

MONEY JOBS GO TO SHANGHAI GIRLS

By EDDIE CRIGHTON
AP Newsfeatures

SHANGHAI—Miss Nylen Sok believes that a woman's place is in the general manager's chair of a prospering bank.

She holds that position in the Women's Commercial and Savings Bank of Shanghai—only bank in the world that has women in all key positions and has more female than male employees.

Miss Nylen established her unusual bank back in 1924. Today it has its own five-story building in the heart of the city, has huge modern steel vaults and an up-to-date burglar alarm system.

At the outset Miss Nylen had trouble finding trained women staff members, so she held classes and trained her own. All the girls, like Miss Nylen herself, were locally educated and have never been abroad.

The bank performs all regular banking business for either sex. Miss Nylen says a man's money is just as good as a woman's. She holds, however, that women make better bank workers than men on the grounds that they are more precise in their work and conservative in their investments. Many patrons agree that at least the girls present good figures.

"For a long time I have had occasional bilious spells. My head would hurt and I would vomit my food. My last spell was very severe and I just thought I would die. My appetite was poor and I couldn't sleep at night. I was so troubled with my limbs stiffening just before I would have a spell of gas and bloating. I would be dizzy and I would have a severe headache. My food soured and it just seemed as if everything was wrong with me. To anyone suffering like I was, I recommend MERTOX highly.

Garden Clubs Ship Seeds To Europe

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Home-grown fresh vegetables will add their healthy weight to the dinner tables of Europe this Summer, thanks to American gardeners.

Through the "Seeds of Peace" project of the National Council of State Garden Clubs, 70,000 kits of vegetable seeds have been shipped to Germany, France, Italy, Greece, Austria and the Benelux countries.

Each kit contains 13 packages of different vegetable seeds and is designed to supply a family of five with fresh stuffs for four months.

Also included in the kit is a package of flower seeds so that gardens will be pretty as well as practical. Simple planting instructions written in the native languages are tucked into each kit.

First claim on the seeds, which were shipped and distributed through the Church World Service, was given to persons who had no other means of eking out limited food rations. Already gardens are sprouting near schools, orphanages, displaced person camps, and in the back yards of city dwellers.

Mrs. Lewis M. Hull, of Bounton, N. J., president of the National Council of State Garden Clubs, terms the project an "overwhelming success."

To Reside In Midland

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Crittenden, above, will reside at 2000 West Washington Street, Midland, following a wedding trip to Dallas, Houston and Galveston. The couple exchanged vows in a recent ceremony read in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. John Dunagan. The bride is the former Grace Bartlett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bartlett of Tulsa, Texas. Crittenden, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Crittenden of Forney, Texas, is employed by Humble Oil Company.

Grace Bartlett, Leon Crittenden Exchange Vows In Dunagan Home

Miss Grace Bartlett became the bride of Leon Crittenden in a recent double-ring ceremony read by the Rev. Vernon Yearby, pastor of Midland's First Baptist Church, in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. John Dunagan, 1904 West Wall Street.

The couple exchanged wedding vows in the presence of relatives and close friends. The improvised altar before the fireplace was banked with fern and palms, and at either end burned white taper; in candleabra illuminating large floor baskets of white gladiolus and calla lilies.

Special music was presented by Mrs. Yates Brown, who played, "O Promise Me" and accompanied Faye Powers in two vocal solos, "Because" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride, given in marriage by her cousin, A. A. Jones, chose a white organdy dress with a flared bouffant skirt, long sleeves with pointed cuffs and pleated ruffling extending from the back waistline across the shoulders to the hemline. Her full-length veil of imported lace extended from a halo of stephanotis, and she carried a matching bouquet of stephanotis encircling an orchid.

Attending her sister as maid of honor was Verda Bartlett, who was attired in a blue organdy gown fashioned with long sleeves and a full skirt.

Roderick Koons served as best man.

A reception followed the ceremony. Mrs. A. A. Jones, cousin of the bride, served the ball-shaped wedding cake, and Mrs. Koons served punch. Dining room decorations featured a table covered with a white linen cut-work cloth and supporting a white stool, center-piece illuminated by tall tapers. Midland bride and bridegroom standing under an arch of lilies of the valley highlighted buffet decorations.

Wedding guests were registered by Naomi Nickols, niece of the bride.

Following a wedding trip to Dallas, Houston and Galveston, the couple will return to Midland and reside at 2000 West Washington Street.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bartlett of Tulsa, Texas, attended West Texas State Teachers College, Canyon, and is employed by Shell Oil Company.

SAFE SUGGESTIONS FOR WEDDING GIFTS

AP Newsfeatures

This is the season of wedding gifts when hurried shoppers haunt gift shops and struggle to find something different.

One of the safest bets, for the undecided giver, is a gift of bed linens or blankets—for no bride ever had too many of these. Available on the market just now is a plentiful supply of fine wool blankets, in various weights and a full range of colors, many at prices very little above pre-war levels.

One enterprising company has evolved a gift idea to make selection simpler. The shopper simply buys a blanket gift certificate at her favorite store, and this is sent to the bride, together with a small plastic box containing swatches of all colors of the blankets. The recipient may then select her favorite color at her leisure, notify the shop, and the life-size blanket will be sent to her.

The range is toward clear pastel colors in blankets, the range in the gift box being pink, white, aure, peach, turquoise, stone gray, lemon yellow and sand beige.

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pain, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Board Upholds Right Of Teacher To Whip Onion-Eating Pupils

BECKLEY, W. VA. (AP)—The Raleigh County Board of Education has upheld a school principal's right to whip children who come to class exhaling the odor of "frits."

The ramp is a particularly powerful branch of the wild onion family, which children heretofore sometimes nibble on the way to school.

Ernest C. Roberts, principal of the Trap Hill High School, testified the smell "could be likened to that of a polecat," and said some of his pupils were made ill by the breaths of offending classmates.

He told the board he had asked children to hold their ramp-chewing until Friday afternoon, and announced a policy of segregation for the first offense and whipping for the second.

The board voted three-to-one at this week's meeting to uphold the charge of undue severity against Roberts. The negative vote was cast by J. E. Daniels, whose son, Dan, was one of the boys involved and who brought the charges.

East-West Rivalry

"The Atomic Energy Commission reports that it has reached an impasse."
With these words, a branch of the United Nations confessed failure for the first time in the UN's troubled history. The deadlock on international atomic energy controls has long been an actuality. Yet the admission of defeat, while not unexpected, is deeply disheartening.

It also means that the reasonable, workable Baruch program of atomic control faces a long and indefinite postponement, with some question that it ever will be revived.

This is a frightening prospect. But it is not a prospect created by the Atomic Energy Commission's statement that Russian stubbornness has ended any present hope of agreement.

We do not rejoice in this UN body's public admission of defeat. But we do not think that it signals the end of the world organization. Rather, it seems to indicate that the UN will have to mark time and busy itself with less vital matters until the most pressing problem in international relations has been settled.

That problem, of course, is the differences between the United States and Soviet Russia. It colors, in some way, almost every international relationship. And it will have to be settled before the UN can begin to play the peace-protecting role that was written for it.

Another Delay For Hawaii

Hawaii has been seeking statehood for 45 years, and has presented 14 petitions in that time. There have been numerous congressional investigations of the subject—five since 1935. The islands' wartime record tends to support their request, which already has been approved by the House of Representatives.

But once again Hawaiians' hopes have been dashed, this time by the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee. It has heard a parade of witnesses in favor of statehood. But now it does not want to take any action until its members have a chance to visit the islands. So there seems no chance of action until next year.

Congressional committee after congressional committee have visited Hawaii. One would think that all the needed evidence was in by now. Another inspection tour raises the suspicion that there is about to be another congressional junket to the Pacific paradise—at the taxpayers' expense, of course.

The public has footed the bills for such junkets a good many times without complaining. Now, in the interest of economy as well as justice, it seems time for some action.

Reciprocal Trade Amendments Might Cripple Entire Program

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—The United States now has "reciprocal trade agreements" with 42 of the 75 nations in the world. The way these trade agreements work is that the U. S. lowers tariffs against the exports of these 42 countries, if they lower tariffs against U. S. exports to them.

This has been going on since 1934, when ex-Secretary of State Cordell Hull's trade agreements program was first approved by Congress. Before the war, there were 25 countries in on the program. It was proved a good thing then. From 1934 to 1941, U. S. trade with the 25 countries under the program increased twice as fast as with countries not under the program.

4. Another proposed amendment would give the U. S. Tariff Commission final say over the agreements. Recommendations to the President on tariff rates are now made by an inter-agency group. If responsibility were put with one agency alone, it would be subject to all the lobbying pressures, and so might become ineffective.

5. A modification of this amendment would give the Tariff Commission power to say that rates could not be cut below certain levels if any U. S. industry were thereby put in peril. This "peril" might be hard to define. Would it apply to the weakest producer in any industry? If so, any industry could prove the need for a high protective tariff.

6. Under the present trade agreements act, every country having a trade agreement with the U. S. is unconditionally entitled to the lowest tariff rate granted the most favored nation. This is opposed by some interests on the ground that it gives too many countries a free ride on low tariff benefits given a most favored nation.

7. The entire trade agreement act would, however, give the U. S. a complex tariff schedule with different rates for every country. The amendment is opposed on this basis, and because the low rate is always negotiated with a major exporter. The free ride goes to minor exporters.

8. The entire trade agreements act were killed by Congress. It would not affect any of the 42 agreements now in force. But it would prevent the U. S. from making new agreements.

HIGH-PRICED SHOES
BALTIMORE (AP)—Mrs. Delma Darburton acquired, involuntarily, what is probably the most expensive pair of old shoes in Baltimore. They cost her $200. The Baltimore housewife reported to police that she surprised a burglar in her kitchen. He fled in such haste that he left his shoes behind. He didn't forget the $200 he had taken from Mrs. Darburton's purse, though.

Air Force Trains Men For Rescue Work Anywhere

IMMOBILE, Fla.—(NEA)—You don't ask what's for show in the Air Force Parasecue and Survival Training School unless you really want to know.

The snake-eaters are students no are learning to become specialists in the DSAP Air Rescue Service. As Para-doctors and Parasedics, they are being trained to save lives.

The Florida Everglades is just one classroom in the tough course these men undergo to become part of a five-man rescue team, made up of one doctor, two medical technicians and two survival experts.

When the students come back from the beach, they still have a long way to go before graduation. There's another week of training in the desert near El Paso, Texas, and a tough final week in the mountains near Lowry Air Force Base, Denver, Colo.

Chloroform Typifies Doctors' Desire To Relieve Suffering

By EDWIN F. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service
Although chloroform is no longer used to any great extent as an anesthetic, because better pain-killing drugs have been developed, its discovery 101 years ago was of great importance. The original patient was a woman in Edinburgh, Scotland, whose previous labor had lasted for four days.

This event and the courage of Dr. James Y. Simpson, who first used it, should be honored. It is particularly interesting to note that eight years after Simpson graduated from medical school, he was appointed to the professorship of obstetrics, or mid-wifery as it was then called, at the ripe age of 28.

Like many other famous people, Simpson's ability for sustained work was astonishing. He frequently began work at four in the morning and, although considered a specialist in the days in which he lived, his interests ranged over the whole field of medicine.

During the last half of the nineteenth century, shortly after chloroform anesthesia was first used, a violent controversy raged between the supporters of ether and chloroform. Either was an American invention, chloroform a British, and the merits of the two pain-relieving

Baptists Discuss Separation Of Church, State

MEMPHIS, TENN.—(P)—Southern Baptists debated one of their favorite subjects Thursday—separation of church and state. The voting for new officers of the Southern Baptist Convention waited until late afternoon, while religious education in public schools was discussed. Other church-and-state relationships also came up. The subject was tied to the report of the Committee on Public Relations, sponsored by four Baptist conventions including the Southern group.

During the last year, the committee has been active in opposition to formal religious instruction in public schools. It has also promoted organization of protestants to work for more separation of church and state. Nominations from floor Nominations for president and other convention officers were to be made from the floor. Most prominently mentioned as possible successors to President Louis Newton of Atlanta, Ga., have been Dr. John H. Buchanan of Birmingham, Ala., and Dr. Albert O. Lee of Memphis. Newton is retiring after two terms. Wednesday's opening-day sessions were marked by a convention refusal to accept a motion commending President Truman for his recognition of the new nation of Israel. The convention agreed on the over-all southwide goal of $10,000,000 for 1949. It also budgeted $2,000,000 to its Foreign Missions Board, $700,000 to the Home Missions Board, and $180,000 each to its seminaries in Louisville, Ky., Fort Worth, Texas, and New Orleans, La., for 1949.

Indians Take 6-5 Thriller

By TANNER LAINE
Clyde Perry, Midland outfielder, hit a stinging single in the last half of the ninth inning Wednesday night in Indian Park to send Rip Collins, Tribe infielder, tearing around the bases and sliding in home with the winning run, as the Webbsmen beat Big Spring 6-5 in a thrilling Longhorn League baseball game. Collins was on base with a hit. There was one out.

At the crack of Perry's bat, Collins took off like a scared jackrabbit. He left first base in a cloud of dust. He rounded second and headed for third. Webb, coaching at third, gave him the wave on. Meanwhile, Mendek, Big Spring centerfielder, miscalculated Perry's hit ball and erred on it after it dropped. He snatched it up and threw true to the relay and the ball came on toward the plate. Collins was running. Tony Traspuesto, Bronc catcher, occupied the plate and was waiting for the ball. It was coming.

Collins went into his slide 15 feet from home plate and he slanted across the plate as Tony stepped on it. Mendek was a thunderous roar went up from the stands. The Indians and Webb danced a war dance around Collins, pounding him with glee. Perry trotted in grinning - for it was he who had broken up a ball game with a very timely hit. The game was one of the best ever performed here. It was a pitcher's duel between Weldon Stewart, big Midland righthander, and Big Spring's ace, Gerry Rodriguez. The victory was Midland's ninth win in 10 starts. The loss was Big Spring's fourth straight drop. The game changed the Longhorn League lead, dropping the Broncs out of first place. Midland is in a tie for second with them now.

Prince Hits Homer
Big Jim Prince hit his sixth home run of the year over left field, off the firstinning scoring. Collins ahead of him for two runs. Midland enjoyed this lead until the third when Big Spring went ahead with four tallies. The Tribe retaliated in the last of the third with two marks, tying it up. Midland went ahead in the fifth with one run but Big Spring deackled it in the sixth with a run.

Then she rocked until the ninth. Carrier Nipp played a good game afield for Midland getting six put outs without error. Vasquez and McClain turned in brilliant defensive catches for Big Spring.

Tribe, Sports, Dusters, Colts Gain Victories

The Midland Indians rallied one run across in the last half of the ninth inning to edge out the Big Spring Broncs 6 to 5. Clyde Perry singled scoring Rip Collins from first base to break up a tight ball game.

Vernon's Dusters moved into the lead of the Longhorn League standings by defeating the Ballinger Cubs, 3 to 2. Behind the excellent four-hit pitching of Beewell, the Dusters gained the top rung in the league for the first time in two years.

The San Angelo Colts got seven runs in the seventh and eighth innings, then stayed off a Del Rio rally in the ninth to hand the Cowboys a 9-7 setback.

Babe Ruth is back in baseball's high-salary bracket. J. R. Davis, vice president of Ford Motor Company, has announced his signing for a second year as consultant to the Ford Motor Company in its sponsorship of American Legion Junior Baseball.

Senate Promises Talk On House-Approved Anti-Communist Bill

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senate Republicans leaders Thursday promised discussion—but no early action—on the anti-Communist bill passed through the House by a 319 to 58 vote Wednesday.

Chairman Wiley (R-Wis) told a reporter there "certainly" will be "judiciary committee hearings on the measure sponsored by Reps. Mundt (R-SD) and Nixon (R-Calif.)."

The Mundt-Nixon bill says an international Communist movement is plotting to set up a dictatorship in this country through Moscow-controlled organizations. It takes the Communist Party here as one of such controlled groups.

Hearings Approves

Senator Taft of Ohio, who heads the Republican Policy Committee, said he thinks the measure needs "serious study" before the Senate acts on it.

On the other hand, Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) Judiciary Committee member, said:

"I think it will cope with a situation we are facing. If we actually enforce it. We already have laws on this point, but I think we have fallen down in enforcing them and I'm willing to take this new step."

Stalin Lists 11 Major Problems He Wants Discussed; U.S. Answers Each

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON — (AP) — Premier Josef Stalin has listed 11 major problems he thinks this country and Russia can sit down and talk about. To this the State Department has said in effect:

"Wait a minute. Not so fast. They're not new problems. They're old ones. Let's look at the record on each one."

Stalin, third party presidential candidate, in an open letter to Stalin which he said should be a starting point for American-Russian peace talks.

Stalin chose 11 problems from the Wallace list and, in a public reply, said yes, indeed, they would be good starting points.

Below are the 11 Stalin-Wallace points. Following each is the State Department's explanation:

1. Nations should reduce their armaments—
The United Nations has been considering this since 1946. Result: zero.
2. International control of atomic weapons—
The U. S. offered UN a plan. Russia didn't agree, offered ideas of its own. The U. S. blames Russia for blocking a solution.
3. Reaching a German peace settlement—
The U. S. blames Russia for blocking this.
4. Reaching a Japanese peace settlement—
No real peace talks have begun. The U. S. wanted the talks handled one way, Russia another. China another. Eight nations mixed up in the Japanese peace talks agreed with the U. S. Result: zero.
5. Getting troops (meaning U. S. troops) out of China—
There are no Russian troops in China but there are about 5,500 American soldiers, sailors and Marines there. Why? The Chinese government requested them.
6. No Cooperation—
No real peace talks (U. S. and Russian) out of Korea—
The UN had a plan for getting both nations' troops out. Russia has blocked this by refusing to cooperate.
7. Respecting other nations' rights and not interfering in their internal business—
(The State Department is vague on this. It says the facts are too well-known to be repeated.)
8. It's wrong to set up military bases in member countries of the UN—
The UN knows we have set up bases. We've told UN it's all in keeping with UN rules and regulations.
9. Developing international trade—
Refused To Take Part
After two big international conferences—at Geneva and Havana in 1947 and 1948—the U. S. and 54 other nations signed agreements for better world trade. Russia refused to take part.
10. Helping countries which suffered from the war—
Under the Marshall Plan the U. S. is helping 18 European nations. They asked us to do it that way. Russia thinks it should be done through UN. But Russia has refused to take part in the Marshall Plan.
11. Human rights—
The UN is working on this now. With the U. S. and Russia taking part.

Ten-Legged Core Gun For Oil Wells Is Show Exhibit

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
TULSA, OKLA. — (AP) — A ten-legged cannon which shoots its legs into oil wells—on show here at the International Petroleum Exposition.

This cannon is about seven feet long, narrow enough—about three inches in diameter—to be lowered to the bottom of an oil well, or to any other level.

Near the top it has an explosive chamber, and when the "shot" of powder explodes there, it drives a piston downward. The piston in turn drives the legs.

These are in pairs, set like real legs, one on each side of the gun. There are five sets, one below the other. Going down the well they are aimed mostly into slots in the side of the cannon.

Leg Forced Downward

When the gun fires, the legs are forced downward. At the same time they spread outward, each pair just like a dancing girl doing the splits. The legs are hollow. As they spread each leg is driven into the stone sides of the oil well. The hole in each leg picks up a sample of the rock at that point—what the oil men call a core.

After the cannon is fired, it is pulled up out of the well, its legs still hitched on, and each leg gives a sample of the rock. The samples are tested for traces of oil.

It is an adage of the well-men that an oilman will shoot anything. Another recent gun uses glass marbles instead of the steel bullets.

These marbles drive through the steel walls or casings and out into the oil sands surrounding. They do not break until they have gone out into the oil rock. They work on the principle of tornadoes where straw is sometimes driven into trunks.

Several Miles A Second

The straws travel too fast to break. The marbles do the same, starting at a speed of several miles a second, they are shot by nitroglycerine. They are packed around the nitro in an arrangement called the glass marble torpedo, by the inventor, J. Gordon Burch, of Borger, Texas.

One-store marbles were first used. Now they are specially hardened glass, which explodes into powder when it breaks. The torpedoes are used on old oil wells which have nearly quit producing.

Rhode Island Selected For Foot And Mouth Laboratory Location

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Agriculture Department announced Thursday tentative selection of Prudence Island, in Narragansett Bay, R. I., as the site for its new $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 laboratory for research on foot-and-mouth disease.

Dr. B. T. Simms, chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry, said Rhode Island senators and representatives have asked that the laboratory be placed in their state. There should be no fear from anyone about the location of the laboratory, he told a news conference.

"With the safeguards and precautions we will take," he said, "there will be no more danger than from any ordinary hospital."

The foot-and-mouth program, Doctor Simms said, will be the largest ever undertaken by the department and the most costly. It is estimated annual expenditures will run $2,500,000 and $3,000,000.

Hudson bay connects the Arctic ocean by Foxe channel, and the Atlantic by Hudson Strait.

Is This What Made the '90s Gay?

This high-wheel bike, resurrected for the Newport, R. I., "Gay Ninety" celebration, is probably what made the '90s gay. It must have been hilarious to watch people falling off. Mr. and Mrs. Terry King try out the infernal machine.

Senate Passes Record Waterways Money Bill

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A record federal expenditure will be paid for flood control and navigation project construction in the 12 months beginning July 1.

The Senate voted a $647,750,000 appropriation Wednesday after defeating 55 to 18 a move sponsored by three Republican members of the Appropriations Committee to slash $200,000,000 from the total.

The bill was sent to conference with the House, which voted in February to allow $538,775,000 for the waterways program.

Mustering-Out Pay Deadline Is Extended

WASHINGTON — (AP) — World War II veterans now have until February 3, 1950, to apply for their mustering-out pay.

President Truman signed into law Wednesday a bill extending the deadline to that date. The former law expired Feb. 3, 1946.

Veterans are eligible for $100 if they served less than 90 days and did not leave the United States; $200 if they served over 90 days but were not outside the country, and $300 if they were overseas.

Scientists' Work On Growth Of Hogs May Affect Price Of Pork

LINCOLN, NEBR. — (AP) — A project to solve one mystery about food for pigs has uncovered another — diet that makes future pork chops grow amazingly fast. One or both of the puzzles, when solved, may affect the price of pork.

Dr. Lester E. Hanson of the University of Nebraska Agricultural Experiment Station is trying to determine whether some new vitamin E, the so-called anti-sterility vitamin, in order to reproduce. He is feeding pigs on a special diet designed to be deficient in vitamin E. And the new mystery is that the special diet makes pigs grow phenomenally.

On it, pigs gained 21 pounds a week on the average. On the natural diet the gain runs about 10 pounds a week. The special food is made of corn starch, casein, a complex mineral mixture, and brewer's yeast, with additional vitamin A and D given every two weeks. Something in that mix is responsible for the rapid weight gain, but no one yet knows what it might be. It might be some vitamin or other foodstuff.

This diet is much too expensive to feed to pigs on the farm. And it might have drawbacks, such as making too much fat. But the growth factor might be isolated as something that could be added cheaply to pigs' food. Hanson hopes to tackle this mystery after the vitamin E question is settled.

Goodyear Dealers Meet Here Friday

"The Miracle Maker," a three-reel sound movie featuring thrilling driving demonstrations of cars equipped with the new Super-Cushion tires, will highlight a one-day dealer conference here Friday, Carroll James, El Paso, district manager for the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, said.

"The Miracle Maker" was termed by James an outstanding example of the visual aid type of training. Goodyear has developed for its dealers since the end of World War II. A professional sound movie in every respect with a well-developed plot, the film utilizes an interesting continuity to background the development, testing and merchandising of Super-Cushion tires in the renewal market.

'Parasite' Fighter Is Tested

This plane has no landing gear, because it will make all its take-offs and landings in flight. It's the McDonnell XF-85, a "parasite" fighter designed to fit in the bomb bay of a Consolidated Vultee B-36. The 15-foot-long plane is now undergoing ground and wind tunnel tests on a special dolly. The wings fold, and the tail is especially designed for its unique job.

Wisconsin Celebrates 100 Years As State

MADISON, WIS.—(AP)—Wisconsin, the dairyland of the nation and vacationland of the Midwest, is celebrating its centennial of statehood—a century packed with progress and robust activity. The nation's leader in the dairy industry is boasting about that accomplishment and pointing with pride to itself also as the birthplace of the Republican Party, workmen's compensation, vitamin D, regulation of utilities and a score of other things. Although May 29 is the formal anniversary date for the last state to be cut from the old Northwest Territory, Wisconsin is making it practically an all-year celebration. Everybody's in the act—school children, big business, farmers and public servants.

Law Requires Socks When Shoe Shopping

CHARLESTON, S. C.—(AP)—Things are getting tough in Charleston. You've got to wear stockings or socks when you buy a pair of shoes in a store. The Health Department has issued an order making it unlawful for a customer to try on new shoes when barefooted. There's too much danger of athletes foot and other fungus diseases, the department says. Violators face a fine up to $100 or imprisonment up to 30 days.

Mechanical Brain Will Handle Reservations

NEW YORK—(AP)—A new robot will tell a prospective traveler within a few seconds whether he can get a reservation on the next train or plane. J. S. Jammer, vice president of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, which designed it, said the robot was intended to overcome bottlenecks in present space reservation procedures. He said potential users included air lines, railroads, bus companies, steamship firms, hotels and theaters. The robot utilizes a complicated "mechanical brain" similar in principle to the dial telephone system. A reservation clerk teletypes requests to the robot at a central terminal. Within a few seconds the machine confirms the reservation by teletype or suggests alternate accommodations.

OPEN SEASON ON FEET
SYCAMORE, Ill.—(AP)—George White, Sycamore trucker, had a nightmare and visioned a stranger standing at the foot of his bed. White pulled the gun from his pillow and fired. Only George's foot was there, he told attendants while in the hospital. White added it was the second time he had had such a mishap. Hospital authorities told him to keep his gun elsewhere than under his pillow.

Early Detection, Treatment Only Way To Combat Cancer

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK —(AP)— Cancer kills slightly more women than it does men.
But the women are taking a far greater proportionate interest in the best way yet found to cut down cancer deaths—early detection and treatment.
A large share of the American Cancer Society's $12,000,000 budget last year went for the establishment of clinics and the distribution of factual information on the disease that kills one person every three minutes in this country.

Since last September some 135,000 requests have been received at the society's national headquarters here for information on cancer and its seven danger signals.
"About 85 per cent come from women," said Russell G. Smith, "and the question they ask most often is where they can obtain an examination."

Relayed To States
The requests are relayed to medical chairmen in each state, who direct them to the nearest detection center. The society has 200 of these centers and is adding more.
A common source of disappointment to many seeking to check whether they have cancer is the time required for examination. The disease, particularly when it attacks internal organs, is often difficult to diagnose. Yet it is this type which causes most deaths. Ninety per cent of skin cancers are regarded as curable if treated early.
Many of the letters are touching in their simple pleas for help or their sublime bravery.
"My throat seems like it is full of something," wrote one uneducated man. "Makes me want to hark it out but I can't hark it out. And at night it seem to want to stifle me in my sleep. I want to no if you can give me something to clear up my throat."
Help Luckier Fellow
Another elderly man, told by his doctor he was beyond cure, sent in a contribution toward further research with the simple wish "it may help a luckier fellow."
The society emphasizes that cancer isn't due to a germ, isn't inherited and isn't contagious or communicable. It points out that the disease is merely the uncontrolled growth of cells or body tissues and says:
"There is no saline, ointment, radium water, mineral water, liquid medicine, pill, Indian charm or needle injection that has ever cured a proved case of internal cancer."
"Surgery, X-ray, and radium, alone or in combination, when used by recognized men of medicine are the only effective methods of treating cancer at present."

Reds Restore Large Czarist Throne Room

MOSCOW —(AP)— Restoration of one of the most magnificent halls of the Winter Palace in Leningrad—the former Georgievsky throne room which was built after the fire of 1837—has been completed. The newspaper Dawn of the East says it has been renamed The Hall of the Soviet Union and from May 1 it became the permanent home of the famous 27-meter-square map of the USSR made of precious stones.
The map now stands where the imperial throne once stood. The map has also been reconstructed since it was exhibited abroad. Changes have been made in all its 550 parts.
Four hundred and thirty gold encased rubies have been set in the map to designate the administrative centers of the nation. Moscow is noted by a large ruby star set with a golden hammer and sickle.

Mae West Trims Nails For Piano Instruction
LONDON —(AP)— Alan Paul, British Broadcasting Corporation composer, disclosed recently that Mae West has trimmed her fingernails and learned to play the piano.
Paul instructed her four or five times a week for three months while she was appearing in a London stage production.
"She said she had taken it into her head to play the piano," Paul related. "I said, 'first of all, those finger nails will have to be an inch shorter.'"
She trimmed them without a whimper, and she worked hard; I had been hoping, within about a month, to have her make a recording, or to broadcast."

Nobody Loves Forever

By Margaretta Brucker

THE STORY: Jessica Gordon, a democratic southern belle, has eloped with Yankee soldier Tom Blake in defiance of her father and in spite of her own qualms. Tom has a few days furlough and takes her to his home in Akron to stay with his folks until his discharge from the Army. Tom's sister, Lucy, greets Jessica coolly; his mother is openly antagonistic. The house is ugly and dark.

VIII

BEFORE she had been in the house 24 hours Jessica knew that Tom was completely blind to any fault in either his mother or his sister. In turn they worshipped Tom. And spoiled him.

Jessica endured endless snubs when she tried to win Mrs. Blake's approval. Lucy echoed her mother's opinions, whether willingly or because she feared to differ with her mother, Jessica could not tell.

She did not know that she had interfered with Mrs. Blake's plans for the son she worshipped and that Mrs. Blake would not forgive her, that she had a strong contempt for any girl incapable of doing household tasks, that she blamed Jessica for the marriage and disliked her; and yet, because it was Tom's wish that his wife remain with her until he came home, Tom's decision was respected.

Unaware of his mother's antagonism and too blinded by lack of understanding to be aware of Jessica's low spirits, at the moment Tom stood between them; but every day brought the time closer when he would leave her. Every day made her more and more determined to tell him she would not stay with his mother and sister. Every day Jessica weakly postponed the actual scene she felt would follow when she announced her unwillingness to accede to Tom's decision.

Day by day she realized that she and her husband had only one thing in common—love-making, infatuation, the same attraction which rushed them headlong into this miserable situation. Love-making was the only weapon Jessica possessed and shamelessly she used it whenever she had the chance to get Tom alone. Her caresses pleased and flattered him. Could she win him away from those two women with her kisses?

SHE was almost sure she could, and the day before Tom left she put her influence to the test. She sat before the window doing her nails and Tom came in from the bathroom for his shaving kit. "I don't like that stuff you put on your nails," he said bluntly.

"You won't be here to see it," Jessica held up a hand and wiggled the fingers to dry her polish. Tom rattled a drawer, slammed it shut. "Mom doesn't like it either."

Jessica bit her lip. "When I'm in a place of my own she won't have to see it," she observed boldly.

"What are you talking about?" "An apartment."

"An apartment?" She nodded and slanted her eye at him and smiled, but Tom would have none of it. His face was hard and angry.

"Just get that nonsense out of your head, Jess." Then bluntly, "Remember, you haven't any money." "You have an allotment, don't you?" she demanded.

Tom shifted his glance and busied himself collecting his shirt and tie from the back of a chair. Finally he answered, "Mom has that. I've always turned my pay check over to Mom and she banks it. I used to do it when I worked at the plant and since I've been in the Army I've done the same."

"But you're married now." "Her self-control was slipping fast." "That doesn't change things. Mom's willing to take you in and board and room you. She's promised to try to teach you something useful. I'm not wasting money on apartments. We'll need every cent I can save for when I get home. You should be thankful.

"If you say that again, I'll scream!"

JESSICA jumped up and over-turned the nail polish which ran in a trickling stream across the faded rug. "I hate to stay here. I hate your mother and she hates me. Things are different here," Jessica ended weakly, frightened by Tom's angry face.

"You bet they're different. We don't have a pack of servants to wait on us. We have to work. We have to save and get ahead and plan for the future. When I come back you'll have to know how to wash my clothes and pack a dinner pail and live on a working-man's wages. Ever think of that?"

No. She had not thought of that. She was too proud to remind Tom that he had not considered that when he held her in his arms and urged her to marry him. He had given no thought to the future. He had wanted her—she must belong to him.

She did. And there was no escape. She had $20 of borrowed money between her and dependence upon Tom's mother and sister.

She said meekly, "I'm sorry, Tom. Please don't be angry."

The day following the argument Tom left Akron. Jessica went to the station with him. She clung to his big hand. She cried, Tom, too, was shaken. He held her close and kissed her over and over. He said, "Don't worry, honey, I'll come home."

She watched him stalk away through the crowd. Tears blinded her as she left the station.

Lucy w'd had accompanied them, sa with sudden kindness, "Don't cry. Tom's lucky, he'll come back."

"But I'm so alone here." Lucy was silent for a moment. Then she said, "Mom means to be kind. She—well she never expected Tom to marry a girl like you."

McKenney on Bridge

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority

Although rubber bridge and tournament bridge use practically the same rules and the same scoring except for game, they are really two different games. In rubber bridge your first and foremost thought must be to make your contract. In tournament bridge you must play for the maximum number of tricks.

Sacrifice bidding plays an important part in tournament bridge. If, for example, your vulnerable opponents have bid four hearts

Therefore, his only hope of defeating the contract was to find West with the queen of hearts; so at this point he made what might be termed a good defensive play in rubber bridge, and a daring play in tournament bridge. He led the king of hearts.

Declarer attempted to offset the play by refusing to win with dummy's ace, but East continued with a heart. West played the queen and declarer had to win. Thus the nine of hearts became an entry to the West hand, and all declarer could do was to cash eight tricks.

and you feel sure they can make it, you know that they will score 120 points for tricks plus 500 points for a vulnerable game, or a total of 620 points. If you can take a 500-point sacrifice, it is a wise sacrifice in tournament bridge and will win a lot of match points for you. However, it might be too dangerous in rubber bridge.

Skill in the play is the same in both rubber and duplicate bridge. You may not like the bidding on today's hand, but that was the way it occurred. Declarer won the opening spade lead with the king and led a diamond, which South won with the ace.

Then he cashed the queen and jack of spades. East knew that declarer's diamond suit was set up, and he could see that South had to have the ace of clubs to justify his bidding.

Bridge To Span Chesapeake Bay

SANDY POINT, MD. — (AP) — Forty troubled years of dreaming and scheming on how to link their widely separated eastern and western shores are paying off for Marylanders at last.

The Chesapeake bay bridge is almost a reality. Congress has given the nod. Test borings are near completion. Contracts for the 30-million-dollar state-financed bridge are scheduled for bidding sometime this Summer or Fall.

Whatever the final decision adopted, the five-mile highway crossing will be among the world's great bridges. A 1,400-foot center span is planned to keep the bay entrance to Baltimore harbor as clear as possible.

To allow easy passage of ocean going vessels, the bridge will soar 200 feet or so above water level, according to preliminary plans announced by state officials.

Yet some citizens may not quite believe it until they can see the toll span rise across the narrows of Chesapeake Bay, from Sandy Point, near Annapolis, to Kent Island on the eastern shore.

Frequent Disappointments They recollect the frequent disappointments in the project's history. This began in 1907 with a proposal by the Baltimore Merchants and Travelers Association for a trolley car link between the mainland and the peninsula.

Since that year, the crossing plan has been alternately adopted and scuttled by the state legislature. Private financiers have espoused the project, then let go.

Politicians have treated the scheme as a fantastic vision or practical necessity, a potential white elephant or a white hope. The state repeatedly went begging to the federal government for funds — which it never got.

But considerations of commerce and geography kept the project alive. Its supporters down through the years have pointed out that Maryland, alone among the 48 states, has 30 per cent of her land area, 20 per cent of her motor vehicles, and 20 per cent of her population (outside Baltimore) sliced off from her mainland. Only a small strip of land at the northwestern end of the eastern shore peninsula is undivided by the bay.

Leftover juice from canned fruits is excellent thickened and served over plain cake or cottage pudding.

Juke Box Makers Get Headaches Trying To Please

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Associated Press Staff

Shed a tear for the juke box. Get out your handkerchief—it's a sad story.

In the first place, juke firms hate the name juke box. They want you to call their machines "coin operated phonographs."

"It's a losing fight, though," A. C. Hughes, an old-timer in the juke box distributing business, said. "I don't think we'll ever get the words juke box out of the language."

The company he represents made its first juke box in 1933. It was a thin machine, not very attractive. But it was a novelty—you dropped your nickel and made your selection.

The next model had a better looking cabinet. But it still was inconspicuous when it wasn't playing. One day Hughes persuaded a restaurant operator to place an electric sign, advertising a cold drink, on the top of his second model. Instantly, the juke box doubled its take. Hughes tried the electric sign on other machines. The same thing happened.

Really Gaudy So the next model was all lighted up and in still later machines the lighting was elaborated. The ones for 1948 are really gaudy.

But as for the troubles of the juke box companies:

In places where there were booths and tables, customers were reluctant to get up and go to the juke box to insert their nickels. They preferred to stay where they were, even though they wanted to hear music.

So the company made coin-selection outfits to fit into each booth. In this way you could just sit down in your booth, drop your nickel in the selector, and the juke box would play.

But the selector took up too much room. Restaurant owners complained that there wasn't room for such big selectors.

So the company made a smaller selector. Now it seemed that everything would be all right. But there was the trouble with volume. People near the juke box complained it was too loud. People in the back of the same cafe thought it should be louder.

The company met this problem by providing wall amplifiers throughout the restaurants. In this way the volume was the same throughout any given cafe.

Too Large But the cafe men thought the amplifiers were too large and not attractive.

The company responded with smaller, streamlined amplifiers.

But there was still another problem. Cafe owners complained that when their places were full, the juke music wasn't loud enough and that when the customers thinned out, the music was too loud.

So they made a control switch which they placed in the cashier's counter. When there were lots of customers and the noise level was high, the cashier could turn the juke box level up. When the cafe had few patrons, the cashier could turn the volume down.

"But there is another trouble," Hughes said. "Some cafes don't like the new refinements. They want their coin-operated phonographs to play good and loud all the time. We have tried to educate them out of this idea but have not succeeded."

Which shows you can't win all the time—even with a billion dollar business.

Sun To Provide Fresh Water On Virgin Isles

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Virgin Islands are about to witness an ambitious attempt to harness the energy of the sun.

St. John, the smallest and driest of the three main islands, soon may implement its fresh water supply by siphoning salt water out of the ocean and distilling it with the sun's heat.

Up to now, rain has been the only practical source of fresh water there.

Garland Rounds, federal works agency engineer, says 125 solar distilling units will be installed on the island this Summer. They will be of a new type with a production quota of 1,000 gallons of fresh water a day.

The units, looking like skylights, will be eight feet long and four feet wide. They will be perched on elevations so that the fresh water will flow by gravity to the consumer.

They were developed at Massachusetts Institute of Technology by Dr. Maria Telkes and consist of:
1—A level concrete base covered with inch-thick insulating board. The upper surface is water-proofed with a black substance to absorb the sun's radiations.
2—A basin half an inch to an inch deep for salt water, atop the black board surface.
3—A plastic cover to collect vapor rising from the sun-heated pool.
4—Troughs to collect the condensed moisture and send it through pipes to storage.

Doctor Telkes estimates the new units will have an efficiency of almost 50 per cent. Rounds said the efficiency of earlier types was as low as 25 or 30 per cent.

Tropics Like Output Experiments at Cambridge, Mass., indicated that a distiller with a tray area of six square feet could produce more than a gallon of water on a clear Summer day or two-thirds quart per square foot during cloudy days.

"In the tropics," Rounds says, "Doctor Telkes estimates the distillation output of her units at a quart a day for each foot of surface."

Rounds says that since the units have not previously been used on a large scale, the government is going into the venture cautiously. The initial investment is $5,000. The units cost $40 each.

New Look Is Aid To Old-Time Shoplifters

NEW YORK — (AP) — The new look is great for an old crook.

An article in the American drug-gist magazine says the new long skirts give shoplifters greater opportunities to conceal stolen articles.

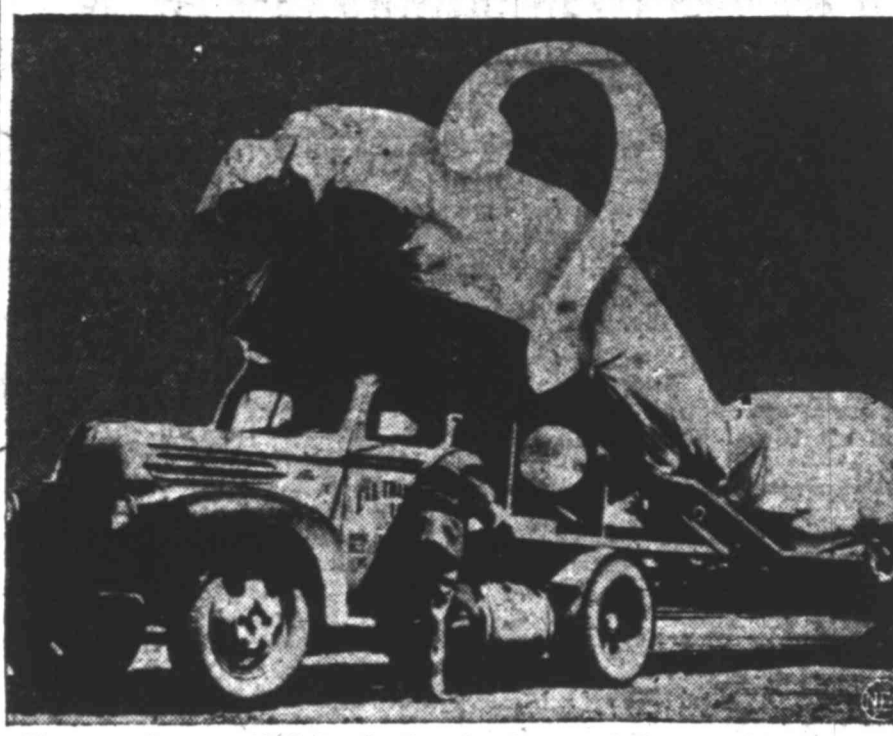

The fashions have brought back a once-outmoded device consisting of an elastic band fastened above the knee with hooks attached. Stolen articles are swept under the long skirt and hung on the hooks.

SHARP SHOOTING COWBOYS MAY BE GONE FOREVER

BUTTE, MONTANA — (AP) — Folks still like to unlimber the family shooting irons out here in the west, but apparently their enthusiasm exceeds their accuracy. Police recently issued an order forbidding target practice inside the city limits.

Officers said too many bum shots had converted their back yard into firing ranges "with serious damage to surrounding properties."

Reds Treat Stomach Ulcers With Honey

MOSCOW — (AP) — Honey is being used successfully in the Soviet Union to treat stomach ulcers, says the newspaper Evening Moscow. About 250 patients suffering from ulcers have been treated in the Ostoumov, Basman and Moscow garrison hospitals, the paper says.

About 250 grams of honey were given the patients for period of 14 to 18 days. In many cases pains disappeared after the first day. About 80 per cent of those treated had their ulcers healed by the honey treatment. The article says honey was used during the war in treating wounds and that considerable research and experiment has been since conducted along these lines.

Colonization Of South America Is Suggested

MADRAS, INDIA — (AP) — Sir C. P. Ramaswami Aiyar says "there is tremendous scope for colonization of Indian nationals in South America." In most parts of South America, he says, there is hardly one house to a square mile and the climate there is more or less like India's. Aiyar had just returned from a lecture tour of North and South America. He visited Brazil, the Argentine, Peru, Panama and Mexico. He suggested the India government take up the question of Indian colonization with South American governments.

Public Opinion Polls May Have Hard Time

PALO ALTO, CAL. (AP)—Dr. Clinton R. Bush, head of Stanford University's Institute for Journalistic Studies, thinks public opinion pollsters may have rough sledding in forecasting election trends this year.

Nationwide public opinion polling has been tried in presidential campaigns only since President Roosevelt ran for a second term in 1936, he told a Stanford alumni meeting.

The opinion samplers were able to indicate the outcome of the election then, and in following years, because voters made up their minds almost immediately after the nominees were known, Bush said.

This year it won't be so easy because "the probable Democratic candidate is not as positive a personality as was Roosevelt," he said.

The Red Sea is the saltiest part of the world's seas with a salt content as high as 42 parts in a thousand.

Tokyo Girls Make Fancy Paper Dresses

TOKYO (AP)—Three hundred girls of a dressmaking school had their graduation exercises recently all wearing fancy evening gowns they had made of paper.

Unable to get cloth to practice what they had learned, they pasted up some snappy numbers that couldn't be told from the real thing at a little distance.

Some girls walked too vigorously, however, and had to stand in the back row to conceal their torn dresses in the class photograph.
