WASHINGTON-(P)-President Truman told Congress Wednesday the situation in Europe is "critical" and asked a temporary draft law and universal military train-

The President also urged swift congressional action on the Marshall program of economic help for Europe. Truman went before a joint session of Congress in person to present a grim picture of world affairs and a major report on his foreign policy.

"The recent developments in Europe," he said, "present this nation with the fundamental issues of vital importance." He pointed then to the just-completed five-nation Western European pact for Truman told Congress there are times when it is "far wiser to act More than 150 Midlanders are than to hesitate-" even though action always involves risk.

He said his recommendations at this time for action represent "the most urgent steps towards securing the peace and preventing the war. The President stressed that the United States will continue to support the United Nations and will try every possible method of reaching international accord.

"At the same time, we must not be confused about the central issue which confronts the world today. "The time has come when the free men and women of the world must face the threat to their liberty squarely and courageously." And developments have reached the point, Truman said, at which America's position should be made unmistakeably clear. Truman then spoke of the high purposes of the United Nations charter, and added:

Another Experiment

It has been said, frequently and truly, that communism thrives on discontent and misery. History of the past 30 years shows that the Reds make little progress in a free and prosperous nation and that it usually takes poverty and exploitation to make people reach for Dr. Marx's

But the case of Czechoslovakia is different. The Czechs are well off, by present European standards. Their land was fought over during the war, but their cities are not pounded to rubble. The people enjoyed civil liberties and property rights under a representative government.

By all the accepted rules communism should have had a poor time of it in Czechoslovakia. Yet, before the seizure of power, the Communists were the country's biggest party. And when they set out to take over completely, the opposition folded up almost over night.

This sad affair leaves two questions about past events and one for the future. Why were the Communists so strong? Why was the opposition so weak? And how are the Communists going to run Czechoslovakia?

The answer to question one seems to be that communism got its strength partly from gratitude and partly from "realism," or fear. The Red army liberated Czechoslovakia. After the German surrender Moscow got its troops out before they could build up the resentment among the natives that Soviet occupation forces are reported to have created in other countries.

Then there is the fact that Czechoslovakia was Rus- Its length is 75 miles. sia's neighbor. It might be that many Czechs took note of what had happened to most of the other neighbors, decided that their day of reckoning was not far off, and determined to get in on the winning side. Stories of a big in the 15th century. She was poprush to join the Communist Party since the coup tend to ularly believed to have occult support this theory.

The same sort of thinking may account for the non-Communists' quick collapse. With the police under Communist control and an ardently pro-Soviet general leading the army, resistance would only mean useless bloodshed and inevitable defeat.

As for the third question, the Communists have at Victoria from succeeding to the last obtained a going concern. Some Russian Communists have admitted that it isn't really "communism" that is practiced in their country, and that they would have to driven 400 miles an hour? get control of a country like the U.S. before the world could see how their theories really are supposed to work.

Well, the Marxists have a fine opportunity in Czechoslovakia. Here is the ideal laboratory for the Kremlin and its stooges to create the workers' paradise they are always talking about. This can be their show place. They can banish purges and secret police, for the Czechs accepted the new order without a struggle. They can stop such foolishness as ordering composers and writers to turn out a certain type of music and books. The new leaders can ring up the iron curtain and fearlessly let their system stand comparison. The Czechs, literate, socialist-minded people, won't need intellectual spoon-feeding.

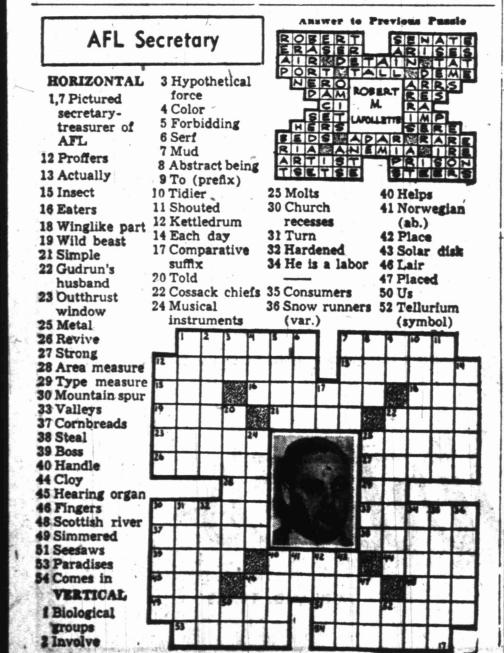

All this and more the Communists might do in Czechoslovakia, their new, modern, well-equipped experimental laboratory. What do you bet they don't?

Non-Political Music

Some of America's leading composers sponsored a concert of music by Hanns Eisler in New York the other night. Eisler is a brother of Gerhardt Eisler, reputed top Kremlin agent in America. Hanns is going to Europe voluntarily, rather than be deported as an undesirable alien.

The critics who reviewed the concert tagged him as a gifted man. They wrote about his music—which they liked, in varying degrees—not about his politics. Nobody heard any Red propaganda in the notes.

It's just as well that Prokofiev, Shostakovich and those other recently scolded Soviet composers couldn't read those non-political reviews. They would probably have made them feel unhappier than they do already.

Finns' Constitution Offers Block To Communist Grab

> By PETER EDSON NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Close students of Finnish affairs believe that Finland's constitution offers the only hope for a block against immediate Communist domination from Russia.

In their postwar moves to take over control of Eastern friendship, cultural relations and Europe, the Communists have tried hard to give the impression they were using constitutional means. They Communist members, linked with 11 left-wingers in a pro-Russian Demhave used the abdication of King Michael of Romania, the ocratic Union bloc of 51 members. The Communists thus control only flights of Prime Minister Ferenc from 20 to 25 per cent of the Diet. Another political maneuver which has helped them take over in Eastern Europe is the technically legal "trial" of opposition leaders, like that of Nikola Petkov in Bulgaria and Gen. Draja Mikhailovich in Yugoslavia. Findings of "guilty" enabled the Communists to remove these patriots from the scene.

Such tactics give the Communist minorities the propaganda arguments that their seizures of power are peaceful changes of government in the best democratic traditions. To make the arguments look even better, the propaganda is always accompanied by charges that it is the anti-Communist opposition which is conspiring to overthrow the government by force and upset the constitution.

In the case of Finland, however, the constitution is so rigid that forced resignations of cabinet officers or members of its parliament the Eduskunta, or Diet-would not have the same results.

When members of the Finnish Diet are elected, their successors, or alternates, are elected at the same time. The Diet member and his successor both belong to the same party. If the member dies or is removed from office for any cause, his elected successor immediately steps into his official shoes.

By this unusual election procedure, the political division of the Douglas N. Stewart, state high- 200-member Diet is guaranteed any hope that they could be legally replaced by Communists.

There is a further protection in that the Finnish constitution cannot_be amended except by a fivesixths majority. One-sixth of the 200 members-34 stubborn Finnscould thus block any legal change in the constitution and so prevent a Communist coup.

The next election in Finland is scheduled for July, to choose a new Diet. The present Diet has only 40

Knowing that they must live next door to communism, most Finns are said to realize that they must along with Russia. There is nothing in the proposed treaty, covering only mutial assistance against future German aggression, which in itself would seem likely to enslave the Finns. It is the fear that such a treaty would be only the first step towards later demands for military and economic control of Finland by Russia that causes concern. The protection which the Finnish constitution gives to Finland's government in the coming negotiation is important only so long as the The Communist press is noisy, but Communists abide by their policy of not too strong, and of limited cir- taking over governments by their culation. Acute Oil Shortage New Drive-In Surprises Experts Theater Opens WASHINGTON -(P)— The oil shortage this Winter caught both government and industry experts Here Thursday

The experts had been thinking in terms of gasoline and automobiles. They reasoned, according to Sidney A. Swendrud, executive vice president of the Gulf Oil Corp., that fewer automobiles would be in use and there would be a slump in gasoline demand. 'Off Guard'

Derivatives of crude oil which once were considered by-products chiefly accounted for the rise. Biggest increase has been in the demand for "distillate" fuels-a rise of 85 per cent since the first quarter of 1941. These are the oils that are used in home oil burners, in diesel engines and jet propulsion Home owners converted their coal furnaces to oil burners so rapidly after the war that dealers received 250 per cent more burners in the first nine months of 1947 than in the same period of 1946. Burners use an average of 1,800 gallons of oil a year.

The railroads are changing to diesels so fast that a new diesel is hitting the rails every week or ten days. Of the locomotives now on order, 92 per cent are diesels. They average 169,000 gallons of fuel a year—enough to heat 93 average Kerosene consumption has taken a 74 per cent jump. First outcries to interior department fuel men about the oil shortage came from kerosene users in North Carolina.

Aviation gasoline consumption has doubled. Farmers are using twice as much gasoline as ever, for they have doubled their mechanized equipment. Industry's use of oil has risen in proportion to the tremendous increase in production.

Telephone Company Is Unable To Answer

Dancing Wire Mystery By WILLIAM C. BARNARD Associated Press Staff The mystery of the dancing

wires is still a mystery. 'A friend of ours, an electrical engineer, saw the wires dance during an ice storm this Winter. He was riding a train near Waco. "I looked out the window," said, "and was astonished to see communication and power wires jumping up and down. There was a stiff wind, but the wires weren't going from side to side-just up and down. This up-and-down movement was steady-50 times per minute."

We checked with the phone company at Dallas, called three of their electrical engineers. All three said that the wires really dancein Texas and Kansas-during the Winter.

Didn't Know Why

They didn't know why. "These are the conditions," one said. "There must be ice on the wires and there must be some wind. The wires are not blown up and down by the wind. Something else causes them to dance—it hasn't been figured out. But it causes a lot of trouble. This up and down movement is so violent that many times the wires jerk themselves loose from the poles.

"Any sort of a strung wire will dance that way. It could happen to a clothesline."

HEALTH ...

Can you visualize all the life in the body being generated in the brain? All this VITAL FORCE being transmitted from the brain to all the organs of the body over NERVES? As the nerves carry their full voltage (impulse) as it were, the organs function properly, the result, HEALTH.

This is simple enough, isn't it? But do you comprehend the WISDOM of the GREAT plan? Do you see how all the nerves unite to form the spinal cord, the life line of the body? Do you see how the spinal cord, with its trillions of nerve fibers, serves the body, similar to a big cable leading off from a telephone building to service thousands of homes?

Short circuit the big cable (spinal cord) as it leaves the housing (base of the skull), what will be the EFFECTS? Decreased function (poor HEALTH). To enjoy HEALTH you must ferret out the CAUSE of ill health and have it corrected. If your condition has resisted your efforts to correct it, turn to Specific Chiropractic.

Same Field, Same Boys, Different Planes

The two boys were crazy about airplanes. So they rode their bikes 27 miles from their homes in Detroit to Selfridge Field. They wore, their caps backwards like real pilots, and posed for a picture, top, in front of a DeHaviland biplane fighter. That was in 1926, and they were eight. Came the war, and the boys, Kay Klages and Ernest Fuller, cousins, enlisted. Klages was still "fly-happy" and joined the Air Corps, but Fuller went into the Navy. Klages is now a master sergeant, chief of Selfridge Field's photo lab. Chief Petty Officer Fuller drove out to see him, and they posed again in the same place—this time, with a jetpropelled P-80 "Shooting Star" in the background.
