boise, Idaho, with $25,642, all but $46 of it earned in calf roping.

Leaders of various divisions, other than all-around, were: Saddle bronc riding, Winston Bruce, Calgary, Alta., $19,296; bareback bronc, Eddie Akridge, Midland, Texas, $13,622; bull riding, Ronnie Rossen, Broadus, Mont., $12,776; calf roping, Dean Oliver, $25,596; steer wrestling, Jim Bynum, Forrester, Texas, $14,487.

Capsule Of Living Matter Is Lost

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (AP)—A capsule of living matter apparently survived a rocket flight more than 1,000 miles—then got lost at sea.

A four-stage rocket carried the BIOS capsule aloft Saturday. Its living cargo—blood, nerve fiber, mold, bacteria, barley seed, sea urchin eggs—was to be recovered and tested by scientists to determine the effects of outer-space radiation and gravity changes.

The rocket apparently veered off course and the capsule parachuted far out of the planned impact area south of here.

After several hours of searching the Navy gave up.

Room-Stuffing Record Claimed

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Students at the University of Buffalo claim a record for intercollegiate room-stuffing.

They said 233 students were stacked from the floor to the ceiling of a 17 x 20-foot dormitory room Sunday after the furniture was removed and the windows boarded up.

The Buffalo students said that eclipsed a record of 225 set at the University of Kentucky.

"We could have gotten more in there," said one Buffalo student, "but it was pretty hot and one of the guys started to complain."

Scientists Find Life Traces In Meteorites

LONDON (AP)—Two New York scientists report they have found evidence of traces of living things in meteorites reaching the earth from outer space.

Dr. George Claus of New York University and Prof. Bartholomew

Nagy of Fordham University reported in the scientific magazine Nature they found in certain meteorites organized elements resembling in structure the fossilized remains of microscopic forms of life.

Of five types of "organized structure" which they describe, four are said to be similar to known earth species, but not identical.

They resemble small single-celled animals—dino-flagellates or chrysoomonads—which live only in sea or lake water. The fifth is unlike any known terrestrial organism.

This evidence will do much to strengthen the implication of other discoveries in the last two years, which have shown how meteorites of various kinds are contaminated with traces of complex chemical substances whose presence is most easily accounted for by contact with living things.

The two scientists examined samples from two meteorites. These were the Orgueil meteorite, which fell in southern France in 1864, and the Ivuna meteorite, which fell in an arid region of central Africa in 1936.

The authors of the research have gone to some trouble to exclude the possibility that the objects which they have seen could have contaminated the meteorites after their arrival on the earth. In each instance the meteorite remained out of doors for only a few hours after falling.

They said it is most likely that the structures are the fossilized remains of living microorganisms "indigenous to the meteorites."

No single piece of evidence of this kind can be considered conclusive proof of the existence of life outside the earth. But now that the prospect of interesting discoveries seems to have brightened, it is certain that analysis of meteorites will accelerate.

Indian Troupe Meets Jim Crow

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—A dance troupe from India, which twice has encountered restaurant segregation in the South, will cancel other Southern spots on its intercontinental tour.

The leader, a Mrs. Indrani, said the Indian Embassy in Washington will decide whether the troupe will make other appearances in the South.

The troupe, sponsored by the Asia Society Performing Arts Program with backing from the State Department, cancelled an appearance at Centenary College Sunday after Mrs. Indrani was refused admission to two restaurants in nearby Bossier City.

The group appeared at Denton, Tex., Saturday.

Members planned to leave by plane today for Raleigh, N.C.

City To Lower Water Line

Some 700 to 900 feet of 14-inch water line, from Moss Creek Lake to the Big Spring filter plant, is to be lowered by the city, with the Colorado River Municipal Water District cooperating. The line is on a ridge north of Marcy Drive and between Birdwell Lane and Grafa Street on property now owned by Lloyd Curley.

The line will soon be used for replacing water taken from Moss Creek Lake by companies using water for secondary oil recovery. Water from Powell Lake will be used for keeping Moss Creek Lake at its proper level for CRMWD use.

The grading of the area through which the line passes has left it on a ridge, partly exposed. It is to be lowered for protection.

The city commission, at last Tuesday's meeting, asked the city manager and city attorney to negotiate with Curley for a 30-foot working easement to permit lowering of the line in the existing right-of-way easement which was secured several years ago from the original owners.

The ridge will be removed and graded to the level of the adjoining property.

The city's easement grants the right for removal, operation, and maintenance of the line, but more space is needed to permit proper equipment to work on lowering the line.

Ships Collide, 3 Men Missing

TOKYO (AP)—The American freighter Almeria Lykes was slightly damaged and a Japanese ship sank in a collision Sunday night off southwestern Japan.

Three of the crewmen aboard the Japanese ship, the 3,230-ton Hiyoshi Maru, were missing. Thirty-one others were rescued. No one aboard the 7,855-ton American freighter was hurt.

DEAR ABBY
Money's Not The Reason

DEAR ABBY: I have been going with this man for four years, and he just won't marry me. He is 28 and I am 34. He doesn't see anyone besides me. His excuse is that he doesn't have enough money saved, which is ridiculous. He and another man own and operate a filling station in partnership. He lives at home, and saves like a miser. The last time he showed me his bank book he had $5,200 saved. Isn't this plenty to get married on?

TIED OF WAITING
DEAR TIED: Yes, your friend is stalling. Pump him for the "real" reason.

DEAR ABBY: I am married to a man who is very cold and silent to me unless he has a few drinks in him. Then he gets warm and sweet and says the nicest things to me. He is not an alcoholic. In fact, he doesn't really like the taste of liquor, but I know if I want any affection or kindness from him I have a better chance if I pour him a drink. Do you think I am making a mistake by encouraging him to have a little drink or two a couple of times a week? The doctor said it won't hurt him. I don't want to make a drinker out of him, but he is so much nicer drunk.

NEEDING LOVE
DEAR NEEDING: No one is "nicer" drunk. As your doctor how you can accomplish the same effect without putting your husband's brain to sleep.

DEAR ABBY: I don't suppose many men write to you, but here's a letter from a man who would like to know what to do with an 18-year-old daughter who is strong, healthy and lazy with a capital "L." Her mother can be breaking her back with housework, but this daughter looks right through her. She has never once offered to help with anything. She acts like she is a royal princess who has nothing to do but entertain herself. It burns me to witness this the few hours I am at home. How can this be corrected?

BURNED FATHER
DEAR FATHER: Your royal "princess" was not trained by her mother (or anyone else) to get a move on and help clean up the royal "palace." Don't blame your daughter for not responding to orders with which she is utterly unfamiliar.

CALL NO MAN FATHER

By T. H. Tarbet, preacher, Church of Christ, 2829 Highway 90, P.O. Box 1285.

"They... love the uppermost rooms at feasts, and the chief seats in the synagogues, and the greetings in the markets, and to be called of men, Rabbi, Rabbi. But he that is called Rabbi: for one is your Master, even Christ; and all ye are brethren. And call no man your father upon the earth: for one is your Father, which is in heaven" (Mat. 23:5-9).

As is clear from the reading, that the words Rabbi and Father are not to be used as titles, for this would place one brother in Christ above another. Thus in principle,

WE'RE READY IF YOU ARE...

We're in business to make loans. If you need money for any reason, call on us. You'll like the way we do business!

JFK, Adenauer Open Policy Parleys Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer open a series of policy conferences today in an effort to agree on a basis for Western negotiation with the Soviet Union to settle the Berlin dispute.

Kennedy was reported hopeful that Adenauer would accept a flexible approach, allowing for some concessions by the West, if the Soviet Union is willing to respect "vital interests" of the Western powers in West Berlin.

The West German chancellor arrived here Sunday calling for cooperation among the Allies and predicting victory for "the peace-loving nations" in the cold war. He told Secretary of State Dean Rusk who met his plane at Andrews Air Force Base that he is "convinced the peace-loving nations will win."

SECOND VISIT

This is the 85-year-old German leader's second visit since Kennedy took office in January. He was here in April for a get-acquainted meeting. He told Rusk, "My country is firmly on your side."

Rusk described Adenauer as "the dean of the Western world whose judgment is a great asset to the entire Western community." He said the chancellor is "always a most welcome guest."

Adenauer was accompanied by his new foreign minister, Gerhard Schroeder, and by Defense Minister Franz Joseph Strauss. They will serve as advisers and also hold parallel talks with Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

In advance of the late afternoon White House session, U.S. officials said they were not sure about Adenauer's mood in coming here or just how much flexibility he would display on key issues, but they said he has appeared to be seriously interested in prospects for East-West negotiations on Berlin.

BASICALLY AGREED

U.S. officials said there were no disagreements between Adenauer and Kennedy on fundamental issues. Both men are agreed that the interests of the West require the continued presence of U.S. and British troops in West Berlin.

They also agree that West Berlin's access routes to West Germany across Communist East Germany must be kept open, and they consider workable ties between West Berlin and West Germany essential to the city's survival.

The points of difference lie just beyond these agreed fundamentals:

1. Adenauer insisted last week that the Soviet government must agree to destroy the wall built by East Germany to seal off East Berlin from West Berlin. The Kennedy administration is known to favor demanding that the Soviet Union destroy the barrier, but officials do not think there is any chance Soviet Premier Khrushchev will agree. They do not want to make removal of the wall an absolute requirement of a Western-Soviet Berlin settlement package.

PRESSURE

2. There is strong pressure in West Germany to strengthen the ties between West Berlin and the German government at Bonn. Some West German officials favor treating West Berlin as another West German state in spite of the separation by 110 miles of East German territory. Kennedy administration officials do not regard this as a practical possibility in negotiations with the U.S.S.R. although they agree that West Berlin must have strong and healthy economic relations with West Germany and they aim at preserving the political link.

3. Another problem is that of contacts between West Germany and Communist East Germany. None of the Western powers recognizes East Germany. The United States has been reported favoring the modification of Western attitudes on this point to the extent of making practical arrangements with East German authorities for operation of the supply line and perhaps in other fields as part of a general Berlin settlement. West Germany has made trade agreements with East Germany but has been reluctant to take any step which seemed to suggest recognition of the Red regime.

REUNIFICATION

4. Still another issue turns on the question of what to do about the long-range Western aim of German reunification. Adenauer is reported to believe it is vitally important for the West to press the Soviet Union once more to agree that the ultimate future of Berlin lies in becoming the capital of a united Germany.

5. There is an unresolved question, officials said, as to whether the formula for negotiations with the Russians should be broad or narrow.

Tea Party Time

It's tea party time for Mrs. R. E. Hoover, and her little daughter, Jan, who is one year of age this month. Mrs. Hoover gave Jan a cracker to suit her age but she took a slice of the delicious Brazil Nut Delight shown on the fireside seat.

Hoover Home Adapted For Family Pleasure

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Hoover at 1213 E. 16th is one that is a real pleasure for the family, as most of the house has been remodeled by them for their special kind of living.

The family is composed of Kenny, 14, Robbin, 9, and the latest addition, Jan, who is a year old this month.

Mrs. Hoover joined her husband in planning and designing the den that was added to the house last year. Hoover, in his spare time, has also reworked the house from the kitchen back. Just the living room, a bedroom and bath are in their original shape.

The den has parquet floors, is paneled and has beamed ceilings. The fireplace had to be done by a professional, but the delightful decorating is the handwork of the lady of the house.

Hoover is chief of recreation at the Veteran's Administration Hospital, Kenny is a student at Goisd Junior High and Robbin goes to College Heights Elementary.

Plans for the holiday season are getting under way at the Hoovers, and for the special occasion, Mrs. Hoover is making delicious cakes, candies and party snacks. Today she shares four of her favorite recipes with us.

BRAZIL NUT DELIGHT

1 pkg. dates, chopped
3 cups nuts (1 1/2 cups Brazil and 1 1/2 cup pecans if desired)

1 cup maraschino cherries
3/4 cup flour
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
3 eggs
1 small can pineapple, drained
1 can coconut
1 1/2 tsp. orange peel
1 tsp. vanilla
Mix chopped dates, nuts and cherries. Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Sprinkle over nuts and fruit. Work together with hands. Beat eggs until frothy; pour over mixture and mix. Add pineapple, coconut, orange peel and vanilla. Bake in greased and lined pan at 300 degrees for one hour, 20 minutes.

COCO-CHOCO-NUT CANDY

2 boxes powdered sugar
1/2 cup oleo
1 can sweetened condensed milk
2 cans coconut
2 cups chopped pecans
1 tsp. vanilla
1 1/2 pkgs. semi-sweet chocolate bits
2-3 slice paraffin
Make sugar, oleo, condensed milk and coconut into little balls. (Grease hands with oleo to prevent sticking). Set on cookie sheet and chill.
Melt chocolate and paraffin in top of double boiler. Leave over fire. Lift balls with toothpick and dip into chocolate and paraffin mixture.

Rolls Make Treats For After-Game Feasting

Sandwiches are something special when brown-and-serve rolls are used as their base. Give the rolls a savory filling, pop them into the oven, and they're great to serve to an after-the-game crowd.

Club rolls used in the following recipe add a welcome crunchiness to the soft deviled ham and cheddar cheese filling, but another variety could be used.

Make changes if you wish. The onion could be omitted and Worcestershire sauce could be added; if catchup is in the house it might be substituted for the chili sauce.

Have plenty of paper napkins on hand and they can be finger food along with carrot and celery sticks.

HAM AND CHEESE ROLLS

6 brown-and-serve club rolls (one 8 1/2-oz. pkg.)
1 can (4 1/2 oz.) deviled ham
1/4 lb. cheddar cheese (coarsely grated)
2 tbsps. chili sauce
1 tsp. finely-grated onion

(pulp and juice)
Have the rolls (from refrigerator or freezer) at room temperature. Make 3 evenly spaced lengthwise cuts in each roll but do not slice through the bottom crust.
Mix together well the ham, grated cheese (there should be 1 cup fairly well packed down), chili sauce and onion. Spread roll cuts with ham mixture.

Place on foil on a cookie sheet or shallow pan (on a rack if you wish) and bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven about 10 minutes or until golden-brown. Double or triple recipe for a crowd.

BEVERAGE NOTE

For a high-school crowd, soft drinks may accompany the ham and cheese rolls. Or you can serve hot spiced cider; heat cider with brown sugar, stick cinnamon and whole cloves; serve in heavy mugs or heavy footed glasses. In using the latter, put a silver spoon in each glass as you pour in the hot drink.

After The Game

Hot ham and cheese rolls with a piping hot drink make a welcome treat for the after-the-game crowd.

Mince Meat Lemon Chiffon Is Holiday Pie Variation

Preparing the dessert course for a meal should be a pleasure instead of a tedious chore. Here's one that's really fun to make and a joy to serve. It's a Mince Meat Lemon Chiffon Pie, which was developed with work shortcuts in mind. Two time-saving products are used in its preparation: ready-to-use mince meat and instant mixing pie crust mix.

The pie shell itself can be prepared and baked quickly. The filling consists of two layers. The top layer is lemon chiffon, a fluffy combination of gelatin, sugar, salt, eggs, water, lemon juice and rind. The bottom layer is ready-to-use mince meat which comes in a 28-ounce jar and can be quickly spooned from it into the cooled pie shell. If preferred, condensed mince meat may be used. It's available in convenient nine-ounce packages. The contents can be reconstituted easily by just adding water and cooking for a few minutes. After the chiffon layer is placed over the mince meat, the pie should be chilled in the refrigerator before serving.

Modern mealtime calls for unusual desserts. Plan ahead to make and chill this good tasting Mince Meat Lemon Chiffon Pie. Time-saving products cut preparation time to a minimum.

MINCE MEAT LEMON CHIFFON PIE

(Makes one 9-inch pie)
1 stick (5-oz.) instant mixing pie crust mix
2 tbsps. boiling water
1 tsp. (1 envelope) unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. salt

Select Special Turkey To Highlight Feast

The smell of burning leaves and cheers from the football stadium remind us that the Thanksgiving celebration can't be far away. And, with plans for Thanksgiving our first thoughts turn to the highlight of the occasion, the turkey.

For a turkey which you will be proud to carve at the table, experts at meat headquarters recommend a bird carrying a well-known brand name. This highest-quality bird will give you meat and plenty of tender white meat in proportion to juicy dark meat.

One of the features which makes these turkeys so popular is the drumsticks which are "tucked" into a slit of skin at the base of the breastbone. This allows the legs to be easily slipped in and out for stuffing and eliminates trussing the bird. The drumsticks will remain juicy during the roasting period by being held close to the body of the bird. Use an uncovered pan for a more attractive turkey and a covered pan for a shortened roasting time. It is important to remember that the roasting time must be continuous as partial cooking on one day may produce a drier turkey and a reheated flavor on the second day. Furthermore, no time is actually saved.

For added convenience on the "big day" the already-stuffed bird may be preferred over the ready-to-stuff. The subtle seasoning of sage, celery and onion lend the bread stuffing used in the turkey that is stuffed when it is purchased. The roasting time may be reduced somewhat if the frozen already-stuffed turkey is held in a 40 degree refrigerator for 48 hours.

Honey'n almond rice, with the flavor of orange juice, will give a new flavor accompaniment to your Thanksgiving dinner:

HONEY 'N ALMOND RICE
1 cup uncooked rice
2 cups orange juice
1 tsp. salt
1/4 cup toasted, slivered almonds
1/4 cup honey
Combine rice, orange juice, and salt in a 3-quart saucepan. Bring to a boil, stirring one or twice. Lower heat to simmer.

Cover pan and cook 15 to 20 minutes or until liquid is absorbed. Remove rice from heat. Stir in almonds and honey. Serve hot with turkey.

TURKEY SKILLET SUPPER

2 cups diced roasted turkey
4 slices bacon
2 onions, sliced
2 tbsps. chopped parsley
1 tsp. salt
1/4 tsp. leaf marjoram
1/4 tsp. leaf thyme
2 oz. can mushrooms, drained
2-3 cup orange juice
2 tbsps. lemon juice

1 cup dairy soured cream
1/4 cup shredded cheddar cheese
Pan-fry bacon until crisp. Remove bacon from skillet. Same onion in bacon fat until brown. Pour off bacon fat.

Stir in turkey, parsley, salt, marjoram, thyme, and mushrooms. Blend in orange juice and lemon juice.

Cook slowly for about 10 minutes. Add sour cream and cheese. Cook for an additional 5 minutes or until cheese is melted. Serve hot.

Slaughter Aboard Ship Indicated In Girl's Story

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A terrified girl interviewed Sunday by FBI agents and Coast Guard investigators in a hospital room where she is recovering from an ordeal of 3 1/2 days on a tiny raft bouncing through troubled seas.

Capt. R. F. Barber, district officer in charge of marine investigations, said the standard procedure would be to refer the case to the Justice Department but since "the criminal negligence lies with a deceased person," it is not now known what will be done.

Asked if the Coast Guard had drawn a definite conclusion that Harvey killed the passengers and sank the ship, Barber said such an announcement would have to wait until the investigation is completed.

Terry Jo's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Duperrault; her brother, Brian, 14; and the captain's wife, Mary Harvey, apparently went down with the ship. The body of Terry Jo's sister, Renee, 7, was found in the dinghy in which Harvey escaped.

STORY DENIED
The tall, powerfully-built skipper, 45, a former air force officer, told the Coast Guard, after a passing freighter picked him up and brought him to Miami, that the ship's mast broke and tore a hole in the bottom.

The child denied that the yacht's mast broke or that there was fire aboard the vessel, as Harvey had reported.

During Harvey's interrogation Thursday, Barber said, the word came that Terry Jo had been saved and Harvey expressed surprise. He left hurriedly. He was found the next day in a motel room with his veins slashed.

Barber said Terry Jo told this story of her ordeal on the Blue-belle.

About 9 p.m., Nov. 12, she went to bed in the after port stateroom. Sometime later, she was awakened by screaming and stamping and running noises on the deck. She recognized some of the screams as coming from Brian.

BLOOD ALL OVER
Running toward the companionway stairs, she passed the central cabin and saw her mother and Brian lying on the floor and blood all over.

Up on the deck, she saw more blood and Harvey coming at her through the darkness, with something in his hand she thought to be a pall or bucket.

"Get down there!" he growled in a deep voice. He pushed her back down the stairs.

As the frightened blonde child went back into her room, she heard water sloshing on the deck and wondered if the captain was washing off the blood.

Harvey came into the room holding something she believed to be a rifle, stared at her, then left without saying anything and went back up on deck. She heard hammering noises on the deck.

Water began to rise in her room and when it reached her mattress she again climbed up to the deck and saw the ship's dinghy and rubber life raft had been launched.

"Is the boat sinking?" she asked.

"Yes," Harvey said. Then he jumped overboard, climbed into the dinghy and disappeared in the darkness of a moonless night.

A small cork raft was tied atop the main cabin and Terry managed to get it loose and climb aboard with the main deck wash.

Her story disputed in every detail Harvey's account of the sinking. He said that after the main mast broke, tearing holes in the deck and bottom of the ship, fire broke out and he was unable to get to the others through the flames.

Asked if the mother and brother were dead when Terry Jo saw them on the cabin floor, Barber said the investigators did not ask the child to go into any more gruesome details.

She never saw her father, sister or Mary Harvey during the horror-filled night, Barber said. Harvey took out a $20,000 double indemnity life insurance policy on Mary, who was his fourth or fifth wife, two weeks before the Blue-belle sailed from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., for the Bahamas.

Speaking freely about her connection with the Scarbeck espionage case, Miss Discher told an American reporter:

"I was not politically involved in that affair and I see no reason why they (Polish authorities) should be interested in me now."

The star witness at Scarbeck's trial in Washington had changed her platinum blonde hair color to shining black.

Scarbeck, a former second secretary at the U.S. Embassy in Warsaw, was convicted in a U.S. court for espionage and sentenced to 30 years imprisonment.

Miss Discher testified at his trial that Polish secret police agents caught her and Scarbeck together. Scarbeck, who is married, was charged with passing embassy secrets to Polish agents in order to get Miss Discher out of Poland to West Germany.

Miss Discher was brought from West Germany to the United States to testify at Scarbeck's trial.

Miss Discher said she left New York by air last Thursday after her visa to the United States expired. She said she had not tried to renew the visa.

Miss Discher said she wanted the embassy to arrange to have her passport belongings now being held by the American consulate in Frankfurt shipped back to Warsaw.

London Urges Medical Grants

NEW YORK (AP)—Vice President Lyndon Johnson called Sunday for new and larger federal grants for medical purposes. He asserted "We are not engaged in a campaign for socialized medicine."

"The false charge that we wish to invade the freedom and integrity of the medical profession has no valid place in a responsible discussion of the great issues," he said.

Johnson spoke at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine of Yeshiva University. He received an honorary degree of doctor of humane letters.

Johnson urged the government to make new and larger grants to medical schools. He advocated scholarships and grants to young medical students.

He asserted that the federal government also must "as a matter of urgency, make more adequate provision for the medical care of our aged citizens."

A trend toward overweight on the part of both young and old has been noticed among Americans throughout the country and pointed out on numerous occasions. Big Springers are no exception, according to Joe Leach, physical director at the YMCA.

The Y is trying to do something to counteract the move by instituting a clinic to get citizens on the move toward physical fitness.

A clinic on physical fitness is being held Tuesday at 5 p.m. at the Y to stimulate interest in a physical fitness program. Dave Widener, physical director of the Midland Y, will be on hand to get the program off the ground.

"We are going to demonstrate the difference between a person who is in good physical condition and one who is not," Leach said. Widener will speak on physical fitness and a local doctor will discuss problems encountered by various types of persons. He will advise visitors on the nature of a fitness program each can undertake to best advantage.

"Every one is better off with the proper fitness program tailored to his physiological age," according to Dr. Clyde E. Thomas. "It improves the mood, attitude toward life and physical capabilities of the person."

He noted that the average young male adult is a typical example of inactivity.

"He gets married and settles down to get fat and flabby," he said. "He is too preoccupied with other things to take proper care of himself. He is in need of a physical fitness program of the type to be instituted at the Y and I wholeheartedly endorse it."

The clinic is open to the public with no charge to either the initial phase or follow-up programs. Persons who cannot attend Tuesday are welcome to drop by the Y at any time to see what the clinic offers. Among the many youth and adult activities sponsored by the Y, there is something for each person to improve his or her physical fitness, Leach said.

Spot checks will be made on progress by physicians interested in helping Big Springers attain better physical fitness, Leach said.

He urged persons to make this a family participation program.

"Fitness is not limited to the head of the family. Each person owes it to the other to be in peak condition so that each may get the most out of life," he stressed.

BILL FRAZIER

Elks To Host District Leader

Bill Frazier, District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler of Elks, Texas West District, will make his official visit to the Big Spring Lodge Monday night.

Frazier is a past president of the State Elks Association, and has been a member of Elk Lodge #35 for 35 years.

A barbecue dinner will be held at 7 p.m. for all members of the Big Spring Lodge. Frazier will preside at a business meeting beginning at 8 p.m.

Towns in the Texas West District include El Paso, Pecos, Odessa, Midland, and Big Spring.

New Delay On Lakeview Construction

Another slight delay has put the completion date of the addition to the Lakeview school still farther behind schedule, according to Pat Murphy, assistant superintendent in charge of business.

The work was to have been ready for the architect's inspection Nov. 17.

"We hope it will be ready for students next week," Ernest S. Morgan, principal of Lakeview, said. "They are almost finished and right now installation of blackboards appears to be about all that needs to be done."

No report on progress is planned for the special meeting of trustees of the Big Spring Independent School District Tuesday night, Sam M. Anderson, superintendent, said.

An open house will be held at the school when the classrooms are occupied, according to Morgan. No formal dedication ceremony is planned.

Alabama Debates Which Bowl Invitation To Take

While Alabama, the king of college football, debates which bowl offer to accept, a full-scale rhu-barb broke out today, triggered by speculation that the University of Colorado was about to be snubbed by the Orange Bowl.

Alabama, one of the two remaining major unbeaten powers since the stunning 6-0 defeat of Texas by Texas Christian Saturday, apparently has its choice of the Rose Bowl or Cotton Bowl.

"Bama Coach Bear Bryant confirmed his club had been approached to play in the Rose Bowl, indicating the tradition of plucking a Big Ten team for the Pasadena classic is being scrapped.

The Crimson Tide (9-0) can't accept anything until after its final game against Auburn Dec. 2, because of Southeastern Conference regulations.

Alabama, No. 2 in the current Associated Press poll, crushed Georgia Tech 10-0 last Saturday.

Meanwhile, angry rumbblings came from the University of Colorado after reports that the Orange Bowl favored Kansas.

The Big Eight sends the visiting team to the Orange Bowl, but it does not have to select the champion.

Colorado (8-1) already has clinched at least a tie for the league title, but the Buffaloes, according to some members of the Orange Bowl committee, have been unimpressive in their last two starts.

Kansas, beaten only by Colorado in the league, has won six straight with an explosive offense.

"The contract and the conference should be investigated if we are bypassed," thundered Colorado Coach Sonny Grandelius.

"I don't care what anyone says, we're the conference champions and we're entitled to play in the Orange Bowl."

Here is the current rundown: ROSE—Waiting for an answer from Alabama. Assuming the Crimson Tide whips Auburn, Bryant probably will jump at the California trip.

This sidetracks the Big Ten, however, Minnesota (7-1) and Ohio State (7-0-1) The UCLA-Southern California game Saturday will decide the host school.

If Alabama accepts, it will rule the heavy favorite. Neither UCLA nor Southern Cal have been spectacular this season.

Both lost last Saturday, Washington dropped UCLA 17-13, and Pitt edged Southern Cal 10-9.

ORANGE — The visiting team likely choice to provide the opposition. The Rebels claim they have made no commitments.

SUGAR—With Alabama looking westward and Louisiana State not interested, the Sugar Bowl is in a tough spot.

Georgia Tech, although beaten the last two weeks, appears to be the best of the lot for the host spot.

Arkansas, pushed out of the Cotton Bowl, probably will go to New Orleans to provide the opposition.

GATOR — Miami probably will be the home team assuming the Hurricanes beat Northwestern and Florida in their final two games.

Maryland and Duke of the Atlantic Coast Conference both would like a bid.

Bill Stangarone of Wichita completed 2 of 3 passes for 15 yards and 1 touchdown.

He is tied with Bobby Smith of North Texas. Each has 42 points.

Sanders sacks Cajun crown

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP)—"That guy Arnold will have something to say about it," quipped Doug Sanders when asked if he believed he could overtake Arnold Palmer in the final three tournaments of the year.

Palmer, who is now director of athletics of the Lubbock schools, noised it about that he'd stay in Ranger for a bigger stipend.

After all, he felt he deserved it. He was the best football player ever making, Ranger let him go, however, and thereafter Eck took great delight in beating the socks off Ranger wherever and whenever the opportunity presented itself.

Ray Bruce, who now operates a service station here, was a member of the Ranger team during that era.

He was "home grown" talent, incidentally. He played under both Curtis and Blair Cherry, who later was to become head coach at the University of Texas after a tenure at Amarillo High School.

It is said that one of the member schools plundered a so-called "farm club" of so much talent one year that the feeder school had to call off the rest of its dogs.

Some of the great ball players in the salad days of the Oil Belt circuit were Dan McCarty and Chuck-a-Luck Bird, both of the Ranger team.

LOOKING EM' OVER

By TOMMY HART

For blood-and-thunder football and callous above-the-table piracy, there is little in the Texas schoolboy history to equal the Oil Belt, which flourished back in the late 20's and early 30's.

Abilene was a football power, then as now, and Breckenridge was just feeling its oats but other communities in the colony fielding winners were some of the most unlikely places you ever heard of.

Such small communities as Caddo, Comanche and Moran were feeder schools in the district's vast and complex plan to develop football winners, often without the consent and blessing of officials in those schools.

The plundering wasn't limited to players, either. In the heyday of the Oil Belt circuit, Breckenridge tempted Eck Curtis, then coach of the Ranger Bulldogs, with an offer of $100 more a month than he was making at Ranger.

Curtis, who is now director of athletics of the Lubbock schools, noised it about that he'd stay in Ranger for a bigger stipend.

After all, he felt he deserved it. He was the best football player ever making, Ranger let him go, however, and thereafter Eck took great delight in beating the socks off Ranger wherever and whenever the opportunity presented itself.

Ray Bruce, who now operates a service station here, was a member of the Ranger team during that era.

He was "home grown" talent, incidentally. He played under both Curtis and Blair Cherry, who later was to become head coach at the University of Texas after a tenure at Amarillo High School.

It is said that one of the member schools plundered a so-called "farm club" of so much talent one year that the feeder school had to call off the rest of its dogs.

Some of the great ball players in the salad days of the Oil Belt circuit were Dan McCarty and Chuck-a-Luck Bird, both of the Ranger team.

Dewey Mayhew, later head coach at Texas A&I, was head man at Abilene High during part of those years.

Pete Shotwell was coach at Abilene before Mayhew took over and later was to head up the football program at Breckenridge.

The late, great Weldon Chapman was the overseer at Cisco. Chapman was ultimately to gain fame as the developer of a dedicated Lubbock team that proceeded to win the state championship after a slow start following the unexpected death of Chapman.

The area from Ranger to Breckenridge and Abilene was experiencing an oil boom in those days and the circuit got its name accordingly.

Wichita Faces Villanova In Sun Bowl

By The Associated Press

The Wichita Shockers, champions of the Missouri Valley Conference, lost to Dayton 23-12 in their season finale Saturday but were quickly named for the Sun Bowl at El Paso Dec. 30.

Wichita (8-2) will play Villanova (7-2).

Saturday was a miserable day for the Valley. All four of its football playing members lost.

Louisville defeated North Texas 20-0. Miami, Ohio, whipped Cincinnati 7-3 and Iowa State beat Tulsa 27-6.

Two games Saturday complete the schedule. Cincinnati will be at home to Detroit and North Texas State will be at Texas Western.

Bill Stangarone of Wichita completed 2 of 3 passes for 15 yards and 1 touchdown.

He is tied with Bobby Smith of North Texas. Each has 42 points.

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP)—"That guy Arnold will have something to say about it," quipped Doug Sanders when asked if he believed he could overtake Arnold Palmer in the final three tournaments of the year.

After all, he felt he deserved it. He was the best football player ever making, Ranger let him go, however, and thereafter Eck took great delight in beating the socks off Ranger wherever and whenever the opportunity presented itself.

Tommy McDonald on an eight-yarder TD toss and wound up the scoring with a 39-yard toss to Tim Brown.

Trailing 7-0, the Packers exploded for 23 points against the Rams (3-7) in the second quarter when Bart Starr unlimbered his pitching arm.

Jim Taylor tied it one a one-yard plunge, then Starr hit Max McGee with 20 and 13-yard TD tosses and sent a 12-yarder to Boyd Dowler.

Jon Arnett had lost Los Angeles into the early lead on a 14-yard run.

Earl Morrall took over for starting quarterback Jim Ninowski with the Vikings (2-8) leading 10-0 and led the Lions from behind with a pair of payoff passes to Terry Barr and a 37-yarder to Gail Cogdill.

Jerry Reichow scored the Minnesota TD on a 23-yard pitch from Fran Tarkeyton.

John Brodie, passing from a straight T as the 49ers (5-4) virtually abandoned the shotgun offense, hit Monte Stickles with a 44-yard touchdown pass and threw 71 and 48-yarders to rookie Aaron Thomas to beat the Bears (5-1).

Billy Wade threw three TD passes for the Bears, who lost their third in a row.

Steve Myhra kicked three field goals for the Colts (5-5) after the Johnny Unitas to Lenny Moore combination had connected for a 17-yard scoring pass and the only touchdown against the Cards (4-6), who were unable to penetrate beyond the Baltimore 42.

Dick Bielski took a three-yard strike from Eddie LeBaron to end an 82-yard march with two minutes left that gave the Cowboys (4-5) a tie with the Redskins. It was Washington's 20th straight game without a win, but snapped a 17-game losing streak for an 8-9-1 record.

The area from Ranger to Breckenridge and Abilene was experiencing an oil boom in those days and the circuit got its name accordingly.

Bruce recalls MacCarty, a finalist ball carrier here, as the finest ball carrier he ever saw. MacCarty, incidentally, married the daughter of a publisher but the marriage didn't work out.

Later, he enrolled in Cameron JC in Oklahoma to play football and wedded a wealthy Indian girl while in Oklahoma.

Bird, by the way, had been induced to come over to Ranger from Mineral Wells but the latter school couldn't protest too much. The officials there had talked him into moving from an even smaller community.

Campaigning was hot and heavy throughout the life of the circuit but Abilene did most of the winning. The Eagles lost to Waco (13-0) in the state finals as long ago as 1922 — back before the Oil Belt really got into the swing of things.

The Eagles turned the tables on the Tigers in the title game the following year, 3-0.

LOOKING EM' OVER

By TOMMY HART

For blood-and-thunder football and callous above-the-table piracy, there is little in the Texas schoolboy history to equal the Oil Belt, which flourished back in the late 20's and early 30's.

Abilene was a football power, then as now, and Breckenridge was just feeling its oats but other communities in the colony fielding winners were some of the most unlikely places you ever heard of.

Race To Fill Rayburn Seat Due To Start

By CLAYTON HICKERSON Associated Press Staff Writer

Aspirants to the seat in Congress vacated by the death last week of Speaker Sam Rayburn were expected to begin making their intentions known Monday. Candidates must file with the Texas Secretary of State at Austin and have a $500 filing fee in before Nov. 22 at midnight... that is just 72 hours or less for the field to evolve.

At least three men are almost certain to run and a large field with candidates from each of the seven counties in the under-populated Fourth Congressional District would not be surprising.

Gov. Price Daniel called the special election Saturday only hours after Rayburn was buried in the family plot just west of Bonham.

TIME FACTOR
He said he called the Dec. 23 special election quickly so that time would be allowed for a runoff before Feb. 1, if necessary. A later date, the governor said, would have been impossible because new poll lists will be effective Feb. 1 and county officials often cannot have them ready before April.

Daniel also said he conferred with the late Speaker's aides and family before calling the special election.

The election was called under a new state law which went into effect only last week. It makes the runoff mandatory unless a candidate gets a majority of votes in the initial balloting. Formerly, such special elections were "high-man wins" affairs.

Regarded as certain candidates are former state Sen. Ray Roberts of McKinney who is expected by many to get a large share of the votes that formerly went to Rayburn; attorney Bob Slagle of Sherman, also regarded as a Rayburn friend; and Jack Finney of Greenville, business-man and self-styled conservative who announced his candidacy before Rayburn was known to be dying of cancer.

NO INTENTIONS
Some friends had thought that Ray Peeler, young Bonham lawyer whose office is decorated with pictures of Rayburn and Vice President Lyndon Johnson, would make a run for the office. However, Peeler said last week he had no intentions then of making such a race.

Nearly all of the seven counties in the district contain men who have made the race before, and lost to Rayburn, or who have wanted the job but did not want to face Rayburn at the polls. Some of these may run, but the $500 filing fee is expected to take out all but the deadly serious.

The district, least populated of any in Texas, may have difficulty in surviving as Rayburn left it, tion, the legislature may in its next regular session add other counties to the Fourth in an effort to divide the state into more nearly equal districts.

Only Rayburn's potency in Washington and his high standing in Democratic Party affairs has kept his district intact in recent years when re-districting occurred. Few wanted to rile the Speaker by "monkeying with his constituency."

COUNTIES
Counties in the district include Grayson, Collin, Rockwall, Kaufman, Hunt, Fannin and Rains. Rayburn went to congress from Texas few times without opposition. But in recent years it was regarded as political suicide to run against the powerful national figure.

G. C. Morris, former state senator from Greenville and now an Austin industry representative, probably had the most luck running against Rayburn in the early '40s. But Rayburn beat Morris twice and the Greenville man faded in politics after that.

Radioactivity Up Over Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Radioactivity in the atmosphere over Caracas has more than doubled in three days, the government institute of scientific investigation said Sunday.

Spokesmen for the institute said they assumed the increase is a result of the recent Soviet series of nuclear test blasts.

Weekend Death Count Hits 22

By The Associated Press
The violent death count, packed with 13 traffic fatalities, climbed to 22 over the weekend in Texas. Five persons died in a single traffic toll.

The Associated Press began tabulating the deaths at 6 p.m. Friday and continued the count through midnight Sunday.

Manuel G. Rodriguez, 22, was killed Sunday on State Highway 17 near Balmorhea in West Texas when his car overturned. Mike Pallanez, 17, was injured. Both were from Alpine.

Two shotgun blasts killed William C. Linticum, 30, and his 9-month-old son Ray at Wichita Falls Sunday. Linticum and his wife were separated and the father held Sunday visiting privileges with the child.

House Democrats May Be Caught In Successor Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — As an aftermath of Speaker Sam Rayburn's death, House Democrats may be caught up in a contest over who will become floor leader.

The possibility of a fight was raised Sunday by the disclosure that Rep. Richard Bolling of Missouri will seek the post left open when Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts steps up, as is expected, to the speakership.

While Bolling himself was not available for comment, it was learned on the best authority he will challenge Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma for the floor leadership.

Bolling had been the only name mentioned as a likely opponent of McCormack for the speakership. His decision to run for the No. 2 post in the House high command made it almost certain McCormack would succeed Rayburn.

McCormack became acting speaker when cancer forced Rayburn to leave the capitol last August.

Albert was designated acting floor leader by McCormack and his formal election had been taken for granted until Bolling de-cidied to make it a contest. Albert made his own entrance official Sunday night, when he formally announced at his McAlester, Okla., home that he would seek the post.

A caucus of House Democrats will select the new speaker and floor leader shortly before the House reconvenes Jan. 10. Unless Bolling or Albert withdraws before then, the caucus could develop into a knock-down, party-splitting affair that could jeopardize President Kennedy's legislative program, already in trouble in the House.

Bolling, 45, has long been identified with the liberal group in the House, although he calls himself a moderate. He has served since 1949 and is a member of the powerful Rules Committee, where he was Rayburn's chief spokesman.

A Devotional for Today

Now you are the body of Christ and individually members of it. (I Corinthians 12:27. RSV.)
PRAYER: O God of infinite mercy, who hast so loved Thy children as to give Thyself in Thy Son to save us from our sins, help me so to love Thee that I may love all whom Thou lovest. Help me to show forth the unity of the church for which Christ prayed. In His name. Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

Let The Customer Know

A meat processing firm has taken legal action in an effort to keep the Department of Agriculture from enforcing its new regulation on the water content of ham. The outcome of this suit is of direct interest to millions of consumers.

Shortly before the change of administrations, the Agriculture Department had adopted a rule permitting 10 per cent of moisture in ham sold to the public. The question was reopened last March, and after hearings the 10 per cent allowance was rescinded by Secretary Freeman. The packer's suit contends that this action was arbitrary. Moisture ham also said to be both more succulent and more nutritious.

Presumably a decision will be made by the courts after thorough presentation of arguments on both sides. The public may hope, meanwhile, that whatever else is decided some provision will be made for informing consumers as to just what they are buying. This is the nub of the question. Moisture, whether added to a ham or simply not taken out in processing, may improve flavor and nutrition. But in any case the consumer is entitled to a clear statement of how much moisture he is paying for.

Turn The Wall To Our Advantage

The possibility that Western Berlin may become a shadow city grows more and more serious. One of the grave problems confronting the West is to provide its residents convincing proof that it will not eventually sink behind the Iron Curtain.

Pledges of support do not seem to have been convincing. A dispatch from Berlin reports that an average of 1,700 West Berliners have left the city each week since the Communists sealed off the border between East and West Berlin on Aug. 13. Thus Khrushchev's wall is effective. It not only has choked off the flow of East Berliners to the West; it also has reduced hope in the free western part of the city.

More than 100 miles inside East Germany, West Berlin has been a showcase of freedom and a symbol of promise. The wall stands as a mute reminder of servitude and imprisonment in East Berlin. But if it shrivels the island of freedom that is West Berlin, Khrushchev's purpose will have been served, and the West will have lost immeasurably.

Meanwhile, why not taunt the Russians about their fear of permitting comparisons? Why not capitalize on the wall by advertising over and over and over to the world that this wall is an admission of failure by the Russians, that Russia is afraid to let the two systems be judged side by side by their systems?

Political Machine Being Oiled

WASHINGTON — The public might as well get used to the idea, for a while anyway, as the Kennedy administration develops one of the best-oiled political machines in American history—possibly exceeding in power the national organization which Mark Hanna of McKinley days operated at the turn of the century.

There is a certain ruthlessness in the way things are done, as evidenced by the manner in which Postmaster General J. Edward Day was pulled out at the last minute as the principal speaker at the White House regional conference in Philadelphia this week. These meetings are supposed to be nonpartisan and nonpartisan and for the benefit of all citizens, because they are paid for by the funds of all taxpayers.

It is, of course, well known to anyone familiar with politics that the party organization in Philadelphia is important to the Democrats in Pennsylvania, and that the city has a substantial number of Negroes, whose votes mean much in every election nowadays. Perhaps the best way to tell what happened is to reproduce here a news story read by the people of Philadelphia—Republicans as well as Democrats. It was printed in the "Evening Bulletin" there last week. It reads as follows:

ATTORNEY GENERAL Robert F. Kennedy will replace Postmaster General J. Edward Day as the main speaker in a White House regional conference in the Sheraton Hotel here tomorrow night.

"The announcement of the substitution of the President's younger brother for Day was made by the city representative's office today.

"Sources in Washington said Robert Kennedy was brought in because Pennsylvania Democratic leaders — among them Mayor Dilworth, Governor Lawrence and U. S. Senator Joseph Clark — were disappointed because the felt Day wouldn't be a big drawing card for the conference.

"THE STATE Democratic leaders, the source said, decided they would rather have the Attorney General or Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg or Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Abraham A. Ribicoff. So Clark urged the White House to substitute one of them for Day.

"The Postmaster General has been in the news recently. Sources in the White House are known to feel he committed one of the big blunders of the Kennedy Cabinet in a statement on a mailman whose dismissal had stirred a racial controversy.

"THE MAILMAN, W. W. Law, of Savannah, Ga., is that state's head of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Law was charged with five violations and dismissed last Sep-

A Leader Whose Days Are Numbered

WASHINGTON (AP) — An old man, who for 12 years nursed an idea which now seems as forlorn as the last leaf the wind has forgotten, today began another round in a career which is coming to a close.

At 85, West Germany's Chancellor Adenauer is the oldest head of a major government. He came here to talk with President Kennedy about Berlin, the Russians, and East Germany. What he has in mind isn't clear at all at this point.

He is still vigorous but he is on his way out. An Associated Press report from Bonn this

Watch That Pavement

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Greta Garbo was once a lather girl in a Swedish barber shop. And Benito Mussolini at one time ran a five-chair shoe-shine parlor. Tip to motorists: If you can't see pavement between your car and the car ahead of you on an open road, you are following too closely.

Incidentally, how long do you keep a car before trading it in on a new one. The average for most owners is four years and four months.

Note to sodium bicarb fans: Thanksgiving day also marks the beginning of "National Indigestion Week." Ancient Babylonians had a couple of interesting remedies for upset tummies: "Crushed cypress cones mixed with a fermented drink" or "pounded rind of a green plant mixed with swine fat."

Seeing is believing: The owl is the only bird that can look at an object with both eyes at once.

Everything is getting more complicated—even the doughnut. There used to be just two kinds of doughnuts, plain or sugared. Now there are 54 varieties. Americans eat 10 million doughnuts a day.

Our quotable notables: "Wrong no man and write no woman."—Elbert Hubbard.

Information most of us poor boys learn only by hearsay: The portrait of President William McKinley is on a $500 bill, that of Grover Cleveland on a $1,000 bill, James Madison on a $5,000 bill, and Woodrow Wilson on a $100,000 bill.

Careless housewives: 40 fires a day are caused because wifes forget to turn off pressing irons. Annual loss: about $14 million. Oddities: Hawaiians eat more month talked of German "resentment that has built up over the years to his authoritarian ways."

It was demonstrated last September when in West Germany's elections his Christian Democratic party failed to win a majority in Parliament. He had to seek the support of the Free Democrats in order to get re-elected chancellor once more.

AFTER SEVEN weeks of haggling, the Free Democrats exacted a price. They were willing to put up with him but not indefinitely. On Nov. 8 he gave them a written guarantee he would retire before his term's end in 1965. It may be in 1963.

It is against this background that he is here—a leader whose days are numbered—to discuss with Kennedy solutions which will affect the future of Europe and therefore the Western alliance against communism.

Under his leadership, but with large American help, his country has risen from devastation to a soaring prosperity which 12 years ago might have seemed unbelievable. But his vision was broader than Germany.

HE LED his country into the Western Alliance. Through his relations with French President Charles de Gaulle he has sought to dry up the ancient German-French enmity.

He took his country into the European common market, which may do more for the prosperity of that area than any single act in history.

The result may be a Western Europe so powerful and united that it will be truly a third world force—no longer looking to this country for protection or leadership—which will be a balance between the United States and Russia.

BY DEMANDING the Allies get out of West Berlin, Khrushchev has challenged West Germany.

Unless some understanding is reached with him by the Allies, West Berlin may slowly be shut off from the West even though its links are with West Germany.

Around The Rim

Sayings Worth Thinking About

Utterable utterances: DAVID GOURLAY in the Manchester (England) Guardian:

"The other evening talking with a recently married couple the conversation turned to the subject of what we valued most in life. The young wife looked across at her husband and almost apologetically said, 'If I had to say what I really believed in, I suppose I'd say—Jim.' What mattered most for her was this other existence, this other life. Perhaps we take this mystery too much for granted; this mystery of personal relationships in love by which another life confronts our life; makes demands on it, upholds it, restrains it, gives it a depth and dimension we never find in solitariness."

Bishop FULTON SHEEN, "One hundred and fifty years from now, Africa will dominate the world politically, economically and socially as the United States does now. The shift has begun. The balance of power is beginning to swing from West to East."

KENNETH SEAMAN, president of the Associated Barbers and Beauticians of Pennsylvania: "We believe the GI haircut isn't absolutely necessary and we know it causes resentment by subjecting servicemen to a freakish appearance as well as causing a possible inferiority complex."

HENRY HASKINS: "Avoid membership in a body of persons pledged to only one side of anything."

Columnist SYDNEY J. HARRIS: "When we run across some person we instinctively dislike, it is not long before we find some 'moral' reason justifying our feeling; we are ashamed of disliking for its own sake and must provide our hostility with some ethical credentials."

ANGUS MAUDE, former member of the British parliament: "It is not true, as people who live there say, that Moscow is the most depressing city in the world. Kansas City, Mo., is worse, and Toronto runs it pretty close."

GUSTAVE FLAUBERT, French novelist: "Do not read, as children do, to amuse yourself, or like the ambitious, for the purpose of instruction. No, read in order to live."

Nothing Positive From Nehru

There should probably be comfort in the fact that at long last some facet of American life always excepting foreign aid, should find favor in the eyes of Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India.

At the conclusion of his latest visit to the United States, Nehru, so sensitive to the commercial crudities of the West (always excepting foreign aid), found virtue and delight in Disneyland.

SO WE PLAIN citizens should be prepared at any moment for an official movement to wrap up Disneyland and send it to Nehru. Or, if Southern California proves stubborn about parting with this man-made phenomenon, then let us taxpayers be reconciled to footing the expense of duplicating Disneyland in India for Nehru.

The very fact that Pandit Nehru found something in the United States worthy of his enjoyment and approval should reconcile us to financing a similar playland in the subcontinent. We must understand that, in accordance with Nehru's neutralist concept, we cannot expect any public acknowledgement of the present or that it be called Disneyland.

WHILE NEHRU was in the United States, I made it my business to listen carefully to what he had to say, both on television and in person. In the latter instance I was present at the luncheon given in his honor by the Overseas Press Club, the United Nations Correspondents Association and the Radio and Television Executives Society.

As for that event, I shoulda stood in bed and saved $10, the price of a ticket to the luncheon. Nehru had nothing to say and said it. It can now be told that Federal Thrift: Truth Or Myth?

WASHINGTON—There is a side of President Kennedy almost as unvisited as the far side of the moon—Mr. Kennedy, the governmental penny-pincher.

"A hard man with the dollar," is the way Budget Director David Bell recently described the Chief Executive in a press conference.

"THE LEAN LOOK is the new look for 1962," chanted Civil Service Commission Chairman John Macy in a recent Pittsburgh speech.

"I have asked each of you," said President Kennedy himself, to a gathering of his Department and Budget agency heads last October 28th, "to exercise the maximum care in scrutinizing all expenditures, tightening requirements, postponing the initiation of deferrable projects and phasing out any acceleration of spending which was instituted as an anti-recession measure."

IT ALL SOUNDS more like Coolidge than Cal himself, and not a little like Mr. Eisenhower a few years ago when he pronounced his public works policy of "no new starts," which Candidate Kennedy hit so hard during the 1960 campaign.

Nevertheless, the quotations are all genuine. So is the spirit which moved the President. Politics and military responsibilities require him to spend with one hand, while his close knowledge of national finances entreat him to save with the other.

WONDERING if the words meant anything, and if ambivalence could achieve action, your reporter spent a day on the telephone to find out how the Kennedy economy wave was going. Results:

Fred Dutton, White House Special Assistant: Better ask Bell, of the Budget Bureau.

Budget Bureau spokesman: Mr. Bell says that the Bureau doesn't keep tabs on what savings other agencies are making. The reporter would have to call each agency.

ROGER JONES, Deputy Under Secretary of State for Administration: Yes, State was economizing, although not because of what the President had said, but because of what the Congress had done. Congress had declined to appropriate all the money requested by State, and it's against the law for an Executive Department to spend money it hasn't got. Therefore, State is rubbing out 500 prospective jobs, some by leaving them vacant, in some cases by firing persons. After such a purge, State is in no condition to react to the President's instructions of abolishing still more jobs.

Philip Schulte of the Civil Service Commission: Yes, the Commission had reduced its regional offices from eleven to at the reception that preceded the luncheon. Nehru told an official of both the OFC and the Radio and Television Executives Society that he had no prepared speech. To the consternation of both men, the guest of honor then asked them for suggestions as to what he should say to 1,500 persons come to absorb the wisdom of the East!

ON BOTH "MEET the Press" and in a 30-minute teevue interview with Adlai Stevenson, Nehru was equally amorphous, pretentious, fuzzy and vague. As a hedger, Nehru has no peer. On the Stevenson program he even had to be forced to admit that "self-determination" is the right of all peoples.

At that point I would love to have been able to ask him how he stood on the non-eating shark. It will give good odds that he would have said, "It is difficult to say," "Everyone is at fault," "We are not in a position to judge" or "There are many shades of gray," all expression in which Nehru took refuge whenever he was asked a question that might have called for a moral judgment on world affairs.

MY DISENCHANTMENT with Pandit Nehru is not new-minted. It began a long time ago. Perhaps someday some historian will explain why Gandhi chose Nehru as his successor. Gandhi is certain to go down in the annals of man as a saint and one of the greatest leaders of men. With Gandhi at his elbow, Nehru looked like a champ.

But in the years since Gandhi's death, the straw has been leaning out of Nehru. It is one woman's opinion that there is a lot less to the Pandit than meets the eye.

Architecture A Japanese Influence

HONOLULU (AP) — Architecture is playing a leading role in Japan's social passage "from feudalism to industrialization," an American architect believes.

Antonin Raymond, who first went to Japan in 1919 to assist the late Frank Lloyd Wright in designing Tokyo's Imperial Hotel, told a conference of architects in Honolulu:

"Structures in Japan are huge today. The architects who design these buildings seem to be carried away by a vision of permanence, a solidity, power and enormity of scale as an end in itself.

"They have opened the door for a number of social changes in Japan and have helped bring the country into the industrial age."

Raymond has designed a number of buildings in Tokyo, including the U. S. Embassy, St. Luke's Hospital, Women's Christian College, St. Anselm's Church and Gunman Music Hall.

White Gold

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Dentistry has solved the problem of using gold for its good filling qualities without making a patient's mouth look like a jewelry store window.

Dr. John F. Johnson of the Indiana University School of Dentistry told a dental meeting here recently that porcelain veneers baked to the gold filling surface cover the gold and closely resemble the color and surface texture of natural teeth. The new process is based on a natural binding that exists between gold and porcelain when they are baked together.

Diabetes No Longer 'A Sentence Of Death'

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"When I was told I had diabetes," a woman reader writes, "I thought it was the end—that I was doomed."

"I joined the diabetes society—and the first meeting I went to I thought I'd made a mistake and was in the wrong place. Everybody looked so normal and healthy. I thought they'd all look sickly, the way I felt I must look."

"I soon found out I was in the right place, and what a difference it has made to me!"

For years there have been chapters of the American Diabetes Association, made up of doctors and others in the health field.

Rather recently, lay societies have been formed as companion groups, composed of people who have diabetes or of those who are interested in controlling this disease.

As some other causes of death have declined in importance, diabetes has been rising, and now it ranks among the top 10.

Yet, at the same time, the diabetes patient has more assurance than ever before in history of living somewhere near the normal allotted life span.

Sounds like a paradox? Well, until 35 years ago, anyone who developed diabetes while young died quickly, sometimes in a few months. A starvation diet was the only known means of extending, even for a little while, the life of such a patient.

Today, with insulin, and with "diabetes pills" of much more recent discovery, and quite a few other but less-important things, and the diabetes patient lives a life that is for all practical purposes a normal one, simply abiding by a few moderate rules.

Members of a diabetes society look and act and are just like anybody else. True, at advanced age a great many "die of diabetes," but only at a time when they would have died of something else anyway. We can't all live as long as Methuselah! If I, personally, can have my average span of years, I'm satisfied, and what I do with the years I have is up to me.

Since, today, diabetes can be so well-controlled, most diabetics (if they develop the disease early) may still live full lives and have children. Since there's a strong hereditary factor involved, it means that many more diabetics are being born now; we have more diabetics.

The difference is this: Learning that one has diabetes no longer is a "sentence of death." Simple care (but one MUST follow the rules!) affords long, happy life.

The day will come, I thoroughly believe, when we must and can detect cases sooner and can extend the happy life span. To do so, we must test everybody often. So once a year, about this time, the American Diabetes Association promotes a program for testing all over this continent.

From reliable statistics, for every case we know about, there is another that we have not yet found. Have the test! If you DO learn that you have early diabetes, the sooner you start obeying the easy rules, the longer life will be.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can use of a dictaphone impair a stenographer's hearing? I love my job, people, etc., but I hate the dictaphone.—Alben"

I can't see any way in which it could possibly impair hearing—and if there had been any such case discovered, I'm sure I'd have read of it in the medical journals. So, I'm glad you like your job and I'm sorry I can't give you an excuse for getting away from the dictaphone.

Never take a chance on diabetes! For better understanding of this disease, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Big Spring Herald for a copy of my booklet, "Diabetes—The Sneaky Disease." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents to cover cost of handling.

Because of the tremendous volume of mail received daily, Dr. Molner regrets that he cannot answer individual letters, but whenever possible he uses readers' questions in his column.

Protestant Group Hits Pro-Catholic McCormack Record

Speaker?

Rep. John W. McCormack (D-Mass.) is regarded as the likely successor to Speaker Sam Rayburn as presiding officer in the House of Representatives.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A predominantly Protestant group has assailed the voting record of Rep. John McCormack, D-Mass., who is expected to become House speaker, as cause for "justified anxiety about church-state separation."

The group, Protestants and other American United for Separation of Church and State, called the Boston Roman Catholic "the foremost champion on Capitol Hill of the Catholic bishops' position on church and state."

McCormack, 59, is without apparent opposition for election as Speaker in January to succeed Sam Rayburn.

The organization said McCormack has advocated federal aid for parochial schools in connection with school aid legislation. "No one questions the right of Mr. McCormack or any other congressman to be a sincere devotee of his faith," the statement said, "but when he seeks political favors for his own church he must bear the responsibility."

"While President Kennedy and the Supreme Court have sought to uphold and maintain church-state separation, Mr. McCormack has opposed them. Of course we are concerned about how he would use the greatly expanded powers of his prospective office."

The statement said McCormack has "consistently demanded government support for sectarian schools; he is the leading advocate of the appointment of an ambassador to the Vatican; he denounced the Supreme Court's interpretation of the separation of church and state in 1948; and he has been the sponsor of many bills in Congress conferring financial benefits upon his church."

The organization claims more than 100,000 members.

Dawson Men To Join Feed Tour

LAMESA (SC)—Two dozen Dawson County men have made reservations to participate in a livestock feeding tour to Arizona and California Jan. 14-20, it was announced here by County Agent Lee Roy Colgan.

The tour, sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, is expected to draw at least 150 West Texas farmers and businessmen. Dr. W. L. Stangel, chairman of the WTCC agriculture and livestock committee, will conduct the tour.

Points of interest on the trip to inspect commercial feed lots and develop grain markets include the Phoenix, Ariz., the Imperial Valley around El Centro, Calif., and the San Joaquin Valley in the Bakersfield, Calif., area.

Cooperating with the WTCC on tour are the Grain Sorghum Producers' Association, Texas A&M, and Texas Tech College. The Lamesa Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring Colgan on the tour.

The tour will encompass 3,622 miles round trip. All reservations must be made by Dec. 15 and the following Dawson residents will participate: Donnell Echols, Carson Echols, Tom Estes, Jesse Stevens, V. J. Coburn, Dudley Coleman, Lester Brown, Ted Turner, Rusty Burkett, Eldon Vance, W. T. Snellgrove, Tim Cook, W. J. Beckham, Bob Koger, B. B. Bratcher Jr., F. P. King, Alton Addison, E. D. Adcock, Otto Reithmayer, Steve Deban, Wright J. Boyd, Cleburn Shofer and J. E. Airhart.

Goldwater Calls Minutemen Dangerous But Not Birchers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., says the organization known as the Minutemen constitutes a danger because its members are armed but he sees no real danger in the John Birch Society.

The Arizona conservative spoke on a television interview show—Meet the Press, NBC—Sunday. He is more concerned with what he termed extreme leftists in the Kennedy administration than he is with the Birch and Minutemen groups because they are not in government, he said.

The Minutemen is a loosely knit, anti-Communist organization whose members train for guerrilla warfare for the avowed purpose of being ready to fight back if the United States were invaded.

Goldwater said the Minutemen "violate a charge of the Constitution; of defense of our country and our people is the duty of the government. The Birch Society, from what I can hear of them, constitutes no danger."

in government as do many people to the extreme left."

The day before, Goldwater had said in a speech, "The real extremists are the people to the left; the Socialists in the Kennedy administration."

Asked to name the important administration members to whom he was referring, Goldwater named Arthur Schlesinger Jr., special assistant to the President.

"There are two other members of the Americans for Democratic Action, and this is the group to whom I refer as the extremists to the left. One is Ted Sorensen (special counsel) to the President. The other one slips my mind for the moment, but in the White House there are three," Goldwater said.

"There are three in Cabinet posts, and I think some 30 other members of this organization in the government."

Goldwater said he considers President Kennedy an ultraliberal because he "six or seven years ago disavowed this group (ADA) as being too liberal, and today he seems to be in perfect harmony with them, so I must assume he has accepted their liberal positions."

Goldwater said he will not seek the Republican presidential nomination in 1964 and that "I have no special organization, no money. I have to run myself (for the Senate) in 1964."

Texas Must Beat Aggies For Title

By The Associated Press

Texas, its hatred of chortling Texas Christian deepened by a 6-0 upset, makes an angry trip Thursday to College Station for an important battle with old enemy Texas A&M in the raucous Southwest Conference football race.

Texas Christian did it again Saturday—it beat a Texas team that was ranked No. 1 in the nation, had gone through eight games like a scythe in a grain field and was looking toward the Cotton Bowl probably more than the business at hand.

It brought a jumble to the Southwest Conference standings—three Texas into a tie with Arkansas for the lead—and left it up to games this week to decide either the title or a tie title and the host spot in the Cotton Bowl.

Texas still can get into the Cotton Bowl and all it needs to do is beat A&M. Then only Arkansas could tie the Longhorns for the title and since Texas beat Arkansas 33-7 in regular season play it would become host team in Dallas football classic New Year's Day.

Arkansas, of course, must win its remaining game to get the tie. The Razorbacks play Texas Tech at Little Rock Saturday. They will be favored to knock over the four-time losers from the Plains country but a thought about what happened to Texas at Austin Saturday will make anybody cautious in their predictions.

Cagers Face Tough Job With But One Regular

Talk about a man with his work cut out for himself—consider the case of Mr. Delnor Poff.

Poff, basketball coach for Big Spring High School, has one returning regular from last year's club. Practically every prospect on the squad is a question mark.

The one exception, and the man around whom the club will take shape, is Dick Ebling. At 6 ft. 2 in., Dick is the tallest man on

QB Club Meeting Set For Tuesday

End of the football season doesn't mean the end of the Quarterback activities.

The regular weekly meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the high school cafeteria. Film of the San Angelo game will be projected with comments by Coach Emmett McKenzie. He also is expected to review the season and look ahead to next year.

Plans for the banquet for A and B squad members and coaches will be talked along with those of the appreciation fund. There will be cookouts and coffee.

Keller Dies in Record Run

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Al Keller, veteran driver from Green Acres, Fla., never collected his prizes Sunday for the fastest time trial at the Bobby Ball Memorial 100-mile auto race in Phoenix.

The 41-year-old Keller was killed on the 48th lap of the feature event when his yellow racer hit a rut on the north turn, spun out of control, rolled broadside in the air and landed upside down on a chain link fence. Two other wrecks marred the race, injuring two other drivers.

After the race was resumed, Parnell Jones of Torrance, Calif., drove the Agagianian Willard Battery Special to victory. The race was halted because of darkness after 90 laps. Rodger Ward of Indianapolis finished second and Eddie Sachs of Coopersburg, Pa., was third.

"This is the worst track I've ever run on and I've run on a lot of them," Ward said later. "I probably said too much already, but I hate to see poor officiating. I think the race could be a good one if enough thought and preparation went into it."

Keller, who had been racing since 1938, first raced at the Indianapolis 500 in 1955 when he was involved in a four-car wreck in which Bill Vukovich was killed. He finished fifth in last year's 500-mile classic and ranked fifth in the USAC national championship point standings for 1961.

Aces Auto Entries Grab Two Trophies

The Aces Auto Club sent two cars to the drag races at Tye Sunday and won two places.

Taking a first place trophy in the L stock car class over the Abilene Jaycee drag strip was Travis Anderson in a 50-Ford John Huckabee, driving a 60-Ford took first place in the B Sportsman class. The club is due to have entries Dec. 3 at Hobbs, N. M.

Billiard Hall Men Seeking Respectability

NEW YORK (AP)—Tough kid, leather jacket, fag drooping from lower lip, slouched against light pole. Flips the butt into a gutter. Goes back into the dingy pool room, full of shady, shifty characters.

Familiar picture? Well, destroy it. The newly formed Billiard Room Proprietors Association of America (BRPAA) says it's all wrong.

One big job of the association, in the words of an announcement, is to secure "greater stature and public acceptance for the sport of billiards and to assist materially in the 'upgrading' and establishment of better billiard rooms throughout the country."

MORE WOMEN

They even hope to attract more women to the game.

The proprietors, perhaps, don't dream of going so far as the 1635 cut in Francis Quarles' "Emblems" showing two angels shooting the 17th century equivalent of a fast game of snooker. But they do want to wipe out what they believe is a grossly erroneous image in the public's mind.

Mary, Queen of Scots, is reported to have complained in captivity in 1576 that her billiard table had been taken away from her.

An illustration shows France's Louis XIV playing a game in 1694.

Shakespeare even has Cleopatra telling an attendant: Let's go shoot a game of pool. (But Charmian, the attendant, complained of a sore arm.)

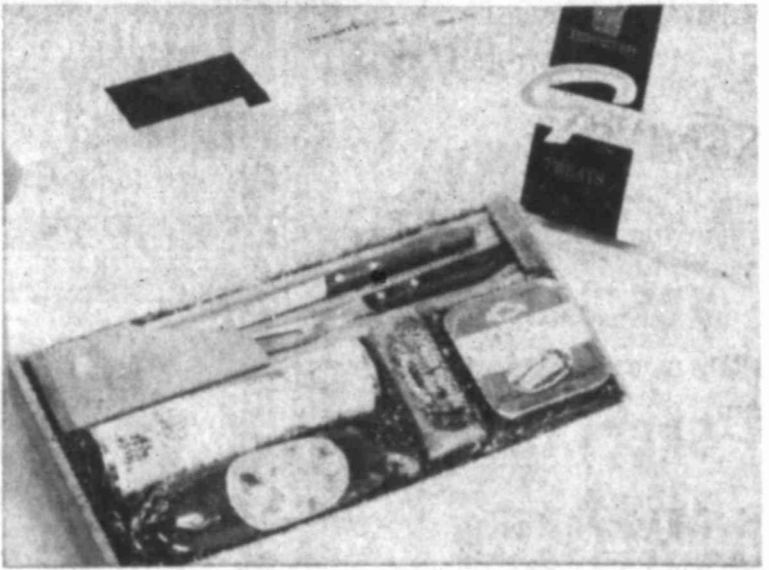

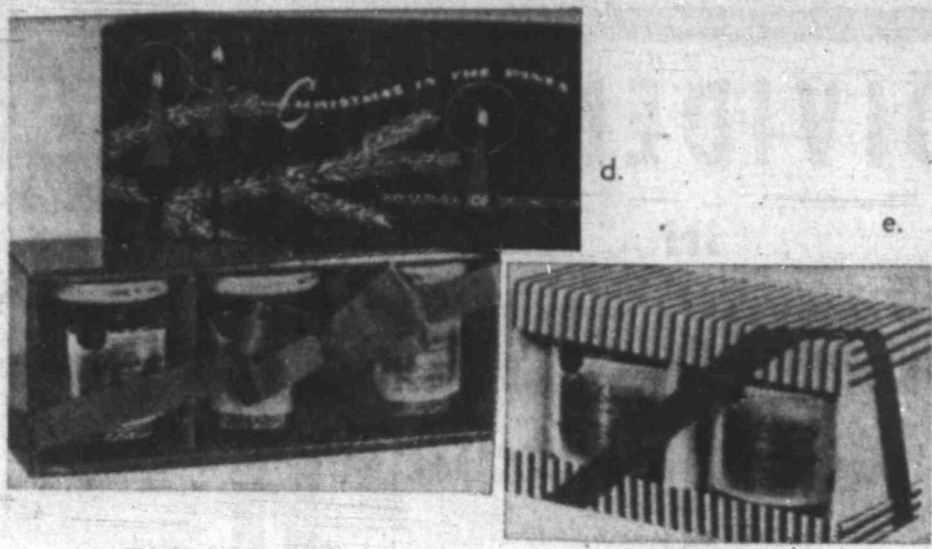

Until the 1890s, says Association President Bob McGirr of New York, billiards was a "class game." Then the country was flooded with billiard parlors and the game went downhill—at least he says, in the public mind.

TWO TYPES

As Webster's dictionary explains it, there are two main types of billiards—a game of American-French origin which is played on a table having no holes, and a game of English origin played on a table having six holes.

McGirr, who has operated a billiards parlor for 27 years and now does a steady business at his 21-table, $125,000 establishment at 8th Avenue and 45th Street, says billiards is enjoying a rebirth of popularity. He says over 12 million Americans are playing billiards regular at the 40,000 rooms in the nation.

The game got a boost, he says, from a news picture photograph of Queen Mother Elizabeth of England wielding a cue in London and a similar shot of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York in action.

Kennedy Relaxes In Sister's Home

LOS ANGELES (AP) — How does a president of the United States relax on a sunny Sunday afternoon?

President Kennedy took second helpings of a big dinner, kicked off his shoes, slouched in his chair and talked of trivial things for three hours. It did him a world of good.

Occasion was a small luncheon given by his sister, Patricia, and her actor-husband, Peter Lawford.

In a climate vastly warmer than Washington, Berlin or Moscow, the young chief executive talked of movies and moviemaking with Hollywood chums of the Lawfords.

Occasionally, he kidded with young Chris Lawford, his nephew, and Barron Hilton Jr., grandson of the hotel tycoon. To them, he was "Uncle Jack."

As he relaxed in the Lawford backyard — the Santa Monica beachfront — sun bathers and beach strollers gawked but respected his lazy retreat.

Dressed in faded blue dungarees, sport shirt and gray sweat-shirt — and no shoes — the President sprawled in a beach chair.

For three hours, he looked more like a Harvard sophomore than the chief of a world power.

"It did him good to forget things for a while," Lawford said. "It seemed to relax him immensely."

The President chatted and laughed with Director and Mrs. Billy Wilder, actress Angie Dickinson and Alvin Cluster. Cluster was skipper of the ship which rescued him from an island in enemy-held South Pacific waters during World War II.

When luncheon was finished, a smiling president went into the kitchen and congratulated Delia Bradley, the Lawfords' Negro cook.

The President, famed for a hearty appetite, started off with cold vichyssoise with chives, then a main course of squash cooked with currant jelly and brandy and stuffed with wild rice. Peas and onions were the vegetables. Dessert was home-baked chocolate tart.

Everything was home-cooked except the imported Dutch beer the President used to wash down the big meal.

Lucille Ball, Comedian Are Married In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Married in a simple church ceremony with a roaring crowd in the cold street outside, flame-tressed Lucille Ball is keeping up her television schedule here while comedian Gary Morton starts a night club engagement in Palm Springs, Calif.

There'll be a January honeymoon in Acapulco, Mex., for the couple whose romance started on a blind date in a pizza palace here.

After that, home will be a big house in Beverly Hills, Calif. Lucy, divorced wife of Desi Arnaz, and Morton, son of a Bronx truckman, were married Sunday at the Marble Collegiate church by the Rev. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale.

A crowd of 1,500 jammed the sidewalks near the 29th Street side entrance of the church. Ten policemen kept the crowd in check. A roar went up as the bride—wearing a cocktail-length gown and tulle veiled cap of brilliant teal blue—emerged from the church.

Among the first out of the church and into waiting cars were the two children of Lucy's 20-year marriage to Arnaz—Lucie, 10, and Desi, 8. The youngsters waved in greeting to the crowd.

Among the 40 relatives and close friends of the couple invited to the wedding and to a reception later at the bride's apartment were Lucy's mother, Desiree Ball, and the bridegroom's mother, Rose Morton. Mrs. Ball had brought the children here from California.

The maid of honor was actress Paula Stewart, who had introduced the couple in the summer of 1960 while she and Lucy were appearing in "Wildcat."

The best man was Miss Stewart's husband, comedian Jack Carter.

Lucy gave her age as 50 when the marriage license was obtained. Morton, whose marriage to Jacqueline Inmoor was annulled in 1957, gave his age as 44.
