Decorations Going Up

Charles Prather points out the tinsel of the Christmas decorations to his son, Richard, this morning on the city's downtown streets. With Thanksgiving behind, the downtown area is beginning to break out with Christmas colors and decorations in anticipation of a record year in Big Spring. The decorations will also be hung in the shopping center areas on Eleventh Place and on Gregg Street.

Kennedy Returns, Calls In Advisers

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—A one-day respite from the burdens of office ended today for President Kennedy as he called in key advisers for conferences on defense spending, civil defense and trade policy.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara headed the delegation coming from Washington for day-long talks at the President's Cape Cod home.

Kennedy set up three separate conferences, the first beginning at 10 a.m. and dealing with the problem of trade policy.

But the government officials had to wait in Washington for a fog to lift at Otis AFB, Mass., so their jet plane could land. White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said this would delay the start of the conferences about an hour.

This will be followed by a two-hour session on defense spending during the fiscal year starting next July 1. A mid-afternoon talk on civil defense will wind up the meetings.

Joining Kennedy in the trade policy talks were Undersecretary of State George Ball, Howard Peterson, the President's trade policy adviser, and Theodore Sorensen, his special counsel.

McNamara, Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; Budget Director David Bell, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Kennedy's military adviser, and McGeorge Bundy, presidential assistant for national security affairs, were listed for the defense budget conference.

McNamara, Lemnitzer, Taylor, Bundy and Stuart Pittman, assistant secretary of defense for civil defense, will go over civil defense matters with Kennedy.

The emphasis is expected to be on fallout shelters.

Kennedy said at his last news conference, Nov. 8, "We are going to ask for additional funds for defense next year."

Kennedy, like millions of other Americans, took Thursday off from work to spend Thanksgiving relaxing and eating turkey at a big family reunion.

All told, 13 Kennedy adults and in-laws, and 15 of their offspring, including Caroline, gathered at the home of the President's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, for the holiday meal.

And, like the pilgrims, who invited friendly Indians to the first Thanksgiving dinner, the Kennedys had out-of-the-family guests.

They were Paul Fay, undersecretary of the Navy, his wife and three children. Fay is an old and close friend of the President.

While the President, his family and friends were inside the summer White House, the family of Morton Sobell, convicted as a spy for the Soviet Union, were trying to picket outside.

Police turned them back a block and a half away and the Sobell family paraded, instead, in front of the Hyannis Port post office.

Sobell's mother, his wife, his son and his daughter carried signs saying he is innocent and urging his release from prison, where he was sent for 30 years.

Sobell was convicted with Ethel and Julius Rosenberg, who were executed as atomic spies for the Soviet Union.

Kennedy presumably was unaware of the presence of the Sobell family.

K Tells Finn Leader Of Northern 'Danger'

Anti-Red Brass Hunt Reported

CHICAGO (AP)—The Chicago Tribune reported today "A House subcommittee investigating team is touring the world in search of data to bolster the administration's attack on anti-Communist military personnel."

The story by Tribune Washington writer Willard Edwards, said three investigators are interviewing employees of the U.S. Information Agency in Europe and Asia.

USIA employees have been ordered by its director, Edward R. Murrow, "to furnish all information they can gather on military men in their areas," the Tribune reported.

"The particular interest of the investigators," the newspaper said, "is in statements of activities by American officers abroad which put them in the class of 'radical rightists' currently under attack for infusing their troops with a hatred for Communists and otherwise engaging in 'extremist activities.'"

The story said the investigators are seeking to uncover "another Walker case."

Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker was transferred from command of troops in Germany in a controversy over his troop indoctrination program. Subsequently he was admonished by the Army on the ground that he had made "inflammatory and derogatory" statements about former public officials including ex-President Harry S. Truman, and had tried to influence the votes of military personnel in the 1960 congressional elections.

Later Walker resigned his commission, saying he took that course instead of accepting retirement benefits in order to free himself from obligations that might affect his future activities.

The Tribune identified the investigating team as attached to the subcommittee on government information headed by Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif.

The story said the investigation was authorized by Chairman William L. Dawson, D-Ill., of the House Government Operations Committee.

Repeats His Demand For 'Measures'

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev told Finnish President Urho Kekkonen today the Soviet Union "can no longer regard the north of Europe as an area of peace and tranquility" because of the activity of West German military leaders. He declared it is essential to take measures "before it is too late."

Khrushchev and Kekkonen conferred in a cottage at remote Novosibirsk in Siberia where Kekkonen sought direct word from Khrushchev on what is behind his demand for military consultations with the little north European country.

The result of his talks was still a guarded secret.

The atmosphere in diplomatic circles, fearful that Finland's neutrality might be menaced by a Soviet demand for military bases, was brightened somewhat by a joint communique issued after the conference.

Nothing changed

It said the talks were held "in a spirit of open-mindedness, mutual understanding and sincere confidence."

The communique said the two leaders met in "a hearty and friendly atmosphere."

But a report by Tass, official Soviet news agency, on Khrushchev's speech at a luncheon given for Kekkonen immediately after the talks, emphasized that Khrushchev has not changed his mind since military consultations were demanded on Oct. 30.

"Finland's neutrality is an important guarantee of the preservation of peace and tranquility" in the Baltic area, he said, adding that the Soviet Union considers it necessary to take measures "before it is too late for curbing the West German militarists and revanchists."

"CONVINCED"

He said Russia was convinced that Norway and Denmark, by cooperating with West Germany in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, were undermining their own security and bringing "the threat on themselves of German militarists and revanchists closer to the shores of Finland and the Soviet Union."

He said "Norway and Denmark continued to view their military ties with West Germany "through rose-tinted glasses" despite the dangers pointed out by the Soviet Union.

West German Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss' visits to Norway and Denmark to discuss military questions, and plans to set up a joint Danish-West German military command, he added, "bear a strong resemblance to a military demonstration of a kind."

The situation, he declared, calls for "further consolidation of all-round cooperation" between Finland and Soviet Russia, and demands "firm confidence" that Finland will continue a policy of friendly relations with Moscow.

He voiced the suspicion that right-wing Finnish groups, including the former Social Democrat Foreign Minister Vaino Tanner, were seeking restoration of a "brotherhood in arms" with West Germans.

A member of Kekkonen's party, reached by telephone at Novosibirsk, refused to give any details of the talks from the Finnish side, except that they were held in a "cottage" on the outskirts of the Siberian city.

He said Kekkonen would make a report in a speech upon arrival in Moscow Saturday, and in another speech on his return to Helsinki.

Khrushchev interrupted a tour of Siberian farming areas for the conference.

$500,000 Gift To Northwestern

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Northwestern University announced today receipt of a $500,000 gift from J. H. Elder of Midland, Tex., for a new teaching and research wing at the university medical school.

Elder gave the university $500,000 in 1957 to build a men's dormitory, Elder Hall.

Tenuous Clue In Bank Robbery

FORT WORTH (AP)—Discovery of an abandoned car in Fort Worth provided police officers a tenuous clue today to the gunman who robbed the Alford National Bank.

The polite bandit fled in a white 1959 model Ford car after forcing an employe to gather up $4,000 to $5,000 at the bank northwest of here Wednesday.

City patrolman G. E. Tate found a car of the same description in the driveway at a gas station on the Jacksboro Highway Thursday. The station owner said he didn't know who left it.

There were no license plates on the vehicle. A cardboard dealer's license issued to a firm at Orange for temporary use was found in the trunk, and the vehicle bore a Louisiana inspection sticker on the windshield.

Mexican Rail Dream Reality

CHIHUAHUA, Mex. (AP)—President Adolfo Lopez Mateos went to dedicate the newly completed Chihuahua-Pacific railroad today in a ceremony at the mountain village of Santa Barbara.

The site is about halfway between here and the Pacific Coast town of Topolobampo, where the railroad ends.

Opening of the 582-mile line will provide a link between the coast and Ojinaga, opposite Presidio, Tex., on the border. It is said to promise the cheapest freight avenue between the U.S. Midwest and the Pacific.

The new railroad line took almost 90 years to build and cost more than $90 million. It spans towering mountains and gaping gorges, and at times tunnels through the majestic Sierra Nevada.

MEXICO CITY (AP)—One of six opposition members in the National Chamber of Deputies has charged that $400,000 in taxpayers' money is being squandered in ceremonies opening the newly completed Chihuahua-Pacific railroad.

Comedian Is Found

FORT STOCKTON (AP)—A 24-hour search for Dave Gardner ended Thursday with the finding of the comedian in Starks, La.

Gardner and his wife, traveling in two cars from Hollywood, Calif., to Ocean Springs, Miss., became separated in this far West Texas area Wednesday afternoon, and Gardner was unreported until Thursday afternoon.

The Louisiana Highway Patrol stopped Gardner at Starks, and advised him that Mrs. Gardner was at Fort Stockton looking for him. Mrs. Gardner explained to officers here that she and her husband had an understanding that if they became separated, they would wait for each other at the next town.

The comedian telephoned Mrs. Gardner from Starks and explained that he turned around and drove back after they became separated yesterday but missed Mrs. Gardner, and assuming that she was in front of him, hurried on to catch her.

Mrs. Gardner said they had talked about driving late Wednesday night, and her husband thought she was continuing on to their destination.

Mrs. Gardner had remained in Fort Stockton while officers sought to locate her husband.

The couple's son, David, 8, was with the comedian, and their daughter, Candy, 10, was with Mrs. Gardner.

Was Amelia Earhart Slain? Experts To Study Evidence

GUAM (AP)—The remains of two bodies, possibly those of Amelia Earhart, famed American flier, and her navigator, were being flown today to University of California at Berkeley for anthropological study.

Willis Snyder, district manager at Guam for Pan American World Airways, said the remains include dental plates and other bones found in a Saipan grave last September.

The bodies are believed to have been buried about the time Miss Earhart's plane disappeared in 1937.

With her was Fred Noonan, her navigator.

Snyder said the box is being sent to Dr. Theodore D. McCown, anthropology professor at University of California.

There were reports last year that parts of the Earhart plane had been recovered from shallow coastal waters at Saipan and that Japanese, who occupied the island before World War II, had executed both Miss Earhart and Noonan.

The latest version is that the plane's generator broke as they landed at Yap, that a new one was installed there, and that the two continued to Saipan where they were imprisoned by the Japanese.

That version says Miss Earhart died of dysentery and that Noonan was shot.

Local Death Ruled Suicide

Janie Merritt, 44, was found dead at her home at 1620 E. 3rd at 6 p.m. Thursday. Big Spring police investigated and called Justice of the Peace Walter Grice who ruled that death was suicide by hanging.

Miss Merritt's body was found, hanging in a shower closet, by Mr. and Mrs. Glenn R. Gibson, 1909 Runnels, after Mrs. Gibson had gone to the residence to keep a date to take Miss Merritt to a show. The door was locked and Mrs. Gibson said the porch light was not on as it always had been when Miss Merritt was out. She called her husband and the body was discovered, hanging by a light cord, with feet touching the floor.

Miss Merritt was employed at the Model Shop, 98 Circle Drive. Mrs. Gibson said she was with the woman until about 11 p.m. Wednesday and that she had appeared despondent and wanted to change jobs. She promised to take her to a show Thursday night.

Justice of the Peace Grice said Miss Merritt had been dead between 18 and 20 hours when the body was discovered.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Harding-Orr Funeral Home, El Paso, where the remains were to be shipped from the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home in Big Spring this afternoon.

Miss Merritt was born Nov. 30, 1916 in Hudspeth County.

Survivors include her mother, whose home is in El Paso; three brothers, C. S. Merritt and G. J. Merritt, both in El Paso, and J. E. Merritt, Van Horn; and one sister Mrs. Myrtle Henshaw, El Paso.

Ned Myers, employed on the Bill Curry ranch in Glasscock County, was admitted to the Howard County Hospital Foundation at noon today suffering from injuries received when his horse fell with him.

He was found on the range by fellow workers and the details of the accident were not known. A Nalley-Pickle ambulance brought Myers to the hospital. His condition is considered critical.

Wilson Spikes Claim NAACP Violated Order

AUSTIN (AP)—Atty. Gen. Will Wilson asserted today allegations by a legislative committee that the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People violated a 1957 injunction, are groundless.

Wilson and Harrison County Dist. Atty. Charles Allen filed a report with Dist. Judge Otis Dunagan in Tyler, where the injunction was issued.

The court order prohibits the NAACP and its 113 branches from bringing any suit in Texas in which it has not direct interest. It also prohibits the association from encouraging others to file such suits and financing them.

The House General Investigating Committee reported in August that the injunction had been violated in connection with the March 1960 sit-in demonstrations in Marshall. The committee alleged that NAACP attorneys delivered $35,000 to the president of Wiley College in Marshall to pay fines and bail bonds for Negro students taking part in the sit-ins.

"We find that there is no reliable evidence to support this statement and that it was made by the committee without any substantial evidence to back it up," Wilson's report to Judge Dunagan said.

Man Hurt In Wreck

COLORADO CITY (SC)—Robert Allen Elam, 30, 704 San Antonio Street, Big Spring, was injured 19 miles west of Colorado City at 8:15 p.m. Thursday, when his car overturned. He was traveling east when the accident occurred.

Elam was taken to the Root Memorial Hospital in a Kiker & Son ambulance where he was treated for broken ribs and bruises. His physician said Friday morning that his condition was not serious, and that he would be transferred to the Veterans Administration Hospital in Big Spring Friday afternoon.

Myers Injured Critically In Fall From Horse

Ned Myers, employed on the Bill Curry ranch in Glasscock County, was admitted to the Howard County Hospital Foundation at noon today suffering from injuries received when his horse fell with him.

He was found on the range by fellow workers and the details of the accident were not known. A Nalley-Pickle ambulance brought Myers to the hospital. His condition is considered critical.

Mrs. Wolf Plans Return Visit Here

Mrs. Alford Wolf, the wife of a Pennsylvania lawyer who gave Big Spring some international headlines when she used the city as a starting point on a record-breaking balloon flight last week, plans to return to the area as soon as her husband is well enough to make the trip.

Mrs. Wolf telephoned Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hamilton from her home in Bluebell, Pa., Thursday to extend Thanksgiving greetings to the local couple.

In the course of her conversation, she disclosed plans to come back to Big Spring within the near future, adding that she wanted Hamilton to fly her and her husband over the same route she took in her balloon flight.

She added she would always have a "warm spot in her heart" for the wonderful treatment she received while preparing for the flight.

The historic flight was launched at 12:47 a. m. last Sunday from Hamilton Field, the private field immediately north of town owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton.

She landed at Boley, Okla., at 5 p. m., two days later to claim these women's world records for Class A-6 balloons, the category for balloons of this size:

Duration—40 hours and 13 minutes. (The old record, set by a Soviet balloonist, L. Ivanova on April 22, 1948 was 34 hours, 21 minutes and 36 seconds).

Distance—363.99 miles. Altitude—13,000 feet.

new records, not merely three as she had thought.

The association learned of the broader scale of the achievement after a study of existing records.

The woman made the flight in a hydrogen-filled balloon 65 feet, from top of the balloon to the bottom of the gondola.

Mrs. Wolf's flight was documented for the NAA by Anthony Fairbanks of the Balloon Federation of America, with headquarters in Philadelphia, who accompanied her to Big Spring.

The NCAA will submit it to the federation Aeronautique Internationale in Paris for official world acceptance.

Mrs. Wolf had stated she made her flight principally because she tired of hearing about Russian superiority in activity of this type. Her husband was not able to accompany her to Texas due to the fact that he had undergone surgery in a Philadelphia hospital. He reportedly is well on the way to recovery.

Quite probably, Mrs. Wolf will appear on a national television program within the near future.

U.S. Traffic Fatalities Rise In 2nd Day Of Season Holiday

By The Associated Press

Traffic 176
Fires 16
Miscellaneous 22
Total 214

Fatalities on the nation's streets and highways mounted steadily today in the second day of the four-day Thanksgiving weekend.

Deaths in traffic totaled 176 since the count of holiday weekend fatalities started at 6 p. m. local time, Wednesday. Fires killed 16 and there were 19 deaths reported in miscellaneous mishaps.

Driving was made hazardous in some areas by rain although most of the country had fair weather.

The head-on crash of a truck and an automobile near Rochester, N.Y., accounted for four traffic fatalities.

Two firemen and a porter died in a fire that swept through a section of the Times Tower building in New York Wednesday night.

The 102-hour weekend ends at midnight Sunday.

The National Safety Council did not make an estimate of traffic fatalities for the period but the council said traffic deaths during a nonholiday, four-day weekend would total 450 at this time of the year.

A survey by The Associated Press made during a 102-hour non-holiday weekend showed 462 traffic deaths, 37 killed in fires and 106 fatalities in miscellaneous mishaps for an over-all total of 605.

The survey, made for comparative purposes, covered the period from 4 p. m., Wednesday, Nov. 8 to midnight, Sunday, Nov. 12.

During the 1960 Thanksgiving weekend, a four-day period, there were 442 traffic deaths, 51 killed in fires and 115 fatalities in miscellaneous mishaps for a total of 608.

'GOD IS TESTING HIS CREATURES' World Church Leader Hits Better-Red-Than-Dead Idea

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—A leader of the World Council of Churches says some people "claim it is better to yield freedom than to lose life" but this idea "merely postpones the evil day."

The Rev. O. Frederick Nolde, director of the council's Commission of Churches on International Affairs, said: "In the crucible of this nuclear age, God is testing the worthiness of his creatures to continue their existence upon earth."

Dr. Nolde, from Philadelphia, Pa., spoke Thursday night before

1,400 participants at the council's third general assembly meeting here.

As the council's international envoy, Dr. Nolde urged perseverance in "negotiation, conciliation and an assertion of the claims of justice" among nations.

Representatives of 198 Protestant, Orthodox and Old Catholic churches with more than 300 million members are taking part in the global meeting here.

The Vatican has sent five Roman Catholic observers. They have withheld their assessment of the assembly.

Books For Latin Friends Is Help To Democracy

EDITOR'S NOTE: In a recent edition of the Herald, Lois Engelhardt, Sioux City Journal reporter, learned of the desperate need for books for guidance toward democracy in certain Latin American countries. She returned home, interested in a book drive and thousands of books soon will be taken to Latin America.

17 People Die In Violence

At least 17 persons have died violently in Texas since the start of the extended Thanksgiving holiday weekend. Traffic took 10.

Janie Merritt, 44, of Big Spring was found hanged Thursday at her home. Justice of the Peace Walter Grice returned a suicide verdict.

A car-truck crash in which both vehicles overturned killed Mrs. Ethel Davis, 51, of Llano Wednesday night. The truck rolled on Mrs. Davis. Her uncle, Wayne Foster, 71, also of Llano and driver of the truck, suffered serious injuries in the accident west of Llano. Harold McCabe, 44, of San Angelo, driving the car, suffered face cuts.

and answer to millions of North Americans whose bookshelves are overflowing with superfluous volumes.

But not to as many millions of culturally deprived Latin Americans "enriched" in numerous instances only by Communist propaganda.

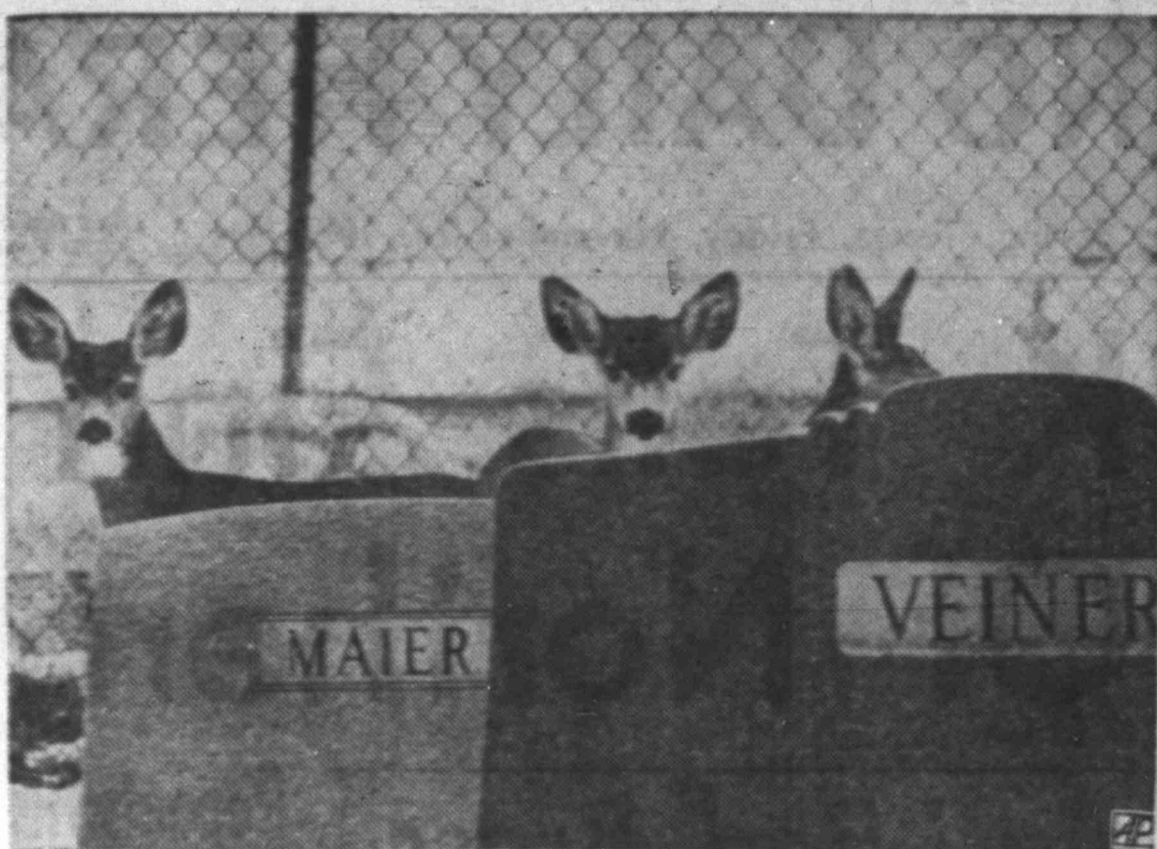

Nor to the members of the Kiwanis Club of Sioux City, who, with the assistance of school pupils and college students, have launched a books-across-the-border project for Latin America.

Upwards of 20,000 books for this new international friendship program have been gathered within two weeks.

Children's story books, American classics, encyclopedias, dictionaries, books on science, art, history, geography, government, religion, industry, government, crafts, sports, as well as textbooks and manuals. New or used, in good condition, paperback or hardbound; in English, Spanish or French; pre-school age through adults. Books for guidance toward democracy.

No organization or prospective donor was canvassed. Collections points were established at the city's eight banks, and delivery of books was on a voluntary basis.

Each book donated was to be signed on the flyleaf by the individual or organization presenting it, with full address and the words "United States of America."

Brazil Renews Ties With Soviet Union

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Brazil renewed diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union Thursday in a move apparently intended to demonstrate its freedom from U.S. domination—but it could mean trouble for the wobbly young government of Premier Tancredo Neves.

After a 14-year break, Foreign Minister Francisco Santiago Dantas announced the resumption of formal ties with Moscow during a tumultuous session of the Chamber of Deputies in Brasilia. Anti-Communist deputies almost shouted him down.

Angry congressmen, shouting "shame," contended that the Communists already had a strong enough hold in Brazil without the presence of Soviet diplomats in Rio de Janeiro and the inland capital.

Neves told newsmen that the renewal of relations did not mean that Brazil—which is 95 per cent

Roman Catholic—is selling out its democratic or Christian ideals.

There has been no concession on the part of the Brazilian government, said Neves.

Relations with the Soviet Union have been a hot potato for Brazilian politicians since President Eurico Gaspar Dutra angrily broke with Moscow in 1947 because of Soviet newspaper attacks on him and Brazilian army generals.

President Juscelino Kubitschek toyed with the idea of restoring relations. He finally sided with the West in the cold war, but he did set up commercial relations with the Soviet Union.

Enigmatic Janio Quadros—who succeeded Kubitschek and then quit in a huff last August, set in motion the machinery to exchange envoys with Moscow once more.

Quadros outlined a so-called independent foreign policy which kept Brazil officially in the Western camp but not in tow of any Western nation. He talked of recognizing Red China, however, and repeatedly expressed sympathies for the Cuban regime of Fidel Castro.

The apparently leftward swing brought Quadros under strong fire which led to his resignation Aug. 25.

Quadros' departure set off weeks of unrest during which military chiefs sought to block Vice President Joao Goulart, a leftist Laborite, from assuming the presidency. To appease the rightist military opposition, Congress approved a constitutional amendment taking most of the powers from the presidency and giving them to a premier responsible to Parliament.

The premiership fell to Neves, a textile magnate and member of the dominant middle-of-the-road Social Democrats. He named a cabinet of moderates and asserted he would continue Quadro's so-called independent foreign policy.

Some Brazilian diplomats had indicated that the resumption of relations with the Soviet Union might go by the boards and that the government would mark time until negotiations between the two nations died out.

The foreign minister's announcement of a resumption of full ties thus came as a mild surprise, at least, and the timing puzzled many observers in view of the Neves government's shaky position because of its failure so far to make progress against the crisis.

The hostile attack in congress could be the forerunner of a motion of no confidence in the government which, if successful, would force it to resign. Neves likely will argue that Brazil must have relations with all nations if its economy is to survive.

Michigan Woman Named Mrs. America For 1962

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Cleve E. Masson is a lucky fellow. Not only is his wife the new Mrs. America, but serving her the traditional breakfast in bed is no great problem—she seldom eats much in the morning.

Auburn-haired Lila Masson, a pretty 5-foot-5 mother of three, had her mind more on the extensive trips she will make in the next year on behalf of sponsors of Mrs. America, 1962.

"I've never traveled much," said Mrs. Masson, who lives in Redford Township, Mich., near Detroit. "I'm really looking forward to it."

Mrs. Masson, 30, was chosen Mrs. America Thursday in the climax of the rivalry that began Nov. 13 with arrival of homemaking queens from all 50 states and the District of Columbia.

Runner-up was Mrs. Arizona, Angelys Almond of Phoenix. Mrs. Minnesota, Gloria Schultz of St. Paul, was third.

Mrs. Masson is a former receptionist and her husband is a retail store chain executive. They have been married 19 years.

Can a couple get along that many years without arguing?

"I don't believe so," Mrs. Masson said. "But my husband has such a sense of humor it's hard to fight with him."

Among the first to congratulate the new Mrs. America were her children, Diane, 16, Thomas, 12, and David, 8. They telephoned from Michigan. Mrs. Masson said the youngsters had heard of her victory but didn't believe it until they heard it from her.

Mrs. Masson said she enjoys housework—"even spring cleaning." And when she cooks, she prefers to start with basic ingredients rather than use prepared mixes.

She plans to go home Wednesday after a trip to New York for a television appearance Monday and an appearance at a home builders show in Indianapolis.

NOAH'S ARK

By T. E. Forth, preacher, Church of Christ, 200 West Highway 40 P.O. Box 1282.

In commanding Noah to build the ark, God specified the demissions, the kind of materials and other things. He said, "Make thee an ark of gopher wood." (Gen. 6:14). We are not told in so many words that Noah used gopher wood, and that only; but we know he did. The Scriptures say, "Thus did Noah; according to all that God commanded him, so did he" (Gen. 6:22). For one thing, this means that Noah used nothing but the kind of wood God specified. I have never known a man to deny this.

God did not need to say, Thou shalt not use pine, oak, hickory, etc. He did not need to tell Noah what not to use. He specified gopher wood. That excluded all other kinds. Likewise, if we do "according to all that God commands"; we will recognize that His specific commands are exclusive in nature. For example when He specifies that our music is to be singing (Eph. 5:19; I Cor. 14:15) and never authorizes any other kind; then we know instrumental music is excluded from our worship. If not, why not? Plan to be with us Sunday. You are always welcome. —Adv.

U.S. Willing To Arrange Slav Surplus Food Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States says it is willing to arrange to sell more surplus food to Yugoslavia.

Belgrade sources said Thursday that Washington already had agreed to the sale of another 500,000 tons of wheat asked by President Tito. He said the grain was badly needed because of Yugoslav crop failures.

But the State Department said Thursday night the two governments still are discussing terms of the deal and the amount of farm commodities to be sold.

U.S. Has Fair Skies

By The Associated Press

Fair skies and mild temperatures extended over most of the country today although there were patches of rain, drizzle or snow.

Warm air moved in over the southern Plateau and the southern Rocky Mountain area. Temperatures generally were in the 30s and 40s.

Cool temperatures were reported in the northern Plains with readings in the 20s.

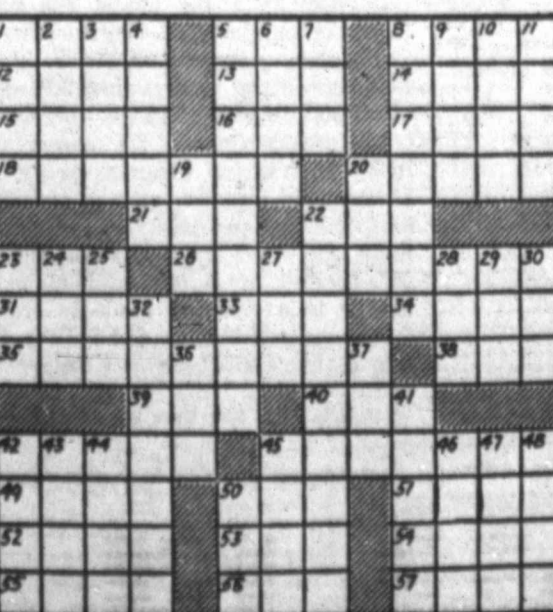

Severe weather along the Gulf Thursday left considerable property damage but no serious injuries were reported.

Homes and buildings were struck by two tornadoes which dipped into two small communities near Pensacola, Fla. A child was hurt at Galaver, Fla.

15 Records Set By Mrs. Wolf

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Pennsylvania woman's Texas-to-Oklahoma balloon flight last weekend set 15 world records. She had claimed only three.

This word was given Thursday by the National Aeronautics Association to Constance Wolf, 56, of Blue Bell, Pa., after a study of the record books.

Mrs. Wolf, wife of Alfred Wolf, general counsel of the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association here, took off from Big Spring Sunday in a hydrogen-filled balloon 65 feet in diameter.

She landed at Boley, Okla., Monday to claim these women's world records for Class A6, the category for balloons of that size:

Duration: 40 hours and 13 minutes.

Distance: 363.99 miles.

Altitude: 13,000 feet.

The previous women's mark for duration of flight was set April 22, 1948, by Soviet balloonist L. Ivanova, at 34 hours, 21 minutes and 36 seconds. There were no previous distance or altitude records for women.

Officials explained that any flight that exceeds records set by larger balloons also is credited with the new marks in the larger categories as well.

For that reason, Mrs. Wolf also may claim duration, distance and altitude records for the four larger balloon classes, A7 through A10.

part of their time on something called "new mathematics." It includes such items as "additive identity," "additive inverse" and the "commutative property of addition."

Introduction of what some call "new mathematics" has stirred up arguments among educators about its value.

In its defense, Dr. G. Baley Price, chairman of the department of mathematics at the University of Kansas, says:

"The technological revolution now in progress requires that new mathematics be taught in our schools, that the emphasis be shifted in the teaching of many subjects already included in our mathematics courses, and that we increase the production of mathematicians and mathematics teachers."

In opposition is Dr. Morris Kline, director of the division of electromagnetic research of the New York University Institute of Mathematical Sciences.

He says: "The problem is not that our curriculum is outmoded, but that we have done a very bad job of presenting the material we have taught."

Changes may be needed, Dr. Kline says, but "all talk about modern society's requiring a totally new kind of mathematics is sheer nonsense."

The case for the new program is presented in a manual entitled "The Revolution in School Mathematics" published Thursday by the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, a division of the National Education Association. Dr. Price is one of the authors.

Wood Cutter Is 112 Years Old

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Until four years ago, Tom Reason of Kaufman, Tex., was a wood cutter.

He had to quit because of a back injury suffered in an auto accident.

Thursday was his 112th birthday and he celebrated with a Thanksgiving feast at the home of a granddaughter, Mrs. Virgil Shaver.

"I feel as though I could still chop a cord of wood," said Reason, who was making his living that way when the Civil War battle of Gettysburg was fought.

DEAR ABBY He's A Guy To Write Off

DEAR ABBY: I was practically engaged to a college boy of 19. I am 16. Everything was going along great until I found out he had been seeing two other girls. I asked him to explain himself but he didn't seem to want to, so I told him we were through.

I thought sure he'd call me up and apologize, but he hasn't called me yet, and it's been over two months. Should I write him a letter and ask him to call me? I think he really wants me back but has too much pride to call.

DEAR ABBY: I doubt if he has too much pride. He's probably having too much fun. Don't write him. Write him off.

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I dine out with friends, he will frequently say, "Aren't you going to eat your potato?" Or, "If you don't want to finish your dessert, I'll take it." He is always finishing up someone's salad or steak, and behaving like a human garbage pail in general. He is an executive with a good family background, so don't tell me he doesn't know better. I don't mind his cleaning up my plate at home, but when we are out in public it becomes embarrassing. How can I stop him?

DEAR ABBY: Tell this "vacuum cleaner with teeth" that unless he stays out of other people's plates, you'll refuse to eat out with him.

DEAR ABBY: Our hearts are breaking with grief. Our beautiful

16-year-old daughter ran away and got married. When they came to tell us we said things in our hurt and anger that we meant at the time, but regret now. They had promised they would wait until she graduated from high school. We had so much faith in them that we kept our home open to this man. We liked him so much. He is over 21. Now we don't even know where our daughter is. She has quit school. They won't even let us apologize. The boy called and told us to stop trying to get in touch with them because they never want to see us again. We just want to know that our daughter is well and happy. Sixteen is so young. What can we do?

Ministers Oppose McCormack Vote

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A group of Baptist ministers are opposed to the election of Rep. John McCormack, D-Mass., as speaker of the House of Representatives.

The Rev. Homer G. Ritchie of the First Baptist Church here said Thursday: "We do not oppose his election on the ground that he is a Catholic but on the fact that he has never taken a stand against tax aid for private schools."

About 400 ministers are attending the Baptist Bible Fellowship International Conference here.

McCormack is expected to succeed Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., who died last week. In the last session of Congress he fought President Kennedy's proposed bill to provide federal funds for public schools, because parochial schools weren't included.

Civic Duty Is A Better Motive

One of the by-products of the renewed emphasis on conversion of Texas to a two-party state is evidenced in Houston where a Republican slate has been fielded in a municipal election.

Of course this is the business of Houston and its people, but the extension of partisanship into municipal elections would disrupt an accepted modus operandi in Texas that has, on the whole, produced sound city government.

Some of the outstanding councilmen in the state's urban councils have been Republicans, and by the same token some of the outstanding leaders have been Democrats—but all of them have been elected and have served without any regard to party affiliation. They have run as independent citizens impelled largely by a sense of civic responsibility.

Partisanship on a state and national level is quite another matter, for in these realms party machinery ascribes responsibility and coordinate courses of action. It is argued that partisanship to the lowest denominator in Texas politics would stimulate vote turnout. Perhaps, but local issues have in the past done a superb job in this respect. Besides, councils and administrations made up of men and women motivated by civic responsibility, regardless of personal party preferences, have been able to shun one of the worst problems of all—that of political patronage—and concentrate on good government rather than perpetuation of office.

That Wide-Eyed Innocence

The Soviet Union has agreed to resume negotiations next Tuesday for a treaty to ban testing of nuclear weapons.

This comes as no great surprise, and most astute observers are agreed that this means simply one thing: Russia has completed her current round of tests.

Nor does the veiled stipulation of the Soviets in the matter of resuming talks strike any note of surprise. In effect, the Russians are saying that if some other power tests nuclear weapons while the talks are under way, it may pick up its marbles and walk out. All this is done with the straight face of a professional wrestler rabbit-punching his opponent and looking with wide-eyed innocence and upturned palms in a gesture of clean hands. In wrestling it's all a part of the show; in international politics, it's also part of the show on Russia's part.

Our position has been made clear—we will pursue our own program of testing under our own terms, and we will not be party to another unsuspected moratorium on testing.

The Grave Report On Viet Nam

WASHINGTON — The report that General Maxwell Taylor made to President Kennedy on his mission to South Viet Nam is considered by those who have seen it to be a sharply realistic analysis of the Communist threat in Southeast Asia and what can be done about it. Studying it before he took off to speak in the West, the President in his sobering words on the limits of American power and influence had the Taylor report plain in mind.

THE REPORT is far more than a military document, it faces up to the uncertain political situation in South Viet Nam and what should be done in Saigon by the Viet-Nam government of President Ngo Dinh Diem and what must be done from this capital in collaboration with Diem.

In this it reflects Taylor's broad grasp of world problems and the incisive quality of his mind. After a punishing tour that included leaping through the jungle, low-flying helicopter flights over the mountainous terrain and lengthy conferences with Diem and others in his government as well as Americans on the ground, he had two days in Baguio, the mountain resort in the Philippines. There he wrote the core of the report.

CERTAIN OF Taylor's military recommendations have become known. They are aimed at making more effective use of the large force Diem already has under arms. The army is to be increased to a strength of 170,000. In addition, more than 100,000 men are in the armed police and village militia. These forces have been equipped with American military aid totaling more than a billion dollars.

One weakness is intelligence, which has been diffuse and contradictory with separate Vietnamese intelligence services working at cross purposes. This is to be coordinated and greatly stepped up under American direction, aided by the use of American reconnaissance jets.

AMERICAN PLANES are also to be assigned to another equally important mission—supplying the patrols pushing across the mountainous plateau on the Laotian border from whence much of the Communist infiltration is believed to come. Taylor was told that Vietnamese forces managing to reach this critical area are compelled to turn back almost at once for lack of supplies. It is hoped that aerial drops will solve this difficulty.

An important recommendation is for a greatly increased patrol activity in the border areas. This means that advanced American ranger training will be given to more Vietnamese troops. New training missions will be sent to Saigon.

OBVIOUS recommendations already being implemented are for greatly increased shipments of food to relieve the need growing out of disastrous floods in the Mekong Valley. As Taylor arrived in Viet Nam flood waters covered five or six provinces. The likelihood is for crop damage so severe that all the excess rice ordinarily exported will be lost and this source of foreign exchange will therefore be unavailable.

FAR MORE complex and tied up with pride, prestige and ancient habits of the Far East is the political-administrative side of the report. Taylor found, as other visitors have, that a roadblock to action is Diem's own office.

In his talks with Taylor President Diem was quite frank in acknowledging this. He complained of how hard it was to find anyone he could trust who also had the requisite ability. Together with his brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, who has the title of Advisor to the President, Diem and other members of his numerous family have closely held executive power. Discussing this with the head of President Kennedy's mission, Diem said he would welcome American experts in his administration who might break through some of the barriers that have blocked not only administrative moves but military changes as well.

WHETHER SUCH experts could work effectively in the tangled administrative political setup in Saigon is a question currently being canvassed between the two capitals. But, as General Taylor suggested in his report, an even more difficult question must be answered.

That goes to the will of the Vietnamese people to murder and—or subvert a people by nature gentle and pacific. Or to put it another way the question is whether the mass of the people relate their fate—their future—with the present government to the extent of being willing to fight and sacrifice for its existence.

AS TAYLOR arrived, Colonel Hoang Thy Nam, who had been serving as liaison with the International Control Commission, was kidnapped with his family by guerrillas only a short distance from Saigon. Members of his family were released. But shortly afterward his barbarously mutilated body was found and brought back to Saigon. Would the peasant in his rice field understand that Colonel Nam was only the first and most obvious victim and that he would be next if he stood in the way of the marauders? That is the great unanswered question.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

A 13.5 mile stretch of four-lane divided highway recently opened north of Big Spring has some significance for San Angelo. That is because Highway 87, which has been improved there, traverses our city and is subject to similar treatment in the months and years ahead.

The Big Spring project affords a sector of almost ideal traffic movement, says the Big Spring Herald. It is a good example of what the Texas Highway Department, in cooperation with county commissioner courts, is doing in the way of upgrading our highway system.

In the coming years, Highway 87 will assume tremendously more importance in taking care of the traffic flow of this part of the country. The full four-lane treatment outside of major cities will take a little time, but its completion will make a major difference in meeting the requirements of a growing traffic load.

A Twisted Evening

NEW YORK (AP)—The piano player hung from a rafter with one arm and leg while he waved the other arm and leg wildly as if he were being stung by a thousand bees.

The dancing mob below him went mad with delight. "That fellow up there sure is having himself a ball," said my date, as we sat down at a table so small it would crowd a midjet.

My date was actress Shirley MacLaine.

The place was the home of that new dance craze, "the twist," where beatniks and cafe society notables bump hips in a new and moving form of democracy—very moving.

Shirley had come to New York to get a little Big City background atmosphere for her next picture. But like most visitors from Hollywood—or Peoria—the first place she wanted to see was the Peppermint Lounge—where they do the twist.

At midnight the club resembled a cross between the Long Branch saloon on pay night and a hospital psychopathic ward during manic hour.

Everything went—from sweat-shirt to silk gown.

The band blared "Irresistible You" to a mad jungle beat. The patrons were screaming and jabbering as if 10,000 biting ants were crawling over their bodies, and they were trying to shake them off. That is the basic movement of "the twist."

"I glubba glubba glubba glubba before," said Shirley, as an elderly waiter wiggled by with a bulging-eyed, teen-age girl, whose long straight hair dangled past her woolly sweater.

"What did you say?" I shouted between cupped hands.

"I said I never saw anything

None of the Republican trio most mentioned now as likely prospects for the GOP presidential nomination in 1964—Nixon, Rockefeller, Goldwater—is admitting any ambition for it.

This might be more wisdom than reluctance for at least two of them: former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

Their 1964 chances will depend on how they make out in 1962 when Nixon runs for the governorship of California and Rockefeller tries for re-election in his state. Besides, if President Kennedy runs again and looks unbeatable, the 1968 presidential race might look attractive when Kennedy, under the Constitution, could not seek a third term.

NIXON AND Arizona's Sen. Barry Goldwater have said they don't want the 1964 presidential nomination. Rockefeller just hasn't said.

But none of them shows any intention of being overlooked or out of sight—if he can help it—before the 1964 nominating starts.

Nixon's been making speeches and statements and writing newspaper articles. Goldwater has been extremely busy denouncing the Kennedy administration. And Rockefeller sticks his opinion into national affairs.

The very best way for Nixon and Rockefeller to stay in the public consciousness is to win their governorship races next year. They could also line up state delegations for themselves in the 1964 convention.

If either loses the governorship, he becomes overnight a political dead duck. Nixon has a tough fight in California. A big unknown for Rockefeller is whether his impending divorce will hurt him.

GOLDWATER looks the surest of the three to remain a national figure until 1964 and perhaps until and beyond 1968, too. His present Senate term does not end until 1964.

If he sees no chance of a presidential nomination that year he can run for the Senate again.

Around The Rim

Pressure On An Honorable People

Back in my childhood days, I soon learned to distinguish the good guys from the bad guys, and it wasn't from watching western movies.

I must have been about 6, maybe 8, years old when I saw the newsreel showing the Japanese bombing a Chinese city, and I immediately dashed off a letter to President Roosevelt, asking him to please send our Army and Navy to whip those nasty ole Japs.

It was only a few years later that Stalin decided to take Finland, Stalin, and communism, went on my blacklist then, along with Hitler and Franco and Mussolini.

THEN, DURING World War II, I saw a propaganda film in which some bigshot (don't recall his name) was speaking to a crowd in a park, praising our Russian allies. A man in the crowd, speaking as though he were a joker in a stacked deck, querulously demanded: "But what about poor little Finland?" The speaker contemptuously answered, "Poor little Finland was offered a large area of Russian Lapland in exchange for strategic Finnish territory near Leningrad, which Russia needed for defense against the Nazi assault they knew was coming."

(A wasteland of snow in exchange for fertile farmland? I asked myself. My previous notions were reinforced.)

THERE WAS other snide propaganda about the Finns—for example, that those heroic people held off the Red Army for so long only because Hitler sent in thousands of German troops to help. (Turned out Hitler sent in a cadre to learn something about snow fighting.)

Actually, Stalin seemed to be getting two wishes on one pulley bone—fooling Hitler into thinking Russians were the world's poorest fighters, and getting rid of his political unreliaables.

There were always crack Communist legions just behind the unreliaables.

I HAD LEARNED something else in my youth in reading the papers. I discovered that Finland paid off her debts to Uncle Sam, the only country to do so. And, following World War II, Finland paid off every cent of reparations. To them, it was a matter of honor.

Now, the Finns are being pressured into an impossible position by Khrushchev, apparently to force Finland to allow Russian bases in that country—a prelude to a repetition of take-overs in Eastern Europe.

The Finns seem to be one of the few truly honorable nations left in the free world. Are we going to let them go like we did Hungary?

—BOB SMITH

Has Finland No Champion?

During the bitter winter of 1939-40, when a shaken world was confronted by another shattering war, the West was momentarily electrified by the possibility that Finland, a modern David, might lick the Russian Goliath.

THE GIANT WON in the end. But in the interim, the world had an inspiring and awesome glimpse of what men could and would endure to remain free. Finnish valor and bravery were not enough, and decent men everywhere wept when Finland was overwhelmed.

In the years since this small, courageous nation has had little over which to rejoice, always treading warily of the sullen giant to the East, now under pressure from new and brutal Russian demands, Finland looks into the abyss of possible national extinction, or of incorporation as a Russian fief.

This is an awful possibility at which the realistic Finns have looked unblinkingly for years.

"We live always on the razor's edge," was the invariable description of the nation's precarious existence whenever I talked with Finns in private during a trip through Finland six years ago. "We are conscious that Big Brother is always watching us."

Will the Finns, brave and resourceful, fight again if presented with impossible Russian demands?

"WE KNOW NOW from experience that the willingness of a nation of 4,000,000 to fight and die is not enough against a nation of 220,000,000," was the consensus of Finns in 1955. It seems doubtful that six years of Russian military aggrandizement and threats could have done aught but convince the Finns of the futility of a second valiant but suicidal gesture.

I was in Finland on the day when the U.S.S.R. returned Porkkala, an enclave on the Gulf of Finland, Russia had extracted it from Finland (and turned it into an armed bastion) as part of the price of peace.

AT THAT TIME, I took notes on what the Finns had to say about the restoration of Porkkala. They could scarcely have been more perceptive or prophetic. "We are glad that Porkkala is once more ours," was the Finnish consensus. "But we are not fooled. If the Russians ever need Porkkala again, we do not deceive ourselves; they will take it."

The Finns pointed out that the restoration of her nickel mines and of Viborg and Karelia, also part of the price of Russian peace, would have been a far greater boon to them than Porkkala. The U.S.S.R. took the nickel mines, Finland's only valuable mineral deposit and one of her few natural resources besides her vast forests, as well as the good farmlands of Karelia.

THE RESETTLEMENT of displaced Karelian farmers elsewhere in Finland was one of the small nation's major post-war problems.

Even as she paid in full her small World War I debt to the United States, so Finland labored mightily to pay the huge indemnity of $300,000,000 imposed by Russia at the war's end. Until the debt was paid, the Spartan Finns imposed upon themselves a 20 per cent sales or purchase tax on everything they bought, including most items of food.

THE RAVAGES of war left Finland the poorest country in Scandinavia. Yet I never saw a slum or a bum there. And she buys and reads more books per capita than any other country in Europe.

If Finland's national integrity is compromised by the U.S.S.R. or if she ceases to exist as a political entity, it will be one of the blackest crimes in a Stygian century. In this gallant nation to be left to its fate, without a single champion even speaking up for right in the face of naked might?

Autocratic Power Subject To Diversion

WASHINGTON—Vice President Lyndon Johnson talked a few days ago about the way the Communists are seeking to bring about a divided America. He said they are striving desperately to array "class against class."

He pointed the finger of blame at extremists and said that "the leaders of world communism know that in this ugly business they will find unwitting allies within our own society."

But Johnson, while criticizing group after group, never said a word about the friction going on inside the labor union movement in America. A news dispatch from Nevada now tells of a walk-out of about half the employees at a nuclear-testing base there. In a jurisdictional dispute, the operating engineers and plumbers each denied the right of the others to do certain work. About 2,000 employees refused to cross the picket lines set up by the plumbers.

YET THE UNITED States is in the midst of a desperate contest with the Communists on the matter of nuclear tests, and time is of the essence.

Who, therefore, looks out for the national interest? The impression has been conveyed that strikes at missile bases have been abolished but "sporadic" interruptions do occur. The public is inclined to blame employers, when the fact actually is between the unions themselves.

The secretary of labor, Arthur Goldberg, made a speech last Friday in the convention of the AFL-CIO industrial union department, urging that jurisdictional feuds should be abandoned. He said that "the country needs a united and not a divided labor movement."

UNFORTUNATELY, the government of the United States has not asserted itself in recent years to apply the same rules to labor unions that it applies to industry. The labor unions are free to engage in monopoly and indirectly in price-fixing, yet employers can be sent to jail for offenses in that category of business activity.

The problem is not peculiar to the United States. Great Britain lately has been struggling with a Communist-infiltrated union in the electrical trades. The cumulative effect of press and television exposure has led to the expulsion of this particular union of nearly 400,000 members, first by the Trades Union Congress and then by the Labor Party. Now the union has itself broken the grip of the Communists on its leadership by electing non-

Communists to nine out of its eleven executive posts.

"IT HAS EVIDENTLY been borne in upon them at last," says a London Times editorial, "that more was at stake in the election of the officials of their union than the choice of capable negotiators and industrial militants. Even so, in spite of the unexampled publicity and the clearest of issues, only 25 per cent of the members voted, and not all of those votes counted. It can be taken for granted that the Communists and their sympathizers will start boring away again as the excitement dies down.

THE LONDON TIMES also points up a weakness in labor unions noticeable in this country, too, as its says: "The electrical trades union case has given sharper definition to a need which was already apparent: Some independent authority to ensure that trade union rules conform to certain minimum standards and that they are honestly observed in practice, not only at the time of elections, and to which members may appeal if they suspect a breach of the rules."

"Hostility to any such proposal is deeply seated in the mentality of trade unionists. It would have to be presented as, and to be, a move to protect individual members and in no way a move to undermine the industrial strength of the unions."

IN AMERICA the public and particularly the members of trade unions have not become aware of all the skulduggery that goes on to make unions instruments of autocratic power. Today, moreover, as trade unions finance the campaigns of many members of Congress or pay some of them big fees for lectures and speeches throughout the year, it is evident that more and more political influence is being exerted by a few trade-union leaders. It is a situation made to order for Communist infiltration and for the disruption of work on America's defense projects.

Lamesa Couple Weds In Double Ring Rites

LAMESA (SC) — Mary Kay Campbell became the bride of Jimmy Eugene Freeman in a double ring ceremony Thursday evening in the chapel of the First Baptist Church.

MRS. JIMMY EUGENE FREEMAN

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Campbell, and the bridegroom the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Freeman Sr., all of Lamesa. The Rev. Milo B. Arbuckle, pastor, performed the ceremony before an altar flanked with baskets of bronze mums and cathedral tapers in pedestaled candelabra. Nuptial music was presented by Mrs. W. J. Beckham, organist, and Karen Cox, pianist. Patricia Beckham, soloist, sang "The Twelfth of Never", "Through the Years" and "O, Lord Most Holy". Karen Campbell, sister of the bride, was maid of honor with Peggy Nutt and Donna Stephens as bridesmaids. Ushers were Dennis Schneider, Loyd Adams and Roger Frazier, all of Nuevo Rosita, Coahuila, Mexico.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of white dull-luster satin. The basque waist was fashioned with a scalloped V-neckline, and the front section of the skirt of unpressed pleats was appliqued with re-embroidered Alencon lace and seed pearls. A crown of seed pearls held her ballerina length veil of French imported silk illusion. She carried white gardenias mounted on a white Bible.

Bridal attendants wore street length dresses of mandarin green peau de soie fashioned with draped bow necklines, long sleeves, fitted bodices and bouffant skirts with front tie sashes. They wore satin shoes. Head-dresses were matching bow hair-deaux with short circular veils. They carried fall bouquets. A reception followed the ceremony in the church parlor. For traveling the bride wore a kelly green wool suit with a fur collar and she carried brown accessories. After the wedding trip they will settle in Lamesa.

The bride is a graduate of Lamesa High School. The bridegroom was graduated from Klondike High School and is a student at Howard County Junior College in Big Spring. He is also engaged in farming at Patricia.

School Cafeterias Serve 2,569 Dinners

Cafeterias in the local schools featured Thanksgiving dinners at noon Wednesday, with 2,569 served the regular meal. Besides this number, the snack bars at Goliad Junior High served 130. The group consumed 975 pounds of turkey with 482 pounds of dressing; 252 pounds of Irish potatoes at elementary schools and 251 pounds of sweet potatoes in the high schools.

Southern Houses Planned

COLLEGE STATION—Extensive research has been done in recent years on southern housing. Researchers have been trying to find out what people want in housing, why they want it, how much space is needed and how to plan for it. They have also considered the materials, type of construction, details of construction, soil, site and numerous other factors related to housing.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station and the Texas Agricultural Extension Service have begun a series of joint publications designed to give these research findings to homemakers and home builders.

First in this series is a plan for a moderate-sized home. Three bedrooms, living room and bath were planned around the needed storage units. Space in this house was planned for moderate clothing needs with two persons per bedroom. Central linen storage was placed at the end of the hall servicing the three bedrooms and a bath.

For the kitchen, a U-arrangement was selected. A dining area, laundry area and children's play area were selected to go with the kitchen arrangement.

The purpose of the plan is to show the contractor or home builder how research data may be utilized in the development of a desirable floor plan. Working drawings for this study plan have not been developed by the researchers, but may be developed by any competent engineer or architect. Unlimited possibilities exist for adapting this plan to personal preferences.

A copy of this plan may be obtained from the local county agent for a copy of L-543, "Moderate-size House Plan for Southern Living."

It took 203 pounds of mince meat for pies; 321 pounds of English peas; 96 pounds of apple-sauce; 181 pounds of cranberry sauce; 88 pounds butter; 62 pounds brown sugar; 38 dozen eggs; 2,769 half pints of milk. For hot rolls it took 240 pounds of flour; at the snack bar, 12 barbecue sandwiches were served; 50 hot dogs; 65 bowls of chili, 144 packages of chips and 202 ice cream novelties.

Dining rooms were decorated for the occasion, with historical murals at Goliad made by the pupils of Mrs. James Hale and Mrs. Joe B. Heddlston; arrangements of fall fruits, pumpkins and gourds brightened spots in the hall. At Washington Place School, pupils of Betty Joyce were dressed as Pilgrims and Indians. Mrs. John Annen is director of cafeteria service.

Sides Home Scene Of Holiday Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Sides, 2006 Scurry, were hosts for a Thanksgiving gathering of relatives, which included their brother, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sides, and their sisters, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Collins, Mrs. Maude Williamson and Mrs. Evie McDonald, all of Childress, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lindot of Amarillo.

Local people joining the group were Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Brown and Bill and Mrs. Mrs. Wilburn W. Sides, Wilbur Jr. and Hewitt.

Bazaar Items Are Made In Workshop

Work on items for the bazaar, planned by Mu Kappa, Epsilon Sigma Alpha members, was done at a workshop held Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Ronnie McGann.

Mrs. Vern Vigar demonstrated the method of making net and plastic poodles, wire birdcages, hats and shopping bags and pin-cushions.

The bazaar is planned for Dec. 1-2, and will be held in the Washon Shop in the Petroleum Building.

Refreshments were served to 13 by the hostess and Mrs. Vick Videll.

Work will be continued at the regular meeting scheduled for Monday in the home of Mrs. Bernard Cole, 134B Dow Drive.

Students Honored

Members of the First Baptist May Belle Taylor and Helen Jean Parks Circles were hostesses to Webb AFB students and their wives Tuesday evening for a Thanksgiving dinner. The group was entertained with a musical program and all engaged in a discussion of harvest festivals in their countries.

Back From Dallas

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Taroni, 3209 Cornell, have returned from Dallas, where they visited his mother, Mrs. C. Taroni. They were joined by friends from Gurdon, Ark., and Shreveport, La., for the Saturday game between Southern Methodist University and the University of Arkansas.

Troop Invests New Member

George Ann Patton was invested as a new member of Girl Scout Troop 336 Tuesday afternoon at the Scout Hut. The Busy Bee Patrol presented the flag ceremony, and games were led by Helen Johnson and Patsy Robertson.

Final plans were made for making cookies and decorating a tree to be taken to a local rest home for Christmas.

WCSA Meets For Panel Discussion

Mrs. W. A. Laswell presided for the panel discussion following the completion of the book, "Edge of the Edge" for members of the Mary Zinn Circle, First Methodist Church, Tuesday afternoon.

Taking part in the panel were Mrs. S. R. Nobles, Mrs. H. H. Stephens, Mrs. Dave Duncan, Mrs. Mary Guilliams and Mrs. W. A. Miller, who also offered the opening prayer. Eleven attended the session, held at the church, and refreshments were served by Mrs. Hubert Johnson.

Orchids On The Menu

NEW YORK (AP)—The next time you ask for orchids, better specify whether you plan to wear or eat them.

This may make a difference if the canapies created by food specialist Mrs. Sylvia Schurr becomes popular.

Although posie-chomping has been limited to ponies in the past, Mrs. Schurr served orchid hors d'oeuvres recently to the advisory committee of the world of food pavilion to be a part of the 1964 World's Fair. Her crisp Hawaiian baby orchids were marinated, then stuffed with wine flavored liver pate.

Pimiento Flavored

Crush a drained canned pimiento and add it to a cream sauce for vegetables.

International Club Plans For Holidays

Final arrangements were discussed for the Christmas party of the International Club, Monday evening, at Webb AFB Service Club.

Date for the holiday affair is set for Dec. 16 at the pavilion. Mrs. Hollis Russe and Mrs. Eldon Hager were hostesses for the gathering.

For the refreshment table, they used a Thanksgiving theme in decorating. Mrs. Albert Valdes won the prize of the evening—a telephone call to her home in Havana, Cuba.

The next regular meeting of the group will be held in the home of Mrs. Sam Mellinger, 428 Hillside Drive, Dec. 11, at 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Jay Kornguth will be cohostess.

Weekend Guests

Expected today for the weekend is Shine Phillips, 1304 Scurry, who is a patient in Memorial Hospital, San Angelo. Also here for the weekend are Champe Phillips of El Paso and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ezzell of Austin.

Cotillion Couples

Mr. and Mrs. Rich Anderson, (left), and Mr. and Mrs. James Duncan were among those attending the Wednesday night Cotillion dance at the Big Spring Country Club. Mrs. Anderson is Cotillion Club president and Mrs. Duncan was chairman of the committee in charge of dance arrangements.

Homemakers Class Is Entertained

Homemakers Class of First Christian Church met with Mrs. J. T. Allen Tuesday. Mrs. Gene Gresham was cohostess. A devotion, "We Thank Thee Lord," was given by Mrs. O. G. Burns, president, and prayer was offered by Mrs. Joe Johnson. Ten members were entertained with games with Mrs. Fred Lancaster, the leader, after which refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Dorcas Class Has Dinner-Meeting

A dinner-meeting for the Dorcas Class of Baptist Temple was held Sunday by Mrs. R. N. Adams and her sister, Mrs. Pearl Scott. Seventeen members were present and four guests, the Rev. and Mrs. A. R. Posey, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Smith and Juanita Edwards. Following the dinner, a song-fest was conducted and the evening was closed with prayer by Rev. Posey.

Mrs. Long Heads Catholic Society

Mrs. Don Long was elected president of the St. Frances Cabrini Altar Society of Webb AFB Monday evening when members met in the chapel annex. Named to the vice presidency Mrs. John Summa will be secretary-treasurer. Educational films were shown by Our Lady of Victory Missionary Sisters.

Autumn Theme Used For Cotillion Dance

A majestic cornucopia arrangement consisting of autumn leaves, pumpkins, fruit and nuts centered the serving table for the Cotillion dance held Wednesday night at the Big Spring Country Club.

Brass and copper appointments were used on the main table, as well as on the individual tables which also featured the fall motif. Smaller autumn arrangements centered each table.

Some 200 composed the guest list, and music was provided by Jimmy Dorsey and his orchestra. Couples in charge of arrangements were Mr. and Mrs. James Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. Don Newsom, Mr. and Mrs. Kimball Guthrie, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Jones. Also Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Currie, Dr. and Mrs. Carl Marcum, Dr. and Mrs. Clyde Thomas Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Joe Leach, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Edwards.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Nan Martin's Problem Loss Of Weight

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD—Nan Martin and I were sipping tea in her dressing room backstage at the Huntington Hartford Theater, where the Hemingway play, "Short Happy Life" opened recently. We discussed the play and suddenly I changed the conversation flow from the theater into my field by asking for Nan's biggest beauty problem.

"Put it in the past," Nan said. "My biggest problem was shooting up to my full height when I was 14. There was no one in my class as tall as I—not even the boys—and I suffered from this. Adolescence is an insecure time and pain is exaggerated. For a long time my personality was conditioned by a feeling of being a misfit," Nan laughed. "Time took care of that. In the adult world my height is quite normal, but this taught me two lessons; we should accommodate ourselves to the things we can't change, and that most of the things we worry about never happen.

"Another problem," Nan continued, "that's in the present is losing weight. When I was playing in New York in the extreme heat of wearing a Shakespeare costume, I used to perspire so heavily that I would drop as much as eight pounds during a performance. Most of this was water, but I had a struggle to keep from being too thin. It is a strange thing, but you have to enjoy what you eat or you can't gain. I often think this is why people who are trying to reduce have such a struggle—everything they eat is cherished so. When I have no appetite, I find that putting hot beef broth into two beaten raw eggs gives me strength."

Loss Of German Youth Explained

BERLIN (AP) — A young East German stowaway aboard a U.S. military train was turned over to Soviet authorities because Americans lack extraterritorial rights on such trains, Gen. Lucius D. Clay was quoted as saying today.

Clay, President Kennedy's envoy to Berlin, made the explanation to West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt, a West Berlin spokesman said.

The reported explanation meant that the four U.S. military trains which daily cross East German territory between West Berlin and West Germany are not U.S. territory as is a U.S. Embassy in a foreign country.

The train, with 80 Americans, including many women and children, was held up at gunpoint by Communist troops for nearly 15 hours Thursday when it reached Marienborn, on the Communist side of the crossing point into West Germany at Helmstedt.

The Army said the Russians learned from interrogation of the East German conductor that a young East German was aboard. He apparently broke a window and climbed in when the train stopped at Gerwisch in East Germany.

U.S. military guards aboard the train rejected a request of the Russians to search the train.

The train was held up until Col. Ernst von Pawel, head of the U.S. liaison mission at Soviet headquarters in East Germany, showed up and agreed to hand the East German over.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman in Bonn said it would be hard to prove that the stowaway was a plant but such a possibility "cannot be discounted."

A West Berlin spokesman quoted Clay as telling Brandt that 1945 agreements with the Soviet Union "made it impossible for U.S. military trains going through the Soviet zone to take on passengers or allow them to leave the train. The trains, on the basis of these agreements, are not extraterritorial territory in the sense of international law."

A U.S. spokesman said standing instructions to the U.S. train commander, in this case a lieutenant, were to allow no one to board or leave the train.

Deep Projects Are Staked

Two deep projects have been filed in the area. One is in Borden County and the other is in Martin County.

In Borden County, Texaco spotted the No. 15-B A. M. Clayton in the Good, Southeast field. It is contracted for 9,925 feet 13 miles southwest of Gall.

John L. Cox No. 1 Atchinson is a Spraberry Trend Area venture two miles west of Stanton. It is projected to 8,200 feet in the southeastern portion of Martin County.

Another Martin County project, the Shell No. 1 Epley, is preparing to plug and abandon the site after tests of the Spraberry, Des Moines Pennsylvanian and Fusselman.

Thanksgiving Fare: Lettuce

NEW YORK (AP) — Gerard Murray had "lettuce" for his Thanksgiving Day dinner—83 dollars' worth.

Murray, 21, was hauled into a Brooklyn court Thursday and accused of assaulting a policeman. He was booked on charges of simple assault and malicious mischief.

As per custom, the prisoner's personal belongings were being taken from him.

Murray balked and cried, "You're not going to get my money."

With that, he began stuffing 10's 5's and one dollar bills into his mouth. When Murray finished chewing the bills, a patrolman gave him a glass of water for a chaser.

A truck's motor left running for several hours aroused the curiosity of a man on North Gregg at 11:44 a.m. Thursday. He called police. The truck belonged to a Midland firm and the owner called Big Spring police to give the name of the driver.

The driver couldn't shut off the motor.

He was in jail for investigation of a burglary. But police said he wasn't involved. He was a victim of "bad company."

Dairy Glut Peril Cited

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high government farm official has expressed concern that overproduction of milk and dairy products the next year or two may undermine or destroy the price support program for these products.

This official, who requested that his name not be used, said the present dairy outlook has many of the aspects of a situation which brought about a collapse 11 years ago in a potato price support program. Potato production kept expanding and price support costs mounted to levels that brought wide criticism.

As a consequence, Congress ordered the elimination of potato supports.

The official said the current situation indicates one of two things need to be done if the dairy program is to be saved. One, he said, would be for dairymen to stop increasing production. The other would be for the government to impose production controls.

However, the second step could not be taken unless Congress authorized dairy controls. Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman sought such authority at the last session of Congress but failed to get it.

Cuban Charge At U.N. Denied

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A representative of the Dominican Republic today denied Cuban charges that U.S. warships had violated Dominican territorial waters.

He said the U.S. ships had neither invaded Dominican waters nor threatened to invade.

Dominican Delegate Carlos Sanchez told the U.N. Security Council, on the other hand, the presence of the U.S. vessels off the Dominican coast had created a healthy condition both inside his country and in the Caribbean area.

He sharply rebuked the regime of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro for bringing the issue to the United Nations.

Sanchez declared that "if Cuba is afraid of anything let her protect herself and leave us alone." He said he saw no reason to doubt U.S. statements that the U.S. warships had appeared in the Dominican area to avoid a possible invasion from Castro forces.

The council was called into session Wednesday at the request of Cuba to consider an alleged U.S. plan to invade the Dominican Republic. The United States denied the charges at that time and so did Sanchez, but the latter asked to make a more complete declaration this morning.

Sanchez told the council that the Dominican population rejoiced at seeing the American ships go past. He said the U.S. ships had not been requested by President Joaquin Balaguer "nor do we ask them to leave."

"Their presence," he said, "has been a most healthy preservation of peace for the Dominican Republic as well as the entire Caribbean area."

Campus Magazine Editors Removed

AUSTIN (AP) — The top staff members of the Texas Ranger, humor magazine of the University of Texas, have been removed. The Student Publication Board said they were "removed for violation of general policy and indecency in the latest copy of the Ranger."

They are Jack Ewe, editor; David Crossley, associate editor; Kerry O'Quinn, art director; and Ligeen Adkins, circulation manager.

The November Ranger was placed on newsstands last week.

Over 500 Hear Service

Upwards of 500 persons attending the union Thanksgiving service at the East Fourth Street Baptist Church Thursday, heard the speaker urge them to give thanks for blessings received from "the good land." The Rev. Dewitt Seago, pastor of the First Methodist Church, gave the message based on the 100th Psalm and Deuteronomy 8:10.

The offering taken at each Union Thanksgiving and Easter Service goes toward teaching Bible at Big Spring High School.

"We received the best offering in several years," the Rev. V. Ward Jackson, pastor of the First Church of God, said. "We are especially thankful to those present who gave $122.04 toward the Bible fund. Normally we get from $75 to $80, and we are more than pleased with the response Thursday."

The audience heard, in addition to the message by the Rev. Seago, the President's proclamation for Thanksgiving in 1961, special music, and congregational singing of Thanksgiving songs.

Investigators Probe Wreckage

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Investigators today combed the wreckage of a New York-bound Argentine jet airliner in an attempt to determine what sent it plunging to the ground, killing all 52 persons aboard.

One U.S. citizen, Gilbert Loy, 48, was listed by the Argentine airline Aerolineas among the victims. Most of the others were Argentines.

The plane, a British-built Comet 4, crashed within seconds after takeoff from Viracopos Airport and burst into what one witness described as a "ball of fire."

The weather was clear and airline officials said the pilot gave no indication he was in trouble. The flight originated in Buenos Aires. It was the first serious crash for the Comet 4, which replaced the ill-fated Comet 1 after years of research.

John L. Cox No. 1 Atchinson, spotting C SE, section 17-36-1n, T&P survey, is contracted to 8,200 feet in the Spraberry Trend Area. The site is on a 160-acre lease two miles west of Stanton.

Shell No. 1 Lenorah B. Epley, an Ellenburger prospector 10 miles northwest of Stanton, is preparing to plug and abandon after tests of an unreported zone between 11,659-79 feet. In one hour the operator recovered 220 feet of slightly gas-cut drilling mud. Previous tests were made on the Spraberry, Des Moines Pennsylvanian and Fusselman. The venture is C SE SW, section 7-36-1n, 7-36-1n, T&P survey.

Rockefeller Still Hopeful, But Faces Up To Reality

MERAUKE, New Guinea (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said today he is still hopeful his son Michael is alive. He added he would remain in New Guinea a few more days.

But the New York governor indicated the chances of his son's survival were slim, saying: "I am a realist and I know what he faces if he reached that jungle."

(A dispatch from Hollandia, said Gov. Rockefeller was expected to return there Sunday and to leave for New York Monday.)

Michael set out to swim more than two miles through shark-infested waters for shore after his catamaran raft capsized last weekend in treacherous currents off the wild jungle coast. No trace of him has been found.

The governor and his daughter Mary rushed by plane from New York to help in the search.

Clinging to hope, the governor said: "We want to be on hand to move at a moment's notice."

PERSONAL SEARCH

Gov. Rockefeller flew over the tangled vegetation for a personal search of the area less than an hour after arriving in Merauke Tuesday.

He and his daughter Mary Strawbridge, Michael's twin, studied the terrain in obvious dismay as the DC3 covered the coast from the village of Merauke to the village of Agats.

The governor and his daughter traded a pair of 50-power binoculars back and forth as the plane dropped down to 1,000 feet over the jungle. Occasionally one would make a remark, but mostly they were silent. Most often the governor appeared to be reassuring Mary, whose confidence her 23-year-old brother would be found alive was obviously shaken by the air tour.

Once, over a native village half a mile inland, the governor told his daughter: "Look—if he had gone in anywhere around here, he would have made his way to that village."

THICK MATTING

Dutch New Guinea's coastal land mass stretches flat to the horizon and all of it is covered with a thick matting of stony mangrove trees. Broad rivers cut the shore and into each flow thick muddy streams.

Parts of the coast have narrow sand beaches, but in most places the dirty green mangrove grows down to the water's edge.

Dutch officials claim a man could exist for weeks in this jungle without getting word out or being spotted.

There is no way of searching thoroughly except by the bush-by-bush method.

Guarding the jungle from the sea is a 300-yard-wide mud bank. Crocodiles laze in the mud near the shore. Outside the mud, sharks, some 20 feet long, patrol the shallow water. Residents say the sharks are unpredictable and sometimes do not disturb swimmers, but there aren't many who take a chance.

JOURNEY TRACED

Gov. Rockefeller's survey traced his son's journey by catamaran—a double-hulled native raft—from the village of Agats to where he reportedly set off to swim.

What lies in store for a man landing on this hostile coast? He can subsist on roots, herbs, a few grasses and river water. But he also faces crocodiles, poisonous snakes and wild animals, plus natives who, although now officially classified as friendly, only a few years ago were headhunters.

As the plane made a final circle, one of the governor's companions commented: "It's a hell of a place to get lost."

Michael's Dutch companion, Rene S. Wassing, who stayed with the catamaran and was rescued Sunday, said he argued for five minutes with the young American before Rockefeller shoved off for the shore.

"I disclaimed all responsibility," said Wassing, a collector of primitive art from Amsterdam.

HEAVY SEAS

Wassing said their craft was caught in heavy seas near the mouth of the Eilanden River Saturday and capsized. He said he and Michael agreed "we have a 50-50 chance either way."

The commander of the U.S. Pacific Fleet, in a message to the Dutch Navy commander in New Guinea, offered U.S. patrol planes, a carrier with helicopters and surface ships to aid in the search. But a spokesman for the Dutch Defense Ministry said it was his impression that the U.S. help would not be needed because "adequate forces of all types are now available for the search."

The governor had planned to take an active part in the search Thursday—Thanksgiving—but changed his mind and established a command post at the home of District Commissioner E. Jansen. He canceled a flight to Pirim-poen village on Coox Bay, the nearest shore to the point at which Michael started swimming, and a later trip to a settlement on a nearby river.

COORDINATION

The governor said he wanted to secure coordination of the hunt and indicated he didn't want to interfere in the professional search operations.

Wassing said he did not think Michael should have begun the swim at that time because the currents were seaward and the shore 3½ miles away.

The Dutchman said Michael stripped to khaki shorts, underwear and a belt, with a sheath knife and compass attached, before leaving their overturned craft. He tied together two gasoline cans to provide buoyancy.

"I watched quite a long time—a half hour or so—until all I could see were three dots. They were Michael and the cans," he said.

Wassing said Michael might still be in the woods, adding: "He knew the area well."

The Dutchman said they left the village of Agats on Saturday morning and planned to sail down the coast to Ammankai village on the Eilanden River. He said their craft may have been heavily loaded but declared it was not dangerously so.

CHOPPY WATERS

Near the mouth of the river, he said, they ran into choppy seas and a strong current. Water splashed into the hulls of the craft.

Wassing said the catamaran was caught in the current and floated seaward despite padding.

The craft listed and finally capsized, he said.

Both he and young Rockefeller climbed aboard the hulls and spent the night trying to paddle with little success.

"Early in the morning Michael and I had our talk about swimming and he left," Wassing said. "That was the last I saw of him."

Wassing was picked up Monday by a patrol boat. He was not injured.

NEW YORK Gov. Nelson Rockefeller boards a search plane at Merauke, New Guinea, for a flight over the wild coastal area where his missing son, Michael, 23, was last seen trying to reach shore from his disabled native craft. A companion, Dr. R. S. Wassing, remained with the craft and was picked up by a Dutch naval vessel.

Blonde Terry Jo Duperrault, sole survivor of the sunken charter boat Bluebell, holds a large doll sent her by crewmen of the Greek freighter lantic. Terry Jo spent 3½ days on a life raft before being rescued and is now recovering in a Miami, Fla., hospital.

Christmas Shoppers Follow On Heels Of Quiet Holiday

Thanksgiving passed without major mishaps and the county evaded adding to its already swollen list of traffic fatalities.

One violent death, termed a suicide, alone marred the day. Most Big Springers observed the day quietly, either in their homes or visiting with friends and relatives. Traffic in the downtown area was at a standstill most of the day but Friday morning saw a complete reversal of the picture.

Apparently the old urge to get at that Christmas shopping hit the residents over the holiday and they were downtown in droves Friday. Traffic was heavy in the business district and parking spaces were few and far between.

The ideal weather, which prevailed Thursday, was enough incentive for many residents to take drives about the countryside in the late afternoon.

At the Howard County jail, George Bogard, jailer, was handed a "bread-and-butter" note by the jail trusty.

It read: "Tell the sheriff and deputies we all thank him for the turkey dinner. We thank you sir. 39 Prinsors & me."

The "me" was the trusty. Bogard said that the 36 inmates dined heartily on a complete Thanksgiving day menu in mid-afternoon. Miller Harris, sheriff, said he was pleased his guests enjoyed the meal.

The 20 prisoners who were spending their holiday in the city jail dined on venison. Chief Jay Banks had been given several packages of frozen deer meat which he donated to the jail for the Thanksgiving meal. Dressing, green beans and potatoes balanced out the list.

Friday might as well have been a holiday for most of the court house employees. The road and bridge crew was on a long weekend ordered by the commissioners. The lower floor was in ordinary operation with the county clerk, the tag office, the county assessor's office and the sheriff's department on the job. Lee Porter, county auditor, was on duty on the second floor. Judge Ed Carpenter had planned to be in his office but the death of a relative took him out of town Friday.

On the third floor Wade Choate, district court clerk, and Judge Ralph Caton were on hand.

There was little activity in any of the offices.

Postmen marched away on their rounds Friday loaded down with double sized bundles of mail. They had not made their rounds on Thursday.

Indignation Meet Ends

DALLAS (AP) — National Indignation Convention members, who organized originally to protest the training of Yugoslav airmen in this country, propose to hold their next series of rallies in Washington.

The group, headed by Dallas garage owner and law school student Frank McChes, voted formal approval of the plan Thursday night.

Speaking at the same gathering, Dr. Charles Tansill of Georgetown University in Washington declared a recent State Department pamphlet was "a blueprint for treason."

Delegates stood and cheered at another point as the Georgetown history professor recommended NIC passage of a resolution condemning all foreign aid.

Reid says Texas Top Game State

MINERAL WELLS — Cecil Reid, executive secretary of Sportsmen's Clubs of Texas, told an audience here this week that Texas is on the way to becoming the No. 1 game and fish state of the nation.

Reid addressed a luncheon meeting of Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary, Optimists, Zontas, Chamber of Commerce, and other groups.

He said that according to his own survey, hunting and fishing is a $400 million per year industry in Texas—and growing.

Texas has more game and fish now than ever before, Reid said, and the trend is still upward.

For example, the County of Llano counts wildlife worth $1 million per year. Other counties can make similar progress, Reid said.

Reid gave credit to conservationists for the vast strides in wildlife progress.

Dr. R. R. Wassing, 34, Dutch companion of the missing Michael Rockefeller, shows the strain of his ordeal after his rescue off the New Guinea coastal town where New York's Gov. Rockefeller is awaiting news of his son's fate.

Sea Orphan May Return To Hometown

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Terry Jo Duperrault, who lost her parents, brother and sister in the Blue-belle tragedy, could look forward today to returning to familiar Green Bay, Wis. scenes for a while.

The administrator of her parents' estate said the pretty blonde 11-year-old probably would go to live with an aunt, Mrs. Ralph Scheer, at the Green Bay suburb of Depere until a court names a guardian.

Atty. Colburn C. Cherney said Terry Jo herself "will have something to say as far as the appointment of a guardian is concerned."

Mrs. Scheer spent Thanksgiving Day with Terry Jo in the Miami hospital room where the child is recuperating from exposure and exhaustion she suffered in 3½ days adrift on a life raft in tropic waters.

It was a grim holiday for Terry Jo. Her physician said she was "down in the dumps" on her first Thanksgiving Day as an orphan.

Dr. Franklin Verdon, her physician to say whether the child had been told yet that her parents had been lost in the sinking.

"You'll have to ask her attorney about that," he said.

Richard Ralph, who has handled Miami legal angles for Terry Jo, her aunt and an uncle, Fred Duperrault, was not available for comment.

Verdon said Terry Jo probably will be released from the hospital next week.

Dr. Arthur Duperrault, 49, a Green Bay optometrist; his wife, Jean, 38; their son, Brian, 14, and daughter, Renee, 8; and Mary Harvey, 34, were lost Nov. 12 in the mysterious sinking of the Fort Lauderdale ketch Bluebelle which the Duperraults had chartered for a Bahamas vacation sail.

Mrs. Harvey's husband, Julian, 44, captain of the yacht, was rescued from a small boat Nov. 13 and came to Miami. He committed suicide less than 24 hours after hearing that Terry Jo, who had managed to launch a life raft, also had been found alive.

Harvey had told Coast Guard investigators that a squall broke the masts of the Bluebelle and knocked a hole in her hull, and that all on board jumped into the Atlantic Ocean when fire broke out. Terry Jo said the masts did not topple, she saw no fire and smelled no smoke, but did see her mother and brother lying motionless on a bloody deck.

Ike Deplores 'Super-Patriots,' Recent Rise Of U. S. Extremists

NEW YORK (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower deplores what he calls "super-patriots" and the recent "rise of extremists" in this country. He also urged armed forces officers to shun partisan politics. Among other points covered by Eisenhower in the second of a series of filmed television interviews presented Thursday night over the CBS-TV network:

1. He learned at the first Geneva summit conference that Nikita Khrushchev, and not Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin, was the boss of the Soviet delegation.
2. The Soviet Union would never start a nuclear war because of America's destructive power.
3. Sooner or later the Soviet people will get the word that the free world is against aggression.
4. The foregoing will create pressure inside the Soviet Union for disarmament.
5. The erection of a wall be-between East and West Berlin is a sign of Soviet weakness.

6. The removal of the body of former Premier Stalin from the tomb in Moscow's Red Square shows Premier Khrushchev is uneasy about something.

In connection with Thanksgiving Day Eisenhower said: "We've got a lot of things to be thankful for. First of all, there's not a war ... We are prosperous, we're a free people ... We are a people that are respected for our strength and not only our military strength, our economic strength throughout the world."

ALL OF US

In discussing extremists the former president said: "I don't think the United States needs super-patriots. We need patriotism, honestly practiced by all of us, and we don't need these people that are more patriotic than you or anybody else."

His definition of extremists included those who would "go back to eliminating the income tax ... and the rights of people to unionize ... (and those) advocating some form of dictatorship."

It also included, Eisenhower said, those who "make radical statements (and) attack people of good repute who are proved patriots."

Speaking as a general of the Army, Eisenhower said it was "bad practice, very bad" for an officer, even when testifying under oath before a congressional committee, to express opinions "on political matters or economic matters that are contrary to the President's."

KEEP QUIET

Asked specifically about officers who try to indoctrinate their troops, the former president said: "I believe the Army officer, Navy officer, Air officer should not be talking about political matters, particularly domestically, and never in the international field unless he's asked to do so because of some particular position he might hold."

At the first Geneva summit conference, Eisenhower said, he had hopes for his open skies proposal. "After he (Bulganin) listened to my little, short talk," Eisenhower said, Bulganin told him "this is the most interesting thing — this has some promise and the Russian delegation would study it seriously."

K'S ANSWER

Shortly after that, Eisenhower continued, Khrushchev, then first secretary of the Communist party, turned to him and said, "I don't agree with our chairman. This is not a good proposal."

"I found right there that Bulganin was not the boss of the delegation, Khrushchev was," Eisenhower said. "And secondly, that we were in trouble even before we started, although for those maybe 10, 15 minutes, why it looked pretty good."

Eisenhower acknowledged that "we are really just a few minutes away from disaster any time that some one wanted to initiate aggressive attack, specifically the Soviets."

But he added: "With the power that we have, the destructive power that we have and that he (Khrushchev) knows we have, I think, there, that is the thing that turns potential aggressors away from the theory of using global war to gain their ends."

TO BE SUNK

Concerning getting the message of the free world to the Soviet people, Eisenhower said: "Suppose one day you make it impossible to jam a radio or a television program? Well, they're (the Soviet leaders) going to be sunk. Their people in Russia are going to learn a lot of things their Russian bosses won't want them to learn."

He added that the Soviet people "will understand that we do not want to be aggressive ... There will be a pressure there for more disarmament—for some disarmament ... Little success will breed more success, and this will be finally the way disarmament will come about."

As for the wall dividing Berlin, Eisenhower declared: "I think the erection of that wall is a confession of weakness. Because, let us remember, that Soviet wall is not built to keep us out, it's to keep their people in."

Germans On Trial In Moscow

Two Germans, Peter Sonntag, 22, left, and Walter Naumanns, 27, right, stand at the bench at the opening of their spy trial in Moscow. They pleaded guilty to spying for the United States. This was Moscow's first public spy trial since that of American U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers.

Germans On Trial In Moscow

Two Germans, Peter Sonntag, 22, left, and Walter Naumann, 27, right, stand at the bench at the opening of their spy trial in Moscow. They pleaded guilty to spying for the United States. This was Moscow's first public spy trial since that of American U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers.

Aggie Coach Myers Fired As Of Jan. 23

COLLEGE STATION (AP)— Coach Jim Myers of Texas A&M College was fired today.

The Athletic Council recommended that his contract which is up Jan. 23 not be extended.

Myers, who came to A&M from Iowa State four years ago, had compiled a record of 12 victories, 24 losses and four ties during his stay here.

He had originally come to the college after receiving a petition from the student body requesting him to take over as coach from Paul Bryant, who went to Alabama after four years as Aggie coach.

The announcement came the day after A&M had closed its season with a 25-0 loss to traditional enemy Texas.

There had been speculations for weeks that Myers' contract would not be renewed and the fact that no action was taken before the big game with Texas indicated that a decision had already been made.

Myers record this year at A&M was 4-5-1. Before the season started it was predicted that A&M would finish fifth in the Southwest Conference.

This is the position in which the Aggies probably will finish. Directors of the college gave unanimous approval to the recommendation and directed the Athletic Council to proceed in making nominations for a new athletic director and head football coach, both positions now held by Myers.

The announcement said the Athletic Council and administration appreciated the efforts of Myers and extended him best wishes.

Several weeks ago there were rumors there was discussion on the team and dissatisfaction with Myers' coaching methods but Myers and some of his players publicly denied any friction.

Myers, asked if he planned to resign, said he would not relinquish the post.

A GRIDIRON 'NUT'

Tom McNeely Eyes Crown And Pro Football Career

By BOB SALMON
Associated Press Sports Writer
LYNNFIELD, Mass. (AP)— Tom McNeely has a lot of reasons for wanting to win the heavyweight championship of the world.

It would thrill his pretty wife, Nancy, for instance. His husky 3-month-old son, Tommy III, would not be aware of the victory, to be sure, but he'd boast proudly of it in a few years.

And of course Boston, Massachusetts, New England and the entire United States would regard him as a conquering hero—the biggest upset winner champ in a long time.

But McNeely has another—not so obvious—reason for wanting to knock out Floyd Patterson in Toronto Dec. 4.

Tom wants to come back as the new champion and play professional football for the Boston Patriots of the American Football League.

Then he'd be able to say he had done something different.

Giles Hostile To Legalizing The Spitball

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Put down Warren Giles as flatly opposed to legalizing the spitball pitch, a proposal expected to provoke a big battle among baseball men next month.

Giles, National League chief, said today he believes revival of the spitter might cut down scoring and curtail home runs.

He said: "The home run is the most exciting play in baseball, comparable to the long touchdown in football and the field goal from far out in basketball.

"It is my firm belief that the long ball, particularly the home run, is what the fans come out to see."

Giles' opposite number in the American League, Joe Cronin, is already on record favoring return of the spitter.

He contended two weeks ago that "it's quite possible some pitchers could add three, four or even five years to their careers if they can use the spitball.

The big tussle is to come early next month when the major leagues rules committee must decide at its winter meeting in Tampa, Fla., whether to legalize the spitball again.

Managers and players in the big leagues want a firm decision on the matter, partly because, they say, some pitchers have been using the outlawed spitter to good advantage.

In its legal days, the spitter came when a pitcher put saliva, or some other foreign substance on the ball, or roughed up one side of the ball and served up a pitch with great spin that veered in an eccentric and unpredictable way.

Packers Close To 2nd Title

DETROIT (AP)—With or without P.V. Paul Hornung, only a complete collapse will halt the Green Bay Packers' drive to their second straight Western Division title in the National Football League.

The Packers, with Hornung in the lineup, defeated the Detroit Lions, their closest pursuers, 17-9 Thursday.

The victory, on a muddy field before 35,622 soaked fans and a national television audience left the Packers 2½ games ahead of the Lions.

Just one victory in their remaining three games will send the Packers into the Dec. 31 NFL championship game with the Eastern Division champion.

"We're not having a celebration—not yet," said Coach Vince Lombardi, the man who built the Packers from a doormat to a division champion in two years.

"But obviously we're in great shape, needing only one more win to take it."

George Wilson, whose Lions had made a remarkable comeback by losing only once in six games until running into the Packers, agreed the race in the West has ended.

"We still have an outside chance, but it's a mighty slim one," moaned Wilson.

QBC PLANNING GRID BANQUET

Plans are shaping up for a Quarterback Club Appreciation dinner, which would honor members of the A and B football teams of Big Spring High School and their coaches but details as to the time and site of the party have not been completed.

Donations for the coaches' Appreciation Fund are still being accepted. Those desiring to contribute can mail their contributions to the Big Spring Quarterback Club, Box 230, within the next few days.

Jimmy Felts, co-captain of the club, said donations of any size would be appreciated and put to a good use.

Bowl Picture Is Due To Clear Saturday

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The bowl picture will become clearer and all but one of the major conference titles will be settled Saturday when the 1961 football season presents its last full day of activity.

There still remains next week's traditional closer featuring Army-Navy, and a few more traditional rivalries.

At least four bowl spots will be filled by Saturday evening, and every major conference, except the Southeastern, will be able to crown its 1961 champion.

Alabama, the nation's No. 1 team in the current Associated Press poll, is idle this week and holds onto its SEC lead until next Saturday's battle against Auburn.

Its post-season plans, presumably the Rose Bowl, won't become known until after this game.

But with Texas already in the Cotton Bowl and assured of at least a tie for the Southwest Conference title after yesterday's 25-0 victory over Texas A&M, the tempo begins to pick up.

Texas used a pair of field goals by Eldon Moritz to soften up the Aggies in the first half, then polished them off with a three-touchdown burst.

The victory gave the Longhorns a 9-1 season record and assured them of the host spot in the Cotton Bowl. Arkansas (No. 9) can tie for the conference lead if it beats Texas Tech, but Texas goes to the Cotton Bowl by virtue of its 33-4 decision over the Forkers.

An Arkansas victory over Tech would make it eligible for a bowl, probably the Bluebonnet or Sugar.

Fourth-ranked Louisiana State plays Tulane, then gives its final answer to the Orange Bowl committee. An opponent will come from the Big Eight, where leader Colorado (No. 7) can wrap up the title by beating Iowa State.

If the Buffaloes lose, then a Kansas victory over Missouri will cause a tie and might get the Jayhawks to Miami.

The Rose Bowl host will be decided when UCLA and Southern California meet on the West Coast in a game that will decide the Big Five title.

Just in case the Big Ten gets the nod, Minnesota (7-1), defending national champ and ranked third currently, must beat Wisconsin to stay in a tie for the title if Ohio State, ranked second, wins over Michigan.

Both would be considered co-champions and it would be up to the Rose Bowl committee and the conference to decide who goes.

Texas' opponent in the Cotton Bowl most likely will be Mississippi (No. 6), but Old Miss is idle this week and closes against Mississippi State Dec. 2.

Maryland must beat Virginia Saturday to get into the Gator Bowl against Georgia Tech, which is also idle until next week.

The big question mark is the Sugar Bowl, where Arkansas may be one team against Atlantic Coast Conference winner, Duke, which closes next week against Notre Dame.

Other prospects include Auburn, which meets also eligible Florida, Rice, which will meet Texas Christian and closes Dec. 2 against Baylor, and Miami of Florida, which plays Northwestern tonight in Miami.

Alabama May Take Sugar Bowl Bid

NEW ORLEANS (AP)— The Sugar Bowl, once fearful it might end up with also rans for the New Year's Day classic, now appears to have plucked the choice plum of collegiate football—top-ranked Alabama—plus Arkansas.

A source close to the Sugar Bowl selection committee told The Associated Press that Arkansas will accept a bid to the New Orleans classic following its game Saturday with Texas Tech.

Alabama, which flirted with the Rose Bowl, is expected to announce its acceptance of the Sugar Bowl bid after its clash with arch-rival Auburn Dec. 2.

Both Alabama and Arkansas are strong favorites in the regular season finales.

Of course, the Sugar Bowl won't officially discuss the bowl picture until official announcements are made.

Alabama, with nine straight victories, cannot officially accept a bowl bid until the end of the season under Southeastern Director's rules.

And Arkansas athletic director John Barnhill wasn't talking for publication either.

"No comment," Barnhill said Thursday at Fayetteville, Ark. "No bowl talk until after Saturday's game."

The Razorbacks will win the SWC co-championship Saturday if they beat Texas Tech. Texas captured the other part of the crown Thursday when it shellacked Texas A&M 25-0.

Alabama coach Paul (Bear) Bryant sought a Rose Bowl berth for his Crimson Tide, but latest speculation is that the Rose will stick with the Big Ten.

Dragons Shade Pyote, 40-26

LAMESA — Flower Grove battered Pyote, 40-26, here Thursday to win its second successive Regional six-man football championship.

Pyote fielded a powerful running game against the Dragons but the combination of Dan Lemon and Beaver Ramsey proved to be too much for the Panthers.

Lemon counted twice and passed for two other touchdowns. Ramsey crossed the goal line three times for the Dragons, unbeaten against six-man competition since 1959.

Lemon picked up 203 yards rushing in 23 carries. In all, the Dragons gained 254 yards rushing and another 150 passing. Pyote gained 227 on the ground and 87 through the air.

Halfback Bill Knox counted for 163 yards in rushing plays. Fullback David Frazier burst across for the other two Pyote tallies.

The game was very close for a half and Flower Grove led by only one point, 21-20, shortly before the intermission.

A pass from Lemon to Glynn Caughman, good for 37 yards and a TD, enabled the Dragons to score again 12 seconds before the second quarter ended.

LOOKING 'EM OVER With TOMMY HART

Gordon (Moe) Madison, who grew up and played high school athletics here, is the new head basketball coach at Odessa Ector High School.

Madison has been in the Odessa school system for several years. He entertained the idea of returning to his home town as a coach a few years ago but had purchased a house in Odessa before a concrete offer came along and decided to stay there.

Ector reportedly may field its finest basketball team in history. Madison will build his team around six of last year's lettermen. Ector lost second place in District 2-AAA standings last year when Andrews beat the Eagles in an overtime game.

Ector will be handicapped by a shortage of overall height, however. His tallest boy is Gerald Henry, a two-year letterman who stands 6-3.

A Big Spring product, Danny Birdwell, logged more playing time (251 minutes) than any other member of the squad in the University of Houston's first seven football games this fall. The big center has started every game the Cougars have played.

Danny got in 41 minutes of play against Cincinnati, more than he has clocked in any of the other games to date.

Paid turnout for the Big Spring-San Angelo football game here the other night amounted to 4,802—well below the average of both teams for the year.

The weather, which turned very cold, was definitely a factor in the decline. Too, the fact that the Steers were out of the running for the championship hurt the sale of tickets in both Big Spring and San Angelo.

The cash income from the game came to $4,850.70. After expenses, each team collected $2,077.70. San Angelo got another $174, however, for travel.

Decision of the Wink and Rotan school officials to play their game in Midland rather than Big Spring surprised several local people who had bid for the game.

From all indications, the Wink people were agreeable to playing here but Rotan didn't want to, for some reason.

A game on down the way the local committee had much rather have the Wink-Albany contest, assuming that both teams can advance that far in the playoffs. (There is every indication that they will).

The game would draw much better than the Wink-Rotan outing. So is the reasoning here.

J. C. Gotcher, the former San Angelo baseball mentor who scouted San Angelo for Ysleta Bel Air here last week (all for naught, since Bel Air lost to Ysleta High the same night), hints that Bel Air could be tough again in 1962. The team returns about half its starters, according to Gotcher.

J. C., incidentally, says he won't be coaching baseball at Bel Air next spring but hopes to get back in the game before long.

The odds started shifting on last week's TCU-Texas's football game, according to the story reaching here, when Dutch Meyer began helping set the defenses for the Horned Frogs.

Meyer, in his coaching days, had the reputation for building a team higher for one game than any other coach in the history of the Southwest Conference.

Raiders Gun For An Upset In Game With Razorbacks

By ED STAATS
Associated Press Staff Writer

If Arkansas triumphs over Texas Tech as expected Saturday, the Razorbacks will tie for the Southwest Conference football championship and be right in line for a bowl bid.

Texas is sure to share the conference title and already has a ticket to the Cotton Bowl because it whipped Arkansas 33-7 earlier this fall.

If Texas Tech should stage an upset Saturday, the Texas Longhorns will gain undisputed possession of the league crown.

Arkansas, now second in the conference standings with a 5-1 record, should topple Tech's Red Raiders. But Longhorn fans wouldn't guarantee it. They point out that Tech whipped Texas Christian 10-0, and TCU came back to surprise the Longhorns 6-0.

With Texas in the Cotton Bowl after downing Texas A&M 25-0 Thursday, conjecture turns to who will be its opponent. All indications are that Mississippi will be the team Texas takes on Jan. 1 in Dallas.

Longhorn partisans will remember Mississippi from 1957, the first year coach Darrell Royal was at Texas. The two teams went to the Sugar Bowl and Ole Miss thrashed Texas 39-7. Since then the Steers have failed to win a bowl contest.

Revenge, therefore, is the byword at Texas these days. Down in the standings, two important games are yet to be played. Cellular dwelling Baylor and Southern Methodist, both with 1-4 records, tangle at Waco Saturday. Rice travels to Fort Worth to take on Texas Christian.

Baylor is fresh from a 31-7 bombing of the Air Force Academy last week and SMU should be recovered from its 21-7 loss to Arkansas. Rice is 3-2 in conference play after a 21-7 victory over A&M, while TCU is still glowing over its upset of Texas.

Continuing Growth

THE INFINITE POSSIBILITIES OF A LIFE ENERGIZED BY CHRIST AS A CHANNEL OF BLESSING, STRENGTH AND EXAMPLE

Scripture—Romans 12:1-8; I Timothy 6:11-19; II Timothy 1:3-14.

By N. SPEER JONES
 For the most part, today's lesson is concerned not with any particular facet of Christian growth, but with a reaffirmation and enlargement of the abilities and goals of true Christians.

The true Christian might be defined as one who has experienced a rebirth through giving himself whole-heartedly to Christ. The ideals set forth in the passage cited from Paul's letter to the Romans are unattainable except by such a dedicated person. Without this inner spark, even a man who tried very hard would fall short of the mark.

In chapter 12 of his letter to the Romans, Paul sets forth some of the practical ways in which Christians can manifest their deeper doctrinal convictions (such as salvation, etc.) which Paul discusses in the first eight chapters. He exhorts us first to keep our bodies healthy and holy, so they may serve as channels for God's righteousness. Verse 2 deals with the Christian's rebirth mentioned above; the word "prove" may be translated either as "to try and decide" what God's will is, or "approve" what is already determined as good.

Veres 3-8 provide another example of a favorite simile of Paul's—the comparison of the members of the church with members of a body. He stresses three necessities in either case—unity, diversity and harmony.

Veres 9-15 reiterate the same. Verses 3-8 provide another example of a favorite simile of Paul's—the comparison of the members of the church with members of a body. He stresses three necessities in either case—unity, diversity and harmony.

Dr. Gideon Is Revival Evangelist

Dr. Virtus E. Gideon will be evangelist for the revival beginning Sunday at the East Fourth Street Baptist Church. He is professor of New Testament of the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary at Fort Worth.

The revival will continue through the week with services at 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. daily. The nursery will be open, according to the Rev. Jack Stricklan, pastor.

Dr. Gideon received his AB degree from Hardin-Simmons University in 1949, his bachelor's degree in 1952 and his doctorate in 1956, both from the Seminary.

He has previously been associate professor of Bible and Greek at H-SU and was pastor of the Vickers Baptist Church, Dallas. He is now a member of the Oak Grove Baptist Church, Fort Worth.

IN TYROL

Modern Structure Is Controversial

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP)—A modern church points a pencil-like steeple to the skies over conservative Tyrol as if to call attention to its existence among the thousands of onion-shaped church towers.

"This is the only modern church in Tyrol," said its architect, young and heavy-set Tyrolean Josef Lackner, 30. "I am afraid it will remain the only modern House of God for some time."

This Alpine province is called "the holyland Tyrol" because of its arch-conservative Catholicism. It must have taken some "revolutionary thinking" to stage a contest for a new church at the small community of Neu-Arzl and to admit modern architects.

Neu-Arzl numbers 2,500 people. It is near the provincial capital, Innsbruck.

Lackner, a blond and now somewhat angry young man, took a look at his church and remarked: "I was given the opportunity of building this church because I won the contest with my project. I think this was the last contest for some time."

Lackner is duly grateful to the church authorities and to provincial leaders for giving him the chance. But he leaves no doubt that he is bitter about the lack of understanding for modern art which he said he encountered during construction.

Lackner said some modern art objects have already been removed from the church on orders of his employers.

"They took out the modern statue of Christ on the cross, they insisted on putting in some things I did not want—like this carpet—and now I am fighting for my altar paintings."

Some outsiders have sympathized with Lackner's grief. But many of the Tyrolean conservatives must have been just as grieved over the church.

Lackner was asked how the population felt about the church. "Some like it and some don't," he said. "Most of them are proud, however, of the attention it gets.

CALIFORNIA

Need Fathered Strange Farm

PETALUMA, Calif. (AP)—They feed the cows white bread; they pay the farm hands nothing.

Need fathered these practices and the strange farm itself — the simple, stark need of empty stomachs aching for food. But the farm produces far more than food. Its richest return is in human spirit.

The farm hands, most of them, had taken an economic belting in San Francisco, 50 miles to the south. In comeback tries they'd met only closed doors, averted eyes and "sorry, no."

The reasons the men hit bottom? The bottle sometimes. Plain had luck in many cases. They hadn't been in California long enough to qualify for official aid.

That left them San Francisco's skid row or its fringes, and one free meal a day at the St. Anthony dining room.

Father Alfred Boedeker, Franciscan priest who founded and directs St. Anthony's, says the farm grew from the needs of the dining room.

When a woman asked him to find someone to run a 10-acre farm five years ago, an inspiration hit Father Alfred. Why not buy the farm and raise food for the dining room?

"You've been a farmer?" the surprised woman asked. Father Alfred, born in San Francisco 57 years ago, has been a scholar — his studies included two years in Rome — a teacher, a pastor, never a farmer. But neither had he run a dining room before he was assigned to the St. Boniface parish in 1949.

So the farm was bought. "For a song," Father Alfred says without giving figures. It proved too small and its clay soil too poor to help much.

But Father Alfred still felt his idea was sound and the Franciscans bought a 65-acre ranch nearby "for another song, compared to its worth."

At the dining room, men often ask to go to the farm.

"They go if there's an opening. They stay a day, a month, a year or much longer. To go or to stay is entirely their decision, and a ride back to the city is available almost daily on the farm supply truck.

The men get three meals a day, a bed, tobacco and personal necessities such as soap and razor blades. Like the dining room, the farm has no fees, no questions, no sermons. And there is no salary for chores.

The seller of the larger farm, John Messer, stayed on at a salary to supervise the growing dairy herd, now 230 head including calves. There's also a paid foreman on each farm.

The cows, mostly Holsteins, are fed bread instead of farm mash. Why? Stale loaves hauled from city bakeries cost $24 a ton; bran runs about $74. The cows thrive and their production stays up.

Although every possible corner is cut, the farms still show a deficit, currently about $6,000. Father Alfred says hopefully the break-even point should be reached in another year or two.

But Father Alfred would rather talk about the farm's biggest payoff: new self-respect and another chance for the men.

The men on the farms get their problems into perspective and a new start as useful citizens. Father Alfred declares. "The alternative is government support of some kind. Jails or penitentiaries for some."

As their outlook brightens with the healthful living and quiet peace of the farms, they're supplied paper and stamps and encouraged to renew contacts with family, friends and former employers. Opportunities open.

Father Alfred says already 500 men have gone from the farms to outside jobs.

"A Going Church For A Coming Lord"

MEMBERSHIP SETS RECORD

NEW YORK (AP) — Latest figures published by the National Council of Churches list America's membership in Protestant denominations (226 bodies) as $2,542,522, in the Roman Catholic Church 40,871,382; Jews 5,500,000; and others groups 2,827,612.

Total church and synagogue membership rose to 112,226,965—a record.

Speakers Named

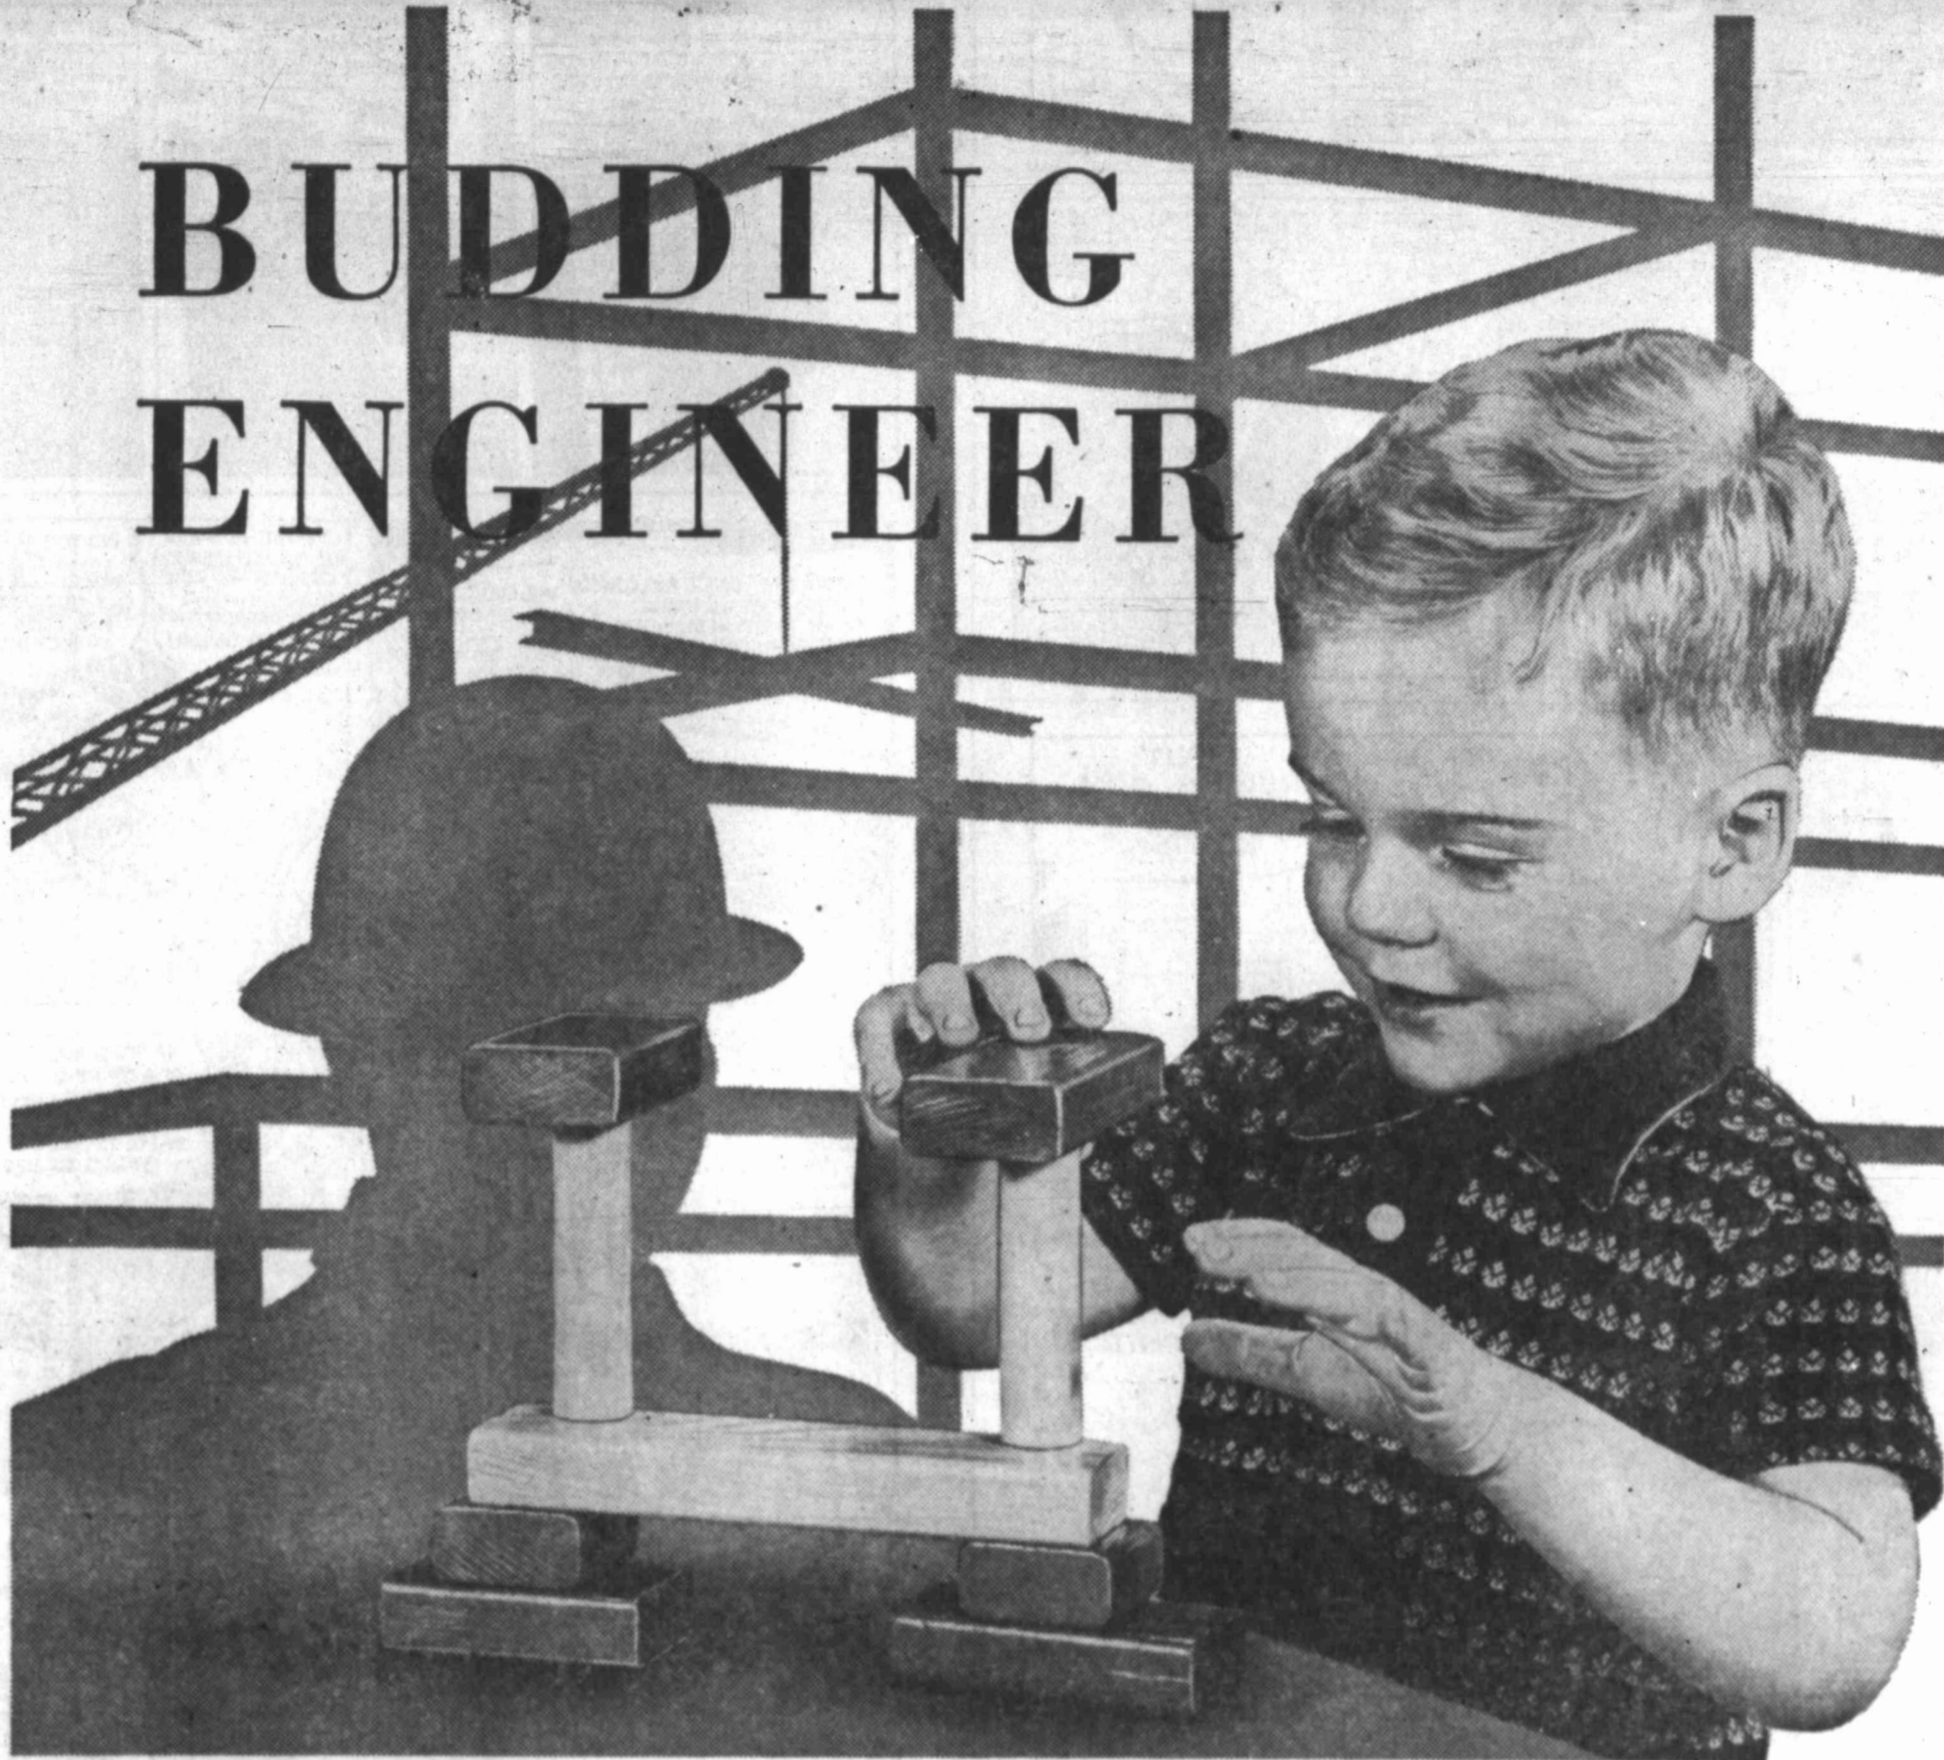

Dr. W. A. Hunt, Howard County Junior College, will speak at the morning services Sunday at the Park Methodist Church. The evening services will have Dr. Clyde Smith as speaker.

Committeemen

ROME (AP) — Pope John XXIII has named more than 40 American Roman Catholic prelates to serve on preparatory agencies for the general church council to be convened here, probably in early 1962.

Give God A Chance—God Will Open Doors For You!

BUDDING ENGINEER

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factory on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Can't tell yet whether my son will follow in his Dad's footsteps. Blocks don't make an engineer.

But he's learning some of the basic principles of physics with which many professions deal.

On the way home from Church, when he talks about his lesson, I recognize familiar signs . . . character is still in the mold. Deep conviction, bold dedication come later. But he's grasping those basic truths on which great living rises.

For a busy engineer who used to be hit-or-miss in his church attendance, fostering the growth of a soul is a fascinating experience . . . especially as I find my own faith deepening with every reverent day!

Can't tell about his following my footsteps. But I've discovered new dimensions in life following his.

Trujillo Properties Looted, Government Breaks Up Mob

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Tanks roared through the streets of the newly renamed Dominican capital and jet planes zoomed overhead Thursday night to break up mobs looting Trujillo-owned properties.

Explosions crackled throughout the night. But there were few persons on the streets and it appeared the bombs were set off by troops as a warning to vandals.

The departure of the Trujillos left the island nation confused and wondering what next. Balaguer in a nationwide broadcast declared: "A formula is urgent and indispensable to calm public unrest." But he was not specific.

Crafts Course Set For Children

Arts and crafts instruction for children between the ages of six and 12 will be resumed at the YMCA Monday, according to Curtis L. Chatham, program secretary.

The class will be held each Monday and Wednesday from 4-5 p.m. After Christmas it will be held only on Mondays, Jean Van de Voorde will be the instructor.

The course will include copper work, painting plaster molds, free drawing and painting, making Christmas cards and making Christmas decorations.

Cost is $1 for Y members and $4 for non-members.

Carpenters Attend Rites For Dr. Cook

County Judge Ed Carpenter and Mrs. Carpenter are in Hobbs, N. M., attending the funeral for Dr. V. G. Cook, 52, who was shot to death by an unapprehended gunman late Wednesday, Dr. Cook, a dentist, was alone in his office at the time of the slaying.

Carpenter said that services for Dr. Cook were at 10:30 a.m. Friday in the First Methodist Church at Hobbs.

He said that his brother-in-law had been robbed after being slain: The only clue officers have, he was told, was an empty .25 caliber pistol cartridge left on the floor of the office.

Dr. Cook, who was the husband of Mrs. Carpenter's sister, is survived by his widow.

5 Die, 2 Missing In Transport Crash

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — An Air Force transport carrying 10 men crashed and burned 17 miles south of Whitehorse Thursday. Five men died, two are missing and three parachuted safely.

The pilot was trying to nurse the crippled plane to Whitehorse, where he had taken off moments before. He reported an emergency but did not say what it was.

Motorists on the Alaska Highway watched the plane circle and then head back toward Whitehorse, in Yukon Territory.

It was reported to have crashed in deep snow at the base of a mountain. Temperatures in the area were down around zero.

A transport carried a helicopter from Elmendorf to Whitehorse to use in the search for the missing men. Five parachutes were seen drifting down.

A para-rescue team also was sent from Elmendorf to help in the search.

The three survivors were hospitalized but two were released after a checkup. They were S.Sgt. Leroy Cotton and A.I.C. J. R. Conglin. S.Sgt. Clyde L. Nichols was held in the Whitehorse hospital for treatment of shock and bruises.

Others on the plane were Capt. Wayne D. Sager, pilot; Capt. Milton L. Kimey, co-pilot; Capt. Allen J. White, navigator; S.Sgt. Lonnie Z. Foreman, mechanic; A.I.C. William J. Murphy, load master; A.I.C. David L. Paul and M.Sgt. Roger J. Forsner.

The four who left the plane at Whitehorse were Lt. Col. S. G. Haynesworth, Capt. J. A. Hynes, 1st Lt. R. Viener and S.Sgt. V. H. Coleman.

The transport was one of several which took off from Elmendorf during the day to carry reservists back to their homes. It was based at Ellington Air Force Base, Houston, Tex.

The reservists had been on active duty in joint Air Force-Army maneuvers at Kodiak.

Fitness Program Enrollment Open

The clinic on physical fitness at the YMCA has an initial enrollment of eight, according to Joe Leach, physical director.

"We meet for the first session Monday at 5:15 p.m.," he said. Other persons have inquired about the clinic and enrollment is expected to increase, he pointed out. Should the number become too large for one group or if another time is more convenient, other fitness sessions will be scheduled.

Glenn Designated Prime Astronaut

NEW YORK (AP)—Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn has been designated as prime astronaut for this country's first manned orbital flight, the American Broadcasting Co. reported Thursday.

The network also said it learned from "unimpeachable sources" that Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm S. Carpenter had been chosen as backup astronaut for the flight, expected to take place late in December.

Family Program

Family night at the YMCA Saturday will feature gym and swim activities, according to Joe Leach, physical director. The program begins at 7 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

BEHIND THE SCENES OF YOUR TELEPHONE SERVICE

An interview with Richard A. Goodson, Southwestern Bell Vice President and General Manager for Texas

BY DON DAVIS, TELEPHONE NEWS WRITER

Here today: A wide range of convenient communications services to fit any need

"Not too many years ago," says Richard A. Goodson, who is in charge of Southwestern Bell's Texas operations, "most people probably thought of telephone service as a single black instrument."

"But nowadays it's increasingly common for people to have several phones in color in their homes. And over the years the available communications services have grown from a rather small number until now it takes a whole catalogue to list them all."

From all of the services mentioned by Mr. Goodson during an interview in his office, I've selected four to picture here, because they vividly illustrate his point that a wide variety of interesting and exciting services awaits today's customers.

"These instruments and services—and the technical advances required to make them work—obviously don't just happen," Mr. Goodson said. "The telephone company has a constant research program to make them happen."

As a result of this continuing search for new developments, telephone service grows better year after year . . . and brings more convenience and pleasure into our lives.

CALL DIRECTOR phone is ideal for businessmen, secretaries. You can phone people in your plant or office by pushing buttons, hold conference calls, add another person to an outside call. A secretary can answer calls on as many as 29 lines.

NEW BELL CHIME announces calls for all your phones in one of three ways with a pleasant musical tone, a loud regular ring, or a soft regular ring. Bell Chime is available in velvety gold or soft ivory.

HOME INTERPHONE is a complete residential communications system, even lets you answer the door by phone. With the Home Interphone, you also can phone from room to room, summon the family to dinner, listen to the baby in another room.

Happy Ocean Cruise Turned Into Nightmare

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — On Sunday, Nov. 12, the graceful ketch Bluebell sailed on a freshening wind through the Northwest Providence channel of the Bahamas, her bow slicing through six-foot swells on a course for Florida.

On board was a happy vacation party, the Arthur Duperrault family of Green Bay, Wis., taking the tropic ocean cruise of which they had long dreamed.

At 9 p.m., Terry Jo, 11, and her sister, Renee, 7, went to bed in the after cabin below. Mr. and Mrs. Duperrault and their son, Brian, 14, remained on deck in the balmy darkness, visiting with Capt. Julian Harvey and his wife, Mary.

DISASTER

Then, some time that black, moonless night, a terrifying disaster swept the deck of the Bluebell.

Next day, the tanker Gulf Lyon picked up the ketch's lifeboat. In it were Harvey and the body of Renee. An intensive air-sea search turned up no other survivors and no trace of the Bluebell.

In Miami, Harvey told Coast Guard interrogators the main mast snapped in a 20-knot wind and pierced the deck and hull. Then fire broke out amidships, he said, and the others jumped overboard. By the time he had floated the lifeboat, he could find no one but the dead Renee in the tossing sea.

OMINOUS CALL

The captain's testimony was interrupted by a telephone call. Something else had floated free from the sinking Bluebell. On a tiny cork raft, when it was found by the Greek freighter Captain Theo, was a taffy-haired, half-conscious little girl.

Without food or water, Terry Jo had ridden a tiny raft across heaving seas, through 3½ days of burning tropic sunshine and dark, fearful nights, and somehow survived.

The little girl was in desperate condition. It would be some time before she could tell her story. But Harvey did not wait to hear it. He slashed his veins and bled to death on the floor of a Miami motel room.

Two days later, Terry Jo blurted out the story she had come so far to tell.

SCREAMS, BLOOD

She had awakened to screams, found the bodies of her mother and Brian lying in pools of blood in the central cabin, and saw more blood on the top deck.

An angry, wild-eyed Harvey struck her, she said, then took the lifeboat and the Bluebell's rubber raft and abandoned her on the deck of the sinking ketch. She found the cork raft and floated it just as the Bluebell went down.

There was no question to investigators which story to believe. Harvey's suicide had removed whatever doubts there might have been.

Harvey, a tall, muscular, Errol Flynn-type adventurer, had lived a violent life in which it seemed he constantly courted death.

VIOLENT YEARS

Two yachts had sunk under him. As a lieutenant colonel in the Air Force, he crashed two fighter planes. In the second, he was cruelly hurt.

The second of his five wives, Joan, and her mother drowned when Harvey drove an automobile off a bridge into a Florida bayou. Again, Harvey escaped, claiming he was thrown free of the diving car.

As the violent years wore on, Harvey became extremely nervous and a stammer that had always afflicted him became more and more pronounced.

Why did he go berserk on the Bluebell?

"Possibly, it was money that started it," theorizes a veteran Miami homicide detective. "Perhaps he pushed his wife overboard for her insurance, was seen in the act, and then went mad."

INSURANCE ANGLE

Only a short time before, Harvey had taken out a $40,000 policy on Mary. Friends said he always aspired to a country club life that he couldn't afford.

In the opinion of a Miami psychiatrist, Harvey was a "bomb-in-the-airplane type."

"Apparently, on the ship, he killed in madness—then, at the last moment, became rational again and found himself unable to harm a defenseless child."

No less amazing than the story of Harvey is the remarkable way Terry Jo has borne up under a tragedy that would shatter almost any other cute, snub-nosed little girl.

She has never cried.

"She has successfully repressed the awful things she witnessed, things she can't now bear to remember," a psychiatrist says.

"But there will be a reaction—a terrible, unforgettable reaction. Perhaps it will come when she returns home, to her real world."

Nippy, Pleasant Weather Prevails

By The Associated Press

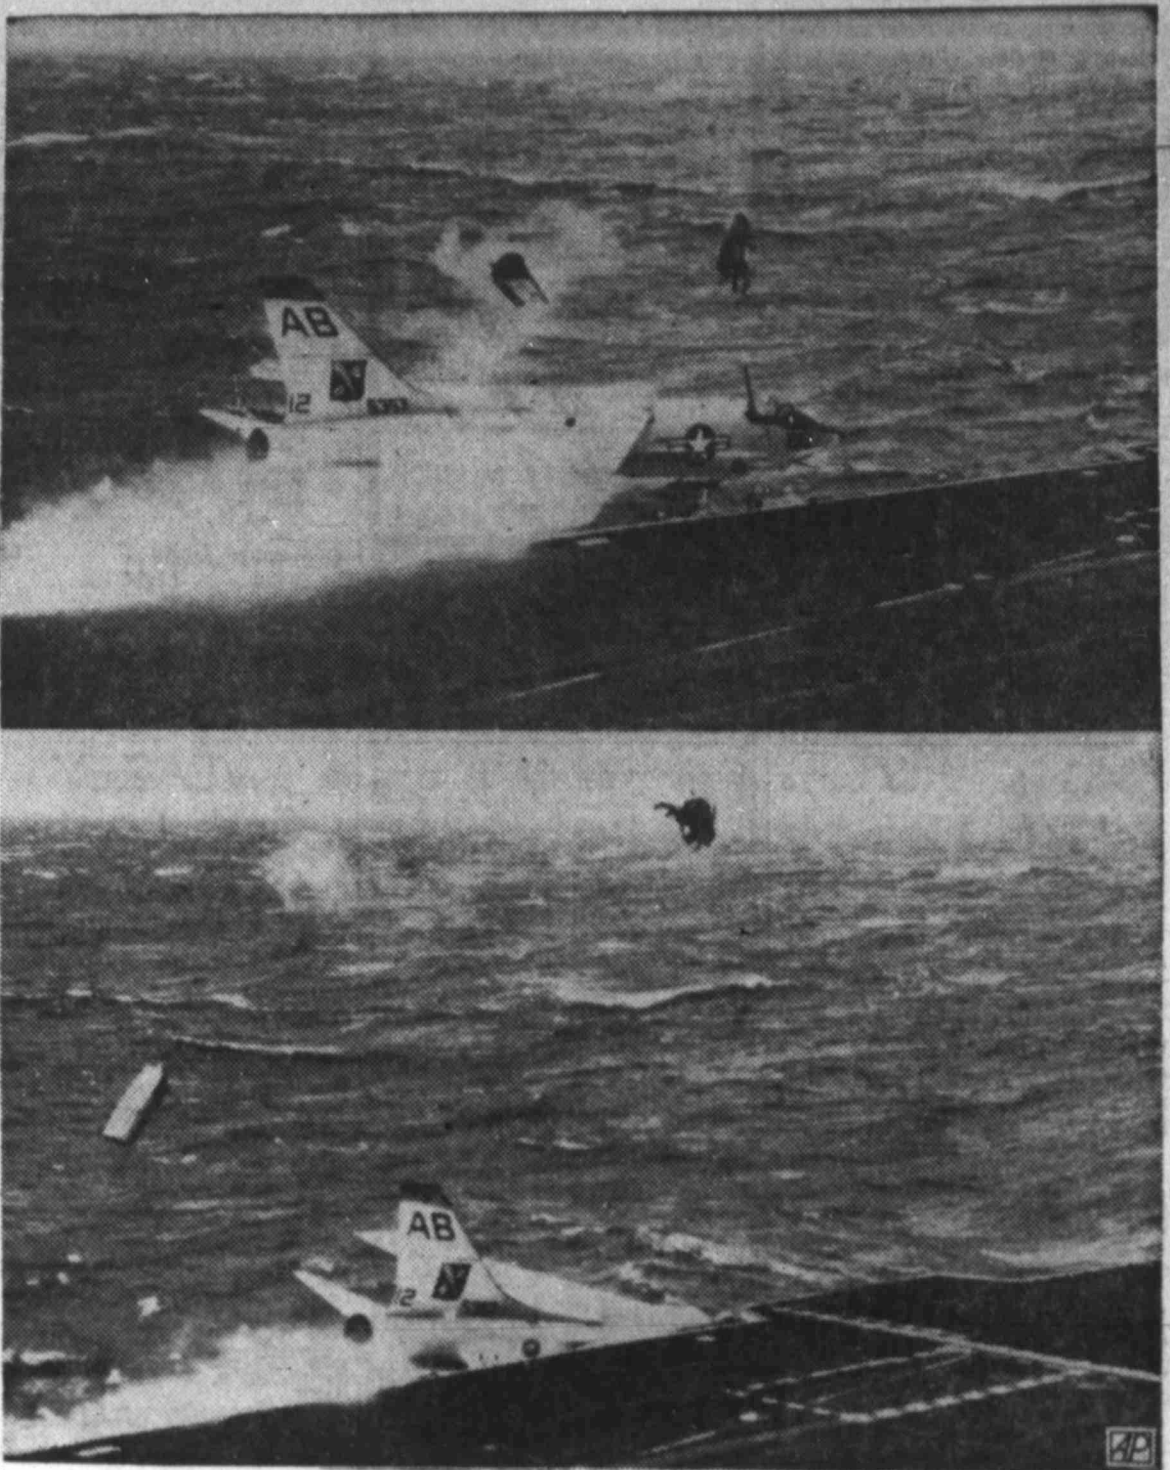

Occasionally nippy but otherwise pleasant fall weather prevailed everywhere in Texas again Friday.

Skies were clear over all sections of the state for a second straight day.

Before dawn the temperatures sagged to 29 degrees at Dalhart and 32 at Junction. Early morning marks at other points were mostly in the middle 30s to upper 40s, ranging up to 51 at Laredo and 54 at Brownsville.

The only rain Thursday was .02 inch at Beaumont.

Forecasts called for little or no change the next several days.

Der Bingo Home For Check On Population Explosion

By BOB THOMAS AP Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Bing Crosby was in town this week for a check on what he admits was the Crosby "population explosion."

"I not only got a new kid of my own," said the exuberant Bing, "I've also got three new grandchildren in the oven."

Bing had come home from England to meet his sixth son and seventh child, Nathaniel Patrick, born Oct. 29.

"We haven't figured out who he looks like yet; it's a little too early to tell," said the crooning patriarch.

Bing will now have more time to spend with his expanding family. He was leaving for his Nevada ranch for four weeks to rest up from his overseas rigors. He started "Road to Hong Kong" with Bob Hope last July, finished one day and started a TV special the next. The ABC show will air Dec. 11.

Devil Asked Equal Time

WASHINGTON (AP)—Remember the smoke that curled from the lectern while Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston delivered the invocation at President Kennedy's inaugural last January?

"That was the devil asking for equal time," a letter-writer suggested to the cardinal later. The Boston archbishop told the story in remarks prefacing his sermon at the annual Pan-American Mass here Thursday.

He said most people who commented on the invocation thought it was too long. It ran more than 10 minutes.

Four clergymen participated in the inaugural. "I thought I was the only one," said the cardinal. "Why they had to have four of us there praying for him, I don't know."

WWII Vanguard Commander Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man who led America's first troops into England in World War II is dead.
