RED-FACED COLLEGIAN FINDS THE ANSWER Is Kennedy Out Of Touch With The People?

HOUSTON (AP)—Anyone who says President Kennedy is inaccessible might listen to Michael Schipper, 19, a University of Houston student. Schipper, of New York, was in a heated dormitory bull session the other evening. "Our government has become such an unwieldy bureaucracy the President is out of touch with the people, completely inaccessible," Schipper argued. "That's not true," a freshman cried. "I'll prove my point," Schipper said. He picked up the telephone and called President Kennedy at the White House—collect. The call went through two secretaries and Schipper heard the last one ask, "Mr. President, will you accept a collect call from a Mr. Michael Schipper in Houston, Texas?" There was a short delay. An unmistakable voice, precisely Bostonian, came on the line: "This is President Kennedy,

Mr. Schipper. What can I do for you?" Schipper gasped and nearly dropped the receiver. "Well...yessir...Mr. President..." Schipper replied weakly. "I am...I am a student at the University of Houston...and I ah...just called...ah...to wish you a Merry Christmas..." A rather long silence. "Oh," the President said in measured tones. "Well, I wish the same to you. Kind of you to call." The freshman tugged at Schipper's arm. "Mr. President," Schipper said in a trembling voice. "There's a friend here..." "Very well...put him on," the President said, still calm. "Merry Christmas, sir," the freshman said gleefully. "Thank you," the President replied. "And now I have to hang up. I'm very busy." "Yessir, good-by." "Good-by." "Pop!

Mary Hardin-Baylor Campus Scene Of Triple Love Slaying

BELTON, Tex. (AP)—A jilted suitor shot to death a 20-year-old student of Mary Hardin-Baylor College today, killed her mother, and then took his own life. Sheriff Ralph Jeffers of Bell County said the dead were Leroy Cockrell, a farm and ranch worker, 20-year-old Marie Dunlap, and her mother, Mrs. Weldon Dunlap. Jeffers said other students at the all-girl, Baptist church operated college told him that Miss Dunlap and Cockrell had been dating for about two years. In recent months, however, the sheriff said the girl had been trying to break off relations with the young rancher, described as a man in his "middle 20s."

"But he didn't want to call it quits," the sheriff said, "and that's about the whole story." The shooting occurred this morning on the college campus after Mrs. Dunlap drove to the school to pick up her daughter who had attended classes earlier. As the mother and daughter sat in their car, witnesses said, Cockrell drove up and began shooting at them from his car. Mrs. Dunlap, a 45-year-old teacher, said she turned the gun on herself. All the victims lived on farms or small ranches at Salado, about 10 miles from this Central Texas county seat town. Sheriff Jeffers said the charge blew the top off Cockrell's head instantly. Jeffers said all the victims died.

College last semester and formerly attended Temple Junior College. Mary Hardin-Baylor College is one of about 20 schools operated in the state by the Baptist General Convention of Texas. It was established in 1845 and is one of the state's oldest educational institutions. It has been located at this Central Texas county seat town since its founding.

Witnesses to the college campus shooting said Cockrell fired through the glass of the Dunlap automobile to kill the two women. "Then he ejected the .308 Savage deer rifle under his chin and blew the top of his head off," sheriff's deputies reported. Friends of the two families at Salado said Cockrell was "about 33 and Mrs. Dunlap was 45." Marie, a pretty brown-haired senior at the college, ordered her graduation ring Wednesday. She would have been graduated in June, friends said. She attended Abilene Christian

OTHERS AID CHEER FUND

The Christmas Cheer Fund climbed a bit today, as other good-hearted people contributed toward a happier Christmas for needy children. The fund enables city firemen to buy parts to repair donated toys, and provides holiday goodies for youngsters who otherwise wouldn't have them. Incidentally, if you can provide discarded, but repairable toys, the firemen need them right away. If you'll help in this program undertaken in the spirit of Christmas, make your check to CHRISTMAS CHEER FUND, and send it to The Herald.

U.N. Jets Hit Katangan Ammo Dumps

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP)—U.N. jet fighters today struck at Katangan ammunition dumps six miles outside Elisabethville and explosions rocked the heart of the capital. Katangans launched another attack against the U.N. headquarters just outside of the city at daybreak after a tropical thunderstorm brought firing to a halt during the night.

PROTECTION
(The U.S. Embassy in Leopoldville said an American Air Force Globemaster was fired on over Elisabethville, and the U.S. airlift was suspended while commanders in Leopoldville and Washington consulted on security arrangements for the American planes.)

(American sources said the small arms firing came from the official residence of Katanga President Moise Tshombe while the Globemaster was coming in to land at Elisabethville Airport. Several bullets hit the fuselage but no serious damage was caused.) Tshombe's villa is on one of the approaches to the airport.

(The Globemaster was one of six heavy transports carrying reinforcements and supplies to U.N. forces in the Katanga capital. The report from Leopoldville said the United States agreed to the airlift on condition that the transports would be given full protective cover. Ethiopian Sabre jets escorted the first Globemasters Wednesday but it was not known in Leopoldville whether today's flights were escorted.)

(The U.S. State Department announced Wednesday night that it was offering the U.N. 21 more four-engine transports.)

Foreign Minister Evariste Kimba clapped U.S. Consul Lewis Hoffacker, 38, under house arrest, charging that U.S. planes made the U.N. raids Wednesday on Katanga air bases at Kolwezi and Jadotville. Both the U.S. government and the U.N. Command denied that American planes were involved, but Hoffacker stayed at home today.

FEELS SAFE
The consul said he felt quite safe and was trying to arrange transfer of Americans in Elisabethville, including members of a large Seventh Day Adventist mission, to places of safety. Other foreign consuls held a meeting at his home since he could not leave.

Another consul said diplomats in the city had tried to arrange a cease-fire Wednesday night but "nobody seems to want it." He said the consuls would try again today.

Reports varied today on the success of the U.N. air strike at Kolwezi, 120 miles northwest of Elisabethville. The U.N. Command in Leopoldville claimed that Indian Canberra jets, in a 20-minute raid, destroyed four planes of the Katanga air force including a Fouga jet fighter. But the Kolwezi telephone exchange reported only one Katanga DC4 was destroyed and there was no other damage.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)
—Bolstered by U.S. support, Acting Secretary-General U Thant today sought wider approval for his sweeping new plan to bring the breakaway Congo province of Katanga under United Nations control.

Labor Told Value Of Foreign Trade

Packages Of Clothing

Youngsters attending Macey Elementary School are joining students of all Big Spring Schools in this year's World Clothing Fund, Inc. drive to gather clothing for less fortunate persons. The drive is going somewhat slower than last year, most principals report, but donations may increase Friday when the drive closes. Shown with

Kennedy Gives Blunt Views At Convention

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy told organized labor today it must back the effort to build up America's foreign trade or face the loss of jobs.

In an address prepared for a convention of the AFL-CIO—many of whose members have been less than enthusiastic about some phases of his proposals for freer world trade—Kennedy stated his view bluntly.

"In short, we are confronted with a very basic decision: Are we going to export our goods and crops—or are we going to export our capital and our job opportunities? Are we going to be the free world's greatest merchant trader—or merely its temporary wealthiest banker?" is the way he put it.

Labor elements directly affected by rising imports have been presenting arguments in congressional hearings for even stiffer barriers against the incoming flow, in contrast to the administration plan for wider discretion to negotiate reciprocal concessions.

In almost direct response, Kennedy took the stand that buying must rise along with sales and asserted that "as our exports increase along with our imports, many more jobs will be created than lost."

At another point he stated his case this way: "If we cannot obtain new bargaining power to open up overseas markets, our export industries will wither—and American labor will lose jobs. If American businessmen cannot compete from here for the growing purchasing power of the European Common Market, many more will build their plants over there—and American labor will lose jobs."

Industry and management, he said, have a responsibility to increase efficiency and thus stabilize or reduce costs and prices. But labor also must help keep American competitive.

To that end, he said, labor "must demonstrate its responsibility in helping to keep over-all wage movements in line with increases in productivity." Kennedy made a special point of the matter of job discrimination against Negroes, calling it "a blot on our democracy and a drag on our economy."

Forsan Must Change City Charter For Water Election

FORSAN — Residents of this community will vote on an $85,000 bond issue sometime early in 1962 to provide a more adequate water supply for the town.

In order to hold the bond election and increase taxes to pay for any bonds voted, the town of Forsan must change its charter. The present charter, under which the town was organized and incorporated about a year ago, does not permit the city council to increase taxes. Taxes will have to be increased if the bond election carries.

C. J. Lamb, mayor, said that the charter would be changed. Two or three ways are open for such changes and no decision has been reached as to the route to be followed.

It is even possible that an election may have to be held on the charter change ahead of the time the bond election is called. Forsan City Commissioners, in a meeting Tuesday with representatives of the engineering firm of Freese, Nichols and Endress, Fort Worth, accepted the recommendations of the engineers.

The report said that the community needs to spend $85,000 to provide its residents with adequate water. The money would be used to buy the privately owned wells and facilities which are the present source of water for the residents. An agreement has been reached with the owners of the wells and lines on a price and the engineers report recommends that the deal be closed.

New pipelines would be laid over the entire town. Lamb said that the need for new pipe lines is one of the major water problems the community faces. The plans also call for the drilling of possibly one more well and other improvements.

Lamb said that the plans now are to call the election sometime late in January or early in February.

He said the engineers estimated the bond issue would hike tax rates in Forsan approximately 50 cents a hundred dollar valuation. The issue would include both tax and revenue bonds.

FIREMEN LOOKING FOR MORE TOYS TO REPAIR FOR KIDS

Big Spring firemen continue to receive, repair, and deliver to the Salvation Army collection and distribution center, toys of all kinds. The old Mead's Bakery building at Main and Sixth will be used for distribution of toys and other needs to indigent children for Christmas.

Fire Marshal A. D. Meador said Thursday morning that more toys are needed and urged families having usable or repairable toys to call the fire department for pickups.

"We need to have everything in by Dec. 18," he said, "because they are to be distributed on the 20th and it takes some little time to give them a repair or paint job."

Meador said firemen had approximately 28 bicycles, 22 tricycles, and 18 wagons ready to go, besides other toys and around 300 dolls.

Dolls are being dressed by the Home Economics girls at the high school and by members of women's clubs of Big Spring.

A Thousand Trees

Optimists have taken on a big job of selling this year in their annual Christmas tree drive, but they are looking forward to it with enthusiasm, according to T. A. Thigpen, president. They are shown unloading the trees at the parking lot at Tenth and Gregg across the street from the Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home. Trees come in all sizes with prices ranging from $2.60. One giant tree was included in the load. It will be used by the Howard County Junior College. The prospective salesmen hesitated to quote a price on it.

Pearl Harbor Like Last Night's Movie In Veteran's Vivid Memory

Editor's Note — Twenty years ago today the Japanese attacked the American fleet in Pearl Harbor. John Matheson, now city editor of the Saull Ste. Marie Evening News, was a member of the crew of the battleship West Virginia, hit by six torpedoes and two bombs that day. Here is his vivid recollection of the event two decades ago.

By JOHN MATHESON
Saull Ste. Marie, Mich. News
Written for The Associated Press

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP)—As any young sailor of 18—then or now—I was looking forward to a day of liberty in Honolulu, and the liberty boat was due alongside any minute.

Suddenly an alarm—we thought a routine one—rang. It was a call for the ship's fire and rescue party, a procedure often practiced and designed to send aid to another ship or ashore to meet an emergency.

CURTAIN RISES
The scene was the battleship West Virginia; the time, 7 a.m.; the day, Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941; the place, Pearl Harbor.

With the alarm, the liberty party broke up. Sailors in our division were assigned to a station on the port side of the ship for this type of emergency. We were to fall in and stand by. We started topside for our deck adjacent to the waters of the harbor.

I was about to dart out onto the open deck when the boatswain's mate turned around. That look in his eyes told me this was war—before he passed "the word" that the Japs were attacking.

In the words of an old cliché, "It all happened so fast."

Members of the crew reacted in accordance with their training. The long hours of monotonous drill—tracking airplanes, loading guns, closing water-tight doors, manning battle stations—all paid off in the first minutes of the attack.

SKY PORT
My station was "sky port," an anti-aircraft fire director on the side of the ship where the Japanese aviators were making their torpedo runs. It was necessary to climb ladders to reach this station, one of the highest on the ship.

Torpedoes were starting to hit. It is difficult to describe how a torpedo shakes a battleship when it hits. It knocks a person off his feet and throws a column of oil and water up over the top of the ship. One hit when I reached the director platform on the starboard side. I went skidding across the deck on my bottom and into a steel shield.

Looking up from the deck, I saw high-level bombers overhead. They were making the bomb runs that gave them so many center-line hits on the sitting ducks below.

LOST MEMORY
One bomb passed no more than 20 feet, it seemed, from my battle station. But to this day, I can't remember it hitting, although it killed the captain.

The ship's damage knocked out the power and our fire control director was useless. We were ordered to the anti-aircraft gun deck, but our four guns were out of commission because of damage on the port side.

The order to abandon ship came shortly after. Most of us went to the starboard side, which was adjacent to the battleship Tennessee. We scrambled down to the armor belt, and then into the water for the short swim to Ford Island.

The starboard side of the deck was a strange sight. Most of the men had removed their shoes, and there the shoes were, neatly lined up for a considerable distance toward the bow of the West Virginia.

WOUNDED RESCUED
Once ashore, a boatswain formed a small boat crew to evacuate some wounded men out of one of our 16-inch gun turrets.

I was ordered aboard, and we rounded the bow of the burning ship from the heat of a bomb hit on the turret. They were carried out of the turret, brought to the side of the ship which had settled to the bottom of the harbor by now, and were handed over to us. We covered them with canvas and took them to one of the fleet landing areas.

About this time, the battleship Nevada was trying to get out of the harbor and the Japanese dive bombers had her under attack. She was beached before she reached the harbor entrance.

After the attack, many of us wandered around Ford Island, in the center of the harbor. Toward evening, we were ordered to Tennessee to reinforce her gun crews. I was assigned to a gun on which the paint was burned off the barrel because of the number of rounds fired that morning.

AN EERIE PLACE
Pearl Harbor was a gloomy, eerie place that night. Smoke filled the air as ships and oil burned. Trigger-happy describes the mental attitude of that night. One of our own planes was shot down attempting a landing.

The West Virginia crew was widely scattered. We were gradually concentrated in a shore area the following days and assigned to unmanned ships as they came into the harbor.

One night a call went out for volunteers for the carrier Lexington. My buddy, a Kentuckian, stepped out, but I pulled him back in favor of trying for a cruiser or destroyer. We eventually were assigned to the cruiser Minneapolis.

And five months later, we were pulling some of our former West Virginia shipmates out of the Coral Sea when the "Lex" was sunk in that battle.

Twenty years later, it is still a tough story to write. Everything that happened personally remains as vivid as last night's Technicolor movie. But it doesn't seem to come out that way in black and white like this.

COL. D. W. PENDERGRAST

COL. LEONARD EINSTEIN

Col. Pendergrast Named Base Deputy Commander

Col. Donald W. Pendergrast, who has been the 3560th Maintenance and Supply Group Commander at Webb AFB since August, 1960, has been temporarily reassigned to the position of Deputy Wing Commander, according to an announcement made this week by Col. Wilson H. Banks.

Civic Theatre To Name Officers

Nominations for new officers and directors will be the major business on the agenda at the regular meeting today of the Big Spring Civic Theatre. The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. in the Prairie Playhouse of City Park.

All members are urged to be present and participate in the meeting. Other business on the agenda includes a progress report on the current production, "Rainmaker," as well as routine business matters.

Members who have paid 1962 dues may be nominated for office and members who have paid 1961 and 1962 dues may vote. The election will be held Tuesday, also at the Prairie Playhouse. Absentee votes will be accepted.

Headquarters, ATC, has indicated that a senior colonel to permanently fill the deputy commander slot at Webb will be assigned in the future. When this officer is assigned Col. Pendergrast will resume his M&S Group commander duties.

Lt. Col. Leonard Einstein, deputy commander of M&S Group since August, 1958, will assume command of the M&S Group during this period.

Service Rivalry Crops Up In Astronaut Pinning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force Capt. Virgil I. Grissom got his new pilot-astronaut wings ahead of Navy Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard Wednesday but it took some doing.

For a while it had looked as though the Navy would beat out the Air Force in awarding the first such insignia for space age pilots. But the Defense Department stepped in on the program.

Grissom and Shepard received their new wings in a double ceremony at the Pentagon. Grissom was first by only a couple of minutes.

Earlier in the day, the Navy tentatively set up a separate ceremony for Shepard—first American into space—a half-hour ahead of that scheduled earlier by the Air Force for Grissom, who followed Shepard into space.

The Defense Department settled the matter. "Suggested," one spokesman called it, was a double ceremony at the same time and in the same place.

Before massed cameras, Grissom and Shepard stood beside Gen. Curtis Le May, Air Force chief of staff, and Adm. George W. Anderson, chief of naval operations.

Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, 81 and the oldest living military pilot, pinned the wings on Grissom.

Anderson then made the award to Shepard.

Allies Face Disunity In Katanga Rebellion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and its chief European allies may find themselves entrapped in serious disagreement over U.N. operations in the Congo unless some way is found soon to end the conflict in Katanga Province.

Beyond Allied considerations, the way the United Nations deals with the Congo situation is a challenge to its own future. The problem of coordinating attitudes on the Congo problem seems likely to be one of the issues discussed by President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan when they meet in Bermuda Dec. 21-22.

While the United States and its chief European allies may find themselves entrapped in serious disagreement over U.N. operations in the Congo unless some way is found soon to end the conflict in Katanga Province.

Washington's positive support for Congo unity is based on several considerations. One is that if Katanga is not put under the power of the central government further secessions of other provinces will follow.

Another is that the wealth of Katanga is necessary to the economic health of the country. A third is that a strong united Congo has far more chance of surviving future Communist efforts to gain influence and power in Central Africa than would a weak and divided country.

Officials here say that the severe outbreaks of fighting around Elisabethville in recent days have tended to highlight the differences in the approach of various allied governments to the Congo problem and that if the fighting can be quickly brought under control these differences may tend to recede into the background. But the greater need, as Washington sees the problem, is for an early end to Tshombe's independence policy.

Both U.S. and British officials here said there is no basic difference over the policy of Congo unification; both governments support it.

State Department officials said, in fact, that the Western European Allies, including Belgium and France, now agree that the only hope for the Congo's future lies in unity and that the split between Tshombe and the central government must somehow be ended.

Officials here say the Kennedy administration would not consider it wise in any case for the United Nations to try to unify the Congo by force. The State Department draws a fine distinction between forceful measures to expel Tshombe's white advisers, which would deprive him of one of his most effective elements of military power, and the use of force for the purpose of uniting Katanga with the Congo.

Washington's positive support for Congo unity is based on several considerations. One is that if Katanga is not put under the power of the central government further secessions of other provinces will follow.

Another is that the wealth of Katanga is necessary to the economic health of the country. A third is that a strong united Congo has far more chance of surviving future Communist efforts to gain influence and power in Central Africa than would a weak and divided country.

Officials here say that the severe outbreaks of fighting around Elisabethville in recent days have tended to highlight the differences in the approach of various allied governments to the Congo officers. On that occasion the United States voted for the resolution and both Britain and France abstained.

Last week Dr. Conor Cruise O'Brien, head of U.N. operations in Katanga, resigned his position and charged that Britain and France had worked against his efforts to carry out the U.N. mandate for expelling the foreigners from Katanga.

U.S. officials have been inclined to discount O'Brien's accusation.

As indicated in Wednesday's statements, the United States has taken the position that the current outbreak of fighting in Katanga resulted from "unprovoked attacks" by Tshombe's troops on U.N. personnel who were legally carrying out Security Council directives. The British government has not taken any such firm stand on the immediate question of how the shooting started, nor has the French government.

21 Securities Applications Made

AUSTIN (AP)—Twenty-one applications for permits to sell $10.6 million in securities in Texas were filed last week, State Securities Commissioner William King reported.

The applications included these Texas companies: Hebronville Auction & Commission Co.; Beaumont Credit Corp.; and Go Services, Inc., of Abilene.

Eidinoff Jury Hits Deadlock

RUSK (AP)—Jurors failed to agree and County Judge J. W. Chandler ordered a mistrial Wednesday in a sanity hearing for Dr. Harold Eidinoff, a former El Paso physician.

Eidinoff, 52, sought his release from the Rusk State Hospital for the criminally insane. He was committed in the 1959 slaying at El Paso of Ted Andrew, 50, a lawyer who had represented Eidinoff's former wife in a divorce suit.

The physician contended he now is sane. A district court jury at Lubbock held Eidinoff was of unsound mind at the time of the shooting and also when it heard the case late in 1959.

Three men and three women who sat as jurors for the sanity hearing in Rusk reported they were hopelessly deadlocked after deliberating about four hours. They told Chandler the vote was 4-2 but did not indicate what verdict the majority favored.

Doctors and psychiatrists called as expert witnesses gave conflicting opinions on Eidinoff's sanity.

If the physician should be pronounced now mentally sound, he could not be tried on a murder charge because of the original jury's finding he was insane when Andrew was slain.

Just Follow Your Nose

BRIGANTINE, N.J. (AP)—The performers in John Torp's circus have been dying off like fleas lately.

Matter of fact, the performers in John Torp's circus are fleas. The little varmints live only four or five months, and they won't breed in cold weather.

So Torp, 29, a native of Denmark, and his partner, Max Kitson, left their headquarters here with about 40 tiny performers, headed for warmer climes.

"Nationwide, there's no shortage of fleas," Torp said, "but they're hard to find here right now."

Just an old flea can't join the circus. Cat and dog fleas, which will breed almost any place, won't do.

"What I want are the large, black, six-legged fleas—like you find on people," he said.

Nehru Dislikes China War But 'India Will Fight'

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru declares India must try to avoid war with Red China over the Himalayan border dispute because it would become a world war.

But China must leave Indian territory it has occupied by aggression, Nehru told Parliament. If war has to come, India is prepared to fight it, Nehru declared.

Nehru said he did not see any kind of peace on the disputed frontier "so long as the recognized aggression is not vacated" by China.

India will do everything within its power to get the Chinese to leave 12,000 square miles they occupy which India claims, he said.

"We must try to use every diplomatic and peaceful device to that end," he said.

"It is necessary to avoid war because a war between India and China would be a major catastrophe for the world and would become a world war that would go on indefinitely."

"It is not possible for China to defeat us, or for India to march to Peiping through Tibet and defeat China."

Law's Down On Courtesy

CHICAGO (AP)—A company named Courtesy has been served with 675 summonses for traffic violations from 1958 through 1960.

The firm is Courtesy Lease-Save Plan, Inc., a division of Courtesy Motor Sales, Inc.

Police Capt. John J. Nelligan said each offense carries a maximum fine of $200 upon conviction.

Jim Moran, owner of the parent firm, said he doesn't know whether the leasing company or its customers can be held liable for violations by drivers of rented autos.

Black Sunday Rites Bring New Warning

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP)—"In this missile and thermonuclear age, it would be foolhardy indeed to assume that surprise attack will never be a possibility."

This warning was delivered today by Adm. John H. Sides, commander of the U.S. Pacific Fleet, at ceremonies marking the 20th anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

Ceremonies were held on a platform above the waters along "Battleship Row." Activity throughout the naval base halted momentarily in memory of that Black Sunday—Dec. 7, 1941.

The ceremony was timed to coincide with the exact moment—7:55 a.m.—when the first Japanese planes swooped low over the battleships lining the northeast shores of Ford Island.

Below the memorial platform for the U.S. Arizona, center of today's ceremonies, was the rusting hulk of the warship and the remains of 1,102 crewmen who went down with her. The Arizona and her crew are symbols of those hours when war came to the United States.

South of the Arizona the old Battleship Row was vacant. But between the flag flying above the Arizona and one beside Ford Island's administration building—less than a mile away—nearly 2,000 men died on a Sunday morning.

"The lessons learned (that day) are recorded in blood," said Sides in his memorial address.

"The important thing for us here today, and for all Americans, is to pledge anew that our country shall always remain strong and shall always be ready to defend the freedoms for which we stand, and for which these men fought and died."

Taking part in the memorial tribute were military leaders, congressmen, and representatives of veterans organizations, including 108 Pearl Harbor raid survivors from New England. A group of 60 Gold Star mothers, many of whose sons died on the Arizona, also was on hand.

In the front rank of participants was Lt. Gen. Alan Shapley, Pacific Marine commander and one of the Marines to survive the Dec. 7 attack.

The ceremony was signalled by the sound of carillon chimes from Ford Island, followed by a Navy bugler's call to colors. The American flag was run up the Arizona flagpole, as it is each day.

The Arizona is entitled to fly the flag because of its unique position as the only retired ship in the Navy still commissioned. She is regarded as a member of hymn, "Eternal Father, Strong to Save."

Flowers were cast on the waters over the Arizona and floral wreaths were arranged on the platform.

Sides drew a parallel between America's military preparedness today and a generation ago, citing the unified Pacific Command which bosses all Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine units.

"Readiness is the key," he said, "and constant training is the watchword."

He added: "No longer are large concentrations of ships seen in this harbor—ships are in and out, a few at a time, on their way to and from their forward positions."

ONE BAPTISM

By E. H. Tarbet, preacher, Church of Christ, 2800 West Highway 80 P.O. Box 1323

"There is . . . one baptism, one God and Father . . ." (Eph. 4:4-6). This language is plain. It no more leaves room for two kinds of baptism, than it does for two kinds of Gods.

The language is in the present tense. It says nothing of the past. It was written about A.D. 64. There are other Scriptures to deal with the past. They reveal there has always been one God; but not always one baptism. There was Holy Spirit baptism; but we have the record of only two instances of this (Acts 2 and 10); and some 20 years after the last instance, we have Paul saying, "There is . . . one baptism" (Eph. 4:4, 5).

The Holy Spirit, in the indwelling measure, is for today (1 Cor. 3:16; Acts 2:38). But is Holy Spirit baptism for today?

If so, water baptism is not. There is "one baptism."

Spirit baptism was a promise; not a command (Acts 1:4, 5). Water baptism is a command; and that baptism which was commanded by Christ is to last until the end of the world (Acts 10:47, 48; Matt. 28:19, 20).

Welcome to our mid-week service tonight, 7:30. Bob Cates, speaker.

U.S. Troops Move Over Autobahn Without Hindrance

HELMSTEDT, Germany (AP)—First units of a U.S. battle group bound for duty in West Berlin passed through the Soviet checkpoint on the Iron Curtain border today without hindrance and rolled off down the 110-mile autobahn through Communist East Germany.

Soviet troops at the border cleared the first company of the 1,500-man battle group in 89 minutes, normal time for the 200 men and 25 vehicles making a new demonstration of Allied rights of access to the Red-encircled city.

Soviet authorities earlier protested the recent stepup in movements over the autobahn as provocations "fraught with dangerous consequences" and Communist East Germany declared

Wednesday night that free movement of U.S. troops along the superhighway has never been guaranteed by the East German regime or the Soviets.

A mongrel dog named "Leg" rode in one of the leading vehicles. The dog, the battle group mascot, had her own serial number on the unit manifest shown to the Soviet guards at the checkpoint.

The incoming 1st Battle Group of the 18th Infantry Division, commanded by Col. Ira Palm, 48, of Mount Vernon, N.Y., is relieving the 18th Infantry's 1st Battle Group, which was rushed to Berlin last August after the Communists threw up their wall dividing the city.

The relief unit will make the autobahn run in small convoys daily, with the operation to take about a week. As the first unit moved out today, another moved up to a bivouac area near the border to prepare for its move to Berlin Friday.

An Army spokesman said units of the 18th Infantry Battle Group would start leaving Berlin Friday for Kassel, West Germany.

West German truck drivers traveling the autobahn Wednesday night said East Germany had increased its patrols along the route. Other sources said Soviet trucks loaded with troops also had been seen along the superhighway.

American officers said Soviet liaison officers in West Germany kept the relief convoy under constant surveillance as it moved up to the Helmsstedt crossing point. The U.S. Army has repeatedly ignored Soviet warnings against increased troop movements on the autobahn, asserting that it has the right to utilize the route freely.

The autobahn is the only road the Communists allow the Western powers to use through East Germany and Helmsstedt.

Candidate Wants Business Climate

ODESSA (AP)—Punitive laws aimed at business could keep new industry from moving into Texas, Sen. Robert Baker told a group of Odessa businessmen Wednesday.

Baker, candidate for lieutenant governor, said Texas has enjoyed a steady and healthy industrial growth in the past. He said punitive laws, unfair administration or irresponsible statements by state officials could deter new industry from moving into our state and retard the growth and expansion of existing industry.

"Continued growth and expansion is absolutely essential to the welfare of our state for only through such growth and expansion can our youth who are today crowding our high schools and our colleges be assured of obtaining jobs in their native state," Baker said.

Wasson Ends Long Tenure

In July, 1929, Elmo Wasson, men's clothing store, opened a store in the Couden Petroleum Corp. building on Second Street.

Last week, he sent in a check for the rent for December on the building. That check ends the tenant-landlord relationship between Wasson and the owners of the building.

Wasson has not occupied the quarters for some time but his lease was still in effect and does not expire officially until Dec. 30.

Wasson believes that he probably holds a record locally as the business tenant with the longest tenure of possession of any downtown location.

Cooler Air Spreads South

By The Associated Press

Freezing weather chilled the Texas Panhandle and cooler weather spread toward southern areas of the state Thursday.

Light rains fell around Houston and El Paso in early morning. There was a little drizzle between Austin and Junction. Fog hovered around Brownsville.

Before dawn the Mercury sagged to 27 degrees at Dalhart, 28 at Amarillo and 32 at Childress. Readings elsewhere ranged up to 64 at Brownsville and 66 at McAllen.

As a mild cold front edged farther across the state toward the southeast, skies cleared at Amarillo and in the north part of North Central and Northeast Texas. It was at least partly cloudy in all other sections.

Forecasts called for scattered showers near the coast during the day and lower temperatures over the south part of the state. Little change was expected in the northern areas.

Guard Pay Ruled For Active Duty In Construction

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U. S. Court of Claims has ordered the government to pay $5-a-day allowances to members of a Texas National Guard unit called to active duty in 1952. The ruling was based on a finding the Guardsmen were used in construction work which had little or no training value.

The unit of 245 men of the 1901st Engineer Aviation Battalion was ordered on Feb. 1, 1952, to temporary duty at Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio for about six months, in what was to be a "construction training project" to be completed on or about June 1, 1952.

The court noted the work done by the unit at Kelly AFB consisted of construction and rehabilitation of roads, installation of railroad spurs, construction of new buildings, extensive excavation for drainage ditches, installation of concrete pipes, and construction of a parking apron for planes.

Ask For Admission Of Red China

Ulla Lindstrom, left, Swedish minister of state, and G. P. Malalasekera, right, of Ceylon, speak at the General Assembly meeting of the United Nations at New York. Both supported seating of Red China in the international organization. He said the United States' opposition to Red China's admission is building up a wall of hatred that could lead to World War III.

Pearl Harbor Probe Now A Closed Matter

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon considers a closed matter the question of why the United States was caught off guard at Pearl Harbor.

The word today—the 20th anniversary of the surprise Japanese attack—is that no more official investigations are expected.

Authors continue to write books debating the issues of that day when the high command at Hawaii was surprised by the strike of 300 planes from six Japanese carriers and midget submarine attacks.

But the Defense Department foresees no more official probes subject of who, if anyone, was to blame for the tragic moment of unreadiness. There have been eight official inquiries. The first, ordered by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, was opened only 12 days after the attack and was conducted by a commission headed by Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts. When that inquiry was concluded the following Jan. 23 the record and transcripts covered 2,173 pages.

Between then and the end of World War II, the Navy and Army conducted six more inquiries into the over-all subject or phases of it. Allegations and testimony at those hearings served to foster more public debate.

In November 1945, with the war's end more than three months past and with testimony and evidence from former enemy commanders becoming available, Congress opened a full-scale inquiry.

A 10-member joint committee of the Senate and House, with a battery of special counsel and experts, conducted that inquiry, compiling mountains of testimony and a 492-page report.

That final inquiry had the advantage both of material from the previous seven investigations and its own questioning of most of the top men in Washington and Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941.

The committee's report said that "the figures and witnesses in the drama of Pearl Harbor ran the gamut of officials in the executive branch of the government," including Roosevelt; Secretary of State Cordell Hull; Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson; Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox; Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff; Adm. Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations; Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, commander of the Pacific Fleet, and Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, commanding general of the Hawaiian Department.

Major attention focused on Stark and on Kimmel and Short, the top ranking officers at the scene.

The Army removed Short from his command. The Navy ruled that Kimmel and Stark thereafter should "not hold any position in the United States Navy which requires the exercise of superior judgment."

The possibility of court martial for the two former Hawaiian commanders, Short and Kimmel, was ended when limitations for legal action, set by a joint resolution of Congress, expired with the formal conclusion of hostilities.

The joint congressional committee, in its summary of findings, said that errors made by the Hawaiian commands were "errors of judgment and not derelictions of duty."

The committee reported it found no evidence to support charges, made during hearings, that the President, the secretary of state or the secretaries of war or Navy "tricked, provoked, incited, capricious or coerced Japan into attacking this nation in order that a declaration of war might more easily be obtained from the Congress."

Belda To Attend VA Conference

V. J. Belda, director of the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital, will attend an administrators' conference for managers and directors in Washington, D. C. Dec. 13-15.

This is the first such conference held since J. S. Gleason Jr. assumed duties as administrator of Veterans Affairs. Subjects for discussion are budget, personnel, construction and engineering, manpower utilization, medicine and surgery.

U.S. Military About As Big As At Pearl—But Different

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you just count men, ships and guns, the U.S. military isn't much bigger now than when war came 20 years ago today at Pearl Harbor. Actually, the Army then had more men and more divisions. The size of the combat fleet then and now is not drastically different.

But there are differences—big ones. The total firepower of today's men under arms is thousands of times greater by reason of nuclear weapons.

What did the U.S. armed forces have when the Japanese hit Pearl Harbor and the Philippines 20 years ago and what do they have now?

In round numbers, the manpower then was 2,060,000; today it is 2,800,000.

The Army had 1,640,000 men, 36 divisions. Today, Army manpower is 1,100,000, the number of divisions 16.

AIR POWER

The Army of Pearl Harbor Day included, however, 286,000 men in the Army Air Corps. The independent Air Force of today has 880,000 men. The Army Air Force of 20 years ago had 12,000 planes of all types; the present USAF has an inventory of 20,900 aircraft.

On the morning of Dec. 7, 1941, the Navy had 345 combat ships in operation—including eight carriers, 17 battleships, 37 cruisers, 172 destroyers and 111 submarines. Thirteen were knocked out of operation by Japanese planes which struck the fleet anchorage at Pearl Harbor.

The major combat fleet today is composed of 381 warships, including 26 carriers, 13 cruisers, 225 destroyers and about 120 submarines, among them six Polaris missile subs. Battleships are out of style.

U.S. armed forces were in moderately good size at the start of the war because the possibility this country would become involved had been foreseen when the European conflict began in 1939. Only the attack on Pearl Harbor was a surprise. President Franklin D. Roosevelt already had begun expanding the Army, building more ships and planes as the battle raged in Europe.

ARTILLERY

In those days, the Army's artillery was built around such ordnance as the 155 millimeter howitzer, the eight-inch howitzer and 240 millimeter howitzer, firing, of course, conventional ammunition at conventional battlefield ranges. Today, the Army's ordnance includes a family of missiles using atomic warheads, with ranges of up to 200 miles.

In the Navy, the battleship was queen. Her 16-inch guns could lob a shell up to 20 miles. The eight carriers in the fleet were rated second in the category of capital ships—until the Pacific campaigns quickly proved their maior value in air strikes on enemy warships and land targets. Today, carriers and ballistic missile submarines are prime. Both deliver nuclear weapons. Polaris submarines can put nuclear devices equal to 16 million tons of TNT on targets more than 1,500 miles away.

The biggest operational plane of the Army Air Force was the B17. It could carry a five-ton load, had a range of 2,250 miles.

10,000 MILES

Today's B52 has a range of more than 10,000 miles, and aerial refueling can extend that by thousands of miles.

The B52 reportedly can carry two 20 megaton nuclear bombs. The total explosive force of a thermonuclear bomb exceeds that of all "iron" bombs dropped by the belligerents of World War II. The blast destruction area of a 20 megaton bomb is measured in miles. The "block-buster" bombs of World War II spread destruction hundreds of feet.

Today's military man has the intercontinental ballistic missile and its smaller brothers. It would take only 30 minutes for a rocket to travel from the Soviet Union to the United States—or the other way around.

Radar was in its infancy when Japan launched her carrier-based strike at Pearl Harbor. Ordnance was optically aimed. Today, radar is basic to even small field artillery and mortar fire. And the United States relies on radar for the few minutes possible warning of ICBM attack.

But many of the weapons used today are like those in the hands of fighting men when this country entered World War II. Only in recent months has the Army begun to receive the M14 rifle, to replace weapons used 20 years ago and earlier.

World Record For Navy Plane

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy claimed a world record Wednesday for its F4H Phantom II fighter—horizontal flight at a sustained altitude of 66,443 feet.

It said the plane, piloted by Cmdr. George W. Ellis of Piney Point, Md., made the record run Tuesday over the California desert at a speed of more than 1,400 miles an hour.

'Keyhole In Sky'
Astronaut's Job

NEW YORK (AP)—The man designated to make America's first attempt at orbital flight says his capsule will have to hit a

"keyhole in the sky" to insure success. "To hit this keyhole requires tremendous accuracy in tracking, speed and guidance," said Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. writing in the current issue of Life magazine. "If things go wrong, he continued, the mission will have to be aborted, the capsule separated from the Atlas missile and parachuted back to earth. Glenn said he is not afraid at the prospect of the flight. "I think that people who are always afraid of what will happen to them whenever they attempt to do something will seldom do or dare very much—or take the risks which are necessary to bring on progress."

Trinity U. May Push Expansion
SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Trinity University may embark soon on a $50 million expansion program, most of which would be devoted to graduate education, Dr. James Laurie, president, reports. Laurie said a $15 million undergraduate expansion program begun in 1957 will be completed in five years rather than 10 as originally planned.

Angry Slatonites Plan
Mahon Talk In Pool Tiff

SLATON (AP)—An angry group of West Texans weighed their next step today in a dispute with the Labor Department over the use of a segregated swimming pool by Mexican farm workers. They decided Wednesday to talk with Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., before making any further moves. The fuss involves Slaton's municipal pool, operated with tax funds. Mayor L. O. Lemon said earlier the city will fight a department ruling that the pool must be integrated within 30 days or federal officials will prohibit the use of migrant laborers from Mexico in this farming center. Asserting that Lemon and other citizens knew the rules forbidding discrimination against Mexicans before the matter came up, a Labor Department spokesman said the mayor's remarks were misleading. "He is, I believe, trying to inject the race issue into a situation where none exists," the spokesman said at the department's regional office in Dallas. Most of the 31 Slaton area farmers who would be affected by the migrant labor ruling then met with the city council to discuss their next step. The group named a six-man committee to confer Friday with Mahon, who represents this district in Congress. Committee members are Lemon, City Commissioner Joe Walker Jr., President Clark Self of the Chamber of Commerce and three other Slaton citizens. It was reported earlier that the Labor Department notice stemmed from an incident last August, when a Mexican national was denied admittance to the swimming pool. The pool since has closed for the winter. At the meeting Wednesday night, however, Lemon said the government raised the race issue because the individual in question was a U.S. citizen, not a Mexican national. "The Labor Department is trying to run the braceros (migrant laborers) out of this country," Walker asserted. "The secretary of agriculture and the secretary of labor are doing everything in their power to do away with the bracero program. "The President himself is against it. A bill is to be introduced in Congress to make farmers use unionized labor." In Dallas, the Labor Department spokesman cited Article 8 of the migrant labor agreement between this country and Mexico. It prohibits employment of Mexican workers if there is discrimination because of their nationality or ancestry. "The Mexican government will allow their workers to come into the United States and work only after they have received assurances from the communities and firms they have been contracted to work in have given them an agreement that they will not be discriminated against," the spokesman said.

Postmaster Urges Special Care For Christmas Mail

Adding extra clerks and supplementing the number of trucks used to carry mail will be but one part of the Big Spring Post Office Christmas effort, E. C. Boatler, postmaster, said. In the final analysis, he pointed out, the real success of whether or not Christmas mail reaches its destination in good shape and on time depends tremendously on the person mailing the items. Bigger crews and more rolling equipment won't help half as much as early mailing of Christmas cards and gifts, Boatler said. Three rules are of great importance, he stressed: Wrap Christmas gifts securely; Be sure they are addressed clearly and correctly; Mail all your gifts and cards early. If these rules are observed, Boatler believes, it can almost be guaranteed that no disappointed friends and loved ones will be found on Christmas Day. "I hate," he said, "to see folks taking chances on mailing poorly wrapped packages. Despite careful handling every year too many packages break open in transit and too often we have to puzzle over names and addresses which are incomplete or simply cannot be read at all." Before mailing an article of unusual size or bulk, he suggests you consult with the post office. Limits on size and weight of packages varies depending on where you mail your package. He also recommended that as an added precaution against loss, that both your return address and that of the recipient be placed inside the package or carton before it is wrapped.

Optimists Set Up Tree Shop

The first load of trees arrived at the Optimist Christmas tree lot 4 1/2 miles south of town Wednesday. Optimists reached the location at the Nalley-Pickles parking lot and are on duty trying to get a jump on the early tree buying. They took the initiative several weeks ago when members began selling Christmas tree cards which can be applied toward the purchase of trees. The cards sell for $1 each. All 48 active Optimists will be taking turns during the sale, according to T. A. Thigpen, president. They will work two-hour shifts around the clock to dispose of the 1,000 trees before Christmas. "We have more trees on hand this year and urge buyers to stop in early for a better selection," he said. Last year the group sold about 700 trees and advance sales on the cards indicate this year will be even better. More trees are available if they are needed, Thigpen said. All sizes of trees are available and prices are $2-4, according to size and quality. Proceeds from the sale are used to finance worthy local projects sponsored by the Optimist Club.

Wins Reversal Of Conviction
On Hitting Cop

AUSTIN (AP)—A Sherman man has won reversal of his conviction for assaulting a police officer. The Court of Criminal Appeals said the trial judge refused to submit to the jury the possibility that the cop hit first. The court ordered a new trial for John Turley, who was given a three-month jail sentence for aggravated assault on Bobby Bell, Sherman policeman. Bell testified Turley struck him after arresting him for speeding. Turley contended Bell hit him on the head with a clipboard after the two exchanged heated words. Turley also said he only scuffed with the officer. Court records showed Turley's lawyers requested that the jury be charged with the contention that Turley had the right to defend himself against the use of greater force by the policeman than was required to make the arrest. The court refused to do this. The appeals court opinion said a defensive theory should always be submitted to the jury even though the evidence is conflicting.

Dr. Grollman Ends Three Days Of Lectures Here

A three-day session of lectures on various medical subjects by Dr. Arthur Grollman, chairman of the department of Experimental Medicine at Southwestern Medical School in Dallas, came to a close today at the Veterans Administration Hospital.

Dr. Grollman delivered two lectures each day. They were attended by both VA Hospital personnel and visitors from local medical facilities.

Y's Men Plan Pageant Work

The constitution and by-laws were approved and members heard reports on several projects, when the Y's Men Club met at the YMCA this morning.

Plans for the second annual Christmas Pageant, which will be sponsored by the club this year, were discussed. Forecasts are that the pageant will be a bit longer and more elaborate.

It will be produced Dec. 19 and 21, with two performances each evening. Over 50 members of the YMCA are involved in the production which will feature colorful costumes valued at about $1,000, on loan from the Big Spring Civic Theatre.

Donna Marie May Be Taken To Illinois In Near Future

There is a good possibility that Donna Marie Stone, Howard County jail's problem child, will be transferred from Big Spring to Belleville, Ill. sometime in the near future.

Donna Marie, who is the 13-year-old girl friend of John Edwin Myers, under indictment for murder with malice, was recently returned to Howard County jail, juvenile ward from Gainesville where she had been in the Texas State Training School For Girls.

This morning, Gil Jones, district attorney, said he had received a letter from authorities in Belleville, Ill., in which they said they would like to have custody of the girl.

Farmers To Protest Ruling

Seven West Texas cotton growers from this area are en route to Washington by air today to attend a conference Friday with Secretary of Labor Goldberg.

The meeting is relative to Public Law No. 78 which threatens to cut off the supply of bracero labor to the border states where such labor is considered important.

The meeting in Washington is to fix what constitutes seasonal labor. The United States Department of Labor, in a recent ruling, held that braceros may not be used for other than seasonal work.

This will be of grave impact on farming operations in this particular area and the group which left here, augmented by other delegations from many Texas counties, intend to protest strongly against the ruling.

Square Dance Session Today

The second of 10 square dance sessions at the YMCA will be held from 8-10 p.m. today. The public is invited to attend, according to Curtis L. Chatham, program secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Graves will instruct the course, which is basically a course in beginning square dance, but can also serve as a brush-up class.

About 20 couples were present for the first session Nov. 30. Admission is 50 cents for each couple of Y members and $1 for couples who are not members.

Scout Round Table Scheduled Today

A Boy Scout and Cub leaders' roundtable will be held today at 7:30 at the Old Student Union Building at Howard County Junior College, Bill McRee, Scout Executive, said Thursday morning.

Garrett Patton will be in charge of the Scout round table discussion, and Gene Campbell of the Cub round table.

Crucial Year For Oil Industry

DENVER (AP)—The new chairman of the Interstate Oil Compact Commission says he believes 1962 will be a crucial year for the oil industry.

Gov. Howard Edmondson of Oklahoma lists oil imports as the top problem.

Edmondson, 36, was elected chairman of the 33-state advisory body on oil and gas conservation Wednesday.

Half an hour after the compact gave unanimous approval to a resolution calling for a prompt reduction of oil imports.

Bids To Be Opened Friday On New Center

Bids will be opened Friday at 2 p.m. on the proposed College College Parks Shopping Center at East Fourth and Birdwell Lane in Big Spring.

Two buildings, to be added to the center later, will not be included in the bids, but will be contracted for before the first part of the construction program is completed, Little said.

The center will include a grocery, a department store, a drug store, barber and beauty shop, hardware store, men's and women's ready-to-wear, and others.

Over 15 acres will be included in the shopping center area and parking for 777 customers' cars will be provided. Total landscaping will include trees, shrubbery, and grass, with sprinkler systems for watering. Parking area lights will illuminate the area, and conduits run for lighting the trees when necessary for special effects.

Defendant May Take Stand In Assault Trial

DALLAS (AP)—Defense lawyers said they expected to call Anthony Davis, 41, burly Negro hotel owner, as their last major witness in his trial on a charge of raping a young freedom rider from Britain.

The English girl, 22, and a small brunette, accuses Davis of assaulting her in his hotel Sept. 28 while they talked about how she might land a job as a model.

A man's gold wedding band and a woman's cameo ring, valued at $72, were reported taken from the jewelry store by four Latin American males Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Jolen Miller, clerk, told police she had waited on the four men and later chased two of the boys, down West Third. They were lost in the traffic.

The locations of the accidents, and drivers of vehicles involved, including a hit and run, were: 1100 Stanford, Audrey Wray Stephens, 1100 Stanford, and Olyne Lowe Whiteside, 1100 Marjorie; 908 E. 2nd, Harland Hodnett, Big Spring, and Marsha Brown, 106 Gollard; Marcy Drive and Airbase Road, Margaret Langston, 35 Dallas; and James C. her here in the juvenile ward cell until the Myers case is called," he said. "I am in favor of sending her back to Illinois."

Jones said he would discuss the matter with Judge Carpenter and that a final decision would be reached soon.

Donna Marie and Myers are under indictments in Illinois for two murders and Myers is under an indictment in Missouri for another.

He is slated for trial sometime after January, 1962 in Rusk for the Howard County slaying last Sept. 1 of Arthur DeKraai. The case has been sent to Rusk on a change of venue.

Y Schedules School Visits

School visitation days, a new program to interest elementary school children in YMCA activities, begins this weekend, according to Curtis L. Chatham, program secretary.

Youngsters in grades three through six at Washington Elementary School will act as a pilot group to see how well the program is greeted, he said. If the children like it, the visitation days will be continued on a regular basis for all schools.

Friday's activities will be for boys in grades five and six and will include swimming and gym sports from 4-6 p.m.

All other classes will meet Saturday from 2-5 p.m. for planned pool and gym activities. The game room will also be open at that time. Chatham and Joe Leach, physical director, will supervise the various activities.

"We want to stimulate the children's interest in physical activities," Chatham said.

A follow-up inquiry will be made of the students and their parents to evaluate the program. Chatham advised the boys and girls to bring appropriate clothing, such as swim suits and gym clothes.

Four Men Take Rings

A theft of jewelry at Cizon's Jewelry Wednesday afternoon, and four minor traffic accidents, were investigated by Big Spring police officers last night.

A man's gold wedding band and a woman's cameo ring, valued at $72, were reported taken from the jewelry store by four Latin American males Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Jolen Miller, clerk, told police she had waited on the four men and later chased two of the boys, down West Third. They were lost in the traffic.

Jobless List Goes Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—The unemployment rate dropped last month for the first time in a year, President Kennedy reported today.

The rate fell from 6.8 per cent of the work force, where it has remained nearly constant for 11 months, to 6.1 per cent, Kennedy told the AFL-CIO convention in Miami, Fla.

Labor Department officials planned to give the complete November job picture later. Kennedy announced the unemployment rate in his speech.

The October job figures showed 67.8 million at work. The drop of 500,000 in the total employed during November reflects the seasonal shutdown in farming, construction and other outdoor jobs. But the rise in unemployment was less than seasonal, accounting for the lower rate.

Special Treatment Offered At Center

Speech therapy for eight preschool - age children has been started at the Howard County Rehabilitation (Crippled Children's) Center, Eighth and Owens, by Bettie Hilton, Director of the Center. Jim Thompson, a S. I. Miss Hilton has had four years of experience in speech therapy and came to the Big Spring center in October.

Each child is tested, or screened, and an articulation test is given to determine what voice sounds are defective, Miss Hilton said. If more than one is found defective she begins working on the sound that is normally developed first in babies—the vowel sounds. Some of these children are treated individually, and some in groups, depending upon the seriousness of the defects.

Equipment used in speech therapy include an audiometer for testing sounds, a tape recorder for recording sounds, and a record player.

Tower Bares Jet Answer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department describes the sale of 278 jet aircraft to Yugoslavia as beneficial to the United States because the planes help the Yugoslavs maintain their independence from Moscow.

made public a letter in which Brook Hays, as assistant secretary of state for congressional relations, asserted "it is clear that Yugoslavia's independence and resistance to Soviet imperialism have directly benefited the United States."

The letter, dated Nov. 28, was in reply to Tower's request for a recapitulation of the history of the Yugoslav aid program. The senator said there had been complaints from his state against the sale and against the training of Yugoslav pilots in Texas in the use of the jets.

Hays said the contract for sale of the jet aircraft was signed last March after approval by both the State and Defense departments on the grounds it was in accordance with the best interest of the United States.

He said the aircraft are outdated from the standpoint of U.S. military needs and any assumption that they have any strategic significance to this country is illfounded.

Since the date of the letter, Hays has been shifted from the State Department to President Kennedy's White House staff.

Rocket Society Concentrates On Payload

AUSTIN (AP)—Building rockets is no challenge to members of the Southwestern Rocket Society.

"If you've built one rocket, you've built 'em all," says David Torrealba, 23, the society president.

Instead, he explains, the society concentrates on each rocket's payload—the electronic equipment which measures and transmits information.

Since its founding in 1954, the society has built and fired four rockets, two with instrumented payloads and two with no electronic gear. Its nine members, all University of Texas students, are working on a third instrumented rocket.

Torrealba hopes to fire it 25,000 feet—about 4 1/2 miles—this summer at Ft. Sill, Okla. If the rocket goes that high, it will set an altitude record at the Army post's firing range, just as he says a society rocket did in 1958 when it climbed to 8,781 feet.

The young society members will be more interested in what the rocket's instruments tell them than how high it goes. They have put almost all of the last 18 months spent on the rocket into a 30-pound payload of four transmitters, called a telemetry package.

"The instruments will measure, and transmit back to us while the rocket is in flight, eight factors. Most of these, such as the rocket's acceleration, roll and pitch, will be important only in that they will provide data for the transmitters to send," Torrealba said.

"We will use an unconventional measure of atmospheric density—the amount of light scatter. At present, density is measured by barometers sent up in weather balloons. If our test is successful, it might open a new area of 'sounding rockets' to measure atmospheric density at any given time and height for astronomers," he said.

Water Request

FORT WORTH (AP)—Tarrant County Water Control District 1 has filed a new request to build a reservoir at Boyd, northwest of Fort Worth. The dam would impound 600,000 acre feet of water.

Radiation Cure Seen

GENEVA (AP)—A cure may be on the way for victims of nuclear radiation, the U.N. World Health Organization reports.

Transfusions and some complex chemicals may bring about the recovery of people suffering from forms of radiation sickness hitherto regarded as fatal, the WHO monthly Chronicle said.

Perhaps the greatest immediate danger after a strong dose of radiation, WHO researchers found, was that of infection from microbes that are everywhere.

Radiation knocks out the body's ability to ward off germs that normally give it little trouble.

One school of thought calls for a big dose of antibiotics even before the victim has an infection.

"Patients are usually kept in isolation in specially disinfected rooms," the report said.

Radiation also weakens the body's ability to make new blood—a process that goes on in the bone marrow.

Transfusions of whole blood or plasma may help, plus vitamins and minerals.

With a very high dose of radiation it was found that "patients might benefit from transfusions of bone marrow" until the body's own marrow can regenerate.

Medic Rules Cabot Death Was Suicide

BOSTON (AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Cabot, third wife of Hugh Cabot III, socially prominent artist, committed suicide by taking a massive dose of a tranquilizer, medical examiner Michael Luongo has ruled.

The former Elizabeth Peterson of Bethlehem, Pa., was found dead in an unoccupied apartment over their third floor Beacon Hill home Monday. Her husband found the body.

Cabot said his wife, 35, frequently went to the apartment to meditate and pray and had left a note saying she was "going out to pray."

He said Tuesday night he believed his wife took the tranquilizer by mistake. He had been using the drug for treatment of a perforated ulcer.

The Cabots were married Sept. 20. Cabot's previous wives were Geraldine Lusack of Warrenville, Ill., whom he married in Tokyo, and Greta Chadwick of Sonora, Tex.

Cabot was commended in 1954 as a combat artist in the Navy during the Korean War. Cabot formerly lived for a time at Fort Stockton, Tex., and Taos, N.M.

Ruling Upheld In Contempt Case

AUSTIN (AP)—The Supreme Court has upheld a contempt of court charge and short jail sentence for Betty Rhodes who took her daughter from Karnes County in violation of a court order.

The judgment in an uncontested divorce suit in 1954 stated that she would have custody of the child but prohibited changing the young girl's residence from Karnes County.

Last year, she married Barry Rhodes and moved to Bryan. The father of the child, Edgar Sherrill Jr., sued, seeking return of the child to Karnes County, definite visitation periods and punishment by contempt proceedings.

Mrs. Rhodes' lawyer argued that the judgment, in effect, prohibited her from remarriage and moving or seeking employment in another county without the consent of a district judge and that this deprived her of liberty without due process of law.

The Supreme Court upheld the District Court's contempt finding and 12-hour jail sentence.

South Plains Hereford Association, sponsor of the sale. This will be the 18th annual auction of the association and 68 head of exceptionally high quality Herefords have been slated for sale.

The sales list includes 62 bulls and six cows.

The initial event of the annual December gathering of the association members will be the banquet to be served Friday night at the Hotel Settles. This dinner, set for 7 p.m., which is to feature an address by Joe Evans, colorful El Paso veteran cattleman, is for the association members and their special invited guests.

Jimmy Taylor, secretary of the association, is to preside at the dinner. He said that piano selections by Cynthia Pond and vocal selections by Ira Schantz will be featured on the program in addition to the address by Evans.

Charlie Creighton, president of the association, said that this year's crop of Herefords at the sale is the best ever offered.

Science At Work

By The Associated Press
The push to orbit a U.S. astronaut before the end of the year, some curious facts about space-going chimpanzees, and saving calories in weightlessness are subjects for science at work:

Next!

U.S. Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., at 40 the oldest of the seven American space candidates, may be the first to orbit the earth.

He is now lodged in the astronaut ready room at Cape Canaveral, Fla., waiting for his chance which may come before New Year's Day.

Glenn's quarters in Hangar 5 on the sprawling missile base are only a few steps away from the area where space-going chimpanzees Enos and Ham were prepared for their space flights. Newer, more complete astronaut quarters are being planned for the cape.

Enos And Brethren

Chimpanzees, like Enos and Ham, are mightier than men in many ways.

The men who handle the space chimpanzees say that these apes are 4½ times as strong as men of similar weight. Chimpanzees have been found which stand up to 3½ feet tall, and have an arm spread of 6 feet.

Although the average life span of chimpanzees is usually in the thirties, some have been known to live 45 years. Most of the space chimpanzees are young—3 to 6 years old, and small—about 40 pounds.

Space Diet

An astronaut—gliding in weightlessness through space—will probably need no more than some 2,400 calories a day in meals, a scientist suggests.

At work, the space pilot's efforts that on earth would cost some 216 calories per hour working against gravity, would cost only 144 calories an hour in weightlessness.

Under normal gravity on earth, a space pilot resting, but awake, would use 94 calories an hour, but would use only 85 calories an hour resting and awake without gravity to contend with.

Sleeping, on earth or in space, the cost in calories is about the same—some 65 calories an hour, said Dr. Carsbie C. Adams, president of the National Research and Development Corp.

Hot Stuff In Space

A spacecraft—venturing toward the moon—will be speeding through showers of cosmic rays or huge bands of radiation. But much of the radiation danger to the space pilot may come from the thin walls of his spacecraft where some of the radiation is trapped.

Bendix Corp. scientists, calculating radiation danger, say that some of the high energy particles speeding through space will strike the spacecraft's hull and transfer some of their energy to atoms in the hull.

These atoms then become excited and emit lower grade radiation over a longer period of time. This sort of hazard could be greater than if the high energy particle had passed right through the body of the space pilot at full strength.

Slim Example

One of the best ways parents can induce an overweight child to lose weight is to set a proper example, a medical study in London indicates.

The study project, reported in World-Wide Abstracts of General Medicine, dealt with 100 overweight children between the ages of 7 and 14. Of the group, 74 had either one or both parents overweight.

Herefords Begin Arriving For Sale

Herefords from the South Plains area, consigned to the auction here Saturday, were arriving today at the Howard County Fair Grounds.

Some of the stock showed up on Wednesday. The bulk will be placed in the barns on Friday, according to Charlie Creighton, president of the Howard County-

Court To Rule In Traffic Case

AUSTIN (AP)—The Supreme Court has agreed to hear arguments in a case where the Department of Public Safety tried to withhold the return of a driver's license of a man convicted of speeding while his license was suspended.

The court granted a hearing on a point brought up on whether the Court of Civil Appeals could say that the question of withholding was moot.

The suit was originally brought in Lubbock County. Virgil Austin had his license suspended Dec. 12, 1959, for six months for habitual violations.

The court record brought out that during the suspension period he was convicted of speeding and the Lubbock County Corporation Court suspended the license again.

In trial court, it was held that there was insufficient evidence to support the second suspension, and, in effect, restored the license when the six-month suspension ended.

A lawyer for Austin argued that he was not convicted of driving while license suspended, but for speeding.

Years ahead

This Christmas there are two Champions—both years ahead of other straight brands.

8 year old Champion Kentucky Bourbon figures to be a better gift than a 4 year old Bourbon—and is unbeatable at its 4 year old price! And the taste! It's mellower and smoother by far than anything around in its price bracket.

To give the ultimate in the extra taste that comes with extra age, give Champion 12.

That extra taste is very rare, indeed unique, among Straights. It costs a bit more and is perfection for those extra-special friends. Both the 8 and 12 year old come gift-wrapped for the holidays.

GIA Has Election

Mrs. C. L. Kirkland will head the GIA following an election Wednesday morning at Carpenters Hall. Sixteen attended. Elected vice president is Mrs. L. N. Brooks; secretary is Mrs. R. D. Ulrey, and treasurer is Mrs. L. A. Griffith. Serving as chaplain will be Mrs. Tip Anderson, while Mrs. Roy Smith will be guide. The sentinel is to be Mrs. L. A. Reese, and the delegate to the convention to be held in Cleveland, Ohio, is Mrs. O. T. Arnold; Mrs. R. C. Williams is alternate. Mrs. E. A. Williams is relief secretary. Out-going president is Mrs. J. C. Craven. The group will have a Christmas party at 2:30 p.m., Dec. 20, in the home of Mrs. D. C. Pyle; there will be a gift exchange if it was announced.

Party Is Planned

A breakfast party is planned for Friday from 7 until 10 p.m., in the Goliad Junior High Gymnasium. The party is being sponsored by students of the ninth grade.

Ministers Speak For Two Hyperion Groups

Local ministers were speakers for members of two Hyperion Clubs at their meetings in members' homes Wednesday afternoon. 1953 HYPERION
Mrs. Jim Bill Little entertained 19 members of the 1953 Hyperion Club, Wednesday afternoon at her home, 1706 Yale. Cobostess was Mrs. John Hogg. The Rev. Al Seddon, pastor of St. Paul Presbyterian Church, was the speaker. Mr. Seddon has served in various churches of Mexico and for two years was a missionary there. His subject was "Christianity and Communism." Following the talk there was a question and answer period with general discussion of related subjects. During a business session, a report was made on the club's card party and plans for a charitable project discussed. A dessert course was served from a silver appointed table which was spread with white linen cutwork cloth. A small silver tree and miniature packages formed the centerpiece. 1946 HYPERION
Mrs. Harry Blomsheld was welcomed into the 1946 Hyperion Wednesday afternoon at a meeting in the home of Mrs. M. W. Talbot. Mrs. J. W. Tipton was cobostess. Guest speaker for the afternoon was the Rev. Donald Hungerford, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal Church; following the theme of the club's study, he selected the subject, "Man's Expression of Himself Through Religion." Revisions in the club's by-laws were made and accepted by the group. Mrs. H. M. Jarratt is scheduled as the hostess for the meeting on Jan. 3. Also slated for January

Auxiliary To Have Christmas Coffee

Members of the Lions Auxiliary will have their Christmas party Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. John L. Dibrill Jr., 803 Dallas. The occasion is planned as a coffee from 10 to 11:30 a.m., with Mrs. D. S. Riley as cobostess.

Noble Grand Club Has Holiday Party In L. Cole Home

A turkey dinner was served to members of the John A. Kee Noble Grand Club Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Leon Cole. Holly, surrounded by baskets of popcorn balls with peppermint sticks, decorated the tables, which were covered with red cloths. The group voted to send Christmas gifts to their adopted orphan, David Mesker at the Children's Home in Corsicana. A report was given on the recent bake sale. Mrs. Grace Grandstaff, outgoing president, spoke to the group, and Mrs. W. C. Cole was recognized as president, with Mrs. Garland Land as secretary-treasurer. Gifts were exchanged and secret pals were revealed by the 23 attending.

Holiday Luncheon Planned For Circle

A Christmas luncheon was planned for Dec. 19 when members of the Mary Zinn Circle, First Methodist Church, met Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. W. A. Miller. The social will be given at 12 noon in the home of Mrs. W. A. Laswell, with Mrs. Neil Lawson as cobostess. Mrs. Laswell reported on the World Council of Churches for the group after an opening prayer by Mrs. Clyde Thomas. Mrs. Jake Bishop presented a devotion, and refreshments were served to 19.

Tri-Hi-Y Plans For Formal Party

Eighteen members and two leaders were present for the regular meeting of Goliad Eighth Grade Tri-Hi-Y, Monday afternoon at the YMCA. Plans for a holiday formal and a bake sale were discussed. Members were asked to give Kandis Long their contributions for the World Service. The meeting was dismissed with the Lord's Prayer, repeated in unison.

Bride-Elect Honored

STANTON (SC)—Modine Graves, bride-elect of Gene Lundgren, was honored Saturday with a bridal shower at the home of Mrs. Glenn Brown. Hostesses were Mrs. Earl Douglas, Mrs. Noybe Hamilton, Mrs. Loyd Henson, Mrs. Frank Brandt, Mrs. H. S. Blocker, Mrs. Ray Simpson, Mrs. Alex Haggard, Mrs. Owen Kelly, Mrs. E. T. heard no one even complain about the headaches of holiday shopping. Perhaps they, too haven't started. . . in about 10 days I will probably meet them in the stores and join them in a state of confusion as merry as the state of good cheer we have been in this week.

At the Cosden Club Wednesday morning when the Stewart-Folk-Edwards coffee was in full swing we noted the number of pretty pill box hats. MRS. IKE ROBB had such a pretty red one perched in her dark hair, and MRS. AU-BREY BRYANS wore a dressier type banded with rhinestones and a short veil. . . MRS. CHARLES BUCKNER'S version matched her red dress and MRS. G. H. WOOD wore a black beauty.

MRS. TOMMY GAGE was a bright in a coat of clear red topped with black fur and MRS. NORMAN READ'S attractive red outfit was collared with the ring styling. . . MRS. HAYES STRIP-LING JR., wore gold accessories with a white knit dress. . . her sister-in-law, MRS. HARROL JONES was attired in winter white. . . In the houseparty, MRS. TOOTS MANSFIELD wore a deep, but bright blue sheath piped in white and with it wore white slippers with red and blue stitching. . . MRS. VERNON SMITH'S blue knit looked smart under her mink stole. MRS. W. G. WILSON JR., was showing her latest gift from her husband, a gold satin rose surrounded with mink used as a corsage.

MRS. A. C. PRESTON is in Odessa to be with her newest grandson, STEPHEN PRESTON SYKES, who was born Monday to MR. and MRS. HAPPY SYKES (Melba Preston). The baby weighed 6 1/2 pounds at birth and is the third child of the Sykeses. Mrs. Preston plans to be with the family for a week.

Coming here for a visit this weekend are MR. and MRS. R. R. McEWEN SR., who "make their home in La Jolla, Calif.

A delightful party for families of the Standardization group at Webb was held in the pavilion Sunday hosted by CAPT. and MRS. Two Are Honorees At Party

Mrs. Gregg Smith and Mrs. Roger Anderson were honored Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Head on Albrook. The bride-luncheon was given by Mrs. Head as a farewell gesture. Mrs. Smith will leave soon to make her home in Ohio and Mrs. Anderson will be going to Missouri.

A Christmas motif was carried out with large red wreath over the fireplace and a poinsettia plant, in the living room. In the dining room the table centerpiece was a Madonna with evergreen at the base; a small white Christmas tree with twinkling lights and candles, on the buffet. Bits of spruce and holly with lighted candles centered the individual luncheon tables, where 20 of the honorees' invited friends were served. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Anderson received gifts of Christmas wrapped cork memo boards. Mrs. Edward Aiken received first prize for bridge, and second prize went to Mrs. Franklyn Snyder.

CLUB PARTY FRIDAY NIGHT

Members of the Wednesday Night Dance Club who would like table reservations for the Friday night Christmas formal may make them with W. E. Ramsey at Cosden Country Club. Chuck Cabot and his orchestra will provide music for dancing from 9 o'clock to 1 a.m. Breakfast will be served afterward. Couples who are members may bring two couples as their guests.

Frances Butler Troop President

Frances Butler was elected as president of Brownie Troop No. 67 when it met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. D. Tindol, the leader.

The group's new vice president is Veanda Griffith, and secretary-treasurer is Rebecca Patton. Fourteen members were present. They worked on current projects and made plans for the Christmas party, Dec. 19.

A&M Mothers

Husbands of A&M Mothers Club members will be special guests at a meeting this evening at 7:30. The gathering is set for the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Porter, Old San Angelo Highway.

Flower Groupings For Church Studied By Club

Mrs. John B. Knox discussed flower arrangements for churches for members of the Big Spring Garden Club Wednesday morning at a meeting in the home of Mrs. J. E. Brown, Mrs. Garner McAdams was cobostess.

The speaker recommended that, for the sake of economy, flowers in season be used as much as possible; she advised using large flowers in mass arrangements and explained that deep colors are better than pastel shades because they can be seen from a distance more easily.

Be sure that the arrangement is solid and safe with no loose branches or stems to cause accidents, and keep the grouping simple but dignified with a small amount of foliage, Mrs. Knox stated.

The speaker displayed arrangements made along the lines for church bouquets, and members showed swags for decorating doors at Christmastime.

Mrs. P. D. O'Brien announced that the decorations planned by the club for the state hospital must be inspected for fire safety; the group will place the holiday decorations soon.

An invitation from Mrs. J. D. Leonard of the Oasis Garden Club was read for members to attend a lecture on "Pest Control" to be given Jan. 10, 1962, at Cosden Country Club at 10 a.m.

The next meeting of the club is set for Jan. 3 in the home of Mrs. J. E. Hogan, 509 Westover Road.

HOLIDAY PARTY

Gay Colors Add To Yuletide Coffee

Green, red and royal blue frocks of the house party added holiday beauty to the coffee given Wednesday morning at Cosden Country Club by Mrs. Merle Stewart, Mrs. Randall Polk and Mrs. M. M. Edwards.

Following though with the yuletide colors were the red carnation corsages worn by the hostesses and their friends, who alternated at greeting guests and serving coffee with various kinds of delicacies.

On a polished table in the Blue Room, Santa Claus in a red velvet suit sat astride a white reindeer in the midst of red carnations. Red carnations also enhanced the buffet on the wall opposite the table.

Included in the house party were Mrs. Robert Middleton, Mrs. G. T. Hall, Mrs. Carl Strom, Mrs. Clyde Angel, Mrs. Bill Neal, Mrs. Robert Stripling, Mrs. Hubert Stipp.

Also, Mrs. Allen Hamilton, Mrs. Lewis Price, Mrs. Lester Morton, Mrs. Robert Currie, Mrs. Harold Talbot, Mrs. Max Fitzgerald, Mrs. Toots Mansfield, Mrs. Horace Garrett.

And Mrs. Roy Reeder, Mrs. Lorin McDowell, Mrs. Hayes Stripling, Mrs. Herbert Keaton, Mrs. R. W. Whipkey, Mrs. Harry Hurt, Mrs. Jack Irons and Mrs. Ray Swann of Coahoma.

Lee Heads TAABC For Next Term

A man was installed as president of the Texas Association of Accredited Beauty Culturists, which met Tuesday evening at Arnold's Cafeteria.

Installed with Jerry Lee, the new president, were Mrs. Glen Gibson, first vice president; Mrs. Jimmy Eason, second vice president; Mrs. Jo Kimble, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. W. R. Rogers, historian and reporter.

Heston Kyle of Hub Beauty Supply, Lubbock, was guest speaker. A plaque commending him on his work with the local unit was presented to the speaker by Mrs. Harold Bentley.

Twenty-two were present, and Mrs. Kyle attended as a special guest. Members brought toys to be given to children at Christmas.

Jan Arnold Is Feted On Birthday

A party, given Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Essig Arnold of Sand Springs, was in honor of their daughter, Jan, who celebrated her eighth birthday anniversary.

Games entertained the 12 guests and a cake, frosted in white with pink roses, was served to the group. Favors were balloons, bubble gum and horns.

A Devotional for Today

I will instruct thee and teach thee in the way which thou shalt go: I will guide thee with mine eye. (Psalms 32:8.)

PRAYER: We thank Thee, O God, for this promise that Thou wilt guide us with Thine eye. Help us, dear Lord, always to remember that Thine eye is not only leading us but also guiding us, at every step, into Thy way. In Jesus' name we pray. Amen.

Steam Goes Out Of Red Engine

Writing from Hong Kong for the Chicago Daily News Syndicate, Keyes Beech relays the report that "the steam has gone out of the Chinese revolution."

It has run out of steam because it has run out of food enough to fuel 700 million people, he observed. To mitigate — not overcome—the terrific food shortage, China has had to indulge in massive grain purchases from Australia, Canada and elsewhere. The Chinese Reds have had to yield 380 million dollars in precious foreign exchange. Some reports say the Reds have sold silver and gold plundered on world markets and even have pledged art treasures to raise cash.

Keyes says that too many stories are being brought into Hong Kong with such persistence and uniformity to doubt that Red China is in deep trouble. There has been little or no starvation, but the pinched faces of Chinese emigrants reflect the shortage of adequate rations. Moreover, something over 20 million of those who were shifted from farm to factory are being shifted back to farm. Numerous industries are on half-day production and many light industrial units are reportedly out of production.

Theft and corruption, which the Red Chinese once proudly boasted had been abolished, are reappearing. So is begging and a hated "capitalist" custom of tipping. Peasants are actually encouraged to plant private garden plots and sell the surplus on the open market.

Yet, it would be wishful thinking that an overthrow of the Red regime is imminent. The secret police are still potent and the Communists are thoroughly entrenched. Moreover, the machine has had to give to prevent collapse and thus has developed flexibility for survival. What this does mean, Keyes believes, is that it will take Red China years to regain lost ground and even longer to realize a cherished dream of industrialization—if indeed it is ever realized. The Red masters may well keep control, but they "no longer will command the dedicated enthusiasm that was the wellspring of their success until their blunders caught up with them." The great leap forward has been hobbled to a hop.

In Line Of Duty

President Kennedy's spirited defense of the call-up and mission of 156,000 reservists and National Guardsmen, in answer to critical press conference questions this week, was a rebuke to those misunderstanding or misrepresenting a vital security move.

The reservists and the general public alike should realize the vital purpose of the call-up, as Kennedy explained it: "To prevent a war, not to fight a war . . . to indicate that the United States is serious about its commitments . . . (that) it wants to negotiate a peaceful settlement if it can, but it does not propose to surrender."

The crisis in Berlin, along with the lesser ones in Southeast Asia, the Caribbean and Africa, make it imperative that the United States convincingly demonstrate the will to fight either a nuclear or a limited war. Such a conviction on the part of America's adversaries in world affairs is indispensable to deterring aggression and achieving negotiation that does not risk appeasement fatal to freedom.

Irresponsible meddling in, or weak popular reaction against, the functioning of the ready-reserve program could at this time cast dangerous doubt on the American national will to stand firm against Sino-Soviet imperialist adventures. President Kennedy paid high tribute to the value of the duty and sacrifice of the reserve forces, and no one should degrade it.

Kennedy Tactics Have De Gaulle Unhappy

WASHINGTON—Diplomacy by means of published interviews has struck a snag among the Western Allies. Outwardly, Great Britain and West Germany have gone along, but rumblings in France have become noticeable.

President De Gaulle, for instance, thought the interview given by President Kennedy to the editor of "Investia"—who happens to be Khrushchev's son-in-law—was a serious error in tactics. A significant dispatch from Paris published this week in "U.S. News & World Report" says that the "Investia" interview is regarded in the French capital "as the latest in a series of tragic mistakes." It adds:

"PRESIDENT DE GAULLE is convinced that President Kennedy is prepared to sacrifice West German interests in order to save Western rights in Berlin. He fears disillusionment on the part of the West Germans that can lead first toward neutralism, then toward a deal with Russia to reunite the two Germanys."

"De Gaulle's belief is that 'another Yalta' is in the making, and he sees no reason why France should participate in any such negotiations with Russia. De Gaulle's view is that if the United States and Britain are determined to negotiate with Russia there is nothing he can do to stop them. But France will not take part on the basis set forth in the Kennedy interview."

AS THE FRENCH President sees it: Mr. Kennedy, in the interview, was talking to Soviet public opinion. He was talking to Khrushchev, too. In his (De Gaulle's) opinion, the interview amounted to negotiating in public about issues and U.S. proposals on which the Western Allies are not agreed.

"The interview, it is pointed out here, covered much more than the area for possible negotiation that Mr. Kennedy and Germany's Chancellor Adenauer agreed to in their recent meeting. At that meeting, it was agreed to limit negotiations with Russia to Berlin. But, in the published interview, Mr. Kennedy talked of restricting West German armament. He talked of negotiating to 'keep the peace in Central Europe.' He indicated a willingness to accept a divided Germany for 15 years, if agreement is reached on Berlin. He seemed ready to accept a Soviet peace treaty with Communist East Germany, if Western rights in Berlin are protected . . .

"IN RECENT WEEKS, representatives of the U.S., West Germany, Britain and France have been meeting to discuss proposals they might make to Russia if a conference is called . . .

"It is understood here that one of the American proposals was to create an 'international administration' over all access routes to West Berlin—by air as well as land and water. This idea was advanced by Mr. Kennedy in his interview with 'Investia,' although U.S. Allies, themselves, are not agreed on the idea. It was the bringing of such proposals out into the open at this stage that disturbed De Gaulle. He feels that the U.S. is going too far and moving too fast in its efforts to come to terms with the Soviet Union."

THE QUESTION naturally arises as to what part, if any, the Secretary of State himself played in the handling of the President's interview with the editor of "Investia." It would be surprising to find that a diplomat of experience would approve of the revelation of delicate matters under discussion with Allies without consulting them in advance as to the wisdom of such disclosure. Just how seriously the French regard the mistake is indicated in the concluding paragraph of the Paris dispatch quoted in part above:

"As French officials see it: If there was a chance after the Kennedy-Adenauer talks that De Gaulle finally would agree to participate in the preparations for a conference with Russia, that chance almost disappeared after the Kennedy interview with Nikita Khrushchev's son-in-law."

THE TENDENCY to go it alone in a matter of Allied strategy probably will be defended in quarters here as necessary in order to bring about, through world opinion, the harmony that is not achievable through diplomatic channels. But it is risky business. Already Walter Ulbricht, the East German leader, has denounced the Kennedy proposal—made publicly for the first time in the "Investia" interview—for an international administration of access routes to West Berlin from West Germany. This is one tactic that Moscow employs to knock down the President's proposals with the idea of getting more and more concessions before the negotiations actually begin. President De Gaulle feels that the Russians should come to the West with proposals for negotiation and that the West should not take the initiative in offering bargaining proposals to Khrushchev.

WITHIN ANOTHER week the foreign ministers of the Western Allies are due to meet in Paris. So far as is known, they have not yet agreed to any agreement on the main proposals to be made to Russia, and that is why it is wholly unprecedented for public statements to be issued that lend to commit the Allies to a position which they themselves have not all accepted.

Disension among allies is not surprising, but to express differences publicly in advance of negotiation makes it difficult for any foreign minister or secretary of state to perform effectively the duties of his office. The State Department here is frequently under fire, and some of the White House aides are sometimes impatient with its slow-moving tendencies, but in the long run it's better to listen to your doctor or lawyer, as they know from experience with other cases the pitfalls arising from indifference to competent advisors.

TOUGHNESS—ON THE INSTALLMENT PLAN

James Marlow

Looking At The Larger View

WASHINGTON (AP)—Today, 20 years after the United States got into World War II, optimists like to think this country is winning the third world war, the cold one. Plenty disagree.

American self-examination increases—as the years of struggle with communism stretch out with no end in sight—but always from a single starting point: How did communism, which could claim only 170 million people in Russia 20 years ago, manage to gather in one billion now, extending from Eastern Europe, through Russia, and into Red China and Southeast Asia?

THERE IS no single and no easy answer. Nor is there one to many other questions about this war which is deadly without shooting. For instance: How it started or how it could have been stopped. In some cases communism was a response to wretched conditions, in some to intrigue, treachery, and military power. It is questionable any single action or series of actions could have choked it off.

Communism is more than just a political or economic system. It is a challenging idea and, like capitalism, almost inevitably would have had to find some way to run its course.

Discontented men, perhaps for centuries, would have discussed it and perhaps tried it again if tomorrow it were crushed by an outside force instead of evolving into something quite different under its own power.

NEW YORK (AP)—Twenty years after the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt still has vivid memories of that fateful day that changed the world.

She had just finished luncheon with guests in the White House when an usher informed her of the Japanese surprise attack. The President was upstairs alone in his study.

"Cabinet members and staff officers began arriving," recalled Mrs. Roosevelt. She retired to her sitting room and tried to busy herself with her mail.

"Just before dinner I got in to speak to Franklin," she said. "He was very tired, but on the whole very calm—and chiefly interested in what he was going to do next."

"The worst had happened. He had hoped we would not be engaged in a two-front war—and now we were. There was nothing to do but to meet it."

"Tired as he looked, I could feel the certainty was easier for him to accept than the uncertainty before. It is always easier when you know what you face, and can make plans, than to have to live with uncertainty."

At 77, widowed 16 years now, Anna Eleanor Roosevelt still meets the uncertainties of this world with grace and charm and courage and an unflinching cheerfulness.

She still makes four or five public appearances a week, writes a three-weekly newspaper column, a monthly magazine column, and freely gives of her time to scores who come to her for advice or comfort.

Here are her replies to a series of questions about her life and views:

"I've never thought through a personal philosophy of my own. I'm one of those who live pretty much day by day and meet the opportunities that come to them."

"Life is the acquisition of experience and the ability to face realities and accept them."

"What troubles most people is the almost automatic clinging to things that are known, and not being excited by the things that are unknown. This brings about a fear to face change in a constantly changing world."

"The younger generation? Frequently their biggest problem isn't themselves but their parents. I think the present young generation is better informed and more serious than the previous two or three generations were."

"No, I wouldn't want to be young again myself. I am satisfied with the period in which I lived. When you are young you have many unsatisfied ambitions, but have none now."

Asked if she had any regrets or ever brooded over the past, Mrs. Roosevelt smiled, and shook her head. Her blue eyes looked over at a small statue near the window of the famed winged victory of Samothrace—her personal symbol of timeless courage and endurance.

"The thing I am most grateful for," she said, "is for an interesting life—and the opportunities I had to learn along the way."

Around The Rim

Corrupting The Grown Up "Kids"

There is an old saying about the bartender knowing a lot of things he shouldn't and being discreet about passing the word along. If this is true, then I suspect the bartender is a kinsman of the bookseller.

Some years ago, while earning my bread through a session of college, I worked in a small magazine store. When getting the door open the first time, I recall stocking the shelves with the fare we thought would attract the most college readers. This included all of the high-brow magazines, the so-called "little magazines," and paperback editions of the great authors.

ALMOST WITHOUT exception, these magazines failed to produce many dimes and quarters for the till.

But on a back shelf, there were some of the so-called "girly-girly" magazines. These went like hot cakes. In fact, we couldn't keep enough of them.

Comic books were wasted. There were few children customers, so there were few takers.

But college students accounted for only about a third of my trade. Adults were the rest and they bought enormous amounts of the mushy literature.

In those innocent days, the girly-girly books were not as trashy as they are today, and though certainly they were in bad taste, they were not obscene. But nonetheless, they sold as fast as they were delivered.

INEVITABLY, THE occasional professor who bought them mentioned to me that he was doing some research on "modern literature" or something. Other customers usually coiled the magazine tightly and slipped it into an inside pocket or between the leaves of a notebook. I don't recall any of them walking out of the store in the offhand manner of a newspaper purchaser. They usually made an attempt at slipping furtively out as though carrying a cache of opium.

IN MY EXPERIENCE, it was not the children who were being hurt by such literature; indeed it was adults who created the market. Since those times, I have discussed the matter with booksellers at every opportunity and find most of them report a similar pattern, depending on the location.

This particular kind of reading material has grown much more popular since those unenlightened days and have gone farther downhill than just being in bad taste. Taking one with another, I doubt that our extremely youthful children are harmed by them. However, there may be adults among us who are.

Traffic Jams Preserve Our Morals

Is it possible that one-way streets, lack of parking space and the traffic congestion common to all great American cities keeps alive the puritan tradition in the United States?

Is the automobile the guardian rather than the wayward destroyer of native morals? Or, rather, the traffic jams it causes in American megapolises?

BY THE WAY, let us pause for a moment to consider that word: megapolis. We had best become accustomed to it, since it is now the fashionable—really, the intellectual—epithet for big city or metropolis. In recent months I have been unable to pick up any magazine or book dealing with the life, times and problems of large cities without at once coming across "megapolis."

This noun, with its good Greek root, is now a dirty word for New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, St. Louis or other big city in any book or article with pretensions to solving urban problems. The situation is going to become more megapolis before it gets better.

BUT NOW, back to the traffic impasse, the guardian of virtue. When I went to see "La Dolce Vita," picturing the decadent life of Italy's cafe society set, the picture's force as a first-rate modern morality play overshadowed its other facets for me.

Its portrayal of sin as ugly as ugly as sin obscured temporarily for me the fact that Roman members of cafe "cicci" restlessly raced from one scene of bored turpitude to another of half-wit debauchery. "Raced" is the key word here. Eventually I began to wonder how those dissipated Romans ever did it. Raced, that is.

I HAVE NEVER been in Rome since the war when traffic wasn't at a standstill. The Vespa has the illusion of speed only because they make so much noise. So the more I thought about "La Dolce Vita" the more I wondered how Roman society, even jet-propelled, got around not to decadence, but to so much of it in any given 24-hour period. Perhaps, with luck, they could make it to two orgies per day, but the rest of the time they were surely standing still in Roman traffic, doing nothing more censurable than nail-biting and cursing.

THAT CONVICTION became certainty a few days ago as I sat in New York traffic, twiddling my thumbs, as I tried to get to a tea party for a friend from England, a cocktail party for a friend from California, a dinner party, the theatre and a supper party.

With superhuman effort I made the tea, the dinner and the theatre. Traffic did me in, and sent me home at the end of the evening but a shadow of the blithe woman who had set out at 4 p.m. on a round of pleasure. I was in bed by midnight, the hour for any worthwhile orgy to get under way.

EVER SINCE that day, I have been contemplating the role of traffic as Mrs. Grundy in this and other megapolises. Give a thought to the dedicated rounder or Don Juan. He leaves one rendezvous, with a scant 15 minutes to get to the next, and finds that he is parked on a one-way street, going in the wrong direction.

By the time he is headed in the right direction, he is already late. And when he arrives at the proper cross street, he discovers a sign reading "No left turns till 5 a.m." Thirty minutes later, as he draws up in front of his lady's apartment house, a sign reads "No Parking on Thursdays" and this is Thursday.

NEXT HE SEEKS a neighborhood parking lot or garage and meets only a sign reading "No Vacancies." He is now two hours late, exhausted and in no mood. So he goes home and spends what is left of the evening with a good book. Virtue and the combustion engine have triumphed. (Copyright, 1961, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

In A Real Bind On Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON — Russia's presence on the United Nations Trustee Council appears to be one of the hidden reasons why the United States does not resume atmospheric testing of nuclear weapons.

This is as tender a subject as can be found in Washington. No high official wants to admit that Russia holds this much veto power over American policy. Those officials who are against testing, anyhow, have here an imposing argument for their do-nothing case. Officials who are deeply convinced that we should get on with in-the-air testing, and who are disturbed because so much time has already gone by, are hesitant to agitate the issue. The situation is as follows:

ONLY THREE nations of the world — the U. S. A., New Zealand and the United Kingdom — are today administering the affairs of trust territories under the U.N. Charter. The U. S. A. has a vast expanse and literally hundreds of islands in the Pacific, the region where most of our above-the-surface tests have been made. The following is a description of the U. S. trust territory from the handbook, "Everyman's United Nations, 1959, Sixth Edition," the most recent to be published in English:

"THIS U. S.-administered territory, located in the Central Pacific and spread over three million square miles of ocean, is composed of 2,141 islands with a total land area of 687 square miles. Of these islands only 97 are inhabited by some 65,000 people, who are broadly classes as Micronesians."

The U. S. Pacific tests in the mid-1950's caused walls and protests from Japan. Tokyo riots of 1960, which gave Presidential Aide Jim Hagerty a bad time and caused President Eisenhower to cancel a scheduled visit to Japan. Natives on such islands as Bikini and Eniwetok were moved in 1946 to Kili and Ujeland. Other groups of Micronesians were displaced in 1954 from Rongelap and Utrik because of radioactive fallout. They have since been repatriated.

THE RUSSIAN Arctic tests of September-October, 1961, ironically caused more animosity against the tests than the tests. The situation today in the U.N. is that practically any resolution against atmospheric testing, if it doesn't mention or clearly refer to any particular nation or bloc, will automatically get about 90 votes and will provide untold decibels of screaming propaganda.

But even if the Kennedy administration dared do what Khrushchev did, and defy world opinion in the name of national interests, the U. S. A. could conceivably be blocked from testing by action of the Trusteeship Council. The membership is worth noting.

THE TRUSTEESHIP Council consists of three groups. The first is made up of countries which administer territories — the aforesaid, U. S. A., New Zealand and the U. K., all members of the Western bloc. The second group consists of countries with no administration of territories — Nationalist China, France and Soviet Russia. The third group is elected by the General Assembly, and is composed of Burma, Paraguay and the United Arab Republic until 1962, and Bolivia and India until 1963. The five permanent members of the Security Council, all included above, are required to be members.

IT TAKES LITTLE imagination to anticipate ways in which Russia, along with India, Egypt and Burma, could use their memberships on the Trusteeship Council to thwart American plans for testing in the Pacific.

We would have to display a much bolder defiance of international pressure groups than has ever been indicated if we intend to put America's interests before all else. As fate will have it, Russia has vast Arctic wastes in which to test, while we have nothing of our own that is comparable. Russia doesn't care what other people think, and we do.

We are in a real bind, and the question is — Do we have the nerve to shoot our way out?

Chickenfeed

HONOLULU (I)—Poultry experts at the University of Hawaii say they have developed a grainless poultry feed which is nearly all Hawaii-grown.

It consists of pineapple leaf meal, molasses, tuna, blood meals, meat, bone scraps and tallow. Vitamins and minerals — the only imported ingredients — are added.

Dr. Ernest Ross, head of the poultry science department, said, "So far the only big difference between our product and that normally imported from the mainland is a slightly smaller egg." He said tallow content caused this and can be overcome.

Steers' Dexter Pate Named To All-State

Dexter Pate, Big Spring's lightning-quick, hitting center, has been named to the Texas Sports Writers Association Class AAAA All-State football team.

At 175 pounds, Pate—who started his high school football career as a quarterback—is one of the lightest players on the elite group.

Pate was one of two District 2-AAAA players honored on this year's club. The other was Mike Sheehan, San Angelo's mammoth guard.

Jack Irons, Big Spring's mighty fullback and linebacker, gained honorable mention on the all-state team.

Mike Payte, Odessa Permian, was named to the second team as an end, along with Jack Middlebrooks of Abilene, a halfback.

Mike Tabor, San Angelo fullback, was picked for the third team.

Others gaining honorable mention within District 2-AAAA included Dennis Grey, San Angelo end; Carl Schreiner, Midland Lee guard; Larry Mullins, San Angelo quarterback; Frank Sloan, Odessa Permian quarterback; and Richard Keller, Odessa Permian halfback.

The selection of Pate proved a pleasant surprise to everyone connected with the Big Spring team, including Pate himself.

Dexter had failed to rate the all-district team chosen recently by coaches and sports writers within the conference.

Emmett McKenzie, head coach of the Steers, said the honor, extended, Dexter was richly deserved.

"He's one of the finest and most able players I have ever coached," McKenzie stated.

"He did everything I asked him to do. He was the leader in our line play and we would have had difficulty winning without him."

"He was a great ball player both ways, especially good on defense. With Jack Irons and Pate there, we didn't have too many worries about anyone breaking loose for a long run. Both were real tough."

Time and again the past season, Pate broke through to break up enemy plays before they could get started. He usually turned the trick by spilling the opposing quarterback before he could hand off the ball.

Left-handed and left-footed, Pate sometimes was called upon to do the team's punting.

His burning spirit lifted the team to the heights. He was all-business both on the practice field and in a game. His series of inspired performances had much to do with the club's 7-3 won-lost record.

Pate is a pitcher on the Steer baseball team and is considered a great driver by swimming experts who have seen him perform.

One observer remarked recently he thought Pate could win a college scholarship on his diving alone, if he elected not to play football in college.

Bear Buzzsaw Attack May Go

NEW YORK (AP)—The Baylor Bear knows it must feast on beef to beat Utah State in the inaugural Gotham Bowl game at the Polo Grounds Saturday.

Coach John Bricker thinks the Bears' pro-type offense may be just the answer.

"I know," the Baylor coach said after he led his 49-man squad into New York from Waco, Tex., Wednesday night and was reminded that unbeaten Utah State will outweigh the Bears by about 20 pounds a man.

Included in the Utah beef-trust are three linemen, Merlin Olson, Clark Miller and Clyde Brock — each of whom goes 250 or better-up to Olson's 275.

"But we like to pass a lot," Bricker added, "and we aren't afraid to throw from anywhere on the field. We're in charge of hoping that our passing will open them up a bit."

The Bears, although they had only a 5-5 season record to Utah State's 9-1, were able to beat Pitt and Texas Christian, both of whom have plenty of bulk, especially in the line, year after year.

Injuries, the Baylor camp feels, hurt considerably a team that might have done much better.

Before moving to Baylor, Bricker was an assistant with the Baltimore Colts and his specialty was coaching the huge Colt middle linemen.

Both clubs scheduled workouts today, cheered by the announcers, that the game would be televised nationally by ABC—starting at 1:15 p.m. (Eastern Standard Time). Baylor and Utah had accepted invitations on the basis of an equal split of 75 per cent of the gross gate, including any TV or radio money.

The television contract reportedly calls for about $100,000.

Attendance isn't expected to go over 25,000.

Coach John Ralston sent his Aggies through their first New York workout Wednesday and concentrated on pass defense, as expected.

"We know they'll try to throw against us," the personable young coach said, "and we'll have to be on our guard."

Stanton JH Set For Cage Play

STANTON — Floyd Sorley's Stanton Junior High School basketball team seeks its 13th straight victory in a game with Sands this evening.

In all, four games are scheduled, two of them involving girls' contingents. Action starts about 5:30 p.m.

Four Buffaloes On All-District

Four members of the Stanton team, including two brothers, have been named to the All District 3 - AA football platoons selected Wednesday night by the coaches in a meeting at Tahoma.

Buffaloes none were Herb and Mike Sorley, Sammy Webb and Buddy Glaspie.

Herb Sorley was named on both the offensive and defensive platoons — as an end on offense and linebacker on defense. He was an all-conference pick last year, too.

His brother, Mike, a junior in classification, was picked as the middle guard on the defensive unit.

Webb was selected as a guard on the offensive platoon while Glaspie was chosen as the quarterback on the offensive eleven.

Among Stanton players rating Honorable Mention were Mack Mathis, offensive center; Jimmy Sale, offensive halfback; Dewey Anderson, offensive fullback; Mike Black, defensive end; Anderson, defensive tackle; Sale, linebacker; and Glaspie, defensive halfback.

Mav Quintets Win And Lose

COLORADO CITY — Basketball teams representing Goliad Junior High of Big Spring broke even in two starts in the Colorado City JH tournament here Wednesday evening.

The Goliad eighth graders won, 29-24, but the seventh graders bit the dust in an overtime period, 16-15. Both teams were playing San Angelo Lake View representatives.

The eighth grade Mavericks were led by Simon Terrazas, who had 14 points, and Paul Solides, who wound up with eight.

Jerry Sims and David Holmes each had four points for the Goliad seventh graders.

Goliad's eighth returns to play at 7 o'clock Friday, at which time it meets the winner in the Snyder Lamar-Lamesa game.

Goliad's seventh plays the loser in the Snyder Lamar-Lamesa game at 8:00 Friday.

HCJC OFFERS CAGE DUCATS

Season tickets for home games of the HCJC Jayhawks can be purchased at the business office of the school for $2.50 each.

The ducats are good for nine home games, exclusive of the upcoming HCJC tournament, which is on tap for Dec. 28-29-30.

The Hawks, won 3-0 on the season, open their home season next Monday night, at which time they play host to Henderson County Junior College of Athens.

The Big Spring collegians also meet South Plains, NMML, Odessa, Amarillo, Frank Phillips, Lubbock Christian, Clarendon and San Angelo in Western Conference games here.

SWC Meeting Due To Be Very Quiet

DALLAS (AP)—Officials of the Southwest Conference were coming to Dallas today for an annual winter meeting expected to be about the quietest on record.

Howard Grobbs, executive secretary of the conference, said there was nothing of a controversial nature due to come up and he figured the faculty committee could wind up its session by Friday night.

In the past the meeting has always carried over until noon Saturday.

For athletic directors and head football coaches, the main topic for discussion is spring conditioning work for football players that might be classed spring training outside the regular period.

A pre-registration application plan whereby schoolboy athletes can be signed before completing their high school eligibility will be reviewed. This plan, which gave the schools the right to sign athletes without mention of financial terms starting Feb. 1, has been quite satisfactory.

The athletic directors, all coaches and business managers of athletics meet Friday morning. The faculty committee will go into session Friday afternoon.

Jacobs Property Of Oilers: Foss

DALLAS (AP)—As far as Commissioner Joe Foss of the American Football League is concerned, Ray Jacobs, the big Howard Payne tackle, is the property of the Houston Oilers.

He ruled Wednesday night that a conditional contract Jacobs signed before the AFL draft was valid and the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League, who signed Jacobs six days after Houston, are out of luck.

Foss said Jacobs advised he wanted to play with Houston anyway.

Coyotes, Ray Are Favored In Playoffs

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF Associated Press Sports Writer

The week-pronged Texas schoolboy football race decides finalists this week, and the wheel of fortune spins toward Wichita Falls and Corpus Christi Ray in blue ribbon Class AAAA.

The mighty Coyotes, seeking their fifth state championship, meet unbeaten, untied and dangerous Fort Worth Paschal at Fort Worth Saturday afternoon in one part of the AAAA semifinals.

In the other Corpus Christi Ray, gathering momentum with each week of the stretch run, battles underdog Galena Park at Galena Park. They also will play Saturday afternoon.

In the case of Wichita Falls and Paschal, there is a comparison—each beat Amarillo 14-0. Whether that means anything is problematical because a lot of water has gone under the bridge since those September nights.

There is nothing to indicate the comparative strength of upstart Galena Park, a surprise visitor to the penultimate round, and Ray, the team that was favored for the finals before a block was thrown or a tackle made.

In Class AAA, the wheel moves toward Dumas and San Benito. This means the powers of the west, who bowed only to Class AAAA clubs, are favored over surging Gainesville. San Benito, called the finest team the Rio Grande Valley ever had, is the choice over Nederland, a team that also lost only to foes in the upper class.

The big game of Class AA sends Jacksboro, a long-time title favorite, against unbeaten, untied Quannah, which attracted no attention whatever before moving into the playoffs. Jacksboro will be favored but it's more from force of habit. Quannah could well knock over the Jackrabbits and occasion no surprise.

The other AA semifinal matches Brady, a former champion, and the Cinderella kids of 1961—Donna. This is the team that whipped mighty Sweeney and a flock of other good clubs in the dash to the top go-rounds of the state playoff.

Class A has the glamor game—Albany vs. Wink. These are the teams long rated 1-2 in the state. Each is unbeaten and untied through 13 games this season. Albany has won 27 in a row and is seeking its second straight championship.

Hull-Daisetta, an unbeaten, untied and tight-fisted power of the south, and Groveton, which wasn't expected to be around this long, battle it out in the other semifinal.

Here's the lineup and here's how they look: Class AAAA: Wichita Falls vs. Fort Worth Paschal at Fort Worth Saturday 2 p.m.; a weak vote for Wichita Falls. Corpus Christi Ray at Galena Park Saturday 2 p.m., a lousy ballot for Ray.

Class AAA: Dumas vs. Gainesville at Vernon Saturday 2 p.m., Dumas is a squeaker. Nederland at San Benito Saturday 7:30 p.m., picking San Benito timidly.

Class AA: Quannah vs. Jacksboro at Wichita Falls Friday 8 p.m., an uncertain vote for Quannah. Brady vs. Donna at San Marcos Friday 8 p.m., the clock strikes for the Cinderella kids, Brady by a touchdown.

Class A: Albany vs. Wink at Abilene Saturday 2 p.m., Albany won't be stopped after going this far. Groveton vs. Hull-Daisetta at Houston Friday 8 p.m., taking Hull-Daisetta without batting an eye.

Lakeview To Play Midland Tonight

Lakeview Junior High of Big Spring, host to Midland in two basketball games this evening, the first of which starts at 7 p.m.

Lakeview's B team was defeated by Sweetwater in its only start but the regulars defeated Sweetwater, 27-21.

Probable starters for Lakeview include Johnny Johnson, 5-8; Freddie Williams, 5-7; Paul Thomas, 6-4; Sam Evans, 5-10; and Curtis Fiewelien, 5-10.

Grid Bowl Lineup

DECEMBER 9: Gotham Bowl at New York—Utah State (9-1) vs. Baylor (5-5). Aviation Bowl at Dayton, Ohio—New Mexico (4-1) vs. Western Michigan (5-3-1). Camella Bowl at Sacramento, Calif.—Pittsburg (2-1) (9-0) vs. Linden, Ore. (2-2).

DECEMBER 16: Liberty Bowl at Philadelphia—Bryceuse (7-3) vs. Miami, Fla. (7-3). Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston — Kansas (6-3-1) vs. Rice (7-3).

DECEMBER 29: Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla.—Middle Tennessee (7-3) vs. Lamar Tech (6-2-1). DECEMBER 30: Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla.—Georgia Tech (7-3) vs. Penn State (7-3). Punt Bowl at El Paso, Tex.—Villanova (7-2) vs. Wichita (8-2). JANUARY 1: Orange Bowl at Miami—Colorado (9-1) vs. Louisiana State (6-1). Sugar Bowl at New Orleans—Arkansas (8-2) vs. Alabama (10-0). Cotton Bowl at Dallas—Texas (9-1) vs. Mississippi (9-1). Fiesta Bowl at Phoenix, Calif.—UCLA (7-3) vs. Minnesota (2-5).

Jayhawks Play Del Mar Friday In Tournament

The Jayhawks of Howard County Junior College, fresh from a tournament sweep at Odessa, departed this morning for San Antonio where Friday they begin play in another tournament.

Buddy Travis' Hawks are scheduled to go up against Del Mar of Corpus Christi in the first round of the San Antonio Tournament. The two teams clash at 11 a.m. tomorrow.

Victoria and Schreiner Institute open the show at 9 a.m. and the winner of that game plays the survivor in the HCJC-Del Mar game at 7 p.m. tomorrow.

In lower bracket play, San Antonio tries LeTourneau Tech of Longview at 1 p.m. while San Jacinto squares off with Allen Academy of Bryan at 3 p.m.

The other semifinal game is down for 9 p.m. Friday. The championship game Saturday goes on at 8:30 p.m.

Travis planned to stop off at Kerrville for a workout in the Schreiner Gym. He planned to bunk his team at the White Plaza Hotel in San Antonio.

The Hawks have won the championship the last two years at San Antonio. Last year in the finals, they beat Lee of Baytown by 23 points in the finals.

Some of the HCJC players have been ill with the virus this week. The Hawks will have to go some to beat the records in the San Antonio meet. Here are the team and individual marks at which the eight-team field will shoot:

High game, individual—Ronald Lopez, San Antonio, 49 points, set in 1958.

High series, individual—Lopez, 72, 1958.

High team game—HCJC, 126, 1959.

High team series—HCJC, 263, 1958.

Low team score, game—San Antonio, 27, 1958. Jayhawks record: HC at Clarendon 33; HC at Odessa 27; HC at South Plains 47.

Individual scoring: Pg Tg Yg Walker Carter 19 17 35; Lou Balemton 13 7 23; Larry McEvey 11 8 20; Jerry Tillman 10 5 25; Ernie Turner 10 19 19; Elvis Spradling 8 1 17; Bill Thomsen 8 1 9; Conroy Lacy 3 0 6; Jerry Brooks 2 0 4; Pete Greene 1 0 2.

LOOKING 'EM OVER With TOMMY HART

Reading the tea leaves, seeking the football winners in the playoff games this week:

WICHITA FALLS 22, Fort Worth Paschal 8. The Coyotes probably won't be as hot as they were against San Angelo but they apparently have too much artillery for the Fort Worth team, as long as Larry Shields and Mike Kelly remain healthy. Paschal handled Denison rather easily and will get Wichita Falls at home but it didn't bother the Coyotes any last week to play in San Angelo. Fact is, according to their own writers, they looked better than they have all season.

CORPUS CHRISTI RAY 28, Galena Park 13. This Corpus Christi team apparently has really come onto its own in the last six weeks. The Texans manhandled San Antonio Jefferson rather easily last week and Jefferson was regarded by many as the state's best team as the playoffs go under way. Galena Park obviously is a much better team than observers reasoned but it apparently doesn't have the horses to stay up with the Texans.

DUMAS 16, Gainesville 7. This one could be the best of this week's playoff games. However, the manner in which the Demons manhandled Breckenridge last week could signal troubles in large bundles for Gainesville. Dumas, for all indications, has one of the finest all-around teams in the state, regardless of classification.

NEDERLAND 14, San Benito 8. Nederland couldn't do anything wrong last week. The team is always tough in the playoffs.

QUANAH 26, Jacksboro 20. This one certainly could go either way. Jacksboro has enormous support in its area as the best AA team in the state. However, the Quannah team has beaten some of the better teams around Texas by impressive margins.

BRADY 16, Donna 13. This could prove a stumbling block for Brady. Donna has a fine ball club. However, Brady boasts the background in the playoffs which often means the difference in a game such as this.

ALBANY 34, Wink 16. One thing about Class A football, the teams usually do a lot of scoring. Wink has had its troubles in its last two games but its supporters insist it was playing Albany all along. The Lions, however, have the attack and the depth to give the Wildcats a bad time. No one has been able to contain the Albany power for a long, long time and Wink probably will need help. Wink is this area's long hope, by the way, to win a state championship.

HULL-DAISETTA 22, Groveton 8. Groveton has already progressed farther in the playoffs than a lot of observers reasoned they would. The Indians need more than spirit to finish on the long end of the score in this one. Quite probably, the classification's two best teams are meeting up in Abilene.

Three Rice, Texas Players Named To All-Opponent 11

LUBBOCK — Rice and Texas gridders dominated Texas Tech's all-opponent football team for 1961 announced today.

Rice and Texas each landed a trio of players. Baylor and Texas Christian were represented by two each. Arkansas had one man picked. Although the election covered the entire season, only Southwest Conference players were named to the first team.

Also, the Red Raiders selected their own captains for the season — tackle Larry Mullins of Snyder, tackle Pat Holmes of Del Rio, and Bob Witucki of Tulsa, all seniors. During the season game captains were used.

Mullins gained two other awards from his teammates, being voted "outstanding lineman" and "best team player." Sophomore half Bill Worley of Midland was named "outstanding back."

Two of the men picked—tackle Don Talbert and halfback James Saxon, both of Texas—made the Football Writers Association All-America. The Southwest Conference's other FWAA selection, halfback Lance Alworth of Arkansas, lacked just two votes of the total compiled by Rice's Les (Butch) Blume, who scored 30 points against the Raiders.

The all-opponent team: ENDS—Johnny Burrell of Rice and Buddy Iles of Texas Christian; TACKLES—Talbert of Texas and Don Jackson of Texas Christian; GUARDS—Dean Garrett of Arkansas and Herby Adkins of Baylor; CENTER—David Kristynik of Texas; QUARTERBACK—Bobby Ply of Baylor; HALVES—Saxon of Texas and Blume of Rice; FULLBACK—Roland Jackson of Rice.

Marriage Waiting Period Clarified

AUSTIN (AP) — The attorney general has ruled that the three-day waiting period for some Texas marriages is three calendar days, not a 72-hour period.

The question was asked by Ector County Atty. Walter Wilson. He referred to a statute which provides that an application for a marriage license must be on file in a county clerk's office for not less than three days if the boy is under 21 or the girl under 18.

The opinion said it is clear that the legislature meant "days" to denote "a calendar and a day as a unit of time, not an aggregation of a certain number of hours, minutes or seconds."

Texas Gains House Seat, Redistricting Is Problem

By TEX EASLEY
AP Special Service

WASHINGTON (AP)—Texas membership in the House has increased eight times since the Civil War, including the one seat the state gains in 1963 as a result of the 1960 census.

On four occasions prior to 1960 the Texas legislature failed to redistrict the state before the elections and the candidates for the additional seats were forced to run at-large. But in cases where a state loses representation, failure to redistrict forces all sitting members to run state-wide if they seek re-election. This is a situation faced now by the Illinois delegation.

The problem facing the Texas legislature in redistricting for the 88th Congress, which convenes in January, 1963, is complicated by the fact that there will be only one new member in the Lone Star delegation—raising its total to 25, including the two senators.

Rayburn represented for nearly 50 years. The latest congressional directory shows that the 4th's population, according to the 1950 census, was 277,735. A Census Bureau report shows a loss in the district of some 10,000 in the past decade.

There are rumors here that the Texas Legislature, never wanting to tamper with the 4th district's lines during Rayburn's tenure, may now change its boundaries.

OVER NORMAL
The counties which make up the 4th and the adjoining 1st and 13th districts have a total population of approximately 860,000. So if the three should be merged into two districts, each still would have slightly more population than the average for the nation and considerably under that for some Texas districts.

legislature might try to realign his district so as to gerrymander him out of his seat.

2 MEMBERS
When Texas entered the union on Dec. 29, 1845, it was allowed, in addition to its two senators, two members of the House.

From March 1861, when Texas members of Congress were expelled as a result of state's secession, the state, according to official records, had no representation until late in the post Civil War period—March 31, 1870. Four representatives from Texas then took oath—a gain of two over the 1861 number.

Others Added
The 1890 census gave the state two more members and three others were added after the 1900 Census.

who later was to represent the Dallas district. The other was the late Daniel Garrett of Houston.

The state's House delegation was next increased with the opening of the 73rd Congress, when three were added for a new high of 21. All three were elected at-large.

SHORTEST TERM
An unofficial check of the record of the hundreds of men who have served Texas in the Congress (there has never been a woman member) discloses that the shortest term served—less than a month—was by Rienzi Melville Johnston.

Born in Georgia in 1847, he moved to Austin in 1878 and then to Houston in 1883 where he established the Houston Post. He served in the Senate from Jan. 4 to Feb. 2, 1913, under an appointment when Joseph Weldon Bailey resigned, and until the late Morris Sheppard was elected.

Preparing For Christmas
This week boys and girls at the Texas Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children were busy building and painting a new Nativity scene. Here two handicapped children display their talents to Hospital President John McKee, Dallas. Left is Rick O'Daniel, Longview, and Angela Dunn, Irving, who is in a full body cast. The hospital, which functions without regard to circumstance, is supported by the Scottish Rite and by voluntary contributions.

Courtroom Quiet As Social Security Office Is Moved

Howard County Court House's second floor offered a rather lonely picture Wednesday — for the first time in nearly six years, the court room of Walter Grice, justice of the peace, was not being used as a conference center for Social Security Administration clients.

The usual throng of elderly citizens, on hand to confer with John A. Powers, field representative from Midland, was missing. Instead of the old familiar sign advertising such citizens that Powers was on hand each Wednesday, a new legend was posted.

It told Social Security clients to go to 207 W. 10th—the temporary home of the new Big Spring District Social Security Office.

Powers will no longer make his weekly visits to the court room. And in time, representatives like Powers, will be sent out of the local Social Security Office to the other six counties in the new Big Spring district.

In the meantime, H. P. Thomas, district manager of the Odessa office of the Social Security Administration, has written a letter to Walter Grice, thanking him for the use of his court room and expressing his own and Powers' appreciation for the courtesies accorded them there.

Grice called attention to the numerous other county officials who have lent a hand in making the Odessa workers welcome.

He also voiced regret that Powers, who has been described many times as the most courteous and efficient federal agency worker in the entire area, will no longer be making his weekly appearances.

4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

"We will do our best," he said, "to continue the high quality type of service which Mr. Powers seems to have established here as regular procedure for the Social Security Administration."

Dr. King Speaks On Handicaps

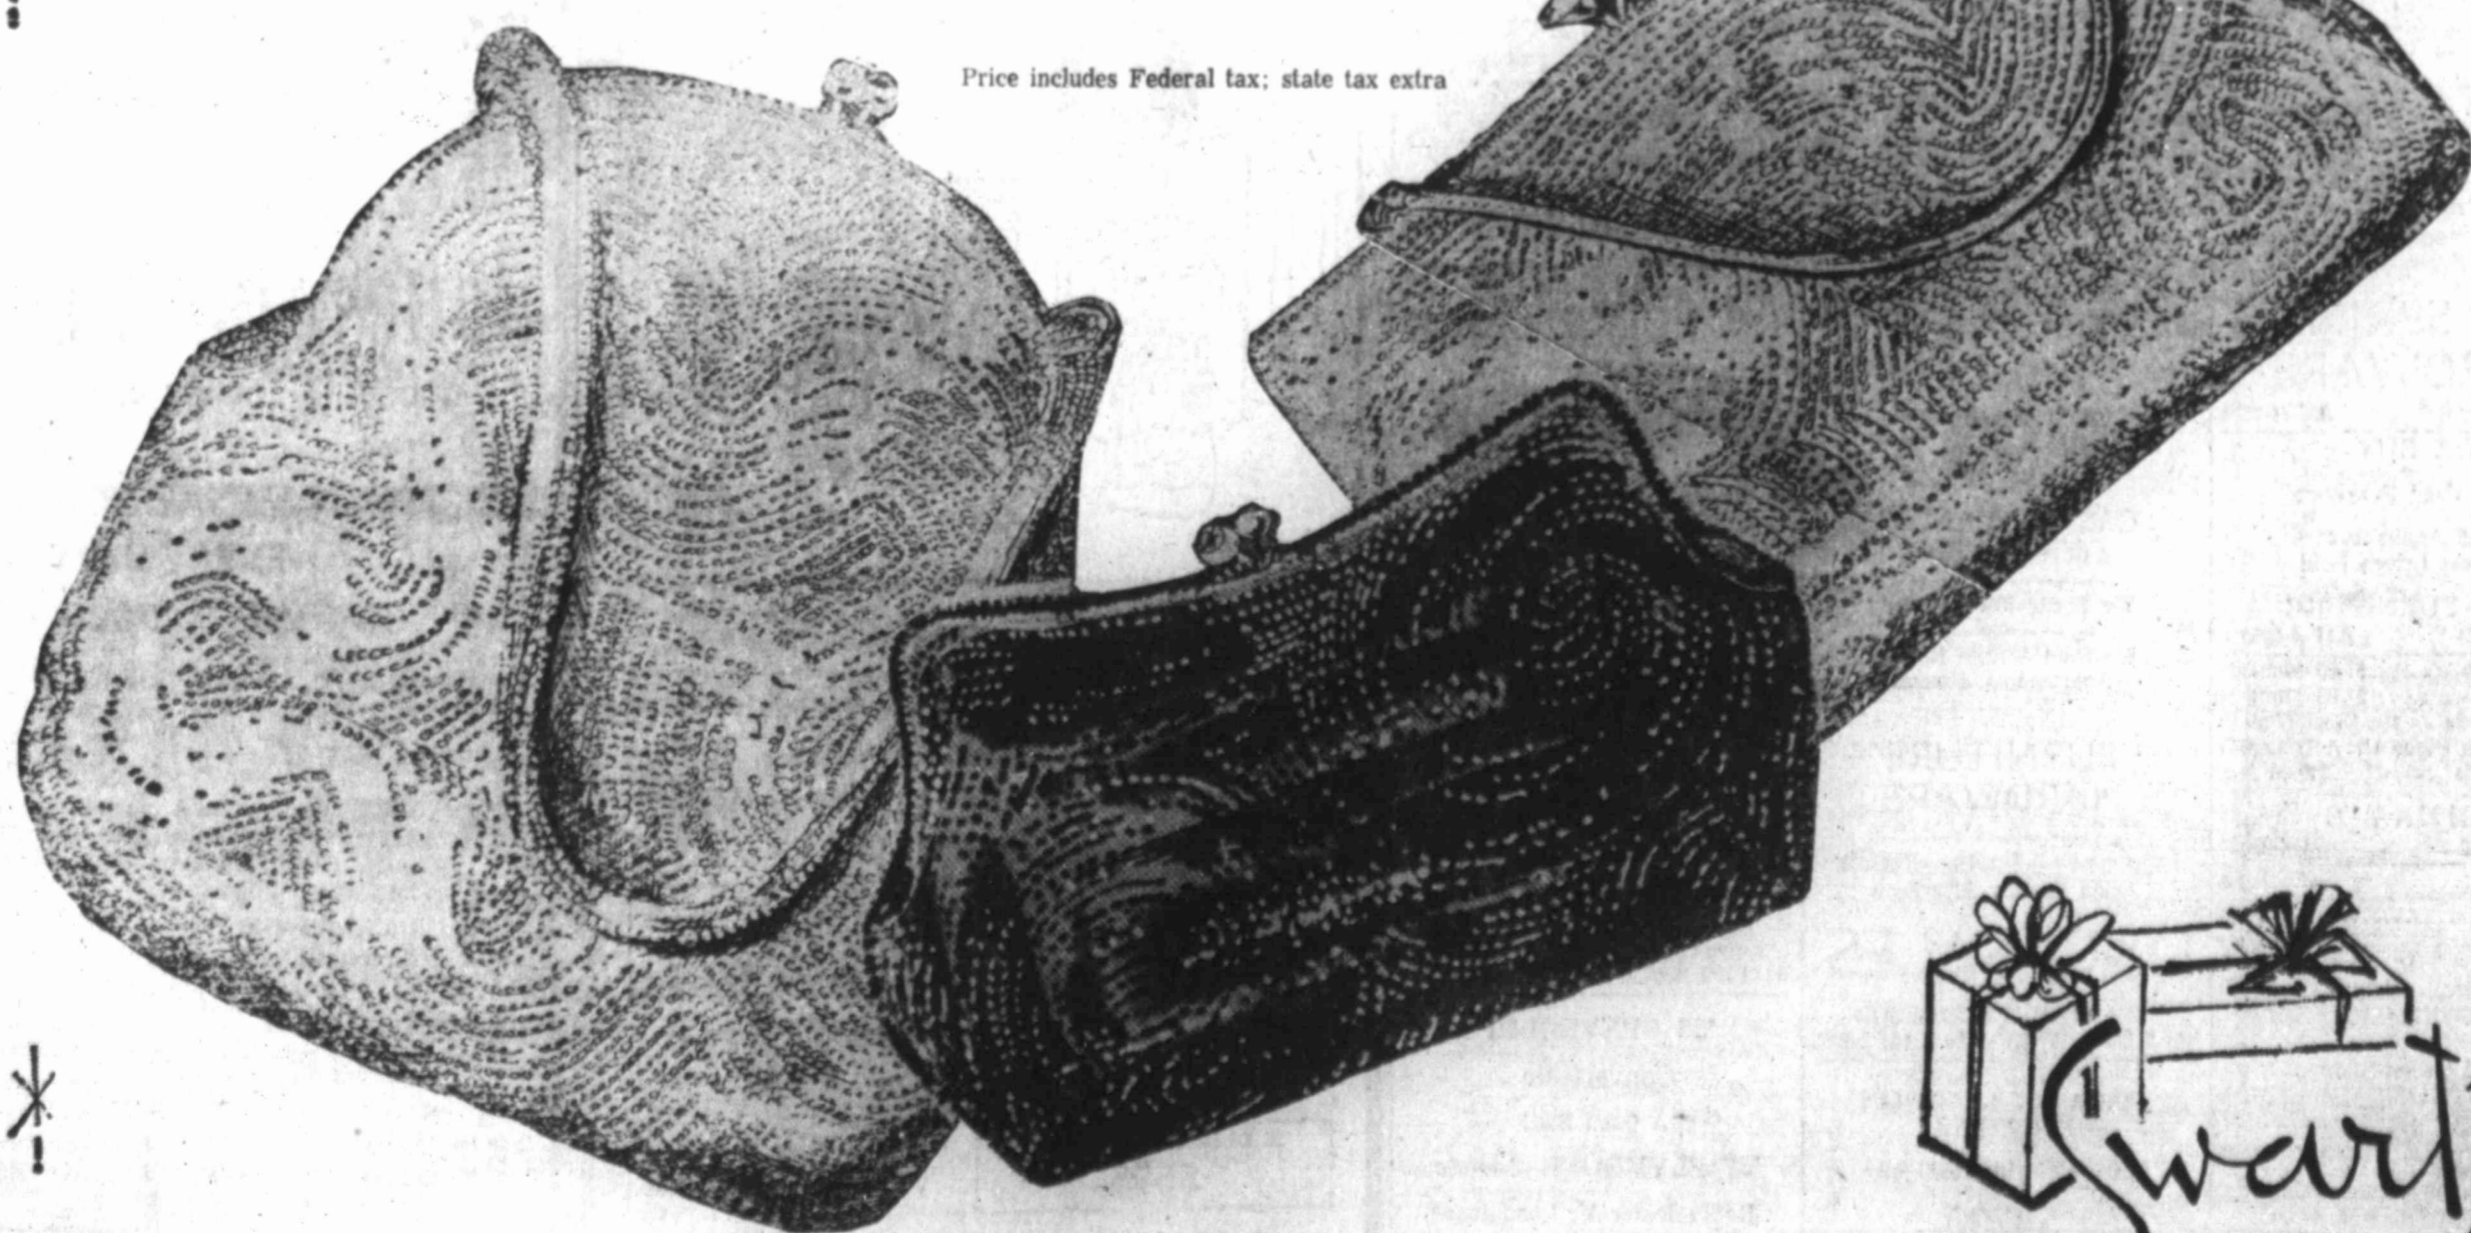

Dr. Lloyd King, Howard County Foundation Hospital and Clinic, was guest speaker at a regular meeting of the P-TA at the Special Education School Tuesday night.

He spoke to parents on the psychological effects of handicaps. Following a Christmas theme, a program of Christmas selections was presented by students and adults. Refreshments were served.

The next meeting will not be held on the customary first Tuesday of January. It has been set Jan. 9 to avoid conflicts during the Christmas holidays.

DEAR ABBY

Put Your Foot Down

DEAR ABBY: I really get a kick out of "Church Widow." I am a preacher's husband. My home runs itself, and of late it sickens me to come home. Twenty-minute meals, no real cleaning, beds unmade until she hears my footsteps and, worst of all, children left on their own.

My crusading wife is determined that "the world must be warned of the imminent end of this system of things" and is devoting practically all her time to this cause.

I am seriously thinking of taking a second look at someone I have avoided for many years.

My wife can recite the Scriptures, but, may I ask, is not the proof of goodness in daily living? Have you the courage to print this?

DEAR "FATHER": I have the courage to print it, but that won't solve anything. Have YOU the courage to bring your wife down to earth? I couldn't agree more that "the proof of goodness is in daily living." Your wife could be more than "dedicated." She could be ill.

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl and I don't know how to kiss a boy. I mean I know HOW to kiss all right, but I don't know who is supposed to stop the kiss, the boy or the girl? Please put the answer in your column as I think I will have a chance to use it soon. Thank you.

DEAR LACKING: A kiss should "end" just as it begins. In unspoken mutual agreement.

DEAR ABBY: Christmas is coming and I am on the brink of telling my parents and in-laws what to give my children. At every gift-giving occasion I am simply FLOORED by their selections. We have three children under five and our budget is so tight we aren't able to buy big blocks or riding toys that provide lasting enjoyment.

At Christmastime well-meaning grandparents squander good money on a lot of little poorly-made wind-up toys and stuffed animals to be dragged on the floor to gather dirt. (I've yet to get one that is machine-washable.) Most have glass eyes that can be swallowed, felt tongues that fade, small toy cars with metal that bends in your fingers or wheels that fall off. Miniature housekeeping kits with thumb-sized "soap" and clothespins are ideal for a child to stick up his nose or swallow.

Please ask parents to consider the practical side of giving. Give one good thing that will last at least until New Year's.

Don't embarrass me by using my name. Sign this... "ME"

CONFIDENTIAL TO CURLY: Tell her the truth, and don't worry about the consequences. She'll NEVER believe it!

Everybody's got a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, in care of the Big Spring Herald.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Screwworm Fund Drive Is Renewed

Howard County stockmen, spearheading the effort here to raise funds to launch a program to control screwworms on Texas ranches and farms, have announced that efforts here are to be renewed.

A campaign to raise the balance of an estimated $6,000 quota assigned the county (based on the number of cattle, horses, pigs, sheep and goats) will be pushed through probably between now and Jan. 1.

So far, the leaders in the enterprise reported, about $1,000 of the money needed has been subscribed.

At a meeting held on Tuesday afternoon, it was voted to go ahead and contact ranchers individually in an effort to raise the funds as quickly as possible.

Attending the meeting were E. P. Driver, J. P. Taylor, Aubrey Hamlin, Lawrence Davis, Harvey Adams and Herb Helbig.

The funds are being collected by assessing each rancher 50 cents per head for each adult cow or horse and 10 cents a head for each sheep, goat and hog owned.

The money is to be used to set up a safety zone between Texas and Old Mexico. This zone will be populated with male screwworm flies, which have been subjected to exposure to radiation. When female flies cross the zone from Old Mexico, they will mate with the impotent males and the eggs will not hatch. The plan, already employed with great success in Florida, will save ranchers and farmers millions of dollars annually, its sponsors say.

Not Peeping, Just Horseplay

ROSELLE, Ill. (AP) — An alarmed housewife telephoned Cook County sheriff's police, saying: "There's a horse looking at me through my front porch window."

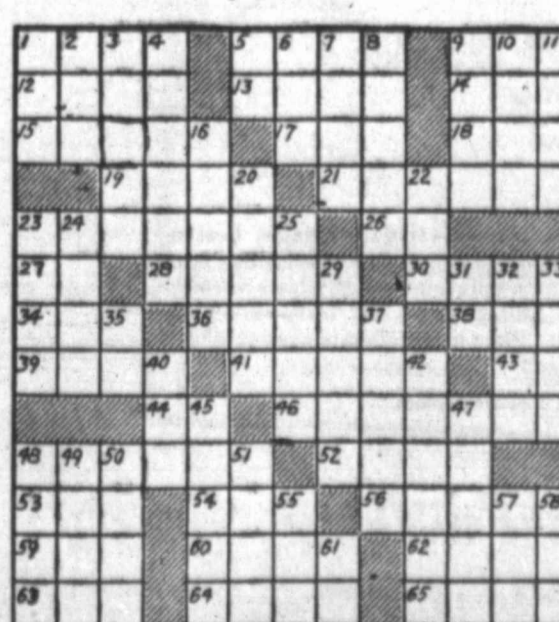

A second phone call, from a horse trainer near Roselle, informed police that two brown mares had just run away from a farm.

Two shaken motorists told of being forced off the road by two brown horses galloping toward their autos.

Deputies spotted the fugitives in a field and roped them. Capt. James Prideaux said there was only one casualty, a deputy. "A horse stepped on his foot."

Have a Christmas Cookie Baking Bee

Evoked the spirit of Christmases past, this season, by having an old-fashioned cookie bee. In years gone by, when family units were larger and no home was complete without a grandmother and an aunt or two, Christmas cookies were a co-operative venture. The women gathered in the kitchen, accompanied by excited little girls . . . and the fun was on.

The custom is too pleasant to be abandoned. Get together with a few friends and see for yourself! Even if you've never baked cookies for Christmas before, these simple recipes will guide you and your co-cookie makers to colorful success.

The cookie bee has advantages beyond the pleasures involved. Group baking means a wider assortment of colorful cookies for each person, since the different types of cookies are equally divided. Baking in bulk is economical, too. Sit down with your friends and plan your shopping list. Then divide up the shopping, and the mixing and decorating tasks.

Because chocolate is America's favorite flavor, it takes a prominent place in the assortment. No tray of Christmas sweets would be complete without Toll House Cookies®. And the same semi-sweet chocolate morsels that go into this cookie classic make other cookies, too, wonderfully festive and "special." Since semi-sweet chocolate morsels are a chocolate so complete you can eat the little pieces as candy, this chocolate affords many shortcuts and "built-in security" for new cooks. Chocolate, evaporated milk and walnuts are sturdy standbys for Christmas baking.

Colorful Chocolate Fruit Jewels make a dainty version of the traditional holiday fruitcake. California Satin Squares go into square cake pans and bake, brownie-fashion. Sprinkle with semi-sweet chocolate morsels after taking out of the oven and spread, as they melt, for a beautiful chocolate glaze.

Chocolate Decorating Dip is the speedy way to trim fancy cut-out cookies. Melt semi-sweet chocolate morsels in the top of a double boiler, and add confectioners' sugar and evaporated milk. The evaporated milk mixture gives the icing a smooth, velvety texture. Dip part of the cookie into the mixture, sprinkle with chopped walnuts, if desired, and that's all there is to it.

Butterscotch flavor, too, appears on the cookie tray. Butterscotchies derive their flavor from butterscotch morsels, first cousins to semi-sweet chocolate morsels. Evaporated milk and walnuts go into the butterscotch cookies with as much felicity as the others. These macaroonlike cookies have a delicious flavor and pleasantly chewy consistency.

Because fudge is a special favorite, pieces of fudge can be spotted here and there on the cookie tray. To make the candy especially festive for the holiday season, try Double Flavor Fudge—the bottom layer is creamy chocolate-flavored fudge, the top is delicious butterscotch fudge, made extra creamy because of evaporated milk's double richness.

You'll all enjoy the rewards of your co-operative cooking in a beautiful medley of sweets to serve to Christmas visitors, or wrap in festive containers as gifts. This year, a cookie bee will have your friends buzzing with holiday excitement!

Chocolate Fruit Jewels

- | | |
|-----------------------------------|---|
| 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour | 1/2 cup evaporated milk |
| 2 teaspoons cinnamon | 1 6-ounce pkg. (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels |
| 1 teaspoon baking powder | 1 cup coarsely chopped California walnuts |
| 1/2 teaspoon salt | |
| 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg | 2 cups chopped, mixed, candied fruit |
| 1/2 teaspoon cloves | 1 cup raisins |
| 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar | 1 tablespoon grated orange rind |
| 1/2 cup butter or margarine | |

Sift together flour, cinnamon, baking powder, salt, nutmeg and cloves. Set aside. Combine in bowl brown sugar and butter and beat till creamy. Gradually stir in flour mixture, alternately with evaporated milk. Add chocolate morsels, walnuts, candied fruit, raisins and orange rind; blend well. Drop by heaping teaspoonfuls on greased cookie sheets. Bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) 12 to 14 minutes. If desired, base of cooled cookies may be glazed by dipping in "Chocolate Decorating Dip."

Yield: Approximately 7 dozen.

California Satin Squares

- | | |
|---------------------------------|--|
| 1/2 cup butter or margarine | 1/2 teaspoon salt |
| 1 cup firmly packed brown sugar | 1 cup evaporated milk |
| 2 eggs | 1 12-ounce jumbo package or 2 6-ounce packages (2 cups) semi-sweet chocolate morsels |
| 2 teaspoons vanilla | |
| 2 cups sifted all-purpose flour | 1/2 cup chopped California walnuts |
| 1 teaspoon baking powder | |

Cream together butter and brown sugar. Beat in eggs and vanilla. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Add dry ingredients to creamed mixture alternately with evaporated milk. Stir in 1 cup of the semi-sweet chocolate morsels. Spread batter in 2 ungreased 9-inch square pans. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 25 minutes. Immediately sprinkle top of each with 1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate morsels. Let stand until chocolate softens, then spread evenly over tops. Sprinkle each with 1/4 cup of the chopped walnuts. Cool. Cut into 1 1/2-inch squares.

Yield: 6 dozen squares.

Butterscotchies

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1/2 cup evaporated milk | 2 cups, crisp, ready-to-eat cereal |
| 1/4 cup sugar | 1 can (1 1/2 cups) flaked coconut |
| 2 tablespoons butter or margarine | 1/2 cup coarsely chopped California walnuts |
| 1 6-ounce package (1 cup) butterscotch morsels | |
| 1 teaspoon vanilla | |

Combine evaporated milk, sugar and butter in a 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a full, all-over boil, stirring constantly. Continue to boil, stirring constantly, 2 minutes. Remove from heat. Add butterscotch morsels and vanilla, stirring until smooth. Add cereal, coconut and nuts; toss lightly until well coated. Drop quickly by rounded teaspoonfuls on a greased, or waxed paper-lined or foil-lined sheet. Let stand until set.

Yield: 4-dozen.

DOUBLE FLAVOR FUDGE

Chocolate Layer:

|--|
| 1 cup evaporated milk |
| 2 1/2 cups sugar |
| 1/2 teaspoon salt |
| 1/4 cup butter or margarine |
| 1 6-ounce package (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels |
| 1 6-ounce package (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate morsels |
| 1 teaspoon vanilla |
| 1 cup chopped California walnuts |

Combine evaporated milk, sugar, salt, butter and marshmallows in 2-quart saucepan. Bring to a full, all-over boil, stirring constantly. Continue to boil, stirring constantly, 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in semi-sweet chocolate morsels and vanilla until smooth. Add walnuts. Divide mixture between 2 waxed paper or foil-lined 8-inch square pans.

Butterscotch Layer:

Repeat directions for chocolate layer, substituting 1 6-ounce package (1 cup) butterscotch morsels for chocolate morsels. Divide butterscotch mixture in half and spread over chocolate layers. Chill until firm. Cut into 1 1/2-inch pieces. If desired, top with walnut halves.

Yield: 6 dozen pieces.

Chocolate Decorating Dip

|--|
| 1 12-ounce jumbo package or 2 6-ounce packages (2 cups) semi-sweet chocolate morsels |
| 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar |
| 1/2 cup (1 small can) evaporated milk |

Prepare your favorite recipe for rolled cookies or use prepared cookie mix, following the directions for rolled cookies. Cut into desired shapes and bake. Cool. To prepare chocolate decorating dip, melt semi-sweet chocolate morsels over hot (not boiling) water. Add confectioners' sugar and evaporated milk. Beat until smooth. While using, keep dipping cookies, place on waxed paper and let stand till set.

Yield: 2 cups.

Toll House Cookies®

(Authentic Recipe)

|--|
| 1 cup softened butter or margarine |
| 1/2 cup granulated sugar |
| 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar |
| 1 teaspoon vanilla |
| 1/2 teaspoon water |
| 2 eggs |
| 2 1/2 cups sifted all-purpose flour |
| 1 teaspoon baking soda |
| 1 teaspoon salt |
| 1 cup chopped California walnuts |
| 1 12-ounce jumbo package or 2 6-ounce packages (2 cups) semi-sweet chocolate morsels |

Cream together butter, sugars, vanilla and water. Beat in eggs. Sift together flour, baking soda and salt. Stir into butter mixture. Add nuts and semi-sweet chocolate morsels; mix well. Drop by well-rounded half teaspoonfuls on greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) 10 to 12 minutes. Cool.

Yield: Approximately 8 dozen cookies.

Good Neighbor Policy . . .

Invite some friends over for a Christmas cookie bee! Baking in bulk is economical, each woman gets a varied assortment to take home. Casseroles Solution To The Pre-Christmas Hustle-Bustle

This being such a frenzied time of the year — when most housewives are bustling about with Christmas lists to fill, decorating to do, and planning generally for the approaching holidays — casseroles and simple menus are timely approaches to the problem of properly feeding a family.

Mrs. E. V. Swift, 603 Edwards, has a solution to the housewife's dilemma. Her husband, Dr. Swift, and two children, Virginia and Charles, are fond of casseroles, which makes it particularly easy to plan their menus. When Mrs. Swift prepares such dishes, the recipes are always doubled so that some can be placed in the home freezer for future use.

Once or twice monthly, a day is set aside especially for pastries; another, for cakes, and another, for bread. These, too, are frozen so that they can be popped into the oven and used as desired almost at a moment's notice.

One casserole which "is most gratifying although time consuming" is Cassoulet. According to Mrs. Swift, Cassoulet is not at all difficult, but requires a little more time in preparing and cooking. It is a hearty dish and one which appeals to men, children, and also to party guests.

CASSOULET

1 qt. navy beans
 1 whole onion
 Clove of garlic
 Celery tops
 Cover navy beans with water and cook with a couple slices of bacon or with hambone, whole onion, clove of garlic, celery tops and salt and pepper to taste. Cook at a simmer.

1 roasted duckling
 1/2 Polish sausage chopped fine
 1 whole chopped onion
 2 cloves garlic minced
 1/2 can chicken broth
 (Any leftover chops, chicken or turkey)

Put chopped sausage in skillet to brown. Salt and pepper to taste. Add one whole chopped onion, garlic, chicken broth. Cook slowly for one hour. (Leftover meat may also be added).

Break apart and strip the roasted duckling and add to the sausage mixture. Meanwhile the beans are cooking.

Grease an earthenware dish with vegetable oil, add alternate layers of cooked beans and then meat. Pour 1 can chicken broth over the top and spread with bread crumbs. Bake 1 1/2 hours covered, then uncover and bake 45 minutes. Serves 10.

Serve with hot homemade French bread and tossed green salad or marinated green beans. Cheese and fruit is a good dessert.

WINTER NIGHT DISH

At least once each week there is a casserole dinner at the Swifts. Frequently during the winter, family fare is Chalupa.

CHALUPA

1 lb. ground beef
 2 medium onions chopped
 1 clove garlic
 2 tsp. chili powder
 12 tortillas
 1-10 1/2 oz. can tomato soup
 1-13 oz. can evaporated milk
 1 1/2 cups grated Cheddar cheese
 Salt to taste.

Saute beef with onions and garlic. Sprinkle with flour and chili powder during cooking. Add 1 can chicken broth; cover and simmer about 20 minutes. Combine tomato soup with milk and cheese. Cut up tortillas and cover bottom of greased baking dish with layer of tortillas; a layer of meat and top with cheese mixture. Repeat until all is used, ending with cheese. Bake 54 minutes previous to serving.

Guacamole salad and French bread are the complements. GREEKS HAD A WORD FOR IT A delicious mixture of meat and macaroni which is oftentimes made by Mrs. Swift is the Patitso, a Greek dish. Requiring only 50 minutes for cooking, this is another of the Swifts' favorites.

PATITSO

Cook almost a 1 pound package of macaroni in boiling salted water. Drain. Sauté 2 medium onions (finely chopped), 1 pound ground round beef, stirring constantly for two or three minutes. Add 1 medium size tomato (chopped), salt and pepper to taste. Cook slowly 5 minutes. Blend with 1/2 cup Cheddar cheese.

Place in buttered casserole half of the cooked macaroni. Make 1 cup of cream sauce and blend with 1 beaten egg and 1/2 cup grated cheese. Pour over casserole and bake 50 minutes. Serves six.

Serve with hot corn gems and salad.

CORN GEMS

1 pkg. fresh yeast

Artichokes Are Exotic

It's worth making the acquaintance of this delightful way of serving exotic artichokes.

ARTICHOKE SALAD
 3 large artichokes, cooked
 4 hard-cooked eggs
 1/4 cup mayonnaise
 1 tsp. wine vinegar
 Salt, pepper and paprika
 Lettuce and tomatoes
 Cut cold artichokes in half and remove fuzzy chokes and very small soft inner leaves.
 Mash eggs fine and add mayonnaise, vinegar and salt and pepper to taste.
 Fill artichoke cavities with egg salad; dust with paprika.
 Serve on plate with lettuce and sliced tomatoes. Makes 3 to 6 servings.

Bread Is Home Baked

Homemade bread is always served at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. V. Swift, Edwards Blvd. Frequently hot bread with jelly is dessert for the Swifts and children, Virginia and Charles. Mrs.

Swift was ready to slide a tray of small French loaves into the oven, when Herald photographer, Keith McMillin, visited her kitchen.

2 cups milk (scalded)
 1 cup yellow cornmeal
 1/4 cup shortening or oil
 1/4 cup sugar
 1 tsp. salt
 2 eggs (beaten)
 4 cups flour.

Dissolve yeast in a little warm water and pour scalded milk over cornmeal. Add shortening, sugar and salt in large bowl. Stir until shortening is melted and cool to lukewarm temperature.
 Stir in beaten eggs and dissolved yeast. Beat well in mixer.

Put in greased muffin tins (about 3/4 full) and let rise until double in size. Bake at 400 degrees for 25 minutes. Brush with butter when removed from oven. The gems are described by Mrs. Swift as feathery light, golden and easy to make.

SERVE WITH PUMPERNICKEL

Pumpernickel and Tomato Supreme are served with Mrs. Swift's casserole of Italian Kidney Beans which is made without meat but is filled with proteins.

ITALIAN KIDNEY BEANS

1 onion (chopped)
 1 tsp. oil
 1 lb. cheddar cheese (grated)
 2 cans red kidney beans
 1 small can pimientos
 1 No. 2 can tomatoes
 1 clove garlic
 Sauté onion and garlic. Add grated cheese and when cheese

Turkey Carcass For Tomato Soup

Don't waste a smidgen of that turkey! The carcass, after the bird has been roasted and served, makes delicious soup.

TURKEY TOMATO SOUP

Turkey carcass
 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed tomato soup
 1 1/2 cups water
 1 onion (peeled and halved)
 2 carrots
 1 bay leaf
 2 whole cloves
 Salt and pepper to taste
 Place turkey carcass in a kettle; include meat remnants, and drumsticks and wings from which the meat has been carved. Add undiluted tomato soup, water and remaining ingredients. Simmer about 1 hour.
 Turn into a colander to drain off broth. Pick off meat remnants from bones, and add to broth; slice carrots and add.
 Serve at once or refrigerate overnight. Add reheat. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

From Heart To Stomach Casserole

VENICE (E)—An American who started out writing about the heart and ended up writing about the stomach believes he has recreated the famous dish of macaroni which got Casanova out of jail.

Author Leonard Louis Levinson thought he had figured out the formula for the dish while researching for his book "The Affairs of Casanova."

He tried it out, with noted Venice chef Natale Pavan.

They both agreed: Whether it got the great lover out of the prison of the grand inquisition here 205 years ago or not, it still was mighty tasty pasta.

As the old story goes: Casanova was imprisoned in Venice, but found a crowbar and started digging a hole out of his cell. Jailors found the hole, but not the crowbar, and Casanova smuggled it into his new cell.

But he was under such close watch he could do no more digging. He whispered with the prisoner in an adjoining cell and the other man agreed to do the digging. The problem was: How to get the crowbar to him.

So Casanova, who was known almost as much for his cooking as for his wooing, talked jailors into letting him whip up a tasty birthday dish for the fellow prisoner. Jailors, of course, could dip in.

When it was done he called for the jailor to carry the bowl to the other cell on a big Bible he had in his cell.

It was hot and brimming full. The jailor's attention was so fixed on not spilling any that he never noticed the crowbar protruding an inch from both sides of the Bible.

In his book Levinson includes the recipe for the sizzling hot casserole of macaroni, parmesan cheese, butter, veal meat balls, tomatoes and a spicy white sauce.

Hollandaise sauce is usually served with asparagus, broccoli or cauliflower; try it sometimes with snap beans and carrots.

Sauce For Beans

2 cups pared, sliced apples
 1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
 2 tps. cinnamon
 2 tps. butter or margarine
 Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; mix with whole bran cereal. Blend butter and sugar; add eggs and beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk, mixing after each addition. Spread in greased 9 x 9-inch pan. Arrange apples on top of batter, pressing slightly into batter. Combine sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle over apples. Dot with butter. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 35 minutes. Serve warm or cold.
 Yield: 9 servings.
SOUR CREAM APPLE TORTE

Big Apple Favorites For Family, Friends

Dutch Apple Bran Cake is the homey kind of dessert or snack to team with mugs of coffee or marshmallow-capped cocoa, popcorn or a big bowl of unshelled nuts. Whole bran cereal gives the simple cake a nutlike flavor that combines appealingly with a cinnamon-sugared apple topping. Served warm or cold, squares of Dutch Apple Bran Cake will be a hit with young and old alike.

A dessert to bring forth with deserved pride is Sour Cream Apple Tort. Baked between a crunchy mixture of almonds and sweetly spiced corn flake crumbs is a meltingly smooth lemon custard layered through with tart apple slices.

DUTCH APPLE BRAN CAKE
 1 1/2 cups sifted flour
 3 tps. baking powder
 1/2 tsp. salt
 1/2 cup whole bran cereal
 1/4 cup soft butter or margarine
 1-3 cup granulated sugar
 2 eggs, well-beaten
 1-3 cup milk

2 cups pared, sliced apples
 1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
 2 tps. cinnamon
 2 tps. butter or margarine
 Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; mix with whole bran cereal. Blend butter and sugar; add eggs and beat well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk, mixing after each addition. Spread in greased 9 x 9-inch pan. Arrange apples on top of batter, pressing slightly into batter. Combine sugar and cinnamon; sprinkle over apples. Dot with butter. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 35 minutes. Serve warm or cold.
 Yield: 9 servings.
SOUR CREAM APPLE TORTE
 2 1/2 cups pared, sliced fresh apples

2 tps. butter or margarine
 1/2 cup sugar
 1/4 cup sour cream
 4 eggs, separated
 1 tsp. flour
 1 1/2 tps. grated lemon rind
 1 1/2 tps. lemon juice
 1/2 tsp. salt

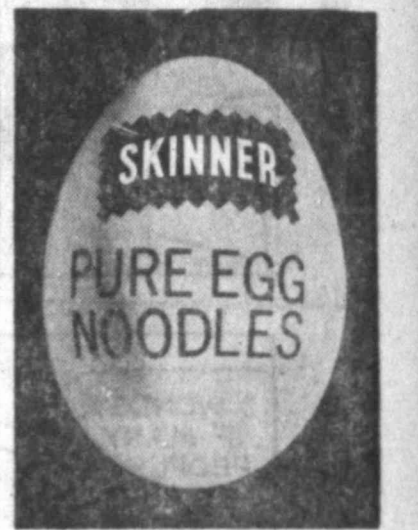

2 cups corn flakes or
 1/2 cup packaged corn flake crumbs
 1-3 cup sugar
 1 tsp. cinnamon
 1/2 cup blanched shredded almonds

Cook apples in heated butter in a covered fry pan until tender, stirring occasionally. Combine sugar, sour cream, egg yolks, flour, lemon rind and lemon juice. Pour over apples. Cook over low heat, stirring until mixture thickens; remove from heat. Cool. Beat egg whites with salt until stiff but not dry. Fold into custard mixture.

If using corn flakes, crush into fine crumbs. Combine sugar, cinnamon, corn flake crumbs and almonds. Spread half of crumb mixture in bottom of greased 8 1/2-inch baking pan. Pour in filling; cover with remaining crumb mixture.

Bake in slow oven (325 degrees F.) about 45 minutes. Cut into squares and serve hot or cold, with whipped cream or ice cream, if desired.

Add Flowers Or Fruit For Christmas Decor

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Now is a time to think about floral arrangements to accompany the bountiful food that burdens the family table.

Chrysanthemums are still around in parts of the country that don't get too blustery. Colored gourds add a pleasant touch. Fruit, native or otherwise, provides an always satisfactory arrangement.

How about a pineapple decorated with a candle and possibly surrounded by smaller fruit, real or artificial?

Try a few vegetables in your decorating scheme. They will add color to the festive scene. Dried ears of corn are a reminder of the harvest.

If someone is nice enough to send you a dozen roses, don't just stick them in a vase this time, although roses are beautiful any way you display them.

This is what Edna Whitsitt, a well-known flower arranger would do with a dozen roses. Mrs. Whitsitt, director of the Sterling Bowl Tournament (a flower-arrangement competition sponsored by rose grower Charles Perkins), suggests five basic steps — with the help of the illustrations.

1. Build a main line with a tight bud at the highest point.

(not shown) 2. Establish a basic triangle pattern.

3. Strengthen the main line, weight the base and balance the center.

4. Add more open roses, facing blooms in different directions for illusions of depth.

5. Use foliage to break the line of the container. Three open roses complete the desired effect.

Try An Arrangement

Should the gift be roses, mums or any of the florists' seasonal supply, don't stick them in a bowl or vase. Try an arrangement.

The four illustrations are steps to follow in making a simple arrangement, which is attractive and easily carried out.

Fresh Start

The day looks brighter when you start it dressed attractively. A cheerful wrap and tie dress can be donned in seconds, and the crease-resistant cotton chints requires little ironing.

Slice Thin

It's a good idea to slice potatoes extremely thin when you are using them in the scalloped dish.

Danish Style

Meat aspic, "pearled" with a fork or cut into tiny squares, is a delightful Danish-style addition to an open cold meat sandwich.

Leftover Turkey Encore

There's no disillusionment about leftover turkey, anymore. Home economists and resourceful homemakers have devised so many attractive ways to serve turkey "encores." Now leftover turkey dishes rival the majestic Thanksgiving bird on a silver platter.

Most homemakers buy a turkey large enough to allow generous servings of turkey after the big meal.

There's economy of cash and time in this sort of planning, too. Larger turkeys provide more servings per pound because they provide more meat in proportion to bone. The U. S. Department of Agriculture suggests 3/4 to 1 pound of ready-to-cook turkey for each generous serving if the bird weighs less than 12 pounds. For larger turkeys, 1/2 to 3/4 pounds per serving is enough.

Accordingly, an 8 to 12 pound bird will provide 10 to 20 servings; a 16 to 20 pounder, 30 to 40 servings. What's more, the larger birds usually sell at a lower price per pound.

Time and effort are important, too. Frozen, already cooked turkey is ready at any time for either impressive meals or quick snacks.

To make maximum use of leftover turkey, it's a good idea to remove all of the meat from the bones as soon as possible after the festive dinner. Carefully slice the "sliceable" portions and then dice or grind the remaining meat.

Divide into portions just right for your family needs. Wrap each portion in freezer foil and label whether it's light or dark meat, sliced, diced or ground. Freeze immediately, and you'll have tempting turkey for four to six weeks, or as long as it lasts. USDA does not recommend holding frozen turkey more than six weeks.

Pork 'N Apricots

Dried apricot puree plus sugar make a delicious glaze for a half-ham or a smoked boneless pork shoulder. Cook the apricots before pureeing, of course, then measure the fruit and add an equal amount of granulated sugar.

More Meat Keeps

Kitchen reminder: Large cuts of meat may be kept longer than small ones. Refrigerate all meat loosely covered.

Scoop-Neck

A delightful full-skirted frock can be as dressy as your fabric — try a synthetic with a sheen, a lightweight wool or a pretty cotton. No. 3128 comes in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16, 18. Size 14 takes 4 1/4 yards of 35-inch fabric or 2 1/2 yards of 54-inch.

Send 35 cents in coins for this pattern to IRIS LANE, Big Spring Herald, Box 1490, New York 1, N.Y. Add 10 cents for each pattern for first-class mailing. For the new Fall-Winter Pattern Book presenting the latest pattern designs and featuring comprehensive lessons in dress-making send 50 cents.
